VOL. XL NO 24 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, JANUARY 26, 1922 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

"GRADIE" MAKES GOOD

Athough handicapped by defective eyesight and hearing, Gradie Walton set a state mark in corn growing this year with 135 bushels to the acre, netting him more than $100. His father raised forty bushels in an adjoining field, but Gradie had planned ahead by growing clover in his field. Gradie attended the Prize Winners' Course and never misses a club meeting.

The above is from the annual report of the Extension Division of the State College of Agriculture. Gradie Walton's home is at Buckeye,

---

Announcement has been received by Postmaster Russell E Turpin of Locust, W. Va. postoffice that his name has been placed on the Honor Roll and sent to the Postmaster General at Washington as a mark of special distinction. The Postmaster was an entrant in the postoffice contest which closed December 31st for the sale of Government Savings Securities. He competed with all other postmasters of the same class offices in the fifth Federal Reserve District and was one of the winners in this state. A bronze Honor Pin of attractive design, bearing the inscription "Honor Postmaster," has been conferred upon the local Postmaster by Howard T. Cree, Director of the Government Savings Organization, Richmond, Va., as a reward for patriotism and faithful service. While the sale of War Savings Stamps and Thrift Stamps has been discontinued, the new Treasury Savings Certificates offered the public are so attractive that Postmaster Russell E. Turpin says, "I believe this office will report much larger sales this year than last year as soon as our people recognize what a splendid investment is o pen to them" Postmaster C. Forrest Hull, of Durbin, is also on this honor roll.

The game protectors would like it to be generally known that the hunting and fishing license for the year 1922 are on sale at the office of the clerk of the county court at the court house. On your first trip to town it would be well if you outfitted yourself with your license so that it will be available if it becomes necessary to supply the family with a mess of suckers the first pretty day, or rid the country of a wild cat or fox the next tracing snow. The license fee is $1. whether you swear it out now or wait for the opening of the regular season. This is a tax that is paid with great willingness. The money is used for the protection and propagation of fish and game. The people generally realize that if action is not taken now to preserve the remnant of game animals and game fishes that the manly sports of hunting and fishing will be things of the past.

The political pot is beginning to simmer. The friends of J. A. McLaughlin are exerting pressure to bring him into the race for the legislature. He has been there before and while he says he has not definitely decided, that he may put himself in the hands of his friends in this matter.

State Game Protector George W. Sharp was in Pennsylvania last week to see how game protection was carried on in that State. Pennsylvania is now one of the leading states in the matter of game and forest conservation, and the West Virginia game laws were in a large part a copy of the Pennsylvania laws.

EDUCATING BOYS AND GIRLS

Two prominent educators of this city in recent addresses said that there was too much of a tendency on the part of boys and girls in school to shirk work. They might have gone further in diagnosing some of our present-day educational problems and said it was because such boys and girls did not appreciate just what education might mean for them in after-life.

Therein lies the trouble, in our opinion. The average boy or the average girl in school has no conception, no adequate conception of what an education is expected to do for them. They do not realize and are not made to realize its importance from every angle. Getting an education does not mean cramming one's head full of statistics and a mass of infomation. It means above everything else accomplishment, and one cannot accomplish anything without work. Therein lies the secret of the advantage of educational training, and it is a secret which is not always divulged to many boys and girls.

To help a boy or girl in finding himself or herself and in getting him interested in creating interest and enthusiasm through encouragement whatever form it may take, is the first essential. To adequately convince a boy or a girl, to bring home to them personally just what they will gain—to set a goal for them—is a great essential, it would seem to the layman at least. They will work if they are interested and that is an education in itself for the whole trend of our American life is away from work. To teach boys and girls to work is training them in the greatest sense of the word for real life but the responsibilty for arousing interest in pupils and making them work and keeping them away from temptations against work lies just as much with parents as it does with teachers. The teachers cannot do it all. Its home life in the last analysis which counts.

The greatest single need nowadays, however, to our way of thinking is greater attention to each individual pupil. You cannot educate a boy or a girl properly unless you study that boy or that girl as a separate unit and not in mass. If you expect the rose to bloom you have got to give it individual attention and cultivate it If a boy or a girl likes his teacher they will do a good deal better work, and the more attention they got from that teacher the better work they will do. A little word of encouragement, of praise and a little help over a rough place will do wonders, we believe. Seating boys and girls according to their standing will also do wonders toward arousing ambition and stimulating harder work.—Randolph Review.

FROM FLORIDA

Dear Editor—I was just wondering whether or not you could afford to risk your paper down in Florida. If you think it safe, please send my paper to 211 W Park Avenue, Tampa, Florida. I have been here just ten days, and have seen right much of Florida. The climate is very fine, and the people very sociable. I am here because I had asthma and was suffering a great deal at Stony Bottom. I have suffered very little since I arrived. I find this climate agrees with me very well. The only thing expensive here is rooms. Groceries are much cheaper than in Pocahontas. Get all the grape fruit you want 25c doz., oranges 15c doz., bananas 20c doz. They unload bananas and many southern vegetables; from the boat here. Not more than half as many tourists in Florida this winter as last. So things are quiet for the season. W. R. MOORE.

Leland Kittle, a prominent citizen of Randolph County, died at his home near Beverly last week. He was well known in Pocahontas. His age was 76 years.

Remember the first meeting of the stockholders of the Pocahontas County Fair at the Court House next Saturday afternoon, for the purpose of electing a board of directors and otherwise complete the organization It is hoped that every one interested in a county fair will make it a point to attend this meeting.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Moore, a son, January 23, 1922.

ELZA HINKLE KILLED

Henley Alberts in Jail on Charge of Murder

Sunday night, January 22, a number of people were at Henley Alberts', who lives between Hillsboro and Lobelia, just off from the big turn in the road on the mountain facing the Levels.

There is some suspicion of liquor in the back ground but late in the evening there was no trouble so far as the witnesses testify. About 10 o'clock at night, Elza Hinkle was sitting by the fire talking to Okey McCoy and the subject was logging. Elza said that he could cut twelve thousand feet of logs in a day, and this was a most amazing statement, and McCoy doubted it in a polite way. Then Elza to support his averment turned to his brother-in-law, Henley Alberts, and asked him if that was not so, and said something like this: "Did not he make good on anything that he said he would do." Then this kind of a reply was made: That he, Elza, had not made good when he said that he would kill him, Henley, while they were working on the Bab cock logging job. Then both seem to have had knives in their hands which they both put up

Then Albert seemed to fall into a murderous rage and remarked that he would kill the son of a bitch now, or words to that effect. Albert then grabbed a Winchester that was in another room and an effort was made to disarm him and keep him from shooting, but during the scuffle he fired through an open door and missed Hinkle. Then the bystanders got the gun away and thought the trouble was over and the crowd settled down and were sitting there in a dimly lighted room. Presently Albert entered the room with a pocket knife in an upraisedh and. And he crept forward scanning the faces of the people in the dark room until he identified Hinkle, and then he sprang forward with a downward sweep of the knife and with one stroke almost cut the shoulder off, making a wound four inches deep. Hinkle fled from the house and was heard shouting that he wanted a doctor that he had been cut to death, and the people at the house heard his cries grow fainter and then cease. Three of the visitors at the house, Okey McCoy and George McCoy and Nelson Bruffey, followed and found Hinkle lying in the road at the point of death and while they waited there for an instant, they heard and saw Albert coming with a light, and swearing vengeance, so that they became afraid and left.

It appears that Albert came to the body and attempted to cut the dead man's head off, that is he was in all probability a dead man before Albert reached him. It also appears that Albert must have stayed with the body something like an hour, for shortly before midnight he appeared at the house of George Ramsey with the bloody knife in his hand saying that he had cut Hinkle's heart out.

Mrs. Ramsey, not knowing what had happened except that it was something terrible at the Albert house, phoned to Deputy Sheriff T. A. Bruffey, who lives in the neighborhood of the affair. The sheriff already had a search warrant for the place and had been waiting a fit time to raid the house. So he gathered a posse and went there not knowing what to expect, but when he came in sight of the lights of the house he stumbled over the dead body lying in the road.

Monday morning, Prosecuting Attorney A P Ed ar went to the Levels and the case developed rapidly. Albert was arrested and a prelimin ary held and a number of eyewitnesses testified. The whole district turned out, They said that there were more people in Hillsboro at the inquest than there has been since the time that they brought in Armstrong and Cumberland, in 1895.

Hinkle is a native of this county and married Albert's sister, who was present at the time he was killed. They have two children. The Hinkle family and Albert lived together. Albert's mother was present also.

Albert is a native of Lincoln county. He has been married but his wife was not there. He had one child living with him.

He waived examination and was committed to jail without bond.

LINWOOD

Mrs Minnie Gatewood does not improve very much. We hope she will soon be better. Mrs. Conrad is better.

Charley Rhea is improving very nicely, after losing an arm while working at Spruce.

Sam Galford is on the sick list with an attack of pneumonia.

James Smith and Coyner Showalter are working at Golden's Camp on Clover Creek.

Eddie Rhea, of Kentucky, was visiting home folks here a few days last week.

Rev. O. N. Miles conducted services at the Linwood Church Sunday afternoon.

Ed Wooddell killed an eagle a few days ago. It measured seven feet four inches.

A. S. Johnson, Jr., is now editor of the Raleigh Register, and he is making a real paper of it. He is a son of A. S. Johnson of the old reliable Monroe Watchman.

SUNDAY SCHOOL RALLY

Fifty or sixty persons attended the Sunday School meeting at the High School Building last Friday night. They were addressed by Rev. J. M. Criswell, acting secretary of the State Sunday School Association. These meetings are being held over the State in order to line up and enthuse the county associations in their work for the year.

This meeting was remarkable, Mr. Criswell said, for the number of county and district officers present. From Greenbank district came G. C. Hamilton, E. N. Moore and O. W. Ruckman. From the Levels, A. C. Stillwell and Luther Flynn. Edray District, outside of Marlinton, and Huntersville District were not represented.

After the public meeting the committee appointed by the County Executive to consider ways and means of making the groundhog Sunday schools evergreen had a meeting. G. C. Hamilton is chairman of the committee, and its members are E. N. Moore, Ira D. Brill, A. C. Stillwell, Luther Flynn, J. C. Harper, F. M. Sydnor, S. N. Hench, and Calvin W. Price. All were present except Mr Harper. The district chairmen were asked to submit a complete list of all Sunday schools in their district, and mark them evergreen or otherwise to Mr. Hamilton at earliest possible date.

It is proposed to give individual attention to every Sunday school which has closed its doors. The things suggested are, to have county and district officers visit the neighborhoods where public Bible instruction is neglected for a part of the year; to hold Sunday School rallies; to organize flying squads of singers and speakers in going to Sunday schools to hold services wherever they will be welcomed; to make arrangements for the strong Sunday schools to have their trained workers hold afternoon Sunday schools in communities where christian leadership is lacking or dormant, and everything else necessary as the local needs of the school may demand

The committee is on the job, and while every member of it is actively engaged in his own Sunday school, each of them is willing to take time from his daily business to assist, encourage and foster interest in the matter of a good effective Sunday school where none or a part time now exist.

A BEAR HUNT

Just before Christmas Nelson Moore, Frank Carpenter, Price Moore Marvin Sheets, Joe Sheets, and Hamp Carpenter had an old time bear hunt on Williams River. They were tracking an old bear and two cubs, and got them surrounded. The stands were filled and Nelson Moore and Frank Carpenter went into the laurel to rout out the game Soon the standers were called off to come to an old hollow log into which the bears had gone, and the trackers had stuck poles in the hollow to pen the bears in until the rest of the party came up Upon punching in the hole, one cub stuck his head out and was dispatched. The old bear would not come out from punching and a hole had to be made in the log. Then she stuck her head through the hole, and she was killed. Then the other cub came out, and it also was bagged. The bears were stupid from their winter sleep

A few days later in the same neighborhood J. W. Carpenter, Emory Miller and Andrew Beverage had quite a chase after an old bear and a cub. They came upon the bears in their bed, under some fallen timber and killed the cub in the bed, and by a lucky shot Emory Miller killed the old bear as she was making off The shot was not instantly fatal, and the bear ran a distance, and Mr. Miller's two shepherd dogs provod themselves proper bear fighting dogs.

There were a number of other bears in the neighborhood, some of them very large ones, but these five were the only ones come up with In a former hunt, the Carpenter boys killed a cub bear.

During the hunt some of the party followed a track for a number of miles which they thought was the trail of a young bear, but the older heads put it down as a panther track when they were called in to pass upon it. W. H. C.

The young ladies of J. A. McLaughlin's class of the Presbyterian Sunday School have completed an organization with Miss Maude Chandler, president, Miss Virginia Garth, V. P.; Miss Mary Margaret Price. Secretary, and Miss Helen Hunter, treasurer.

HONOR ROLL: Brushy Flat school Fourth month. Lillian Wardell, teacher.—Leva Mann, Lizzie Dilley, Ollie Kincaid, Fervin Dumire, Ruby Dilley, Leonard Kincaid, Delmar Dilley, Rex and Clifford Kincaid Carl, Delton and Lewis Dumire, Ralph Irvine and Sandy Mann.

J. N. White of Woodrow, tells us that the weather has been more mild on the mountain than on the low lands this year. The morning it was 12 below at Marlinton, the thermometer registered 6 above at Woodrow.

The annual meeting of the Firemen will be held at Kee & McNeill's Drug Store on Tuesday night, January 31, at 7:30 o'clock.

Some whooping cough among the children of the Marlinton community.

The ice went out of the creek and river last Thursday afternoon.

Moore & Poague

Beard, West Virginia

ANNOUNCE

TEN DAYS' SALE

Unusual Reductions for Cash

Beginning Saturday, Jan. 28th

All Mail Orders taken care of - Postage Prepaid

Sweaters

Men's extra heavy, all wool reduced from 5.65 to 4.50

Boy's all wool coat sweaters reduced from 2.85 to 3.35

Ladies all wool coat sweaters reduced from 4.95 to 4.25

Ladies fancy sweaters, limited reduced from 9.50& 8.00 to 5.98 &4,89

Girls all wool coat sweaters reduced from 3.75 to 3.25

Many others reduced in proportion

All mens 25c collars now two for 25c

Mens heavy wt. apron overalls at 98c

Best grade all wool blankets pair 6.95

Ladies pure thread silk hose 1.25

Rubber Footwear

Ladies 2 buckle arctic, Goodrich were 4.65 now 3 50

Lahies rubber overshoes, Goodrich were 1.25 now 1.00

Men's heavy dull rubbers, Goodrich and Ball Brand, were 2.25 and 2.10, now 1.95 & 1.85

Mens 4bkl all rubber arctic Ballbrand were 4.65 now 4.00

Mens 4blk cloth top arctic, Ball Brand were 4.50 now 3.95

Mens white duck himners, Ball Brand were 5.35 now 4.95

Underwear

Ladies jersey ribbed unions formerly 1.50 now 1.35

Ladies velastic unions formerly 1.85 now 1.50

Mens all wool unions formerly 3.85 now 3.15

Mens all wool unions, extra fine formerly 4 50 now 3.50

Misses unions Springtex formerly 1.25 now 1.00

Boys unions, formerly 1.00 now 85c

Ritchs' Overshirts at 2.85

Ritchs leather mittens at 1.35

Ritchs & Ball Brand heavy socks 60c

Mens heayy police suspenders 25c

"Hill" bleached muslin, the best 19c

Solid color chambray, all colors 11c

All wool serge, 36 in. wide value 1.25 and 1.00 now 75c

Ladies all wool serge coat suits 12.50 value now 10.00

Ladies all wool serge dresses 6.00 value now 5.00

Ladies cotton serge dresses 3 50 value now 3.00

All shoes 25 percent off

All aluminum ware reduced

Heavy pure aluminum round roaster diameter 11 1-2 in., 6 qt, only 98c

14 qt. aluminum dish pan only 1.49

Heekins Madja Coffee while it lasts, 3lbs for 50c

SITLINGTON

Already the politicians are beginning to bombard us. This is another of those years wherein the politicians try to make everybody believe they actually amount to something. If Sitlington ever has a town election I am going to run for the exalted office of Dog Catcher just to see how it feels to be a Candidate. One thing we are glad of, this year we will have Elections and wont have to go through the trying ordeal of smoking the Office Seekers cheap Cigars, Normalcy has fixed them so they can't afford to give them away.

Hon. E N Moore of Dunmore, passed through here on his way to Marlinton last Friday.

Dr. Frank Nickell of Cass, was down looking after a sick horse for Dave Weatherholt, Friday.

Mrs. Harve Persinger is visiting relatives at Huntington this week.

We just now see a stranger walking down the track with a frock coat, high collar and lots more Store clothes on. wonder if he isn't a candidate for some office.

Charley Adams went to Ronceverte Sunday to view the ruins of the recent fire.

Hunter Adams is expected to arrive Saturday from Kansas City. Hunter came through the Sweeney Auto School with flying colors, in addition to a first class Diploma, he was given a medal for the interest and hard work he put into the course, as the head of the School put it, He set a pace that will be hard for many to follow.

William Jones announces his entire herd of rabbits are for sald. They are getting too numerous William says and are running his chickens away from home.

Hon. John A. McLaughlin dropped in Monday with the announcement that he will be a Democratic Candidate for the nomination as Delegate to the Legislature, thats three of them, all Democrats that I know of, seems like everybody wants to run for office on the Democratic Ticket this year. "Oh Victory, where is thy sting? "NORMALCY."

Edray Reading Circle, February 4, 1922 at two o'clock p. m.

Study of General Methods of Teaching in Elementary Schools.

Chapter 9. The Basis of Economy in Learning—Gladys White, pages 201 to 220—Beulah Moore, pages 221 to 246.

Chapter 10. Making Responses automatic by repetition—Annie Correll.

Chapter 11. Adapting class Instruction to Differences in capacity.—Mary Eskridge.

At this meeting we will complete the study of General Methods of Teaching in Elementary Schools, therefore we are expecting a full attendance of teachers from Edray district to take part in the discussions. L J. Moore.

THE HONOR ROLL

Last week we published a list of the evergreen Sunday schools of the county so far as we knew them. From this honor roll the schools at Beard, Raywood, and Wesley Chapel were omitted. Are there any others?

On Thursday night of this week will be held the meeting of the Board of Trade for election of officers for the next year. The place is the High School Building and the time is 7:30 o'clock.

"You Have Certainly Told the Truth"

A friend remarked, after reading our "ad.," entitled "Improvements That Will Follow Good Roads."

He said he had in mind a section of Virginia where the road was perfect, and that the appearance of the frrms fronting on that road was excellent, and that where the good road ended the appearance of everything else was bad.

Facilities plus service brings results.

We want your business.

First National Bank
MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA
The Bank of Security and Service.

Victor Records Reduced

85c Records at 75c
$1.35 Records 1.25

I receive the monthly release of Victor Records, and I carry thousands of Records in stock. The Victor Record Book is the most complete music library ever issued.

If you have not a VICTOR Talking Machine in your home now is the time to put it in.

Amos Wooddell
Watchmaker - Jeweler
Marlinton, W. Va.

WEST VIRGINIA UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XXXVIII NO 21 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, MARCH 11, 1920 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

BOARD OF TRADE

IT ISN'T YOUR TOWN; IT'S YOU

If you want to live in the kind of town
Like the kind of town you like,
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip
And start on a long, long hike,
You'll only find what you've left behind,
For there's nothing that's really new,
It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town—
It isn't the town, it's you!

Real towns are not made by men afraid
Lest somebody else gets ahead,
When every one works and nobody shirks
You can raise a town from the dead.
And if, while you make your personal stake,
Your neighbors can make one, too,
Your town will be what you want to see—
It isn't the town, it's you!

—Exchange.

The Board of Trade Meeting on Monday night was attended by a lot of representative citizens. As usual the tied up condition of building sites and land generally in and about the town prevented the adoption of any definite plans loooking toward the development of the community.

M. C. Kincaid, for the committee on membership made a fine report and turned in the names of a lot of new members and renewals. As a general thing the people are responding willingly and enthusiastically, although there are a few who are letting a dollar in hand stand between them and the betterment of the community and are refusing to lend their names and influence to a good thing.

As usual the Committee on Municipal Affairs was on the job and made an interesting report. Attention was called to the fact that a lot of waste was being burned in the rear end of the Hamilton building, and that the wire baskets used to burn waste were in need of repair. Much glass is beinn thrown on the walks and in the streets of the town, and the Council was requested to make a drastic ordiance to prevent it. The committee asked very pertinent questions as to whether the law was being enforced in regard to minors loafing in pool rooms, the sale of tobacco and eigarettes to boys, and whether punchboards were gambling devices or not.

The tannery has a number of barrels of road oil which will be put on the streets as soon as the proper time comes.

The Roads Committee was directed to take up and report on the repairing and improving of the road to the Cemetary at earliest opportunity. A number of citizens have signified their willingness to contribute money teams, trucks and labor towards this good work, in order that the fund in the hands of the Town Council may be used to improve and beautify the grounds of the Cemetary.

Dr. N. R. Price, for the Good Roads Committee, spoke on road conditions in general, and took occasion to announce that he would be a candidate for the County Court, a position he resigned when he went into the army, after seven years of invaluable service. In reference to the value of the Board of Trade to the town, the Doctor called attention to the fact that without this organization the County Fair would not have happened at all. The Board of Trade took a chance by advancing about a thousand dollars and the Fair was a great success in every particular. If it had done nothing else, this one thing would justify the support of the Board of Trade by the progressive citizens of the Town and County.

The committee on Agriculture reported that so far it had been unable to buy or option land for a permanent fair site, and that probably the fair this fall will be held where it was last year.

The next meeting will be the first Friday night in April at 8 o'clock.

Died, Mrs. Harry Miller, at her home at Cass, March 6, 1920, aged 23 years, of heart trouble. She was a Miss Faulkner, of Greenbrier before marriage. She is survived by her husband and two children. Burial at Hillsboro.

The Womans' Club has indefinitely postponed their public meeting which was advertised for next Tuesday, March 16.

EDUCATIONAL JOTTINGS

BY COUNTY SUPT. G. D. MCNEILL

The next examination for elementary diplomas will be held March 18-19. Questions will be sent without request to schools where some pupils failed in last test but teachers whose eighth-grade pupils did not attempt last examination should notify County Superintendent, if questions are wanted.

The first Teachers Uniform Examination will be held at Marlinton, April 1-2.

In the last diploma test forty-one of the applicants made passing grades Below are the leaders with average grades made.

Goldie Shrader, 94; Quay Grimes, 92; Anna Mary Deputy and William Rietz, 90; Maude Mary Sutton, Agatha Hamrick and Verian Grimes, 89; Burke Grogg, Della Kershner and May Barkley, 88; Snowden Kershner, Mabel Meeks, Eoa Grimes, Virginia Beard, William LaRue, Ruby Lindsay and Amber Cole, 87.

There is much confusion just now as to the proper proceedure in cases where schoools are broken up by "flu" According to the ruling recently made by State Supt. of Schools, teachers may collect pay, provided the school is closed by order of the Board of Health. It is doubtful whether pay could be collected for time lost unless the school be closed by Board of Health. It seems to be the policy of the Boards of Education to be reasonable, and it is likely that when the Boards have a meeting, some plan will be worked out for payment of teachers in proper cases though the schools were not closed by the Board of Health.

MY ROAD POLICIES

For the third time I am announcing my candidacy for Member of the Board of County Commissioners of Pocahontas County, with full realization of the difficulties of filling the office with credit and benefit to the County.

The articles of my road policy are as follows:

1 Protest against the extravagant and wasteful methods now prevailing of building roads under State and National supervision; as much as $70,000 to the mile having been expended in certain counties of the State under this method.

2 Proper maintenance of Mcadam and gravel roads now built. Urgently needed repairs on stone roads of this county have been neglected, and the road from Marlinton to Campbelton almost totally destroyed, to be rebuilt, while many miles of Class A roads await improvement.

3 More energy generally in road building, and "More Miles for Less Money."

4 Use our native unexcelled materials for road building, Limestone, Hill Gravels and Creek Gravels, to be laid on a proper rock foundation, when such is required in clay soils.

5 The use of properly constructed macadam and gravel roads rather than the expensive concrete and tar bound roads, and proper maintenance of the same.

6 More speed in building roads suitable to our purpose, instead of the slow programs and great expense of the Federal roads, as at present administered. To secure this result put men of proved ability and energy in charge of the construction work, who will work tirelessly until the job is completed.

7 Against State and Federal bond issues on roads, until assurance can be had that the present ruinously, wasteful and demoralizing method of road building shall cease.

I resigned my second term as County Commissioner in December, 1917, while serving in the Medical Department of the U. S. Army. If elected for the third time, I expect to do my utmost to further road building, by energy, common sense, and the experience acquired by seven years service as Commissioner.

N. R. PRICE.

March 9, 1920.

Died, Daniel Shaver, at his home near Woodrow, March 9, 1920, of influenza, aged about 60 years. The deceased was a native of Braxton County, County, coming to Pocahontas several years ago. He leaves a family. Burial at the White School House.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

We stop the press to announce that the State Senate has ratified the Woman Suffrage Amendment.

SUNDAY SCHOOL INSTITUTE

Pocahontas County Sunday School Association, in conjunction with the Young People's Division of the State Association will hold a Sunday School Institute at the Presbyterian church at Marlinton on Friday and Saturday the 12-13. The first session will be Friday afternoon at 3-30. On Friday night at 7:30 will be shown Stereoptican pictures. Rev. Van Buskirk, of Clarksburg, will be in charge. The Sunday School Institute is one of the modern methods of Church endeavor, and the up-to-date churchman should not fail to take full advantage of this one.

A big entertainment will be given by the school at the High School Auditorium on Saturday night. Proceeds for the Graded School Library Fund. Great preparations are being made, and the show promises to be fine.

A lot of letters and other things of interest were crowded out of this week's paper.

The grandjury completed its labors late Wednesday afternoon. Sixteen indictments were returned, 11 felony and five misdemeanors.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. R. W. McQuain, at Dunmore, February 21, 1920, a son.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Hiner, of Durbin, a son.

Public Sale

Immediately after the close of J. A. Wenger's sale on Tuesday, March 23, 1920, at my residence one half mile northwest of Arbovale on Hannah Road, I will sell at public auction to the highest bidder the following personal property. Sale to begin about 1 o'clock.

1 Belgian mare 6 years olde weight 1200 pounds.

1 Belgian mare 4 yrs, weight 1200

1 Short horn cow, will be fresh

1 3 1-2 Trumbull wagon and hay wagon.

8 rolls 3 ply best grade Sylex roofing

1-2 barrel (about 25 gal) best grade asphalt roofing paint.

1 pure bred Berkshire sow, bred to register, will farrow about April 1st. Berkshire sire.

1 hog weight about 100 pounds

1 spring tooth tarrow; 1 grain cradle

About 2000 feet of lumber mostly framing.

100 rods wire fence; 200 lbs 16 per cent phosphate fertilizer

8 or 10 bu seed corn; 3 Ware bee hives, 1 bee feeder

About 30 hens, fine layers

1 pr chech line; 3 cross cut saws

1 Oliver single shovel plow with root cutter.

About 25 bu oats; some potatoes if not sold before

1 grinding stone, new; about 50 pounds barbed wire; a lot of axes, horse collars, mattocks, wagon jack, tabler, mowing scythes, brush scythe, some household goods, and other things too numerous to mention. Will also sell what hay and grain I have on hands on day of sale.

Terms: All sums of $10 or under cash on day of sale; over that amount a credit of 8 months, with two approved endorsers, interest from date. No property to be moved until settled for.

WALTER A. ARBOGAST,

Ashford, Auctioneer.

Report of the Condition of

THE BANK OF DURBIN

Located at Durbin, in the State of West Virginia, at the close of business Feb. 28, 1920.

RESOURCES		DOLLARS
Loans and discounts		200 918 75
Overdrafts, secured and unsecured		366 06
Stocks and securities, [other than Government issues]		48 128 96
United States Bonds		20 769 00
Banking House		8 550 13
Furniture and fixtures		1 038 00
Other real estate owned		1 800 00
Due from Banks		49 667 36
Lawful Money Reserve in Bank		9 324 54
Expense paid		1 262 87
Total		341 825 67
LIABILITIES		DOLLARS
Capital Stock paid in		30 000 00
Surplus fund		15 000 00
Dividends unpaid		230 00
Undivided profit		10 011 28
DEPOSITS VIZ:
Subject to check	275 307 32
Demand certificates	6 944 50
		282 251 82
Certified checks		190 04
Cashier's checks		4 142 53
Total		341 825 67

State of West Virginia, County of Pocahontas:

I, E. L. Fenton, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

E. L. Fenton, Cashier

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 6th day of March 1920.

N. B. Arbogast, Notary Public.

My commission expires Dec. 14th, 1925

J. W. Goodsell
P. M. Yeager
J. Hall Wilson
Directors.

Commissioner's Land Sale

Pursuant to a decree of the circuit court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, entered in the chancery cause of Edgar Dilley vs Lula B. Walker and others, on the 9th day of March, 1920, the undersigned special commissioners will sell at public auction to the highest bidder on Tuesday, April 6, 1920, at 1 p. m. at the front door of the court house of said county, the following described boundary of land:

The Woods Dilley farm in Edray District, on the waters of Clover Creek, containing 240 acres, more or less, being all the land that the said Woods Dilley owned at the time of his death. Said land comprise s a splendid blue grass farm and has on it a very fine dwelling house and other buildings. There is valuable timber on the land.

Terms: Cash in hand to pay costs of suit and expenses of sale, the residue in three equal payments due in 6, 12, and 24 months, respectively, with interest, bonds with good personal security, the title to the land to be retained as ultimate security.

F. R. HILL,
ANDREW PRICE,
Special Commissioners.

I, G. W. Sharp, Clerk of the circuit court of said county do certify that the above named special commissioners have executed bond as required by said decree.

G. W. SHARP, Clerk.

Notice of Trustee's Sale

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned trustee acting pursuant to and under the authority of a certain deed of trust executed by Ellis Jackson, bearing date the 29th day of August, 1919, and of record in the office of the clerk of the county court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, in Trust Deed Book No. 11 at page 211, to secure P. T. Ward, in the payment of a certain note for the sum of $225.00 dated August 29th, 1919, and default having been made in the payment of said note, and having been requested to execute said deed of trust, by the said P. T. Ward I will on the 6th day of April, 1920, at 1 o'clock p. m. at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas county, in the Town of Marlinton, offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder, the following real estate to-wit:

A certain lot or tract of land adjoining the lands of Mary M. Sharp, and others, situate on the Cloverlick Road, Edray District, Pocahontes county, West Virginia, containing 19 acres, more or less, less a certain lot of 30X100 feet conveyed by said Ellis Jackson, to the Trustees of Odd Fellows Lodge, by deed of record in in said county, and being the same tract of land conveyed to the said Ellis Jackson, by Otho Ruckman, by deed bearing date the 16th day of October, 1900, of record in the same office in Deed Book 30 at page 457.

Terms of Sale: Cash in hand on day of sale.

Given under my hand this the 8th day of March, 1920.

4w A. P. EDGAR, Trustee.

FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER

I hereby announce my candidacy for County Commissioner, subject to action of the Democratic primary of May 25, 1920.

March 9, 1920 N. R. PRICE.

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

FOR SALE: One 9 year old horse, in good condition; a good saddle and and driving horse. Will sell reasonable. Apply to H. C. Miller, Buckeye, W. Va.

ROOMS FOR RENT: 2 furnished rooms. Apply to Mrs. R. M. Beard, Marlinton, W. Va.

Report of the Condition of

THE BANK OF HILLSBORO

Located at Hillsboro, in the State of West Virginia, at the close of business, Feb. 28, 1920.

RESOURCES		DOLLARS
Loans and discounts		193 027 27
Overdrafts, secured and unsecured		652 23
Stocks and securities (other than Government issues)		1 600 00
United States bonds	13 750 00	13 750 00
Banking house		2 300 00
Furniture and fixtures		1 785 69
Due from Banks		19 332 74
Checks and other cash items		537 39
Lawful money reserve in bank		4 319 51
Expenses paid		678 17
Total		237 983 00
LIABILITIES		DOLLARS
Capital Stock paid in		25 000 00
Surplus fund		8 500 00
Dividends unpaid		45 00
Undivided profit		4 120 34
DEPOSITS VIZ:
Subject to check	172 932 38
Time certificates	26 924 53
		199 856 91
Cashiers checks		460 75
Total		237 983 00

State of West Virginia, County of Pocahontas:

I, J. K. Marshall, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

J. K. Marshall, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 4th day of March 1920.

W. M. Irvine, Notary Public

My Commission expires July 20, 1920

L. P. McLaughlin
A. R. Smith
Carl G. Beard
Directors.

Sale of Valuable Farm and Grazing Lands

The undersigned Special Commissioner, in pursuance and by virtue of a decree entered in the chancery cause of Hevener and Dudley against C. M. Greathouse and others, on the 17th day of October, 1919, will on Tuesday, the 6th day of April, 1920, sell at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas county at public auction, to the highest bidder One Hundred (100) acres of land. The same land conveyed to the said C. M. Greathouse by John E Houchin; said tract of land is situated in Pocahontas County, about three miles from Durbin; a good part of it is improved land. It has upon it a good orchard, and comfortable dwelling and outbuildings, is adapted to grass and is fine grazing land, and would make a comfortable home for some one.

Terms of Sale: One third of purchase money, cash in hand on day of sale, and for the residue of the purchase money, a credit of six and twelve months, respectively, will be extended, the purchaser giving bond for the deferred payments bearing interest from date, with good personal security, and the title to the land to be retained as ultimate security.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Special Commissioner,

I, George W. Sharp, clerk of the circuit court of Pocahontas county, hereby certify that bond has been given by the special commissioner, as required by law.

G. W. SHARP, Clerk,

WANTED:—Responsible, ambitious men to Sell our Guaranteed Stock Conditioner in Pocahontas, Greenbrier and Monroe Counties. Can give one man agency for one county. Big opportunity for live wire men. Write or see Bowling Hdw. Co. Inc., White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

It's mine - It's yours
It's everybody's
"The Right to Happiness"
STARRING
Dorothy Phillips
A greater picture than "Heart of Humanity." If you saw Miss Phillips in "The Heart of Humanity," you will not want to miss this one at
AMUSU THEATRE, Saturday, March 13th
Matinee 2:30 and Night 7:45
Admission 20c and 30c including war tax.

Buy Easter Footwear Now

Children's Sandals at 89c.
Children's White Shoes and Slippers at $1.00
Children's Slippers in patent leather, tan and gun metal at 1.89
40 pairs of Ladies' Slippers in tan, patent leather and gun metal, sizes 2 1-2 to 3 1-2 at the extreme low price of 3.00
Ladies' Shoes in tan, patent leather and gun metal sizes 3 to 4 1-2 at 2.89
20 pairs of Men's Dress Shoes in tan and gun metal sizes 9 to 11, at a special price 2.50-3.50

We have an elegant assortment of Ladies' Spring Suits, Coats and Millinery, also Children's Dresses at fair prices.
Order by mail we pay the parcel post.
Your money back if not satisfied.
FINGER-SIEGEL CO.
CASS, WEST VIRGINIA

Select your new spring suit now
Thursday, March 11th, Friday March 12th, Saturday, March 13th
We will have on display an exclusive and extensive line of woolens. We will also have with us, an expert designer from SCHLOSS BROS. CO.
New York and Baltimore
Come in and look over the line, and be expertly measured for your new suit.
S. SCHUCHAT
Marlinton, W. Va.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all parties knowing themselves indebted to the estate of Uriah Hevener deceased, to come forward and settle at once. All parties holding claims against the estate of said decedent are hereby notified to present the same to the undersigned administrator for payment, the same to be accompanied by full legal proof.

Given under my hand this the 8th day of March, 1920.

HOWARD C. SKAGGS,
Administrator of Uriah Hevener, deceased.
Lewisburg, W. Va.

Notice of Judicial Sale of Valuable Realestate

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, made and entered on the 14th day of October, 1919, in the chancery cause of P. T. Ward, Administrator, against Catharine Simmons et als., I will on at the front door of the Court House of Pocahontas County, West Virginia at 1 o'clock p. m. on that day, offer for sale to the highest bidder the following described realestate:

TUESDAY, APRIL 6, 1920

Situated on the headwaters of the East Prong of the Greenbrier River, in Greenbank District of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, consisting of 198 1-2 acres of land, more or less, being the same land of which Jeremiah Simmons died seized.

Terms of Sale—One-third cash and the residue in two equal payments, due in four and 8 months from date, with interest and good personal security.

This is a good opportunity to secure a splendid grazing farm in a good state of cultivation.

P. T. WARD,
Special Commissioner

THE CLIMB UPWARD
to financial independence is always helped by proper banking connection.
A Savings Account earning interest is the surest beginning, and regular deposits of fixed amount make the goal easy to reach.
Consider the advantages depositors enjoy here and allow us to personally explain our services.
The First National Bank
Marlinton, W. Va.
Under U. S. Government Supervision.

We are Ready for Spring
We invite you and your friends to come in and inspect our new SPRING HATS
Our Millinery Opening Takes Place
Thursday, March 11th
Friday, March 12th
Saturday, March 13th
We will have on display, beautiful models of the new spring styles that Dame fashion decreed for Lady Bonnet.
Here you will find a hat that you will enjoy wearing
Our stock of spring suits, coats and dresses are in and we are glad to say that the styles are very becoming, all specially selected for beauty of style and superior quality. The prices you will find surprisingly reasonable, considering the quality of the garments.
New voiles, silks and white goods for spring sewing
"The store where you are satisfied."
S. SCHUCHAT
Marlinton, W. Va.

SPRING OPENING
You are invited to attend our Spring Opening
Friday and Saturdy,
MARCH 12 and 13
Where you will see the newest and most becoming styles that fashion decreed for the spring and summer of 1920.
SUITS COATS DRESSES WAISTS
MILLINERY
MILLINERY — For the season we have employed Miss Wenner, an expert trimmer. We have a large stock, and the styles are charming. She can make a hat to please you.
LADIES SUITS — Just received a line of suits—the most uptodate ever shown in Marlinton. Come and look them over.
DRESSES — Just received, a line of dresses in Gorgette, Crepe de Chine and fine Voiles. New styles at the right price.
Millinery Suits Coats Dresses Waists Silks
We have received our spring line of silks, satins, white goods, voiles—the largest variety ever shown here.
H. Kelmenson
Marlinton, W.Va.

SALE-SALE

Grasp this Great Opportunity

Coopers Dept. Store, of Cass, is smashing prices to reduce stock and raise money. Stock marked at unheard of prices.

It is a well known tact "what we advertise we do." We want you to feel absolutely certain that after years of clean, honest dealing with the people of Cass and surrounding country we will be careful to live up to this policy during this our largest sale.

Sale Opens Friday, January 20, 9 a. m.

Ladies Cotton Hose	Best Quality Outing	$14 Misses' Coats	Men's $12 dress shoes	$1 Men's fleeced undw'r	$30 to $35 ladies suits	Ladies' Sweaters	$3.50 Comforts
10c	15c	9.95	6.95	59c	22.95	1.45	1.95

Just a few of our Bargains - Everything Marked Down

Every one knows Cooper's Dept. Store and it is a recognized fact that we carry the finest in quality that the market affords. Strong adjectives and flowery talk could not convey to the mind the true superiority of this sale. It is going to be the biggest slaughter of prices ever known in Cass, W. Va.

This Sale Is Being conducted by the National Adverting Service of Lynchburg, Va. and Atlanta, Ga., under the direct supervision of L. H BIGGS, Sales M'gr.

COOPER'S

CASS, W. VA.

FREE

Be one of the First Fifty, Friday you won't regret it 100 prizes for Children, Saturday, accompanied by an Adult FREE.

LIST OF REALESTATE

Sold in the County of Pocaontas in the month of December, 1921, for the non-payment of taxes due thereon for the year 1919, and purchased by individuals:

NAME OF PERSON CHARGED WITH TAXES	Local Description of Land	Quantity land charged	Quantity land sold	NAME OF PURCHASER	wh'le amt paid by purchaser
		EDRAY DISTRICT
Chattaway, John	Gauley & Elk rivs	250	250	W T Mitchell, Jr.	88 73
Chattaway, John	same	2216	2216	E. Howard Deihl	791 80
Norvell, John A	Gauley Mountain	200	200	John A. Baillie	71 43
Sharp, Clifford and others	Waters of Stony Cr	124 40 p	124-40 p	G. W. Sharp	48 38
		GREENBANK DISTRICT
Ervin, Don	Waters Deer Creek	166	166	Cameron Beverage	30 10
Nottingham, Addison, et als	Alleghany Mountain	875-8 p	875-8 p	R. N. Nottingham	12 69
Sweet Lilly Lumber Co.	Head Greenbrier Riv	553-68p	553-68p	P. T. Ward	29 84
McGraw, John T	Durbin, lots 1 to 20, bl 4	lots 1 to 20	3 lots	C. B. Collins	61 22
same	Durbin lots 10 to 19 bl 5	lots 10 to 19	all	E. L. Fenton	43 34
same	Durbin lots 1 to 19 bl 14	lots 1 to 19	lot 19	L. C. Frazier	42 03
same	Durbin lots 1 to 5 bl 19	lots 1 to 5	all	C. B. Collins	7 81
		HUNTERSVILLE DISTRICT
McGraw, Joohn T	100 a Marlins Bottom	100	100	Wm. Gibson	58 06
same	60 a Greenbrier River	60	60	same	64 46
same	28 80p same	28 80p	28 80p	same	4 96
same	29 40p same	29 40p	29 40p	same	4 11
		LITTLE LEVELS DISTRICT
R. A. Walton's estate	Lobelia	80p	80p	D. C. Adkison	5 07
J. H. Walton's estate	Droop Mountain	40a	40a	F. P. Sparks	7 89
Dillingnam, D. J.	Hillsboro bl 2 lot 5	lot 5	1-4 lot 5	M. E. Dilley	3 50
		TOWN OF MARLINTON
McKee, Ellen	Yeager lots	2 lots	2 lots	Wm. Gibson	15 82

The owner of any realestate above described and sold, his heirs or assigns, or any person having the right to charge such realestate for a debt, may redeem the same by paying to the purchaser, his heirs or assigns, within one year from the sale thereof, the amount specified in the last column of the above table, and such additional taxes thereon as may have been paid by the purchaser, his heirs or assigns, with interest on said purchase money and taxes at the rate of twelve per centum per annum, from the time the same may have been so paid.

Given under my hand this 13th day of December, 1921

By C. C. Clendenen, Deputy

B. B. BEARD, Sheriff
of Pocahontas County, W. Va.

No Trespassing

No trespassing or hunting allowed on the lands of the undersigned in any manner. J. E. KEE, Marlinton, W. Va.

10. S. C. R. I. Red Cockerels pure-bred, good shape and color. The best stock; prices reasonable. Satisfaction guaranteed. Gertrude Blagg, Monterey, Va.

Notice

I handle Oyster Shells, Grit, Charcoal, Etc. Want to buy one Rouen Duck Drake. will pay good.

L. O. SIMMONS,
Marlinton, W Va.

FOR SALE:—Beckwith upright piano, good as new. $300 cash. Will take Liberty Bonds. C. C. Ware, Sitlington, W. Va.

FOR SALE:—70 acre farm, good buildings, good orchard, well watered 2 1-2 miles from Millpoint. Priced reasonable. G. G Thompson, Millpoint, W., Va.

ROOMS FOR RENT: 3 rooms on ground floor in residence on upper Camden Avenue. Apply to

J. P. Hoover, at Evans Shoe Shop,
Marlinton, W. Va.

OBITUARY

The subject of this sketch, Mrs. Nancy E Friel was born and raised in Pocahontas County in the neighborhood now known as Clawson. At the age of 21 years she was united in marriage to B. W. Wilson, formerly of Highland County, Va., after which they lived in and near the vicinity of her birth. To this union were born three children, two sons and one daughter, Oliver E. Wilson of Mill Point, J. N. Wilson of Morgantown and Mrs. Minnie M. Kelley of Bath County, Va. She also became the foster mother of and raised Frad Lightner, now of Richmond, Va.

On account of feeble health she and her husband broke up housekeeping near Mill Point last fall and went to live with their daughter, Mrs. Kelley, where they resided at the time of her death, which occurred on Jan. 2, 1922 due to the infirmities of old age. Her remains were brought to the home of her brother, Jasper Friel and funeral services were conducted in the Clawson church by Rev. John Perry, after which her body was laid to rest in the Clawson cemetery in the presence of a large crowd of sorrowing relatives and friends to await the great morning of the Ressurrection.

She is survived by her husband and children, one brother and a host of friends, for to know her was to love her. She was a kind and affectionate wife and mother and bore her afflictions without a complaint patiently to the end.

At the time of her death she was 72 years 6 months and 17 days old.

The pains of death are past,
Labor and sorrow cease,
And life's long warfare closed at last
Her soul is found in peace.

P.

NOTICE

To Auto Owners.

We have rented the Cass Garage, and will begin work about February 20th, and will be in shape to do first class work on any make of cars. We will have a Detroit graduate to assist. Our charges will be reasonable. Give our mechanic a trial.

GRAGG BROTHERS,
Hosterman, W. Va.

IT IS NICE TO BE NICE

A lot of nice parents have failed to bring up nice children. They have dodged telling them certain Essential Facts. The doctors used to do considerable dodging, but not these days. Every family practitiouer of medicine has a civic duty to perform. So has every citizen, and especially each parent.

Ths best preventative of blindness is a study of its cause. Every other evil can be prevented in the same way. Nothing can be more pathetic than some of the results of ignorance. Infant mortality in the Uuited States is a disgrace to the country. Some people go almost crazy when birth control is mentioned. They want as many babies as possible to be born, and let them die. It should not be a matter of more babies, but better babies. On the other hand we should not concern ourselves so much about the number of babies born each year, but about the ones that die. Eugenics is a beautiful theory, but as a fact we want it applied to the other fellow.

The "Holler than thou" attitude is carried to extremes. We should put on glasses when we look in the mirror.

The Venereal diseases are too vulgar to be talked about. We are too nice. It is nice to be nice, but it can be overdone —U. S. Public Health Service.

Honor Roll of Huntersville school. Primary Room, 4th month. Those making perfect attendance are: Ellis Grimes, Roy McLauglin, Dick Moore, Lynn Moore, Robert McComb, Louise Barlow, Vera Buzzard, Gweniwere Jordan, Sylvia May, Gladys May, Elizabeth McComb, Lucy Ryder, Helen Ryder, and Olive Thomas, Those making faithful attendance are: Ermon Grimes, Norman Philips, Guy Grimes, Waldo Buzzard, Maynard Barlow, Lola Buzzard, Dorothy Yeager and Opal Thomas.

F. Ernest White, Teacher.

Notice to Taxpayers

All unpaid municipal taxes are past due, and unless paid within a reasonable time, drastic action must be taken and property levied upon.

F. P. King,
Sergeant.

"YOUR TEETH"

Occlusion

By Rea Proctor McGee. D. D. S., M. D. Editor "Oral" Hygiene.

Occlusion means the fitting together of the upper and lower teeth when the mouth is closed.

In the normal mouth the upper teeth extend slightly over the lower teeth all around. Each upper tooth strikes two lower teeth and each lower tooth strikes two upper teeth.

This arrangement acts upon the principle of a shock absorber. Every tooth has a slight motion independent of the other teeth. When the jaws come together the teeth move a little and escape the jar.

All bodily movements are due to the muscles pulling upon the bones according to the well known mechanical principles of the different forms of levers.

If the muscles of your arm worked upon the same lever plan that the muscles of your jaw work upon, you could throw a horse over a six-foot fence without much trouble.

This means that there is an immense pressure upon your teeth when you chew.

A soldier completely equipped for field service makes a pressure of eleven pounds to the square inch upon the ground when he walks.

The human jaws in a normal man can exert a pressure of two hundred and fifty pounds to the square inch.

The lower jaw moves up and down, from side to side, back and forth, and it also has a rotary movement. If any tooth is out of its proper position in the arch, it is very liable to receive the whole pressure of the jaws in some of these movements and the constant jarring that it receives will start an inflamation in the pericementum—the membrane that covers the root of the tooth and attaches it to the bone.

The same thing happens when a filling is too high, and sometimes when a tooth has been extracted the teeth on either side will move a little into the vacant space and cause one or more to strike too hard.

This is called traumatic occlusion and is the cause of many cases of death of the nerve, alveolar abscess, puls stones, enlargement of the end of the root, called exostosis, and pyorrhea.

If a tooth is slightly tender or seems to be in the way, a visit to the dentist will save a great deal of trouble.

One thing is certain, a tooth never hurts or even feels queer unless there is something the matter. There may be sham pains in other parts of the body, but whenever anyone tells you that his teeth hurt they do.

In the course of a recent conversation with the county superintendent, our attention was called to the work being done in the colored schools of the county. It seems that the Department of Education is making an effort to give the colored people an education of a practical kind, and to this end a District Agent, J. E. Banks, is employed. It is the duty of this agent to emphasize agriculture, and to combine theoretical agriculture with the practical in the schools.

At Brownsburg a school fair was attempted It developed not only a school fair but a regular community fair. There were very creditable exhibits of work done by pupils, and of all manner of farm and garden products raised by school patrons. Following the exhibit, an enthusiastic community meeting was held. A Community Club has been organized and regular meetings are held. The patrons, pupils, and the teacher, Miss Georgia Hill have done meritorious work.

In the Levels District, the Hillsboro Colored School, taught by W. A. Bolen, graduated a number from the grades last year. These graduates are now in high school at Bluefield. Enthusiastic Community Clubs have been organized in the colored schools at Hillsboro and Denmar.

WANTED: Salesman and District Manager willing to work hard and show he is worth $150.00 per week. We want to establish lowest priced guaranteed cord tire in this locality.

CRESCENT CORD TIRE CO.
Plymouth, Indiana.

PUPS FOR SALE—English shepherd and Collie pups, 6 weeks old; dam a champion driver dog; price $5 each. Can be taken away now. Apply to D. W. Sharp, Marlinton, West Va.

HONOR ROLL: Poage Lane school Fourth month, W. A. Hively teacher—Opal Shinaberry, Mary Hively, Earl Galford, Earl Beverage, Floyd Galford, Mamie Hannah.

Those who were present every day but were tardy—Dell, Quince, and Glenn Shinaberry.

SHOCKED SAILORS PLEAD FOR MODESTY

At the request of a reader of this paper, we are reprinting this communication from the Philadelpia Record:

"Editor of The Record:

"Please allow a few American sailors who have just returned from a year's duty in European waters to express their opinions and views on our own American girls and women. In Europe the girl and woman of questionable character is pointed out the American sailor and tourist by the following freakish characteristics: First, bobbed hair. Second, short skirts, heavy use of rouge and tattooed beauty marks. We were thunderstruck and dumbfounded upon our return to our own United States to find our American girls and women walking fac similes of the European type of questionable character. If you girls and women only could realize how disgusting this newfound fad of dressing appears to the writer of this article you would get under cover until the fashion changes—and we are far from Sunday school boys after a year in Europe. We have all visited 17 different countries in our year abroad, and I dare say without fear of contradiction that the feminine sex today in America is wearing the garb of Europe's lowest women. I would like any civilian who has been in Europe recently to say if I am not right. Constantinople and Alexandria, Egypt, supposed to be the two wickedest cities in the world, cannot equal the sights seen by us since our return to Philadelphia.

"Mothers, if you could only see and realize the point that I am driving at when your daughter asks your permission to have her hair bobbed show her this article. And on the other hand, if the fashion fad gets the best of you, stop and think of this article and how you appear in public to those who have been abroad recently. And if your daughter returns home and says that she has been annoyed by a sailor, show her this article again Since our return to the States we have not been fortunate enough to secure a furlough as yet; nevertheless we have vowed that when we do get home, and we find our sisters or mothers masquerading as Europe's women of ill fame, they can count us out as relatives until the fashion changes.

"It is a mystery to me how a lady or girl can walk the streets without being approached by any he-man. Only the other day, en route from the Navy Yard to a theatre at Philadelphia, two members of the gentle sex sat opposite me in the car One was about 50, I judge, and the other not a day over 14 years of age. According to the poor blending of cosmetics of both, they managed to make up like mother and daughter. If the painted ladies of Constantinople could have see this blending of cosmetics they would resolve to return to the army of workers instead of the life that those of that make-up live. Beaded eyelashes, pencilled eyebrows, rouged lips and cheeks, tattooed beauty marks, and last but not least, the disgusting skirts, which I immagine are very warm and comfortable during cold weather—not. Now, we are not boys just out of school or serving minority enlistments, but range in age from 20 to 35 years. So you can see how you are being judged. Enroute to the States we visited the ruins of Pompeii, while at Naples, Italy. After listening to our guide, it brought to the writers mind the earthquake at San Francisco and the causes for the destruction of these two cities. Now, I am laboring under the impression that if all of the good old U. S. A. has gone European fashion mad, the same as what I have seen these few days in Philadelphia, prepare yourselves for another disaster.

"AMERICAN SAILORS.

'Philadelphia Navy Yard,
"November 28, 1921."

Honor Roll fourth month Swago school, Nellie Hefner, tescher. Perfect attendace, Lonnie Armstrong, John R. Gay, Johnnie Hause, Opal Armstrong, Edith Armstrong, Eva Beverage, Glenna Barnes, Mary C. Barnes, Hester McClintic.

Faithful Attendance: Paul McNellan, Grace Barnes, Ruth McNellan, Rex McNellan, Susie Taylor.

Report of Buckeye school fourth month, The Corrells, teachers. Addison and Stowe McNeil in Grammar grades, Glen Rucker in primary. School has recovered from chicken pox and health is good. The holidays seemed a real benefit; school is in good working order as to study. Eating hot soup or vegetables prepared in school, or coasting, which is at a climax. A community meeting and box supper were held on December 17th. Proceeds $12 50 for benefit of school Buckeye Winners Agricultural Club had a well attended meeting on January 6th

Carpenters and plumbers are a work on building preparatory to standardizing the school building.

Highest Prices Paid for

Poultry,---Butter---Eggs

NOW is the time to ship us your POULTRY, BUTTER and EGGS. Our market has entirely cleared up and daily shipments are being disposed of promptly at exceptionally HIGH FIGURES We know from past experiences this demand will continue throughout January and February. There is certainly no better market at your command today, than we offer, or a more HIGHLY REPUTABLE HOUSE to handle your goods.

Let us make 1922 your most prosperous year by sending us your shipments.

Frank Hellerick & Co.

"A poultry house every day in the year"

349 [illegible] St. 120 Callowhill St.

Philadelphia, Pa.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, Editor.

THURSDAY FEBRUARY 2, 1922

There is going to be a bonus for the soldiers. Good! The Secretary of the Treasury says that it is impossible. That there is not the money to pay it with. What he means is that he does not see where he can get so much money to pay to the soldiers. Not that there is not that much money, but that it is not for that purpose.

Then the men who come in personal contact with the diplomats of Europe and who are swayed and influenced by their charm and persuasiveness, say that the sums of money owed to this country by the various nations are not available for this or any other purpose. And they mean by that the European nations have made a deferred creditor of the United States, in which they have been somewhat encouraged by our politicians. One would think from the way that a Congressman shields the European debtors that he was about to be voted upon in France, Belgium, or England.

The question of a bonus to the soldiers is one that ought never to have been raised but it was inevitable, and having been asked for by the soldiers, there is but one course to pursue. That is to give them what they ask for though it will be like sweating blood for some of us who were not enrolled in the army. We talked mighty bravely at the beginning of the war. We older men. We would get up and pound on the pulpit and declare that every dollar that we had was on the table for the defense of the country, and we did meet every demand, and came out of the war richer than we entered it. We refer to the average business man.

It was said openly, frequently, vehemently, that if we won the war that the soldiers could have anything from a grateful country that they asked for. Like Jepthah we have vowed a vow that we would make a sacrifice if the Ammonites were delivered into our hands, and the children of Ammon were subdued. And like Jepthah we now find that the sacrifice seems to be too great. But Jepthah lived up to his vow. It is so stated in the cold facts of history without one word of approval, and without any sign that his sacrifice was acceptable to the Lord. Jepthah burnt his daughter to death on the altar. No such sacrifice is required of us. Only that the tightwads loosen up a little, and Mr. Mellon and the rest of them had better be making arrangements to meet the obligation.

And the debtor nations should cease to skirt around the question of repudiation. The world is as rich as it was before the war. Some property went up in smoke but it is small compared to what is left. Every debt owed has a corresponding credit to some one.

The amount of money that is to be disbursed to the soldiers in the way of compensation for lost time and opportunity is variously estimated at from one billion to five billions of dollars. One guess is as good as another, but the first round in the way of payment may be on average of one thousand dollars a piece to four million soldiers, say four billions. That is a guess pure and simple, but in public matters, the amount expended generally exceeds the topmost estimate.

Then will come the way in which it will be divided. Some will say that the longer the service the greater the sum, and others that it would be more fitting to give each soldier the same amount. It looks like it would be fairer to give each soldier the same amount for they were each under orders and not in a position to advance their term or condition of service. The parable of the householder who hired labourers at a penny a day is in point. They worked various hours. Some all day, and some came at the eleventh hour, and yet when they were paid every man received one penny. And those who had borne the burden and heat of the day murmured against the goodman. But he hushed them and told them to go on their way, and be thankful for what they got, for it was lawful for him to do what he would with his own. The lesson is that God is the debtor unto no man. And in a worldly sense that is the position of the nation.

But mark the prediction: There is going to be more trouble over the way the largesse is divided than if none had been given. We have a faint recollection that the old time pension rule was that the soldier must have been enlisted for a campaign of at least ninety days to have qualified for the compensation granted him by a grateful government.

It seems that if a bonus is voted and disbursed that the rural communities will be greatly benefited for the draft law was so equitably framed that the number of men was in proportion to the population and not to the wealth of the country. And in our case the list when it was made up amounted to about one in ten of the population as afterwards appeared in the census that followed soon after the war was over. As against that number, the county has not a single millionaire to be taxed for the victory that protected his hoard.

Up North there are millionaires who have to build special houses in which to store their bonds, exactly as farmers build barns for hay. No story of the life of Rockfeller is complete, without a full and detailed account of how he built a strong house and filed his bonds on which he collects the interest. Such fortunes would have been forfeited if the victory had been to Germany and on such fortunes the burden will have to fall to a greater or less extent. And there is a shrewd suspicion that the great opposition to the measure comes from that powerful class of wealthy men who have saved and accumulated, until there are cases where one man could buy the combined wealth of a million of his fellow citizens. Peace and just property laws have permitted such things to be. Our hearts bleed for the poor rich men, but the country is full of discontented soldiers, and the day of settlement is at hand.

Strictly speaking this should be referred to in the series that loom, as the second bonus. A trifling sum of sixty dollars was added to sweeten the discharge, and that would make this payment the second bonus, but not the last. Not by a long shot. From time to time payments of the kind will have to be made. And the word bonus is not the word to use. Bonus means a sum in addition to an agreed compensation. There was no agreed compensation. The government took the soldier and fixed his recompense. The right word is pension. A pension is an allowance to an individual for a past meritorious act. And that is exactly what is proposed in this instance.

Probably no people who ever lived know as much about the way the pension system works out as those of us who live on the border of the territory affected by the Civil War. That was a case of pensions to the soldiers on the victorious side who lived side by side with soldiers of the defeated armies, and the defeated soldiers not only did not get pensions but had to help pay the pensions of of the victors. And they did it with a vengeance. For it was not long until it appeared that the richer class of veterans were those soldiers who got no pensions. With them it was root hog or die. And it was not many years until the enforced privation and enforced labor showed results. In other words, men who were able to make the first thousand dollars of an estate, found each succeeding thousand dollars easier to acquire, while those who had a small and sure income from a pension did not have tee same splendid spur of poverty to urge them on. The difference is not so great now for succeeding generations have come on. But when we can first remember Pocahontas County, the great majority of rich men were rebel soldiers, who came out of the war in an impoverished condition.

In Columbia University there is a student that has been a regular attendant for forty-one years. He is the holder of a large number of degrees. He will never amount to a row of pins to the community in which he lives. When a boy, a relative left him an income to continue as long as he was a bona fide enrolled student of the university, and he is now around sixty and still taking degrees and enjoying his income.

But as to whether the bonus will help or hinder the young men is a question not to be raised or insisted upon. The country is in the position of the anxious parent who has promised his son that if he would not smoke or drink that when he come of age he should have a horse, bridle, and saddle, and a gold watch. And the boy keeps the faith on his side and survives, and the father finds it very inconvenient to keep the promise on his side. If the father appears to forget it, then no one can blame the boy for jogging the memory of the old man a little. And the old man has to come across or repudiate the agreement.

The fact remains: We said at the beginning of the war that if we won that nothing was too great for the soldiers to ask. We sent them out to return with their shields or to be carried back dead upon them.

Now is the time to make good.

Blessed is he that hath nothing, for he can have a good time.

For the rich men of the country, we point to the silver lining. A million dollars to the young men of this county will stir the sluggish course of trade to some extent. And it may be another case of being more blessed to give than to receive.

We have dealt with this question at some length, and no one can say that we have not declared in favor of substantial payment to each soldier. But will it please the soldiers? Not by a long sight, for we have allowed ourselves to deal with a detail of how much each, and when we take the biblical rule of to every man a penny, we know that there are some long service men who will think that they should get more than the man who just held himself in readiness to face a violent and sudden death for his country. Friends, we did you no wrong: Take that thine is, and go thy way.

Letters are coming in wanting to know about that oil seepage in this county, for with the universal use of gasoline has come the need of finding more oil wells. It is possible that some wildcat opperator will come here and punch holes in the surface to find the petroleum. Years ago they dug a well for water in this town and got down to a depth of about nine hundred feet and salt water flowed out of the top of the ground and gas came out of the well so that they rigged up a pipe and hooked a gas mantle on to it and burned the gas to light up the plant, and used the flow of the water in place of epsom salts. But the water company which dug the well got into financial difficulties and went into the hands of a receiver and nothing came of that hopeful sign. In light of information that we have since acquired it seems that another hundred feet or so might have pierced the fifth sand and given a test of that sand.

Years ago the position that some of the Standard Oil people took towards this valley was that it would be a good place to test certain lower depths of the earth's surface that could not be reached from the developed oil fields, and that it was possible to go fifteen hundred feet deeper here than in the oil country in the northwestern part of the State. But they never came on with the well digger, and upwards of thirty years have passed and still all the oil that we have is to be gathered up by a painfully slow process of dipping it off of the surface of the water at the rate of about a table-spoon full a day.

They do not know much about how oil was made, but it seems to be related to coal, hence the name coal oil. It is perhaps like maple sugar and maple molasses. The sugar represents coal and the molasses the oil. If the jug gets broken the molasses runs away, but if the sugar cake falls it remains where it is and can be recovered. That is the way the upheaval of the earth affects coal and oil.

Leaving out the question of coal, which is a solid, there are three liquid, volatile substances that are penned up together, oil, gas, and salt-water. In the great Bedford field in Pennsylvania, they found the shape of a tilted plane of something like a hundred square miles, with a porous strata or cavity, in which the southwestern part was filled with salt water, the central part with oil, and the northwestern part with gas, all under extremely high pressure.

Long before petroleum was esteemed or made an article of commerce, salt was manufactured, and it was one of the risks of the salt business, that a well bored for salt might be entirely spoiled by a flow of oil, so that it had to be abandoned. It was one of the chances of the salt business that had to be reckoned with, and usually when the oil made its appearance there was great sorrow and regret, for the tools had to be moved to a more desirable place. The finding of oil was a risk that had to be faced.

Two miles from this place there was an ancient salt works from a famous lick. It was on Stony Creek just below the mill. Some of us think we can still see the buffalo trail coming down the hill to it. This spring was used regularly until the owner attempted to improve it by a well dug with a spring pole. When he got to a certain depth, which could not have been very great, the work was left as usual one night, and when the worknen came back the next morning there had been a blow up. The tools were blown out and the spring pole was down and the hole filled up, and from that day to this there has been no flow of salt water at that place and the whole site is farmed over at this time.

Not far from the place is a still pool in the creek where gas escapes constantly as shown by the bubbles on the water. This might be marsh gas but not likely, for there is no marsh anywhere near.

There is no reason on earth for doubting that the local salt works were put out of business in exactly the way that is related here. There is no doubt that it was a famous game salt lick at one time, and that it does not flow now.

It occurred long before the days when oil or gas were considered of any use, but it is strange that since oil and gas have become the basis of wealth, that a well has not been put down there to find if there was any oil or gas at that place.

Twenty-one miles east of Marlinton, on the road over the mountain between Back Creek and Jackson River is the Burning Spring. It is a beautiful little never failing spring beside the pike, an ideal place to camp with a covered wagon. The water is highly esteemed. In the days of old, it was a regular thing with us boys to stop there and get a drink of water, and light a match and set the gas on fire that rose from the spring and watch the blue flash that was occasioned. That was one of the sights of the road.

Along the Greenbrier in a dry season there are many places where an oily scum is to be observed on the top of the water. As this is always of a variegated color, with most of the hues of the rainbow, it may be stated that it is caused by petroleum, for that is the only oil that has so many hues combined and which are separated and made distinct by the action of water. Since the automobile has become common, a drop of lubricating oil on a wet street spreads and shows color like a rainbow. You can see it any wet day on the street.

Water has some connection with oil. It may be that water and heat and some vegetable matter may produce a distillation that results in oil and gas. It is almost sure that soft coal is formed by great growths of trees being covered by water. If a tree falls and rots in the open air all that is left after a time is a trace of black mould. But if the tree trunk be covered with standing water or silt or sand, it may in time be fossilized into some form of stone, and that may account for the coal beds.

And oil may have been the sweat and steam caused by subjecting some form of vegetable matter to great heat and pressure. Suppose in Silurian days this part of the world was a great sargasso sea with a great depth of sea weed, which was imprisoned, heated and pressed following a great convulsion, that might account for the oil in the uncemented sands.

They have got as high as fifty gallons of oil out of a ton of shale in Pennsylvania, and our most gaudy shale is the Mauch Chunk shale, named from the place where it appears in Pennsylvania. That shale can be traced all the way through from Mauch Chunk to this place.

Mauch Chunk is ninety miles northwest of Philadelphia and nine miles from Summit Hill where a coal mine burned for forty years.

That peculiar red shale that gives the name to all our numerous red banks appears there and so gets its name. This red shale is just under the coal measures and above the lime stone. As you top the Swago Mountain you see it, and also at a corresponding place on the road up Stony Creek Mountain. It runs with great regularity dipping northwest in the approved style. It shows up in great form at the famous Red Hole just above the falls of Williams River. It can be followed and found anywhere west of the river.

In the northwest where they drill wells, they find it a couple of hundred feet or more above the big lime, just where it belongs.

REGISTERED DUROC HOGS

I have at my farm three fine Gilts, bred for April farrow, price reasonable. Must be sold at once. I also have four, eight week old pigs, same stock. See them, or send your order.

J. E. Barlow,
Edray, W. Va.

GIRL WANTED: To clerk in store. Experience required. Apply with reference to

H. Kelmenson,
Marlinton, W. Va.

FORD PRICE LIST

F.O.B. DETROIT

Touring Standard	$348 00
Touring, Standard demountable	373 00
Touring, Self Starter	418 00
Touring Self Starter demountable	443 00
Runabout, Standard	319 00
Runabout, Standard Demountable	344 00
Runabout, Self Starter	389 00
Runabout, Self Starter, Demountable	414 00
Sedan, Demountable	645 00
Coupe, Demountable	580 00
Chassis, Standard	285 00
Chassis, Standard Demountable	310 00
Chassis, Self Starter	355 00
Chassis, Self Starter, Demountable	380 00
Truck	430 00
Truck, Self Starter	500 00

J. L. BAXTER, DEALER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Notice To Farmers

Any farmer in Pocahontas County desiring to borrow money from the Pocahontas County National Farm Loan Association will please apply to the undersigned Secretary-Treasurer. Do not write for application blanks, but call upon the Secretary-Treasurer and have him fill out your application.

Our present allotment is $100,000, and applications will be received until that amount has been subscribed. $25,000 is now available, and the remainder will be secured at an early date.

File you applications as early as possible, even though you may not need your money until spring, as the appraising of the farms will commence just as soon as the weather conditions will permit filed work to be done.

Remember it takes considerable time to appraise the farms offered as security, to examine titles, prepare abstracts and for the Federal Land Bank to examine the same.

Rate of interest 6 per cent. Time 33 years in which to pay the debt on the amortization plan. However the borrower may pay his debt, or make additional payments on it after five years from date of loan.

P. T. Ward,
Secretary-Treasurer.

To William A. Arbogast:

You will take notice that J. F. Ashford, the purchaser of the following Real Estate, to-wit: 10 acres of land on Rosin Run, in the Green Bank District, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, which was sold by the Sheriff of sasd Pocahontas County, at the sale for delinquent taxes made on the 13th day of December, 1920, and a deed has been required as provided by law, which deed will be made to the said J. F. Ashford on or after the 16th day of March, 1922, unless you against that day redeem the said Real Estate from said sale.

The amount necessary to redeem is as follows:

Amount paid Sheriff at said sale,	$2.65
Amount of taxes paid on the property since said sale,	$8 15
Amount paid Surveyor for report,	$2.50
Amount pain for notices and services thereof	1.50
Interest	35
Total	$15.65

Given under my hand this 16th day of January, 1922

S. L. BROWN, Clerk of the County Court og Pocahontas county, West Va.

NOTICE

To Auto Owners.

We have rented the Cass Garage, and will begin work about February 20th, and will be in shape to do first class work on any make of cars. We will have a Detroit graduate to assist. Our charges will be reasonable. Give our mechanic a trial.

GRAGG BROTHERS,
Hosterman, W. Va.

NOTICE

All persons are hereby notified not to trespass on the lands of the undersigned by hauling away any wood which is already cut or not cut on the land known as the Don Ervin land, lying along the county road south of Greenbank.

Mattie B. Hamed,
Greenbank, W. Va.

Notice

I handle Oyster Shells, Grit, Charcoal, Etc. Want to buy one Rouen Duck Drake, will pay good.

L. O. SIMMONS,
Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR SALE:—Beckwith upright piano, good as new $300 cash. Will take Liberty Bonds. C. C. Ware, Sitlington, W. Va.

PUPS FOR SALE—English shepherd and Collie pups, 6 weeks old; dam a champion driver dog; price $5 each. Can be taken away now. Apply to D. W. Sharp, Marlinton, West Va.

---

10. S. C. R. I. Red Cockerels pure-bred, good shape and color. The best stock; prices reasonable. Satisfaction guaranteed. Gertrude Blagg, Monterey, Va.

Coal for Sale

PLENTY OF IT AT

$5.75 ton

and every load weighed

Wise Herold

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager

HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC

Marlinton, West Virginia.

Commissioner's Notice

Harry Blackhurst, administrator of Emma Robertson, deceased;
vs
Wallace Robertson and others

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Notice is hereby given that on the 16th day of February, 1922, Thursday, at my office in the town of Marlinton West Virginia, pursuant to a decree entered in the above entitled cause on the 20th day of October, 1921, I will proceed to take, state and report the following matters of account, to-wit:

First What personal estate the said Emma Robertson had at the time of her death.

Second. What disposition was made of said estate and how much if any is still in her hands.

Third. What debts the said Emma Robertson owed at the time of her death, and to whom, their nature and their respective amounts and priorities.

Fourth. What realestate the said Emma Robertson owned at the time of her death, its quantity and location.

Fifth. Any other matter deemed pertinent by me or required by any party interest.

At which time and place you may attend and do what is necessary to protect your interest in the premises.

N. C. McNEIL, Commissioner.

NOTICE

To the creditors of Emma Robertson, deceased:

In pursuance to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, made in a cause therein pending, to subject the realestate of the said Emma Robertson, to the payment of her debts, you are required to present your claims against the estate of the said Emma Robertson for adjudication to N. C. McNeil, commissioner, at his office in the said county, on or before the 16th day of February, 1922

Witness D. C. Adkison, Clerk of said Court, this the 10th day of January, 1922.

D. C. ADKISON, Clerk.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF WEST VIRGINIA.

In the matter of R. P. Weiford.

To the creditors of R. P. Weiford, of Hillsboro, in the County of Pocahontas, and district aforesaid, a bankrupt:

Notice is hereby given that on the 9th day of January, A. D. 1922, the said R. P. Weiford, was duly adjudged bankrupt; and that the first meeting of the creditors will be held at the court house in Marlinton, in said county and district on the 27th day of January, A. D., 1922, at one o'clock in the afternoon, at which time the said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint a trustee, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.

T. S. McNEEL, Referee in Bankruptcy.

January 11, 1922

Commissioners Notice

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County W. Va. rendered rendered at the October Term 1921, in a cause therein pending of Seiver Hardware Company vs. Cass Garage; the undersigned Commissioner will, on the 1st day of March 1922, at his Office in the town of Marlinton West Virginia, proceed to make, state and report to Court, the following matters of account, to-wit:

1st The assets of the Cass Garage, subject to the debt in the bill mentioned

2 What property if any was bought by Jesse Warwick, from the Cass Garage, Roy W. Moore, or Kennie Beale, with the probable va ue thereon at the date of purchase.

3 The creditors of the Cass Garage at the time of the sale to Jesse Warwick, with the amount of their respective debts, but without interest thereon, as it gives to the larger creditors an unfair advantage of the smaller creditors.

4 The prorata proportion of the assets due each creditor as aforesaid.

5. Any other matter to be specially stated deemed pertinent by himself or required by any party in interest to be so stated.

All parties interested and all creditors of the Cass Garage will please take notice of the above.

W. A. Bratton,
Commissioner in Chancery.

Closed Ford Car For Sale.

The Red Cross Car is for sale. It is a Coupe Ford, with a brand new top. Has been run one season and is in good condition. Apply at Times Office for price and particulars.

NOTICE

All persons having bills against Mrs. Lena Pontius, Prop. of City Restaurant, will present same within 30 days for payment to L. F. Ervine, City Restaurant, Marlinton, W. Va.

ROOMS FOR RENT—Inquire of Mrs. Rachel Beard, No 52, Upper Camden Avenue, Marlinton.

FOR SALE:—70 acre farm, good buildings, good orchard, well watered 2 1-2 miles from Millpoint. Priced reasonable. G. G. Thompson, Millpoint, W. Va.

For Sale

Copper Water Cans, Spouting, Tin Fixtures, copper tubing, bath room outfits, etc.

C. W. Slavin
Tinner and Plumber
Marlinton, W. Va.

Baxter's Garage

MARLINTON W. VA.

FORD Cars and Supplies

FORDSON Tractors

A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.

J. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, popular siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Standing Timber for Sale

126 acres of good oak and other hardwood lumber at Minnehaha Springs, on land now owned by J. Elmer Moore. An indefinite lease on land at $25 a year. Will cut about 700,000. A bargain either for operation or investment.

J. J. LOURY,
Huntersville, W. Va.

Hereford Bulls

I have a lot of young Hereford bulls, registered and fine specimen of the breed. Will be sold for spring delivery.

J. S. McNeel,
Seebert, W. Va.

Furs -- Hides

We have bought Furs and hides for 20 years and can pay the best prices on good grading this season.

THE PEOPLES STORE SUPPLY CO.

Order Of Publication

State of West Virginia
Pocahontas County, to-wit:

At Rules held in the Office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, on the first Monday in January 1922.

W. A. Thiede, Plaintiff
vs
Dorsey Freeman, Defendant

The object of this suit is to attach and subject to sale the interest of Dorsey Freeman in the lands devised by W. B. Freeman to the said Dorsey Freeman sufficient to indemnify and save harmless the said W. A. Thiede from liability on Ball Bond of $1000.00 entered into by the said Dorsey Freeman for his appearance on the 4th day of October 1921, before the Circuit Court of Pocahontas founty, which bond was forfeited by the Circuit Court, and the costs of this suit.

This day came the plaintiff, by his attorney, and it appearing by affidavit filed in this cause that the defendant, Dorsey Freeman, is a nonresident of the State of West Virginia it is therefore ordered that he do appear here within one month from the date of the first publication hereof and do what is necessary to protect his interest in this suit.

D. C. ADKISON, CLERK
L. M. McClintic, Atty.

FOR SALE—A valuable properties for sale in the village of Greenbank, consisting of one twelve rooms dwelling house complete with all convenience equipped with bath and water in the house and a light plant and all necessary out building, also a big store house and good barn, 80 acres of land, a bargain if sold at once, reason for selling we are going to move away, also I have a lot of lumber I will offer for sale at low price, any one interested write or call on

MATTIE B. HAMED,
Greenbank, W. Va.

HOUSE AND LOT FOR SALE—A good six room plastered house and garge lot at Campbelltown, near Marlinton. A good home for anyone. Apply to T. H. Moffett, Slaty Fork, West Virginia.

ESTRAY CALF: A stray calf has been at my place since about the first of October. Owner can have same by paying cost of keep and advertising.

A. H. Duncan,
Buckeye, W. Va

Adv. $1 00 paid

A GOOD POSITION, for a woman of middle age, to keep house, and clerk in store if necessary. Apply with reference to

A. B. McComb,
Huntersville, W. Va.

HOUSE FOR SALE: Good, warm six room house in the Town of Durbin. Desirable location. Apply to

G. D. Kincaid,
Marlinton, W. Va.

ATTORNEYS

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court Appeals.

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals

---

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Marlinton, W. Va.
Furniture made to order and old furniture repaired.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

R. B. SLAVIN
Heating, Plumbing and Sheet Metal Work. Best materials. 17 years experience.
Marlinton, W. Va.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specialty of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMEE
DENTIST
First National Bank Building
Phone
Marlinton, W. Va

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

M. F. GUM
AUCTIONEER

R. T. GREER & SON

Marlinton, W. Va.

Largest Buyer Of

FUR SKINS
GINSENG
ROOTS and
HERBS

Get Our Price

DELCO-LIGHT
"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue
ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES

Marlinton Electric Co.

DEALERS

Lower Prices

I am going to pass along decline in prices of SHEET ROCK WALL BOARD. See it. It's great

J. W. MILLIGAN
Marlinton, W. Va.

Z. S. Smith

Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

NOTICE

I hereby notifo all persons not tr trespass on my land on Elk River by hunting, trapping, or in any other way, under penalty of the law.

This 9th day of January, 1922.

S. A. Jackson.

HOUSE FOR SALE: Modern 6 room Bungalow, with bath, on Lower Camden known as Copenhaver House. See J. L. Kenney, Marlinton, W. Va.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second-class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, Editor.

THURSDAY FEBRUARY 9, 1922

There is a precedent for the proceeding that when an official has served eight years, that he is ripe for retirement, and also to be indulged by being permitted to make a farewell address. Having kept the post office for two full terms and seven months over, we were superseded by a very amiable gentleman, a younger and a handsomer man, who took over the office on the 1st day of Febuary, and on the 2nd day of the month, we, late postmaster came forth and saw our shadow, it being 2-2 22.

We did everything that we could think of to make our successor feel at home in the work, and promise him loyal support as a citizen of the town, and as a patron of the office, and further any technical knowledge that we may have acquired in the somewhat intricate work, is also at his service.

We have no criticism to make as to the plan of filling the postoffices as they become vacant, and cannot figure out any better way of selecting a postmaster than the one in force of taking one of the highest three applicants. And we would be the last man in the world to say that party affiliation should not be recognized. We say further that under no circumstances would we turn down a party man who had qualified for one of the same class who belonged to another party.

It seems to us that keeping postoffice was one job that did not appeal to us in the days when we were full of ambition. But it is not what you want in this world that makes up the total of your score, but what you get. And it is the butt end of every mother's blessing that she did not raise her son to be a postmaster, for that is one position that is hard to fill, in which it is impossible to give satisfaction, and which means hard work and horny hands.

It is the only office that we can think of which combines a vast responsibility with menial work.

The office came to us as a purely political appointment, and we displaced a thoroughly acceptable, trained, and efficient postmaster who was willing to continue in the work. As we remember the time dating back before the great war, two things stand out in our memory—that we were not particularly grateful for the preferment, and that we greatly underrated the skill and ability, and persistence necessary to do the work.

But it is the boast of America that Americans can fill highly technical positions without previous training or experience, and no where is this faculty so well exemplified as in the postal service where new blood is constantly injected and the service improved thereby. The Civil Service is a great institution but it has its limitations, and it seems to us that the new men that are inductdd into the service are as necessary to the health of the department as are the rank and file who are protected in their lawful occasions by the Civil Service law.

The first employment that we can remember was the job of picking rock at twenty-five cents a day. As we recall it, that was gratefully received. And it seems to us that since that time that we have accepted any work that was offered, farming, teaching school, setting type, practicing law, and keeping post office. The one that we majored in seems to have been that of offering to practice law. That has been going on for thirty years, during which time we have followed on in our feeble way constantly outraging the feelings of a large class of the profession by indulging in hard labor between clients.

With us it has been the experience of hanging out a shingle, and then looking for a side line, on account of a perniciously active mind that could not slumber between the activities that make up the profession of law in the country. And it is our observation that, excepting a few of the very wisest, that the profession in the city has many idle moments.

One of the greatest writers who ever lived was Robert Louis Stevenson. The way he strung words together has brought peace, comfort and blessed oblivion to many tortured minds. He came from a family of hard head Scotch workers, and when he announced his intention of adopting the profession of a writer, he met with vigorous opposition from his father. A compromise was effcted so that the young man agreed to study law, so that if he failed to make good as a writer he could fall back on the profession of law for a living. And that was in the old country where only about one out of every ten men who qualify to the bar is making a living out of it, a condition that is prevailing to some extent in this country, where lawyers are open to almost any honorable employment, including going to Congress.

Robert Louis Stevenson took a place in a law firm and was there some years, but he gained no distinction at the bar, for he made good as a writer, leaving a priceless legacy of books, though he was taken away from the world untimely by the dread disease, consumption.

In this day every little thing concernidg his life is of interest to us Stevensonians, and we saw an extract from his diary the other day that struck us as something that must have occurred to many a briefless barrister. The entry reads as follows:

"Wednesday, 22nd. At work all day at Court—work being periphrasis for sitting on my behind, taking three luncheons and running two errands."

There is the life of a lawyer for you, and people cannot understand why it is that when there is more money to be made by sitting still than by the sweat of your face, that men who might succeed by this kind of masterly inactivity have to go to work. It must be the curse of Adam. Anyway if the four incumbents of the position of postmaster at this place since it reached the dignity of being considered as worth the attention of Presidents and Senators, three of them have been lawyers. And when we say lawyers it is understood that this writer is not testifying under oath.

It is said that an official during his term of office has but two happy days, those being the day he swears in, and the day he quits, to-wit: the first and last day.

We cannot claim but one and that was the last one. When we entered the postal service with all the abruptness of a steer jumping into a cornfield, of all men we were the most miserable, for it suddenly occurred to us with great force that we had underrated the amount of skill and ability that is required to make good, and that we had bit off more than we could chew. But after a time we felt more at home, and found that sufficient to the day was the evil thereof, and that days went on, and this very fact that it is impossible to make a perfect score, added to the zest and interest. And it was not so very long until our hands became covered with a thick and serviceable skin, for paper is harder on the hands than corn husks, and it is like husking corn every day in the year.

When the late administration was disapproved by the people, as having done too much and too many, it was apparent that it was all up with the Democrats. And the best that we could hope for was a creditable winding up of our official life, and so the last eleven months have passed slowly waiting for the cat to die. We think we can say that we had no illusions as to being retained in the service, though we might have had, had we known the fine consideration and forbearance that the department afterwards showed to all the political appointees holding over and trying to render a full day's work for a full day's pay. There have been any number of postmasters reappointed, but we do not recall any in West Virginia, for we are a primitive race here, and rough in giving and taking, and we do not have much dealing with the Former Bloc, or any other hermaphorditish political movement.

The days dragged along, and playing the game, we made a formal application for a third term for we have a great admiration for the postal experts in charge of the government's greatest department. So we submitted to a searching examination and we confess to all this for the purpose of boosting. The mark that was given to us for efficiency was ninety-five, and when any of our family gets into the nineties, it is the matter of considerable congratulation. And of the three, your far from humble friend was the highest. In eight years this was the first intimation of any kind that was vouchsafed to us that we had made an acceptable record. So we were then ready to say, let thy servant depart in peace.

Looking back over our career as a postmaster, we see the peaceful years before the war when the work went on in a routine way; and then the strenuous years of the great conflict when the postmaster was the handy man of every community; and then the last year when the department made us all as comfortable as possible under the circumstances. And we are reminded of the experience that the old farmer had who went down from Point Mountain to Elkins with a sled. When he left the mountain there was a good sledding snow and all went well, but there came a thaw while he was in the city and he had many miles of muddy road and he could make only a few miles a day, and he almost desponded of getting home. Finally he reached the high mountain where there was still plenty of snow, and he came home in good style. A neighbor inquired what kind of a time he had had, and his answer was: "A very pleasant trip."

So if you believe us, we are here to tell you that we had a very pleasant trip but that we are glad that it is over. And if you want to know anything further about what we think about keeping the postoffice, we would adventure the opinion that the first eight years are the hardest.

We are thoroughly imbued with the spirit of the profession and we are prepared to say that the postal service is the largest and best managed organization in the world, filled with earnest men and women of the highest type of character and industry and steadfastness, and that the day will come when the world will accord to them the position of belonging to a noble and necessary profession.

And so we leave the ship.

FORD PRICE LIST

F.O.B. DETROIT

Touring Standard	$348 00
Touring, Standard demountable	373 00
Touring, Self Starter	418 00
Touring, Self Starter demountable	443 00
Runabout, Standard	319 00
Runabout, Standard Demountable	344 00
Runabout, Self Starter	389 00
Runabout, Self Starter, Demountable	414 00
Sedan, Demountable	645 00
Coupe, Demountable	580 00
Chassis, Standard	285 00
Chassis, Standard Demountable	310 00
Chassis, Self Starter	355 00
Chassis, Self Starter, Demountable	380 00
Truck	430 00
Truck, Self Starter	500 00

J. L. BAXTER, DEALER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Notice

I handle Oyster Shells, Grit, Charcoal, Etc. Want to buy one Rouen Duck Drake, will pay good.

L. O. SIMMONS,
Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR SALE:—Beckwith upright piano, good as new $300 cash. Will take Liberty Bonds. C. C. Ware, Sitlington, W. Va.

TWO TROOPERS GET THEIR MAN

AFTER EIGHTEEN MONTHS ARREST ALLEGED MURDERER OF BURMAN HATFIELD.

State Police Follow Trail Until They Are Sure of Facts in Case.

Back in July, 1920, just about two months after the industrial warfare flared up in the tragic street battle of Matewan, Burman Hatfield, a deputy sheriff of McDowell county was mysteriously shot to death as he walked along the Norfolk and Western railroad track near his home between Mohawk and War Eagle, across the Mingo county line.

There were no eye witnesses to the murder, so far as county authorities could learn. Local officers investigated and soon passed it up as one of the numerous unsolved tragedies of the southwestern corner of the state. Even relatives of Hatfield, whose family has long been famed among the inhabitants of the Mingo and McDowell hills as a clan which never failed to exact "an eye for an eye" abandoned hope of ever clearing the mystery.

Two Never Forgot.

But there were two state troopers who have been patrolling the area in which this particular murder took place since the organization of the West Virginia police force who resolved that justice in this case must be served. They were determined that the murderer of Burman Hatfield must answer to society for the dastardly act that snuffed out the life of a fellow guardian of the peace.

These two troopers were Corporal Charles C. Ward and Private Otis C. Newman, of Company B., stationed at War Eagle. When they weren't actually engaged in enforcing Governor E. F. Morgan's martial law proclamation in Mingo, clearing their territory of illicit whiskey manufacturers or giving their attention to other forms of lawlessness which demanded immediate action, they were endeavoring to run down the slayer of Deputy Sheriff Burman Hatfield.

The details of the case and the results of the efforts of these two state troopers is best told by the official report of Captain J. R. Brockus, commanding B. company, to Colonel Jackson Arnold, superintendent of public safety, which follows:

The Official Report.

"On July 14, 1920, Burman Hatfield deputy sheriff, McDowell county, W Va., was shot from ambush and killed on the right of way of the N. & W Ry. between Mohawk and War Eagle. No arrests were made and the identity of the guilty parties appeared to be a mystery. Hatfield's home was burned on the same night or the night following the murder. A reward of $1,000.00 was offered for the arrest and conviction of the murderer.

"Noah Lee, age 40, married, living on the head waters of Gilbert Creek about eight miles north of War Eagle member of the United Mine Workers of America who had been very active in the industrial troubles in this district, was suspected of the murder.

"Corporal Charles C. Ward and Private Otis C. Newman, Company B. W. Va. State Police, stationed at War Eagle gained the confidence of two of Lee's pals and secured affidavits from them which led to the issue of a warrant for the arrest of Lee on a charge of murder.

"On the night of December 14, 1921, Ward and Newman set out across the mountain on horseback determined to bring Lee in. He was found at his home and placed under arrest about 8:00 P. M. He was brought into War Eagle that night and the next morning taken to Welch, McDowell county, and lodged in jail. Corporal Ward feels confident that he will be able to secure a conviction.

"The Gilbert Creek country is one of the worst sections in this district, the state police have been fired upon while operating in that territory on several occasions."

PROHIBITION RESTS UPON STATE TROOPERS

FEDERAL LAW ENFORCEMENT SQUAD INADEQUATE IN NUMBER.

With only twelve federal prohibition agents assigned to West Virginia and the state prohibition department able to employ only eight deputies at this time because of a lack of funds, W. G. Brown, state prohibition commissioner, says he has been forced to transfer the burden of enforcement of the liquor laws to the shoulders of the state police, with the assistance of county and municipal authorities. Colonel Arnold accepted the burden and hundreds of reports from detachments in all parts of the state being received at state headquarters in Charleston each month attest to the success of the troopers along this line.

While the state police are conducting the raids, Commissioner Brown is making personal visits to the various counties forming organizations of citizens to lend moral support to the state and county officers.

Coal for Sale

PLENTY OF IT AT

$5.75 ton

and every load weighed

Wise Herold

Farm for Sale

At a very reasonable price to quick buyer. Containing about 170 acres on which is a comfortable dwelling house, a good barn and all necessary out buildings, such as wagon shed, granary, dairy, poultry house, smoke house, and cellar. Plenty of good fruit for two or three families, several nice farm fields, good meadows and is practically all inclosed with rail or wire fence. This farm has two good sugar orchards, plenty of good water and a lot of nice timber, an ideal place for stock, or would make two very good homes. Convenient to North Fork Lumber Co. Situated 6 miles west of Hightown, Va, in blue grass district, Highland County, 1 1-2 miles south of S & P. Pike with good road to same 1-2 mile to school. If you are looking for a bargain come and see this farm or write to owner

J. P. HISE,
Hightown. Va.

Farm for Sale

122 acres one mile from Greenbank. Write or come and see the farm. A good bargain if sold soon. Fifty thousand ft. good lumber for sale.

J. H. Kerr,
Dunmore, W. Va.

CLEANING & PRESSING

Should you desire at any time to have any wearing apparel cleaned, pressed, repaired or altered I would be pleased if afforded the opportunity of demonstrating to you my unexcelled service.

Mrs. Mary Taylor,
Cass, W. Va.

"YOUR TEETH"

Varieties of Plates.

By. Rea Proctor McGee, D. D. S, M. D. Editor "Oral Hygiene"

If you have lost very many teeth, you must consider some method of replacing them because if you don't you will only partially chew your food and your digestive apparatus will suffer severely from overwork and your general system must necessarily be undernourished.

So common sense dictates that when you lose a tooth, it must be replaced but just now, the matter of plates is under discussion.

In a jaw where there are some natural teeth remaining the plate that carries the missing teeth is called a "partial plate."

There are many methods of keeping these partial plates in position, and the methods are so extremely clever that the feelings, appearance and function of the normal teeth are almost restored.

The old idea of placing fixed bridges, to restore every form of tooth that was missing, is rapidly giving way to the extensive use of the partial plate.

One of the great advantages of partial plate is the fact that it can be removed and thoroughly cleaned.

Now, cleanliness is one of the greatest possible measures in the conversation of health and anything that can be cleaned can be made sanitary; but if you have in your mouth an extensive lot of uncleanable apparatus it will be very difficult to maintain a hygienic condition.

Always consider the possibility of cleanliness when any new work is being done in the mouth. The partial plates depend for their retention upon the teeth that are remaining in the mouth. They do not depend upon suction as do the full plates, particularly the full upper.

To be satisfactory, the teeth upon which the partial plate depends for support must be very healthy.

You cannot hope to have either a satisfactory or a healthful piece of partial plate work in your mouth unless the teeth to which it is anchored are healthy and will remain so.

If you have to have a partial plate, don't try to save a lot of hopeless teeth to interfere with it.

BELMONT, Va.

Our school is progressing nicely with Miss Miller as Principal and Mr. Mason, Miss Harry and Mrs. Biscoe as assistant teachers.

Dr. R. L. Powell, who has been confined to his room with rheumatism for some time is able to be out again.

Eddie Whitlock, who was very ill at the Mary Washington Hospital from an operation for appendicitis has returned home. Dr. Cofer is his attending physician.

Mrs. Julia Haigh who was here visiting her brother, Dr. Powell has returned to her home at Washington, D. C.

Rush Renolds got his dwelling and most of the contents destroyed by fire Xmas eve while him and his family were attending a dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller were visiting at the home of R C. Cutlip a few days ago. Mr. Cutlip has been very sick for the past week.

The winter has been very mild here, had two little skifts of snow. People are busy on the ponds getting ice.

Clover Lick, W. Va.
January 30, 1922.

Dear Mr. Price:

In your account of a murder in the of Jan. 26th, you have used a term that I have never seen in print before, and one that no person should use.

Your paper is a family paper, one for children and ladies to read, and should be always so written that benefit is to be derived from its perusal.

That you should allow low degraded terms to be used in accounts is greatly to be regretted. You have insulted your readers.

Familiarity breeds contempt and we as christians should prohibit the use of wicked degraded expressions.

I hope this was an unintentional oversight on your part.

Very truly yours,
W. C. G.

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager

HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC.

Marlinton, West Virginia.

Commissioner's Notice

Harry Blackhurst, administrator of Emma Robertson, deceased;
vs.
Wallace Robertson and others
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Notice is hereby given that on the 16th day of February, 1922, Thursday, at my office in the town of Marlinton West Virginia, pursuant to a decree entered in the above entitled cause on the 20th day of October, 1921, I will proceed to take, state and report the following matters of account, to-wit:

First What personal estate the said Emma Robertson had at the time of her death.

Second. What disposition was made of said estate and how much if any is still in her hands.

Third. What debts the said Emma Robertson owed at the time of her death, and to whom, their nature and their respective amounts and priorities.

Fourth What realestate the said Emma Robertson owned at the time of her death, its quantity and location.

Fifth. Any other matter deemed pertinent by me or required by any party interest.

At which time and place you may attend and do what is necessary to protect your interest in the premises.

N. C. McNEIL, Commissioner.

NOTICE

To the creditors of Emma Robertson, deceased:

In pursuance to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, made in a cause therein pending, to subject the realestate of the said Emma Robertson, to the payment of her debts, you are required to present your claims against the estate of the said Emma Robertson for adjudication to N. C. McNeil, commissioner, at his office in the said county, on or before the 16th day of February, 1922.

Witness D. C. Adkison, Clerk of said Court, this the 10th day of January, 1922.

D. C. ADKISON, Clerk.

Notice To Farmers

Any farmer in Pocahontas County desiring to borrow money from the Pocahontas County National Farm Loan Association will please apply to the undersigned Secretary-Treasurer. Do not write for application blanks, but call upon the Secretary-Treasurer and have him fill out your application.

Our present allotment is $100,000, and applications will be received until that amount has been subscribed. $25,000 is now available, and the remainder will be secured at an early date.

File you applications as early as possible, even though you may not need your money until spring, as the appraising of the farms will commence just as soon as the weather conditions will permit filed work to be done.

Remember it takes considerable time to appraise the farms offered as security, to examine titles, prepare abstracts and for the Federal Land Bank to examine the same.

Rate of interest 6 per cent. Time 33 years in which to pay the debt on the amortization plan. However the borrower may pay his debt, or make additional payments on it after five years from date of loan.

P. T. Ward,
Secretary-Treasurer.

To William A. Arbogast:

You will take notice that J. F. Ashford, the purchaser of the following Real Estate, to wit: 10 acres of land on Rosin Run, in the Green Bank District, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, which was sold by the Sheriff of sasd Pocahontas County, at the sale for delinquent taxes made on the 13th day of December, 1920, and a deed has been required as provided by law, which deed will be made to the said J. F. Ashford on or after the 16th day of March, 1922, unless you against that day redeem the said Real Estate from said sale.

The amount necessary to redeem is as follows:

Amount paid Sheriff at said sale,	$2.65
Amount of taxes paid on the property since said sale,	$8 15
Amount paid Surveyor for report,	$2.50
Amount pain for notices and services thereof	1:50
Interest	35
Total	$15.65

Given under my hand this 16th day of January, 1922.

S. L. BROWN, Clerk of the County Court og Pocahontas county, West Va.

REGISTERED DUROC HOGS

I have at my farm three fine Gilts, bred for April farrow, price reasonable. Must be sold at once. I also have four, eight week old pigs same stock. See them, or send your order.

J. E. Barlow,
Edray, W. Va.

HOUSE AND LOT FOR SALE—A good six room plastered house and garge lot at Campbelltown, near Marlinton. A good home for anyone. Apply to T. H. Moffett, Slaty Fork, West Virginia.

For Sale

Copper Water Cans, Spouting, Tin Fixtures, copper tubing, bath room outfits, etc.

C. W. Slavin
Tinner and Plumber
Marlinton, W. Va.

Baxter's Garage

MARLINTON W. VA.

FORD Cars and Supplies

FORDSON Tractors

A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.

J. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Standing Timber for Sale

126 acres of good oak and other hardwood lumber at Minnehaha Springs, on land now owned by J. Elmer Moore. An indefinite lease on land at $25 a year. Will cut about 700,000. A bargain either for operation or investment.

J. J. LOURY,
Huntersville, W. Va.

Hereford Bulls

I have a lot of young Hereford bulls, registered and fine specimen of the breed. Will be sold for spring delivery.

J. S. McNeel,
Seebert, W. Va.

Furs -- Hides

We have bought Furs and hides for 20 years and can pay the best prices on good grading this season.

THE PEOPLES STORE SUPPLY CO.

Commissioners Notice

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County W. Va. rendered rendered at the October Term 1921, in a cause therein pending of Seiver Hardware Company vs. Cass Garage; the undersigned Commissioner will, on the 1st day of March 1922, at his Office in the town of Marlinton West Virginia, proceed to make, state and report to Court, the following matters of account, to-wit:

1st The assets of the Cass Garage, subject to the debt in the bill mentioned.

2 What property if any was bought by Jesse Warwick, from the Cass Garage, Roy W. Moore, or Kennie Beale, with the probable value thereon at the date of purchase.

3 The creditors of the Cass Garage at the time of the sale to Jesse Warwick, with the amount of their respective debts, but without interest thereon, as it gives to the larger creditors an unfair advantage of the smaller creditors.

4. The prorata proportion of the assets due each creditor as aforesaid.

5. Any other matter to be specially stated deemed pertinent by himself or required by any party in interest to be so stated.

All parties interested and all creditors of the Cass Garage will please take notice of the above.

W. A. Bratton,
Commissioner in Chancery.

NOTICE

To Auto Owners.

We have rented the Cass Garage, and will begin work about February 20th, and will be in shape to do first class work on any make of cars. We will have a Detroit graduate to assist. Our charges will be reasonable. Give our mechanic a trial.

GRAGG BROTHERS,
Hosterman, W. Va.

NOTICE

All persons are hereby notified not to trespass on the lands of the undersigned by hauling away any wood which is already cut or not cut on the land known as the Don Ervin land, lying along the county road south of Greenbank.

Mattie B. Hamed,
Greenbank, W. Va.

NOTICE

All persons having bills against Mrs. Lena Pontius, Prop. of City Restaurant, will present same within 30 days for payment to L. F. Ervine, City Restaurant, Marlinton, W. Va.

ESTRAY CALF: A stray calf has been at my place since about the first of October. Owner can have same by paying cost of keep and advertising.

A. H. Duncan,
Buckeye, W. Va

Adv. $1.00 paid.

ATTORNEYS

H. M. LOCKRIDGE
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals.

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Marlinton, W. Va.
Furniture made to order and old furniture repaired.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

R. B. SLAVIN
Heating, Plumbing and Sheet Metal Work. Best materials. 17 years experience.
Marlinton, W. Va.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specially of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMEE
DENTIST
First National Bank Building
Phone
Marlinton, W. Va

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

M. F. GUM
AUCTIONEER

R. T. GREER & SON

Marlinton, W. Va.

Largest Buyer Of

FUR SKINS
GINSENG
ROOTS and
HERBS

Get Our Price

DELCO-LIGHT

"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue
ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES

Marlinton Electric Co.

DEALERS

Lower Prices

I am going to pass along decline in price of SHEET ROCK WALL BOARD. See it. It's great

J. W. MILLIGAN
Marlinton, W. Va.

Z. S. Smith

Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Closed Ford Car For Sale

The Red Cross Car is for sale. It is a Coupe Ford, with a brand new top. Has been run one season and is in good condition. Apply at Times Office for price and particulars.

HOUSE FOR SALE: Good, warm six room house in the Town of Durbin. Desirable location. Apply to G. D. Kincaid, Marlinton, W. Va.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, Editor.

THURSDAY, MARCH 11, 1920

BREAD AND WOMAN'S SUFFCAGE

Delegate George McClintic, of Kanawha county of Scotch-Irish descent and Presbyterian, sees a relationship between woman's suffrage and the bill in the house regulating the size of baker's loaves.

According to McClintic, the bakers aid woman's suffrage and woman's suffrage aids the bakers. In speaking of the bill, Mr. McClintic said that since the legislators had temporarily disposed of the suffrage question, they might talk about an affiliated subject—baking bread.

"Bread should be baked in the home anyhow," Mr. McClintic concluded.—Charleston Gazette.

The first thought that came on reading the above was that there never has been a time when Tuesday was Baking Day.

The second was that in the Senate a Baker's Dozen voted for Woman's Suffrage on the critical moment when the Senate threw discretion to the winds. We admire the fortitude of the gentleman in not indulging in cheap wit, but we ourselves would certainly have smeared the record with it.

Our third thought is a golden one and we hope that every young single man will take it close to his heart: Every man should have a bread baker in his home.

We further see in the honorable gentleman's remarks a delicate compliment to this, his native county, the land of Salt Rising Bread. There is never an exile from Pocahontas County, weary, sick, desolate, and disconsolate, in foreign parts, but longs for a loaf of salt rising bread such as mother used to make.

It is an art that the commercial bakers cannot acquire. They have tried it many times and failed. Leavened bread is beyond them. They have to depend upon yeast, and no one knows [illegible] the ferment of the nations is due to baker's bread.

The baker has been the favorite object of law making bodies for ages. At one time they had the bakers so badly bluffed that for fear that their loaves might be found to be short weight that for every dozen loaves that they sold they threw in an extra loaf, and, hence 13 was known as the baker's dozen.

We have had a curious experience in the last ten days. When the time came for the West Virginia legislature to vote on the suffrage question, the veil was lifted and we distinctly saw a flutter of the human heart. Woman suffrage has been a matter of supreme indifference to us for years. The most that we could think about when it was mentioned was that it would take so much longer to count the votes in a precinct. But by the eternal if the absent representatives could have stayed at home and voted by mail, there would have been few if any votes against the proposition to give votes to women.

That wonderful majority that West Virginia gave some years ago against the measure, has been invoked until we are sick and tired of it. It is not a criterion. For instance at that election not a single woman voted so far as the record shows. Every vote was a he-vote. The men in the legislature are sent there to represent the people. Not simply voters. They are like judges, charged with more than ordinary care for the rights of women and children. The only time in our recollection that the vote of a long gone election was urged to justify the desire of the representative was an election in which the class concerned could have taken no part.

The women of this county are the bravest of the brave, but we saw a flicker of resentment in the vote of the legislature when it rejected the amendment. We did not have the right word for it in our vocabulary until a lawyer said it was a question of emancipation. That described it exactly. It is an open question whether the freedom of the colored man bettered his condition, but it is not an open question that he had a right to be free. And when it was the unanimous and universal choice of the race to be free, then it became the holy duty of the governing power to make them free. So it is with women. That is, they must be given the right to vote, and those who do not want to vote need not exercise the franchise. Nobody has ever tried to make the men vote. They go to the poles or they stay away just as they please.

There was some pettifogging going on about the West Virginia constiution reading that only male citizens could vote, putting it above the Federal Constitution. Just so did the Virginia law conflict with the Federal law on the question of involuntary servitude, a question that was settled by the case of Grant vs Lee, 18 Blood 61 to 65.

As this is written, Senator Bloch is speeding across the continent behind the fastest engines bringing the one lacking to give the women of West Virginia a vote of confidince. He is the tobacco man of Wheeling who makes Mail Pouch tobacco, and he was wintering in California. He crossed the plains in one of the greatest northwest blizzards that the west has seen, and the women heed the storm that howls across the sky and believe that it is blowing them some good.

If all goes well Mail Pouch will win and the name of Bloch will be gratefully remembered forever and a day. On the other hand the leader of the malefactors, Senator Gribble, of Doddridge, should be known as Senator Disagribble.

The Virginia chivalry and the shivery politicians are making hash of woman's rights.

What will be, will be. If she has to vote it will be a work accomplished gracefully and well. It hath been said that a woman may be ugly, ill-shaped, wicked, ignorant, silly, and stupid, but never ridiculous.

For sometime we have intended to perform a simple act of justice to the memory of Xantippe, hereinafter to be referred to as Tip and Socrates, hereinafter referred to as Soc.

Soc was the greatest of philosophers and Tip was his wife. Soc has been reverenced for his wisdom, and Tip has been foully abused as being the queen of all the shrews, but no one can read between the lines without seeing that Soc and his habits would have driven any woman to distraction. In the first place he was not a good provider. He did not provide at all. He spent all his time loafing around the store talking about the government. He was what they call a chronic kicker. He would give anybody his choice of any side of the question, and then lead him on until he got him all tangled up and then he would sock it to him. Soc said it was his mission in life to show men with the big head how little knew. His prey was the office holding class and he worried them so that they railroaded him, as will hereinafter appear more at large.

But to see how he made his wife miserable, hearken to the imaginary conversation based on the well known traits of the famous couple.

Soc. Nobody has got no sense, excepting those who know they don't know nothing.

Tip. Oh, Soc, that sounds so un refined.

Soc. Bosh! And my sons I want to tell you that if any of you show any signs of having the big-head because I am your father, I will whale you till you can't stand up.

Tip. Oh, Soc, I think they ought be allowed to show a little pride, for their mother's family.

Soc. It is true they have got bristles, but let 'em keep 'em down.

Tip. None of my family would set his wife down and make her live in a house right by an ugly old stump in a field.

Soc. What stump?

Tip. That stump. That eye sore. That disgraceful old stump.

Soc. What that old chestnut stump you can see from the back porch?

Tip. Yes, that old chestnut stump you can see from the back porch.

Soc. Madam, if you can see ary stump from the back porch, I will eat my hat, and if you can find a chestnut stump in Athens, I will eat the stump.

And that is the way that was Soc's way of doing. Lead them into a trap and then spring the trap.

We are sorry for Tip. She was tied to the only man that was ever executed for being a bore. But history preserves her name as a household word. What other wife is so honored? Who knows the name of the wife of Horace, of Plato, of Homer, of Virgil, of Sinbad, or any of those romancers?

But they finally got Soc. They indicted him for being a kicker. They tried him by jury. There were 557 men on the jury. Soc insulted every one of them. His attitude was fatal. All through that trial which hung along like Newberry's, Old Soc would say to juryman after juryman: "I know I am no good, but I am as much better than you as you are better than nothing." He kept it up until they got a chance to vote on the verdict. The verdict was guilty by a majority of six. Soc contested the election on the grounds that it was a majority of five. This so aggravated the jury that when it came to vote on the punishment, it was very near unanimous, against him. Soc for punishment named one cent fine. His accuser asked for death. So they voted to shut off that flow of unwelcome wisdom.

So they made him drink wood alcohol and he perished, and his last words were that his sons were not to get the big head because he was their father.

The time is coming when the temporary liberty bonds that are held will be out of coupons and they will have to be exchanged for new bonds. March 15th is when the exchange business commences. If you have liberty bonds that have been registered the change does not affect you for there are no coupons to bother with on those bonds. Uncle Sam mails you a check with all the regularity of a fond and indulgent parent. You can present the coupon bonds to the Federal Reserve Bank at Richmond if you want to do so at your risk and expense, or you can give them over to a nearby bank in which case the bank will send them in at the risk of the government. It will give the banks a big job in listing and caring for the bonds and we suppose that a charge will be made for the service some like the city banks have been charging of 20 cents a hundred dollars or some such matter. In the hurry of war there was not time to print bonds with a full set of coupons and this is the reason that it comes up in this way at this time. If you look at it as we do when you put your coupon bonds into the bank to be exchanged for permanent bonds, you will ask that you receive registered bonds. These are not likely to be lost or stolen, and if you want to use them they are as easily transferred as a note by indorsement in the presence of a bank cashier. Besides you will be able to sell a registered bond easier, for most of the investors prefer to handle registered bonds from start to finish on account of the safety of the transaction. In this matter like so many matters that come up in every day business life, just shove it off on the bankers and let them attend to it for you.

He was threatened with the flu and he had a trace of superstition in his blood so he went to see a witch doctor. And the witch doctor told him that he did well to come to see her, for she kenw how to cure him of the plague, and she wanted to know if he could stand to take a magic medicine that would shake his being to the very seat of life, and he said he would try it a whirl anyway. So the witch doctor made incantations and withdrew into an alcove and came forth bearing in her hand a glassful of crystal liquid as clear as the clearest water that you ever saw. And the patient drank it, and though it looked like spring water it had the most powerful taste to it. and he marvelled that a liquid so clear could contain so much bitterness and he ascribed it to magic. And the medicine did as recommended and shook him to his foundations, but he recovered from the spell that it cast upon him and he never felt better in his life, and never regretted the ten dollars that he had paid the witch, not knowing that he had been thoroughly dosed with Epsom Salt.

We got a pamphlet the other day styled Common Sense, and having read a part of it, concluded that it was well that the writer of it had named it so for none other would have thought of such a title for the book. It was the work of the well known Coin Harvey, the native of West Virginia, who in a presidential campaign in 1896 put forth his book on silver, claiming that for every gold dollar that was minted sixteen silver dollars should be manufactured or some such hard money problem. It was a pretty deep matter for where one man understood what he was talking about sixteen voted blind. This last book seems to be an attack on interest on money. He starts with the false premise that interest and usury are the same thing, and he gives the money lender fits. It is all bosh. The use of money for a legal consideration is the rock bottom of civilization. It is the only way that a man can protect his helpless family after his death. Otherwise when the strong man died his dependents would speedily follow him, and a condition of savagry would result. Only about one per cent of the population could subsist by savage methods and it would be the end of the world. But the incentive to save in order that some day you can live on the interest of your money, makes large industries possible, gives employment to the masses, and insures safety and comfort. The comforts of the home are of priceless value to the old or sick, and we do not value them enough for they have become so common. That idiotic Harvey fooled us once, but never again.

Public Sale

I will offer for sale at my residence in the village of Arbovale, W. Va., on Tuesday March 23, 1920, the following property to-wit:

12 head ewes, will drop lambs about April first. 1 good Hampshire buck. 1 cow which will be fresh but is giving plenty of milk now.

About 15 hens.

One two horse wagon, 1 sled two pair single buggy harness, one pair heavy work harness, 1 pair single wagon harness, 2 collars, 1 pair spreaders and trees, 2 scythes and snathes, 2 log chains, forks, axes and hoes.

Some straw.

1 good sewing machine, 1 dresser, 2 stand tables, five bedsteads and springs, 1 lounge, 1 clock, 1 good range cooking stove, nearly new; one good dining table, lot of chairs, dishes and cooking utensils. A few potatoes, and a lot of otherthings too numerous to mention.

Terms: All sums of $5.00 and under, cash will be required. All sums over $5.00 a credit of four months will be given. Purchaser to give negotiable note with approved security and interest from date.

J. A. WENGER.

Ashford, Auctioneer.

Auction Sale

I will offer for sale at Hosterman on Saturday, March 20, 1920, all my personal property and farm implements. Sale begins at 10 o'clock A. M.

23 head of sheep
3 good cows, 1 to be fresh in May
1 two year old heifer
2 work horses
1 eight year old mare
1 three year old horse
2 brood sows
2 shoats
40 chickens, white leghorns
1 two horse wagon
1 mowing machine
1 hill side plow, 1 shovel plow, 1 harrow, 1 two horse sled, 1 sleigh, forks, hoes, rakes, 1 cider mill.

Other things to numerous to mention.

Terms: All sums of $5.00 and under cash, over that amount 6 months time with note bearing interest and approved security.

ADAM COLLINS
Hosterman, W. Va.

Leghorn Eggs

Thoroughbred S. C. Brown Leghorns—the laying chicken—of the best strain. 15 eggs for $1.00; by parcel post prepaid $1.25.

FRED GEHAUF,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Sawing Contractors

We have three sets now open and being stocked, running from 400,000 to one million feet each, which we would let contract to responsible parties owning their own rigs.

The timber is principally oak, white pine and chestnut.

Address, Meadow Mountain Lumber Company, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

TIMBER FOR SALE: A portable mill proposition estimated at about two million feet, consisting af about 75 percent whith oak, balance white pine, hemlock, chestnut, etc. This timber is standing within about four miles of a standard guaged railroad and we will make reasonable terms to responsible parties.

Range Lumber Compnny,
Deer Creek, W. Va.

WANTED:—Position on farm ar tenant or part crop. Can give best of references. Address Lock Box 48, Deer Creek, W. Va.

HOUSE FOR SALE:—A good large house on Lower Camden Avenue. Apply to W. W. Burns, Marlinton, W Va.

Farms in Pocahontas County For Sale

229 acres about 2 1-2 miles from Hosterman; about 160 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, lime stone land, splendid water; A good dwelling, large cattle barn, 36x88, new silo 12x30, stone cellar, good young orchard of about 200 bearing trees. Very rich and productive soil, wintering 57 head of cattle.

Price, $10,000. Terms, $5,000 cash and the residue to be paid to the Federal Land Bank, $3,500 00 of which bears interest at 5 per cent and $1,500.00 at 5 1-2 per cent.

233 acres, near Boyer, on main road to Bartow, 127 acres under cultivation, good building, splendid water, good orchard, near a church and in sight of school house.

Price $6,800.00. Terms: One third cash, residue in three equal payments to suit purchaser,

75 acres, about 2 1-2 miles from station, about 50 acres cleared, good fences, splendid dwelling, large barn, good orchard, near church and school

Price $2,800.00. Terms $1,000.00 cash, residue in six and twelve months.

72 acres, About 2 miles from stateon, close church and school, about 50 acres cleared in a good state of cultivation, good buildings, splendid water.

Price $2625.00 Terms: One third cash, residve in one and two years.

We have about one hundred farms listed for sale and a number of good lots in the town of Marlinton.

WARD REALTY COMPANY
Marlinton, W. Va.

FROST

Meade Curry has just finished his job of logging for the Warn Lumber Company.

Sheriff Gibson was in our community summoning people before the grandjury.

We are sorry to note the illness of Mrs. Clete Kelly; hope she will soon recover.

Harry Crigler, of Franklin, spent Saturday night here. He is buying a car load of horses.

Coe Beverage's family has been down with flu, but is better.

Brown and Mason, of Marlinton, were visiting our merchants last Thursday.

Three of E. G. Sharp's children are sick with flu.

Mike Mauzy, of Franklin, spent a night in town. He reports many cases of flu in Pendleton county.

Jacob Loury, who is doing a job of sawing for A. A. Sharp, is at home with his family near Huntersville, this week.

Mitchell Sharp, who bought a large tract of timber from Uriah Hevener and Bro. on Michael Mt., will commence at once to market it.

Mrs. H. H. Schofield, of Raywood, who has been ill of pneumonia, is slowly recovering.

Mrs. E. G. Sharp, who has been with her sister, Mrs Schofield, came home last Wednesday to be with her three children who are sick with flu. Her sister, Mrs. A. A. Sharp, is now with Mrs. Schofield.

Chas. Crickenberger, representing the Alderson Milling Company, spent Sunday in town.

Dr. Jordan, who has been sick the past week, is some better.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Shoemaker announce the birth if a daughter on the 29th day of February, nineteen hundred and twenty. Weight eight pounds.

George Jones, of near Charleston, who has been at the Marlinton Hospital the past three or four months with a broken leg, was able to go home on Monday. He got caught by a log in the Cheat lumber woods.

A. C. Cook, of Cincinnati, an auditor with a big coal company, was in Pocahontas last week. He is a son of the late Squire C. C. Cook, of Edray, who taught in the schools of the county for so many years. Mr. Cook tells us his uncle John A. Taylor, is spending the winter in Florida.

Notice to Road Contractors

The undersigned Road Engineer for Pocahontas County, West Virginia, will attend at the following times and places for the purpose of receiving sealed proposals for the upkeep of the several sections of Class B roads of said County.

EDRAY DISTRICT

Linwood, Friday, March 26, a. m.
Cloverlick, Saturday March 26 p. m.
Office at Marlinton open every day.

HUNTERSVILLE DISTRICT

Huntersville, Saturday March 27

LITTLE LEVELS DISTRICT

Hillsboro, Monday, March 29.

Plans and specifications can be had by applying to the undersigned Road Engineer. All proposals will be passed upon by the County Court of Pocahontas county, the right being reserved to reject any or all bids.

F. C. BAXTER.
County Road Engineer.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

State of West Virginia
Pocahontas County, to-wit:

At Rules held in the Clerk's Office far the Circuit Couot of Pocahontas County, on the first Monday in March, 1920.

F. S. Wise, Plaintiff
V:
Abel Hedric & Rueben Thomas, Defendants

The object of this suit is to enforce a vendor's lien against two tracts of land in Greenbank District containing 126 acres and 69 acres, respectively conveyed by the plaintiff to the defendant February 22nd, 1916. and for general relief.

This day came the plaintiff by his attorney and upon his motion, and it appearing by affidavit filed that defendant Rueben Thomas, is a nonresident of the State of West Virginia; it is therefore ordered that he do appear here within one month after the date of the first publication hereof, and do what is necessary to protect his interest in this suit.

Teste:

G. W. Sharp, Clerk.

Andrew Price, Sol.

Sale of Lands

Pursuant to authority vested in me by a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, rendered on the 9th day of October, 1919, in the chancery cause of Uriah Bird, Commissioner of School Lands v. E. D. Burner et als.

I will proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, in front of the court house at Marlinton, W. Va., on the a tract of twenty-three acres, another tract of eleven acres and fifty poles, and another tract of forty-six acres, all near Cass in Greenbank District, and five lots in the town of Cass, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, all of which were delinquent for taxes for 1914, in the name of E. D. Burner and purchased by the State, and decreed as of the date aforesaid to be sold.

6TH DAY OF APRIL, 1920

The title to said property is clear, and if sold the purchaser will receive a good title.

URIAH BIRD.
Comm'r. School Lands.
H. S. Rucker, Atty. By Counsel.

Raw Furs

The reason we have such a good trade in raw furs, is because we give a good honest grade and the best price we can pay. We again solicit the patronage of Raw Fur Shippers and trappers, we think it will be to your advantage to let us handle your furs. Yours very respectfully,

L. D. SHARP.
Slatyfork W. Va.

Valuable farm for Sale

I will sell my farm of 164 acres adjoining the town of Greenbank. New ten room house with all necessary outbuildings; two barns and two silos. Near to High school, churches stores, &c. J. R. GUM, Greenbank, W. Va.

Notice

By April 1, 1920, I will have to close my store at Arbovale, W. Va., and move my stock of goods elsewhere. To avoid transportation, I will sell some of my goods at reduced prices. Many things will be BARGAINS. In view of the H. C. L. it will pay you to investigate, I have in stock, flour, feed, hardware, groceries, dry goods and notions, everything in an up-to-date country store Spring is at your doors. Come in, and buy your spring goods. Reduced prices, will be cash or trade only. I will also kindly ask that all who have an account here, will please make satisfactory settlement, not later than March 25, 1920.

J. HAMED
Arbovale West Va.

Auction Sale

Having rented my farm I will offer for sale

at 1 o'clock p. m. March 27. 1920 on the Alex Sharp place two miles north of Warwick, W. Va., the following personal property:

8 cows, 5 to be fresh
1 two year old steer
1 two year old heifer
31 head ewes to have lambs
1 buck, 6 shoats, 1 sow
50 chickens
2 stacks hay; a lot of straw in barn
4 sides meat; about 60 bu. wheat
1 buggy and harness
1 new sleigh
About 18,000 feet of lumber
1 iron kettle; 1 brass kettle
1 range stove; 2 heating stoves
1 cream separator
1 8 gallon patent churn
1 kitchen cabinet; 1 sideboard
2 dining tables; 1 dresser
3 bedsteads; 2 matrrsses
2 graphophone, 30 records, 1 guitar
Orher things too numerous to mention.

All sums under $10 cash; over $10 eight months note with interest and approved security.

MRS. ESCO JOHNSOM,
Warwick, W. Va.

No Trespassing

All persons are notified not to trespass on the enclosed lands of the undersigned in any way, especially by hunting and setting traps.

B. McClung,
Cloverlick, W. Va.

A. C. BRANSFORD,
REAL ESTATE BROKER
Hillsboro, W. Va.
Farm and timber lands specialty. Have farms for sale in Greenbrier, Pocahontas and Randolph Counties

Auction Sale

I will sell at public auction to the highest bidder at my residence 2 miles south of Greenbank and 4 miles northeast of Cass, on

Thursday, March 25, 1920

The following property to-wit:

2 good work mares, 7-8 yrs old,
2 good milk cows, will be fresh soon
2 hogs weigh about 100 lbs each;
1 Bradley 5 ft cut mowing machine
1 Bradley 10 ft hay rake,
1 2 horse cultizator,
1 John Deer Disk harrow,
1 spike tooth harrow,
1 spring tooth harrow,
1 two horse plow, 1 shovel plow.
1 big sled. 1 2 horse wagon,
1 long runabout, 1 buggy,
1 pair double harness,
1 set buggy harness
1 Wilburne saddle, 1 boy's saddle,
1 ladies' side saddle, 2 riding bridles
4 halters, 1 dray, 1 corn marker
1 pair spreaders, 1 pr double trees,
5 pole and yoke for buggy,
8 forks of all kind, 3 hand rakes,
1 grain cradle. 1 pr wagon ladders
1 hay knife, seed corn,
1 pr wire stretchers,
1 cutting knife and box, log chains, hauling chains, cant hooks. crabs couplers, drills, shovels, picks, mallocks, chains, barrels, kegs and all kind of small tools, will also sell what grain and hay I have on day of sale.

TERMS—All sums under $10 cash all sums of $10 or over a credit of 6 months will be given purchaser giving note with approved security bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent. interest from date, no property to be moved until settled for.

W. W. ARBOGAST,
Auctioneer Frank Ashford.

For Sale

One good building 54 feet square, has a good galvanized roof and good lumber in it, would make a good barn; one large building that was used for dry lumber shed, would make good barn for hay.

One lot of edger saw, lath mill and bolter saw, also slasher saws.
40 dozen cant hook handles.
2 stand office desks, with stools.
3 one quart lubricators
1 No. 1 Burnside stove nearly new.
1 lot of second hand pipe 2 1-2 3 & 4 inch.

For further information write or call on

Thorny Creek Lumber Co.
Thornwood, W. Va.

Grinding

Any one wanting any feed ground or cracked, see me at my mill on Fridays and Saturdays. Also feed for sale.

CAM ADKISON
Mill in Payne Addition
Hillsboro, W. Va

Lost or Mislaid

Policy No. 594029 issued by The Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, on the life of Charles M. Kincaid. The finder will please return it to the undersigned. An application has been made for the issuing of a duplicate.

(Sign) C. M. Kincaid,
6w (Address) Marlinton, W. Va.

Farm For Sale

Two miles from Woodrow postoffice 158 acres on the waters of Stony Creek. From 75 to 100 acres improved. Three barns good 10 room house, celar, outbuildings, water in house, good never failing spring, two good apple orchards, both bearing. Also pears, grapes and plums, good sugar orchard with house fixtures, and some good saw timber. Any one wishing to buy a farm will do well to call and see, W. E. BAXTER,
Woodrow, W. Va.

Silos and Farm Machinery

I have the agency for the INDIANA SILOS for Pocahontas County. Any one interested will write or call me on the phone and I will come and see you. W. R. Sutton will work the up der end of county. He will be glad to be at your service.

I also sell a full line of Emerson-Brantingham Farm Machinery. Let your wants be known. Discount to early Silos buyers.

CHAS. SHINABERRY
Cloverlick, W. Va.

Kills Rats

and mice—that's RAT-SNAP, the old reliable rodent destroyer. Comes in cakes—no mixing with other food. Your money back if it fails.

25c. size (1 cake) enough for Pantry, Kitchen or Cellar.
50c. size 2 cakes for chicken house, coops, or small buildings.
$1.00 size 5 cakes enough for all farm ane out-buildings, storage buildings. or factory buildings.
Sold and guaranteed by
PEOPLES STORE & SUPPLY CO.

All Car Owners

Know the high cost of Tyres and continued trouble of patching blowouts in the mud which so often happens when the tyre becomes weak. Stop this trouble by using Insyde Tyres which are guarantee to double the mileage of any tyre in which they are used at about one-fourth cost of new tyres.

Insyde Tyres are absolutely blowout proof. Give them a trial and realize the saving in money, time and trouble. If interested write me.

L. C. IRVIN,
Insyde Tyre Distributor,
Warwick, W. Va.

ATTORNEYS

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

H. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Old Furniture Bought. Repair work and mission furniture.

DR. M. N. McKEE,
DENTIST
Camden Ave. Marlinton, W. Va.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

R. B. SLAVIN
Heating, Plumbing and Sheet Metal Work. Best materials. 17 years experience.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Dr. C. S. Kramer Dr. E. G. Herold
KRAMER & HEROLD
DENTISTS
Marlinton, W. Va.
1st National Building. Phone.

M. F. GUM
AUCTIONEER
Marlinton, W. Va.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specialty of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

W. A. BARLOW
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Onoto, W. Va.
Phone or write, prompt attention to all calls.

Dr. E. R. McIntosh

SPECIALIST

In diseases of the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat

Eyes Examined Glasses Fitted

Equipped hospital rooms for Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat. Work in connection with offices. Private Nurse in attendance.

10, 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15 Cobb Bldl,
ELKINS, W. VA.
Hours 9 to 5 daily Evenings 7 to 8
Sundays 12 to 2 p. m.
Correspondence Solicited.

Z. S. Smith

UNDERTAKER AND LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA
LIVERY AND FEED STABLE
Rigs to suit all occasions. Promp and satisfactory service guaranteed.

Beman Produce Co.

WHOLESALE PRODUCE
(Denning Livery Building.)
RONCEVERTE, W. VA.

Offer the Best Market and the Highest Cash, Price for your Produce

Butter, Eggs, Chickens, Turkeys, Wool, Hides, Furs and Ginseng.

Flour, feed

I have opened a general feed supply store in the old Shoemaker Stand, and will keep in stock at all times Flour, Feed, Corn meal, Salt, Fertilizer, Coal and Oil.

See me before buying.

T. H. HINER,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Rats Die

so do mice, once they eat RAT-SNAP. And they leave no odor behind, Don't take our word for it—try a package. Cats and dogs won't touch it. Rats pass up all food to get RAT-SNAP. Three sizes.

25c. size [1 cake] enough for Pantry, Kitchen or Cellar.
50c. size [2 cakes] for Chicken house coops, or small buildings.
$1.00 size [5 cakes] enough for all frrm and out-buildings, storage buildings, or factory buildings.
Sold and guaranteed by
PEOPLES STORE & SUPPLY CO

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XL NO 29 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, MARCH 2, 1922 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

FAIR GROUNDS PURCHASED

The Executive Committee of the Pocahontas County Fair has purchased the farm of Pat Gay, to be used for the permanent site of the county Fair. This is the old Levi Gay homestead. It consists of 127 1-4 acres of land, 67 of which is bottom land and as level as a floor. It lies on the west side of the river, above Stony Creek, and is one mile and a half from the county bridge. The consideration was $12,000.

A more ideal site would be hard to imagine. For nearly a mile it fronts on the Greenbrier River; it is convenient to the railroad; it is not far from a macadam road. There are houses and barns which will serve the purposes of the Fair.

The plans of the committee for preparing the grounds are comprehensive. A half mile track forty feet broad will be made, and a substantial fence put around it. Beside the track will be a place for parking automobiles, and immediately behind will be a roadway, to allow cars to come and go at will.

There are three living springs on the place. These will be cemented up, and will furnish good water. If more is needed for stock or fire protection, the river is but a few yards away.

It is the idea of the committee that this farm should be put in charge of a competent, intelligent man to work under the direction of the County Agricultural Agent. Thus it would become a profitable proposition in addition to demonstrating to our farmers the crops fitted for our climate and soils and their proper cultivation.

The question of transportation to and from Marlinton will be taken care of. A flag station on the railroad will be asked for immediately opposite to and a few hundred yards from the grounds. The fare will be ten cents each way. In addition a line of jitneys will be run during the fair to and from the main street of the town, the fare to be 10 cents a passenger each way.

It is expected to arrange a bathing beach and other picnic ground appurtenances for the use of the people generally. Any organization like a Sunday School, church, lodge or community party looking for a pleasant place for an outing will find what they want here. There is one of the finest swimming holes of Greenbrier river, pleasant fields, shady banks and sandy beaches.

It is expected, too, that the boys and girls farm clubs will hold their outings and camps here.

With the completion of hard roads through the county, a throng of automobile tourists may be expected all summer long. Many of them carry camping outfits with them, and every up todate city is providing free camping places for them in their parks. Our fair grounds will serve this purpose.

Then, too, it may be that parties from a distance would like to spend fair week in tents at Marlinton. There is an abundance of room for this purpose, and all the charge made would be a season ticket for each member of the party.

As one thinks and writes about it, he becomes enthusiastic over the possibilities of the proposition as a picnic ground for the people of the Greenbrier Valley.

The date of the 1922 Fair has been set for August 22, 23, 24 and 25th.

SMITH--MC CORMICK

One of the prettiest weddings of of the season was solemnized Monday evening at the Edray parsonage when Miss Robbie McCormick of Marlinton became the bride of George Smith. Only a few intimate friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony.

The bride was attired in a very becoming suit of brown duvetyn trimmed in gray fur with accessories to correspond. She wore a corsage bouquet of bride's roses.

They left after the ceremony for Elkins, Cumberland and other points. They will also visit the groom's relatives at Thomas, W. Va., after which they will be at home at Marlinton.

This worthy young couple have the congratulations and best wishes of their many friends for a long, successful and happy married life. L.

Mrs C. R. Evans and Mrs. J. L. Hogsett accompanied the Smith-McCormick wedding party to Durbin on Tuesday.

MILLION DOLLARS FIRE

Big Wood Working Plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Cass destroyed last Friday morning.

The big mill, storage house, planing mill and dry kiln of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, at Cass, was burned last Friday morning, February 24. The loss entailed will perhaps be a million dollars. There is some insurance.

The fire originated in the planing mill, spreading to the big band saw mill to the big storage house and then to the drying plant. After a time the pumps were put out of commission by the fire, and the lumber in the immense yard was saved by hard and effective fighting. The cause of the fire is not known.

This plant was the largest industry of the Greenbrier Valley, and perhaps the biggest and best equipped wood working plant in the State of West Virginia. Around it the big and prosperous town of Cass has grown. The mill has been in operation day and night, but was not running at the time of the fire on account of a temporary shortage of logs.

In the storage house was about a hundred carloads of the finest kind of finished hardwood lumber, mostly flooring. This was one of the largest items of the loss.

The planing mill was equipped with modern woodworking machinery, all new, and a great deal of it only installed in the past few months. Some of it was put in just the day before the fire.

The dry kiln was a new building of steel and concrete construction and filled with the best of hard wood lumber. It was an immense structure, and had been but recently completed.

A more disastrous fire to Greenbrier Valley could not well be imagined. It was the biggest of our industrial plants and running full time and extra time. It was the permanent lumber operation of the Valley, and in the past year or two had been equipped throughout with up-to-date machinery. For over twenty years the mill has run steadily.

The company has not made public its plans for future as regarding the rebuilding.

The West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company owns about two hundred thousand acres of timber and coal lands in Pocahontas, Randolph and Webster counties. They operate a railroad system, the Greenbrier, Cheat and Elk Railroad: a number of coal mines, and supply the big paper mills at Covington with pulp wood from their holdings in Pocahontas and adjoining counties.

THE TENTH LEGION

At the coming election there will be two places to fill in the senatorships from the Tenth District, composed of Pocahontas County and Webster, Braxton, Gilmer, and Calhoun. One for the full term to succeed Senator Morton, who is not offering for re-election, and the other for a short term to succeed Senator Shackleford, who recently departed this life.

Pocahontas County has never been honored by having a resident senator since the days when this abnormal district was formed. Many years ago we tried to secure a nomination for a county man, and got into one of the hottest fights that the world ever saw. Our candidate at that time was the Hon. L. M. McClintic, and the way that he was butchered to make a Northwest Holiday has stuck in our craws ever since.

It would be a fine act if the Northwest would make reparation for that rebuff, by giving one of the nominations to this county, and it would be even more equitable if they named Mr. McClintic, who is still with us, strong and hearty, standing like a tower of strength, four-square to all the winds that blow.

The next meeting of the reading circle, Greenbank District. will be held at Greenbank, Saturday afternoon, March 11, 1922 at 1:30. Chapters one to twelve, Healthy Living, have been assigned for study. Come with well prepared lessons, please.

Bertie McLaughlin,
Mrs. Sidney Wilson.

A cloud of witnesses and attorneys went to Elkins Monday for the third trial of B. L. Galford, for the killing of the late George W. Duncan.

THE FARM BUREAU

The annual meeting of the Pocahontas County Farm Bureau was held at Marlinton last Saturday afternoon. Henry W. Beard was reelected president; W. L. Price, secretary and John A. Young, treasurer. Among those present were H. W. Beard, E. L. Smith, Calvin May, Poe Welford, A. W Hill, W. A. Barlow, O. B. Mann, Calvin W. Price, J. A. Young, J. R. Hevener, E F Mc Laughlin, Foley Morrison, T. H. Sheets, H. C. C. Willey, R M. Beard, F. P. Kidd, Geo A. C Auldridge, J. B. Buckley, W. A McLaughlin, B. F. E. Wooddell, L J Moore, Prof. Grier, Mrs. Fred Hefner, Mrs. P. R. Overholt, Miss Bertha Overholt, Mrs. Frank Echols, Miss Elizabeth Hill, Miss Anna Correll, Miss Mary Eskridge, Mike O'Ferrell and W. J. Yeager.

The membership was fixed at $2 a year. County Agent H. C. C. Willey outlined a program of work for himself that to say the least is comprehensive, and in carrying it out he is laible to work himself into an early grave. The program is appended.

J. B. McLaughlin, of Braxton County. of the State Farm Bureau, was present and made the speech. He outlined the things the farmer must do and is doing for himself through cooperation—more economical marketing of his products and buying his supplies, more consideration of farm business and farm problems at the hands of national law makers, and more equitable farm tax laws be the state legislature. Mr. McLaughlin is a fine figure of a man, evidently belonging to our own Mc Laughlin clan. He is a farmer by choice—a real honest to goodness dirt farmer.

The farmer through the instrumentality of the Farm Bureau, is beginning to assert himself and is becoming the power in the land. Note what has been accomplished by the Agricultural Bloc in the United States Senate composed of Democrats from the South and Republicans and Democrats from the West. The farmer has been the goat of the political and special privileged interests so long, that his sudden demand for a square deal has been a painful surprise to the powers that were.

Here are some of the things which County Agent Willey expects to occupy his time this year.

Business Plans

1. Warehouse with permanent purchasing and selling agent to organize one or more cooperative warehouse societies.
2. Cooperative purchase of fertilizer from the W. Va. Farm Bureau Federation and to secure local men to handle the fertilizer for their respective communities.
3. Cooperative potato marketing to secure the potato specialist to obtain a market.
4. Cooperative livestock marketing—to organize one or more cooperative livestock marketing associations in time to market this year's lambs.
5. Community dipping vats.

Cattle Improvement

1. To replace all grade and scrub bulls with good purebreds by 1926.
2. To foster the purchase of registered cattle.
3. To conduct beef and cattle feeding demonstrations,—a wintering calves. b. wintering yearling steers.

Sheep Improvement

1. To replace all grade and scrub rams with good pure breds by 1926.
2. To foster the purchase of registered sheep.
3. To secure the sheep specialist to give sheep shearing and wool handling demonstrations.

Poultry Improvement

1. To replace all mixed and poorly bred flocks with good standard bred poultry by 1926.
2. To construct one demonstration poultry house in each district of the county.
3. To secure the poultry extension specialist to conduct poultry culling damonstrations.

Pasture Improvement

To conduct one pasture improvement demonstration in each district of the county.

Potato Improvement

1. Spraying demonstrations.
2. Potato extension.
3. To standardize varieties.

4-H. Clubs

1. To organize and provide suitable leadership for 4-H clubs where ever advisable.
2. To hold a 4-H Camp
3. To procure a permanent camp site and buildings.
4. Calf club project—to continue work already started
5. Pig project—to organize a pig club project.

County Fair

To cooperate with the local fair association.

Pocahontas County Hereford Breeder's Association

To cooperate with the organization.

Membership

1. To secure at least 150 members for the fiscal year.
2. To collect Farm Bureau Membership dues when fertilizer is sold.
3. To advertise more extensively the work that the Farm Bureau is doing.
4. To hold a membership campaign with the assistance of local leaders.

The L. L. girls' class of the Methodist Sunday School, taught by Miss Bertha Overholt, will hold a candy sale at C. J. Richardson's store Friday afternoon March 3rd, at 3:30.

County Court next Tuesday and a special grandjury term of the circuit court next Wednesday March 8.

"BURNS OF THE MOUNTAINS"

Founded University on Little Else But Faith.

President of Oneida Institute to Tell Gripping Story of the Re making of His People

President Burns of Onedia Institute, who is to lecture here on the evening of March 10 at eight o'clock is a true mountaineer. He comes from that section where today rugged and plain honesty prevails.

"He is horny-handed from severe struggles and battle-scarred from righteous fights," said an admiring critic some time ago. "He is a real colenel of true manhood. He speaks from an honest heart and an upright purpose. Mr. Burns, above all, is sincere. He is not a pretender—he practices what he preaches. His lecture refreshes one as does the pure cool breeze from the mountain."

Burns is by long odds the most unique and interesting figure on the American platform today. His story is a real romance of the Southlands, if ever there was one.

"Up in the solid rock" of faith Burns founded and actually built a University which today is a thriving institution working wonders among the poor boys and girls of the illiterate backwoods regions of Kentucky. He had no money, but he had an ideal. And he had God given courage and strength of character and a determination that would have moved mountains. For Burns, therefore the building of Oneida was but an incident in his interesting life.

The ideal—well Burns had watched the bloody feuds of the hills men and something had whispered to him that education would stamp out this running sore which had for generations infested the hill sections of Kentucky. Through education he planted the seeds of Christian charity and brotherly love in their hearts—and he wiped out the feuds once and for all. His story of the long battle for success—but wait until you hear it, for Burns himself is coming soon.

Hear him at the High School Friday evening, March 10th, at eight o'clock. This is the fourth number of the High School Lecture Course.

MRS. MARY GATEWOOD DEAD

Mrs. Mary Warwick Gatewood died at her home at Linwood on Friday morning, February 17, 1922 after an illness of a few weeks. Her age was about 75 years.

Mrs. Gatewood was the wife of the late Colonel A. C. L. Gatewood, and a daughter of the late Judge and Mrs. James James W. Warwick of Bath County. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. John Dunlap, and her sons, Eugene, Massie, William and Andrew. Another daughter, Mrs. W. T. Cameron, died a number of years ago.

Funeral services were conducted at Linwood on Sunday by her pastor, Rev. O. N. Miles, of the Presbyterian church, and she was buried by the grave of her late husband.

Thus we note the passing of a beautiful and useful life. From girlhood she had been a working christian a member of the church of her fathers, the Presbyterian.

"Her children arise up and call her blessed, her husband also, and he praiseth her. Many daughters have done virtuously, but thou excelleth them a ."

Mrs. Mary Warwick Gatewood of Linwood, was called home to rest on February 17, 1922 at the ripe age of 74 years 2 months and 2 days.

Mrs. Gatewood was born at Warm Springs, Virginia. Dec 15, 1847, where she lived until she married Col. A C L Gatewood in 1869. They then lived at Mountain Grove until 1879 at which time they moved to Linwood, West Virginia, where she lived to the time of her death.

She is survived by four sons and one daughter, Eugene, and Mrs. John Dunlap of Linwood; Willie and Massey of Huntington, and Andrew of Pulaski, Va., and ten grand children.

Besides the relatives her departure is mourned by a host of friends, for having given her heart to the Lord Jesus early in life, she lived a life that endeared her to all who came in contact with her; her one thought seemed ever to be for others. Surely her life was a mirror of Him who went about doing good.

On Feb. 19th. after services at the Church, the mortal remains were laid to rest in the Varner cemetery beside those of her husband to await the great resurrection morn.

"And I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Write, Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them."

O. N. M.

In the short month of February there were 16 inches of snow, according to the report of S L Brown, local weather observer. There was 9.5 inches on the ground the 15th. The rainfall, including the snow was 5 49 inches. Rain or snow on 16 days. 1 clear day, 17 partly cloudy and 10 cloudy. Greatest fall in 24 hours 1 10 inches on the 1st and 2nd. Mean temperature for the month was 31.5 degrees; coldest 6 below on the 17th, and hottest 62 on 23rd. Dense fogs on 21, 22 and 23.

Report of Green Hill school for fifth month, Gladys G White, teacher—Pupils making perfect attendance this month were, Mary Vanreenan, Glenna McLaughlin, Goldie Wooddell, Ada Woodell, Glen Moore, Layton Sharp, Loy Sharp, Dorsey Sharp, Ivan Woodell, Dolpha Sharp.

THE CANDIDATES

County politics for the 1922 season are formally opened this week with the announcements of Hon. E. N. Moore, of Dunmore, and Hon. J. A. McLaughlin, of Marlinton, as candidates for the Democratic nomination for the House of Delegates. The primary election will be held in August. Mr. Moore is at present a member of the legislature. He is one of our best citizens, a big farmer, a church officer, and a former sheriff of the county. He carried the county by a wonderful majority in the Republican year of 1920. While the last session of the legislature was notorious, Mr. Moore's record in it is a good one, standing with the few other members of his party in a futile protest against squandering the people's money. His friends just naturally feel that after his experience in the last legislature, they would like to see him given the opportunity to sit in a legislature the majority of whose members will work for the public rather than the party.

Mr. McLaughlin is not an untried man in the legislature business. He served a very useful term in a Democratic legislatutre in the good old days of ten or eleven years ago when we paid our direct State taxes with a 1c levy. He is a native son, a self made man, an officer in his church, a prosperous business man, and a desirable citizen in every respect. He will make his influence felt in any assemblage, and the varied experiences of his business career give him a clear insight into the needs of the people in the matter of law making. He has taught school, worked in the lumber camps, traveled as a salesman and is now in the wholesale grocery business.

STAMPING CREEK

Sugar making is the order of the day at present.

Rev. K. D. Swecker preached a fine sermon here Sunday afternoon

Some of the boys have come in from Cranberry and report work very scarce now.

Mrs. J. B. Grimes is very sick with rheumatism at this time.

Our new telephone linesman, Henry Poage, is improving the lines very much.

Penic and Winters Rose are at home from Yelk where they have been working.

Misses Mary Grimes and Eva Hefner are preparing to take the examination for diplomas in March.

The Grimes school is progressing nicely with Miss Jessie McFerrin, teacher.

DURBIN

Mrs. Virginia C. Burner has been very sick for three weeks.

Miss Emma Burner who is teaching the Cherry Grove school was at home with her mother for two weeks, has returned to her school work: her mother is better.

Some flu in our town but not dangerous yet but bad enough as it is.

Mrs. Leslie Ryder is very sick at Nottingham.

Our road has about gone down since the rainy season came in. The Class A road will be finished in a month if the weather permits. This road will be a great benefit to our end of the county.

J. P. Townsend and son are cutting logs for a mill set on the west side of Greenbrier river. We will soon have some lumber near town.

R. Helm. of Oakland, Md., was with us last week.

The Greenbank teachers' round table met here last Saturday and all report a good time and some fine speeches and educational talk.

J F Ashford of Greenbank, was in town last week on business. Also Sheriff B. B. Beard, and F. K. Moore

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. John M Thomas, a fine boy.

We are sorry to hear that George M Sutton is very sick a Greenbank.

J. H. Sydenstricker has resigned as Monroe county road engineer because the county court has turned down his bill of $73 for cleaning up the field of Robert Burdette, after the grading of the Wolf Creek road. Mr. Sydenstricker says that in order to save the county the ten per cent over cost allowed the contractors for extras, he hired men to do the work and the bill was disallowed.—W. Va. News.

Announcements

HOUSE OF DELEGATES

Editor Pocahontas Times—

At the request of my many friends, I have decided to make the race for House of Delegates, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Standing on my past record as a member of that body and promising if elected again to stand by and for the interest of Pocahontas County and the State, I solicit your support.

Yours Respectfully,
J. A. McLAUGHLIN.

This paper is authorized to announce E. N. MOORE a candidate for re election to the House of Delegates, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

PLOWS

We are handling a nice line of Syracuse Plows and repairs, also shelf hardware, nails; etc.

THE PEOPLES STORE SUPPLY CO.

Ranges and Furnaces

We Sell

Jewel Ranges

—and—

Hot Air Furnaces

also

Florence Oil Cookers

None of these are excelled, see us when in need of anything in this line.

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.

MARLINTON, W. VA.

"WE DELIVER THE GOODS"

SITLINGTON

The President of Normalcy evidently got hold of a copy of the Times because the empty wood racks were taken away and the Local Freight stopped here again last week and unloaded so much freight that we were shocked, surprised and humiliated because we had to do some work after living the life of a Republican Office holder for so long that we forgot to get the old Underwood out and peck off the Sitlington news.

Now we have made a statement that we will have to correct. We said we had been living the life of a Republican Office holder, but we mean as far as the work end of it is concerned. If the said Republican office holder didn't get any more per for his work than we do he wouldn't run around the country hollerin' for votes.

While we are on the subject of politics there are two State Senators to be elected from this district this year. Now folks lets take the POKE out of Pocahontas and select some feller that has did the same thing to himself and make him a State Senator, this County has never furnished a State Senator since the formation of the district in 1902, we are entitled to one and now is the time to get him. Get busy now and let's show those other counties in the District what we have over here.

It is certainly surprising how many people there was that knew so much more about how to run the Railroads than McAdoo, and what we can't understand is that Harding don't let them try their hand at it.

Somebody over at Dunmore woke up last week long enough to write a a few items, and incidentally show their jealously of Sitlington, about the only difference between Sitlington and Dunmore is three and seven tenths miles.

Hon. J. A. McLaughlin was in town Monday, he is going to be our next Representative in the House of Delegates.

W. W. Nottingham, Carl Nottingham and Robert Walker have returned from the Sweeney Auto School at Kansas City.

Hunter Adams is building an auto out of some scrap iron.

There now seems to be too much Bone in Congress to pass the the Bonus. Harding wants to deflate us some more and make the Soldier give back Via the Sales Tax and Poor old Congress wants to be re-elected, and with the stain of that Newberry on them and other devilment they are afraid a sales tax would be too much, our advice to Congress is "go the limit while you can" there is nothing that will save you anyway.

The last Legislature created so many new jobs they have to call an extra session of the Legislature to Tax us to pay them. "Get the money Boys" get it while you can, we will take ours in votes this fall.

The trial of B. L. Galford began at Elkins on Wednesday morning.

Schuchats Department Store
Marlinton, West Virginia

Store News

New Things On Display
This Week

Particularly Interesting Among The New Arrivals

New Dresses, coats and suits. Fashions latest revelations in these New Spring Garments.

New Millinery, ready-to-wear New York interpretation of Spring Styles.

New Oxfords, Patent Lace, Brown Calf Strap and Black Kid, Low and Military Heels.

New Wool-Jersey, The acknowledged hit of the season, beautiful soft dress weight. Fashioned from French Spunyarn.

New Silks, Crepe de Chine, Canton Crepes, Wash Satins in all the New Spring shades.

New Blouses, they are arriving daily, attractive models for all occasions, fairly priced.

New Ginghams, Wash Goods, Cretones, Curtian Goods, Longcloth, Flaxons Voiles, Linens, Toweling, Etc.

New Children and Misses' Ginghams, dresses pretty patterns, new styles.

New Men's, Caps, Hats, Oxfords Shoes, Shirts, Ties and Suits.

Here's the Reason

We are spending our money to bring some direct truths to the attention of our people, because we believe it means the improvement of this section of the country. and we will certainly participate in the increased business which naturally follows.

We want to help, and we believe good roads and good transportation facilities is the place to begin.

We can render every banking service--all under same roof.

First National Bank
MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA
The Bank of Security and Service.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XL NO 30 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, MARCH 9, 1922 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

METHODIST CAMPAIGN

for Subscriptions to Church Building Fund

We are Going Over the Top at $60,000.00

Come on, ye Methodists, put in your subscriptions; have a part in this big event

Preaching on Thursday night, Friday night, Sunday morning and night by Rev. S. R. Neel, of Alderson, West Virginia.
The public is cordially invited to attend these services.
No embarrassment for any one in the solicitation of subscriptions.

HEREFORD ASSOCIATION

The annual meeting of the Pocahontas County Hereford Breeder's Association was held at Mr. Stillwell's store at Hillsboro, Saturday afternoon.

F. P. Kidd, secretary of the organization, in reviewing the past year's work, stated that the association had done considerable advertising to let people over the state know that Pocahontas County is a center for registered polled Hereford Cattle of merit. Also, that they had taken an active part in the calf club project. The association is now fitting show cattle for the Pocahontas County Fair, the Greenbrier Valley Fair, and the Clarksburg Sale. It is also planned to erect a dipping vat for cattle, sheep hogs, and horses, according to specifications given out by the U S. Department of Agriculture. One farmer present stated that he did not propose to feed lice another year.

An amendment to the by-laws concerning membership fees was made, namely, an enrollment fee of $5.00 and 25 cents per head on each animal either registered or elligible for registration, and an annual fee of 25 cents per head thereafter. As the by-laws previously read a membership fee of $5.00 would be charged each year.

Officers were elected as follows: President, D. M. Callison; Vice-President, A. C. Barlow; Sec. & Treas. F P. Kidd. The directors are: J. M. Cutlip, J. S McNeel, and Elmer Poage.

If you are a breeder of registered Hereford cattle in Pocahontas County, it is your duty to further their extension by joining hands with this Association. Apply to F. P. Kidd for particulars.

The association will hold their next meeting April 15th at 2 o'clock in the High School Auditorium. B. F. Creech, extension beef cattle specialist, will address the meeting. All farmers are invited to attend this meeting whether members or not.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. F. B. Wyand, Pastor.
Sunday School 9:45, prompt.
A. S. Overholt, Superintendent.
Morning Service, 11 o'clock.
Epworth League, 7 o'clock
Evening Service, 7-45 o'clock

Rev. S. R. Neel, of Alderson, will be in charge of the servicos. The pastor will be at Alderson,

This Sunday is Missionary Rally Day in the Sunday School.

COUNTY COURT

Counny Court was in session Tuesday with commissioners Barlow, Hannah and Williams present.

E C. Smith and Mrs Fred Pritchard qualified as notaries.

Will of James H. Weiford probated

Resignation of Brown Miller, constable, accepted.

Settlement of fiduciary accounts of the estates of J. D. Barlow and H. H. Saddler.

J. E. Baker granted restaurant license.

J. S. McNeel appointed guardian of Lucile McNeel.

A. C. Barlow appointed road commistioner of Edrao District; Ellis McCarty in Levels; Mitchell Sharp in Huntersville, and Frank Echols, engineer, and Leslie Beard for Greenbank.

A claim for $604 damages for right of way by N. C. Rodgers rejected by the court.

J M McClure given $4 additional allowance for March and April.

Court will be in session on Monday April 3.

The Court ordered that old road from Arbovale to where it intersects with new road on J. W. Riley's land be kept open.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.
Sunday School, 9:45 a. m.

11:00 a. m. Preaching, "The Investment of Life."

7:00 p. m. C. E. Leader—Miss Helen Hunter.

7:45 .. m. Preaching, "How to be Rich."

There will be a congregational meeting following the morning service to act on the budget for the coming year. The annual Every Member Canvass will be conducted Sunday March 19th.

The pastor of this church will preach at Upper Swago on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Overcomers Class of the Methodist Sunday School, taught by Mrs. Wyand, will hold a candy and cake sale at C. J Richardson's Store, Saturdap afternoon March 11, beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard VanReenan at Onoto, Mrrch 3. 1922 a daughter.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs Preston Moore, Onoto March 3, a daughter.

GALFORD ACQUITTED

At the Elkins Court last week, the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty in the case of Brown L. Galford, who was being tried for the killing of George W. Duncan. This case was taken to Randolph County from Pocahontas County. This was the third time the case was tried. The first trial at Marlinton resulted in a verdict of second degree murder, and a sentence of 15 years was imposed. The Supreme Court granted the defendant a rehearing. The second trial was at Elkins on a change of venue and the jury failed to agree on a verdict.

On the night of November 11, 1919, Brown L. Galford was a policeman of the town of Marlinton. He attempted to arrest George W. Duncan. Duncan resisted, and in the mixup he was shot and killed.

THE HARP SINGERS

The Harp Singers, who will appear in Marlinton at eight o'clock, Wednesday evening, March 15th bring to Lyceum a refreshing novelty feature that has won instantaneous favor everywhere during the past season. Four charming artists, delightfully costumed, feature the street songs of Italy. And their artistic presentation the Italian Harp as it is commonly called, plays a prominent part.

The Harp Singers place importance on the singing part of their program and Lyceum folks will enjoy a splendid vocal program when they appear here. In addition to vocal numbers, both solo and ensemble work, there are readings and harp solos on the program.

The personnel of this organization is as follows:

Katherine Vore, contralto, harpist and reader.

Ella Banta, alto.

Florence Goddard, soprano.

Margaret Dudley, reader and second soprano.

This company will appear as the fourth number of the High School Lecture Course. The original date for their appearance was March 20th but the Bureau has found it necessary to change the date to the 15th.

The program will start promptly at eight o'clock. Admission 50 and 75 cents.

SITLINGTON

Well two of the Democrats have published their intention of running for Delegate to the Legislature. The party represented by the Elephant has placed such a load on said Elephant that we need not expect him to show up for some time, and when he does come in sight it will be like watching a Coal drag trying to wiggle up Alleghany Mountain, so if you want to get anywhere you better hitch on to the Fast Flyer the "Donkey."

Hunter Adams says if he can find another piece or two of scrap iron he will have a real auto.

H. E. Nixon of Huntington was through here Tuesday after spending Sunday at Dunmore.

We see the Warn Lumber Corporation is bringing in the logs. Their big mill at Raywood starts next Monday, this will be a big help to the various towns surrounding Raywood, as some of their citizens can probably get some work there. Work is a great thing, and we hope there will be enough started to take the sit out of Sitlington.

All right lets have the name of our State Senator from Pocahontas, and let every voter get behind him. Boost your county and the town you live in, if it's worth living in it's worth boosting.

SEEBERT

Mrs. George Brice, of Cass, was with friends here last week.

Sam Cordell has moved his family to Burnside on the farm of Henry Gum.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Brannon and children are visiting Mrs. Brannon's father, H. S. Sams.

Hubert Boyd was a busidess caller here last Friday.

Mrs. H. C. Marshall and her niece, Miss Roscoe, are spending the week relatives at Millboro, Va.

Rev. J. C. Johnfon preached a very impressive sermon here Sunday from John I: 43. Mr. Johnson will have a regular appointment here the first Sunday evening in each month.

The many friends of Mrs. George Bartholomew will be glad to know she is much improved in health and will return home this week from the Ronceverte Hospital where she has been a patient for several weeks.

D. C. Adkison and family will leave this week for Staunton, Va., where he has rented a farm.

Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Kennison attended the funeral of little Jean Cook last week.

Miss Frances Clark spent Sunday with the Misses Hill at Renick.

Walter Graham and family visited his parents here Sunday.

A house belonging to A. J. Cook burned last Saturday with all its contents. The family living in it just escaped with their lives, and Ring, the dog, was burned up in the house.

A very sad death occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Cook at Charleston, when their little eleven months old baby ate bichloride tablets which were given to him by his little sister Jewell, three years old, to play with. The little fellow managed to get the cork out of the bottle and ate about half of a tablet and in less than an hour little Jean was dead. Everything was done for the babe that could be done, but the deadly poison did its work quickly. The two children were only left in the room for a short time. The little girl clsmbed upon a table and got the bottle out of a medicine cabinet. The little body wos brought here for burial. The funeral services were conducted in the Union Church by Rev. Mr. Moore, of Charleston, assisted by Rev. J. C. Johnson and Rev. K. D. Swecker. The community extends to these bereaved parents its deepest sympathy.

Editor Times:

We notice two announcements already for Representative to Legislature from Pocahontas. There is a very marked under-current advocating the candicacy of J. G. Hamrick, a prominent farmer and citizen of Levels District, and a man with good qualifications for the place. What say you Gentlemen? Call him out—he will make a mark for Pocahontas in the Legislature. He is a good speaker and a good church going man.

A Democrat.

Town Council met Monday night. A cement sidewalk was authorized for the Lower Tannery Row. It was decided to build some good graveled road in Marlinton this spring as soon as weather permits, to replace the unsatisfactory cinder roads now in use. The light lines will be extended up river to the county fair grounds

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Higgins, March 1, 1922, a son.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Amos Beverage, February 28, 1922, a son.

ONOTO

We are having real March weather in this section, lots of rain and sleet. The farmers are getting very anxious about plowing, but are being detained on account of the weather.

Stock has wintered well so far, having heard but little complaint about losses. We are in hopes winter will hold on till the right time for a breakup so that we will a good fruit crop this year.

Mrs. Chas. Beverage who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. A P. Beverage on Stony Creek, was called to the bedside of her Father at Monterey, Va. who is at the point of death. Mrs. A. P Beverage accompanied her on the trip.

Miss Alice Beverage who has been staying with her brother at Fayetteville is home again.

Mr and Mrs E. L Duncan and family of Spruce have been visiting relatives and friends in this section recently.

A number of our people attended the funeral of Mrs. Poage at Edray Monday.

Dr. A. C Barlow was attending court in Marlinton Tuesday of this week.

Frank Baxter returned from Durbin Saturday where he had been doing some surveying on the roads.

Mrs. Alice Wagner of Marlinton, is doing some sewing for Mrs. C. V. Hanlin, for a few days.

James Fowler who formerly lived on Luther McNeill's place on the mountain has moved to Williams River.

We understand A. S. Galford has secured a large Pulp job on Cranberry. Times are hard, and work scarce, but the man that is willing to work always gets a job. Too many people make it appear that they want a job, but are praying all the time that they will not find it

The day has come when we have to work at whatever our hands find to do, if we expect to stay in the race of life.

YELK

Sugar making is the order of the day at present.

Kenney Dilley and little daughter, Eula, have been very ill with flu but are some better now.

The road has about gone down since the rainy season came in.

James Gibson who has been ill with influenza is improving slowly.

The New Pleasant Valley school is progressing nicely with Miss Lucille White teacher.

Charles McGuire and Harry Varner were expecting to have a good time breaking some colts but got disappointed as the colts were quiet.

The Pie Supper at the New Pleasant Valley school house February 25th brought $65 60 which will go toward purchasing a victrola. A prize of one dollar was given to the girl having the prettiest box. It was a real get together meeting and a large crowd enjoyed the evening.

Miss Arlene Judy went home last week after spending the winter on Yelk and going to school.

Mr. and Mrs Charles McGuire went to Slaty Fork Saturday evening laying is some spring goods.

Mrs. Merle Micks is vistiting her parents.

Mr and Mrs. Bill Miller are going into the chicken business.

Harper Thomas is now clerk at the Marlinton post office.

Ranges and Furnaces

We Sell

Jewel Ranges

—and—

Hot Air Furnaces

also

Florence Oil Cookers

None of these are excelled, see us when in need of anything in this line.

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.
MARLINTON, W. VA.
"WE DELIVER THE GOODS"

MRS. MARY J. POAGE

Mrs. Mary Jane Poage, daughter of David and Mary Gibson, was born near Mary's Chapel on Elk, April 7, 1941, and died March 5, 1922, aged 80 years, 10 months and 28 days. Soe was the last of the Old David Gibson family. Her husband, the late J. Rankin Poage preceded her to the grave fourteen years ago.

She is survived by two sons, A. P. Poage, of Kendallville, Indiana, and W. E Poage of Edray, together with a host of other relatives.

Funeral services were held from the home of W. E. Poage, on Monday March 6, at 2:30 p. m., Rev. C. A. Powers of tee M. E Church, having charge of the services. An unusually large number of people attended the services.

C. A, P.

PRESIDENT BURNS CAN NOT APPEAR

A wire was received that Pres. James A. Burns is in a Cincinnati hospital, and will therefore be unable to fill his engagement at Marlinton on March 10th. He expects to be out again soon, and announcement of his appearance here later in the season, will be made as soon as the date is definitely known.

Wm. Reynolds (col) who has been sick for two months at Huntersville, is reported better.

A special grandjury session of the Circuit Court convened Wednesday morning.

Rev. Mr. Cleveland, of Cloverlick, will preach at the Episcopal church Sunday night.

Here's the Reason

we are spending our money to bring some direct truths to the attention of our people, because we believe it means the improvement of this section of the country, and we will certainly participate in the increased business which naturally follows.

We want to help, and we believe good roads and good transportation facilities is the place to begin.

We can render every banking service--all under same roof.

First National Bank
MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA
The Bank of Security and Service.

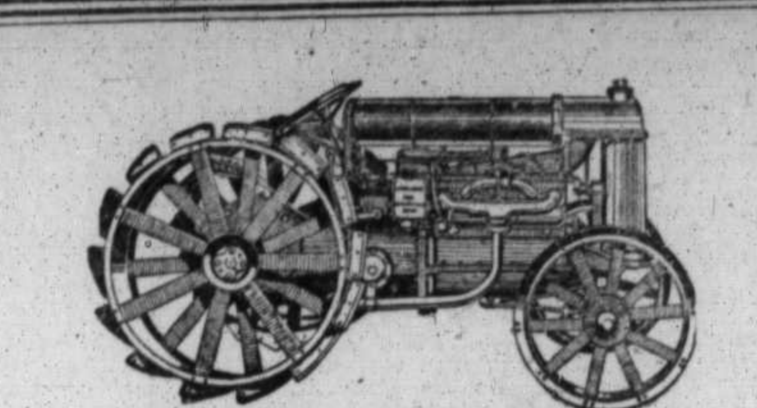
NEW SPRING STYLES

Millinery
Suits
Coats
Capes

Blouses, Silk Sweaters
Shoes, Oxfords, Hosiery

NOW ON DISPLAY
MODERATELY PRICED

Schuchats Dept. Store
MARLINTON, W. VA.



$395.00

F.O.B. DETROIT

At this price, which is less than the price of a good team of horses, every farmer in West Virginia should have a Fordson Tractor.

Send us your order; or come to see us at once.

Authorized Ford and Fordson Dealer

J. L. BAXTER

Baxters Garage — Marlinton, W. Va.

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager

HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC

Marlinton, West Virginia.

Picture Framing

AND FURNITURE REPAIRING

Picture framing neatly and promptly done at a reasonable price. Also old furniture made as good as new. Shop at my house near Court-house. Phone your orders and I will come for your work.

C. J. McCarty,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Sept. 1.

Store for Sale

I offer for sale my store in Durbin, W. Va. This includes stocks of dry goods, clothing, shoes, groceries, etc. Also fixtures. Satisfactory arrangements can made with the owner for renting the room. This is an established business and a desirable stand. My reason for selling is a desire to change my place of residence.

C. R. BEARD.

For Sale

Copper Water Cans, Spouting, Tin Fixtures, copper tubing, bath room outfits, etc.

C. W. Slavin
Tinner and Plumber
Marlinton, W. Va.

Baxter's Garage

MARLINTON W. VA.

FORD Cars and Supplies

FORDSON Tractors

A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.

J. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Engine and Thresher For Sale

One 26x32 threshbox, Faurquhar, in good conditiod, with belts, etc. An International portable 10 hp gasoline engine. This makes a fine threshing outfit. Will sell together or separately to suit purchaser.

D. M. KENNISON

Lobelia, W. Va.

Picture Framing

I am now prepared to frame pictures. I have a large assortment of framing. Prompt service and neat work guaranteed.

G. W. Palmer,
Upper Camden, Avenue.

FOR SALE

A two-horse gasoline engine, International make, and a power sausage mill. These machines are in fine condition, but have been replaced with electrical equipment.

R. H. McELWEE

Marlinton, W. Va.

SEWING DONE:—For plain, cheap sewing, see Alice Wagner at A. A. Bostic's.

Auction Sale

On Tuesday, March 14, 1922

at my home on the Warwick Road, near Brushy Flat school house, four miles from Marlinton, I will sell at public auction, the following property, as I am preparing to move to Durbin:

1 bay mare, 4 years old, good saddler
2 two-year old heifers, poled Angus
3 calves, near yearlings, 1 steer 2 heifers
4 hogs, 75 lbs.
1 2-horse wagon, 1 buggy
1 buggy rake
1 big plow 1 cultivator
1 shovel plow
1 wagon tongue for 1 horse wagon
1 spike tooth harrow
1 good saddle
1 set buggy harness

1 set dray harness, 1 set farm harness, 1 scythe and snead, 1 grain cradle, lot of tools, 1 post hole digger, 1 two horse spreades and single trees, 1 one horse spreaders, brush hook, grindstone and frame, lot of window sash, some hay, half bushel timothy seed, glass front cupboard, kitchen cabinet, oak, 1 cook stove, 1 lot of chairs, 3 heating stoves, 2 small tables, stone and glass jars, oak bedstead, and many other articles.

Sale commences 9:30 o'clock.

TERMS: $5. and under cash, over that amount four month's time with note bearing interest and approved security.

G. D. KINCAID,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Gum Auctioneer.

For Sale

On Saturday, March 11t, 1922.

I will sell to the highest bidder my mill property situated on Locust Creek, about two miles west of Beard station, this property is known as the Beard mill property.

R. R. SNEDEGAR,
Jacox, W. Va.

NOTICE

We have received a few 60 pound cans of the finest extracted honey that we have had for several months. You couldn't get any better honey. The price on this lot is 21cts but for a few days will sell at 20cts. It is in the hands of J. W. Maupin, of Marlinton, for sale. Give your order quick if you want any of this good honey. If it is not just as we represent it, return it to Mr. Maupin and he will gladly give you your money back. What could be fairer.

L. D. SHARP.
Slatyfork, W. Va.

POLLED HEREFORD BULL—I have a Polled Hereford Bull calf for sale, ten months old, large size in good condition.

Mrs Fannie Kinnison,
Seebert, W. Va.

WANTED: To move on a farm as tenant.

W. N. Thomas.
Huntersville, W. Va.

Eggs for Hatching

S.C. White Leghorns, direct from W. Va. Experiment Station, best of layers. Pen headed by 300 egg strain Ferris cockerels.

S. C. Rhode Island Reds, dark, fine layers. Pen headed by 9 pound 220 egg strain cockerel.

S. C. Barred Plymouth Rocks, E B Thompson strain, well barred, fine layers.

$1.50 per setting, $2.50 per 30 eggs.

A limited number of baby chicks at $10 per 100 at farm, $11 delivered. Call, phone or write your wants,

OAK CREST POULTRY FARM,
W. A. Arbogast, Propr.

Millpoint, W. Va.

Hereford Bulls

I have a lot of young Hereford bulls, registered and fine specimen of the breed. Will be sold for spring delivery.

J. S. McNeel,
Seebert, W. Va.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all parties having claims against the estate of the late Mrs. Medora Carr to present the same proven according to law to the undersigned administrator at once for settlement. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate will please prepare to settle.

This 13th day of February, 1922.

T. D. CARR, Admr.

Marlinton, W. Va.

NOTICE

To Stockholders of the Marlinton & Stony Creek Mutual Telephone Co:

At a call meeting of the directors on February 11 1922, the secretary was directed to advertise in The Pocahontas Times that all stockholders not now using their stock, must assign their stock back to the company on or before the first day of March, 1922, or they will be held responsible for their part of the improvement, and it was further ordered that if any stockholder does not turn over his share of stock to the company but turns it over to some one else that the owner of the stock will be held for his share of the expense for improvement unless the one who buys or accepts the stock agrees to pay the $8 00 for improvement in 1922.

Geo. A. C. Auidridge,
Secretary & Treas

FOR SALE

One portable Geiser Engine and boiler; one Frick sawmill; one 56 inch inserted saw: one 60 inch inserted saw; one 2 saw edger; one cut off saw; line shafting and belting. All in good working order. Camp, barn and blacksmith shop. Also about 900 00 feet of hardwood timber located on Back Mountain two miles from Durbin, W. Va.

D. M. HENRY.

Bartow, W. Va.

S. C. BROWN LEGHORN EGGS

Per setting of 15 at house, 75 cents. Per setting of 15 by parcel post $1 00. Per 100 at house, $5 00; by parcel post 50c extra.

These eggs are from a laying strain some of the best blood lines in the country are represented in this flock. There is no better layer than the S. C. Brown Leghorn, and few as good,

FRED GEHAUF,
39 Upper Camden, Marlinton, W. Va

FOR SALE;—At a bargain: A good six room plastered house with water in the house, four good lots with a small barn and a large poultry house and good coal house. Call on me at Campbelltown or write me at Marlinton, W. Va.

E B. VanReenan.

WANTED—Man with car to sell the BEST Ford Oil Guage made. $100 00 per week and extra commissions. Benton Harbor Accessories Co., Benton Harbor, Mich.

FOR SALE:—70 acre farm, good buildings, good orchard, well watered 2 1-2 miles from Millpoint. Priced reasonable.

G. G. Thompson,
Millpoint, W., Va.

GAME NOTES

Chestnut blight, a fungus disease which is exterminating the chestnut tree in the United States, has already destroyed most of the chestnut timber east of the Alleghany Mountains in West Virginia, and is now invading the western counties. There is no remedy for this disease. Chestnut timber owners should plan to utilize their trees and if possible encourage the growth of other trees to take the place of those killed by the blight.

All hunting and fishing licenses expired December 31, 1921. Resident and non resident fishermen and hunters are required to procure licenses for 1922, by applying to a Clerk of the County Court, and paying the fee of one dollar and fifteen dollars respectively.

All license fees go directly into the hands of the Game and Fish Commission, and are expended directly for the protection and propogation of game and the improvement of wild life conditions.

The winter of 1921-1922 has been favorable for the game of the state. Wild turkeys, grouse and quail which frequently suffer on account of deep snows and severe cold, have been able to secure food and shelter without artificial aid.

More than one-half million dollars has been saved and invested in United States Treasury Savings Certificates in the Fifth Federal Reserve District during the month of January, according to a statement made by Postmaster, J. E Buckley, of the Marlinton Post Office. The postmaster has just received a letter from Howard T. Cree, Government Director of Savings at Richmond, Virginia, in which he states that sales for January have far surpassed expectations. From 226 post offices reporting and mail orders received at the Federal Reserve Bank in Richmond, the sales total $562,650.

This new offering of certificates has proved very popular in that they are issued in denominations of $25, $100, and $1,000 and may be purchased at a flat discount price of twenty per cent off their maturity value. People seeking a safe investment, with a guarantee as to both principal and interest, have been quick to take advantage of this attractive issue of "baby bonds" and have bought them in large numbers.

Postmaster Buckley says, "For those seeking investment of funds, nothing is more attractive than the new savings certificates which yield four and one half per cent interest on purchase price, compounded semi-annually, if held to maturity, five years from the date of issue."

The body of Michael Linnan whose death occurred at Cass, W. Va on February 8, 1922, was taken to his old home in Bradfond Pennsylvania, for burial. Mr. Linnan was born July 4, 1856, and was married July 7, 1879 to Miss Johanna Hill of Portville, New York, to which union nine children were born. His body was taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. C. F. Palmer, of Jeffsrson St. Funeral services were held Monday morning in St. Bernard's Church. Interment in St Bernard's Cemetery besides the remains of his three children. He had been employed by the West Virginia Pulp & Paper Company for the past twenty years. He is survived by his wife and six daughters—Mrs. Sigler, of Elkins; Mrs. Furlman and Mrs. Hartney, of Eldorado, Kansas; Mrs. McCarty, Mrs. Henegan and Mrs. Blackhurst, of Cass. Also eighteen grandchildren and three great-grandchildren, and eight sisters and three brothers, and a host of other relatives and friends who all attended the funeral. C.

Honor Roll Buckeye school, The Corrells, teachers. Grammar Grades, Stowe McNeil, Addison McNeil, Opie Walton. Primary, Audrey, Ruth and Glenn Rucker. Present every day but tardy one or more times: Eula Walton, Clarence Hechert, Amelia Hechert, Louise McNeil, Howard Cook, Ruth Hinkle, Martha Bostic, Mamie Cook, Ethel Cook, Jane Kennison, Beatrice Howard, Anna Morrison.

On the night of February 22 the grammar grades rendered a program and debate with a reading by Miss Ethel Correll and an address by Hon N. C. NcNeil, of Marlinton. Every one seemed to be pleased and the school too as it added $7 30 to the class fund to be used in buying domestic science and manual training supplies. The girls' and boys' club has had two meetings during the month. They will render a public program soon; proceeds for the benefit of the club.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas, our Heavenly Father, in His infinite wisdon has called to her eternal reward our beloved sister, Margaret Jones Smith, we, the members of Wesley Chapel Sunday School and church of Hillsboro, wish to bear public testimony of the love and esteem in which we held her.

Although she had been an invalid for many years, and unable to attend public worship, she always felt a deep interest in her church. During her long illness she was always submissive to her Master's will, and humble consecrated christian, and we believe her spirit is sweetly resting in the presence of the master whom she so faithfully served, and that our loss is her gain, therefore we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well. We shall ever cherish the memory of this gentle sister so worthy of imitation and constant in her devotion to God.

To the bereaved family we extend our heartfelt sympathy in these hours of their deep sorrow, and point them to Him who will comfort them and assure them if they are true to Him they will meet this loved one, some day, where parting is no more.

And be it furthur resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent the family, a copy publised in the Pocahontas Times, and a copy spread on the records of Wesley Chapel Sunday School.

Margaret LaRue
Mrs. Lucy Sheets
Mrs. J. W. R. Smith.
Committee.

THE TOMATO

The tomato, we learn, stands third in value of American crops. It is a great fruit, or vegetable whichever you choose to call it. It is an indispensable article of diet, in summer and in winter. Take the tomato out of modern life, and it would be a loss indeed. And yet, there was a time when the world had it not. But the world, not knowing it, did not know its loss, and no doubt had plenty, of other and more serious things to worry about.

The only other vegetables which exceed the tomato in value are the Irish potato and the sweet potato, and these two are modern vegetables, also. But just think how many new articles of diet have been added to the nation's menu since the potato and the tomato have been discovered. Surely we live better than our forebearers when it comes to variety.

The tomato also is a vegetable which lends itself readily to improvement as all know; while the comparative ease which with it can be raised in backyards and side yards makes it handy to grow even in towns and cities.—Mail.

WANLESS

Mrs. Indis Cassell continues very ill.

H. L. Kesler has finished his logging job for the W. Va. Pulp and Paper Company.

The farmers are getting ready for the rush of spring work.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace told us a year ago there was a fine time coming for the farmer. We all agree with him if these are the times he had reference to.

There will be five lime kilns burned in this community this spring.

Normalcy has set the price for license on Henry Fords at thirteen dollars and thirteen cents, and an additional fee of one dollar to drive your fliver.

We sure did send a wise bunch of gentlemen to Charleston last winter to make laws to help cut down our heavy burden of taxation. They certainly hit the reptile on the head when they thought of raising the valuation of property to lower the rate. We suggest that the sheriffs of West Virginia begin now, to muster an army of auctioneers to help make tax sales this fall.

Arlie Hamrick, son of Mr. and Mrs E H. Hamrick, was born June 20, 1907, and departed this life February 20, 1922, aged 15 years and eight months. He was taken to the Marlinton Hospital on Thursday before suffering from a bad case of appendicitis and was operated on that night. He is survived by his father and mother, two brothers and three sisters. Burial services were conducted by Rev. O. N. Miles in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. His body was laid to rest in the Cloverlick cemetery. He had gone to school several years in Marlinton. He was bright and of a lovable disposition. We sometimes wonder why God takes our loved ones away, but God is too wise to make a mistake in calling our loved ones from us. May God bind up the broken hearted parents and may they await the great throne around which they shall meet to part no more. Arlie was a good boy, obedient to his father and mother, but his voice will no more be heard. He is gone but not forgotten. W. G. V.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to thank the many friends in Cass for the kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our dear husband and father.

Mrs. Linnan and Family.

We wish to thank the many neighbors and friends for their kindness during the sickness and death of our loved one.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Bussard.

I wiso to thank my relatives and friends and neighbors for their kindness during my spell of sickness. I was confined to my bed seven weeks. I thank God that I am on my feet again. May God ever bless my relatives, friends and neighbors is my prayer.

H. D. Hively,
Dunmore, W. Va.

Public Sale

I will sell at public auction, at my place near Dunmore, on the 21st day of March 1922, the following:

14 head cows, young, well bred and fine milkers
2 two year old bulls
9 good calves
1 thoroughbred Percheon stallion, an elegant horse
1 lot of corn
1 lot of oil drums
1 lot of paint
1 heavy wall drill, and bits
1 cider mill

2 desk phones, and a bunch of other valuables, and a lot of cheap lumber if not sold before.

All the above property is going to be sold. No side bidding business to be carried on.

TERMS of SALE—All sums of $10 and under cash. Over that amount eight months time will be given with note and good endorsers.

Sale begins at 10 o'clock.

S. Reece Pritchard,

VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE—In Greenbrier county, W. Va. 40 acres situated at Horrock Station on Greenbrier Division C. & O. Ry. 30 acres of which is fine river bottom under high state of cultivation. Good new 6 room cottage house, new store house, good barn, new granary, poultry house, smoke house and top ground cellar, fine young orchard in full bearing, plenty of grapes, plums and peaches for family use the best of spring water, one-third mile to school, church and postoffice. A beautiful home. Good fishing and hunting in 1-2 mile of place and in a good neighborhood. Reason for selling, interests elsewhere. Come and see it if interested or write me for partirulars end price.

ALEX STUART,
R. R. Station Horrock, W. Va.
Julia P. O. W. Va.

FARM FOR SALE—90 acres of land near State Road between Huntersville and Minnehaha Springs, 40 acres cleared, young orchard. For particulars. Apply to

H. F. Bussard,
Huntersville, W. Va.

AFTER EVERY MEAL

WRIGLEY'S P-K

This new sugar-coated gum delights young and old.

It "melts in your mouth" and the gum in the center remains to aid digestion, brighten teeth and soothe mouth and throat.

There are the other WRIGLEY friends to choose from, too:

C28

WARNING FROM AN EX-DISTILLER

If the patrons of the bootleggers do not believe the warnings that are being given them from many men of authority, not the least of whom is Chief Chemist Spear of the International Revenue Bureau who declares that in 98 cases out of 100 he who buys liquor from a bootlegger is buying deadly poison, certainly they ought to heed the words of a distiller, now out of business. He says that the first distillation of whiskey always contains considerable fusel oil which only later distillation and at least four years in a charred wooden container will remove. Fusel oil, he adds, is a deadly posion which brings horrible results to those who drink it even in minute quantities. As bootleg whiskey is in nearly every case the result of a single distillation and never is aged in a charred barrel, no further comment is necessary!—Union Signal.

DRY BRANCH

Farmers are all very busy planning and making ready for big crops.

Moral Miller and famrly have moved on a company farm near the mouth of the Branch.

Ed and Jesse Sharp have returned from Cincinnati where they were taking a course at the Rahe Auto tchool

Bessie Beale returned home Sunday from visiting friends at Samp.

R. N. Beale will leave here in a short time for West Union where he expects to go into the garage business

Miss Ada Marshall has returned home from Junior, W. Va.

Our school is progressing nicely under the capable management of Miss Eva Wood. We wish to congratulate her on the good school she is teaching.

The Christian Endeavor is proving a great success at this place. We feel it is doing the community good and hope it will continue to have good attendance.

Automobile owners should not worry about their car troubles as we now have four Raha graduates to take care of them.

Notice

I handle Oyster Shells, Grit, Charcoal, Etc. Want to buy one Rouen Duck Drake, will pay good.

L. O. SIMMONS,
Marlinton, W. Va.

HUNTERSWILLE

(Delayed)

Esta McLaughlin, who was very ill with pneumonia, is able to be up, and is now with her sister, Mrs. Andy Fertig, at Cass.

Miss Anna Mary McLaughlin has returned to her position in Washington City after spending two weeks with her parents.

Mrs. Isaac Barlow has been very ill the past week.

R. C. McNutt, of Lewisburg, spent last week with Isaac Barlow.

Mrs. Howard Barlow returned home last week after spending a short time with her daughter in Lewisbu g

C. V. Grimes spent Sunday at Hillsboro.

Clarence McComb is able to be out after a bad case of tonsilitis.

Miss Anna Price Sheets, who is attending school in Marlinton, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Sheets.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Elihu Moore February 14, a son, Robert Keneth.

Mrs. S. P. Sheets was shopping in Marlinton one day last week.

The Sunday Schools are getting along nicely with a very large attendance.

A. N. Thomas says Henry Ford's all right in a way but it will not run on this Class A road from Marlinton to Huntersville.

Miss Gertrude Yeager entertained a number of young people at a birthday party Saturday evening at 7:30. Those present, Enid McComb, Evelyn Gingar, Connie McComb, Lanell Thomas, Donna McComb, Frances McComb, Veda Moore, Beulah McComb, Dorothy Yeager, Elizabeth McComb, Guy and Tom Yeager, Clarence McComb, Julian Moore, Kent Loury. The evening was enjoyed by all.

For Sale at a Bargain

1500 acres of land in Virginia.
A good farming proposition.
A good timber proposition.
A good water-power proposition
A good milling proposition.
All combined in the above.
Bad health is why this proposal is made.
If interested, write to the owner

C. H. REVERCOMB,
Covington, Va

V-C Fertilizer

Tried Tested and Proven
25 years

by the Best Farmers in the Greenbrier Valley

Virginia-Carolina Brands

Little Giant Crop Grower,
Beef, Blood and Bone,
Fish Bone and Potash,
High Grade Potash,
Best Potato Formula,
16 and 20 percent Acid Phosphate.

Ask your dealer for V-C. Fertilizer and accept no substitute. Time has proved it right for our soils.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XL NO 31 MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, MARCH 16, 1922 $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

GAME NOTES

Branches of the Wild Life League of West Virginia were organized last week at Moundsville and Sistersville. A meeting for the purpose of the organizing of a branch will be held in Huntington, on Wednesday night of this week.

The Game and Fish Commission will undertake to raise a limited number of ring-necked pheasants, for distribution in the State this year. Its the hope of the Commission to raise more of these birds next year.

The force for controlling forest fires will be organized at once for taking care of the forest fires which occur in the spring. In this connection, the Game and Fish Commission has offered a reward of One Hundred Dollars for evidence leading to the arrest and conviction of any person wilfully and maliciously setting out fire in the forests of the state.

Posters for the purpose of posting the streams in which fishing has been suspended for three years, will soon be ready for distribution, and the work of posting these streams will begin at an early date.

A state meeting will be held sometime during the month of April to perfect the State organization of the Wild Life League of West Virginia. The date and place of meeting will be announced later.

The Commission is making an effort to secure as many fish as possible for re-stocking the streams of the state. Owing to the limited supply of fish that can be furnished by the Bureau of Fisheries, the distribtion will be made in the order of the application received. There is such a wide demand for these fish all over the United States, that West Virginia may not be able to obtain as many as it will need to fill all the applications.

WANLESS

Another State Legislature like the last one will make West Virginia think it was moved over somewhere in Tax Burdened Europe.

They seem to think that we are all Millionaires, and have forgotten that our earning Power has been greatly reduced, and still they want to extract more money from us in the way of higher taxes.

If some of them had to use a lot of Elbow Grease and hump their backs at hard toil like the most of us do to make a decent living and pay taxes, they wouldn't be so free to make appropriations to spend so much of their people's hard earned money. It seems as though some of politicians have forgotten they were elected by the people for the people. from some of those Narrow Minded one sided Laws they have passed for us to be subjects of. We don't like to be going around with a grouch, but when we are pinched until we are hurt, we have to make a protest. Maybe after the next election some of those fellows that took a part in soaking us will be back home smoking a shorter cigar than they did while in Charleston.

JOHN S. JACKSON, DEAD

John S. Jackson, aged nearly 80 years, died at the home of his brother-in-law, W. H. Cackley in Ronceverte, on Tuesday morning. He had been in failing health for some time. Burial at Ronceverte Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Jackson was well known in Pocahontas, and was one of the youngest Confederate soldiers to go out from this county. He was a kindly disposed man and had friends wherever he was known.

C. A. Yeager has purchased a farm of 1152 acres in Southhamton County Virginia. It is located on the Blackwater River a mile and a half above the junction of that river with Nottoway River. It is the famous old homestead where General Vaughn was born. Mr. Yeager will spend most of the summer on his farm. He will plow about 650 acres this year to be cropped as follows: 200 acres of cotton; 200 acres of peanuts; 200 acres of corn; 50 acres, oats and other crops.

A lot of cases of influenza in town now.

EDUCATIONAL JOTTINGS

BY COUNTY SUPT. G. D. MCNEILL

According to the recent regulations concerning Standardization, few schools will be able to qualify for first or second class so as to receive the State Aid given such schools; but any school grading 70 or better is entitled to a Certificate of Merit. A number of schools will be able to qualify for this Certificate, and it is much desired that as many schools as possible make the required seventy points. Teachers should grade their schools according to the chart distributed at the District Institutes. In case of doubt as to the grading on any point, refer to the bulletin distributed at Institute. The County Superintendent will assist in this grading when he visits the schools, but as it will not be possible to re-visit all the schools for the purpose of doing this grading, the teachers are asked to grade their own schools. It is gratifying to state that the county has few teachers who are not entitled to a rating of "good or superior" on the chart, and they may so rate themselves in making up the chart. The few cases in which the teachers are deemed not entitled to a creditable rating will be taken care of by advising the teacher personally of the lamentable condition. The Department of Schools will certainly demand a statement of the number of schools deserving a Certificate. and it is very essential that the schools be rated so as to make as good a showing as honest grading will permit.

Do not forget to order questions for the Diploma Examination to be held March 23-24th.

April 8th, at Marlinton, Examination on Reading Circle Books for Coupon of Credit and second Renewal of First Grade Certificates. At the same time time there will be examination on High School and Professional Subjects. This examination is for the accommodation of teachers who wish to meet the requirement of one year of high school work and nine weeks normal training necessary to the making of a first grade certificate in Uniform Examination. The High School and professional subjects which may be taken in this examination are given below.

English	1 unit
Commercial Geography	1-2 unit
Physical Geography	1-2 unit
Algebra	1 unit
Arithmetic	1-2 unit
European History	1 unit
American History	1-2 unit
Civics	1-2 unit
Professional Subjects
General Methods of Teaching	1-2 unit
History of Education	1-2 unit

In order to receive credit for one year of high school work, four units of the above must be taken. In order to receive credit for the necessary unit of professional work, both professional subjects listed must be taken. Passing grade on this high school and professional work is 85 per cent. For further information regarding this examination write county superintendent.

The schools of the county are in much better condition than they were last year. The most creditable achievement appears to be the increased attendance. A number of schools have made averages of more than 95 per cent and most schools have beaten 85 per cent.

The enumeration of the sub-districts should be in the hands of the secretary April first. If you have not received proper blanks, call on secretary for them. Teachers who do not make report of enumeration may expect their last month's salary held up.

HONOR ROLL: Huntersville school, primary room Sixth month. E Ernest White, Teacher.—Ermon Grimes, Ellis Grimes, Roy McLaughlin, Dick Moore, Lynn Moore, Robert McComb, Louise Barlow, Vira Buzzard, Sylvia May, Gladys May, Elizabeth McComb, Olive Thomas.

Those absent less than three days—Guy Grimes, Waldro Buzzard, Maynard Barlow, Givenivere Jordan, Dorothy Yeager, Opal Thomas.

Per cent of attendance for this month was 96 3-4.

Some weeks ago in making up the the list of owners of registered stock in Pocahontas county, the name of Jacob Gibson, of Elk, was inadvertantly omitted. Mr. Gibson has a number of registered Hampshire sheep.

PETIT JURORS

The following citizens are summoned as petit jurors for the April term of Circuit Court, which convenes on April 4th:

Carl Sheets, Chris McLaughlin, Romey Rodgers, Clyde Auldridge, C. K. Levisay, Fred Guinn, Harry Taylor, Ira Clendenen, Luther Hiveley, Edwin Buzzard, John Sharp, (of Abraham) Richard Callison, Everett Dilley, John Trainer, Marion Burr, Robt. L. Hall, W H. Adkinson Hubert Jordan, C. W. Dilley, Watkins Hinkle, Bland Nottingham, Verlin Loudermilk, Cecil Bruffey, Frank Anderson, C. K Moore, Joe Hiner, A. C. Pifer, Forrest Pritchard Thomas Kershner, Charlie Kelley, Denny Ruckman, R. D. Moore, J. F. Rock, J. S. Mace, Wort McLaughlin, J. P. Duncan, Robt. Jordan, Lloyd Davis, Andrew Moore, H. Underwood Robt. Gibson, Clifford Sampson, Jacob Cassell, Jr. Dock Alderman, Morris Friel, Ashby Sharp.

DRY LAW NO JOKE

"Some people seem always to forget the duty that they owe to their country, their duty as citizens, their duty as patriots, their duty as men, as women and to themselves as well as to their posterity," said Judge George W. McClintic, of the U. S. District Court in his charge to the grand jury at Huntington Tuesday.

"There seems to be a general idea abroad now, tnat is funny to make remarks and say things about the Volstead act. There is nothing funny about these remarks and as a result of them the people are being outraged with reference thereto."

He declared that it was the duty of every lawyer that practices in the U. S. Court and of everyone who holds an office to respect the office they have and uphold them. It is our duty to see that nothing be spared, that so far as the State of West Virginia is concerned that lawyers have got to let liquor alone. if they are going to practice in this court If any lawyer is found guilty of breaking this law I am going to direct that proceedings be taken against him and have him restrained from practicing in the Courts of West Virginia.

Friend Price:

I am sending you an account of the death of David Cackley, of Clinton, Dewitt county, Illinois His father William Cackley, who owned a farm near Huntersville on the Beaver creek road, was an uncle of mine. David left Pocahontas when about 22 years old. A few years ago he made his first visit to his native county after an absence of over sixty years. He made a short visit in my home and I accompanied him to Pocahontas. Your father, Rev. W. T. Price, was the only person living in Pocahontas county that he knew—that had grown up together. So far as I know he is the last of his father's family consisting of four brothers and four or five sisters. His father moved to Illinois in 1855, all of the boys (except the youngest, Fry) having settled in Illinois. Fry, who married a Miss Loury, followed a few years later.

Ronceverte, W. Va. W. H. C.

David Cackley, one of Clinton's aged and most respected citizens, passed away at the John Warner hospital in this city at an early hour this morning after an illness lasting for several weeks. Born at Huntersville, Pocahontas county, Virginia, (West Virginia) May 14, 1830, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Cackley. His father came to Clinton in 1852, going from there to Sangamon county on horse back. From Sangamon county he came back to Dewitt county in 1854 and had since made that county his home. He enlisted in Co. D. 107 Illinois Infantry and served as chief musician for three years in war between the States —Clinton (Ill.) Morning Journal, March 1 1922.

WEST GREENBANK

We are having fine winter weather and the candidates are looming up conspicuously: both are good sensible men, but one shall be taken and the other left.

Clyde Hevener is in the Johns Hopkins Hospital for treatment.

Mrs. W. W. Arbogast got home last week from the Johns Hopkins Hospital greatly improved in health.

Marion Ray is in a New Jersey hospital at this writing.

Mrs. J. H. Curry, who was partially paralyzed nearly two years ago, is not much better and is a great sufferer.

Clyde Wooddell, who was hurt in the accident, is able to walk to town, we understand.

There are some flu cases in this part of the county, but of a mild form.

George M Sutton departed this lif March 6, 1922, at his home near Wesley Chapel.

J. R. Gum has his store house on the corner about ready for goods

Born, to Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Rosenberger, a son.

I am requested by the secretary of the board of education of Greenbank district to ask the teachers to send enumeration in by the 20th inst. if possible.

Kermit Arbogast is teaching a fine school at Wesley Chapel.

The Presbyterian church will put on their annual Every Member Canvass next Sunday afternoon.

W. Hobart Hill of the State Sunday School Associaaron will be at Marlinton on Saturday, March 18, and will hold a conference with the county and district officers at the First National Bank at 1;30 o'clock.

POCAHONTAS COUNTY FAIR

August 22, 23, 24. and 25.

The following Department Superintendents have been appointed with full power of supervision of their respective department.

Z. S. Smith, General Manager, Marlinton.

E. M. Richardson, Horses, Marlinton.

A. C. Barlow, Cattle, Onoto.

Dr. U. H. Hannah, Sheep, Cass.

W. McClintic, Hogs, Marlinton.

H. C. C. Willey, Agriculture, Marlinton.

Rev. Fred Gray, Garden Exhibits, Cass.

W Elmer Poage, Poultry, Edray.

Mrs. Frank Echols, Household Exhibits, Marlinton.

H. C C Willey, Boys & Girls Club, Marlinton.

Any one desiring information relative to requirements for entries etc., will please apply to the Department Superintendent of that department.

HOSTERMAN

The farmers are busy getting ready for spring crops.

Samuel Moore has gone to a hospital in Huntington for treatment.

Mrs. Julia Cassell has gone to the hospital at Ronceverte where her sister is very ill.

Miss Minnie Kesler and brother Dice were visiting Mrs. Zack Cassell last Saturday and Sunday.

The next literary at Hosterman will meet April first, at 7 30 p. m. Everybody come.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Barnett have been at Mrs. Barnett's home helping to make sugar.

We still have two stores and a post office and two republicans.

Business is picking up in Hosterman.

Filmore Cox unloaded a car load of hay last week.

ONOTO

Sugar making is the order of the day in this part.

Stock is mostly looking good for this time of year: feed is pretty scarce.

Arnott McNeill and Emmett Galford are cutting timber for John Galford on the Clawson Beverage land.

Cecil Curry and Dennis Wooddell are working the Giles Sharp sugar camp this year.

Amos Beverage has finished his job of cutting timber for W. McClintic

Assessor Auldridge was in this part last week.

Frank Baxter has built a fine barn at the Big Spring.

Mrs. Dennis Jackson of Marlinton, was visiting her parents here a few days ago.

There is not much sickness in this neighborhood at this time.

The mail man has sure got some mud to travel through now, but he always gets around in time with the mail.

There will be singing at West Union next Sunday afternoon March 19, at 2:30 o'clock.

CUMMINGS CREEK

Sugar making and plowing is the order of the day.

George Alderman is cutting timber and getting ready to move in a saw mill which will add greatly to the various enterprises of our community

Rev. O. P. McNeil delivered a very interesting sermon here Sunday March 12, to a very large crowd of people.

A. H McComb has returned from an extended business trip trip to different parts of the state.

We are pleased to know that R. J. Landers has moved back to his home here. Mr. Landers hac been engaged in saw milling on North Fork for the past few months.

E. W. Mullins and Henrp Perkins are working over in Virginia.

Miss Ida Fogus is teaching a very successful terms of school here

Our roads are in a very bad shape. They call this a Class B. road, we suppose they mean a "bum" road by the B. Anyway it is awfully muddy.

Rev. H. Underwood attended court last week.

THE CANDIDATES

Prof. Clarence E. Flynn, principal of the Durbin school, comes out this week for the Republican nomination for County Superintendent of Schools. He is a county boy, raised at Arbovale, and has all the qualifications required by the recent acts of the legislature to fill the position to which he aspires. He is a professional teacher, and has been at it for twelve years. He is a graduate of the Shepherdstown State Normal School. A part of his experience as a teacher was two years as principal of the West Grafton school under Prof. L. W. Burns, city superintendent. This is a school with an enrollment of over 400 pupils.

The other candidate we introduce this week is Hon. J. G. Hamrick, of Beard. He announces himself as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for House of Delegates, and will try his luck in what is now a three corner race with Hon. J. A. McLaughlin and Hon. E. N. Moore. Mr. Hamrick is a farmer teacher and is now engaged in the farming industry. He is a young man of parts, a good citizen, makes a good appearance, and while not as old as he will be if he lives longer, will make a satisfactory candidate and representative, in case of his nomination and election

SEEBERT

Mrs. H. C. Holliday visited her mother at Ronceverte last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Cook left Sunday for their home at Charleston.

Miss Georgia Moore is visiting friends at Renick.

Fenton Chapman of Clifton Forge, Va., is visiting relatives and looking after his farm at Hillsboro. Mr. Chapman owns one of the finest farms in the Levels.

Mrs. Billy Williamson is visiting her mother, Mrs. George Kellison.

Mrs. Ulric Grimes of Renick, is visiting her parents, Mr and Mrs. John Payne.

Miss Frances Clark spent the week end with Miss Anna Bell Clark.

Little Miss Nola Jones has been very sick for a few days.

Miss Harborne, Normal Training Teacher, from the Hillsboro High, with her class of nineteen seniors spent the day at our school last Friday.

Farmers are busy plowing preparing to sow oats.

Mr. and Mrs F. D. Clark and son, George Thomas, stopped in Seebert between trains on their return home at Richmond, Va.

Mrs. Dave Gladwell of Hillsboro, spent Sunday with her daughter, Mrs Winters Miller.

READING CIRCLE

Hillsboro, Saturday March 18, 2 p.m,

Assignment: Beard: History of the United States, chapters 17 to 25.

The following are leader of chapters:

17 Mrs. Ruth Spencer
18 Miss Maud Grigg.
19 Mrs Mann
20 Miss Violenta Harbourne
21 Miss Mary Kincaid
22 Miss Margaret LaRue
23 Remus May.
24 Miss Josephine McNulty.
25 Miss Willard Freeman.

Walter Vance, Chairman.

TO THE VOTERS OF POCAHONTAS COUNTY:

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Delegate to the Legislature from Pocahontas County, subject to the action of the Democratic voters in the general primary election to be held in the month of August, 1922; and I respectfully solicit your support and influence.

J. G. HAMRICK.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Schools, subject to the action of the Republican voters expressed in the Primary election, to be held August 8, 1922. Your support and influence will be appreciated.

Respectfully,
C. E. FLYNN.

Ranges and Furnaces

We Sell

Jewel Ranges

—and—

Hot Air Furnaces

also

Florence Oil Cookers

None of these are excelled, see us when in need of anything in this line.

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.

MARLINTON, W. VA.

"WE DELIVER THE GOODS"

SCHUCHAT'S DEPARTMENT STORE

Marlinton, West Virginia

IMPORTANT IN ALL DEPARTMENTS

The most substantial values it has been possible to offer for many years are now ready for your inspection.

Our stocks of Women's Apparel are exclusive in character and of the highest quality and can be bought here at prices that are surprising.

Women's Suits

The suit you want is here and we can fit you. We invite your inspection of the wonderful variety of styles and colors suits of poiret twills serges-tweeds $16.50 and up

Coats and Capes

Our display will meet your needs most fashionably. Loose fitting coats and capes of shaggy fabrics and dressier coats and capes handsomely finished rule favorites for spring

$10.00 and up

Silk Dresses

Just a glance at these exquisite new silk dresses in Canton Crepe, Crepe Net and Taffetta, full of color and the crispness of a new season, proves that winter has made its adieu.

$10.00 and up

Hats

Hats of the most facinating spring style notes, sport and draped modele, dress hatf for every occasion shown in a glittering array, and most important of all, we are in position to furnish your requirements at much less cost than for several seasons.

$2.98 and up

Linen Suiting

Blue, Lavender Green and Gray, 36 inches wide, a material that is much in demand, yard 85c

Special Sale of Aluminum Ware

Every Piece Guaranteed—First Quality—$2 and $3 values

Choice at $1

10 in. Double Roasters
8 qt. Pres. Kettles
4 qt. Cov sauce pan
6 qt. Cov kettles

2 qt. Perolators
3 pi sauce pan sets
4 1-2 qt tea kettles
2 qt double boilers

Here's the Reason

we are spending our money to bring some direct truths to the attention of our people, because we believe it means the improvement of this section of the country. and we will certainly participate in the increased business which naturally follows.

We want to help, and we believe good roads and good transportation facilities is the place to begin.

We can render every banking service—all under same roof.

First National Bank

MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA

The Bank of Security and Service.

Saws

Inserted and Solid Tooth Saws
Guaranteed to give you entire satisfaction

Repairing and Hammering a specialty
Teeth and holders for all standard make saws
Special prices until April 15, 1922

Teeth $4.25 per 100
Holders 40c each

F. Heinemann Saw Co.

1717 Spring Street

Parkersburg, W. Va.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, Editor.

THURSDAY MARCH 16, 1922

The bonus bill is on its way. We have been watching the newspapers very closely and trying to read the signs for this is a question that affects our own county in a direct manner. We notice an effort being made by influential newspapers to prove that the soldiers do not want any present of the kind. All such bunk as that may be dismissed with a wave of the hand and treated to an exclamation such as fiddle-de-de! For we say unto you will not a man eat when he is hungry? Even so will he welcome money when he is poor and feeling hard up after a long journey.

A bill has been reported to Congress and it has given pain to the gizzards of the millionaires. As we figure it out the following is about the way the case presented itself after the evidence was in:

1 That the country owed the soldiers nothing in law but millions in sentiment.

2 That the amount that should be paid to the soldiers was unliquidated, that is, was uncertain and unascertained as to amount.

3 That this amount should be fixed at $1 a day for home service, and $1.25 for foreign service less a payment of $60 given each soldier at the time of his discharge.

4 That there was no money to pay this obligation.

5 That it was not practicable to raise the amount by taxation.

6 That it should be settled by note, that is by a debenture of the United States payable in the future.

7. That to afford immediate relief that the debentures should be made negotiable in banks for half of the face value.

8. That to sweeten the pot, twenty-five per cent be added to the per diem, and that the debenture bear interest at the rate of four per cent per annum.

9. That if the amount of money due the soldier be less than fifty dollars that he be paid in cash.

10. That the debentures could be cashed at the end of three years at eighty per cent of their face value, or at the end of twenty years for the full amount with interest.

It is estimated that the extreme amount that the nation would pay out under this bill would be five billions of dollars extended over a period of twenty years, the big payment coming October 1, 1925, when all the money advanced by banks on the debentures would become payable.

Under the present plan, the soldiers would receive the written evidence of their gift October 1, 1922.

It is evident that the statesmen are trying to kill two birds with one stone. There is a shrinkage in bank deposits and consequently a difficulty in obtaining loans especially in the country when the farmer has been so hard hit that it is necessary to tide him over the hard times. If the bonus can be used to swell the money of the country then they can please the soldier and administer unto the farmer. So when they considered both together the bill came out with a rush.

And Mammon cried out against it. They say that it is the worst sort of inflation and that all the good that has been done to make money precious and hard to get, will be undone.

It is estimated that about a half a billion dollars would be turned loose at once under the bill in a rather roundabout way. That is the soldiers would get checking accounts aggregating that much which would cause much money to pass from hand to hand.

The Comptroller of the Currency is out in a remarkable statement. He says in effect that the bill will either make money more plentiful or more scarce. He said that he did not have the authority to order banks to refuse to advance the money on the soldiers' paper, but he placed them in the same category as real estate loans which are not acceptable as collateral.

What would really happen is that much of this money would find its way into real estate loans for men living in the rural districts consider land the best security, and the mortgage on the old homestead would be satisfied from the proceeds of the bonus.

The head of the Federal Reserve banks on the other hand is for the bill.

For sometime we have been blaming the selfishness of the money power for the present hard times. It seems to us that when the banking interests pronounce a good farm as undesirable security, that they show a partiality to the cities. Perhaps they remember that in cities men have to buy food, rainment, amusement, shelter, and fuel, and that money is necessary. While in the country the people can cut their own wood, make their own clothes, do without amusement, build their own shelters, and raise their own food. So that when they cannot take care of all, it is up to them to keep the city people alive for the country people can shift for themselves.

Anyway they have certainly hit the farmer a body blow. A year was blotted out of the lives of farmers on the income side of the ledger, and on the expense side, the cost of living, and the cost of operation went on. It is a good thing that the farmers are the salt of the earth, for if this thing had happened to any other class of men, there would have been serious trouble in the nation.

It may be that the political economists who think for us at the present time are right in believing that wages were too high. But we do not agree with them. At least we believe that there was no good reason why the country could not have gone on as it was all working, and all spending, and wasting. It is true that the laboring man waxed fat and kicked and voted for a change. Man never is but always to be blest.

But they took the wind out of the bladder too completely. Let a reasopable amount of inflation come again, and come speedily, and if it must come out of the pockets of the property holders, it would be in a measure painless if it came through the gift to the soldiers. We can all remember when we sent them into battle with the feeling that if they did not prevail that it was just about the end of the world for all of us at home. Then nothing was too much to promise them. Now let us make good.

Henry Ford is still at it crying out in the wilderness for the government to cease paying interest. To pay off the liberty bonds in greenbacks and let every body have a glut of money to burn. He is right about interest being burdensome. but he is not right in wanting to impair the money system of the country. Under the present law of nature, man is born, runs awhile, and dies. Man is gifted with an intelligence that includes a knowledge of the past, and a power to calculate the future, including his chances for continued life. Man knows that mankind was once in a savage state and that it was a hand to mouth existence and that old age was exceptional, and that when it did come that it was miserable. But in modern times, old age is provided for by interest on savings, and the regular course is for the young man to borrow, and the old to lend. This goes on forever. And if Henry Ford succeeds in abolishing interest, he will let loose of the only safe anchor and the ship will be on the rocks.

Ford has done the country harm by filling it full of pleasure carriages, until the whole country is sliding down hill for the purpose of the enjoyment of motion. In our young days, if we had to move swiftly through the air, we waited until it snowed, got a board and scooted down a hill. Then they invented bicycles, but they did not cost so much and they went under their own power. Bicycles finally got very cheap. They even sprung this joke: "Who are you thinking of?" "Isabel." "Isabel who?" "Is a bell necessary on a bicycle?" But the bicycles were not so bad. You could either have one or leave it alone.

But the automobile came. It was the most perfect motion yet invented. But it took roads and gasoline.

And no wonder that Ford would pray for money in bales. His next proposition might be for a law requiring all families to have one automobile for week days and another of a different color for Sundays. That is the kind of a statesman Ford is.

He ought to study Russian. A man showed us a letter from Russia the other day and said that it had a thousand rubles in postage stamps on it, formerly equivalent to five hundred dollars. We could not tell whether they were rubles or not, but we have no reason to doubt the information, for we are ready to believe anything about Russia.

And speaking of Russia, we would say unto you solemnly, that if you would know what it is to have hell upon earth go and do what them Russians done.

May we all be saved from such a fate. Man is a devil loosely bound, and let us by no word however high sounding, release the strictures of those bonds.

We mistrust Ford's scheme for universal money, feeling somehow that he must have wheels in the back part of his head.

In case the bonus does come, or any other improvement in the condition of the ordinary man, there should be a concerted movement inaugurated to discourage polite strangers from coming here and selling gold bricks and things like that. The suckers are not all confined to the cities. A few live in the country, and one sucker who gets trimmed in the country, makes more fuss about it than a dozen in the city. There is only one lamp by which our feet are guided. And that is to refuse to buy anything that a man asks you to buy. In a short time this kind of forbearance will save each of you a million dollars. Many bargains have been offered to us. We connot remember one that even returned the principal, much less the profit.

The grandjury last week paid some attention to the blue sky law and brought in indictments against persons who visited this county and disposed of bargains. The blue sky law is meant to protect people against the hypnotism of the stranger, and at this time the Auditor of the State is getting active. An official was here last week inquiring into violations of the blue sky law. The grandjury found indictments under the blue sky act against certain persons who got great wads of money from our citizens without giving anything in return except bitter recollections, and thoughts that burn like iron when they think. And having found those indictments, to make the job more perfect, found another set of indictments against the same persons for larceny, for there was law in the land long before the blue sky was thought of.

Insurance agents and fruit tree agents have done a world of good, but beware of the man who has to beg you to buy into a proposition that promises enormous profits. It goes without saying that if there was any prospect of extraordinary profit, that it would not be for sale.

A question was raised last week whether poison oak was poisonous in the winter time, and positive evidence by one witness who recalled being in the woods late in the fall when the party killed a deer, and the weather was so cold that a fire was needed. In making the fire he pulled down a poison vine and was poisoned, and that was that. The only evidence to the contrary were a large number of witnesses who could only state that they had not been poisoned in the winter time. but it appeared on cross examination that they had not been poisoned in the summer time either. So it may be accepted as a fact that it is possible to be poisoned in the winter time.

It seems that posion oak is a shrub from one to three feet high and that it is possible to be poisoned by it, though not likely. The poison is in the leaves and they have been used by herb doctors in the green for paralysis and other nervous diseases. It is doubtful whether any person has ever been seriously poisoned by this plant.

On the other hand there is a plant known as poison ivy or poison vine that is extremely poisonous. It is a vine and it has the peculiar effect of emanating poison so that a person may be contaminated without touching it, a truly dreadful property in a vicious plant. Yet some persons are immune. That is either because they do not assimilate the poison or because the vine does not make an attack on them. One is no more wonderful than the other. The poison has the effect sometimes of causing the whole body to swell, followed by inflamation of the skin, pustules, and violent itching. We have seen some very bad cases of poisoning.

Let us hear from some other observers. Both as to whether poison oak and poison ivy are distinct plants and whether both are poison?

We do not hold very strongly to the the idea that the plant only poisons some people. Those who think they have immunity from it are probably those who have been fooling with the poison oak, or who have been handling Virginia creeper. The poison ivy is a comparative rare plant and is hardly to be classed as a respecter of persons.

It has been a good sugar tree year. This country is too far south for sugar trees, but the high altitude and the untold square miles of leavy coverage give us a colder climate than would be expected from the degree of latitude. The sugar trees commenced to run this year in November and have been bleeding every mild day since then. Maple syrup has been passing current in town at two dollars a gallon and sugar at fifteen cents a pound or two pounds of granulated sugar for one of the home made.

Some body asked the other if any other trees weregood for sugar. All the maples make sugar after a fashion, as does the walnut, and the birch and possibly others, but the percent of sugar is so small in them that it is not worth while fooling with them. About the best that can be expected of sugar tree sap is forty pounds of water to one pound of sugar, or the old rule of a bushel of water to a pound of sugar may be nearer the mark.

In India there is a palm tree that yields a sap that makes sugar for home use, but which does not have much demand in the market. It is a tree known as the wild date and it begins to flow about October, the beginning of the cold season and continues until February. The sap is known as toddy, and ten pounds of sap will make one pound of sugar, called jaggery.

The Woman's Club at its meeting last week had as a mental stimulant and a part of the program, the literary feature of answering roll call with with an Irishism, by which we took it to mean a Hibernicism, or Irish idiom, or some irregularity peculiar to the Irish language. Any way when the women got to seeking samples of that kind to keep from paying a forfeit, that is the way that we interpreted it. We dug up the following to begin with:

An Irishman said: "I went into a kitchen; I saw no stove; something I never saw before; and if I had not seen it I would not have believed it."

And the American lady with Irish blood in her said that she did not see anything in it. We told her to see if she could say it, and this is the way that she rendered it:

"I went into a kitchen that had no stove. I never saw such a thing before and if I had not seen it I would not have believed ut."

So we agreed that there was nothing in that joke.

And here are the substitutes approved: The Irishman said that it was good to be alone especially when your sweetheart is with you.

Two Irishmen were at work near a pit. One fell in. The other cried out: "Pat, if ye are dead, spake!" And Pat replied: "I am not dead, only spachless."

Auction Sale

Having sold my farm one mile east of Edray, W. Va., I will on

SATURDAY, MARCH 25,

sell at public auction to the highest bidder the following personal property, to-wit—

1 first class Jersey cow, 6 yrs, fresn
Polled Angus cow, 3yrs, calf 4 months
A yearling heifer, half Jersey
1 double shovel plow 1 garden plow
1 single shovel plow with coulter
1 doz crosscut saws, some good as new
1 doz axes, some good as new
5 pr saw wedges 4 hammers
1 lot of saw handles
Bed steads and springs, mattresses, comforts, blankets, etc., 1 davenport, Leather couch, 1 dining room table
1 set dining stools 1 set chairs
3 rockers, 1 dresser, 1 wash stand
1 sewing machine, 1 stand table
1 lot carpet 1 telephone 1 lot hoes
1 Home Comfort range, 1 Cole blast heater, 1 Richmond heater, lot dishes
1 lot stoneware, 1 lot of glass jars
1-2 barrel best apple vinegar
1 stone churn 8 gals lot shovels, etc.
1 lot of Barred Rock chickens of the best laying strain. Many other things too numerous to mention.

Sale starts at 10 a. m.

Terms made known on day of sale.
Gum, Auctioneer.

J. F. JUDY.

Hereford Bulls for Sale

One, two or three year old Hereford bulls at $65, $85 and $100. You can get such low prices no where else, so come quick if you want to buy. They are pure bred.

L. D SHARP
Slatyfork, W. Va.

Announcements

HOUSE OF DELEGATES

Editor Pocahontas Times—

At the request of my many friends, I have decided to make the race for House of Delegates, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Standing on my past record as a member of that body and promising if elected again to stand by and for the interest of Pocahontas County and the State, I solicit your support.

Yours Respectfully,
J. A. McLAUGHLIN.

This paper is authorized to announce E. N. MOORE a candidate for re-election to the House of Delegates, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

PLOWS

We are handling a nice line of Syracuse Plows and repairs. also shelf hardware, nails, etc.

THE PEOPLES STORE SUPPLY CO.

For Sale

Overland Car, five passenger
Studebaker car, seven passenger
1 spring wagon
1 runabout buggy
Set single harness
1 Thornhill wagon with shaft or tongue. All at private sale.

FLOYD DILLEY,
Marlinton W. Va.
Campbelltown, W. Va.

True Barred Rocks

Thompson Imperial Ringlet strain, Prize winners and egg producers, none better. $1 for setting of 15 eggs at home.

Mrs. W. A. BARLOW
Onoto, W. Va.

Commissioner's Notice

State of West Virginia
vs
103 acres, 597 1-2 acres, 8 acres, 30 acres, 123 acres, 33 acres, 26 acres, 64 acres and Jno. T. McGraw.

Pursuant to an order of reference made by the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County in the foregoing case, notice is hereby given that the undersigned Commissioner of said Court will proceed at his office in the town of Marlinton on the

24th day of March, 1922

to take, state and report to Court the following matters of account, to-wit:

1st. Whether or not the aforesaid tracts of land were returned delinquent for the non payment of taxes thereon for the year 1915 and sold by the Sheriff of Pocahontas County at Tax Sale for the year 1917 and purchased by the State of West Virginia, and if so the amount of taxes due thereon, including interest. costs and damages properly chargeable thereon.

2nd. Whether or not the said tracts of land or any part thereof were subsequently sold by the Sheriff of said County for the non-payment of taxes due thereon or returned delinquent for the non-payment of taxes due thereon, and if so the amount of taxes, interest and costs properly chargeable thereon.

3rd. Whether or not there is any person or persons entitled to redeem said lands or any part thereof, and whether any person is in position to take the benefit of the forfeiture.

4th. Any other matter deemed pertinent by the Commissioner or required by any party in interest.

W. A. BRATTON,
4 weeks Commissioner.

Angus Bulls for Sale

Six head of registered Angus bulls, coming threes fine individual animals of the right blood lines. These bulls must bs sold in the next 30 days Price $100 each.

J. A. CUNNINGHAM.
Evenwood, W. Va.

CLEANING & PRESSING

Should you desire at any time to have any wearing apparel cleaned, pressed, repaired or altered I would be pleased if afforded the opportunity of demonstrating to you my unexcelled service.

Mrs. Mary Taylor,
Cass, W. Va.

NOTICE

To Income Taxpayers:

I will be at the following places on the following dates, for the purpose of making up Personal Income Tax Returns, rendering assistance, or giving information to all who desire it. Be ready to furnish me amount of your earnings, together with your income from all other sources, and I will be ready to make your return.

Meet me at one of the following places:

1922, March 6—Bank of Durbin, Durbin, W. Va.
March 7—Mountain Inn, Cass,
March 8 and 9—Marlinton Hotel, Marlinton, W. Va.

J. WALLACE McDOWELL.
Deputy Collector.

House for Sale

I will sell you a 6 room house for $200 less than it will cost you to build and will give you the lot and garage free. There is a fine garden on the lot. If you want a home of your own write us soon. This house is located in West Marlinton and it is in good condition.

L. D SHARP.
Slatyfork, W. Va.

POULTRY

Burbin Reds turkey eggs for setting $5 00 per 13; Barred Rock eggs $1.25 for 15; Rhode Island Reds $1 25 for 15 by Parcel Post prepaid. Hens lay year 'round.

Mrs. A. S. Gay,
Onoto, W. Va.

EGGS

S. C. Rhode Island Reds 15 eggs 75 cents. Parcel Post 25 cents extra. A fine strain of best layers.

Mrs. J. B. Simmons,
Millpoint, W. Va.

Come Make Money in Northern Virginia

Northern Virginia is most ideally located for dairy farming and stock raising owing to its productive lands and its proximity to the big markets. One hour will put your produce on the Washington market, two to Baltimore, four to Philadelphia and six to New York. Farms of all sizes for sale at very reasonable prices. If interested write or come and let us show you.

Southern Real Estate Exchange and Insurance Co. Inc.
Peoples National Bank Bldg. Manassas, Va.

Farm for Sale

100 acres, extra good buildings, level fields, well watered pasture, some timber, fruit; 1 1-2 miles to town and depot, 2 miles to Perry Highway; 6 miles to Conneaut Lake, on public road. Easy terms. $5250 if sold before March 1. A number of Pocahontas families have bought land near here, one of them being P. L. Williams.

F. C. PETERS, Conneaut Lake, Pa.

Live Bees and Bee Supplies

Live Bees after 1st of May

Write for 1922 Catalogue

L. O. SIMMONS,

Bring your beeswax—24c lb. Marlinton, W. Va.

TRADE MARK
F.S.R.
REGISTERED

Royster Fertilizers

are not just raw materials thrown together and run through a mixer.

They Are Highly Scientific Plant Foods

Materials are all carefully selected after long study of the plant requirements, formulated in just the right proportions, and then fully cured for months before shipping.

Of all years, this is the one you should know your fertilizer—you can't afford to take any chances. Consider what you can lose for the sake of saving a few dollars in the price of fertilizer.

ROYSTER BRANDS are sold on their merits. They have stood the field test for nearly forty years.

They Produce Results!

F. S. Royster Guano Company
Baltimore, Maryland

Farm for Sale

At a very reasonable price to quick buyer. Containing about 170 acres on which is a comfortable dwelling house, a good barn and all necessary out buildings, such as wagon shed, granary, dairy, poultry house, smoke house, and cellar. Plenty of good fruit for two or three families, severnice farm fields. good meadows and is practically all inclosed with rail or wire fence. This farm has two good sugar orchards, plenty of good water and a lot of nice timber, an ideal place for stock, or would make two very good homes. Convenient to North Fork Lumber Co. Situated 6 miles west of Hightown, Va., in blue grass district, Highland County, 1 1-2 miles south of S. & P. Pike with good road to same. 1-2 mile to school. If you are looking for a bargain come and see this farm or write to owner

J. P. HISE,
Hightown. Va.

Young Women Wanted

The Marlinton Hospital will take a number of young women who desire to train for nurses. Ages between 18 and 30 years; grammar school education required and High School attendance preferred For particulars apply at office of Hospital Marlinton, W. Va.

Farm for Sale

122 acres one mile from Greenbank. Write or come and see the farm. A good bargain if sold soon. Fifty thousand ft. good lumber for sale.

J. H. Kerr,
Dunmore, W. Va.

FOR SALE:—I have two heavy teams of horses for sale at Rimel, W. Va., with harness, spreads and coupler complete, ready for work. Will sell at the right price.

A. D. Hoke. Rimel, W. Va.

HOGS MISSING:—Five hogs got away from the Top of Allegheny February 13, Four black shoats, one male and three sows, one sow with some white in the face: weight near 140 pounds each, and one large black Berkshire sow with some white in the face, weight about 300 pounds, no ear marks. A reward of $10.00 will be given for information leading to ths return of these hogs.

A. E Puffenbarger,
Bartow, W. Va.

Commissioner's Notice

State of West Virginia
vs.
8032 acres of Mineral land and Jno. T McGraw

Pursuant to an order of reference of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, made in the foregoing cause, the undersigned Commissioner in Chancery will proceed at his office in the town of Marlinton, W. Va., on the

24th day of March, 1922

to take, state and report to Court the following matters of account, to-wit:

1st. Whether or not the 8032 acres of coal, oil and gas and other minerals in plaintiff's bill described was sold by the Sheriff of Pocahontas County at tax sale for the non-payment of taxes due thereon for the year 1915, and purchased by the State of West Virginia, and if so the amount of taxes due thereon for the year 1915, including interest, costs and damages properly chargeable thereon.

2nd. Whether or not the said mineral land containing 8032 acres was subsequently sold for taxes due there on or returned delinquent for the non payment of taxes due thereon, and if so the amount of taxes, interest and costs properly charged to said land.

3rd. Whether or not there are any persons entitled to redeem said mineral land or any part thereof, or whether or not there is any person in position to take the benefit of the forfeiture.

4th. Any other matter deemed pertinent by the Commissioner or required by any party in interest.

W. A. BRATTON,
4wks Commissioner.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Closed Ford Car For Sale

The Red Cross Car is for sale. It is a a Coupe Ford, with a brand new top. Has been run one season and is in good condition. Apply at Times Office for price and particulars.

HOUSE FOR SALE—6 room house and 5 lots for sale at Riverside, addition of Marlinton, at a reasonable rate. Apply to owner.

W. J. BIGGS,
Marlinton, W. Va.

ATTORNEYS

N. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court Appeals

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Marlinton, W. Va.
Furniture made to order and old furniture repaired.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

R. B. SLAVIN
Heating, Plumbing and Sheet Metal Work. Best materials. 17 years experience.
Marlinton, W. Va.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specialty of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

Dr. CHAS. S. KRAMEE
DENTIST
First National Bank Building
Phone
Marlinton, W. Va

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

M. F. GUM
AUCTIONEER

R. T. GREER & SON

Marlinton, W. Va.

Largest Buyer Of

FUR SKINS
GINSENG
ROOTS and
HERBS

Get Our Price

DELCO-LIGHT

"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue
ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES

Marlinton Electric Co.

DEALERS

Lower Prices

I am going to pass along decline in price of SHEET ROCK WALL BOARD. See it. It's great

J. W. MILLIGAN
Marlinton, W. Va.

Z. S. Smith

Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

S. C. RHODE ISLAND REDS

American Best Blood, with size and color, bred to lay. $1 for setting of 15 eggs.

Mrs EFFIE AULDRIDGE
Millpoint, W. Va.

S. C. WHITE LEGHORNS—15 eggs 75c, parcel post 25c extra. A fine strain of best layers. One of my pullets laid at 4 months of age. J. J. Loury, Huntersville, W. Va.

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager

HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC

Marlinton West Virginia.

V-C Fertilizer

Tried Tested and Proven
25 years

by the Best Farmers in the Greenbrier Valley

Virginia-Carolina Brands

Little Giant Crop Grower,
Beef, Blood and Bone,
Fish Bone and Potash,
High Grade Potash,
Best Potato Formula,
16 and 20 percent Acid Phosphate.

Ask your dealer for V-C. Fertilizer and accept no substitute. Time has proved it right for our soils.

V-C. Dealers—H. W. Harper, Hillsboro; A. A. Sharp, Frost; T. H. Hiner, Marlinton and H S. Skaggs, Arbovale.

Picture Framing

AND FURNITURE REPAIRING

Picture framing neatly and promptly done at a reasonable price. Also old furniture made as good as new. Shop at my house near Court-house. Phone your orders and I will come for your work.

C. J. McCarty,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Sept. 1.

For Sale

Copper Water Cans, Spouting, Tin Fixtures, copper tubing, bath room outfits, etc.

C. W. Slavin
Tinner and Plumber
Marlinton, W. Va.

Baxter's Garage

MARLINTON W. VA.

FORD Cars and Supplies

FORDSON Tractors

A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.

J. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Engine and Thresher For Sale

One 26x32 threshbox, Faurquhar, in good conditiod, with belts, etc. An International portable 10 hp gasoline engine. This makes a fine threshing outfit. Will sell together or separately to suit purchaser.

D. M. KENNISON
Lobelia, W. Va.

Picture Framing

I am now prepared to frame pictures. I have a large assortment of framing. Prompt service and neat work guaranteed.

G. W. Palmer,
Upper Camden, Avenue.

Hereford Bulls

I have a lot of young Hereford bulls, registered and fine specimen of the breed. Will be sold for spring delivery.

J. S. McNeel,
Seebert, W. Va.

For Sale at a Bargain

1500 acres of land in Virginia.
A good farming proposition.
A good timber proposition.
A good water-power proposition
A good milling proposition.
All combined in the above.
Bad health is why this proposal is made.
If interested, write to the owner

C. H. REVERCOMB,
Covington, Va

FOR SALE

A two-horse gasoline engine, International make, and a power sausage mill. These machines are in fine condition, but have been replaced with electrical equipment.

R. H. McELWEE
Marlinton, W. Va.

WANTED Man with car to sell the BEST Ford Oil Guage made. $100.00 per week and extra commissions. Benton Harbor Accessories Co., Benton Harbor, Mich.

FOR SALE—70 acre farm, good buildings, good orchard, well watered 2 1-2 miles from Millpoint. Priced reasonable. G. G. Thompson, Millpoint, W., Va

Public Sale

I will sell at public auction, at my place near Dunmore, on the 21st day of March 1922, the following:

14 head cows, young, well bred and fine milkers
2 two year old bulls
9 good calves
1 thoroughbred Percheon stallion. an elegant horse
1 lot of corn
1 lot of oil drums
1 lot of paint
1 heavy wall drill, and bits
1 cider mill
2 desk phones, and a bunch of other valuables, and a lot of cheap lumber if not sold before.

All the above property is going to be sold. No side bidding business to be carried on.

TERMS of SALE—All sums of $10 and under cash. Over that amount eight months time will be given with note and good endorsers.

Sale begins at 10 o'clock.

S. Reece Pritchard.

NOTICE

To Stockholders of the Marlinton & Stony Creek Mutual Telephone Co:

At a call meeting of the directors on February 11 1922, the secretary was directed to advertise in The Pocahontas Times that all stockholders not now using their stock, must assign their stock back to the company on or before the first day of March, 1922, or they will be held responsible for their part of the improvement, and it was further ordered that if any stockholder does not turn over his share of stock to the company but turns it over to some one else that the owner of the stock will be held for his share of the expense for improvement unless the one who buys or accepts the stock agrees to pay the $8.00 for improvement in 1922.

Geo. A. C. Auldridge,
Secretary & Treas.

FOR SALE

One portable Geiser Engine and boiler; one Frick sawmill; one 56 inch inserted saw; one 60 inch inserted saw; one 2 saw edger; one cut off saw; line shafting and belting. All in good working order. Camp, barn and blacksmith shop. Also about 900 00 feet of hardwood timber located on Back Mountain two miles from Durbin, W. Va.

D. M. HENRY.
Bartow. W. Va.

S. C. BROWN LEGHORN EGGS

Per setting of 15 at house, 75 cents. Per setting of 15 by porcel post $1.00. Per 100 at house, $5.00; by parcel post 50c extra.

These eggs are from a laying strain some of the best blood lines in the country are represented in this flock. There is no better layer than the S. C. Brown Leghorn, and few as good.

FRED GEHAUF,
39 Upper Camden, Marlinton, W. Va

VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE—In Greenbrier county, W. Va. 40 acres situated at Horrock Station on Greenbrier Division C. & O. Ry. 30 acres of which is fine river bottom under high state of cultivation. Good new 6 room cottage house, new store house, good barn, new granary, poultry house, smoke house and top ground cellar, fine young orchard in full bearing, plenty of grapes, plums and peaches for family use the best of spring water, one third mile to school, church and postoffice. A beautiful home. Good fishing and hunting in 1-2 mile of place and in a good neighborhood. Reason for selling, interests elsewhere. Come and see it if interested or write me for partirulars and price.

ALEX STUART,
R. R. Station Horrock, W. Va.
Julia P. O. W. Va.

FARM FOR SALE—90 acres of land near State Road between Huntersville and Minnehaha Springs, 40 acres cleared, young orchard. For particulars. Apply to H. F. BUSSARD, Huntersville, W. Va.

SOME POLITICS EVERYONE SHOULD KNOW

By Wm H. Sawyers

About forty years ago Bill Tweed and his gang of political hoodlons robbed the City of New York. They were advised by Fernando Wood. Among Wood's private letters was found this advice to his fellow political crooks "Remember that we never omit to pander to the 'Moral Element.'"

The Devil never wears his harpoon tail, nor hoof and horns when he prepares to fill up hell to the forecastle. History shows that the Devil pulls off his big killings in the name of morality, religion and reform. This is why there are now pending in Congress twenty-one thousand bills with enough poison in either one of them to kill the United States.

Our forefathers knew that man had always been a shifter of responsibility and that he always went crooked if he could find a scapegoat to bear his sins; that in Eden when caught red handed in the act he laid it on the woman and the woman on the snake and that ever since then to allow a shift of individual responsibility, local self government, meant degredation and ruin. In the twenty-five years of unparalled peace and prosperity before the Great War our people grew rich and mentally indolent and stupid and the Devil saw a chance to make a haul EN MASSE and he made it. He gave all the political crooks in the country the receipt given Tweed when he robbed New York, "When you want to steal never omit to pander to the 'Moral Element'" Whenever the Devil can persuade people that they can shirk the responsibility of individual government by turning their business, morals, rights, and religion over to centralized bureaucracy at Charleston or Washington all he has to do then is to get his brimstone vats in readiness by the million with the calm assurance that all will be filled.

Our State Tax Commissioner complains that I do not criticise constructively. I cannot and do justice to my country. It has made some fearful mistakes and if there be not wisdom and manhood and Americanism enough left to correct these mistakes our country will drift over the the awful precipice to degredation and ruin. Dr. Max Nordon has said that this is the era of degenerates and fools in high places and I think he is right. The "high places" were an abomination back in Bible times and I cannot see that they ever improve. I would not reform the high places of paternalism. I would break them down and abolish them. I would make kindling wood of nearly every bureau in the United States. They, for the most part, are the humbugs of logrolling legislation, made to reward the henchmen of political parties at the expense of taxpayers to the degradation and ruin of the true foundation of Americanism, local self government. Some of these offices the Savior of the world couldn't fill and keep straight. You can scarcely go to a local officer and find that he will not try to wiggle off the responsibilities of his office on the State Tax Commissioner or some other official in Charleston. Old Satan is a great hand to roar—always. He beat the whelps of lions at the midnight hour. In some of the courts and other official circles you are reminded of old Impey, or the bellowing bloody Jeffreys of the British Court of High Commission. How they talk about upholding "The Constitution," the Flag and the laws of our country. Let us see how much they think of the Constitution and the Flag and upholding the laws of our country. Space forbids me to tell what they did to us in the Great War, when they violated every principle of our Constitution and beset us with the harpies of hell to rob us on every hand. Mr Hallanan says that the "flurry of the war" caused our troubles. I want Mr. Hallanan to tell me if the war caused our troubles why we have as much crime in Kanawha county as there is in mighty London and why we have forty times more crime in Chicago and New York than there is in Paris and Berlin. Quit using the war for a scapegoat. The Legislature of this State in 1921 undertook to do with the people exactly what the clerk does who borrows ten thousand dollars from his employer, without his knowledge or consent, and invests it in an oil well. It is all right if they strike a "gusher" but hell if they strike a dry hole and this time she is a "duster" and there is hell on the banks of the Great Kanawha. The Legislature logrolled, created jobs and spent money like drunken sailors without regard to the Constitution or common sense. Mr. Hallanan takes umbrage at my calling the money they tried to gouge out of the oil and gas interests to pay appropriations, some of them passed in violation of the Constitution, "Grafts." What do you call it, Mr. Hallanan? It was not taxes. The Supreme Court of the United States settled that and the Legislature is nothing but a creature of the Constitution is it? And you do not know of any Divine Right that it has or common law jurisdiction do you? Then when it ceases to function under the Constitution of this State and the Constitution of the United States it is a mob isn't it and no man should do it reverence? The trouble is that there has been so much paternalism, bluff and hypocracy, that some people thought that nobody would ever have the nerve to call their hand. But riot is breaking out everywhere:

Listen to A. J. Marple, ex-Sheriff of Upshur County,—

"The appropriations at the regular sesion of the legislature in 1911 for all the expenses of the State Senate was $13,900, and in 1921, it was over $118,000, an increase of over 750 percent and this amount does not include an additional appropriation of $19,578 for janitor service for the Senate, for shoe laces, for drinking water, for 130 copies of the Code at $21 each, and many other articles too numerous to mention."

Mr Hallanan is supposed to be the watch dog of our State Treasury although I will admit that I have not heard his protective barkings reverberating among the hills of Upshur. I heard no GROWLS from him when the recent legislature passed an "emergency" bill increasing the salaries of the Secretary of State, Auditor, Treasurer, Attorney General and Commissioner of Agriculture in violation of the spirit, if not the letter of the Constitution when it appropriated money to pay these increased salaries prior to March 4, 1921. I heard no HOWLS from him when his pet assessment law was passed increasing the salaries of the assessars of the State, in clear violatson of the Constitution. He was perfectly quiet and docile when the legislature increased his salary $2000 per year during his term of office, a distinct violation of the Constitution that he was sworn to support. Article 6, Sec. 38 says "Nor shall the salary of any public office be increased of diminished during his term of office." Great respect, indeed is shown our Constitution these latter days.

And that is not the worst. Much of the "legal" appropriations are as much graft as the illegal appropriations. But what about all these County Commissioners, whose salaries the legislature raised in violation of the Constitution and after the question had been submitted to popular vote and defeated? And how do some of our Criminal Courts expect to gaze into the comparatively honest face of a bootlegger and give him a loud lecture, for political purposes, on original sin and the necessity for a change of heart when the Court's pockets are full of money wrung from the taxpayers contrary to the Constitution of the State? Eighteen years ago I told Mr. Dawson that his tax reform was a fake; that his "true and actual" value was meaningless gibberish; that this thing of making the "rich pay the tax" was a lie as old as the world, and my witness now that I was right is W. S. Hallanan. He says, after eighteen years of tax reforming, that the property in the State is only assessed at about one third its value. And instead of the "rich paying the tax" Mr. Hallanan is having his consistory of illegally paid assessors tax all the old roosters of the poor, while the oil and gas interests can look him straight in the eye and tell him to go to hell. I come now to what I shall term the "Infallibility" of the Tax Commissioner. On account of conditions that need not be discussed here no human being can come within forty rods of the "true and actual" value of any property, real or personal, in West Virginia as of January 1st, 1922. Dr. I. C. White, the greatest coal and oil geologist on earth would not dare to swear within five thousand dollars of the true and actual value of any acre of coal, oil or gas land in West Virginia. And who knows anything about the value of farms? And yet Mr. Hallanan says he can value them just right. He can not do it and he is not a whit more capable of making true or just valuations of property than the humblest assessor in the State. This country has bedrabbled itself over a million miles of bog after every will-o-the-wisp only to find itself in debt, taxed to death, grafted and lied to, with crime and discontent over on the increase. And the "Moral Element" will be pandered to just as long as it will let the Weed Rings and organized bands of grafters rob the country. And whilst the "Moral Element" is tearing its shirt off to break down every particle of human liberty by its fool Sunday laws and other fourteenth century tyrannies in violation of every principle of American manhood, it may expect graft and crime and hatred and illwill to mount higher and higher. West Virginia has pandered more to the "Moral Element" than any other State in the Union. This is why we have less liberty and more ignorance and graft and crime, and are held up everywhere as a "horrid example." And if I were running the Ship of State I would not try to run her round the Horn in the tempests and darkness and desolations of an Arctic Winter. No sir, I would "hove her to" and reef her sails and haul "midlin" close to shore. Better a riot with the crew than a smash up with an iceberg; better stand pat on the Constitution than go forward to the guillotine.

And if our State Tax Commissioner wants a bit of "constructive criticism" that will help him in this world and the next, if he wants to do a real service, let him stand with the taxpayers instead of the grafters whether they be constitutional or not and he will wear diadems of glory that will never fade away. These grafters are the most heartless devils that ever came from the pits of perdition, crafty men, greedy men, lazy men, fanatics, criminals, crooks, dreamers, fools and loafers of both sexes, organized with all the ramifications of Fagin's Den of Thieves, in every name under heaven, to tax and graft this nation to death; to get your money, Mr. Taxpayer, by methods that would make the Russian Bolshiviki hang its head in shame. Watch Charleston! Watch Washington!

Hinton, West Virginia.

THE REAL NEED

When I was just "around the town,"
Folks never seemed to care a whit
If I was sick, or well or down
And out, or even where I lit.

Some day my name may flare in flame
In letters you can read a block;
Then these dear folks with loud acclaim
Will hail me by the drove and flock.

When men are really out of luck
And look up to the crest above,
That's when they're in the mire and muck—
They need a pull, and not a shove.

Dame Fortune smiles on many men
In spite of all they have to face;
And you may wager one to ten,
'Twas not from boosts but just His grace.

—Maurice C. Waugh.

FOR SALE—A utility body for a Ford car. This is a mighty handy thing for hauling produce to town. Floyd Dilley, Marlinton, W. Va.

MRS MARY W. GATEWOOD

On February 17, 1922, at Linwood, W. Va., Mrs. Mary Warwick Gatewood departed this mortal existence and joyfully entered on a glorious immortality. Who could doubt it after her long and useful christian life here below. To mourning children gathered around her bed, she expressed herself as ready and willing to die, and with a smile upon her countenance comforted them. The decease of this excellent lady calls for more than a passing notice and myself having known her in other and earlier days, have been chosen to retrace a portion of memory: It is with mournful pleasure I speak of my dear young friend as I have ever considered her, tho' like myself she had exceded the allotted age of man, living on borrowed time. In later years, circumstances beyond our control kept us apart, both lovers and keepers of home and not traveling the miles between us.

Mary Warwick, as I knew her, afterwards Gatewood, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James and Eliza Warwick, and resided in Bath county Virginia, near the Warm Springs, having been born in 1847. While yet a young girl she professed religion and joined the Presbyterian Church of the Warm Springs.

It was during the Civil War that we were thrown together and lodged beneath the same roof in the young ladies academy at Lexington, Va., then under conduct of that accomplished and superior lady, Mrs. Baskerville. I came up from Richmond to teach in the school and Mary Warwick with her younger sister, now deceased, were pupils in the institution. Raised in an elegant and refined home and society, well educated and sensible, they were ready for rapid advancement, and by their courtesy, personal attractions and dilligence made many new friends. I recall how free they were from excitement and foolish fear when we were under fire of the battle—shells swirling and breaking above our heads. Those were the sad and troublesome days of the Civil War, its distractions and distresses, but hope that springs eternal in the human breast, whispered that some of us might survive to see better times, and we prepared accordingly.

Mary Warwick married A. C. L. Gatewood and became mother to seven children: Mamie, afterwards Mrs. Dr. Cameron, Warwick, Eugene, William, Massie, Andrew and Eliza, now Mrs. John Dunlap. Of Mary's family three preceded her to the grave, her husband, her first born son and Mrs. Cameron. The rest remain to mourn one of the best of mothers, and I trust to rejoice in her present felicity with the Savior whom she loved and honored on earth. I would not fail to mention Mrs. Gatewood's sympathy and kindness to the poor and afflicted we have ever with us, and the oneness with the church of Christ in its present state awaiting the advent of our Lord.

Mrs. Gatewood's last sickness was short, influenza quickly followed by pneumonia, just a few days, and God gave her rest and the perfect health of Heaven. On Sunday afternoon the precious form was committed to the arms of earth that mother of us all, the Rev. O. N. Miles officiating.

And so He giveth His beloved sleep.

The Death angel came with errand from God:
The words of his message we did not hear,—
She heard every word and quickly arose,
To meet the death angel without a tear.
(I listened and seemed to hear children say)
The tears are for us—we miss her today,
And while this life lasts shall miss her alway.

Anna L. Price.

Marlinton, W. Va.

A good entertainment was given at Kennison a few evenings since by the Kennison school. The teacher was assisted by Mrs. N. P. Kennison who has charge of the music at all of the entertainments, and also gives music lessons to those who wish to take lessons. The school and community enjoy a treat in having this talented musician. She sang one of her beautiful solos, and her little daughter Louise, who is gifted in song, sang in a charming manner "Apples for a Penny" and other songs. A humorous song, Sally and Si, was well rendered by Stella Powers and James Kennison and was the source of much merriment. A reading by Gartrell Workmen, plays, monologues, and patriotic music completed the program. XX.

Honor Roll for primary room, 4th month of Stony Bottom school, Edray District, Glenna S. Auldridge, teacher. Perfect attendance: Valley Beverage, Mary Bell Tallman, Grace Wilfong, Anna McLaughlin, Edith Thomas, Maud Doyle, Jesse Moore, Okey Moore, Frank Wilfong, Bearyl Bumgardner, Luther Wilfong, Earl Tallman, Myrl Tallman, Harlon McLaughlin, Luther Geiger, June Meeks Forrest Sharp. Faithful attendance: Clyde Tallman, Beryl Rider, Orval Curry, George McCalpin. 5th month: perfect attendance, Valley Beverage, Grace Wilfong, Anna McLaughlin, Edith Thomas, Jesse Moore, Okey Moore, Frank Wilfong, Luther Wilfong, Earl and Myrl Tallman, June Meeks, Orval Curry. Faithful attendance, Mary Bell Tallman, Maud Doyle, Bearyl Bumgardner, Harlon McLaughlin, Luther Geiger, Forrest Sharp.

Report of Sunrise school, fifth month, Clara Hollandsworth, teacher. Hazel McCoy, Hallie Kershner, Hazel Kershner, Lena Brown, Grace Kershner, Leta Kershner, Nellie McCoy, Edith Brown, Bland Kershner, Delbert Kershner, Everett McCoy, Gladys Brown, Ross Scott, Earl Shue.

EGGS FOR HATCHING, from fine S. C. R. I. Reds. Heavy egg producers. Gertrude Blagg, Monterey, Virginia.

HOUSE FOR RENT—If you want to rent a house and will pay your rent one month in advance and are a good peaceable citizen, apply to John Maupin, Marlinton, W. Va.

POLLED HEREFORD BULL—I have a Polled Hereford Bull calf for sale, ten months old, large size, in good condition.

Mrs Fannie Kinnison,
Seebert, W. Va.

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

And remember—the lowest first cost, the lowest upkeep and the highest resale value of any motor car ever built.

$319

F. O. B. Detroit

Salesmen! Earn More

Thousands of salesmen now using Ford Runabouts have increased their earning capacity up to 35%—and more. A point well worth your serious consideration. The entire expense—including operation and maintenance rarely exceeds railroad fares. Let us prove how a Ford Runabout will help you earn more money. Terms if desired.

Baxter's Garage

J. L. Baxter, Prop.

Marlinton W. Va.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

At rules held in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, on the first Monday in March 1922.

June McElwee
vs. In Chancery
Bernard B. Garrett and Bessie Garrett.

The object of the above styled suit is to enforce a vendors lien against two certain lots or parcel of land, lying in or near the town of Dunmore, Greenbank District, Pocahontas county, West Virginia, and being the same lots conveyed to June McElwee by M. Z. Shinaberry, by deed bearing date May 1st, 1920, and recorded in the office of the County Clerk of Pocahontas county, in D. B. 57 P. 332, and conveyed by June McElwee and wife to the defendant B. B. Garrett by deed bearing date Oct. 14th, 1920, and recorded in the aforesaid County Clerk's office in D. B. 58 P. 42.

This day came the plaintiff by his attorney and upon his motion and it appearing by affidavit, filed in this cause that Bernard B. Garrett and Bessie Garrett are non-residents of the State of West Virginia, it is therefore ordered, that the said Bernard B. Garrett and Bessie Garrett, do appear here within one month from the date of the first publication hereof and do what is necessary to protect their interests in this suit.

A Copy Teste:
D. C. ADKISON, Clerk
F. R. Hill, Sol.

State of West Virginia

At rules held in the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county, on Monday, the 6th day of March, 1922, the following ordered was entered:

State of West Virginia
vs. Upon a Scire Facias on a Forfeited Recognizance
Pete Snyder, Walter Echard and Margie Echard.

The object of the above entitled proceeding is to complete and make absolute the judgment on the forfeited recognizance entered into by Pete Snyder, Walter Echard and Margie Echard, on the 20th day of September, 1921, before C. P. Kerr, one of the Justice of Pocahontas county, and to have execution issued against the principal and sureties on said recognizance. And it appearing by affidavit filed in this cause that Pete Snyder, Walter Echard and Margie Echard are non-residents of this State it is ordered that they do appear here within one month after the date of the first publication hereof and do what is necessary to protect their interests.

A Copy Teste:
D. C. ADKISON, Clerk.
A. P. Edgar, Pros. Atty.

State of West Virginia

At rules held in the Clerk's Office of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county, on Monday, the 6th day of March, 1922, the following ordered was entered:

State of West Virginia
vs. Upon a Scire Facias on a Forfeited Recognizance.
Dorsey Freeman, W. A. Thiede,
John W. Goodsell, Executor of
W. B. Freeman, Minnie Spencer,
Oda Freeman, Lucy Law, Mrs. W. B. Freeman, Ed Freeman, Daisy Spencer, and Bessie Kramer.

The object of the above-entitled proceeding is to complete and make absolute the judgment on the forfeited recognizance entered into by Dorsey Freeman, W. A. Thiede, and William B. Freeman, on the 2nd day of July, 1921, before A. E. Smith, one of the Justices of Pocahontas county, and to have execution issued against the principal and sureties on said recognizance. And it appearing by affidavit filed in this cause that Dorsey Freeman and Minnie Spencer, are non-residents of this state, it is ordered that they do appear here within one month after the date of the first publication hereof and do what is necessary to protect their interests.

A Copy Teste:
D. C. ADKISON, Clerk.
A. P. Edgar, Pros. Atty.

Public Sale

At the Thompson Mill Property, six miles south of Monterey on Jacksons River, we will offer for sale on the entire mill property consisting of one Midget mill, 15 bbl capacity, practically new and running daily, equipped for grinding all kinds of meal and feed. There is sufficient watef power to run the mill, also have a 12 horse power gasoline engine, Witte make, 1 20 in. burr, a regular corn meal mill, also one 20 inch feed and buckwheat mill used only very little. The building and lot on which the mill is situated is right on the public road, easily accessible to loading or unloading grain, etc. and will make ideal location. The water right goes with the mill property.

Thursday, March 16, 1922

TERMS—$1,500, on day of sale and balance to suit purchaser.

GUTSHALL & GUTSHALL.

Auction Sale

OF HARNESS, SADDLES, ETC., HOUSEHOLD GOODS

ON THURSDAY, APRIL 6

As I am preparing to move to Maryland, I will sell at auction at my shop in Marlinton, opposite the postoffice, the entire stock of W. C. Kohler & Co., harness makers, consisting of—

4 sets of harness 2 saddles
35 collars, 12 bridles, tools and equipment of all kinds, hardware, harness buckles, rings, snaps, bits, trace chains, curry combs, brushes.

On the same day I will sell my household and kitchen furniture, consisting of stoves, kitchen cabinet, floor covering, beds, book case, chairs mattresses, and othee things too numerous to mention.

TERMS—Sums of $10 and under cash; over that amount, four months time, note with interest and approved security.

Sale begins at 1 o'clock
Gum, Auctioneer

W. C. KOHLER
Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR SALE;—At a bargain: A good six room plastered house with water in the house, four good lots with a small barn and a large poultry house and good coal house. Call on me at Campbelltown or write me at Marlinton, W. Va.

E. B. VanReenan.

Ben Franklin liked books.

Within their covers he found wisdom--the wisdom which when put into practice, earned for him a reputation as a great American.

We observed his birthday on January 17--it having been two hundred and sixteen years since his birth at Boston.

Franklin's philosophy may be sammed up in one word--THRIFT.

And the bank book is text book in the study of thrift. It was the book which Franklin heeded most because there, in black and white, was the result of his endeavors.

"Spend less than you make if you would succeed,"--said Franklin's famed "Poor Richard."

Investigate oar various departments, Loans, Savings, Bonds, Insurance, Real Estate.

Make your money work for you.

We solicit your account

BANK OF MARLINTON

Marlinton, West Virginia

DURBIN

Mrs. Virginia C Burner is much better in health at this time.

John Williams and family have been very sick. Dr. C. B. Collins' family is sick also.

C. E. Carpenter is able to be out and around.

The road men have started to drill near town. We will soon have a Class A road.

R. L. Shiflett is preparing to build a lot of fence.

Farmers are busy getting ready to put out big crops this spring.

A few cattle buyers are around here now.

C. R. Beard is moving to Cass this week.

Oscar Slaven is moving to Ray Wank's property.

Mrs. Mary Hilliard is very sick at the hom of her son, Austin Nottingham.

Mrs W. D. Slaven is able to be out after being sick for a week.

Mrs. J. F. Folk has a complete line of millinery on hands now.

J. D. Wilmoth says he has gotten so well un'in boils on his neck that he don't pay much attention to them any more.

George W. Wilmoth is in town this week.

RAYWOOD

The Warn Lumber company will start up again Monday after being shut down since last November.

The new supeinpendent, Mr. Wilson, seems to be on the move all the time.

Preston S. Warn is away this week on business.

We hear that H. H. Scofield will be with us again the first of April as bookkeeper for the company. We are glad to have Mr. Scofield return.

Frank Houchin is doing some surveying for the Warn Lmber Co. at Frost, on the Moore land where the company recently bought timber.

Robert Kramer stayed all night with Emory Adkison Sunday night on his way home to Dunmore. He had been visiting relatives in Marlinton.

Clarence Smith, of Little Rock, Arkansas, was visiting friends here last week.

Ellen Elizabeth Warren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Warren, entertained a number of her little frisnds on her seventh birthday Thursday March 9, 1922 Those present were, Mary Ellen Eddy, Catherine Wolverton, Rosalie Frazee, Estella Houchin, Virginia and Marie Dickson, Virginia Thompson, Zera Coffman, Kathryn and Bernice Adkison, Fay and Martha Conley, Helen Friel, Marthalee Pritchard, Carroll Barnhard, Paul Caraway, Charles Pritchard.

Mrs. Rachel Thompson, of Arbovale, has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ault, the past two weeks.

We are glad to note that Mrs. Steven Ray of this place, who underwent a surgical operation at the Marlinton Hospital, is getting along nicely and will be home soon.

Cook Gregory of this place has a position as clerk in the store of the Spring Creek Lumber Co., at Spring Creek, and will move his family there soon.

OVERHOLT & SON

First shipment of these beautiful dresses just received. Other shipments to follow in a few days. BETTY WALES dresses have a style and beauty all their own, and you can buy them at our store at the price of cheaper dresses.

$25.00 to $35.00

See our BETTY WALES Department for dresses of distinction, our regular stock for cheaper dresses.

Betty Wales Dresses

Ladies' Suits and Coats Arriving now every few days.

Sport coats in Tweeds and Home Spuns are very popular just now of which we have a good showing Also jacket suits are being shown in there same materials as well as poinet twills, piguetine ahd cordine. In general there are two types in suits. The box jacket is developed, to a great extent, in the younger models, and a more tailored garment in finger tip lengths is very popular. Our styles and prices are right.

Millinery This department is ready to serve you in the selection of the very latest in style, color and adaptability to your special need. Miss Guthrie again in charge.

THE VALUE STORE

Marlinton, W. Va.

LOCAL MENTION.

W. L. Deering was in Charleston last week to hear Billy Sunday.

T. S. McNeel, of Hillsboro, is in town this week on legal business.

Mrs. Oda Gay, of Frost, is being treated at the Marlinton Hospital.

Pat Poage returned to his home at Kendallsville, Indiana, last Friday.

Roy Landis, aged 24, was committed to the Weston Hospital on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Boggs spent Sunday with Mrs. Boggs parents at Millpoint.

Miss Brenna Robertson is home from Staunton, where she has been for the past five months.

Mrs. Wilbur Sharp, who was a patient in the Marlinton Hospital several weeks, is able to be at home.

M. C. Gatewood was here Tuesday to qualify as administrator of the estate of Mrs. Mary W. Gatewood.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Yeager are at home. They spent a few weeks at their farm in Southhampton County.

Mrs. E. M. Richardson left Wednesday morning to visit her sister, Mrs. George Richardson, at Staunton.

Floyd Brill has bought the garage business of Hiner & Gum. Mr. Brill has sold his restaurant to Roy Evans.

T. H. Hiner attended the sale of the Snedegar Mill at Beard Saturday. Frank Sparks was the purchaser at $5,000.

H. M. Shrobe, with the Ford Motor Company, Columbus Branch, was here Monday to call on the local Ford Dealer, J. L. Baxter.

L. W. Bauer, of Raywood, was in town Saturday. He reports his son, Jimmy as in the Youngstown, Ohio high school, and doing well.

George W. Sharp, State Game Protector, was in town Monday and Tuesday. For many weeks he has been traveling over the state, acquainting himself with local conditions, and perfecting a state wide organization. The sentiment for game fish and forest protection and conservation is universally strong and getting better every day. It is the intention of the Commission to have protectors along the streams of the State not later than the first of April, and on many streams prior to that date, especially the trout streams.

For Chapped Face and Hands

use FROST CREAM. Good for all irritations of the skin caused by exposure. It is a liquid but not sticky or greasy and has a most pleasant odor.

Your dealer can supply you.

Royal Drug Stores

Marlinton and Renick, W. Va.

NEW METHODIST CHURCH

The Marlinton Methodist Episcopal Church, South, subscribed $53,612.50 for a new church building, in a campaign of one week, ending Sunday night. The goal is $60,000, and there are sufficient subscriptions in sight to more than raise it. This was one of the most remarkable campaigns ever put on, and its great success speaks wonders for the liberality and loyalty of the congregation. Mention should also be made of Rev. S R. Neel, of Alderson, who spent the week here, preaching and conducting the campaign.

The plans for the building are comprehensive in every detail for a modern church. The church will be of brick, 50X109 feet, with an auditorium seating a thousand or more people. There will be a basement under the entire building. The Sunday school part will be two stories. It will probably be the finest church in this part of the State.

HUNTERSVILLE

Ernest White spent Sunday with his father, Ben White at Minnehaha Springs.

Mrs. S. P. Sheets has been with her daughter, Mrs. Bob McQuain, who has been very ill with flu.

Dr. J. I. Armstrong of Lewisburg, preached very able sermons here Sunday morning and evening.

Isaac Barlow has been very ill but is improving now.

Miss Helen Barlow, who is attending school at Lewisburg, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W H. Barlow. She was accompanied by her friend Miss Flora May Williams, of Maryland.

Miss Christine Loury entertained a number of her friends at a party last Thursday evening at 7-30. Those present Delana McLaughlin, Annie Philips, Meda Moore, Lavelle Thomas, Fannie May, Carl Thomas, Merle Guth, Kent and Hyle Loury, Turk McLaughlin, Norman Phillips, June McLaughlin. The evening was enjoyed by all.

Notice

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN—

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered on the 3th day of March, 1922, in the chancery cause of

John W. Goodsell, Executor of W. B. Freeman, deceased
vs
Edward Freeman and others

I will on MONDAY, APRIL 21th, 1922, at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, proceed to take, state and report to the June Term of the Circuit Court of said County the following matters of account, to wit:—

First. What personal estate the said W. B. Freeman owned at the time of his death, the character and value thereof.

Second. What disposition was made of said personal estate by the said Executer, J. W. Goodsell, and how much, if any, still remains in his hands.

Third. A statement of the executorial accounts of the said J. W. Goodsell, Executor.

Fourth. What debts the said W. B. Freeman owed at the time of his death, to whom payable, their nature and their respective amounts and priorities.

Fifth. The real estate owned by W. B. Freeman at the time of his death, its quantity, location and description.

Sixth. Any other matter deemed pertinent by the commisioner or required by any party in interest, at which time and place you may attend and do what is necessary to protect yotr interest in the premises.

N. C. McNEIL,
Commissioner.

NOTICE

To the creditors of W. B. Freeman, deceased:

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of the County of Pocahontas made in a cause therein pending, to subject the real estate of the said W. B. Freeman, to the payment of his debts, you are required to present your claims against the estate of the said W. B. Freeman, for adjudication to N. C. McNeil, commissioner, at his office, in Marlinton in said County, on or before the 24th day of April, 1922.

Witness D. C. Adkison, Clerk of said Court, this the 15th day of March 1922,

D. C. Adkison,

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. F. B Wyand, Pastor.
Sunday School 9:45, prompt.
A. S. Overholt, Superintendent.
Morning Service, 11 o'clock.
Epworth League, 7 o'clock
Evening Service, 7-45 o'clock

The Ladies' Aid Society will meet Thursday afternoon March 23rd at the home of Mrs. Carl Sheets.

Gilbert Dilley, 23 years old, was taken to Moundsville on Tuesday by Deputy Sheriff Elmer Moore, to serve a term of three years for grand larceny. He confessed and was sentenced at the recent special term of court. He was indicted for entering and stealing a shot gun and fountain pen.

The grandjury returned 55 indictments, after a session of four days—32 for misdemeanors and 23 for felonies. Ellis H. Moore, Jack Cronen and Paul Thompson were indicted under the blue sky law. There were two indictments for murder, Henley Alberts and Roy Houchin.

You can buy Chick Food

L. O. SIMMONS,
Marlinton, W. Va.

NEW STOCK OF GOODS

Arriving Daily

We have just returned from New York. You will find here a large stock to select from. Latest styles, best quality and lowest prices.

A nice line of children's ready to wear clothes

Ladies and children's hats.

Bargains in every line.

I. ROSEN

CHIROPRACTIC

I. Daugherty, Ross College Graduate of Fort Wayne, Indiana.—with nine years experience in the field, is now at the Central Hotel, 52 North Main Street, Marlinton. Examination free. adv

Attendance at the Methodist Sunday school last Sunday 192, eleven less than the week before. At the Presbyterian church there were 186, five less than the Sunday before. A special collection of $174 for missions at the Methodist church.

Baltimore Conference, M. E. Church, South, meets in the Representative Church at Washington, next week.

The ladies of the Methodist Church will hold a White Sale at Mr. Richardson's store Saturday afternoon March 18.

Kelmenson's Constant Arrivals

of New Apparel for Spring

With every express we are receiving the new styles from fashion centres. Never a day but you will find here new things in fashions for misses and women.

On display now a beautiful showing of

SMART DRESSES
WRAPS
COATS

SPITS in tailored and fancy models as well as the fancy tweeds.

Special Values
This Week—

Tweed Suits $16 95
Polo Coats $14 50
Silk Dresses $16 50

Millinery

HATS THAT TELL OF THE NEW MODES

These hats confirm all traditions of how clever and ingenious the French are in designing hats. The collections we are showing include hats of every type. Noticeable are fine straws, metal-edged ribbons end exquisite flowers—carrying a distinct air of Parisian smartness.

Special A wonderful group of Sailors, Chin Chins, Turbans and Tricorns—in all new shapes and colors.

Yarn Goods

WASH FABRICS,

The time for wearing attractive ginghams and other wash dresses is not very far away, and now is the time to obtain real values while assortments are complete and prices are low.

32 inch Zepher Gingham in a wide range of checks and plaids, beautiful color combinations, specially priced at 25c.

Fine Woven Tissue Ginghams in a variety of checks, stripes and plaid effects, 32 in. wide at 50c.

MEN'S AND YOUNG MEN'S SUITS

Just received our new line of Hart, Schafner & Marx clothes. Come and look them over.

Price from $16.50 to $40.00

H. KELMENSON, Marlinton, W. Va.

The Home of Hart, Schafner & Marx Clothes

Big Reduction

IN ALL STYLES

American Wire Fence

6 strand 35 inch light	25c
6 strand 35 inch heavy	32c
8 strand 45 inch light	32c
8 strand 45 inch heavy	39c
9 strand 49 inch heavy	45c
10 strand 47 inch heavy	47c
11 strand 55 inch	53c
19 strand 48 inch stock and poultry	54c
20 strand 53 inch stock and poultry	59c
21 strand 58 inch stock and poultry	63c

LESS 2 percent FOR CASH

Based upon weight, the above prices are much cheaper than any mail order house fence.

We will be glad to show you by comparison.

C. J. Richardson

Marlinton, W. Va.

For Sale in Marlinton

Large house, suitable for two families, in nice location. Low price and good terms J. W. YEAGER.

HOUSE FOR SALE

A five room house, centrally located in the town of Marlinton, with 3 lots Water and electric lights in house. A good home for some once. A bargain if sold at once. If interested call on or address

W. C. KOHLER
Marlinton, W. Va.

BLACK MINORCAS

Try my Rose Comb Black Minorcas and be convinced of their year 'round Egg Production. Eggs for hatching and day-old chicks.

J. G. CLENDENEN,
Renick, W. Va.

FOR SALE

Three or four good young fresh cows for sale. Can have your choice.

Martin Judy,
Cass, W Va

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of Mrs. Mary W. Gatewood, deceased, to present their accounts proven according to law to the undersigned administrator at his home at Linwood, W. Va. All persons indebted to said estate by note or account will please prepare to settle at once

This 14th of March 1922.

M C. Gatewood, Admr.

FOR SALE:—7 passenger, 6-cylinder Studebaker automobile, in good condition. A bargain to the quick buyer.

Luther Flynn.
H. C Spencer,
Hillsboro, W. Va,

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1922

All the printed histories give the date of the formation of Pocahontas as the year 1821. As a matter of fact it was formed in the year 1822, and this is the year that marks the centennial. It is proposed to set apart one day at the county fair to celebrate the occasion. It is customary to celebrate the occasion after the hundred years have been completed, that is in the one hundred and first year. Thus the Fourth of July, 1776, the birthday of our independence was made the occasion of public rejoicing in the year 1876, which was called centennial year.

The first court to meet in this county was on the 5th day of March, when the sheriff and the justices appointed to organize the county met at the house of John Bradshaw, located on the high bank at Huntersville where the Lightner house was built. The record of that first meeting of the court was carefully kept and is a good plain record to this day. It recites that the act of the legislature forming the new county was passed on the 5th day of February, 1822. And it may be taken as absolutely correct as both the record and the circumstances bear it out.

John Jordan had been named as sheriff, and William Poage. Jr., James Tallman, Robert Gay, George Poage, Benjamin Tallman. and George Burner, had been named justices to organize the new county.

They qualified by taking the oath of office, the oath of fidelity to the Commonwealth, the oath to support the constitution of the United States, and the oath that they would forever refrain from fighting a duel.

Josiah Beard was apointed clerk, William Poage was made the presiding officer of the court, Johnston Reynolds was appointed prosecuting attorney, Sampson L. Mathews was elected county surveyor, and Milburn Hughes was made constable for the Little Levels end of the county, and James Cooper, constable for the district of the head of Greenbrier River. And without waiting a day a bar was organized by qualifying Johnston Reynolds and Cyrus Cary to practice law. As we understand it, these gentlemen were not residents of the county.

Just what the Pocahontas people will do on the centennial day has not been figured out. There will be many attractions at the county fair that will interest and amuse and it would be a bold orator who would expect the people to gather around him and allow themselves to be talked to for an hour or more. Speaking on such a day is something on the order of foolishness.

There have been many Fourth of July orators in the past, but they have just about ceased to be, for the very good reason that the people would not cease from play long enough to listen to them. Finally they got down to reading the Declaration of Independence and not being able to hold the people for that brief spell, that custom has fallen into disuse. And so now all they do is to whoop it up to show how glad they feel.

The more we think about a day at the Fair the more cold footed we become, for unless the committee will agree to chain a number of reluctant hearers in their seats to insure a decent respect to the opinions of the orator, it is apt to be a frost.

We have a suggestion to make and we make it with a good deal of fear and trembling for we do not know how it will be received by the conscience keepers of the county. And the proposal is one that we do not insist upon, but simply make it to raise the question, and if it is not the right thing to do, those who are in authority in regard to right conduct can instruct us.

A fifth Sunday is due to fall on the 30th day of July, and it seems to us that this would be a fit and proper occasion to meet in some pleasant grove in this county and there with all due humility and solemnity go into the question of a hundred years as a county. No person of this county is now living who was alive at the formation of the county. They have all gone the way whence they shall not return.

And Pliny said: It is a peculiarly noble work rescuing from oblivion those who deserve immortality, and extending their renown at the same time that we advance our own.

We are not wedded to the proposition to hold this meeting on a Sunday. All we say is that if it meets with the approval of the right sort of people there could be a general gathering of the people on that day.

In the famous book. "Miss Lulu Betts," the old grandmother gets so wrought up by the honied hypocrisy of her son-in-law, that she calls him a cock-roach, and when he looks at her and shows that he is hurt and astonished, the old grandmother, cries out: "Never said it! Never said it!" And that is going to be the way with a Sunday memorial service. If it does not appeal to the right sort of people, we are going to declare that we never said it.

It looks like there ought to be some notice taken of the centennial year. It is a great county. We are a great people. It is the only county we have. And we are the kind of people who if they do not glorify themselves, the same shall never be glorified in this life.

Let us reason together. The Sunday observance becomes more and more complicated. With the automobile came a new set of manners and the custom of the country has already fixed Sunday as a day to take the air in a machine. It looks like a memorial service is not so wicked. But to adopt it will take more than a majority. If there is a minority it will have to be rejected as the still, small voice of conscience:

"For, bless the gudemon, gin he had his ain way,
He'd na let a cat on the Sabbath say
'mew;'
Nae birdie maun whistle, nae lamie
maun play,
And Phoebus himsel' could na travel
that day,
As he'd find a new Joshua in Andie
Agnew."

Did you all read that piece about taxation and things by Hon Wm H. Sawyers in the last paper? It was some bitter. It was in the nature of an information calculated to raise a suspicion of incapacity in the governing bodies of the state and nation. We did not read it until after it had been published. When a paper gets a piece from such an eminent scribe and fairyseer as Sawyers, the editor takes no thought as to whether he should print it or not. There is always room for his stuff. But after we had read it and it seemed to say that there was not a righteous man in power in Israel, it occurred to us that it was a whale of an article for a Democratic paper to print when a majority of its readers were Republicans. But what can you do? The county newspaper has got to be an open forum, and this bitterness that is occasioned by high taxes and low temperature is pretty bad with some people. Those people for instance who have accumulated some property and are trying to die seized and possessed of it. Rolling a rock up hill all their lives knowing that it is bound to roll back as soon as they cease to be. When we got through with the arraignment and came to the end when Sawyers waits for the plea of not guilty to be entered by every official of high or low degree, it occurred to us that Sawyers would be entitled to an epitaph after the nature of the one that Timon of Athens composed for his tomb:

"Here am I laid, my life of misery done,
Ask not my name, I curse you every one."

In speaking of presidents, governors, senators, congressmen, and things, the right way is to try to put yourself in their place. And if you fail to get yourself placed, the better way is to give them a chance, for fear by peradventure your outburst may create a sympathy for their errors and there comes no change. When the ass did Balaam a favor by arguing with him, Balaam smote the ass with a staff and regretted that he had not a sword to kill the beast. Laying down was bad enough and called for a club, but when the ass mocked the high official, he called for a sword.

Some of us are groaning under the present burdens. But some of our neighbors are not worried. They have no heavy taxes to pay. They demand all of the expensive governmental helps to life. Especially free education and good roads, and on those items alone, it does look like pouring water down a rat hole to provide funds enough.

Sawyers and us, we have grown up together. Let him remember his tender twenties, his pleasant thirties, his roaring forties and his capable fifties. When he was in his twenties he did not care whether people were taxed or not. He was long on pep and short on property. Now after thirty years of striving, he is appalled at the size of his tax ticket.

As a matter of fact we know that this modern plan of expensive governments is based on the theory that it is a sop to socialism. It has been the weak spot through all the ages. The masses have got to be reckoned with. They have to be placated, pacified and controlled. Rome tried all the plans, until it finally furnished all the poor with food and amusements, and they did not last long after that. The northern hordes came down and took the country over, and after that the Romans had the choice of dying or going to work, and it was a fifty-fifty choice with them. and some did one thing and some another.

The powers that be are having troubles. There is not a one of them but what feels his responsibility. He is trying to do the best he can under the circumstances. Things have gotton to such a pass that it behooves all good men to uphold the officials in the nation, state, county, and town. It is no time to start anything Hostile criticism does no good. If the voters want a change they will make it known at some one of the general elections.

It looks to us sometimes as if the Democratic press was perniciously active in criticism. If the ills are there, the voter will find it out. If he is the laborer and works for fifty cents a day, he will know whether he likes it or not. And if he is the employer and can get labor for fifty cents a day, he too will be governed accordingly.

They make a terrible to do about collecting taxes from the people to pay the interests on the liberty bonds, and then they mail out this money to the people of this country. You hear a lot about it, but when you trace the motion through you find that what they take from the public they pay back in money, and this is true with almost every other kind of expenditure.

The country is getting along as well as could be expected. It is not doing as well as it did under Wilson, and it is going to do a lot better under what may be Harding's second term, but it is going to do better, no matter who is president then.

Just now we are having a few lean years for our sins consisting of envy, hate, and ambition, and the particularly glaring and specific sin of rejecting the League of Nations

But believe us, times would be a thousand times worse, were it not for the present day statesmen who are trying all they know how to give tho country a good administration, and who are working against the greatest odds any set of officials ever had to face.

Once every freedman demanded forty acres and a mule. They did not get it. Now every soldier wants a bonus. Will he get it? May be so, We are willing:

And must the Bonus die? And must the Bonus die?

Four million army veterans will know the reason why!

After reading over the above answer to Sawyers, we are not certain whether we have stoned for his offense or not.

The observance of St. Patrick's Day was not carried out with the usual force last week. It has become more and more a perfunctory sort of thing here as the years go by. And this year in which so much has happened to poor old Ireland. it would be thought that we Irish would have been more noisy than usual this year But Ireland is like an engaging child that has grown up and does not respond to song and story like it once did. First to puzzle the creatures is the question. "Under which flag, St. Patrick? Under which flag?" There is the flag of the Stars and Stripes, the flag of our country; then there is the flag of Erin with the harp on it: and the new flag of the recent revolution. It mixes things up a good deal. There are two political parties in Ireland already And in the language of Sir Boyle Roche, member from Tralee: "Sir, single misfortunes never come alone, and the greatest of all national calamitios is generally followed by one much greater." And they have acted like Irish politicians act the world over. No sooner have they got what they fought for but they turn and fight for something else, for without a fight there can be no sustaining interest in life. Not a day, not an hour was allowed to pass when England gave up to them, until the line of cleavage appeared and to quote an Irish speaker, not a week had passed, until it was apparent the progress of the times was such that little children who can neither walk nor talk might be seen running about the street cursing the opposition.

So on last St. Patrick's day once in a while you would see a man with a bit of green pinned on him, but most of us forgot to show our colors.

Another thing that has caused St Patrick's Day to languish is the lack of whiskey. The most ancient custom was that the lord of the manor was to drown the shamrock in whiskey, and provide unlimited amounts of liquor for his tenants and retainers and as long as this kept up there was no chance of the day being forgotten And St. Patrick's was a wet day in the American cities in the old times. But it is too inconvenient for the average man to get drunk these days and that may have had something to do with the decline of the custom.

St. Patrick was born in France, educated in England, and lived in Ireland. He is the first evangelist who was accompanied by a drum When he went to preach he was preceded by a drum and drummer, and this was long before the Salvation Army was thought about.

It is said that he used the shamrock, white clover, with the three leaves to represent the Trinity. It became the national emblem.

For seven hundred years Ireland had been held in thrall by England. The restraint was more apparent than real, but they fought to throw it off and there was a war settled within the last year, and unhappily the Irish could not agree on the details of peace, and there were stormy times and a close vote. and the country has become hopelessly divided. Here is a poem by an Irishman:

Oh, for a tongue to curse the slave,
Whose treason liks a deadly blight,
Comes o'er the councils of the brave,
And blasts them in their hour of might!
May life's unblessed cup for him
Be drugged with treacheries to the brim—
With hopes, that but allure to fly,
With joys, that vanish while he sips,
Like Dead Sea fruits, that tempt the eye,
But turn to ashes on the lips!
His country's curse, his children's shame,
Outcasts of virtue. peace, and fame,
May he at last, with lips of flame
On the parched desert thirsting die—
While lakes that shone in mockery nigh
Are fading off, untouched, untasted,
Like the once glorious hopes he blasted!
And when from earth his spirit flies,
Just Prophet, let the damned-one dwell
Full in the sight of Paradise,
Beholding heaven, and feeling hell!

Administrator's Sale

At the home of Ruby E. Kerr, deceased, near Arbovale, W. Va., on Tuesday, March 28, 1922,

the following property will be sold at public auction:

4 cows, two to be fresh and two strippers
15 head pure bred Hampshire ewes, not registered
2 hogs, 20 chickens
1 stack hay, also hay in barn
About 50 bushels oats
About 50 bushels buckwheat
200 pounds of meat.
Household and kitchen furniture.

All amounts of ten dollars and under, cash on day of sale. Over that amount a credit of six months will be given the purchaser. Note accepted with approved security; interest from date.

The same day the farm will be offered for rent from one to three years, the undersigned reserving the right to reject any and all bids on renting of same. Renting terms terms made known on day of sale.

MONROE BEARD,
Adm'r. Estate of Ruby E Kerr, deceased.

Angus Bulls for Sale

Six head of registered Angus bulls, coming hrees fine individual animals of the right blood lines. These bulls must bs sold in the next 30 days Price $100 each.

J. A. CUNNINGHAM.
Evenwood, W. Va.

CLEANING & PRESSING

Should you desire at any time to have any wearing apparel cleaned, pressed, repaired or altered I would be pleased if afforded the opportunity of demonstrating to you my unexcelled service.

Mrs. Mary Taylor,
Cass, W. Va.

Announcements

HOUSE OF DELEGATES

Editor Pocahontas Times—

At the request of my many friends, I have decided to make the race for House of Delegates, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Standing on my past record as a member of that body and promising if elected again to stand by and for the interest of Pocahontas County and the State, I solicit your support.

Yours Respectfully,
J. A. McLAUGHLIN.

This paper is authorized to announce E. N. MOORE a candidate for re-election to the House of Delegates, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

TO THE VOTERS OF POCAHONTAS COUNTY:

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Delegate to the Legislature from Pocahontas County, subject to the action of the Democratic voters in the general primary election to be held in the month of August, 1922; and I respectfully solicit your support and influence.

J. G. HAMRICK.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Schools, subject to the action of the Republican voters expressed in the Primary election, to be held August 8, 1922. Your support and influence will be appreciated.

Respectfully,
C. E. FLYNN.

Commissioner's Notice

State of West Virginia
vs
103 acres, 597 1-2 acres, 8 acres, 30 acres, 123 acres, 33 acres, 26 acres, 64 acres and Jno. T. McGraw.

Pursuant to an order of reference made by the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County in the foregoing case, notice is hereby given that the undersigned Commissioner of said Court will proceed at his office in the town of Marlinton on the

24th day of March, 1922

to take, state and report to Court the following matters of account, to-wit:

1st. Whether or not the aforesaid tracts of land were returned delinquent for the non payment of taxes thereon for the year 1915 and sold by the Sheriff of Pocahontas County at Tax Sale for the year 1917 and purchased by the State of West Virginia, and if so the amount of taxes due thereon, including interest, costs and damages properly chargeable thereon.

2nd. Whether or not the said tracts of land or any part thereof were subsequently sold by the Sheriff of said County for the non-payment of taxes due thereon or returned delinquent for the non-payment of taxes due thereon, and if so the amount of taxes, interest and costs properly chargeable thereon.

3rd. Whether or not there is any person or persons entitled to redeem said lands or any part thereof, and whether any person is in position to take the benefit of the forfeiture.

4th. Any other matter deemed pertinent by the Commissioner or required by any party in interest.

W. A. BRATTON,
4 weeks Commissioner.

Auction Sale

Having sold my farm one mile east of Edray, W. Va., I will on

SATURDAY, MARCH 25,

sell at public auction to the highest bidder the following personal property, to-wit—

1 first class Jersey cow, 6 yrs, fresn
Polled Angus cow, 3yrs, calf 4 months
A yearling heifer, half Jersey
1 double shovel plow 1 garden plow
1 single shovel plow with coulter
1 doz crosscut saws, some good as new
1 doz axes, some good as new
5 pr saw wedges 4 hammers
1 lot of saw handles
Bed steads and springs, mattresses, comforts, blankets, etc., 1 davenport, Leather couch, 1 dining room table
1 set dining stools 1 set chairs
3 rockers, 1 dresser, 1 wash stand
1 sewing machine, 1 stand table
1 lot carpet 1 telephone 1 lot hoes
1 Home Comfort range, 1 Cole-blast heater, 1 Richmond heater, lot dishes
1 lot stoneware, 1 lot of glass jars
1-2 barrel best apple vinegar
1 stone churn 8 gals lot shovels, etc.
1 lot of Barred Rock chickens of the best laying strain. Many other things too numerous to mention.

Sale starts at 10 a. m.

Terms made known on day of sale.
Gum, Auctioneer.

J. F. JUDY.

PLOWS

We are handling a nice line of Syracuse Plows and repairs, also shelf hardware, nails, etc.

THE PEOPLES STORE
SUPPLY CO.

For Sale

Overland Car, five passenger
Studebaker car, seven passenger
1 spring wagon
1 runabout buggy
Set single harness
1 Thornhill wagon with shaft or tongue. All at private sale.

FLOYD DILLEY,
Marlinton W. Va.
Campbelltown, W. Va.

True Barred Rocks

Thompson Imperial Ringlet strain, Prize winners and egg producers, none better. $1 for setting of 15 eggs at home.

Mrs. W. A. BARLOW
Onoto, W. Va.

EGGS

S. C. Rhode Island Reds 15 eggs 75 cents. Parcel Post 25 cents extra. A fine strain of best layers.

Mrs. J. B. Simmons,
Millpoint, W. Va.

Come Make Money in Northern Virginia

Northern Virginia is most ideally located for dairy farming and stock raising owing to its productive lands and its proximity to the big markets. One hour will put your produce on the Washington market, two to Baltimore, four to Philadelphia and six to New York. Farms of all sizes for sale at very reasonable prices. If interested write or come and let us show you.

Southern Real Estate Exchange and Insurance Co. Inc.
Peoples National Bank Bldg. Manassas, Va.

Live Bees and Bee Supplies

Live Bees after 1st of May
Write for 1922 Catalogue
L. O. SIMMONS,
Bring your beeswax—24c lb. Marlinton, W. Va.

TRADE MARK
F.S.R.
REGISTERED

Royster Fertilizers

are not just raw materials thrown together and run through a mixer.

They Are Highly Scientific Plant Foods

Materials are all carefully selected after long study of the plant requirements, formulated in just the right proportions, and then fully cured for months before shipping.

Of all years, this is the one you should know your fertilizer—you can't afford to take any chances. Consider what you can lose for the sake of saving a few dollars in the price of fertilizer.

ROYSTER BRANDS are sold on their merits. They have stood the field test for nearly forty years.

They Produce Results!

F. S. Royster Guano Company
Baltimore, Maryland

Farm for Sale

At a very reasonable price to quick buyer. Containing about 170 acres on which is a comfortable dwelling house, a good barn and all necessary out buildings, such as wagon shed, granary, dairy, poultry house, smoke house, and cellar. Plenty of good fruit for two or three families, severnice farm fields. good meadows and is practically all inclosed with rail or wire fence. This farm has two good sugar orchards, plenty of good water and a lot of nice timber, an ideal place for stock, or would make two very good homes. Convenient to North Fork Lumber Co. Situated 6 miles west of Hightown, Va., in blue grass district, Highland County, 1 1-2 miles south of S. & P. Pike with good road to same. 1-2 mile to school. If you are looking for a bargain come and see this farm or write to owner

J. P. HISE,
Hightown. Va.

Young Women Wanted

The Marlinton Hospital will take a number of young women who desire to train for nurses. Ages between 18 and 30 years; grammar school education required and High School attendance preferred For particulars apply at office of Hospital Marlinton, W. Va.

Farm for Sale

122 acres one mile from Greenbank. Write or come and see the farm. A good bargain if sold soon. Fifty thousand ft. good lumber for sale.

J. H. Kerr,
Dunmore, W. Va.

FOR SALE:—I have two heavy teams of horses for sale at Rimel, W. Va., with harness, spreads and coupler complete, ready for work. Will sell at the right price.

A. D. Hoke. Rimel, W. Va.

HOGS MISSING:—Five hogs got away from the Top of Alleghany February 13, Four black shoats, one male and three sows, one sow with some white in the face: weight near 140 pounds each, and one large black Berkshire sow with some white in the face, weight about 300 pounds, no ear marks. A reward of $10.00 will be given for information leading to ths return of these hogs.

A. E Puffenbarger,
Bartow, W. Va.

NO TRESPASSING

All persons are notified not to trespass on the lands of the undersigned near Beard, W Va. in any manner, especially by fishing, trapping and hunting. I expect to invoke the penalty of the law.

T. P. McNeel,
March 8, 1922. Beard, W. Va.

Notice

I handle Oyster Shells, Grit, Charcoal, Etc. Want to buy one Rouen Duck Drake, will pay good.

Commissioner's Notice

State of West Virginia
vs.
8032 acres of Mineral land and Jno. T McGraw

Pursuant to an order of reference of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, made in the foregoing cause, the undersigned Commissioner in Chancery will proceed at his office in the town of Marlinton, W. Va., on the

24th day of March, 1922

to take, state and report to Court the following matters of account, to-wit:

1st. Whether or not the 8032 acres of coal, oil and gas and other minerals in plaintiff's bill described was sold by the Sheriff of Pocahontas County at tax sale for the non-payment of taxes due thereon for the year 1915, and purchased by the State of West Virginia, and if so the amount of taxes due thereon for the year 1915, including interest, costs and damages properly chargeable thereon.

2nd. Whether or not the said mineral land containing 8032 acres was subsequently sold for taxes due there on or returned delinquent for the non payment of taxes due thereon, and if so the amount of taxes, interest and costs properly charged to said land.

3rd. Whether or not there are any persons entitled to redeem said mineral land or any part thereof, or whether or not there is any person in position to take the benefit of the forfeiture.

4th. Any other matter deemed pertinent by the Commissioner or required by any party in interest.

W. A. BRATTON,
4wks Commissioner.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

House for Sale

I will sell you a 6 room house for $200 less than it will cost you to build and will give you the lot and garage free. There is a fine garden on the lot. If you want a home of your own write us soon. This house is located in West Marlinton and it is in good condition.

L. D. SHARP.
Slatyfork, W. Va.

Closed Ford Car For Sale

The Red Cross Car is for sale. It is a Coupe Ford, with a brand new top. Has been run one season and is in good condition. Apply at Times Office for price and particulars.

HOUSE FOR SALE—6 room house and 5 lots for sale at Riverside, addition of Marlinton, at a reasonable rate. Apply to owner.

W. J. BIGGS,
Marlinton, W. Va.

ATTORNEYS

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court Appeals

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Marlinton, W. Va.
Furniture made to order and old furniture repaired.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

R. B. SLAVIN
Heating, Plumbing and Sheet Metal Work. Best materials. 17 years experience.
Marlinton, W. Va.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specialty of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMEE
DENTIST
First National Bank Building
Phone
Marlinton, W. Va

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON. W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

M. F. GUM
AUCTIONEER

R. T. GREER & SON

Marlinton, W. Va.
Largest Buyer Of
FUR SKINS
GINSENG
ROOTS and
HERBS
Get Our Price

DELCO-LIGHT

"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue
ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES
Marlinton Electric Co.
DEALERS

Lower Prices

I am going to pass along decline in price of SHEET ROCK WALL BOARD. See it. It's great

J. W. MILLIGAN
Marlinton, W. Va.

Z. S. Smith

Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

S. C. RHODE ISLAND REDS
American Best Blood, with size and color, bred to lay. $1 for setting of 15 eggs.
Mrs EFFIE AULDRIDGE
Millpoint, W. Va.

S. C. WHITE LEGHORNS—15 eggs 75c, parcel post 25c extra. A fine strain of best layers. One of my pullets laid at 4 months of age. J. J. Loury, Huntersville, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XL NO 34 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, APRIL 6, 1922 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

COUNTY COURT

County Court was in session on Monday with all the members present.

Monroe Simmons allowed $250. for right of way. E. M. Buzzard $90. for right of way. Snowden Tracy, $400. for right of way.

Charles McGuire, James Gibson and A. C. Barlow appointed viewers on road from Pike on Elk near Sheldon Hannah's to Laurel Bank. Report at May term of court.

A lot of accounts were audited and allowed.

The court will meet on Monday the first day of May, to appoint election registrars and to transact other business.

John S. Jackson died at the home of his brother-in-law, W. H. Cackley, in this city, on Tuesday morning, March 14, 1922, aged 79 years and two days. He had been in failing health for some months. Mr. Jackson had been a resident of the city for about eleven years and was well-known and liked on account of his kind disposition. He was born in Highland county, Va., but spent most of his life in Pocahontas county. He was a brave Confederate soldier, serving in Company F, 19th Virginia Cavalry, under Captain M. L. McNeel. Mr. Jackson is survived by four full brothers, S. L. and A. H. Jackson, of this city, and W. K. and E. H. Jackson, of Cass, and two half brothers, also by three sisters and one half sister. After funeral services at the home of his sister, Mrs. W. H. Cackley, at four o'clock on Wednesday afternoon his body was laid to rest in Riverview cemetery. Rev. W. C. Sponaugle and Rev. R. L. Kinnaird officiating.—W. Va. News.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

9.45 a. m, Sunday School
11.00 a. m. Sermon, "The Book of Beginnings"
3.00 p. m Preaching at Swago
7.00 Christian Endeavor
7.45 Sermon, "Alienated, Reconciled, Presented."

Greenbrier Presbytery meets at Cass Tuesday, April 11. Z. S. Smith will represent this church at this meeting.

The Executive Committee of the Women's Auxiliary will meet at 7.30 p. m. instead of 3 p. m., this Thursday, April 6th. The Circles will hold their monthly meetings next week.

There will be preaching at the Upper Church on Swago Sunday afternoon at three o'clock.

Get in touch with Pittsburgh, Cincinnati and Detroit by wireless. Let Greenbrier RadioCo install a Radio Receiver in your home. The cost is nominal, the upkeep nothing—and no rent to pay.

L. O. Simmons is building a nice chicken house 28x16 on his lots back of Times office.

DEATH OF MRS. ELIZABETH A. GIBSON

On Thursday, March 9th, shortly afternoon, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Gibson died suddenly and peacefully at her home in Monterey. While in failing health for some time, Mrs. Gibson was active and in full possession of her mind to the time of her death. Death was due to appolexy, and came after only a few moments warning.

This worthy lady's parents were Joseph Seybert and Mrs. Rebecca Seybert, of Pocahontas county, W. Va. She had two brothers—Lanty and Jacob Seybert. Lanty died a prisoner of war at Elmira, N. Y. Jacob married Miss Mary Jones, of Greenbrier County, and became a prosperous citizen of Rockbridge county, and was father of Mr Trent Seybert and Mrs Mame Newland, of that county. Mrs. Gibson had but one sister, the late Mrs. Maria Herold near Frost, W Va.

Mrs. Gibson spent much of her girlhood days at the home of her grand-father, Mr. Lanty Lockridge, at Driscol, four miles west of Huntersville, a home noted for hospitality and a place of resort for visiting lawyers to and from Huntersville on public occasions.

Mrs. Gibson received her education at the Richardson School for girls, then conducted at Warm Springs.

She was born near Seebert, Pocahontas county, November 15, 1837, and at the time of her death was 84 years, 3 months and 24 days old. She was married to the late Wm. D Gibson, in 1859, and the family home up to the time of her husband's death was between Monterey and Vanderpool. The closing years of her life were spent in Monterey, where she has made a wide circle of friends.

Kemper Gibson, her youngest son, pleasantly remembered by our people, died several years ago. Joseph S. Gibson, of Monterey, and Wm. A. of Charlottesville, are the two living sons. The daughters are Miss Kate and Miss Clara Gibson, at home, Mrs John M. Colaw, of Monterey, and Mrs. D. Mc Kyle, of Staunton.

Mrs. Gibson had been a member of the Presbyterian church for many years. She was a woman of strong character and unusual mental endowments. Her mind was richly stored with reminiscences of the past, and she kept herself well informed in all current matters up to the last. Confided in and respected by her large circle of friends, honored and loved by her childred, and possessed of all the graces of the good Christian mother, she rounded out a long and useful life, full of kindly deeds and good works.

The funeral took place at the Presbyterian churh Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, was conducted by her pastor, Rev. G. L. Kerns, and was largely attended. All of her children were present except Mrs J. M. Colaw, who was prevented by illness. The floral tribute was profuse, consisting of many beautiful designs, tokens of love and esteem from relatives and friends.—Highland Recorder.

PROGRAM

What Happened to Jones ? ? ?

A Farce in Three Acts

by

George H. Broadhurst

Presented by the Students of Edray District High School

TIME, TO-DAY

Place-New York City

CHARACTERS

Jones	Who Travels for a Hymn-book House	John Bessling
Ebenezer Goodly	A Professor of Anatomy	Winston Yeager
Antony Goodly, D. D.	Bishop of Ballarat	Guy Bambrick
Richard Heatherly	Engaged to Marjorie	Hubert Slaven
Thomas Holder	A Policeman	Clark Carter
William Bigbee	An Inmate of the Sanatorium	Porter Van Reenan
Henry Fuller	Superintendent of the Sanatorium	Clark Carter
Mrs. Goodly	Ebenezer's Wife	Creola Sharp
Cissy	Ebenezer's Ward	Helen Burner
Marjorie	Ebenezer's Daughter	Sue Bratton
Minerva	Ebenezer's Daughter	Catherine Clark
Alvida Starlight	Mrs. Goodly's Sister	Gertrude Overholt

MUSICAL NUMBER

ACT 1	"Moonbeams"	Gertrude Overholt
ACT 11	"She's Mine All Mine"	John Bessling, Hubert Slaven and Guy Bambrick
ACT 111	"Who's Who With You"	Sue Bratton and Hubert Slaven
	"I'd Love To"	Helen Burner and John Bessling
	Finale, "Don't Forget to Come Again"	Cast

HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

Friday, April 7, 1922. 8:00 P. M.

This is the most elaborate COMEDY ever put on by the local High School

Admission 50c and 75c

DIED

Mrs Fannie J Cundiff, wife of N. H. Cundiff, died at her home near Buckeye on Monday morning, April 3, 1922. Her age was more than 70 years. For a long time she has been in failing health. She is survived by her husband, two brothsrs, Luther and Clinton Kellison, and a sister, Mrs. Harvey Petts. She was twice married, her first husband being the late George Courtney. Burial at the Ruckman graveyard, on Tuesday morning, the services being conducted by Rev. J. C. Johnson, of Oak Grove church.

Lon Trainer, aged 24 years, was brought to the Marlinton Hospital Saturday night with both legs cut off. He was riding on a truck of the Huntley log train on Alleghany Mountain and fell through. His legs got under the wheels, and both were ground off near the knee. With remarkable nerve he held on to the truck or he would have been killed. He is doing as well as could be expected. He is a son of John Trainer and a grandson of Jehu Trainer.

STATE S. S. CONVENTION

The West Virginia State Sunday School Association will hold three regional Conventions during the month of May, the Northern Regional Convention to meet in Elkins, May 23, 24, 25th.

Pocahontas County has been allotted 25 delegates and we can secure a few more reservations if we can use them.

As Randolph County joins Pocahontas and the convention meets so nearby, let all County and District Officers make sure of their attendance upon this convention.

Every Sunday School should send a delegate and those doing so should advise the County Secretary to secure their registration blanks. For information concerning this convention apply to F. M Sydnor, County Secretary or S. N. Hench, County Chairman.

LOBELIA

Farmers are busy plowing

Charles A. Briggs was in this part recently.

Our school closed last week with Miss Mattie Burr, teacher. We hope to have her with us another winter.

I. N. Clutter was at Elwood Hills on business this week.

Rev. and Mrs. Rice Clutter were guests at the home of Clive Alderman last week.

Sunday School is progressing nicely. Let every one attend.

Mr. and Mrs J. J. Simmons visited Mrs. Simmons parents, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Morrison this week.

There are a great many sick folks at this writing but all are improving.

KNAPPS CREEK

The Moore school closed last week.

Claude Collins, a student of the Edray District High School, spent Sunday at home.

Ellis Buzzard is moving to the Herold farm which he recently purchased.

The Warn Lumber Corporation will operate a tract of timber near I. B. Moores soon.

Mrs. Myrta Moore motored to Marlinton the first of the week.

J. H. Buzzard of Huntersville was a caller on Knapps Creek Friday.

Miss Amy Moore, teacher of the Sunset School spent the week end with her parents, on Browns Creek.

Claude Malcomb has been repairing G. W. Moore's car.

C. D. Newman was in Marlinton Monday.

Sunday School was organized at Westminster Church Sunday.

GREEN HILL

The health of the community is some better at this time.

The big sale of A. W. Fitzpatrick was well attended and every thing sold reasonable enough.

Miss Margaret Sharp and Collett Gay of near Warwick were visiting Misses Margaret and Glenna McLaughlin Sunday evening.

Rev. H. H. Orr preached a very interesting sermon at Hamlin Chapel Sunday afternoon.

Mrs Harvey Bright and children of Riverside spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Sharp.

Miss Gladys White closed a very successful term of school at this place Tuesday.

Edgar Wooddell's Family is improving slowly. Mrs. Eva Kincaid and Mrs. Calvin Gay have been with them the past week.

DUNMORE

There is a lot of plowing being done now. The farmers are busy as bees everywhere.

Lyle McLaughlin left Tuesday for West Liberty where he will finish his Normal work.

We are glad to hear that June McElwee will soon be living in town again.

Grey Grimes, Leta McLaughlin and Mrs. J. A. Pritchard are now going to Greenbank High School from home, in a Ford. They report rough roads and hope for better ones in the near future.

The dwelling of Fred Pritchard on West main street is being painted.

Doc. Sheets is having some work done on his cottage on main street by Mr. Duffey and Austin Little.

The Methodist Sunday School, which was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Moore last Friday night, by a big sugar stirring had a wonderful time.

Jane, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Campbell who was very ill is improving slowly.

We are glad to know that Lee Noel is improving. He is at the home of his grand-mother, Mrs. Wm. Smith.

We are anxious to know what has happened to our Sitlington friend. He must have gone to "Normalcy."

The Warn Lumber Company is doing a rushing business at present, or at least we think so, as the trains are taking in long trails of logs every day.

SLATYFORK

Mrs. M. L. Tyree started to Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, Md., Thursday with her daughter, Miss Carble Smith who has been in the General Hospital at Ronceverte for the past three months.

Misses Creola Sharp and Irene Bryant of the Marlinton High School spent Sunday with home folks.

A large crowd attended our Sunday School Sunday afternoon.

Those who are on the sick list at this time are Mrs. Velmer Hevener, Mrs. Lee Bonner and children, J E Cruicshanks' and Chas. Simmons' families Mrs. Hattie McClung is still very weak from the effects of influenza

Camp 19 will start up in a few days with American men.

Mr. McNealy who was hurt by a log last week is some better. He is in the Greenbrier Hospitol at Ronceverte.

Kenneth Smith, our night watchman, made a trip to Cass and back Monday.

The farmers have some plowing done.

STONY BOTTOM

Sunday School has been reorganized and all expect good attendance this year with Mr. John R. Hevner as Superintendent, Jno. H. Doyle Vice-President, Miss Mabel G. Beverage Sec. and Treas. Teachers, W. R. Moore, Paul Hevner, Miss Mary Hevner, Mrs. J. Allen Sites, Mrs. George McLaughlin, Mrs. Fred McLaughlin, Mrs. John W. Hevener K. W. Meeks Everybody come and do your little part and God will bless our work.

Miss Lou Meeks has returned home from Alderson, where she has spent several months with her sister and family Mr. and Mrs. D T. Auldridge who have been ill but are improving.

Mrs. D. N. Weiford of Covington, Va., spent the week end at the home of her father, J. W. Geiger.

The two youngest children of Mrs. Eva M. Moore have been very ill.

Miss Mabel Beverage returned Tuesday from Ronceverte after spending the week end with Mrs. L B Walker, and attending Billy Sunday's sermon.

Misses Ruby Bailey and Mabel Meeks spent Sunday with Mr and Mrs Howard Lowe, at Clover Lick,

B B Tallman has been in poor health for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ray of Raywood spent Sunday with Mrs. Ray's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McLaughlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy McCalpin of Cass spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Shields.

Clyde McLaughlin was in Marlinton on business Tuesday.

Granville Moore has been very sick with influenza.

James McCloud has been ill for several weeks.

Edgar Sharp of Mingo, is spending the week here with his brother, Chas. Sharp.

J. W. Carpenter and family, of Beaver Dam, made 420 pounds of maple sugar and 18 gallons of molasses in the month of March.

Install a Radio Telephone in your home. Listen in on market reports, concerts, lectures and press dispatches. See Greenbrier Radio Co, Marlinton, W. Va, for particulars.

Vinton Slavin is building a cottage on his lots near the High School.

Cloverlick, W. Va.—Neal Williams had a Berkshire sow to give birth to a litter of seventeen pigs recently.

Greenbrier Presbytery meets at Cass church next Tuesday, April 11

Spring Clothing!!!

We have no carried over high priced clothing that we are trying to save ourselves on by having our customers pay more that the present market. Therefore our prices at present represent the latest and lowest prices that can be had.

All Wool Suits

For the boys, young men and men, made up in latest styles and colors at the rediculously low prices of pre-war times

4.50 to 25.00

Tailored clothing, fit and workmanship guaranteed at one half the price of a year or two ago. We will appreciate your courtesy in looking over our line.

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.

MARLINTON, W. VA.

"WE DELIVER THE GOODS"

DIED

We would record, tho' at a late date, the passing of a gentle lovable spirit from this world to its native heaven. Mrs. Isabella Fleming Jones, of Highland county, died at Clarksburg, about the middle of February, 1922. A godly woman who had remembered her Creator in the days of her youth and joined the church of her fathers, viz, the Presbyterian. She was sister to Rev. Robert Fleming long an honored minister, departing to her rest and reward a few years since. We vividly recall "Belle Fleming" an interesting girl of 15 years and one of our first pupils in a school for youth established by Rev. W. T. Price at Monterey, Va. in 1865. And now this dear christian lady is gone from us: earth is poorer, but heaven is the richer for another soul saved by Jesus.

"Thou art gone to the grave, but we
will not deplore;
For thee God was thy ransom, thy guardian and guide;
He gave thee, He took thee and He
will restore thee.
Where death has no sting for the Savior has died."

A. L. P.

There was an attendance of 221 at the Methodist Sunday School on Sunday morning, an increase of 15 over the Sunday before. Special Promotion services at the Presbyterian Sunday were held and the attendance was 280. At the big Cass school there were 298 on the last Sunday in March.

Adam O. Baxter and Andrew Price are summoned as grand jurors and W. H. Grose and F. P. Anderson as petit jurors in the Federal Court which convenes in Charleston on April 11th

HADDOX GETS TERM

J. Jerome Haddox, former postmaster at Barboursville, was sentenced for a year and a day in the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta, when he entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging a shortage in postal accounts before Judge McClintic at Huntington lest week.

Haddox was a former Methodist minister and once filled the pulpit of a Charleston church. He was later a newspaper editor and had charge of a number of weeklies at various times in the southern part of the state, being at one time editor of the Pocahontas Journal. He attracted state-wide attention during his editorial career by his caustic editorials under the caption of "Spizzerinktum." Hic jacet Haddox!—Richwood Republican.

According to the report of S. L. Brown, local weather observer, there were 6.13 inches of rain in the month of March; 1.5 inches of snow; the greatest rainfall in 24 hours was 1.46 inches on the 27th; rain fell on 12 days. There were 4 clear days, 15 partly cloudy and 12 cloudy. The mean temperature for the month was 38. degrees, the hottest was 68 degrees on the 25th and the coldest was 12 degrees on the 23rd. Sleet on the 1, 4 and 11th. Since December 1, there has fallen 38 inches of rain and 19.51 idches of snow.

When interested in buying a car see Dilley's Garage. Dealers in Maxwell and Chalmers Cars, Marlinton, W. Va. We have moved into th upper garage.

Prof. J. G. Dunsmore, the founder of Dunsmore Business College, died at his home in Staunton, March 24 His age was 74 years.

On April 10th, 1922

I will begin—not a Clearance Sale; not a sale of odds and ends—but a SALE that will include every article in my large and complete stock of dependable merchandise. Sale will continue from day to day until every article is sold, including all store fixtures and equipment.

I have tried to sell my store as a whole, but on account of having too large a stock of goods I could not do so. Now I am going to give all a chance to buy at a price much below wholesale cost.

My store house will be for rent or sale.

J. E. Barlow

Edray, West Virginia

SCHUCHAT'S DEPARTMENT STORE

Marlinton, West Virginia

Now's the time to get ready for Easter.

You know what you need and what you want, you're fortunate if you are able to get both.

Whatever you decide to have we are sure we can be of service to you supplying it.

Newest of Fashions for Spring and Easter
Versions of new Spring and Easter styles—the most correct and fashionable are depicted throughout our store. Suits, Coats, Capes, Dresses and Millinery are correct in every detail, and most important of all, are the moderate prices.

New Springtime
Hosiery
We are showing the newest things in silk hosiery in all the desirable shades, Gray, Cordoran, Russia and Nude—$1.50 pair and up.

Suits for the Men
Spring Suits of sturdy materials in worsteds, serges, and cheviots, made in up-to-the-minute models with the new lines which master tailors have adapted for men and young men's spring and warm-weather wear,

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THURSDAY APRIL 5, 1922

It has been intimated that the temper of the people of the several states is such that presently legislatures may require all persons taking the oath of office to declare that they will not assist in any way in the violation of the provision of the federal constitution prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors. In other words if any officer should buy liquor of a bootlegger and thus become a party to a constitutional offense, he could be removed from office by a quo warranto proceeding. In Virginia, an officer still has to take the specific oath as to duelling.

In West Virginia, it is not required nor can it be required of an officer to take an oath as to any specific provision of law. He swears broadly to support the constitution of the United States, and the constitution of the State of West Virginia. And under the rule that the greater includes the less, it would seem logical that if he should thereafter become a party to a sale of liquor by occupying the position of buyer, that he has violated his oath of office, and would be in danger of being removed.

There is a good deal of rebellion against the prohibition laws, and the victims of the dread disease of dipsomania should be treated as gently as the circumstances allow, for the habit of drinking is a dire disease, and a sick man cannot always act rationally. But every day brings out vituperation directed against the majority of the citizens who closed the saloon bars of the country. The minority not only finds fault with the law of the country but they find fault abusively. And as the time goes on the contest assumes more and more the aspect of civil war.

All this goes to show that the country allowed the drink evil to flourish too long. And when they did attempt to curb it as an instinctive effort to preserve the very existence of the human race, they had to deal with the mentalities of those whose minds had been directly changed and affected by the use of stimulants prolonged over a period of years. Thus it was in a measure the kind of a condition that would be brought about by a law to prohibit the use of food, though every living organism must have food. The drinking portion of the community had added liquor to their list of foods, and it had changed their minds, so that they were moved to rebellion when they were ordered to abstain from all intoxicants.

They were mentally unable to see the point. They do not admit now that the sober part of the population is right in its prescription that wholesome food will take the place of whiskey. They rebel. They plot and contrive, aid, assist, abet, and bring about violations of law. They throw down the glove to the rest of society, or they slink about dealing with bootleggers, asking only that they be let alone and that they be allowed to drink themselves to death in their own way.

It is a great pity that they cannot either be advised or controlled. They will not believe that there is a chance for freedom, no, not even if one rose from the dead. And there have been millions of men who have risen from a state worse than death by giving up the drinking habit.

In Virginia at one time, the practice of duelling was a curse to the country. A false standard of honor had been set up whereby a contemptible fire-eater could force a duel on a busy, useful citizen. No matter how worthless the life that the duellist might have led, he could fasten a fight on a useful man and bring disaster on a community, when he himself was of no account to society. The law against duelling contravened all ideas of personal right for it placed disabitities on a participant in a duel that practically attainted him. It extinguished a part of his civil rights. For instance the power to hold office. And it was only because of the great evil of duelling that the country went back to the middle ages for a remedy.

And even then they afforded a substitute in that the person insulted had the right to bring an action for damages and no plea or demurrer could prevent a jury from passing on the insult. It was generations before the defendant could plead the truth in justification of the offense, and it is doubtful whether the truth can be pleaded today in a case where in a case of insults tending to violence and breach of the peace, the truth of the words spoken would be irelevant, impertinent, and scandalous.

But there has not been afforded any flowery bed of ease for the drunkard. A few short years ago an orator in a legislative body boldly proclaimed that he had the constitutional right to take a drink. And about the time that them words went ringing down the halls of time, they up and changed the constitution. Now what relief can be given the drinker? Nothing but unlimited quantities of healthy food and water. It is all they need and they would see it if they had not minds curiously changed and affected by liquor.

It is a pity that there was not some way to save them against their desires. Someway to keep them from swallowing except when fed by curators. A contrivance like false teeth that can be operated only by a key. Harness on his throat, is what he needs.

Auditor J. C. Bond, Charles E. Krebs, geologist and engineer, and W. B. Wade, attorney, of Madison, West Virginia, were called to Omaha in the state of Nebraska to testify in the case of Thomas H. Matters, under indictment for embezzlement in regard to the affairs of the corporation that was treating the old Richard Smyth land as a good title and raising money on it as security. They claimed to have about 147,000 acres of coal and timber land in Kanawha, Boone, and Raleigh counties. The land was there but the trouble about it was it was based on an obsolete grant, and it was in the adverse possession of some twenty-five thousand claimants all holding under junior grants from the State. It is estimated that the land was worth a hundred millions of dollars but that it was worth nothing to Richard Smyth's estate, for it had long ago been forfeited to the State and been taken up by real settlers. The trial resulted in a hung jury.

Krebs was asked in that far state whether he had ever been acquainted with Richard Smyth and his reply was no, that he was up among the angels.

In the 1790s there was a great activity in land matters in Virginia. The French Revolution followed the American Revolution and much was being made of the United States. In France for the French people believed that the Americans had found the right way out. In France, one half of the land belonged to the Roman Catholic church and had been seized by the people and while it could not be conveyed quickly to those who would buy, the French government issued great quantities of paper money called assignats which were used as money for the reason that when the church lands did come on the market they would be acceptable in payment of the same. So trade became remarkable brisk just because there was so much paper money. In the meantime Virginia had untold acres to dispose of at four and one half-cents an acre, so enterprising men like Richard Smyth proceeded to buy immense tracts of Virginia wilderness lands and these went into the busy marts of trade, and were dealt in freely in Philadelphia, New York, London and Paris.

Leafing through a book containing Virginia grants the other day we found where Richard Smith had obtained title to 610,802 acres of land, part of it in this county, during the years 1795 and 1796. In size the tracts ran from 500 acres to 200,000 acres.

The law was that after paying for a certain number of acres of land of the public domain, the owner of the warrant could locate it anywhere he found land not previously granted to some other person. First the warrant, then the entry, then the survey, and then the grant. And if in locating the land he interfered with any other land owner, the adverse title filed a caveat against the new survey and a jury tried out the facts.

A caveat was a protest against a new comer who was surveying around that he was including land not open to entry. Our ancestors very often took a nigh-cut with a rifle, instead of putting a writ on him.

The result of this manner of entering lands resulted in transforming the counties into the likeness of a jig-saw puzzle. Here at Marlinton they made the first survey to conform with the level bottom land, leaving the mountain sides for posterity.

Great confusion resulted. Thousands of tracts inter locked and interfered with each other, most of them inadvertently.

Thomas Jefferson was a country lawyer and he knew about the tangled lines under the slovenly way the Commonwealth disposed of its public lands, so when he became President he saw to it that the system of regular squares and quarter sections was instituted for the boundless west.

In the years 1795 and 1796, Richard Smith located and bought from Virginia five tracts of land in Randolph county aggregating 93,904 1-2 acres; Harrison county, 57 tracts, 177 620 1-4 acres; Greenbrier county, 7 tracts, 7,000 acres; Russell county, one tract, 200,000 acres; Kanawha county, 3 tracts, 132,277 1-2 acres. No doubt there was much more land granted to him, for the above described holdings were noted in a very hasty search.

He may have employed surveyors to have measured the many weary miles that would be required to survey these large tracts, but we have an idea that most of this surveying was done in an office.

For instance when he called for a tract cornering on a cypress tree on the headwaters of Cheat River, about 3,000 feet elevation, he caused many surveyors that were yet to be, a great deal of trouble, for a cypress was never known to grow in these mountains.

About the same time Robert Morris, the financier of the Revolutionary war, took over 175,270 acres in Greenbrier county.

What Richard Smytn did with his acres is a mystery. It is probable that he disposed of them in foreign countries. In those days it was not the custom to record deeds. It is likely that they were marketed in some way.

Thirty or forty years after, Virginia found that her prodigality in the granting of the public land, was causing her embarrassment. The old titles kept back settlers. Many had trespassed on the old grants and laid new surveys upon them, so that it was necessary to pass laws validating the junior grant, thus bringing about the anamalous condition of making the younger title the better title. And more than that, the old grantees were not paying any taxes. So laws were passed making the younger title with possession accompanied by the payment of taxes a better title than the original grant which had been abandoned. And to wipe out the old titles completely, the Commonwealth provided that the old abandoned surveys be broken up into convenient lots and that they be sold to create a fund to be expended in education.

Then followed a season of great activity for the surveyors. Often the tracts sold for inconsiderable sums, just about enough to pay the costs. In this county the 41,000 acre Henry Phillips survey sold at less than a cent an acre, a boundary of land that has been operated in recent years from which many million dollars worth of timber has been taken. Roughly estimated, this land rose from one cent an acre to one hundred dollars an acre, in the market.

West Virginia went still further in an effort to quiet the titles by whole sale. West Virginia declared that a forfeiture to the State inured to the benefit of a diligent adverse claimant. Foreign lawyers find it difficult to grasp that doctrine. As Uncle Remus remarks, they hear but they do not heed. We once told a Pittsburgh attorney, the law, by paraphrasing a verse:

> The strangest thing I have to tell,
> no foreign man believes.
> The forfeiture to the State belongs,
> by law to local thieves.

He seemed to get that, for he had been worrying with an old obsolete grant.

The danger to the investor consists in the universal belief that the older a title is the better it is, and because the old grant abstracts perfectly. It is only when they come to the question of whether it has been forfeited for the non-payment of taxes that they strike a snag, and then the promoter shows that they can redeem by paying the back taxes. But when they try to pay these taxes, they find the land in possession under grants, occupied by diligent tax payers, who are made secure because the forfeiture inures to their benefit.

The law sounds like an local rule in a poker game. At least it could be called a ground rule.

A more or less constant trade is kept up in these old grants, taken in the first place as a speculation, in the days of the assignat.

And by the way, they have been looking for a name for the bonus paper—why not call them assignats?

Henry Gilmer, one of the great lawyers of the world, departed this life, in a hospital in Baltimore, Saturday, April 1, 1922, aged 64 years. The most of his life was blest with robust health, but some years ago he developed diabetes, and it was the culmunation of this disease which caused his death. He had been active in his practice up to the last week in his life but was suffering from a sore foot incident to the chronic disease with which he was afflicted.

He was a native of Greenbrier County and spent his whole life there. At the time that he first turned to the profession, Lewisburg was a center for lawyers in West Virginia, the bar there being second to none in the two Virginias. And it was in this favorable atmosphere that Mr. Gilmer developed his naturally logical mind. He won recognition without any delay whatever, the respect of the other members of the bar, and the confidence and esteem of the public.

The peace and prosperity of a civilized community depends upon the legal adviser in that close discrimination needed to deal with the questions arising in the myriad of cases of human conduct which lie on the border land between right and wrong. And Henry Gilmer had the faculty of discerning the right way out in such cases. It might be said that no county is better than its leading lawyer. And honesty and fair dealing are entrusted by the force of circumstances to his keeping. Henry Gilmer was honest, upright, and able. He was the kind of man who is the associate of the mighty and the intimate friend of the lowly. He lived like a king in his own country. When a great lawyer dieth, much learning perishes with him.

He was a man whose labour was in wisdom, and in knowledge, and in equity.

Your Farm

Does it pay you a fair interest, upkeep, taxes and a decent wage? Are you still trying with your hands to put the western farmers' modern machinery out of business and are you satisfied? If so don't read this, hand it to your neighbor. But don't forget we trade farms for city property and city property for farms. In fact, we trade for anything of real value anywhere in West Virginia, but of all our large holdings we like Morgantown the best, because its Real Estate is growing the fastest of any in the state and it has the most dependable labor market. Write us and let's get acquainted.

GLOBE REALTY COMPANY,
Morgantown, W. Va.

BLACK MINORCAS

Try my Rose Comb Black Minorcas and be convinced of their year 'round Egg Production. Eggs for hatching and day-old chicks.

J. G. CLENDENEN,
Renick, W. Va.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of Mrs. Ruby E Kerr, deceased, to present the same properly proven to the undersigned administrator at his office at Arbovale. W. Va. All persons indebted to said estate will please prepare to settle at once.

This 18th of March, 1922.

MONROE BEARD, Admr.

NOTICE

It has been reported that we have sold our garage, but we have not. We are still doing business at the same place, and will continue to do so. We do your work in the same old way—satisfaction guaranteed or no charge. Any make of car—we draw no line. Let us know your needs—if we do not have it we can get it.

HINER & GUM'S GARAGE

FOR SALE—A utility body for a Ford car. This is a mighty handy thing for hauling produce to town. Floyd Dilley, Marlinton, W. Va.

HOUSE FOR RENT—If you want to rent a house and will pay your rent one month in advance and are a good peaceable citizen, apply to John Maupin, Marlinton, W. Va.

HOUSE FOR SALE—6 room house and 5 lots for sale at Riverside, addition of Marlinton, at a reasonable rate. Apply to owner.

W. J. BIGGS,
Marlinton, W. Va.

EGGS FOR HATCHING, from fine S. C. R. I. Reds. Heavy egg producers. Gertrude Blagg, Monterey, Virginia.

Announcements

HOUSE OF DELEGATES

Editor Pocahontas Times—

At the request of my many friends, I have decided to make the race for House of Delegates, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Standing on my past record as a member of that body and promising if elected again to stand by and for the interest of Pocahontas County and the State, I solicit your support.

Yours Respectfully,
J. A. McLAUGHLIN.

This paper is authorized to announce E. N. MOORE a candidate for re-election to the House of Delegates, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

TO THE VOTERS OF POCAHONTAS COUNTY:

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Delegate to the Legislature from Pocahontas County, subject to the action of the Democratic voters in the general primary election to be held in the month of August, 1922; and I respectfully solicit your support and influence.

J. G. HAMRICK.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Schools, subject to the action of the Republican voters expressed in the Primary election, to be held August 8, 1922. Your support and influence will be appreciated.

Respectfully,
C. E. FLYNN.

PLOWS

We are handling a nice line of Syracuse Plows and repairs, also shelf hardware, nails, etc.

THE PEOPLES STORE SUPPLY CO.

For Sale

Overland Car, five passenger
Studebaker car, seven passenger
1 spring wagon
1 runabout buggy
Set single harness
1 Thornhill wagon with shaft or tongue. All at private sale.

FLOYD DILLEY,
Marlinton W. Va.
Campbelltown, W. Va.

True Barred Rocks

Thompson Imperial Ringlet strain. Prize winners and egg producers, none better. $1 for setting of 15 eggs at home.

Mrs. W. A. BARLOW
Onoto, W. Va.

EGGS

S. C. Rhode Island Reds 15 eggs 75 cents. Parcel Post 25 cents extra. A fine strain of best layers.

Mrs. J. B. Simmons.
Millpoint, W. Va.

POULTRY

Burbin Reds turkey eggs for setting $5 00 per 13; Barred Rock eggs $1 25 for 15; Rhode Island Reds $1 25 for 15 by Parcel Post prepaid. Hens lay year 'round.

Mrs. A. S Gay,
Onoto, W. Va.

CLEANING & PRESSING

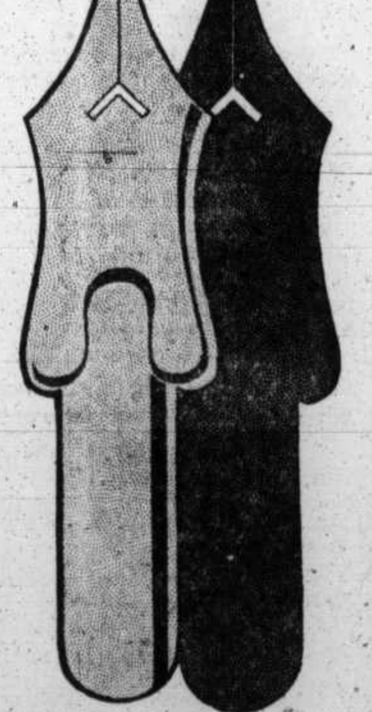
Should you desire at any time to have any wearing apparel cleaned, pressed, repaired or altered I would be pleased if afforded the opportunity of demonstrating to you my unexcelled service.

Mrs. Mary Taylor,
Cass, W. Va.

HOUSE FOR SALE

A five room house, centrally located in the town of Marlinton, with 3 lots. Water and electric lights in house. A good home for some once. A bargain if sold at once. If interested call on or address

W. C. KOHLER
Marlinton, W. Va.



Penn's spells quality. Why?

Because Penn's is packed air-tight in the patented new container—the quality is sealed in.

So Penn's is always fresh. Have you ever really chewed fresh tobacco? Buy Penn's the next time. Try it. Notice the fine condition—fresh—Penn's.

PENN'S CHEWING TOBACCO

Guaranteed by The American Tobacco Co.

Come Make Money in Northern Virginia

Northern Virginia is most ideally located for dairy farming and stock raising owing to its productive lands and its proximity to the big markets. One hour will put your produce on the Washington market, two to Baltimore, four to Philadelphia and six to New York. Farms of all sizes for sale at very reasonable prices. If interested write or come and let us show you.

Southern Real Estate Exchange and Insurance Co. Inc.
Peoples National Bank Bldg. Manassas, Va.

Live Bees and Bee Supplies

Live Bees after 1st of May
Write for 1922 Catalogue
L. O. SIMMONS,
Bring your beeswax—24c lb. Marlinton, W. Va.

Young Women Wanted

The Marlinton Hospital will take a number of young women who desire to train for nurses. Ages between 18 and 30 years; grammar school education required and High School attendance preferred. For particulars apply at office of Hospital Marlinton, W. Va.

Farm for Sale

122 acres one mile from Greenbank. Write or come and see the farm. A good bargain if sold soon. Fifty thousand ft. good lumber for sale.

J. H. Kerr,
Dunmore, W. Va.

Closed Ford Car For Sale

The Red Cross Car is for sale. It is a a Coupe Ford, with a brand new top. Has been run one season and is in good condition. Apply at Times Office for price and particulars.

CHIROPRATIC

I. Daugherty, Ross College Graduate of Fort Wayne, Indiana, with nine years experience in the field, is now at 52 North Camden Avenue, Marlinton.

Examination free. adv.

PISTOL LICENSE NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned will on the 10th day of April, 1922, will apply to the Judge of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, for license to carry a pistol. My residence is Cass, W. Va. and my occupation is special agent for the G. C. & E. Ry. Co.

This 20th yf March, 1922.

L. S. COCHRAN.

To Whom it May Concern:

My wife, Nola Martin, on the 10th day of March 1922, left my bed and board without cause, this is therefore to notify the public that I will not be responsible for any debts or contracts she may make.

Given under my hand this March 16, 1922.

Joe Martin,
Cass, W. Va.

Farm for Sale

At a very reasonable price to quick buyer. Containing about 170 acres on which is a comfortable dwelling house, a good barn and all necessary out buildings, such as wagon shed, granary, dairy, poultry house, smoke house, and cellar. Plenty of good fruit for two or three families, sever nice farm fields, good meadows and is practically all inclosed with rail or wire fence. This farm has two good sugar orchards, plenty of good water and a lot of nice timber, an ideal place for stock, or would make two very good homes. Convenient to North Fork Lumber Co. Situated 6 miles west of Hightown Va., in blue grass district, Highland County, 1 1-2 miles south of S. & P. Pike with good road to same. 1-2 mile to school. If you are looking for a bargain come and see this farm or write to owner.

J. P. HISE,
Hightown. Va.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

NO TRESPASSING

All persons are notified not to trespass on the lands of the undersigned near Beard, W. Va. in any manner, especially by fishing, trapping and hunting. I expect to invoke the penalty of the law.

T. P. McNeel,
March 8, 1922. Beard, W. Va.

Notice

I handle Oyster Shells, Grit, Charcoal, Etc. Want to buy one Rouen Duck Drake. will pay good.

FOR SALE:—I have two heavy teams of horses for sale at Rimel, W. Va., with harness, spreads and coupler complete, ready for work. Will sell at the right price.

A. D. Hoke. Rimel, W. Va.

ATTORNEYS

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court Appeals.

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Marlinton, W. Va.
Furniture made to order and old furniture repaired.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

R. B. SLAVIN
Heating, Plumbing and Sheet Metal Work. Best materials. 17 years experience.
Marlinton, W. Va.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specially of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMEE
DENTIST
First National Bank Building
Phone
Marlinton, W. Va

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

M. F. GUM
AUCTIONEER

R. T. GREER & SON

Marlinton, W. Va.
Largest Buyer Of
FUR SKINS
GINSENG
ROOTS and
HERBS
Get Our Price

DELCO-LIGHT

"Electricity for every Farm"
Write or phone for Catalogue
ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES
Marlinton Electric Co.
DEALERS

Lower Prices

I am going to pass along decline in price of SHEET ROCK WALL BOARD. See it. It's great
J. W. MILLIGAN
Ma.linton, W- Va.

Z. S. Smith

Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

S. C. RHODE ISLAND REDS

American Best Blood, with size and color, bred to lay. $1 for setting of 15 eggs.

Mrs EFFIE AULDRIDGE
Millpoint, W.Va.

S. C. WHITE LEGHORNS—15 eggs 75c, parcel post 25c extra. A fine strain of best layers. One of my pullets laid at 4 months of age. J. J. Loury, Huntersville, W. Va.

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager

HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC

Marlinton, West Virginia.

V-C Fertilizer

Tried Tested and Proven 25 years

by the Best Farmers in the Greenbrier Valley

Virginia-Carolina Brands

Little Giant Crop Grower,
Beef, Blood and Bone,
Fish Bone and Potash,
High Grade Potash,
Best Potato Formula,
16 and 20 percent Acid Phosphate.

Ask your dealer for V-C Fertilizer and accept no substitute. Time has proved it right for our soils.

V-C. Dealers—H. W. Harper, Hillsboro; A. A. Sharp, Frost; T. H. Hiner, Marlinton and H. S. Skaggs, Arbovale.

Picture Framing

AND FURNITURE REPAIRING

Picture framing neatly and promptly done at a reasonable price. Also old furniture made as good as new. Shop at my house near Court-house. Phone your orders and I will come for your work.

C. J. McCarty,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Sept. 1.

For Sale

Copper Water Cans, Spouting, Tin Fixtures, copper tubing, bath room outfits, etc.

C. W. Slavin
Tinner and Plumber
Marlinton, W. Va.

Baxter's Garage

MARLINTON W. VA.
FORD Cars and Supplies
FORDSON Tractors

A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.

J. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Engine and Thresher For Sale

One 26x32 threshbox, Faurquhar, in good conditiod, with belts, etc. An International portable 10 hp gasoline engine. This makes a fine threshing outfit. Will sell together or separately to suit purchaser.

D. M. KENNISON
Lobelia, W. Va.

Picture Framing

I am now prepared to frame pictures. I have a large assortment of framing. Prompt service and neat work guaranteed.

G. W Palmer,
Upper Camden, Avenue.

Hereford Bulls

I have a lot of young Hereford bulls, registered and fine specimen of the breed. Will be sold for spring delivery.

J. S. McNeel,
Seebert, W. Va.

For Sale at a Bargain

1500 acres of land in Virginia.
A good farming proposition.
A good timber proposition.
A good water-power proposition
A good milling proposition.
All combined in the above.
Bad health is why this proposal is made.
If interested, write to the owner

C. H. REVERCOMB,
Covington, Va

FOR SALE

A two-horse gasoline engine, International make and a power sausage mill. These machines are in fine condition, but have been replaced with electrical equipment.

R. H. McELWEE
Marlinton, W. Va.

WANTED—Man with car to sell the BEST Ford Oil Guage made. $100.00 per week and extra commissions. Benton Harbor Accessories Co., Benton Harbor, Mich.

FOR SALE:—70 acre farm, good buildings, good orchard, well watered 2 1-2 miles from Millpoint. Priced reasonable.

G. G. Thompson,
Millpoint, W., Va.

Notice

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN—

Pursuant to a deeree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered on the 8th day of March, 1922, in the chancery cause of

John W. Goodsell, Executor of W. P. Freeman, deceased
vs
Edward Freeman and others

I will on MONDAY, APRIL 24th, 1922, at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, proceed to take, state and report to the June Term of the Circuit Court of said County the following matters of account, to-wit:

First. What personal estate the said W. B. Freeman owned at the time of his death, the character and value thereof.

Second. What disposition was made of said personal estate by the said Executer, J. W. Goodsell, and how much, if any, still remains in his hands.

Third. A statement of the executorial accounts of the said J. W. Goodsell, Executor.

Fourth. What debts the said W. B. Freeman owed at the time of his death, to whom payable, their nature and their respective amounts and priorities.

Fifth. The real estate owned by W. B. Freeman at the time of his death, its quantity, location and description.

Sixth. Any other matter deemed pertinent by the commisioner or required by any party in interest, at which time and place you may attend and do what is necessary to protect yotr interest in the premises.

N. C. McNEIL,
Commissioner.

NOTICE

To the creditors of W. B. Freemar, deceased:

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of the County of Pocahontas made in a cause therein pending, to subject the real estate of the said W. B. Freeman, to the payment of his debts, you are required to present your claims against the estate of the said W. B. Freeman, for adjudication to N. C. McNeil, commissioner, at his office, in Marlinton in said County, on or before the 24th day of April, 1922.

Witness D. C. Adkison, Clerk of said Court, this the 15th day of March 1922.

D. C. Adkison,
Clerk.

S. C. BROWN LEGHORN EGGS

Per setting of 15 at house, 75 cents. Per setting of 15 by porcel post $1.00. Per 100 at house, $5.00; by parcel post 50c extra.

These eggs are from a laying strain some of the best blood lines in the country are represented in this flock There is no better layer than the S. C. Brown Leghorn, and few as good,

FRED GEHAUF,
39 Upper Camden. Marlinton, W. Va.

VALUABLE FARM FOR SALE—In Greenbrier county, W. Va. 40 acres situated at Horrock Station on Greenbrier Division C. & O. Ry. 30 acres of which is fine river bottom under high state of cultivation. Good new 6 room cottage house, new store house, good barn, new granary, poultry house, smoke house and top ground cellar, fine young orchard in full bearing, plenty of grapes, plums and peaches for family use the best of spring water, one-third mile to school, church and postoffice. A beautiful home. Good fishing and hunting in 1 2 mile of place and in a good neighborhood. Reason for selling, interests elsewhere. Come and see it if interested or write me for partirulars end price.

ALEX STUART,
R. R. Station Horrock, W. Va.
Julia P. O. W. Va.

Victrola

The universal recognition of Victrola superiority confirms the judgment of the world's greatest artists. The Victrola is their deliberate choice. That these artists make their Victor Records specially to play on the Victrola is the strongest recommendation any instrument could have.

Victrolas from $25 up.

Our Record supply is kept up-to-date. We receive regularly the monthly release of new Records.

Amos Wooddell
Watchmaker - Jeweler
Marlinton, W. Va.

Auction Sale

Of Personal Property.

On Saturday, April 15th, at my place in Cloverlick, I will sell at auction the following property:

1 2 year old Jersey heifer to be fresh
1 4 year old Tom Thumb saddle mare
1 draft mare, 9 or 10 years old, well broken
1 low top buggy, good as new
1 share of stock in Mutual Phone
1 ewe sheep

All my household and kitchen furniture,

Harness, chains, bridles, tools, barrels, stone jars, feed sacks, 8 gallons of vinegar, lantern, clocks, stand table, range cook stove, 22 rifle, childs bed and many other articles.

TERMS: All sums of $15 and under cash. Over that amount a credit of 8 months, with interest and notes with approved security.

LAND FOR SALE

At the same time and place, I will also offer for sale 10 acres of land, adjoining the village of Cloverlick There is a good barn and outbuildings on this land. If land is sold, I will sell a lot of lumber.

Mrs. Leola V. Dilley.
Herold, Auctioneer.

Farm for Sale

102 acres of land lying on the east side of the Greenbrier river from Keister, known as the old McColester farm. About 70 acres is level river bottom land, the balance has about 300,000 feet of saw timber. This farm has a very good 5 room house and barn, various kinds of fruit trees. 6 miles to White Sulphur Springs and 6 miles to Lewisburg, good outlet. For other information write or see

E. W. Shaver,
Judyton, W. Va.

Marksman Contest

For the best marksman in eighty contestants a prize of a $450 Ford automobile will be given. Contest to be held at Marlinton on Saturday, April 15, 1922, beginning at 9.15. Any kind of a rifle gun with open sights admitted marksmen required to enter contest not later than April 14. For information address Box 306, Marlinton, W. Va. adv

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of Mrs. Mary W. Gatewood, deceased, to present their accounts proven according to law to the undersigned administrator at his home at Linwood, W. Va. All persons indebted to said estate by note or account will please prepare to settle at once

This 14th of March 1922.

M. C. Gatewood, Admr.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of the late Mrs. Rachel A. Patterson to present them proven according to law to the undersigned administrator at his office at Arbovale, W. Va All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate will prepare to settle at once

This 24th of March, 1922.

J. A. Patterson,
Admr.

FOR SALE

1 Ford touring, 1921 touring
1 Overland roadster
1 Maxwell touring
1 Racer
1 used Stewart truck, 3-4 ton

All these cars are in good running running condition and will be sold at a bargain.

HINER & GUM
Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR SALE

Three or four good young fresh cows for sale. Can have your choice.

Martin Judy,
Cass, W Va.

FARM FOR SALE—90 acres of land near State Road between Huntersville and Minnehaha Springs, 40 acres cleared, young orchard. For particulars. Apply to H. F. BUSSARD, Huntersville, W. Va.

POLLED HEREFORD BULL—I have a Polled Hereford Bull calf for sale, ten months old, large size. in good condition.

MRS. FANNIE KINNISON,
Seebert, W. Va.

BALTIMORE CONFERENCE

The Baltimore Conference M. E Church South adjourned in Washington, D. C. last Monday to meet next next year in West End Methodist Episcopal Church, South Roanoke, Virginia: on the first Wednesday in April 1923. The following are the Presiding Elders for the various districts composing the Conference: Alexandria—H. P. Hamill; Baltimore E. L. Woolf; Lewisburg, W. O. Talbert; Moorefield J. H Light, Rockingham, G W. Richardson; Roanoke, H. M. Carter: Washington, J. H Wells; Winchester, F. A. Tyler The following appointments were made for Lewisburg District:

W. O. Talbert, Presiding Elder.
Alderson—S. R Neel.
Alvon—L. S Shires.
Blue Sulphur—J. B. Grimes.
Callahan—H. B Smith, (supply)
Clifton Forge—R. L. Fultz.
Covington—
Epworth—Ernest T. Harrison,
Granberry Memorial—H. L. Hout,
Durbin—I. H. Van Devander.
Frankford—K. D Swecker.
Greenbank—J. W. Rosenberger.
Greenville—G. H. Echols.
Hinton—J. H. Bean.
Hot Springs—R. O. Hipes, (supply)
Huntersville—Palmer Eubank (sup.)
Hillsboro—W C. Earley
Leveiton—S. A. Waggener
Lewisburg—D. A. Berry
Marlinton—F. B. Wyand.
Paint Bank—Paul R. Hendix
Peterstown—L. O. Rose, (supply)
Richlands—E A Wilcher
Riverview—J. H. Cooley
Ronceverte—George Hazel
Selma—W. B. Reynolds, (supply)
Sweet Springs—Noah Russel, (sup)
Talcott—Thomas Morgan.
Union—W. D. Eye.
White Sulphur—J. C. Hocke
Williamsburg—E. G. Helmintolled, (supply)
Student Emory University—W. M. Carr; Student Princeton University. C. V. Morris.

The following ministers well known in Pocahontas, received these appointments—W. D Keene, Andrews Chapel church, Baltimore; H. I. Stephens, Central church, Cumberland; J. W Legget, Mt. Solon; Hubert Sydenstricker, Buena Vista; T. A. Burch, Eagle Rock; L. V. Ruckman. Grace church, Roanoke; C. M. Sarver, Roanoke circuit; H. Q Burr, Indian Head; Frank Richardson, Salem; J. H. Light, P. E. Moorefield; R K. Nevitt, Frederick Ave. Baltimore: W. T. Gover, Registertown; J. M. York, Mt. Ranier; L. L. Lowance, Berryville.

Rev. Christopher Sydenstricker. after 36 years in the active ministry, retired at the age of 76 years.

Bishop U. V. W. Darlingon, resident Bishop, of Huntington, West Virginia presided.

GREENBANK

Farming is the order of the day after sugar making.

Several people are on the sick list with the flu.

Dr. Moomau is kept busy most all the time visiting the sick.

J. R. Gumm and B. B. Beard have about finished a new store building on main street.

The Greenbank Garage, run by Clarence Sheets, is kept busy fixing us the Fords.

F. H. Warwick lost a fine cow last week.

Mack Butterbaugh has moved to the Myers property.

Henry Kesler has been doing some work on the Cass road.

We are looking forward for the new mail route which will run from Arbovale to Cass and back twice a day.

Ham Burns who has had the Aggie Galford farm rented for the last two years has moved to Cloverlick to Dr. Hannah's farm.

Kermit Arbogast made a business trip to Cass last Saturday.

C. C. Malcom is doing a good business in his new store.

Misses Virginia Dare and Mary Hunter Moomau are at home from school for a few days.

Mrs. Willie Sheets was called home last week by the death of her grandmother.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Young, a daughter.

We will say that Greenbank is in the ring with Hosterman and Sitlington. We only have two Republicans.

Hurrah! for the McLaughlin, Moore and Hamrick race. We will bet on the winner after August 8th.

O. yes come on out Lyle McLaughlin for County Supt. for schools.

For Floor Coverings including Druggets. Congoleum and Linoleum Rugs and Wall Papers See

OVERHOLT & SON,
The Value Store
Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR SALE—8 acres of land and a nice bungalow house of 3 rooms, pantry and porches. On macadam road near Edray, good water, some fruit trees and all under fence. For particulars apply to

Mrs. MARY DAVIS
RFD 1 Marlinton, W. Va.

HOUSE FOR SALE in Marlinton, property known as the McLaughlin House. Suitable for 3 families, desirable location low price and good terms.

J. W. YEAGER,
Marlinton, W. Va.

WAR LETTERS

In looking over some old paper, W W Arbogast, of Greenbank found a number of letters written by his father, George Washington Arbogast, to his wife, who is now Mrs. Ellen Brown, while in the Confederate Army He was a member of the Greenbank Company, 31st Virginia Infantry. He was killed in battle, at Port Republic, if our memory serves us right We presume that the little babe mentioned in the post script is the present Mr. W. W. Arbogast.

Camp Summersville Ford,
Orange county, March 6, 1864.

My dear Ellen:

I concluded to write you a few lines to day as I have to go on picket tomorrow and it may be Henry Hull will start home before I come back.

The first day I left home we went to McDowel, next day to Buffalow Gap, and next morning to Staunton by day light, but the cars were gone and we had to lay over until next day. The fourth day we got to Charlotsville where we had to stay as the cars which were coming up tore the track up and we had to wait until it was fixed. Fifth day to Gordensville and sixth to the army.

My feet got very sore, blistered in several places, and it was hard to get enough to eat as they charged five dollars a meal from Staunton east, and that I could not afford. I did not spend ten dollars as I came down.

I have had my health very well since I came here, and plenty to eat so far The Yankees have been raiding around on both sides of us and some fighting done, and some Yankees captured, but this Brigade has been laying still. It is reported that the Yanks have been in Pocahontas and Highland. What become of P. Bruffey's neck tie? I have not got it here.

We had orders to get ready to move yesterday but were countermanded in the evening. If Henry Hull gives you a call you must fix a pitcher of cider for him and a good meal of victuals. Tell mother I would like very much to have that cake of butter now, and if she pleases to send it by Henry Hull.

How are you getting along? How is your wood holding out?

We have had preaching here twice today. There will be a meeting of some sort every day. Give my love to all my friends, write to me by every chance, be certain to write by Henry Hull.

Nothing more but remaining your loving husband,

G. W. Arbogast.

P. S.

Kiss my little babe for me and keep me in his memory.

Our friend, Alf Taylor, of Fayette County, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the Sixth District composed of the counties of Boone, Fayette, Kanawha Greenbrier, Pocahontas and Raleigh county. He is an old time editor and publisher, and at present prints the "Pick and Shovel," down in Fayette County. He has poverty and honesty to recommend him, and if the poor and honest people get behind him his nomination and election are assured. In the election of 1920 he weathered the Republican tidal wave, and was elected to the House of Delegates from Fayette county on the Democratic ticket. He has the peculiar distinction of having answered every roll call at the last session of the Legislature and voting no every proposition to spend money. Somehow or other, he got the strange idea in his head that the way to lower taxes is to reduce expenses. If the rest had voted as he did against extravagant expenditures, increased salaries of elective State and county officers, and the creation of new offices to reward party service in the face of deflated values, it would not have been necessary to increase the assessments of the farms to meet the running expenses of the State.

HONOR ROLL: Mt. Pleasant school Kennie A. Rexrode teacher, 7th month—Leah Moore, Anna Lee Dilley Pupils who were faithful during the term—Kathleen Bussard, Genevie Grimes, Viola Grimes. School closed March 25th.

Sawing Contract Wanted

I would like to contract for the sawing of a lot of lumber. including piling. 25 horse power No. 2 mill, Frick outfit complete.

C. H. Swearengin,
Neola, W. Va.

TELEPHONE NOTICE

The Marlinton & Elk Mutual Telephone Company is trying to give its patrons efficient service as far as lies within its power, but it does not guarantee uninterrupted service, and those connected on the Company's lines must pay for the time whether receiving satisfactory service or not. No official of the company has the authority to make any change in this rule.

The assessment and rental for 1922 is $10 per year. and the same is now due. Make all checks payable to the company.

S. Mc. Dilley, Sec. & Treas.
Edray, W. Va.

March 27, 1922.

FOR SALE:—7 passenger, 6 cylinder Studebaker automobile, in good condition. A bargain to the quick buyer.

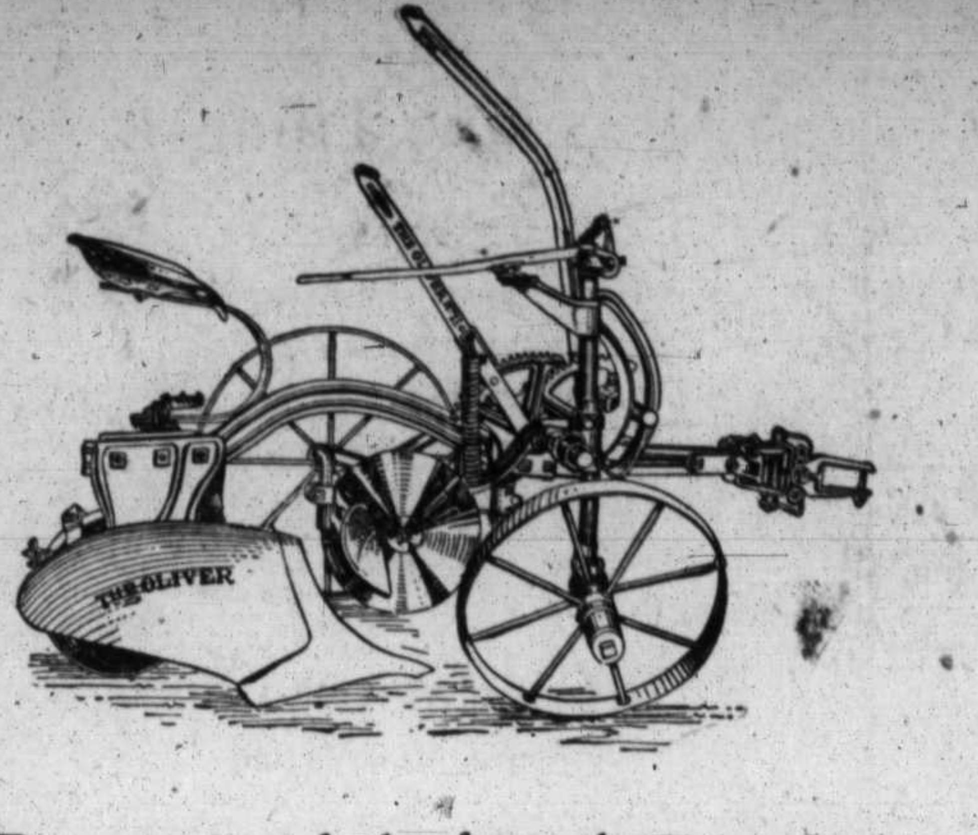
Luther Flynn,
H. C. Spencer,
Hillsboro, W. Va.

Now that the severe winter weather is over, is it not time to think of erecting Memorials to those who have gone before? This is a duty we owe to our beloved dead.

We have the largest assortment of Marble and Granite Monuments carried by any dealer in the two Virginias and at VERY REASONABLE prices. We handle nothing but the very best material.

Write us for designs and prices before you buy. We guarantee you perfect satisfaction in every respect.

CLIFTON FORGE MARBLE & GRANITE WORKS, Inc.
Harry F. Burt, Pres.



By reason of the fact that we must vacate the wareroom in which we have stored our line of Oliver farm machinery, we offer special low prices on Blackhawk manure spreaders, cultipackers, two way plows, riding cultivators, checkrow corn planters; and other implements.

Get our prices now. There is no better than the Oliver.

C. J. Richardson
Marlinton, W. Va.

Saws

Inserted and Solid Tooth Saws
Guaranteed to give you entire satistaction

Repairing and Hammering a specialty
Teeth and holders for all standard make saws
Special prices until April 15, 1922

Teeth $4.25 per 100
Holders 40c each

F. Heinemann Saw Co.
1717 Spring Street
Parkersburg, W. Va.

Spring Session

Davis and Elkins College

April 6 — May 21

Courses especially adapted to rural teachers and others preparing to teach. A few courses for more advanced teachers. Good accommodations, moderate rates, accredited. Address JAMES E. ALLAN, Presleent.

Most Drastic Price Cut In The History Of Truck Manufacturing !

New Stewart prices represent the greatest truck value on the market today; a remarkable manufacturing and merchandising achievement

Chassis	1920 Prices	1921 Prices	Present Prices	Reduction
Speed Truck	$1450	$1395	$1195	$255
1 ton	1850	1875	1395	455
1 1-2 ton	2450	2200	1790	660
2 ton	3075	2800	2090	985
2 1-2 ton	3200	2950	2290	1010

F. O. B. Buffalo

For Demonstration, come to or call Hiner & Gum

Pocahontas Stewart Truck Co.

Stewart
Motor Trucks

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XL. NO 35 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA; APRIL 13. 1922 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

KILLING AT CASS

Roy Morris is dead, Reuben Coles in the Marlinton Hospital with a bad gun shot wound in the leg, and John Brown in the Pocahontas County jail on a charge of murder. This is the result of a shooting affair in the town of Cass on Monday afternoon, April 10, 1922. These are all colored people.

The men were employed by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company in their pulp wood mill at Spruce, and had come to Cass for pay day. They had engaged in a little friendly game at Brown's shanty. There was some liquor and a falling out. Brown claims rocks were thrown and he went to a neighbor's shanty for a shot gun. Meeting Coles on the street Brown put a load of shot in his leg; going on he came upon Roy Morris and shot him in the head. They were so close to each other that Morris fell upon the man who killed him. His brains were blown out. He lived a few hours after being brought to Marlinton Hospital. Brown claims Morris had a rock in his hand. Town Sergeant Warwick arrested Brown a few minutes after the shooting.

Brown is about 35 years of age. He has been at Cass less than a year. He hails from North Carolina, and there is an unconfirmed rumor that he is wanted in his home state for a crime committed there. Brown says the trouble started on a former payday when he made complaint to Officer Cochran that Morris and Coles were carrying pistols

The dead man was about 30 years old and married. His home was in Bedford county, Virginia, and his body was shipped there for burial on Wednesday.

Coles is in the Marlinton Hospital with a serious wound in the thigh but is not thought be dangerously wounded.

Cheat Haven, Pa.—A very sad accident occurred at Cheat Haven, Pennsylvania, on Friday March 24, 1922. when Cecil Spacht, who was working on the C. H. & B. railroad, was thrown from a car and instantly killed. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Olin Spacht. He was eighteen years and twenty four days old. He leaves to mourn his loss his father and mother, six sisters, and four brothers and a host of friends. His sisters are Mrs. Arthur Gibson, Alexander, W. Va.; Mrs. Harry Eisenbuth, West Brownville, Pa.; Mrs. Frank Hoover, Cass; Phillip S. Cass; John, Cheat Haven; Thomas, Philadelphia, and three sisters and one brother at home.

Thou art gone to the grave but we
will not deplore,
For God was thy ransom, thy guidian and guide;
He gave thee. He took thee, and He
will restore thee,
Where death has no sting, for the
Savior has died.

XX.

The State Tax Commissioner's office has completed the audit of the office of the Sheriff of Pocahontas county, and the report shows that every thing is ship shape and in good order. In fact, our sheriff was complimented by being told that no office in the State was better kept.

Mrs. L. O. Simmons received word on Wednesday that her brother, Marcus Lovenstein had lost his life in a fire in the State of Oregon on last Saturday night. He was a soldier in the late war. Burial at Washington, D. D.

Dr. Solter went to Huntington last Friday.

M. B. TRAINER, DEAD

At his home near Greenbank on March 27, 1922, Morgan Brown Trainer was called from this life to the life beyond,

The deceased was born and reared in Highland county, Virginia. He was the son of Michael Trainer and was born on December 13, 1841, and was at the time of his death eighty years, three months and fourteen days old.

He was a good upright substantial citizen, a good neighbor and a consistent member of the Presbyterian church. He had been greatly afflicted for a number of years, and during the last year of his life had been confined to his room, but with all of his afflictions, he was no grumbler or complainer.

At the outbreak of the Civil War he became a member of Co. E. 31st Va Regiment, commanded by Captain Jacob C. Matheny, saw much hard and faithful service, but was never wounded. He is survived by his wife, who was Msss Ella Gum, and four daughters, Mrs. W. L. Lambert, Mrs. Brownie Hamed and Mrs. Clyde Hevener, of Greenbank, and Mrs. Marr Sponaugle of Burgettston, Pennsylvania.

After funeral services conducted by his pastor Rev. D. M. Monroe, his body was laid to rest in the Arbovale cemetery to await the resurrection. H.

Word comes of a big panther on Williams River. The other night John Roberts was making his way home through the dark and came to the foot log across Little Laurel. When about half way across he thought he could distinguish the tawny form of some large animal crouched on the other end of the log. As the man paused he heard the measured beat of the beast's tail. Keeping his eye on the animal, Mr. Roberts began to back away Just at this time his hunting dog came up smelled the beast and dashed for it through the stream. With a blood curdling growl it dashed off in the woods. Old hunters like Lum Riddle and Paris Hammond examined the track the next day and pronounced it a panther of the biggest kind.

John F. Wanless of Thorny Creek died on April 8, 1922, aged about 87 years. For a long time he had been in failing health Burial on Monday by the grave of his wife who was a Miss Hogsett. Mr. Wanless was a son of Stephen Wanless, who was killed about 80 years ago in trying to shoe a refractory horse. After the death of his father, he was adopted by his uncle, Rev. James Wanless. During the war he served as a Union soldier, and was sheriff of the county in the years immediately following the Civil War.

The Game Protectors have been busy the past week distributing brook and rainbow trout in Pocahontas waters. Big shipments have already been placed in Cheat and both forks of the Greenbrier and other waters. More will be put in Williams River and Laurel Creek. We understand that these fish are from eggs bought by the State Game Commission and hatched at the Government hatchery at White Sulphur.

Hon. Alf Taylor, of Fayetteville, was in Marlinton Monday, having stopped over for a day and a night on his way to Cass, where he will attend Greenbrier Presbytery as a delegate. Mr. Taylor is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from this district. At the present time he is one of the Fayette county delegates in the House of Delegates.

CIRCUIT COURT

April term of Circuit Court is still in session and will continue well into next week. On last Wednesday Roy Houchin was tried for the killing of L. G. Brandt, at Thornwood last December. The jury brought in a verdict of murder in the second degree Houchin is about 38 years old, a son of the late Jeff Houchin, who was killed about twenty years ago by a constable Brandt was a resident of Morgantown, thirty three years old, married and had one child. He was a member of a hunting party and was spending the evening at the Houchin home. Corn liquor flowed pretty freely. Houchin went to sleep and woke up in a rage as his guests were leaving, got his gun, and in the mixup Brandt was shot in the calf of the leg with a high powered rifle. He died within twenty four hours

Monday and Tuesday of this week were taken up in the trial of Henley Alberts for the killing of Elza Hinkle at the Albert home on Droop Mountain on the night of February 22, 1922. The case was finished late Tuesday night, and the jurors were not sent to their room to consider a verdict until Wednesday morning After being out over two hours, a verdict of murder in the first degree with recommendation for life imprisonment was brought. In pronoucing the sentence Judge Sharp said that moonshine liquor seemed to have much to do with this the most brutal murder that had ever come under his notice in his experience as a judge. Alberts is about 28 years of age. On the night he was killed Hinkle was at the home of his brother-in-law, Albert, on Droop Mountain. There were also present a number of the neighbors. Corn liquor flowed pretty freely, and Albert attacked Hinkle with a knife and inflicted a mortal wound, nearly cutting off his shoulder. Hinkle ran from the house out in the night to the road. Albert followed him, and as he was dying or dead, slashed his head nearly off with a knife.

John Milam was found guilty of moonshining and fentenced to two years in the penitentiary. Also one Matus Babconic was given two years on the same charge. His operations were at Spruce.

Law Orders

State vs Owden Flynn, confessed, 30 days.

State vs. Wm. Wyant, confessed, 30 days.

State vs Joe Vint, not guilty.

State vs Dorsey Freeman, forfeiture of bail bond.

Highland Mercantile Co. vs Dorsey Freeman, judgment $342.10

First National Bank of Highland Co, vs Dorsey Freeman judgment $308.59.

State vs Pete Snyder, forfeiture on bail bond.

Bank of Marlinton vs R. R. Snedegar and others, judgment $1698.81.

State vs Lee Vint, not guilty.

State vs John Milam, guilty, sentence two years in pen.

Pistol license granted Paris D Yeager and Park McNeil.

State vs Roy Houchin, verdict guilty of murder in second degree.

State vs Ira Vandevender, confessed, $300 fine six months in jail.

State vs Matus Bobconic, guilty, two years in pen.

State vs John Rose, guilty, $150 and costs

State vs E. D. Burner, $50 and six months in jail, charge carrying a pistol. Bail pending application for writ of error.

State vs J. W. Shifflet, guilty, $100 fine sixty days in jail.

State vs C. P. Hamrick, No. 1 & 2 quashed.

State vs C. P. Hamrick, not guilty verdict.

State vs C P. Hamrick, guilty, motion for new trial.

State vs Eary Bennett, not guilty.

State vs Ashby Higgins, not guilty

State vs Joe Thurston, upon a rule for failing to appear as a witness, $10 and one day in jail.

State vs Bert Hall, confessed $100 and thirty days in jail.

Chancery

Rudolph Turk vs J. A. Viquesney, decree of sale

Sevier Hardware Co. Vs. Cass Garage, dividend of .7406 paid.

Bertie Hiner vs R. R. Snedegar, decree of sales of Beard Mill property.

June McElwee vs B. B. Garrett, decree of sale

Wm Arbogast vs D. M. Henry, decree of sale.

Bank of Marlinton vs J. C. Myers, sale confirmed

State vs 31 acres, referred to commissioner,

State vs 1 acre. Clover Lick order to restore part of record missing

DURBIN

Dr. C. B. Collins is moving to White Sulphur Springs. We are sorry the Dr. has decided to leave our town.

J. D. Wilmoth is much better and able to be about town some.

Eleven men, surveyors for the State, have a camp at the mouth of Buffalo Fork, East Branch of Greenbrier River, surveying the George Craig land. They commenced April first.

C. E Vanosdale is off to Morgantown on business.

Walter Young is building a new house.

G. W. Wilmoth of Alleghany Mt. was in town on business Saturday. George is farming extensively now.

Twenty thousand fish from the White Sulphur Springs Hatchery were placed in the West Branch of the Greenbrier last week.

Earl Maxwell, lawyer from Elkins, was in town Saturday on his way home from Marlinton, where he was attorney for Page Hamrick in some cases at court.

E. D. Talbott was in town last week preparing for a lot sale on the 5th of May.

Some new buildings will be started soon in our town.

Asa Wright, the barber, is going into the hog and chicken business.

D. M Henry and W. H. Collins have been estimating timber on Back Alleghany. We look forward to a sawmill to start soon.

Oscar Latt is in town on business

Prof. C. E. Flynn has bought a Ford car.

N. B. Arbogast was visiting at J. W. Goodsell's over Sunday.

Wm Widney, superintendent of the Pocahontas Tanning Company, is making some changes in the tannery.

SLATYFORK

Grass is growing fine and it looks like summer was not far off.

We are expecting Professor J. H. Hall, one of the world's best music teachers, to teach singing school for us this summer. Everyone near should take advantage of this great opportunity to study music.

L. D. Sharp has been working hard getting up petitions to re-establish a mail route from Slatyfork to Edray. Many years ago the people of Elk had daily mail, but now have no mail at all for a distance of twelve miles. Well to do farmers and heavy taxpayers live here, and during the war were heavy subscribers of Government bonds and War Saving Stamps, and yet they have been denied any mail service, we hope that this very important route will soon be established. Let us pull together. There is but one road from the main road down to the Slatyfork office The mail has been carried several years from Linwood to Slatyfork.

Our Sunday School is progressing nicely. We think the Sunday school should not close for the winter. Since we have had a few years of evergreen Sunday School we find it the thing. Our attendance has been good all winter and last Sunday the house was full with not a vacant seat left.

There has been a lot of moonshining going on on Elk. Some men are too lazy to work and so they make the stuff to rob men of their money, minds and health. The moonshener must quit his dishonest business or soon be rounded up.

West Droop School, Lacy C. McMillion, teacher. Seventh month: Sadie Kershner, Olive Cutlip, Jnnia Kershner, Lela Hollandsworth, Hilda Kershner, Neva Cutlip, Ileta Pritt, Vada Copenhaver, Charlie Starks, Deward Hill, Jesse Starks, Paul Hollandsworth, Hugh Wiley, Clinton Dean Fred Snedegar, Harry Starks, George Kershner, Milton Copenhaver, Carl Pritt, Wilson Starks.

Term Honor Roll—Deward Hill, Clinton Dean, George Kershner, Harry Starks, Vada Copenhaver, Sadie Kershner, Ora Copenhaver, Junia Kershner, Milton Copenhaver, Hilda Kershner, Jesse Starks, Fred Snedegar, Paul Hollandsworth, Charley Starks. Total enrollment 32; average daily attendance 30; percent of daily attendance 97.

John Waugh and John Hull are at work on the Class A. road between Marlinton and Edray.

The High School play, "What happened to Jones," last Friday night, was a great success, both as an evening's entertainment and in attendance.

VALUE OF FARM LANDS DECREASE

Survey By United States Department Of Agriculture Shows Drop of $6 An Acre In West Virginia

County assessors throughout West Virginia are continuing their activities upon orders of Walter S. Hallanan, Republican state tax commissioner, to increase the value of farm land for taxation purposes, in face of announcement of figures compiled by the Department of Agriculture in Washington showing conclusively that the average value of plow lands in this state is lower now than at any time in the preceding three years.

The United States Department of Agriculture, in a report just issued, says that West Virginia plow lands reached their highest value in 1920. Since then there has been a steady decrease in value. In 1921, the average value per acre was $3 less than in 1920 and this year it is $6 less than in 1921.

The present average value of all plow lands in West Virginia is given by the Federal Department of Agriculture experts as $42, compared with $48 in 1921 and $51 in 1920. The average value of good plow lands in West Virginia this year is given as $62 and the average value of poor plow lands as $27.

The state tax commissioner's office had "no-idea" of the average value of farm land in the state for assessment purposes, according to a statement in response to an inquiry by a representative of this newspaper. Neither did the state department of agriculture possess this information, although the Commissioner, James R. Stewart agreed to "Look it up."

Despite this lack of essential information on the part of Republican

---

Morgantown—All taxicab drivers in Morgantown would be required to pay annual city license tax of $50 under an ordinance recommended to city council by City Manager Charles F. Sutherland. The city manager, in recommending the ordinance's passage, said that taxicabs were involved in most of the crimes committed in Morgantown and that a regulation of them would be a deterrent to the commission of crime.

I QUESTION NOT

Editor Times—

I am herewith enclosing you a few lines suggested to me by a conversation I heard on one of our streets last Sunday afternoon between a minister of the Gospel and a couple of our local attorneys. J. M. MEADOR.
Hinton, W. Va.

What boots it if,
Within the pulsing womb of time,
A thousand thousand years
Man passed from stage to stage;
Or if, at God's command,
With single bound
He leaped from Mother Earth
A Man?

To Him who gave us life
A thousand years is as a single day.
His handiwork shows purpose and design.
I question not His wisdom, mode or plan;
Nor hath the Record said
He breathed in him the Breath of Life
And Man became a Living Soul,
Before he was a Man!

Science hath not shown
The Sun to change his course
In all the years;
Nor whence Orion's bands.
Polaris guided mariners of old,
And points the North today.
The Pleiades we view with raptured gaze,
The Shepherds saw and Poets sang
On old Judea's hills.

The fragrance of the Rose,
The Violet's tint,
I may not understand;
Nor whence the Fountains of the Deep,
The Lightning's flash,
Or tread of Storm.

But this I know:
There is beyond it all
A Moving Cause, superior to Chance
Whose ways are not our ways,
And are past finding out;
Who walks with mighty tread
The vast Unknown;
With music fills the spheres;
Attends all Nature wide;
Yet lays the simple hand of Faith
Upon our hearts, that bids us wait

Philosophy may trace the planet's course;
Unbosom secrets of the plain and hill,
And set the blood apace within our veins;
But faith, and Faith alone,
Can light the Shad'wy Vale
And teach the Mystery Profound!

Spring Is Here

The time for cleaning up the premises has come. The house, the barn, the fence, the roof, in fact, all the buildings about the place would look brighter if a little fresh paint were used. When thinking of

Paint and Varnish

remember that SWP or SWV on the can is your assurance that you are getting not only PAINT but THE BEST PAINT.

We carry a very large line of Sherwin-Williams Products and also have Wall Paper, Kalsomine, Window Shades, Screens and Roofing.

"The recollection of quality remains long after price is forgotton."

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.
MARLINTON, W. VA.
"WE DELIVER THE GOODS"

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

9:45 a. m, Sunday School.
11:00 a. m. Communion Service—Reception of new members.
7:00 p m. Christian Endeavor.
7:45 p. m Preaching Service

There will be a meeting in the church at 4 30 Friday, for those who desire to discuss the matter of uniting with the Church.

Report of Huntersville School, seventh month, E. Ernest White, teacher. Perfect attendance. Olive Thomas, Lucy Rider, Elizabeth McComb, Gladys May, Sylvia May, Gevenivere Jordan, Vera Buzzard, Louise Barlow, Robert McComb, [illegible] Moore, Dick Moore, Ermon [illegible], Ellis Grimes. Faithful attendance, Roy McLaughlin, Waldro Buzzard, Lola Buzzard, and Opal Thomas. Percent of attendance for seventh month was 96. Percent for year was 97 5 7.

Mr. Marcel August Zeller and Miss Beulah Mae Finley announce their marriage on Friday, March thirty-first Nineteen hundred and twenty-two. At home 4175a Castleman Avenue, Saint Louis.

WEST UNION

The West Union Sunday School is getting along nicely with Lloyd VanReenan, superintendent, Clawson Beverage, assistant; W. H. Gilmore secretary. Teachers: adult classes, Wm, Van Reenan and Amos Beverage: intermediate classes, Mrs. Frank Beverage and O. W. Kellison; primary classes, George Gilmore and Mrs. Jennie Beverge. Sunday school hour is two o'clock p. m. Some of the people from the Old Church are giving good help. Amos Beverage has charge of the song service and Misses Mattie and Ida Burgess are organists. Old time song services are being held here and are well attended and very interesting. They are conducted by P. L Carter, of Onoto.

During the month of March a stranger giving his name as G. W. Williams took subscriptions for the Pocahontas Times in the towns of the upper end of Pocahontas County, without the knowledge of this office. and has so far failed to turn in the names and the money he received. We have been notified by a number of those who paid him money, and if there are others, we would be much obliged if they would also send us their names and amount paid,

Model 200

A New Brunswick Cabinet Model

43½ inches high

$100

The opportunity you have been waiting for—the accepted phonograph of the day—priced within your means.

The Model "200" Brunswick is fully equipped with the famous Brunswick Ultona Reproducer—which plays all records—and the Brunswick All-wood Tone Amplifier—which gives Brunswick tone its characteristic sweetness and volume.

To buy any phonograph without first hearing The Brunswick is a mistake.

Convenient Terms

Brunswick
PHONOGRAPHS AND RECORDS

SCHUCHAT'S DEPARTMENT STORE
Marlinton, West Virginia

NOTICE TO FISHERMEN

Before going fishing see that you obsserve the following requirements of the law:

1. Every person over 15 years of age must have a fishing license which is obtained from the County Clerk and costs one dollar.
2. No licenses are issued to unnaturalized citizens.
3. It is a violation of the law to fish in any other manner except with hook and line.
4. The open season for catching bass of all kinds and pike is from the first day of June until the 31st day of March.
   The open season for catching trout is from the first day of May until the 31st day of July inclusive.
5. It is necessary to have the written permission to fish upon the enclosed lands of another.
6. In case of a violation of the Game and Fish Law, notify your nearest Game Protector.

GAME AND COMMISSION OF WEST VIRGINIA.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XXXVIII. NO 23 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, MARCH 25, 1920 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

THE CEMETERY ROAD

At the instance of the Good Road Committee of the Marlinton Board of Trade, public meetings were held on Friday and Saturday nights, for the purpose of arousing public sentiment and to provide ways and means for permanent improvements on the road to Mt. View Cemetery. At neither meeting was the attendance as large as desired, but those present were the right kind. They got squarely behind the proposition, and the road will be worked.

The cemetery is owned by the Town of Marlinton. It is a large lot, beautifully located, with the grounds systematically plotted. It greatly needs shrubbery, and improvement of walks and drive ways. The town has some money in the cemetery fund which will be devoted to improving and beautifying the grounds, but the fund is not sufficient to put in condition the road leading to the grounds. This is practically impassible at times. The Council is considering the matter of employing a permanent caretaker.

It is estimated that an expenditure of twelve hundred dollars probably would be sufficient to make a rock road with gravel surface. It is proposed to put the money raised in the hands of the Town Council, to be expended under the supervision of the Street Committee, of which Dr. N. R. Price is chairman.

At the meetings over six hundred dollars was paid or pledged for this work. About 75 persons contributed and the Board of Trade gave $100. A little later every person in town will be given an opportunity to help along.

It is the shame of the mountain people that the resting places of their dead are so generally neglected. It is the fair index of the kind of people who make up the town as to how churches, schools, roads, cemeteries and other institutions of a public nature are supported and cared for.

In the matter of this road there are reasons in addition to sentiment. Marlinton is making an effort to keep her good people here and bring in others who are looking for a desirable place to raise their families. The road to the cemetery is one of the ragged places of Marlinton and makes a bad impression on the discerning man—the kind of people that help a community.

E. G. Greer, of Marion, Virginia, of the firm of R. T. Greer & Son, is in Marlinton to establish a business in medicinal roots and herbs. He has rented the Eskridge building and will be ready for business when the season opens. This firm has a number of branches in West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennesee and other states. We would immagine that a great business can be developed in this particular section, where the rich woods and pastures teem with plants, which now have a profitable market. Mr. Greer will move his family here as soon as a house can be had. He was a soldier in the Great War, a member of the 2nd West Virginia regiment, and was badly injured at Camp Kanawha.

The announcement of the students who had won the distinction of being designated to Phi Beta Kappa was made this week at the University. Nine students, four men, and five women were named, among the nine being Miss Agnes Price, a senior in the Bacelor of Arts course. They are chosen for their scholarship, as having the best grades, and it is the highest honor that the University bestown. Miss Margaret Price stood next in line and was the highest graded student of those not chosen.

The University of West Virginia was awarded the decision in the debate with Westminister College at North Wilmington, Pennsylvania. Miss Margaret R. Price, of Marlinton, was of the three representatives of the University.

Williams & Pifer Lumber Company are tearing down a part of the old McLaughlin livery barn, to be replaced by a brick office building. The building will be two stories high, and 40 by 24 feet.

We are opening a crude drug business in Marlinton, and will buy at at high prices, all kinds of medicinal roots, herbs, barks, etc., ginseng and beeswax. Write or call for price list.—R. T. Greer & Son, Eskridge Building.

SENATOR NEWBERRY CONVICTED

Last Saturday, a jury sitting in the Federal courts in Michigan brought in a verdict of guilty as to the defendants Senator Newberry and 16 others, and not guilty as to 68 other defendants.

The charge was improper use of money in elections. The expense of the Newberry campaign for the United Senate has been variously estimated at from $173,000 to a half million. He ran against Henry Ford. Ford also a wealthy man refused to put up a dollar. The vote was practically even in the returns, but Newgot the certificate and was sworn in as Senator a year ago.

Ford filed charges and contested the election in the Senate, but that body which moves deliberately has not acted upon them. The senate got a severe shock last fall when it learned that indictments had been returned against Newberry and his campaign managers, and the trial has been going on for some time.

Michigan was cleaning house. An attempt was made to inject politics into the trial but all of that was ruled out. The judge said that the trial was over the question of whether the defendants had violated the election law by the use of money, and the question of whether the jury approved of Henry Ford had nothitg to do with it.

The jury came in Saturday morning. Guilty as to seventeen, including the Senator. Not guilty as to 68, dubbed the small fry.

Afternoon came and they lined the seventeen up before the court. The judge asked the usual question of whether they had anything to say before sentence. Silence. Then a Senator of the United States and his brother, were each sentenced to imprisonment for two years, and the others got their doses more or less severe.

Newberry has been Secretary of the Navy, a high officer in the active naval service, and held a high place in Michigan and the nation.

The farmer jury did not take much stock in his excuse that he did not know how much money was being spent to elect him. They evidently thought he knew something about it.

Col. J. N. Shackelford, of Glenville, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the State Senate, Tenth Senatorial District, and his announcement to that effect appears herein. The district is composed of the counties of Calhoun, Gilmer, Braxton, Webster and Pocahontas. The present representatives are the Hon. E. H. Morton, of Webster County, and the Hon. Fred Fox, of Braxton County, a successor to the latter being chosen at the fall election. A nomination will be made at the May primary, and such nomination is equivolent to election, since the district is safely Democratic. Mr. Shackelford became a candidate after advising with representative Democrats residing in the five counties, and in his ambition to represent the district in the State Senate, it is barely necessary to state, he will have the active and united support of the Democracy of Gilmer County—the one in the State which has increased its Democratic majority at every election save one for the last sixteen years. Mr. Shackelford has long been prominently in the business and political affairs of the territory comprising the district, and his knowledge of the people their aspirations and traditions, is complete and was gained at first hand through personal contact. Of him it may be well said that by birth, education and training, his sympathies have always been with the average man, with the great unorganized yeomanry of the country, the real bread-winners of the land. His Democracy is of the Jeffersonian type, plain, simple, and unadorned, yet pronounced and unequivocal. He believes every man is entitled to a fair deal and a square deal, and he would be ashamed to put any man off with less. He posesses a natuarally pleasing personality, is easily approachable on any and all occasions, is at home in any company, a fluent talker and an entertaining conversationalist, his thorough knowledge of the ethics of the times has led him into the ways of safe, sound and logical reasoning. If nominated and elected to the State Senate, while acting in his official capacity, he will consider it his first and only duty to represent the people of the district, and we know of no consideration that would tempt him to evade a duty or shirk a responsibility. In presenting his name the Democratic party of Gilmer County is glad of the opportunity to attest to the genuineness of the article, anticipating that time will abundanty confirm the soundness of its judgment.—Glenville Democrat.

CONTRIBUTORS

The following persons have subscribed as follows for the improvement of the cemetary oad.

$18.50 each—W. A. Bratton, Ira D. Brill, S. H. Sharp, S. B. Wallace, Calvin W. Price.

$15.00 each—E. D. King.

$10.00 each—S. Schuchat, J. L. Baxter, C. P. Brown, H. C. Solter, Frank King, O. H. Kee, C. A. Yeager, N. R. Price, G. D. McNeill, E. H. Wade, Z. S. Smith, M. S. Wilson, Carl Sheets, F. M. Sydnor, C. J. Richardson, J. A. Sydenstricker, F. R. Hunter, Andrew Price.

$5.00 each—G. W. Clark, A. C. McCoy, Mary Frances Bratton, J. C. Haupt, Mrs. Alfred McCoy, Mrs. B. B. Williams, R. B. Slaven, Mrs. Harry Byers, H. L. Byers, T. D. Moore, L. G. McClure, Guy Faulknier, Floyd Brill, C. J. Ramsey, J. M. Walker, C. C. Waugh, B. B. Bartlett, R. S. McNeill, J. M. Bare, J. H. Donnally, Miss Annie E. King, L. O. Simmons, C. S. Kramer, B. B. Williams, S. N. Hench, B. E. Smith, J. W. Yeager, Roy Evans, H. M. Lockridge, A. S. Overholt, E. G. Herold, J. O. Smith, C. M. Kincaid, Mrs. S. B. Wallace.

$2.50 each—R. T. Greer & Son, R. E. Euans, W. M. Long, R. D. Fitzgerald, E. M. Richardson, Mrs. E. M. Richardson, Mrs. S. N. Hench, J. P. Shinaut, E. G. Quackenbush, G. F. Crummett, J. A. Sharp, Wilbur Sharp.

$1.00 each—Rebecca Sydnor, John Baughman, Lanty Cole, P. C. Curry, Floyd Cochray, J. L. Nixon.

$100—Marlinton Board of Trade.

Total: $606.00

As other subscriptions are made, the names and amounts will be published from time to time.

The north lights in all their glory came down Monday night.

Mrs. J. W. Bible and Miss Beale, of Cass, were callers at this office on Thursday morning.

Mrs. B. M. Gum and Mrs. Harper Gum, of Cass, were in town this morning.

Oda H. Gay, of Huntersville district, is in town today.

W. W. Burns is in Baltimore on business.

J. H. Heltzel left this week for Covington, Va. to accept a position with C. R. Cook.

Mrs. Groves and Grand daughter, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Geo. Sharp.

S. B. Wallace is in New York this week buying drugs.

Mrs. Mary E. Moore is spending the week at Edray with Mrs. Jno. Young.

Miss Mary E. Sharp and little niece Ruth Pharas, of Elkins, are visiting Mrs. Rex Kincaid.

STATE NEWS

Parkersburg.—Under a ruling of the federal prohibition commissioner made public here by Director Charles Lively, a permit issued by the federal authorities provides absolutely no immunity from the penalties of the state laws.

Wheeling.—Joseph Froyan, Belgian, aged 45 years, was seriously injured by a stone fall while working in the Piney Fork (Ohio) mine. He was removed to the Martins Ferry Hospital, suffering with an injured back and leg.

Charleston.—Charged with the theft of a $71 overcoat, which is said to have been found in his possession, Willie Clari was in police court held to the grand jury under bond of $500. The coat has been returned to its owner.

Wheeling.—Miss Elizabeth Crasse, 75 years of age, of Elm Grove, was severely burned about the face and body when her dress was ignited by the fire in the kitchen stove. Her screams attracted pedestrians who extinguished the flames. Her condition is regarded as serious.

Huntington.—Injuries suffered by six persons when a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train crashed into a Huntington-Milton automobile bus at Main street, in Guyandotte, will not prove fatal to any, physicians at the Huntington General Hospital and the Kessler Hospital, where five are being treated.

Huntington.—Feed is scarcer in the country districts now than at any time in the history of this section, says W. T. Cox, of Cox's Landing. This is due, he says, to the fact that much fodder rotted last fall as the result of the incessant rains. Five carloads of hay have been received at Cox's Landing this year.

Clarksburg.—Harrison county's only son to receive the Distinguished Service Medal, Sergeant Thomas D. Drake, Company "A," Fifty-ninth Infantry, was decorated at the opera house here before 1,500 people. Major General Charles F. Summerall, commander of the First Division in France, presented the medal. Drake had three citations from his commanding officer for bravery.

Huntington.—Judge Mathews, of the Court of Common Pleas, awarded C. O. Reynolds a judgment for $213.50 against M. F. Borders. It was alleged the former's automobile was damaged when a machine operated by Borders crashed into it. Borders was not in court. The case was brought to the Court of Common Pleas on an appeal from a decision entered in a justice of the peace court.

Wheeling.—Mrs. Nellie Goodwin, who was given a verdict for $1,500 in Circuit Court, some time ago, against the Connelly Taxi Company for injuries suffered when struck by one of the defendant's machines, will receive about $200, being the price paid for a Ford car sold by Sheriff Hastings to satisfy the judgment. When the case was called in Circuit Court the defendant failed to appear and judgment for the full amount sued for was given.

Charleston.—Three men, L. C. Long, mine inspector; H. R. Sloan, mine foreman, and J. H. Blankenship, bratticeman, employes of the United States Coal and Coke Company, were suffocated in the Number Two Mine of this company at Gary, according to notification received by R. M. Lambie, chief of the State Department of Mines. The mine was closed on account of shortage of cars, but these men entered to perform their usual duties, entered an old drainage headway not in use since 1918. There they encountered a body of gas, which caused an explosion.

Mrs. Faith Baxter, of Cass, is at the Marlinton Hospital for treatment.

M. L. Isbell is in St. Louis this week on business.

Sheets & King are getting material on the ground to finish their concrete building.

WANTED—40 or 50 cattle to keep for the season, yearlings preferred.
J. N. WHITE, Woodrow, W. Va.

Notice

To my Customers of Arbovale and Greenbank Communities and the Teople generally—

After this week I will close my store at Arbovale and remove the remainder of my stock to Greenbank to the W. F. Ervin store house, where I will continue in business with a large stock of general merchandise.

J. HAMED.

March 23, 1920

Our Success

IN THE FUTURE

depends on our investments today. The erection of a permanent silo on the farm spells prosperity for our children in the future. An investment for them will be appreciated. Why not a MARIETTA, the SILO of quality, long leaf pine, Oregon fir, red wood, vitrified tile, and, think of it, a CEMENT STATE silo, the real thing, equipped with the famous Marietta red wood hinge door, and a sure enough EXPERT furnished to assist in erecting same. I demonstrate and quote you latest prices.

KIRK WEES, Elkins, W. Va.
Agt. Randolph & adjoining Counties
Breeder of Rose Comb Rhode Island Reds of Quality. Eggs $5 for 15

Buy Your Easter

wearing apparel from Finger-Siegel Co. at moderate prices.

We offer exceptional bargains in shoes for the entire family.

Children's Barefoot sandals	.89
Children's white shoes and slippers	1.00
Children's slippers in tan, black in styles at	1.89
Ladies' shoes sizes 2 1-2 to 4 1-2 at	2.89
Ladies' slippers as low as	3.00
Men's Dress shoes sizes 9 to 11 at	2.50
Men's Walk Over dress shoes as low as	4.00
20 pr of men's Oxfords at a special low price	3.00

We have an extensive line of Millinery, Ladies' Coats and in the latest styles and fabrics. Ladies' waists in all styles at moderate prices.

One special lot of Ladies' Voile Waists in various styles at 1.50

An extensive line of Hats for Misses and Children's at extremely low prices

Men's and Boys' Suits in the latest styles at moderate prices.

FINGER-SIEGEL CO.
CASS, WEST VIRGINIA

WANTED
Chestnut Telephone Poles
All lengths and sizes, will pay highest prices. F. O. B. Car C. & O. in car load or small lots.
MEAD ARBOGAST.
Marlinton, W. Va.

CLIMB UPWARD THE

to financial independence is always helped by proper banking connection.

A Savings Account earning interest is the surest beginning, and regular deposits of fixed amount make the goal easy to reach.

Consider the advantages depositors enjoy here and allow us to personally explain our services.

The First National Bank
Marlinton, W. Va.
Under U. S. Government Supervision.

To all my Friends of Pocahontas and adjoining Counties:

It is my great pleasure to come to you through this advertisement and extend my heartiest thanks and appreciation for the loyal support you have given me.

I am happy to say that I have already achieved that for which I aimed, and I am proud to say that my clothing—including men's and boys' suits, women's dresses and suits—are being worn by many people of different occupations, young and old, rich and poor.

All have smiles, fully satisfied in many ways—in STYLE QUALITY and PRICE.

I wish to announce that I have just received several thousand yards of the best brand Manchester percailes, 500 pairs of summer blankets at a very low price. I also have received part of my rugs, all of the best quality and latest designs, prices ranging from a dollar up.

I have a fine selection of high class clothing, of latest style ane best quality, for all the family. You can have all my merchandise at almost wholesale price.

SPECIAL—I want to sell all of my silk dresses by April first. In order so to do, I have redced the already low price on them.

I pay the highest price for County Produce —CASH or TRADE.

ROSEN
Marlinton - W. Va.

Of course you will want to wear a hat and new suit for EASTER SUNDAY

Its the spirit of the times that makes one want to dress up for Easter.

Easter heralds the opening of a new season. The brightest season off all, and it is quite natural that we should want to dress up for Easter.

That's why new hats, new suits, new gowns, new skirts and new blouses are interesting topics at this season. We have complete stocks of the newest and prettisst models, in

Wearing Apparel For Easter

From the prettiest new bonnets to the noblest Comfort fitting shoes, oxfords and pumps.

Sport Coats

An exclusive line of these classy swagger coats, in the new shades and materials.
Price $12.50 upwards

New Wool Jersey Suits

These wool jersey suits are very stylish and servicable and very pretty in Heather, Green, Brown Navy.

New Spring Suits
For Men

Our new spring suits for men are in. New models, in the new fabrics, well tailored and moderatly priced. Come in you young fellows and look them over.

Get into one of the new coats and look in the glass see the fit, and feel the comforts of a new suit.

New Spring Hats and Caps

John B. Stetson and other famous makes in the new spring styles they are very becoming.

Get a new one for Easter

The new shoes are in Regals and KingQuality

S. SCHUCHAT, MARLINTON, W. VA.
The Store Where You Are Satisfied

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager

HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC

Marlinton. West Virginia.

V-C Fertilizer

Tried Tested and Proven 25 years

by the Best Farmers in the Greenbrier Valley

Virginia-Carolina Brands

Little Giant Crop Grower,
Beef, Blood and Bone,
Fish Bone and Potash,
High Grade Potash,
Best Potato Formula,
16 and 20 percent Acid Phosphate.

Ask your dealer for V-C. Fertilizer and accept no substitute. Time has proved it right for our soils.

V-C. Dealers—H. W. Harper, Hillsboro; A. A. Sharp, Frost; T. H. Hiner, Marlinton and H. S. Skaggs, Arbovale.

Picture Framing

AND FURNITURE REPAIRING

Picture framing neatly and promptly done at a reasonable price. Also old furniture made as good as new. Shop at my house near Court-house. Phone your orders and I will come for your work.

C. J. McCarty,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Sept. 1.

For Sale

Copper Water Cans, Spouting, Tin Fixtures, copper tubing, bath room outfits, etc.

C. W. Slavin
Tinner and Plumber
Marlinton, W. Va.

Baxter's Garage

MARLINTON W. VA.

FORD Cars and Supplies

FORDSON Tractors

A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.

J. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Engine and Thresher For Sale

One 26x32 threshbox, Faurquhar, in good conditiod, with belts, etc. An International portable 10 hp gasoline engine. This makes a fine threshing outfit. Will sell together or separately to suit purchaser.

D. M. KENNISON
Lobelia, W. Va.

Picture Framing

I am now prepared to frame pictures. I have a large assortment of framing. Prompt service and neat work guaranteed.

G. W. Palmer,
Upper Camden, Avenue.

Hereford Bulls

I have a lot of young Hereford bulls, registered and fine specimen of the breed. Will be sold for spring delivery.

J. S. McNeel,
Seebert, W. Va.

For Sale at a Bargain

1500 acres of land in Virginia.
A good farming proposition.
A good timber proposition.
A good water-power proposition
A good milling proposition.
All combined in the above.
Bad health is why this proposal is made.
If interested, write to the owner

C. H. REVERCOMB,
Covington, Va

TELEPHONE NOTICE

The Marlinton & Elk Mutual Telephone Company is trying to give its patrons efficient service as far as lies within its power, but it does not guarantee uninterrupted service, and those connected on the Company's lines must pay for the time whether receiving satisfactory service or not. No official of the company has the authority to make any change in this rule.

The assessment and rental for 1922 is $10 per year, and the same is now due. Make all checks payable to the company.

S. Mc. Dilley, Sec. & Treas.
Edray, W. Va.

March 27, 1922.

Notice

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN—

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered on the 8th day of March, 1922, in the chancery cause of

John W. Goodsell, Executor of W. P. Freeman, deceased
vs
Edward Freeman and others

I will on MONDAY, APRIL 24th, 1922, at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, proceed to take, state and report to the June Term of the Circuit Court of said County the following matters of account, to wit:

First. What personal estate the said W. B. Freeman owned at the time of his death, the character and value thereof.

Second. What disposition was made of said personal estate by the said Executer, J. W. Goodsell, and how much, if any, still remains in his hands.

Third. A statement of the executorial accounts of the said J. W. Goodsell, Executor.

Fourth. What debts the said W. B. Freeman owed at the time of his death, to whom payable, their nature and their respective amounts and priorities.

Fifth. The real estate owned by W. B. Freeman at the time of his death, its quantity, location and description.

Sixth. Any other matter deemed pertinent by the commisioner or required by any party in interest, at which time and place you may attend and do what is necessary to protect yotr interest in the premises.

N. C. McNEIL,
Commissioner.

NOTICE

To the creditors of W. B. Freeman, deceased:

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of the County of Pocahontas made in a cause therein pending, to subject the real estate of the said W. B. Freeman, to the payment of his debts, you are required to present your claims against the estate of the said W. B. Freeman, for adjudication to N. C. McNeil, commissioner, at his office, in Marlinton in said County, on or before the 24th day of April, 1922.

Witness D. C. Adkison, Clerk of said Court, this the 15th day of March 1922.

D. C. Adkison,
Clerk.

S. C. BROWN LEGHORN EGGS

Per setting of 15 at house, 75 cents. Per setting of 15 by porcel post $1 00. Per 100 at house, $5 00; by parcel post 50c extra.

These eggs are from a laying strain some of the best blood lines in the country are represented in this flock. There is no better layer than the S. C. Brown Leghorn, and few as good,

FRED GEHAUF,
39 Upper Camden. Marlinton, W. Va.

Sawing Contract Wanted

I would like to contract for the sawing of a lot of lumber, including piling. 25 horse power No. 2 mill, Frick outfit complete.

C. H. Swearengin,
Neola, W. Va.

For Floor Coverings including Druggets, Congoleum and Linoleum Rugs and Wall Papers See

OVERHOLT & SON,
The Value Store
Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR SALE:—70 acre farm, good buildings, good orchard, well watered. 2 1-2 miles from Millpoint. Priced reasonable.

G. G. Thompson,
Millpoint, W., Va.

Victrola

The universal recognition of Victrola superiority confirms the judgment of the world's greatest artists. The Victrola is their deliberate choice. That these artists make their Victor Records specially to play on the Victrola is the strongest recommendation any instrument could have.

Victrolas from $25 up.

Our Record supply is kept up-to-date. We receive regularly the monthly release of new Records.

Amos Wooddell
Watchmaker - Jeweler
Marlinton, W. Va.

Auction Sale

Of Personal Property.

On Saturday, April 15th. at my place in Cloverlick, I will sell at auction the following property:

1 2-year old Jersey heifer to be fresh
1 4 year old Tom Thumb saddle mare
1 draft mare, 9 or 10 years old, well broken
1 low top buggy, good as new
1 share of stock in Mutual Phone
1 ewe sheep
All my household and kitchen furniture,

Harness, chains, bridles, tools, barrels, stone jars, feed sacks, 8 gallons of vinegar, lantern, clocks, stand table, range cook stove, 22 rifle, childs bed and many other articles.

TERMS: All sums of $15 and under cash. Over that amount a credit of 8 months, with interest and notes with approved security.

LAND FOR SALE

At the same time and place, I will also offer for sale 10 acres of land, adjoining the village of Cloverlick. There is a good barn and outbuildings on this land. If land is sold, I will sell a lot of lumber.

Mrs. Leola V. Dilley.
Herold, Auctioneer.

Farm for Sale

102 acres of land lying on the east side of the Greenbrier river from Keister, known as the old McColester farm. About 70 acres is level river bottom land, the balance has about 300,000 feet of saw timber. This farm has a very good 5 room house and barn, various kinds of fruit trees, 6 miles to White Sulphur Springs and 6 miles to Lewisburg, good outlet. For other information write or see

E. W. Shaver,
Judyton, W. Va.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of Mrs. Mary W. Gatewood, deceased, to present their accounts proven according to law to the undersigned administrator at his home at Linwood, W. Va. All persons indebted to said estate by note or account will please prepare to settle at once

This 14th of March 1922.

M. C. Gatewood, Admr.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of the late Mrs. Rachel A. Patterson to present them proven according to law to the undersigned administrator at his office at Arbovale, W. Va. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate will prepare to settle at once.

This 24th of March, 1922.

J. A. Patterson,
Admr.

FOR SALE

1 Ford touring, 1921 touring
1 Overland roadster
1 Maxwell touring
1 Racer
1 used Stewart truck, 3-4 ton

All these cars are in good running running condition and will be sold at a bargain.

HINER & GUM
Marlinton, W. Va.

FARM FOR SALE—90 acres of land near State Road between Huntersville and Minnehaha Springs, 40 acres cleared, young orchard. For particulars. Apply to

H. F. Bussard,
Huntersville, W. Va.

POLLED HEREFORD BULL—I have a Polled Hereford Bull calf for sale, ten months old, large size in good condition.

Mrs. Fannie Kinnison,
Seebert, W. Va

FOR SALE—8 acres of land and a nice bungalow house of 3 rooms, pantry and porches. On macadam road near Edray, good water, some fruit trees and all under fence. For particulars apply to

Mrs. MARY DAVIS
RFD 1 Marlinton, W. Va.

HOUSE FOR SALE in Marlinton, property known as the McLaughlin House. Suitable for 3 families, desirable location low price and good terms.

J. W. YEAGER,
Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR SALE:—7 passenger, 6 cylinder Studebaker automobile, in good condition. A bargain to the quick buyer.

Luther Flynn,
H. C. Spencer,
Hillsboro, W. Va.

SUNDAY IN GUNTUR

A word from Dr. Mary R. Fleming. Advices from India tell of Dr. M R. Fleming's welfare, she being nicely situated and happily employed in mission work while learning the language. We bespeak the prayers of christians for this devoted missionary of the Cross. She writes as follows:

Sunday begins at six o'clock instead of five thirty as week days do, for the College S. S. has pressed me into service as a teacher, and it begins at seven fifteen. It is a pleasant walk in the morning through our own big compound under the palm and margosa trees, and then about a quarter of a mile along the road to the big rambling school building where the S. S. is held. There are about two hundred boys here. Some are from Christian families and some are still Hindu. The latter can be recognized in most cases by the fact that they wear their hair long and coiled into a knot at the back of the head, and often have the head shaved in front. The hymn books are locked up this morning and we can't get them, so we sing two hymns from memory. The other lady teacher and myself are evidently expected to lead, which is embarassing as we find that neither of us knows more than the first verse and the chorus. But we all come out strong on the chorus each time and so get through. I have an interesting class of fourteen to sixteen yearolds, who know English, some Christian and some Hindus. I am glad to be able to do a little in this way while I am learning the language.

We go immediatly from there to the Teluge service at 8:30. There has already been a service for the children at 7:30. There are, however plenty of children at the 8:30 service too. Most of the people are dressed in clean clothes, all the school boys in neat cotton coats and trousers, and the girls in funny long skirts down to their bare feet, and short jackets that button straight down the front. The older girls and women wear the graceful sari that drapes the skirt and then goes over one shoulder and is pulled over the head. The unmarried girls plait their hair in long pigtails and frequently put a marigold just at the beginning of the braid, and it shows up well in the black hair.

By the time the service begins the church seems well filled, but still they keep coming in until there are five or six hundred. When the seats are all full they begin sitting on the floor. Some of these are not so well dressed. Boys there are with only a shirt, little girls who seem quite unembarrassed in only a pair of full trousers gathered about the waist, while babies run about clad in a shiny brown skin, a smile and a string of beads. In the aisle near me one of the officers of the church sits on the floor with the crowd gathered there and sees to it that the older children keep reasonably quiet, and if a baby cries too much he sends the mother out with it. Meantime the native pastor, whose dignity in his white robe is not at all impaired by his bare feet is preaching eloquently in the sonorous Telugu, not disturbed by such small things as babies. And indeed most of the people listen well through a long service.

Home we go to breakfast, about eleven thirty, having had our "little breakfast" at seven There is a Mohammedan S. S. at two thirty, which those who know Hindustani attend, but the Telugu S S. is at four thirty, and this is the greatest sight of all. Nearly a thousand men woman and children fill the church for a rather long opening service. It is well conducted by the native superintendent, and the responsive reading would put to shame the same sort of thing in many of our home churches. They sing the Telugu lyrics, wild and sweet and beautifully harmonious. Then they file out by classes, and groups big and little gather round their teachers, sitting on the grsund under trees or in the shade of the walls all over the big church yard, while the primaries gather in the school house near by, and in its yard and porches. It is a wonderful sight to see in a heathen land and makes one's heart rejoice at the power of the Gospel that has brought this to pass and at all it means for the future of this people.

After S. S. there is about an hour before the English service, and though we have been going to church all day we do not want to miss hearing a sermon in our own tongue. The ministers among the missionaries take turns in preaching. Then we go home to our eight o'clock dinner, and after that have a little time for reading and remembering Sundays in other lands.

Executor's Sale

As executor of the estate, of the late B. M. Trainer, I will sell the following property at auction on Saturday April 22, 1922 at 10 o'clock, a. m., at B. M. Trainer's Residence near Arbovale, W. Va.—4 cows, calves by side, 2 work horses, 1 3 yr. old colt, 35 sheep, 3-2 year old cattle, 2 steers and 1 heifer; 1 2-horse plow, 1 cultivator, 1 mowing machine, 1 buggy rake, 1 wagon, sled, buggy, spike tooth harrow, apple mill, grain cradle, cook stove, heating stove, 2 cross-cut saws, household and kitchen furniture, chains, spreaders, scythes & etc.

At same time farm will be offered for rent.

Terms made known on day of sale.

L. H. Moomau,
Executor of B. M. Trainer, deceased.
Ashford, Auctioneer.

Executor's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of the late B. M. Trainer to present the same properly proven to the undersigned executor at his office at Greenbank, W. Va. All persons indebted to said estate will prepare to settle at once.

This 10th of April, 1922.

L. H. Moomau,
Executor of B. M. Trainer, deceased.

WAR LETTERS

In looking over some old papers, W. W. Arbogast, of Greenbank found a number of letters written by his father, George Washington Arbogast, to his wife, who is now Mrs. Ellen Brown, while in the Confederate Army. He was a member of the Greenbank Company, 31st Virginia Infantry. He was killed in battle, at Port Republic, if our memory serves us right.

Camp Summersville Ford,
March 13, 1864.

My dear Wife:—

As Mr. Fleming is here I thought I had better write to you as I know you like to hear from me. I am well and getting along very well. I was on picket when Hull started on furlough. I suppose you got the letter I sent by him. When on picket I saw some of the Yank pickets. Sometimes they shoot at each other and sometimes they trade papers and other things.

Sentence was read yesterday evening on three of our men. Each one is to do twelve months hard labor in Richmond with a ball not weighing over twelve pounds, and a chain not less than three feet long attached to their ankle. Two were taken from here this morning. Poor fellows, I pity them. It is generally thought they will have another hearing and be released. The Reg't. dislikes it very much.

I have not seen nor heard anything from Howard yet. I heard Warwick had gone from his company on a sick furlough. Hope he is in Pocahontas or Highland enjoying himself finely. I was at preaching at Gen. Ewels Head Qts. Preaching twice every Sunday. Wilfong has been promoted to Captain and Warwick to 1st Lieut. It is thought generally that the 31st will go to north western Virginia this spring.

If Warwick is in Pocahontas or Highland, don't let him join Jackson's Command. A law has been passed that a man must stay in the same Company and Regiment unless transferred by some means. I don't want to hear of him having a ball and chain to his foot.

I could have drawn my money yesterday, but as we can get it in the new issue by waiting from two to four months. I thought I had better wait. The amount due me is nearly four hundred and seventy dollars $470.00. I still have ten dollars. Things are very high and we can't buy much. You must send me some more thread; the thread we can get is not strong enough. Is your mother still with you? How are you getting along? Take good care of the lambs as they come, don't forget that.

How are my dear little children? I miss them smartly, also their mother. Would love to see you all. Mind, do not let them get the master of you if I get the pleasure of getting home I want to see obedient children, sweet little things, kiss them for me. I will enclose two combs for you and Willie; they are of my own manufacture, the first.

Your loving husband,
Wash.

DIED

J. B. Alderman, better known as Hoxie Alderman, died at his home on Douthards Creek March 16, 1922, aged 42 years and 27 days. He was first stricken with neuralgia then with pleurisy both of which were on the way to recovery when his heart gave way.

Mr. Alderman was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Octave Alderman, both having preceded him to the grave several years.

He leaves to mourn his loss a wife, who was formerly Miss Annie Boggs, of Alvon, three children, Theodore, Mary and Nellie, all at home, five brothers, one sister and a host of relatives and friends.

In his death the wife has lost a faithful helpmate, the children a loving father, and the community an upright citizen who was always ready to assist his fellowmen. May our loss be heaven's gain. He left these blessed words to his family and friends. "Don't worry about me. I am ready to go."

Burial services were conducted at him home March 19th by his pastor. Rev. O. P. McNeil assisted by Rev. H. Underwood after which the body was borne to the family burying ground and laid away in its final resting place near his three infant children whose spirits were in glory to welcome father to that eternal home of happiness.

The words of one of his favorite hymns seems so appropriate for his farewell message to this earth.

"I'm going home, All glory to the Lamb,
Jesus will take me now as I am,
Soon I'll be there with friends who've gone before.
Oh, happy meeting! We'll meet to part no more."

Conklin Wagons

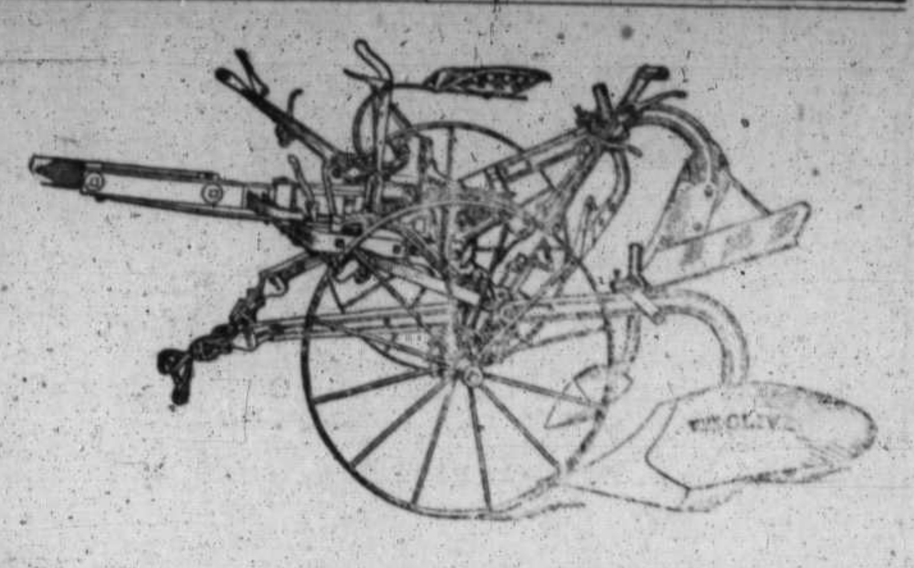
We have a number of new Conklin Wagons at Seebert, which we will sell at an attractive price to the buyer. Sizes 3 and 3 1 4

MASHALL & SIPLE
Hillsboro, W. Va.

WANTED—A live wire to fill a good, responsible position in Pocahontas county. Don't apply unless you mean business; submit references. Box 592, Charleston, W. Va.

HOUSE FOR SALE: A five room cottage house in Greenbank, with half acre lot. This is a good home for some one. House was built new two years ago. Will sell reasonable. If interested address,

Mrs. Fannie Sheets,
Hillsboro, W. Va.



By reason of the fact that we must vacate the wareroom in which we have stored our line of Oliver farm machinery, we offer special low prices on Blackhawk manure spreaders, cultipackers, two way plows, riding cultivators, checkrow corn planters; and other implements.

Get our prices now. There is no better than the Oliver.

C. J. Richardson
Marlinton, W. Va.

Saws

Inserted and Solid Tooth Saws
Guaranteed to give you entire satistaction

Repairing and Hammering a specialty
Teeth and holders for all standard make saws
Special prices until April 15, 1922

Teeth $4.25 per 100
Holders 40c each

F. Heinemann Saw Co.
1717 Spring Street
Parkersburg, W. Va.

Most Drastic Price Cut In The History Of Truck Manufacturing!

New Stewart prices represent the greatest truck value on the market today; a remarkable manufacturing and merchandising achievement

Chassis	1920 Prices	1921 Prices	Present Prices	Reduction
Speed Truck	$1450	$1395	$1195	$255
1 ton	1850	1875	1395	455
1 1-2 ton	2450	2200	1790	660
2 ton	3075	2800	2090	985
2 1-2 ton	3200	2950	2290	1010

F. O. B. Buffalo

For Demonstration, come to or call Hiner & Gum

Pocahontas Stewart Truck Co.

Stewart
Motor Trucks

Now that the severe winter weather is over, is it not time to think of erecting Memorials to those who have gone before? This is a duty we owe to our beloved dead.

We have the largest assortment of Marble and Granite Monuments carried by any dealer in the two Virginias and at VERY REASONABLE prices. We handle nothing but the very best material.

Write us for designs and prices before you buy. We guarantee you perfect satisfaction in every respect.

CLIFTON FORGE MARBLE & GRANITE WORKS, Inc.
Harry F. Burt, Pres.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THURSDAY, MARCH 25. 1920

Those agreeable rattlesnakes, the Senators, refused to ratify the peace treaty and returned it to the President with the word that they could not consent to it. That it was not what they wanted. The President knows now what it is to be tetween the devil and the deep sea—between the Senate on one side and the Chancelleries of Europe on the other.

It took the United States 536 days to fight the war and win it. After the war was over then it took the statesman 493 days to decide that the peace treaty was not framed right. It is certain that the time spent in drawing up a peace contract will exceed in duration the period of the war.

Hitchcock dared Lodge and Lodge double-dared Hitchcock, and then of course it was a dead-lock. Ill done thou unprofitable servants, enter into the blackness of darkness forevermare.

On the whole, we are better satisfied with the position of John Sharp Williams than any of them. He took the view that the silly reservations were nothing but cheap and unworthy artifice, and not worth the consideration of grown men. There should have been a speedy vote on the treaty last year.

The reservation that they finally tacked on number 10 either meant that the executive authority should have nothing to do with foreign affairs and that these should be managed by a Congressional committee, or it meant nothing. As the constitution makes foreign affairs one of the duties to be performed by the President, the action of the Senate was mischievious, to say the least, and it was just as well to reject it. Number ten was an agreement by the nations not to engage in wars of conquest, and meant the disarming of the nations. It was intended to promote an era of peace.

So they all fell out over the meaning of the word peace, and Borah was able to play both ends against the middle and won a parliamentary victory, and he stands a first rate chance of being rewarded by receiving the Nobel peace prize, for last year they voted that emblem to the inventor of poisonous gas.

Nobody is very well pleased with the long drawn out negotiations over the details of peace.

We are not exactly like the man that put his hand to the plow and turned back. We are more like the farmer that we knew once that plowed a big field and then neglected to plant it, and that year he had neither grass nor corn.

It is now the President's move, and he is a pretty good player on the checkerboard of life. He has always been equal to an emergency.

"Suffice it that he never brought
His conscience to the public mart;
But lived himself the truth he taught,
White-souled, clean-handed, pure of heart."

Now that the Senate has treated the peaee treaty as a piece of scrapping paper, we have been furnished a line of argument to be used in defence of a gentleman who was never defended before, and that is the Levite, who was passing along a road one day and saw a man lying in the side ditch, badly wounded by some thieves that he had fallen among.

The Levite belonged to the upper crust among the Hebrews. From his tribe came all of the leading men. They furnished all of the professional men from high priest to horse doctor, and he had been carefully trained to avoid entangling acquaintances. The wisdom that he acquired taught him that the less he had to do with thieves or those who fell among thieves, the better off he would be. So when he saw the man lying there without any clothes on, covered with blood, and mud, and dirt, it did not occur to him that it might be his duty to climb down the bank and see if there was anything that he could do to help the unfortunate creature.

He had studied a few hundred rules but none of them covered a case of this kind. And so he continued on his way to the Synagogue chewing on wisdom that was past and not knowing that the wounded man was in his jurisdiction.

The Levite did not know that he would be the subject of adverse criticism in thousands of Sunday Schools forever, just because he could not tell when the old order passeth.

The good reason that the Levite had in passing on regardless was that just a few moments before a high priest had passed by the same way and left the poor man to the mercy of God.

The third man that came along was a Samaritan, or as we would say under the circumstances, a Mexican, but the man was to make the word Samaritan blessed for all time. For he got off his horse and threw the bridle reins on the ground and went down over the bank and when he found that the man was not dead, gave him a nip out of his bottle, and brought some water to him in his hat, and got his slicker coat off his saddle, and histed the hurt man up on his horse, and took him to the Hoover House and stood for the bill, and set up with him that night. The next day before he rode away he left two pennies, a considerable sum in those days, and gave it to the landlord and said to take care of the stranger, and rode away immortal.

And all the ingrowing mind of the Levite could see in it was the rightness of the right, and all that he could say was that it was just like a Samaritan, and that a fool and his money were soon parted. Yet the Levite only acted according to his lights. He could not see an opportunity. He took no chances. He was a conservative and he has been universally damned in fifty-seven different languages from the day of the utterance of the healing words of Christ, and will be a horror and offense until the end of time.

The longer that a man practices law, the more he becomes convinced that an able lawyer, and especially an able judge, can support any position that he takes on a controversy with plausible and perfect law. And with political editors it is the same way. But that does not make it right in every instance.

Who would have thought that so much stress would have been laid upon the election of 1916, held before the war, upon the question of woman suffrage in 1920. In 1916, the question was presented in a superficial way, largely by persons sent here to canvass the vote. There was no precedent for it that West Virginians cared to follow. It is true that some western states had tried it out successful, and an old bachelor came back from Colorado and boasted that he had kissed a justice of the peace.

Since that time, many things happened. The eastern states began to grant universal suffrage and the federal amendment was well on its way to adoption. In fact it was certain before West Virginia was called upon to act. And yet they say that there had been a vote on it.

The trouble about it is that some of the politicians are interested in national elections and other politicians specialize on state elections. Still others on county elections. And still others on town elections. And it was just a question of whose ox was gored.

The editors who oppose, though it is a fact accomplished, are writing editorials that sound more like the bloody flag editorials that we can just remember when the colored man was given his first vote.

We have no criticism to make of the harassed southern states who have troubles of their own and who fight for a highly restricted voting class, allowing no man to vote who has not had a grandfather, but a state like West Virginia where the first principle is an expansive vote, including all classes from bishops to mine mules, is of the class that hands the women the right to vote with hat in hand, under the fashion prevailing since the great war. As a matter of fact, we reckon there is more of that old Virginia big god nonsense in us than we are willing to admit.

What makes us tired with the West Virginia News is that he is so liberal with other people's rights, to-wit, women's rights.

What if the election of 1916 was against it? The mill will never grind with the water that is passed. Add the woman vote to the minority of 1916, and where would you be?

There was a time that woman were not allowed full membership in churches, and yet with all the disrespect that was shown them, the time came when the church would be nothing without them. It became a common saying that men kept their religion in their wives' names. We know a multitude of politicians who would be improved by keeping their politics in their wives' names.

We read with interest the remark of the Ohio County lady who is glad that the time is coming when she will have some say in the government.

We are glad too, and we would remind the popular idols of something that they have each and every one experienced, that it is harder to fool a woman than it is to fool a man, and that they will have present a better article of clap-trap or go away back and sit down.

We are glad to see that Hon. H. Black hurst, the member from this county, and that both senators from this district, were consistent in their support of the Suffrage measure. It may be inconvenient to live on the the top of a mountain but it is a fact that you get a better view from there than in the low lands.

It is easily to be seen that the two senators from this district were absolutely necessary in the vote in the Senate, but it is not generally known that the word has been grapevined through the hills and valleys, that Blackhurst's vote and influence was just as essential in the House.

The way we got it was that there was a body of votes in the House that belonged to silent and determined men, and that the steering committee never knew how this considerable vote would fall until Blackhurst had voted on the roll call. Then their nimble minds got trained to count so many votes on that side, and they were troubled or pleased according to their desires.

The Blackhurst vote got to be famous in that way. His name beginning with a B was the first to be called of that devoted band, and always proved to be a true index to the votes of the others. For the same reason that their decision was not known in advance, it will probably never be known how the thing came about. Of course it is natural for men to adhere in parliamentary bodies, but it is not usual for the members to keep their own counsel so well and defy all efforts to break up the bunch.

We looked at the first roll call and saw that our solid representative had voted as he said he was going to vote when he left home and we never checked him up after that knowing that he stood like a stone-wall when his mind was once made up. Then we were surprised when we noticed in the paper that he had switched his vote, and went down to the river to see if it was still flowing south. We are glad to see the report denied.

And whether for weal or woe, it is nevertheless a fact that the man from Pocahontas had a good deal to do with putting the ballot in the hands of the women.

Last week we got a tip on the Republican nomination for President that we would gamble on if we were a gambling man and had anybody to gamble with. It was Lowden. What makes us back Lowden is the fact that Slemp appeared at the convention at Roanoke, Virginia, and as leader put through a resolution endorsing Lowden for the nomination. This must mean that he thinks that Lowden is the man that should be nominated and it is a cold day when Slemp misses his guess in politics. It is good enough for us anyway.

The West Virginia News says that we twisted his words. No, we looked at the paper again, and find that he did not say that. He says we misrepresented him. But we say that is a distinction without a difference and we claim that to that extent only did we misconstrue him last week. That is the trouble with all us writers. When we set out to impart information, we do not get all the stuff through right. His language was unfortunate. We thought he said that the suffrage was a plague. But he meant the way it was brought about was a plague. He is like the woman lawyer in the Merchant of Venice. He fears that it will be recorded for a precedent and much error rush into the state. He thinks that when a state goes one way in election it ought to stay put. If Wilson carries West Virginia in 1912, then it is wrong to vote against him in 1916. Language is hard to manage anyway. Like the man who wired to his wife: "On my way to New York run off with lady." It turned out that he was unexpectedly called to the city and to make up the ten words wanted to tell his wife that the old horse that brought him to the depot with a summer boarder had run off. It was an unfortunate message and caused some little stir.

We have got a pretty steady country. The vagaries of a Senate cannot even shake it. We are used to big talk. It came home to us the other day very forcibly. We owed a man in London two pounds and we sent him a plain check on a Marlinton bank for the sum of ten dollars. In the old days this would have just taken care of it and allowed 26 cents for exchange. But after the check had been across the ocean and back we got a receipt showing that after paying all charges, expenses, and exchange, that we were credited with two pounds and 15 shillings. How is that for a ten dollar transaction. A shilling is like our quarters. On a ten dollar transaction we got the equevalent of 15 quarters, or $3.75. When we can make money on English money like this, what would be the returns on a deal in France, Italy or Germany. We are living in a favored country.

Auction Sale

I will offer for sale at the home of Beverly Waugh, deceased at Warwick Saturday, April 3, 1920, at 2:00 o'clock p. m. the following personal property.

1 good horse 8 years old, wt. 1500
4 good cows, will be fresh
1 good 3 year old heifer will be fresh
1 good yearling heifer
2 hogs

TERMS, made known day of sale.

Orestus Waugh, Administrator of Beverly Waugh, deceased.

For Sale

Lot with cottage, situated on Court Street. Modern improvements, Spendid location. Apply to,
Mrs. A. W. Gatewood, Pulaski, Va

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Don't Depend on Spring Deliveries

Spring deliveries of Ford cars have never been certain, and they should not be depended upon. Demand has always been greater for Ford cars than the supply or production. So, if you would be sure of having a Ford car, buy it now while deliveries are possible. Don't wait—even next month is an uncertainty.

Only a limited, specified number of cars has been allotted to this territory. That allotment cannot be increased, because the demand all over the country is greater than the supply or production. Get your order in now, and you will be one of those who is sure of a Ford car out of our allotment.

It's first come--first served. All orders are filled in rotation. So, if you would be forehanded, if you would be certain of having a Ford car when you want it--then you will buy a Ford car now. A signed order with us is your protection. It is the result of the wisdom of looking ahead.

If you buy a Ford car now, don't think you have to "store" it. The Ford is a car made to serve its owner for business or pleasure throughout the entire year. Ford owners have long since come to recognize the fact. It is no longer popular to "lay-up" your car for the winter. Buy a Ford car now, and use it now.

BAXTER'S GARAGE

Marlinton West Va.

Goodyear Tire Station—400 in stock, You can get your size.

CITE TREES TO HALL OF FAME

Washington,—"The Great Tree in Boston Common" and "The Green Tree Hotel" at Le Claire, Iowa, the most famous tree on the Mississippi river, were today nominated for a place in the "Hall of Fame for Trees" being compiled by the American Forestry Association.

The Great Tree on Boston Common is nominated by J. Collins Warren of Boston, who sends a complete history of the tree which was blown down in a storm at Feb. 15, 1918, the centennial of the year in which the colonists gathered around the tree and started for Lexington to give battle to the British.

"The Green Tree Hotel" at Le Claire, Iowa, is nominated by J. B. Barnes, who as a boy played leap frog beneath the branches of this tree with one Willie Cody, afterward known to fame as "Buffalo Bill."

The historic elm is well known to the Mississippi river because to the river men, reports Mr. Barnes, "It was the waiting place of men out of a job and looking for a trip. Therefore, they give it the name of "The Green Tree Hotel." It is considered to be 120 years old.

Other nominations for the Hall of Fame includes the De Soto Oak at Tampa, Fla., from which De Soto started for the Mississippi and the west; the Octopus Tree in Charles City county, Virginia, nominated by Meade Ferguson as the largest and oldest tree in the state; the two oaks at Marlinton, W. Va., marked in 1751 by Gen. Andrew Lewis and nominated by Andrew Price; the tallest tree in the Balkans at Podgoritza, nominated by the Red Cross, which had headquarters near it during the war.

MAN

Wants little here below, nor wants that little long, but would like it pretty well located to churches, schools, good roads and neighbors, 1-4, 1, 1 1-4, 2, 2 1-2, 2 3-4, 6, 6, 10, 15, 20, 24, 45, 60. 92, 96, 102, 119, 160, 190, 197, and 255 acres. Let us demonstrate to you the above facts on the above tracts of land. Special invitation to the man from Missouri.

Bridgewater Realty Co.
Cyrus H. Cline, Mgr.

SPICE

We are having some changeable March weather.

Bliss Shrader and Family, who have been sick with influenza, are able to be out again.

A. M. Dean is hauling goods for our new merchant, F. W. Dean.

L. W. McCoy is hauling lumber for Albert McCoy, near Lobelia.

Mrs. Anderson, of Marlinton, is visiting her son, Emery Anderson, at Spice.

Miss Eula Kershner has returned to Cass after a few week's visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Kershner.

Misses Lizzie Barrett and Pearl McCarty were shopping at F. W. Dean's store this week.

Mrs. A. J. McCoy, is at Hillsboro with her sister, Mrs. Geo. Clark who is sick with influenza.

THORNY CREEK

J. R. Hiner still continues very ill.

Mrs. J. L. Fertig who had the misfortune to cut her arm, is improving nicely.

Mrs. Newton Fertig, who has been in the Hinton Hospital has returned to her home improved in health.

Doe Fertig is working at Frost.

We are not having very good sugar making weather so far.

The farmers are preparing to do their spring plowing.

Grady A. Kidd, of Hillsboro, Pocahontas County, a student of the University, on Saturday night was initiated into the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity, one of the strongest organizations among the University students at Morgantown.

Christ Commands YOU

Two thousand years ago the Saviour said: "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature." His voice rings out as sharp and clear today as it did then. Jesus is talking to YOU as directly as he did to the twelve disciples at the Last Supper.

You Are Personally Responsible
Will the Day of Reckoning Find You Remiss
ONLY ACTIONS SPEAK

If you can't go, send your substitute to home or foreign field—$4,000,000 needed this year.

Presbyterian Progressive Program
Presbyterian Church in the United States

ATTORNEYS

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court Appeals

F. RAYMOND HILL
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Old Furniture Bought. Repair work and mission furniture.

DR. M. N. McKEE,
DENTIST
Camden Ave. Marlinton, W. Va.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

R. B. SLAVIN
Heating, Plumbing and Sheet Metal Work. Best materials. 17 years experience.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Dr. C. S. Kramer Dr. E. G. Herold
KRAMER & HEROLD
DENTISTS
Marlinton, W. Va.
1st National Building. Phone.

M. F. GUM
AUCTIONEER
Marlinton, W. Va.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specialty of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

W. A. BARLOW
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Onoto, W. Va.
Phone or write, prompt attention to all calls.

Dr. E. R. McIntosh

SPECIALIST
In diseases of the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat
Eyes Examined Glasses Fitted
Equipped hospital rooms for Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat. Work in connection with offices. Private Nurse in attendance.
10, 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15 Cobb Bldl.
ELKINS, W. VA.
Hours 9 to 5 daily Evenings 7 to 8
Sundays 12 to 2 p. m.
Correspondence Solicited.

Z. S. Smith

UNDERTAKER AND LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA
LIVERY AND FEED STABLE
Rigs to suit all occasions. Promp and satisfactory service guaranteed.

Beman Produce Co.

WHOLESALE PRODUCE
(Denning Livery Building.)
RONCEVERTE, W. VA.
Offer the Best Market and the Highest Cash, Price for your Produce
Butter, Eggs, Chickens, Turkeys, Wool, Hides, Furs and Ginseng.

Flour, feed

I have opened a general feed supply store in the old Shoemaker Stand, and will keep in stock at all times Flour, Feed, Corn meal, Salt, Fertilizer, Coal and Oil.
See me before buying.
T. H. HINER,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Rats Die

so do mice, once they eat RAT-SNAP. And they leave no odor behind. Don't take our word for it—try a package. Cats and dogs won't touch it. Rats pass up all food to get RAT-SNAP. Three sizes.
25c. size [1 cake] enough for Pantry, Kitchen or Cellar.
50c. size [2 cakes] for Chicken house coops, or small buildings.
$1.00 size [5 cakes] enough for all frrm and out-buildings, storage buildings, or factory buildings.
Sold and guaranteed by
PEOPLES STORE & SUPPLY CO

ANDREW CARNEGIE

BY CHARLES SCHAWB

It is nearly forty years since I first knew Mr. Carnegie. As a boy I met him when he sojourned on the Alleghany Mountains for his summer outings, and I little thought at that time, when I held his horse and did trivial services for him, that fate in later years of life would so intimately throw our lives together, and that I would become the friend and associate of such a great man.

As I reflect on those early days, a thought occurs to me that I heard expressed by an eminent gentleman who came here this morning and who is past seventy years of age; he said to me, "No man has had a greater influence upon my life than Mr. Carnegie."

Even in those early days, when I was a boy, his personality was such as to inspire one, whatever his station in life, to better efforts and to an appreciation of the finer things in life, not by what he may have said to you, not by what he may have written or spoken, but just by the tender attitude of a strong personality that existed and lived with him through his whole life.

So as I look back upon those days of boyhood, when I knew Mr. Carnegie only by my service to him, I feel now the strength of that personality and the influence it has had upon me in after life.

Now, the world knows—and it is useless for me to speak of them on this occasion—of the great events in Mr. Carnegie's life—the building of his great business, his philanthropies, and the many interesting things that the world at large is thoroughly familiar with.

Those are a part of history and are within the knowledge of everybody, and it seems to me out of place to speak of them today; so I will only speak of that inward personality and soul of the man upon which those great commercial enterprises and those great philanthropic acts have been based and which could never have been accomplished without such a soul.

Mr Carnegie was an illuminating example of what strong personality will do in the world—of what loving personality, interesting personality, will do.

Never before, perhaps, in the history of industry have you known a man who, not himself understanding the business in its working details, making no pretense of being a technical steel manufacturer or a special engineer, was yet able to build up such a great and wonderfully successful enterprise as Mr. Carnegie did.

It was not because he was a skilled chemist or a skilled mechanic, a skilled engineer or a skilled metallurgist; it was because he had the faculty of enlisting the people who were skilled in those arts. And while it may be an easy thing to enlist the interest of such men in an enterprise, it is quite a different thing to get their best effort and loyal support.

And in that Mr. Carnegie was paramount over all men that I have ever known.

I wonder how many of you have ever reflected that these tremendous results which Mr. Carnegie secured were always obtained through a spirit of approval and never of criticism? Mr. Carnegie was always one to take you by the hand and encourage and approve. It was the rarest thing in the world to hear him criticise the actions of others, especially in a business sense.

I wonder if you reflect how you yourselves—how every other man responds with his best efforts under such conditions?

In my wide association in life, meeting with many great men in various parts of the world, I have yet to find the man, however great or exalted his station, who did not do better work and put forth greater effort under a spirit of approval than he would ever do under a spirit of criticism.

Now, Mr. Carnegie understood this great thing early in life, and it was his fine philosophy, which he practiced always, that made him a great commercial success.

If I may be pardoned in giving you an illustration of the truth of this by relating a personal experience, I would like to call attention to the fact that during the war, when ships were so badly required by our nation and the world, and I was entrusted with the direction of that affair, the only thing that I did was to follow the example that Mr. Carnegie taught me many years ago, which was to stop criticism and to give the people who were doing the work encouragement and approval for what they were doing. The response that we had from the country speaks for the success of that theory of life.

Mr. Carnegie believed in that theory of life and practiced it more constantly and successfully than any other man I have ever known.

That was one of the personal traits that made him great. I have seen him often in times of stress and disappointment, but he was always encouraging.

To illustrate that, I am going to relate a little incident that occurred many years ago, when I was manager of the Braddock works—and many of my associates here today on this platform, Mr. Morrison, Mr. Clemson, Mr. Peacock, and the rest, will remember it. It was at a time when money was not too plentiful in the Carnegie Company, and I had asked permission to put up a new converting mill, and it had been built. It was everything I expected it to be, everything I promised Mr. Carnegie it should be, and he came out to Braddock to see it.

As I was showing him around the works and explaining the new mill, he looked into my face and said, "Charlie, there is something wrong about this; I can see by your expression that you are disappointed. There is something wrong with this mill."

I said, "No, Mr. Carnegie, it is just exactly what I told you it would be, and we have reduced our costs to the point that I said we would. But if I had it all to do over again, there is one thing which has just recently been discovered that I would introduce here, and that I am sure would result in further economy."

He said: "Well, what does that mean? Can you change this work?"

I said, "No; it would mean tearing this down and rebuilding it."

"Why," he said, "then that is the right thing to do; it is only a fool that will not profit by anything that may have been overlooked and discovered after the work is done. Tear it down and do it over again."

And although that converting mill had been running only two months, we did tear it down and we did build it over again, and the return upon the capital thus expended repaid the great firm many fold.

That spirit was characteristic of Mr. Carnegie. He did not say in criticism, "Why didn't you think of this before?"

If he had been the type of man who would say that sort of thing to me, or to any manager, he would never have learned of this new idea that had developed, and as a result the firm would not have reaped the benefit of the better mill. But that is the way Mr. Carnegie inspired us all.

Another phase of his character was thoroughness, and that may be illustrated in a way which shows how his mind worked all around a subject. In those golden days when, perhaps, we had made a profit statement which showed that the firm had made five or six hundred thousand dollars in a month, or possibly more, and I would go to him with pride and say, "Mr. Carnegie, we have made five hundred thousand dollars this month," it would not be a spirit of gratification alone that he manifested, but he would say, "Show me your cost sheets. It is more interesting to know how cheaply and how well you have done this thing than how much money you have made, because the one is a temporary result, due possibly to special conditions of trade, but the other means a permanency that will go on with the works as long as they last."

Mr. Carnegie used often to scold me in a good-natured sort of way for what he called my extravagance with money.

He would say, "Charlie, I don't understand you; here you are, a poor boy, born in the country, and you don't realize the value of money, and you spend and spend for new work extensions, all the time, as if we had money unlimited."

I always protested that he was wrong, that I was only spending for the good of the firm, until one historic day when I was going to see Mr. Carnegie. Mr. Curry, one of our dear departed partners, went first and a little later I took a carriage, from the Holland House, and when I arrived at Mr. Carnegie's home as I expected to remain for only a short time I told the cabman to wait. We started talking, and our interest waxed keen; time flew on until the luncheon hour, when I accepted an invitation to remain, and our discussion continued.

This old question of economy came up, and again there was an arraignment of my extravagance, against which I protested; but just then the butler stepped in and asked, "Mr. Schwab, do you want that carriage to wait any longer?"

Mr. Carnegie always seemed to have the faculty of getting the best of an argument of that sort. It was useless for me, after that, to protest that his conclusions with reference to my extravagance were not correct.

One other thought occurs to me about Mr. Carnegie which perhaps others may not have expressed, and I wish to refer to it.

During the Great War the one spirit that seemed to animate every man, no matter how great his station in life—and, indeed, the greater his station the more he tried to emulate it—was the spirit of democracy.

This is an age when a man, be he prince, king, philanthropist, merchant, manufacturer, politician or plain citizen, can have nothing better said of him than that he is truly democratic. That describes Mr. Carnegie. We are all striving for that spirit of true democracy.

When the heir to the English throne visited this country recently, what was the one predominating thing that was said about him everywhere and that attracted such universal admiration? It was the fact that he was a true democrat.

And, by the way, the true aristocrat of today is not the man of birth or wealth, but the man who has done something for humanity.

That was no new theory with Mr. Carnegie. He was the simple democrat that we preach of today, all the years of his life. He never had a particle of snobbishness in his character, nor could he tolerate it in others. He was a true example of democracy, and he practiced that virtue all his life.

He numbered among his friends not alone the great and the rich and the powerful of the world, but the honest working man or woman in any capacity who was truly doing the best possible in a straightforward way to accomplish something in life.

I see a man in this audience to whom I heard Mr. Carnegie say, "Morgan, I am glad to see you. You are one of the best workmen and one of the most straightforward men it has ever been my pleasure to know, and I am honored to have you associated with me." That was Morgan Harris, the old forgeman who sits in the front row.

I have known Morgan Harris for thirty years; he was forgeman at Braddock works, but I did not know he was going to be here this afternoon. He loved Mr. Carnegie just as much as Mr. Carnegie loved him—and I appeal to you, ladies and gentlemen, can there be a stronger appreciation of the true worth and democracy of Mr. Carnegie than that his old and favorite workman comes here to do him honor today?

Now, my friends, naturally you expected that anything I would say of Mr. Carnegie must be as a tribute of the highest possible character; nothing less could do him justice.

But this to me is not a day of grief and sadness. Of course we feel lonely and regret that our old chieftain is not here to join us in celebrating his birthday We miss him more than any one can ever say, especialy those of us who have been closely associated with him.

No man saw more of him in his later life than I, and oh, my friends, if you could know the happiness of that later life of Mr. Carnegie you would realize that it was the true consumation of a fine, strong life. His very soul seemed to be reflected in those later years, in his old age, and it shone forth in his every action and animated his thoughts more markedly than at any other period of his life.

Everybody, to Mr. Carnegie, in those later years, was his best friend and the dearest man in the world. Now when a man has that within his soul, his soul has been right throughout life.

Mr. Carnegie never knew anger and never knew revenge. He never had that feeling in his heart. No matter how deep the hurt, he carried no resentment or ill feeling.

I remember, once, a man who had done Mr. Carnegie a great injury came to me and told me that things were going badly with him, and spoke of the wrong to Mr. Carnegie.

I said to him: "You mustn't tell me about it; go and tell Mr. Carnegie." "Oh," he said, "Mr. Carnegie would not receive me." I said "Yes he will; just go and tell him him what you have told me." And he went to Mr. Carnegie and told him the truth, and Mr. Carnegie put his arms around that man's shoulders and said, "I am glad to see my old friend back here again, and we will be better friends than ever before," and as a matter of fact they were.

Among Mr. Carnegie's best friends were those he made in business. He had no weak sentiment as to business, but he believed that it was best accomplished under happy conditions.

Those of you who have visited the old Carnegie mill will remember the picture of the old monks that used to hang on the wall in the directors' room. It seems that some criticism was made that it was not sufficiently dignified for the place. That reached Mr. Carnegie's ears, and he sent the picture to me and said, "Hang this in your room."

It was a picture of a jolly old monk who owned nothing but the robe on his back; and Mr. Carnegie added, "Any time that you feel blue or inclined to be despondent, just look at this old monk's happy countenance and your depression will disappear."

He used to say, too, "Always remember that good business is never done except in a happy frame of mind." That was Mr. Carnegie's philosophy; that is the way he acted with all of us boys, and that is the reason we loved him so much.

It was my pleasure, each year, at the old Carnegie reunion, to propose his health, and I think I always used the same words, and I think I will use them again this year: "Each year that rolled by made us but love him the more." Mr. Carnegie has not departed, except in the body.

His influence and the imprint that he made on the minds of all of us live with us today just as strong as ever before, and when we propose his his health at the annual banquet, as we have in years gone by, if it comes to me, I shall use just the same words, that "each succeeding year makes us love him and admire him more and more." He was a great man amongst men.

He has left his influence and the force of his personal philosophy upon thousands—yea, millions—not because of his great business ability nor his vast philanthropies, but because of the ideals that he practiced and that he set for every man who has his life to live.

As the years went by, life brought to him all the happiness any man could ever hope to have. And I must not neglect on this occasion to pay a tribute to the one who contributed more than the world could believe to his wonderful career and to his success and character; and that is, his very dear wife, Mrs. Andrew Carnegie.

In her quiet, unostentatious way she was a tower of strength, and we boys who knew Mr. Carnegie best and most intimately were wise enough to know that if we had a doubtful cause our strongest ally was Mrs. Carnegie.

Now, that is not an un-American precedent. It seems to me to exist in most American families, and I thank God that it does, because with these hustling, masterful American men plunging forward always for material gain, the refining and restraining influence of a good woman by the side of a strong man is the finest thing that God ever created. Mrs. Carnegie occupied that position with her distinguished husband

My friends, we have not, as you see, endeavored to make this an occasion of sadness, but rather of appreciation of our good old, dear friend, Mr. Andrew Carnegie.

I am sure if he were here he might object to some of the things that were said, thinking they were extravagant, or at least over stated, but he would agree that his birthday should be celebreted in just the way we are doing here—not to stand up and express our deep regret at his death and at the loss the world has sustained, but rather an appreciation of the legacy of his good life to all of us.

The influence of his life will live many times longer than the age of a normal man. If he could realize that we love and revere his memory, and that his influence is a benefit to thousands, that would cause him great joy and be a supreme satisfaction; and if I have added anything to the thoughts of the friends of Mr. Carnegie in the praise which I have justly given him, then indeed am I honored by the opportunity to speak of my old, my beloved, my greatest friend—Andrew Carnegie.

They couldn't be built now for twice $71,000

When the talk turns from politics to railroads, and the traveler with the cocksure air breaks in with, "There's an awful lot of 'water' in the railroads," here are some hard-pan facts to give him:

American railroads have cost $80,900 a mile—roadbed, structures, stations, yards, terminals, freight and passenger trains—everything from the great city terminals to the last spike.

A good concrete-and-asphalt highway costs $36,000 a mile—just a bare road, not counting the cost of culverts, bridges, etc.

Our railroads couldn't be duplicated today for $150,000 a mile.

They are capitalized for only $71,000 a mile—much less than their actual value. Seventy-one thousand dollars today will buy one locomotive.

English railways are capitalized at $274,000 a mile; the French at $155,000; German $132,000; even in Canada (still in pioneer development) they are capitalized at $67,000 a mile. The average for all foreign countries is $100,000.

Low capitalization and high operating efficiency have enabled American Railroads to pay the highest wages while charging the lowest rates.

This advertisement is published by the Association of Railway Executives

Those desiring information concerning the railroad situation may obtain literature by writing to The Association of Railway Executives, 61 Broadway, New York

Washington, D. C.—Bodies of American dead returned from France will be turned over to private undertakers and embalmers only in cases where these are designated by the next of kin, Secretary of War, Baker, has announced. Plans for the return of some of the dead are now being formulated. The Secretary's decision was made to avoid any scandal in contracts for the reburial of the soldier dead, and the transportation section of the army will take charge of the soldiers' remains until such time as relatives, direct what disposition is to be made of them, Secretary Baker says.

Washington, D. C.—Under an extension ruling by Director R G Cholmeley-Jones of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance policies while in service during the war will be granted until July 1 1920, to renew their lapsed policies. This has been done to give a number of men a chance to again take up their insurance, many of whom have been waiting to see just how the provisions of the original War Risk Act would be changed by Congressional legislation.

GREENBANK

A public meeting of the G. G. will be given in the High School Auditorium on the evening of Friday, April 2nd. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Miss Thorne Kerr is absent from school this week on account of sickness.

Misses Beulah Brill, Thelma Conrad, and Ethel Ervine are absent from school this week. We hope they will soon return.

Several of the high school boys attended the sale at Mrs. Uriah Hevener's home Wednesday.

Mr. Rosenberger gave one of his good talks in chapel Wednesday.

The photographer for the high school annual, "Mountain Breezes," will be at the school Thursday and Friday. Mr. E. E. Harris of Morgantown, has been secured to do this work.

Floyd Collins and Family, are moving to Arbovale.

Bert Kerr, who has been in Kansas City, Missouri, the past winter, has returned home.

Miss Madge Arbogast, who has held a position with a firm in Washington, is at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Arbogast.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Beard, March 19th a daughter.

Dr. L. H. Moomau is visiting at home of his sister, Mrs. H. H. Leach, at Washington, Kentucky.

Mrs. Don Harper, of Elkins, was a recent visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Beard.

THE REVELATION

Anna L. Price

"I, John, who also am your brother" Revelation 1—

On the Isle that was called Patmos,
The beloved disciple, John,
The rocky ledge and "sea of glass,"
All that he looked upon.

Once he had sate at Jesus' feet,
Had lain on Jesus' breast;
And when they sought the sepulchre,
His feet outran the rest.

Committed to his sacred trust,
When the Lord of glory died;
Mary, the mother found a home,
Within his own fireside.

Tradition, ever a doubtful source,
Tells of his martyr toil;
How John emerged safe and unharmed,
From caldrons of burning oil.

But this we know, he labored long,
And saw millennial days;
The bloody page of Nero's reign,
And persecution's blaze.

Once he was called Boanerges,
Vehement unto death;
But the love of Christ subdued him,
And the Spirit's holy breath.

Old and enfeebled, tremulous,
Borne by some christian brother,
Within the church, his hand upraised,—
"My children, love one another."

Banished to Patmos, lonely isle,
Visions appeared to him,
And e'en to his prophetic eye,
Marvelous, obscure and dim.

And still he wrote, by hand of God,
As with a diamond pen,
The revelation of our Lord,
And the church responds, Amen.

NIXON--ASTIN

The marriage of Jacob L Nixon and Mrs. Victoria Perry Astin was solemnized by the Rev. W. T. Price, D. D., Noon March 21st.

Mr. Nixon came here from Pennsylvania and is now manager of Jim Schanaut's Amusement Hall.

Mrs. Nixon traces her relationship to a long line of Indian ancestry. Her father a Cherokee warrior refused to go west to an Indian reservation and was left unmolested living ninety-five years in the mountains of Kentucky and Tennesee.

The bride was not attired in tribal costume but wore a modern waist of georgette and a skirt of satin.

The combined ages of the minister, bride and groom was one hundred and ninety-four years.

Kind wishes follow these good people who will be at home to their friends on Seneca Trail.

"Even today we hear loves song of yore.
Deep in our hearts it dwells forever more,
Footsteps may falter, weary grow the way,
Still we can hear it at the close of day
So till the end when lifes dim shadows fall,
Love will be found the sweetest song of all."

EDUCATIONAL JOTTINGS

BY COUNTY SUPT. G. D. McNEILL

The law governing renewals provides that at the expiration of ten years or at the end of the first renewal period the applicant must take examination on reading circle books. This examination, instead of being given along with the regular examination, will be given on the evening of April 1st beginning at 6:00 and ending at 9:00 P. M. Applicant must pass on "A Son of the Middle Border" and then has choice of LaRue's Science and Art of Teaching, or Woofters, Teaching in Rural Schools. Examination for Coupons of Credit is upon same books and at same time as above. This change has been made in order that teachers may take regular examination April 1st without conflicting with Coupon of Credit Examination in case a teacher desires to take both.

After Wednesday's mail had gone, some requests for Diploma Examination Questions were received. As the examination began Thursday morning, these requests were too late.

The law requires that the numeration be completed by April 1st. It also requires that the teacher send in this enumeration before the last draft is issued.

Patrons desiring work permits for their children are reminded that, barring, ilness, defective eye sight, or other sufficient cause, no child between seven and fifteen can be given permission to leave school, unless the pupil has completed the sixth grade work.

The County Superintendent has no has no authority to issue a permit unless the provisions of the law are met, and should he issue a permit illegally, it would not protect the parent against a prosecution by the School or Health Authorities. Should it be shown that the child has completed the work of the sixth grade, and that he is fourteen years of age, no permit will be issued unless some real reason is shown why the boy should work rather than go to school.

Three of these permits have been issued this year. Two of these appears to have been warranted. The third boy, instead of helping his indigent parents, has employed his time sucker-fishing.

Some of the answers given in the recent Diploma Examination were original. For example, in answer to question, "What do you consider to be the characteristics of a good citizen," one small boy responded as follows:

"He would go to Church and Class meeting, and be in favor of good schools. He'd be honest and not let his pigs in his neighbor's garden, and not lie and steal. We don't have any body like that around here. Don't know if there is any at Marlinton or not."

Being rather in sympathy with all small boys and not knowing the father's disposition the identity of the applicant is not disclosed. He passed on Civil Government.

Here's another. Question—Give a good method for testing seed corn. Answer:

Get a strip of cloth and divide into squares. Number the ears of seed corn, take some grains from each ear and place in the square then put in pail on stove and boil for five hours.

This one failed Agriculture.

MICKIE SAYS

FROST

Our school opened here on the 15th

As yet very little plowing done in this section.

The roads are impassabbe around Frost and especially from here to Dunmore. We will soon be compelled take another path.

The railroad crossings are getting somewhat dangerous, and a horse is liable to get hurt. They should be fixed at once.

A. A. Sharp, candidate for assessor has been out among his friends. He met encouragement through section he traveled.

Mrs. A. A. Sharp has returned from Raywood where she has been with her sister, Mrs. H. H. Scohfield, who has been sick. We are glad to report her improving.

Luther Shrader has bought property in town and is going to housekeeping in a few days.

Miss Ina Sharp who taught a very successful school in the Poage Lane section, is home for a few days, after which she will take up her work again, as she has another school offered her.

There is no flu in our section at present. Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Sharp never had flu, and A. A. Sharp has no sick child.

Mr. and Mrs Gray Woods of Highland county spent some time here during the illness of Mrs. Woods' mother, Mrs. Cronin Bussard.

There has been some effort to have a graded school at Frost. A right move—but the question would arise, how are we to get the attendance. School has opened at this place and we find boys that should be in school running the roads or in the woods.

Mrs. Cronin Bussard died Friday March 19, 1920, of a complication of diseases at her home near Frost. She was about 70 years of age and had been a suffer for the past three months. She was a member of the Methodist church and was held in high esteem by her many friends throughout the county, and leaves a place in the home that can never be filled. She is survived by her husband and two boys and two girls.

SENATOR FOX ASKS REELECTION

The announcement of Fred L. Fox as a candidate for reelection to the State Senate appears in this issue. Mr. Fox is so well known to the people of this senatorial district and especially this county, that it is unnecessary for us to comment on his qualifications for the office he seeks. He was elected to the Senate in 1912, and his long record in that body is is the best evidence of what we expect of him in the future. For six years he has been the leader of the Democratic party in the State Senate and is now a powerful factor in the shaping of legislation, and has reached a position in that body which a new man, however competent, would require many years to attain. No man who knows him questions his honesty or doubts that he will do what he believes to be right. For twenty years or more he has worked for party success in this county and has never sought any other office. He should and will receive the united and active support of the Democrats of this county. Our people are well content to have him remain in the Sesate and ask the voters of the district to reelect him.—Braxton Democrat.

ITALIAN BEES AND QUEENS

I can furnish you by full colony, nuclei or pound, and will ship from Medina, Ohio, in May.

L. O. SIMMONS.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Important Notice.

In the Matter of the Sale of the Pocahontas Development Co.'s lands—

The following lots are suspended from sale having been listed thro' a clerical error:

Lot 12 in block 21
Lots 13 and 14 in block 21
Lots 8 and 9 in block 32
Lots 2 and 3 in block 25
Lot 20 in block 41

The Special Commissioners.

Farms in Pocahontas County For Sale

229 acres about 2 1-2 miles from Hosterman; about 160 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, lime stone land, splendid water; A good dwelling, large cattle barn, 36x88, new silo 12x30, stone cellar, good young orchard of about 200 bearing trees. Very rich and productive soil, wintering 57 head of cattle.

Price, $10,000. Terms, $5.000 cash and the residue to be paid to the Federal Land Bank, $3,500 00 of which bears interest at 5 per cent and $1,500.00 at 5 1 2 per cent.

233 acres, near Boyer, on main road to Bartow, 127 acres under cultivation, good building, splendid water, good orchard, near a church and in sight of school house.

Price $6,800.00. Terms: One third cash, residue in three equal payments to suit purchaser,

75 acres, about 2 1-2 miles from station, about 50 acres cleared, good fences, splendid dwelling, large barn, good orchard, near church and school

Price $2,800.00. Terms $1,000.00 cash, residue in six and twelve months.

72 acres, About 2 miles from stateon, close church and school, about 50 acres cleared in a good state of cultivation, good buildings, splendid water.

Price $2625.00 Terms: One third cash, residve in one and two years.

We have about one hundred farms listed for sale and a number of good lots in the town of Marlinton.

WARD REALTY COMPANY
Marlinton, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XXXVIII NO 24 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, APRIL 1, 1920 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

PUBLIC SPEAKING

Senator Chilton will be at Marlinton, next Tuesday, April 6th and will address the public at the Court House on the issues of the day.

Rev. Howard A. Murrill, of Lewisburg, was in Marlinton last week. For fourteen years and over he followed his calling around as a minister of the Baltimore Conference. His health failing, he retired to the farm for a peaceful end. Instead in the hustle and hurry of a farmer's life, he has found health and wealth and business a plenty. Now one would not imagine he had ever had a sick day in his whole life. Mr. Murrill is a poet, too, and he looks it. Six feet four and as straight as an Indian, black hair streaked with gray and the piercing eye. He left with us a copy of a volume of poems, "Mountain and Stream Songs of the Virginias." It is a book of a hundred pages, and may be secured by addressing the author at Lewisburg, and enclosing one dollar. It breathes the beauties of God's out of doors. We picked at random, and hit upon these:

THE OLD FORT

On the Allegheny's summit
  Stands an ancient barricade,
Far beneath the Greenbrier flowing,
  Interweaving light and shade.

Vines are clambering o'er this fortress,
  Binding there its moss and mold,
With their tendrils firm and slender
  Clinging in the crannies old.

In the fields beyond the highway,
  Where now blooms the goldenrod,
There are ruins of glowing camp fires
  And mounds of silent sod.

Here the youths of old plantations,
  With a bearing lofty, bold,
Marched from sunny homes in Georgia
  To withstand the snow and cold.

Their rich dwellings, rare and regal,
  Where the sweet magnolias blow,
They have left to face the winter
  And a fearful Northern foe.

Those rude huts upon the mountains,
  Whose rough chimneys fall away,
Sheltered boys from sunny Georgia,
  Noble youths who wore the grey.

When the Northern soldiers yielded
  And the Southrons biavouaked there
Shouts of triumph, notes of vict'ry
  Rent the frozen wintry air.

And the Highland lads were greeted,
  Marching to their drums,
And the Southern youths were welcomed
  To happy Highland homes.

There were gathered merry maidens
  With hair of sunny hue,
Whose glancing eyes were tear-dimmed
  Then the soleiers waved adieu.

Those Southern boys, now old,
  Wear scars for battle stains;
Their huts are all in ruins,
  Yet the battle field remains.

On the Allegheny's summit
  Linger memories of a day
When the barricade was held
  By Georgia boys in gray.

The Elkins Post of the Loyal Legion is staging a game of big league baseball at Elkins on April 8, between Boston and Detroit. Arrangements are being made to run a special train over the Coal & Iron from Durbin. This train will leave Durbin about 8 or 9 o'clock in the morning, and returning leave Elkins about midnight.

The sale of the lands of the Pocahontas Development Company was continued until next Tuesday, the first day of April court. A bid of $36,600 was received when the property was put up Tuesday. This was declined too low by the commissioners, and the sale was continued.

County Court and Circuit Court next Tuesday, April 6.

Mrs. Cora Cunningham is making extensive repairs on her house, recently purchased from W. R. I. Waugh.

Save the Mayapple and Poke Roots you plow up this spring. Mayapple root is worth 20 cents a pound. Poke root is worth 6 cents. Write for prices on all kinds of medicinal roots herbs, etc. R. T. Greer & Son, Marlinton, W. Va.

BIRDISM

Anna L. Price.

The birdie had a narrow scope.
  From swinging perch to wire:
The sky so blue, cerulean, wide,
The earth so green and beautiful,—
  Ah, to fly higher—higher.

The bird was meek and satisfied,
  The cage, a trim affair,
The choir of singing birds together,
And the prettiest of weather,
  All just out there—out there.

Some one forgot to close the wire,
  The prisoned bird was free;
Ah, would you know what then befell
And broke the charm of nature's spell,
  Why, ask the bird—not me.

The sky, the air, the trees, the same,
  The sparkling river too;
But folded was the glossy wing,
And as if bound with hempen string,
  That birdie never flew.

Editor of Times:

My esteemed Brother B.—wonders if I would advocate a violent act to overthrow the Prohibition majority of 8 years ago. Certainly not.

The men who voted for prohibition knew what they were doing and voted for Justice and right while many of those who voted against equal suffrage had not given the subject a single thought but with the slogan: "Women's place is in the kitchen." voted for injustice and wrong. Where all classes are guaranteed equal rights and equal privileges. No man will contend that woman should vote if she wants to. It is true that part of the curse placed on woman when she was transgressed was that she should be ruled by her husbond. Gen. 3-16- "It was not so in the beginning." There are to be times of restitution of all things. Acts 3-21. We are now passing through one of the times marked by Divine Judgment. "For when thy Judgments are in the earth the inhabitants of the world will learn rightiousness," Isaiah 26-9. Two hundred years ago Daniel Defoe asserts that "All the world is mistaken in their practice about women, for I can not think that God Almighty made them—so Glorious creatures with souls capable of the same accomplishments with men and all to be only stewarts of our houses, cooks, and slaves."

The church has long since removed the word Obey, from the marriage ceremony.

Under the present time of Restitution, equal suffrage is rapidly gaining everywhere. And every one seems to be willing to help lift the curse from women with the exception of foes to equal suffrage. Our legislators who voted for the amendment felt that they were representing the entire country country and practiced the principle of "United we stand and divided we fall.

A. M. Chappell,
Renicks Valley, W. Va.

Judge Jas. H. Miller, of Hinton, has returned home from six weeks recuperation and in an interview in the Hinton Independent Herald, announces he may take up the life of a farmer. He is not a candidate for re-election to the bench. He is strong for Mr. Osenton for delegate to the Frisco convention and says of the Fayette Democratic leader:

"He is safe and sane always, and democratic. What has he not done in his county for good government and to rid the people of corrupt rule? You will always find Osenton on the firing line; the best and most fearless stumper in this region. I am for Osenton. It would be a political crime and an unfortunate party mistake not to gratify his honorable ambition to serve his party and his state."—Fayette Tribune.

Hon. Harry Blackhurst, of Cass, comes out with his announcement as a candidate to succeed himself in the Legislature from this county, subject to the Republican voters. He did not meddle with the dog, game or tax laws, and may be he will have some luck in getting back to Charleston. But then his vote on women suffrage may arise to mar him if the ladies are not allowed to vote this fall. Being a progressive, he stood four square and immovable on the suffrage amendment, like he said he was going to do. He made a good, and substantial representative, and without a doubt his party will again honor him with the nomination.

Marlinton will have a lot of base ball this season. Dr. F. N. Allen is the manager.

ATTENTION! AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS!

Marlinton has a speed ordinance. It must be observed. Those who violate it will receive the maximum penalty and not the minimum. So please observe this notice when driving the streets of the town.

F. R. HILL, Mayor.

M. W. McNEILL

Mathew Wallace McNeill died at his home on Seneca Trail near Buckeye, Tuesday morning, March 30, 1920. His age was 62 years. He had been in failing health a number of years, and he never recovered from an attack of influenza of last year. He is survived by his wife who was a Miss Perkins, and their son, Rush, and two daughters. Burial on Wednesday at the family graveyard, the services being conducted by Rev. J. M. Walker.

Doc. McNeill was a good citizen, who made and kept friends. He was a son of the late Jonathan McNeill. Among the surviving members of his fathers family are, Mrs. Aaron Kee, Mrs. J. B. Buckley, A. S. McNeill, of Braxton; U. S. McNeill, of Colorado; William, Enoch and Daniel A. McNeill.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Yeager, of Cheyenne, Wyoming, were in Marlinton last week. They are on a swing around the circle, visiting relatives in various states. They came east by way of Buffalo, thence to Washington and Pocahontas. On their return they will visit their sons at the University of Illinois. Mr. Yeager is a son of the late Henry A. Yeager. His last visit to his native county was about nine years ago.

Ernest N. Moore, of Dunmore, answers to the call for a farmer to represent Pocahontas County in the House of Delegates, and this week he becomes a candidate for the Democratic nomination. To our mind he should be nominated and elected. He is from an old Pocahontas family, a successful and prosperons farmer. A number of years ago, he served a term as sheriff, and he was the first of a series of sheriffs to come through successfully.

The opening of a medicinal root, herb and bark warehouse in Marlinton by R. T. Greer & Son will, we imagine, prove a new source of profit to our Greenbrier Valley people. Heretofore about the only things that were staple was yellow root and seng. The common mayapple under the name of mandrake is now bringing about as much as the last pound of yellow root that this editor dug and sold. The bark of slippery elm, wild cherry and other trees are salable too. The directions for preparing barks says that most barks should be rassed—that is the dark, outside bark scraped off down to the live bark. A drawing knife is recommended.

Married, at the Marlinton Hotel, March 26, 1920, William Clarence Phillips and Miss Bertha Rachel Ruckman, of Greenbank, Rev. W. D. Keene, officiating minister.

Married, at the Parsonage on Wednesday March 31, 1920, by Rev. W. D. Keene, Mr. Frank Hayes and Miss Cornelia Bussard, of Seebert.

Married, at Stiger's Hotel, Tuesday, March 30, 1920, John Snoden Rose and Miss Grace Waugh, Rev. K. D. Swecker, officiating minister. These young people are from the Millpoint neighborhood.

Married, March 31, 1920, Wallace C. Tinsley and Miss Estelle Moore, at Stony Bottom, W. Va. Rev. J. W. Rosenberger officiating minister.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Church will hold their annual white sale on Saturday, April 10th, beginning at 2:30 p. m.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Hill, a son, Sunday, March 28, 1920.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Robb, a son, Sunday, March 28, 1920.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs Walter Thompson, March 25, 1920, a son.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Galford, Edray, March 30, 1920, a son.

Greenbrier Presbytery meets at Marlinton, Tuesday, April 13th.

WANTED: TONS OF SLIPPERY ELM BARK, AT 16 CENTS PER POUND. R. T. GREER & SON, Marlinton, W. Va.

Ginseng and Goldenseal are unusually high. If you have any on hand bring or mail it to, R. T. Greer & Son, Marlinton, W. Va.

ARRESTED FOR MURDER

Sheriff William Gibson returned on Tuesday from Youngstown, Ohio, with George Muletic, a Croat, who is charged weth the murder of John Moslo, another Croat, at the lumber camps on Cranberry last September.

The following particulars of the crime were printed in the Pocahontas Times of September 18, 1919:

"John Moslo, a Croat, aged 45, disappeared Sunday, September 7. He was drunk Had a large sum of money on him. He was at camp 46, two miles up the North Fork of Cranberry. On the 16th his body was found by a hemlock log. He had had been killed in a peculiar manner. He was probobly asleep. His assailant had cut down a roundwood sprout made a withe, and put a tourniquet around the neck and twisted until the neck was broken. The withe was around his neck when found. The pockets of the dead man were hanging wrong side out and had been rifled. The dead man was thought to have had $800 in cash on him and a check for $90.00.

"The check was cashed the next day at Richwood after disappearance by another Croat who was the last person seen with the dead man on the day he disappeared. Efforts are being made to locate the man who cashed the check.

"Prosecutor A. P. Edgar, Dr. N. R. Price and Squire Bruffey went to the Cranberry country and held an inquest. Verdict: Death by strangulation."

Mr. Gibson and his deputy, C. W. Kennison, traced Muletic as far as Youngstown, Ohio, but lost all trace of him in the foreign section of that city. The Cherry River Lumber Company, of Richwood, having put a reward of $500 for the arrest of the murderer, the matter was turned over to the police department of Youngstown. Last Saturday Sheriff Gibson received a telegram that Muletic had been arrested, and he went and brought him in.

Muletic is 27 years old, about five feet 10 inches, weighs 175 pounds, powerfully built and muscular. He understands and speaks English, but is not doing any talking as yet.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. W. D. Keene, Pastor.
Sunday School promptly at 9:45.

The pastor will preach Easter sermons at both the morning and evening services. The subject of the morning sermon: "The Significance of the Resurrection of Jesus;" that of the evening, "Is Death Simply Farewell?" As this is the last Sunday before conference, and Communion Sunday too, the members of the church are urged to be present. Those who are to join the church by letter or on profession of faith are requested to be present at the morning service. At the evening service the pastor will read the report that he expects to make at conference, and will have something to say about the work of the church for the past four years. The special services that have been held this week and last have been well attended, and will continue until Friday night. The subject of the sermon on Good Friday evening will be "Christ on the Cross." Come out and hear these special messages on Good Friday and Easter Sunday. Special Easter music at both services.

Next Sunday is Easter.

Junior Missionary Society will meet at the parsonage Saturday April 3rd at 3 o'clock.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet Wednesday April 7th at 3 o'clock at the home home of Mrs. Gahauf on Camden avenue.

NOTICE

My son, Clive Wooddell, having left home without my consent, this is to notify all parties that I will not be responsible for any debts he may contract.

This 25th day of March, 1920.
Will Wooddell.

NOTICE

Wy wife, Magnolia Carpenter, having left my bed and board without cause, I hereby notify all persons that I will not be responsible for ony debts or obligations of any kind that she may make.

Given under my hand this 30th day of March, 1920.
J. W. Carpenter.

We want you to know that we are buying all kinds Roots, Herbs, Barks, etc. Write for complete price-list. R. T. Greer & Son, Marlinton, W. Va.

RUSH, COLORADO

Everybody is well in this section of the country, and I hope all the folks in my home county are well.

I am sending you one of the sale bills of toe "woolly west." You will see the difference in the eastern and western sale bills.

The people of this country wonder what the majority of the implements are like back there. Some they never heard of before. The lumber camp implements gets them the most. So I explain all I know about them, as I was raised on a farm near the lumber camps.

The wind has been very disagreeable here this month and the air full of dust, and dust everywhere. If we had some of West Virginia's rainfall to lay the dust in Colorado, W. Va. wouldn't be so wet and Colorado would be normal.

We grew some fine watermelons here last season. They sure had a fine flavor. Step out folks and have some melons with us.

My brothers, Blake and Mathews raised a fine crop of corn last season, three thousand bushels on one hundred acres of land. This land is not hard to farm like the hills.

Mathews is going over the western slope where the fruit grows wild.

There are very few antelopes in this country now—too many bomesteaders, I suppose.

Lucille Sheets.

HUNTERSVILLE CHARGE

Methodist Church,
Rev. Elmer C. Sloane, Pastor.

Easter Sunday: Sunday School with special lesson at all churches. This is the anniversary of the grandest event in history. Study it. Profit by it. Realize it.

The pastor will preach at Mt. Vernon 10:30 a. m., Mt. Carmel 3 p. m., Minnehaha Springs 7:30 p. m. This closes the conference year. We wish to express our thanks to the members, friends and enemies of God's Kingdom for making this one of the most pleasant years in the pastor's ministry. May God bless you all.

MARLINTON CIRCUIT, M. P. CHURCH

Rev. Paul Riegel, Pastor

Sunday April 4th: Preaching and Easter services at the following points Fairview, Pleasant Hill, and Clawson as usual—11 a. m., 3 and 7:30 p. m. May we have your presence. Visitors welcome.

Mt. Zion.—Oda Gay's are able to be out again.

C. W. Fertig and sons, Vaughan and Albert were up to the sale one day last week. Also C. M. Elliott.

Rev. E. C. Sloan preached an interesting sermon at Bethel last Sunday.

Clyde Shrader has been on the sick list for a few days.

Baltimore Conference convenes in Washington on Tuesday, April 13.

High Cost Living

Will not affect you if you do your buying at Finger-Siegel Co., Cass, W. Va., where quality predominates at astonishingly low prices. Come and be convinced as to the low prices of our Wearing Apparel and Shoes for every member of the family.

Ladies' and Misses' Coats and Suits in the latest styles and shades.

Elegant assortment of dress goods, such as Voiles, Silk Poplins, Satins, in the most desirable shades and patterns.

Men's Walk Over Shoes $4.00 and up
Men's Dress Shoes sizes 9 to 11 at $2.50 and 3.50
Ladies' Walk Over Tan and Grey shoes latest model (only a few pair left) at $6.95
Children's Slippers in Tan, White and Black at $1.00 and up
Ladies long silk gloves in black and white special price $1.25

FINGER-SIEGEL CO.
CASS, WEST VIRGINIA

NOTICE

Effective May 1st, 1920
Delco-Light Plant Style 216 will advance to $580.00

Orders received prior to May 1st, will be accepted at the old price for delivery any time.

Delco-Light Products
L. G. McCLURE, Dealer.
Marlinton W. Va.

SHIRTS

Announcement

Direct to us from the great Manhattan organization has come the most remarkable collection of shirts that it has been our good fortune to exhibit.

Manhattan shirts need no second introduction to you, they've long since earned their mark and mark, they're better now than ever-better in value because as values go now a day, it's safer for you to buy shirts of known standerds of perfection, than hit or miss quality.

So drop in to our store and see our Manhattan Shirts in all their splendor of exclusive patterns and distinctive weaves.

Assortments are fresh
Sizes are complete

The Store Where You Are Satisfied
S. SCHUCHAT, MARLINTON, W. VA.
"SHOP IN MARLINTON"

CLIMB UPWARD THE

to financial independence is always helped by proper banking connection.

A Savings Account earning interest is the surest beginning, and regular deposits of fixed amount make the goal easy to reach.

Consider the advantages depositors enjoy here and allow us to personally explain our services.

The First National Bank
Marlinton, W. Va.
Under U. S. Government Supervision.

STOP - LOOK - LISTEN

Our line of Men's and Boys' Dress and Work Shoes are without an equal. We handle the famous

Nunn Bush & Weldon Shoes

Quality and workmanship unsurpassed. Prices very moderate. It will pay you to see our shoes before you buy. Make your Dollar do its duty.

W. A. Brill
Briok blg. end of Bridge CASS, W. Va.

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager

HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC

Marlinton, West Virginia.

Marlinton General Hospital

Marlinton, W. Va.

DR. HARRY C. SOLTER

Physician and Surgeon.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

State of West Virginia
Pocahontas County, to-wit:

At Rules held in the Clerk's Office far the Circuit Couot of Pocahontas County, on the first Monday in March, 1920.

F. S. Wise, Plaintiff
V:
Abel Hedric & Rueben Thomas, Defendants

The object of this suit is to enforce a vendor's-lien against two tracts of land in Greenbank District containing 126 acres and 69 acres, respectively conveyed by the plaintiff to the defendant February 22nd, 1916, and for general relief.

This day came the plaintiff by his attorney and upon his motion, and it appearing by affidavit filed that defendant Rueben Thomas, is a nonresident of the State of West Virginia; it is therefore ordered that he do appear here within one month after the date of the first publication hereof, and do what is necessary to protect his interest in this suit.

Teste:
G. W. Sharp, Clerk.
Andrew Price, Sol.

Commissioner's Land Sale

Pursuant to a decree of the circuit court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, entered in the chancery cause of Edgar Dilley vs Lula B. Walker and others, on the 9th day of March, 1920, the undersigned special commissioners will sell at public auction to the highest bidder on Tuesday, April 6, 1920, at 1 p. m. at the front door of the court house of said county, the following described boundary of land:

The Woods Dilley farm in Edray District, on the waters of Clover Creek, containing 240 acres, more or less, being all the land that the said Woods Dilley owned at the time of his death. Said land comprise s a splendid blue grass farm and has on it a very fine dwelling house and other buildings. There is valuable timber on the land.

Terms: Cash in hand to pay costs of suit and expenses of sale, the residue in three equal payments due in 6, 12, and 24 months, respectively, with interest, bonds with good personal security; the title to the land to be retained as ultimate security.

F. R. Hill,
Andrew Price,
Special Commissioners.

I, G. W. Sharp, Clerk of the circuit court of said county do certify that the above named special commissioners have executed bond as required by said decree.

G. W. Sharp, Clerk.

No Trespassing

All persons are notified not to trespass on the enclosed lands of the undersigned in any way, especially by hunting and setting traps.

B. McClung,
Cloverlick, W. Va.

Silos and Farm Machinery

I have the agency for the INDIANA SILOS for Pocahontas County. Any one interested will write or call me on the phone and I will come and see you. W. R. Sutton will work the upder end of county. He will be glad to be at your service.

I also sell a full line of Emerson-Brantingham Farm Machinery. Let your wants be known. Discount to early Silos buyers.

CHAS. SHINABERRY
Cloverlick, W. Va.

For Sale

1 Dodge Touring Car, run less than 6,000 miles in good repair. Will sell for cash or trade for lumber, horses, or wagons. I. B. Bumgardner, Stony Bottom, W. Va.

Notice

If you have old bee combs or wax bring me or send by mail, get cash and postage.

L. O. Simmons.
Marlinton, W. Va.

NOTICE

As guardian of Rodney Dilley, I will not be responsible for any debts he may make without first consulting me. John H. Doyle.
March 5, 1920.

Auction Sale

Of Cattle, Sheep, and Other Property

As I am preparing to move tomove to Marlinton I will on FRIDAY, APRIL 2nd 1920, sell at public auction at my home on Knapps Creek 2 miles below Frost, W. Va., the following:

30 good yearling cattle 20 stee s and 10 heifers
9 cows, good grades
3 2-yr. old spayed heifers
1 good shorthorn bull, yearling red roan
2 yearling draft colts
1 good saddle horse
65 good ewes
single buggy and harness
surrey and harness
3 horse sulkey Oliver chill plow
some wheat, corn, buckwheat oats and potatoes, a lot of bacon, 2 stacks of hay, a De Lavel cream separator as good as new, a lot of household goods, and many other articles.

TERMS: All sums of $10 and under cash, over that amount a credit of seven months, note with interest from date and approved security.

WISE HEROLD,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Clyde Herold, auctioneer.

The Greenbrier Studio

MARLINTON, W. VA.

The Greenbrier Studio has been moved to the old Grover Stand next door to Collins Jewelry store. Will be pleased to have you call there for anything photographic, also framing, enlarging and kodak finishing.

Respectfully,
HARRY STALEY.
Box 65, Marlinton, W. Va.

Leghorn Eggs

Thoroughbred S. C. Brown Leghorns—the laying chicken—of the best strain. 15 eggs for $1.00; by parcel post prepaid $1.25.

FRED GEHAUF,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Play Safe

by using the true, tried, teste Camphor-Turpentine Mixture known as

DETHOLENS
(Death to Croup)

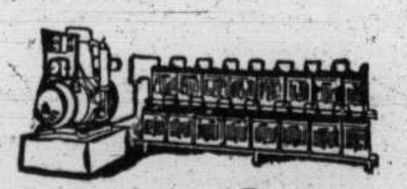
for Croup, Colds and Pneumonia. It's a liquid and aosorbs like magic. For sale at all druggists.

Distributed by
VALLEY CHEMICAL CO.
Elkins, W. Va.

DELCO-LIGHT

The complete Electric Light and Power Plant

A paying investment that brings permanent benefits wherever used.



DELCO LIGHT PRODUCTS
Marlinton, W. Va.

NO MORE RATS

or mice, after you use RAT-SNAP. It's a sure rodent killer. Try a package, and prove it. Rats killed with RAT-SNAP leave no smell. Cats or dogs won't touch it. Guaranteed.

25c. size (1 cake) enough for Pantry Kitchen, or cellar.

50c. size (2 cakes) for chicken house coops or small buildings.

$1.00 size (5 cakes) enough for all farm and out-buildings, storage buildings or factory buildings

Sold and guaranteed by
PEOPLES STORE & SUPPLY CO.

A. C. BRANSFORD,
REAL ESTATE BROKER
Hillsboro, W. Va.

Farm and timber lands specialty. Have farms for sale in Greenbrier, Pocahontas and Randolph Counties

UNIVERSITY NEWS SERVICE

ROSS B. JOHNSTON

In the opinion of Gray Silver, of Martinsburg, who is now the Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the farmers of the United States have never been so closely in accord on the big national problems as today. In discussing the recent Chicago convention, he emphasized this fact:

"The outstanding feature of the recent meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation at Chicago which was attended by several West Virginia farmers, was the unamity with which all matters were determined, including ratification of the actions of the November meeting and the election of officers. At no time during the deliberations of this meeting was there a close vote, which goes to show that the viewpoint of the farmers from all over the United States is more clearly in accord than at any previous time in our nation's history. The interest felt throughout the country in this meeting is reflected by the fact that some 800 to 1,000 farmers attended this meeting, although there were only 55 delegates.

I would know no better expression of wide spread interest than this.

"It is freely admitted on all sides that the American Farm Bureau Federation secured the adjustment boards in the railway legislation which is the only anti strike legislation enacted nationally. The Federation also secured the re-instatement of the appropriation bill. It is also giving the farmers of the country a chance to pass on the Nolan bill, which provides for a capital tax of 1 percent on land, in addition to all other taxes, by arranging for a submission by referendum to the vote of of the people.

As it was expressed in a recent statement: "We are not discussing hours or wages at this time, but we are interested in the fight to furnish lines of transportation that will be kept open and operating without interruption, for to do otherwise would be too great an injustice to one class of our people. No class has the right to starve the people of our cities and destroy the results of the labor of our farmers."

THORNY CREEK.—Mrs. George Fertig and children were visiting at Mrs. A. W. Fertig's, recently.—Mrs Lucy Fertig is getting along as well as could be expected since returning from the Hinton Hospital.—Rev. J. R. Hume still continues very ill: Dr. Jones is the attending physician.—Sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Cronin Bussard. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved husband and children.—Albert Fertig had the misfortune to get his foot bsdly mashed while working for Mitchell Sharp.—Guy Bambrick was visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs George Bambrick, recently. He was accompanied by his friend Clark Keene.—Born, to Mr. and Mrs. John Hively, a son; to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Perry a son, and to Mr. and Mrs. A. L Reed, a son.

Save the poke roots you plow up in your new ground this spring. We are paying 6 cents a pound. You'll find it worth your while. R. T. Greer & Son, Marlinton, W. Va.

Fire destroyed the home of Carl Burchett at Louisa, Ky., and in the loss was $8,300 cash hidden near the fire place.

JACOB M. BEVERAGE

Jacob M. Beverage was born Nov. 5th 1845, and died suddenly of heart trouble, at the home of his son, Robert in Prince Edward County, Virginia, Feb. 29, 1920. Aged 74 years 3 months and 24 days.

Mr. Beverage retired the night before in his accustomed health and vigor and in the morning when he failed to rise, his wife attempting to wake him found that his spirit had taken its flight.

He came to Prince Edward County a few years ago from Pocahontas County, W. Va. Although coming here as a stranger, he soon found himself and family among friends, who realized he was a man of startling worth, a conscientious christian, having joined the M. E Church in early manhood. His body was laid to rest in the Presbyterian Cemetery, on Wednesday, March 3rd. The services were conducted by Rev. Geo. F. Bell pastor of the Douglas Church.

He leaves to mourn his loss; his wife, who before marriage was Miss Rachel McLaughlin, one son, Robert; two daughters, Mrs. Savannah Waugh and Mrs. Lena Gay, with a host of friends and relatives.

"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord. Yea, saith the spirit, that they may rest from their labors, and their works do follow them."

Henry Landis was delivering hand made chairs of his own make in town last Friday. He says he has almost recovered his health, and since he left the Marlinton Hospital last August he has been able to do more work than he had done in all of the seven or eight years preceding. During that time he was treated in four of the best hospitals of the country, including Johns Hopkins. He underwent a number of operations, but he steadily grew worse. Last summer for three months he was in the Marlinton Hospital, and considers the treatment he received there equal to any he got anywhere, and where the others failed to do him any good, the Marlinton Hospital cured him. Mr. Landis appreciates the treatment and relief received at the local hospital and this is published at his request.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all parties knowing themselves indebted to the estate of Uriah Hevener deceased, to come forward and settle at once. All parties holding claims against the estate of said decedent are hereby notified to present the same to the undersigned administrator for payment, the same to be accompanied by full legal proof.

Given under my hand this the 8th day of March, 1920.

Howard C. Skaggs,
Administrator of Uriah Hevener, deceased.
Lewisburg, W. Va.

Browning's Delicious Coffee

COSTS NO MORE, BETTER THAN EVER

ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR

Packed by Browning & Baines, Importers, New York and Washington since 1940.

T. S. McNEEL
Hillsboro - - - - - - W. V.

Auction Sale

Big auction sale of property 2 1-2 miles from Hosterman at my farm on

April 14th, 1920

I will sell the following personal property at public auction.

14 head of good grade Durham cows all fresh and to fresh in by time of sale all cows bred to a fine pure bred Herford bull of the perfection type no cow over five years old or under three,
1 large dry cow,
1 3 year old open heiffer,
10 two year old steers,
12 two year old heiffers,
7 yearlings,
1 black mare,
1 pure bred Poland China male hog,
100 bu ear corn to be sold in 10 bu lots.

TERMS—All sums under $10 cash all over $10, six months time purchaser giving negotiable note with two good endorsers note bearing interest at 6 per cent from date. Sale begins at 10 o'clock.

I will also offer for sale on above date at public auction the following real estate 229 acres of land, 160 acres in cultivatiou and pasture rest cut over large and good range for cattle, improvemedts consists of a good 8 room dwelling house,

Large cattle barn 36x88 ft, 112x30 ft silo, good orchard in full bearing also 200 young fruit trees will partly come in to bearing this year, fine large spring near house, good stone cellar and other outbuildings at conservative estimates this farm produced $2,500 worth of cultivated crops last year and pastured 30 head of cattle, this is lime stone land and very productive.

TERMS—Made known on day of sale.

Robert Hevener

Ashford Auctioneer Hosterman, W. Va.

Farms in Pocahontas County For Sale

229 acres about 2 1-2 miles from Hosterman: about 160 acres cleared and in good state of cultivation, lime stone land, splendid water; A good dwelling, large cattle barn, 36x88, new silo 12x30, stone cellar, good young orchard of about 200 bearing trees. Very rich and productive soil, wintering 57 head of cattle.

Price, $10,000. Terms, $5.000 cash and the residue to be paid to the Federal Land Bank, $3,500 00 of which bears interest at 5 per cent and $1,500.00 at 5 1-2 per cent.

233 acres, near Boyer, on main road to Bartow, 127 acres under cultivation, good building, splendid water, good orchard, near a church and in sight of school house.

Price $6,800.00. Terms: One third cash, residue in three equal payments to suit purchaser,

75 acres, about 2 1-2 miles from station, about 50 acres cleared, good fences, splendid dwelling, large barn, good orchard, near church and school

Price $2,800.00. Terms $1,000.00 cash, residue in six and twelve months.

72 acres, About 2 miles from stateon, close church and school, about 50 acres cleared in a good state of cultivation, good buildings, splendid water.

Price $2625.00 Terms: One third cash, residve in one and two years.

We have about one hundred farms listed for sale and a number of good lots in the town of Marlintoh.

WARD REALTY COMPANY
Marlinton, W. Va.

Farm For Sale

182 acres near railroad, mile Hillsboro, high school, churches, stores; good neighbors; excellent 10 room house, acetylene; two barns, silos, other outbuildings; variety fruit; 120 acres tillable; tractor worked; productive; balance pasture and cut over; tenant house. Bargain price; easy terms. Owner, Box 2, Hillsboro, W. Va. 4wk

Public Sale

As I have sold my house on Camden Avenue and have to give possession near April 1st, I will sell at public auction on April 3, 1920 at 2 p. m. some household goods consisting of rocking chairs, one set leather bottom dining room chairs good as new; lot of glass jars, bed, dishes, stove and cooking utinsels and some other things. Everything sold for cash.

G. W. CLARK.
Gum, Auctioneer.

For Sale

I offer for immediat sale at my operation at Nida, W. Va,

7 shoats
3 good logging teams and entire skidding equipment
1 45 H. P. Hart Circular Sawmill, complete or in part.
1 42 H. P. gague Climax engine and trucks.
Steel rail and all tools necessary to keep up track.
Office furniture.
Blacksmith shop.
Lot of other things too numerous to mention. We have just what you want. Come and look them over or write.

A. V. MILLER.
Nida, W. Va.

Estray Dog

A white short-tailed dog, with yellow spots, earscropped; has brass mounted collar, but tax tag is gone, has been at my place at coal tipple at Marlinton for the past ten days. Owner can have him by paying cost of keep and advertising.

W. S. Thompson,
$1 Marlinton, W. Va.

Admrx's Notice

Notice of hereby given to all parties having claims against the estate of the late John A. Beverage to present the same proven according to law to the undersigned administratrix at her home near Cloverlick, W. Va. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate will please prepare to settle at once.

This 16th day of March, 1920.

Mary A. Beverage,
Admrx. of John A. Beverage, dec'd.

PISTOL LICENSE NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned will apply to the Judge of the Circuit Court of Podahontas county, West Virginia, on Tuesday, April 6, 1920, for license to carry a pistol.

Residence, Cass, W. Va., occupation, physician.

This 16th day of March, 1920.

Wm. L. Miller.

PISTOL LICENSE NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned will apply to the Judge of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, for license to carry a pistol.

Residence, Marlinton, W. Va.
This 16th day of March, 1920.

Paris D. Yeager.

PISTOL LICENSE NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned will apply to the Judge of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, for license to carry a pistol. Residence, Cass, W. Va. Occupation Town Sergeant.

This 22nd day of March, 1920.

W. B. Bragg.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned will apply to the Judge of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, on Tuesday, April 6, 1920, for license to carry a pistal.

Residence, Marlinton, W. Va.
Occupation, Special agent for the Greenbrier, Cheat and Elk Ry. Co.
This 24th of March 1920

F. P. ANDERSON.

NOTICE

The firm of M. R. & B. O Dunbrack has been dissolved by mutual consent. The business continued by W. H. VanReenan. All obligations of the old firm are assumed by M. R. Dunbrack to whom all debts due said firm are to be paid.

This 19th of March, 1920

M. R. & B. O. Dunbrack,
By M. R. Dunbrack.

WANTED:—Responsible, ambitious men to Sell our Guaranteed Stock Conditioner in Pocahontas, Greenbrier and Monroe Counties. Can give one man agency for one county. Big opportunity for live wire men. Write or see Bowling Hdw. Co. Inc., White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

FOR SALE: One 9 year old horse, in good condition; a good saddle and and driving horse. Will sell reasonable. Apply to H. C. Miller, Buckeye, W. Va.

WANTED——CAMP COOK——We would like to contract the board for saw mill crew of 12 men for one year. Advise experience and how much per day to board these men, all equipment furnished. Company commissary with full line of groceries convenient to camp. Camp located two miles from Neola, W. Va., on the railroad. Meadow Mountain Lumber Company, White Sulphur Springs West Virginia.

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER

Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

Sale of Valuable Farm and Grazing Lands

The undersigned Special Commissioner, in pursuance and by virtue of a decree entered in the chancery cause of Hevener and Dudley against C. M. Greathouse and others, on the 17th day of October, 1919, will on Tuesday, the 6th day of April, 1920, sell at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas county at public auction, to the highest bidder One Hundred (100) acres of land. The same land conveyed to the said C. M. Greathouse by John E Houchin; said tract of land is situated in Pocahontas County, about three miles from Durbin; a good part of it is improved land. It has upon it a good orchard, and comfortable dwelling and outbuildings, is adapted to grass and is fine grazing land, and would make a comfortable home for some one.

Terms of Sale: One third of purchase money, cash in hand on day of sale, and for the residue of the purchase money, a credit of six and twelve months, respectively, will be extended, the purchaser giving bond for the deferred payments bearing interest from date, with good personal security, and the title to the land to be retained as ultimate security.

L. M. McClintic.
Special Commissioner.

I, George W. Sharp, clerk of the circuit court of Pocahontas county, hereby certify that bond has been given by the special commissioner, as required by law.

G. W. Sharp, Clerk,

Notice of Trustee's Sale

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned trustee acting pursuant to and under the authority of a certain deed of trust executed by Ellis Jackson, bearing date the 29th day of August, 1919, and of record in the office of the clerk of the county court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, in Trust Deed Book No. 11 at page 211, to secure P. T. Ward, in the payment of a certain note for the sum of $225.00 dated August 29th, 1919, and default having been made in the payment of said note, and having been requested to execute said deed of trust, by the said P. T. Ward I will on the 6th day of April, 1920, at 1 o'clock p. m. at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas county, in the Town of Marlinton, offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder, the following real estate to-wit:

A certain lot or traet of land adjoining the lands of Mary M. Sharp, and others, situate on the Cloverlick Road, Edray District, Pocahontes county, West Virginia, containing 19 acres, more or less, less a certain lot of 30X100 feet conveyed by said Ellis Jackson, to the Trustees of Odd Fellows Lodge, by deed of record in in said county, and being the same tract of land conveyed to the said Ellis Jackson, by Otho Ruckman, by deed bearing date the 16th day of October, 1900, of record in the same office in Deed Book 30 at page 457.

Terms of Sale: Cash in hand on day of sale.

Given under my hand this the 8th day of March, 1920.

4w A. P. EDGAR, Trustee.

Sawing Contractors

We have three sets now open and being stocked, running from 400,000 to one million feet each, which we would let contract to responsible parties owning their own rigs.

The timber is principally oak, white pine and chestnut.

Address, Meadow Mountain Lumber Company, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Rat - Snap

KILLS RATS

Also mice. Absolutely prevenet odors from carcass. One package proves this RAT-SNAP comes n cakes—no mixing with other foods Guaranteed.

25c. size (1 cake) enough for Pantry Kitchen or Cellar.

50c size (2 cakes) for chicken house, coops, or small bnildings.

$1.00 size (5 cakes) enough for all farm and out-buildings, storage buildings, or factory buildings.

Sold and guaranteed by
PEOPLES STORE& SUPPLY CO.

Typewriters

We can now make immediate delivery of Woodstock Typewriters. Thse have made the most rapid progress of any machine on the market, and you can buy them on good terms at

THE PEOPLES STORE & SUPPLY CO.
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Economy Silos

SILOS:—I have the agency for Pocahontas and the upper end of Randolph county for the Economy Silo, and would be glad to furnish you one for this season for I know you need one. Write or phone C. C. Beal at Linwood, W. Va. and let your wants be known, and I will call and see you.

TIMBER FOR SALE: A portable mill proposition estimated at about two million feet, consisting af about 75 percent whith oak, balance white pine, hemlock, chestnut, etc. This timber is standing within about four miles of a standard guaged railroad and we will make reasonable terms to responsible parties.

Range Lumber Company,
Deer Creek, W. Va.

WANTED:—Position on farm ar tenant or part crop. Can give best of references. Address Lock Box 48, Deer Creek, W. Va.

WANTED:—Cutters, teamsters, and sawmill men. 10 mills now running. Good wages and board. Meadow Mountain Lumber Company, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

FOR SALE—One new 10-20 Titan International Tractor. One heavy wagon trailor. Buena Vieta Hardwood Co., Stony Bottom, W. Va.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FOR STATE SENATE

I am a candidate for re-electon to the State Senate, subject to the Democratic primary election to be held on the 25th day of May, 1920.

Fred L. Fox.

To the citizens of Pocahontas voting in the Democratic primaries for 1920, together with the other counties making up the Tenth Senatorial District of West Virginia, I come to you craving the honor of being your next state senator from your district.

Yours very truly,
C. N. Shackelford.
Glenville, W. Va.

We are authorized to announce William A. McCorkle of Charleston, as a candidate for the office of Delegate to the National Convention of the Democratic Party, to be held at San Francisco, subject to the pleasure of the Democratic voters in the general primary election to be held May 25, 1920.

FOR SHERIFF

To the Voters of Pocahontas County:

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Pocahontas County, subject to the will of the Democratic voters in the general primary election to be held on the 25th day of May, 1920.

If nominated and elected I shall offer as my deputies Elmer Moore of Huntersville District, and T. A. Bruffey of Little Levels District. Chas C. Clendenen will be my office deputy, and W. A. Eskridge will be jailer.

BROWN B. BEARD.

To the Voters of Pocahontas County:

I hereby announce myself as a Candidate for the Office of Sheriff of Pocahontas County, subject to the action of the Republican voters in the general primary election to be held on the 25th day of May, 1920. Your support will be appreciated.

PORTER KELLISON
Buckeye, W. Va.

FOR COUNTY CLERK

To the Voters of Pocahontas County:

I hereby announce myself a Democratic Candidate for the nominition for the office of Clerk of the County Court of said Pocahontas county, subject to the decision of the voters of said County in the Primary Election to be held on the 25th day of May, 1920. Your support is earnestly solicited, and if nominated and reelected you will find me just as courteous and accommodating in the office during the next term as I have been in the past.

Respectfully,
S. L. BROWN.

I hereby ennounce my candidacy for the Republican uomination for Clerk of the County Court of Pocahontas county subject to the action of the voters expressed in the primary election to be held May 25, 1920.

Respectfully,
L. J. MOOER.

FOR CIRCUIT COURT

To the Voters of Pocahontas County:

I hereby announce that I am a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the office of Clerk of the Circuit Court of said county, subject however, to the action of the voters at the primary election to be held May 25, 1920.

Your support will be appreciated.

T. S. McNEEL.

I hereby announce my candidacy for the Republican nomination for Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county subject to the action of the voters expressed in the primary election to be held May 25, 1920.

Respectfully,
D. C. ADKISON.

FOR ASSESSOR

I hereby announce my candidacy for the Republican nomination for Assessor of Pocahontas County, subject to the decision of the voters in the Primary election, May 25th, 1920. I will appreciate your support.

Respectfully,
GEO. A. C. AULDRIDGE.
Onoto, W. Va.

We are authorized to announce Aaron A. Sharp as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the office of assessor of Pocahontas county, in the primary election to be held May 25, 1920.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of Assessor of Pocahontas County, subject to the action of the Democratic voters in the general primary election to be held on the 25th day of May, 1920.

Your support and influence is respectfully solicited.

JOHN A. CLEEK.

FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER

I hereby announce my candidacy for County Commissioner, subject to action of the Democratic primary of May 25, 1920.

March 9, 1920 N. R. PRICE.

NOTICE TO FARMERS

If you need money to buy land, pay debts, stock land or any other purpose.

The Virginian Joint Stock Land Bank

of Charleston, W. Va., will lend it to you on five to twenty years time, on small semi-annual re-payments. This Bank has loaned thousands of dollars to the farmers of this county, and it will take care of your needs.

For further information, or to make application for a loan, call on or write T. S. McNeel, Hillsboro, or write H. W. Comstock, Lewisburg, West Virginia, Supervisor of Loans.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XXXVIII NO 20 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, JANUARY 1, 1920 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

104697

JUDGE MORGAN WAS HERE

Judge Morgan, of Fairmont, the well known candidate for Governor was here this week as a harbinger of spring. He is the gentleman who is suspicioned to be the one whom the great Republican god has tapped on the shoulder and said, "Thou art the man!" Time will tell about this.

We have known Judge Morgan for upwards of thirty years and we can testify that during that period he has borne a fine reputation in the State in which he lived, and it is very possible that he is to round out his distinguished career as Governor of the State. We can mighty easy stand him if we have to.

The fine ten thousand acre timber tract lying around the town of Marlinton on the east has been sold by The Pocahontas Tanning Company to a company formed by Merrit Wilson and others. This report comes on good authority but we cannot get it confirmed. We hate to see this fine forest cut as it adorns the hills about town but such is life in the lumber woods. The town hopes to get the benefit of the site on some of the suburbs but this is by no means certain as the tract has a frontage on the C. & O. for many miles.

A very enjoyable occasion, on Christmas day, was the observance of the forty-eighth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hull, at the home of their daughter, Mrs. W. J. Yeager, at which all the members of their family were present Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Arbogast and their son Warren, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Yeager and their children, Hull, Genevieve, Arnot and Winston. A fine turkey dinner, with many accessories was served and enjoyed by all.

Miss Alice Collins and her brother Claude who have had typhoid fever in the Marlinton Hospital, are making a speedy recovery. They are under the care and supervision of their sister, Miss Edith Collins, a graduate nurse from Charleston.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. J. M. Walker, Pastor.
Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.

Preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. by the pastor. The Lord's supper will be celebrated at the 11 o'clock service. Don't fail to be present at these New Year services.

HUNTERSVILLE CIRCUIT

M. E. Church, South
Rev. Elmer C. Sloane, Pastor.

The pastor will preach Sunday January 4th at Browns Mountain, 10;30 a. m., Huntersville, 3 p. m., Minnehaha Springs, 7:15 p. m,

The fonrth quarterly conference will be held at Mt. Carmel church January 24th at 2 p, m. The presiding Elder will preach there Sunday January 25th at 11 a. m.

MARLINTON CIRCUIT, M. P. CHURCH

Rev. Paul Riegel, Pastor

Sunday January 4th—Preaching at Fairview 11 a. m., Pleasant Hill 3 p. m., Clawson 7 p. m. Please prepare for communion service.

Our second quarterly conference meets the 17th at 2:30 p. m. at the Buckeye church. Remember, then, we are to nominate delegates to the annual conference. The revival meeting at Buckeye has been postponed until later.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. W. D. Keene, Pastor.
Sunday School promptly at 9:45.

All the members of the church are urged to be present at the 11 o'clock hour at the first Communion Service for the New Year. The pastor will preach on a "A Worthy New Year's Ambition." At the evening hour the sermon will be "Christ's Witnesses for the Coming Year." Come out and hear both messages and start the New Year by coming to church regularly. Strangers are always welcome.

The Junior Missionary Society will meet with Edna and Edith May, Saturday afternoon, January 3rd at 3 o'clock.

GOOD ROADS MEETING

Pursuant to Section 14-A of the Road Laws of West Virginia, a meeting of Division Engineers, County Engineers, and County Courts will be held on February the 10th, 11th, and 12th, 1920, at Morgantown, West Virginia.

The State Road Commission proposes in addition to the above meeting to hold a Road School for a period of ten days for the instruction of any one interested in road matters and for inspectors on road construction.

Any citizen who will attend this meeting or the school should notify Frank Baxter, County Engineer, who will give them any information they may desire.

GREENBANK

A taffy party was given by Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Monroe at their home Monday night, December, 22nd. Those present were—Misses Amanda Vanscoy, Glenna Gladwell, Lennie Thompson, Virginia Dare Moomau, Mary Hunter Moomau, Leone Oliver, Lucille Oliver, Messrs. Carter Bishop Henry Winkler, Dewey Beard, Bruce Brown, Hunter Arbogast Kermit Arbogast, and Mr. and Mrs. Monroe. After the taffy was pulled refreshments were served and games were played. A very pleasant evening was spent by all.

Dewey Beard who is attending Davis and Elkins College is spending his Christmas vacation at home.

Mildred, the baby of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Conrad died Sunday morning, after an illness of whooping cough and pneumonia. We wish to extend our heart-felt sympathy to the bereaved parents and relatives.

Bettie Genn, of Durbin is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. J. L. Stretch.

Lyle McLaughlin who has been ill with mumps is able to be out again.

Linnie Thompson is spending a few days with her grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alt, at Raywood.

Olen Wenger of Arbovale had the misfortune to get one of his eyes put out with a firec racker a few days before Christmas.

Glenna Gladwell and Linnie Thompson spent Christmas Day with Ruth Warwick, of Cass.

The Greenbank District High School will re open Tuesday December, 30th after a short vacation.

The Christmas program which was given at the Methodist Church Wednesday evening December 24th. was well rendered. The program which follows was enjoyed by all present.

Hymn	Choir
Invocation	Rev. Monroe
Recitation	Elizabeth Oliver
Solo	Mrs. C. M. Koon
Recitation	Bernard Stretch
Recitation	Ruth Rosenberger
Solo	Elizabeth Oliver
Recitation	Virginia Arbogast
Solo	Mrs. C. M. Koon
Reading	Blanche Patterson
Solo	Virginia Arbogast
Address	Rev. Rosenberger
Hymn	Congregation

Miss Mabel Gillispie who has been very ill with pneumonia is getting along very nicely.

Lynn Sheets of Fairmont is visiting his brother, Clarence Sheets,

Miss Amanda Vanscoy and Mr. Henry Winkler will return Monday to take their positions in the Greenbank High School. Mr. Bishop will not return until a few days later.

FREE SCHOOL DIPLOMA EXAMINATION

Examinations for free school diplomas will be held February 5-6, March 18-19, May 13-14. Not more than two of these examinations may be taken by any pupil. Teachers who wish their eighth grade pupils to take the February examination should notify me at once, giving number of pupils to take examination. Unless this notice is received, no questions will be submitted.

G. D. McNeill, Co. Supt.

We understand that Joe Pennell realized $15 for one big turkey on the Christmas market. This was the price of a yearling steer not many years ago.

EDUCATIONAL JOTTINGS

BY COUNTY SUPT. G. D. MCNEILL

The County Educational Committee met December 20th, and discussed Club work for the coming year. Talks were made by Club agents, Harr and Williams. Mr. Henry Beard President of the County Agricultural Association was present and presented some plans for securing better co-operation between the farmers and the agricultural clubs.

The editor of this column understands that this is getting to be a very busy world, and that farmers do not have time to take an active working interest in every "ism" that is advertised. He has attempted farming on a small scale, and knows what it means to have two or three "club members" in the family. He recalls having his slumbers broken at midnight by youngsters returning from club-meeting; he recalls the disturbance when it was discovered that the prize plat of potatoes were blighting and that a chicken had the roup; he recalls something of crating pigs and transporting them to the Exhibit on a rainy day. But it was worth the money, and if the grown-ups do not turn from their own affairs long enough to take some interest in the projects of the young folks, the young folks will work out projects of their own contriving. And projects worked out by young folks undirected by the old folks are usually not the kind most to be desired. If the parents expect their children to remain on the farm an interest in farm work must be created in the child. That interest can not be created by forcing the child to do farm work in the hot sunshine. He can be taught how to work that way, but he can't be taught to like work by that method, and the farmers of the very near future will be men who farm, not because they have to, but because they want to. An education is essential now to the very best farming, and within the next twenty years, education will be just as essential in a successful farmer as in a doctor or lawyer. Club work is education and practical work combined and is undoubtedly the best method we have for reaching the farm youth with effective education. It is to be hoped that the combined efforts of the teachers, club agents, patrons and children will put a live agricultural Club within reach of every child in the county.

The three Diploma Examinations for the year will be held Feb. 5-6, March 18-19, and May 13-14. This examination is for eighth graders only. Manuscripts prepared by seventh grade students will not be examined. No student will be permitted to take more than two of these examinations, it being the belief of the county superintendent that a student who can not make a creditable grade in two examinations is not prepared for high school. Manuscripts on English, arithmetic, and reading will be examined very carefully. Teachers and eighth grade pupils may get a hint from this.

An occasional application for a school is received—usually from teachers hailing from other states. Patrons or trustees who are interested may be able to secure a teacher by writing the county superintendent giving information as to cost of boarding a teacher, length of term desired, etc.

HIGH SCHOOL LECTURE COURSE

The fourth and last number of the Lecture Course, will appear in the High School Auditorium on Thursday evening, January 8th

Ralph Bingham, America's foremost platform humorist, will appear at that time.

Those who have seen and heard Ralph Bingham will want to hear him again. If you have never heard him, do not miss the opportunity of being entertained by him on the evening of January 8th.

Admission 35 and 50 cents.

Facts Concerning Ralph Bingham:

Ralph Bingham has given seven seven thousand performances; has filled more return dates, in more towns, than any other humorist; was twice president of the International Lyceum Association; was elected Life President of the International Stunt Club; has missed but two engagements in twenty years; is a member of the Lamb's Club, New York, and has played in their famous "Gambols" is a member of the famous Pen and Pencil Club, of Philadelphia.

SEEBERT

Christmas has come—merry Christmas and Happy New Year. Trite saying, yet there is something about Christmas which keeps it ever new, fresh and gladsome. When the sun sets on Christmas day and its last rays have been mingled with the dusk of evening and the stars have lighted the sky, we should be able to say in reverent spirit, those few words which summarize the meaning of the Christmas spirit, "God bless us everyone."

Mr. Ware, the agent at this place has moved his family in rooms over S. J. Payne's store.

The ladies of the M. E. Church gave a box and pie supper Friday night. They realized the handsome sum of $65.

Our merchants, W. D. Clark, and O. Pyles, are doing a rushing business during the holidays.

J. Beckley Pyles, at the Community Center Meeting, gave an interesting talk to the school children of Pioneer days, how he had to study by pine knots put on the fire for light, and only three months of school. What an advantage the children have today—six and nine months school; the old log school house replaced by the modern school house and nice grounds Parents see that your boy or girl is in school even if fourteen years old. We are living in a day when you must have an education. The future welfare of a nation depends upon the children of that nation and it should be seen to that they become men and women of ability, indomitable courage and unswerving patriotism.

Lost, strayed, or stolen, The Reading Circle at Hillsboro. Any information will be kindly received but no reward offered.

West Virginia News Briefs

Most impotrant events of entire state covered by our correspondents

Charleston.—A total of 394 applicants took the recent school examination for emergency certificates for teachers, according to George E. Hubbs, supervisor of examinations in the State Department of Schools. Few of this number failed to get some sort of certificate.

Clarksburg.—Charged with selling narcotics to drug users, in violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic law, Dr. T. L. Nutter, a Clarksburg physician, who has before been arrested on like charges, was held to federal court at Parkersburg under bond of $2,000, which he furnished.

Wheeling.—Harry Beeders, 30, Baltimore and Ohio shop foreman, was fatally injured at Holloway, Ohio, when a freight train ran him down, severing both legs. He was rushed to the Ohio Valley General Hospital here where attending physicians hold out no hope for his recovery.

Charleston.—Mrs. Malinda Dressler, of Cabin Creek Junction, has brought suit in circuit court against the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad asking damages amounting to $10,000. It is claimed that a switch was laid up Cabin Creek over a part of her property and without her consent. This, it is alleged, closed a roadway that was an outlet to her property.

Clarksburg.—A sentence of one year in the state penitentiary at Moundsville was imposed in the Harrison County Criminal Court here upon Michael Sangullano, of this city. The offense for which the penalty was imposed was that of operating a moonshine still at his residence at Kelley Hill, a suburb. A jury returned a verdict of guilty several days ago.

Charleston.—One hundred and twenty-eight cases of influenza at the West Virginia Industrial School for Boys at Pruntytown were reported to the state board of control by Supt. H. E. Flesher. No deaths have as yet been reported, though pneumonia has brought complications in several cases. Dr. E. B. Stephenson, president of the state board, stated that the patients were "getting along nicely."

Wheeling.—An order was handed down in the circuit court by Judge Robert M. Addleman, directing the county school commissioner to take action in disposing of the late John McGannon property in East Wheeling, which was automatically forfeited to the school fund, as it did not appear upon the land books for tax assessments.

Huntington.—Following a preliminary hearing before Squire Sam J. Wright, Russell Boster, 19, charged with stealing an automobile, was held for the action of the grand jury. Paul Hines was held for the grand jury as a witness. Two girls and two other young men who were in the car at the time of its capture were released after being sworn to appear before the grand jury as witnesses.

Charleston.—Owen Whittington, who has been connected with the United States District Court for the Southern District of West Virginia, has resigned his position. Mr. Whittington's reason for resigning as announced by him is the present salary does not warrant his remaining under present conditions. He is said to be a very efficient and energetic young man who has made many friends since his connection with the court.

Charleston.—The supreme court announced the appointment of James W. Ewing, of Wheeling, as a member of the state board of examiners, in place of B. M. Ambler, appointed a few weeks ago, but who notified the court that he would not be able to accept a place on the board. The court handed down 96 opinions in the cases decided during the fall term, it was reported by Clerk William B. Matthews after the court's adjournment.

Huntington.—L. G. Bentley, general safety agent for the C. & O. Railway, was here going over the line in the interest of safety. Mr. Bentley, while here, made an inspection of the yards, shops and took special interest while at the shops in the new overhead bridge spanning the tracks. This bridge will be used by all employes entering the shop, thereby eliminating the dangers the employes have heretofore been subjected to while crossing the tracks to go to and from their work.

Charleston.—Fewer work permits were issued under the provisions of the child labor law in the month of November than in any month since the act went into effect, according to information obtained at the office of the state labor commissioner. Ninety-two permits for boys 14 to 16 years old to work continually; 93 special work permits to boys over 12 years old, to work in mercantile and business places outside of school hours; and 84 age certificates for boys 16 years old were issued during the month.

Charleston.—State Tax Commissioner Walter S. Hallanan states that the prohibition department does not require that a prescription or affidavit for the sale of grain alcohol by druggists provided the alcohol is denatured or medicated sufficiently to prevent its use for beverage purposes. This ruling was made in answer to a Wheeling druggist who pointed out that the federal and state laws seemed to conflict upon this question. Mr. Hallanan further advised that the druggists who sell alcohol so slightly denatured that its use as a beverage is not prohibited will be vigorously prosecuted.

Wheeling.—Charged with robbing an interstate shipment, Chas. McKay, a railroad brakeman, residing on the Island, was remanded to the county jail in default of $2,000 bond, while E. J. Wayman, of the Island, an engineer, gave bond of $1,000 following a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Boyd. It was shown in the testimony that a quantity of cigars were found in the homes of the accused, which were searched several days ago by Captain Johnson, of the B. & O., who believes the goods are those missing from certain interstate shipments. The men will answer to the charges before the United States District Court at the Parkersburg session.

Charleston.—Replication to the answer of the state of West Virginia in the Steptoe Gas controversy has been filed in the supreme court of the United States by the states of Ohio and Pennsylvania, according to word received at the office of Attorney General E. T. England. The states claim their original bills filed with the supreme court are "true, certain and sufficient in the law to be answered unto by said defendant, and that the answer of said defendant is uncertain, evasive and insufficient in law to be replied unto by this replicant." The replicants further state that they are ready for the case to be called. The states of Ohio and Pennsylvania filed original bills in the supreme court attacking the Steptoe law passed at the regular session of the legislature dealing with the transporting of gas out of West Virginia.

Huntington.—A general discussion of the workings of the Cabell County Farm Bureau and the introduction of the new farm bureau manager, E. B. Shannon, to the members, took up the majority of the time at the meeting held recently. E. B. Shannon gave a short talk on conditions on the various farms which he had visited since coming here about a month ago. He told of his plans for the coming year in connection with the bureau. In closing he stated that he was greatly pleased with the folk of Cabell county and liked the display of enthusiasm they showed

WE HAVE OVERCOATS
FOR YOUNG MEN
Belt style, Waist line, single and double breasted. The kind you will like.
S. SCHUCHAT
Klein's Department Store Marlinton, W. Va.
Wishing you all a happy and prosperous New Year

Just as if you selected the sweets in the Sampler from ten different packages of Whitman's. You will find your favorites selected by candy-lovers from ten popular packages of Whitman's Chocolates and Confections
We guarantee every package
KEE & McNEILL

J. E. Isll, aged 21 years, received injuries on the Cheat Mountain log train on Monday, from which he died Wednesday morning. He was a brakeman and the logs on the car on which he was riding got loose, threw him off and rolled over him injuring him internally. He was brought to the Marlinton Hospital on Tuesday. His body was taken to his home at Mill Creek, Randolph county, for burial.

The Christmas service at the Presbyterian church last Wednesday was beautiful and interesting ever held by that Sunday School.

Burt Johnson has resigned as Farm Agent for Pocahontas county and has gone to his home at Berea, Kentucky, to accept a position with a large farm implement company. For four years Mr. Johnson has been county agent for Pocahontas county, and accomplished a great work. He was known in almost every home and universally liked. This paper deeply regrets Mr. Johnson's decision to leave.

The graded school took up on Monday morning after a week's holiday. The high school commences next Monday.

"THANK YOU"
Turkey Shippers
We wish to thank you for the finest shipments of CHRISTMAS POULTRY we have ever handled and to express our appreciation also for the very liberal consignments our shippers permitted us to handle for the CHRISTMAS DEMAND.
As predicted, the 1919 CHRISTMAS MARKET was the greatest ever experienced; the DEMAND was the largest ever supplied and the VOLUME was beyond our expectations for HIGH PRICES were more than realized.
Every consignment we received was handled to the utmost advantage and we are very glad to have realized you the HIGHEST PRICE you have ever obtained for a consignment of Poultry.
Keep our Service in mind and ship us your Dressed Poultry right through the season. We are not only Holiday Receivers. POULTRY is our specialty every day of the year. Ship us regularly. You will find our sales and service UNEXCELLED by any House on the Philadelphia market.
Again thanking you for your liberal patronage and Wishing You a Very Prosperous and Happy New Year, we remain,
Yours for Satisfaction,
N. B. WHITE
106 Callowhill Street Philadelphia, Pa.

Resolutions Days
Begin 1920 Right
Don't allow another day to go by without the protection of a Bank Account.
Money saved insures the future.
It provides for emergencies prepares for opportunity, lays the foundation for prosperity.
Open a Savings Account with this Institution. Deposit each week and every month will bring you nearer financial success
The First National Bank
Marlinton, W. Va.
Under U. S. Government Supervision.

HAPPY NEW YEAR
To the present users of Delco-Light, we extend our wishes for a happy New Year and mading more to come.
We wish to thank you for the boosting spirit you have shown in the past and thank you in advance for your co-operation throughout the following year 1920.
Delco Light Products
L. G. McCLURE, DEALER
Marlinton, West Virginia
"There is a plant for every need. Have you got yours."

WEST VIRGINIA UNIVERSITY

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THURSDAY, APRIL 22, 1920

We were aggravated by an article in the Randolph Enterprise, from the pen of Hu Maxwell, in which he casts doubts upon the identity of the Indians who last inhabited the West Virginia territory. He says that he is "not aware of any fact warranting the conclusion that any Mingo Indians ever lived in West Virginia."

In other words, he prides himself upon what he does not know. From the vast sea of human knowledge no one man is ever able to dip up more than a bucketful of facts, so it is easy for the wisest to make a boast of what they do not know.

We are getting out of patience with the historians who will neither admit that the Mingos lived at Mingo Flats prior to their well known habitat at Mingo Bottom six miles from Wheeling, nor account for the site of their town prior to that move. If they did not come from Mingo Flats from whence did they come?

We are ready to do this. We will take the position of the affirmative on whom must fall the burden of proof and debate before a body of intelligent men any place at any time the proposition: That about the middle of the 18th century, to-wit, 1750, the Mingo Indians lived at Mingo Flats and that in numbers they did not then or at any time prior to their westward emigration exceed more than one hundred families.

We would bar as judges those who have committed themselves to the statements that there are no such animals as the Mingos. Just because the northern historians failed to note that a small and insignificant tribe fought a thirty years' war to keep back the tide of white immigration that broke over the crest of the Alleghany, many have said in their haste that there were no Mingos, and the first rule of the historian is to stick to his published statements however mistaken he may be in the facts.

All we would ask would be men who are able to weigh evidence and give proper weight to the circumstances. We feel that the poison of the doubter is about to wipe out the memory and even the identity of the warriors who terrorized our immediate ancestors for a full generation, fighting from the Ohio River to the height of land, knowing every by path and trail, and taking toll for their lost heritage. That it is time for those of us who are living to fix the fact that the Mingo was a peculiar West Virginia aborigine, and the one we are bound to perpetuate and preserve in the interest of truth and history.

As the largest audience that we could hope to have would be but a handful compared to the minds that we can reach through the printed page, we will give a short resume of some of the historical evidence that lies at hand and which ought to be accepted without question. Of course if a person will not believe Moses and the prophets he is in such a mulish state that he will not believe though one arose from the dead.

It is a tradition with the Mingos that they are descended from the Eries, who were broken up and destroyed and absorbed into the Senecas in 1656. That was a tremendous slaughter. The Eries were in a stockade and they defied the Iroquois. The Iroquois of which the Senecas were the fighting fools made it a policy of their nation never fail to carry by assault any stockard or fort. In this case the slaughter was fearful but they did carry the stockade and at places human blood ran knee deep. The remnant of the Eries were broken up into parties and settled with the Senecas along the Alleghany Mountain far to the south and became by subjugation Iroquois.

The Senecas were known as the "Keepers of the Great Back Doorway" in the League of the Five Nations, and they never agreed to lay down their arms.

In the course of the next hundred years the Senecas successfully held the eastern range of mountains in the United States from the Great Lakes to Georgia. Think of it. As you walk along the street known as Seneca Trail in this town, you are literally treading in the foot steps of great armies of Seneca warriors who policed the mountain barrier and held back the Shawnees snd other hostile Indians from the west.

At Mingo Flats for a hundred years was a town that was one of a chain of forts keeping the "Great Back Doorway." They were counted as Iroquois warriors and if they had remained loyal to the Iroquois nation it is not likely that they would have been distinguished by name and heard of in history. Living at a distance from the Five Nations they were known as Mingos, a word that had at that time the same meaning as the British give to the word Colonial.

But the Mingos of Mingo Flats were so far from the sphere of influence of the Iroquois nation that they were corrupted by the Shawnees whose hunting parties came up the Great Kanawha, New, and Greenbrier Rivers, and thus reached the out post at Mingo Flats and turned them against their own nation. There is no question but they, the Mingo Flat Indians, joined the French in Braddock's war, while the Iroquois remained loyal to England. And there is no question but that the Mingos were living at Mingo Flats in 1755, the date of Braddock's Defeat, for David Tygart and Files wrote in 1754 that they would have to leave the valley for they were close to an Indian village and that it was too dangerous to remain there.

Probably immediately afterwards, the Iroquois drove the Mingos to the west bank or the Ohio and in 1766, their town of 60 families was the only Indian town on the banks of the Ohio from Pittsburgh to Louisville. From that town they made war on West Virginian settlers for nearly a generation. They became famous as warriors and the word Mingo which had been more or less general in its nature became their own peculiar tribe name. The big chief Logan had a good deal to do with adding to the fame of the small but distinctive fighting band.

From Mingo Town of Mingo Bottom, now Steubenville, Ohio, the tribe moved to the headwaters of the Sciota and Sandusky, sold out to the government, moved to Kansas, sold out again, and moved to the Indian Territory, where they are known as the Sandusky Senecas. In 1905 they numbered 366 persons, and have just about held their own since they lived at Mingo Flats.

They fought with the French at Battle of Point Pleasant. Logan did not come in person to treat for peace after that battle but he sent a speech by Col. Gibson. Roosevelt did them an injustice to refer to the Mingos as a mongrel banditti. Mingo was a term used by the eastern Indians for all the Iroquois, composed of five and afterwards six nations. The first name that the Ohio River bore was Black Mingo River. The Black Mingos were the Eries, conquered and absorbed by the Senecas, the military branch of the Five Nations. When the Mingos of Mingo Flats, driven out of the great Iroquois nation, retained their organization for the sole purpose of war on those who dared settle in the West Virginia territory, the colonials gradually restricted the name to mean those few hundred fighting men on the west bank of the Ohio who raided this country for a business, keeping up an alliance with the Shawnees, a powerful confederacy.

Mingo Flats is the extreme head of the Ohio River. There it is a bold trout stream issuing from the Cheat Mountain. It is a historical fact that the tribe that settled near Wheeling lived immediately before that on the head of the Ohio at a place so far distant from the Iroquois center that they were thrown more with the Shawnees and Delawares and were thereby weaned away from their allegiance to the Five Nations. This could not have meant the head of the Alleghany for there they would have been in the heart of the Five Nationt. Besides the Alleghany river is not the head of the Ohio. It lacks perhaps a hundred miles of being the uttermost fountain. Mingo Flats is the head of the Ohio and that is the settlement that corresponds to the description of a town on the head of the Ohio River so far distant from the home nation as to throw them in constant contact with the Shawnees, and graves up and down the Greenbrier Valley bear mute testimony to the fact that the Shawnee walked in this valley in the early days. Reference is made generally to to the following historical writers on Mingo affairs: Mooney, Bouquet, Rupp, Cowley, Schoolcraft, Harris, Lang and Taylor.

It is twenty-five miles from Mingo Flats to this place, Marlins Bottom. At the time that the Mingos lived at Mingo Flats, there was a fort at Marlins Botton, in which at times there were as many as 150 soldiers. Without a break since then the writer and his direct andestors have lived at Marlins Bottom, and we have no reason on earth to doubt the truth and fidelity of our local history. A gentleman in Marlinton remembers his grandmother's story of the war-whoop of the Indian when Baker and twelve others were killed here in the last raid. He can almost make you hear that war-whoop now. He talked with a person who heard it. On the other hand a gentleman from Chicago who once did a history of Randolph County in the space of six days and all very good, having given the work of historical research in Tygarts Valley, a lick and a promise, can only say that he did not find credible evidence of the existence of Mingos at Mingo Flats, and having said the horse was sixteen feet high, he will not retract a word of it

We can tell you how those fiends in human form got the name of Mingos. When a pioneer returned from the hunt and found his house in ashes and the mangled bodies of his family lying there. In the bitterness of his woe he cried out "Mingo," meaning those nearby hostile Indians who once lived at Mingo Flats and afterwards moved down the river to Mingo Town, and as the years went by the name was written in blood, and no man should forget it. And as far as West Virginians are concerned the name Mingo has the narrow and restricted meaning of one small tribe.

We have taken up more space than we thought to, but we honestly believe that the present generation can come nearer clearing this muddy water than any that may come after us, and that it ought to be done.

And in conclusion, we would remind you that names of places is the most reliable as well as the most concrete evidence of a historical fact where the word is not capable of a double meaning. Files creek, Tygarts Valley, Marlins Bottom, Lewisburg, Braddock, and Mingo Flats, each and every one suggest the history of the place and such are never wrong.

Mingo Flats was called Mingo Flats because the Mingo Indians lived there and this is capable of proof beyond all reasonable doubt.

Did you all see the West Virginia News last week? Hon. Wm. H. Sawyers stung by certain remarks on bees waxed eloquent for awhile though it became somewhat of a drone about the third column. He proceeded to comb our hair and he made things hum Bee ware.

He insists that our theory of life in the hive is not to be accepted in this country because it is made in Germany. This is begging the question. Facts are like our friend Sawyers—they are stubborn things.

In 1893, twenty-seven years ago, we were setting on a deer stand, musing on things in general, and as it happened, we had a copy of the Hinton paper on which the said Sawyers was the brilliant editor. It struck us that in the poverty of material at hand for a country editor that it might add to the hilarity of the Greenbrier Valley to provoke a discussion with the editor, at that time unknown to us. There are a few editors who are susceptible of delightful quarrels, and who are artists enough not to resort to brick-bats for argument. We judged Sawyers to be such a man before we saw him. We began the offensive as soon as we got back to the case by telling the world that if they desired genuine hog-wash to read the Hinton paper. The Hinton man rose to the fly like a hungry trout, and for years and years we fussed backwards and forwards, and as far as we know the honors are about even.

But much water has passed under the bridge since then. The nation has fought a couple of wars, the Democrats elected a President, and Bryan has become forgetful, and the bottom rail is on top, and the mono rail is no longer used.

We saw Bill last week. He has aged. His chest has slipped down. But he has the same whimsical smile and he still proclaims in a loud voice that the Democratic party and the Presbyterian church can do no wrong. He is a vigorous old man, all right, all right.

He was here at Presbytery where he has what the Scotch called a ganging plea. And he was somewhat dignified, let me tell you. We noticed that it took more room for him to turn in than it used to. We noticed him turn to make a heaving sort of an obeisance to a beautiful young lady, and it reminded us of a four horse team.

We immediately insisted on him proceeding to the meeting and telling the presbyters that it was the roosters that laid all the eggs, as a corolary on his thesis on bees, entitled: "Him; the Queen Bee." This he refused to do.

As to his smoke screen that he throws over the subject in the last West Virginia News that ours is a German theory, we refuse to be involved in that discussion on the ground that it is not germane to the question. But if you want to know where he got all that erudition in discussion the breeding of bees, we can make a shrewd guess that it is a hang-over from the days when he used to debate in the school-house in Greenbrier County the vexed question: Which is the mother of the chicken, the hen that lays the egg, or the hen that hatches it?

The railroads were disorganized last week. More striking. Anything for excitement. Under the new law where the railroads are guaranteed a return of 5 1-2 per cent on the investment, the money that was lost by the tie up comes out of the public treasury. As soon as it gets beaten into the heads of the public generally that every strike on the railroad is a strike against them, the striker will have to hunt a new boarding place when he walks out and refuses to work.

The Californians are going to vote in a May primary between Johnson and Hoover, and the significant thing about it is that they believe that the one that wins that State will be the next president. It may be so. The west holds the balance of power.

Why are some of our wisest Republican friends so crazy about Wood? It is as certain as anything can be certain in politics that he would not be elected if nominated.

Senator Sutherland is a receptive candidate for president. There have been plenty of worse men president.

Herbert Fitzpatrick has declined to be governor.

To have cliques and factions in the Democratic party in West Virginia is a ghastly joke.

YOU never got such cigarette-contentment as Camels hand you. Camels quality and expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic Tobaccos make this goodness possible—and make you prefer this Camel blend to either kind of tobacco smoked straight!

Camels mellow-mildness is a revelation! Smoke them with freedom without tiring your taste! They leave no unpleasant cigaretty aftertaste nor unpleasant cigaretty odor!

Give Camels every test—then compare them puff-for-puff with any cigarette in the world!

Camels are sold everywhere in scientifically sealed packages of 20 cigarettes; or ten packages (200 cigarettes) in a glassine-paper-covered carton. We strongly recommend this carton for the home or office supply or when you travel.

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO.
Winston-Salem, N. C.

NOTICE

Effective May 1st, 1920
Delco-Light Plant Style 216 will advance to $580.00

Orders received prior to May 1st, will be accepted at the old price for delivery any time.

Delco-Light Products
L. G. McCLURE, Dealer.
Marlinton W. Va.

Valuable Realestate for Sale

We have a number of nice farms in Randolph and adjoining counties. Some of them near the city of Elkins. If you want to purchase a nice farm close Elkins, write us about what you want, we have it.

ELKINS REALESTATE COMPANY
J. W. Trembly, Manager
Davis Trust Co. Bldg. ELKINS, W. VA.

Shorthorn Cattle Sale

At Falling Spring Stock Farm, Renick, W. Va.,
APRIL 28, 1920
beginning at 11 o'clock a. m., I will offer for sale 30 head of cattle as follows:
10 head registered cows and heifers
1 three year registered bull, Phil's Claudius.
2 registered yearling bulls.
17 head grade cows and heifers.
These cattle are mostly direct descendants of the famous Rustic King. The grade cows and heifers wellbred, and nothing but registered sires have been used in this herd for 20 years.
W. V. WATSON.
R. E. Tyler, Staunton, Auctioneer.

Notice

We have oyster shells, grit, little chick food, and chick mash.
MARLINTON POULTRY YARD
Marlinton, W. Va.

For Sale

About 1400 feet 2 1-2 3 & 4 inch water line at 15 cts per ft.
About 95,000 used brick; these brick are cleaned and no bats. Price per thousand f o b cars if moved at once. Also some small buildings.
Thorny Creek Lumber Co.
Thornwood, W. Va.

Notice

To all persons holding claims against A. T. Moore. deceased, are hereby notified to present the same to the undersigned administrator for settlement.

All persons indebted to the said deceased in any way are requested to settle same at once.

This 2nd day of April, 1920.
S. B. MOORE, Executor of A. T. Moore, deceased.

Glenwood Seed Farm

Field and ensilage seed corn, tested and sold on approval. $3.50 per bushel. Sacks free. Write for circular. Write for circular. Address.
S. W. ANDERSON,
Greenlee, Va.

Kills Rats

and mice—that's RAT-SNAP, the old reliable rodent destroyer. Comes in cakes—no mixing with other food. Your money back if it fails.
25c. size (1 cake) enough for Pantry, Kitchen or Cellar.
50c. size 2 cakes for chicken house, coops, or small buildings.
$1.00 size 5 cakes enough for all farm ane out-buildings, storage buildings. or factory buildings.
Sold and guaranteed by
PEOPLES STORE & SUPPLY CO.

For Sale

One 46 h.p. straight boiler
Brick to build furnace
Ons 40 h.p. Hart engine
One Jefferys Cable slab conveyor
One saw gummer
One bolter and lath mill
One 20 ton 42" guage Climax engine and 2 log cars
One mile 25lb steel, frogs, switches
Office furniture
Flue expanders, Hanson swedge
3 lumber trucks
One Victrola and records
Gasoline Lamp
7 shoats
A. V. MILLER.
Nida, W. Va.

NOTICE TO FARMERS

If you need money to buy land, pay debts, stock land or any other purpose.

The Virginian Joint Stock Land Bank

of Charleston, W. Va., will lend it to you on five to twenty years time, on small semi-annual re-payments. This Bank has loaned thousands of dollars to the farmers of this county, and it will take care of your needs.

For further information, or to make application for a loan, call on or write T. S. McNeel, Hillsboro, or write H. W. Comstock, Lewisburg, West Virginia, Supervisor of Loans.

FOR SALE: One 8 A. P. steam tractor engine, Aultman-Taylor friction clutch, will sell cheap or trade for 12 H. P. portable oil engine or oil tractor, price on application. Q. E. Gum, Huntersville, W. Va.

FARMS FOR SALE:—Good leve land free from stone, good water and a mild healthy climate. Write for catalogue. Figgs & Rock. 211 N Division St. Salsbury, Md.

WANTED—40 or 50 cattle to keep for the season, yearlings preferred.
J. N. WHITE, Woodrow, W. Va.

Our Success

IN THE FUTURE

depends on our investments today. The erection of a permanent silo on the farm spells prosperity for our children in the future. An investment for them will be appreciated. Why not a MARIETTA, the SILO of quality, long leaf pine, Oregon fir, red wood, vitrified tile, and, think of it, a CEMENT STAVE silo, the real thing, equipped with the famous Marietta red wood hinge door, and a sure enough EXPERT furnished to assist in erecting same. I demonstrate and quote you latest prices.
KIRK WEES, Elkins, W. Va.
Agt. Randolph & adjoining Counties
Breeder of Rose Comb Rhode Island Reds of Quality. Eggs $5 for 15

Estray

There are four ewes and 3 yearling sheep on the Mt. View Orchard place which have been there quite awhile. The owner can have property by proving same an paying cost of keep and advertising. J. L. McCue,
$1. Marlinton, W. Va.

Notice

Notice is hereby given to all parties having claims of any kind against the estate of Uriah Hevener, deceased to present the same to the undersigned commissioner of accounts, for the purpose of having the same properly probated and proven, before payment by the Administrator of said estate.

Given under my hand this 30th day of March. 1920.
P. T. Ward,
Commissioner of Accounts

TIMBER FOR SALE: A portable mill proposition estimated at about two million feet, consisting af about 75 percent whith oak, balance white pine, hemlock, chestnut, etc. This timber is standing within about four miles of a standard guaged railroad and we will make reasonable terms to responsible parties.
Range Lumber Companny,
Deer Creek, W. Va

ATTORNEYS

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work

A. P. EDGAR
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court Appeals

---

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Old Furniture Bought. Repair work and mission furniture.

DR. M. N. McKEE,
DENTIST
Camden Ave. Marlinton, W. Va.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

R. B. SLAVIN
Heating, Plumbing and Sheet Metal Work. Best materials. 17 years experience.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Dr. C. S. Kramer Dr. E. G. Herold
KRAMER & HEROLD
DENTISTS
Marlinton, W. Va.
1st National Building. Phone.

M. F. GUM
AUCTIONEER
Marlinton, W. Va.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton. W. Va.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specially of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

W. A. BARLOW
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Onoto, W. Va.
Phone or write, prompt attention to all calls.

Dr. E. R. McIntosh

SPECIALIST
In diseases of the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat
Eyes Examined Glasses Fitted
Equipped hospital rooms for Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat. Work in connection with offices. Private Nurse in attendance.
10, 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15 Cobb Bldl.
ELKINS, W. VA.
Hours 9 to 5 daily Evenings 7 to 8
Sundays 12 to 2 p. m.
Correspondence Solicited.

Z. S. Smith

UNDERTAKER AND LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA
LIVERY AND FEED STABLE
Rigs to suit all occasions. Promp and satisfactory service guaranteed.

Beman Produce Co.

WHOLESALE PRODUCE
(Denning Livery Building.)
RONCEVERTE, W. VA.
Offer the Best Market and the Highest Cash Price for your Produce
Butter, Eggs, Chickens, Turkeys, Wool, Hides, Furs and Ginseng.

Flour, feed

I have opened a general feed supply store in the old Shoemaker Stand, and will keep in stock at all times Flour, Feed, Corn meal, Salt, Fertilizer, Coal and Oil.
See me before buying.
T. H. HINER,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Rats Die

so do mice, once they eat RAT-SNAP. And they leave no odor behind. Don't take our word for it—try a package. Cats and dogs won't touch it. Rats pass up all food to get RAT-SNAP. Three sizes.
25c. size [1 cake] enough for Pantry, Kitchen or Cellar.
50c. size [2 cakes] for Chicken house coops, or small buildings.
$1.00 size [5 cakes] enough for all frrm and out-buildings, storage buildings, or factory buildings.
Sold and guaranteed by
PEOPLES STORE & SUPPLY CO

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XXXVIII NO 28 — MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, APRIL 29, 1920 — $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

EDUCATIONAL JOTTINGS

BY COUNTY SUPT. G. D. MCNLEIL

Free Scholarships for Soldiers—When the Armistice was signed, the Y. M. C. A. had unexpended money amounting to about $3000,000. This money had been donated by our citizens, and the Y. M. C. A. officials have determined to expend the money in purchasing scholarship for ex-soldiers and sailors. Pocahontas County is entitled to about $200. of this money—an amount sufficient to pay for texts and all expenses incidental to a Correspondences Courses, which may be had in Agriculture, Farm Engineering, Commercial Courses, Mathematics, Mechanical, Drawing, Surveying, Steam Engines and Electrical Motors, Electric wiring, etc.

All text-books, postage, etc. necessary to the Course will be furnished absolutely free.

If any ex-service man desires to take such work by mail, he should write the County Supt. of Schools for particulars.

If there is an ex-service man from this County who is prepared for college, but who has not the means wherewith to pay expenses, he might write, giving full details. Some help may be secured.

The Elementary Graduation Exercises for the Greenbank District will be held at Cass, May 5th. Supt. Trent of Elkins will deliver the address. Greenbank District will graduate about sixty students this year. Most of these will enter high school.

The Institute date has not been determined, but on account of the last week in August being a much demanded date it is probable that an earlier date will be given this county.

Numbers of Applications for work permits are coming in. These applications should give date of birth, grade in school, place of birth, work to be done, and all essential data. If the parent writes me briefly as follows: "Please send my boy Jim a permit, Yours truly," there will be delay.

Third Diploma Examination—May 13-14

Teachers' Examination—June 3 4.

Teachers' Examination—July 22-23.

The Graduation Exercises of the Greenbank District Graded Schools will be held at Cass, on Wednesday evening, May 5, at 8:00 in the Cass Church. Supt. W. W. Trent of Elkins will deliver the address to the graduates. County Supt G. D. McNeill will present the diplomas. Special music will be furnished by the Cass people. All are invited to be present. The members of the graduating class are especially urged to be present. The Class Roll is as follows:—Adolph Edward Cooper, Hunter Adams, Henry Meryl Ervin, Burke A. Grogg, Grace Lee Graves, Marguerite Imes, Franklin Imes, Vida Leone McLaughlin, Monta Lee McLaughlin, Julian Marshall, Edyth McClung, Mary Spindler, Maude Sutton, Fannie Bernice Sheets, Verna Siple, Colleen Siple, Mary Edna Wilfong, Frieda Williams, Claude Wilmouth, Omer Brill, Ethel May Burner, Ola M. Doyle, Alice Friel, Judson Heaster, Lucille Hook, Mary Ernestine Hall, Ida Wilson Jackson, Sam S. Jackson, Frances LaCoure, R. N. Lewis Jr., Violet Nottingham, Carl Nottingham, Harvey S. Nottingham, Clyde Nicholas, Ethel Nottingham, Della Nichols, Alice Plyer, Minnie Parg, Hattie M. Parg, Martha Reitz, William Reitz, Hattie Lee Rowan, Sylvia Taylor, Ruth Eva Tallman.

C. M. Koon, Principal,
Greenbank District Schools.

Clyde Herold reports the Price sale at Dunmore last week one of the most successful of his whole experience. The day was fine, attendance large and the property of a high class, to say nothing of the auctioneer who had something to do with it.

CARD OF THANKS

To the Rev. Mr. Spindler, our kind Friends and Neighbors and the good people of Durbin and Boyer Siding who so willingly and ably gave their sympathy and assistance to us in our bereavement thru the illness and death of our husband and father, we are very grateful indeed.

The Family.

Page White will preach at Edray Sunday night May 2nd.

LUMSDEN--KELLISON

A very pretty but quiet wedding was solemnized last night at the home of Mrs. H. H. Garber at 42 Bath street when Miss Lola Blanche Kellison and Mr. Lyle Lumsden were united in marriage. The young couple took the 9 o'clock train on a wedding trip to Cincinnati and other western cities.

Both young people have numerous friends here whose best wishes go with them. The bride was originally from Marlinton, W. Va., but has spent the past two years here where she has been in training at the C. & O Hospital. During that time she has endeared herself to many with whom she has come in contact. The groom was raised here and is a son of Mrs. Geo. L. King. He was one of the young men who answered his country's call for forces to oppose the German armies.—Daily Review Clifton Forge, Va.

FOR ASSESSOR

Jacob H. Lightner, of Dunmore, will contest with J. A. Cleek for the Democratic nomination for Assessor. He will have as his deputies, Neal Nottingham, of Greenbank, and Sherman McCarty, of the Levels; office deputy, G. W. Mann, of Edray. This looks like a pretty strong combination. Mr. Lightner is an extensive dealer in cattle and other live stock, and has a wide acquaintance over the county. He is an active, hustling citizen, who has had enough experience in handling stock and property to make a good assessor.

FOR PROSECUTING ATTORNEY

Allan P. Edgar announces his candidacy for the Democratic nomination to succeed Himself as Prosecuting Attorney for Pocahontas County. We never had a better, more careful or more painstaking or abler man in the office. He deserves and should be reelected.

The Republican who will contest with Mr. Edgar for the office of States Attorney is J. E. Buckley. He is proving himself a good lawyer, and if Mr. Edgar is not retained in office, we know of no one we would rather see given the office.

NOT LOST BUT GONE BEFORE

"Uncle Ned" Hines, passed away at his home at Mt. Lick, W. Va., Saturday night, April 24 1920, after an illness covering a period of six years. Age 75 years, 7 months and 25 days.

Edward Franklin Hines was born in Boston. Mass., August 29, 1844. In 1874 he was united in marriage with Barbara Amelia Boyer, of Boyertown, Pa. To this union four children were born, Mrs. G. E. Shaw, deceased, Mrs J. A. Lowe, of Mt. Lick, James E. Hines of Ridgeway, Pa. and Mabel Ruth Nelson of Washington, D. C.

Coyala Alberta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowe is the only grandchild

For some time, Mr. Hines knew that his life was slowly ebbing away. He expressed his willingness to leave this world and enter into the New Life.

Funeral services were held at the home on Sunday afternoon; interment in Durbin cemetery.

The Family.

I. O. O. F. ANNIVERSARY SERVICE

The members of Marlinton Lodge No. 182 I. O. O. F. will meet in their Hall at Marlinton Sunday May 2nd, 1920, at two o'clock p. m. and go in a body to the Presbyterian church where the anniversary sermon will be delivered by Rev. J. M. Walker.

All visiting and sojourning Odd Fellows are earnestly and cordially invited to meet with us in commemoration of this the 101st anniversary of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

Yours in F. L. & T.
A. H. McFerrin, N. G.
C. E. Denison, Secretary.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sowers, Marlinton, April 13, 1920, a daughter.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Ellis McKenney, near Warwick, April 19, 1920, a son.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Curry, Marlinton, April 20, 1920, a son.

Walter Lee Beverage, nine months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Beverage, near Onoto, died April 17, 1920, of acute intestinal obstruction.

BIG CIRCUS SOON TO BE HERE

SPARKS WORLD FAMOUS SHOWS DUE ON FRIDAY MAY 7.

The Sparks World Famous Shows Shows will exhibit at Marlinton on Friday May 7th, giving two performances and inaugurating its appearance with a splendid parade over a mile in length. Every feature of the great exhibition will be represented in this truly remarkable open den street pageant which leaves the circus grounds daily at 10:30 a. m. Since the last visit of the Circus to this city, it has nearly doubled in size and this season finds it among the largest of tented exhibitions.

The Sparks Circus has always been noted for its fine display of horses and this season tango and shimmay dancing horses are to be seen in the equine numbers which include "Caesar," champion high jumping horse of the world, as well as three groups of marblesque statute horses and collie dogs, in lifelike portrayal of the works of noted sculptors. Other prominent features this year are the Harrison bears, whose grotesque maneuvers range from the riding of bicycles, to the more modest playing of musical instruments.

Then there are the two herds of elephants including "Big Zulu" the skyscraper elephant and each herd worked entirely by lady trainers. Incidentally there will be many big arenic features interspersed with the animal acts, and the clowns—well forty of them will be on hand to extract the laughs from you.

Two performances will be given daily—2 and 8 p. m. Before the regular performance takes place an hour's time will be given in which patrons of the Sparks Circus may visit the Menagerie and also the Horse Fair.

CONQUERING OLD ENEMIES

We tingle with pride over our mighty achievement in crowning the Great War with victory. Because all America was working with a common good will, we created out of raw material an army of 4,000,000 men equipped them and sent them over seas at the rate of 300,000 a month; we raise sums of money beyond imagination; we saved voluntarily from our own tables the food which kept France, Great Britain, Italy and Belgium from starvation. Could we have done that if we had barred all reference to Germany from polite society, if we had mentioned the atrocities in Belgium and northern France only in shamedfaced whispers, if our newspapers had refused to print the name of the Kaiser? The leaders in the fight against venereal disease have taken some of the organized, self-sacrificing enthusiasm which won for us the late war. That enthusiasm cannot live in a democracy like ours without open, high-minded discussion.

Tuberculosis, cancer and syphilis kill three-tenths of all the people who die in the United States. The U. S. Public Health Service is making a vigorous and open fight against all these diseases.—U. S. Public Health Service.

Heavy thunder showers the past week have served to further hold back the spring plowing. Little gardening has been done either.

IN MEMORIAM

Margie Herold, eldest daughter of Wise and Kate Ruckman Herold. passed into the great beyond, November 30, 1918.

She was one of our successful teachers. She gave her heast early in youth to her Master and was always alert for His cause. As organist and Sunday school teacher an Westminster, she always had the interest at heart and although she is just beyond in the vale, we feel our loss deeply and her memory will ever live in our hearts.

We select the following beautiful lines and dedicate them to her memory:

She has solved it, life's wonderful problem,
The deepest, the strangest, the last,
And into the school of God's angels,
With the answer forever has passed.

How strange in spite of our questioning
He maketh no answer, nor tells
Why so soon were life's honoring laurels,
Dispelled by God's Immortelles.

'Tis idle to talk of the future
Of the sad might nave mid our tears;
God knew all about it, yet took her,
Away from the on coming years.

God knows all about those who love Him,
How bitter the trial must be
And right through it all God is loving
And knows so much better than we.

Mrs. Kate Gibson,
Mrs. Letcher Herold,
Mrs. Maggie Lockridge.
Committee.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Wednesday, April 21, was the 50th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McNeill, of Swago. The occasion could not be passed without notice, and a lot of their friends and relations gathered at the home. Incidentally, there were a lot of good things to eat. Among those present were, Rev. and Mrs. D. S. Boggs, of Parsons; Mr. and Mrs. John Buckley; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Yeager, Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Harper Adkinson, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. McNeill, Mrs. A. S. Overholt, and son, Earl, Mrs. O. H. Kee, Mrs. Marion Shomo, of Cumberland, Mrs. Charles McNeel, Mrs. Joe Pennell; Misses Gertrude Overholt, Fannie Golden, and Mildred Yeager; G. D. McNeill and children, Ward, Elizabeth, James and Louise; E. G. McNeill, Porter Kellison, John and Bennet McNeill, Paul Overholt and Homer McNeill.

HUNTERSVILLE CHARGE

Methodist Church,
Rev. Elmer C. Sloane, Pastor.

The first quarterly conference will convene in the Mountain Grove Church Saturday May 1st at 1:30 p m. Lunch will be served to the members of the conference at 12:30. Rev. H. I. Stephens, presiding elder of the Lewisburg District who will preside over the session of the conference will preach there Saturday at 2:30 p. m. and Sunday at 10:45 a. m. The gastor will preach Sunday at Mt. Nernon, 10:45 a. m., Bethel 3 p m., and Huntersville 8 p. m.

The Best Pies you ever ate, made from "Mrs. Simonson's Py Lemon. Ask for it at Morgan's Cash Store.

SOUTH HILLSBORO

Tom Smith is agent for the New Idea Manure Spreader. He sold a spreader to Elick McNeel.

John A. Hill is doing some farming for Tom Beard.

Alex Long has moved to the George Beard place which he recently purchased.

We understand Kingsley & Hannah have sold their fine farm—the Tom Sydenstricker property—to S. B. Wallace of Marlinton, for $30,000. This is a fine farm and we welcome Mr. Wallace in our neighborhood.

I. B. Shrader has sold his timber and sugar orchard to the Hillsboro Lumber Co. The company expects to manufacture the timber at an early date.

Mrs. I. B. Shrader and daughters Misses Noble and Pauline were visiting Walter Hively at Cloverlick a few days last week.

Miss Madge Weiford spent Sunday at Cass with her aunt Mrs. Brice.

Miss Gladys Sharp is spending a few days at the home of I. B. Shrader at Fairview Farm.

Any one having potatoes to sell should bring them to Hillsboro and get a fancy price for them.

MARLINTON CIRCUIT, M. P. CHURCH

Rev. Paul Riegel, Pastor

Sunday May 2nd: Preaching at Fairview, Pleasant Hill and Clawson at the regular hours. Will the stewards please look after and prepare for the celebration of the Lord's Supper. Let as many new members as convenient come to these services. Some have not taken the vow nor been baptized as yet.

CARD OF THANKS

I desire to thank my neighbors and good friends for their kind deeds and sympathy during illness and death of my dear husband. Especially do I thank those who so generously rendered their services at the funeral and burial. May time deal gently with such faithful friends.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Mary McClure.
Rorer, W. Va.

Fresh Groceries of all kinds and at Right Prices at Morgan's Cash Store. Look them over. We pay Cash for country produce.

He Is A Wise Man

Who Can See Opportunity

Here is your opportunity to buy shoes at exceptionally low prices.

Children's Sandals in white, tan and black in prices raging from	89c to 1.89
Children's Mary Jane slippers in patent leather and kid	2.00 and 2.25
Ladies' Shoes	2.89 and up
Men's Dress Shoes	2.50 and up
Men's Walk Over Dress Shoes	4.95 and up

Do not delay your buyinfi until your size is out but Do It Now.

Our wearing apparel for the entire family is sold at low prices.

Come and see for yourselves.

FINGER-SIEGEL CO.
CASS, WEST VIRGINIA

Fiduciary Notice

Notice is hereby given that the Trusteeship of Dr. F. T. McClintic under the will of Rosa Ligon Arbuckle is before the undersigned Commissioner of Accounts for settlement.

Given under my hand this 23rd day of April, 1920.

T. S. McNEEL, Commissioner

WANTED:—Hemlock bark peelers either by day or contract; highest prices paid, good timber, good camps, and good climate. Season opens April 15th. Parsons Pulp & Lumber Company, Ravensford, Swain County, N. C.

H. G. Lucas, General, Supt.
Clinton Decker, Logging Supt.

COMING TO
MARLINTON
FRIDAY, MAY 7

"Get in on Time with Oldfields"

It Took 20 Years to Build this Tire

Only a year old in general service, the Oldfield Tire is by no means "just another new tire." It's not a new tire at all for it is a development the result of 20 years of study and test by the greatest tire user in the world.

Ordinary tires would never have carried Barney Oldfield safely through year after year of breaking records and transcontinental touring. He had to study, experiment, design and actually build tires to secure a type he could really trust.

So to-day we have the Oldfield tires, faithful copies of those specialty-built tires to which the master driver pinned his faith. Ride an Oldfield and you will learn to trust them as Barney Oldfield does.

Cords 8,000 miles — Fabrics 6,000 miles

(Continued next Week)

Cass Garage
CASS, W. VA.

LIBERTY BONDS EXCHANGED

We have exchanged, without charge, for our customers, incomplete coupon bonds, when the coupons have all become due, for completed bonds.

We also give prompt attention to the assignment and transfer of Registered Liberty and Victory Bonds.

The First National Bank
Marlinton, W. Va.
Under U. S. Government Supervision.

SHOES

Mr. Man Listen:

For more than a year shoe prices have advanced rapidly. Our line of

Men's and Boys' Work Shoes

were all bought before the great advance in prices.

Therefore we are in a position to save you money on your shoe bill, Prices the LOWEST NUNN BUSH QUALITY THE BEST.

W. A. Brill
Brick blg. end of Bridge — CASS, W. Va.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, Editor.

THURSDAY, APRIL 29, 1920

A few short moons ago and Hiram Johnson was not considered a fit man to be discussed in polite Republican society in this part of the United States, and now he looms large in the Presidential campaign. There is a desperate effort to defeat him by taking away the delegation from his own State of California, by running the well known Hoover against him. Hoover is the mystery man of American politics. He is the Samara candidate, that is he has two wings and cannot float without both. To explain, the seed of the maple is a samara and the two wings are given to it so that it can travel. There does not seem to be much to the Hoover platform other than he claims to be on the side of the angels. The chances are that Mr. Hoover is just about strong enough to lose in California, and then the Johnson menace will become greater.

In 1892, a great effort was made to defeat Grover Cleveland by getting the State of New York to go against him, the enemies arguing that if that delegation opposed him he would not be nominated, but in spite of the attack made upon him he was nominated and elected. It was during that campaign that a Wisconsin man coined the phrase that has been so convenient since that they loved him for the enemies that he had made. Seneca said it first, however.

Whereever primaries are held, either east or west, the people go out of their way to vote for Johnson. The safe conservative Republican leaders complain that the elements of unrest are uniting on him to ruin the country. It has been pointed out that these dangerous elements are those who have been recruited by the Republican party for the purpose of rolling up a majority for some safe and sane man, and that if the fire has gotten a little out of hand, the Republican leaders are responsible for the conflagration.

The truth of it may be that the West not lacking in intelligence knows that it holds the balance of power and does not propose to be docile and accommodating.

The Democratic party has had a man like Johnson for many years in Mr. Bryan, the main difference being that Bryan is unlucky and Johnson is lucky. Bryan has never been elected to any office of power since he became known, and Johnson has been Governor and Senator, and has known what it is to exercise power and authority. Bryan could always divide his party, and Johnson is going to do that very thing this year unless a multitude of eminent gentlemen eat crow. Johnson is as full of fire and enthusiasm as Roosevelt, while Gen. Wood, who claims to be the legitimate heir, is nothing but pale moonshine.

Johnson was opposed to the league of nations and said so on every occasion and voted against the peace treaty, but that does not hurt him with the people. They seem to care as little for his views on international problems as they do for his views on baptism.

About the time that Johnson gets through with the primary in California, whether he wins or loses, there is going to be so many millionaires against him in his home state that it will just about force the nomination on him, and if he does get turned down at Chicago, get ready to get upon the Democratic band-wagon, for there will be one to get on.

When Johnson came out for Senator, he was with a group of friends in a big hotel in San Francisco. He told them that Crocker and de Young and the millionaire banking crowd, had said that he was financially incapable of making a campaign for United States senator. He reminded them that his period of office as governor had been one of loss to him, and that he had looked forward to returning to the practice of law, but after consulting with friends he had decided to make the campaign, and he asserted, that if he did not have the money of Mr. Crocker, Mr. de Young, and the millionaire crowd, he had something that they did not have, namely the confidence and respect of the great mass of the people of California.

It was no vain boast. He walked away with the nomination by some one hundred and eighty thousand majority, and in the general election while Wilson carried the state by 3773, Johnson carried it by a majority of 296,815, and that after he had watched the clothes of those who stoned Hughes out of California. Surely there is no royal road to the favor of the people, and he who would save his political life shall lose it.

Some of the wisest men assured the country that Johnson would not be seriously considered in this campaign for President, and look at the derned thing now.

It turned out to be a pretty fair sugar year after all, and a lot of sugar was turned into the market at the popular price of fifty cents a pound. In the old days the prevailing price was ten cents a pound, and then, the market got a little dull and it dropped to eight cents, but that discouraged the producers. The only other time that tree sugar brought fifty cents a pound was in the sixties and then they paid for it in Confederate money.

Anybody who ever made sugar knows that in lean years or fat years with money down or up it is well worth fifty cents a pound to make sugar. Anybody who ever cut wood and boiled sap can testify that it is too much like recovering a fraction of a grain of radium from a ton of rock, to appeal to the manufacturer. The sugar camp is wet, cold, and disagreeable. There is mud on the ground, or ice or snow. Many a person has contracted a major case of pneumonia. A bushel of sap to a pound of sugar, and it is a long, long time evaporating. About the time that your patience runs out and you think at least you have got a biling down to the molasses stage it turns out that it is thin as vinegar, and it has to be fired, boiled, skimmed and watched for another day or two.

A good big tree will produce from two to six pounds in a season, and a pint of molasses is considered to be equivalent to a pound of sugar. At fifty cents a pound the whole crop found a market. There are three side issues in this county which have become money producers: Ginseng, fur and maple sugar, and they are so spaced through the year that one season does not interfere with another. There is little doubt that some trappers made enough last year to get into the class of income tax payers.

Of late years the sugar makers have been buying metal buckets, metal spiles, and evaporators and they make a more palatable product, but some think that it lacks the strength of the old fashioned maple sugar.

The old days would have scorned these innovations. The sap was caught in sugar troughs hollowed out of some soft wood. An extra good sugar trough made an excellent cradle and many a sugar lump angel child has been rocked in a sugar trough by loving mothers. The sugar kettle was the only article of commerce that entered into the sugar manufacture in them days, and these articles were considered of such importance that they took a place in the will and the rifle gun and the sugar kittles were disposed of in as solemn a manner as the farm itself. Look at the old wills and see how generally the sugar kittles are mentioned.

The maple sugar business properly belongs to the north, and there is not much sugar made as far south as we are, but the altitude of these mountains overcomes the latitude to such an extent that it is tolerably certain that there will be a few days at the least every year for making sugar. The tree is very sensitive, so much so that a flow may be secured from one side of a tree and nothing from the other.

The Indians were making tree sugar when this country was discovered by the white people, and it is purely an Indian invention. In February, in the Indian towns, the provisions had always run low. Then the squaws got ready to make sugar. They could pick certain elm trees from which the bark would slip, and with an ingenious spud made of a crooked stick, they took off sections of bark from which they made buckets holding about two gallons each. They then would notch the sugar trees, the notch sloping down, and at the bottom they stuck a tomahawk. In the hole thus made they placed a chip which carried the sap away from the tree so that it could be collected in the bucket. They made larger buckets to carry the sap and they made vats holding as much as one hundred gallons to hold the supply of sap so that the boiling would be continuous. They had iron kettles, though they probably used pottery before the days of the white trader. When the sugar water froze the Indians would use the freezing to advance the sugar making. They would let the sap freeze and throw away the ice, as there was no sugar in the ice, and this saved just that much evaporation.

When the sugar was made it was put in bear grease and a mess of half and half was made. Into this they dipped the dry venison that formed the bulk of their fare at that time of year. Under the Indian laws of hospitality it was considered the thing to do to have some of the mixture on hands at all times to set out when there was company.

Sugar making is the supreme test of cleanliness, and all sugar makers try for a reputation of making it clean though they have to contend with dust, ashes, soot, sparks and the like. The unclean habits of the Indians would make their sugar unsalable. Some of the older men remember a tribe that camped on the upper Greenbrier on their way to Washington to visit the Great White Father. These Indians bought chickens and without plucking or drawing them, boiled them all in one pot and eat them.

Last summer James Hamilton and wife came into this neck of the woods and settled down in the wilderness near the mouth of Thorney Creek and there they proceeded to sang the season out and to get ready for trapping in the winter. They did not make very much money but they did not need very much. Along in the fall some officers found that they had an apparatus that looked like it might make distilled damnation in expert hands and they grabbed the Hamilton and put him in jail on a charge of moonshining. This has got to be a regular word, and it is used in the statute and it means to make liquor. Hamilton stayed in jail all winter and his wife lingered near working at odd jobs. The couple were pretty popular as they seemed quiet, inoffensive sort of people. The grandjury came along and indicted Hamilton and the prosecuting attorney out of extra caution got a copy of an indictment from the tax commissioner's office at Charleston, and used that to accuse the defendant, and right there is where the prisoner had a stroke of luck, for if the prosecuting attorney had drawn the indictment himself, there would have been no hunting, fishing, sanging, or trapping for Hamiltan at the place he was so surely headed for.

At the big court in April, came the State, came the defendant, came the faithful wife, came the jury, and a trial was had, and the jury looked at the crude still and wondered if the law called that thing a still, if it was safe to own a cullender. The prosecution as usual insisted that a man intends to do what he does, and that the defense in this case was that it was impossible to do what he intended, and after a time the jury came in and said that the defendant was guilty and the verdict carried with it a term of years in the penitentiary.

Along towards the last of the term and before sentence was pronounced, the court and lawyers got to checking up to see if all the nice distinctions of the law for the protection of persons about to be deprived of their lives or liberty had been complied with, and it was suddenly discovered that there was a flaw in the indictment so important that it was impossible to hold the man. Where there should have beeen a "and," there was a "or," and when you read it carefully it was plain to be seen that the indictment was fatally defective. In vain in the sight of the defendant's attorneys, was the original form from Kanawha displayed. James O. Hamilton might be suspected of moonshining, but it was sure and certain that the state itself had used the disjunctive, when it should have used the conjunctive, and the indictment thereby rendered void and null and no more than a scrap of paper. It said in effect that the prisoner at the bar had owned, operated, or had in his possession a moonshine still. To have been good it would have to have said "own operate, and have in possession," for it is not allowed to say that the prisoner did one thing or another, for then no man might escape condemnation. You must say that he did one certain thing, and a number of other things, may be, but there must be no uncertainty about it. You must specify which. And that is the law, and if it is a bad law change it.

So the court was obliged to turn him loose, and Hamilton walked out of the court-house and gathered up his wife and they went out into the woods and camped out though it was still cold as winter time.

The lay of the Imprisoned Huntsman came to mind:

"I hate to learn of the ebb of time,
From yon dull steeple's drowsy chime,
Or mark it as the sunbeams crawl,
Inch after inch, along the wall.
The lark was wont my matins ring,
The sable rook my vespers sing;
These towers, although a king's they be,
Have not a hall of joy for me."

It is not likely that James O. Hamilton could say those feeling words off hand, any more than he could tell why he had a right to be charged in the conjunctive instead of the disjunctive. About all he knows about it is that he and the morning stars can all sang together.

The Literary Digest is carrying on another of its famous polls. According to its last poll Charles E. Hughes is the president of the United States. The poll as published in last week's issue of that famous periodical which finds it so painful to be neutral in politics, shows some things that it's editor does not enlarge upon. One is that Florida, North Carolina, and Virginia are overwhelmingly Republican, and that Texas is very close politically. It is pretty certain that if the Literary Digest keeps on predicting that a Republican will be elected pesident, that it will eventually hit it.

Do not forget to vote for Uncle Henry Gilmer for the San Francisco convention. None but Americans on guard that week.

Not much said about the candidacy of Senator Sutherland for president in the Republican papers. As we have about as many Republican readers as any other kind, we take the liberty of reminding them that West Virginians need not look farther than West Virginia for an acceptable candidate in either of the great partise

---

We do not know much about the clothing market as we are one of these old clothes men, but so far as we can see women's skirts are not coming down any.

Let us all march to the tune of the Beautiful Blue Overall.

And he resolved with grim looks and stern determination to wear patches on his pants.

Auction Sale

On Monday May 3rd, 1920, beginning at 10 o'clock, I will sell at my place two miles above Durbin, the following:

1 young team.
2 good milk cows with calves at side.
43 fine ewes with lambs at side
1 good buck
1 set double wagon harness
1 set single wagon harness
1 set double buggy harness
2 saddles, some bridles and collars
1 light two horse wagon
1 heavy bob sled 1 light bob sled
2 buggies
1 Johnson mowing machine
1 McCormic hay rake
Some hay forks
1 Wiard hillside plow good as new
1 double shovel plow
1 corn cultivator
1 spring tooth harrow
1 wood saw outfit and boiler 6 H.P.
1 forge and vise
Some cant hooks, grabs, log chains, cross cut saws and patent bee hives.
1 grind stone, 1 grain cradle
2 mowing scythes
1 hand seed sower
1 Stewart sheep shearing machine.
A lot of other things too numerous to mention

Terms: All sums of $10 and under cash. Over that amount five months time with interest and good security.

GUY E. GREATHOUSE.

For Sale

3 acre lot, house, barn cellar and other outbuilding, plenty of water, 40 young fruit trees, consisting of apples, peaches, cherries and plums, also some grape vines and everbearing strawberries. Located near Huntersville. Price right if sold at once. Call on or write,

O. P. McNeil, Huntersville, W. Va.

Notice

We have oyster shells, grit, little chick food, and chick mash.

MARLINTON POULTRY YARD
Marlinton, W. Va.

Farm for Sale

230 acres at Nottingham, on C. & O. R. R. surrounding Station and containing 8 acres of fine tillable truck land at station 2 acres of select fruit trees, 6 and 8 yrs. old, fine garden, 5 room house, good barn 30x40, granary, wood house, poultry house, corn crib and other necessary out buildings, fine water consisting of 2 good live springs, splendid well on porch. 34 acres of the above 230 acres is fine bottom land at Station, residue 196 acres good upland containing 2o a. good improved tillable or meadow land, balance cutover land but contains a fine lot of good young or second growth chestnut and other young timber and a fine sheep range. This farm also has a good annual rental income from the North Fork L. B. R. Co. Owner will sell above land at reasonable price and on good terms, either conveying to purchaser or reserving above rental. This sale not to molest the said company's rights. If interested call on or address,

G. L. NOTTINGHAM, Box 6
Nottingham, W. Va.

Notice

As I am preparing to move away from Pocahontas County, all persons having accounts against me will please send them to me at Dunmore, West Virginia.

P. L. WILLIAMS.

Administratrix Notice

Notice is hereby given to all parties having claims against the estate of the late D. L. Kerr to present the same proven according to law to the undersigned administratrix at her home at Bartow, W. Va. All persons knowing themselves indebted to said estate will please prepare to settle at once.

This 16th day of April, 1920.

MRS. D. L. KERR.
Admrx. of D. L. Kerr, deceased.

FOR SALE: One 8 A. P. steam tractor engine, Aultman-Taylor friction clutch, will sell cheap or trade for 12 H. P. portable oil engine or oil tractor, price on application. O. E. Gum, Huntersville, W. Va.

FARMS FOR SALE:—Good leve land free from stone, good water and a mild healthy climate. Write for catalogue. Figgs & Rock, 211 N Division St. Salsbury, Md.

ESTRAY—A white face yearling heifer at my place since November 1 1919. Owner can have same by paying cost of advertising and keeping.

J. T. Rose, Millpoint, W. Va

WRIGLEY'S

After a hearty meal, you'll avoid that stuffy feeling if you chew a stick of

WRIGLEY'S

Other benefits: to teeth, breath, appetite, nerves. That's a good deal to get for 5 cents!

Sealed Tight—Kept Right

A8

→The Flavor Lasts←

NOTICE

Effective May 1st, 1920
Delco-Light Plant Style 216 will advance to $580.00

Orders received prior to May 1st, will be accepted at the old price for delivery any time.

Delco-Light Products
L. G. McCLURE, Dealer.
Marlinton W. Va.

Valuable Realestate for Sale

We have a number of nice farms in Randolph and adjoining counties. Some of them near the city of Elkins. If you want to purchase a nice farm close Elkins, write us about what you want, we have it.

ELKINS REALESTATE COMPANY
J. W. Trembly, Manager
Davis Trust Co. Bldg. ELKINS, W. VA.

A FULL LINE

of

International Harvesting Company's Machinery and Parts
at T. H. HINER'S warehouse in Marlinton

INTERNATIONAL SUPPLY COMPANY
Marlinton, West Virginia

NOTICE TO FARMERS

If you need money to buy land, pay debts, stock land or any other purpose.

The Virginian Joint Stock Land Bank

of Charleston, W. Va., will lend it to you on five to twenty years time, on small semi-annual re-payments. This Bank has loaned thousands of dollars to the farmers of this county, and it will take care of your needs.

For further information, or to make application for a loan, call on or write T. S. McNeel, Hillsboro, or write H. W. Comstock, Lewisburg, West Virginia, Supervisor of Loans.

WANTED:—Colored woman for general house work. No washing. Mrs. W. A. Bratton, Marlinton, W. Va.

TIMBER FOR SALE: A portable mill proposition estimated at about two million feet, consisting af about 75 percent whith oak, balance white pine, hemlock, chestnut, etc. This timber is standing within about four miles of a standard guaged railroad and we will make reasonable terms to responsible parties.

Range Lumber Compamy,
Deer Creek, W. Va

Kills Rats

and mice—that's RAT-SNAP, the old reliable rodent destroyer. Comes in cakes—no mixing with other food. Your money back if it fails.

25c. size (1 cake) enough for Pantry, Kitchen or Cellar.

50c. size 2 cakas for chicken house, coops, or small buildings.

$1.00 size 5 cakes enough for all farm ane out-buildings, storage buildings, or factory buildings.

Sold and guaranteed by
PEOPLES STORE & SUPPLY CO.

ATTORNEYS

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Old Furniture Bought. Repair work and mission furniture.

DR. M. N. McKEE,
DENTIST
Camden Ave. Marlinton, W. Va.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

R. B. SLAVIN
Heating, Plumbing and Sheet Metal Work. Best materials. 17 years experience.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Dr. C. S. Kramer Dr. E. G. Herold
KRAMER & HEROLD
DENTISTS
Marlinton, W. Va.
1st National Building. Phone.

M. F. GUM
AUCTIONEER
Marlinton, W. Va.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specially of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

W. A. BARLOW
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Onoto, W. Va.
Phone or write, prompt attention to all calls.

Dr. E. R. McIntosh

SPECIALIST
In diseases of the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat
Eyes Examined Glasses Fitted
Equipped hospital rooms for Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat. Work in connection with offices. Private Nurse in attendance.
10, 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15 Cobb Bldl.
ELKINS, W. VA.
Hours 9 to 5 daily Evenings 7 to 8
Sundays 12 to 2 p. m.
Correspondence Solicited.

Z. S. Smith

UNDERTAKER AND LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA
LIVERY AND FEED STABLE
Rigs to suit all occasions. Promp and satisfactory service guaranteed.

Beman Produce Co.

WHOLESALE PRODUCE
(Denning Livery Building.)
RONCEVERTE, W. VA.
Offer the Best Market and the Highest Cash, Price for your Produce
Butter, Eggs, Chickens, Turkeys, Wool, Hides, Furs and Ginseng.

Flour, feed

I have opened a general feed supply store in the old Shoemaker Stand, and will keep in stock at all times Flour, Feed, Corn meal, Salt, Fertilizer, Coal and Oil.

See me before buying.

T. H. HINER,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Rats Die

so do mice, once they eat RAT-SNAP. And they leave no odor behind. Don't take our word for it—try a package. Cats and dogs won't touch it. Rats pass up all food to get RAT-SNAP. Three sizes.

25c. size [1 cake] enough for Pantry, Kitchen or Cellar.

50c. size [2 cakes] for Chicken house coops, or small buildings.

$1.00 size [5 cakes] enough for all frrm and out-buildings, storage buildings, or factory buildings.

Sold and guaranteed by
PEOPLES STORE & SUPPLY CO

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XXXVIII NO 29 — MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, MAY 6, 1920 — $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

TOWN COUNCIL MEETING

The town council met in its regular monthly session Monday night, with Mayor Hill, Recorder Rexrode, and Councilmen, N. R. Price and M. S. Wilson present.

The financial statement for the year 1919 was presented, approved and ordered published. The drains on the town treasury have been extremely heavy in the latter part of the year 1919 due to street and sidewalk construction and the expense of installation of electric power equipment for users of the electric power from the municipal plant. The need of extreme economy in town expenditures during the balance of the year is apparent to everyone.

John Waugh was employed as part time police was approved by the council, and charged with the duty particularly to break up speeding within the town limits.

In view of the high cost of coal, labor, and all forms of electrical equipment, the council is confronted with the necessity of applying to the Board of Public Works to raise the water and light rate 25 per cent. There should be no objection on the part of the citizens of the town, as it is apparant that the plant cannot, in view of present costs, continue to render good service to the town on a rate that has been in effect from a time when all essential supplies were much cheaper than at present. A motion to that effect was proposed and carried without objection.

The suggestion was made and approved that the county be requested to clean out the side ditch on the A class road running through the town on the west side of the river.

THE SILENCE OF SCRIPTURE

Anna L. Price

We are not told of Jesus' youth,
  Nor of his childhood days,
But are left unto our fancy,
  To love, admire and praise.
The temple doctors versed in law,
Marveled at what they heard and saw
  In one so very young.

Did Jesus bring to Joseph's shop,
  Sweet flowers nature grew,
And with the grace af childhood teach
  The artisan anew?
And then when older lend a hand,
The cleverest in all the land,
  That true Judean lad.

Or did he sometimes linger long,
  Within the cottage door
And see his mother thro' her care;
  So mindful of each humble chore;
While 'mid the prattle of his tongue,
Were wisdom's words to old and young
  That Mary pondered o'er.

With other children did he play,
  Kindly and gentle still,
And meekly patient warding off
  The harbingers of ill;
Perchance some little one were hurt,
He'd wipe the blood with his own skirt
  And brush the tear away.

The solemn silent Scripture,
  On Jesus' infancy,
Those small and tender incidents,
  Where we might curious be:
But in time's plentitude and strength
He was our sacrifice at length,
  The holy Nazarene.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Rev. J. M. Walker, Pastor.

Sunday School at 9:45 a. m.

Preaching morning and evening by the pastor. This being Mothers' Day the pastor will preach a special sermon to mothers at the II o'clock service. Mr. Walker will preach at Swago church at 3:30 p. m.

Sunday School enrollment in the two Sunday schools of Marlinton last Sunday was 405. Were you among the number? Marlinton man! Come out!

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. J. H. Light, D. D., Pastor.

Sunday School 9:45 a. m.

The regular service will be held. In the morning the pastor will preach on "A Mother's Work and a Mother's Wages." At night on "A Much Mistaken Man." This Sunday is the regular Missionary day in the Sunday School.

Thursday night, May 13th Presiding Elder H. I. Stephens, will preach and afterwards hold the first quarterly conference for the year

EDRAY DISTRICT HIGH SCHOOL

Winners in Elkins' Contest

On the morning of April 29th, several of our High School students, accompanied by A. G. Killingsworth, left for Elkins to participate in literary and athletic contests with a number of high schools.

Our local high school was conspicuous in that it won more events than any other single school. Out of the four literary events contested, local students won two events,—Ward McNeil taking first place in the Debate, and Guy Bambrick first place in the Oration.

The Elkins high school took first place in the field and track events, but Marlinton followed with a close second. Following is a record of the events as made by the local boys: Clare Haupt first place in Shot-Put, second in 100 Yd. Dash, and third in Broad-Jump; Hull Yeager first in Discus Throw, and third in Shot-Put; Herold third place in High Jump; Richardson third in 100 Yd Dash; McLaughlin third in one mile run; Guy Yeager second in 440 Yd. Dash.

The contestants from the various high schools were ropally entertained by the people of Elkins. Our local young people returned Saturday evening, well pleased with their entertainment, and elated over their success. All maintain that the trip was worth while.

TRAVIS—KNIGHT

Married, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Knight, of Wilford St. Grafton, W. Va., Thursday, April 29 1920, at 8:00 p.m Edgar Travis and Miss Ethel Knight Rev. Mr. Craig of St. Andrew's Methodist Church, performed the ceremony.

Among the out of town guests present was Miss Marjorie Moore of Marlinton, who played the Wedding March.

Many friends in Marlinton will remember the bride, as the family lived here a number of years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Travis will make their home in Grafton, and will go to housekeeping in their own furnished home immediately.

Delegates to the State Sunday School convention at Beckley, May 10 and 11th from the Marlinton churches are—F. M. Sydnor, Fred Gehauf, F. R. Hill, Mrs. W. A. Eskridge and Miss Mabel Moore, from the Methodist church; Miss Virgie Sydenstricker, Mrs. G. W. Sharp, S. N. Hench and J. A. Sydenstricker, from the Presbyterian church.

J. O. Carey has accepted the position of woods superintendent for the firm of A. D. Neil Son & Company, who are preparing to operate their big timber holdings east of the river at Cloverlick. They hope to start in the next week or two, and are advertising for men. This timber, town and mill was bought from F. S. Wise a few years ago.

Dad Shumate, the noted bear hunter of Cheat Mountain, died last week in an Elkins Hospital, following an operation for locked bowels. His age was about 70 years. For seventeen years he has worked for the W. Va. Pulp & Paper Company, and made his home on Cheat Mountain. He was a native of Summers County.

Died, Mrs. Howard Underwood, at her home on Beaver Creek, Wednesday, April 28, 1920. The deceased was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Sharp. Her age was about 35 years. She is survived by her husband and their children.

J. H. Mackey, of Highland County passed Marlinton on Wednesday with a registered yearling Hereford bull which he bought from J. S. McNeil, of Hillsboro. Mr. Mackey has heretofore gone to the West for sires for his thoroughbred herd, but this time he came to Pocahontas and found one as good as the best. The sale was made at the Fair last fall.

Reta and Veda Moore of the Huntersville graded school received prizes for the highest average grades in their respective classes.

R. A. Kramer was over from Clifton Forge last week.

LIBERTY BONDS EXCHANGED

We have exchanged, without charge, for our customers, incomplete coupon bonds, when the coupons have all become due, for completed bonds.

We also give prompt attention to the assignment and transfer of Registered Liberty and Victory Bonds.

The First National Bank
Marlinton, W. Va.
Under U. S. Government Supervision.

CIRCUS DAY TOMORROW

MAY 7TH. SPARKS CIRCUS WILL BE IN CITY

Tomorrow morning there will roll into the city the long gaudily painted trains of the Sparks Circus for a day's stay, with everything from forty clowns to the Shimmay dancins bears The show will give two performances, displaying many picturesque and wondrous marvels—both human and animal—making a combination that will be pretty hard to keep "Young America" from seeing.

This season promises many new features. Among them being the great Matoka, who traverses a distance of 150 ft. on a narrow wire with lightning like rapidity, from the extreme top of the huge canvass to the ground. Then there will be the Harrison group of acrobatic bears, whose feats are only excelled by the other acrobats of the circus. And there'll be "Big Zulu" the Skyscraper elephant and the rest of her elephant associates and "Caesar" the Champion. High Jumping horse of the World will equal his own record of 7 ft. 4 1-2 inches.

The circus will raise its tents on the regular circus ground and will be "at home" to visitors all day. Of course there will be a parade at 10:30 in the morning. It will come shining and glitterin forth from the show grounds to trauerse the usual parade route. In it will be a sample of everything about the circus. The performances will be given at 2 and 8 P. M. while the doors will be open an hour earlier, so that visitors, and especially the children may view the menagerie and Horse Fair, which is a special feature this year.

NAY VOTE IN PRIMARY

In an opinion by Attorney General E. T. England, he states that one is entitled to vote in the primary on May 25 if his time in residence in the state will permit him to vote in the general election next fall. The opinion was rendered in response to a large number of inquiries from all sections of the state, and was made public following the receipt of a telegram yesterday, which read:

"Should a voter be registered who has lived in the county less than 60 days prior to May 25?"

If a man is entitled to vote in the fall, leaving out the question of voting in the primary, he is also entitled to vote in the primary, the attorney general said.

FOR DEPUTY ASSESSORS

If I am nominated and elected assessor of Pocahontas County, I will appoint the following citizens as my deputies: C. W. Kennison, Levels District; D. L. Ervine, Greenbank, and G. M. Sharp, of Huntersville as office Deputy.

Ceo. A. C. Auldridge,
Onoto, W. Va.

W. E Wallace has sold his farm to H. S. McCluer, Mr. Wallace having purchased a farm near Marlinton, W. Va., to which he will move September 1.—Rockbridge County News.

Mr. Wallace has bought the Alvin Clark farm in the Levels. He is a brother of S. B. Walltce, of Marlinton.

MRS. LANTY J. MOORE

Mrs Ann Moore, wife of Lanty J. Moore, departed this life at her home at Edray, April 28, 1920, aged 44 years and 17 days. Her death was very unexpected and a shock to the entire neighborhood. She was a good woman, much devoted to her home and the welfare of her husband and children, and will be greatly missed. When about fifteen years of age she took the Lord as her companion and guide, and united with the Methodist church.

Funeral services were conducted from the Edray church at two o'clock p. m. April 30th, by Revs. M. H. Ramsey, Geo. P. Moore, Elmer Moore and J. M. Walker. Interment in the family burying ground near the church. Her mother preceded her across the bar January 24, 1917, her father August 30, 1917, and one brother May 24, 1898. Surviving is her husband and seven children, three sisters, Mrs. John E. Barlow of Edray; Mrs. Samuel Moore, of Hosterman, and Mrs. Edgar Eubank, of Ironton, Ohio. The brothers are Luther Smith, of Warwick, and Eppie and Ollie Smith of Edray. R.

The play by the Greenbank High School at the auditorium of the local high school on last night was attended by a large aad appreciative audience. It was good entertainment with all the parts well played.

Wheeling.—D. D. Parks, day sergeant in the Martins Ferry police department, former service director, died after a futile attempt on the part of physicians to check an attack of hiccoughs which lasted 176 hours.

Wheeling.—Wheeling club women have extended an invitation to the Federated Clubs of the District of West Virginia to hold their annual convention here this spring. The meeting will be held during the month of April.

Huntington.—Efforts made by the Chamber of Commerce to have an office of the chief clerk of the railway mail service established in Huntington have failed. Secretary Mathews received a letter from Otto Praeger, second assistant postmaster general, stating the request had been denied.

For Sale

A limited number of pure bred Hampshire sheep of both sexes for breeding purposes. For further information call at the farm or write Monroe Beard, Arbovale, W. Va. Shipping point, Cass, W. Va.

For Sale

Fordson tractor, equipped with belt pulley and Canfield governor. Two-bottom Oliver plow. And International tandem disc harrow for use with tractor. All good as new. Have sold my farm and do not need them. Bargain at $1150.00 for entire outfit.

H. C. SPENCER, Hillsboro, W. Va.

25 h. p. Engine

FOR SALE. As we are thinking of putting in electric motor we will sell our 25 h.p. kerosene engiue.

Marlinton Milling Company.

Barney Oldfield Tells Us—

More than four years ago I set the present world's non-stop road record 304 miles at 86 1-2 miles an hour. Motordom marvelled at the endurance of my tires. Yet these tires did not surprise me. Through a good many years I have made tires my hobby. I'd studied, I'd experimented, I'd had had the best advice of chemists and engineers. The tires I rode on that day were built to my own specifications I knew what to expect of them.

But the Oldfield tires you have in stock are ever better tires than those I drove to world's record. There's a non-stop run in every set for some customer of yours a run that will be just as startling, free from trouble as my own old record of which I am still so proud. And tell your friends not to forget that back of every Oldfield tire is my own personal recommendation that it is the most trust worthy tire ever built. "There has been no other tire test like this."

Countless miles on race track and speedway
Over 500,000 milee of trans-continental touring
Such is the experience of the Barney Oldfield Tire.

LET US SHOW YOU THESE TIRES

Cass Garage
CASS, W. VA.

SHOES

Mr. Man Listen :

For more than a year shoe prices have advanced rapidly. Our line of

Men's and Boys' Work Shoes

were all bought before the great advance in prices.

Therefore we are in a position to save you money on your shoe bill, Prices the LOWEST NUNN BUSH QUALITY THE BEST.

W. A. Bri[illegible]

Brick blg. end of Bridge [illegible] CASS, W. Va.

CHURCHES IN STATE NEED AID, REVEALS INTERCHURCH SURVEY

Facts Gathered in Rural Investigation Relied on to Carry Financial Campaign in West Virginia to Success

Scarcely a church in rural West Virginia has a church program of practical Christianity looking to the improvement of community life. This indictment of the failure of the churches to meet the need of their communities is drawn from dozens of reports submitted through the efforts of the thousands of workers engaged in the Interchurch World Movement survey which is revealing the facts upon which the program for widening the scope of the churches is founded. Facts revealed in the survey are relied upon to carry the thirty allied denominations to victory in the united financial canvass of the state which will open April 25.

Hardly a rural church in the state, report the surveyors working under Professor L. M. Bristol of Clarksburg, has any special work for young people or any room of facilities for serving the whole life of the people.

In Raleigh county where the survey is almost completed returns from 47 out of 55 white churches show an average membership of 58. Returns from 33 colored churches give an average membership of 39.

Low salaries of pastors, one sore spot to be remedied by the Interchurch campaign, show up prominently in the Raleigh county report. The average salary paid by the white churches is $357 and by the colored churches $330, although in many cases the salaries of pastors are augmented by coal operators. Thus in one mining community the pastor of a union church gets a salary of $2,800.

Trained religious leadership is noticeably lacking, particularly in three large sections of the county where there are no villages. The poor school conditions are remedied somewhat by contributions of coal operators to the school funds.

In Upshur county 69 churches outside of Buckhannon serve a rural population of about 13,000 or an average of one church to each 200 people, yet the average resident membership of the churches is 42. The buildings are scattered along unimproved roads, impassable for a considerable portion of the year.

In this county the average salary paid by the churches to the pastors is $137 per year, the people in return receiving an average of one and one-half Sunday services per month. One pastor has nine appointments.

In Harrison county, it is reported, with 110 mines employing nearly 8,000 men, twenty per cent of whom are Italians, and with two small industrial communities containing over 1,000 Spaniards, there is almost an entire lack of Americanization, welfare or missionary work, outside of Clarksburg and a little at Shinnston and Owings mines.

THE FATE OF NORTH AFRICA IN HANDS OF PROTESTANTS

Closest to Europe, North Africa is most hospitable to western ideas of economic and social life according to the comments of Interchurch World Movement leaders. It will be either fanatically materialistic or open to moral and spiritual forces according as the Christian church fails or succeeds in meeting the challenge of Islam and of conscienceless business exploitation.

North Africa includes Egypt, Tripoli, Tunis, Algeria, Morocco, Dio de Oro, Mauritania, Senegal, Gambia, Portuguese, Guinea, French Guinea, Sierra Leone, Liberia, Ivory Coast, Gold Coast, Togo, Dahomey, Nigeria, Upper Senegal and Nigar, Ubanghi-Shari-Chad territories, Anglo-Egyption Sudan, Abyssinia, Italian Somaliland, British Somaliland, French Somaliland and Eritrea.

The area of these regions is 6,770,811 square miles. The estimated population is 77,333,491. Of this great host, 39,818,761 are Mohammedans, 27,721,568 are pagans, 5,106,332 are Copts, 900,534 Roman Catholics, 390,235 are Jews.

The evangelical missionary in North Africa is fighting the results of thirteen centuries of Mohammedan occupation with only half a century of evangelical activities behind him. The Interchurch World Movement surveys show that, in addition to more missions, institutions of higher learning as well as industrial schools are called for. Through industrial schools Christian missions can make an invaluable contribution to the economic condition of the nations.

One of the great results of the coming Interchurch World Movement financial campaign will be the increase of salaries for ministers, according to the budget plans. The 175,000 ministers to the evangelical churches of the country are paid an average for their services of $937 a year. In order to enlist the 100,000 workers that are needed to fill that number of specific positions listed after the Interchurch world survey, it is realized that the new workers will have to be paid the salary the work demands. Ministerial relief and pensions has an item in the $336,777,387 budget of $20,510,299.

FINGER-SIEGEL CO.
CASS, WEST VA.

We have just a few pair of men's Walk Over shoes left 4.95

But we have other shoes as low as 2.50

One special lot of men's Walk Over dress shoes in button and lace of exceptional value 6.00

We still have children's sandals in black, white, tan 89c to 1.89

Our Children's Mary Jane slippers are selling fast, no wonder look at the price in patent and kid at 2.00 and 2.25

Brotherhood Overalls, the best made

FINGER-SIEGEL CO.
CASS, WEST VIRGINIA

Notice

To whom it may concern:

Notice is hereby given that I, Ella Walton, guardian of Ruby Francis Walton and Lottie Howard Walton, residents of the County of Culpepper, and State of Virginia, where the said Ella Walton was duly appointed as guardian of said Ruby Francis Walton and Lottie Howard Walton, will make application to the circuit court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, on the 1st day of June, 1920 for the entry of an order authorizing me as guardian aforesaid, to transfer from the State of West Virginia, to the said state of Virginia, the proceeds of the sale of certain real estate formerly belonging to said Ruby Francis Walton, and Lottie Howard Walton, and located in the Town of Marlinton, in said State of West Virginia, now in the hands of T. D. Moore, General Receiver of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County.

ELLA WALTON, Guardian of Ruby Francis Walton and Lottie Howard Walton, for the County of Culpepper and State of Virginia.
P. T. Ward, Solicitor.

Sale of Lands

Pursuant to authority vested in me by a decree of the circuit court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, made and entered on the — day of April, 1920 in the chancery cause of State of West Virginia, vs 1600 acres, 381 acres, 800 acres, John Driscol and others.

I will on Saturday, May 29, 1920, at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, at 1 o'clock, p. m. of that day, offer for sale to the highest bidder the following described real estate, situate on the head waters of East Prong of the Greenbrier River, in Greenbank District, Pocahontas county, West Virginia, consisting of three tracts of land, to-wit:

First tract of 1600 acres, estimated to contain about 1311 a.

Second tract of 800 acres adjoining the first tract

Third tract of 381 acres adjoining the second tract, and being the land known as the Driscol and Kinsports lands.

Terms of Sale: Cash in hand on day of sale sufficient to pay the costs and expense of sale, and the residue in six, twelve and eighteen months from date of sale respectively; taking from the purchaser or purchasers, his or their notes with good security payable to the State of West Virginia, for the deferred payments, with interest from date thereof.

URIAH BIRD,
Commissioner of School Lands.
By Counsel.
P. T. Ward, Solicitor.

Watch Out!

You are burning money when you burn old clothing, rags, papers and mazazines.

SAVE!

We are going to call for these at your door and give you cash prices for same.

AGAIN!

This season we will again handle WOOL and your produce such as as eggs, butter, chickens, etc.—giving you top market prices.

I. ROSEN
MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA

Commissioner's Sale

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered on the 6th day of April, 1920, in the chancery cause therein pending of F. S. Wise vs Abel Hedrick and Reuben Thomas, the undersigned special commissioners

On Tuesday, June 1, 1920

at the front door of the court-house of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, in the town of Marlinton, at 1 o'clock p. m., will proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder two tracts of land in Greenbank District, Pocahontas county, West Virginia, on Little River, east of Thornwood, containing 126 and 69 acres respectively, known as the McGraw and Wilfong tracts, being the same land conveyed by F. S. Wise to Abel Hedrick and Reuben Thomas by deed dated February 23, 1916, of record in the office of the clerk of the county court of said county in deed book 53 at page 103 to which reference is made for a more particular description.

Terms of Sale: One third cash in hand, the residue in two equal installments with interest due in six and twelve months from the day of sale respectively, the purchaser executing notes with good security, the title to be retained as untimate security.

P. T. WARD,
ANDREW PRICE,
Special Commissioners.

I, G. W. Sharp, Clerk of the circuit court of said chunty do certify that the above named special commissioners have executed bond as required by said decree,

G. W. SHARP, Clerk.

Notice of Judicial Sale of valuable Realestate.

Pursuant to a decree of the circuit court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, made and entered on the 6th day of April, 1920, in the chancery cause of W. J. Milliken against John Cobb, I will on Tuesday, the first day of June, 1920, at the front door of the court house os Pocahontas county, West Virginia, at 1 p. m. of that day, offer for sale to the highest bidder, the following described realestate, consisting of two lots north of the public road and locally known as the Milliken Hotel in the Town of Thornwood, Pocahontas county, Wrst Virginia.

Terms of sale, cash on day of sale.

P. T. WARD,
Special Commissioner.

I, G. W. Sharp, clerk of the circuit court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, hereby certify that bond with security approved by me as sufficient, and the penalty provided by eaid decree has been by said Special Commissioner.

G. W. SHARP, Clerk.

MARLINTON CIRCUIT, M. P. CHURCH

Rev. Paul Riegel, Pastor

Sunday May 9.—Preaching and election of delegates at 11 a. m. at the Buckeye appointment.

Marlinton is about to become a second class office, a change that will take place July 1. Mr. W. W. Marshall, Postoffice Inspector, has the matter under consideration. He was here last week. B. B. Williams, principal of the graded school at this place, will be recommended as assistant, and Miss Mabel E. Moere, clerk. Postoffices are advanced according to the volume of business. If this place goes into the second class July 1, it will be the only second class post office in the Tenth Senatorial District.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XXXVIII NO 30 — MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, MAY 13. 1920 — $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

FOR GOVERNOR

Charleston, W. Va.—The announcement of Arthur B. Koontz, of Charleston, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, has met with a marked response of approval, not only from the press of the state, but from hundreds of individuals voters who, in letters to the candidate have expressed pleasure over the prospect of nominating a man to head the Democratic ticket whose ability, energy and clean record will enable him to go out and make a winning fight this fall.

Furthermore, and more important, they see in Mr. Koontz not only a winning candidate, but a man of the caliber to make the state the kind of a Governor it needs in the next four years—young, vigorous, courageous, fair, honorable.

Among the strongest letters of endorsement Mr. Koontz has received are a number from prominent men in his home county of Nicholas, who have known him from childhood, and which are quoted in part, as follows:

"The announcement of Arthur B. Koontz for the nomination on the Democratic ticket for Governor of West Virginia, has the hearty approval of the people of Nicholas County," said P H. Wiseman, Clerk of the County Court of Nicholas County, and former Democratic County Chairman. "We know Mr. Koontz to be a young man of sterling worth, high character and unquestioned ability and well fitted for the position to which he aspires."

"Recognizing your unquestioned ability, wrote Robert A. Kincaid, Summersville attorney, "the citizenship of Nicholas County is indeed gratified with your candidacy. At no period in the state's history has the necessity for strong leadership been more essential, and from a more personal knowledge of your character, ability and experience. I believe that your nomination and election will insure for West Virginia marked progress throughout an administration of combined vision and judgment You have my unqualified support."

A. N. Brockinridge, another Summersville attorney, says; "Your native county is not only proud of you and your succes, but your vandidacy should be an incentive to other young men. Your qualifications for Governor are undoubted and you will bring to the office a trained mind, energy, successful business experience and an optimistic viewpoint as to the great future of our state. You will have my whole hearted support."

And L. O Bobbit, county superintendent of schools of Nicholas, declared, "I note with pleasure your announcement for Governor of West Virginia. I know you personally as a farmer and student. I know more or less in a personal way of your success as a lawyer, also as a business man. I think the time has come when we need at the head of our state, honest, patriotic, industrious and energetic young men. I see all these qualifications and more in you. I shall take pleasure in giving you my hearty support in this campaign."

Stuart R King, another Summersville attorney, in a letter to headquarters here, said, "The candidacy of Arthur B. Koontz for the gubernatorial nomination is both pleasing and gratifying to the people of Nicholas County, he being a native of this county, a man of sterling character, unquestioned ability, wide and successful business experience, absolutely square and thoroughly qualified."

In the month of April the hottest day was the 22nd, the temperature reaching 76 degrees. The coldest was 16 degrees on the 6th and 11th. The mean temperature for the month was 43.5 degrees, the mean maximum being 55 and the mean minimum 32 degrees. There was a total of 5.54 inches of rain, 1.42 inches falling on the 1st and 2nd. The total snowfall was 2 inches. Rain fell on 16 days; 2 days were clear 17 partly cloudy and 11 cloudy. Heavy frosts on 8 days and thunder storms on 7 days. Hail on the 20th.—S. L. Brown, local observer.

Ligon Price who has practiced taxiermy for many years had accumulated the largest collection of mounted birds in West Virginia. He had something over two hundred specimens, many rare and valuable. He has lent his collection to the State and it will be placed in cases in the museum at Charleston.

HUNTERSVILLE POST OFFICE ROBBED

Sunday morning about daylight the safe in the Huntersville post office was blown open and the robbers secured stamps to the amount of about $200.

The work seems to be that of experts and was that of three men in a Ford car. In the small hours of the night a Ford car was seen to come into the town and two men got out and walked away and the other took the car away.

A short time after an explosion was heard but no particular attention was paid to it. At 4:30 a. m. another and a louder explosion was heard, but still no one connected it in his mind with safe blowing. One man supposed that it was somebody dynamiting fish.

What happened was that the robbers had put in a charge of soup into the cracks of the safe after soaping it up and had failed to start the stout little safe. When no one came they went back and put in a big charge that broke and twisted the door.

They grabbed everything in sight and walked away about fifty yards where they threw away the worthless articles and kept the stamps. Some war saving stamps belonging to individuals were taken but they were registered, and no loss will result therefrom. Mr. Price Sheets is the postmaster and he estimates that the stamps taken including $25 worth of thrift stamps was near $200. He had all the money belonging to the office at his house except $14 which the burglars overlooked.

The federal authorities, the sheriff, the police at Marlinton, and the State Constables were notified. Messrs. Moore and Wooddell, of the State Constabulary went up and looked the ground over and decided that the strangers had gone in a Ford car, and they telegraphed other stations of the State Constabulary in other counties, so that suspicious characters might be examined.

A pick that was used in entering the building had been taken from the road work between here and Huntersville.

FOUR H SUGGESTIONS ABOUT MUSCLES

When a fellow says "Let's see how much muscle you have?" you know what he means, don't you? You knot up the muscle of your right arm above the elbow just as hard as you can. But is it true that the boy with the biggest arm muscles is always strongest? How about the girls? When you get your club together this month, try some athletic tests: lifting, chinning a bar, running, jumping, holding out a weight, gripping. Test the muscles in all parts of the body for all-round muscular development.

Nellie Watson of Upshur County used her muscles for 13 1-2 hours in setting tomato plants, hoeing, staking, spraying. And it paid. She cleared $92.13 from her tomato club work. The profit would have been more if all her tomatoes had been sprayed. From the half where the Bordeaux was used she got 1232 pounds of tomatoes. The unsprayed half produced only 683 pounds.

During the same time Audrey Thomas of Monroe County used his muscles for 27 hours in working his acre of corn to keep down weeds and conserve moisture. Altogether he cultivated it five times but did not hoe it the last time. His yield was over 102 bushels of yellow corn.

Virginia Gay of Pocahontas County sometimes got tired in the back and arms from holding the bottle for "Burley," her lamb, to drink its milk. She also had to expend 5 cents each month during the first part of the season for new nipples for the bottle. "One day I decided to see if Burley would eat bran, so I gave him a little on a large rock. He ate a little and the rest he scraped off on the ground with his foot. After that I gave him a little each day." By October 1 he weighed 129 1-2 pounds. —University Bulletin No. 10.

Mrs. Mary McGraw, of Grafton, mother of the late John T. McGraw, died last Saturday, aged 86 years, having survived her son but 10 days.

There will be decoration services at Huntersville May 30th in the afternoon an outline program will be published later. Let us show our patriotism by attending this service and strewing flowers on the graves of our loved ones who have passed on before.

O. P. McNeil, Chairman.

Robert L. Hamilton

Grantsville, Calhoun County

Candidate for Democratic State Committee

Solicits the support of Pocahontas Democrats. Since the formation of the present Tenth Senatorial District, Calhoun County, situated on the extreme western edge of the "Shoestring District," has not had a nomination for Senote, nor, with the exception of the past four years, a place on the State committee. And Calhoun county has always been consistent in her Democratic majorities.

Reward Calhoun county's faithfulness by returning Mr. Hamilton to the State committee.

[Political Advertising]

PETIT JURORS

Summoned for the first day of June for June Term of Circuit Court:

W. H. Evans, Dave Spitzer, T. J. Mason, P. L. Carter, M. C. Carter, A. S. Overholt, W. T. Morgan, B. B. Williams, Clarence Barlow, of J. E., Cam McLaughlin, George Alderman, Walter Grimes, Allen Blackhurst, J. L. Baxter, John Perry, Z. S. Smith, Jacob Sharp, Sandy Auldridge, Sherman McCarty, S. B. Wallace, J. R. Eubank, Elmer Sharp, Mitchell Sharp Willis Burner, Lete Young, Winston Herold, C. M. Greathouse, Owen Kellison; J. B. Sutton, Adam C. Moore of J. R., Edgar Herold S. P. Landis, Earl Weiford, C. C. Wanless. Lee Moore, J. J. Coyner, Moody McNeill, John Sharp of D. W., Mulvy Moore, M. S. Wilson, W. J. Yeager, Talbott Waugh, F. H. Warwick, Moody Moore Stuart Nethkin, C. C. Beale.

Mrs. Joseph A. Blake, wife of Dr. Blake the surgeon, had a narrow escape from defeat yesterday in her election as trustee of the Irvington School District. George Minton, former coachman and now a caretaker on one of the Irvington estates, came within nine votes of defeating her. Had the opposition centered on Minton, Mrs Blake would have lost. The opposition sprang up immediately after a meeting Tuesday night. To all purposes it was most harmonious and was only in session fifteen minutes. Mrs. Blake and Dr. Carroll Dunham were nominated by George E. Dickenson, President of the village, and when other nominations were called for none was made. The oppsition became very active within the last hour and split their votes between Adam K. Luke, a wealthy resident and member of the West Virginia Paper and Pulp Company. —The World.

On June 10-11, 1920, the West Virginia State Pharmaceutical Association meets in Huntington. The Huntington Druggists & Traveling men's committee are arranging lively entertainment programmes and a good time is assured. There will be speakers of national prominence to make addresses on live drug store topics of the day.

The Class Sermon to the graduates of the Edray District High School will be delivered by Rev. J. H. Light D. D. in the auditorium on Sunday night, at 8:00 May 16. This will be the only service in town. The graduates are Dorothy Irvine, Genevieve Yeager, Genevieve Moore, Lois Coyner, Gayre Mann, Mamie White, Hull Yeager, Frances Harris, Sterl Wooddell.

MRS. EFFIE UNDERWOOD

One of the saddest deaths that has been in this community for quite a while was that of Mrs. Effie Underwood, which occurred at her home on Beaver Creek, on Thursday April 29, 1920, when she gave her life in motherhood; but when life is given under the Creator's ordinance, greater love has no one.

She was buried on Friday in the family plot near the home, in the presence of a large crowd of sympathizing relatives and friends. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Paul Reigel.

She is survived by her husband, Rev. H. Underwood, and their four children, Lula, Orgain, Leo, and Watson. Our hearts goes out in tender sympathy to the bereaved ones, who with stricken hearts are yearning for the touch of a vanished hand and the sound of a voice that is still.

We miss you from our home, dear mother,
We miss thee from thy place,
A shadow o'er our life is cast,
We miss the sunshine of thy face.

We miss the kind and willing hand,
The hand of love and care,
Our home is dark without thee, mother,
We miss thee everywhere.

G. M. L.

MARLINTON CIRCUIT, M. P. CHURCH

Rev. Paul Riegel, Pastor

Sunday May 16.—Preaching as usual by the pastor at Droop Church and ot Seebert at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. Let the members come, please, and all visitors are welcome.

During the war one of our stenographers received a letter from a "certain party" in France. After a number of interesting paragraphs the letter ended with

"Goodbye, my dear, for the present
Jack. X X X X

"P. S. I hope the censor doesn't object to the crosses."

To which a friendly censor added:
"Certainly not! X X X X"
—Exchange

Married, Monday afternoon, May 10, 1920, at the home of C. C. Waugh on Camden Avenue. Harper Gordon Thomas and Miss Anna Hill Armentrout, Rev. J. H. Light, D. D. officiating minister.

PIE SUPPER

There will be a pie supper at the new Pleasant Valley school house, May 22nd, for the benefit of the Agriculture club. Everybody is invited.

RESERVE DISTRICT No. 5

NO. 6538 Report of the Condition of

The First National Bank

at Marlinton, in the State of W. Va., at the close of business May 4, 1920

RESOURCES		DOLLARS
Loans and Discounts, including rediscount (except those shown in b and c)	$ 292 799 93	292 799 93
Overdrafts, secured; unsecured $423 90		423 9
U. S. Government securities owned
Deposited to secure circulation (U. S. Bonds parvalue)	$25 000 00
Owned and unpledged	58 550
Total U. S. Government securities		83 550 00
Securities other than U. S. bonds (not including stocks) owned unpledged	$10 804 33
Total bonds, securities, etc. other than U. S.		10 804 33
Stock of Federal Reserve Bank [50 percent of subscription]		1 850 00
Value of banking house, owned and unencumbered	$19 500 00
Equity in banking house		19 500 00
Furniture and fixtures		2 600 00
Lawful reserve with Federal Reserve Bank		22 500 00
Cash in vault and net amount due from national banks		44 577 39
Checks on other banks in the same city or town as reporting bank		958 48
Total of items 13, 14, 15, 16, and 17,	45 212 39
Checks on banks located outside of city or town of reporting bank and other cash items		366 87
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer and due from U. S. Treasurer		1 250 00
Interest earned but not collected—approximate—on notes and bills receivable not past due	475 00
Total		480 857 12
LIABILITIES		DOLLARS
Capital stock paid in		25 000 00
Surplus fund		36 000 00
Undivided profits	$7 623 65
Less current expenses, interest and taxes paid	5 737 58	1 886 07
Interest and discount collected or credited in anvance of maturity and not earned (approximately)	2 800 00
Circulating notes outstanding		25 000 00
Certified checks outstanding		201 73
Cashier's checks on own bank outstanding		324 70
Demand Deposits (other than bank deposits) subject to reserve [deposits payable within 30 days]:
Individual deposits subject to check		266 031 01
Certificates of deposit (other than for money borrowed)		73 699 79
Other time deposits		52 714 12
Total of time deposits subject to Reserve, items 40, 41, 42 and 43	$126 413 91
Total		480 857 12

State of West Virginia, County of Pocahontas, ss:

I, J. A. Sydenstricker, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

J. A. Sydenstricker, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 10th day of May, 1920.

H. L. Byers, Notary Public.
My commission expires Sept 30, 1929

Correct—Attest: L. M McClintic
F. T. McClintic
W. H. Barlow
Directors.

GRAND JURORS

Summoned for the first day of June for the June Term of Circtit Court:

Greenbank District—C. L. Curtis, C M. Kellar, Lee Wilmoth, Ligon Price.

Edray District—Elmer Baxter, W. C. Gardner, Jake Gibson, George Van-Reenan.

Huntersville District—P. A. Rexrode, C. D. Newman, Willis McComb, Willie H. Grimes.

Little Levels—S. A. Sparks, T. E. Smith, O. L. Kinnison, G. W. Miller.

COUNTERFEIT STAMP HAS MUMPS

The Post Office Department today issued a warning to thrifty persons hereabouts to be on their guard against buying counterfeit War Savings Stamps. Fraudulent blue stamps of the 1919 series have been made by counterfeiters, the postmaster has been advised, and are being and are being sold to the unwary.

"But the frauds can be easily detected," the postmaster said. "Ben Franklin's picture appears on the stamp, and in the counterfeit stamp, old Ben seems to have the mumps in his left jaw. Indeed, there is a pronounced swelling. Then under the portrait the lower of the two left dots is comparatively indistinct, and the vertical opening between the lines in the lower left part of the numeral '2' in the date '1924' is closed. The principal feature of the fraud, however, is the swollen cheek.

"It should be remembered that the counterfeit is only of the 1919 series, and, like the original, is blue. Blue War Savings Stamps can no longer be bought from post offices of other authorized agencies. Only the 1920 stamps, which are red, are now being sold by agencies. Sales of last year's stamps are not legal. No one should buy a 1919 stamp, though it is true that some have been improperly offered for sale.

"Everyone who bought 1919 stamps last year may feel perfectly safe," the postmaster said in conclusion, "because the counterfeit was not made until after the first of this year. The blue stamps had then been withdrawn from sale by authorized agencies, and the red 1920 stamp was being sold. Don't buy any 1919 stamps, and keep a look out for the picture of the man with the mumps. If you see one let me know."

I am a candidate for delegate from the Sixth Congressional District to the Republican National Convention at Chicago, June, 8, 1920, subject to the primary May 25, 1920.

If elected I will join forces only with those who are anxious for a national administration of affairs worthy of our country, that I will wear no man's collar and have no part with the thimble-rigging pussyfooting politicians.

JUSTUS COLLINS.
Charleston, W. Va.

On Thursday afternoon, May 27th, at two o'clock the exercises for the 8th grade graduates of Edray and Huntersville Districts will be held at Edray District High School Auditorium in Marlinton. The address will be made by Supt. C. L. Wright, of the Huntington schools.

The commencement of the Edray District High School will be on Friday night May 28. Dr. Hamilton, president of Marshall College, will make the address.

Married, Willis Gum, of Dunmore, and Miss Alice Puffenbarger, of Valley Center, Virginia, May 5. 1920.

County court was in session on Monday to go over the registration books.

Circuit Court Tuesday, June 1st

HUNTERSVILLE CHARGE

Methodist Church,
Rev. Elmer C. Sloane, Pastor.

Rev. H. I. Stephens, presiding elder, will preach and hold the first quarterly conference, Thursday night May 13th.

Sunday morning the pastor will preach on the Assension of our Lord.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that my wife Rheudema Alderman, having left my home, I will not be responsible for any debts she may contract.

This 7th day of May, 1920.

I. D. Alderman.
Huntersville, W. Va.

To Those Concerned

Notice is hereby given to all parties having claims against the estate of George W. Duncan, deceased, to present the same to the undersigned administratrix for settlement.

May 10, 1920.

MRS. MARIE DUNCAN, Admrx.

Insyde Tyres

Are not ordinary reliner as some may suppose but are made of regular tyre sabric vulcanized. Guaranteed to double the mileage. Absolutely blowout proof and 90-100 puncture proof. All sizes, 30x3 $4.00 each.

I can have Insyde Tyres shipped C. O D. to any one writing enclosing postage 15 cents per tyre. I can also furnish 6000 mile caseings first quality $18 to $22 00, 30x3-30x3 1-3.

Inertubes all sizes. Interchangeable inertubes for Ford $3.50 each.

L. C. IRVIN,
Insyde Tyre Distributor,
Warwick, W. Va.

SHOES SHOES

Prices of shoes are higher than ever was known in the history of the country, but let us prove to you that shoes are being sold at Finger-Siegel Co., Cass, W. Va., at extremely low prices, as we have an immense stock bought before shoes were advanced.

Lot of men's Walk Overs at	$4.00
Men's Gun Metal Walk Overs only	6.00
Men's dress shoes sizes 9 to 11 at	2.50 and 3.50
Ladies' dress shoes sizes 2 1-2 to 4 1-2 in all leathers at	2.89
Ladies' Oxfords sizes 2 1-2 to 4 1-2 at	2.49
Ladies' Walk Over shoes at surprisingly low prices considering quality and style
Children's white shoes and slippers only	1.00
Children's Barefoot Sandals at	89c
Men's best work shirts at	1.00 and 1.25
Brotherhood Overalls best made only	2.75

FINGER-SIEGEL CO.

CASS, WEST VIRGINIA

Sale of Lands

Pursuant to authority vested in me by a decree of the circuit court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, made and entered on the — day of April, 1920 in the chancery cause of State of West Virginia, vs 1600 acres, 381 acres, 800 acres, John Driscol and others.

I will on Saturday, May 29, 1920, at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, at 1 o'clock, p. m. of that day, offer for sale to the highest bidder the following described real estate, situate on the head waters of East Prong of the Greenbrier River, in Greenbank District, Pocahontas county, West Virginia, consisting of three tracts of land, to-wit:

First tract of 1600 acres, estimated to contain about 1311 a.

Second tract of 800 acres adjoining the first tract

Third tract of 381 acres adjoining the second tract, and being the land known as the Driscol and Kinsports lands.

Terms of Sale: Cash in hand on day of sale sufficient to pay the costs and expense of sale, and the residue in six, twelve and eighteen months from date of sale respectively; taking from the purchaser or purchasers, his or their notes with good security payable to the State of West Virginia, for the deferred payments, with interest from date thereof.

URIAH BIRD,
Commissioner of School Lands.
By Counsel.

P. T. Ward, Solicitor.

FOR GOVERNOR

We are authorized to announce A. B. Koontz, of Charleston, a candidate for the Democratic momination for Governor.

FOR DEPUTY ASSESSORS

To the People of Pocahontas County:

In case of my nomination and election to the office of Assessor, I will appoint the following citizens as my deputies: C. P. McNeill, of Buckeye, Edray District, and Harper Smith, of Hillsboro, Levels District.

Aaron A. Sharp.
Huntersville, W. Va.

FOR MEMBER DEMOCRATIC STATE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

I am a candidate for member Democratic State Executive Committee, Tenth Senatorial District, subject to the May primary. I would sincerely appreciate the support of all Pocahontas County Democrats.

Sincerely,
C. W. Marsh.
Glenville, W. Va.

To the Voters of Greenbrier and Pocahontas Counties:

Elevation to the bench will be a promotion. Should it be the will of the Democratic Judicial Convention to nominate me for judge of this circuit, I will use every honorable means to secure my election.

I solicit your interest in my candidacy.

J. S. McWHORTER.

Valuable Realestate for Sale

We have a number of nice farms in Randolph and adjoining counties. Some of them near the city of Elkins. If you want to purchase a nice farm close Elkins, write us about what you want, we have it.

ELKINS REALESTATE COMPANY
J. W. Trembly, Manager
Davis Trust Co. Bldg. ELKINS, W. VA.

LIBERTY BONDS EXCHANGED

We have exchanged, without charge, for our customers, incomplete coupon bonds, when the coupons have all become due, for completed bonds.

We also give prompt attention to the assignment and transfer of Registered Liberty and Victory Bonds.

The First National Bank
Marlinton, W. Va.
Under U. S. Government Supervision.

LABOR WANTED

FOR ROAD GRADING WORK

Rate 35c to 45c per hour

10 Hours

Duncan Construction Co.

SEE MR. McCUSKER, Supt.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, Editor.

THURSDAY, MAY 20, 1920

The week in politics brought forth some indications that the politicians hold to their original intention of having a general election in November though they are still about how much they are going to let the people share in that event.

David Lawrence, a syndicate writer, comes out with a prediction that McAdoo will be nominated by the Democrats, Lowden by the Republicans, and Johnson will be nominated by the Independents, and that will make a free for all three cornered fight. He may be right about it, but we do not see any very strong signs of a third party. The 1912 fiasco is too recent in the political mind to encourage the insurgents. The election machinery does not lend itself to the formation of third parties.

Hoover is conducting a quiet dignified campaign and his vote rolls up in the Literary Digest poll amazing. Perhaps it would be truer to say that Hoover's friends are keeping his name before the public, and Hoover can carry a University any old day. Find a place where really smart people congregate—scholars, thinkers, and the like, and no one else has a look in. Respectability for the respectable. But as a former West Virginia statesman said about the Democratic party in its evil days: There are not enough people in the Hoover party. By the way, the Hoover campaign in West Virginia has headquarters in Marlinton, with W. A. Bratton in charge. Mr. Bratton worked under Hoover during the war and has had a good chance to judge of his executive ability.

The cruelest thing that has been said about Hoover was that he would make a good independent candidate but that when he came out and asked for the Republican nomination, his record as a Republican was found not to be good. As one woman remarked, he voted the Democratic ticket without blushing. It does look like a good deal of cheek was required to ask for the Republican nomination under the circumstances. We are afraid that Hoover sold his birthright for a mess of pottage. Hoover should have known that he was being jockeyed into an impossible position. But you have to admit that politicians are good at getting an undesired candidate to commit political suicide. If Hoover had pursued a course of masterly inactivity he would be the commanding feature in politics today, and the man is wonderful, and may possibly come back, but we doubt it.

The Socialists had a convention and nominated Debs for President. Debs is serving a term in the pen, is a martyr, and is a bright and shining light. Should it hereinafter appear when the lists are closed, that Woods has failed of his nomination, Debs having secured his own, it will be another case of the pen being mightier than the sword in politics.

The first time that we have a clear recollection of Debs was in 1894. We were fishing for trout at a hole shaded by a rack heap at the Forks of Cranberry, in the most perfect wilderness we ever saw, and we were ten miles or more from a human habitation. Way up the river we saw a man coming on a mule He brought important mail for the Marshall for the District of West Virginia who was at the camp. He carried writs directed against one Eugene Debs, who was stirring up trouble in the Fairmont region. It seems to us that ever since that time this Debs has been trying to make Uncle Sam mad. We have no use for the Socialist platform, but with all that we can stand their principles better than their personnel

And talking of the collective characteristics of groups, Georgia has an interesting combat over the delegation to Chicago, there being two contending sets of delegates, one headed by an eminent colored man, and the other by a white millionaire. The one insists that there should be but one Republican band wagon in the State of Geergia, and the other that there should be a band wagon and a Jim Crow band wagon trailing along behind.

Somebody seems to have passed the word along that McAdoo was the one best bet for the neophytes of the San Francisco mission to unite upon under the instruction of the fathers. Father Bryan is to appear with a scourge in his hands, but it is thought that if they can not pacify the great precisionist, that they will be able to throw and hog-tie him. Bless his old soul of blundering probity! We wish we had a million like him. It will be a day full of sorrow for the Democratic party when Father Bryan is no more. He keeps us pure. He is a necessory disinfectant.

They say that Gen. Wood is not to be nominated at Chicago, but it would be just as well not to bet that he will not be, for the money that has been spent on the legitimate costs of his campaign is probably the most imposing sum ever flung to the winds by calculating business men. For instance it costs $75,000 to send a letter to each voter in the State of Illinois, and that is just a drop in the bucket.

Gen. Wood is to be in this State this week, but we say Sutherland ought to carry West Virginia. Hear ye the word of the prophet: Thou shalt not in any wise rebuke thy neighbor.

There was a third man out for President on the Republican ticket in West Virginia, Adam Baird. We were just like you, and thought he was presidential timber. But they rounded him up and put him in the bug-house and sent word not to vote for him as he was non compos mentis, and not near all there. Whereupon comes the Doddridge County editor and says that the nut vote is so large that they are entitled to a candidate.

One day we went around accosting the forecasters to see who would get the Republican nomination for Governor, and we came back more confused than when we went forth, for the nomination of Morgan, Grosscup, and Montgomery, were respectively predicted, and each of the forecasters gave reasons.

On the Democratic side we have a hunch of our own and that is that Koontz will be the nominee and that the party will live to be glad of it.

And brethren, one word in conclusion: Vote for Henry Gilmer for delegate to San Francisco. He is the type exactly of the kind of men to send there.

In 1755, civilization in Virginia, was one hundred and forty nine years old. It was a powerful and thriving empire. It looked back to the days of the first settlers as a more remote time than we today look back to the days of the Revolutionary war which to all intents and purposes is as far back as the beginning of the Christian era. It was at this time that the expanding population began to break across the crest of the Alleghany in the inception of the movement that is called the winning of the west.

At the same time, the Iroquois held the mountains and had lived at peace with the white people for many generations. The Iroquois were our allies at that time in the war of France and England which had involved this country. The French lined up the western Indians and had established a fort at Pittsburgh. The settlers in the mountains had suffered from the raids of the Indians. The first overt act by the French and Indians was in 1753 when they drove out the Virginians and erected Fort Duquesne at Pittsburgh. In 1754, an expedition against the fort failed. Dinwiddie was governor. He wanted to prosecute the war. The House of Burgesses opposed him. He flew into a rage and dismissed the assembly. The assembly met in the winter of 1754 again and then they compromised with the fighting governor by voting twenty thousand pounds to drive the French and Indians away from the forks of the Ohio, which was then Virginia soil.

Early in 1755, Gen. Braddock arrived from England with two regiments to force back the French to Canada. He had about 2000 men. He was joined by 1000 Virginians. The army got to Cumberland and there hung up. There was so much baggage that they had to have horses and wagons te transport it. They were on the point of abandoning the enterprise when Benjamin Franklin, the postmaster general of the colonies, came in person and took charge of the supply department, and so they were able to cross the mountains and proceed on their way. Among other things to help he secured from the Colony of Pennsylvania a force of three hundred men to make wagon roads. These men came into the wilderness unarmed.

From the 8th day of June to the 9th day of July, the army composed of 1200 British regulars, and some Virginia troops had marched towards Pittsburgh, and came to a point ten miles this side of Pittsburgh. The army had just crossed the Monongahela River when they marched into an ambush. They left nearly eight hundred men dead on the field. Not a prisoner falling into the hands of the enemy was allowed to live. The dead lay upon the battlefield for three years unburied, and these two facts show that what happened on the side of the enemy was a mystery.

In 1758, another army was defeated by the French and Indians at the Fort. In November of the same year Gen. Forbes got as far as Loyal Hanna, fifty miles from the fort and holding a council of war decided to retreat. A scouting party took three French prisoners. They reported the garrison in the fort to be weak, and the Virginia army reversed its decision and marched into the fort on the the 25th day of November, 1758, the French having left it the day before in boats down the Ohio River. The fort was garrisoned and renamed Fort Pitt, and held to the end of the war, which was terminated fn 1762 by the treaty in Europe.

Braddock was defeated because of his poor judgment. He considered that his army was invincible. The Iroquois Indians came to him with offers of assistance. Washington urged that they be used as scouts but Braddock was suspicious of them and drove them away from his encampment. On the evening before the battle a company of Indians came to the camp and offered their services and were driven away. Had they been allowed to go ahead of the troops marching as though in dress parade, Braddock's army would have been safe.

What we have been leading up to is that we have recently secured the book written by James Smith, afterwards a colonel in the Revolutionary War, who was captured by the Indians as he was coming as one of the road cutters to join Braddock, and who was in Fort Duquesne on the day that the battle was fought. It is of the greatest interest for the reason that with all our digging we have never been able to get any evidence of a specific nature of what took place when the army of Braddock was destroyed on the side of the enemy

Smith was a boy of eighteen. He was with the 300 road cutters sent by Pennsylvania and the body of men marching to the three forks of the Yohogania River, a point north of Morgantown, had come to the foot of Alleghany Mountain. The wagons carrying the provisions were slow in coming up and James Smith and Arnold Vigoras were sent back on horses to see what was the matter with the wagons. They rode back and found that the wagons were coming on with all deliberate speed and they turned their horses to rejoin the marching men to report. Three Indians had made a blind by the side of the road by sticking bushes into the ground as though they grew there naturally. As the two men came by they fired on them, killing Vigoras. Smith was not touched, but his horse jumped and threw him, and he was captured by the Indians. Vigoras was scalped and the Indians made a speedy march towards Fort Dequesne. The first night they slept without any fire on top of Alleghany Mountain. The next night they came to a camp of Indians where Ligonier now stands. Two more days took them into Fort Duquesne. There he found some French soldiers in a fort and a few hundred Indians camped outside of the walls. He was made to run the gantlet and was beaten until he became insensible. The French soldiers took him to the fort and had a doctor to attend him, and from that time until after the battle he lived in the fort. But the Indians demanded him when they left and he was adopted as a member of the tribe, and lived with the Indians for four years. He afterwards came home and became a prominent man, an officer in the army, and an Indian fighter.

From his capture in May until the battle of July 9th, his sole hope of escape was the approach of Braddock's army. And he naturally paid the closest attention to all news of it. There was one Indian, a Delaware, who could talk English, and he told the boy of the progress that the army was making. That Braddock's army was advancing in very close order and that the Indians would surround them, take trees, and shoot um down all one pigeon. The Delaware said that Indians spies watched them every day and brought reports.

On the morning of July 9, 1755, Smith says that he was waked by sounds of great activity about the fort and that he went and stood on the wall and saw the Indians in a huddle before the door, and that there were open barrels of powder, bullets, flints, and so forth, and that each Indian was taking what he wanted. He saw them march off in rank entire and said that the force was composed of Indians, French Canadians, and French regulars, and that he computed the number to be about four hundred, and that he was sure that Braddock would send them flying before him.

In the afternoon a runner appeared at the fort and reported that Braddock would certainly be defeated. That the Indians and French were behind trees and in gullies and kept up a constant fire and that the English were falling in heaps, and that if they did not retreat across the river which was the only gap that not a man would escape. Soon after this the Indians and French began to come in and it seemed to him that every one of them was carrying scalps. There was much yelling and firing and it appeared to him as if the infernal regions had broken loose.

About sun down a party of Indians came in with about a dozen prisoners. The prisoners were stripped naked, their hands tied behind their backs, with faces and bodies blacked. These prisoners they burned to death on the bank of the Alleghany River opposite the fort. Smith says that he stood on the wall of the fort until he beheld them begin to burn one of these men. They had him tied to a stake, and kept touching him with fire brands, red hot irons and so forth, "he screeming in a most doleful manner" The scence appeared too shocking for Smith who expected to be put to death as he had seen no other prisoner spared, and he retired to his lodging sore and sorry.

Smith says that he had information of the losses and that there were but seven Indians and four French killed in the battle.

The next day Braddock's artillery was brought to the fort, and other plunder. He saw Indians with full dress British uniforms, with sash and half moon, laced hats.

A few days afterwards the Indians disbanded and went home taking Smith with them. After they had put him through the ceremony including immersion in the river, they made him a member of the Caughnewaga tribe to take the place of a chief who had been killed in war.

Smith says that immediately after that a large number of raids were made to the Blue Ridge. That the Indians determined to drive the English into the great lake as they called the ocean. That while it had always been the opinion of the Indian chiefs that they could hold the mountains forever, after the battle with Braddock, it became the general impression that the white people could all be over come and conquered.

FAC-SIMILE BALLOT OF The Democratic Party

Primary Election May 25, 1920

To vote for a candidate make an X in the square opposite to and to the left of his name.

National

For President
[Vote for one]

☐ Residence

For Congress Sixth District
[Vote for one]

☐ WILLIAM EDWIN WILSON
Residence, Charleston, W. Va.

For Delegate at Large to National Convention
(Vote for Four)

☐ T. E. GRAHAM
Residence, Parkersburg, W. Va.

☐ JEFF NEWBERRY
Residence, Huntington, W. Va.

☐ CHARLES W. OSENTON
Residence, Fayetteville, W. Va.

☐ MILLARD F. SNYDER
Residence, Clarksburg, W. Va.

☐ LAURENCE E. TIERNEY
Residence, Powhatan, W. Va.

☐ STUART W. WALKER
Residence, Martinsburg, W. Va.

For Alternate Delegates at Large to National Convention
(Vote for four)

☐ J. M. HARPER
Residence, Spencer, W. Va.

☐ DAVID BLAINE SHAW
Residence, Charleston, W. Va.

☐ WILLIAM H. THOMAS
Residence, Bluefield, W. Va.

For Delegates to National Convention Sixth District
(Vote for two)

☐ HENRY GILMER
Residence, Lewisburg, W. Va.

☐ W. A. MACCORKLE
Residence, Charleston, W. Va.

☐ W. H. McGINNIS
Residence, Beckley, W. Va.

For Alternate Delegates to National Convention Sixth District
(Vote for two)

☐

☐

State

For Governor
(Vote for one)

☐ ARTHUR B. KOONTZ
Residence, Charleston, W. Va.

☐ ADAM B. LITTLEPAGE
Residence, Charleston, W. Va.

For Secretary of State
(Vote for one)

☐ JAMES H. MILLER
Residence, Hinton, W. Va.

For State Superintendent of Free Schools
(Vote for one)

☐ W. W. TRENT
Residence, Elkins, W. Va.

For Treasurer
(Vote for one)

☐ A. C. HEROLD
Residence, Sutton, W. Va.

For Auditor
[Vote for one]

☐ P. J. NEWLON
Residence, Charleston, W. Va.

For Attorney General
(Vote for one)

☐ EDWARD A. BRANNON
Residence, Weston, W. Va.

For Commissioner of Agriculture
(Vote for one)

☐ SAMPSON N. MILLER
Residence, Webster Springs, W. Va.

For State Senate Tenth Senatorial District

☐ J. N. SHACKELFORD
Residence, Glenville, W. Va.

☐ FRED L. FOX
Residence, Sutton, W. Va.

For Member State Executive Committee Tenth Senatorial District
[Vote for two]

☐ R. L. HAMILTON
Residence, Grantsville, W. Va.

☐ JOHN NEWLON
Residence, Sutton, W. Va.

Pocahontas County

For Sheriff
[Vote for one]

☐ B. B. BEARD
Residence, Bartow, W. Va.

For Prosecuting Attorney
[Vote for one]

☐ ALLAN P. EDGAR
Residence, Marlinton, W. Va.

For County Commissioner
(Vote for one)

☐ N. R. PRICE
Residence, Marlinton, W. Va.

For Assessor
[Vote for one]

☐ J. H. LIGHTNER
Residence, Dunmore, W. Va.

☐ J. A. CLEEK
Residence, Huntersville, W. Va.

For Clerk County Court
[Vote for one]

☐ S. L. BROWN
Residence, Marlinton, W. Va.

For Clerk Circuit Court
[Vote for one]

☐ T. S. McNEEL
Residence, Hillsboro, W. Va.

For County Surveyor
[Vote for one]

☐

For House of Delegates
[Vote for one]

☐ E. N. MOORE
Residence, Dunmore, W. Va.

For Member Congressional Committee
[Vote for one]

☐ J. W. YEAGER
Residence, Marlinton, W. Va.

For Member Senatorial Committee Tenth District
[vote for one]

☐

Little Levels District

For Justice of the Peace
[vote for two]

☐ F. T. LARUE
Residence, Hillsboro, W. Va

☐

For Constable
(vote for two)

☐

☐

For Member Board of Education
vote for one

☐ H. W. McNEEL
Residence, Hillsboro, W. Va.

For Member County Executive Committee
[vote for two]

☐ A. C. STILLWELL
Residence, Hillsboro, W. Va.

☐ SAMUEL SHEETS
Residence, Hillsboro, W. Va.

STATE OF WEST VIRGINIA
POCAHONTAS COUNTY, to wit:

I, G. W. Sharp, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true fac-simile ballot to be used by the Democratic Party in the Primary Election to be held on the 25th, day of May, 1920, and that the same contains all the names of candidates for said party as the same have been filed with or certified to me.

Given under my hand this the 1st, day of May, 1920

G. W. SHARP, Clerk.

Commissioner's Sale

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered on the 6th day of April, 1920, in the chancery cause therein pending of F. S. Wise vs Abel Hedrick and Reuben Thomas, the undersigned special commissioners at the front door of the court-house of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, in the town of Marlinton, at 1 o'clock p. m., will proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder two tracts of land in Greenbank District, Pocahontas county, West Virginia, on Little River, east of Thornwood, containing 126 and 69 acres respectively, known as the McGraw and Wilfong tracts, being the same land conveyed by F. S. Wise to Abel Hedrick and Reuben Thomas by deed dated February 23, 1916, of record in the office cf the clerk of the county court of said county in deed book 53 at page 103 to which reference is made for a more particular description.

On Tuesday, June 1, 1920

Terms of Sale: One third cash in hand, the residue in two equal installments with interest due in six and twelve months from the day of sale respectively, the purchaser executing notes with good security, the title to be retained as untimate security.

P. T. WARD,
ANDREW PRICE,
Special Commissioners.

I, G. W. Sharp, Clerk of the circuit court of said chunty do certify that the above named special commissioners have executed bond as required by said decree.

G. W. SHARP, Clerk.

W. A. BARLOW
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Onoto, W. Va.
Phone or write, prompt attention to all calls.

Cass Garage

ROY W. MOORE, Prop.

Vulcanizing Storage and General Repairing, Barny Oldfield and Carspring Tires and Tubes, Auto Accessories and Batteries Recharged.

Cheviolet Service
CASS, W. VA.

The Albert Curry News Stand

NEWSPAPERS, PERIODECALS AND NOVELTIES
TOBACCOS, CANDIES, ETC.

Get your papers and magazines from or through our agency.

ALBERT CURRY, Prop.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Economy Silos

SILOS:—I have the agency for Pocahontas and the upper end of Randolph county for the Economy Silo, and would be glad to furnish you one for this season for I know you need one. Write or phone C. C. Beal at Linwood, W. Va. and let your wants be known, and I will call and see you.

Notice

To whom it may concern:

Notice is hereby given that I, Ella Walton, guardian of Ruby Francis Walton and Lottie Howard Walton, residents of the County of Culpepper, and State of Virginia, where the said Ella Walton was duly appointed as guardian of said Ruby Francis Walton and Lottie Howard Walton, will make application to the circuit court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, on the 1st day of June. 1920 for the entry of an order authorizing me as guardian aforesaid, to transfer from the State of West Virginia, to the said state of Virginia, the proceeds of the sale of certain real estate formerly belonging to said Ruby Francis Walton, and Lottie Howard Walton, and located in the Town of Marlinton, in said State of West Virginia, now in the hands of T. D. Moore, General Receiver of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County.

ELLA WALTON, Guardian of Ruby Francis Walton and Lottie Howard Walton, for the County of Culpepper and State of Virginia.
P. T. Ward, Solicitor.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specially of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

A FULL LINE
of International Harvesting Company's Machinery and Parts
at T. H. HINER'S warehouse in Marlinton
INTERNATIONAL SUPPLY COMPANY
Marlinton, West Virginia

Farm for Sale

163 acres, more or less, situated on Back Mountaim 1 1-2 mile from Cass on road to Durbin. All cleared except about 25 acres in timber. This is blue grass land, well watered. Good house, good orchard and outbuildings.

George Shinaberry.
Cass, W. Va.

Used Car for Sale

We have for sale one used Ford car, 5 passenger, in good running condition. Apply at once to Hiner & Gum, Marlinton, W. Va.

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

Marlinton, W. Va.

To the Farmers

Of Pocahontas County: Why pay $30.00 for 16 per cent phosphate in 100 lb bags when you can get Alexandreans & Griffith & Boyds Goods, guaranteed to be no better made at $29.00 in 125 lb bags at GAY & CARTER'S, Marlinton, W. Va.

Notice

If you have old bee combs or wax bring me or send by mail, get cash and postage.

L. O. SIMMONS,
Marlinton, W. Va.

The Greenbrier Studio

MARLINTON, W. VA.

The Greenbrier Studio has been moved to the old Grover Stand next door to Collins Jewelry store. Will be pleased to have you call there for anything photographic, also framing, enlarging and kodak finishing.

Respectfully,
HARRY STALEY.
Box 65, Marlinton, W. Va.

Rat - Snap
KILLS RATS

Also mice. Absolutely prevenet odors from carcass. One package proves this RAT-SNAP comesn cakes—no mixing with other foods Guaranteed.

25c. size (1 cake) enough for Pantry Kitchen or Cellar.

50c size (2 cakes) for chicken house, coops, or small bnildings.

$1.00 size (5 cakes) enough for all farm and out-buildings, storage buildings, or factory buildings.

Sold and guaranteed by
PEOPLES STORE& SUPPLY CO.

Play Safe

by using the true, tried, teste Camphor-Turpentine Mixture known as

DETHOLENS

(Death to Croup)

for Croup, Colds and Pneumonia. It's a liquid and aosorbs like magic. For sale at all druggists.

Distributed by
VALLEY CHEMICAL CO.
Elkins, W. Va.

Browning's Delicious Coffee

COSTS NO MORE, BETTER THAN EVER

ASK YOUR NEIGHBOR

Packed by Browning & Baines, Importers, New York and Washington since 1940.

T. S. McNEEL
Hillsboro - - - - - W. V.

Men Wanted

We are preparing to open our Cloverlick operation, and will need a lot of good men right away in the bark woods.

A. D. Neil, Son & Company,
J. O. Carey, Woods Supt.
Cloverlick, W. Va.

For Sale

A limited number of pure bred Hampshire sheep of both sexes for breeding purposes. For further information call at the farm or write Monroe Beard, Arbovale, W. Va. Shipping point, Cass, W. Va.

WANTED:—Hemlock bark peelers either by day or contract; highest prices paid, good timber, good camps, and good climate. Season opens April 15th. Parsons Pulp & Lumber Company, Ravensford, Swain County, N. C.

H. G. Lucas, General, Supt.
Clinton Decker, Logging Supt.

the phone and I will come and see you. W. R. Sutton will work the upper end of county. He will be glad to be at your service.

I also sell a full line of Emerson-Brantingham Farm Machinery. Let your wants be known. Discount to early Silos buyers.

CHAS. SHINABERRY
Cloverlick, W. Va.

Notice to Bridge Contracors

Sealed bids will be received by the undersigned at his office in the Court House of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, until noon on 28th day of June, 1920, for the erection of two reinforced concrete bridges across Locust Creek, in the Levels District of said county, above Beard's Mill where the county road crosses said creek. Said bridges to be about 50 feet long with a fourteen foot road way. Each bidder to furnish his or their own plans and specifications. A certified check of $500 dollars to accompany each bid, as an earnest of complying with contract. Court reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the County Court.
S. L. BROWN, Clerk.

Threshing Outfit For Sale

I desire to sell my half interest in a modern threshing outfit, consisting of a Red River Special separator run two seasons and a 10-20 Titan Tractor run one season. This outfit has done a profitable business, but other things demand my time.

O. W. JACKSON.
4ks Marlinton, W. Va.

For Sale

Good nine room house, large lot, garden and necessary outbuildings, at Minnehaha Springs. If not sold at once will rent for the season.

M. F. HEROLD,
Minnehaha Springs, W. Va.

Dodge Car for Sale

Five passenger, good as new, bumper chains and license. Apply at once to Wise Herold, Marlinton, W. Va.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all parties holding claims against the estate of J. D. Barlow, deceased, to present the same proven according to law to the undersigned administrator at his office at Onoto, W. Va. All parties owing said estate will prepare to settle at once.

This 13th day of May, 1920.

GEO. A. C. AULDRIDGE,
Administrator Estate of J. D. Barlow, deceased.

DELCO-LIGHT

The complete Electric Light and Power Plant

The Delco-Light storage battery is dependable, durable and efficient.

DELCO LIGHT PRODUCTS
Marlinton, W. Va.

NO MORE RATS

or mice, after you use RAT-SNAP. It's a sure rodent killer. Try a package and prove it. Rats killed with RAT-SNAP leave no smell. Cats or dogs won't touch it. Guaranteed.

25c. size (1 cake) enough for Pantry Kitchen, or cellar.

50c. size (2 cakes) for chicken house, coops or small buildings.

$1.00 size (5 cakes) enough for all farm and out-buildings, storage buildings or factory buildings.

Sold and guaranteed by
PEOPLES STORE & SUPPLY CO.

WOMAN VOTERS

Editor Times: Please print the following from the Pennsylvania Grit. It may be that Brother Blake may read it, and be enlightened thereby.

J. M. Chappell,
Renicks Valley.

By Lewis E. Theiss

To vote or not to vote is no longer the question among the women of the country. Now that the suffrage amendment has passed Congress and has already been ratified by almost the necessary number of states, the matter is settled. It is now purely a question of time until all our women are entitled to vote. The question that interests Americans, then, is no longer whether the women shall vote or shall not vote, but how they will vote.

Fortunately the question is more easily answered than might at first be supposed; for in the Far West women have been voting for many years. What they have done there furnishes a fair editerion of what they may be expected to do generally. And this is true because in both East and West the women have gone through the same sort of preliminary training. Just as our national army, trained in many different cantonments in as many different parts of the country became, through similar drill, one great fighting unit, so the women, similarly drilled in their various local campaigns for the ballot, may assuredly be expected to form one vast army of voters. The best exposition of how the women will vote, then, will be found in an examination of what the eternal feminine has done with the ballot in the past.

Opponents of equal suffrage have solemnly assured us that to allow women to vote meant the ruin of the home, the cegradation of women, etc. If we glance at an election day in the Far West, we shall whether or not this charge is true. For instance take San Francisco, which is rated as being as care-free, irreligious, and unmoral as any of our cosmopolitan centers of population. What happened there on the first day when California women cast their first ballot—on the day of President Wilson's first candidacy for the presidency? As an eye witness of those occurrences, I write from actual observation, not from hearsay.

On that first election day for California women, the streets of that roaring city of San Francisco lay dumb. The stores were closed. Even the saloons, which ordinarily were open 365 days in a year, were shut tight. A Thanksgiving day in New England could not have been more solemn and still. At polling place after polling place one found not the slightest semblance of disorder or anything distasteful. There was nothing rude or boisterous, or discourteous on the part of men toward the women voters, and nothing on the part of these voters that was unladylike or militant.

There were 600 polling places within the city. In these polling places 1,200 women were on duty as election clerks. The result was astonishing. No filthy cuspidors were in evidence, no stifling stale tobacco smoke clouded the places, no intoxicated men made themselves offensive. But there was decency and cleanliness—the same decency and cleanliness that women instill into everything they touch. In short, the polling places, so long offensive to the clean-minded, had suddenly become as decent and proper as a court room or a post office or any other place where important public business is transacted.

To these voting booths men or women, and not infrequently men and women, were going in much the same manner as here in the East, they go separately or together to the grocery store or the church. Everywhere one saw women with baby coaches, giving the babies fresh air while the mothers went to vote. Not infrequently one saw husband and wife with a baby coach strolling toward a polling place. And many were the perambulators standing in front of the voting booths, while the mothers were inside the booths voting to protect the occupants of these perambulators.

For in this election, as in every election, there were things before the voters that touched the welfare of every household. In this case the matter that most deeply agitated the women was a trick bill to license race track gambling. This bill was a mass of intricate verbiage, so worded as apparently to forbid gambling, but in reality it was meant to legalize it. Well did the women know what legalized gambling meant to their homes and their children. When they were instructed, through the medium of the women's political organizations, as to the real nature of the bill, they registered in droves and voted as a unit against the measure. They did more. They worked against it. And by their work and their vote they disproved the assertion that giving the women the ballot mecns simply to double the vote. There was no division of the women on the gambling bill.

The war has given us a new standard of public service by women. We have become accustomed to Red Cross drives, Liberty bond campaigns soldier welfare efforts, and similar movements in which the women took a part equal with the men and in some cases an even more important part. That was one of the blessings of the war. It put men and women exactly where they belong—shoulder to shoulder in the movement for the common good. That is where the women voters intend to stand in the political efforts of the future. They intend to bear their share of the burden. San Francisco women showed this on the first election day.

It was the same way in Washington state when the women regained the ballot. I say regained because years ago they had the right of suffrage. By Court decisions that was taken away from them. But in 1910 through the wonderful leadership of Mrs. Emma Smith De Voe, the women of Washington regained, and for all time, the right to vote. The very first thing they did with their ballots was to clean house.

Seattle, the leading city in the state, was at that time a stench in the nostrils of decency. Corrupt city officials had actually leased a city street to a vice syndicate for the erection of an enormous house for immoral purposes. The first thing the women did was to clean up the city.

Four years previously, largely through the efforts of Miss Adella Parker, a teacher of civics in a Seattle high school, a recall law had been placed upon the municipal statute books. Now this was called into use. A recall petition was started. To secure a recall election, it was necessary that one-fourth of the city's voters sign the petition. To secure these signatures was no simple task. The vice ring was firmly in the saddle Should an election be held and the recall effort fail, the city officials would have it in their power to make it unpleasant for those who had signed the recall petition. A month passed and relatively few signatures were secured. Then the women appointed 400 canvassers. Ward captains directed the work. Placards were hung in stores, offices and homes urging passersby to sign the recall petition. Next the labor unions, the Y. M. C. A., and some of the churches enlisted in the movement. In spite of all this organized effort, signatures came slowly. It required more two and and a half months of strenuous work to secure the necessary signatures. Only the devotion of the women made this possible. Then the petition was duly filed, and the special election took place 50 days afterward.

The campaign that the women carried on in these seven weeks fairly stunned the old line politicians. Of the 23,000 women who registered 22,000 voted. Only 45,000 of 49,000 men cast their ballots. Most interesting, was the fact that 80 per cent. of the woman vote was cast by married women. They were out to protect their sons and daughters from the awful evil that had smitten the city. And they did it. Mayor Gill, who had been elected by 4,000 votes, was recalled by a majority of 6,000 votes. When Gill was elected, his opponent received 14,000 votes. In the recall election Gill's opponent received 36,000 votes—an increase in the anti-Gill vote of 22,000 votes, which was almost exactly the number of votes cast by the women. Gill and his associates were swept out of power, a new council was seated, and the city was redeemed.

Across the border, in Idaho, the woman voters have played a big part in the constructive work of the state. Their first united political effort was to secure public libraries. At that time the state of Idaho, which is larger than all of New England and half as large again as New York, had fewer than 162,000 people. Cities were few in number and small in size. The population was scattered over this vast area in small groups and tiny communities. There was desperate need of books, but there was not a free library in the state. The call for money for the necessary development work, such as the making of roads, bridges, public buildings, etc., was tremendously heavy. There was none to be had from the state legislature for such things as books, necessary though they were.

The women realized this, and out of that realization was born their "demonstration method" of political procedure. They set about providing the books themselves. By personal contributions and through gifts secured, they soon had 500 books and the necessary traveling cases for them. At their own expense the women for two years sent these books into every nook and corner of the state, into isolated farming communities and rugged mining camps. Then they appealed to the state legislature to create a state library commission and a free traveling library, and to pass a law enabling towns and cities to levy taxes for library purposes. So great was the demand for books, created by the two year campaign of the women through their traveling library, that the bill speedily became a law.

Today practically every community in the state with 1,000 population or more has its own reading room, where the cases for the traveling library are housed and where the community keeps its own books. Now the state appropriates thousands of dollars each year for new books, with additional sums for expenses.

Having made it possible to get books to read, the women were desirous that every child in the state should be able to read them. They securred the passage of a compulsory education law. By their demonstration method the women of Idado have secured mothers' pensions, probation officers in the juvenile courts, splendid homes for the state Home Finding society, and many other things helpful for Idaho.

One of these laws was a measure to protect the children from exploitation in factories. Only a woman's wit made this possible. In Idaho the Mormans held the balance of power and they did not believe in prohibiting child labor. Mrs. Eva Hunt Dockery, who, as a member of the staff of the Idaho Daily Statesman, has been very influential in all movements for betterment, went to the Morman leader who was blocking the bill.

"We are going to print a rogues' gallery," she said, "and publish the names of all the men who oppose this bill."

"You women beat the deuce," was the Morman's reply.

Later in the session he sent for Mrs. Dockery. "Are you in earnest about that rogues' gallery?" he asked.

"Certainly," said Mrs. Dockery. "The women voters of Idaho are very much interested in this bill. They are entitled to know who votes against it."

"I don't want to be in it," said the legislator, "yet I don't like your bill. I think children ought to work. Can't you leave me out?"

"I am sorry," said Mrs. Dockery, but the list must be complete."

"Will you let me out if I vote for your property rights law?',

"No. We think the child labor law is more important."

Next day this man lined up his nine votes for the child labor law and carried the bill.

"It's no use," was his comment. "You can't beat these women."

Once they are aroused, you cannot. And the reason is that the women voters believe the home extends beyond four walls, and that whatever affects the community or the commonwealth affects the home. In affairs that affect the home women rightly feel that they should have a voice equal with their husbands'. Perhaps the position of the women who vote and will vote cannot better be expressed than it was by Miss Margaret Roberts, The Idaho state librarian.

In Idaho we women don't want to take the places of men. They are busy developing the country. We want to see that the homes and the children are properly cared for. To do that we need the ballot. Nothing puts the fear of God into the hearts of men like the ballot in the hands of good women."

ARE WE OVERWORKED OR WHAT?

Benjamin Franklin, a century ago, believed what we now know to be true, "that people who live in the forest, in open barns, or with open windows, do not catch cold, and that the disease called 'a cold' is generally caused by impure air, lack of exercise or overeating."

Most people who are "overworked" are more properly speaking, simply the victims of bad air, bad diet, poisons, or worry. They believe that because they are tired, it is overwork that is hurting them.

Physicians of wide experience have men and women coming to them every day broken down in health, telling them that they have overworked; and yet on questioning them it is found that none of them work as hard as the physician whose aid they seek. Their breakdown is due to the terrible load of unphysiological habits which they are carrying—a load so great that scarcely any work can be carried in addition.

There may be unhygienic conditions equally responsible for these symptoms and the correction of which may produce wonderful improvement. Vertigo may be due to eye strain. Diabetes may be aggravated by too much sugar. Rheumatism may be caused by infected teeth and tuberculosis by indoor living, bad diet, lack of exercise or wrong posture; but the social evil must be fought not only by direct attack on prostitution, but by appeals to self control and moral ideals, and by repressing such habits as produce abnormal desires and reduce the will power.—U. S. Public Health Service.

W. A. BARLOW
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Onoto, W. Va.
Phone or write, prompt attention to all calls.

With acknowledgments to K. C. B.

Philip Stanhope—you know him by another name

HE LIVED in England.
AND HIS name was.
PHILIP DORMER Stanhope.
AND IN his time.
TWO CENTURIES ago.
THEY LOOKED to him.
FOR THE last word.
ON ETIQUETTE.
AND STYLE and dress.
WE KNOW him best.
THROUGH FAMOUS letters.
WRITTEN TO his son.
AND FILLED with sound advice,
ADVICE WHICH all of us.
SHOULD READ and heed.
LORD CHESTERFIELD.
THEY CALLED him.
AND THIS name.
HAS COME to stand.
WITH EVERYONE.
FOR QUALITY and breeding,
AND GOOD taste.
AND CHESTERFIELDS.
THE CIGARETTES.
NAMED NOT for him.
BUT FOR the things.
HE MEANS to us.
ARE WHOLLY worthy,
OF THEIR name.
ON EVERY count.
THEY SATISFY.

CHESTERFIELD stands for tobaccos well-born and well-bred, for care and skill in their selection and blending, for those things that, in a cigarette, are marks of quality and good taste. And never was any cigarette better named.

They Satisfy Chesterfield
CIGARETTES
Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co.

Ward Realty Company
Marlinton, W. Va.

This is a partial list of the many valuable farms and cut over land we have for sale.

100 acres cut over land, 18 acres in cultivation, 6 room dwelling, barn, fertile soil, one mile from railroad station. Price $1500.00 on easy terms.

One acre, good 8 room dwelling, water in house, good barn. 152 acre cut over land, about one-third mile from acre tract, close to school, church and depot. Price $2800.00.

53 acres, under good cultivation, good barn, new silo, four room dwelling, good orchard, convenient to school and church, price $4200.00.

2046 acres, rich land, 100 acres in sod, remainder in timber of young growth, price $12.50 per acre, on easy terms.

House and two lots in Campbelltown, price $575.00.

229 acres, limestone, bluegrass farm, large cattle barn, new silo, good young orchard, good dwelling, price $10,000.00 easy terms.

233 acres, rich land 120 acres improved, good building, convenient to school and church, price $6,850.00.

210 acres, rich land, 30 acres river bottom, good water, 50 acres improved, good dwelling and barn, about one mile to railroad station, price $3800.00.

130 acres, near railroad station, good buildings young orchard, price $5,000.00.

"Temporary Court House" in Town of Marlinton, price $5,000.00.

Lot 6 & 7 in Block 23, Town of Marlinton, large dwelling, price $2300.00.

75 acres, rich land 50 acres improved, good buildings, two orchards, close to school, price $2,850.00

100 acres cut over land, near railroad station, price $3.00 per acre.

200 acres, limestone, bluegrass land Price $9,000.00.

272 acres, 100 acres in grass, 5 room dwelling, good limestone grazing land price $8,000.00.

544 acres, rich land, containing about 1,500,000, feet of hard wood, about 3 miles from depot, would make splendid grazing land, price $8.00 per acre.

Good house and lot in Marlinton, price $7,500.00.

91 acres of grazing land, good orchard, two barns, dwelling, good water, price $4,200.00.

101 acres, rich soil, 50 acres improved, two orchards, about 200,000 feet of good white oak, price $4,200.00.

377 acres, grazing land, price $5,000.00.

159 acres, fertile soil, 100 acres of river bottom, good buildings, price $5,250.00.

If you want to sell your land, timber, or minerals list them with us.

WARD REALTY CO.
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Trustees's Sale
Of valuable Town Property

By virtue of a deed of trust dated on the 9th day of March, 1917, made by Harriet E. Yeager, and B. M. Yeager, her husband, to me, as trustee, and of record in the office of the clerk of the county court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, in Trust Deed Book No. 10, at page 187, I will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, on Saturday the 29th day of May, 1920

commencing at One o'clock, p. m. at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas county West Virginia, the following lots and parcels of land, situated in the town of Marlinton, Pocahontas county West Virginia.

First: A certain lot conveyed by the Pocahontas Development Company to Harriet E. Yeager, by deed dated the 23rd day of February, 1904, and recorded in the clerk's office of the county court of Pocahontas county, in deed book No. 35 at page 316.

Second: A certain lot conveyed to Harriet E. Yeager, by the Pocahontas Development Company by deed dated January 14th, 1909, and recorded in the clerk's office aforesaid, in deed book No. 44, at Page 238.

These two parcels are what is known as the B. M. Yeager Home, and has upon one of them a good dwelling house and outbuildings, and the other lot adjoins the first lot and is used as a garden and orchard.

Third: Lot No. 25, in block 21, being the same lot conveyed to Harriet E. Yeager by the Pocahontas Development Company by deed dated September 1st, 1900, and recorded in the clerk's office aforesaid in deed book No. 24, at page 80. This lot has upon it a store house, and is located on the Main street of Marlinton and is a good business location.

Fourth: Lot No. 6, in block 34, being the same lot conveyed to Harriet E. Yeager by S. B. Yeager by deed dated October 24th, 1910, and recorded in the clerk's office aforesaid, in deed book No. 46, at page 249; this lot is located on Main Street and has upon it a store house, and is also a good business location.

TERMS OF SALE: Cash on day of Sale.

Given under my hand this the 4th day of May, 1920.

L. M. McCLINTIC, Trustee.

State of West Virginia,
County of Pocahontas, to-wit:

I S. L. Brown, clerk of the county court, hereby certify that L. M. McClintic, Trustee, has given bond as required by Section 6 of Chapter 72 of of the Code of West Virginia.

S. L. BROWN, Clerk.

Organ for Sale

Cornish Organ, suitable for Church or lodge room, in servicable condition, but wish to dispose of it in order to put in a different instrument. See A. H. McFerrin or C. E. Denison, Marlinton, W. Va.

Lime

A car load of slacked lime, suitable for agricultural purposes for sale. Apply to S. N. Hench, Supt. Greenbrier Tannery, Marlinton, W. Va.

Economy Silos

SILOS:—I have the agency for Pocahontas and the upper end of Randolph county for the Economy Silo, and would be glad to furnish you one for this season for I know you need one. Write or phone C. C. Beal at Linwood, W. Va. and let your wants be known, and I will call and see you.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XXXVIII NO 34 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, JUNE 10, 1920 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

CIRCUIT COURT

The case of the State against Ed Snyder, charged with complicity in the shooting up of a party of miners at Glen White Mines in Raleigh County in November, 1917, was put on trial in the circuit court of Pocahontas county on Friday. The case was brought here on a change of venue from Beckley, Raleigh County. The first day was taken up in hearing the motion of the defendant for a continuance, which was overruled by Judge Summers H. Sharp. But a little while was taken up in getting a jury, but one man being excused. The opening for the State was made by Capt. S. B. Avis of Charleston, and for the defense by W. G. Barnhard, former District Attorney of Charlestot.

Other attorneys connected with this case are Judge J. H. McGrath, a famous trial lawyer of Mercer County and a native of Greenbrier County, for the defense with F. R. Hill and L. M. EcClintic. Aiding in the prosecution is Hon. C. W. Osenton, acting National Committeeman, who is also busy with the details of getting West Virginians to San Francisco, N. C. McNeil, J. E. Buckley, and Andrew Price.

The case grew out of the shooting at a cage full of miners as they came from their work in the mine at Glen White by a party of men ambushed on the mountain side near by. Hundreds of shots were fired, but no one was hurt. A number of the men implicated have been convicted or have confessed. The charge against Snyder is that while he was not one who actually took part in the shooting he had a hand in planning and furnishing the arms and ammunition for the ambuscade.

In the fall of 1917, when the government was requiring every coal mine to produce its limit of coal or be taken over by the Fuel Administration, a strike was called at the the Glen White Mine, and fifty of the four hundred miners employed went out. The mine continued to turn out its full quota of coal, the Fuel Administration refused to interfere, and then the strikers resorted to force and violence, and the bushwhacking party of November 16, 1917, was pulled off. Snyder was a member of the local union which called the strike.

More than a year went by before sufficient evidence could be had for indictments, but at the March term, 1919, of the criminal court of Raleigh County four indictments were returned, eight men being indicted jointly. The defendants elected to be tried separately and a trial was had against Tony L. Stafford. The first trial resulted in a hung jury, and the second trial in January resulted in a conviction of the defendant Stafford.

The charge is an attempt to commit murder and is a felony. Snyder is charged as an accessory before the fact.

The trial will probably last until Friday. Some of the witnesses estimate the number of shots fired at the miners fleeing from the cage to shelter to as high as three hundred. No one was hit. The distance fired was 900 feet and the bullet holes are numerous in the buildings around the mouth of the mine. The weapons used were Winchesters, Mausers, shot guns and pistols.

One of the witnesses for the State, Mrs. Maggie Lethero, of Lester, who has been under guard was attacked at a hotel in Bluefield and stabbed in the left side, the assailant making a wound four inches long but missing vital parts. She was able to come from Bluefield to Marlinton in a car but collapsed on getting here and is in the local hospital.

At Bluefield, the witness had retired for the night, the guards being in an adjoining room. Two men went up the elevator and knocked at her door. When she opened it the attack was made. Two men are under arrest who are believed to be the assailants.

Mrs. Lethco was on the witness stand on Monday afternoon, coming from the hospital accompanied by a nurse. She was apparently suffering much pain from the wound.

A hundred or more persons are here from Raleigh County, and have overflowed the town. Most of the visitors came by train, but many were brought overland by automobile. Most of them seem to be enjoying their stay in Marlinton, this good, clean, cool country town being a pleasant contrast to the mining communities. Among the visitors are a corps of State Constables who are standing around looking fine and handsome in their trim uniforms, in readiness if any body wants to start anything.

On Monday afternoon the State rested, having put on twenty or more witnesses. Many of these were on the stand for several hours

The first witness was John Ransom, a miner, who was in the cage that was being fired upon. He said that 150 to 200 shots were fired from the mountain side. A bank car behind which he hid, was hit by a number of bullets.

John Gillfspie was in the door of the wash house, 300 feen from the tipple. When the men come from the mine they go to this house to clean up One bullet hit just above his head; several other bullets hit the house, and that he heard buckshot rattling on the iron roof. While the shooting was going on his little daughter, aged six years, came across the street. The men on the hill began to shoot at her—the bullets knocked up dust all around the child. He ran to her and carried her to a place of safety in the house.

Walter Phipps was near the tipple when the shooting commenced, and that 100 to 150 shots were fired. He got a Winchester from a nearby house and returned the fire. The men on the hill quit shooting and left. He visited the scene of the ambush that afternoon, and found eleven piles of shells, the piles being fifteen or twenty feet apart. Eighty shells and a number of loaded cartridges were picked up. Among them were Mauser, 38 Winchester, 45 automatic pistol and 12 guage shotgun shells.

Tom McGninis, one of the men indicted in the case, testified for the State. He was secretary of the local union, and testified that one Tony Stafford was in charge of the strike. Stafford said that when the Government decided against the strikers. The strikers determined that they would have to use forca and violence, and that if McGinnis would get the men Stafford would get the guns and ammunition. That Stafford and Ed Snyder brought the guns. Snyder gave him a 45 Colts revolver, as McGinnis has but one arm. Snyder told him that he would not help do the shooting but would wait in town, watch for officers and cut the telephone and telegraph wires if necessary. That ten men went on the mountain, and eight did the shooting, while he and Stafford stood watch against a surprise. That Snyder had advised them to make every shot count and shoot out the damned scabs; meaning by "scabs" the men who continued to work after the strike was called. That since his confession he had been closely guarded by Baldwin-Felts detectives, seven of these guards having been kiled receetly at Matewan.

Karl Kran, a Russian, one of the co-defendants under indictment, also testified for the State, corroborating McGinnis, as did Dorr Snuffer and George Lucas, who were in the shooting up party.

Ed Snyder, the defendant, went on the stand in his own behalf Tuesday morning. He is thirty-two years old, married, lives at Lester, and gives his occupation as an ice cream man. At the time of the shooting up of the Glen White mines, he was a member of the Executive Council of District No. 29, United Mine Workers. This district extends from Gauley Bridge to Matoaka on the Virginian Railway and as far east on the C. & O. as there is any coal mined. The strike was called October 24, 1917, and up to November 5 he acted as the official to issue orders for supplies to the strikers. He is a very tall slender man with a black mustache. He has not belonged to the Union since January, 1918.

Snyder stated that when the shooting took place he was in front of the Wade Building in Lester, and was told by one Roy Bowling, that Glen White was being shot up. Had no klowledge beforehand that the shooting was to take place. Denied he ever made any statement to Tom McGinnis, that the mine should be shot up, and made specific denials that he had ever had any conversation with any of the State witnesses about the shooting.

Other witnesses for the defense testified as to the whereabout of Snyder on the day of the shooting.

The jurors in the case are Z. S. Smith, C. L. Barlow, Willis Burner, J. R. Eubank, Walter Grimes, S. P. Landis, Mulvey Moore, C. M. Greathouse, Earl Weiford, C. C. McLaughlin, W. J. Yeager, Elmer Sharp.

The case will probably go to the jury today.

A long murder trial is set for next Tuesday, June 15. It is that of George Maitich, a Croat, charged with the murder of John Moslo, a Slavonian, whose dead body was found in the forest on the head of Cranbeary River last September. Something like a half a dozen dead bodies were found in the woods in various lonely places during the year 1919, and it looked like a Thug terror had started here. The defendant is being vigorously prosecuted by attorneys McClintic, Wolverton, and Hill, and defended by McNeil, Bratton and Price.

Thrift Buys the Home

It is good to own a home, to know the joy that comes from the possession of real property.

There is one sure way to get a home---the way of THRIFT.

A few dollars will open a Savings Account and lay a few bricks in the foundation, while more dollars added every day will soon put up the walls and make ready for the roof.

Start to build today.

We pay 4 per cent on Savings Accounts.

The First National Bank

Marlinton, W. Va.

Under U. S. Government Supervision.

CHURCH DEDICATION

The new Presbyterian church at Cass will be dedicated next Sunday, June 13. Rev. W. W. Bain, of Crewe, Va., and Rev. Aas Watkins, of Hampden Sidney, Virginia, former pastors of the church will be present.

The new building is one of the best in Pocahontas County.

ALUMNI BANQUET

At the eighth annual commencement of Hillsboro High School, June 4th 1920, the Alumni Association gave a banquet in honor of the class of 1920. In giving a banquet the Association instituted a new custom which we hope will continue to be observed. Heretofore it has been customary to give only a social. Though all seemed to enjoy them, a banquet was deemed more appropriate owing to the quantity and quality of the class of 1920, thus increasing the ranks of the organization.

All report an enjoyable time.

The following guests were present: Misses Margaret LaRue, Sue Smith Josephine Davis, Mary and Byrna Kincaid, and Lyda McNeel, Mr. and Mrs. Harr, Dr. McNeel. Messrs. M. L. Beard, G. B. Bartholemew and Porter McLaughlin.

The class representions were: Eric Clutter, Mary Hill, Earl Carlisle Josephine McNulty, Earl Beard, Eula Hill, Dewey Burr, Mattie Lewis, Lynn Beard, Margaret McClintic, Winters Hill.

This is the class of 1920.

Margaret Pritchard. Mayo Beard, Ina Lewis, Glenna Auldridge—1919.

Grace Gladwell, Lucy McLaughlin Beard, Ethel Stillwell. 1918.

Eva Beard, Miriam Hill Jones and Mr. Jonees, Sherman Moore, Lawrence Warren. 1917.

Carl Bruffey, Ralph Buckley.—1916

William Cackley and Mrs. Cackley. Ruth Kline. 1915.

Henry Beard. 1914.

The class of 1913 was not represented.

HUNTERSVILLE CHARGE

Methodist Church,

Rev. Elmer C. Sloane, Pastor.

Sunday June 13th. Preaching at Mt. Carmel 11:00 a. m., by Rev. C. B. Rutledge. Minnehaha Springs 3:00 p. m. and at Mt Grove, 8:00 p. m by Rev. R. O. Hipes. The Pastor will be at Warm Springs this week and next assisting in a meeting. Revival Services begin at Mt. Carmel, Sunday June 20, 8:00 p. m.

All day meeting at the Springs Thursday, July 1st.

MARLINTON CIRCUIT, M. P. CHURCH

Rev. Paul Riegel, Pastor

Sunday June 13: Preaching at Buckeye 11 a. m. as usual by the pastor.

On Tuesday afternoon, June the first, at the home of Mrs N. C. McNeil, the Ladies' Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, gave a linen shower to Mrs. E. M. Arbogast, who has been one of the most active members of the society. She left the same afternoon for her new home in Winchester, Kentucky. The best wishes of the society goes with her to her new home. Those present were Mrs. E. M. Arbogast, Mrs. W. J. Yeager, Mrs. Harry Byers, Mrs. W. N. Allen, Mrs. S. J. Rexrode, Mrs. N. C. McNeil, Mrs. O. H. Kee, Mrs. J. M. Yeager, Mrs. T. S. McNeel, Mrs. B. B. Bartlett, Mrs. Meade Arbogast, Mrs. A. C. McCoy, Mrs. Marion Burr, Miss Julia Gay, Mrs. C. J. Richardson, Mrs. W. H. Hiner, Mrs. John S. Moore, Mrs. G. F. Crummett, Mrs. F. R. Hill, Mrs. J. W. Yeager.

Applicants for Elementary Certificates were:—Misses Emma Burner, Lucie E. Baxter, Hallie V. Beverage, Opal V. Gum, Bessie Hannah, Viola E. Johnson, Agnes Jackson, Amy Moore, Mary Madge Moore, Blanche Pritchard, Delphia Rhodes, Clara Sheets, Margaret C. Sharp, Lelia Wooddell, Gladys G. White, Bessie T. Workman, Iva B. Taylor, Mrs. Elsie Sue Gilmore, Georgiana Hill, (col.) Dennis W. Perry, W. A. Bolen (colored.) 21.

Renewals—Flossie M. Conrad, Rebecca F. McKeever, Clyde V. Grimes, Mary Bradford Grimes, Flora Gillispie, Georgia Sharp, Annie Sullivan, Eva Jones Wilson, Arden Killingsworth, Elsie Adkison.—10.

Lots of frost reported from the higher ground on Monday morning The thermometer registered 36 at Marlinton.

A large crowd attended the Woodmen memorial service at Swago last Sunday. The sermon was preached by Rev. K. D. Swecker.

MEETING OF TOWN COUNCIL

The town council met in regular monthly session Monday night. In the absence of Mayor F. R. Hill, Recorder Rexrode presided.

John Waugh continued on duty as special policeman at the monthly salary of $60.

Decided by unanimous vote of council to enforce the Hog Law of Marlinton, which during the war was suffered to lapse. The ordance requires that no hog be kept in the corporate limits nearer than five hundred feet from any residence. The Sergeant and special police ordered to enforce the ordance; also the laws in reference to unauthorized live stock running at large in town, which permits one milk cow to each family.

The sergeant required to see that all open latrines in the town limits be kept in a sanitary condition, or cleaned out at the owners expense, and costs assessed against his taxes.

There being no one present to represent the Marlinton Ice Company, the council adjourned until Monday night at 8:00 p. m., to come to a definite understanding with the ice company as to terms on which steam will be continued to them. The increased consumption of coal at the light plant, due to day current and furnishing steam to the Ice plant is getting to be a serious financial question, together with the enormous increase in the price of coal and uncertainty of supply for the future. During May, three cars of coal were purchased, aggregating 237,000 lbs. at a cost near $900, which is barely a six week supply at present rate of consumption of the kind of coal, which is not up to the standard red ash.

Current accounts approved for payment in order as funds are available. In view of the very limited amount of money in the town treasury, near the vanishing point in act, it is necessary to exercise the closest economy.

Huntersville.—Mrs. Faye Mervyne and son William, of Cleveland, Ohio, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Grose, this week.—Some much needed work has been done on road here the past week. With the coming of a Class A road this way Huntersville seems to be reviving up once again. We can now boast of three stores, two churches, one hotel, one blacksmith shop, one two-room graded school building and a population of 93. Only two houses at present are vacant.—We are sorry to see our old friend Fred Fox, defeated, but if we are going to have a democratic government let us have it. It is only fair to pass the pie around. No one hae a right to a second and third piece while others just as good get none.

County Court was in session last Friday to act on the report of County Engineer Frank Baxter on the work to be done with the money for the proposed bond issue of Greenbank District for road purposes. The court set Saturday, July 10th as the date for the election. It requires a three-fifths vote to carry. The petitioners numbered 425, more than 25 per cent of the vote cast for governor in the election of 1916.

S. L. Brown, local observer, makes the following report for the month of May: Hottest 82 degrees on 31st, coldest 24 degrees on 3rd and 15th: mean maximum 66 degrees, mean minimum 39 degrees, mean, 52 degrees. Total rainfall 3.05 inches, greatest in 24 hours 1.15 inches on 12th. Rain on 8 Pays; 5 clear days, 19 partly cloudy, 7 cloudy. Killing frosts on 2nd, 3rd, 4th, 15th and 16th.

There are a number of cases of measles in Marlinton.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. George Strausser, a son, June 8, 1920.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bussard, a daughter.

Born, to Ernest Smith and wife (colored) near Warwick, May 21st a son.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Ed McCloud at August, June 2nd, a daughter.

"MEET ME AT THE OLE SWIMMING HOLE"

PROGRAM

AMUSU THEATRE

Court Week

FRIDAY—

Evelyn Greeley in "Hit or Miss"

SATURDAY—

"When Bearcat Went Dry". A stirring tale of life in the mountains of Eastern Kentucky

MONDAY—

Two reel comedy, two reel western and serial.

TUESDAY—

Paramount night—Jack Pickford in "The Dummy"

WEDNESDAY—

All star cast in "Devils Trail"

THURSDAY—

Beginning the million dollar serial "Silent Avenger" featuring "William Duncan"

COMING SATURDAY.

Lieut. Locklear in "The Great Air Robbery." $100.00 Reward if any of the dare devil stunts are faked in any way.

ONOTO

A fine rain Friday & Saturday of last week, which was much needed in this section, and has revived everything in the way of vegetation.

Thomas Knapp of Reedy, W. Va., accompanied by Mary Lee Knapp and Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Carter were visiting friends and relatives in Marlinton Tuesday.

Mrs. Nancy Newcomer of Iron-Gate Va., Mrs. Susan Carter of Marlinton, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wanless, of Wanless, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. C. Auldridge this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Moore of Kansas City, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Baxter this week. They are also visiting many of their old friends and relatives in this community.

Mrs. Faith E. Baxter is visiting at the home of Mrs. J. M. Baxter, this week.

C. V. Hanlin and family accompanied by Miss Hazel Shoemaker and Miss Mamie Tyler attended the Woodmen service at Buckeye Sunday afternoon.

Miss Grace Barlow has returned from a visit to Huntington.

Geo. A. C. Auldridge has returned from Beckley and Lester, where he was sent to bring back 10 witnesses in the famous trial that was transferred from Raleigh county to Pocahontas. Mr. Auldridge tells us that he was treated white by the citizens of Beckley, and that there are fine people there.

A CORRECTION

In the table of the election returns printed last week, the vote for B. B. Beard at the Greenbank precinct was put at 68. This was a typographical error, and should have been 98. There were 99 votes cast at this precinct and Mr. Beard got all but one.

Charleston.—When a photographer's flashlight outfit exploded outside a moving picture theater here it created a panic in the theater. Several persons were injured.

Charleston.—According to early reports from the Census Bureau in Washington, the rural population in West Virginia has fallen from 5 to 10 per cent since 1910.

Charleston.—Three suits totaling $20,000 have been filed against the John Robinson Circus by Mrs. G. V. Treen, who was injured here when circus horses ran away.

Petroleum.—G. P. Middleton, 36, may die from injuries sustained when his leg was caught in the governor belt of a gas engine and he was dashed around many times.

Simmons.—C. G. Blackwell, N. & W. brakeman, was painfully injured here when he was swept from a box car by a guide wire for a telephone post. He has recovered, however.

Belington.—Biler Phillips, charged with the murder of his uncle, who was killed while engaged in a wrestling match with Phillips, has been freed by a jury in Criminal Court.

Moundsville.—Following an investigation by federal officers, it has been announced here that Tony Surazza, a prisoner in the state penitentiary, will be deported upon his release.

Morgantown.—West Virginia University students who have been on a "thirst" strike have won over local drink dispensers, who agreed to sell drinks at prices set by the students.

Hinton.—As a result of a clash over methods of conducting revival services the Baptist Church here is divided into two factions and the State Supreme Court has been asked to pass on the question.

Wheeling.—A stone weighing about eight tons completely blocked the Big Wheeling Creek road and cut off the gas supply for that section when it slid into a gap marking the entrance to the valley.

Bluefield.—When local wholesalers refused to sell goods to a "penny profit" store here, an appeal was made to the Department of Justice. Agents are striving to settle the controversy without making arrests.

Matewan.—Charges that coal companies in Mingo county were discharging and evicting miners who join a union were made in a telegram sent Attorney General Palmer by Fred Mooney, secretary of District 17, United Mine Workers of America.

Charleston.—Rev. A. N. Slayton, pastor of the Protestant Episcopal church, has been appointed chaplain to Bishop Gravatt, and will accompany him to England to attend the world Episcopal conference.

Clarksburg.—Mrs. Nathan Goff, widow of the late Senator Goff, has accepted an invitation from the secretary of the navy to act as sponsor of the torpedo boat Goff, which was named in recognition of services performed by Senator Goff while secretary of the navy.

NOTICE

The Loyal Order Moose will hold their anual memoral service on the 3rd Sunday of June in the afternoon, at the Methodist Church. All members are requested to meet at the Hall at 1:30 o'clock, prompt.

Dry Goods at Low Prices

Fine quality apron gingham	27c yd
Beautiful patterns of dress gingham	33c yd
9-4 heavy sheeting	75c yd
Ready made sheets each	1.25
2 prs of ladies' black silk hose	1.25
Goods grade of boys' union suits	50
Boys' blouses only	59
Children's sandals at	89
Children's white shoes and slippers at	1.00
Children's fine grade slippers in gun metal and patent leather 1 and straps only	2.00
7 prf of men'f work shoes at	2.50
3 prs of men's low top Dayton shoes at	4.50
Fine quality of men's Oxfords at	4.95
Men's dress shoes all sizes at	3.95 and up
10 prs of men's Walk Over latest style tan shoes at	5.95
Men's wool suits very good value only	22.50

Our entire stock of ladies' suits, coats and millinery at reduced prices.

FINGER-SIEGEL CO.

CASS, WEST VIRGINIA

PRICES REDUCED

My Suit Sale is Different

Just as my Suits are Different

I have pitched into the stock, cutting right and left, not sparing a single suit. If the weather had been what it should have been, nothing like this would have happened until the end of the season. Indeed, you are having the advantage of it now, practically at the beginning of the season.

We have decided to reduce the prices on all women's, misses' and children's lace shoes, oxfords and pumps. Not odd lots but new, fresh, seasonable goods and all leathers.

COOPER'S

Popular Priced Department Store

CAS, W. VA.

Wool! Wool! Wool!

We are prepared to handle your wool to very best advantage. Call and get bags and our terms.

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.

Marlinton W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLI NO 1[illegible] MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, OCTOBER 26 1922 $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

NOTICE OF REWARD

The undersigned Game & Fish Commission of West Virginia will pay the sum of One Hundred Dollars, $100.00, to any person who will furnish evidence leading to the arrest and conviction of any party or parties guilty of wilfully setting out fire in the woods or forests of this State.

Game & Fish Commission
WEST VIRGINIA

Charleston, W. Va.
October 1, 1922.

C. J. STULTING DEAD

Cornelius John Stulting was born in Utrech, Holland, on June 16, 1842, of parents who were staunch members of the Reformed Church of Holland—sometimes properly called the Dutch Reformed Church. When the Government of Holland attempted to supplant the Calvinistic teaching of the church with the liberal views that were then beginning to spread through the influence of the Higher Criticism this family remained loyal to the old faith and were sorely persecuted therefor. At length they decided to migrate to America and so when our subject was five years of age they left their native land for this country and landed in New York in the summer of 1847. After a short time spent in New York they came to Pocahontas county and settled near Edray but soon after removed to the Little Levels.

Mr. Stulting was educated in the schools of that day—the old academies maintained by private patronage. He was at school in Hillsboro, Frankford, and at Union in Monroe county. He thus laid the foundation of a liberal education but was hindered from pursuing his studies because of the burden of caring for younger brothers and sisters.

He became a teacher himself and for twenty-five years taught in the public schools of his county. Many are now living who can testify to his worth as a teacher. He had the teacher's gift of inspiring his pupils with his own high ideals. Some of his old pupils recently said that he was the means of planting an ambition in their hearts to make the most of their talents. This is not surprising to those who knew Mr. Stulting. He was a man of strong personality and positive convictions and when he had an opportuniy he impressed these on all around him.

He made a profession of religion in early youth and united with the Oak Grove church under the pastorate of the Rev. M. D. Dunlap. The christian life so early begun continued consistently through about sixty-eight years. In all that time he bore witness to the power of Christ's gospel to save and to keep. The writer has never known a man more loyal to the Bible, to the gospel of the Kingdom, and to the faith of his fathers. He loved the deep things of the spirit and loved to talk of them and was well informed on all the doctrines of Scriptures. It is no wonder, then, that a man of such information should also be a man of faith. He believed and trusted Christ and he kney that in Him he had an all-suffcient Savior. He was not afraid of the final hour. He said to the writer in an illness of a year or two ago, "Well, I cannot hope to be here much longer. And why should I wish to remain here. I have as many or more loved ones and friends over there as I have here and if I go I leave these to be with them." And then he spoke of his good mother and of the impression her christian character had made on him. Who can tell the far reaching power of a good mother's training on the generations that come after.

Many years ago Mr. Stulting was elected and ordained an elder in Oak Grove Church and was conscientious and faithful to the discharge of his duties as an official. He felt an especial obligation to attend divine worship and although for several years past owing to the infirmities of age he could hear little of the sermons he was always present when health permitted. Few people seem to realize what encouragement such faithfulness is to a pastor.

Mr. Stulting had five sisters and one brother. Of these two sisters preceded him to the life to come—Mrs John Myers, and Mrs. Absolom Sydenstricker, for many years a missionary in China. Mrs. Newton Doyle, Mrs. Floyd Doyle, Mrs John Myers, and Mr. C. L. Stulting survive. There are four children—Mrs Quincy Callison of Bound Brook, N. J., Mrs Lemuel Smith, of Charlottesville, Va. Miss Mamie and C. F. Stulting at home with the mother at home survive to feel the loss of a most devoted husband and father.

God has called his servant to his reward and he was ready for the call. During his illness he often expressed his willinguess to go whenever the summons should come and we feel sure that the call did not take him unawares. The end came peacefully and painlessly Friday morn, October 13, 1922.

The lessons we may learn from such a life as our brother's are then of industry, frugality, and rigid honesty. He had the stern virtues of the Puritan training received in his father's home. He loved righteousness and hated injustice and could be found on the right side of every moral question that agitated the community. He did not hesitate to declare his position for there was no shrinking from what he believed to be his duty. It has seemed to the writer that the language of the first Psalm applies with special appropriateness to his life and character.

"Blessed is the man that walketh not in the council of the ungodly, nor standeth in the way of sinners nor sitteth in the seat of the scornful; but his delight is in the law of the Lord and in his law doth he meditate day night."

Servant of God, well done,
Rest from thy loved employ
The battle fought, the vict'ry won
Enter thy Master's joy.

The pains of death are past;
Labor and sorrow cease,
And life's long werfare closed at last,
His soul is found at peace.

Soldier of Christ, well done,
Praise be thy new employ;
And while eternal ages run,
Rest in thy Savior's joy.

J. C. J.

SALE NOTICE

You never have been invited to a closing out sale at our store. In fact, we do not believe in these special bargain sales, but we try at all iimes to give our customers real values. For the next two months we will have some specials on children's coats, school shoes, and men's suits and overcoats.—Try us for anything in the general merchandise line. Country produce is legal tender with us.

Peoples Store & Supply Co.

THE COUNTY FAIR

The County Fair is to the farmer and stock raiser what the big Industrial Shows held in the cities every winter are to the manufacturer, being an opportunity to display his products so that the greatest number of prospective buyers will see them. Now the manufacturer pays thousands of dollars for the space he occupies at these industrial shows while the farmer gets his space free at our County Fair; and furthermore, he has an opportunity of getting a premium that will more than pay him the expense of getting his exhibit to the Fair.

We do not fully appreciate the big advertising opportunity given us at our County Fair to exhibit our products. We can put ourselves before the people as a raiser or producer of products exhibited at a minimum cost and have a good time while we are doing it. If you specialize on the items you exhibit and have a surplus for sale you reap the harvest from the golden opportunity given you of getting a price consistent with the quality of your products from the fact that you can get them before the greatest number of people who are in the market for what you have to sell, for as soon as the ribbons are awarded you are given the privilege of putting a card bearing your name on your exhibit and any advertising in reference to the sale of the exhibit, You can advertise that you have a special quality of product to offer and possibly get a fair price and a few orders, but you can show them at your County Fair which is the very best way to sell a good product.

We should bear this in mind on deciding on our exhibit for our next Fair, and right now is the time to ask yourself the question: What products do I raise in excess of my needs? And when you answer this question, put your best efforts to the front in raising the best possible products so that you can get a price that will show you a good profit and at the same time get you the reputation of being a successful farmer by showing products at your County Fair that make a fine exhibit and get the advertising necessary to sell your surplus stock at a good profit.

We not only advertise to our county people but our attractive fair grounds and our big, successful, entertaining fair draws crowds from adjoining counties who are prospective customers of our exhibitors. Why not begin to think it over today.

DEATH OF A SINGULAR PERSON

ANNA L. PRICE

In the wilds of Randolph County, W. Va., died lately Frank M. Swoope aged 82 years. A most strange life was his. I happened to know much of him, more particularly through my husband Rev. Dr. W. T. Price, who was intimate with Swoope and family, when both were young men. In fact, it was Price who urged Swoope to study for the Presbyterian ministry, both families being of that church. F. M. S. seemed a most lovable, worthy and christian man. Studying in good and proper schools, University of Virginia and a Theological institution, and was ordained. The Civil War burst forth upon us a blazing deadly flame. Swoope engaged in it actively and was promoted. What occurred I know not, but he began to act strangely—neglecting, ignoring his sacred vocation, he went off to secluded desolate places and lived actually and always a recluse, only his Bible with him, he lived a hermit. Gradually people forgot him tho' ever kind and generous to him when he allowed.

Inheriting a patrimony he never lacked for small sufficient sums sent him, but he cared nothing for money. He could have entered a Soldiers Home, but refused. His garments were threadbare or worse. He would at times read, or talk religiously with one he chanced to meet. Finally found dead in an abandoned lumber camp aged, as we said, eighty-two years old.

HE LEADETH ME

By Anna L. Price.

Step by step, thro' trackless years,
In pleasant paths or vale of tears,
Step by step, through desert waste,
Follow on, nor pause nor haste,
Weary? Yes, full often fail,
Spirit willing, flesh doth ail,
'Times He leadeth thro' the sea,
Waters calmed as Galilee:
But if faithful to our Guide,
It shall be light at even-tide,

There will be a church festival at the Brushy Flrts school house Saturday night October 28, 1922, for the benefit of the new church to be built in that section. Lots of good things to eat. Everybody cordially invited.

A series of meetings will begin at Liberty Church at Greenbank next Sunday morning, October 29. Dr. J. E. Flow, Presbyterial evangelist, will do the preaching.

NOTICE TO TEACHERS

Under the regulations by which the various districts receive State Aid it is not possible to carry over large balances from one year to the next. July 1st, 1922 found the Teachers' funds practically exhausted, and the drafts paid since then may be credited to the sheriff's kindness rather than to any legal necessity. There is no method by which these funds may be increased until tax collectious begin, November 1st, so that it is possible that there will be a delay in the payment of drafts. Should teachers not receive drafts promptly, this notice will explain the delay.

G. D. McNeill,
Co. Financial Secretary.

ELK S. S. RALLY

The County Sunday School Association is making a systematic effort to see that every Sunday School in Pocahontas keeps open the year around. To this end whenever word comes that a school is contemplating going to hole for the winter, a delegation from another community is sent to the wavering school to rally them to make an other effort and keep the weekly sessions going. To this end, a party composed of Mr. and S. N. Hench, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Sydnor, Mrs W. L. Davis, Ira D. Brill and family, H. L. Byers and Calvin W. Price were sent to Mary Gibson church on Elk for Sunday afternoon. Beside the fourteen Marlinton people, eleven Slatyfork folk, there were fifty five of the residents of the Mary Gibson community present. A regular Sunday School session was held, and then the visitors urged the good people of Elk not to allow themselves to be numbered among the very few schools in the County who will subside this winter. The gist of the remarks, aside from the value and necessity of regular public worship in a community, was that all required for an ever green Sunday School was the determination of not less than one person that a sunday school should be maintained.

One District, Little Levels, will perhaps have every school an ever green one this year, and there will be very few groundhog schools in the whole county. A provision has been made by the County Association to count every school and the honor roll that will hold sessions in a private home on Sundays when really bad weather prevails.

From the History of Pocahontas it is learned that Huntersville has the distinction of being the first place in Pocahontas County where a Sunday School was held throughout the year. The year was 1839, Rev. J. M. Harris, a young minister, a native of Pennsylvania, pastor of a church in New Orleans which has since achieved a national reputation, come to Huntersville to recuperate broken health. In a few weeks after his arrival he opened school and also gathered a Sunday School.

Eighty-odd years ago, the few Sunday schools were all intermitent. Now the many Sunday schools are nearly all evergreen.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

9:45 a. m. Sunday School.
11:00 a. m. Preaching Service
7:00 p. m. Christian Endeavor
7:45 p. m. Union service at this church. Preaching by Rev. W. O. Talbert, Presiding Elder of Lewisburg District.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. Fred B. Wyand, Pastor
Sunday School 9:45 a. m.
A. S. Overholt, Supt.

11.00 a. m. Sermon Subject: "The Lost Battalion"
7.00 p. m. Epworth League
7:45 p. m, Union services in Presbyterian Church. Our Presiding Elder Rev. W. O. Talbert will preach.

Friday evening October 27th at 7:30 o'clock we will hold our third quarterly conference. Stewards please take notice

Report of Cloverlick garded school, first month ending October 6.

1st and 2nd grades. Hallie Beverage, teacher. Pupils neither absent nor tardy are, Helen and Virginia Irvine, Frankie Mongole, Letha Ray, Blanche Campbell, Willie Hardbarger, Leo Lindsay, James Menefee, Roxy Weese, Woodrow Ray, and Raymond Swisher.

3rd and 4th grades, Lois Coyner, teacher. Pupils neither absent nor tardy, Nina Swisher, Dora Noonan, Beata Johnson, Edna Friel, Jean Mongole, Cameron Ware, Annalee Smith Ralph Lowe, Herman Irvine, Carn Barlow, Robert Deputy, John Hardbarger, Thurman Barlow.

Upper grades making perfect are Ruth Barnes, Lanie Corner, Ethel Cunningham, Pauline Cunningham, Mary Campbell, Mildred Campbell, Lowell Kelley, Mildred Cunningham, Edwin Coyner, Donald Corner, Ernest Harriger, Bernard Irvine, Fred Lowe, Virgil Lindsay, Carl Lindsay, Charles Miles, George Smith, Roland Swifher, Vernon Ware.

Gladys G. White, Prin.

The first month of Mt. Zion school closed Friday, October 13. Enrollment 29 and the percent of daily attendance was 96. Pupils neither absent nor tardy are Myrtle Hilton, Edna Fertig, Wilma Dilley, Evelin Fertig, Mary Hively, Helen and Madaline Dilley, Beulah Carpenter, Elsie Shrader, Glen Hively, Sylvia, Roscoe, Bedford, Paul, Maynard, Boyd and Kermit Dilley. Let us have a larger honor roll next month. Remember that we get out of school according as we put into it.

W. A. Hively, teacher.

Dakota Carpenter, little daughter of Charles and Geneva Carpenter was born June 27, 1922, and died October 18, 1922 aged three months and twenty-ono days. Funeral service conducned by Rev. Clark Early. Burial in Oak Grove cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

As we cannot see each one personally, we take this opportunity to thank our relatives and kind friends for their kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our dear husband and father. May God's richest blessings rest upon each one.

Mrs. Mary F. Slavin and Children.

CIRCUIT COURT

Circuit Court adjourned on Monday after a session of three weeks.

The big case of the term was the trial of George Barrett, on international organizer of the United Mine Workers of America, charged with conspiring to steal a machine gun in August, 1920, during the labor war on Willis Branch. The indictment was found in Fayette county, and was brought here on a charge of venue. Barrett was found guilty, and was sentenced by Judge Sharp on Monday morning to six years in the penitentiary. The trial began last Tuesday, and the case went to the jury late Friday afternoon.

DIED

Joe O. Hill died at the home of his son, L. C. Hill, at Frankford, on October 20, 1922, in the 84th year of his age. His body was buried at Williamsburg. Mr. Hill was a native of Pocahontas county, moving to Greenbrier about twelve years ago. He was married three times, and is survived by ten children. He was a good citizen and a life long member of the Methodist Church.

WILLIAM WARWICK SLAVIN

William Warwick Slavin departed from this life on the 14th day of October, 1922, aged 85 years, 5 months and 23 days. He was the son of the late Jacob Slavin, who was born in Tyrone, Ireland, his mother Miss Neilie Lockridge, of Knapps Creek. Mr Slavin was united in marriage to Miss Mary F. Riley June 8, 1855, and to this union eight children were born, three dying in infancy. His eldest daughter Maggie E. (Mrs. Austin Hamrick) preceded him to the grave sixteen years ago. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Mary F. Slavin, one daughter, Mrs. Ollie E. Brown, of Arbovale, and three sons, Gordon L. of Renick; William D., of Durbin, and John H of Greenbank; and his twin sisters Mrs. Ellen Brown of Arbovale, and Mrs. Margaret Patterson, of Rock Hill, South Carolina, and a host of other relatives and friends.

He was converted and joined the church about forty years ago. Altho having been an invalid for over 49 years, he bore his afflictions with untiring patience. He was an affectionate companion and loving father. During his late illness he expressed his desire to be with his God and again and again that he was ready to die.

Funeral services were conducted at the home by Rev. S. B. Hannah, and body laid to rest in Arbovale cemetery. S. H. Hiner, undertaker in charge.

GREENBANK

Mrs B. M. Arbogast left Monday to visit her son, W. E. Arbogast in Pennsylvania.

Mr. and Mrs, J. B. Orndorff recently returned from visiting relatives at Columbus, Ohio.

Lawrence Nottingham and family will start to Pennsylvania this week.

The Arbovale Leage elected new officers Sunday night. They are Miss Mona Sheets, president; Sylva Raleigh, vice-president; Ottie Harris, secretary, and Genivieve Orndorff, treasurer.

James Phillips, who has been sick, is somewhat better at present.

The Adelphian literary society will give a program on Friday evening the 27th. The Columbian literary society gave a very interesting program the 20th.

We reorganized our Young Peoples' Meeting at Greenbank, Sunday.

The four classes of the Greenbank High school will have a Hallow'een party Friday night the 27th.

We are glad we are going to have the use of the high school auditorium for basket ball this year.

About $25 was raised for the school library at the supper at North Fork last Wednesday night.

G. W. Mann and Son bought a pair of Berkshire hogs from J. J. Echols of Lewisburg last week. They are fine specimens of this popular breed of swine. The pair consists of male and female and are unrelated, both registered, and will be used as the foundation of a drove of thoroughbred hogs.

Fac-Simile Ballot

Election, Nov. 7, 1922

BALLOT ON SCHOOL LEVY

☐ For School Levy

☐ Against School Levy

State of West Virginia,
County of Pocahontas, to-wit:

I, D. C. Adkison, Clerk, of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true fac simile ballot to be voted on in the general election to be held on November 7th, 1922, as provided for by Sec. 184a of Chap. 16 of the Acts of 1921.

Witness my hand this 11th day of October, 1922.

D. C. ADKISON, Clerk.

Special Announcement

H. W. Roundtree's Quality Line of Trunks, Suit Cases and Traveling Bags.

C. J. Richardson

Marlinton - West Virginia

SCHOOL NOTES

The last Census revealed that West Virginia contained 69 413 persons above the age of ten years who could nor read or write. The shame of it is that of this number, 43,573 were native born West Virginians.

Also, it is shown by last reports that West Virginia has in college but sixteen out of every ten thousands of her citizens. The average of the United States is twenty seven, while a number of state have forty to fifty against our sixteen. West Virginia is unable to supply her high schools with teachers, for half these teachers are brought in at good salaries from other states where education is more general and of a higher character. West Virginians recognize these conditions as disgraceful. We cannot shirk a personal responsibility for these conditions. In order that all the people may better understand the situation, a West Virginia Education Week has been order by the State Department of Schools for October 29 November 3, 1922. The slogan of this campaign is "No Illiteracy in West Virginia in 1926." Also it is intended to emphasize the necessity for getting more students into high school and college, improvement of the teaching force of the state, better buildings and equipment and the equalization of educational opportunities as between the city and the country. Where it is possible, teachers should arrange for at least one meeting. Possibly, an arrangement might be made for a Parents Meeting where local ministers and community leaders could discuss some phase of West Virginia's many educational problems.

According to present information, but one vacancy exists in the schools of the county. This is at Yew Glade. The school is small and the term is five months. Applicants for the place should address Mr. Ed Wooddell, Linwood, W. Va.

Teachers who expect to attend the State Association at Charleston in November should send in enrollments immediately, as some time is required to arrange identification Certificates and reduced tickets.

One day last week Ross O. Hamrick, who lives on Cloverlick mountain, killed a black fox squirrel. Its head and legs were black, back mixed grey and black, and red tail. In size it was about twice as big as the common grey squirrel. Both ears were marked—a swallow fork in one and a slit in the other. It is not unusual for squirrels to have their ears torn in fighting, but these ear marks look like they had been made. Mr. Hamrick thinks it is possible that he killed some one's pet. The squirrel was sent to this office, and was turned over to Ward Sharp, a young taxidermist, to be mounted.

Oyster Supper

The ladies of the Beard community will serve a Halloween oyster supper at Beard Station on Saturday evening, October 28, beginning at 5 o,clock. Proceeds for the benefit of Beard Chapel.

Your Farm

Does it pay you a fair interest wages? Are you still trying with your bare hands to put the eastern farmer's modern machinery out of bufiness? How long will it take you to do it? Are you satisfied to work your family year in and year out for a mere living with no provision for sickness and old age? If so, don't read this, hand it to your a neighbor. But please tell him we trade city property for farms and farms for city property. We trade for anything of real value anywhere in W. Va. Tell him we will mail him a list of people who have traded their property for Morgantown real estate, and are now delighted with their experience. And as to yourself simply spend two cents writing us for pictures of this city's factories, and fine homes and we will cheerfully mail same to you

GLOBE REALTY CO.
Morgantown, W. Va.

FORDS REDUCED

According a statement just issued by Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, Detroit, a general reduction of $50 a car has been made in the prices of Ford Model T Cars and the Ford 1 Ton Truck, effective October 17th.

"The revision in prices," said Mr. Ford, "is the result of the increased volume of business which our company has enjoyed during the present year, and also the fact that we now own and operate many of our own sources of raw material, which enables us to continue increasing the quality of our product and at the same time keep the price so low that Ford cars are in reach of everybody.

"Our production for 1922 is already in excess of a million, which has been an important factor in bringing down costs. Our present daily output is averaging better than 5,000 Cars and Trucks, which means a complete Ford Car or Truck every 5 1-2 seconds of each 8 hour working day. It is in anticipation of this continued demand that price adjustments are being made in order to keep in effect the policy of selling Ford products at the lowest price consistent with quality.

"Quality as usual," said Mr Ford, "will continue to be a prime consideration in the building of Ford Cars. As our business has increased we have constantly increased our equipment and manufacturing facilities, so that this price reduction merely reflects the progressive methods which come as a result of increased volume.

"This reduction, which is the sixth since 1920, brings the price of Ford Touring Car from $575 to the present low price of $298. Corresponding reductions have been made on all other types."

The new prices fob Detroit, are—Touring $298, Roadster $269, Chassis $235, Coupe $530, Sedan $595, Truck $380.

Mrs. Mary Lange died Tuesday night October 24, 1922, at her home west of Marlinton. Her age was about 65 years. For many months she has been an invalid from heart disease. She is survived by her four children, Hanson, Wallaae, William and Anna. Burial at the Armstrong graveyard on Thursday.

Oyster Supper

On Friday, November 3, beginning at 5 30 p. m., at Dunmore Band Hall. Proceeds for benefit of the Baxter church. Band Music.

For Your Approval at AMUSU THEATRE

This Week

THURSDAY—Jackie Coogan in "Pecks Bad Boy". If you did not see it last night you will not pass it up tonight.

FRIDAY—Eugene O'Brian in "A Prophets Paradise"- A picture of action and suspense.

SATURDAY—Montie Blue in "Jucklins" A Melford Production, A rural story with a southern setting. It's A Paramount, (The same director made this picture that produced Behold My Wife)

MONDAY—Constance Talmadge in "Mrs. Ifingtons Boots" This is Connie at her best.

TUESDAY—Gladys Walton in "The Wise Kid"

WED. and THURS—Owen Moore and an All-Star Gast in "Reported Missing"

COMING FRIDAY
Rudolph Valentino and Nazimova in "Camille"

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLI NO 12 MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, NOVEMBER 2 1922 $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Just Facts

Some of our customers have abused the thirty day credit extended them by failing to pay their grocery account.

To All Such

We wish to advise that you will have until November 10th, 1922, to pay these accounts to us.

After that date they will be placed in the hands of the proper authorities for collection. Where collections on open accounts fail, immediate suit will be started.

Remember, we did not buy this advertising space to publish a bunch of HOT AIR.

McCOYS GROCERY

TAYLOR HERE

Hon. J. Alf Taylor. Democratic candidate for Congress, was in Pocahontas county this week, visiting the voters and perfecting his campaign. He is a popular candidate, and the prospects are bright for this Republican district to again be represented at Washington by a Democrat. Mr. Taylor's record for conservatism and economy in the last legislature is now well known over the State. He took a positive stand for economy and was against the increased taxes, which are becoming so burdensome. Taylor runs best where he is best known, and that is a safe man to support.

Hon, A. C. Herold, of Sutton, Democratic nominee for State Senator, long term, was in Pocahontas this week. He election is assured. The figures put every county of this tenth district in the Democratic column. He is a farmer and a banker. We Pocahontas people have always claimed him as our own, as his people moved from this county years ago.

CALLED TO THE WEST

Rev. F. B. Wyand Wanted By A Big City Church of Minneapolis

Bev. F. B. Wyand has been written to by Dr. R K. Bowman, District Superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church, offering him the pastorate of the Minnehaha Park Church, of Minneapolis, Minnesota.

Dr. Bowman states that Minnehaha Park is one of the charming residential sections of the city, and is rapidly building up, causing the church to greatly increase in membership. The average Sunday School attendance is near a thousand, and plans have been made and money provided in part for a larger building. When these plans are consumated this church will rank fourth or fifth among the great churches of the Minneapolis. This city is the metropolis of the northwest, has half a million people and 23 Methodist churches, which pay nearly $70,000 in salaries to its ministers.

Mr. Wyand naturally feels elated over this honor. He has the matter under consideration, and has not definitely decided what course he will pursue.

He has a half finished sixty thousand dollar church on his hands, and he is not forgetful of the text "No man having put his hand to plow" should look back. He would like to stay, Conference willing, at least until the new church is completed. He appreciates the forward looking men and women of his congregation who have assisted him in putting forward this great undertaking, and he feels that leaving such people is like going away from home; and so he is inclined to stay.

This writer hopes that Mr. Wyand will disregard this call of the West and continue to tough it out with us. The salary is very much greater than Marlinton pays and possibly the opportunities for service are wider, but he is a firm believer that the man who preaches for money alone is not a true pastor. There is a great need for his services here.

This is the second year of Mr. Wyand's pastorate in Marlinton. His church has grown and developed wonderfully in that time, and he and his congregation are now building one of the best church buildings in the State.

Again we ask the big city churches to leave our preachers alone.

HOOSIER

The last word in KITCHEN CABINETS

$35 $40 $50 $65

Look at them in our store

C. J. RICHARDSON, Marlinton

BIG MEETING

A revival of religion is sweeping the Swago community, under the preaching and leadership of Rev. J. E. Flow, D. D, of Lewisburg, evangelist for Greenbrier Presbytery. Up to Tuesday there had been forty-nine professions of faith in Christ. The majority of those who have taken this definite stand are men and women of mature years, many of them heads of families.

The services are being held in the Swago church, and have continued for more than two weeks. It is not known how much longer it will be carried on. While Dr. Flow is expected at Greenbank, he does not see his way clear to go while the interest is so intense.

Each night the building is packed until there is barely standing room.

Morgantown, W. Va., Oct. 14:—Pocahontas County is well represented among the 1840 students who had registered here up until tonight at West Virginia University for the fall semester's work. Once more the University scores a perfect batting average by having every county represented here by some of its sons and daughters. While the counties adjoining Monongalia are heavy contributors of students, Kanawha, Ohio and other dsstant counties likewise have large representation. 'The enrollment to date is practically 250 greater than at the same time last year, with indications that the end of th semester will see the 1900 mark reached. The enrollment from Pocahontas county follows:

Henry H Beard, Beard: Ralph B, Buckley, Ellis M. McNeill, Buckeye; Margaret T. Cameron, Mace; Aletha A. Collins, Raymond L Gibson, Huntersville; Theodore Cooper, Cass; Jacob L. Coyner, Littleberry N. Coyner, Cloverlick.

Our friend J. D. Muldoon, State Supervisor of Rural Schools, was in Pocahontas county last week, holding school rallies and inspecting the high and community schools. He is much gratified in the progress that is being made in our schools, especially in the matter of buildings and equipment. Mr. Muldoon was one of the speakers at the big County Sunday School Convention held on Knapps Creek last summer and gained the friendship and respect of a great many of our people.

Honor roll first month Hosterman school, Bessie Workman, teacher. Enrollment 38. Perfect attendance: Delbert Collins, Herman Davidson, Earl Davidson, James Morgan, Ruth Sutton, Hazel Sutton, Wallace Varner, Arlie Varner, Daisy Varner, Mae Collins Goldie Collins, Mabel Collins, Blanche Sutton. Faithful attendance: Paul Collins, Cecil Varner, Gertrude Findley, Mary Morgan Vera Moore, Viola Moore, Gracie Ratliff, Hazel Ratliff, Carrie Sutton, Thelma Ray.

L. W. Barless, of Mt. View, killed himself a couple of fine wild turkeys last week.

ELECTION NOTES

Polls shall be opened as soon as practical after sunrise but not before and be closed at sunset.

No one can vote except those who are registered.

Must vote in the precinct where registered. Saturday is the last day that a transfer can be secured. At every election votes are spoiled by voters not knowing how to vote. Secure the services of a clerk. Both clerks must see the ballot filled. They cannot disclose how any person votes.

No electioneering to be done within sixty feet of the polls.

If a ballot is spoiled the voter can return it and get another ballot.

The commissioners at each precinct will agree on some one to come after the ballots. In the primary this person is designated by the clerk of the circuit court. But not in the general election.

The law provides that the election supplies shall be delivered at least three days prior to the election,

Commissioners are supposed to send after the supplies getting the books and boxes from the County Clerk and the ballots from the Circuit Clerk.

PRO FIT MADE ON 4-H CLUB WORK

I have been working in club work one year. I took up the project of raising a pig. I secured me a good Duroc Jersey sow pig for which I paid $13.50. She weighed 35 pounds and I put 165 pounds gain on her in 120 days.

I exhibited her at the Pocahontas County Fair, which cost me very little. I won second place, receiving the award of $10.

The State sent my pig to the Fair at Charleston free of charge. The County Agent, Mr. Willey, took care of her while on the trip. I won first place there, and the State will give me a trip to the Boys' and Girls' 4 H Camp at Jacksons Mill next summer. My expenses will be paid up to $25.00.

The total cost and expense of raising and caring for my pig amounts to about $30.00, and I have received $35.98 in prize money. I will come out $5.02 ahead and still have my pig.

Clarence May,
Beard, W. Va.

NORMALCY

Editor Times:

To show my appreciation of our new assessment of property values and to urge all voters to vote the G. O. P. ticket in order to perpetuate the good things brought to us, I am inserting the following which is submitted in good faith and open to any one wanting to come in and share the good thing.

Rev. H. H. Orr, Charles Camper, Norman Camper, Buster Smith, Jesse Wiley and Norman R. Price, Jr., returned on Saturday from Beckley, where they attended the annual Conference of the young people of Greenbrier Presbytery. The trip was made by automobile, and a most pleasant. The next meeting will be held at Lewisburg.

To the Voters of the County:

Only a few days remain until you will be called upon to elect a new Superintendent of Schools for the County. As you know I am one of the candidates for that office. I accepted the nominasion because it gives me greater opportunity to work for better schools on a larger scale than is possible as a teacher.

I wish I had time to canvass the County and see you personally, but since I am teaching it is impossible to get off for the length of time that it would take; so I am taking this means of soliciting your support at the coming election. Any favorable consideration shown me will be appreciated.

Respectfully,
C. E. FLYNN.

adv

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

9:45 a. m. Sunday School.
11:00 a. m. Preaching Service
3:00 p. m. Service at Hamlin Chapel
7:00 p. m. Christian Endeavor
7:45 p. m. Preaching

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. Fred B. Wyand, Pastor
Sunday School 9:45 a. m.
A. S. Overholt, Supt.

11:00 a. m. Sermon subject. "What Men Should Desire"
7:00 p. m. Epworth League
7:45 p. m. Sermon subject: "The Drink Curse and Does prohibition Prohibit"

Show us where you stand by coming out to hear this Prohibition sermon.

A meeting of the officers of the Pocahontas County Sunday School Association, including the chairmen of the four districts and the executive committee, will be held at the High School Building in Marlinton on Thursday night, November 9, 1922, at 7:30 o'clock, to discuss matters of real importance. A large attendance is greatly desired.

Married, at the Methodist Parsonage, Saturday October 21, 1922, by Rev. F. B. Wyand, Roy Clifford Evans, of Marlinton, and Miss Zeurilda Margaret Medsker, of Richwood.

Married, Tuesday, October 24, 1922, Coy Metson Middleton and Miss Mary Alice Burgess, both of Laurel Creek.

DIED

Mrs Mary E. Lange died at her home near Marlinton, October 24, 1922, after a long illness of heart disease. Her age was 63 years, 10 months and 23 days. She leaves to mourn her four children, two brothers and a sister. The funeral service was conducted from the Swago church, by F. B. Wyand, in the presence of a large congregation. Burial on the Armstrong place on Dry Creek by the grave of her daughter, Mrs Lucy Armstrong, who preceded her mother near seven years.

Many friends will have kindly remembrance of Mrs Lange. In time of sickness she was always willing to aid with kind, helping hands.

How feeble are words to carry consolation to the hearts of children bereaved of their mother. We realize no one can fill her place. Fond memories of her are interwoven in their hearts.

It is a comfort to all her loved ones to know that she often expressed a desire to go to that home where she would not have to suffer any more. Our prayers are that the children will remember that while the ripened fruit is being gathered, that in nature fruit falls, and so does blossoms and buds and may they accept their mother's Savior as their Savior and strive to gain a home with translated loved ones on the resurrection morning.

A Friend.

Mrs. Amelia E Wanless, daughter of William and Phoebe Warwick, departed this life October 12, 1922, at her home near Boyer, this county. She was born July 16, 1853. She was twice married; her first marriage was to George M. Dilley, who preceded her to the grave several years ago. To this union three children were born who survive her, P. S. Dilley of Richwood; Mrs. O E. Gum, of near Huntersville, and Mrs. Frank Hughes of Boyer. The second marriage was with Stephen H. Wanless, March 29, 1889, who died six years ago. She leaves two sisters, six brothers, five grandchildren and a host of friends and neighbors. She was a consistent christian, a member of the Methodist church. She told her friends a few days before she died that she wanted to go home, and they have the blessed assurance that she has gone to be with her Savior and friends that have gone on before.

She was a kind and loving mother and a good neighbor, and was loved by all who knew her. She will be greatly missed at church as she loved to go when her health would permit, and in the home mother's place is vacant and never can be filled.

She was laid to rest in New Hope graveyard near her home.

Dearest mother, thou hast left us,
And thy loss we deaply feel,
But in heaven we hope to meet thee,
Jesus can our sorrows heal.

A Friend.

Sheriff Brown Beard arrested and returned to the Monterey jail last week one Ward Ryder, who had escaped from jail. He is being held for complicity in the robbery of the Whitelaw store at Mill Gap, last summer.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

At a regular meeting of the Pocahontas County Farm Bureau held last Saturday at the Farm Bureau office at Marlinton, further grogress was made on "Standard Breeds of Livestock for Pocahontas County." Hampshire sheep and Barred Plymoth Rock poultry were added to the list—thus making Hereford cattle, Duro-Jersey hogs, Hampshire sheep, and Barred Plymoth Rock poultry the program of the local Farm Bureau. This list was selected more particularly for the special projects of the 4-H Clubs of the county. However, it is hoped that the older people will eventually follow in line.

Practically everything has been done in the past in the way of improving livestock has been in the form of standard breeding. In Europe, we find many sections, in each of which a certain breed has been developed that seemed to be particulaly suited to the local environment. Examples of this are found with the Hereford Cattle of Herefordshire. The Percheron Horse of La Perche, France, and the Hampshire Sheep of Hampshire County, England.

Every man is privileged to indulge his purely personal prejudices and fancies in relation to breeds, but if he places money returns first, he cannot afford to adhere to the locally scarce and unpopular breed.

Pocahontas County is known today as a center for Hereford cattle and is attracting the attention of buyers from the outside, not only for breeding animals but for stock cattle as well. One man from Grant county purchased over one hundred head of Hereford cattle for feeding purposes. Why not make this county known for one breed of sheep, poultry and hogs, as well. Where community breeding is practiced, we find that the young people learn to respect the importance of well bred animals, and thus become deeply interested in their development. Well bred animals appeal to the boys and is about the only thing that can extract willing and continuous service from the youngster. The future of our livestock industry is dependent upon the active, intelligent interest of the young people, who will be the breeders of tomorrow.

"It ain't the guns nor the armament,
nor the funds that they can pay,
But the close cooperation that makes them win the day;
It ain't the individual, nor the army
as a whole,
But the everlasting team work of every bloomin' soul."

—Kipling.

Special sheep Project.

From ten to fifteen registered, yearling Hampshire ewes will be distrsbuted among the boys and girls of the county about the middle of November. These animals will be bred. A. C. Barlow, L. P. McLaughlin and J. R. Hevener are the committee in charge. Full details of the project will be printed in a later edition of this paper after the committee has been consulted relative to the plans. Applications for sheep will now be received by the County Agent.

4-H Club Notes

The Edray "Producers" had a meeting Friday night and decided to have a club exhibit at the State Fair next fall. The Elk "Busy Bees" are planning to reorganize at their next meeting, and each club member has voted himself as a committee of one to secure additional members.

Mr. Walter Schnopp, instructor of vocational agriculture at the Greenbank High School, will take charge of 4 H Club work in that district during the winter and next summer. Mr. Schnopp hails from Preston county, and we are expecting him to put across a mighty good piece of work. We understand that he put club work on the map in his own in his own county. Miss Hite, a teacher in the same school, will devote her entire time during June, July and August to girls' club work in that district. Her home is in Rockbridge county, Va., where she was not only a club member herself, but has been engaged as a camp instructor. Mr. Schnopp and Miss Hite plan to make a complete tour of that district for the purpose of organization work—"pep" meetings—I believe they are called.

Mr. Schnopp features as a salesman—it being reported that he once sold a book to a senator. Miss Hite specializes in bread making—taking the county prize for two successive years in her native county. Together, they ought to make a good combination for the work which they expect to undertake, and the results of the work will be looked forward to with more than local interest.

Here and There

Sherman Gibson believes that he will have the largest hog in the county for butchering purposes. Needless to say that it is a Duroc.

W. A. Arbogast is rapidly completing an incubator cellar near his residence, and plans to erect another new poultry house.

Late returns from the State 4 H Fair indicate the addtional winners in this county as follows:

Booklet, Frances Stillwell, 7th.
1st hear Duroc-Jersey, Arta Wells 4th.
2nd year sewing, Pearl Barlow 7th.

ARBOVALE

We are having fine weather for the last of October.

Not much corn has been husked yet on account of fodder being so dry.

Fall grass is very short and farmers will have to begin feeding soon.

The road workers done some work on our side roads last week which was badly needed.

Carl Arbogast is building a large barn. D. O. Woods is foreman of the carpenter force.

The North Fork people are doing a rushing business hauling out logs.

The Arbovale Sunday School is keeping up its attendance very well 70 present last Sunday.

Rev. Harris preached last Sunday from these words, Simon a Cyrenian bore the cross after Jusus.

The third quarterly conference of the Wesley Chapel Methodist Church, Hillsboro, will be held Saturday night at the parsonage at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. W. O. Talbert, Presiding Elder of Lewisburg District will preach Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

VOTE THE WAY YOU PLEASE

It comes to us that there are some voters in the county who have the idea that they will have no choice of tickets in the election to be held next Tuesday. As Democrats were handed out Democratic ballots and Republicans were given Republican ballots in the Primary, so they will have no choice of tickets in the general election. This is not the case.

The old rule applies. You can vote for any one on either ticket at the general election no matter how you registered for the primary.

Honor roll first month Cherry Grove school, Madge Welford teacher. Jean Hevener, Olive Hevener, Byron Hevener, Raymond Hevener, Addie McCloud, Lela McCloud, Letha Curry, Emma Curry, Burr Houchin, Clay Houchin.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hamrick, a son, Friday, October 27, 1922.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Olive Jack, a daughter.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Beverage, of Browns Mountain, a son—the 10th child.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Lee Smith, a son.

Born to Mr, and Mrs. Milburn Sharp, a son.

Neal Nottingham, of Boyer, was in the Levels last Saturday to buy a registered Hampshire ram, from J. S. McNeel.

STATEMENT

Of the ownership, management and circulation, etc. required by the act of Congress of August 24, 1912,
Of the Pocahontas Times published weekly at Marlinton, W. Va.
Publisher, Calvin W. Price, Marlinton, W. Va.
Editor, Calvin W. Price, Marlinton, W. Va.
Managing Editor, none.
Business manager, none.
That the owner is Calvin W. Price.
That the known bondholders, mortgages, etc. are none.

CALVIN W. PRICE.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 27th of October, 1922.

J. L. BAXTER,
Notary Public.
My commission expires Aug. 3, 1923.

NOTICE OF REWARD

The undersigned Game & Fish Commission of West Virginia will pay the sum of One Hundred Dollars, $100.00, to any person who will furnish evidence leading to the arrest and conviction of any party or parties guilty of wilfully setting out fire in the woods or forests of this State.

Game & Fish Commission
WEST VIRGINIA

Charleston, W. Va.
October 1, 1922.

POTATOES

We will pay best market prices for potatoes enough to fill our bins. See us at once as we can only handle a limited amount.

Peoples Store & Supply Co.
Marlinton, W. Va.

We Pay

Highest Cash Prices For

Turkeys, Chickens, Guineas, Geese, Ducks

Delivered to car at Marlinton, W. Va. Phone or write

R. K. GEYER
F. P. McLAUGHLIN

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLI NO 13 — MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, NOVEMBER 9. 1922 — $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

ELECTION RETURNS, COMPLETE—November 7, 1922

	(Durbin)	(Greenbank)	(Dunmore)	(Cass)	Thornwood	Boyer	(Hosterman)	(East Cass)	Bartow	(Marlinton)	(Edray)	(Linwood)	(Cloverlick)	(W. Marlinton)	(Buckeye)	(Woodrow)	(Frost)	(Huntersville)	(Thorney Cr.)	(E. Buckeye)	(Mill Point)	(Hillsboro)	(Lobelia)	Seebert	(Beard)	(Droop Mtn.)	Total	Majority
For United States Senator
M. M. Neely	152	232	117	150	19	60	48	91	41	158	63	63	92	106	43	22	55	130	7	6	92	152	58	39	62	41	2100	510
Howard Sutherland	79	72	42	46	10	42	7	70	24	117	147	45	37	141	79	38	76	149	22	16	56	53	67	75	26	51	1590
For Congress, Sixth Congressional
J. Alfred Taylor	159	237	121	154	22	58	48	92	46	170	61	63	93	107	43	22	55	132	7	6	89	152	57	41	54	42	2129	608
Leonard S. Echols	64	65	39	45	11	42	7	65	22	102	147	43	33	134	79	38	76	146	21	16	57	52	68	70	28	51	1521
For State Senator, Tenth Senatorial
A. C. Herold	135	228	119	153	18	53	48	89	36	164	64	63	74	106	43	22	55	134	7	6	92	155	58	39	56	43	2080	468
Geo F. Hull	96	71	40	51	16	78	7	66	29	108	145	45	32	131	78	38	76	144	21	16	54	51	68	75	27	49	1612
For House of Delegates
J. A. McLaughlin	153	241	126	141	24	59	48	101	44	182	74	66	103	117	49	27	55	151	10	6	97	146	55	38	62	53	2228	861
A. E Kinnison	44	61	33	45	9	40	7	54	22	89	134	41	24	117	67	33	76	129	20	16	52	52	66	78	18	40	1367
For County Commissioner
J. Lanty McNeel	152	234	119	161	22	57	48	89	38	174	80	84	91	109	61	25	52	149	8	7	107	164	69	65	67	56	2288	942
C. P. McElwee	73	63	37	39	11	40	7	67	24	101	129	22	32	124	65	34	76	131	20	15	43	36	55	53	16	33	1346
For County Superintendent of
Anna M. Wallace	132	197	125	143	22	53	48	82	29	170	64	60	84	105	53	22	49	139	9	5	91	132	57	39	60	33	2003	303
C. E. Flynn	110	102	35	60	12	53	7	78	38	105	145	48	41	133	70	38	81	142	21	17	59	69	68	79	29	60	1700

Hon. J. A. McLAUGHLIN, Delegate-Elect

THE ELECTION

The sooner the quicker.

It was a Democratic election. Two years ago the Republican party was so strongly supported that it seemed doubtful whether the Democratic party would cut any figure in politics, and lo, and behold, the first succeeding election restores and rehabilitates the old party.

As we go to press there is nothing definite from the nation at large except that the trend is strongly Democratic, but we do not know yet for certain whether the legislature will be Democratic or not, and the reports on congress are in the same fix. Democrats are claiming the election of Neeley and six congressmen. New York has gone Democratic by a large majority.

The vote in this county has been a true indication of the vote in the nation for many years. It is a much better barometer than the state of Maine for instance. And it is always true too that one precinct in the county gives a key to the whole.

For instance in West Marlinton where we live, in 1920, the Republican brethren and sisters carried the precinct by 103. So on election night about seven pipemma we came over town and heard that the Republican majority had been cut down to 35, we said to mother that it was a Democratic day. The faithful gathered around the phone. In the old days it looked like a bunch of sports. Now with the presence of ladies, receiving the returns is a social event.

Not a damn was heard, and no verbal slips,
None boisterous, and not even hearty:
We were all as polite as a basket of chips,
Just like attending a party.

Then the things began to slide our way. Lobelia down from 55 to 11, Frost from 97 to 21, Edray from 188 to 84, Republican. Greenbank up from 118 to 169, Cass from 59 to 104, Democratic. These are figures of 1920 and 1922. None other count because of the suffering of women. But Woodrow came in 16 in 1920, 16 in 1922, Republican. There was no change there. The majority was the same in both elections. Woodrow, there she stands.

A long about 9 o'clock in the evening records were being made. The largest majority Pocahontas ever gave any party was 413 Democratic in 1892 407 Republican since then. It is over five hundred this year Democratic. All the records went down. Finally but one stood and that was Judge Sharp's individual majority in 1912 of 770. And this was superseded by Lanty McNeel's majority of 942 and John McLaughlin's 861.

Hon. Anna Wallace's majority was 303, but she was pitted against Prof. Flynn and had a much more formidable opponent than either of the other two contestants. And all things considered hers may be the noblest run of them all.

We are glad that it is not necessary to scrap the Democratic machinery, and that it was there to continue the light when the Republican dynamo played out, and we admonish our Republican friends to keep their lamps trimmed and burning to take our country over at the close of this Democatic era.

PRESBYTERIAN LAYMAN

Greenbrier Presbytery has begun organization of the Laymen's Association of Greenbrier Presbytery by electing the following officers: President, J. L. Bumgardner, Beckley, W. Va; Vice President S. N. Hench Marlinton; Secretary Hubert C Erwin, Patton; Treas, J. W. Baxter, Renick.

Pastors of the various Churches are urged to organize the men without delay with President; Vice President; Secretary and Treasurer Where there is no pastor the Clerk of the Session may act. The following are some of the purposes:

1. Evangelistic and Religious Work;
2. Social Life and Boys Work;
3. Informational and Bible Study
4. Stewardship;
5. To supply vacant fields with religious services by the Laymen of the Church.
6. Personal Work and Prayer.

A fee of 10 cents per male membership of the Church is asked from each Church to help defray expences. Please report names and addresses of officers at once to H. C. Erwin. Secretary Laymen's Association, Patton, W. Va.

CHURCH DEDICATION

The Beard Presbyterian Church will be dedicated Sunday, November 19, 1922. The services will begih at 10:30 a. m. They will be held by our pastor Rev. J. C. Johnson assisted by others from a distance. Possibly by Rev. L. P. Groves of Charleston. Dinner will be served on the ground by the ladies. Everybody welcome. Come and enjoy the day with us.

Committee.

The S. E. A. enrollment is approaching the fifty mark. Teachers who expect to enroll should do so immediately. Some days are required to arrange for the identification Certificates which are necessary before cut rate tickets are sold.

BACK BROKEN

Mrs. Preston Baxter Thrown From Automobile and Terribly Injured.

On Sunday afternoon Mrs G. P. Baxter, of Edray, was thrown from automobile on hill near Giles Sharp's residence, and suffered a broken back. She and her husband were returning from a visit to the home of their son, Floyd Baxter, at Poages Lane. As they were coming up the hill on the south side of the Giles Sharp run, the machine left the road for some cause or other and turned over the very steep bank. Mrs Baxter was thrown into the run and suffered terrible injuries. Mr. Baxter had some ribs fractured, but was not seriously hurt. Drs. J. W. and N. R. Price were called and found Mrs. Baxter's back was broken. She is now at the Marlinton Hospital.

Mrs. Baxter is a daughter of the late Levi Waugh. She has one son, Floyd Baxter. Her sisters are Mrs. C. E. Denison, of Marlinton; Mrs. A. D. Williams, of Morgantown. Miss Lizzie Waugh, of the Pocahontas Times, and Mrs. W. P. Clower of Rainelle. Her brothers are Harlow Waugh, the Marlinton merchant and G. H. Waugh, of Edray, and Grover Waugh, of Akron, Ohio.

As this paper goes to press Mrs. Baxter is resting easier, and there are hopes of her recovery.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

9:45 a. m. Sunday School.
11:00 a. m. Ordination Service
7:00 p. m. Christian Endeavor
7:45 p. m. Dr. John I. Armstrong, Lewisburg.

The elders and deacons recently elected will be ordained and installed at the 11 o'clock service Sunday morning.

Dr. Jno. I. Armstrong will assistant with this service.

The reception of new members has been postponed till Sunday week, November 19th.

The meeting at Hamlin Chapel to be conducted by Rev. J. E. Flow, D. D., has been postponed to begin Thursday night, November 16th.

Rev. John I. Armstrong, D. D. will preach at Huntersville Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Rev. H. H. Orr will preach at Westminister Church on Knapps Creek on Sunday [illegible] at 3 p. m.

MARLINTON METH[illegible] CHURCH

Rev. Fred B. Wyand, Pastor
Sunday School 9:45 a. m.
A. S. Overholt, Supt.
11:00 a. m. Sermon subject, "The Value of the Human Soul."
7:00 p. m. Epworth League
7:45 p. m. Special Missionary Sermon.

Last Sunday was a banner day for the Sunday school havins 230 present.

The old weather prophets are already forecasting a hard winter and various reasons for it. To start with the last two or three winters have been so mild that it is more than likely we will pay for it with weather extremes the other way. But the prognosticators are telling about how thick the corn husk is this fall; and that the bark on the north side of the tree is thicker than usual. The squirrels are very busy storing away an unusual amount of nuts and winter forage. The ground hog is digging his hole deeper than usual: the ants are working overtime dragging in grass hoppers and other loafers to feed on this winter and many other signs indicate that old fashioned red flannel shirts and home made knit socks will be in demand.—Fayette Tribune

Z. S. Smith, Jr. has his house well under way. J. E. Buckley's home is progressing rapidly. Foundation and basement finished. Dr. C. S. Kramer's new house has passed the bricklaying stage. Mrs Lucy Gay's new house is under roof. These are fine mansions that will add much to the town.

FIRE AT AMUSU

A film catching on fire at the matinee performance of the Amusu Theatre caused a small fire and considerable damage, Tuesday afternoon. The house was full of children, but there was no panic—the house was emptied promptly and in order and the fire put out. The loss is about $400 and there is no insurance. It is not known how the fire started.

DIED

Mrs. B. M. Yeager died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Levi P. Hall in Staunton, on November 2, 1922, after a short illness. Her age was 79 years. The funeral service was on Friday morning, the service being conducted by Dr. Fraser, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. Burial in the Thornrose cemetery.

Mrs Julia Moore Sharp was born September, 1845; died August 17 1922; was married to William M Sharp October, 1868. She was the daughter of Squire Isaac and Catherine Gillilan Moore. Only her husband and one daughter, Mrs J. W. Price, survive her. Of her father's family only two remain, Mrs Paul Sharp, of Harter, and S. B. Moore, of Edray. She was a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Mrs Sharp was more than an ordinary person. Her beautiful life and conduct were permeated by the highest ideals and principles, nothing low or base ever being approved by her. She trod the ways of constructive happiness, being a co-worker with God, as she performed the many deeds of love and service, shedding grace and beauty all about her.

Her life has been a lovely model of womanhood, an inspiration to all who knew her. Her greatest service was given to her home, and in that she had no superior. She was simply queen, considering home making one of the finest arts. Hers was the ability that made the house a home, the dearest place on earth, where love peace and joy are certered. She beautifully fulfilled the injunction to "brighten the corner where you are."

Not only did Mrs Sharp serve her family faithfully, but occupying one of the oldest and more prominent homesteads on the Lewisburg and Beverly Turnpike she largely entertained and took care of the traveling public for many years. All was done in the most graceful and admirable manner.

The last illness of this good woman was of a duration of about three weeks, being violently ill only a few days. When it became apparent that her trouble was of obscure nature and that she could be with us only a short while, the news caused heavy clouds to hover o'er us, and her family and her family and loved ones were simply heart broken. All was done for her that medical skill and loving hands could do. All the time she displayed the loving, cheerful disposition, which was always hers to give, being so patient and resigned, accepting even death submissively.

In religious affairs she was quiet and undemonstrative, but one had only to come in contact with her to tell she had been tutored by the great teacher, reflecting his spirit and love in all the walks of life. As death stole in the words of eternal truth were made manifest. "My grace is sufficient for thee for my strength is made perfect in weakness."

Thus amid the presence of loved ones her spirit passed from this earthly home to the home of the Soul.

And while she is gone from us, the influence of her beautiful life still lives, and will ever be gratefully cherished by all who knew her.

"To live in hearts we leave behind is not to die."
How blessed thus to die. G.

WAMSLEY-MACE

Wednesday morning, November 1st Mr. Jesse S. Wamsley and Miss Annie Mace of Mingo, Randolph County were married at the Presbyterian manse, Marlinton, by Rev. H. H. Orr. The young couple expect to make their home in Mingo.

HUNTING ACCIDENT

Frank Moore, aged 17, son of Thomas Moore, of Hosterman, shot himself in the forearm with a load of fine shot while hunting on Tuesday. He set the gun down hard enough to jar it off. An older brother was with him. He was brought to the Marlinton Hospital Wednesday morning.

FAMILY REUNION

The nine children of the late Henry and Caroline Curry Sharp, held a reunion on Thursday, October 26, at the home of Gilbert Sharp, the old homestead. A remarkable thing about this family of nine is that while the youngest is 42 years of age, there has never been a death to disrupt the circle. All were present at the reunion. Those present were Mr. and Mrs J. Albert Sharp and 2 grand children and Mrs. Clara Overholt, of Marlinton; Mr. and Mrs Gilbert Sharp and 4 children; Mr. and Mrs G. M. Ervine and 2 children, of Browns Mountain; Mrs. Effie Campbell, of Roanoke; Mrs. Bertha Peterson, of Parksburg, Penn.; Mrs. H. R. Warren, and Mr. and Mrs. Saml. Sheets and daughter, of Hillsboro; Rev. and Mrs. Snapp and two children, of Middlebrook, Va.

WEST VIRGINIA

(By Ross Cavendish)

Bounded as it is: it's little wonder
That affrays and feuds abound
In West Virginia: often called
The dark and bloody ground.
Bounded on the upper side
By Cyrus: the dog-star: and the milk-maid road,
Come ye scribblers of infamous lies,
Come right on to noman's land: and unload.

The line of demarcation
On the underside
Is labelled hades or Halifax
Or else somebodys lied.
Come to the state where pistols pop,
And dynamite and nitro glycerine explodes,
From the peaks and crags of the Alleghenies
To hell's cross-roads.

Come to West Virginia and be free
From fear of law: where vice is taught
Where virtue is dishonored: and crime condoned
Where the Lord God liveth: but reigneth not.
Come ye crooks: ye confidence men, come on;
Come from Borneo, Bagdad: and from Pacific's furtherest isle.
Stop not in New York city; where crime's unknown
But come right on to West Virginia: and rest awhile.

The miners of course: are mostly dead
The operators sickened of the breed
And wiped them out: all but a few
They left for seed.
One mother saved her darling babe
From the gunmen: so 'tis said,
By the slickest trick you ever heard;
She baked it it a loaf of bread.

In one of the blackest mining towns this side the pits of hell
A week ago today: four hundred well fed, well drest children read
In Sunday school: the lesson
About Christ giving life again: to the little maiden dead.
Come again ye writers of infamous lies
Ye rabbis: who listens to the tales of Peggy Dire,
Come paint for us the scenes of the crucifixion
And bring along your lyre.

—Fayette Tribune

Those attending the regular meeting of Hillsboro Chapter Eastern Star Friday night, Nov. 3d were: Mrs. Fred B. Moore, of Huntersville, Mr and Mrs. B. B. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Waugh. Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Livesay, Mrs. A. J. Gum, Mrs. C. E. Dennison, Mrs. W. L. Deering, Mrs. Burton Wilson, Mrs Amos Wooddell, Mrs. J. A. McLaughlin, Rev. and Mrs Harvey Orr, Mrs. M. P. Burr, Mrs. I. Rosen, Mrs J. E. Buckley Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Thomas, Mrs. M. S. Wilson, and Misses, Geraldine Haupt Blanche Pritchard, Hycie Thomas of Marlinton. All report a good trip and a nice time.

Thanksgiving TURKEYS

We wish to advise the shippers of Pocahontas Co. the outlook is certainly very bright for a

Splendid Thanksgiving Market

From information gathered over the country we not anticipate an oversupply, which fact alone guarantees each shipper most excellent returns. We have been serving the Poultry Raisers 42 years and have our first instance to experience when FANCY FAT TURKEYS failed to sell good prices. Have your turkeys fully matured, neatly dressed and carefully packed that when opened here they will be fresh and plump. This ts positively necessary, and unless your birds are fat and the weather cold by all means hold them for the Christmas market.

After months of tedious labo, and expense to raise your turkeys why not ship direct, the express and commission to market in this manner are surprisingly small. Do not experiment this year when it will pay you in dollars to ship direct to Frank Hellerick & Co., the recognized house of efficiency and fair dealing in Philadelphia. Ask your own banker or merchant or better still neighbors who have shipped to Us. We do business strictly in the open and are only too glad to have you make such inquiries.

Have your shipment, any quantity, arrive 26 to 29 inclusive, and CHECK in return shall be entirely satisfactory.

Frank Hellerick & Co.
"A poultry house every day in the year"
349 New Market St. — 120 Callowhill St.
Philadelphia, Pa.

MULDOON FOR CONCORD

Prof. C. C. Rossey has resigned as president of Concord Normal School. There is speculation among the teachers and others as to who will succeed him as head of this important State School. While the candidates for the position are not yet known, it certainly appears that the sentiment in this county is favorable to Prof. J. D. Muldoon, State supervisor of rural schools. The Pocahontas Times is for him. We know him, and know him to be the type of man who should head this institution. The work of this school is largely to equip teachers for our rural schools, and no one in the State knows so well what the rural teacher needs in the way of training and equipment. In addition to his ability as an executive, his mental endowments and scholarly attainments, and his long experience, he is an upright christian gentleman, and an outstanding church worker. Mr. Muldoon is perhaps better known in Pocahontas county for the fine work he did as a lecturer at the County Sunday School Convention held on Knapps Creek last August. This writer has a particular interest in the Concord Normal on account of its being our closest State school and the one to which the students from Pocahontas naturally go, and for this reason he is anxiously to see Mr. Muldoon given an opportunity to make Concord Normal what it ought to be.

Washington, November 3—Charles Moore and Miss Icie Harrey, both of Huntersville, W. Va., obtained a marriage license here today. Mr. Moore is forty years old and his prospective bride is eighteen. Rev. J. E. Briggs is named as the officiating clergyman.

Mrs. Rachel Beard is still very sick.

We Pay

Highest Cash Prices For

Turkeys, Chickens, Guineas, Geese, Ducks

Delivered to car at Marlinton, W. Va., November 14. Phone or write

R. K. GEYER
F. P. McLAUGHLIN

Misses Polly Sydenstricter, Margaret Margaret McLaughlin, and Margaret Price, will give entertainments at the high school auditoriums at Williamsburg, Friday, and at Renick, Saturday. Both performances at 7:30 p. m.

The editor's pup, a great favorite in the family, came up to the printing office and was promptly destroyed by an automobile.

The new Methodist church is up to the square and it is apparent that it will be by all odds the finest building of any kind in Pocahontas county.

State Bar Association at Huntington next week. Some of the local lawyers will attend.

There will be a pie supper at the Buckeye Graded school house; Saturday night November 11, 1922, beginning at 7:30. Proceeds for benefit of the school. Everyone invited.

NOTICE OF REWARD

The undersigned Game & Fish Commission of West Virginia will pay the sum of One Hundred Dollars, $100.00, to any person who will furnish evidence leading to the arrest and conviction of any party or parties guilty of wilfully setting out fire in the woods or forests of this State.

Game & Fish Commission
WEST VIRGINIA

Charleston, W. Va.
October 1, 1922.

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

TOURING CAR

$348

F. O. B. Detroit

Never Before A Value Like This

Why should you buy any car but a Ford? Prices lowest, parts lowest, operating and upkeep expense lowest, yet a Ford car will take you any place any car will go. These are sensible, not extravagant times, and a Ford is the most sensible car for anyone to own. Terms if desired.

Baxter's Garage
J. L. Baxter, Prop.
Marlinton - - - W. Va.

Picture Framing

AND FURNITURE REPAIRING

Picture framing neatly and promptly done at a reasonable price. Also old furniture made as good as new. Shop at my house near Court-house. Phone your orders and I will come for your work.

C. J. McCarty,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Sept. 1.

For Sale

Copper Water Cans, Spouting, Tin Fixtures, copper tubing, bath room outfits, etc.

C. W. Slavin
Tinner and Plumber
Marlinton, W. Va.

Baxter's Garage

MARLINTON W. VA.
FORD Cars and Supplies
FORDSON Tractors

A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.

J. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Engine and Thresher For Sale

One 26x32 threshbox, Faurquhar, in good conditiod, with belts, etc. An International portable 10 hp gasoline engine. This makes a fine threshing outfit. Will sell together or separately to suit purchaser.

D. M. KENNISON
Lobelia, W. Va.

Hereford Bulls

I have a lot of young Hereford bulls, registered and fine specimen of the breed. Will be sold for spring delivery.

J. S. McNeel,
Seebert, W. Va.

For Sale at a Bargain

1500 acres of land in Virginia.
A good farming proposition.
A good timber proposition.
A good water-power proposition
A good milling proposition.
All combined in the above.
Bad health is why this proposal is made.
If interested, write to the owner

C. H. REVERCOMB,
Covington, Va

HOUSE FOR SALE: A five room cottage house in Greenbank, with half acre lot. This is a good home for some one. House was built new two years ago. Will sell reasonable. If interested address,

Mrs. Fannie Sheets,
Hillsboro, W. Va.

FOR SALE—A utility body for a Ford car. This is a mighty handy thing for hauling produce to town. Floyd Dilley, Marlinton, W. Va.

Victrola

The universal recognition of Victrola superiority confirms the judgment of the world's greatest artists. The Victrola is their deliberate choice. That these artists make their Victor Records specially to play on the Victrola is the strongest recommendation any instrument could have.

Victrolas from $25 up.

Our Record supply is kept up-to-date. We receive regularly the monthly release of new Records.

Amos Wooddell
Watchmaker - Jeweler
Marlinton, W. Va.

S. C. BROWN LEGHORN EGGS

Per setting of 15 at house, 75 cents. Per setting of 15 by porcel post $1.00. Per 100 at house, $5.00; by parcel post 50c extra.

These eggs are from a laying strain some of the best blood lines in the country are represented in this flock. There is no better layer than the S. C. Brown Leghorn, and few as good,

FRED GEHAUF,
39 Upper Camden, Marlinton, W. Va.

Sawing Contract Wanted

I would like to contract for the sawing of a lot of lumber. including piling. 25 horse power No. 2 mill, Frick outfit complete.

C. H. Swearengin,
Neola, W. Va.

Executor's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of the late B. M. Trainer to present the same properly proven to the undersigned executor at his office at Greenbank, W. Va. All persons indebted to said estate will prepare to settle at once.

This 10th of April, 1922.

L. H. Moomau,
Executor of B. M. Trainer, deceased

EGGS FOR HATCHING, from fine S. C. R. I. Reds. Heavy egg producers. Gertrude Blagg, Monterey, Virginia.

HOUSE FOR RENT—If you want to rent a house and will pay your rent one month in advance and are a good peaceable citizen, apply to John Maupin, Marlinton, W. Va.

BIBLE CONFERENCE

Hinton, W. Va.—Ideals of service and the enthusiasm of youth were predominent forces in the success of the second annual Young Peoples' Conference of Greenbrier Presbytery, which was held in the First Baptist Church of Hinton, West Virginia, a few weeks since.

Sixty-one young people, who came as representatives from seventeen churches in the Presbytery, were present at the opening session of the conference. After a brief song service followed by scripture reading and prayer, three most interesting and helpful addresses were given by leaders in the Presbyterian Church on subjects vitally related to young people's work. The speakers and subjects were as follows: Rev. T. P. Allen, Synodical Manager, on "Relation of the Young People to the Presbyterian Progressive Campaign;" Rev R. L. Kinnaird on "Training for Service;", Miss Nancy F. White, Field Worker for Sunday Schools and Young People's Work, on "What are your Plans?" The young people themselves took charge of the other numbers on the program which consisted of reports of delegates from the churches on "What We are doing in Organized Classes, Departmental Organization and Christian Endeavor." The leaders felt that the manner in which these and other talks were given revealed unusual gifts of leadership among the young people of the church. The Question Box gave an opportunity for questions in regard to any phase of young people's work and many helpful suggestions were received.

At 6:30 Friday evening the second session of the conference opened with a banquet at which Mr. Harvey H Orr presided as toastmaster. Hinton and Alderson sent the largest number of representatives who were delighted to find that visitors as well as delegates could attend the banquet. A delightful four course dinner was served amidst songs and yells as each delegation vied with the other for first place. Special mention was made of the originality and cleverness of the songs and yells.

At the conclusion of the banquet Miss Kate Johnson gave an interesting talk on "Some Real Experiences" of her Home Mission work near Beckley, West Virginia, followed by Rev. B. F. Sperow's sterioptican views of the conferences held last year at Madison, West Virginia, and Montreat, North Carolina. These slides aroused much enthusiasm and created a desire to attend the conference to be held this year at Lewisburg, West Virginia, June 13-20. A brief business meeting was necessary for the election of officers at this time. Mr. James Pinkney of Beckley, was made president, and Miss Virginia Miller of Alderson, was made secretary for the coming year. The meeting closed with an unusually interesting address on "God's Grammar" by Mrs. Hazen Smith, Life Work Secretary under Dr. Henry Sweets.

Mr. Pinkney presided at the closing service of the conference which was held on Saturday morning. All who were present found inspiration in three excellent talks given by representative of young people on "Relation of Young People to the Church." The speakers were Miss Virginia Miller, of Alderson; Mr. Frank Hutchison, of Ronceverte and Miss Florence McClung, of Sinks Grove. Dr. Armstrong brought a message for everyone in "How Can I Best Serve Jesus." Mrs. Hazen Smith very forcefully presented the church problem as influenced by our American ideals and the conference closed with an address by Mrs. R. F. Dunlap on "The Rungs of the Ladder of Service," which beautifully summed up our conference ideals.

Each one present returned home with new inspiration, enthusiasm and with a determination to make their young peoples work count for more for the service of the Master. Each one present also wishes to thank Mrs. Johnson, Mr. Orr and all those whose efforts gave them two delightful days and they wish especially to express their appreciation of the warm hospitality of the Hinton people and of their cooperation in making the second Young People's Conference a success in every way.

AZIMUTH LINE

In the year 1921, Mr. C. R. Fisher of the United States Geological Survey, with the assistance of Mr. Ed Moore and others, established a line in the Town of Marlinton, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, for the purpose of enabling surveyors to test their compasses. The northern monument will be found at the abutment of the county bridge across Greenbrier river, and the southern end something like 1700 feet distant.

Mr. Fisher gives the azimuth of the line to be 211 degrees, 56 minutes 57 seconds from the south end to the north end, and from the south end to the center of the tannery smoke stack, 216 degrees, 59 minutes, 2 seconds.

Equivalent to N 31 degrees, 56 minutes, 57 secondsE
and
N 36 degrees, 59 minutes, 2 seconds E respectively.

ANDREW PRICE.

April 14, 1922.
State of West Virginia,
County of Pocahontas, to-wit:

I, P. T. Ward, a notary of said county do certify that Andrew Price whose name is signed to the writing above bearing date on the 14th day of April, 1922, has this day acknowledged the same before me in my said county.

Given under my hand this 22nd day of April, 1922.

P. T. WARD, Notary Public.
My commission expires Jan. 8, 1928.

Surveyors will note that the above information in regard to this meredian line has been recorded in the office of the clerk of the aounty court of Pocahontas County, in the Miscellaneous Record book number one at page 21, for the purpose of insuring it against being lost.

SHARP-JOHNSON

Married, Jacob W. Sharp and Mrs. Birdie Lee Johnson, on Wednesday, April 26, 1922, Rev. H. H. Orr officiating at the Manse, Marlinton.

60TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

On Monday, October 24, 1921, the 60th wedding anniversary of Thomas Claiborne and Mary Staats Hill was celebrated at their home in Jackson township by about 215 relatives and neighbors. About 10 o'clock the first arrivals appeared at the home and from that time until noon they came continuously, each one bringing a supply of good things to eat. These were placed on a table 70 feet long that had been erected in the yard, and all participated in a feast that would satisfy the most delicate taste or gorgeous appetite. A fancy wedding cake had been prepared by "Betsy" Corroll that was admired and enjoyed by all.

Thomas Claiborne Hill was born in Pocahontas county W. Va., October 1, 1835, and spent his boyhood days there. He went to Roane county, W. Va., when about 17 years old where he met his future wife, Miss Mary Staats. She was born at Terre Haute, Indiana, June 5, 1844. When three years of age her parents moved to West Virginia, where she grew to womanhood. The two were united in marriage October 24, 1861, by Rev. Archie Thomas, a Methodist minister. The first three years of their married life was spent near West Columbia, W. Va. Then they decided to go west and build their home. The mode of traveling was different then to what it is at present, so they started down the Ohio river on a steamboat, following down this stream to its mouth, then up the Mississippi to Hannibal, Mo., then by rail to Laclede, Mo. The rest of the journey was made with wagons and teams, there being no railroads in this part of Missouri at that time. It took ten days to make the trip. They arrived near the site of their present home the day before Abraham Lincoln was elected president the second time. While here they stood in their door and watched John Hunt Morgan's band surrender, the gunboat come down the river, stop and kept Morgan and his band from crossing, while the soldiers came up behind them and they had to surrender. Morgan and a very few of his men made their escape. The Civil War had not closed and the boat they started on was repoted sunk as it was going down the Ohio, causing the folks back home much uneasiness until they received a letter informing them the trip to Missouri had been safely made.

They started housekeeping in a one room log house. This house had one door, no windows, a large fire place and was covered with clapboards weighted down with logs. This served as a residence about six years, when it was replaced by the present building. During the first years in their new home they endured many hardships incident to the life of the early pioneer.

Their union has been blessed with eight children, as follows: Mrs H. P Bruce, Alva, Okla; Geo A. Hill, Chillicothe, Mo.; Joseph S. Hill (deceasod) Mrs. S. S. Quinn, Hopeton, Okla.; John F. Hill, Humphreys, Mo Fred F. Hill, Pollock, Mo; Mrs. C. N. Bruce, Lucerne, Mo.; Theodore, (dceased); twenty-three grandchildren (four deceased) and 20 great grand-children (two dnceased)

All the surviving children, twelve grand children, three great grand children, and J. F. Hill, brother of T. C. Hill, were present at the occasion.

These two brothers were distinguished as being the oldest persons attending the celebration, J. F. Hill being 88 and his brother 86.

Some beautiful presents were received by Mr. and Mrs. Hill, namely: two willow rockers by the children; smoked water set, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Staats, Ottumwa, Iowa; two dollars, Mr. and Mrs William Garrin, Ottumwa, Iowa: German silver souvenir plate, Chas. Bockenkamp, Washington, D. C; aluminum percolator, Henry Chester and Mary Alexander, Alva, Okla; butter paddle, Mrs Sarah Staats, Ottumwa, Iowa.—G. A. Hill.

The above is from a Missouri paper, and was kindly sent us by I. N. Clutter, of Lobelia. Thomas Claiborne Hill has two half brothers still living at Lobelia. They are A D. W. Hill and Joel R. Hill. The late Isaac Hill, a Confederate veteran, who died seven or eight years ago, was another brother.

WEST UNION

The health of the community is very good at this this time.

Porter Sharp of Warwick, has moved on his farm, the W. G. Cochran place

Frank Beverage and family were visiting relatives near Warwick a few days ago.

Frank Jordan has commenced a large job of cutting and skidding here, which timber he and John Galford purchased about 2 years ago.

Mr. Galford has had a very severe case of bone erysipelas and has been confined to his room most all the time since last October.

Charles Galford who has purchased a large saw mill from E H. Williams will do the sawing.

W. H. Gilmore was at Marlinton on business recently.

Lanty Gilmore was visiting his cousin, Wilburn Gilmore at Woodrow recently.

Our Sunday School is increasing in attendance and interest also. We were visited recently by our District President, Mr. Brill who gave us a good talk on Sunday School work. He was accompanied by J. Luther McNeil of Marlinton.

Miss Anne Correll, of Wolf Creek, is spoken of in connection with the Democratic nomination for county superintendent of schools in Monroe If she should enter the primaries, she will be the first woman candidate in that county for a county office.—West Virginia News.

Berkshire Pigs

5 pure bred Berkshire pigs, 2 months old, for sale at a reasonable price. Apply to

Joe M. Gay,
Edray, W. Va.

CIVIL WAR LETTERS

Written by George W. Arbogast, of the Greenbank Company, 31st Virginia Infantry, Confederate States Army, to his wife, who is now Mrs. Ellen Brown, of Greenbank. The following letters are the last of the series furnished us by his son, W. W. Arbogast, and were written just prior to the Battle of Spottsylvania in which Mr. Arbogast was mortally wounded, on May 12, 1864.

Camp Near Spottsylvania Court House,
April 9, 1864.

My Own Dear Wi...—

The Lord has saw fit to spare me through right smart danger in the last week. I should be thankful for his mercy and blessings, as His present kindness. I have written you a letter a few days since but had no chance to send it to the P O. The battle here commenced the 4th day of April. This Reg. came to the front on the 5th and done some little fighting. John Long was killed and Geo Arbogast wounded in Co. G.

The Yanks kept up such a strong scurming that night that we could not sleep much. On the morning of the 6th the Yanks charged our breast works, came in about thirty or forty yards and we let volley in to them, and they lay down and we fought them about three quarters of an hour and our guns got so hot that we were ordered to slacken our fire. The Yanks took advantage of the time and run, and the Yanks started to yell and we let a volley into them. There were about 100 Yanks dead. James Hamilton was wounded on the leg, Charles Moore scalped on the head and Jas. Sholes had his arm broken, the bullet entered his side and since then he died. About dusk we charged the Yanks breastworks and had to fall back about two hundred yards where we fortified that night, losing sleep again.

In this charge Mathias Moore was shot through the calf of the leg, Jas Wanless was wounded slightly, making six wounded and one killed in the Co. On the morning of the sixth we advanced and fortified and not being right threw them down, and built others. At dark got orders to move at eleven o'clock and marched nearly all night, losing another night to rest. The 8th we marched all day, a great many gave out and some died of the effects.

April 9th today, we marched some and fortified. April 10th, I feel rested today am very well. Our Brig. Gen. Pegram is wounded also Gen. Longstreet. Gen. Jones of the 25th Brig. was killed. The 25th were taken prisoners except sixty. Warwick may be glad he was not here. I saw Howard last night, he is well. He said he had heard from you a few days since. I have received but three letters from you yet. I will have to close as I have a chance to send this out. Write every week.

Kiss my babies.
Your devoted husband,
G. W. Arbogast.

In Camp, Orange County,
April 18, 1861.

My Dear Wife.—

When I left home I thought I would write to you once a week or as near as I could. I have written three or four times, and have received but one letter. Have you forgotten me, I hope not. I have been putting writing off thinking I would get another letter, but I don't want to get too negligent. Ellen you must write to me often, once a week or answer what you get from me without too much delay. I love to hear from any of my dear friends, more especially my beloved one.

There is very little talk of going to the northwest at this time. It would not surprise me if we would try to go to Pennsylvania as soon as the weather settles, though there is no telling where we will go or what we will do.

This has been a cold, wet, backward spring here, too bad for military operations. I can see snow on the Blue Ridge and I am afraid you are out of wood or hay, but you must be contented while you have enough to eat and wear.

We are doing pretty well here, though the rations doesn't come regular, on account of the weather and the occupation of the cars by the troops. Sometimes we get one part of a meal a day, though generally have enough for two meals. We don't do much duty, go on picket on once in twelve days and stay on two days, on camp guard once in three weeks, cook, wash and carry wood near half a mile, I have gotten to making and baking very good bread, can cook very well. I wish you had some of the coffee that we draw here, and I had some rye and cream. When I was home I could not eat cornbread and coffee without cream but here we have it nearly all the time and it is first rate. Hunger is good sauce.

We can buy rice at $1.00 per lb. Beans, $2 50 per qt. and crackers at $5.00 per lb. is about all we can buy. Heve you heard Croff say anything about getting any person to exchange places with me yet? I wish he could I might be of some advantage to you, the time I would be at home. How is everything getting along, sheep, horses and calves? Have you got anything to eat yet? Can you get anything? Have the prices fallen any yet since the old money has been taken in? Buy all the grain you can get at any price and put it in as safe a place as possible. Geo. Sutton has a cow for sale, if you want to buy her. You can get the money of mother I suppose. I expect we will draw our money the first of May, when I draw mine I will send it to you whenever I get a good chance.

How are my dear little Willie and Maggie getting along? Poor, little things, I have forgotten how they look, would love to see them very much.

How are our dear old Mothers, hope they are well. And my dearest how are you? Would love to see you, I hope you are well. You must write to me as soon as you get this, give me all the news in general.

Your devoted and loving husband,
G. W. Arbogast.

"111" cigarettes

They are Good! 10¢

Buy this Cigarette and Save Money

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager
HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC
Marlinton, West Virginia.

Now that the severe winter weather is over, is it not time to think of erecting Memorials to those who have gone before? This is a duty we owe to our beloved dead.

We have the largest assortment of Marble and Granite Monuments carried by any dealer in the two Virginias and at VERY REASONABLE prices. We handle nothing but the very best material.

Write us for designs and prices before you buy. We guarantee you perfect satisfaction in every respect.

CLIFTON FORGE MARBLE & GRANITE WORKS, Inc.
Harry F. Burt, Pres.

V-C FERTILIZERS

Litile Giant Crop Grower, Blood and Bone and other well known Virginia-Carolina brands.

— FOR SALE BY —
GAY & CARTER, MARLINTON

Portland Cement

I have received a carload of Portland Cement, and am prepared to fill all orders. I expect to keep cement in stock hereafter.

Fertilizers

A big supply of fertilizers of the right kinds.

T. H. HINER
Marlinton, W. Va.

REMOVAL

On and after May 1, our customers will find us in the Arbogast Building, opposite the Marlinton Postoffice. We will there have a more commedius store room to care for the needs of our growing business in groceries and the buying and selling of country produce.

W. M. WIMER & CO.
Marlinton, W. Va.
YOUR ORDERS DELIVERED

Conklin Wagons

We have a number of new Conklin Wagons at Seebert, which we will sell at an attractive price to the buyer. Sizes 3 and 3 1 4

MASHALL & SIPLE
Hillsboro, W. Va.

FOR SALE

1 Ford touring, 1921 touring
1 Overland roadster
1 Maxwell touring
I Racer
1 used Stewart truck, 3-4 ton

All these cars are in good running running condition and will be sold at a bargain.

HINER & GUM
Marlinton, W. Va.

COWS FOR SALE

Four young cows with calves by side.

Geo. W. GINGAR
Huntersville, W. Va.

Save Now for Your Child's Schooling Next Fall

IN a few weeks the Spring term of school will be ended. But why not look forward to next Fall? Plan now for the educational advantages of your boy or girl. Starl a savings fund to meet the schooling expenses of next Fall.

BANK OF MARLINTON

Marlinton, West Virginia

LOCAL MENTION.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Albert Curry April 28, 1922, s daughter.

T. S. McNeel is in town this week on business at the court house.

H. M. Lockridge has moved to the Allegheny Club for the eeason.

Albert McCoy is moving from Hillsboro to Cass, where he has a pulp job.

W. H. VanReenan has moved back to Marlinton after a month in Clarksburg.

Rev. H. H. Orr will preach at Hamlin Chapel at three o'clock Sunday afternoon, May 6.

Mrs. Jennie Hiner is spending a few weeks in her old home county of Highland.

Wise Herold started on Wednesday for a six weeks visit to his relatives in Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma.

Wm. Slick, sawyer for the Marlin Lumber Co., has moved into rooms recently vacated by H. M Lockridge.

J. H. Phelan is moving his family to Marlinton from Spice Run. He has rented the Arbogast house on Lower Camden.

Wilson Courtney and family, of Cresmont, Kentucky, arrived Wednesday to spend a month with home folks in Pocahontas county.

Mrs. H. H. Orr, Mrs. J. C. Haupt, Mrs. E. G. Herold and Miss Virgie Sydenstricker are attending the annual meeting of Greenbrier Presbyterial at Mt. Hope this week.

L. F. Ervine has sold his restaurant to a Mr. Moats. Mr. Ervine will return to Cass, where he is working for the W. Va. Pulp & Paper Company.

J. M. Bare went to Thornwood on Tuesday ty attend the burial of the body of Carl Rofe, who was killed in the battle of the Argonne, October 9, 1918.

Dr. L. H. Moomau, of Greenbank, and Squire H. H. Hudson, of Durbin, were here last week to attend a meeting of the Democratic Executive Committee.

Rev. Fred B. Wyand had the novel experience of preaching a sermon over the wireless at a big radio statian while in Birmingham, Alabama last week.

Miss Glenna Gibson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Gibson, of Frost, was brought to the Marlinton Hospital on Tuesday, suffering with appendicitis.

Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Richardson, of Staunton, are guests at the home of E. M. Richardson. Mr. Richardson is serving his second year as presiding elder of Rockingham District.

Mr. and Mrs W. H. Hiner went to Monterey last Thursday to attend the funeral of J. Cliff Matheny. Mrs. Hiner spent a few days with her venerable father, Mr. Woods, who has been very sick.

Verne Cutlip, of Droop Mountain, was a visitor at this office Tuesday.

James, three year old son of Mr and Mrs. Everett East, is very ill with pneumonia.

P. T. Ward was at the head of Greenbrier River last week doing some surveying on his lands.

W. McClintic went to Warm Springs on Tuesday to the funeral services of his old friend, Goyne Bonner.

French Gibson and his sister, Miss Edmonia motored over to J. E. Ligtner's in Virginia last Saturday and returned Sunday. They were accompanied home by little Miss Maude Lee Lightner.

Trout season opened Monday. A lot of nice trout were taken in Stony Creek.

The ladies will conduct a pie supper at the Minnehaha Springs school house, on Saturday eve ning May 6th.

The Stansberrys arrived from Florida Wednesday, to be on the ground early to be ready for the seasou with their summer resort at Minnehaha Springs.

William Miller was over from Elk last Friday and reports hunting cattle in a ten inch snow on the mountains around the Elk Valley. It was a hung snow, and he could see but a short distance, but the cattle made their presence known by bawling. The tops of the mountains round about Marlinton were white with three inches of snow. The Fayette Tribune says that on April 17, 1870, there was a two foot snow in Fayette County.

MACRO - SAL

For Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, and Neuralgia of Rheumatic origin.

Pamphlet giving specific directions and diet list of utmost importance to rheumatic people mailed on request from our office.

Price $1 per Bottle

Your dealer can supply you

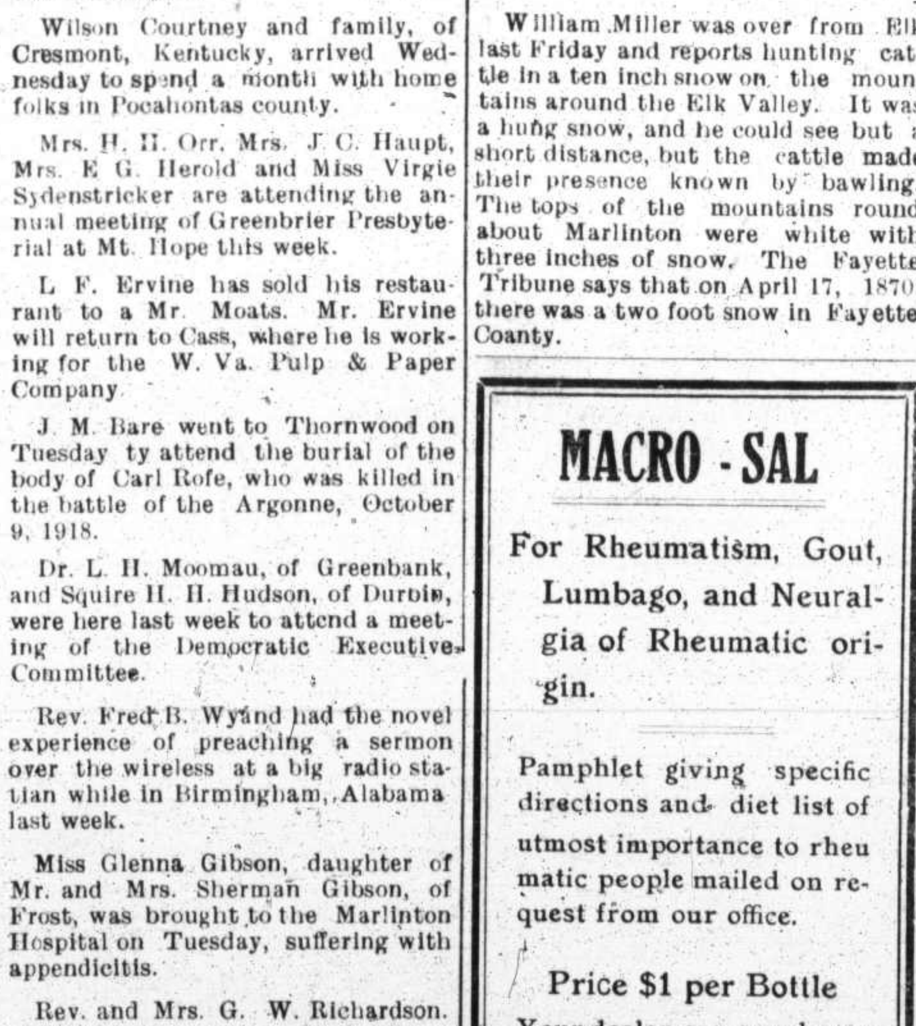
Distributed by

S. B. WALLACE & CO.

Wholesale Druggists

Marlinton, W. Va.

Symphony Lawn



Look for the Water Mark

EVER pick up a sheet of writing paper so invitingly beautiful to the eye and the touch, that it seemed to say to your fingers, "You must write on me!"? Symphony Lawn is just such a paper. It comes in three exquisite finishes and several smart tints. Sheets and envelopes in the newest shapes. Also correspondence cards to match. May we show you Symphony Lawn?

ROYAL DRUG STORES

Marlinton, W. Va. Renick, W. Va.

RAYWOOD

We have had several big frosts and ice frozen in lots of places here the past two weeks. We are most sure all the fruit is killed in this part of the county.

The mill here ran twenty-five days and eight hours last month, which is the most time it has run in one month for over three years.

Preston Warn was at Elkins last week on business.

Earl Carlisle was here over Sunday to see about having his mail forwarded to him at Hillsboro.

Mr. and Mrs. George Baker gave a party last Saturday night to quite a number of their friends of Dunmore and Raywood.

Miss Enid McComb, of Huntersville, was visiting Mrs. Emery Adkison the first of last week.

The mill here cut from five to six hundred thousand feet of Spruce the past few weeks for the Cass people to rebuild their mill that was burned some time ago.

We are glad to note that Tempest Caraway is some better at this writing. He has been in the Ronceverte Hospital for over four weeks and was operated on last Tuesday.

Mrs Stephen Ray is still pretty feeble. She came home from the Marlinton Hospital about three weeks ago.

Miss Icy Osborne's brother of Alderson, is visiting her this week.

Wray Ault and family are with his parents here.

Mrs. Lennie Woods of Arbovale has been visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ault, the past week.

The company is building an addition to the houses of Forrest Pritchard and Auburne Friel.

Steve Ray and Arch McLaughlin have a job of peeling ties for the Warn Lumber Company.

Sam McCray was at Marlinton last Saturday on business.

Mr. Ware and family of Sitlington, were in town Saturday in their new car.

KNAPPS CREEK

The farmers of this section are busy getting the soil ready to start corn while the weather is favorable.

Pearl Moore is on the sick list.

Dr. Armstrong of Lewisburg, delivered a very able sermon at West Minster Sunday afternoon; a very large crowd attended. Our new pastor will be with us in a short time for the summer.

Mrs. Sherman Gibson, her son Raymond and little daughter Edna Lee were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dever last Thursday.

Sherman Gibson left Tuesday morning with his daughter, Miss Glenna for the Marlinton Hospital, where she will undergo an opperation for appendicitis. We hope she will soon recover and return home.

Mr. and Mrs Walter Pritchard of Reading, W. Va., are with his mother, Mrs. Eudora Pritchard for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Dever were guests at the home of Sherman Gibson last Monday.

Glenn Barlow and his sister Miss Dameron, of Onoto, were the guests of the Misses Beverage last Sunday.

Miss Bessie Murdock, of Renick, is visiting her sister Mrs. Earl Dever.

Claud Malcomb has purchased a seven passenger Hudson car.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith were business visitors in Marlinton Monday

The high school girls of this section spent the week end with their parents.

Ellis Bussard was a business visitor in Marlinton Monday.

Miss Charlcie Beverage and little Ruth Dever spent last week with Ruth's father, Earl Dever.

Miss Helen Burner, of Durbin, was visiting Miss Veva Gibson last week end.

John Rider and family attended the funeral of J. Cliff Matheny at Monterey last Thursday.

This paper aims not to lecture or complain but we felt like reading the riot act to some of our school teachers when the word came that the Summer Normal School would not be held at Marlinton this year. The reason was the apparent indifference of our number two and number three teachers to the matter of bettering their grades. Nearly all who applied for admission were high school graduates who had already done the greater part of the work to be given in the summer course. The increase in salaries demands better teaching and will get it. More people each year are entering the profession. Soon there will be keen competition for teachers, and only those who carefully fit themselves will be considered

GOYNE BONNER

Word was received on Tuesday morning of the death of Goyne Bonner, a prominent citizen of Bath county, which occurred May 1, 1922. His age was more than eighty years. He was a Confederate soldier.

Morgantown—W. H. Davis, of Clarksburg, will have charge of the maintenance of state roads in northern West Virginia it was announced here by W. S. Downs, state road engineer for the northern division of the state. Mr. Davis will organize a force of patrolmen and gang workers to maintain the roads on a new system similar to that used in Maryland, Mr. Downs said.

EGGS

S. C. Rhode Island Reds 15 eggs 75 cents. Parcel Post 25 cents extra. A fine strain of best layers.

Mrs. J. B. Simmons, Millpoint, W. Va.

POULTRY

Durbin Reds turkey eggs for setting $5.00 per 13; Barred Rock eggs $1.25 for 15; Rhode Island Reds $1.25 for 15 by Parcel Post prepaid. Hens lay year 'round.

Mrs. A. S. Gay, Onoto, W. Va.

Commissioner's Notice

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia rendered in a cause therein pending in which the State of West Virginia is plaintiff and Clara C. Fertig and 47 acres of Forfeited land are defendants, the undersigned Commissioner in Chancery will proceed at his office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on Friday May 26th, 1922, to take, state and report to Court the following matters of account, to-wit:

First. Whether or not the above tract of land consisting of 47 acres has been omitted from the land books of Pocahontas County for taxation since the year 1897, or for a period of five years since said date, and prior to the institution of this suit.

Second. Whether or not there is any person or persons entitled to redeem the said tract of land, or any part thereof, and whether or not any person is in a position to take the benefit of the forfeiture.

Third. Any other matter deemed pertinent by the Commissioner or required by any party in interest.

W. A. Bratton,
Commissioner.

Commissioner's Notice

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia rendered in a cause therein pending the style of which is State of West Virginia, vs Lot 3 Block One at Deer Creek, W. R. Thompson, Frank Ingle, Jas. D. Burks et als. the undersigned Commissioner in Chancery will proceed at his office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on

FRIDAY the 26th day of May 1922,

to take, state and report to Court the following matters of account, to wit:

First. Whether or not the aforesaid lot 3 Block 1 Deer Creek was returned delinquent for the non-payment of taxes thereon for the year 1915, and sold by the sheriff of said county at a tax sale for the year 1917 and purchased by the State of West Virginia, and if so, the amount of taxes due thereon including interest, costs and damages properly chargeable thereon.

Second. Whether or not the said lot was subsequently sold by the sheriff of said County for taxes thereon and returned delinquent for the non-payment of taxes thereon, if so, the amount of the taxes, costs, interest properly chargeable thereon.

Third. Whether or not there are any persons in a position to take the benefit of the forfeiture.

Fourth. Any other matters deemed pertinent etc.

W. A. Bratton, Commissioner.

Special Commissioners' Sale

Pursuant to authority vested in us by a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered at the April Term, 1922, in the chancery cause of Bertie Hiner vs R. R. Snedegar and others, the undersigned Special Commissioners, on the

6th Day of June, 1922,

at the front door of the court house of said county, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, a tract of land situate on Locust Creek, Little Levels District, in said county, consisting of 25 acres more or less, known as the Beard Mill property, together with all buildings, water rights, and appurtences. This land has a fine flour and feed mill on it.

Terms of Sale: One third cash in hand on day of sale, the residue in two equal installments, due in six and twelve months respectively the purchaser giving interest bearing notes with good personal security, the title to be retained as ultimate security.

L. M. McClintic,
Andrew Price,
Special Commissioners.

I, D. C. Adkison, Clerk of the Circuit Court of said county do certify that the above named Special Commissioners have executed bond as required by said decree.

D. C. Adkison, Clerk.

At a special session County Court held for the County of Pocahontas, and State of West Virginia, at the Courthouse thereof on Monday the 1st day of May, 1922.

IN RE: CHANGE OF PRECINCT LINE

It appearing to the Court, that public convenience and public good require that a part of the territory now embraced in Voting Precinct No. 4 of the Greenbank District of this county, be included in Voting Precinct No. 8, of said Greenbank District, and that the dividing line between the said voting precincts be changed in such manner as to include the following territory in precinct No. 8.

It is therefore ordered by the Court that the line dividing voting Precincts Nos. 4 and 8 in Greenbank District be changed so as to run as follows: Beginning at a point on the C. & O. Railroad where the same crosses Trout Run about five miles above the town of Cass, thence west with the C. & O. Railroad to the west side of the corporation line of the town of Cass, near the swinging bridge, thence running northwest with the corporation line to the lands of Amos Doyle, so as to include the Old School building in precinct No. 8, thence in a straight line to the first ford of Cold Run, thence parallel with the C. & O Railroad to the Moses Spring Run on the line of the Edray District.

It further appearing that public good and public convenience require that the voting place in Precinct No. 8 be changed from the place heretofore established on the east side of the river in the town of Cass, it is therefore ordered that the voting place in Precinct No. 8, be and the same is changed to the Old School building on the west side of the river in the town of Cass.

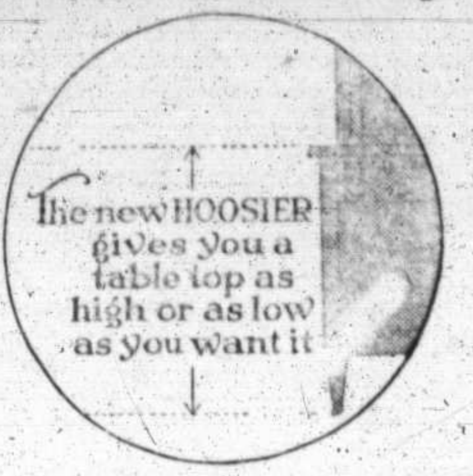
And the Clerk of this Court is ordered to have a copy of this order published for one month in the Pocahontas Times, which is the only newspaper published in this County, and he is also directed to post copies of this order as required by Section 6 of Chapter 3 of the Code of West Virginia.

A COPY TESTE:
S. L. BROWN,
Clerk

HOOSIER

SAVES STEPS

The New Hoosier provides your kitchen with a working center. Everything right to hand. Hundreds of steps saved in the preparation of every meal. It gives you a table top as high or as low as you want it. The Hoosier's logical, labor-saving arrangements are most important of all. If Hoosier was arranged in any other way, it would not save nearly so much time and work.



You owe it to yourself to see our complete Hoosier line.

C. J. RICHARDSON, Marlinton, W. Va.

Special Commissioner's Sale

Pursuant to authority vested in me by a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered at the April Term, 1922, in the chancery cause of E. M. Arbogast vs D. M. Henry et al, the undersigned Special Commissioner, on the

6th DAY of June 1922,

at the front door of the courthouse of said county, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder a certain boundary of land situate in the town of Bartow, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, made up of seventeen lots and described on the proper plat of the town of Bartow as lots, numbers 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, and 21 in block 35, described in the proceedings in said cause.

Terms of Sale: Cash in hand on day of sale sufficient to pay the sum of $366 66 with interest from April 11, 1922, and the costs of suit and expenses of sale, and the residue upon a credit due on the 1st day of January, 1923, the purchaser giving a note bearing interest with good personal security, the title to be retained as ultimate security.

ANDREW PRICE,
Special Commissioner.

I, D. C. Adkison, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, do certify that the above named Special Commissioner has executed bond as required by said decree.

D. C. Adkison, Clerk.

Special Commissioner's Sale

Pursuant to authority vested in us by a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered at the April Term, 1922, in the chancery cause of B. B. Beard, S. P. C. Admr. vs Mary J. Malcom and others, the undersigned special commissioners, on the

6th Day of June, 1922,

at the front door of the court-house of said county, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, the property known as the Malcom store and residence property in the town of Greenbank. Said property will be offered as follows:

The residence and land surronnding it consisting of all the land belonging to the lot which lies on the residence side of a line running with the garden fence across the lot and continued in the same line to the road so as to throw the garden to the house property.

Then will be offered the residue of the lot on which the store stands.

Bids will then be asked for as a sale of the whole, and the offer most advantageous to the estate of William Malcom, deceased, will be accepted.

Said property constitutes a good store building and a dwelling and is ready for merchantile business.

Terms of Sale: One third cash in hand on day of sale and the residue on a credit of six and twelve months in equal installments, notes with good personal security, bearing interest, the title to be retained as ultimate security.

A. P. EDGAR,
ANDREW PRICE,
Special Commissioners

I, D. C. Adkison, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, do certify that the above named Special Commissioners have executed bond as required by said decree.

D. C. ADKISON, Clerk.

Notice To Lienholders

To all persons holding liens by judgment or otherwise on the real estate or any part thereof, of R. D. Rimel.

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, made in a cause therein pending, to subject the real estate of the said R. D. Rimel to the satisfaction of the liens thereon, you are hereby required to present all claims held by you, and each of you against the said R. D. Rimel, which are liens on his real estate or any part of it, for adjudication to me, at my office in the County of Pocahontas, at Marlinton, on or before the 26th day of May 1922.

Given under my hand this the 1st day of May 1922.

W. A. Bratton, Commissioner.

FARM FOR SALE:—14 acres of land in the Fairview neighborhood—a nice little place, 4 room house, barn and outbuildings. More than half under cultivation and pasture. Close to church and schools and in good neighborhood. Dexter Sharp, Warwick W. Va

When interested in buying a car see Dilley's Garage. Dealers in Maxwell and Chalmers Cars, Marlinton, W. Va. We have moved into the upper garage.

RONCEVERTE TIRE & BATTERY SERVICE

C. V. MONTAGUE, Prop.

RONCEVERTE, WEST VIRGININA

Tire Repairing Vulcanizing Tube Repairing
Battery Repairing Rentals Recharging

USL Batteries kept in stock for Autos and Radio
We represent the Virginia Welding Co. the largest welding company in the State
We represent Charleston Automotive Electrical Station
All makes Armatures rewound
All makes Magnetos repaired
Write us. Tell us what you want. When in Ronceverte do not fail to visit us. Next door to the News Building.

C. V. MONTAGUE, Prop., Ronceverte Tire and Battery Station, says—

Some wise guys said we would n't last long
That was 18 months ago, but listen:
Every firm dealing in auto accessories has changed hands since we went in business
We can now say we are the oldest
We can say our success was Truth, Honesty, Service
Oh, yes, about your battery. Don't forget you have one until it goes bad
Keep battery connections tight and terminals clean
Distilled water is always recommended for batteries
Tires: Do you know that auto owners told me 18 months ago, that vulcanizing didn't pay. Today they are our best customers
Our high class workmanship and guarantee have proven that they were wrong. Ask them; they will admit
We want you your tire and battery work
Put a tag on them: we will give you quick service
The right reserved to reject any tires or battery we deem past fixing.

We are, More Miles per Dollar

RONCEVERTE TIRE & BATTERY SERVICE

Commissioners Notice

State of West Virginia
vs,
Thirty one acres, E. D. Burner Trustee, and others.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Commissioner in Chancery of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, acting pursuant to the authority of a decree made and entered by said court in the above entitled cause on the —— day of April, 1922, will on the 27th day of May, 1922, at my office in the Town of Marlinton, West Virginia, proceed to execute the order of reference made in said cause, and will take, state and report to court the following matters of account, to-wit:

First. The location of the said thirty-one acre tract in relation to the remaining tract of McCutcheon land and as to the 2112 acre Davis tract alleged to overlap this tract.

Second. Whether there has been a forfeiture of the said thirty-one acre tract for the non-payment of taxes and whether said land has not been included in other tracts and so been saved from forfeiture by the payment of taxes.

Third. If the Commissioner find that said land is forfeited, whether said forfeiture inures to the benefit of any other taxpayer, and if the commissioner finds that said land is liable to be sold, then the following matters of account:

Fourth. The amount of taxes, interest and costs due thereon.

Fifth. Who is entitled to redeem the same.

Sixth. Any other matter to be specially stated deemed pertinent by the Commissioner or required by any party in interest.

At which time and place the parties in interest may appear and do what is necessary to protect their interests in this suit.

Given under my hand this 27th day of April, 1922.

A. P. EDGAR,
Commissioner in Chancery, Circuit Court of Pocahontas County.

Sherift's Sale for Taxes

Pursuant to a levy made for taxes for the year 1921, for taxes due in the name of H. Gilmer & J. C. Myers, Trustee, the undersigned Sheriff of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, will proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder, on the

20th Day of May, 1922,

beginning at 10 o'clock a. m. at the place of the property to be sold, to-wit: at the Old Wade Place, on North Fork of Anthonys Creek, in said county, about a mile from the dock the following property levied upon as a portion of the property assessed for taxes, to-wit:

One saw mill and engine and all uipment and appliances, being the saw mill recently operated by the Meadow Mountain Lumber Company and on their land.

Terms of Sale: Cash.

B. B BEARD, S. P. C.
By Elmer Moore, Deputy.

HORSE FOR SALE

One riding horse, 7 years old and sound. Also saddle, bridle, halter and blankets. J. H. PHELAN Locust, W. Va.

HORSES FOR SALE

Three saddle horses, 4 and 5 years old, broke to ride. Two Kentucky horses and one Denmark. Apply to J. H. Doyle, Cloverlick, W. Va.

Get our price lists on Roots, Herbs, Barks, Ginseng, Beeswax, Goldenseal and Hides. GREER & CO

FALSE TEETH, PLATES REPAIRED

I will have an expert laboratory man with me for a week or more to repair and make false teeth. Let me have yours at once.

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMER
Marlinton, W. Va.

START SOMETHING

CONFIDENCE BEGETS ENTHUSIASM
ENUHUSIASM CONQUERS THE WORLD

"Start something worth while if you would progress," is the advice frequently given to young men.

There is nothing a young man or women can start that will contribute more to their progress and happiness than a Bank Account.

Money in the bank begets confidence, and a captain of industry has said "confidence begets enthusiasm and enthusiasm conquers the world."

START A BANK ACCOUNT
KEEP IT GROWING

BANK OF MARLINTON

MARLINTON, - - - WEST VIRGINIA

LOCAL MENTION.

Rev. H. H Orr will preach Sunday afternoon at Indian Draft.

W. A. Bratton returned on Tuesday to Madison, after a few days at home.

J. J. Echols, of Lewisburg, spent Sunday with his brother, Hubert Echolds.

Paul Golden, who has been confined to his room the past few days, is getting better.

Lawrence Kennison is sick with fever at the home of his grandfather M. F. Gum.

M. F. Gum came home from the hospital at Charlottesville Wednesday. He is seriously ill.

H. P. Randolph, of Richmond, came Saturday to spend a few days with his sister. Mrs Ann L. Price.

Rev S. R. Neel of Alderson has been assisting Revs. Gray and Rosenberger in a series of meetings at Cass.

Mrs. R. S. McNeill and son Billy have gone to Waynesboro, Virginsa to spend a few weeks with home folk.

David Sheets and his daughter, Miss Clara Sheets, of Greenbank. were visitors in Marlinton last Saturday.

Mrs. Susan Carter returned home Monday night. She spent six weeks with her daughter-in-law in Huntington.

John Mackey of Highland County, with his children Miss Genevieve and Herbert, were guests at the home of W. H. Hiner on Monday night.

M. F. Gum was taken to the hospital at Charlottesville for treatment last Thursday. He was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Ruth Gum.

Francis Hamrick and his son Olin Hamrick were visitors at this office Saturday morning. Mr. Hamrick is blacksmithing on the Alexander line, and his son is going to school at Stony Bottom.

Assessor Geo A. C. Auldridge went to Charleston on Monday to attend the meeting of the County Assessors of the State. They expect to be in session three days.

Mrs. James Ryder, of Dunmore, was operated on in a Baltimore hospital last week. At last reports she was doing very well. She was accomanied by her son-in-law, Edward Hudson.

Game Protectors Park McNeill, Lete Young and W. W. Marshall were in Charleston last week sttending the Wild Life League Also Fire Patrolmen Warwick Ratliff and Joe Sharp.

Withrow McClintic, Grady Kidd and Glen Smith were at the International Stock Show at Chicago last week. Mr. McClintic reports the show as being bigger and better than ever in the cattle line but fewer horses on exhibition than in former years.

Rev. Dr. Hasser, of Washington. D. C., President of the Church Extension Board of the Southern Methodist Church, preached at the Methodist Church Tuesday night. He is here to look over the new church now being built. He expressed himself as well pleased with the church, its location and the town in general.

The Methodist Sunday School went over the top Sunday with an attendance of 287. There were 251 regulars and a visitation of 36 from the Campbeltown Sunday School. At the Presbyterian school there were present 183.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Yeager. December 1, 1922, a daughter, at Motley, Va.

Rev. F. B. Wyand will preach at the Swago church on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock.

Rev. H. Underwood reports that he had a very fine sheep shot in his pasture field last week, supposed by careless hunters.

The Presbyterian Sunday School is making preparations to give a couple of pageants at their Christmas service to be held at the church on Sunday evening, December 24, at 6 o'clock.

Dr. J. E. Flow closed his meeting at Hamlin Chapel on Sundar night. For three weeks the meeting continued. The visible results were seven public professions of faith. The church is much strengthened. Dr. Flow expects to hold a series of special services at Spruce after New Years.

PIE SUPPER

At the Campbelltown school house December 16, Saturday night at 7:30. Proceeds for the benefit of the Near East Relief. Let everyone come and help in this worthy cause.

Just received a nice assortment of hand carved swing photo frames. Come early as the supply is limited. —Gay's Studio in Philadelphia everybody will want a big fat turkey for Christmas dinner and as usual are depending on Frank Hellerick & Co to supply them. We are live wires in the poultry game, no better distributors can be found anywhere.

Everybody

Notice to Stockholders

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of the Bank of Marlinton will be held at the banking rooms of said institution in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 8th day of January, 1923, at 1 o'clock p. m., to transact such business as may properly come before the meeting.

Given under my hand this 13th day of December 1922.

HUBERT ECHOLS, Cashier.

MACRO-SAL

For Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, and Neuralgia of Rheumatic origin.

Pamphlet giving specific directions and diet list of utmost importance to rheumatic people mailed on request from our office.

Price $1 per Bottle

Your dealer can supply you

Distributed by
S. B. WALLACE & CO.
Wholesale Druggists
Marlinton, W. Va.

KEEP CHRISTMAS WITH A KODAK

Let us show you the KODAK that will happily solve your XMAS GIFT. problem. It's here. It's the Ideal Gift and our stock is complete.

Autographic Kodak $6.50 up
Brownie $2.50 up

You will also want a KODAK ALBUM

Royal Drug Stores, Inc.

Marlinton, W. Va. — Renick, W. Va.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES

By G. D. McNeill, Co. Supt.

In reply to a letter inquiring relato holidays, the following was received from State Superintendent.

1. If school is dismissed Friday, Dec. 22, and is not in session the following week, can December 25, Christmas Day, be counted as a holiday for which teachers receive pay?

Answer, No.

2. If school is in session, Tuesday, Dec. 26 is Monday, December 25 a holiday for which teachers receive pay? Answer yes.

3. Is January 1 a school holiday for which teachers receives pay?

Answer, No,

4. May school be taught on Jan 1?

Answer. No. The day must be made up.

5. Were Election and Thanksgiving day holidays for which teachers receive pay?

Answer, Yes.

The three District Institutes held December 4, 5 and 6 at Marlinton, Hillsboro and Cass were record breakers, nearly ninety per cent of the county teachers having been in attendance. State Supervisor Muldoon had charge of the meetings at Marlinton and Cass, while Miss Betty Echart was the leader at Hillsboro. Two very definite pieces of work were emphasized in these institutes. First the Hot Lunch is to become the rule rather than the exception in Pocahontas county schools. Second, District public School Days are to be held in at least three districts. Contests will be held in spelling, penmanship, numbers, etc. There will be a variety of athletic competitions and school stunts in which every child may take a part. Each school in the county will be expected to do something in the way of "getting in" on the Public School Day of their District.

To date, Hot Lunch has become a permanent fixture in the following schools:

Hillsboro High and Graded—W. Vance, teacher.

Maple Grove—Mrs. R. F. Reager, teacher.

Buckeye Graded—Clara Palmer and Carrie Brown, teachers.

Minnehaha Springs—Mamie White and Margaret Sharp, teachers.

Douthards Creek—Ethel Correll.

Moore School—Enid Harper.

Buzzard School, Bessie Shinaberry.

If other schools are serving hot lunches the teachers should notify the county superintendent so he may amend the above list. Forty lunches served entitles to coupon of credit.

WOODROW

Summers Sharp, who has typhoid fever, is getting along nicely at this time.

Our schools are doing nicely—one is being taught by Mrs. Lockride of Minnehaha Springs, who has an enrollment of about 25. The other is taught by Miss Brownie Wise of Bridgewater, Va., who has an enrollment of about 35. Both parents and children are well pleased and like the teachers very much.

Mrs. Sallie Burns, of Virginia, is spending the winter here with her brother, J. N. White.

W. E. Baxter has been suffering for some time with a crippled hand, caused by a piece of lumber striking it, but is getting better now.

John Galford has started his saw mill here and will soon complete the job where he has been sawing on Stony Creek.

Pat Gay of Marlinton, was here on business a few days ago.

W. E Wood is home from the lumber woods on big Beech.

Miss Mattie Burgess, of Millpoint, is spending a few days here.

Miss May Hamrick has gone to stay with Mrs. S. B. Moore at Edray.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

9:45 a. m. Sunday School.

11:00 a. m. Preaching "Jesus Asks a Personal Favor."

7 00 Christian Endeavor

7:45 p. m. preaching

When looking for Xmas presents see our line of swing photo frames. Come early as the supply is limited. —Gay's Studio.

Xmas Greetings

Here's my old reliable friend, Frank Hellerick. I've always found him straight as a shingle and the right man to get the right psice in Philadelphia. My shipment is going to Hellerick as usual.

CHRISTMAS CAKES

Before making your Christmas Fruit Cakes, see what they have at THE STAR BAKERY.

NOTICE

The Steam shovel will begin work on the Cass road about December 20. While this will not necessitate closing the road entirely, it is suggested that all parties having hauling over this road get it done before this date. After January 1st traffic will only be permitted during certain designaed hours each day. This schedule will be published in the paper.

By Order of the Court.

No Trespassing

All persons are hereby warned not to trespass on the lands of the undersigned, especially by hunting in any manner.

This 9th day of December, 1922.

H. Underwood
Huntersville, W. Va.

Shoe Repairing

I have opened a Shoe Repairing Shop in Durbin. Good work and reasonable prices Special attention to mail orders. Double the life of your footwear by prompt repairs.

J. S. BENNETT.

NEWS CULLINGS FROM WEST VIRGINIA

Adamston—Two frame buildings were destroyed by fire entailing loss of more than $15,000.

Huntington—Cigars and cigarettes valued at $15 were sent to the government hospital by the local order of the American veterans of the world war.

Parkersburg—Four boys were arraigned in Circuit Court here on the charge of becoming noisy and throwing paper wads in the Summitt M. E. church. After an all-day trial the jury dismissed them.

Clarksburg—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has virtually assured the northern West Virginia region a 35 per cent supply of cars provided the coal producers ship to the lakes, it was stated in a meeting of the Clarksburg coal club.

Clarksburg—Arrested nearly a year after the alleged unlawful killing of a deer in Pocahontas county, Nate Alderson, of Marlinton, confessed and was fined $50 and costs before Magistrate J. B. Smith, according to H. H. Cleaves, secretary of the State wild life league.

Huntington—An X-ray examination disclosed that Don Chafin, sheriff of Logan county, now in a hospital here, is suffering from a bullet lodged in his right knee. His condition is not critical. Chafin was wounded when a pistol in his own hand was accidentally discharged, according to hospital attaches.

Lewisburg—Samuel C. Beard, teaching his Sunday School class, leaned back against the railing in the church balcony, and was pitched to the floor below. John Hogan, cadet at Greenbrier military school here, made an effort to save Beard from the fall and he too fell to the floor, breaking an arm. Beard was not seriously injured.

Wheeling—Guy Morris, who went on trial here in criminal court charged with violating the blue sky law, changed his plea to guilty and was sentenced to five years in the state prison by Judge Robinson. He was accused of selling stock in the Tulsa Interstate Petroleum Company, the former president of which, W. O. Allison, of Tulsa, Okla., is now under indictment in Ohio county criminal court.

Charles Town—Circuit Judge J. M. Woods overruled the motion of the defense for new trials in the cases of the Rev. J. E. Wilburn, his son John Wilburn, and Walter Allen, all convicted in connection with the armed march on the southern West Virginia coal fields. The Wilburns were sentenced to serve 11 years each in the state penitentiary. The sentence of 10 years in the Allen case, fixed by the jury, was approved by the court.

Clarksburg—After being idle for nearly two years the local plant of the National Carbon Company will resume operations soon after the first of the year. This was the announcement made by C. E. Margerson, general manager. The plant, when it first starts, will provide employment for approximately 100 men. When operating full capacity the plant provides work for between 200 and 250 persons, including office force and all and has a weekly pay roll running around $9,000.

Wheeling—Judge W. E. Baker granted a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Charles Long, of Tucker county, sentenced to six months in jail for carrying concealed weapons. Charles D. Smith, prosecuting attorney of Tucker county, appeared for Long in the United States District Court here and Judge Baker ruled that since the defendant was a forest ranger, he was entitled to carry the gun for his own protection as well as for the protection of the government. Long was ordered released.

Fairmont—John Mahon, giving his home as Brooklyn, N. Y., approached Policeman Fleming and asked that the officer accompany him. Mahon led Fleming up Cleveland avenue where he pointed out a large window in a wholesale house that had been shattered by a huge stone. The man then calmly informed the officer that he had thrown the stone, explaining that he had done it to keep some men who were chasing him from catching him. He was unable to explain in police court how the rock-throwing would have helped him escape and was sntenced to jail for observation of his sanity.

Martinsburg—George H. Coffinbarger, 72, totally deaf, was killed when struck by a freight train.

Fairmont—Harris P. Lester, of Fort Gay, was elected grand high priest of the grand chapter, Royal Arch Masons, while in convention here.

Charleston—Suit for damages $30,000 was entered on the law side of the circuit court docket for December rules by Ora B. Studebaker against the Kanawha and Michigan railway company.

Turkeys Turkeys

We will pay the highest prices in Philadelphia for your "Famous Turkeys" and poultry Christmas and New Year. Give us a trial and be convinced.

Frank Hellerick & Company

No Milling Christmas Week

My flouring mill will be closed Christmas Week, beginning Monday, December 25, as I will be at my old home in Virginia. I will be back January 1st.

T. H. HINER.

We are having a Xmas Festival, and in order to make the festival enjoyable, we are showing a very large and interesting selection of suitable and useful merchandise, priced specially low for this occasion.

Come in early, and make your selection, while assortments are large

We suggest a few that may be helpful—

TOYS, for the Kiddies

Dolls, Trains, Games, Teddy Bears, Wagons, Sleds, Doll Carts, Blocks, Tables, Chairs, Drums Animals, boats, etc., ets.

Bed Room Slippers	Traveling Bags
Bath Robes	Suit Cases
Neckwear	Week End Bags
Wool Scarfs	Hat Boxes
Silk Scarfs	Trunks
Umbrellas	Wool and Silk Hose
Cut Glass	Rugs, all sizes
China Ware	Priced specialy low
Aluminum	for the holidays

Furs, Towels, Handkerchiefs, Centers

Come to our Xmas Festival and supply your needs for the holidays, and save money.

Schuchats Dept Store

Marlinton, W. Va.

Brunswick
PHONOGRAPHS AND RECORDS

Why Not Give

The Year 'Round Gift?

YOU cannot choose a more appropriate or more appreciated Christmas Gift than a subscription to your state's newspaper—a gift that reminds the recipient of the giver 365 times a year!

GIVE A YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION TO THE

CHARLESTON GAZETTE

Simply write the name and address of the person to whom you wish it sent, and when you want it to start, enclosing subscription price. We'll do the rest.

Address: The Charleston Gazette, Charleston, W. Va.

Subscribe Now—It'll Start When You Say!

3 Months. $1.80—6 Months. $3.60—1 year $7 20

Sent by Mail to Any Address. Enclose Subscription Price.

Stockholders Meeting

Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Bank of Hillsboro, Hillsboro, W. Va., will be held in the banking rooms of said Corporation in the Town of Hillsboro, W. Va., on the 8th day of January, 1923, for the purpose of transacting any business that may properly come before said meeting.

This 9th day of December, 1922.

J. K. Marshall, Cashier.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of the late Amelia Wanless, deceased, to present the same properly proven to the undersigned administrator at his office at Boyer, W. Va. All persons indebted to said estate will please prepare to settle at once.

This 6th of December, 1922.

F. C. HUGHES, Administrator Estate of Amelia Wanless, dec'd.

ATTORNEYS.

N. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention giver to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Marlinton, W. Va.
Furniture made to order and old furniture repaired.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specially of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

Dr. CHAS. S. KRAMEE
DENTIST
First National Bank Building
Phone
Marlinton, W. Va

Z. S. Smith
Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

For Sale

Having decided to clos out my Grocery buisness I will sell my Stock of Groceries and Fixtures at a bargain. This is a clean Stock of Groceries and all nice fresh goods located in a nice room and doing a good buisness and practically cash. Have a five year lease on the room, Reason for selling interested elsewhere, if interested call on or write.

P. C. CURRY
Marlintod, W. Va.

Baby Chicks

S. C. R. I Reds, 220 egg strain. S C. W. Leghorns, 280 to 310 egg strain.

Barred Rocks and Shepherd Anconas. February and March prices—big breeds, $20 per 100; Leghorns and Anconas, $18 per 100; ten per cent discount on all orders booked before January 1, 1923. Orders booked for April, May and June hatching $2 less per 100 on all breeds. Avoid the spring rush. Place your order now with a ten percent deposit, and get your chicks when you want them and save ten percent or $2.00 on 100. Call, phone or write your order.

OAK CREST POULTRY FARM
Millpoint, W. Va.

No Trespassing

All persons are warned not to trespass in any way, especially by hunting or trapping on the lands of the under signed, under penalty of the law.

G. M. Kee
Marlinton, W. Va.

For Sale

Ten good hay stacks.

One Buick Four, five passenger car in good running order.

One two horse wagon and box.

All priced right.

W. W. CLEEK.
Huntersville, W. Va.

PIE SUPPER

There will be a pie supper at the Hannah School House on Elk, Saturday night December 16, 1922. Proceeds for benefit of school.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XLI NO 19 MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, DECEMBER 22, 1922 $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Notice to Holders of War Savings Stamps

REGISTERED and UNREGISTERED

The BANK OF MARLINTON will accept your Stamps for deposit when properly signed and dated as of January 1. 1923.

Adv.

A DAIRY INDUSTRY

A number of forward looking business men of Marlinton are considering ways and means of building up a dairy industry for Pocahontas County through the establishment of a creamery, ice cream and cheese factory to be located at Marlinton.

Nothing is being done in this matter on the excitement plan. In no sense is it a stock selling scheme. No one connected with the movement has a creamery outfit for sale. Nor are they advocating the establishment of an industry with other people's money in order to secure a job for themselves or friends.

It is a business proposition. The men who put money in it expect it to pay dividends, and they will see that it does. The success they have achieved in developing their own businesses is a guarantee of the success of this new industry when established.

Pocahontas has the raw materials necessary for this industry. It is a natural grass country There is now a large amount of money in the hands of the farmers from war stamps and other government papers which will soon be seeking investment. Outside investments in oil and other things have proven disastrous. Home investments add value to the property we now have. Good roads are now being built in every direction from Marlinton. Each month thousands of dollars are going out of the county for ice cream.

Pocahontas is a cattle country. No better stock is to be found anywhere, but the Pocahontas farmer with his high priced land has found it a losing proposition to produce beef in competition with the cheap ranges of the West, Australia and South America.

One of the backers of the creamery proposition is a lumber manufacturer and dealer. As a sideline he farms some land, and last year kept four or five cows. From these cows last season he sold over six hundred dollars worth of cream, butter and milk. He also kept a bunch of steers. He says his cows required but little more grass and hay per head than the steers and the additional trouble and the concentrated feed consumed was well paid for.

Here is the condition which confronts us. We no longer have timber to be manufactured in great quanities by outside capital. Every farm is a manufacturing proposition which is barely breaking even producing beef. The county is importing each year many thousands of dollars worth of ice cream, butter and cheese. So much money is represented in farm land that it is impossible to realize an income on the capital invested at the present price of beef, when the farmer's time and labor is taken into consideration.

We have reached a point in the business affairs of the County where something will have to be done for the main business farming, if we continue to prosper, and we will have to do it ourselves. It looks to us that the steer will have to step aside for the dairy cow as the main source of income with our people.

Under existing conditions, the income in Pocahontas from chickens, turkeys and eggs is no mean sum. With a creamery a side line or waste product is the skim milk. It is a valuable food for poultry and pigs. We have it on the authority of a farm specialist that this item alone pays the keep of a cow when marketed in poultry, eggs and bacon.

The development of the motor truck will enable a creamery to maintain milk routes covering a radius of twenty five miles and more. This would accomodate the farmers of the Knapps Creek Valley, the Greenbank country, Elk, Clover Lick, and the Levels. Also trips into Highland and Bath whenever the milk supply would justify. Much of the county could also ship cream by the railroad.

One drawback to the beef cattle industry is the fact that sales are made and money collected but once a year In the dairy business there is a check coming in each month. This means business the whole year around and prosperity for us all.

Something must be done for our county, and there is no one to do it but ourselves. Too many of our bright young people are picking and leaving the farms to go to the cities. They are better off here than anywhere else. We need them and we must fix things so they can afford to stay The development of the dairy business is one of the things that will help keep them here. Lets go to it

Col. H. G. Baxter died at his home in Warren, Pennsylvania, on December 16. His age was 66 years. Many friends will remember him as the superintendent of the Campbell Lumber Company.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Crawford Gum, at Cass, December 10, 1922, a daughter.

MRS. T. D. MOORE DEAD

Mrs. Julia Bright Gay Moore, beloved wife of T. D. Moore, died at Marlinton, Saturday morning, December 16, 1922, at 1 o'clock. The cause of her death was peritonitis and she had been ill but a few days. Her age was 36 years. Mrs. Moore is a daughter of Mrs. Lucy Gay, and the late Colonel Levi Gay. Surviving her are her husband, T. D. Moore, of Marlinton; her mother, Mrs. Lucy Gay; three brothers, Allan, of Marlinton; Levi, of Eccles, and Robert, of Mt. Hope; her three sisters, Mrs. A. S. Hamilton, of Lexington; Miss Maggie Gay, of Staunton, and Miss Susie Gay, of Marlinton

The funeral services were conducted from the Methodist Church by her pastor, Rev. F. B. Wyand, assisted by Rev. H. H. Orr and Rev. C. A Powers. Burial at Mt. View Cemetery.

One of the largest congregations ever seen here on a like occasion gathered to pay respect to her memory. The pall bearers were Judge S. H Sharp, S. B. Wallace, J. A. Sydenstricker, A. S. Overholt, Prof. C. J. Ramsey and Calvin W. Price. The floral tributes were remarkable for their profusion and beauty.

For seventeen years Mrs. Moore had been a professing Christian and a member of the Marlinton Methodist Church. It is given to few persons to fill positions of usefulness in the church and community as she did. A leader in all the affairs of the church, and whatsoever tended for the uplifting of the community. She was also a keeper at home; a dutiful daughter, and a loving faithful wife

"Therefore be ye also ready"

The Mount Carmel, M. E South, Epworth League, of Sunset will give a play entitled "An Old Fashion Mother" at Sunset School House on Friday and Saturday Nights December 26th and 30th, beginning at 7 o'clock P. M.

On account of the seating capacity of the School room the play will be given two nights

CHARACTER OF PLAY

Deborah Underhill, A Mother in Isreal
Mrs G. M. Sharp.
Widder Bill Pindle Leader of the Choir
Miss Mary Pritchard.
Miss Lowizy Loviny Custard, Plain Sewing and Gossip
Miss Enid Harper.
Isabell Simpscott, The Village Belle
Miss Blanche Hiner
Gloriana Perkins, As Good as Gold
Miss Hazel Newman.
Sukey Pindler, The Widder's Mite
Miss Margaret Ruckman
John Underhill, The Prodigal Son
Mr. Leland Malcomb
Charley Underhill, The Elder Brother
Mr. Arnett Moore.
Brother Jonah Quackenbush, A Whited Sepulchre
Mr. Emerson Newman.
Jerimiah Gosling "Jerry" A Merry Heart
Mr. C. P. Pritchard.
Enoch Rone, An Outcast and Worlderd
Mr. Ward Harper.
Quintus Todd, The County Sheriff
Mr Russell G. Chestnut
The Village Choir.
Admission 25c and 15c

There has been a stray hog at Levi V. Gay's place since the week before Thanksgiving It will weigh about fifty pounds. Owner can have it by proving property and paying cost of keep.

CHRISTMAS SERVICE

A special Christmas service by the Presbyterian Sunday School at the church on Sunday afternoon, December 24, at 5 o'clock The progam will consist of two pageants appropreate for the Christmas Season. One by children of the Primary Department and the other by the other members of the school. The scene is the Stable of Bethlehem and the coming of the Wise Men and Shepherds to the Child Jesus.

The public is cordially invited. The offering will be for the relief of aged ministers of the church.

SQUIRE WEIFORD, DEAD

Rev. Gratton S. Weiford died at his home at Warwick on Thursday afternoon, December 14, 1922, aged about 65 years. His death was not unexpected as he had been in failing health for more than a year.

Burial at the Waugh graveyard on Indian Draft Saturday afternoon, the services being conducted by his pastor, Rev. C. A. Powers, of the Methodist Church.

The deceased is survived by his wife and their six sons and six daughters. All were present at the funeral.

He was a son of the late James H. Weiford, of the Levels. For many years he had been a minister in the Methodist Episcopal Church. By occupation he was a merchant and farmer. For many years he had been postmaster at Warwick, and had also served as justice of peace.

Deputy Sheriff W. A. Eskridge went to Moundsville on Monday with George Barrett, convicted at the October term and sentenced to six years for conspiring to steal a machine gun in Fayette county in 1918 He has been in jail at Marlinton waiting until the Supreme Court passed upon his case. An appeal was refused.

Word has come of the death of Will A. Young, at his home in Davenport, Iowa. Last spring he was paralyzed He was a native of Pocahontas county, born on Stony Creek. He went to Iowa soon after the war between the States.

Riverside Masonic Lodge at Cass will have their annual installation of officers and a supper on Wednesday, December 27, beginning at 7 o'clock.

CARD OF THANKS

It is beyond our power to express to the people of Marlinton and vicinity our heartfelt appreciation for the many deeds of kindness and sympathy extended us during the recent illness and death of our dear wife, daughter and sister, Mrs. Julia Bright Gay Moore, and we desire to especially thank the church people of both Churches of Marlinton for the excellent christian spirit manifested during this very sad occasion.

The Woman's Club, all Auxiliary Branches of our dearly belovedM. E Church South endeared themselves and all people for the Floral Tributes and their beneficent acts.

The volunteer service of the garage people, private owners of automobiles in Marlinton for the funeral occasion, we most gratefully appreciate.

The closing of the stores and other places of business further demonstrates the Christian spirit prevailing in Marlinton.

We the bereaved invoke God's richest blessings on all the dear people of Marlinton and vicinity.

T. D. Moore
Mrs. Lucy Gay and family

TO OUR FRIENDS AND PATRONS :

'Tis Christmas Time—the season of good cheer and Santa Claus; and we want to take this opportunity of extending our heartiest greetings and to wish you a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

And, too, may we say a word of thanks for the business you have so kindly turned our way during 1922. This business has been sihcerely appreciated, and we hope it has been so handled as to justify a continuance of our past pleasant relations.

But now—at this Yuletide Seasoa—

We wish you and yours a wonderfully Happy Christmas and a 1923 filled with joy, prosperity and plenty,

Cordially yours,
SCHUGHATS DEPARTMENT STORE

Marlinton, W. Va.

ANOTHER TICKET

Another ticket was nominated for town officers last week, and we will have a contest on election day, Thursday, January 4. This is a good ticket, too. It is

"The Peoples' Ticket"

For Mayor, Dr. N. R. Price.
For Recorder, W. L. Dearing.
For Councilmen, M. S. Wilson, G. R. Faulkner, Dr. E. G. Herold, C E Denison, T. D Moore

HE MAKETH CALM

By Anna L. Price

After the storm upon the lake,
Hushed by the words that Jesus spake
Waters that rose so mountain high,
Darkness that veiled the earth and sky,—
There was a great calm.

And then the tumult that He passed thro',
And the people who made so much "ado,"
For the pale, cold child done with all woes!
But He touched her hand and she arose.
There was great calm.

And the son that was as "good as dead,"
Tortured, possessed and demented;
I will come and heal him (the blessed Lord)
And he healed the boy by a single word.
There was great calm.

Time fails to tell how oft and again,
Jesus speaketh away our grief and pain;
And sweet to reflect in heaven above,
Where all is fellowship and love.
There is great calm.

DURBIN

Our Sunday schools are progressing nicely this winter.

Miss Emma Burner was operated on in a Baltimore hospital last week. We hope she will make a good recovery.

M. C. Kavanaugh killed one hog last week that weighed 684 pounds, and J F. Wooddell killed two, the combined weight was over one thousand pounds.

Jack O'Neal, a noted woodsman, is in town for a three weeks' rest.

Dr. G. H. Hull went to Pendleton county last week in his Ford car. He went by way of the Sinks, and over road that no car had ever been over.

C. F. Hull's father was up from Lobelia last week

Winters Beard and his daughter from Spring Creek, have been visiting at C. R Beard's.

H. F. Hyse has opened up a much needed jewelry store in Durbin.

N. B. Arbogast has bought a fine lot of beef hides this winter.

Houston Wimer, of Crabbottom, has opened a bakery shop in town.

Willie Burner and wife were vssiting Mrs. Burner's faster, John Geiger, at Stony Bottom, last week.

Archie A. Shelton, of Buckeye, died December 6, 1922, after a short illnes of appendicitis. His age was forty-seven years. He was a son of the late Mr and Mrs Thomas Shelton, of Buckeye. He is survived by his sister, Miss A. H. Shelton. Funeral services were conducted from the home of Squire N. C. Rodgers by Rev. Fred B. Wyand of the Marlinton Methodist Church. Burial in the Ruckman graveyard at Millpoint.

Thomas Smith, a one legged man from Anthonys Creek, was in the mayor's court on Monday, charged with speeding an automobile through town Friday night. He acknowledged driving the car, but said he was not in the car at the time. His portion was $100.

A one legged man named Smith drew a hundred dollar fine in the mayor's court Monday for speeding in a Ford while under the influence of liquor. The case was an aggravated one and a second offense within the past few days.

The following couples were married last week at the Methodist Parsonage, by Rev. Fred B. Wyand: Delwood Fountain Kellison and Miss Susan Jane Movis, both of Raywood. Earl Franklin Hoke and Miss Nancy Geneva Jones, of Beard.

The people are looking forward to the next legislature to find means to lower the intolerable taxation under which the State is suffering, particularly the direct levy on real estate. We would commend to the members of legislature that the best meant of raising revenue is economy.

Sunday school attendance in Marlinton last Sunday was off quite a bit on account of bad weather. The Methodists had 178 and the Presbyterians 148.

Important Notice

All 4 3-4 percent Victory Notes which have the distinguishing letters A, B, C, D, E, or F, prefixed to their serial numbers are called for redemption on December the 15th, 1922, and will bear no interest after that date.

All Registered notes must be assigned to the Secretary of the Treasury for redemption, before some Bank official.

If you are the holder of such Notes kindly advise us of your wishes.

We will be pleased to assist you in the collection of these securities.

Yours truly,
Bank of Marlinton,
HUBERT ECHOLS,
V. P. and Cashier.

A VISITATION

As the Sabbath comes and goes for the Sunday School workers in the seventey schools over the county, it is profitable to break away occasionally from our moorings and mingle with the other workers, and view the various problems as they are found in our Sunday Schools all over the county. Last Sunday brought a number of the county officers to the school at Cass, which holds first place in enrollment for the county. There we beheld 262 Sunday School folks crowded into their church, many standing in the isles, and we realized at once the responsibility these good folks are meeting so valiently and so well.

A splendid decision day service had been arranged for, and it was carried out most successful. While this school could use more workers, the serious condition of lack of room to care for the boys and girls faces them squarely. It is a matter to be deplored that in Pocahontas County some of our children can find no room in Sunday School.

The officers and teachers in charge are doing their work faithfully and are to be commended, and it is hoped that the emergency for additional quarters may be met promptly in some definite matter.

At an afternoon workers meeting vital matters partaining to the school were discussed and efforts made to meet existing conditions and care for the boys and girls of Cass.

The visitors were courteously received, well supported and delightfully entertained. We know the Cass Sunday School is doing its part in training the young people for Christian service.

S. N. H.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

9:45 a. m. Sunday School.
11:00 a. m. Christmas Sermon
3:00 p. m. Preaching at Swago.
5:00 p. m Christmas Pageant.

There will be a Christmas Pageant given at five o'clock Sunday afternoon, representing the birth of Jesus. This will take the place of the regular evening service. In connection with this service an offering will be taken for Christian Education and Ministerial Relief.

MARLINTON METHODEST CHURCH

Rev. Fred B. Wyand, Pastor
Sunday School 9:45 a. m.
A. S. Overholt, Superintendent

11 o'clock, Morning Worship. The services will be in keeping with the Christmas season and a Christmas sermon will be preached.

7:30 p. m. The Epworth League will render a Christmas program in place of the regular evening service.

Saturday evening December, 23 at seven o'clock there will be a Christmas entertainment and treat for the children. You are invited to all these services.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. James Miller at the Section House at Buckeye, Monday, a daughter.

There will be a Christmas program given at the Hosterman school house on Saturday night, December 23, at 7:30. Santa will be there. Come and see him.

William Buchannan, aged about 67 years, died suddenly in his store at Huntersville, Tuesday night December 19, 1922. He is survived by his wife and a number of children. Burial on Beaver Creek, Wednesday.

AMUSU THEATRE

TONIGHT, WEDNESDAY—
Mack Sennett's greatest comedy, "MARRIED LIFE." This is the other side of married life—the comic side. You will have to check your grouches at the door. We will put a smile on your face or refund your money. Ask those who saw it last night.

THURSDAY and FRIDAY—
An 8 reel super special "SHAME" with an all-star cast. This is the first of a number of big specials which includes "Over the Hills," "Connecticut Yankee," "Queen of Sheba," and others.

SATURDAY—
Elaine Hammerstein in "UNDER OATH" News and Mutt and Jeff.

MONDAY, XMAS—
Our beloved Mary Pickford in "Pollyanne." you have read and enjoyed the book. Come, see the play with everybody's sweetheart The kiddies will enjoy it.
Matinee, 3-30 p. m.
Two shows at night
7-30 and 9 p. m.
Admission 15c and 25c

TUESDAY—
The best picture of the year—"TURN TO THE RIGHT". You have seen it on the stage; we desire you to compare the screen and stage. The management guarantees this picture to be 100 percent entertainment and will gladly refund your money if it does not please.
Two shows, 7-30 and 9-15 pm
Admission 20c and 30c

COMING. MONDAY—
"DINTY" with Wesley Barry

Wanted

Will pay $8.00 for red fox alive or $5.00 for grey fox alive and in good condition. Ship at once C. O. D. to Dr. J. M. Spinks, Ronceverte, W. Va. Send wild cat if can't get fox.

95 Cent Dollars

A goodly number of our customers have been lined up for the 5 per cent. saving on January purchases by accepting our offer contained on our monthly statement, December 1st. Settle your account in full any time this month and buy your goods during January, with 95ct dollars.

Peoples Store & Supply Co.
MARLINTON, W. VA.

EDUCATIONAL NOTES

Unless changed by the next State Legislature, the requirements for a first grade certificare by examination will be four units of high school work and one unit of professional work. Following is the schedule of examination dates for 1923.

First Examination, April 26-27.

Second Examination, June 14-15.

Examination on High School Subjects for High School Credits, Friday, June 1.

Examination on Reading Circle Books for Professional Credit Coupons of Credit, and Renewal of first Grade (Five Year) Certificates, Saturday, June 2.

Only one examination will be given on High School Subjects and Reading Circle Books.

At the present time first grade temporary certificates are issued to high school graduates who do nine weeks of work in Normal Schools Teachers who have held temporary certificates may renew the certificate by attendance in an approved school for nine weeks.

It is probable that this regulation will continue for another year.

All first grade (five year) certificates require for the second renewal credit as follows:

1. Six week's attendance in an accredited school, or
2. Sixhours of credit earned by extension work during the life of the certificate, or
3. Passing an examination on two reading circle books with a minimum grade of 85 per cent.

No regulations have been made for the issuance and renewal of provisional high school certificates except for those which expire June 30, 1923. Regulations for the issuance of high school certificates will be made by the State Board of Education in January. These regulations will be in effect for the school year 1923-24, unless changed by new legislation in the coming session of the state legislature.

In the Essay Contest recently announced by the Bank of Marlinton High School students will be graded as a separate class, and two sets of prizes will be awarded to winners, one set to high school and another to elementary contestants.

CALF CLUB PROJECT 1ST YEAR

First colum gives name of club member; second column, pounds gain for period Oct. 2 to Nov. 1; third column, feed cost for first period; fourth column, pounds gain for period Nov. 2 to Dec. 1; and fifth column, the feed cost for the second period.

Mary Burns	44	2.50	56	3.28
Meri Simmons	20	2 62	50	3 76
Charicle Beverage	10	2 18	62	3 70
Virginia Hayes	0	1 10	50	4 81
Grady Moore	0	2 25	70	6 32
Arta Wells	30	1 98	30	3 18
Jewel Poage	20	1 58	36	3 20
Neal Long	45	1 89	55	2 29
Frank Beard	68	3 55	47	4 40

The average cost per pound of gain for the first period is $.082 with an average gain of 26 pounds; and for the second period $.076 with an average gain of 50 pounds.

Some of the things that the club members are doing in connection with their project are: teaching their calves to eat grain, washing with sheep dip to rid calves of lice, preparing a stall and feed boxes, teaching the animals to lead and stand correctly and securing the right grain to balance feed grown at home.

Most of the club members are feeding a grain mixture of 4 parts whole corn, 4 parts whole oats, 2 parts wheat bran, and one part of either oil meal or cottenseed meal depending on whether they expect to feed silage.

Mrs Jasper Dilley died at her home in the Hills of Huntersville District on Friday, December 15, 1922. For some time she has beed a suffer from tuberculosis. Her age was about 36 years. She was a native of North Carolian. Burial at the Dilley graveyard at Hevener Dilleys. She is survived by her husband and their two children.

Little Miss Edna Wade, who was run over by an automobile Sunday afternoon, December 10, and thought to be so badly hurt that her life was despaired of, has made a most wonderful recovery. She is now thought to be out of danger.

Beyond Question The

VICTROLA

Stands Alone

Irrespective of price—the Victrola is easily first, both in the quality of its music and of the artists who have chosen it as the most perfect medium for the expression of their genius.

There is a place for a Victrola in your home. Come in today and let us play your favorite music for you.

AMOS WOODDELL
Marlinton, W. Va.

Special Commissioner's Sale of Land

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered at the October Term, 1922, in the chancery cause of R. G. Miller vs L. A. Simmons and others, the undersigned special commissioners will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, on

Tuesday, January 30th, 1923,

at 10 o'clock a. m., at the front door of the court house of said county, the following real estate situate near Bartow, Greenbank District, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, as follows, to-wit:

1. A tract of land containing 7 1-2 acres adjoining the lands of P. D. Yeager estate, described by metes and bounds by a deed of record in the office of the clerk of the county court of said county in deed book No- 59 at page 461, from L. A. Simmons and wife to W. M. Simmons.

2. A tract of land containing 51 acres adjoining the lands of Fannie Rexrode and others, being the land described in a deed from L. A. Simmons and wife to W. M. Simmons of record in said office in deed book No. 59 at page 462.

Terms of Sale—One third cash in hand on day of sale, and the residue in two equal payments, with interest from date of sale, due in six and twelve months respectively, the purchaser executing notes with good personal security, the title to be retained as ultimate security.

N. C. McNeill,
Andrew Price,
Special Commissioners.

I, D. C. Adkison, clerk of the Circuit Court of said county do certify that the above named special commissioners have executed bouds as required by said decree.

C. D. Adkison, Clerk

Baxter's Garage

MARLINTON W. VA.

FORD Cars and Supplies

FORDSON Tractors

A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.

I. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Stockholders Meeting

Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Marlinton and Stoney Creek Mutual Telephone Company will be held at Pine Grove School house, Onoto, on Saturday, January 6, 1923, at 1 o'clock to elect officers and transact any other business that may properly come before said meeting.

Geo. A. C. Auldridge,
Secretary

Pay Me

It is necessary that I collect what is coming to me. I have too much on my books. I have accommodated too many people in extending credit. The accomodation is expected to come to me now, for a while.

J. J. McNellan
Marlinton, W. Va,

Baby Chicks

And hatching eggs, from heavy egg producers, get your order in early and be sure of chicks or eggs on date desired.

Oak Crest Poultry Farm
Mill Point, W. Va.,

For Sale

Pure bred white wyandot cockerls $1.50, six months old. Delivered F. O. B. Clover Lick.

John U. Hevenor
Clover Lick, W. Va.,

Notice

My wife Nannie Simmons, has left my bed and board with out a cause and I will not be responsible for any debts she may contract.

December 30th 1922

Charlie Simmons
Durbin, W. Va.

For Sale

Black Percheron Mare 3 years old weight about 1200 pounds, price $125.00.

Martin Judy
Cass, W. Va.,

Notice

The annual Stockholders meeting of the Marlinton and Academy Mutual Telephone Co. will be held at Hillsboro Jan. 13, 10 A. M. for the election of officers, and any other business that might be necessary.

C. V. Grimes,
Sec. and Treas.

NOTICE

My mill will be open two days each week for grinding—Fridays and Saturdays. J. B. Orndorff

HOGS FOR SALE

I have some very fine big bone Poland-China pigs for sale. These are the real type with register papers. $10.00 and $12.00 each.

Mt. View Orchard Farm,
Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR SALE—38 acres of land and a good 8 roym house for sale. All necessary outbuildings including barn, etc. On Class A road 2 miles from Frost on Dunmore road.

MITCHELL SHARP,
Dunmore, W. Va

For crocheting of all kinds done to order at reasonable prices Christmas orders made and mailed. Write for prices.

Mrs. Lena Colson
Spice Run W. Va.

A 15,000 MILE JOURNEY

TOURING THE UNITED STATES FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN BY

By Davis L. Barlow

(Continued from last week)

It seems so strange that in every story someone must be behind time. There are thousands of us who are behind time and can play DeLuth's part to perfection. Our little old canoes will at last come wobbling in some day but we will find our "Wenonah" has passed beyond our reach. What an opportunity for a great sermon here. Do you catch it? If we do not speed up our canoes a little and slow down on some lines there is danger of some of us arriving just in time to see our cherished hopes crushed on the rocks below. But away with fogyism. On with the dance! Let joy be unconfined!

Time has wrought a great change in this part of the west. The tepees of the Dakotas are no longer to be seen on the banks of the Mississippi. Many years have passed since the cliffs and woods have rung with the happy laughter of happy Wenonah. Poets have written songs about this beautiful princess, artists have dreamed her likeness, and sculptures have cut her face in marble, yet the city which bears her name is her greatest and most lasting honor. The spelling of the word Wenonah has been changed to Winono and the city today is one of the most prominent manufacturing centers in this section of the country.

We must admit that weather conditions have a marked bearing upon ones opinion of a country. It was an ideal June evening when we looked over Winona. The sky was so magnificently blue that the river bluffs presented a pleasing picture and The Father of Waters appeared to wind along so peacefully in its course to the Gulf that we were forced to believe that the citizens of this city were not half boastful enough when they spoke of Winona as "The City Beautiful."

I halted the first gentleman I met on the streets and ask him for information concerning the city, country, roads, etc. His action revealed that he was really glad to have an opportunity to impart information and when he turned to leave he called back and said "It will be time for you to turn in when you reach my brother-in-law's home and I will just write a word of introduction which you hand him and he will take good care of you." Now it cost this man nothing to do this and his brother-in-law was put to no inconvenience for we drove many miles further. But one thing it did do—it gave me pleasant memories of Winona. I might have talked to the only big hearted westerner in the city, but I will bet you my old paper sole U. S. Army brand shoes that there are scores of big souled men in The City Beautiful.

Our first night in Minnesota was at the home of a farmer some miles out of Winona. This man's name and address, like many of my important paper? are like the old woman's cow, "which came up missing." One thing, however, I remember, the farmer was so solicitous about our welfare that I saw almost persuaded to stay over a day and help him with his hay. Had he heard me talk about the amount of hay I can handle with a fork he sure would have kept me. There is but one man living who according to his report who can handle more hay in a day than I can according to my report and that is Tom Bruffey.

The next day we drove through an agricultural country and spent the night in St. Paul. Here we were royally taken care of in the Tourists Park where we were given every convenience, even hot and cold shower baths. This park is new and the superintendent told me the city figured on making it the best in the north. A good start has been made.

In the year 1680 the first white man set foot upon what is now St. Paul. It was near one hundred years later before we have an account of another white visitor, and it remained for the third visitor some years later to start a settlement. We now find a city of near one-fourth millions people where eighty years ago there were only a few log huts on the river bank. The city received its name from the little log church which stood on the ground which today is occupied by one of the finest cathedrals to be found anywhere in the country. Where once was located a rude hut from which justice was administered; now stands a marble building said to be one of the finest and best in the United States. There are many other excellent public buildings. The parks and driveways are beautiful. It has many noted schools, diversified factories, and is one of the leading railroad centers of the country. Contrary to my expectations I found the ground upon which city is built by no means level.

Leaving St. Paul we had to make inquiry to learn when we were in Minneapolis which like its sister city lies on both sides of the Mississippi River. This city has a population of about 360,000. Many people now living can remember when there was not a building in this community. Within the city limits there are a number of beautiful lakes, many fine parks and excellent driveways. It has scores and scores of factories and is noted the world over for its flouring mills. Perhaps the biscuits you had for breakfast this morning were made from flour ground in Minneapolis

Going out of Minneapolis we followed the Jefferson highway to St. Cloud. The road to Big Lake, a distance of about thirty-six miles is paved and concrete and is as fine as I ever drove a car over. From here to St. Cloud a distance of about thirty miles we were on a detour—the deepest sand road I ever traveled.

St. Cloud, a city of over 20,000 is located on the Mississippi and is not far from the geographical center of the state. This section is noted for its granite ledges and St. Cloud is sometimes called the Granite City. There is no better colored and finer grade of granite in the west than that found here.

At St. Cloud we struck the Red trail which we followed to Sank Center where we remained over the Sabbath. This town was on the site of an Indian stockade to which early white settlers fled for safety from the red men. The State Home school for girls is located here. While here I caught on to a new method of washing clothes. The wash women were men. One at the tub washing clothes after which he would pitch them to a man dressed in a bathing suit who stood in lake and rinsed them out.

Some years ago on the Fourth of July we drove from Sandusky, Ohio, to Huron on the Lake Erie road and from Huron we turned south by way of Norwalk and many other towns to the city of Delaware. The traffic was so heavy that it seemed every man, woman and child were out celebrating the Fourth. Restaurants and gasoline stations were closed and we met with so many difficulties that I declared "No more Fourth of July driving for me." But little did I think at the time that the sun would rise on a future Fourth and find me with my little party with scarcely enough socks to go round at Sank Center which is in a state widely known as "The Star of the North." We were many hundreds of miles from home, were still going further and we often pondered the question: Could we make the journey, take in the sights and return east before the snow would block the the high passes of the Rocky Mountains? We finally decided that the difficulties met by traveling this fine day would be tempered by bright sunshine, blooming flowers and the joyful songs of birds and were much to be preferred to shoveling snow on the high mountains in the late fall. So we drove.

We continued to follow the Red trail which is dirt all the way in this section and in wet weather it must be very bad. We traveled a number of miles today over road which appeared to have no bottom. It was a new graded road and was very muddy The country through here is rolling and there are hundreds of beautiful lakes.

Our first town of importance was Alexandria which lies in the midst of Minnesota's lake country. I am told these lakes are supplied with the finest of fish. It has only been about sixty years since the first white man built his cabin in this community, now there are several thousand living here and so great was the crowd attending the Fourth of of July celebration that we could scarcely see the town for the people. This is a summer resort and many prominent people of Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul, Minneapolis and other cities have cottages on the lake shores in this vicinity.

We rested a few moments at Fergus Falls—a town of over 9000 and the county seat of Otter Tail county. In this county you will find more than 1000 lakes. Game is abundant, and fishing is the very best. In fact this country is a sportsmar's paradise

After passing Fergus Falls we crossed the trail of a recent cyclone. I have never seen one of these "things" in action and I hope I never will, yet I am constantly looking for one when in a cyclone belt. I learned from an old school book that a cyclone is a violent storm, radiating about a calm center. I assure you I would not be the calm center should I see one coming over the plains

On the night of July 4th we stopped near Rathsay with a prosperous farmer who gave us the best he had in every thing This was our last farm stop made in our western trip. I have in more than a score of states a golden opportunity to study the farmer as he went about his work. I have watched his farm methods, looked over his home, barn, cattle, hogs, and sheep. I have noted his habits of conversation. I have given attention to his fields and crops along thousands of miles of highway. I have noticed where improvement might be made—in fact I have passed through sections where the farmers appear to move along in a mediocre state. This is to be regretted, but taking it all in all the farmer, in my opinion is the corner stone of our great government. The next man you hear calling the farmer a hayseed, tell him to get his hoe, go out and take the farmer's place, and it will not be long until you will see another man wearing a seed hat and a "japaned" coat on your streets.

On the morning of the fifth the clouds were lowering and realizing that even a moderate rain would make the road so slippery we could not travel, we made an early start and drove through a level farming country to Fargo, North Dakota This level, or what you might call flat country, began near Ashly or where the water begins to drain into the Red River of the North.

This Red River Valley country is extremely level and looked rich. It is sparsely settled. There might be something about the drainage, cyclones, winter—well I might be mistaken—I will not say. It had begun to rain and we had put "Old Sal" on full feed and did not have time to stop and talk to some one about the country, climate, land, etc. But don't you know I can scarcely keep from dreaming about this valley. Your geography tells you that it is the richest wheat region in the world. It further states that ages ago it was covered by a great lake which received the waters of mighty streams, and fine soil settled evenly over the bottom. At length the water drained away and the smooth bottom became a level plain. But don' give your little mountain farm away and move to this rich wheat country without thinking three times. I have all along had a fear that I might drop something that might influence some reader to imagine he might do better by changing his location and let me say once for all. Never dream of changing your location unless you know you can leave SELF behind. SELF is the individual who is giving you the trouble.

Some time ago I heard a full-blooded Indian—Dr. Mohawk, deliver a lecture. I have all along heard that the Indian is a great orator and after hearing the Dr. I know there is one orator among them. His subject was "Harmony," and in the course of his lecture he gave an account of a monstrous Indian convention which assembled in the Red River Valley many centuries ago Perhaps there is not living in the world today a man whose knowledge of the Indian customs and traditions surpass that of Dr. Mohawk's. The account of the Red River convention was handed down by the old Indians to the young and came to us from the lips of one of their orators.

The Dr. said years before the white men knew America, the Indians held in the Red River Valley the greatest gathering of the Tribes ever known before or since Every section of the country where the canoe had paddled or the foot of the red man had trod was represented. The big chiefs delivered their famous orations and the meeting ran well for three days. But on the fourth a fight began and continued until scarcely enough delegates were left to tell the tale. The land was saturated with blood and the river ran red and was ever afterward known as the Red River of the North. Dr. Mohawk's appeal to his pale face brother to avoid the pitfalls of the red man was really pathetic.

Moorehead was our last city in Minnesota. This city is a trade center for a large farming section and has many important industries. It was the end of the stage coach line in the early days of Minnesota.

While crossing the Red River into Fargo, North Dakota the rain began to pour and we remained in the city three days.

(To be continued)

Commissioners Notice

C. J. Richardson
vs
John Alexander and Dwight Alexaneer

Please take notice that pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, W. Va., entered in the above entitled cause on the 3rd day of October, 1922, I will on SATURDAY, JANUARY 20, 1923,

at my office in the town of Marlinton, in said county and State, proceed to take, state and report the following matters of account, towit:

1st. The real estate owned by the defendants John Alexander and Dwight Alexander, its location and value.

2nd Whether said lands will rent for a period of four years for enough to pay the liens against them:

3rd The liens against the estate of Dwight Alexauder, together with their respective amounts and priorities.

4th The liens against the estate of John Alexander, together with their respective amounts and priorities.

5th Any other matter to be specially stated deemed pertinent by the commissioner or required by any party in interest.

At which time and place you may attend and do what is necessary to protect your interests in the premises

N. C. McNEIL, Commissioner

To all persons holding liens by judgement or otherwise on the real estate or any part thereof of John Alexander and Dwight Alexander:

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, made in a cause therein pending to subject the realestate of the said John Alexander and Dwight Alexander to the satisfaction of tho liens thereon, you are hereby required to present all claims held by you and each of you against the estate of John Alexander and Dwight Alexander which are liens on the real estate of each of them or any part of it for adjudication to me at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 20th day of January, 1923.

Given under my hand this 19th day of December, 1922.

N. C. McNEIL, Commissioner

Coal Orders

Must be in Saturday by noon for delivery that day. All orders received Saturday afternoon will be delivered Monday.

Wise Herold

Notice

A reward of One hundred Dollars will be paid for evidence that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the party, or parties, who set out or permitted fire to escape from his or their lands to the lands of the West Virginia Pulp & Paper Company, and the lands of Wilson Bros. on Thorny Flat, on October, 13th, 1922; also to the lands of the West Virginia Pulp & Paper Company on Bald Knob, on November 13th, 1922.

Central West Virginia Fire Protective Association,

Merrit Wilson
President.

Purebred Poultry

Bourbon Red Turkeys, mated for breeding, toms from $7 to $10, hens $5 to $7.

Barred Rock cockerels, $2, or two for $3.50.

Rhode Island Red cockerels, dark color, $2. or two for $8.50.

Buff Orpington cockerels $3. each.

A few yearling cocks at same prices —Reds and Rocks, single and rose comb.

Mrs. A. S. Gay,
Onoto, W. Va.

Raw Furs ! ! !

We line up with the best raw fur exporters and manufacturers that can be found. That is why we are able to buy from so many fur shippers. They can get a better grade and get more for their fur by selling to us. We are wanting large quantities of furs. We do not want your fur unless we can get it honest. We do not make 16 grades in order to get you out of your fur but aim to grade honestly and as fair as the market will permit. So when you get a lot of fur on hands either write us or bring it to us. We will certainly appreciate your patronage again this season. And we will advise the trappers to take special care in skinning and stretching their fur and not to be misled by wild cat prices.

Very Respectfully
L. D. Sharp & Son's

THE SCHOOL BUILDING

BY DOUGLAS McNEILL

(Address before the State Education Association, November 16, 1922)

It is peculiarly characteristic of humanity that the things of which every one knows much. The evident and very important things most frequently neglected and overlooked. One of my mountaineer neighbors dropped a dime where he was hacking the brush from a bit of rough grass land, and while he was groping about among the grasses and the rocks with his eyes and his mind focused for something the size of a dime, he fell into a sink hole fifteen feet in diameter. He was looking intently for a very small thing, and he overlooked a much larger and more important thing.

This illustrates the problem of the school building. It is so evident that we should have good school building and there are so many unquestioned reasons why we should have good buildings that few take upon themselves the task of working for good buildings. "School Buildings" is a worn-out subject concerning which much is said and little done.

It isn't necessary to enter into a discussion of the relation between the building and the health of the pupils It is to evident that unsanitary buildings result in injury to the student's health. Nor it is necessary to re-hash the old argument that the children, who come from good homes, have a right to the same habit-forming conditions at school that they have at home; and that the children from the poor homes have the right to better surroundings at school than they nave at home. All these arguments, while they are sound, are vague. They lack the certainty that must accompany any movment in the direction of school improvement. We should know, not only that improper lighting injures the eyes of the pupils, but we should know the extent of the injury. We should know, not only that poor buildings are responsible for poor attendance, but we should know too what extent the building is responsible for the attendance.

It was with the hope of making this discussion definite that a rather careful study was made of the school records of my county, and for the information of those who may not be familiar with Pocahontas County geography, I may say that Pocahontas is a mountain county situated in the Alleghanies directly against the Virginia border a country of blue grass, fertile farms, limestone rocks and spruce woods, and the conditions there are about the average conditions to be found in the other counties of this state. Now the few minutes remaining of my time assignment I shall take up with a study of some facts revealed by the records af Pocahontas county schools.

With regard to buildings alone, and without considering the teacher or the community, all of the very poor one-room buildings were selected. It happened that there were fourteen of these buildings. The poorest of these were poor indeed. They are are without cloak rooms; they are lighted by two small windows set in opposite sides of the room, there is no under-pinning, and the sills are riding on stilts, that sort of house with which same of you may be familiar, where if it happens that the hogs underneth get frightened and all dash out at the same time, the commotion shakes the stovepipe down. The best of these buildings have cloakrooms, and are reasonably comfortable, but the interiors are uninviting and the lighting poor. As against these, there were selected fourteen of the best one-room buildings. None of these are standardized, and none of them are what may be classed as an up-to-date building, but the fourteen selected as good are better than the fourteen representing the poor buildings.

The first fact disclosed by a comparison of the two groups of buildings was that qualified teachers select the best buildings. Furthermore, is developed incidentally that if they could not find good buildings in Pocahontas county, the qualified teachers went to another county, where they could locate in comfortable buildings. In the twenty-eight schools concerned in this comparison, there were sixteen teachers holding first grade certificates or better, and of the sixteen first grade teachers, eleven of them taught in the fourteen good buildings. The three teachers remaining in the good buildings were second grade. In the low class buildings there were six second grade and three third grade teachers. Of the one hundred seventy teachers employed in the county, there were three third grades, and all of these were employed in the fourteen schools classed as poor.

This difference in the teachers qualifications had a result. Seventy five per cent of all the school difficulties arose in the fourteen poor buildings. Here was where the trustees had meeting after meeting; here was where the Boards of Education held meetings and investigated all manner of charges; here was where the county superintendent accumolated an oversupply of troubles. Here was where the furniture was smashed and the windows broken, and here it was that the children learned but little that was beneficial. There was neither method nor management as a rule, and the students learned in seven months what in other schools they might have learned in three or four months.

Now as to the attendance.

In the fourteen good buildings 94 per cent of the enumeration was enrolled, while in the poor buildings 64 per cent of the enumeration was enrolled. This difference of 30 per cent almost one-third of all the children may be accounted for in two ways. First, the buildings were so uninviting and so uncomfortable that no one attended except those forced to attend by the Compulsory law. A second cause for the failure to enroll is found in the fact that the teachers employed in these schools were so notoriously incompetent, and were so low in scholarship, that it was regarded as useless for any of the older and more advanced pupils to attend. The teachers were not able to bring in the sixteen-year old pupils; nor could they have taught them had they come in.

Of the actual enrollment in the better class of buildings, 82 per cent attended every day, while in the poor buildings 69 per cent attended a difference of 13 per cent In the one case the absence was 18 per cent of the enrollment, and in the other case the absence was 31 per cent of the enrollment It would be interesting to know what caused these enrolled pupils to absent themselves from school. While accurate statistics are not at hand, inquiries made of the teachers, and the facts disclosed by the records show that the 18 per cent of absence from the good buildings was caused by over-age pupils being taken out by their parents to work on the farm, while the 31 per cent absence from the poor school buildings was, for the most part, caused by illness. There can be no question but that poorly ventilated, and improperly heated buildings do result in much sickness much more than a careless survey would lead us to suppose. Of the absence from the schools of my county, fully 60 per cent is chargeable directly to the colds, diptheria, pneumonia and kindred diseases contracted by reason of the ramshackle school buildings.

The average cost per pupil in the elementary schools of Pocahontas County last year was $48. Had the per cent of attendance been as high in the fourteen poor buildings as it was in the better class of buildings, about $4 000 would have been saved. That is, the poor attendance in the low class buildings caused a waste of $4,000. $500 spent in repairs would have made any of the poor buildings just as good as any of the better class buildings. If those figures are correct, the Boards of Education could make the necessary repairs on the fourteen buildings and the repairs would pay for themselves in two years.

So far these comparisons have been made between two classes of schools, neither of which are standarnized. The standard buildings of my county are, for the most part, confined to towns, but we have three standard schools located in rural communities. In these schools the average daily attendance was 97 per cent of the enrollment. One of these school is a consolidation formed by united five rural schools. In these rural schools prior to the consolidation, the daily attendance for ten years averaged 62 per cent last year, after consolidation and the construction of a standard building, the attendance was 96 per cent.

In the fourteen poor schools, the few 8th grade graduates have for for four years averaged sixteen years of age, while in the better schools the average age of graduation is fourteen years. The per cent of these graduates to enter high school shows about three to one in favor of the better elementary schools. Within the last ten years, the fourteen poor schools have sent one student to a normal school, while in the same time, the better schools have sent ten students to normal school and college.

Now it may be objected here that the worse communities have the very bad schools and the wealthy and more enterprising communities have the best schools. It may be objected that the community and not the school building is responsible for the showing made by the school. That contention would not be true. Some of the best buildings we have are located in the poorest communities, while of the fourteen outlaws on the list, seven are located in the best communities in my county, four are located in the very poorest communities, while the three remaining are in communities that may be classed as average.

The fourteen outlawed buildings had enrolled, last year, 263 children. None of these children were given the inspiration and the correct habit-forming influences that come from proper surroundings. Most of these children did not have the benefit of good teaching, and because of these unfavorable conditions, the children must be handicapped for their lifetimes. A century will not place society and our state where they would be had these children been given proper opportunities. In addition to the fourteen buildings in my county, West Virginia has just such buildings by the hundreds, and a similar investigation will return the same indictment that was returned in this case.

And what are we going to do about it?

We are going to improve the buildings, or we going to leave them as they are!

And are we going to improve the buildings, how are we going about it?

In the first place the school people of West Virginia must get behind a good building program a good building program, not high schools and town schools alone, but for rural schools as well. We must come to understand that good buildings are not ornamental merely, but that they are an essential to rural education.

The efforts of our normal schools and colleges to supply capable teachers for the rural schools must always be more or less ineffective so so long as those teachers are forced to work under such conditions as make good teaching impossible. A certain amount of the cost of teacher training must be wasted. If those teachers are forced to contend with unfavorable conditions.

The idea that the young teacher filled with the inspiration received in college, will invade a hard-favored rural settlement and in a season, standardize the log school house, christianize the community and erect two churches is inspirational indeed. Such things have been achieved; such things will be achieved again; but as a rule when the college trained teacher who could accomplish much in the rural schools comes into my county, she seems to prefer teaching in a properly lighted and properly heated town school or high school at one fifty per month rather than brave the perils of the log house where the chinks are stuffed with newspapers and the windows punctuated with old coats.

The school teachers and the school officials can encourage the good building sentiment, but the buildings themselves cost money. This money must be furnished by the people. Since it appears that in some districts of this state, the required taxes could not be paid without the taxpayers borrowing the money and mortgaging their homes the situation appears impossible. We can see the problem clearly, but can't get hold of it. This may be made plain by a story. In the old days, before railroads were numerous in the Allegheny region, the people living in a great section of the two Virginias were compelled to wagon all their supplies from Covington or Millboro. John was an awkward mountaineer youth who lived just across the line in Old Virginia, and though he was about twenty years of age, he had never been to town. So it was arranged that John was to accompany his uncle over to Millboro after a wagon load of goods. John went and he put up at the hotel. A day or so later when it was noised about the neighborhood that John had made a safe return, some of the neighbors gathered to hear him recount the incidents of the journey. John's mother was very proud of her far traveled son, so she "sat in" on the conversation and assisted him somewhat by asking leading questions. Finally she said "And, John, how did ye sleep?"

"Ah," said John, "I didn't sleep hardly any. There was a big bright light hangin' on a string right down over the bed, and it shined, in my eyes till I hardly slept a wink the whole night long."

John's mother was incensed somewhat at the treatment John had received, and she was especially provoked that he had permitted such an imposition, so she said, "Well, John, I tell ye pintedly, if, I'd been in your place, I wouldn't a cared what anybody said, I'd a got right up and blowed that thing out."

"Yes," said John, "ye'd a played hob a blowin it out, and it a fastened up in a bottle."

We can't get at the building problem without money, and many districts in this state cannot possibly provide the needed money. There is but one solution, then. Let West Virginia provide aid, not only for the purpose of employing teachers and maintaining the schools, but for building purposes as well. Let West Virginia take up her legitimate burden as a state, and educate her children.—The West Virginia School Journal and Educator.

Watch the car ahead!

SEE how the Hasslers work on the car ahead of you. Notice how the wheels bound up and down while the body remains perfectly steady. Imagine the comfort the passengers of that car enjoy!

On over a million Fords, Hassler Shock Absorbers provide perfect comfort. They absorb most of the vibration that rattles cars to pieces; they cut repair costs and make tires last longer.

Test them ten days at our risk.

Hiner & Gum
Marlinton, W. Va.

HASSLER
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
Shock Absorbers
PATENTED

For Sale

My resident in the lower of Green Bank, W. Va. containing one acre, 9 room house with porches and pantry, well furnished for a comfortable dwelling with in the house. Out buildings cellar, grainery, wood house combined with good barn all in first clars condition, or I will sell with the house furnished, term made good.

Reason for selling lost my wife and am going to broke up housekeeping. High school and two churches in sight, on class A road

MARION RAY.

Apples for Sale

500 bushels of apples at 75c a bushel at farm or delivered at Marlinton for a little more.

W. McCLINTIC,
Marlinton, W. Va

Pigs for Sale

6 thoroughbred Poland China pigs, boars, 12 weeks old, $8.00 without registry papers and $10.00 with papers.

W. McCLINTIC.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Picoting and Hem-Stitching

All orders promptly filled.

Mrs. J. E. BUCKLEY,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Special Commissioner's Sale of Land

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered at the October Term, 1922, in the chancery cause of R. C. Miller vs L. A. Simmons and others, the undersigned special commissioners will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, on

Tuesday, January 30th, 1923,

at 10 o'clock a. m., at the front door of the court house of said county, the following real estate situate near Bartow, Greenbank District, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, as follows, to wit:

1. A tract of land containing 7 1-2 acres adjoining the lands of P. D. Yeager estate, described by metes and bounds by a deed of record in the office of the clerk of the county court of said county in deed book No. 59 at page 461, from L. A. Simmons and wife to W. M. Simmons.

2. A tract of land containing 51 acres adjoining the lands of Fannie Rexrode and others, being the land described in a deed from L. A. Simmons and wife to W. M. Simmons of record in said office in deed book No. 59 at page 462.

Terms of Sale—One third cash in hand on day of sale, and the residue in two equal payments, with interest from date of sale, due in six and twelve months respectively, the purchaser executing notes with good personal security, the title to be retained as ultimate security.

N. C. McNeill,
Andrew Price,
Special Commissioners.

I, D. C. Adkison, clerk of the Circuit Court of said county do certify that the above named special commissioners have executed bouds as required by said decree.

C. D. Adkison, Clerk.

Trustee's Sale of Real and Personal Property, Moving Picture Theatre at Cass

Pursuant to authority vested in me as trustee in a deed of trust dated on the 27th day of April, 1921, executed by C. E. Carpenter to Andrew Price, Trustee, to secure the Bank of Marlinton in the payment of a note of $2000.00, which deed of trust is of record in the office of the Clerk of the County Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in trust deed book number 12 at page 58, I will proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder, in Marlinton, at the front door of the court house of said county, on TUESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1923,

at 10 o'clock a. m., the following real and personal property located in the town of Cass in said county, to-wit:

A tract of land known as the Cass Theatre Property, and also known as lot number 9 of the Clayton Addition to the Town of Cass, being the same property described in a deed from John S. Hannah and wife to said C. E. Carpenter, dated November 13, 1920 of record in said clerk's office; and also all the furnishings of said building consisting of a Dennett-Bretz Player Piano, chairs and all other furniture and appliances in said theater.

Terms of Sale—CASH

ANDREW PRICE, Trustee

Baxter's Garage

MARLINTON W. VA.

FORD Cars and Supplies

FORDSON Tractors

A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.

I. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Pay Me

It is necessary that I collect what is coming to me. I have too much on my books. I have accommodated too many people in extending credit. The accomodation is expected to come to me now, for a while.

J. J. McNellan
Marlinton, W. Va.,

Baby Chicks

And hatching eggs, from heavy egg producers, get your order in early and be sure of chicks or eggs on date desired.

Oak Crest Poultry Farm
Mill Point, W. Va.,

For Sale

Pure bred white wyandot cockerls $1 50, six months old. Delivered F. O. B. Clover Lick.

John U. Hevenor
Clover Lick, W. Va.,

Raw Furs ! ! !

We line up with the best raw fur exporters and manufacturersthat can be found. That is why we are able to buy from so many fur shippers. They can get a better grade and get more for their fur by selling to us. We are wanting large quantities of furs. We do not want your fur unless we can get it honest. We do not make 16 grades in order to get you out of your fur but aim to grade honestly and as fair as the market will permit. So when you get a lot of fur on hands either write us or bring it to us. Wewill certainly appreciate your patronage again this season. And we will advise the trappers to take special care in skinning and stretching their fur and not to be misled by wild cat prices.

Very Respectfully
L. D. Sharp & Son's

POR SALE—38 acres of land and good 8 roym house for sale. All necessary outbuildings including barn, etc. On Class A road 2 miles from Frost on Dunmore road.

MITCHELL SHARP,
Dunmore, W. Va

A 15,000 MILE JOURNEY

TOURING THE UNITED STATES FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN BY AUTO

By Davis L. Barlow

(Continued from last week)

On the 13th we motored from Miles City to Pompeys Pillar, Mont. This drive was along the Yellowstone River all the way except in a few places the road wound back into the hills where there were many steep grades, and should your engine and brakes give way at the same time it would be good-bye here. and good morning some where else. We passed today many irrigated districts an well as some high yellow sand stone cliffs from which the river receives its name

The next morning we reached Billings quite early and remained until the next day. Here we met some of our Florida friends, who reported that they and many others of my acquaintance just ahead were on their way to California to spend the winter I made up my mind to tag along and learn what these retired business men thought of the climate of the various sections of our country. Later I shall give you their opinions, not from their own words but from their actions which I am told speak louder than words

Billings with its more than 20,000 population is located on the Yellowstone River and is surrounded by an extensive irrigated and dry farming section of country. We eastern people look upon it today as a city. "way out west" and only forty short years ago this country was virtually unknown to the civilized world; today it is the distributing point for a large scope of country and is one of the largest inland wool markets in the world.

At an early hour on a beautiful morning we left Billings headed for Livingston by the way of Laurel, Springtime, Reedpoint, Big Timber, and Hot Springs. Our route was along the Yellowstone all the way except between Springtime and Reed point the trail carried us back into the hills.

Just after rounding the first turn out of Billings we looked to the West and there about one hundred miles in the distance appeared the first snow capped mountain we had seen. The sight of this stately, rugged, towering snow mountain created in me a mingled emotion of astonishment and reverential fear—mostly fear—for it looked as if though we would have to cross it if we drove much further. This did not look inviting and I knew the hundreds of miles of rough road back of us. What were we to do? Well. we will anyway drive to base of mountain, so on we went. In the evening we bore away from and left old Majestic snowcap to our right and the old axiom: Never cross a bridge (in this case mountain) until you come to it, still holds good.

My knowledge of rhetoric, or as to that, any subject, is quite limited, but when gazing for the first time upon the Rockies I thought I saw an opportunity for a teacher to demonstrate to a class the shade of difference and the real meaning of such terms as the sublime, the grand, the majestic, etc.

At Livingston which is the gateway to the northern entrance to the Yellowstone National Park we remained three days Here in a beautiful auto park shaded by stately trees we found tourists from every section of the United States. I have no data as to the number of cars which park here during a single season, but would say 5,000 would be a low estimate. I have somewhere read that 2443 cars carrying 9772 tourists were parked at Billings, Montana, during the season of 1920, and Livingston being 130 miles nearer the National Park entrance we would be safe in saying that more than double this number stop in her tourists' park. The Billings report further said of the thousands of people who stopped in her park not a single robbery was reported or a single arrest made for any misbehavior. Is not this remarkable? Some day I hope to give you an account of the character, soberness and honesty of thousands and thousands of tourists I have met.

In Livingston the site of the Lewis and Clark camp is marked by a granite monument. This was a favorite camping place for trappers and hunters in the real pioneer days

Tuesday morning July 19th we began our journey of 56 miles over a scenic but rough trail up the Yellowstone River to Gardner, the northern entrance to the National Yellowstone Park In the evening we passed under the imposing lava arch and were in the world's greatest sight seeing region.

YELLOWSTOE NATIONAL PARK

In area the is about three and one-half times that of Pocahontas county. It is located in north western Wyoming and encroaches slightly upon Montana and Idaho. If you wish to gain some idea of its elevation, go to the top of Spruce Knob which is back of James White's place at Woodrow, cut and erect on top of Knob a 3000 foot pole, climb to its top and you will still be below the average elevation of park. It has many mountains which tower thousands of feet above the average elevation. Look at your map and you will find that the water sheds in all directions from this section of country.

The Park has four entrances, Northern or Gardner; Western, or Yellowstone; Eastern, or Cody; Southern or Snake River.

As before stated we entered at Gardner and spent our first evening and night at Mammoth Hot Springs which is about five miles from the entrance gate. Here being told that the bear comes up each night to feed at the hotel garbage dump which is some distance below camp, I, after supper, walked out to see them eat. When nearing the feeding place, I for some cause, suddenly developed a case of "cold feet" and began to hike back to camp. While hurrying along I noticed that the moon with more than usual splendor was rising over Mt. Everts— a huge rough mountain to the east. In the good old days when life was in its dream I have heard S B Moore of Edray, sing:

"Oh, the West Virginia hills!
How majestic and how grand,
With their summits bathed in glory
Like our Prince Emmanuel's Land.

But had he been with me and gazed upon Mt. Everets bathed in the glorious moonlight, he would have announced, all together let us sing, "The Half has never yet been told."

Silence! Look to the west and behold Mammoth Hot Springs in moonlight. The beams are reflected as if from a thousand mirrors. You will have a feeling more sublime in its character than can be produced by music, as your soul feasts upon the beauties of this picture painted and arranged by the hand of God. Behold Minerva, Jupiter, and Angel Terraces so magnificently formed and so beautifully draped in every shade of color from the deepest to the faintest in orange, lemon, crimson, pink, gray, etc. and all colors blended and softened by a veil of steam as it rises from the hot water. The thought here presented to one's mind is how wonderful are the works of God and how marvelous are His arrangements For no sooner has the King of Day closed the Book of Creation and retired to rest behind the western hills than it is again opened by the Queen of Night.

I made a close examination of the terraces in the early morning sunlight, but the light from the various colors is quite painful to the eye and would advise a visitor to take with him a Hagerstown Almanack from which he can learn the time the time the moon fulls and how long he would have to wait over. But in the mean time it would do no harm for the boys and girls of Pocahontas to take advantage of thousands and thousands of dollars the tax payers are pouring into the schools of the country and learn to calculate Longitude and Time so as to be able to figure to the minute the time the moon will rise over a given meridian. The calculations of Hagerstown Almanack are based on Longitude 75 degrees West. From this and your geography you ought to be able to figure on a given date the hour and minute the moon will appear over Mt. Everts.

At the Silver Gate and the "Hoodoo's" we are seven and a fraction miles from and 1,875 feet higher than the Gardner entrance. The "Hoodoo's" is one of the strangest formations of the Park. They cover an area of about 600 acres and the road way passes through this series of rock masses. Some claim that hot springs have at some period carried the earth and all soluable matter from under the rocks causing them to cave in, filling the opening below. Others claim they are the work of a violent earthquake and have been thrown down from a higher elevation. Not knowing but what this is true and our Almanack being silent as to the time of the next earth quake we hurried through Silver Gate which is so named because of the great blocks of limestone rising many feet on each side of road.

A short distance further is Golden Gate which is a picturesque but rugged pass between two mountains. The sides of the rugged walls rise many hundreds of feet above road and are covered with a golden moss which suggest the name—Golden Gate. At the head of this pass or canyon is Rustic Fall. The water leaps about seventy feet and is lost beneath the rocks of the canyon.

After leaving the canyon the road suddenly leads into a beautiful mountain prairie known as Swan Lake Basin and surrounded by seven snow capped peaks—the lowest of which is 9,900 feet, and the highest Electric Peak, (11,155 feet) so named because it attracts lightning during storms.

Obsidian Cliff is a cliff of hard black volcanic glass which rises 250 feet above the road. I am told that the road through here was constructed by building fires on the blocks of glass and then shattering the blocks is throwing on water. The road at thy point is built of glass and is probably the only glass road in the world. In the days before the white man knew this section Obsidian Cliff was neutral ground to all Rocky Mountain Indians and was often visited by them. The material here made fine arrow-heads and other instruments.

I shall not soon forget my visit to Roaring Mountain. I could see from dead timber on its sides that it had not been engaged many years in its present accupation, and later learned that about twenty years ago that the only evidence of its internal heat was that a little steam could be seen issuing from its very top. But now it is doing a great business in the way of steaming, puffing, roaring, forcing out in many places hot greenish milky sulphur water which runs down its side, collecting in pools at its base and near the road, destroying the timber. I have an excellent snap-shot view of one of the pools and thought of going upon mountain side that I might picture some of its "carrying on" higher up. But I thought of the three ladies who were depending upon me for food and gasoline and I concluded to leave Roaring Mountain to its fate.

One-half mile from this mountain are the Twin Lakes which are remarkable for their beautiful colors—one as blue as the sky and the other as green as the surrounding pines.

The next object to attract our attention was the Frying Pan. It is 18 feet across and frying and stewing away as if it had to.

There are three geyser basins in the Park, namely Norris, Lower and Upper. Norris Basin is near twenty-five miles from the Gardner entrance and it is the first one on our road. Here are quite a number of hot boiling pools and geysers.

I do not propose to annoy you with any geological or scientific reason why these geysers and hot springs are here Much might be written about the volcanic nature of this region. We have no doubt that these great mountains are built on material which at one time was far below the surface of the earth. The black glass of Obsidian Cliff and the colored sands in the walls of the Grand Canyon suggest the make up of this country even to an unscientific eye. When on some of these mountain tops looking at distant snow capped peaks and deep canyons I could not help but imagine that at the creation of this scenic park, there was much heavy bombarding. In a geyser basin the internal heat of the earth approaches close to the surface. The geyser's action is fully explained in the school books, but still we are struck with wonder when we see one in actual performance.

We shall mention but a few of the mysterious sights in this basin.

Emerald Pool is a long quiet lake of boiling water, while quite near is Bath Tub Pool in constant agitation. Congress Pool a few years ago was only an opening in the rocks from which steam escaped and its roaring could be heard for miles. Some years ago this steam ceased and it is now uncertain in its habits. It may at one time be a quiet pool, then a boiling pool or a steam vent or become for a time a mud geyser. A lesson might be learned from Congress Pool. I think it is well named.

Among the more prominent geysers I might mention Black Growler, which is a steam vent only, Monarch is quite irregular in its habits, but it sometimes without warning gives a series of explosions in which a column of water is thrown a hundred feet high or more. Mud geyser attracted my attention very much. I had not before seen mud boiling like a great kettle of apple butter, but had I at the time known that it some times puts on its Sunday clothes and erupts with great violence, frequently throwing mud sixty feet high, I would not have ventured so near. If old "Mud" had shown her power when I was close by I would have paid no attention to the warning—"Keep to the board walk, the crust of the earth here is unsafe to walk upon," and today I might have been writing about conditions as found in the interior of the earth and my folks who warned me time and again to use care, would have been without the comforting influence of a great man.

We were loath to leave the awe-inspiring sights of other geysers, but there are other wonders ahead.

Three miles from Norris Basin and we are in Elk Park, a beautiful valley surrounded by heavily timbered mountains. Two miles further and near the road is Beryl Spring which is quite beautiful and the hottest one in the park, while three miles further is Iron Spring which is possibly the coldest. The next object of interest is Gibbon Falls where the water tumbles down in a torrent from a height of eighty feet.

We were soon at Madison Junction where the road from the western entrance joins the loop highway which is the one we followed. Near by this point is National Park Mountain, upon which fifty-one years before our visit here, the discoverers of this part of the park before their camp fires formulated plans for the establishment of this great play ground.

While we had covered but forty some miles so far, yet we had seen enough for one day. We stopped on the bank of Nez Perce creek which is famous because of the memorable raid made here in 1877 by the Nez Perce Indians who were led by Chief Joseph. We are also near the junction of Gibbon and Firehole Rivers which together form the Madison, one of the branches of the Missouri, and little did I dream when I was a school boy studying the course of the Missouri that the time would come when I would spend a night on its very headwaters. And I expect yet to follow one of these streams to a point where it is so small that on a hot summer day a single ox could drink it dry.

After all arrangements had been made for the night and supper over, I started out to explore, but I could not look upon the towering hills without thinking of bears and other wild animals. It is indeed strange that such things drive me to cover and here at this place because of the howling coyotes and wolves as well as fear of the grizzly bears I slept but little over ten hours.

(To be continued)

THE BLUE BIRD

The blue bird is one of the most familar and welcome of our feathered visitors, it is a common inhabitant of all the States east of the Rocky Mountain from the Gulf of Mexico to southern Canada. In the Mississippi Valley it winters as far north as southern Illinois, and in the east as far as Pennsylvania. They migrate in March and November. They are one of the earliest northern migrants and everywhere is hailed as a harbinget of spring.

I need not describe the blue bird, for everyone is familiar with them. The blue bird is about the same in length, as the barn swallow. They belong to the thrush family and their song is a continued warble.

The blue bird, always tries to build its nest in some kind of cavity or crevice in a post or tree, or, builds in houses put out for them. The nest is made up of grass, hay, horse hair and string interwoven. These birds are usually abundant wherever found and their numbers are maintained by the rearing of two and frequently three broods a year, with from four to six young in each. They usually lay five pale greenish blue eggs.

The blue bird is one of our most useful birds to the farmer and orchardist. The blue bird eats more insects than most any other bird. They eat insects and worms that do much harm to our fields, our fruit, vegetables, lawns and cultivated grounds. They eat grasshoppers, beetles, wasps, ants, cutworms, caterpillars, crickets and many other harmful insects. Field observation and laboratory analysis of the food fully justify the high esteem in which the bird is held, and there is not the slightest excuse for persecuting it or withdrawing from it the smallest degree of protection.

Clarence May.
Beard, W. Va.,

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness shown during our bereavement caused by the death of our father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. David Rader.

Their Children.

LIST OF REALESTATE

Sold in the County of Pocahontas in the month of December, 1922, for the non-payment of taxes due thereon for the year 1920, and purchased by individuals:

NAME OF PERSON CHARGED WITH TAXES	Local Description of Land	Quantity land charged	Quantity land sold	NAME OF PURCHASER	whole amt paid by purchaser
EDRAY DISTRICT
Hamrick, Oda	lot 10 Cloverlick	lot	lot	U. S. Grimes	$ 5 97
McDowell, Fenton	5a Indian Draft	5a	5a	Uriah Bird	6.59
Sharp, Clifford and others	124 a Stony Creek	124	124	G. W. Sharp	51 92
Tibbs, Hiland R.	2 80 part 16a	2.80	2.80	Ben Truss	2 61
Watts, J. M., Trustee	lot 9, Riverside	lot	lot	L. F. Cutlip	3.91
GREENBANK DISTRICT
Robinson, Emma W & Wallace	bl 3, lot 14	lot	lot	Elmer Burner	8.05
Tallman, W. B.	82 a Back Alle	82	82	L. M. McClintic	17.60
same	15 a same	15	15	same	3.56
same	60 a same	60	60	Coz Adkison	7.48
HUNTERSVILLE DISTRICT
Alderman, Maggie E	60 a N Fork Anthony Cr	60	60	C. O. Wade	15.09
Alderman, W. C.	60 a hd Cummings Creek	60	60	C. W. Alderman	5.38
Moore, Edwin J.	18a near Rimel	18	18	J. C. Alderman	2.68
LITTLE LEVELS DISTRICT
McClure, Fannie	8a Stephen Hole Run	8	8	P. A. Gladwell	19.37

The owner of any realestate above described and sold, his heirs or assigns, or any person having the right to charge such real estate for a debt, may redeem the same by paying to the purchaser, his heirs or assigns, within one year from the sale thereof, the amount specified in the last column of the above table, and such additional taxes thereon as may have been paid by the purchaser, his heirs or assigns, with interest on said purchase money and taxes at the rate of twelve percentum per annum, from the time the same may have been so paid.

Given under my hand this 11th day of December, 1922.

by C. C. Clendenen, Deputy

B. B. BEARD, Sheriff
of Pocahontas County, W. Va.

IN MEMORY

Sacred to the memory of Mrs Julia Gay Moore.

Thou hast left us and we bid thee adieu,
And from thy low tomb turn to life's task anew;
All around we miss thee, thy presence was blessed,
But it is well, and thou art at rest!

I think of the time that was Sunday School hour,
A bench full of children and each a fine flower,
I hear Julia's sweet voice responsively given,
To the truths of the Bible a link unto heaven.

Years roll to young womanhood, church of her choice,
The good work goes on in her own teaching voice,
And when aught is presented for the uplift of man,
They know the kind spirit, we will do what we can.

Skies of earth darken for sorrow is here.
The sighs of a mother and her silent tear,
The child of her love she is missing alway,
And night coming on repeats the sad day.

But humbly submissive for the Lord God hath spoken,
And the joy of her loved one shall never be broken.

A. L. P.

ANOTHER CIVIL WAR VETERAN GONE

Our community was shocked beyond expression on New Year's morning when the news was circulated that Mr. and Mrs. David Rader had been burned to death in their home which was destroyed by fire early in the morn ing.

Mr. Rader was born in Rockingham County, Va., November 16, 1839. When the Civil war broke out he enlisted in the Union army and took part in some of the greatest battles of the war. The writer has enjoyed many stories told by him about his experiences at Beverly, Cheat Mountain, Getsysburg and other places.

In the meantime his parents had moved to Pendletoncounty and it was here soon after the war that he married Miss Mahulda McQuain. To this happy union there were born twelve children six boys and six girls. Four of these, all boys, preceded them to the great beyond many years ago. Those living are Philip Rader, Deerfield, Va., Emma Phillips, Boyer, Maggie McKee, Harrisburg, Pa., M. F. Rader, Arbovale, Lucy Wilfong of Pa., Oda Phillips, Headwaters, Va. Jennie Smith, Glady, and Mary Spencer, Arbovale. Besides their children Mr Rader has one brother. John Rader living near Upper Tract, W. Va., and Mrs. Rader one sister living at Hightown, Va.

Mr. Rader came to this county about thirty eight years ago and bought a farm near Arbovale where he and Mrs. Rader lived many years. However, when old age overtook them, they disposed of their farm and built a small house on the farm of their son, M. F. Rader and near his home so that they could be better taken care of and given a better chance to enjoy the evening side of life. And I know that they did enjoy these last years immensely, and no doubt much of this happiness sprang from a fullness of the Christian life they had been living for a number of years, and also from the careful attention given them by their son. Before retiring for the night they never failed to take down the old Bible and have family prayer. From this and from the quiet happy lives they were living we have ever assurance that they were prepared to go. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Harris after which the remains were laid to rest in the Grogg Burying ground They were excellent people and will be grately missed in the neighborhood but God's will be done and not ours.

A Friend.

Coal Orders

Must be in Saturday by noon for delivery that day. All orders received Saturday afternoon will be delivered Monday.

Wise Herold

We handle Grit, Oyster Shells, Charcoal, Chick Food, Etc.

Marlinton Poultry Yard
Marlinton, W. Va.

POULTRY---BUTTER EGGS

are selling remarkably high on our market to-day. We fully expect those prices to continue through January and February. Why are we so confident of this? Because of limited quantity of Produce available for shipment, country roads in bad condition and the Ability of Frank Hellerick & Co. to sell your Produce. Ship us your Poultry, Butter and Eggs through-out the winter and each shipment will be placed at the very top of the Best market in the country.

Frank Hellerick & Co

"A poultry house every day in the year"

343 New Market St. 120 Callowhill St.

Philadelphia, Pa.

SUCCESSFUL OIL COMPANY

Many of the most successful oil operators of the country are firm in the belief that the "Oil Game" has passed and that the oil business is here to stay. Although some few investors have made money by speculation in wildcat oil stocks and leases, the greatest profits in this industry have been made by well organized, capably managed oil enterprises whose affairs have been conducted under the direction of men of proven executive ability and practical experience in the oil business.

One oil producing enterprise which appears to be operating along these lines and one which we believe to possess unusual possibilities is the Dale Oil & Gas Company of Pittsburgh. This is a big, well organized and capably managed oil enterprise organized in April, 1922, for the purpose of consolidation oil producing properties in proven fields along the most efficient lines.

This company is acquiring some 3,100 acres of proven oil and gas property in Washington and Morgan Counties, Ohio 257 acres in Roane County, and 800 acres in Tyler County, West Virginia. On these properties there are already seventeen wells with a daily production of from 35 to 40 barrels per day (Pennsylvania Crude) and five wells producing approximately eleven million feet of gas per day of which, pending the laying of additional pipe lines, only about two million feet per day is being marketed. The company also owns a gasoline plant making about 200 gallons of gasoline per day.

From the present production the company is earning approximately $325 per day or $10,000 per month which amount should be substontially increased in the near future with the bringing in of new wells and the further development of the company's holdings.

Management of the business of the Dale Oil & Gas Company is vested in the hands of a number of practical and experienced oil and gas men of proven ability. President of the company is A. D. Williams of Morgantown, W. Va.,; Vice-President is A. P. Morrison of Clarksburg, W. Va. while Secretary and Treasurer is Ray Isner of Pittsburgh. All are men whose past splendid records well exemplify their executive ability—Pittsburgh Commercial Journal

Apples for Sale

500 bushels of apples, at 75c a bushel at farm or delivered at Marlinton for a little more.

W. McCLINTIC,
Marlinton, W. Va

For Sale

My resident in the lower of Green Bank, W. Va. containing one acre, 9 room house with porches and pantry, well furnished for a comfortable dwelling with in the house. Out buildings cellar, grainery, wood house combined with good barn all in first clars condition, or I will sell with the house furnished, term made good Reason for selling lost my wife and am going to broke up housekeeping. High school and two churches in sight, on class A road.

MARION RAY

HILLSBORO

There is quite a building industry going on in our town in the Kinnison addition W W. Kinnison fine large dwelling house is nearing completion.

Work on the large School building has been discontinued until spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Gum were called to Marlinton Saturday by the death of Mr. Gums brother Phill.

We learn of the serious illness of Mrs. Peter Hill of near Lobelia, she is an aged lady and has suffered a stroke of paralysis.

Dr. Sandy Auldridge is able to be out again we are glad to say.

Miss Maryola Anderson and sister attended Sunday School here Sunday. We have interesting Sunday School. Come one come all and let us have a still more intrest in this great work shown.

Miss Margaret LaRue is on the sick list.

George F. Clark has returned from Richmond where he accompanied his Grandson George Thomas Clark.

Our friend N. M. McCoy is preparing to put up a general store in our town.

Miss Eula Hill who is teaching at Riverside spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents.

Robert LaRue of Spice Run moved into our town last week. We welcome him.

Miss Robison returned to resume her place as teacher in the high school this week, she had been suffering with a fractured ankle.

Mrs. I. B. Shrader and little daughter Pauline were at Marlinton last week having dental work done.

Mr Cam Adkison and family are in Florida for the winter and so well do they like it there that Mr. Adkison has his house and lot here in town for sale.

We have just heard that our friend Dr. J. W. B. Smith is going to leave our town and com unity, this is one thing we are very sorry to learn, for we will not only lose a good faithful Dr. always ready and speedy to attend the sick but a good man in courch work, community work and a general good citizen. We feel sure that in our loss of such a man some other community will gain such a citizen that they will not want to give up. We hope for his success wherever he may go.

Feed For Sale

I have five or six good hay stacks which I will sell and feed on place or will feed stock by the month, wont sell and have feed hauled off the place, if interested call or write me at Frost. W. Va., I am also closing out mamy lines in Merchangise such as rubber ware "Ball Band" in many styles, heavy underwear, heavy top shirts. Mackanaws, coats, "Richs Line & etc. heavy pants in different brands, socks, and many other wearing apparels at sacrifice prices for cash. Call and see.

Earnest G. Sharp

Pigs for Sale

6 thoroughbred Poland China pigs, bears, 12 weeks old, $8.00 without registry papers and $10.00 with papers.

W. McCLINTIC.
Marlinton, W. Va.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, Editor.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1923

This is Lincoln week. In 1806, on the 12th day of February, in the State of Kentucky, Lincoln was born in a log house. His immediate ancestors had moved from Rockingham county, Virginia, over the wilderness trail into Kentucky. Up to the age of twenty four. Lincoln lived with his family in Kentucky, and took an active part in the frontier life of the times. In 1830, the family moved to Illinois, and shortly afterwards Lincoln left home and branched out for himself.

The first part of his life was that of a backwoodsman, excelling in all that the pioneers considered important. He was an expert with an axe, and when it came to making rails, there were few to equal him, and none superior. He could make and lay up rails with any man. To show that he took a prominent part in the life of the woods, he twice was the captain and pilot in charge of a flat boat that took the produce of the country to New Orleans from the waters of the Ohio, and this before he was twenty-one years old. When he got to New Orleans and disposed of his cargo and boat, he and the crew walked back to their far distant home.

It is said that Lincoln received less than a year's schooling. That must mean all the days recorded together would not make a year. It was customary then, as well as in my own recollection, to have a short term of school in the winter time, and the lame and the halt and the girls could be counted to go the full term of some four months, but a useful boy could not be spared for that long. He would have to wait until the corn was in, and then go at odd times until the school ended. So as to education, it must mean that the odd days that Abraham could be spared to receive an education, when totted up would amount to less than a year. But it is universally agreed that when Lincoln learned to read, he immediately got the habit, and of course if he became fond of reading his education was assured, and it mattered very little whether he sat in school or not. What is the companionship on the ordinary faithful school teacher as compared to the capacity to commune with the mighty dead?

A good deal has been said about Lincoln reading by the light of the log fire. That is the subject of the great drawing made by Eastman Johnson. The picture of a half grown boy sitting in a kitchen chair with his back to the wall, so that the firelight fell upon the open page. At the age of eighteen his library consisted of six books. When you think of the children of light in this day and generation reading a book through in a day, that does not seem to be a big library, but if the library included a copy of the Bible and a copy of Shakespeare, it would be sufficient. There were not so many books in the woods in those days. All historians insist on the wood fire as furnishing the light that he read by, but with six books to master before he was eighteen years old, it may be stated that he used sunlight and the light of tallow dips to augment his illumination. But what ever the means, six books will not destroy the eyesight during eighteen years.

For that day and time Lincoln stayed at home much longer than was customary, He must have been pretty thoroughly impressed with the idea that he was needed to help make the living.

At the age of twenty-four he became a clerk in the store. He picked up the rudiments of land surveying, and I suppose then as now, a land surveyor is one who holds himself out to be a land surveyor, and who seeks employment as such. George Washington acquired the same kind of a profession by loafing around in these woods with Andrew Lewis.

And in the same way he read law and prepared himself to practice that profession. At the age of twenty-eight he was elected a member of the legislature and served four terms. When he was thirty years old he was admitted to practice law. All of these occupations were taken up by Lincoln after the family had moved north into Illinois.

He soon made a name for himself as an able and correct reasoner, and he settled in Springfield, the state capital. It was not long until he was in great demand for cases before the supreme court which held its sessions in Springfield, and from that time he was a made man. He was also famous as a trial lawyer. He rode the circuit, going from one county to another attending terms of court. It is related that at one court house a poor person was present, and he was so ragged that the lawyers took up a collection to buy him some clothes, and Lincoln subscribed a dollar, adding after his contribution that it was for the end in view.

And so he forged ahead just as sensible boys and men progress in every period and in every place. It was in politics that Lincoln was to win his imperishable fame. He stumped the state of Illinois in the year 1844, as a Whig, for Henry Clay. It was as a member of the Whig party that Lincoln first came into fame. That party has faded away into the dim past. In our own county it can be broadly stated that the common run of democrats are descended from whigs, that is, that many of the democratic clan were whigs before the Civil War. The whig party took its name from the old Scotch presbyterian party of Scotland. The Covenanters of the seventeenth century. It was a name given in derision and means sour milk or clabber, and was supposed to describe the puritan and the presbyterian who opposed worldly amusements. In the thirties the democratic party had been in so long and had gotten so rotten as the saying is that a party sprung up in opposition under Clay and Webster, with no particular principles other than that they were against the government.

The Whig party lived long enough to carry two presidential elections, electing Gen Harrison in 1840, and Gen. Taylor ine 1848. In the year 1840, the administration of VanBuren was drawing to a close. It had been inglorious. It followed the belliggerent excitements of 1832, and there had been a financial panic. VanBuren seems to have played about the same luck as our own President Harding. They called the VanBuren administration the parenthesis, because it could be omitted altogether without injuring the sense.

The Whig party was the party of protest, and Lincoln was a great Whig. And in 1846 he was elected to Congress as a Whig, and there voted against the extension of slavery. In 1856, the Democratic party nominated Buchanan, and The People's Party nominated Fremont, in the turnover that was going on Lincoln supported Fremont. In 1858 Lincoln opposed Douglas for the United States Senate and was defeated, and in 1860 Lincoln as the nominee of the Republican party, successor of the People's Party, was elected president and then followed the Civil War, the wisdom of Lincoln, his re-election, and his death by a gunshot wound at the hands of a fanatic.

I can very well remember when a number of persons spoke bitterly of Abraham Lincoln, but for years it appears that he has grown in glory until he has now not a single detractor. The passions of the day have faded as the truth appears, and he is regarded as one of the greatest men America has produced.

There is now living in California, Cornelius C. Cole, who was one hundred years old last September. He served as a United States Senator. He was in Washington a great deal during the Civil War and knew Lincoln. He said to an interviewer the other day, that during the last two years of the war he called at the White House frequently, and that he would enter unannounced, and would find Lincoln alone in his room with the door open as a usual thing. Cole said that on one occasion he told Lincoln that he ought to be guarded, and that Lincoln said to him: "When I first came here, I made up my mind that I would not be dying all the time. I have observed that one man's life is as dear to him as another's and he could not expect to take my life without losing his own. Besides if if anyone wanted to, he could shoot me from some window as I ride by daily to the Soldier's Home. But I do not believe that it is my fate to die that way."

All over the nation tribute is paid to the memory of Lincoln, on the occasion of the legal holiday set apart in his honor. And nowhere is the praise more sincere than in the South where his name once was anathema.

The country could go further. They could study the life and work of Lincoln as an essential course in the schools of this country. It is feared that the United States may forget that this is a poor man's paradise, and the land of oportunity, and that the best heritage is to be born poor and to become strong by self exertion. There are two very good reasons why Lincoln could be chosen as the exemplar of our national life and aims. The first is that he was one of the finest examples of the American man who knew every phase of life from the lowest to the highest, and the other is that as a linguist he stands at the head of the class. At this time we as a people have not agreed on any one of our great men as being the master of the language. There was a time that Washington Irving had a vogue, and persons were about ready to take him as a standard. Then there were people who were ready to follow William Dean Howells or Henry James, and if it were not for the ribald laughter and the profanity that the suggestion caused, something might have come of it. It is sure that no one can scoff at the snggestion that Lincoln was one of the greatest word smiths who ever worked at the trade or profession. The man who had no regular schooling. Whose days at the desk were less than a year all told. By the end of his life he had become the head of the corner.

I submit specimens of the wording of the thoughts of Lincoln; From his second inaugural address: "Fondly do we hope, fervently do we pray, that this mighty scourge of war may speedily pass away. Yet if God wills that it continue until all the wealth piled by the bondsmans two hundred and fifty years unrequited toil shall be sunk, and until every drop of blood drawn with the lash shall be paid by another drawn with the sword, as was said three thousand years ago, so still it must be said, that the judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether. With malice towards none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us finish the work we are in, to bind up the nation's wounds, to care for him who shall have borne the battle, and for his widow and his orphans, to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and a lasting peace among ourselves and with all nations."

From his first inaugural address advising the dissatisfied against precipitate action: "We are not enemies but friends. We must not be enemies. Though passion may have strained, it must not break our bonds of affection. The mystic chords of memory, stretching from every battlefield and patriot grave to every living heart and heart stone all over this broad land, will yet swell the chorus of the Union when again touched, as surely they will be, by the better angels of our nature."

From his Ottawa speech with Douglas: "Anything that argues me into his idea of perfect social and political equality with the negro is but a specious and fantastic arrangement of words, by which a man can prove a horse chestnut to be to be a chestnut horse."

From the Gettysburg speech: "That from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

These examples from the work of Lincoln are here given to show the value of his thoughts. Outside of the Bible, higher sentiments more powerfully expressed are not to be found. Where are as a light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day. Such messages taken in connection with the history of the man, with the personal experience of the man, with the needs of the country, and with the fact that without exception, those patriots who carry the torch of freedom pass and are no more, are needed to maintain the United States and keep the nation true to the line.

It is a strange thing that it can be suggested that a course in Lincoln should be required as an essential in every school and college, for he was the only president that we have ever had who sprang from the people. All the others without exception were of the aristocracy. Even Andrew Jackson had to run away from home at the age of thirteen to keep from being inducted into the ministry by a loving, intelligent, and religious mother.

Lincoln came into the world as a member of a family that knew nothing of learning and which possessed no wealth. He broke his birth's invidious bar. No one made him. He was as the good Lord fashioned him, and today he is the best model both for wisdom of thought, and excellence of expression.

His boyhood life was divided into two parts. The first twenty-four years were spent in the woods in Kentucky and he excelled in all the arts and science of his neighborhood which consisted of the work of changing the forest clad rich lands into the smiling fields of agriculture, and the mastering the transportation problems which brought him to the position of captain of a flat boat. Then they moved to Illinois and went into the settlements. Here Lincoln clerked in a store and became the leader of the young men in a village. His election to the legislature due to his personal popularity no doubt marked the turning point in his life, for while he served there he was admitted to the bar, and after that he led an intellectual life.

The people of the mountains still whisper the tradition that he was the son of John C. Calhoun or that they were half brothers, but there is no truth in it. That there should be such a rumor goes to emphasize the fact of the obscurity of his birth.

It was in the Illinois part of his life that his life touched that of Stephen A. Douglas, the carpenter. They served in the Legislature together; Douglas was in the Senate at Washington, when Lincoln was in the House of Representatives; Douglas was opposed by Lincoln in the campaign for United States senator, and Douglas won; Douglas and Lincoln were the nominees of their respective parties for president and Lincoln won.

In the Ottawa speech, Douglas said of Lincoln in his presence and in the presence of the crowd, that they had known each other for twenty-five years. Both were struggling with poverity in a strange land. Douglas was a school teacher and a cabinet maker, and Lincoln was a grocery keeper. Douglas said:

"I met him there and had sympathy with him because of the uphill struggle we both had in life. He was then just as good at telling at anecdote as now. He could beat any of the boys wrestling, or running a foot-race in pitching quoits, or tossing a copper could ruin more liquor than all the boys of the town together, and the dignity and impartiality with which he presided at a horse race or fist-fight excited the admiration and won the praise of everybody that was present and participated."

Douglas wenton to say that Lincoln in Congress opposed the war with Mexico, taking the side of the common enemy against his own country, and that when he returned home he found that the indignation of the people followed him everywhere, and he was submerged and obliged to retire into private life, forgotten by his former friends.

Lincoln denied that he had ever kept a grocery, but said that it was true that he did work for part of one winter in a little still-house up at the head of a hollow. Lincoln said that he never would vote for the resolution declaring that the Mexican war had been righteously begun, but that he had always voted for money and supplies for the soldiers. Lincoln pressed Douglas so close that he offended the South, and that brought the split in the Democratic party, and the election of Lincoln, and the country had a war and decided a question that had been giving trouble for seventy odd years. First the New England states would threaten to secede, and then when they got pacified, the Southern States would make threatening gestures, and it had to be decided.

Hatred has passed away. Lincoln stands high. Better to install a course in Lincoln in our schools than a course in Caesar. For the United States is the light of the world, and Lincoln is the best interpreter.

"Follow you the Star that lights
a desert pathway, yours or mine.
Forward, till you see the highest
Human Nature is divine.
Follow Light, and do the Right for man can half control his doom.
Till you find the deathless Angel seated in the vacant tomb.
Forward, let the stormy moment fly
and mingle with the Past.
I that loathed, have come to love him
Love will conquer at the last."

Farm For Sale

75 acres on Deaner Run 2 miles north of Cass, 72 acres under fence 50 acres in cultivation, 2 good young orchards, good five room house and good out buildings 2 good springs. My reason for selling is on the account of failing health. Will sell cheap to quick buyers.

J. L. Gragg
Cass, W. Va.,

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

WEST VIRGINIA

At Rules held in the office of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County on the First Monday in the month of February, 1923.

BANK OF MARLINTON, a corporation, chartered and existing under the laws of the State of West Virginia. Plaintiff

Vs: In Chancery.

C. S. Curry, Cornelia Curry, Clarence Curry, Annie Curry, Meade Curry, S. Gibson, John W. Rider, Trustee, C. W. Rider, W. N. Buzzard, J. T. Townsend, W. T. Townsend, A. A. Sharp, G. M. Sharp, E. G. Sharp, W. N. Buzzard, Willie N. Buzzard, and J. A. Cleek. Defendants.

The object of this suit is to attach and sell the interests in the lands found within the jurisdiction of this Court owned by the defendants, C. S. Curry and Cornelia Curry, to apply upon the claim of the plaintiff and for general relief.

This day came the plaintiff, by its attorney, and upon his motion, and it appearing from affidavit filed in this cause that C. S Curry and Cornelia Curry, defendants to this suit are non-residents of the State of West Virginia it is ordered that they appear here within one month from the first publication hereof and do what is necessary to protect their interests in this suit.

Teste:
D. C. ADKISON, Clerk.
Andrew Price, Sol.

$40 a Month

Will pay white woman in good health, a good cook to take charge of T. B. patient living alone in small new cottage. No laundry work a good situation for party unprepared for any but practical work

Miss S.
320 Lexington St. Covington, Va.,

Valuable Farm for Sale

As I am no longer able to do any heavy work, I am offering for sale my farm consisting of 112 acres 2 miles southeast of Greenbank, this farm is located close to school and church, also the Greenbank High School. has large new barn and other good buildings. large bearing orchard of improved fruit, for price and terms, write or call on J. B. SUTTON, Box 172 Cass, W. Va.

Notice

I have sold my store at Greenbank to J. R. Gum of Greenbank, W. Va.,

All my store business has been turned over and will be conducted and managed by him.

He will be responsible for any contract made by him after this date. Mr. Gum is well known and your patronage will be appreciated by him

All out standing accounts to this date belong to me. My time will be short in Greenbank so please arrange settlement at once and save trouble.

Respectfully yours,
J. HAMED
Greenbank, W. Va.,
January 25, 1923,

Coal Orders

Must be in Saturday by noon for delivery that day. All orders received Saturday afternoon will be delivered Monday.

Wise Herold

Notice

I want chickens, highest market price.

W. H. HINER
Marlinton, W. Va.,

Baby Chicks

Owing to the early drop in egg prices, we have reduced prices on baby chicks to from $16.00 to $13.00 per 100. Place your order now and be sure of chicks on date desired.

Oak Crest Poultry Farm
Mill Point, W. Va.,

Administrators Notice

All persons having claims against the estate of Mrs. Lillie O. Dilley, deceased, late wife of J. D. Dilley, are here by notified to present the same proven according to law to the undersigned administrator at his office, in Huntersville District, W. Va. All persons indebted to said estate are notified to prepare to settle at once.

This 26th of January, 1923.

Hevener Dilley
Administrator

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of the late M. F. Gum, to present the same properly proven to the undersigned Administrator at his office in the town of Marlinton, W. Va. All persons indebted to the estate will prepare to settle at once.

This 22nd day of January, 1923.

R. K. BURNS,
Administrator of M. F. Gum, dec'd.

FOR SALE—Reefer's Washing Tabets, at Harlow Waugh's Store.

A share of your business solicited

T. S. McNEEL
INSURANCE AND BONDS

Marlinton W. Va.

Successor of Goodsell Insurance Agency

Life, Fire and Accident, Automobiles and Live Stock, Bonds of all kinds, Money to Loan on Farms.

Office 2nd floor, First National Bank Building.

Money to Loan at 5 1-2 percent

The Pocahontas County Farm Loan Association of Marlinton, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, has money to loan to farmers on farm land, on easy terms.

Call on the undersigned and fill out an application blank.

P. T. WARD, Sec.-Treas.

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager

HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC

Marlinton, West Virginia.

Get Ready For Spring

Give your flowers and early plants a vigorous start with V C plant food for sale by C. J. RICHARDSON.

For Sale

Black Percheron Mare 3 years old weight about 1200 pounds, price $125.00.

Martin Judy
Cass, W. Va.,

For Sale

50,000 feet of lumber in inch boards oak and hemlock. also heavy sills, all of different grades and prices, some as low as $10.00 per thousand. If interested call or write.

F. Hamed
Greenbank, W. Va.

Purebred Poultry

Bourbon Red Turkeys, mated for breeding, toms from $7 to $10, hens $5 to $7.

Barred Rock cockerels, $2, or two for $3.50.

Rhode Island Red cockerels, dark color, $2, or two for $3.50.

Buff Orpington cockerels $3. each.

A few yearling cocks at same prices—Reds and Rocks, single and rose comb.

Mrs. A. S. Gay,
Onoto, W. Va.

Look Farmers

Twice as much potash in Little Giant Crop Growers as formerly used. See your V-C dealer before buying.

One Real Bargain

Located in Culpepper County, Va., 245 acres. 190 acres cleared and in high state of cultivation. Has a good 8 room frame house; good barn, granery and other good out buildings, good orchard and good fencing. The timber on this farm ss worth at least $2000. This is fine land, will grow 60 to 80 bushels of corn and 15 to 20 bushels of wheat. This is one real bargain at $35.00 per acre. Easy terms. Write me what you wish to buy. I can suit you in northern Va., Maryland or Pa.

T. J. LINTON,
Real Estate Agent.
Elkwood. Va.

Admrx.'s Sale

Saturday, February 24, 1923

10 o'clock a. m.

As administratrix of the estate of the late Andrew Loan, I will on the above date, at the Bird farm, near Brushy Flat School House, 3 miles from Marlinton, W. Va., sell the following property—

5 bedsteads, 5 bed springs, 4 stand tables, 1 wash stand, 4 lamps, 1 center table, 1 stand table, 1 pair saddle pockets, 1 couch, 1 dresser, 1 heating stove, 28 chairs, 1 kitchen table, 1 refridgerator, 1 cupboard, 1 cookstove 1 lot of cooking utensils, 1 lot of air tight jars, 1 lot of stone ware, 1 garden plowl last and stand, 1 broad axe 1 cross cut saw, 1 lot of canned fruit, 1 grind stone, 2 bee stands. 1 post hole digger, 1 brass kettle, 1 tub, 7 crocks, 1 hog, 1 lot of chickens.

TERMS OF SALE

Sums under $5 cash. All sums of $5 and over purchaser will be required to give negotiable note and approvee security.

VIENNA LOAN, Admrx.,
Andrew Loan, dec'd

Executor's Notice

All persons indebted to the estate of G. S. Welford will please settle the same with O. S. Welford. Warwick, W. Va. All persons having claims against said estate please file the same without delay properly proven with my attorney N. C. McNeil, Marlinton, W. Va.

D. N. Welford, Executor of G. S. Welford, deceased.

$25 Reward

The Board of Directors of the Marlinton and Stony Creek Mutual Telephone Company, offer a reward of $25 for evidence leading to arrest and conviction of the persons breaking insulators and brackets on the the Laurel Creek section and other places on their lines.

By order of the Board.

For Sale

Copper Water Cans, Spouting, Tin Fixtures, copper tubing, bath room outfits, etc.

C. W. Slavin
Tinner and Plumber
Marlinton, W. Va.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

COAL is Cash

I can now fill orders for coal for strictly cash.

WISE HEROLD

DELCO-LIGHT
"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue
ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES
Marlinton Electric Co.
DEALERS

For Sale

Pure bred white wyandot cockerls $1.50, six months old. Delivered F. O. B. Clover Lick.

John U. Hevenor
Clover Lick, W. Va.,

Order of Publication

STATE OF WEST VIRGINIA

At Rules held in the O of the Clerk of the Clerk of Circuit Court of Pocahontas Co West Virginia, on the first Mo in the month of February, 1923.

Bank of Durbin, a corporation Plaintiff

vs. In Chancery No 371

James Coates, May Coates, N. B. Arbogast, S. H. Hiner, E. Fenton, Trustee, and S. A. Hillside Defendants

The object of this suit is to subject the house and lot of the defendant, James Coates, located in the town of Durbin, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, and a tract of land containing four acres, in said County, in the Edray District, belonging to the defendant, May Coates, to the payment of the subsisting liens thereon, including the plaintiff's of a judgment of $185.90, and costs.

This day came the plaintiff, by its attorney, and upon his motion, and it appearing by affidavit filed in this cause that the defendants, James Coates and May Coates, are non-residents of the State of West Virginia, it is ordered that he do appear here within one month after the date of the first publication hereof and do what is necessary to protect their interest in this suit.

Teste:
D. C. ADKISON, Clerk.
L. M. McClintic, Atty.

Order of Publication

State of West Virginia.

At rules held in the clerk's office of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county on Monday, the 5th day of February, 1923, the following order was entered:

Lucy Tacy Plaintiff
vs. In Chancery
Everette Tacy Defendant

The objective of the above entitled suit is to obtain a divorce from the bonds of matrimony from the defendant, Everette Tacy, and for general relief. And it appearing by affidavit filed in this cause that Everette Tacy is a non-resident of this State, it is ordered that he do appear here within one month after the date of the first publication hereof and do what is necessary to protect his interest in this suit.

A Copy, Teste.
D. C. A n
A. P. Edgar, Atty.

FOR SALE— the village of Frost. about two and one half acres of land with six room house, cow stable and other buildings. Apply to E. J. RHEA, Frost, W. Va.

ATTORNEYS

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Marlinton, W. Va.
Furniture made to order and old furniture repaired

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specially of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

Dr. CHAS. S. KRAMEE
DENTIST
First National Bank Building
Phone
Marlinton, W. Va

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

CHARLES SHINABERRY
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
All calls given prompt attention.

A. J. SHARP
AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
Phone Marlinton Central.

Z. S. Smith
Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

Baxter's Garage

MARLINTON W. VA.
FORD Cars and Supplies
FORDSON Tractors
A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.
I. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Baby Chicks

And hatching eggs, from heavy egg producers, get your order in early and be sure of chicks or eggs on date desired.

Oak Crest Poultry Farm
Mill Point, W. Va.,

Feed For Sale

I have five or six good hay stacks which I will sell and feed on place or will feed stock by the month, wont sell and have feed hauled off the place, if interested call or write me at Frost. W. Va., I am also closing out mamy lines in Merchangise such as rubber ware "Ball-Band" in many styles, heavy underwear, heavy top shirts, Mackanaws, coats, "Richs Line & etc. heavy pants in different brands, socks, and many other wearing apparels at sacrifice prices for cash. Call and see.

Earnest G. Sharp

Roofing

Just received a new car of roofing
The Famous "Genasco" Line
The Peoples Store & Supply Company

We have safety deposit boxes for rent at ONE DOLLAR per year. Why keep your valuable papers lying around the house. Keep them in a safety box in our vault.

BANK OF MARLINTON

MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA

The Bank of Safety and Service

LOCAL MENTION

F. B. Long is on the sick list

Miss Jewel Warwick is down with the grip.

Mrs. J. C. Price has beeen quite sick the past week.

The little daughter of Darley Williams is some better.

Judge Geo. W. McClintic was up from Charleston Saturday.

Ligon Price is home from St Louis to see his mother who is sick.

William Hanna, of Frankford, is visiting his sister, Mrs Forrest Malcomb.

Mrs H. W. Warren was called home by the death of her mother Mrs. Judy of Keyster.

Three children of the late Henry Landis were taken to the Oddfellows Home at Elkins last week.

Mrs. A R. Wylie was called home by the death of her father, Mr. Marten VanBuren Smith of Vally Centre, Va.,

H. C. Egleson, of Cloverlick, was a visitor at this office on Wednesday. He sells pianos and organs, and will tune pianos on call.

Mrs Oscar O'Connell returned on Monday to her home at White Sulphur after a few days with her sister, Mrs. G W. Clark.

John A Smith, of Knapps Creek, had his arm very seriously injured last Wednesday by a premature explosion of a blast He was working on the road

Merritt Kellison, son of Claiborne Kellison, is expected home this week from Charlottesville where he has been the past month or more being treated for a badly broken arm

Rev. Herman Jones, who is in charge of the million dollar campaign for Presbyterial schools in West Virginia spent a few days with his friend, Rev. H. H Orr Mr Jones preached Sunday morning and night to large congregations

A fine spike buck deer was killed by dogs in Hevener Dilley's pasture field Monday night.

Attendance at the Methodist Sunday school last Sunday was 210; at the Presbyterian 177.

Married, Saturday, February 10, 1923, in the city of Washington, Frank Lewis Eakle and Miss Katherine Dorothy Ellin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs Dorsey Ellin. The groom will be remembered in Marlinton as the son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Eakle, now of Elkins. Mr. and Mrs. Eakle will make their home at 22 Holly Avenue, Tokoma Park, Maryland.

OLD BOOKS

W. H. Gilmore, of Stony Creek, has fallen heirs to many of the books of his great-grandfather, Colonel John Baxter. One is a Bible printed in 1762 by Alexander Kincaid. His Majesty's Printer, Edinburgh, Scotland On the fly leaf is the name of John Baxter and date of 1769. Another is a dictionary with John Baxters name and date of 1812.

"The New Virginia Justice Law Book," for the Justices of the Peace, published by Johnson & Warner, of Richmond in 1810. It first belonged to W. M. Dean and later to John Baxter. W. M. Henning, attorney, is the compiler. "Practical Discourses Concerning Death," is another volume. It is by W. Sherlock, D. D. Dean of St. Paul, printed in 1759 by E. and J. Robertson, of Edinburgh. Colonel John Baxter was a prominent figure in Pocahontas about the time of the formation of the county, holding many offices at various times in his life.

SNODEN L. HOGSETT DEAD

Snoden L. Hogsett died February 12 1922, after an illness of nearly four years duration. His body arrived here Wednesday afternoon. As this paper is printed no definite arrangements have been made for the funeral.

Mr. Hogsett was a son of the late J. T. Hogsett of Mill Point. He was about 42 years of age. Surviving him is his wife and one son; of his father's family there remain a sister, Mrs. Mathews Ruckman, and two brothers Kenny Hogsett, of Millpoint, and M. C. Hogsett of Hendersonville, N.C.

When stricken with ill health Mr Hogsett filled a prominent place in the church civil and business affairs of this community, being an officer of the Methodist Church, town recorder and assistant cashier of the Bank of Marlinton.

Honor roll for fifth month of Hosterman school, Bessie Workman, teacher. Herman Davidson, Wallace Varner, Ercil Varner, Vera Moore, V'Ola Moore, Grace Ratliff, Hazel Ratliff, Blanche Sutton, Ruth Sutton.

SAVE YOUR MEAT

There has been a great many pounds of meat spoiled in the past few years caused by the owners not taking the necessary precaution to preserve it. The old smoking process always kept the meat from spoiling and gave it a flavor which added materially to its taste you can get this same flavor and the same results by using WALLACE'S Brand Concentrated Liquid Smoke. This preparation comes in quart bottles, and is applied with a brush to the meat after it is thoroughly cured (either by the dry or pickling process.) Special directions on each bottle. The price is $1.00 per quart it will smoke a barrel of meat. If your dealer hasn't ot it, he will get it for you

BARTOW

Born to Mr. and Mrs. S. D Siler, Ja ua y 21st, a son.

Myles Simmons has moved to R. C. Miller's farm on Alleghany.

We understand that Wm. Hoover Horton has bought the Kramer Garage Bldg which he will move to the new road and remodel converting same into a first class garage, installing free air, vulcanizing, battery work etc.

M. E Matheny our efficient post master, is sick with flu.

Mrs. Robert Whitelaw of Monterey passed through town last week on her way to Winterburn to see her father Jas. Wiley who has been sick for several days.

Geo. W. Wilmoth of Top Alleghany was a business visitor in town last week.

John Matheny of Greenbank was calling at the home of his father, M. E. Matheny, Sunday.

Snow storms on Alleghany Mountain have interrupted mail service very little between Bartow and Monterey so far this winter.

Mrs. C. E Monroe of Ronceverte, came up last week to be with her father Mr. Wiley, who is sick.

We anticipate quite a bit of building in town this spring.

Forrest Pritchard of Raywood was a business caller in town Monday.

Parkersburg—Local police received a message to be on the lookout for Albert Whitley, alias "Chappie" Dunbar, wanted in Detroit on a charge of murder. Dunbar is said to have relatives here, and it was expected by officials that he would come here to hide.

Weston—R. K. McMillan, brakeman, was slightly injured when a Baltimore and Ohio freight engine on which he was riding collided with a landslide and was thrown from the tracks near Dundon, it was reported at the office of the superintendent of the Charleston division here.

Parkersburg—A verdict of accidental death was returned by the coroner's jury in the case of James R. Kemper, for a number of years a prominent realtor in this city and state, who was found dead in the yard of his father's home. He had gone to the farm to take a rest because of nervous prostration and was cleaning his gun when the accident occurred.

Charleston—A bill which would authorize the Kanawha county court to lay a levy extending over a period of five years if necessary to collect enough money to buy the toll bridges which now control the east and west entrances of Charleston, was introduced in the legislature by Senator Clyde B. Johnson. Mr. Johnson said that he offered the measure by request. The bill was drawn up by the Kanawha county free bridge association.

LOST—A pocketbook in Marlinton Wednesday afternoon. Some money and valuable papers. Finder please return to.

Mrs. J. B. McNeil
Marlinton, W. Va.,

GREAT POWER PROJECT

The Virginian Power company is making formal application to the Federal water power commission for privilege of constructing a hydro-electric plant at the junction of the New and Bluestone rivers, about five miles above Hinton.

The project is immense. It means beyond human comprehensiveness in its expansiveness. An expenditure of about thirty million dollars will be required in the immediate development of the site. Even after the first dam is built the total expenditure will have been but partly made The development will presage the expenditure in the New River valley Hinton and Gauley of not less than a hundred million dollars.

So far as can be ascertained at present, the plan is to construct at the mouth of the Bluestone, a dam which is to be 140 feet in height and 510 feet thick at the base. This mountain of masonry would back up water for 33 miles, all the way to Glen Lynn on the Norfolk and Western railway in Giles county, Virginia. But even then the water power project would be but partly complete, for it would be necessary to construct several additional tributary dams at points farther down the river.

The construction of the additional dams would make New River the power house of the world.—W. Va., News.

The Williams & Pifer Lumber Co. increased its capital stock from $50,000 to $100,000.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs Harry Boggs at Riverside, February 10, a son.

APPLICATION FOR PARDON

Notice is hereby given that on or about the 27th day of February, 1923, an application will be filed with A G. Jenkins, Pardon Attorney, Charleston, W. Va, for the pardon of Trrcy Phillips, convicted of the crime of moonshining, at the October term, 1022, of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, and sentenced to imprisonment in the West Virginia Penitentiary for the period of two years.

Auction Sale

I will sell at my home near Mill Point, W. Va., on Saturday February 24th 1923. Beginning at one o'clock p. m the following property.

1 bay mare 7 years old, 2 cows to be fresh in spring, 1 buggy, 1 spring wagon, 1 side saddle, 1 man saddle, 1 set buggy harness, 1 iron kettle, 1600 feet chestnut lumber some farming implements, some feed, and other things to tedious to mention.

Terms made known on day of sale.

Mrs. William Rider.
Mill Point, W. Va.,

Hatching Eggs

Purebred White Wyandotts Regal Dorcas strain selected from flock that won first prize at Greenbrier Valley fair last year, pen of 16 hens averaging 10 eggs per day in January and February. $1 45 per 15 by parcel post 25c less if cases are returned $1.00 at home.

C. W. Auldridge
Millpoint, W. Va.,

December 1921 Car and Truck Sales 50,203

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

December 1922 Car and Truck Sales 105,799

Everything Points the Greatest Spring Demand for Ford Products in Company's History

1,202,517 Ford Cars and Trucks were delivered to retail purchasers in the United States alone during 1922—

Actual deliveries for last month greatly exceeded any previous December in the history of the Ford Motor Company—

It was the ninth consecu' ve month in which more than 100,000 Forc Cars and Trucks were retailee—keeping th Fore plants working at capacity to meet the dealers' requirements.

In many parts of the country dealers are already finding it necessary to specify later delivery dates on certain types because there are no reserve stocks to draw from.

Commercial users, business houses and farmers, anticipating their future requirements, are placing orders and taking delivery of Ford Cars, Trucks and Fordson Tractors to insure against delay.

Everything points to the biggest shortage of Ford Products this spring that has ever existed.

The only way you can be sure of obtaining delivery of a Ford Car, Truck or Fordson Tractor is to list your order immediately.

We have given you these facts as they actually exist so that if you are planning to purchase a Ford Car, Truck or Tractor for use this spring or summer, you can list your order now and take advantage of our dealers' first opportunity to make delivery.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY
DETROIT, MICHIGAN

See J. L. BAXTER, Authorized Dealer, Marlinton

Bargains Listen Look

The prices I am going to quote you will convince you that they are bargains, and real ones too "I NEED THE MONEY" and am making a sacrifice on some lines, for the Ten Days.

Rich's 2 Pc undewear (Pool) 2 45 per piece or 4 75 per suit,
Rich's heavy top shirts black 2 35
Rich's heavy shirts in any check or color 2 75
Rich's pants, checks heavy 70c pair
Rich's pants, med weight 40c pair
Rich Mackamaws, best qual 9 90
Ball-Band 4 blk arctics heavy 3.35
Ball Band gum shoes 3 25

and many other lines in rubber at big reductions. Rappahammac Pants all wool 3 25, Rich's wool jacket coats 4 95. Many other lines of woolen clothing at big reductions. Men's and boys' suits first quality, solid leather leggins 5.50, sale price 3 50 and 3 75. If you want some good values in shoes for the whole family. Come around. Also many other lines, come in and see. Those prices are strictly cash, nothing booked and last for 10 days only, get your share while they last. "Thank you" I am,

Respectfully,
Earnest G. Sharp
Frost, W. Va.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Green, February 10, 1923, a son.

Poultry Shippers

Washington's Birthday Februry 22, is a National Holiday, observed by Home-coming, week end parties and family feasting. The opportunity to clean up your flock at reasonable prices.

This being the last time to come before you in print this "season", we wiso to extend our sincere appreciation and gratitude for the splendid response of our Shippers. We are here every day in the year to serve the poultry GROWERS and SHIPPERS, and nothing short of what humans can do, pleases us.

The best market at your command to-day.

Frank Hellerick & Co.
"A poultry house every day in the year"
349 New Market St. 120 Callowhill St.
Philadelphia, Pa.

Teams Wanted

To haul lumber from Huntersville to Marlinton. Will pay $6 per thousand.

Buena Vista Hardwood Co.
Stony Bottom, W. Va.,

Land For Sale

Farm of 102 acres on head of Laurel Creek at Woodrow post office. Part cleared and part cut over. For particulars apply to.

Floyd VanReenan
Woodrow, W. Va,

Specially Low Prices on all styles of American Fence

Style No. 11, formerly A

	Height	Weight per Rod	Price
7 bar	26 inch	7.5 lbs	34c
6 bar	35 inch	7.2 lbs	32c
8 bar	45 inch	9.3 lbs	41c
9 bar	49 inch	10.3 lbs	45c
10 bar	47 inch	10.9 lbs	48c
11 bar	55 inch	12 2 lbs	53c

Style No. 11 has top and bottom wires No. 9, intermediate and stay wires No. 11, with 12 inch stays.

Style 12 1-2, formerly L

6 bar	35 inch	5.1 lbs	25c
8 bar	45 inch	6.4 lbs	31c

Style 12 1-2 has No. 10 top and bottom wires, intermediate and stay wires No 12 1-2 with 12 inch stays.

10 bar	47 inch	16 lbs	67c
11 bar	55 inch	18 lbs	75 1-2

All No. 9 wire

Stock and Poultry

18 bar	48 inch	9.2 lbs	50c
20 bar	53 inch	9.7 lbs	53c
21 bar	58 inch	10.3 lbs	56c

A reduction of 2c per rod allowed on orders of 200 rods or more.

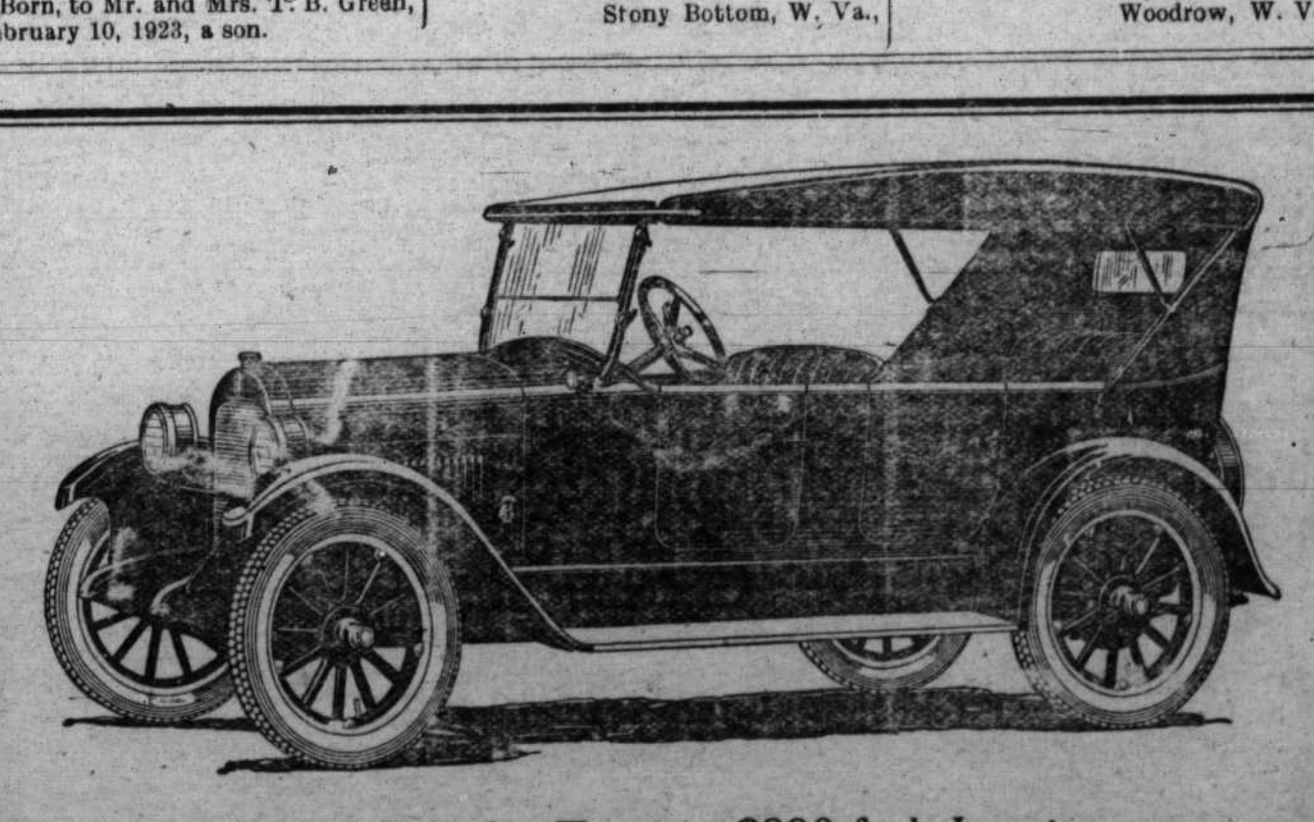
TERMS—2 percent cash in 10 days or 30 days net.

C. J. RICHARDSON
Marlinton, W. Va.

Put your faith in Rexall Remedies

You can use them with confidence. they are compounded from the highest quality ingredients and will do for you what you want them to do - -

Royal Drug Stores, Inc.
Marlinton, W. Va. — Renick, W. Va.



Durant Four-Cylinder Touring, $890 f.o.b Lansing

Hand painted, streamline body of roomy, five-passenger capacity with plenty of leg room; seats set at comfortable angle and covered by genuine black leather over deep springs; instrument board finished in circassian walnut; one-man top with gypsy curtains and side curtains that open with doors.

Just a Real Good Car

HINER & GUM'S GARAGE
Marlinton, West Virginia

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLI NO 28 — MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, FEBRUARY 22, 1923 — $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

POCAHONTAS MARBLE

There is on display at the Bank of Marlinton a number of samples of Pocahontas marble. These samples have been polished and are attracting much attention by their beauty and the variety of colors. This writer has never seen marble that finishes more beautifully, and the word of geologists is had as to its superior qualities as a building stone.

There is still some hope that the capitol building commission may be induced to investigate this material and use it in the new capitol at Charleston. The first objection raised was whether the quality was high enough for a building like the new capitol. On this point they seem to be satisfied that it is all right. Then came the objection that the color was too dark—a white or light stone being desired. A dove or gray marble will be submitted, and it is hoped that will meet with their approval.

West Virginia ought to build her capitol of West Virginia stone. Why go to Vermont or Tennessee for marble and Indiana for limestone before thoroughly investigating our own resources? A building like the proposed capitol will be a lasting monument to the material used, and if our native marble were used it would mean the development of a big West Virginia industry. Mark Twain might have written of West Virginia people that they were born to be wrapped in a Massachusetts blanket, to sleep on a New Jersey mattress in a room furnished with Grand Rapids furniture: to get up by a Connecticut alarm clock, to put on New York clothes, Pennsylvania socks and Boston shoes tied with Delaware strings, to eat Minnesota cereals and Chicago bacon cooked on a Pittsburgh stove; to go to school to a Virginia school marm, and to study a book printed in the north; to drive an Indiana wagon with St. Louis harness and stir the ground with an Iowa plow; to be doctored with medicine made in Germany; to be put in an Illinois coffin, and laid in a West Virginia grave, marked by a Vermont tomb stone.

Why not commence all over and have as a beginning a real West Virginia State House?

THE SON OF GOD

By Anna L Price

That conflict, when 'tis overpast,
Then, I shall worship God at last,
And with the saints at God's right hand
In that delightful holy land,
Long praise to Thee
Who art the Son of God.

Vast multitudes no man could count,
Once weary souls like eagles mount,
And children strike their harps of gold,
Those infant minds to grasp and hold
This truth of truths
Thou art the Son of God.

The church on earth, the church in Heaven,
Ransomed and justified, forgiven,
The Lamb that was slain He liveth again,
The blood that was spilt, it cleanseth our guilt.
Hallelujah!
O Thou, the Son of God.

February, 1923.

The funeral of the late Snowden L. Hogsett was conducted from the Methodist Church last Friday afternoon by the Masons. The services were by his pastor, Rev. Fred B. Wyand, assisted by Rev. G. G. Martin. Interment in Mt. View Cemetery.

Pocahontas enjoyed a spell of real winter last week. The coldest at Marlinton was six below, on Sunday morning. Fine skating ice on ponds but the creek and river had to much water to freeze.

MARY PICKFORD

— IN —

THRO' THE BACK DOOR

Amusu Theatre

Thursday and Friday

MATINEE, Thursday, 3-45 p. m.

ADMISSION 15c and 25c

Little Mary can no more grow up than Peter Pan, and that's why she is so sweet and winsome in this picture—better than "Daddy Long-legs."

SATURDAY—
Dorothy Dalton in "Half an Hour"
Also Larry Seamon Comedy.

Monday and Tuesday—
"Rememberance"—all star cast

Coming Soon—
"The Old Nest," "Four Horseman"
Watch for "In the Days of Buffalo Bill."

J. HOWARD CLARK

J. Howard Clark died at his home in Hillsboro, February 12, 1923, of cerebral hemorrhage. His wife preceded him to the grave fourteen years ago. Three years later Charles C. Clark, the younger of his two sons, was drowned at Gauley Bridge while working in the C. & O railroad office. He is survived by three children—one son Glenn F. Clark of Rawlins, Wyoming; Mrs. Charles LaRue and Miss Frances Clark, of Hillsboro. Also three brothers and three sisters—S. W. Clark, Chicago; Walter D. Clark, Seebert; Mrs. R. F. Yeager, Mrs. V. B. Mann, and George L Clark, Hillsboro; and Mrs. S. J Sharpe, Rawlins, Wyoming.

CHARLES BURR

Charles Burr died at the home of his brother, H. S. Burr, February 1, 1923, of pneumonia or some kindred ailment. He had been sick only a few days and his death was unexpected and came as a shock to our community. He was 71 years of age. He had lived a consistent christian life for many years and will be greatly missed in the church where he always took an active part. He was an example that if all would follow would lead to the better land, and there is a vacancy in the church that never can be filled. He leaves to mourn their loss H S. Burr, and Mrs. Mary Smith of Burr; Mrs. Isaac Dean, of Rimel, Mrs. Fannie Sheets, of Hillsboro; Mrs. Jack Buzzard, of Iowa; Mrs. Lillie Armstrong, of Canada. A brother, Alvin Burr, died about twenty five years ago. A host of other relatives and friends mourn his loss. His body was laid to rest in the Burr cemetery near his old home.

X.

MARY PICKFORD PLAYS YOUTHFUL ROLE AGAIN

Mary Pickford's latest United Artists production, "Through the Back Door," will be shown as the feature attraction at the Amusu theatre, Thursday and Friday.

This picture shows Mary Pickford in a child role which at the same time is a character part. The story is a combination of comedy and drama, punctured with many of those laughable pranks for which Little Mary is famous when portraying a pig tailed kiddie.

From the farms of Belgium to the mansions of Long Island the camera follows this clever little actress in "Through the Back Door." Mother love and the heart-hunger of a child all bound up in an intricate society drama, supply the emotional impulses of the play.

The scenario is from the pen of Marion Fairfax, well-known photo-play-wright and dramatist, Jack Pickford and Alfred E Green directed, while that wizard of the lens Charles Rosher, presided over the camera.

The management has arranged a special added program of distinctive numbers, which promises to make the show at the Amusu Theatre, a real entertainment treat.

From the Highland Recorder we learn of the death of Robert Wolfenbarger, of Nauvoo, Illinois. Some of the older people will remember him as a Confederate soldier, who married a Miss Siple, of Greenbank. His last visit to the county was about twenty years ago.

Notwithstanding the open winter, farmers have been able to do no plowing in Pocahontas. It was either raining or the ground was frozen.

Special grand jury term of court on Tuesday, March 6. County Court will be in regular session the same day.

Lawrence Ward has bought L. H. Snyder's house and lots in Riverside, and moved in.

FARM NEWS

SHORT COURSE FOR GREENBANK FARMERS

Mr. J. H. Riddle, District Engineer for the Portland Cement Association, will be present from February 19 to 26, inclusive to discuss problems in concrete for the farm. Five barrels of Alpha cement have been promised for demonstration purposes.

On March 1 and 2, Dr. A. C. Lueder, professor in veterinary science at the State University, will discuss livestock problems. Mr. Lueder needs no introduction to the farmers in that section, since he did institute work in that community years ago. Several farmers still have formulas set down in note books as taken from his lectures.

He not only knows how the farmer does the job, but always has a new and better way. His presentation of a subject is filled with the wit of a broad experience.

Meetings will be held in the afternoon and night at the Greenbank High School Building.

These mettings are being conducted by arrangement of Mr. Schnopp, vocational agricultural teacher at Greenbank.

CALF CLUB PROJECT

Gains in weight for last two months with feed costs follow:

	December lbs.	December $	January lbs.	January $
Mary Burns	80	3 51	50	3 05
Grady Moore	54	6 25	64	6 11
Arta Wells	55	3 18	60	3 18
Frank Beard	60	4 11	50	5 55
Virginia Hayes	44	5 18	55	6 23
Jewel Poage	40	3 35	44	3 42
Merl Simmons	40	3 84	40	4 77
Charlcie Beverage	58	4 91	64	5 08
Neal Long	60	2 58	61	4 81

Most of the club members are feeding a ration of 4 parts by weight of corn, 4 parts of oats. 2 parts bran, and one part of oilmeal; along with silage and clover hay. Cottonseed meal is substituted for linseed oil meal where silage is fed. About 10 pounds of this mixture is being fed daily.

Raw linseed oil is being used at this time of year to rid calves of lice.

WOODROW

We have had a clean sweep of flu in this neighborhood. Almost every family has been down with it.

Rev. Powers preached to the people last Sunday night.

Lloyd Vanreenan has been appointed class leader here by the pastor, and holds prayer and class meeting every Sunday morning. Our Sunday school has been closed for awhile on account of sickness and bad weather, but will soon commence again.

Misses Brownie Wise and Minnie White were visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Baxter Saturday night and Sunday.

Taylor & Kershner of Greenbrier have finished a job of logging on Big Beech of this county and have returned to their homes.

Pat Gay is cutting and skidding some timber to John Galford's saw mill where he will have it sawed.

Albert White and Morris Fried have returned to their work on Elk River, after spending a few days at home.

W. E Sharp has a contract of cutting timber for John Galford.

Vester Gilmore has completed a job of cutting timber for the Cherry River Boom & Lumber Company and is at home.

Mrs. Tina Gilmore has been visiting her sister Mrs James Sutton at Cass.

Lloyd Vanreenan was at Marlinton on business recently.

Galford and Jordan have about completed their job of sawing on Stony Creek.

Our schools are getting along nicely regardless of so much sickness,

Mrs. Margaret Barlow has returned from a long visit with her daughter, Mrs. Burgess, at Millpoint.

GREENBANK

Very cold and plenty of sickness, flu, pneumonia and other sickness. The high wind of last week did lots of damage.

Mrs. Ellen Brown has been visiting her daughter Mrs Gladwell, and her son, W. M. Arbogast.

Mr. Laugh has been plowing at Fred Moomau's.

Fred Mooman is home from Richmone on a visit.

Fred Hamed has bought some land from Fred Mooman.

The high school play was fine; had a good crowd, and will take it to Cass.

W. M. Arbogast is at home for a while. He and County Agent Willey are going to build a hen house.

The farmers Short Course is in session for two weeks.

Edray District Reading Circle, Saturday February 24, 1923, 2 p. m.

High school program

Measuring Results in Composition, Dennis Perry.

Vitolizing Grammar, Pleas Richardson.

Gaining a Command of Words, Mrs. Nellie Hevener.

Cultivating the Spirit of Authorship, Elsie Adkison.

This will be the last meeting of the Reading Circle in this District.

All the teachers are expected to be present

Harlan and Summers Gibson caught a big eagle in a trap last week. It has a seven foot spread of wing. It and its mate were feeding on a sheeps carcass when caught in a steel trap. The bird was not much hurt and it is being kept alive.

COUNTRY LIFE CONFERENCE

Hillsboro, West Virginia, March 16, 17, 18, 1923

The arrangements have practically been completed for a country life conference at Hillsboro in cooperation between the churches of that community, State Department of Education, State Health Department, Sunday School Association, West Virginia, University, West Virginia Wesleyan, Broaddus College, and the West Virginia Farm Bureau Federation.

Meetings will commence on Friday night at 7:30 p. m. and continue until Sunday night. Tentative program follows:

PROGRAM

Friday 7:00 p. m.
Devotionals — Rev. W. C Early
Music — Four-H Club
Purposes of the Conference — H. C. C. Willey
History of Hillsboro Community — Miss Minnie Willace
Building of the Kingdom — Rev. A. H. Rapking

Saturday 2:00 p. m.
Scoring Hilsboro Community:

GROUPS	CHAIRMAN
Community Spirit	Mrs. T. L. Beard
Citizenship	Dr. J. W. R. Smith
Recreation	Mrs. L. P. McLaughlin
Health	Dr. H. W. McNeil
Churches	T. S. McNeal
Homes	Miss Dice Smith
Schools	F. P. Kidd
Business	Carl G Beard
Farms	Fred Ruckman

Saturday 7:30 p. m.
Devotionals — Rev. J. C. Johnson
Music — Arranged by Local Pastors
The Farm Bureau Movement — Outside Help
Building the Kingdom (continued) — Rev. A. H Rapking

Sunday 2:00 p. m.
Why I believe in the Sunday School — A. C. Stilwell
The Sunday School and the Free School — Sup't G. D. McNeil

Sunday 7:30 p. m.
Devotionals — Rev. W. C. Early
Music — Arranged by Local Pastors
How Hillsboro Compares with other Communities — Outside Help
Building the Kingdom (concluded) — Rev. A H Rapking.

It is not the object of the writer to explain at any length in this article what a Country Life Conference is really like the purposes of such meetings or the results that may be expected from such meetings. Such a treatise would practically mean the survey of conferences held with extentive deductions.

However, the matter can be treated in a general way within the scope of this article.

The motivating power of the Conference centers on the sermons that are preached during the meetings by a regularly ordained preacher. Moreover, the whole idea of the conference is unravelled during the course of these sermons.

Please do not consider this as meaning a religious revival, because you may be disappointed.

Neither is the Country Life Conference a new thing in West Virginia because over 100 typical West Virginia Communities have been scored at the present time.

How do the institutions; namely, the schools, churches, homes, etc., of the Hillsboro community compare with other communities in West Virginia? we know that this fact positively be determined during this Conference.

And as for results, we may expect a quickened consciousness and the right kind of community pride moreover it helps communities find themselves, their weaknesses and their strength not in the abstract but in a concrete and practical manner.

These meetings are open to all, and every body is cordially invited to attend. Church services will be combined on Sunday the 18th of March, so that all will be able to be present at the Conference

HOSPITAL NOTES

Mrs. James Flack of Clifton Forge, Va. is visiting her daughter Miss Florence Flack, of the M. G H.

Mrs. James Gibson, is very much improved and expects to return home in a few days.

Laurence Workman, who was so seriously injured some time ago is able to sit up.

Mrs. Luster Shrader, who recently underwent a serious operation, is improving.

Mrs. Noah Ervine, was operated on for appendicitis and is improving nicely.

Mrs. Warren Shifflett, of Cass is in the Institution for an operation for appendicitis.

Miss Emma Hoover, of Cass, who has been very ill for some time, is very much better and able to sit up in the wheel chair.

Noah Ervine, was confined to bed for a few days with a dreadful cold, is able to be out at this writing.

Mrs. Parker Curry, of Stony Bottom, is very much better and will soon be up.

Walter Coxey, of Cass, who was injured, was discharged much better.

Miss Nebraska Skyles, is some improved.

Oliver Adkins, a pneumonia patient at the Institution is much better.

James Adkinson, Jake Flack, and Henry McCray are improving nicely.

The attendance at the Methodist Sunday School was 187, 23 less than the Sunday before. At the Presbyterian there were 137, 40 less than the Sunday before. The severe cold and the measles played the wild with the attendance.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

A well attended meeting of the Marlinton Volunteer Fire Department was held on Saturday night. Some money was found in the treasury and it was decided to have a Firemans' Banquet on the night of Saturday, March 17. The committee on arrangements are Herbert Vaughan, of Company 1; Paul Overholt, Company 2; C. E Denison, of the Tannery Company, and D. W. Williams from the Department.

Among the the new members elected were Rev. Harvey Orr and Rev. Fred Wyand. The Town Council was requested to have the ordinance against stove pipes without flues enforced: to appoint a flue inspector and put him to work; to stop the custom of piling ashes against wooden buildings; and to put in a couple of fire plugs on Lower Camden avanue.

Company No. 1 elected Clyde W. Moore as foreman, and Company No. 2 elected W. A. Eskridge foreman. Company No. 1 will hold a meeting at Kee & McNeill's Drug Store on Saturday night February 24, for the purpose of completing its organization. Company No. 2 is asked to hold a meeting at an early date

The Council was asked to provide some necessary equipment including gum boots, and coats.

The Marlinton Volunteer Fire Department is getting to be an old organization with a most honorable record as fire fighters. The list is open for membership.

Editor Times:

In answer to the question, "Who has the oldest Bible in Pocahontas county?" I have one that belonged to my grandmother Mrs. Mary Arbogast Nottingham. Publisher's date on the title page of the New Testament is 1742, proof that this book is one hundred and eighty-one years old. On the fly leaf is the name of Susanna A Hull, born October, 1725

Mrs. Bland Nottingham.
Dunmore, W. Va.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs George S. Smith, a daughter, Sunday, February 18, 1923.

THOU ART A JEWEL

Before buying that New Cook Stove or Furnace it will be very much to your interest to see that you have the best to be had. We invite inspection and comparison, and we believe you will say IT IS A JEWEL.

"Buy a Jewel and save Fuel."

Peoples Store & Supply Co.

MARLINTON, W. VA.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

9:45 a. m. Sunday School.
11 00 a m. Sermon: Barnabas or Ananias?
3 00 Preaching at Swago
7 45 Revival Services at Methodist Church.

Honor roll Beard school, Remus C. May teacher, fifth month—Eula and Clarence May, Ada and Ruby Doss, Arta Wells, John, George and Ollie Foegus, Lola and Sylvia Huffman.

WHITE ROBIN

A white robin has been seen quite often around the residences of F. R. Hunter and C. J. Richardson in West Marlinton. The bird is white all over except for the usual red breast.

The eighth biennial Laymens Convention of the Presbyterian church will be held at Huntington March 1 and 2. A number of men from the Marlinton Presbyterian Church expect to attend.

MARLINTON ELECTRIC SHOE SHOP

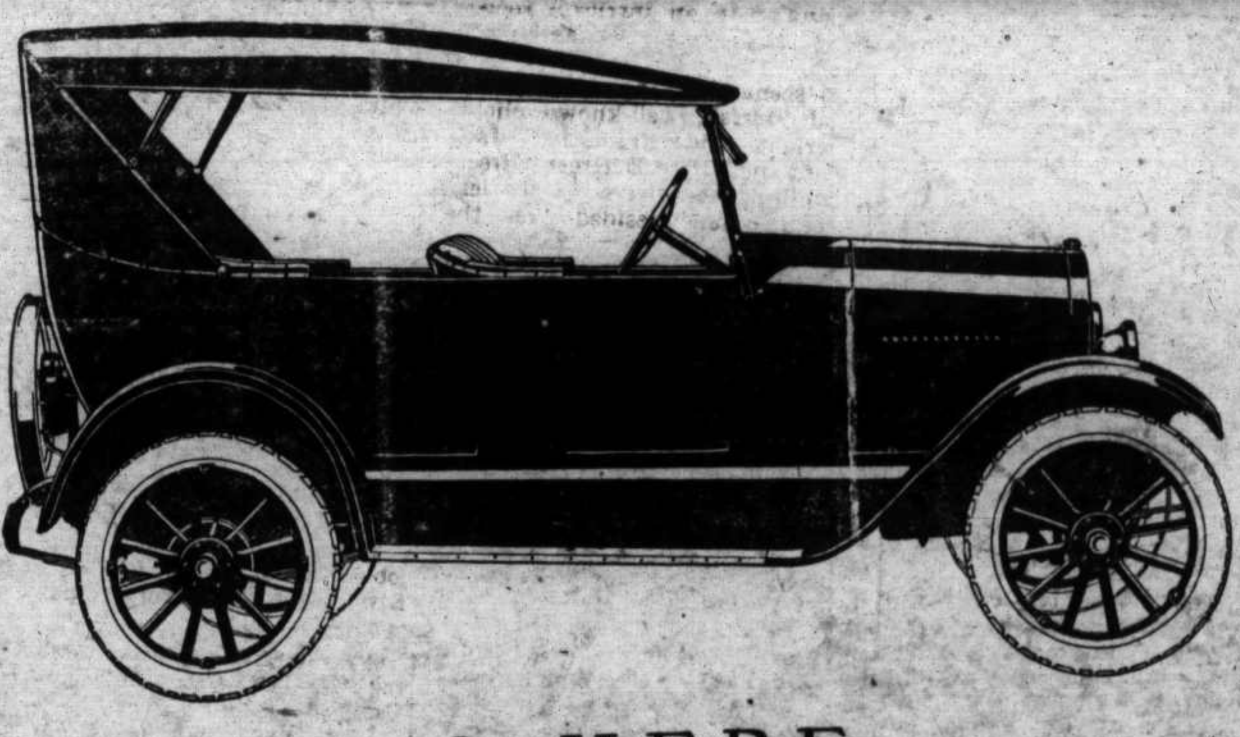
Marlinton, West Virginia

Under New Management

Shoes promptly and skillfully repaired by modern machinery methods. Special attention to orders by mail. Prices reasonables and satisfaction guaranteed.

F. D. Grimes, Prop.

The ★ Car



IS HERE

and on display in our show room

The STAR FEATURES

Continental Red Seal Motor, Timken Rear Axle, Timken Bearings, front and rear; Spicer Universal Joints, Selective Sliding Gear Transmission, three speeds forward and reverse; Single Plate Disc Clutch; Half-elliptic Springs, underslung; Stewart Vaccuum Gasoline Feed with Supply Tank at rear; Electric Lighting by Autolite Generator with Storage Battery; Streamline Body; One-man Top.

Star Models and Prices

ALL PRICES F.O.B. FACTORY

Commercial Chassis, Plain	$285
Commercial Chassis, Starter and demountable rims	380
Roadster, Plain	319
Roadster, Starter and demountable rims	414
Touring, Plain	348
Touring, starter and demountable rims	443
Coupe, starter and demountable rims	580
Sedan, starter and demountable rims	645
Station wagon, starter and demountable rims	610
Delivery wagon, panel top, open front	610
Delivery wagon, " vestibule front	630
Delivery wagon, six post top	620

HINER & GUM'S GARAGE

Marlinton, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XLI NO 29 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, MARCH 1, 1923 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

FARM NEWS

Preparing The Sheaf Exhibit

Are you preparing for an exhibit for the Pocahontas County Fair? If so you may find some of these suggestions helpful.

Unifoımity a First Essential

If there if one descriptive term that will apply to all exhibits (and it represents the most important feature to be observed in the selection of exhibits) it is uniformity: uniformit of size, color, sh pe, maturity and quality are the most desirable in exhibits. A mixture of a variety and a variety of types within a variety are strongly objected to by a judge. Such mixtures will show more readily in a sheaf exhibit than in the threshed samples. Rusty, smutty or otherwise diseased or injured heads should be avoided.

Sheaf Exhibits of Grain

The specimens of grain crop for sheaf exhibits of grain should be crrefully selected in the field a few days prior to the general harvesting. The kernels will then be a stiff dough or what is known as the yellow ripe stage. The grain is apt to shrivel if cut any earlier, and may shatter out if cut later.

The plants should be selected individually and cut quite close to the ground, in order to obtain as nearly as possible the full height of the plant. Should the specimen not be fully ripe it is best to cure it by hanging its head downward in the sunlight to give it the golden color.

Some of the best exhibtors select their srecimens when fully ripened, after which they hang them in a shaded place that is well ventilated.

It is important that the plants be kept dry avoiding dew, rain, fog or other dampness.

After the plants are thoroughly cured, a sufficient number is selected to make a sheaf three inches in diameter when tied. The leaves should be removed from the straws of cereal grains. The sheaves are then tied near the heads, at the middle, and near the butts: the butts may then be trimmed evenly. The sheaf should not be tied so tightly as to injure the straws.

It is a good plan to mount the sheaves on beaver board or other heavy cardboard: they are so much more easily handled when so mounted, and may be packed and shipped with much less damage. If not mounted the sheaves should be hung with the heads downward until exhibited.

Sheaf Exhibits of Grasses

These crops are usually cut when fully headed, or in full bloom, at a stage when they will make the best forage.

Forage crops should be selected while still green and cured in a darkened room where there is good circulation of air. Sunlight bleaches them and makes the leaves brittle, especially those of alfalfa or clover. They should be hung with the heads down until well cured. If the grasses have become very dry and are brittle, when they are to be bound in sheaves the table may be sprinkled, and the plants spread on damp surface for awhile. Mounting grasses on beaver board adds much to their attractiveness and makes them handle better.

It is desirable to gather alfalfa and other legumes for exhibit in the sheaf at a time when the plants are in best condition for hay. This is usually when they are beginning to blossom.

Select the leafiest and most vigorous plants, being careful to get plants of uniform height. After gathering a bundle about twice as large as is required in the premium list, place it in a dark dry place to dry; spread it out thinly, and leave it until it is well cured. This will usually require about 48 hours, then gether the plants into a bundle and tie near the butts, leaving the leaves to assume as near a natural position as possible.

Hang them up in a dark room with the tops down. Some exhibitors wrap paper lightly around the outside of the bundle; this tends to keep the hay in a bright green condition. It also keeps all dust out of bundle. At the time of the fair, another string or ribbon should be tied around the bundle, spacing the second tie from four to six inches higher up on the bundle than the first tie. The object of this tie is to shape bundle.

Sheaf Exhibits of Corn

In selecting corn, care should be taken to select stalks that have good ears attached by medlun sized shanks drooping moderately, three or four seet above the ground. The height of the ears on the several stalks of an exhibit should be uniform. The husks should cover the ear of corn.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

9:45 a. m. Sunday School.
1100 a m. Morning Service:
3 p m. Preaching at Hamlin Chapel
7 00 p m. Christian Endeavor
7 30 p m. Preaching Service

Beginning Wednesday March 7th a study of the gospel of Mark will be begun in the prayer meeting service. It is hoped to make these studies popular and at the same time encourage helpful Bible Study. Those desiring will be given the opportunity of doing original Bible study.

The pastor and some of the men are in Huntington this week in attendance on the Laymen's convention. If it can be arranged a report of this convention will be given next Sunday morning.

MARLINTON METHODEST CHURCH

Rev. Fred B. Wyand, Pastor
Sunday School 9:45 a. m.
A. S. Overholt, Supt.
11 o'clock, Morning Worship;
At this hour the doors of the Church will be opened to receive members.
7 00 p m Epworth League
7 45 p Evening service. Sermon—"Almost Persuaded."

Sunday School attendance at the Methodist Sunday School 222. At Presbyterian 158.

A RARE OPPORTUNITY

will be given throuhout the week of March 5th to 10th, when we will celebrate in collaboration with every leading merchant in the United States

SILK WEEK

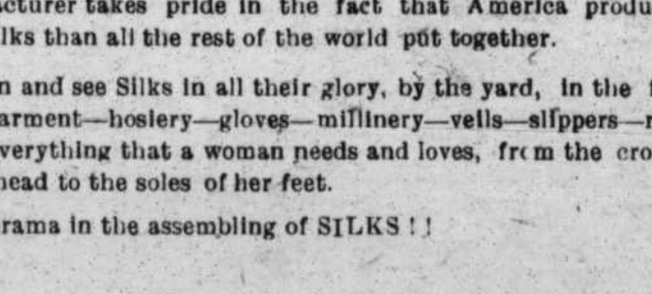
This means the

National Exposition of Everything in Silk

This is an epoch in the Silk Industry of America, for every manufacturer has spent months in originating and producing silk fabrics which are peerless in design, quality and texture. Each manufacturer takes pride in the fact that America produces more silks than all the rest of the world put together.

Come in and see Silks in all their glory, by the yard, in the finished garment—hosiery—gloves—millinery—veils—slippers—ribbons, everything that a woman needs and loves, from the crown of her head to the soles of her feet.

A panorama in the assembling of SILKS!!



During this week only, we will sell all our taffetas at reduced prices. All $2.25 taffetas at $1.65 and all others at $1.50. These are our best staple grades in taffetas and positively cannot be bought at less than the regular price only for these six days.

OVERHOLT & SON
MARLINTON, W. VA.

DEAD

Joseph William Loudermilk was born in Greenbrier County, West Virginia November 3, 1859. In recent years he moved to Pocahontas County first living on Ison Waugh's farm. Later he moved to the mountains at the head of Swago Creek. He was taken suddenly ill Monday night, February 19th with pneumonia. After days of intense suffering he passed to his reward Sunday morning, February 25th. The funeral was preached in the Swago Church by Rev H H Orr of Marlinton and the body laid to rest in the McNeill burying ground below Buckeye. A wife, three children, a father 95 years of age, one brother and one sister are left to mourn his departure Mr. Loudermilk was known for his sterling character He was a member of the Missionary Baptist Church for thirty years.

On February 20th last the death angel came into the home of Bedford Shibaberry, of Clover Lick and claimed the only child. Funeral services were conducted at the home by Rev. Don M. Nicholas, and the remains were laid to rest in the Grimes graveyard. Heart aches at times like this are hard, but this world with all its joys would not be complete with out its flowers. Neither would Heaven be complete with out any children in it. "A little child shall lead them"

A. E Irvine of near Seebert, died in a Ronceverte hospital on Sunday February 25, 1923, of pneumonia after a short illness. His age was about 58 years. He is survived by his wife who is a daughter of the late Allan R. Kennison. Burial on Tuesday at the Oak Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Jennie Jordan Gilmore of Mill Gap, Highland County, died on Sunday morning at the home of her son Mack Gilmore, aged 86 years. She was the widow of the late Captain Samuel Gilmore, who died last summer. Dr. E G. Herold of Marlinton is one of her grandsons The deceased was a native of Pocahontas, raised in the Levels, her maiden name being Jordan.

H. D. Hiveley, an aged and respected citizen of Thorny Creek, near Frost died at his home Monday night, February 26. He had been in failing health for the past year or more. Burial on Wednesday near his late residence. The deceased was a native of Pendleton County. He is survived by a number of grown children.

Miss Creola Sharp died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L D. Sharp, at Slaty Fork, Sunday night, February 25, 1923 Her age was about 19 years. For a week she had been desperately ill with blood poisoning following an attack of tonsilitis. Burial at the family burying ground at Slaty Fork on Wednesday, the services being conducted by her pastor Rev. C A. Powers of the Methodist Church.

Miss Creola was a general favorite in Marlinton where she attended high school. She was a member of the senior class of Edray District High School and would have graduated this year.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Dr. C A. Frazier, of Montgomery, was a guest at the Institution one day last week.

Mrs James Flack left for Clifton Forge, Va. Tuesday morning after a pleasant visit with her daughter Miss Florence Flack.

Delbert Gabbert, of Campbelltown, who was desperately ill with peritinitis is doing satisfactory.

Mrs. Warren Shifflett, of Cass is doing nicely.

Miss Alice Anderson, a graduate of Hinton Hospital, has accepted positson as night supervisor.

Mrs Luster Shrader, is much improved and expects to go home soon.

The clinical laboratory has been greatly improved and equipped and all known methods for blood and secretion work are done.

Mrs. Noah Ervine is much better.

Mrs. James Gibson has returned home,

We are having a hard time getting the powers that be building the State Capitol to give our Pocahontas marble deposits even a casual investigation. In Sunday's Gazette the State Geologist says West Virginia has not the proper stone. Then he adds that Pocahontas marble is beautiful, but it will require building of three miles of railroad to get it out and that no house has ever yet been built out of it. We cannot see that the building of three miles of railroad on a railway grade already prepared is any insurmountable obsticle, nor the fact that no house has ever been made of Pocahontas marble should preclude the commission from taking the time to make an investigation as to its quality, especially since they have been furnished with the report of a reputable geologist, who pronounces it all veay good.

Mr. Ernest Hull, a prominent merchant of Bartow, Pocahontas county, and Miss Eva Pearl Grogg, daughter of Mrs. David Grogg, of the same place, were united in marriage in Ronceverte on Wednesday, February 21, 1923, by Rev. W. A. Grogg, brother of the bride. They will be at home at Bartow after a tour of some of the Eastern cities.—W. Va. News

S. B. Wallace is out after an attack of influenza

LYCEUM COURSE

The Pierces in private life better known as Harry Raymond Pierce and Zulette Spencer Pierce, are to give their program of highgrade entertainment here on the evening of March 6th at the High School.

Lyceum has few companies so well known as the Pierces, who have been pleasing discriminating audiences for the past fifteen years. Critics have openly stated that the Pierces have no equals in their particular line of artistic endeavor. The company has had extraordinary success for the simple reason that they have extraordinary talent, and their many programs are complete and varied. A well known middle west daily said of them: "The Pierces have few equals and no superiors."

The program of the Pierces consists of famous gems of modern and classical literature correctly and most artistically interpreted with the aid of costumes, grease paints and wigs Humor, dramatic art, patriotism, literature and music are beautifully blended in a genuinely worthwhile program.

In addition to standard and classical plays they present miscellaneous programs of short sketches, interspersed with humorous and dramatic impersonations, all of these sketches having been especially written for the Pierces.

The Pierces are well known as directors of the Boston Lyecum school one of the leading institutions of its kind in the country.

This is the 4th number of the Lecture Course and promises to be the best attraction this year.

HILLSBORO LYCEUM COURSE

Patrons of the Hillsboro Lyceum Course have expressed their approval of the numbers already given. The next number promises to be as good as, if not better than, any we have had. The Pierces on Wednesday night March 7, at 8 o'clock,

"Mr and Mrs Pierce give a delightful miscellaneous program of famous plays and sketches. They are top notchers in the field of dramatic art. The Pierces have been pleasing discriminating Lyceum audiences for the past fifteen years, and their program stand for the best in that particular line of professional work which they do."

Don't forget the date, Wednesday March 7th.

GREENBANK DISTRICT PUBLIC SCHOOL DAY

To the Teachers:

Friday, April 20th has been determined as the definite date for the Public School Day in Greenbank District.

Several teachers have already reported their progress, asked some questions, and are making good progress in their preparations. Have you?

Remember the essay contest. Get your best essay in on time, otherwise it cannot be considered.

Some few teacher's names were not on the printed list of teachers furnished me by the county superintendent of schools and were missed when the outlines and information was sent out. Did you get yours? If not, ask for it

Did you want some help at your school?

I'll do the best I can to reach you. Just whistle.

Walter C. Schnopp, Chairman.

BORN

To Mr and Mrs. Rodney Buzzard, Huntersville, February 21, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Hoover, Campbelltown, Feb. 22, a daughter.

To Mr. and Mrs. Theodore May, Marlinton, February 21, a daughter.

To Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller, Buckeye, February 19, a daughter.

To Mr. and Mrs. Mason M. May, Marlinton, February 27, a son.

On last Thursday the home of L O. Simmons was discovered to be on fire. Help arrived before great damage was done. Heavy wind had blown out a flue stop and set fire to the ceiling. The loss is covered by insurance.

The home of Abram Pritt, on the Renick place near Hillsboro, was destroyed by fire on Sunday February 18. Little of the contents were saved. The fire started while the family was gone. There was no insurance.

True West Virginians will readily concur in the proposition that our new capital building should be erected of Pocahontas marble. Besides being of the quality it is home product.—Congressman Taylor in Pick and Shovel.

Mrs. Nettie Rodgers, of Marlinton, is still critically sick of pneumonia. Mrs. Sterling Camden is nursing her.

HELD FOR MOONSHINING

Ernest J. Weiford and John Hatfield were before Squire A. E. Smith Tuesday morning, charged with the crime of moonshining. They were held to await the action of the grand jury.

On Saturday night Officers Charles K. Butler, Lincoln and Ed. Cochran made a raid on Weiford's home and arrested Weiford and Hatfield. They found an able still of thirty or forty gallons and a quantity of mash. The still was a home made product. Weiford lives on Bucks Run, three miles from Marlinton: He is a native of this county, about 46 years old, married and has a family of small children. Hatfield comes from old Virginia. He is thirty-five or forty years old and has been around for the past year. He says he is not connected with the Hatfield family of West Virginia and Kentucky.

GREENBANK FARMERS

(Reported by Vo-Ag Society)

George Hannah has his ice house full this year, for the first time in several years. He is getting ready to use his tractor in doing a lot of spring plowing.

Mrs. Cora Wooddell is having some old rail fence removed on her farm and replaced with new wire fence.

Mr. Goodsell is plowing for spring wheat. Winter wheat is looking good at this time and gives promise of a fair crop.

Rev. Monroe has been among the ice gatherers during the recent cold weather.

A B Carfer, who was to come from the Portland Cement association of America to help with the Farmers' Short Course last week, was not able to come owing to illness. He is expected sn the hear future and the work will go on as scheduled.

The schedule for the Farmers' Short Course this week calls for six meetings. The topic for the first two meetings was: 'Stopping the Leaks in the Farmers' Pocketbook." The other meeting dealt with live stock problems in general and were under the direction of Dr. Lueder of the College of Agriculture, West Va University.

Martin Judy is very busy with his drainage project and is progressing necely.

The North Fork Lumber Company is having a lot of plowing done.

Everybody is looking forward to some good sugar making weather.

Beginning on March 1, no city mail in the United States can deliver mail to an office or ressdence without an approved box.

The Warwick post office will be discontinued on March 15. The Marlinton postoffice will receive and account for the mail therefor.

H. M. Kershner, of Cloverlick, who was hurt while working on the C & O extra force at Ronceverte some weeks ago, is out of the Hinton hospital and expects to report for work next week.

C. Haupt, of Marlinton, had a toe broken by a steel rail falling on his foot, while working on the Marlin Lumber Co. railway, Saturday.

Married, George McMillion and Miss Marie Summerfield, on Monday, February 19, 1923, at Edray Parsonage, by Rev C. A. Powers.

AMUSU THEATRE

WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY—
Gladys Brockwell, Wallace McDonald, Lillian Rich and all-star cast in the "The Sage Hen"
Added Attraction—"The Model Diary," a George Ade cartoon comedy.

FRIDAY—
Buck Jones in "Pardon My Nerve." Also Selznick News

SATURDAY—
Aneto Stewart in "The Yellow Typhoon," Also Larry Seamon in "Solid Concrete."

MONDAY and TUESDAY—
The Big Paramount De Mille special "Something to Think About" Not only something to think about, but something worth seeing.

On account of numerous requests we are bringing back the "SHEIK", for one night only, MARCH 7th.

MARCH 12 and 13—
"The Old Nest." Greater than "Over The Hills"

SEE "In The Days of Buffalo Bill," March 9th.

BACK AGAIN

I have returned from Florida, and my Tailor Shop is now open every day.

A fine big line of Spring & Summer Suitings.

Many thanks for past patronage, and earnest solicitation of your future orders.

W. A. THIEDE
MARLINTON - WEST VIRGINIA

CEMENT ROOFING and PAINT

Orders received at old prices.

— SEE US —

Peoples Store & Supply Co.
MARLINTON, W. VA.

THE CATTLE ON A THOUSAND HILLS

It would be hard to find a more perfect picture of peace and contentment than a cow in the shade of an apple tree chewing her cud to the drone of bees and the drowsy hum of insects. It would be equally hard to think of her and her kind as taking an active part in the growth of civilization. But she and her folk were righ on the job, and in their slow patient way aiding primeval man in his efforts to make the world a better place in which to live. Without their help the pyramids would probably have been longer in the building and the "forty years wandering in the wilderness" would have been a different propositon Oxen appear to appear to have been the very earliest domesticated animals, and there is frequent mention of them in the oldest records of the Hebraw and Hindu nations, and pictures of them hard at work are chiseled on Egyptian monuments that were three thousand years old when Christ was born. In old times a man's wealth was counted by the number of cattle he owned, and Abraham, you remember, was said to have been "rich in cattle." For a long time oxen were the favorite and only medium of exchange, and constituted the money of that day. This fact left its impress on the first metal money coined in ancient Greece, as the new money was stamped with the image of an ox, showing that it represented the value or a part of the value, of this plodding beast of burden. The very word "cattle" has an interesting history. The old Norman word catel, being derived from the Latin capitalis, meaning wealth or property, was used in feudal times to denote any kind of movable property, particularly live stock. From it we get our word "chattel," a general term for personal property. Some old writers used the term cattle in a very broad sense, including horses, sheep, and hogs, and sometimes even the bees and chickens, so their meaning was not always clear. The old idea that cattle constituted the wealth of a people still lives in the word pecuniary, derived from pecus, meaning cattle; so when one is spoken of as an impecunius, it literally means that he owns no cows.

It was long believed that the cattle of Europe were the descendants of a wild form that roamed over Europe and Asia before the days of recorded history, but as the oldest forms of domestic cattle appear to be of a different type, their genesis is still an open question and one that may never be settled. But it is pretty generally thought now that the cattle of Europe have descended from three species, two of which were domesticated by the ancient lake dwellers, and the other known to have existed in Scandinavia.

The vast herds that add so much to the wealth of this country today, like ourselves, originated in Britain and other parts of western Europe and in no sense are descended from the wild cattle or buffalo that were found here along with the Indians.

As strange as it may seem to us, who look upon cattle in terms of dollars and cents only, the ox was actually worshiped by several ancient peoples and figured largely in their mythology and folklore. The Hindu believed that the ox was the first animal created, and no one was allowed to shed its blood under any circumstances. What a shock the old Hindus would experience if they could visit the stockyards of Chicago today! The Hebrews had a law forbidding that an ox should be muzzled when treading out the grain, and to kill one wantonly was punished by exile by the Romans, showing the high esteem in which it was held.

The first cattle brought to this country came over from England with the original settlers in 1607, and later some of their offspring were taken to Mexico, and from there they spread northward and became the forefathers of the Texas cattle of today. In 1660 Sir Ralph Lane imported a number of cattle from the West Indies, and it is likely from these that most of our cattle descended. In colonial times, as the settlers moved westward, they carried milk cows along with them, and in this way they gradually became scattered over the entire country. Of all the domestic animals in the United State cattle form the most important part and are worth about as much as all the sheep, goats, horses, and hogs put together The livestock census of 1913 showed a population of over twenty millions of milk cows alone, not counting the other millions that found their way to the dinner tables of the world in the form of steak, stew, and roast.—Our Young People.

SEEBERT

Mr. and Mrs. W. D Clark and daughter Anna Belle, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Clark at Hillsboro, last Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. S. A. F. Wagner and Mrs. Will Adkison were visitors last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sheets, nerr Hillsboro.

Mrs. W I. Holliday and children spent Muesday at Ronceverte. They were accompanied home by Mrs. Holliday's mother, Mrs. Charles Baker.

Mrs. Winters Miller spent Sunday with home folks, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Gladwell at Hillsboro.

Mrs. Fannie Kennison and Mrs. Sam Dean were called to the home of their brother, Frank Hayse, near Marlinton, on account of sickness.

Mrs. Oscar May and children have returned home from a visit to her mother near Buckeye.

Mrs. H S. Sams visited her daughter at Renick last week.

The Epworth League social given by the members was enjoyed by a large crowd. Refreshments were served.

There has been quite a lot of flu thru this community, but every one seems to be better and able to be out again.

Ami Irvine died at the Ronceverte Hospital Sunday morning of pneumonia. Burial at the Old Brick Church cemetery.

Miss Opal Cook, one of our High school students, had the misfortuue to get her arm cut in two places by a large glass falling from one of the doors at the Hillsboro High school building.

ARBOVALE

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Vandevender died Saturday February 24, of pneumonia. It was buried Monday at the Vandevender cemetery. The bereaved have the heartfelt sympathy of the people of this section.

Mrs. Hough, of Bartow, an invalid lady, came down last Saturday to stay with her daughter Mrs. Jesse Shears of Pine Grove.

Fred Conrad left last week for Nitro where he has a job with the carpenter force.

Billy Puffenbarger and Marion Wilfong are about done sawing for Morgan Rader.

Born, to Rev. and Mrs. D. M. Nicholas, February 17, a son.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Gillispie, February 20, a son.

THORNY CREEK

Mrs. Roy Sowers and little daughter Ruby, of Cumberland, are here on a few weeks' visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Waugh.

L. M. Waugh had the misfortune to lose a very fine cow a few days ago.

Miss Ethel Friel has gone to Greenbank to stay with her sister, Mrs. Bennie Keirn, who is very ill.

Silas Kennedy's little girl is very ill with measles.

The new store is progressing nicely with Jasper Friel as manager.

The special services at the Methodist Church closed Sunday night. The preaching was by Rev. G. G. Martin of Lexington. He is a strong preacher and a pulpit orator of great ability.

Dr. E. G. Herold is again in his office after a case of the flu.

After Every Meal

WRIGLEYS

Top off each meal with a bit of sweet in the form of WRIGLEY'S.

It satisfies the sweet tooth and aids digestion.

Pleasure and benefit combined.

We have safety deposit boxes for rent at ONE DOLLAR per year. Why keep your valuable papers lying around the house. Keep them in a safety box in our vault.

BANK OF MARLINTON

MARLINTON WEST VIRGINIA

The Bank of Safety and Service

LOCAL MENTION

Mrs Andrew Price spent Sunday in Lewisburg

E.D. King returned last week from South Carolina

W. C. Gardner was down from Cloverlick, Monday.

Julian Lockridge was over from Clifton Forge Saturday.

John May, of Beard, was a business visitor in town Monday.

Mrs. S. N. Hench is with her brother, Ralph Fickes at Iron Gate.

R. S. Staton is at Ward with his son Amos, whose family is sick with flu.

W. A. Thiede has returned from Florida, where he spent a couple of months.

S. N. Hench was the guest of Dr John I Armstrong in Lewisburg, Friday night.

Wm. O. Ruckman, of Millpoint, was here Tuesday to take out auctioneer's license.

Squire G M. Williams was up from Hillsboro Monday, going over the Mutual phone lines.

Mrs. Arch Kidd, of Covington, is with her mother, Mrs. Phoebe Mann, who continues very ill.

C. E Powers, of Proctorville, Ohio, is spending a few weeks with his father, Rev C. A Powers.

Massie Wooddell is preparing to move to Morrow, Ohio, to live on the farm of the late Newton Duffield.

C. J. Richardson, who has been confined to his home with sickness for a week, is able to be at his store again.

George Carlisle, Dr H. W. McNeel and W. A. Browning and son, of Hillsboro, were visitors in Marlinton last Saturday.

Misses Gertrude Overholt, Ottie Lang and Julia Price attended the funeral of Miss Creola Sharp, at Staty Fork, Tuesday.

Rev. William D Keene, Jr. of Norfolk spent a few days with his Marlinton friends, returned to his charge on Wednesday.

R. M. Beard was up from Beard on Monday. He told us that Mrs G C. Beard is sick with pneumonia and Mrs. J. G. Hamrick with influenza

Mitchell Sharp was down from Frost on Monday. He reports good headway being made on the Class A road contracts from Minnehaha toward Frost

E. H. Moore, of Cleremont, Florida sends us the good word that he is now at home from the sanitorium, recovered from his recent breakdown, ond again enjoying life

Among those attending the Laymen's Convention at Huntington this week are Rev. H. H Orr, T. S. McNeel, Lee P. McLaughlin, M. L. Beard, Colbert W. Kinnison, N J. Candler, R. B. Slaven and Calvin W. Price.

B. S. Davis, Horticulturist with the State Department of Agriculture is expected in Pocahontas this week to spend a period of ten days to be of what service he may be in advising with and demonstrating to the farmers the way to care for their orchard trees and small fruits. He specializes on spraying and pruning. He is from Lost Creek, Harrison County, and for many years he has been a friend of Dr. O H. Kee, of Marlinton.

J. L. Baxter has bought C. V. Hanlin's real estate and stock of merchandise at Onoto. The property includes a store house, two dwellings and 6 acres of land. Possession will be given at once

J. L. Baxter has let to contract to F. P. King the building of a big addition to his garage. When completed he will have a main building 84X120 feet. It will be of concrete block construction.

Special term of grand jury court next Tuesday.

We wish to thank the kind people of Poage Lane neighborhood for their kindness and sympathy shown us during the sickness and death of our darling little boy, Arthur. May God's richest blessing rest upon each and every one of them.

Bedford Shinaberry and Wife.

Pruntytown—Twelve boys in the plant establishment of the state industrial school here are engaged in making the final order of license plates for automobiles of the state.

Clarksburg—In the first issue of "The Town Crier," a monthly publication issued by the city government, Manager H. G. Otis asks citizens to submit designs for a city flag and seal. From those submitted the best will be selected and adopted by council as the official flag and seal of the city, it is announced.

SAVE YOUR MEAT

There has been a great many pounds of meat spoiled in the past few years caused by the owners not taking the necessary precaution to preserve it. The old smoking process always kept the meat from spoiling and gave it a flavor which added materially to its taste you can get this same flavor and the same results by using WALLACE'S Brand Concentrated Liquid Smoke. This preparation comes in quart bottles, and is applied with a brush to the meat after it is thoroughly cured (either by the dry or pickling process)Special directions on each bottle. The price is $1.00 per quart it will smoke a barrel of meat. If your dealer hasn't ot it, he will get it for you

WANTED—To purchase a copy of Rev. Wm T. Prices "History of Pocahontas County," and Withers Border Warfare state price —W P. Campbell, 1518 Patterson Ave. Roanoke Va.

Royal Drug Stores, Inc.

Marlinton, W. Va. — Renick, W. Va.

NEWS CULLINGS FROM WEST VIRGINIA

Wellsburg—Mrs. Mildred E. Stephens was sworn in as a deputy sheriff. She is the mother of a little girl and the wife of the sheriff.

Wellsburg — Joe Tracz, of Avella, Pa., was sentenced to serve 8 years in the penitentairy after pleading guilty to a charge of conspiracy in connection with the Cliftonville mine riot last year.

Bluefield—The body of Henry Rogowski, 7-year-old cripple who disappeared from his home at Gary, McDowell county, was found in the icy waters of Tug river several miles from his home. It is thought the boy fell from a foot bridge.

Charleston—A flock of 40 or 50 pine siskins, birds rarely seen in West Virginia, were discovered in Kanawha City by I. H. Johnson, the bird authority of the state department of agriculture. Mr. Johnson reported that he also saw about 50 meadow larks.

Wheeling—Joe Koelson, a miner of Herrick, O., died here as a result of gunshot wounds occuring when a neighbor's lad is said to have accidentally discharged a gun in the latter's home. The father of the boy was examining a gun when Koelson dropped in for a social call and laid the gun on a bed. The boy, who is said to be under five, started to play with the gun.

Clarksburg—Completing a two-day session, directors of the West Virginia Co-operative Warehouse association completed a preliminary plan for the marketing of 1923 wool in the state and planned for ten regional conferences to present the project to farmers throughout the state. It is planned to secure a 1,000 membership who will agree to pool their wool over a five-year period.

Weston—Weston has put in her bid for the special council to be called by Rt. Rev. W. L. Gravatt, of the Protestant Episcopal church in West Virginia for the election of a bishop coadjutor. The council will be called early this spring, according to action taken at the meeting last month in Bluefield, where attendance of delegates was too meagre to warrant balloting on a bishop co-adjutor.

Huntington—St. Edwards preparatory college here will be closed at the termination of the present semester and the property converted into a hospital, according to word received here by Rev. Dr. H. B. Altmeyer from Rt. Rev. John J. Swint, bishop of Wheeling. The school, admitting only boys, was founded by the late Bishop P. J Donahue. The nursing staff of the hospital is to be comprised of members of a well known sisterhood already active in the state, it is said.

Charleston—Sunday afternoon concerts by the Charleston Symphony orchestra are going to meet the opposition of the Charleston Ministerial association. At least they are as long as an admission is charged. The association discussed the Sunday concerts in its regular monthly meeting and instructed a committee appointed about a year ago to confer with the officials of the orchestra association and ascertain whether the concerts will be made free or discontinued on Sunday afternoons.

Morgantown—Dairymen of Monongalia county are receiving little more than a laborer's wage and interest on their invested capital, Professor E. L. Anthony, head of the dairy department of the West Virginia university college of agriculture declared in discussing a joint meeting of dairymen and representatives of local organizations. The meeting was called by the dairymen to inform representatives of the city and local bodies as to the actual cost of producing milk and to show why the farmers are not making more than a living wage from their dairy herds.

Wheeling—$37,000 a year! According to figure experts in city hall here this would be the income derived annually from 85 slot machines in operation in the city of Wheeling, which are owned by Joseph Carbrai. Here are the figures: 85 machines at $50 each would give a total income of $4,250 weekly. Splitting this 50-50 with the establishments where the machines are placed, the owner would take down his share as $2,126. Assuming that he divided this three ways, with two shares going to his partners, Leslie Hawker and Harry Hawker, Cambrai would receive $708 as his weekly share. This would amount to exactly $38,816 at the end of the year.

Huntington—Mrs. William Ramsey, 63 years old, is dead as a result of injuries sustained when she fell down five steps at her home.

Fairmont—The John Russo wholesale fruit produce store here was destroyed by fire with a loss of several thousand dollars. It is believed that the building took fire from an over heated stove. The building, a frame structure, was burned down and the entire contents including a heavy consignment of fruit and vegetables destroyed.

Morgantown—A total of 1,378 students have registered at the office of the financial secretary for the spring semester of West Virginia university.

Bluefield—A branch of the summer school of West Virginia university will be established at Bluefield college here this summer, according to a plan approved by the state board of education and university authorities.

Morgantown—Out of a total of 1,900 students at West Virginia university, only 476 displayed enough interest in the honor system to vote when the question was submitted to the student body during registration, according to figures made public by Robert Kelly, president of the student council.

Huntington—Organization of the Consolidated Power and Light company, with a capital stock of $5,000,000, was announced by T. M. Hays, assistant general manager of the Consolidated Light, Heat and Power company. Corporation papers have been granted by Secretary of State Houston G. Young.

Huntington—The Huntington Tri-State fair and fall racing meet will be held here September 24 to 29, inclusive, it was announced by the board of directors of the fair association. It is probable that the state convention of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks and a state meeting of the American Legion will be held here at the same time.

Wheeling—Suit for half a million dollars was brought in federal court here against Marcel Joliffe, Fairmont millionaire, by A. E. Bailey, of Pittsburgh, organizer of the Federal Carbonic company of Fairmont. The suit is based on a charge of malicious prosecution, growing out of Bailey's trial and acquittal at Fairmont a year ago, of a charge of embezzling $150.

Bluefield—Thirteen families were made homeless when fire of unknown origin destroyed the old Princeton inn, at Princeton. In recent years the structure has been used as an apartment house and was owned by Captain L. H. Perkins. The building was a brick and frame structure, the brick addition having been made a few years ago. The entire building and contents were a total loss.

Wheeling — The deadly monoxide fumes from an open gas stove claimed two more victims here when the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Grove were found in bed at their home on Wheeling Island. They had not been seen for 24 hours, and when neighbors broke into the apartment the bodies were discovered. A physician expressed the opinion that death had come within two or three hours.

Charleston — Seventy-five dollars were ordered paid to B. A. Robinson, Kanawha Two-Mile farmer, by the county court for the loss of three pure-bred sheep in November, 1921. The sheep were killed by dogs, and Mr. Robinson brought a claim for $90 before the court several days ago. Mr. Robinson told the court that his sheep were valued at $30 each and that he could sell them at such a price. He asked $30 each, but accepted $25.

Clarksburg—Four members of the federal internal revenue forces in West Virginia have gone to New York city to take part in an investigation by a picked group of 100 revenue agents of the alleged failure of thousands of persons to file income tax reports. They are: Ross J. Sears, Moundsville; Mark Flaherty, Parkersburg; C. J. Smith, Huntington, and Clarence Morris, Charleston. The men were chosen in a competitive examination in which 3,000 revenue agents participated. West Virginians ranked first, Pennsylvania second and New York third.

Charleston—The state road commission will supplement the loca district bond issue of $25,000 with an equal if not a larger amount for the purpose of building a road toward the Jackson county line, the county court was informed by a representative of the commission. The road will be built from the end of the present hard surface by way of Sissonville to the line of the neighboring county. Rights-of-way for a distance of seven miles along the proposed route have been deeded free of consideration to the state, the court was told.

Huntington—Dr. D. D. Bodenheimer, of Logan, was arrested by United States Deputy Marshal E. E. Buskirk, at Logan, charged with violation of the anti-narcotic law. He was taken before United States Commissioner J. F. Hager, at Covington, Ky., and held to the federal grand jury under $10,000 bond. He was remanded to jail in Huntington when he was unable to furnish bail. He is alleged to have purchased unlawfully 1,000 half grains of morphine and 7,400 quarter grains of morphine sulphate. He is also charged with having disposed of it without making a record of its disposition.

Hinton—It was unofficially made known here that the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad company will consrtuct at Clifton Forge, Va., a "hump" or gravity car switching yard at a cost of approximately $4,000,000.

Huntington—Plans are under way here for members of the Huntington real estate board to attend the national convention of realtors, in Cleveland next June. The local members will attend in a body and will be accompanied by the Kiwanis quartette or other Huntington musical organization

Farm For Sale

75 acres on Deaver Run 2 miles north of Cass 72 acres under fence, 50 acres in cultivation, 2 good young orchards bearing fruit, good five room house and good out buildings. 2 good springs. I will sell cheap for $1,700 my reason for selling is I am not able to run the farm. If you want a bargain come at once.

J. L. GRAGG
Cass, W. Va.,

Grazing Farm for Sale

70 acres more or less, of the John Adam McNeel land on Laurel Creek; fine grass land. All in sod; big barn, comfortable house and outbuildings, well watered. Apply to

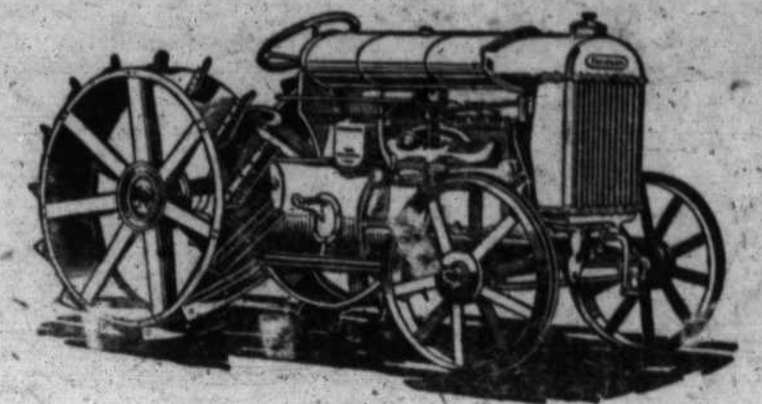
ELMER BAXTER,
Woodrow, W. Va.

LOST—Between Mrs. L. C. Gums residence and High School pair of tortoise rim spectacles. Finder please leave at Mrs. Gums.

Fordson Tractor

$395.00

FOB DETROIT



Delivered at your farm for only

$421.70

A few tractors in stock

Baxters Garage

Marlinton, West Virginia

DURBIN

H. S. Banton, C. & O. section foreman has the flu.

W. D. Slaven was at Marlinton on business.

M. C. Cavanaugh, of Nottingham, was a business visitor here last week.

Asa Wright is selling fruit trees for spring delivery.

H L. Kesler was here last week looking over some new road work.

H. L. Stokes and family have returned from a two months' stay in Florida.

Mrs. C K. Livesay and Mrs A. G. Hardbarger have been visiting Mrs. C. R. Beard.

Mrs. C. P. Kerr, who is in the employ of the I. O. O. F. Home at Elkin, was in town a few days visiting friends.

Tom Houchin was a business visitor in our town last week.

Holt & Hickman have almost completed sawing on Back Alleghany.

Page Sutton, of Hosterman, was in town last week.

C. C. Chaplin, af Charleston, spent Sunday with his family.

J. D. Wilmoth is druggist while Dr. S. A. Wilhide is in Florida.

Auction Sale

At my farm 2 1-2 miles north west of Greenbank, on SATURDAY March 10, 1923, beginning promptly at 10 o'clock, I will sell the following—

Blue cow, 9 or 10 years old
Blue cow 7 yrs, black cow 6 yrs
Roan heifer 3 years—all to be fresh in April
1 sorrel horse 9 years old
15 ewes, 1 buck, 13 chickens 1 rooster
1 Turnbull wagon, 2 1-4 and ladders
Half interest in Farm Favorite drill
McCormick mowing machine & rake
Deering reaper, 1 cultivator 5 plow
1 single shovel plow 1 set housing
Set logging harness, collars, lines, etc
Set double buggy harness
Pair spreaders swingle tree
1 plow double tree, set butt chains
Large chain 1-2 inch, 2 pr grabs
1 disc harrow set harrow teeth
Forks, scythe, snath, grain cradle
Brier scythe, axes, mattock saws
Grindstone and bench, 15 gal kettle
1 hay stack, strawrick rye buckwheat
16 bu wheat, 20 bu buckwheat
20 bu ear corn 10 bu potatoes
5 bu rye
Household and kitchen furniture

Terms of sale: All sums $10.00 and under cash, all over $10.00 8 months time, purchaser to give note satssfactorialy endorsed, interest from date.

Mrs. M. F. Slavin.
Auctineer Frank Ashford

Auction Sale

I will offer at public auctiin at my place on Stony Creek, three miles above Marlinton, near Hamlin chapel to the highest bidder,

March 10, 1923 at 10 a. m.

1 bay horse, 1 gray mare, 1 part Jersey cow, 2 shoats, 1 old wagon, 1 set work harness, 1 Vulcan plow, 1 hay stack, 1 feed mill, 5 good ewes, household and kitchen furniture, other articles too numerous to mention.

Terms—$5.00 and under cash over that amount, 4 months note with good security, interest from date.

Mrs. Mary E. Wooddell,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Barlow Auctioneer

Specially Low Prices

on all styles of American Fence

Style No. 11, formerly A

	Height	Weight per Rod	Price
7 bar	26 inch	7.5 lbs	34c
6 bar	35 inch	7.2 lbs	32c
8 bar	45 inch	9.3 lbs	41c
9 bar	49 inch	10.3 lbs	45c
10 bar	47 inch	10.9 lbs	48c
11 bar	55 inch	12.2 lbs	53c

Style No. 11 has top and bottom wires No. 9, intermediate and stay wires No. 11, with 12 inch stays.

Style 12 1-2, formerly L

6 bar	35 inch	5.1 lbs	25c
8 bar	45 inch	6.4 lbs	31c

Style 12 1-2 has No. 10 top and bottom wires, intermediate and stay wires No. 12 1-2 with 12 inch stays.

10 bar	47 inch	16 lbs	67c
11 bar	55 inch	18 lbs	75 1-2

All No. 9 wire

Stock and Poultry

18 bar	48 inch	9.2 lbs	50c
20 bar	53 inch	9.7 lbs	53c
21 bar	58 inch	10.3 lbs	56c

A reduction of 2c per rod allowed on orders of 200 rods or more.

TERMS—2 percent cash in 10 days or 30 days net.

C. J. RICHARDSON

Marlinton, W. Va.

Application For Parole

Notice is hereby given that on or about the 10th day of March 1923 an application will be filed with A. G. Jenkins, Pardon Atty., Charleston, W. Va For the Parole of H. C. Wooldridge convicted of the crime of Sec 3 Chapter 108 Acts 1919 at the April Term 1922 of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County and sentenced to imprisonment in the West Virginia Penitentiary for the period of three years.

Rev. W. A. Grogg, of Ronceverte, began a series of special services in the Campbelltown church on Monday night.

Team For Sale

A team of black mares, 6 and 7 years old, weighing 3,000, in fine shape, safe and well broken; also harness I have rented my farm, or I would not sell them.

C. C. BAXTER,
Onoto, W. Va

WM O. RUCKMAN
LICENSED AUCTIONEER
Millpoint, West Virginia
A young man with the goods

County Court in regular session next Tuesday, March 6

The Greenbrier Joint Stock Land Bank

LEWISBURG, W. VA.

Is ready to make loans on farms for terms of five to thirty years.

This Bank is under Federal Supervision.

If you want a LOAN, see T. S. McNEEL, who has recently purchased the Insurance business of the Goodsell Insurance Agency.

First National Bank Building, Marlinton, W. Va.

Executor's Sale of General Merchandise

The entire stock of merchandise of the late G. S. Welford, consisting of Dry Goods, Shoes, Hats, Caps, Notions, Medicines of all kinds, Hardware, Men's and Boy's Suits, Overalls, Shirts, Pants, and many other things to go at appraiser's inventory—which is sacrificing—and the price all the way throu is very, very low.

Also store fixtures consisting of 6 show cases, 1 roller top desk, 2 typewriters, 1 adding machine, 1 iron safe and many other things.

Come and take a look and get our prices.

D. N. WEIFORD, Exor. of G. S. Welford, deceased.

Warwick, W. Va.

BUICKS

A Variety of Cars in Stock

Come in and See Them

BUICKS REPAIRS

Marlinton Electric Co.

Marlinton, W. Va.

Machines For Sale

1 150 H. P. Furnace boiler with front and stack and brick.
1 50 H. P. Furnace boiler.
1 Stutervant Exhaust Fan 30 with galvanized piping for same.
1 Geiser saw mill capacity about 15,000 ft. 10 hours.
1 30 H. P. Portable boiler.
5 Engines 20 to 35 Horse Power.
Turning lathes, surfacers, dynamoes and wiring, line shafting, pulleys, saws, etc.
1 Self feed rip saw "Hoosier."
1 Short log saw mill "American."
1 Geiser Saw Mill complete with boiler, engine, belting, log turner, edger, cut off, lumber trucks, log wash, etc.
2 Swingin cu off saws.

Buena Vista Hardwood Co.

Stony Bottom, W. Va

Sold By Druggists

Deth-O-Lene

will prove of real value whether your cold is just beginning or you can't get rid of it. Can be used at all times As Antiseptic, Penetrating, Liquid, Turpo-Campholene in solution with Aromatic Vegetable Oils. A few drops on sugar or applied freely gives quick results.

Many recommendations for Tonsilitis, Bronchitis, Croup, Pneumonia and Chest Colds.

IT'S A LIQUID—NO GREASE—NO MUSS!

MARLINTON ELECTRIC SHOE SHOP

Marlinton, West Virginia

Under New Management

Shoes promptly and skillfully repaired by modern machinery methods. Special attention to orders by mail. Prices reasonable and satisfaction guaranteed.

F. D. Grimes, Prop.

THE BATTLE OF WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS

The following article was handed us by Squire George M. Kee, of Marlinton, and was written by the late J. G. [illegible] of Bryan's Battery, and published in the Greenbrier Independent a number of years ago.

In the summer and early autumn of 1863 that large scope of territory stretching from northwest to southwest Virginia, and from the Alleghanies to the Ohio river was designated by the Confederates as the "District of Gauley," and was left to be guarded from the attack of the enemy by a small force of Confederate troops. In August of that year information reached the commanding officer of the District, who chanced to be at that time Colonel George S Patton, a brave and gallant officer, who, while Colonel of the 22nd Virginia Regiment, was acting as Brigadier General.

So far as I am advised, no one has ever written a detailed account of the battle of Dry Creek.

These were the days when information was carried from month to mouth by the loyal inhabitans and what we termed the "grapevine telegraph;" as the telephone was at that time unknown and undreamed of. In attempting to write an account of the battle of Dry Creek I shall have to depend upon memory, as the battle, so far as I know, is not mentioned in history. It is almost an invariable fault with those attempting to give an accurate account of battles in which they were participants to indulge too lavishly in the "ego," but I shall endeavor to avoid this error in these recollections—tho at the loss of some personal experiences in the battle which I am sure would interest some of my old comrades.

Some years ago I corresponded with Major Noyes ("Plus") Rand for a season, who was the commessioned Adjutant of the 22d Virginia Regiment, and was acting A. G. of the Confederate forces at the battle of Dry Creek I have some of Major Rand's letters and will quote some of his statements.

In the closing days of August or to be more exact, about the 23rd grape vine messages began pouring in to the District Headquarters, then at Lewisburg, to the effect that Gen Averill, with a large force of cavalry and artillery, was advancing from the northwest to raid the Virginia and Tennessee railroad, which was one of the chief arteries for supplying the army of General Lee. To intercept and check the raid was of the utmost importance, and the only troops relied upon for this consisted of the 22d Virginia and the 45th Regiments 22d and 45th Virginia Regiments of infantry; Edgar's and Derrick's Battalions of Infantry; Chapman's Battery of Artillery, and four companies of the 8th Virginia Cavalry. Major Rand includes Dunn's Battalion of Infantry, but I think he is mistaken about Dunn's Battalion being there.

To know for sure the road Averill would take and be prepared to meet him on favorable ground was the momentous question with our commanding officer.

On the morning of the 25th we marched on to Frankford and turning off there to the right, crossed over onto Anthony's Creek and up the creek some ten or twelve miles, and there halted, but did not go into camp, and waited for another "grapevine telegram" which was received about midnight, and then we countermarched back towards Dry Creek as rapidly as possible. The Infantry were in front of the Artillery, and soon after daylight when we were within about one and one half miles of Dry Creek a courier came to meet Capt. Chapman bearing a dispatch, and from there we went in double quick as fast as horses could trot with the battery, which point we reached just in the nick of time, to intercept Averill, who approached on the main pike leading over the Alleghanies and called the James River and Kanawha turnpike.

When we arrived skirmishing had already begun, and the Federals had gotten their Artillery in position and their lines of battle being formed, our line of battle was practically formed under a sharp fire of artillery and dismounted cavalry. Chapman's battery opened fire at once, and was given the credit of holding back the enemy long enough for our infantry to form in line of battle. I never saw our men so greatly excited, while we were getting into position shells were bursting among us, and the minnie balls singing like August crickets.

The gallant Edgar's Battlion took position on the pike, with two companies of the 8th Virginia Cavalry dismounted and placed on his right, and the 22d Virginia Regiment on the left.

Our Artillery was one hundred yards or more in rear of our infantry and being higher ground we shot over them.

If there ever was such a thing as an artillery duel fought, it was done right there. Averill had four guns we the same number, and were only a few hundred yards apart and in full view; each was a target for the other, and for the space of several hours we exchanged shots as fast as it was possible to do. Our infantry when they got into line, were like a "stonewall" and held their position from start to finish. In front of them the woods were dense with an undergrowth of bushes, except in the center where the men had no protection, save an old rail fence.

One thing kept us uneasy: we did not know how many we would have to contend with, as the report was that they had a large force; so we didn't know but that there might be ten thousand. But be it remembered that a large percent of our men were Greenbrier and Monroe county boys; and it was like men fighting for their homes; and they did fight like tigers, and every man of our forces acted the hero; hence any one arrogating for himself special heroism is an egotist and unworthy of credence.

The Federals tried to break on every section of our line. The fighting had been terrific for some time. The artillery contest extraordinary severe. The Federals surely had expert gunners.

The Federals seemed determined to drive our men from their position and it was told us that two companies on our extreme left was being driven back, when we saw Col. Derrick's Battalion coming in double quick from the White Sulphur. They had been in camp several miles below the White and had not gotten in yet. They were placed on our left to strengthen our force there and the writer has always believed that Derrick's Battalion saved the day for us.

It seemed that Averill then concentrated his forces and tried to drive back our extreme right. His troops advanced on our line with a strong force, but found the 45th Virginia Regiment there, and they were there to stay.

As already stated the ground in front of our men was covered with a thick growth of underbrush, and the enemy had to come very close before they could be seen; and this they did time after time, only to be repulsed by the 45th every time with much loss.

From the position of our Batter we could only tell what was going on by the noise. Our men said the Federals would come within twenty or thirty yards of them, and then there was a tremendous roar of musketry for a few minutes, which was always followed by the "rebel yell" by which we knew the results.

Early in the day several of our men, who were out on the skirmish line were captured, and perhaps Averill had learned from some of them our number of troops, and as his force outnumbered ours by about one thousand, according to the best information we could get, accounts for his being so bent on victory.

Just when the battle was raging the fiercest our ammunition was becoming exhausted, when Capt. Chapman told me to take two of our limbers and go to our caissons which were packed at a safe distance away for a supply. When I returned I found that Chapman had withdrawn his guns with his men to the rear some two hundred yards to where they could not be seen by the Federals. I never knew why he did that, unless it was for protection while they were not in action, and waiting for a supply of ammunition

We had several wounded men, one of them in a dying condition and craving water. I took a canteen and ran to the big spring that supplies the fish hatchery, and as I was returning across the fields, I saw that foolish cavalry charge take place that some of us have heard so much about. I saw the company being formed on the pike by fours and start with whoop down the road, with drawn sabers, coming in a loop, four in a breast. The lay of the land was such that I could not see our men, and the thought struck me that our men were retreating and gone and here I am looking right into the door of "Camp Chase." I didn't know that I could have run if I had tried to. I always dreaded being captured, but I soon got relief. Edgar's men had built a high fence across the pike in front of them, and the head of the column of Cavalry came right up to the fence, when Edgars men fired on them, with a tremendous volley which gave me instant relief, horses reared and fell and such a mix up I never saw before. The man that I escaped wheeled and went back like they were racing, several horses going without riders.

Major Rand says that Col. Patton and staff were on the hill in our rear and Patton exclaimed, "Glorious Hurrah for the gallant Edgar." I said something of the kind too, at the top of my voice, none but the Almighty heard me.

After this our battery moved back to where we first took our position and commenced target practice again and never moved again until the battle ended.

Our men captured one of the men that was in the cavalry charge, and the guard brought him up to us said to him: "Why did you make that fool charge?" He answered: "The General (meaning Averill, I suppose but he was not a General at that time) said to our Colonel, can't you take your men and go down there and take those fellows? I thought the whole regiment was coming but when I looked back I saw it was only one company."

We stayed by our guns all night and at daylight next morning the battle was renewed and kept up until about the middle of the afternoon but not so terrific as the first day was.

Before Averill began his retreat he evidently had his pioneer corps cutting great trees for hours so that as soon as his rear guard passed a few strokes with the axe would cause them to fall across the pike. We followed him with one gun and a company of cavalry, but could only go a short distance beyond his line of battle for the blockade.

When we left our position to pursue the Federals and crossed our line we found the pike almost blockaded with dead men and horses. One poor fellow, a Federal soldier, was only a few feet from the fence which was across the road, shot through the head and on his hat were these words "Orderly Sergeant, Co. A. 8th Va Cavalry." I counted nine more dead not far from this one.

On our pursuit, I saw a cannon by the roadside with the muzzle end all broken off. Next we came to a small cottage situated on the hillside below the road which had been used as the enemy's field hospital. The lower side of this cottage rested on posts, about six or seven feet high, and under the windows of same were great piles of amputated legs and arms, thrown out by the surgeons in their rapid work; some of them still had the shoes and boots on.

John Gardner, whose house was near the road some distance beyond the battle ground came out and told me that Capt. Ewing, Chief of Averill's Artillery, was there in the house wounded. I went in to see him and had a conversation with him. Rand says Ewing was a polished, educated man which was the opinion I formed of him. I said to Ewing; "I see we spoiled one of your guns." "Oh," he said, "the material was no account," He said to me: "You fellows did some good shooting down there, one of your shells killed and wounded seven of my company."

In counting up results we found that Major McKendree, our Quarter Master, had been captured; and that Capt. Ewing was wounded and left on our hands a prisoner, so Col. Patton resolved to use him to regain Major McKendree by an exchange and sent out two squads of Cavalry, each under flags of truce, to intercept Averill on his retreat, taking different roads. One of these squads missed but the other caught up with or met Averill and presented Col. Patton's proposition. Major Rand says Averill replied in the following brief note: "I would be more than pleased to accept your proposition but either fortunately or unfortunately your Major McKendree is absent without leave."

Rand seemed to think that Thurmond's Rangers, by some near cut through the mountains, attacked the guard and released McKendree; but that could not have been, for Thurmond's company was camped on New river at the time. Comrade Allen W. King, who was captured at Dry Creek, told the writer some years ago that it was through the influence of the "Masons" that Major McKendree made his escape. But be that as it may, Major McKendree was back with us in camp a few days after the battle. Subsequent to the battle of Dry Creek our command in the spring of 1864 joined General Lee's army on the compaign from Wilderness down to Richmond and participated in some of the severest engagements between Grant and Lee: notably, Second Cold Harbor, where it was said that more men fell in the same space of time than in any other battle of the war, and these same troops of ours returned by Lynchburg, Va., to engage in the battle of Lynchburg, which defeated Hunter and caused him to retreat with his army through Monroe and Greenbrier counties to the north west.

After this battle our command proceeded to the Valley of Virginia and were in all of the battles of the Valley campaign under General Early, which began with the battle of New Market and ended with the battle of Cedar Creek, which, in the opinion of the writer, has equal, if not superior to Jackson's Campaign in the Valley previous to 1861; yet the Dry Creek battle was surpassed by none of these battles in the fury of its fighting; and had it not been overshadowed by the actions of the main armies contending for Richmond, it would have been occupied a conspicuous page in the history of the Great War. Whereas it is now almost unmentioned, and unknown except to the limited few of us yet remaining this side the Great Divide who were active participants in the battle.

I could mention several incidents connected with the Dry Creek fight that might be interesting, but in order to avoid self-laudation will mention only one.

While we were on the march the day before the battle, some of the men heard me say (jokingly) that if we get into a fight I was going to capture a better horse as the one I had did not suit me. Just in the hottest of the artillery fire the shells were coming too close for comfort, when one passed so close to my left arm that the force of it nearly caused me to "about face" and think my arm was gone, but I found I still had two arms and went on with the game. Lieut. Rand, who was near me exclaimed: "I tell you that came near spoiling your chance for a horse." I answered: "A miss is as good as a mile."

I can not give the number of killed and wounded on either side, the Confederate loss was heavy for the number engaged, but the Federal loss seemed to be much more.

The writer had a brother-in-law wounded in the battle, which was the 26th of August, 1863, who lived till the 8th of November, 1865, and in all that time he never sat up and was never able to turn himself in bed. My sister (his wife) nursed him at the White Sulphur which was used for a hospital for both sides, for about four months before he was taken home, and then on till he died.

All the wonnded Federal soldiers that fell into our hands (which was quite a number) were nursed at the White until some time in November I think, the Federals came and took them all away except one old man named Dwyer, who was from Scranton, Pa. He died there soon afterwards.

When the surgeons and nurses heard the Federals were coming they all cut for the woods except sister and did not return for several days, she and a younger sister remained there with the Canfederate patients to care for them as best they could, but soon the medicine was out (morphine and whiskey) and the circumstances were distressing indeed. My sister (who is Mrs. George Alderson now) set out on a three or four mile journey on foot to find some whiskey for them; at length she says she came to a large orchard and from the family she got some brandy and apples; and when she returned it was dark. Now who will say that our mothers and sisters did not see hard times during that "Cruel War?"

And now this imperfect article to the best of my recellection is true. Altho these things occurred more than fifty years ago, they are so indelibly stamped upon my memory that time has not blotted them out.

My heart goes out in sympathy to every comrade who participated in the Dry Creek battle; and to those of our gallant foes, who contended so bravely and so desperately against us on that occasion, I would be glad to meet them and extend the hand of fellowship to them also.

With all of us who participated in the Dry Creek battle, the end is not far off. God grant that it may be well with us when we pass into the "Great Beyond."

Administrator's Notice

Persons indebted to the estate of John Z. Waggoner, deceased, will settle with the undersigned. Persons having claims against said estate will forward them properly proven for payment. Given under my hand this 6th day of February, 1923.

B. B. BEARD, S. P. C.
admr. of John Z. Waggoner,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Poultry Shippers

Washington's Birthday February 22, is a National Holiday, observed by Home-coming, week end parties and family [illegible]. The opportunity to clean up your flock at reasonable prices.

This being the last time to come before you in [illegible] season", we wiso to extend our sincere appreciation and gratitude for the splendid response of our Shippers. We are here every day in the year to serve the poultry GROWERS and SHIPPERS, and nothing short of what humans can do, [illegible].

The best market at your command [illegible].

Frank Hellerick & Co

"A poultry house every day in the year"

349 [illegible] Market St. 120 [illegible]

Philadelphia, Pa.

The Famous

IVERS & POND PIANO

Estey Pianos and Organs

For Particulars and Terms

H. C. EGLESON, Dealer

Piano Tuning CLOVERLICK, W. VA.

BACK AGAIN

I have returned from Florida, and my Tailor Shop is now open every day.

A fine big line of Spring & Summer Suitings.

Many thanks for past patronage, and earnest solicitation of your future orders.

W. A. THIEDE

MARLINTON - WEST VIRGINIA

HUNTERSVILLE DISTRICT SCHOOL DAY

PROGRAM

Grand march led by band, County Supt. of Schools, Members Board of Education and District schools according to district number.

Assembly Song—Star Spangled Banner. Flag Salute.

Address by County Superintendent of Schools.

Competitive Contests

Stunts (5 minutes)
Story play (for primary rooms)
Athletics: Baseball throw boys
Sixty yard dash, girls.
Song and Yell: Original school song followed by school yell.
Physical Education Drill (5 min)
Lesson 1 in Manual

Noon Intermission

Picnic dinner on grounds.

Community singing: West Virginia Hills; America; Hail West Virginia: Battle Hymn of the Republic.

Competitive Contest

Scholastic; Essay: Why I Should go to High School.
Spelling, Penmanship, Rapid Addition.
Posters: On Hot Lunch or Public School Day.
Athletics: 100 yard dash, boys.
Running broad jump, boys
Running high jump, boys
Running and catching, girls, page 100 in Manual.
Rhythmic play, Primary rooms
Three legged race, boys
Potato race, girls
Mass Drills, all schools
District yell: Announcement of winners.

Information

Grand March, scored on appearance First place 50; second 30: third place, 20; all others 10.

Stunts: Limited to five minutes—original and may be humorous; First place 50; second place 30: third place 20; all others 10.

Study play, (primary rooms) use any of the plays suggested in the Manual of Physical Education—pages 17 to 30.

First place 30; second place 12; third place 8, all others 4

Song and Yell: Use original school song if you have one and follow with your school yell.

First place 20; second 12; third 8; all others 4.

Physical Education will last five minutes. Use lesson 1 in Physical Education Manual.

First place 20; second 12; third 8; all others 4.

Essay. Why I should go to High School: Open to seventh and eighth grades. About five hundred words; each teacher to conduct contest in own school and send three best to the district chairman not later than March 25.

Spelling: Drill on common misspelled words in adopted text.

Penmanship: Practice muscular movement and sitting in correct position.

Rapid addition; Drill on speed and accuracy.

Posters, Subject: Hot Lunch or Public School Dey.

All Scholastic contests, each First place 50; second 30; third 20; all others 10.

Baseball throw, standard distance Sixty yard dash (girls) see page 99 in Manual. Standing start 100 yard dash (boys) crouching start. Running broad jump, three trials. Running high jump 30 yard run. See page 100 in Manual.

Running and catching see page 104 in Physical Education Manual.

Rhythmic play, use any play suggested in Manual pages 31 to 53

Three legged race (boys) requires team of two.

Potato race (girls) see Physical Manual page 102.

All Athletic Contests each, First place 10; second 6: third 4; all others 2

Rhythmic play awards. First place 50; second place 30; third place 20, all others 10.

Attendance at Public School Day, based on percent of enrollment, First place 10; second 6; third place 4 all others 2. For each patron present one point

All pupils attending the elementary schools shall take part in the individual contest and group competitions except those who have received their Elementary School Diploma before 1922. Each school is entitled to one contestant for each event except where a team of two is required.

Have a banner for your school in the grand march. Have pupils dress uniformly—girls in white middies and dark skirts or bloomers, boys in white blouses and dark trousers, or girls in sun bonnets and aprons and boys in overalls.

Practice marching in couples. Practice singing songs suggested. Send a list of your contestants for each event to the secretary at least ten days previous to the final program. Use initiative and originality.

E. Ernest White, Chairman,
Miss Enid Harper, Secretary.
Huntersville, W. Va.

HUNTERSVILLE

We are having pretty weather with plenty of wind

Mrs. J. H. Doyle coetinues ill.

J. C. Loury is better at this writing.

Walker Yeager of Marlinton spent Sunday with his brother Dr. J. M. Yeager.

Willie Thomas who had his leg broken is slowly improving

Aron Thomas and Clarence Jordan are working for Williams & Piffes.

Tom Yeager spent Sunday with his parents here.

Dr. J. M. Yeager is kept busy as their is lots of sickness in the community.

Rev. O. P. McNeil spent Sunday with his family here.

Mrs. Fred B. Moore has been sick the past week.

Moody Moore was seen on our street Sunday.

Hubert Bussard little son of Rodney Bussard is ill with pneumonia.

Given Turner is sick at this writing.

Look Farmers

Twice as much potash in Little Giant Crop Growers as formerly used. See your V-C dealer before buying.

We handle Grit, Oyster Shells, Charcoal, Chick Food, Etc.

Marlinton Poultry Yard
Marlinton, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL' XLI NO 31. MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, MARCH 15. 1923 $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

POCAHONTAS SCHOOLS

BY G. D. MCNEILL, IN THE PROGRESSIVE TEACHER.

The Editor asks that I write briefly of what he terms the "unusual progress" recently made by the schools of Pocahontas County While I should be glad to appropriate all the honor attached to any progress made, honesty forces me to admit that a conspiracy of circumstances has enabled me to reap fields by others sown. The work accomplished by the very efficient superintendent who preceded me, the hearty co-operation of district boards of education, a sturdy and progressive people, and, above all else, a corps of loyal and energetic teachers are responsible for Pocahontas breaking into print.

Four years ago, when the writer was chosen superintendent of Pocahontas County Schools, a brief survey revealed a number of major problems. One of these concerned the high school situation. The High School Movement, sweeping West Virginia, had resulted in the erection of three costly high school buildings, designed to accommodate hundreds of students, but these schools were regarded as for town-folk and the rural communities refused to patronize them. The three schools, supposed to draw from nine hundred square miles of country, enrolled less than 150 pupils, and seventy per cent of these were from town schools. The graduates from the elementary schools in rural communities must be brought to high school. The actual attendance in the elementary schools was little more than half the enumeration. The attendance in the elementary schools must be increased.

The consolidation Movement already begun was far from a satisfactory finish.

According to the requirements prescribed by the State Department of Schools, the county did not contain a single Standard School Building. Something must be done in the direction of Standardization.

The public did not give the schools enthusiastic support, because the mass of the people knew little of what the schools were attempting to do. A more general knowledge of the educational situation was needed. The public must be induced to give attention to the schools.

And finally, few of the one hundred seventy teachers had professional training, and most of them showed little inclination to strive for this training. Furthermore, these teachers were scattered along a hundred mile stretch of mountainous country over an area about three-fourths that of Rhode Island. There were no district supervisors, nor was it possible to provide funds with which to employ district supervisors. For a county superintendent, with his many duties to attempt a school to-school supervision under such circumstances was clearly a waste of time. Here then, arose the great problem the problem upon which the other problems depended. Since supervision was impossible, efficient teaching must be had without supervision. The personnel of the teaching force must be improved, and teachers must regard themselves as real folk rather than as drudges. The initial step toward teacher improvement was rather militant. The County Institute was organized as a permanent Teacher's Association, and a county-wide educational campaign was inaugurated Faculty members from some of the state normal schools volunteered their services; local ministers, lawyers, merchants, editors, teachers, farmers and bankers went from community to community, and engaged actively in the campaign, the speakers paying their own expenses.

The aim was to hold at least one of these meetings within reach of each patron. Better teachers, better salaries, and State-Aid were emphasized. Hundreds of patrons and taxpayers attended the meetings, and when the next legislature convened petitions, containing thousands of names, were presented, demanding the enactment of more progressive school laws. Meanwhile, the agitation for new school laws was statewide, and the legislature enacted the desired laws.

With State-Aid and increased salaries, the elimination of the undesirable teacher began It was made clear that teachers who could not teach, and teachers who would not do their best, were undesirable and a permanent menace to the well being of the deserving teachers. The idea that "God helps those who help themselves" was emphasized. In all teacher's meetings it was made clear as possible that the teachers must make good; and that they, more than all other factors combined, were responsible for the well-being of themselves and their country The result of this effort was satisfactory. In 1919, five per cent of the county teachers attended summer schools. In 1922, sixty per cent attended summer schools, and at present a score or more are doing extension work with accredited colleges. A few worthless teachers remain, but they are seeking other employment They understand that they must do real teaching or abandon the profession. Ninety per cent of the teachers are conscientious workers, and most of them have some professional training. They are striving to improve their teaching ability and the educational standing of the county

And, though a platitud, it is in this spirit of service and loyalty that the great secret of successful work in education lies. The school official, the educational system, or the people, striving for educational achievement, without first enlisting a loyal group of energetic teachers, will not go far. With such a corps of teachers, few achievements are impossible

When the support of an energetic teaching force was secured, the remaining problems became less formidable

Any educational enterprise that is worth while will receive support from the public, provided the public knows that the enterprise is worth while.

A campaign of this "fact advertising" was undertaken in order to increase high school attendance. A column of "School News" was carried by the county paper; grade teachers were expected to see to it that their graduates entered high school meetings were held in schools having, eighth-grade classes, and these pupils were encouraged to enter high school and graduates from the elementary schools were assembled along with their parents at the high schools, where appropriate exercises were held and diplomas presented. On such occasions, the teachers and students of the high schools entertained the graduates and patrons. Prospective graduates and patrons were shown about he buildings and were made to see that the high school had something to offer. In order to make a more direct appeal to the agricultural districts, vocational agriculture courses of study, under the supervision of Smith-Hughes teachers, were established in the high schools and with the assistance of the county agent and farm bureau, 4-H Clubs were organized throughout the county. The procedure outlined filled the high-schools to overflowing within two years. The problem now is how to get funds with which to erect additional high school buildings In order to provide accommodations for the students, two junior "highs" have been established, and the regular high school buildings are being enlarged as rapidly as funds permit. And as a direct result of this higher-education movement, the county has within the last two years sent more of her young people to college than were sent in the fifty years preceding.

The problem of attendance in the elementary schools has not been solved so completely. Without any increase in the number of children enumerated, the attendance in the elementary schools has increased twenty per cent since 1920, but we still have failed to reach about one-fifth of our Children, and these, as a rule, are the children of poor parents children, who, above all others, should have an education. The increase noted in the percentage of attendance is due largely to the efforts of the teachers They are expected to do everything possible to get the children to school and to keep them there. Attendance officers are required to give patrons a fair deal, but, when it becomes apparent that a patron is trying to evade the law, he is prosecuted. Care is taken in the selection of attendance officers He must be very firm and very diplomatic He should at least, have such qualifications as would render him fit for satisfactory service as Minister to Turkey at the present time.

Consolidation is not always feasible in a mountain country where the roads are bad and the snows deep. However, we have a number of consolidated schools In almost every instance, these schools have better attendance and better morale than the one-room schools.

The progress along the line of standardization was practically forced by a recent law by which a bonus is given to such schools. Though the local boards of education are not compelled to standardize any schools, it is evident that postponement of such improvements only augments the burdens of the future. After going over the various phases of the bonus provision, the school authorities determined that all new buildings must be standardized, and that the best of the existing buildings must be remodeled and made standard just as rapidly as funds become available. Pursuant to this policy, six consolidated elementary schools, totaling thirty-seven rooms have been standardized within the present year, others are undergoing repair, while one new, eight-room standard building is nearing completion In all these standardization projects, an effort was made to secure the co operation of the patrons. A good building is a great asset, but the fact that the patrons have an interest in the building is a greater asset In a few instances, some people in the very community in which the building was located opposed Standardization, but usually the patrons were willing to co-operate. In one instance the Womens Club donated playground equipment valued at three hundred dollars, This attempt at providing proper school buildings has demonstrated conclusively that, without great natural resources, it is impossible for a sparsely settled county to finance an adequate building program.

Because most children in the rural districts bring cold lunches to school, a Hot Lunch Campaign was put on. The teachers met in district institutes and the State Department of Schools furnished expert demonstrators of the Hot Lunch Idea Following this a number of teachers arranged to provide hot lunches in their schools. By way of incentive for those to follow, a Hot Lunch Honor Roll is carried in the county newspaper.

Manuals of Physical Education are furnished by the State Department of Schools. These manuals were distributed and their use demonstrated at the county institute About sixty per cent of the schools now give some attention to physical education, and it is hoped to make this one hundred per cent before the close of the year. Along with physical education came the "talking machine." Many schools have arranged to purchase phonographs so as to better give Camp's "Daily Dozen."

Three years of supervision has revealed another situation not listed as an initial problem. Results obtained in the various schools were observed to be distressingly unequal. Some communities have splendid school spirit, while other communities give no attention to education; some teachers are progressive, while others are "non pep"; the students in some schools are active, alert, and quick minded, while students in other schools are partial to mental and physical calm.

As the initial step it is planned to bring all the schools together about the close of the year, in a District School Day The State Department is sponsoring this project and has rendered valuable assistance in the preparation of the program. Every effort will be made to bring the "grown ups" to this School Day. Pupils from the elementary schools will engage in intellectual and physical contests while, as usual, the high schools act as hosts. This comparsion of pupil, school with school, and community with community is expected to result in improvement where improvement is most needed We shall see.

CIRCUIT COURT

Chancery Orders

R. C. Miller vs W. O. Simmons and others, sale confirmed to W. M. Simmons

H. H. Bostic and others v Harry Bostic and others, disbursements of funds.

L. M. McClintic appointed Divorce Commissioner in the stead of W. A. Bratton, resigned.

Financial report of Uriah Bird, commissioner of school lands filed.

D. C. Adkison, guardian v Jacob Frank Moore, settled.

Andrew Price, trustee v I. Rosen and others, decree of sale

Report of Uriah Bird, School commissioner, of lands liable to be sold for benefit of school purposes.

C. J. Richardson, F. M, Sydnor, Uriah Bird, G. F. Crummett. N. C. McNeill, W. A. Eskridge, John Waugh W. J. Yeager, and A. E. Smith appointed trustees of Marlinton Methodist Church.

State v 345 1 2 acres of John T. McGraw. F. P. Marshall allowed to redeem.

State v 197 acres of Deer Creek land, Deer Creek Lumber Company allowed to redeem.

State v Nettingham land, school commissioner directed to institute suit to sell

State v Nellie Simmons, land redeemed.

Law Orders

Grand Jurors: Auburn Friel, Frank R. Hunter. E. N. Moore, H. H. Waugh, W. J. Hebb, R. C. May, Fred Gwinn, Coe Beverage, Walter Grimes, H. W. Harper, E. H. Adkison, Henry Shinaberry, W. W. Kennison, Garfield Grimes, A. J. Sharp, Howard Buzzard.

State v Arlie Simmons, guilty, paroled.

Grandjury finished its labors Thursday morning. For felonies there were 10 indictments returned, and 30 indictments for misdemeanor.

State v John Hatfield, $300 fine and two years in the penitentiary.

State v Joe Arbogast, guilty, $50 and three months in jail.

State v William Casteel, indictment dismissed, defendant dead.

Rule entered against Axel Lantz, and D W McCarty for non appearance befor grand jury.

Regular April term convenes on April 3rd.

ANOTHER DESIRE TO COOPERATE

Dear Editear I wish to say that I hartily coinside with X which is trying to cooperate with the Pill Point Corresponder about these things and matters of Educashion how tru it is that we nead our Sons & Daughters in the hot seizens of the year when there is both diggin and hoing to be done. & now they cant get no solid lerning anyhow. When I went to School as doubtless did X likewise to 4 Mo school and hard benches we lernt more actuall Speling & Gramar & like sich than all these newfangling fellers does (and Thirdly) let me say again that I coinside and cooperate in these matters. No wunder their is Tuberiocus raging abroad and up and down this great land of ours when the School Winders is raised from the top and cold air all the time poring in and dissimilating around over the scholars insted of having the winders shut and and being more economistical of the wood we Taxpairs is previding. Lets have 4mo school on the solid foundashun of good figgering, good Speling, good Gramer & Harvays Old arethmetick. yours for good Schools& more closer cooperashin XX.

Judge C. R. Mathews, late of Helena, Nebraska. passed away at the home of Capt. J W. Mathews, at 8 o'clock a m March 8, 1923, aged 85 years, 11 months and 27 days. He was an invalid the last few years of his life and a great sufferer with catarrh of the throat and stomach. He was a Pocahontas boy—born at Cloverlick, and so was his brother, Capt. J. W. Mathews. M.

Noel Wheeler cut his knee badly with an axe, while working on the Flynn job in Bath County. He is at his fathers home near Marlinton,

The four-year old daughter, of McKinley Waugh is sick of bronchal pneumonia.

GOES TO PEN

John Hatfield confessed to the crime of moonshining and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of $300, by Judge Sharp at a special term of the Circuit Court last week. Hatfield is a man of middle age, who came here from Virginia about a year ago.

William Alexander Varner died at his home on Elk, March 9, 1923, after a short illness of pneumonia. For some years his health has not been the best. He was 73 years old, having been born December 27, 1849 Burial at the Varner graveyard on Sunday morning, the services being conducted by his pastor, Rev O N Miles of the Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Varner was one of the best citizens of Pocahontas county, and a man widely known and respected. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Gibson Varner, and their two children. Mrs. Charles G. McGuire and Harry Varner. He was a son of the late John Varner and his wife, Mrs. Isabel Hannah Varner.

John Paul Simmons, a Marlinton school boy, has rigged himself up a wireless telephone outfit that works to perfection. He started on it last summer and after months of tireless experiment, he is now able to pick up messages from the four corners of the country. Each night the air is full of radio concerts, speeches, sermons and whatnot. If you don't like the Pittsburgh program, turn the thing mabob, and you are receiving from another station. These home made outfits are inexpensive and any bright boy can rig one up.

Fine lots of brook trout were put in Stony and Swago Creeks last week by the State Game Commission. Shipments are expected for Williams River, Elk, Cheat and the head of Greenbrier. The Commission expects to plant a million or more trout in the streams of the state, and the fine trout streams of the county will get their proportionate part. These trout are hatched for the Commission at the Government hatchery at White Sulphur Springs.

Dogs have been making raids on the sheep of the farmers nearby to Marlinton. A number of sheep have been killed, and at least three dogs have come up missing. So pestiverous have the dogs become that a number of farmers have warned their neighbors to keep their dogs tied as dogs running loose without people with them will be killed at sight.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

9:45 a. m. Sunday School.
11 00 a m. Morning Worship
2 p m. Every Member Canvass
7 00 p m. Christian Endeavor
7 30 p m. Preaching.

Next Sunday afternoon is the time for the Every Member Canvass.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. Fred B. Wyand, Pastor
Sunday School 9:45 a. m.
A. S. Overholt, Supt.
11 o'clock, Morning Worship;
Sermon subject: "What is the Matter With the Church Members of Today."
7 00 p m. Epworth League.
7 45 p m. evening service.

The Overcomers Class, taught by Mrs Wyand, will have a home made candy sale on Saturday March 17 at 2:30 p. m. at C. J. Richardson's store

WESLEY CHAPEL M. E. SOUTH

Hillsboro, West Virginia
W. Clark Early, Pastor.

9:45 a m, Sunday School
11 00 a m Country Life-Conference, Union service at Seebert, by Rev A. H. Rapking.
2 00 p m. Union Service, State Commissioner Brown and others
7 30 p m. Conference Union Service, "by Rev. A. H. Rapking.

On account of the conflict with the Country Life Conference the adjourned session of the fourth quarterly conference of the Hillsboro charge has been postponed again till 2 p. m Saturday March 24.

"THE FOUR HORSEMEN" SMASHES ALL RECORDS

The long-awaited Rex Ingram production of "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" is coming to the Amusu Theatre beginning April 5th. This is the picture that cost Metro $1 000.000 to make, and from all accounts the $1,000,000 was well spent as critics agree that all other efforts at production on a grand scale have been surpassed and record runs have been made in New York, Chicago, Boston, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Los Angeles and other cities where the picture has been previously shown.

Fifty principals and 2,500 extras were engaged in the filming of the photodrama, an entire French village and an elaborate chauteau were erected to be destroyed under artillery bombardment.

The appeal of the story itself has already been proved through the success of the novel by Vicente Blasco Ibanez, upon which the photodrama is founded

The cast includes Rodolph Valentino and Alice Terry. The scenario was written by June Mathis, John Seitz was responsible for the photography and the technical directors were Amos Myers and Joseph Calder. Walter Mayo was assistant to Rex Ingram

EDUCATIONAL NOTES

BY G. D. MCNEILL, CO. SUPT.

It is learned with mingled pleasure and apprehension that House Bill 223 is to be amended. John is welcome to any aid I gave in the way of calling his attention to the fifty thousand dollar "ambiguity." The fact appears to be that John is not wholly responsible for the business. He secured the services of a part time secretary, and this unidentified Boswell, desiring to avoid deep thought, copied an antiquated statute, some parts of which had long since been repealed by more modern school laws. This foreign matter, while giving portliness and rotundity to the bill, imparted a disconcerting twist after the fashion of a boomerang. The nature of the amendment is not known. Its effect will depend upon where it was secured. If it was taken from Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, all may yet be well, but if another cross section was taken from some code of laws, the last agony may be worse than the first.

All persons having claims against the Boards of Education should present them. It is very necessary that a close check be kept on the school funds so that proper data may be submitted in making application for more State Aid. A large account held up until the last of the year might find the fund exhausted.

Measles, diphtheria, and flu are prevalent, and have seriously affected the school attendance. Several schools have been closed by the health or school authorities. It is the law that the teacher receives pay for time lost in this way. Unless the situation clearly requires the closing of the school, it should not be closed. It is not proper to close a school just because that might be a bit more convenient.

The Echols Construction company was awarded a Class A road contract in Boone county last week by the State Road Commission.

The roads in March are just a little worse than usual, owing to heavy frosts and rains.

The revival meeting at Campbelltown closed Tuesday night.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Miss Helen Hebb was operated on for appendicitis and is doing nicely.

Truman Mace is at the Institution for treatment.

Deibert Gabbert, who was so desperately ill, is recovering.

Oliver Adkins has recovered from pneumonia and is soon to return home.

Miss Virginia Hickman was a guest at the Institution last week.

Horace Lockridge was in a few day with a very bad cold.

Mrs. Floyd Brill attended the meeting at Campbelltown two nights last week

Waugh Brothers are moving in their roadmaking outfit preparing to go to work on the Price Hill Class A road. They expect to complete the contract in four months.

WEEKLY PROGRAM

AMUSU THEATRE

WED. and THURSDAY—
Enid Bennett in "Her Husband's Friend," and Selznick News.

FRIDAY—
Pearl White in "Broadway Peacock," and Buffalo Bill chapter play. See Sitting Bull and his Sioux warrriors prepare for battle See Confederate outriders near Fort Kearney.

SATURDAY—
Colleen Moore in "Come on Over" and Larry Seamon in "The Suitor."

MONDAY and TUESDAY—
Colleen Moore in "The Wall Flower."

Watch for the following big attractinns—
"Dangerous Curve Ahead"
"The Storm"
"Four Horsemen"
"In the Name of the Law"—this picture running in Charleston this week."
"The Ninety and Nine."
"Nanook of the North."

What Do You Pay For Flour?

Are you buying it at the best possible price?

If you are not, do you think you are treating yourself right? We are headquarters for flour and feeds of all kinds.

Spring Wheat Flour
Kansas Hard Wheat Flour
Soft Winter Wheat Flour
Straight Grade Flour and Self Rising Flour

You will do well to investigate our prices and quality

Peoples Store & Supply Co.
MARLINTON, W. VA.

—FORCED—

Out of Business Sale

The store building we now occupy is being advertised for sale on April 3 by order of the court. This necessitates our selling off all goods on our shelves and the goods we recently bought, which are arriving daily. When we bought our spring stock we did not anticipate that the building would go to sale before June court, and of a conseqnence we ordered much more heavily than we otherwise would have done. We are

All Stocked Up and No Where to Go

Our goods must be put in the hands of the public, and to insure their prompt delivery we have cut prices unmercifully in this

Forced Out Of Business Sale

Dry Goods, Clothing, Shoes, Hats, Millinery—new stock and fine goods. Come in and get your choice of unusual bargains. Our loss is your gain.

GEO. ROSEN

Opposite Postoffice Marlinton, W. Va.

P. S.—Those to whom we have extended credit will please settle their accounts prompt.

DRINK
Sassafras Tea

It is delicious and refreshing and a good spring tonic and blood purifier. Selected Sassafras Bark, packed by

GREER, GREER & GREER

FOR SALE BY YOUR DRUGGISTS
OR GROCER

You owe yourself a new Stetson

WINTER plays hobb with a man's hat—it's the season when there is a call, to heavy duty for every headpiece. No doubt your hat has served you well, but it's dress-up time now—the time to brighten up with a Stetson—styled for young men.

The hat you want is here, just waiting for you to select it.

The Value Store
A. S. Overholt & Son

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XLI NO 32. MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, MARCH 22, 1923 $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

HILLSBORO'S NUMBER

The Country Life Conference held at Hillsboro last Friday, Saturday and Sunday under the auspices of the extension Department and various local organizations was a great success from every standpoint. The attendance was good, the interest intense, and the future will tell of the real things for the improvement of the community which were set in motion.

Implements for measuring various things are very common in every day life. For example, we have the yard stick, the bushel basket, and the score cards for different classes of livestock, as well as agricultural and household products.

However, we did not have a way for measuring the whole community until 1917, when Director Frame of the Extension Department worked out the Community Score Card.

The score card takes into consideration all the institutions and factors that help to make up a community: namely, community spirit, citizenship, recreation, health, homes, schools' churches, business and farms. Under these various headings are grouped the many factors to be considered in the measuring of a community.

The ideal rural community would receive 1000 points on the basis of the score card. However, such a community does not exist, and is not taken into consideration in scoring. Rather, the community is rated on a comparison of conditions existing in that community and other communities in West Virginia that have been scored.

The yard stick was applied to the Hillsboro community on the 16th, 17th and 18th of March, during the course of the country life conference.

Hillsboro made a total of 748 points —a very creditable number when we take into consideration that out of the 78 communities that have been scored, Hillsboro ranks second. Berlin, the only community that has scored higher than Hillsboro, made 752 points. This community is now the highest scoring community in the state with 798 points. Hillsboro now ranks high with the various communities that have been scored, and with some local effort this community should rank first in the State.

The Hillsbero schools ranked high, but the score was very low on farms. The farmers in this community are falling behind in cooperative endeavors, such as the purchase of supplies and the marketing of farm products. Other communities in West Virginia far excel Hillsboro in these endeavors. A spirit of united action must prevail before the score can be raised to any extent on farms. Practically nothing is being done to eliminate 90 percent of the leakage in livestock diseases and loss in weight resulting from the attacks of lice on livestock.

Rev. A. H Rapking, of Buckhannon preached a continued sermon during the course of the meetings on "Building the Kingdom."

Miss Minnie Wallace wrote a very creditable history of the Hillsboro community.

Dr. H. W. McNeel was chosen chairman of the community council, composed of representatives of all the various organizations of the community.

A ten year program was adopted at the meeting held Sunday night. Fully three hundred people assembled voted unanimously to support the council in carrying out the program as outlined, namely,

1 Community Building

2. To increase the Sunday School attendance to 75 percent of the population.

3. Better co-operation among farmers.

4. Beautifying the Home Grounds.

5. To work out a plan to include adjacent communities.

Dr. McNeel will call a meeting in the course of the next two weeks, so that the council can consider ways and means for working out the program.

Are you a community builder or are you just merely living in your community?

With the advent of good roads, Pocahontas county will be visited by many tourists. What sort of an impression will these people form of the county?

The challenge is thrown out to all of us to clean up our premises, remove old eye sores and rubbish and to make Pocahontas county a spot of beauty.

Let us have more home conveniences such as lighting systems, pitcher pumps, etc. As Mr. Rapking says there will still be enough left to tax our religion.

Do something for the community, in which you live. Think in terms bigger than yourself; namely in terms of communities.

Individuals benefit in proportion to the way that the community prospers. That is why one takes so much care in choosing the community that that they are to live in.

Let's boost Pocahontas county by making it a beautiful place to live.

A similar conference will be held at Greenbank on May 18, 19 and 20, and it is hoped that one can be arranged for Edray at later date.

MARNE VETERANS IN MARNE SCENES

Mobilization of the biggest army ever organized for motion picture purposes took place in Hollywood, Cal., for Metro's colossal Rex Ingram production of the "Four Horsemen of the Apocalipse," by Vicente Blasco Ibanez, coming to Amusu Theatre. This army differed from others that have been used in mimic battles for the screen in that every officer and private enlisted in it saw service over seas.

"We were enabled to put on a more authentic reproduction of the second battle of the Marne than ever before has been attempted in battle pictures," said Director Ingram. "Some of the men participated in the battle that proved the turning point of the war."

June Mathis, who prepared the picture version of Ibanez's sensational book, made repeated visits to the Metro ranch outside of Los Angeles, where a French village was reproduced as a background for the battle scenes.

P. S. Scott was struck by a large rock rolling down the hillside while driving team at the Marlin Lumber Co. Camp on Tuesday He was struck on the calf of the leg, the muscles being severely torn and bruised.

People wonder why mothers weep at weddings. Mothers have been over the road See Dangerous Curve Ahead.

CASH YOUR VICTORY BONDS

Frank R. Hunter, Vice President of the Bank of Marlinton, called our attention to the fact that there are still many outstanding Victory Loan Bonds, which were due in December, and are now drawing no interest. These bonds are lettered A, B, C, D, E and F. They are doing the owners no good, and the government is anxious to pay them off.

In addition, Victory Loan Bonds lettered G, H, I, J, K and L will be due May 20 and can now be cashed in at face value and accrued interest. These too should be turned in to the bank at once so there would be no delay in the owners getting their money.

The point this writer wants to get over is for the holders of Victory Bonds of December to get them into the bank at once as they have accumulated no interest Also to get the Victory Bonds of May into the bank now so the owners can receive their money and interest on or shortly after May 20.

A good thing to remember is that government bonds draw no interest after the date marked on them for payment.

I desire to express my opinion in regard to legislation for a six months school term. It is true that a child who is not strong overstudies even during a few weeks at school, especially if he is extraordinarily quick to learn. But the health laws which ever rule the school have provided that when the child is out of condition for study he is permitted or even compelled to remain at home and recuperate. The principal reason for most farmers wanting a short term is a selfish one. They wish their children to remain at home to assist in labor and bear burdens beyond their age and strength. This labor breaks down many children and often cripples them mentally for an overworked body scarcely ever has a quick mind. The school on the contrary helps those whom nature has not endowed with a strong constitution to be able to succeed in life without hard physical labor. The child who is injured by study is one who has heart or other weakness directly acting on the nerves which would wholly unfit him for hard work. Look at the widows toiling over the washtub to support their families when a little more education would have fitted them for lighter work with more renumeration. Think of the fathers who put their motherless babes in homes to be cared for without the tender companionship of a parent. With a little more schooling these fathers could have filled better positions and kept a home and their children in it. But look all around and see that most if not all of those who favor the short term are tobacco users. many of them slaves to it and if they would quit this habit they could pay their small share of the school taxation without getting peevish. In a short time they smoke or chew many times their share of such taxation. The filthy habit is slowly destroying their bodies and injuring them mentally and will harm their boys and girls more than all the overstudy they will ever accomplish. The sweet young daughter asks, "Papa, will you buy me a Victrola for Xmas?" "My dear," the fond parent replies, "I am sorry but I have not the money." Yes. did he think of it that he chewed up the price of that victrola, a grand piano, an automobile and many other things in the years he has been addicted to the habit. Another says he cannot own a home Well I should say not for that house went up in tobacco smoke long ago. Another complains that wife has such poor management he is not able to get out of debt. Well brother, clear away the smoke and you can see your way out. Now if you will throw away tobacco and buy good books for the children and read them yourself education in West Virginia will be advanced fifty percent, and you will be able to hire the help you need and your wife will not be obliged to cut wood while you loaf at the store complaining of the high taxation since women are allowed to vote. To return to the subject—let us have the long school term.

A. B.

A letter from Dr. Mary Fleming, medical missionary, stationed at Gunter, India, states that she was bitten by a mad dog the last day of September. She was in a Pasteur Institute for a month and was another month getting well. During Christmas week she was camped by the ocean side, and she had a delightful time. In speaking of the native fishermen, she says her party were "much interested in watching the fishing nets brought in every day The boats were about the same size as those must have been in which Jesus sat and spake to the people. The fisher folks were about as curious about us as I was about them. Sometimes I would try to walk around one of them, and he or she at the same time would be trying to walk around me. They were quite friendly after they found that we knew enough not to step over the net as it was being pulled in and coiled. For us to do so would have resulted in an empty net, they thought."

One of our exchanges published his farm news notes under the heading "In Realms of Rest". It is understood he is having a time explaining that he meant no harm when he did it. It is one of those things that will happen in printing offices some times.

PRUNING FRUIT TREES

1. Remove dead broken and diseased branches, If the removal of a large limb would expose the south side of trunk or main limbs, leave the limb until new branches can be developed to shade thes if possible to prevent sun scald.

2. Remove water sprouts. Sometimes water sprouts may be retained to advantage when it is desilable to replace an injured or dead branch.

3. Remove crossing or rubbing branches.

4. Remove small braches at the center of the tree where sunlight can nut penetrate to color the fruit.

6. Remove branches that touch the ground. It is not desirable to remove all the lower limbs of a tree, but where the branches touch the ground without being weighted down byfruit, they should be removed. The fruit on these lower limbs is seldom first class and the brrnches interfere with proper cultivation. The cuts should be carefully made if they are to heal over. Several different experimects in pruning have proved that the time has little to do with rapidity of healing but that the important factor is the method of making the cut. First of all the cut should be smooth. Few people are expert enough with the axe to warrant using this tool except for dead trees. In moving a limb the cut should be parallel to the latter. If a stub is leaf the chances are that wound will not heal over and that wood will rot down into the trunk of the tree, fill up with water and help kill the tree. If it is impossible to to cut up close with a saw and the limb must come out, use a chisel and mallet to finish the job. Wounds an inch or more in diameter should be painted over to exclude diseases and moisture while the wound is healing. White lead mixed with linseed oil will serve the purpose admirably. However, it has a tendency to peel off, so the application should be repeated when that occurs.

Kill the Worms but Spare the Bees

Spraying with Led Arsenate, will control the worms which enter the apple but it will also kill the bees if the trees are sprayed when in full bloom. I would suggest that the proper time to apply the spray for the control of worms is immediately after the petals have fallen, at that time there is no danger of killing the bees as they do not look for nectar in dried up flowers. On the other hand this is the best time to apply the spray because there are no petals to interfere with the spray material reaching the Calyx Cups of the flowers. Later on when the worms try to enter the blossom end of the apple about 85 per cent of the worms enter the apples in this way a dose of poison is there to prevent it. From six to ten days after the petals have fallen the Colyx lobes close, making it impossible from then on to force spray materials effectively into the Calyx Cw[illegible]

It is desirable to apply lime sulphur together with lead arsenate at this time. The lime sulphur greatly reduced the amount of scab which attacks both the apple and the leaves Lead arsenate is used at the rate of 2 to 2 1-2 pounds to 50 gallons of water or 3 table spoonful to a galions of water. In this same water lime-sulphur is used at the rate of 1-1 2 to 50 of water if liquid lime sulphur is used or if the dry form is used 4 to 5 pounds

Cherries and plums are spayed with the same materials immediately after the husks have fallen from the young fruit. This means to spray thoroughly covering all fruit and foliage —By B. S. Davis, Expert Horticulturist, State Depart Agriculture, Charleston, W. Va.

CLARENCE

Comedy in four acts by Booth Tarkington.

Will be presented by the Students of Edray District High School, Friday and Saturday nights, March 30th and 31st. at eight o'clock, in the High School Auditorium.

Clarence has no medals, no shoulder bars, no great accomplishments. One of the "five million" he served where he was sent though it was no further than Texas. As an entomologist he found, on this side of the ocean, no field for his speciality in the great war, so they set him to driving mules.

Now reduced to civil life and seeking a job, he finds a position in the home of one, Wheeler, a wealthy Englewood man with a family, and because he's "been in the army" he becomes guide, philosopher and friend to the members of that same agitated family group. Clarence's position is an anomolous one He mends the bath room plumbing, he tunes the piano, he types off stage he plays the saxophone; and around him revolves such a group of characters as only Booth Tarkington could offer. It is a real American comedy; and the audience ripples with appreciative and delightful laughter.

Those marvelous young people, Cora and Bobby Wheeler, are portrait sketches warranted to appeal to every one but the originals. Their truth will be lost on the "Flapper" and the "prep" school youth, but to their parents and guardians, to all indeed, who have emerged from the serious, self conscious period of adolescence, they will be an enduring joy.

"Clarence" is a real delight. It is as American as "Huckleberry Finn" or pumpkin pie. It is as delightful as any native comedy which has tried to lure the laughter of this country in the last five seasons.

Born, to Mr and Mrs Seebert Wilfong, at August, Monday, March 19, 1923, a son.

WEATHER FORECAST: Watch out for "The Storm".

PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE

A meeting was held at the High School on Monday night for the purpose of considering ways and means of procuring the services of a competent public health nurse who will devote her time during the next school year to making physical examinations of the school children of Pocahontas County, and then to follow up this work by whatever is possible to do towards having corrections made where defects are found.

Those attending the meeting were Mrs F. R. Hunter, Mrs E. M. Richardson, Hubert Echols, J. L Baxter, Dr. C. S. Kramer, F. M. Sydnor, Rev. H. H. Orr, G. D. McNeill, Prof C. J. Ramsey, H. C. C. Willey, Dr. N. R. Price and Calvin W. Price.

Mrs F. H. Willison, of Columbus, Ohio, with the American Red Cross, was present and spoke on what the public health nurses were doing in the schools of various counties of the State in finding and having corrected defective vision, bad teeth, trouble of the throat, nose and ear and other things which are making the lives of so many little helpless children miserable.

It is proposed to secure a competent nurse who will devote her time to the school children of the county during the next school term. The cost will be not less than $2500, for it will do little good to point out that certain children need attention, and not follow the matter up and see that they get it. There is nearly one fourth of this amount available in the treasury of the County Red Cross Chapter. The Boards of Education may be able to help out some, and of course the teachers and their pupils and the public generally can be depended upon.

The following were named as a committee on ways and means to report at another meeting to be held in a few weeks—G. D. McNeill, chairman, Hubert Echols, Dr. C. S. Kramer, Dr. C. S. Kramer, C. J. Ramsey and F. M. Sydnor

This matter touches every home in Pocahontas County. The welfare of the child is at stake Too many little ones are seemingly backward and dull in their studies and generally miserable, when a pair of glasses properly fitted or a tooth treated would mean the happiness and health that we like to associate with childhood.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER'S AND LEADER'S INSTITUTE DUNMORE, W. VA., APRIL 27

It is believed that one of the greatest drawbacks to our Sunday Schools is poor method in teaching. A demonstration of real teaching by experts will be given at the Dunmore Meeting. While the Institute is in charge of the Young Peoples Division, all S S Teachers Superintendents, Pastors County and District officials, and other interested workers are urged to attend. All visitors will be cared for by the Dunmore people. They will make you feel at home In order that the Committee on Arrangements may have some idea of the probable attendance, it is requested that any expecting to attend the meeting drop a card to the undersigned. Free transportation will be arranged between Sitlington station and Dunmore.

Superintendent Hobart Hill and Associate Superintendent Mary Schroeder will conduct the Institute,

Very respectfully,
G. D McNeill,
Supt. Young Peoples Division,
Pocahontas county.

Dear Editor:

If it is not asking to much will you please publish this.

Yes I have bin reading the different articles, as regard to nine months school.

And will say this, the home, labor, church and school, are the most Vital points we have to Mannage. We hearty favor a reasonable amount of school, but think nine months would be to much pepper for the salt.

If children ust get an education on four months school a year, we believe they ought to get the same today on six months school a year, we think our children are as bright today as they were a century ago.

Their bodies must be develiped as well as their heads. Six months to develip their heads, and six months to develip their bodies, seems to be more advisable. And some of them are going to hafto work, and where will they learn it? If they are in school all the time.

We don't believe our children want to make slaves out of their Parents. That is about what it would do.

Pharo took all the straw away and still wanted the tale of bricks. It could not be done, Neither can this other. We the tax payers of Pocahontas County are grouning under the heavy taxes as it is and cannot stand much more.

From what we see and hear we believe it would pay better to take the Talking machine back where it belongs, and let the Teacher do the talking, he is well paid for it.

We think there is to much BASKET BALL card playing, and different ENTERTAINMENT, for our children to learn. They will learn more in six monts without this foolishness, than they will in nine with it.

We don't believe in breaking the tables of education, as Moses Did, But we do believe in destroying the Golden Calf which Aron is sitting up.

P. S. It is also verry expensive to change the books so often, poor people cannot make the rifl[illegible] D.

The attendance at the Methodist Sunday School was 209; at the Presbyterian 162.

What Do You Pay For Flour ?

Are you buying it at the best possible price ?

If you are not, do you think you are treating yourself right? We are headquarters for flour and feeds of all kinds.

Spring Wheat Flour
Kansas Hard Wheat Flour
Soft Winter Wheat Flour

Straight Grade Flour and Self Rising Flour

You will do well to investigate our prices and quality

Peoples Store & Supply Co.
MARLINTON, W. VA.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

9:45 a. m. Sunday School.
11 00 a m. Morning Worship
Sermon Subject, "The Goodness of God."
3 00 p m Preaching at Swago,
7 00 p m. Christian Endeavor.
7 30 p m. "The Troubler."

The next Communion service will be held Sunday morning April 1st, Easter Sunday. Those who are contemplating uniting with the Presbyterian Church either by letter or on profession of faith should see the pastor or some member of the session and arrange to come in at this time.

The Every Member Canvass of last Sunday afternoon was a pronounced success. Present indications are that the budget will be more than subscribed.

WESLEY CHAPEL M. E. SOUTH

Hillsboro, West Virginia
W. Clark Early, Pastor.

9:45 a m. Sunday School
11:00 a m. Sermon, "The Drawing Power of Christ."
7:00 p m. Epworth League.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. Fred B Wyand, Pastor
Sunday School 9:45 a. m.
A. S. Overholt, Supt
11 o'clock, Morning Worship;
Sermon subject, "The Triumphal Entry."
7 p m. Epworth League
7 45 p m. Evening services, subject: "The Crown of Thorns."

Mrs. Margaret Hill, wife of Peter Hill, died at her home at Jacox last Friday morning, March 16, 1923. She was near 80 years of age. Some months ago she suffered a stroke of paralysis. Burial at the Whiting graveyard on Droop Mountain, Mrs. Hill's maiden name was Whiting. She is survived by her aged husband and a number of sons and daughters. A son, Dr. E. B. Hill of Marlinton, has been dead a number of years.

MARBLE ON DISPLAY

Delegate McLaughlin Is Kept Busy Answering Inquiries As Pocahontas Product Attracts Wide Attention

Several samples of the Pocahontas county marble were placed on display yesterday at Hotel Kanawha by Delegate J A. McLaughlin, representative of that county in the legislature.

Pocahontas county interests are making an effort to have the capitol commission construct the new state house with marble from that section and the product is attracting wide attention.

The marble deposits in Pocahontas are unlimited and geologists have pronounced it of the finest grade, according to Mr. McLaughlin. He said the outcropping is three miles from the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad and that a road is already graded to the location. All that would be necessary, he said, would be to place the tracks. The marble was offered to the commission free and it is understood the proposition is under consideration by the state house builders. A bill has been introduced in the house providing that the capitol should be built of that marble.— Charleston Gazette

---

Councilman T. D. Moore is the Chairman of the Cemetery Committee, and he is taking great interest in improving and beautifying the public burying ground, Mt. View Cemetery. Some gravel road will be put in as soon as funds are available, and Mr. Moore has already ordered four dozen Norway spruce trees and three dozen American arbor vita trees. These will be set out immediately.

Rev. John I. Armstrong, D. D. of Lewisburg will preach next Sunday in Huntersville and Westminster Presbyterian churches.

There will be preaching at the Swago church next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock.

Baltimore Conference convenes at Roanoke on Wednesday April 4.

—FORCED—

Out of Business Sale

The store building we now occupy is being advertised for sale on April 3 by order of the court. This necessitates our selling off all goods on our shelves and the goods we recently bought, which are arriving daily. When we bought our spring stock we did not anticipate that the building would go to sale before June court, and of a conseqnence we ordered much more heavily than we otherwise would have done. We are

All Stocked Up and No Where to Go

Our goods must be put in the hands of the public, and to insure their prompt delivery we have cut prices unmercifully in this

Forced Out Of Business Sale

Dry Goods, Clothing, Shoes, Hats, Millinery—new stock and fine goods. Come in and get your choice of unusual bargains. Our loss is your gain.

GEO. ROSEN

Opposite Postoffice Marlinton, W. Va.

P. S.—Those to whom we have extended credit will please settle their accounts prompt.

AMUSU THEATRE

Program

WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY

Mae Murray David Powell in "Idols of Clay" A George Fitzmaurice production. Life had mocked at their dreams and tumbled them into the depths. What was left for them now ? A beauty-romance of southern seas and the gay night life of London.
A FLAMING ROMANCE OF THREE WORLDS.

FRIDAY

William Russell in "The Roof Tree" A exciting love tale with Southern traditions olso in the days of Buffalo Bill. SEE Camp scenes of Union and Confederate soldiers showing Grant and Lee. SEE Sleeping Union sentry sentenced to death: His mother pleads with Lincoln for his life.

SATURDAY

Bert Lytell in "A Trip To Paradise" Also Larry Seamon in "Between The Acts." If you are missing these Seamon comedies you are missing the best thirty minutes of your life.

MONDAY and TUESDAY

The highway of love is just one danger curve after another Whoopee !
Helen Chadwick and Richard Dix in Rupert Hughes Comedy Drama of Married Life.
"DANGEROUS CURVE AHEAD"

Get Set "The Storm is Coming

DON'T MISS
The Four Horsemen. In the name of the Law the Ninty and Nine. Nanook of the North.

THE 4 HORSEMEN of the Apocalypse
The WORLD'S MOST PICTURE

$348

F.O.B. DETROIT

NEW PRICE

You have never before had the opportunity of securing as much motor car value at so low a price. Take advantage of this opportunity and place your order now when you can obtain prompt delivery.

Terms if desired.

Baxter's Garage
J. L. Baxter, Prop.
Marlinton - - W. Va.

POCAHONTAS ASSESSMENT

Assessor at Marlinton Decreases Some and Increases Other Valuation of Property.

HALLANAN PLAN IS BEING CARRIED OUT

Real estate assessments have been increased 70 per cent in the aggregate in Pocahontas county districts and 44 per cent in the City of Marlinton this year, according to a statement issued by Tax Commissioner Hallanan yesterday.

"In following my instructions relative to the valuation of property," Hallanan said, "the assessor has found it necessary in one district of Pocahontas county to decrease some properties as much as 85 per cent while increasing others as high as 68 per cent.

"An assessment on the basis of 'true and actual value' in this district means that if the same amount of money is raised as last year the levy will be decreased 41 per cent plus. It is therefore obvious that the man whose property has been lowered 85 per cent in valuation, having to pay taxes at the reduced rate of levy, is really benefited to a greater degree than would appear at first sight.

"Before a man would be required to pay as much as he did last year his property would need to be increased 70 per cent. Consequently in those cases in which property has been assessed at even 60 per cent of its actual value no increase in taxes collected will occur.

"There can be no argument successfully advanced opposing the increase which will ensue to those whose property has been materially raised in value upon the land books. Their gross undervaluation in former years has been a matter of rank injustice to other property owners in the county and the new valuation simply operates to place these properties on a parity with other real estate without in any way penalizing their owners for former evasions to comply with the statute requiring that all property, both real and personal, be returned to the assessor at its 'true and actual value'."—Charleston Gazette

THOSE GRAVES IN FRANCE

We have been shown a letter from France written by one to whom was sent a copy of Our Dumb Animals, in which was the suggestion that the great cemeteries in France, marking the resting places of our American soldiers, should be so treated as to make them bird sanctuaries. This letter to which we refer says:

"I am in perfect sympathy with the idea of making these cemeteries attractive to the birds, so that these fine songsters of France will find sanctuary in the vicinity of our sleeping boys.

"The Government is already planning to make these cemeteries very beautiful with all that landscape gardening can add to the natural beauty of the surrounding fields.

"One is even now impressed with the multitude of skylarks which are nestling in the wheat and poppy fields adjoining the cemeteries—for example, at Belleau Wood. Sometimes the air is filled with their song, which is seeming to be carried from Belleau Wood to the very gate of Heaven."—Our Dumb Animals.

Commissioners' Notice

M. C. Carter, Guardian of Louie N. Bare
vs
L. S. Cochran, Administrator of J. M. Bare, deceased.

To whom it may concern:

Please take notice that on Friday the 16th day of June, 1922 at my office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia I will proceed to take state and report the matters of account referred to me by decree of the Circuit Court of said county entered on the 8th day of March 1922; as follows:

First—The amount of money that came into the hands of said L S Cochran, administrator of J. M. Bare,

Second—The distributive share of each of the children of the said J. M. Bare after settling with the said administrator.

Third—A settlement of the accounts of the said L. S Cochran as such administrator.

At which time you and each of you may appear and prove such debts as may be due you from said administrator and do whatever else may be necessary to protect your interests in the premises.

Given under my hand this 10th day of May, 1922

N. C. McNEIL,
Commissioner in Chancery.

Sheriff's Sale for Taxes

Pursuant to a levy made for taxes for the year 1921, for taxes due in the name of H. Gilmer & J. C. Myers, Trustee, the undersigned Sheriff of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, will proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder, on the

20th Day of May, 1922,

beginning at 10 o'clock a. m. at the place of the property to be sold, to-wit: at the Old Wade Place, on North Fork of Anthonys Creek, in said county, about a mile from the dock the following property levied upon as a portion of the property assessed for taxes, to-wit:

One saw mill and engine and all equipment and appliances, being the saw mill recently operated by the Meadow Mountain Lumber Company and on their land.

Terms of Sale: Cash.

B. B BEARD, S P C.
By Elmer Moore, Deputy.

FEMALE HELP WANTED

Our demonstrator would like to get in touch with two or three young ladies, ex school teachers preferred, to join her force. She will teach you how to sell THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE. Previous selling experience not necessary Salary while learning. Apply The Thomas J. Cale Company, 520 Fulton Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

WANTED—Man with car to sell the BEST Ford Oil Guage made. $100.00 per week and extra commissions. Accessories Co., 4841 Graham, Benton Harbor, Michigan.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

The Pocahontas County Four-H Camp will be held at the Fair Ground August 28th to September 2nd. The State Four H Camp will be held at Jackson Mills in Lewis county as follows: June 19-29 State Four-H Boys' Conference; July 7-17 State Four H Girls' Conference The State Four-H exhibit will be held in connection with the West Virginia State Fair at Wheeling September 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 1922. The various leaders of club work in the county have the Four-H Fair premium list.

A regular meeting of the Pocahontas County Farm Bureau will be held at the Farm Bureau office May 27, at two o'clock p. m. B. F. Creech, Extension Beef Cattle specialist, will be present at this time and will address the meeting. Methods for more effective putting across the plan of work as adopted by the local Farm Bureau for the year 1922 will be discussed at this time, and other important matters will be brought before the meeting.

Soy beans are being planted more extensively in the county this year chiefly due to the light hay crop of 1921.

The West Virginia Pulp & Paper Company owns a registered Scotch Type Sire of Avondale breeding that is considered to be one of the best of the breed. It is well worth anyone's trip to see this animal, because he sets a standard in type in this county that any breeder of cattle will do well to work as a goal

E. L. Shaw, Extension Sheep specialist, met with bad weather for his sheep shearing and wool handling demonstrations. However, many meetings were held in various sections of the county, and Mr. Shaw adapted his work to the weather. It is certainly a caution to have him explain the various parasites that are killing thousands upon thousands of sheep in West Virginia and then post one sheep and find all of the worms mentioned. Mr. Shaw says that sheep growers call it hard luck and it undoubtedly is. Nevertheless, there is a very satisfactory treatment for stomach worms, perhaps the most bothersome parasite disease, that is being used with success in this county. (Copies of this taeatment can be obtained from the Farm Bureau office at Marlinton.) Mr. Shaw also chloroformed sheep that were affected with lung worms.

Perhaps one of the most important factors brought out in the wool handling demonstrations was the tying of the individual fleeces with a good grade of paper twine. Mr Shaw explained that each fleece had to be graded separately by the manufacturer and that the farmer would eventually benefit by putting his wool up in good form. Paper twine may be obtained from the Wortendyke Mfg. Co. Richmond, Va

The use of Docking Irons was recommended for lambs from ten days to two weeks of age, and that experiments proved that practically as good results were obtained from docking and castration at the same time.

Mr. Shaw introduced many useful and up-to-date methods that the local sheep grower can well adopt. However, the laymen should follow directions in order to secure the best results, and should not lose sight of the fact that the little details are the things that really count most.

TAXATION

"Taxation, without representation is Tyrany," said one of our greatest statesmen.

"Freedom of speech and freedom of the press shall not be denied to any citizen" is what our constitution declares, and what I am going to say may not appeal to some people, but they are undeniable facts. Our taxes are high and still going higher. Why? Simply because we have a bunch of high salaried officers paid more now than they deserve, and who are still clamoring for more. Look, if you please, what it costs the taxpayers of this little mountain state of ours to mantain her government. Take for instance the salaries of the officers from the Governor, down. It represents a rediculous sum of money: do the people get value received? NO! Seventy-five per cent would pay them well for all they do. Consequently the people would be relieved of apart of their taxes if the salaries were cut twenty-five per cent, and that is what I favor.

Just a word in regard to our new assessment. This is an old farce, "raise the valuation and lower the percent."

We have had experience of this kind in the past; these sayings have proven to be untrue. I have no faith in it. I do not favor the new tax system simply because the law provides that land must be assessed at the price that it was last sold, for. Possibly it was sold during the war period when prices were inflated. So the assessment of that land would not be fair and equitable at that kind of price today.

The people have no say as to how their money is to be spent; is that not tyrany? To be sure it is.

I would suggest that the taxpayers hold a meeting at an early date to discuss the situation and to formulate plans whereby our taxes may be lowered.

I would like to hear from other citizens through the columns of this paper.

Yours Respectfully,
A. A. S.

Elizabeth M. Lightner, wife of Wm. Lightner, died at her home at Greenbank, April 1, 1922, with the infirmities of old age. She was 91 years, eight months and twenty-four days old. She was a good christian for years, and a good neighbor. She leaves to mourn her loss one nephew, W. H. Wooddell, and one neice, Mrs Cora Sutton, of Greenbank, and many other friends. Her pastor, Rev. John Rosenberger, conducted the funeral services. She was laid to rest beside her husband in the family burying ground. Many of her friends were present.

Get our price lists on Roots, Herbs, Barks, Ginseng, Beeswax, Goldenseal and Hides. GREER & CO.

Commissioner's Notice

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia rendered in a cause therein pending in which the State of West Virginia, is plaintiff and Clara C Fertig and 47 acres of Forfeited land are defendants, the undersigned Commissioner in Chancery will proceed at his office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on Friday May 26th, 1922, to take, state and report to Court the following matters of account, to-wit:

First. Whether or not the above tract of land consisting of 47 acres has been omitted from the land books of Pocahontas County for taxation since the year 1897, or for a period of five years since said date, and prior to the institution of this suit.

Second. Whether or not there is any person or persons entitled to redeem the said tract of land, or any part thereof, and whether or not any person is in a position to take the benefit of the forfeiture.

Third. Any other matter deemed pertinent by the Commissioner or required by any party in interest.

W. A. Bratton,
Commissioner.

Commissioner's Notice

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia rendered in a cause therein pending the style of which is State of West Virginia, vs Lot 3 Block One at Deer Creek, W. K. Thompson, Frank Ingle, Jas. D. Burks et als. the undersigned Commissioner in Chancery will proceed at his office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on

FRIDAY the 26th day of May 1922,

to take, state and report to Court the following matters of account, to wit:

First Whether or not the aforesaid lot 3 Block 1 Deer Creek was returned delinquent for the non-payment of taxes thereon for the year 1915, and sold by the sheriff of said county at a tax sale for the year 1917 and purchased by the State of West Virginia, and if so, the amount of taxes due thereon including interest, costs and damages properly chargeable thereon.

Second. Whether or not the said lot was subsequently sold by the sheriff of said County for taxes thereon and returned delinquent for the non-payment of taxes thereon, if so, the amount of the taxes, costs, interest properly chargeable thereon.

Third. Whether or not there are any persons in a position to take the benefit of the forfeiture.

Fourth. Any other matters deemed pertinent etc.

W. A. Bratton, Commissioner.

Special Commissioners' Sale

Pursuant to authority vested in us by a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered at the April Term, 1922, in the chancery cause of Bertie Hiner vs R. R. Snedegar and others, the undersigned Special Commissioners, on the

6th Day of June, 1922,

at the front door of the court House of said county, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, a tract of land situate on Locust Creek, Little Levels District in said county, consisting of 25 acres more or less, known as the Beard Mill property, together with all buildings, water rights, and appurtences. This land has a fine flour and feed mill on it.

Terms of Sale: One third cash in hand on day of sale, the residue in two equal installments, due in six and twelve months respectively. the purchaser giving interest bearing notes with good personal security, the title to be retained as ultimate security.

L. M. McClintic,
Andrew Price,
Special Commissioners.

I, D. C. Adkison, Clerk of the Circuit Court of said county do certify that the above named Special Commissioners have executed bond as required by said decree.

D. C. Adkison, Clerk.

At a special session County Court held for the County of Pocahontas, and State of West Virginia, at the Courthouse thereof on Monday the 1st day of May, 1922.

IN RE: CHANGE OF PRECINCT LINE.

It appearing to the Court, that public convenience and public good require that a part of the territory now embraced in Voting Precinct No. 4 of the Greenbank District of this county, be included in Voting Precinct No. 8, of said Greenbank District, and that the dividing line between the said voting precincts be changed in such manner as to include the following territory in precinct No. 8.

It is therefore ordered by the Court that the line dividing voting Precipcts Nos. 4 and 8 in Greenbank District be changed so as to run as follows: Beginning at a point on the C. & O. Railroad where the same crosses Trout Run about five miles above the town of Cass, thence west with the C. & O. Railroad to the west side of the corporation line of the town of Cass, near the swinging bridge, thence running northwest with the corporation line to the lands Amos Doyle, so as to include the Old School building in precinct No. 8, thence in a straight line to the first ford of Cold Run, thence parallel with the C. & O Railroad to the Moses Spring Run on the line of the Edray District.

It further appearing that public good and public convenience require that the voting place in Precinct No. 8 be changed from the place heretofore established on the east side of the river in the town of Cass, it is therefore ordered that the voting place in Precinct No 8, be and the same is changed to the Old School building on the west side of the river in the town of Cass.

And the Clerk of this Court is ordered to have a copy of this order published for one month in the Pocahontas Times, which is the only newspaper published in this County, and he is also directed to post copies of this order as required by Section 6 of Chapter 3 of the Code of West Virginia

A COPY TESTE:
S L. BROWN,
Clerk.

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager
HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC.
Marlinton, West Virginia.

V-C FERTILIZERS

Little Giant Crop Grower, Blood and Bone and other well known Virginia-Carolina brands.

— FOR SALE BY —
GAY & CARTER, MARLINTON

Portland Cement

I have received a carload of Portland Cement, and am prepared to fill all orders. I expect to keep cement in stock hereafter.

Fertilizers

A big supply of fertilizers of the right kinds.

T. H. HINER
Marlinton, W. Va.

★111 one-eleven cigarettes

10¢ for FIFTEEN

In a new package that fits the pocket—
At a price that fits the pocket-book—
The same unmatched blend of
TURKISH, VIRGINIA and BURLEY Tobaccos

Guaranteed by The American Tobacco Co. Incorporated ★111 FIFTH AVE. NEW YORK CITY

Picture Framing

AND FURNITURE REPAIRING

Picture framing neatly and promptly done at a reasonable price. Also old furniture made as good as new. Shop at my house near Court-house. Phone your orders and I will come for your work.

C. J. McCarty,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Sept. 1.

Hereford Bulls

I have a lot of young Hereford bulls, registered and fine specimen of the breed. Will be sold for spring delivery.

J. S. McNeel,
Seebert, W. Va.

For Sale at a Bargain

1500 acres of land in Virginia.
A good farming proposition.
A good timber proposition.
A good water-power proposition
A good milling proposition.
All combined in the above.
Bad health is why this proposal is made.
If interested, write to the owner

C. H. REVERCOMB,
Covington, Va

Berkshire Pigs

5 pure bred Berkshire pigs, 2 months old, for sale at a reasonable price. Apply to

Joe M. Gay,
Edray, W. Va.

Conklin Wagons

We have a number of new Conklin Wagons at Seebert, which we will sell at an attractive price to the buyer. Sizes 3 and 3 1 4

MASHALL & SIPLE
Hillsboro, W. Va.

HOUSE FOR SALE: A five room cottage house in Greenbank, with half acre lot. This is a good home for some one. House was built new two years ago. Will sell reasonable If interested address,

Mrs. Fannie Sheets.
Hillsboro, W. Va.

HOUSE FOR SALE in Marlinton, property known as the McLaughlin House. Suitable for 3 families, desirable location low price and good terms.

J. W. YEAGER,
Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR SALE:—7 passenger, 6 cylinder Studebaker automobile, in good condition. A bargain to the quick buyer.

Luther Flynn,
H. C. Spencer,
Hillsboro, W. Va

FOR SALE: One Ford Roadster, good as new in every particular, has been run about 500 miles.

Apply to
W. S. CAMDEN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Notice of Judicial Sale of Realestate

Pursuant to a decree of the circuit court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, made and entered on the 15th day of April, 1922, in the chancery cause of Harry Blackhurst, Administrator of Emma Robertson, deceased, vs Wallace Robertson and others, I will on

Thursday, the 8th day of June, 1922

at the front door of the Courthouse of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, at one o'clock p. m. of that day, offer for sale to the highest bidder, the following described realestate:

One lot situate in Cass, West Virginia, on the East side of the Greenbrier River, and being the same lot acquired by Emma Robertson from E D. Burner, Trustee, and described as lot 14 in block 3.

A one-ninth undivided interest in 173 acres and a one-ninth undivided interest in 208 acres and 81 poles, being the same tracts of land of which James H. Galford died seized, which land is situate on Back Alleghany Mountain, about two miles from Cass, in Greenbank District, in Pocahontas County, West Virginia.

TERMS of SALE: One third cash, and the residue in two equal payments, in six and twelve months from date of sale, the purchaser executing note with good personal security, the title to be retained until the purchase money with interest have been fully paid.

P. T. WARD,
Special Commissioner.

I, D. C. Adkison, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county, West virginia, hereby certify that bond with security approved by me as sufficient, and in the penalty provided by said decres, has been given by said special commissioner.

D. C. Adkison, Clerk.

Wool Carded

I am prepared to card wool promptly, in batting or rolls at 15 cents a pound. All wool sent me should be washed and hand picked. Terms, cash. I have some carded wool for sale.

W. L. Hogsett,
Millpoint, W. Va.

S. C. BROWN LEGHORN EGGS
Per setting of 15 at house, 75 cents.
Per setting of 15 by parcel post $1.00.
Per 100 at house, $5.00; by parcel post 50c extra.

These eggs are from a laying strain some of the best blood lines in the country are represented in this flock. There is no better layer than the S. C. Brown Leghorn, and few as good,

FRED GEHAUF,
39 Upper Camden, Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR SALE: Two Registered Shorthorn yearling bulls.

S. B. Nethken & Co.
Cass, W. Va.

WANTED: 20 or 25 head of yearling cattle or 12 or 15 head of dry cows to pasture on my farm 1 mile from Hosterman. Write me at Hosterman, W. Va.

E. B. Moore.

Cattle Wanted

To Graze

I can graze forty head of young cattle on my farm on Clover Creek. Address me at 2901 Dickson St., St. Louis, Missouri, LIGON PRICE.

Guina and Duck Eggs

12 duck eggs $1.00. 16 Guina eggs $1.00, by parcel post.

W. McClintic,
Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR SALE

One 16 in stone burr mill
One feed grinder, 8 inch
One line shaft and pulleys
One 7 hp Ottawa gasoline engine
One wood saw, with 26 in. saw
One 1920 Ford touring car, or will trade for new model Ford roadster. Apply to

A. H. McCOMB.
Huntersville, W. Va.

FARM FOR SALE:—44 acres of land in the Fairview neighborhood—a nice little place, 4 room house, barn and outbuildings. More than half under cultivation and pasture. Close to church and schools and in good neighborhood. Dexter Sharp, Warwick W. Va

When interested in buying a car see Dilley's Garage. Dealers in Maxwell and Chalmers Cars, Marlinton, W Va. We have moved into the upper garage.

For Floor Coverings including Druggets, Congoleum and Linoleum Rugs and Wall Papers See

OVERHOLT & SON,
The Value Store
Marlinton, W. Va.

Order Of Publication

State of West Virginia,
Pocahontas County, to-wit:

At rules held in the office of the Clerk Circuit Court of Pocahontas County on the first Monday in the month of May 1922,

George N. Linger, Admr. of John F. Wanless Plaintiff
Vs: In Chancery.
Mary M. Linger, Hettie Sims, Bertha E. Roach, John B. Roach, Frank Roach and William Wanless or his unknown heirs and ——— Wanless or his unknown heirs, and all unknown heirs of John F. Wanless Defendants.

The object of the above styled suit is to settle the estate of the late John F. Wanless, convene the creditors and to ascertain the heirs and distributees to whom the estate is going.

This day came the plaintiff, by his attorney, and upon his motion and it appearing by affidavit filed in this cause that William Wanless or his unknown heirs and ——— Wanless or his unknown heirs are non-residents of the State of West Virgihia it is ordered that they do appear here within one month from the date of the first publication hereof and do what is necessary to protect thier interest in this suit.

Teste:
D. C. ADKISON, Clerk.
W. A. Bratton, Sol.

EGGS FOR HATCHING, from fine S. C. R. I. Reds. Heavy egg producers. Gertrude Blagg, Monterey, Virginia.

HOUSE FOR RENT—If you want to rent a house and will pay your rent one month in advance and are a good peaceable citizen, apply to John Maupin, Marlinton, W. Va.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THURSDAY APRIL 5, 1923

I want to stall this week by giving the contents of a paper that I prepared for the Womans' Club. It has all been printed in this paper time and again but not as this particular collection. It seemed that I made a speech some time ago at some gathering in this city, and the request was to crystalize it for the Womans' Club. And after it was read some one said to print it, and many wondered why they had not made the suggestion earlier in the meeting.

FIRST THINGS IN MARLINTON

The first settler was Jacob Marlin, and from him the town got its name. He was here in 1749, and nobody knows how much earlier. The place was first called Marlins Bottom. Changed in 1887 to Marlinton at the request of a Mrs. Skyles who moved here from Baltimore and who objected to the word Bottom as not being a nice word. The old timers were horrified when they found that the name had been changed on them over night, so to speak, but the damage was done, and all appeals to Congress failed to undo the harm. The lady soon afterwards moved away but she left us christened with a new name. About twenty years ago the town almost unanimously petitioned Washington to change the name to McGraw. This change of name was refused because there was a postoffice in West Virginia by the name of McGraws. And so the name continues to be Marlinton, and it would be a bold bad citizen who would suggest a change of name now that a large and important town has developed under it, and has succeeded in acquiring more "good will" than any of the important centers of West Virginia.

The first court that I know of being held here was under an oak tree on the west side of the river above the bridge by Squire G. M. Kee. The first lawyer I ever heard plead in Marlinton was F. J. Snyder, a noted lawyer who lived in Huntersville. And he was opposed that day by L M. McClintic, who is still with us, and who was just starting on his professional career.

The first term of the Circuit Court was held in June or October, 1893. The election to move the county seat from Huntersville to Marlinton was held in the fall of 1891, and a building at the corner of Fourth Avenue and Ninth Street was erected which is still called the Temporary Court house. The judge was Judge A. N. Campbell, of Monroe county. He was a great lawyer. He was of commanding appearance. Over six feet tall, with a heavy black beard. He weighed three hundred and fifteen pounds.

The first sheriff of the county lived here, Major William Peage. His house was near Eleventh Street on Camden Avenue. In this house was born James A. Moffett, who was in his lifetime the president is the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. The first postmaster was James Ataly Price. The first student to go to college from this place was the late Rev. Wm. T. Price, A. B., A. M., D. D., who was born here in 1830, and who departed this life here at the age of ninety-one years.

The first recorded land title was 480 acres taking in a great part of the level land which dates from a survey made in 1751, by Gen. Andrew Lewis. This land is mentioned in his will as being at the mouth of Ewings Creek, by which name Knapps Creek was first known. Too much connot be made of this fact that Gen Andrew Lewis owned the heart of this town from 1751 to his death some thirty years afterwards. He was a great general of the Revolutionary War, and George Washington was his fidus Achates. In those early days of Washington's life, there can be no doubt that this was one of his most familiar haunts.

The first bank to be established was the Bank of Marlinton, followed in a few weeks by the Pocahontas Bank, which afterwards became the First National.

The first newspaper was The Times The first store was opened by J. R. Apperson in a house now occupied as a dwelling which stands directly opposite the entrance of the bridge on the west side of the river.

The first business of any kind established here was a combined sawmill and carding mill built by James A. Price before the Civil war and which was located in the low place called the slough along the boulevard leading to Campbelltown, just opposite the home of A. C. Pifer.

It was run by water power, and the water came from Stony Creek. An effort to augment this power by water from the Greenbrier River from an intake just below the mouth of Stony Creek failed, and the plant itself was washed away in the flood of 1877, which is the highest water of which there is any authentic record.

This mill was in charge of a man by the name of James E. A. Gibbs, who was a man of the tenant class, and who barely made a living for him self and a large family. In fact the main remembrance that the older people had of the family was the struggle that they had to keep from starving. It was during this time that Gibbs was working on his model for a sewing machine. He fashioned a working model out of wood from a laurel root, which developed the idea of the chain stitch sewing machine, which entitles him to the claim of being an inventor of first order. The lock stitch idea was advertised some few years earlier, but it did not entitle the inventor to the distinction of being the inventor of the sewing machine, for the people of this vicinity know the Gibbs' idea antedated the lock stitch, and was on a different idea. Gibbs carried his invention to the north and formed a partnership with a mechanic by the name of Wilcox, and the manufacture of the machines began. Gibbs returned home, the Civil war broke out, the Gibbs family starved almost and at the end of five years Gibbs got back to Delaware, and found that Wilcox was turning out sewing machines at a great rate, and that the share of Gibbs had been put to his credit regularly in a bank, and from that time Gibbs was rich. In the nineties Gibbs came back for several visits. He was a very tall man—about six feet and seven inches, I think, wore a silk hat, and had the biggest nose that I ever saw on a human being. He said at that time he had taken out some one hundred and sixty three patents. The Wilcox & Gibbs sewing machine is still one of the standard machines offered to the public, and I believe it is considered the very best for heavy sewing, such as leather. I am not sure about this.

One of the earliest stores was opened by Paul Golden who is still with us though not in the merchantile business. A sign that he had painted on the store in his early days caused some hilarity among the nations in the world. It read: "Go no farther to be Cheated." The language is loose and capable of two constructions. Anyway it has the right to be grouped under the head of Commercial Candor.

The first school of which there is any authentic record was opened in a log cabin that stood near Riverside. It closed after a session or two. It was a private enterprise. There must have been some school earlier than that for one of the fields on Stony Creek has always been called the School House Meadow. Up to the eighties, the nearest school was Huntersville. In the eighties, the free school system having been established, a one room frame building was put up on the Price Run where the house of William Stewart now stands. Miss Emma Warwick, Judge Geo. W. McClintic, County Superintendent W. M. Mathews, Rev. Dr. Price. Squire Charles Cook, from Rhode Island, were some of the noted persons who taught in that little school house. The next school was a two room building, still standing, as the Ira Irvine building on the banks of Knappg Creek. The next was the present graded school building, a substantial brick, which has become too small though augmented by a still finer high school property. We had a great time building that eight roomed brick graded school, and there were many that predicted that there never would be a time when there was need of one half such a building. In fact even in that comparative recent time, it was very unusual to see a large school building.

The first teacher's institute was held in 1886 in the Presbyterian Church. The first church built was the Presbyterian church on the site of the present building. The first resident judge of the court, Judge S. H. Sharp. The first mayor of the town, Andrew Price. The first state senator, N. C. McNeil. The first Presidential Elector, Col. O. H. Kee The first delegate to the legislature, L. M. McClintic. The first member of the county court, Dr. N. R. Price. The first chief of police. J. A. Sharp

The first train to arrive at Marlinton was in the year 1900, on the completion of the track laying to this point. It was made a public ceremony and some thousands gathered here and they barbecued beef and had a celebration. They told at Ronceverte that night that when the train got here that the great crowd gathered around the locomotive, and that the engineer requested them to give him room to turn his train around and that they cleared a space of some acres It was not true. Not even an original lie. Only a localized anecdote

But for excitement over firts events let me refer you to the first jail delivery, when Armstrong and Cumberlrnd, got out of jail at dusk one evening in the nineties. The jail had been completed and it was the modern idea of a strong jail, and it was confidently expected that it would hold any body. The county had suffered a series of bold robberies, and suspicion had attached to Alex Armstrong, an intelligent colored man, a native of this county, who had removed to an Ohio town. It was thought that he raided this county regularly, and that he would come to the nearest railroad station, and make a quick trip into the county and return with his booty. This belief was so sure that the authorities waited and watched for him to return, and he showed up one winter day travelling incognito with a big burly strange negro. R. K. Burns arrested them and they were indicted and afterwards convicted of the robbery of Capt. A. M. Edgar, held up at the point of a revolver in his own house after nightfall.

They lulled the jailer into a sense of security and when they got between him and the door of the cage, they shut the door and left and got away. A large force of volunteers assembled in an hour or so and patrolled the roads all night, and found nothing. But the elements warred against the fugitives. It was summer time, but the night saw one of the heaviest rainfalls that this country ever experienced. The accused travelled many miles that night but they lost their way and daylight found them about two miles from town. They had wandered all night, confused by the great tempest and the net work of streams. They were exhausted. They took cover in the old Hamlin Chapel, on Stony Creek. They got as far as Laurel Creek about ten miles from Marlinton and surrendered to a volunteer posse and were brought in. They were pretty well starved.

Some of us old residenters have never had a residence in any other town or city. And we feel that the only way that you can really know a town is to see it built. With the exception of the toll house and the Mclaughlin house, I have seen every house built in this town, if I have not overlooked some odd house or two in a hasty mental survey, Yes a part of the B. M. Yeager house is older than that. That is a good deal to say for a town as substantial as Marlinton, with its court-house, bank buildings, school buildings, and churches. Especially the Methodist church now in the course of erection which will be one of the notable buildings of the State.

I often think of one of my boy friends many years ago saying that he had had a dream. That he seemed on top of Elk Mountain looking down over Marlins Bottom, and the bottom appeared to be roofed over. That is one dream that has come to pass.

Executors Sale

Of Personal Property and Honsehold Goods

Saturday, April 7, 1923

beginning at 10 o'clock a. m.

The undersigned executor of the estate of the late H. D. Hively will sell at public auction at his late home on Thorny Creek, Pocahontas Co., W. Va., the following personal property and household goods—

2 cows with calves by side
2 cows to be fresh 1 Hereford bull
2 two year old steers
2 deep red twin yearling steers that would make fine oxen
5 yearlings, 4 steers, 1 heifer
29 ewes and 2 bucks
1 sow and some pigs, 3 shotes
1 Herculese stump puller
1 single and 1 double shovel plow
1 walking cultivator, 1 level land plow
1 hillside plow, 1 garden plow
1 spring tooth harrow, 1 road wagon
Half-interest in spike tooth harrow
Half-interest in grain drill, 1 buggy
1 spring wagon, set of double harness
Cutting box, 3 mowing machines
1 hay rake, hay tedder, lot of forks
40 sap pails and 120 sap spouts
3 iron kettles, copper kettle 20 gals
1 apple mill, 1 barrel, 1 meat tub
1 corn sheller, sheepshearing machine
1 grindstone, lot carpenter tools
1 cross cut saw, 2 sausage mills
2 churns, stone jars, 1 farm bell some grain and potatoes, wheelbarrow
1 library, 1 stand table, 1 cupboard
1 dining table, 1 kitchen table
1 range, 1 heating stove, 1 watch
1 sewing machine, 1 grain cradle
1 phone and stock, 1 lounge, 10 chairs
1 new ear phone, and other things too tedious to mention.

TERMS—All sums of $10 and under cash; over that amount one years time will be given with note with two good endorsers.

W. A. HIVELY, Executor, of H. D. Hively, deceased.

Barlow, Auctioneer.

Chiropractic

Dr F. V. Lonergan has located in Marlinton for the practice of Chiropractic. Offices at the home of A. C. Bostic, on Camden Avenue, near the Marlinton Hotel, where he can be found at all times.

Application for Parole

Notice is hereby given that on the 14th day of April, 1923, an application will be made to Honorable E. F. Morgan, the Governor of West Virginia, for the parole of Gilbert Dilley, who was sentenced on March 13, 1922, in the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, to serve three years in the penitentiary, upon his confession of larceny.

NOTICE

Draft No. 248, Elementary Teachers Fund Edray District, Pocahontas County, W. Va. payable to me has been lost. After printing of this notice as required by law, the Board of Education will be asked to issue a duplicate. All parties are notified not to accept the above draft.

BEN H. WELLS

March 29, 1923

NOTICE TO TEACHERS

The District Secretaries report to me that a very few teachers have turned in Enumeration Reports. These reports should be sent to Secretary soon after April 1st. A delay will greatly inconvenience the secretaries and myself.

G. D. McNEILL,
Co. Supt.

Save it with Kyanize KY-A-NIZE FLOOR FINISH

Hard Wood Never Wears Out, If—

The surface is the secret of it all. Protect the surface; keep it protected and the floor is there for eternity.

You can do that with KYANIZE Floor Finish, the master made-in-America floor varnish. Eight permanent shades from Light Oak to Dark Mahogany, or "clear."

Apply as it comes in the can.

Nothing to mix. It's dry overnight and the heaviest heel cannot scratch it white.

The ideal varnish for furniture and woodwork as well as floors.

HERE'S OUR TRIAL OFFER ON KYANIZE FLOOR FINISH

Cut out this advertisement, bring it to the store below, pay 15 cents for a good brush to apply the Kyanize. You'll receive free of charge a quarter-pint can of Kyanize Floor Finish, enough to finish a chair or small table. Choice of 8 colors.

Durbin Mercantile Co.
Durbin, W. Va.

Pocahontas Supply Company
Cass, W. Va.

After Every Meal

WRIGLEY'S

and give your stomach a lift.

Provides "the bit of sweet" in beneficial form.

Helps to cleanse the teeth and keep them healthy.

A share of your business solicited

T. S. McNEEL
INSURANCE AND BONDS
Marlinton W. Va.

Successor to Goodsell Insurance Agency

Life, Fire and Accident, Automobiles and Live Stock, Bonds of all kinds, Money to Loan on Farms.

Office 2nd floor, First National Bank Building.

For Sale

One and one fourth acres ground, good four room house with two porches, cement cellar and good well at kitchen door, wood house, chicken house and all out buildings.

Terms reasonable.

C. M. Jordan
Huntersville, W. Va,

Look Farmers

Twice as much potash in Little Giant Crop Growers as formerly used. See your V-C dealer before buying

Man Wanted

An allround carriage man to work on band mill of the Marlin Lumber Company. Apply to

H. A. OVERHOLT,
Marlinton. W. Va.

Bees For Sales

Full blood Italian bees, colonies in patent hives. Free from disease. $8 60 per colony, delivered to express office.

A. E. MOORE,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Bark to Peel

I want to contract the cutting and peeling of 2,000,000 feet spruce and hemlock, reliable parties wanted. Also two teams for sale 5 and 7 yrs old weight 2,800 and 2,900 lbs good farm or log horses, reason for selling too many horses, apply to

CLIFF SHARP,
Huntersville, W. Va.

FOR SALE OR RENT

73 acres of grazing land, mostly all in sod, and all under fence, lying in Levels District on public road adjoining the land of I. B Shrader and others. Anyone looking for a good grazing place will do well to see me Will give good terms on same and possession will be given the first of April, 1923.

R. C. SHRADER,
Huntersville, W. Va.

Administrators Notice

All persons having claims against the estate of A. B. Ware deceased will present them properly proven to the undersigned administrator for payment. All persons owing said estate will please prepare to settle at once.

Given under my hand this 6th day of March 1923.

J. D. MACE
Adm,r of A. B. Ware. Mace, W. Va

Executor's Notice

Persons having claims against the estate of Mrs Lettie Rogers, deceased, will file them with the undersigned properly proven.

I will receive offers for the real estate willed to be sold, a house and lot in West Marlinton; all offers subject to approval of the legatees of the will, and with the right to reject any and all bids. This is the property occupied by Mrs Rodgers in her life time.

CALVIN W. PRICE, Executor

Fiduciary Notice

Notice is hereby given that the final settlements of the accounts of W. J. Yeager, administrator of the estate of the late Peter D. Yeager, is before the undersigned Commissioner of Accounts of Pocahontas County, W. Va.

T. S. McNEEL, Comr,

COW WANTED

I want a good young cow, fresh, Jersey preferred apply to.

Fred Gehauf
Marlinton, W. Va..

WM. O. RUCKMAN
LICENSED AUCTIONEER
Millpoint, West Virginia
A young man with the goods

Money to Loan at 5 1-2 percent

The Pocahontas County Farm Loan Association of Marlinton, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, has money to loan to farmers on farm land, on easy terms.

Call on the undersigned and fill out an application blank.

P. T. WARD, Sec.-Treas.

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager
HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC
Marlinton, West Virginia.

For Sale

Black Percheron Mare 3 years old weight about 1200 pounds, price $125.00.

Martin Judy
Cass, W. Va.,

Coal Orders

Must be in Saturday by noon for delivery that day. All orders received Saturday afternoon will be delivered Monday.

Wise Herold

Baby Chicks

Owing to the early drop in egg prices, we have reduced prices on baby chicks to the following prices: White Leghorns $13 and $15 per 100. Rhode Island Reds and Plymouth Rocks $14 and $16 per 100. Hatching eggs, 1 50 a setting or 2 20 for 2 settings. Place your order now and be sure of chicks on date desired.

Oak Crest Poultry Farm
Mill Point, W. Va.,

Picoting and Hem-Stitching

All orders promptly filled.

MRS. J. E. BUCKLEY,
Marlinton, W. Va

Farm for Sale

About 212 acres on the Staunton & Parkersburg Turnpike 5 miles east of Bartow. About 40 acres improved, 35 acres in good timber, balance was cut over several years ago. and has nice young timber on it.

Good 7 room dwelling, some out building, orchard of apples, peaches, pears and cherry trees. large enough to bear. some small fruit.

1-2 mile from school 3 miles from church. several good springs. This is good mountain farming land and is fine grass land.

Price and terms reasonable.

CHARLES SPENCER,
Bartow. W. Va.

Work Wanted

A middle aged woman desires work in the home. Able to do any kind of housework. Apply to.

Lou Collins
Cloverlick, W. Va,

Cattle Wanted

FOR GRAZING

I can graze 40 hear of young cattle on my farm on Clover Creek this summer.

LIGON PRICE,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Spring Millinery

All who are interested in their Easter Bonnets are invited to call on Miss Ella Pritchard at Dunmore and see the new pattern hats arriving every day until Easter. If you have a good last year's hat bring it and have it made over.

Land For Sale

Farm of 102 acres on head of Laurel Creek at Woodrow post office. Part cleared and part cut over. For particulars apply to.

Lloyd VanReenan.
Woodrow. W. Va.

We handle Grit, Oyster Shells, Charcoal, Chick Food, Etc.

Marlinton Poultry Yard
Marlinton, W. Va.

FARM FOR SALE — 200 acres on Cloverlick, good rich land, about 70 acres in sod. Balance cut overland, but has a lot of good timber on it. House, barn, and fine water.

Ellis M. Buzzard,
Huntersville, W. Va

W. A. BARLOW
OLD RELIABLE AUCTIONEER
Onoto, W. Va.
All calls answered.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va

COAL is Cash

I can now fill orders for coal for strictly cash.

WISE HEROLD

DELCO-LIGHT
"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue
ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES
Marlinton Electric Co.
DEALERS

For Sale

Pure bred white wyandot cockerls $1.50, six months old. Delivered F. O. B. Clover Lick.

John U. Hevenor
Clover Lick, W. Va.,

Black Langshans Eggs

Prince Ebony strain, very large, good for meat and fine for eggs. 305 eggs from 15 pullets in January, 1923. Setting eggs. $1 50 per 15.

W. H. ARBOGAST
Marlinton, W. Va.

Fords for Sale

TWO USED CARS
1 roadster in good condition
1 touring car in fine condition
Marlinton Motor Company

Hatching Eggs

Purebred White Wyandotts Regal Dorcas strain selected from flock that won first prize at Greenbrier Valley fair last year, pen of 16 hens averaging 10 eggs per day in January and February. $1.45 per 15 by parcel post 25c less if cases are returned $1.00 at home.

C. W. Auldridge
Millpoint, W. Va.

Farm For Sale

75 acres on Deaver Run 2 miles north of Cass, 72 acres under fence, 50 acres in cultivation, 2 good young orchards bearing fruit, good five room house and good out buildings. 2 good springs. I will sell cheap for $1.700 my reason for selling is I am not able to run the farm. If you want a bargain come at once.

J. L. GRAGG
Cass, W. Va.,

Team For Sale

A team of black mares, 6 and 7 years old, weighing 3,000, in fine shape, safe and well broken; also harness. I have rented my farm, or I would not sell them.

C. C. BAXTER,
Onoto, W. Va

Grazing Farm for Sale

70 acres more or less, of the John Adam McNeel land on Laurel Creek; fine grass land. All in sod; big barn, comfortable house and outbuildings, well watered. Apply to

ELMER BAXTER,
Woodrow, W. Va.

FOR RENT

Boarding house at Raywood, W. Va For particulars apply to.

Warn Lumber Corp.
Raywood, W. Va.,

FOR SALE— In the village of Frost, about two and one half acres of land with six room house, cow stable and other buildings. Apply to

E. J. RHEA, Frost, W. Va.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON. W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Marlinton, W. Va.
Furniture made to order and old furniture repaired

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specially of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMEE
DENTIST
First National Bank Building
Phone
Marlinton, W. Va

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton. W. Va.

CHARLES SHINABERRY
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
All calls given prompt attention.

A. J. SHARP
AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va,
Phone Marlinton Central.

DR. F. V. LONERGAN
CHIROPRACTOR
Marlinton, W. Va
Offices at A. C. Bostic's, Camden Ave

Z. S. Smith
Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

Baxter's Garage
MARLINTON W. VA.
FORD Cars and Supplies
FORDSON Tractors
A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.
I. L. BAXTER, Propr.

WANTED—30 or 35 head of cattle for the season by the month good water and good fence.

JAMES N. WHITE,
Woodrow, W. Va.

LOCUST POSTS—Good locust posts for sale, delivered at Marlinton. Apply to FRED HEFNER,
Buckeye, W. Va.

JACOB SHULMAN
WATCHMAKER AND JEWELER
Marlinton, W. Va.
Rosen's Store
Expert watch repairing. Satisfaction guaranteed.

We have safety deposit boxes for rent at ONE DOLLAR per year. Why keep your valuable papers lying around the house. Keep them in a safety box in our vault.

BANK OF MARLINTON

MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA

The Bank of Safety and Service

LOCAL MENTION

Charles Rider had a foot mashed by a log.

Mrs. S. C. Clark returned from Cass, Monday.

Pearl Brown was over from Slaty Fork, Sunday.

Mrs. J. A. McLaughlin is spending some time in Charleston.

R. M. Steel, of Alderson, was in the county last week selling V-C fertilizer.

Arch Galford, of Donmore, was a visitor at this office Saturday morning.

Carter B Hunter, of Sweet Chalybeate, spent Tuesday night with his brother, F. R Hunter.

Robert Slavin, son of Carl W. Slavin, has been sick the past week, threatened with appendicitis.

Andrew Thomas, Harper Thomas, Miss Blanche Pritchard and Miss Hycle Thomas spent Easter at the Hot Springs.

Clyde C. Waugh and family were called to Princeton Monday by the death of Mr. Waugh's sister, Mrs. Lillie Waugh Stull. Her death was due to an attack of appendicitis

Mr. J E Waugh has returned to his home in this city from Princeton, where he was under treatment of Dr. R W. Bird, a specialist in kidney diseases. He is much improved.—W. Va. News.

C. J Richardson, leading citizen and merchant of Marlinton, whose health has been poor recently, went to Richmond Monday to consult Dr Douglas Vanderhoof, a noted specialist, he was accompanied by Mrs. E M. Richardson.

Miss Fonda Donnally, of Richmond, Va., spent Monday night and Tuesday with her parents here. She was on her way to New Orleans, where she will attend the annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans as a maid of honor under appointment of the West Virginia Division, Sons of Confederate Veterans.

Gilbert Overholt was here from Elkins last week.

Rev. Page White continues ill at a hospital in Montgomery.

John C McNeill has been sich with appendicitis for a few days

Mrs. M. G. McClure, of Beard, was a visitor at this office Tuesday.

J. L. Baxter went to Charleston Tuesday to look in on the legislature

J. M. Boggs, of Jacox, was here last week and bought a Fordson tractor.

Rev. Fred B Wyand is down with the flu and will be unable to go to Conference.

J. O. Morrison, after a winter in the Elk woods, is in town for a few days relaxation.

Mrs. Hevener Dilley was brought to the Marlinton Hopital Monday, to be treated for pleurisy.

Judge George W. McClintic, of the Federal Court, is with his brother, L. M. McClintic, this week.

John I. Sharp was up from the G. P. S. for the Easter holidays. Also Craig Richardson from Roanoke College.

Miss Marie Smith was home from Dsvis & Elkins College over Easter. Also her sister, Miss Polly of the Durbin school.

H. M Meeks was in Marlinton Saturday. He has just returned from North Carolina, where he spent the winter.

Miss Agnes L Price of the Charleston High school, and Miss Margaret R. Price, of the Ronceverte High school, spent Easter at home.

Chrrles N. Sheets, of Back Mountain, was here Monday to qualify as administrator of the estate of his grandfather, the late Geo. N. Tacy.

S C Galford of Split Rock brought his daughter Miss Bulah to the Marlinton Hospital on Monday. The young lady has an attack of appendicitis.

Miss Clara A. Keatly, R. N., of Hinton, is here as a special nurse for Fred Young, who is at the Marlinton Hospital recovering from a bad case of appendicitis.

Our friend John W. Kelley, of Browns Mountain, came in to see us Monday, The flu got him this winter ane he is just now feeling good enough to be about.

J Wilson Hill and Wade H. Mc Million were here from Jacox Monday Mr Hill qualified as administrator of the estate of his mother, the late Mrs Margaret J Hill.

O. G. Arbogast was down from Arbovale Monday. He says his father, Rev. C. C Arbogast is in Johns Hopkins Hospital, recovering from a serious operation.

Mr. Runciman returned to his home in Waynesboro Saturday after a short visit with his daughter, Mrs. R S McNeill. While here he bought the McKee residence on Camden Avenue and will move into it soon.

SAVE YOUR MEAT

There has been a great many pounds of meat spoiled in the past few-years caused by the owners not taking the necessary precaution to preserve it. The old smoking process always kept the meat from spoiling and gave it a flavor which added materially to its taste you can get this same flavor and the same results by using WALLACE'S Brand Concentrated Liquid Smoke. This preparation comes in quart bottles, and is applied with a brush to the meat after it is thoroughly cured (either by the dry or pickling process.) Special directions on each bottle. The price is $1.00 per quart it will smoke a barrel of meat. If your dealer hasn't ot it, he will get it for you

Royal Drug Stores, Inc.

Marlinton, W. Va, — Renick, W. Va.

NEWS CULLINGS FROM WEST VIRGINIA

Sisterville—City council is considering a proposition to impose a tax on second-hand automobile dealers.

Parkersburg—Mrs. Rosie O'Bannion, 38, was found dead in her room. No formal reason for the death was given. It is believed the death was of natural cause.

Wheeling—A loose rubber hose connection caused a fire in the home of Charles Hugglett, entailing property damage of $1,000, Fire Chief Edward McGranaham said.

Parkersburg—Local officials of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad state that business is better right now on the lines in this territory and at the local shops than it has been for several years past.

Keyser—Carl S. Cunningham, aged 42, Baltimore and Ohio brakeman was killed under his train at West Virginia Junction, when he fell while shifting cars. He lived here with his wife and two children.

Wheeling — Members of the Ohio county Medical society are already making arrangements for the annual convention of the West Virginia State Medical association which will be held here during four days beginning May 21. Leading physicians from many parts of the United States will be in attendance and deliver lectures.

Warwood—One of the big local events of the coming spring will be the opening of a new fire house at Warwood which is now nearing completion. Contractors expect to have the building in shape so that the firemen can occupy it by the first of May. The firemen of the Warwood company are planning to hold a big celebration the night of the opening which will be followed by a real feast.

Charleston—The county court purchased 200 mattresses from the Charleston Mattress company for use in the new county jail. The pads are 71 by 21 inches and weigh 25 pounds. The purchase price was $5.50 each. A petition for construction of a mile of improved road on the Woodward branch hill was tendered to the court recently. The petitioners offered a right-of-way free and $2,500 in work and money.

Wheeling—Two people were killed here when a freight train collided with a truck, upsetting the latter and pinning the men underneath the wreckage. The victims are Willis Marshall, Jr., and Herman Brizella. The gasoline exploded and eight tons of coal, under which the men were buried, caught fire. The accident occurred at noon when a freight was pulling out of Wheeling. A middle car buckled, it is said, on account of a broken wheel, and crushed the truck against a building which caught on fire.

Bluefield—Grat Bowen's wild gander is dead. In the absence of official record, it is estimated that this goose has reached the century mile stone. This old gander was captured on a pond in Burkes' garden 28 years ago and it was a very wild goose at that time. Some of the pioneers guessed the gander's age at 75 when it was caught. The old fowl flew in over Burkes' garden with a gang of wild geese, was winged and captured and some years later was purchased by Grat Bowen's father.

Huntington—A lock and dam system for the Little Kanawha river will be projected at the next session of the United States congress, it was declared here by Geo. W. Johnson, congressman from the fourth congressional district of West Virginia. The Little Kanawha valley is one of the most fertile fields in the state, he said, and at present is not tapped by any railroad line. A system of locks and dams would make the river navigable, and open the coal fields in the valley to the world, he declared.

Mason City—Virgil Edwards, of this city, sustained injuries when he fell beneath a Baltimore and Ohio railroad freight train near Parkersburg.

Glen Herold is up from Huntington for a few days.

Roy P. Herold, of Youngstown, Ohio, was here last week to see his grandmother, Mrs. Lillie B. Lockridge, who continues in ill health.

Jay Buckley and Reed Moore are among the jurors summoned from this county to the Federal Court at Charleston on April 17.

Blake Adkison was here from Beaver Dam Tuesday. He told us that Sunday morning was the coldest of the whole winter on the mountain, 4 above zero. This was a winter when we had low temperatures on low ground—the coldest at Marlinton being 2 below.

PIE SUPPER

There will be a pie supper at Green Hill school house Saturday April 7th beginning at 7;30. Proceeds for the benefit of the school, Everybody cordially invited.

Mrs. M. J. Adkison died at her home near Staunton. Tuesday. April 3, 1923. Her body was brought to the Ruckman graveyard Wednesday afternoon.

Estray Sheep

A buck sheep has been at Weiford place at Warwick since about the last of October. Owner can have property by proving it and paying cost keep and advertising.

O S. Weiford
Adv. $1.00 Warwick, W. Va.

Administ.ator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of the late Geo. N. Tacy, to present the same proven according to law to the undersigned at his office near Cass, W. Va. All persons indebted to said estate are notified to prepare to settle at once.

This 2nd of April, 1923.

CHARLES N. SHEETS.
Adm'r. estate of Geo. N Tacy, dec'd.

Executor's Sale
of Personal Property
On Friday and Saturday, April 13-14, 1923

As excutor of the estate of the late G. S. Weiford, I will sell at auction at his late home at Warwick, W. Va., the following personal property, consisting of live stock farming utensils and equipment and store goods and fixture:

One team of horses, 8 yrs old, one black Kentucky saddle mare, 6 cows to be fresh, one calf, 1 yearling, 3 hogs, 20 ewes and 1 buck, one Ford car, good condition, fullo equipped; 2 McCormick mowing machines, 1 self dump McCormick rake; 1 wagon, sled, spring wagon, 1 buggy. 1 Empire grain drill, harness, saddles, bridles, etc horse shoeing outfit, axes, sledges, grindstones, tables, copper kettles, etc., patent washing machine, 12 guage Marlin repeating shotgun, a lot of white pine and oak lumber, a barrel of apple vinegar, 60 bushels of oats, 25 to 50bushels, of corn, some hay, lot of grain boxes, locked, 2 telephones, patent churner, lawn mower, and numerous other valuable and useful articles.

Store Goods

The stock of merchandise and store fixtures of the late G. S. Weiford, consisting of dry goods, clothing, shoes, hats, caps. underwear, ribbons, rubber goods, buttons, knives, forks, spoons, dishes, corsets, collars, crockery, hardware, tools, ammunition, family medicines in fact everything kept in this well stocked store, Remington typewriter, 2 telephones, adding machine, automatic scales, Keith credit register, postoffice furniture, seven show cases, step ladders, big bolt case, thread case, a lot of tables.

TERMS—All sums of $10 and under cash; over that amount a credit of four months, note with approved security.

D. N. Weiford,
Executor of the estate of G. S. Weiford,
Herold Auctioneer.

THE BIG SALE
IS STILL GOING ON

Our big sale will continue until the stock of goods is entirely gone. We still have no place to go, and our customers are benefitting by our loss.

Shoes

Just arrived 500 pairs of shoes. They must go with the rest. Come early.

To those whom we have extended credit. We must insist upon you settling your accounts at once.

Furniture and Fixtures For Sale

GEO. ROSEN

Opposite Postoffice Marlinton, W. Va.

MARBLE GRANITE

MEMORIALS OF QUALITY

We have a splendid display of over 300 finished Monuments in stock and if you intend to erect a MEMORIAL of any character this spring or summer it will pay you to write us at once for catalog and samples of our work.
We guarantee the quality of the material, workmanship and the price.

PNUMATIC TOOLS FOR LETTERING AND CARVING.

Clifton Forge Marble & Granite Works

Harry P. Burt, Prop.

1c per roll

with border

3 1-2c per yd

1,000,000 ROLLS

WALL PAPER

FREE--Write for Sample Book Mailed--FREE
50 New 1923 Designs & Colorings Quality

Martin Rosenberger

THE WALL PAPER KING
Mail Order Dep't
No. 31 Rosenberger Bldg. - CINCINNATI, OHIO.

HAVE A LOOK
Headquarters
Visit your nearest store
See the modern WALL PAPER display

Covington, Ky.
Lovisville, Ky.
Newport, Ky.
Cincinnati O.
Hamilton, O.
Dayton, O.
Indianapolis, In.
Richmond, Ind.

Puolic Sale
Friday, April 6
at 1 p. m.
of Household Coods

at A. A. Bostic's residence on Camden Avenue, Marlinton, W Va., consisting of the following—

1 Davenport, 3 rocking chairs
1 Columbia Victrola, 1 library table
1 buffet, 1 dining table and 6 chairs
2 dressers, 3 bedsteads, 1 refridgerator
2 felt mattresses, 3 rugs 9x12
1 Singer sewing machine
1 Sellers Kitchen cabinet
3 burner oil stove, a lot of dishes
Cooking utensils, canned fruit
1 pcarch swing, lot of empty jars
1 lot of tools and other articles too numerous to mention.

Terms made known on day sale.

Mrs A. A. BOSTIC.

FOR SALE—About one acre of land with good 7 room house, cement cellar, barn, chicken house and garage, in the town of Clover Lick, W. Va near the large saw mill of A. D. Neill & Son Co. Has a large garden and 15 improved fruit tree, just coming into bearing. Will sell reasonable if sold quick, a fine home for any one who wants to follow public works.

W. A. HIVELY,
Dunmore, W. Va.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to thank the good people of Spruce Flat and Buckeye for their kindness and sympathy shown us durind the illness and death of our beloved husband and father.

Mrs. Rena Loudermilk and children.

Notice to Contractors

Sealed proposals will be received by the State Road Commission of West Virginia at its office in Charleston, W. Va., until 10 o'clock a. m. on the First day of May, 1923, and opened and read immediately thereafter, at the Kanawha County Court House, Charleston, W Va., for the surface treatment of the following section of State road—

Projects 79-A and 1068, Pocahontas County—3.5 miles for cleaning and tar cold surface application including cover coat. Certified check $500.00.

Proposals will be received only on State Standard forms, in accordance with plans, specifications and estimate of quantities therefor, which standard forms, plans, specifications and estimate of quantities may be obtained from the Division Engineer at Fayetteville, W. Va., or from the office of the State Road Commission at Charleston, W. Va

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount above specified.

The right is reserved to reject any and all proposals.

THE STATE ROAD COMMISSION OF WEST VA.
E. B. Carskadon, Secretary.

— $3,000 —
Valuable Farm for Sale

Seventy acres, 5 miles from County Seat, Marlinton, W. Va., hard surface road out to farm. Joins 2 room graded school building, quarter of a mile to church. 30 acres in good state of cultivation, balance in pasture and woodland; good 8-room dwelling and outbuildings, 12x16 cement cellar, good well at house, cement curb. Farm watered by running streams. Orchard of 50 improved apple trees, about 1-2 acres of raspberries, 20 large bunches of currents. Can give good terms of settlement to purchaser. If interested, call or write

Mrs ALLIE LANDIS
Marlinton, W. Va.

Realestate

Do you want a good money—making farm at a bargain price by request of many of my friends here and in West Virginia, I have taken up the Realestate Agency here and at present time. I have a number of choice bargains to offer some fully stocked and equipped stock tools and crops, if you will see me before you buy, I will locate you right and save you money, write for prices your wants, etc. Will have catalogue out in short time.

P. L. WILLIAMS,
Hartstown, Pa.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all parties having claims against the estate of the late Mrs. Margaret J. Hill to present the same proven according to law to the undersigned administrator at Jacox, W. Va. All persons owing said estate will please prepare to settle at once.

This 2nd day of April, 1923

J. WILSON HILL,
Administrator of Mrs. Margaret J. Hill, dec'd

Fiduciary Notice

Notice is hereby given that the final settlement of the accounts of J. A. Patterson, administrator of the estate of the late Rachel Patterson are before the undersigned commissioner of accounts of Pocahontas County, W. Va. for settlement.

This 4th of April, 1923.

T. S. McNEEL, Comr.

PIGS FOR SALE—Booking order for Duroc Jersey, male pigs, farrowed March 18, 1923 Registered in purchasers name. Good type. Orders must be at hand, by April 30. Write quickly.

CLARENCE MAY,
Beard, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLI NO 35 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, APRIL 12, 1923 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

OFFICERS WERE SHOT AT

IN A RAID ON HEAD OF THE GREENBRIER

Acting under a moonshine warrant a party of officers went to the Sinks country last Sunday to arrest Melvin Gawthrop. The party was composed of Capt R. F. Beasley, deputy U. S. Marshall, L. S. Cochran, Sergeant of Cass. E. W. Cochran, Constable B. B. Beard, Sheriff, and J. L. Warwick, went with them in a car as far as the road ran. The sheriff is still disabled with a sprained ankle received in the engagement of Buffalo Mountain two or three weeks ago.

The party of officers were walking on the trail leading to the extreme headwaters of the East Fork of Greenbrier, and they met two boys, sons of the man they were looking for, about a mile from their home. They asked the way to Horton. The boys went on They appeared to be about 11 and 16 years of age, respectively.

Arrived at the Gawthrop homestead the house was locked and apparently deserted. Across the front door was a bed, and it afterwards appeared that this was not a special barricade against the officers, as that was the customary place for the bed, the front door being dispensed with as an entrance. The back door was secured by a wooden button on the inside An alarm being made at the door there was no answer. The officers prepared to go in. Capt. Beasley saw some signs of contraband through one window and he opened it, and was looking in when Mrs. Gawthrop came into the room and the officer halted her. Just at this time L S. Cochran put his shoulder to the door and broke it open. In the house were Gawthrop and his wife, and a man named Barclay and his son. The officers found signs of mash and moonshine. No still being in the house, a search was begun by circling the premises, and just then, some one or more persons on the mountain side opened fire with a high powered rifle upon the officers and the bullets fell around them, and one shot wounded Captain Beasley, in the hand, making a bloody but not necessarily serious wound. The officers not being in a good position withdrew and took a stand on higher ground and sent a flanking party around, but found no one.

The littler of the two boys appeared at home while the officers were there but the bigger boy did not show up

Gawthrop was brought to jail. He will probably be taken to the federal court at Charleston for trial.

Capt. Beasley is a resident of Hinton. He had been for twenty-six years with the C & O. and was a conductor on that railroad when he was appointed a deputy marshall last May.

Henry Ryder, of Anthonys Creek, was before U. S Commissioner A. E. Smith Monday morning, charged wite violating the Volstead law. He was held to the Federal Grandjury.

Sunday school attendance at the Methodist Church 219; at the Presbyterian, 171.

L. O. Simmons is imprvoing his property by the addition of a bath room.

PLANS MOVEING FORWARD FOR GREATER COUNTY FAIR

The officers, directors and department superintendents of the Pocahontas County Fair for 1923 are now hard at work bending their efforts toward making it one of the best county fairs in the state.

There is no doubt in the minds of our progressive citizens that the Pocahontas County Fair will be a permanent success, the best possible advertisement towards the upbuilding of our county, and a source of pleasure.

This year again with competent business men in charge, donating a great deal of their time and energy towards making it a big success, there is absolutely no reason why a great fair for 1923 will not result. However, the entire co operation of the progressive citizens of the county is absolutely essential for its greater success.

These department heads are as follows—General manager, Z. S Smith Horses, E M. Richardson, Cattle, A. C. Barlow, Onoto, Sheep, Dr. U H Hannah, Cass, Hogs, W. McClintic, Poultry, W. A. Arbogast, Millpoint, Household, Mrs. J. A. Sydenstricker, Club, H. C. C. Willey, Agrculture, Horliculture and Gardens, E H. Williams, Home Coming, T. S. McNeel.

The department heads ask the cooperation of everyone who can do so to arrange to have exhibits at the Fair and get them in on time. A large and attractive premium list will soon be ready for distribution. Additional buildings will be erected to take care of the exhibits and many added features will make it much more attractive than last year.

The homecoming week feature of our fair gives us the opportunity of meeting old friends, which is a great pleasure, and your assistance is making this feature of the fair a big success is asked by Mr T. S. McNeel, the superintendent of this department.

Suggestions for the betterment of our fair from any progressive patron will be gladly considered by the management.

All communications should be addressed to the Pocahontas County Fair Inc., Marlinton, W. Va.

GREENBRIER PRESBYTERY

Greenbrier Presybtery met in Ronceverte church on Monday night. Calvin W. Price, of Marlinton, was elected moderator, and Rev. J. T. Pharr and Elder E C. Curry, clerks. The stated clerk is Rev. J E. Flow.

Among those in attendance from the Pocahontas Churches are Revs. H. H. Orr, J C Johnson, O. N. Miles D. M. Monroe and Fred W Gray, Elders J. H. Buzzard, John R. Hevener, and Calvin W. Price.

Mr. and Mrs M. L. Comstock, of Huntington, announce the marriage of their daughter, Myrtle Elizabeth to Arthur William McClelland, on Wednesday April 4, 1923. Many friends in Marlinton will remember Mrs. McClelland, who lived here at one time.

Wallace W. Beard is dangerously ill at his home in Hillsboro and on account of his advanced age there is little hope of his recovery.

CIRCUIT COURT

LAW ORDERS

Rachel Swink v C. E. Carpenter and others, judgment $507.71.

State v Ira Alderman, dismissed.

State v Esco Alderman dismissed.

State v J. W. Moore, forfeiture on bond made absolute.

Frank Isbell v T. P. McNeel, judgment $548 48

State v Garfield Scott, forfeiture on bond made absolute

Doubleday-Hill Electric Co. v H. G Greer, judgment $448.45.

C J. Richardson v J. W, Yeager judgment $320 38.

State v Boyd Rexrode, not guilty.

State v J. A. Cleek, dismissed.

State v Summers Gibson, 60 days and $100.

State v Al Weekly, verdict, guilty.

State v Winters Gibson, not guilty.

State v Emory Lester, verdict guilty, set aside and case dismissed.

State v Ernest Weiford, not guilty.

State v Wm. Dudley, verdict, life imprisonment.

State v Charles Markin, two months and $100 00. Same in another case, sentences not to run concurrently.

State v Denver Rider, not guilty.

State v Edgar Sharp, hung jury.

CHANCERY ORDERS

W. F. Kelley's estate, fund in hands of receiver ordered paid over to F. B. Hunter; guardian.

Wray A. Crook v Lyman McClure, decree of sale.

State v 93, 53, 474, 78 acres, redeemed.

Dr. G. F. Hull v W. I Gregory, decree of referee.

Hiner & Gum v W. E. Dumire, decree of sale.

Olie Hefner v Rachel Lewis, A. C. Barlow, Frank Baxter and E H. Williams appointed commissioners to partition George A. Lewis' estate.

Bank of Marlinton v Limestone Lumber Co. decree of sale of timber.

H. H. Waugh, guardian, v Cecil Gay, decree of sale.

Andrew Price, truste, v I. Rosen, sale confirmed of store house property to Hubert Echols, trustee.

Bank of Marlinton v C. S. Curry, decree of sale.

Marlinton Electric Co. v F. A. Degler, decree of sale.

William Letcher Moore, aged 62 years, died at the home of his brother, Adam C. Moore, on April 5, 1923. The cause of his death was pneumonia. Burial at Bethel church on Sunday. Mr. Moore was a son of the late James C. Moore and Mrs. Esther Nottingham Moore His wife was a daughter of R. S. Shrader, who with their three children, departed this life years ago. A part of his life was spent in the west. He is survived by his sister, Mrs. Matilda Gabbert, and his brother, Adam C. Moore. He was of a retiring disposition but withal a good citizen and had acquired considerable wealth

---

Rev. Fred B. Wyand, after two most successful years as pastor of the Marlinton Methodist church goos to Monterey. Rev Mr. Billingsly comes as pastor of the Methodist church Rev. John Rosenberger moves from Greenbank to White Sulphur Springs. No change at Huntersville, Hillsbore of Levels charge.

Dr. A C. McCoy has been very sick with flu the past week.

MRS. PETER HILL

At 8.00 A.M. on the morning of March the 16th 1923 death came to the relief of Mrs. Margaret J. Hill wife of Peter Hill of Jacox.

On January the 9th Mrs. Hill was paralyzed in her left side and later the right side of her body except arms became helpless and during the interveing weeks she lay in a semi-conscious state and never regained entire consciousness of her surroundings, she was given medicial attention and the best of sympathetic care by her children, but all was of no avail.

She completed her 78th year on January 11th two days after she was striken.

Before her marriage Mrs. Hill was Miss Margaret J. Whiting daughter of Ebenezer and Sallie McMillion Whiting, long deceased and leaves of her parental family one brother Geo. W. Whiting of Renick and Mrs. Fannie Callison of Bound Brook, New Jersey, with her aged husband three sons, Wilson, of Jacox, Geo. of Hillsboro, and Simon W. Regent N. D. and three daughters Mrs. Lena Hanna of Spring Creek, Mrs. Mary Morrison of Renick and Mrs. Anna Curry of Renick Valley, with several grand children and a wide circle of relatives and friends to be touched by sorrows have in her going.

All of her children ministered to her needs dursng her illness except her son Dr. Simon, who could not well leave his medical practice for the long winter journey.

Two sons, Sherman and Dr Ernest B. preceded her in death, Sherman having died in far away California and Dr. Ernest whose tragic death at Marlinton, will be remembered by many.

Mrs Hill had been the wife of Mr. Hill for almost 56 years and had spent all but a few months of their married life at their home at Jacox and by hard work, and self sacrifice had built up a good home and prospered financially and many a person can testify to Mrs. Hills financial help during some time of need.

On March the 18th, Sunday, her funeral service was conducted by her pastor Rev K. H. Bird at Hills Chapel, and her earthly remains were followed by a large crowd of friends and relatives to the graveyard near by and there laid away to await the great resurrection. The floral offering was beautiful, part being sent by her son from far off North Dokota who could not be present. As we looked at the lovely flower on her breast underneath her heart, we thought of the sorrow of the son who had so thoughtfully chosen and sent as a tribute of love.

Mrs. Hill professed saving faith in Christ in early womanhood and some that remembered of that time have told us of the joy that was manifested by her father, she united with the members of the M. E. Church and remained a member the remainder of her life and we trust that she has gone to join the church triumphant and with so many of her friends that have preceded her to the "other side".

May God's comforting grace mean more to the bereaved ones than it has ever done before S. V. M

MRS. STULL DEAD

The community received a shock early yesterday morning with the announcement of the sudden death of Mrs. M. K Stull, which occurred in Memorial Hospital at 1 o'clock April 3, 1923. Mrs Stull had been in the hospital for several days, and was getting along so well she was expecting to go to her home this week. She had been laughing and talking with visiting friends Sunday night, and was very bright and happy. When she took a sudden turn for the worse her physicians discovered pulmonary embolism was the cause, and the end came in a short while.

Mrs Stull was a consistent Christian a devoted wife, a kind loving mother, a charitable friend and neighbor and a good citizen. She was a loyal member of several fraternal orders, where her sunny presence will be greatly missed.

Her going leaves a husband and seven children without a guiding spirit in the home, and in their sad bereavement they have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire town. In addition to these the deceased is survived by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Waugh, of Ronceverte; two sisters, Mrs. J. F. Taylor of Montgomery, and Mrs. C. R. Groves, of Ronceverte; seven brothers, John W. of Montgomery; Lee and Wilk of Ronceverte; George and Clyde of Marlinton and Sam and Quille of Cass.

The funeral services were conducted from the First Baptist Church Wednesday afternoon followed by interment at the Oakwood Cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. W. H. Wrighton and Rev R. M Sims —Bluefield Telegram.

C J. Jehne, agricultural agent of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company, was in town last week to look us over and confer with County Agent Willey over the possibility of raising seed potatoes on our high grounds for seed, to be used by the early market potatoes of lower Virginia and the Eastern shore He provided a number of bushels of certified seed to be tried out by a number of growers.

F. M. Sydnor is in Virginia this week.

House For Sale

I will sell my house and lots, near the court house, in the town of Marlinton consisting of eight room house, three lots good garden, cellar and out buildings, water on both floors, bath room and electric lights. Terms reasonable.

T S. McNEEL,
Marlinton, W. Va.

LIFE SENTENCE

WILLIAM DUDLEY FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

William Dudley, aged about 45 years, was found guilty of murder in the first degree with recommendation by the jury of a sentence for life in the penitentiary, Saturday evening. He was charged with the murder of Bascom McFall in the town of Cass on the night of December 19, 1918. With him was indicted at the March 1923, grandjury, Samuel Davis, a lumberman, and Charles James, colored, known as "Jellyroll." Davis will be tried at June Court, and the colored man is serving time in the penitentiary for shooting a negro woman in Cass, on the morning following the killing of McFall. He was to have been brought to Marlinton as a witness in the trial of Dudley, but went insane and is now in an asylum.

Dudley and Davis elected to be tried separately. As the trial of Davis is yet to come, it is not thought proper to review the trial of Dudley in this paper, interesting reading though it is Suffice it to say that it was one of the hardest fought trials ever staged in the Pocahontas court. The prosecution was conducted by Prosecuting Attorney A. P. Edgar and Lawyer F. R. Hill. and the defendant was represented by Senator N. C. McNeil. Two and a half days were taken to try the case. The jury was given the case Saturday afternoon, and they were not long in arriving at a verdict of guilty with recommendation of a lifetime sentence.

Bascom McFall was a young man from Greenbrier county, aged about 20 years. He had been employed in the Cheat woods, and was coming out for Christmas with a roll of several hundred dollars on his person. He left his grip in the Cass depot and went over on the east side and disappeared. He was last seen in the company of Dudley and Davis. Four months later his dead body was found in a laurel patch a few hundred yards above the town of Cass His throat had been cut.

Ever since McFall was killed the State's Attorney has been working on the case. In the past few months the mystery began to unravel, and they were able to bring to light a line of evidence which convinced the jury of the guilt of William Dudley.

Dudley's home is at Caldwell in Greenbrier county. He is perhaps 45 years of age. He has been following the woods in Pocahontas County for the past twenty or more years.

THE GOLDEN TOUCH

The long looked for KING MIDAS Flour is here

You probably have received by this time your check and circular letter telling all about this great flour. Turn the check in within 30 days and get a sack of this flour at reduced price. What do you pay for Flour ?

Peoples Store & Supply Co.
MARLINTON, W. VA.

DURBIN

Mrs. M. C. Cavenaugh got her eye badly hurt last week.

S. C. Goodsell and C. R. Beard have both installed radios and can get messages from any part of the U. S.

G. W. Cochran is moving to Bemis this week.

U. W. Burner and J. S. Burner, of Burner Mt. were business visitors in town the first of the week.

A delegation from the Greenbank High school was in town on bueiness Saturday.

W. D, Slaven & Co. is moving the store goods to Greenbank to the T. P. Moyer's building.

J. F. Ashford and W. W. Marshall are preparing to farm their lots.

J. L Slavin is clearing up his farm and preparing for a crop.

R. L. Shiflet has been in Elkins the past week on business.

J. B Nottingham was in town last week on business.

G. P. Baxter is down from Clover Lick this week.

Amusu Theatre

PROGRAM

THURSDAY —"In The Name OF The Law." Added Attraction, "Vaudevil" Movies, no advance in admission.

FRIDAY—Edna Murphy and Johnnie Walker in "The Solt", also In The Days of Buffalo Bill. SEE Lincoln's funeral train.

SATURDAY—Monty Blue in "The Kentuckian" an appealing story of the Blue Ridge Mountains, also Larry Seamon Comedy.

MONDAY and TUESDAY —"The Ninty and Nine", a re-creation of an old stage favorite, featuring Colleen Moore and Warner Baxter.

COMING WED. aub THURS.—"Nanook of the North."

At a regular meeting of Pocahontas Encampment No. 111, I. O. O. F. held Tuesday evening March 27, 1923, C. E Denison was elected representative and C. S. Wiley, alternate to Grand Encampment to be held in Morgantown, May 10-11, 1923.

Elmer Sharp is one of the citizens summoned to Charleston April 7, as a petit juror in the United States Court.

Going to Buy a New Car This Spring?

—Then Consider These Facts:

The "Mileage-Basis" Plan

Main Bearings—40,000 miles or more without attention.
Valves—15,000 miles or more without need of grinding.
Connecting Rods—40,000 miles or more without attention.
Cylinders, Pistons, Rings—Guaranteed in writing 15,000 miles.
Gas Mileage—20 to 25 miles per gallon.
Tires—15,000 to 25,000 miles per set.
Transmission, Axles, and Major Parts—Life of the car.

1 The Oakland Six-44 is an outstanding success! Every day, more and more buyers are convincing themselves that no other automobile offers an equal dollar-for-dollar value! In little more than a year, the demand has taxed the production facilities of the Oakland factory!

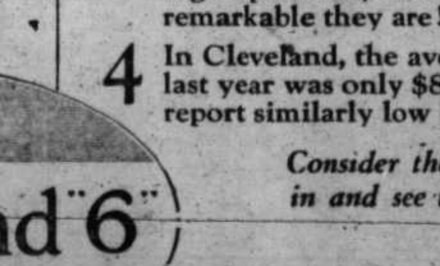
2 Oakland is so confident of the superiority of its engine that it gives a written 15,000 mile guarantee against excess oil in the combustion chamber—proof of the superiority of Oakland's cylinder, piston and ring construction. Only Oakland offers such a guarantee.

3 Only Oakland gives you a definite gauge with which to estimate the actual mileage an Oakland will deliver—free from expense. Consider Oakland's figures (elsewhere in this advertisement) in the light of your own motoring experience, and you'll appreciate how remarkable they are!

4 In Cleveland, the average upkeep on Six-44's last year was only $8.06 per car. Other cities report similarly low averages.

Consider these facts—come in and see the Oakland Six

Oakland "6"



Touring Car $995

Roadster	$ 975
Sport Roadster	1145
Sport Touring	1165
Coupe for Two	1185
Coupe for Five	1445
Sedan	1545

Prices F. O. B. Factory

D. W. WILLIAMS
Marlinton West Va.

THE 20TH CENTURY WONDER SHOW

SPARKS CIRCUS

THE PRIDE OF THE TENTED WORLD

THIS SEASON AUGMENTED BY THE WORLD'S FINEST DISPLAY of TRAINED WILD BEASTS

350 ARENIC ARTISTS 40 CAGE MENAGERIE

2 HERDS OF PERFORMING ELEPHANTS

A MIGHTY ACHIEVEMENT IN CLEAN AMUSEMENT!

Note: IN THE PRESENT ERA OF THE AUTOMOBILE, LOVERS OF HORSES THE WORLD OVER HAVE RAISED THE CRY "PERPETUATE THE HORSE", AN APPEAL WITH WHICH THE SPARKS CIRCUS IS IN PERFECT ACCORD. THIS ORGANIZATION RAISES AND EXHIBITS HUNDREDS OF BEAUTIFUL THOROUGHBRED HORSES SEE THEM IN THE SENSATIONAL FOX HUNT, HIGH SCHOOL EXHIBITIONS AND HIGH JUMPING CONTESTS.

TWO PERFORMANCES DAILY AT 2 and 8 P.M.

DOORS OPEN ONE HOUR EARLIER TO ALLOW PUBLIC AMPLE TIME TO VISIT THE COMPREHENSIVE MENAGERIE

GORGEOUS FREE STREET PARADE AT 10:30 A.M. RAIN OR SHINE

PRICES Children under twelve 30c. Adults 75c. Price includes War Tax

Seats on Sale Circus Day at Kee & McNeil Drug Co. Same Price as at Circus Ground.

Circus Ground MARLINTON WEDNESDAY APRIL 25

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THURSDAY APRIL 12, 1923

Marlinton, W. Va., April 7, 1923. A good deal is going on in this town this week. The big court is in sesson. The steam shovel is injuring the trailing arbutus along the Seneca Trail And the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse was given at the theater.

The time of the court the first week was taken up with the subjects of moonshine and murder, an unhappy pair which the devil has joined together. The juries passed on six whiskey cases the first week in which three verdicts were guilty and three were not guilty. One man interposed the defense that a barrel of matter set his back yard near the gate was hog feed and not mash for the manufacture of whiskey. A jury of farmers mostly inspected the samples and brought in a verdict of guilty. In these trials at the courthouse the distilling cases which are felonies require a stage setting. The apparatus is set up in the open space before the jury box and the legal battle is waged around the still. The unfortunate manufacturer sees his plant under new conditions, and in most cases he refuses to recognize it.

There is one feature to these trials that is regrettable, and that is to see the display of the season's catch all exhibited before the body of the county of Pocahontas in open court assembled, leads a stranger to believe that moonshining is common in this county. That is not so. The stills are maintained in the profoundest secret and no one is allowed to continue a day after its existence is suspected. The average citizen does not know where he could get a drop of liquor if his life depended upon it. He does not even think of it as an item of any interest to him in his scheme of life.

It is a precarious business at best. In the Weakly case, it looks like the owner endeavored to locate in Greenbrier county and got into Pocahontas inadvertantly. He was in Teaberry Hollow a little valley about a mile long which opens into the Greenbrier River well across the line in Greenbrier but the river here seems to have been turned off of its general north and south course and when the man went a short distance at right angles to the river he crossed the line back into this county, the line at this place angling up the hill at an accute angle. Here a couple of Jim Rock's boys of school age took a nigh cut home with their grandfather, George B. Cochran, an octogenarian. As they walked up the mountain, Mr Cochran noticed that a tree had been sawn down, and as that was on his land he got interested. He had given no one permission to cut timber. Peering through the big laurel the boys saw the defendant and heard some talk about wood for a hot fire that night, and saw them working with a still. Weakly was convicted.

The Hatfield still was found on Bucks Run a beautiful little triboutatary of Swago Creek. This enterprise had been suspected for some months. Last fall a raid was made at a secluded place on Swago Mountain, called Camp Socret, on account of a hidden camp there by some soldiers in the Civil War, but the still was not found. In February, the officers beginning at Ernest Welford's house followed a path to the summer spring and close there they found signs of a furnace and a few steps farther on found the still in a tree top. Continuing the search they came to a place where a tree had fallen out of root, and the ground sounded hollow. Uncovering some ground hidden by leaves they found a box buried in the ground, and in it were two tubs of mash, and a lantern burning to generate heat to hasten the fermentation. Hatfield, a boarder at Ernest Weiford's was taken and he confessed and was sentenced to the penitentiary, and he took all the blame on himself, and exculpated Weiford from any guilty knowledge or complicity in the enterprise. A long trial was had over Weiford, but he protested his innocence so strongly before the jury, that after a long deliberation, a verdict of not guilty was brought in. Weiford showed that he was kept in the house ten days before the raid nursing a sick baby, so it might be said that his defense was a lullaby.

In the case of Emory Lester, a somewhat similar case, Tracy Phillips was seized red handed with a still in his house on the head of Clover Creek last fall and was tried and sentenced to State prison. After his conviction he accused Lester as being the owner of the still. Phillips was brought back from the convict camp to testify and the jury brought in a verdict of guilty. In the trial of the case, the witness Phillips fell down on some important details. He testified that when the officers come in sight of his house that Lester was present and ran through an open field and got away. The officers testified that they had seen no one, and the trial judge remembered that at the trial of Phillips, that an officer testified that he had lain nearby on a summer's day and watched the house from before daylight until the posse came back to make the raid and that there were no other persons visible on the Phillips premises besides the Phillips family. Lester had a good alibi also as having been in Marlinton on that day. The court feeling that there was danger here of convicting an innocent man, set the verdict aside, and on motion of the prosecuting attorney, a nolle was entered in the case. The action of the court in this matter met with universal approval, for it is important that in this war on evil that the men charged with meting out justice keep their heads. And this thing of danger from false accusation is an ever present source of discomfort.

There was a feature of the vigilance of the officers of the law present at this court that ought to give the potential moonshiner pause, and that was an observer in the shape of a federal officer who heard and weighed the evidence as it was given and in some cases the the defendent was informed that he would get a trip to Charleston there to answer for alleged violations of the federal law in regard to intoxicating liquor. It is a day full of sorrow for the lawbreaker

Round about the cauldron go.
In the reek'ng ferment throw,
Mash preparing for the stew.
Days and nights had twenty-two,
Sweltered venon. sleeping rot,
Boil thou first in the charmed pot;
With furtive air and bated breath,
Spirits of potential death,
Stoke the fire and stir the stew,
Bottle up the devil brew,
For a charm of powerful trouble,
Like a hell-broth boil and bubble,
Double, double toil and trouble,
Fire burn and cauldron bubble.

The case of the State against William Dudley was called on Thursday and ended on Saturday when the jury brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree with life imprisonmnnt. The charge was the murder of Bascom McFall. The indictment was against William Dudley, Samuel Davis, and a negro locally known a Jellyroll. The negro was sentenced some years ago in this county for another murder and is now held as an insane criminal. Davis and Dudley, two men of mature years, were led to the bar, and they elected to be tried separately. Davis was sent back to jail and was not called as a witness by either side.

Dudley is a man about forty, sandy complexion, and with an iron nerve He was raised at Caldwell in Greenbrier county. On the 19th day of December, 1918, Bascom McFall, a young man whose home was in Greenbrier county, drew his pay and came out of the woods at Cass, to take the afternoon train for his home. It was the first time he had ever been away from home and he had a pocketful of money and was now going home for the Christmas holidays. He went across the river at Cass to the east side while waiting for the train, got some liquor, missed his train, and the next morning he was missing. His body was found in April of the following year in the thicket near Cass. It was apparent that he had been murdered by the cutting of the throat and that his body had been hidden behind a log. The case caused great excitemont at the time, especially on the account of the fact that about that period a number of woodsmen had been found dead and it looked like a system of thuggery had been established. A Burns detective went to work on the case together with the local officers, but the years passed without enough evidence to warrant a trial. Last winter certain disclosuaes were made by witnesses who were in Cass on the night of the murder, and an indictment was found at the March term, 1923, and the trial resulted The venire of jurymen having been exhausted in securing a panel of twelve for the one trial it was decided to postpone the trial of Davis until the June term.

The case was painstaking and exhaustive. Edgar and Hill for the State presented a most wonderfully prepared accusation, and McNeil made a notable defense for the prisoner. Dudley was convicted four years to the day from the time the body was found.

Owing to the fact that the trial of Davis is impending, it is not thought advisable to go into the evidence in detail at this time.

"Court will contimue until the 19th and perhaps longer.

Turning from the tragedies of the court-house to those of the drama, some of us sat for two hours and fifteen minutes studying the terrible side of life in the little theater, in the presentation of the Four Horseman of the Apocalypse, of the 6th chapter of Revelations, the white horse of conquest, red horse of war, the black horse of pestilence, and the pale horse of death. The play based on the book of that name by this person Ibenez, the Spanish writer, whose intense books, I do not care for.

The moving picture the highest form of drama. It is another case proving that as to drama the public is always right. Certainly it is not hard on the tympanum.

The play starts with a scene in Argentine, where the old cattleman looks out on a plain containing thousands of fine bred cattle. This landscape alone is a wonder and if the play had ceased right in the beginning there would have been something to remember. The old cattleman dies and leaves his millions to his two daughters. One has married a German and this family goes to Germany. The other has married a Frenchman and they go to France. and in this way, the world war opens with one family fighting on the German side and the other fighting on the French side, and from that time on it is a war picture.

The Four Hoarsemen of the Eucalyptus appear momentarily from time to time but do not greatly figure in the production. Just about enough to give it a name that is hard to remember. The last sight of them is when they are pointed out as still riding as they will ride to the end of time, at full gallop in the middle distance where they are too far off to show their hellish characteristics and in this final glimpse they look more like Four Horsetraders of the Ap palachees.

There are many dramatic thrills The execution of four or five French citizens by a German firing squad, and the defiance that the victims showed is a great moment.

The problem of the picture to us was the mysterious benignant Stranger who figured in the life of Paris. In our group we guessed all the way from the Saviour to the Wondering Jew, but in the watches of the night it occurred to me that it was meant to portray the presence of Saint John the Divine, the writer of the Book of Revelations. There were three: John the Baptist, John whose surname was Mark, and Saint John.

It is very good for the soul to sit through such tribulation as this performance portrays. It is enough to cause fires that are dying down to blaze again, to see the American troops against the dawn of the morning under the stars and stripes marching to settle the conflict. And the lesson shows the uselessness of war, and rouses again the resentment against the war party in Germany that brought on the trouble.

Yet about once in a lifetime is enough for this agony. I greatly prefer the portrayal of incidents in the life of pleasant people, and the inevitable happy ending, the quid pro quo. for which I have paid my quarter. Let me enjoy this breathing spell of peace.

It is probably true that the four horsemen still ride.

Our side of the river now looks like a devasted area in France, for a steam shovel has sheared away the foot of the mountain. The curse of the road, the horrid name "Detour," has been posted and we are being improved half to distraction by the great state highway We have a new name for our place. We call it "The Scar." Just across from our house among the innumerable small stones the first trailing arbutus used to show up. It is no more. The contest between the steam shovel and the arbutus was an unequal struggle. The inglorious arts of peace are being practiced and the steam shovel flitted up and down the road for days with a mysterious caterpillar tread, and has passed on. The catterpiller part of the contraption looks like an endless chain belt, but how on earth one part of a belt can move while the other part remains quiescent, is more than I have been able to figure out.

There is another matter I want to discuss. It is a question of natural history, A bird question, and I was always weak on birds. A gentleman came to me on the street and knowing my propensity to talk about things that I know little about, said that his home was in Greenbrier and that they had positively identified the nightingale as a habitat of that county. At the time I treated it as unimportant even if true, and as I was at the moment in pursuit of my daily bread, I did not go into the question with him as fully as I might have if I had had the news switch thrown on. But I did ask him a few questions on cross-examination, and found that he was basing his allegation on the powers of a certain bird to mimic other birds.

This I later referred to the local ornithologists, Col. O. H. Kee and Ligon Price, and in an informal investigation which we conducted it was decided that the bird that they have mistaken for a nightingale is the yellow breasted chat, the mirth provoking clown among birds, which can mimic all other birds. Especially is it good on the opening notes of the bob white. And its rendition of a bunch of young crows is greatly appreciated by all bird-lovers It is a distant cousin of the nightingale, but while the nightingale is supposed to find a rosebush and push its breast against a thorn and warble a plaintive melody that produces tears and poems in the nighttime, in the old country, our well beloved chat is found of reproducing the discussion that goes on in the nest of the crows, as to which one shall have the tidbit that old man crow has brought home for the family. The chat will accompany his performance with the most ludicrous flirting of the tail and twisting of the head. The next time you hear something break loose in the woods in the nature of vaudeville, if you are careful you may see this actor at work. Even in flying, this bird is mirth provoking, as it jerks its tail upward.

The nightingale is not an American bird. One of the names for the common red bird, the one that is seen in winter sometimes, is the Virginia nightingale, but there seems to be no good reason to liken it to the nightingale. This is the cardinalis virginianus. It belongs to the gros-beak (big bill) family.

So on the whole we reject the report that nightingales have come to Greenbrier county, with all due respects to the gentleman who reported them. It is a case of mistaked identity.

The nightingale is a very old bird. It is mentioned in mythology as being the reincarnation of the unhappy Philomela. There were a lot of unpleasant persons in the connection. If you want to appear knowing you can call that bird, Philomela. It seems that Philomela was married to Tereus, King of Daulis, and he got tired of her and married Procne, his sister in law, telling her that Philomela was dead When Procne learned the truth she threatened to spill the beans, and the king to keep her quiet cut out her tongue. Procne could not write but she could do needlework and she worked on a robe and that made Philomela wise. The two sisters in order to show that they disapproved of the king's action, butchered Itys, the king's son, and served his meat up to the king at table. Things had got to such a pass that the gods could not longer ignore the caryings on and changed them all to birds. Procne became a swallow; Philomela, a nightingale; Teraus, a hoopoe; Itys, a pheasant. And to fly over them all. Pandion, King of Attica, was made a fishhawk.

Milton says: "The wakeful nightingale; she all night long her amourous descant sung."

That statement should be modified owing to the fact that only the male of the species sings, the female being mute.

We are anxiously awaiting a bunch of confidential chats that frequented our clearing last year and made a noise like a wagon load of monkeys with their tails burned off. These chats went on the southern tour.

For Sale

20 H P Frick sawmill boiler and engine complete. Good 60 Diston saw, Cutoff saw, lot light steel rail, lath mill, one lumber truck.

Nixon & Pritchard,
4wks. Dunmore, W. Va.

FARM FOR SALE — 200 acres on Cloverlick, good rich land, about 70 acres in sod. Balance cut overland, but has a lot of good timber on it. House, barn, and fine water.

Ellis M. Buzzard,
Huntersville, W. Va.

After Every Meal

WRIGLEY'S

Top off each meal with a bit of sweet in the form of WRIGLEY'S.

It satisfies the sweet tooth and aids digestion.

Pleasure and benefit combined.

A share of your business solicited

T. S. McNEEL
INSURANCE AND BONDS

Marlinton W. Va.

Successor o oodsell Insurance Agency

Life, Fire and Accident, Automobiles and Live Stock, Bonds of all kinds, Money to Loan on Farms.

Office 2nd floor, First National Bank Building.

For Sale

One and one fourth acres ground, good four room house with two porches, cement cellar and good well at kitchen door, wood house, chicken house and all out buildings.

Terms reasonable.

C. M. Jordan
Huntersville, W. Va.

Look Farmers

Twice as much potash in Little Giant Crop Growers as formerly used. See your V-C dealer before buying

Man Wanted

An allround carriage man to work on band mill of the Marlin Lumber Company. Apply to

H. A. OVERHOLT,
Marlinton. W. Va.

Bees For Sales

Full blood Italian bees, colonies in patent hives. Free from disease. $8 60 per colony, delivered to express office.

A. E. MOORE,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Bark to Peel

I want to contract the cutting and peeling of 2,000,000 feet spruce and hemlock, reliable parties wanted. Also two teams for sale 5 and 7 yrs old weight 2,800 and 2,900 lbs good farm or log horses, reason for selling too many horses, apply to

CLIFF SHARP,
Huntersville, W. Va.

FOR SALE OR RENT

73 acres of grazing land, mostly all in sod, and all under fence, lying in Levels District on public road adjoining the land of I. B. Shrader and others. Anyone looking for a good grazing place will do well to see me Will give good terms on same and possession will be given the first of April, 1923.

R. C. SHRADER,
Huntersville, W. Va.

Administrators Notice

All persons having claims against the estate of A. B. Ware deceased will present them properly proven to the undersigned administrator for payment. All persons owing said estate will please prepare to settle at once.

Given under my hand this 6th day of March 1923.

J. D. MACE
Adm,r of A. B. Ware. Mace, W. Va.

Executor's Notice

Persons having claims against the estate of Mrs Lettie Rogers, deceased, will file them with the undersigned properly proven.

I will receive offers for the real estate willed to be sold, a house and lot in West Marlinton; all offers subject to approval of the legatees of the will, and with the right to reject any and all bids. This is the property occupied by Mrs Rodgers in her life time.

CALVIN W. PRICE, Executor

Fiduciary Notice

Notice is hereby given that the final settlementa of the accounts of W.J. Yeager, administrator of the estate of the late Peter D. Yeager, is before the undersigned Commissioner of Accounts of Pocahontas County, W. Va.

T. S. McNEEL, Comr,

NOTICE TO TEACHERS

The District Secretaries report to me that a very few teachers have turned in Enumeration Reports. These reports should be sent to Secretary soon after April 1st. A delay will greatly inconvenience the secretaries and myself.

G. D. McNEILL,
Co. Supt.

Money to Loan at 5 1-2 percent

The Pocahontas County Farm Loan Association of Marlinton, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, has money to loan to farmers on farm land, on easy terms.

Call on the undersigned and fill out an application blank.

P. T. WARD, Sec.-Treas.

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager
HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC
Marlinton, West Virginia.

For Sale

Black Percheron Mare 3 years old weight about 1200 pounds, price $125 00.

Martin Judy
Cass, W. Va.,

Coal Orders

Must be in Saturday by noon for delivery that day. All orders received Saturday afternoon will be deliverd Monday.

Wise Herold

Baby Chicks

Owing to the early drop in egg prices, we have reduced prices on baby chicks to the following prices: White Leghorns $13 and $15 per 100. Rhode Island Reds and Plymouth Rocks $14 and $16 per 100. Hatching eggs, 1 50 a setting or 2.20 for 2 settings. Place your order n w and be sure of chicks on date desired.

Oak Crest Poultry Farm
Mill Point, W. Va.

Picoting and Hem-Stitching

All orders promptly filled.

MRS. J. E. BUCKLEY,
Marlinton, W. Va

Farm for Sale

About 212 acres on the Staunton & Parkersburg Turnpike 5 miles east of Bartow. About 40 acres improved, 35 acres in good timber, balance was cut over several years ago, and has nice young timber on it.

Good 7 room dwelling, some out building, orchard of apples, peaches, pears and cherry trees. large enough to bear. some small fruit.

1-2 mile from school 3 miles from church. several good springs. This is good mountain farming land and is fine grass land.

Price and terms reasonable.

CHARLES SPENCER,
Bartow. W. Va.

Work Wanted

A middle aged woman desires work in the home. Able to do any kind of housework. Apply to.

Lou Collins
Cloverlick, W. Va,

Cattle Wanted
FOR GRAZING

I can graze 40 hear of young cattle on my farm on Clover Creek this summer.

LIGON PRICE,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Spring Millinery

All who are interested in their Easter Bonnets are invited to call on Miss Ella Pritchard at Dunmore and see the new pattern hats arriving every day until Easter. If you have a good last year's hat bring it and have it made over.

Land For Sale

Farm of 102 acres on head of Laurel Creek at Woodrow post office. Part cleared and part cut over. For particulars apply to.

Lloyd VanReenan.
Woodrow, W. Va.

We handle Grit, Oyster Shells, Charcoal, Chick Food, Etc.

Marlinton Poultry Yard
Marlinton, W. Va.

NOTICE

Draft No. 248, Elementary Teachers Fund. Edray District, Pocahontas County, W. Va. payable to me has been lost. After printing of this notice as required by law, the Board of Education will be asked to issue a duplicate. All parties are notified not to accept the above draft.

BEN H. WELLS
March 29, 1923

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va

COAL is Cash

I can now fill orders for coal for strictly cash.

WISE HEROLD

DELCO-LIGHT
"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue
ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES
Marlinton Electric Co.
DEALERS

For Sale

Pure bred white wyandot cockerls $1.50, six months old. Delivered F. O. B. Clover Lick.

John U. Hevenor
Clover Lick, W. Va.,

Black Langshans Eggs

Prince Ebony strain, very large, good for meat and fine for eggs. 305 eggs from 15 pullets in January, 1923. Setting eggs. $1 50 per 15.

W. H. ARBOGAST
Marlinton, W. Va.

Fords for Sale

TWO USED CARS
1 roadster in good condition
1 touring car in fine condition
Marlinton Motor Company

Hatching Eggs

Purebred White Wyandotts Regal Dorcas strain selected from flock that won first prize at Greenbrier Valley fair last year, pen of 16 hens averaging 10 eggs per day in January and February. $1.45 per 15 by parcel post 25c less if cases are returned $1.00 at home.

C. W. Auldridge
Millpoint, W. Va.

Farm For Sale

75 acres on Deaver Run 2 miles north of Cass, 72 acres under fence, 50 acres in cultivation, 2 good young orchards bearing fruit, good five room house and good out buildings. 2 good springs. I will sell cheap for $1.700 my reason for selling is I am not able to run the farm. If you want a bargai n come at once.

J. L. GRAGG
Cass, W. Va.,

Team For Sale

A team of black mares, 6 and 7 years old, weighing 3,000, in fine shape, safe and well broken; also harness. I have rented my farm, or I would not sell them.

C. C. BAXTER,
Onoto, W. Va

Grazing Farm for Sale

70 acres more or less, of the John Adam McNeel land on Laurel Creek; fine grass land. All in sod; big barn, comfortable house and outbuildings, well watered. Apply to

ELMER BAXTER,
Woodrow, W. Va.

FOR RENT

Boarding house at Raywood, W. Va For particulars apply to.

Warn Lumber Corp.
Raywood, W. Va.,

FOR SALE— In the village of Frost, about two and one half acres of land with six room house, cow stable and other buildings. Apply to

E. J. RHEA, Frost, W Va.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals

RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Marlinton, W. Va.
Furniture made to order and old furniture repaired

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specially of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMEE
DENTIST
First National Bank Building
Phone
Marlinton, W. Va

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

CHARLES SHINABERRY
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
All calls given prompt attention.

A. J. SHARP
AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
Phone Marlinton Central.

DR. F. V. LONERGAN
CHIROPRACTOR
Marlinton, W. Va
Offices at A. C. Bostic's, Camden Ave

W. A. BARLOW
OLD RELIABLE AUCTIONEER
Onoto, W. Va.
All calls answered.

Wm. O. BUCKMAN
LICENSED AUCTIONEER
Millpoint, West Virginia
A young man with the goods

Z. S. Smith
Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank.
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

Baxter's Garage
MARLINTON W. VA.
FORD Cars and Supplies
FORDSON Tractors
A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.
I. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Chiropractic

Dr F. V. Lonergan has located in Marlinton for the practice of Chiropractic. Offices at the home of A. C. Bostic, on Camden Avenue, near the Marlinton Hotel, where he can be found at all times

Application for Parole

Notice is hereby given that on the 14th day of April, 1923, an application will be made to Honorable E. F. Morgan, the Governor of West Virginia, for the parole of Gilbert Dilley, who was sentenced on March 13, 1922, in the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, to serve three years in the penitentiary, upon his confession of larceny.

Durbin Mercantile Co.
Durbin, W. Va.

Pocahontas Supply Company
Cass, W. Va.

BUICKS

A Variety of Cars in Stock

Come in and See Them

BUICKS REPAIRS

Marlinton Electric Co.

Marlinton, W. Va.

The Famous

IVERS & POND PIANO

Estey Pianos and Organs

For Particulars and Terms

H. C. EGLESON, Dealer

Piano Tuning CLOVERLICK, W. VA.

MARLINTON ELECTRIC SHOE SHOP

arlinton, West Virgin a

Under New Management

Shoes prom, tly n skillfully repaired b, modern machinery methods. Specia attention to orders ll. Prices reasonables and satisfaction guara teed.

F. D. G..ines, Prop.

NEWEST

Spring and Summer

Fabrics

now in Display. Call and see them

W. A. THIEDE

MARLINTON - WEST VIRGINIA

The Separator Tells The Story

Your profits depend on what comes out of the cream spout of your separator. If you want more milk, and cream richer in butter fat, you have got to feed your cows a ration which will produce milk. Milk depends on feed. You can't get away from it.

Ce-re-a-lia Sweets does make milk. It is a scientifically mixed feed for dairy cows, composed of Brewer's Grains, Cottonseed Meal, Corn Meal, Wheat Bran, Wheat Middlings, Corn Gluten Feed, Old Process Oil Meal and Pure Cane Molasses. It is clean and sweet—never cakes or lumps. Cows relish the flavor.

Prove to your own satisfaction that Ce-re-a-lia Sweets will make you more money.

Four Weeks Trial At Our Risk

Feed one cow on Ce-re-a-lia Sweets for four weeks. If you don't get more or better milk, and a larger net profit from that cow, you get every cent of your money back. Ask us about the details.

Ce-re-a-lia Sweets

SEE-REE-ALE-YA

William & Pifer Lumber Co.

MARLINTON, ... WEST VIRGINIA

WANTED—30 or 35 head of cattle for the season by the month good water and good fence.

JAMES N. WHITE.
Woodrow, W. Va.

COW WANTED

I want a good young cow, fresh, Jersey preferred apply to.

Fred Gehauf
Marlinton, W. Va.,

A 15,000 MILE JOURNEY

TOURING THE UNITED STATES FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN BY AUTO

By Davis L Barlow

(Continued from last week)

Shortly after leaving Coeur d'Alene we crossed the Idaho Washington State line where we struck the smooth cement road known as Appleway along which we motored through miles of bearing orchards as well as through the United States Silver Fox Farm, where, perhaps is the finest collection of these rare animals ever assembled, and night (August 2) found us comfortably located in High Bridge Tourists' Grounds. Spokane—the city which claims to be the wonder and glory of the Inland Empire.

These tourists' grounds are located near the great cement bridge which leads traffic westward over the Inland Empire Sunset Trail. The Park covers a number of acres of gently sloping ground shaded by pine trees. It is within five minutes of the retail. hotel, theater center of the city. City water, lights, shower baths, stationary tube and fuel are at the tourists command. A caretaker lives in the park and is ever ready to supply the visitor's wants and make his stay pleasant.

The drive from Saltese, Montana, through the State of Idaho to Spokane was so thrilling and exciting that we did not realize how worried we were until after we had eaten supper. We retired early and awoke much refreshed and anxious to see the wonders of Spokane.

As I walked to and stood at the intersection of the city's principal business streets I could scarcely imagine that around forty years ago the only improvements to be seen in this locality were a few log huts. Further when we reflect that a little rise of thirty years ago the business district of the then young city was swept clean by fire, we are more than amazed at the city's growth.

Were you to ask me the cause of this wonderful development my answer would be one word—"Location." What is known as the Inland Empire extends from the Rockeys on the east to the Cascade or Coast Range on the west, and this country is noted for its forest and stream, mountain and field, orchard and range, which yields abundantly in minerals, lumber, grain, fruit and livestock. Spokane as the hub of this rich territory has rapidly become the commercial and financial center. The red men recognized the importance of this locality and years ago gathered here to trade and barter with each other as well as with the occasional white man.

Some years ago a governor of the Washington Territory stood at the lower falls of Spokane river and said: "Some day a grist mill will be built here." But this mill business has been eclipsed in that the turbulent river racing through the heart of the city has been harnessed and near 800,000 electrical horse power developed. After the city's requirements have been supplied a part of the surplus power is used in Coeur d'Alene mining district, and the remainder is used to haul the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway's transcontinental fast flyers over the Cascade mountains Spokane is, therefore, a City of Power.

Spokane is proud of her parks. She has twenty or more which together have a total area of near 2000 acres, and eight play grounds with an area of over forty acres.

The land upon which the city is built is rolling which gives perfect drainage. It has fourteen branch and five mainline railroads and good highways radiating in all directions

We stopped here intending to stay over but one night, but because of the unusual conbination of attractions in city as well as the lake, stream, mountain and valley scenery of the country we were detained three days, and on the morning of August 5th, left driving south to Farmington, Washington.

At Spokane I found awaiting me from my cousin, P. H Barlow, a letter which stated that he had heard of my western journey and that I would regret it if I failed to visit him as well as other Pocahontas friends at Farmingten. We made this side trip and spent three days feasting, telling stories, and laughing with friends of other days. P. H. was right. We would have missed something had we not visited Farmington.

In April 1903, a party of twenty-seven left Pocahontas county journeyed to the far west. This party arrived in Spokane on the 18th of April and the 26th of the same month found thom in Farmington, Wash.

The following composed the party: Wm. H. Boblett, three sons—one of whom was married, and three daughters; Willard Overholt, wife and four daughters; Frank C Moore, wife, two sons one daughter; C B. Grimes, wife, two sons and one daughter; Massie Cleek and P H. Barlow.

All of the twenty-seven except Massie Cleek who located in Tumwater, Washington, where he married and has since lived, settled in Farmington Many of the others have since moved to other parts of the State. Up to the time of my visit only three of the party had died. Namely, Mrs. Neima Overholt Green, Sankey Bobblett and Chauncey Grimes. Young Mr. Grimes was a graduate of Cheny Normal and would have graduated from Washington State College in a half year more.

Craig Grimes has taught 144 months in Farmington High school and at the time of my visit had signed for the following year He began teaching in 1878 and has taught each year since except three. In all that time he has missed from school but three days because of sickness It is to be regretted that Pocahontas has had to loose the services of this conscientious and able teacher. The friendship between Craig and I has never faltered since the days of "Scinda Sue."

I remember when a youngster at the Stony Creek Sunday school a smile would appear on the faces of the boys of courting age when they saw Willard Overholt coming across the old creek foot log. His very presence indicated some innocent sport, and he still believes in living while you live. Some years ago when he had just reached the "shaving habit" age and lived on the knob overlooking where Marlinton now stands, he concluded in the presence of some visiting girls, to demonstrate his activity by jumping the clothes line. So after making ready he said "Look out girls, I am goingto jump the clothes line." He made the jump but his toe caught the line and he landed in Bucks Run or some other water course on the Swago side. He, however, recovered and when last seen on the streets of Marlinton John Young called to him and said "Look out girls, I am going to jump the clothesline" Willard replied "Get off all your old gags now. for it will be your last chance. I am going west." He went and has not since seen the hills of Pocahontas.

When I was in Farmington, Willard was city postmaster and had not taken a vacation for nearly eight years. He is prosperous and happy.

At the time of my visit to the northwest Frank Moore lived in Pullman, Washington, and was engaged in the commission business. His company operated a number of grain ware houses. We visited together at Farmington and talked over the many changes which had taken place in Pocahontas and agreed that though we may roam over land and sea we would still think of our childhood home and the friends among the West Virginia Hills. Mr. Moore is operating in one of the great grain belts of America.

P. H. Barlow and Miss Estella Overholt were married at Colfax. Washington, June, 1903 They have a daughter of whom any parent might might well be proud and I bespeak for her a bright future.

P. H. has been for eight years town marshal as well as superintendent of the city water works, streets and lighting system. He is surrounded with everything that makes life worth while. He has a city farm of ten acres of rich soil, an excellent residence, good barn and other buildings His land produces all kinds of fruit, berries, &c, which are adapted to this climate. He lives at home and boards at the same place.

I did not meet any of the Boblett family. As above stated they do not live in Farmington and I cannot at this time recall their location.

We spent a pleasant evening in the home of Mr. John A. McNeel and wife. These excellent people have long been in the west but are still pleasantly remembered by their many friends and relatives back east. Mr McNeel at the time of our wisit was on the sick list and was able to be out but little. Some time ago he moved from his beautiful farm and now lives in the city of Farmington.

Grady McNeel, son of John A., had the misfortune when quite young to lose his eyesight, but notwithstanding this, he graduated from Washington State College, and is now a teacher.

Among other Pocahontas people we met in Farmington we remember E W. Hill, Russell McNeel and family, Will Hill and Jesse Carpenter

On Sunday evening, August 7. twenty-eight West Virginians—a large majority of whom I knew personally—gathered on P. H. Barlow's lawn. No arrangement had been made for this gathering but the different parties just casually fell in for an evening's chat. Here as by mere chance we met the venerable R. B Silva, his son Russell and family and George Carter and wife The Silvas were on their way to Pocahontas county to visit friends and relatives, while Mr. Carter and his wife who had been called west by the sickness and death of Mrs. R. B. Silva, were returning to their Virginia home. They were traveling by auto and halted in Farmington for a few moments' rest and chat with old acquaintances.

Among my large collection of pictures is one of this lawn party which I prize very highly.

After the auto party was on its way east, and the remainder of the callers had returned to their homes and the sun had dropped behind the Washington hills, my host asked me if I had ever heard the song entitled "A Perfect Day." I answered "I have." "Well" said he "this has been one." To which I replied "Amen!" And the truth of the phrase in his letter—'You will regret it if you fail to visit Farmington," was vividly impressed upon my mind.

(To be continued)

AN UNUSUAL DISEASE

Charleston, West Va., April 9—Botulism, a food poisoning disease, fatal in 50 per cent to 100 per cent of persons infected, with symptoms resembling sleeping sickness although an entirely different disease, claimed one victim in West Virginia last year and caused the serious illness of another, thus putting this malady on record with the State Department of Health for the first time in the history of the state The victims were a man and his wife living in Parkersburg, and the source of their infection was traced to pumpkin pie, made from canned pumpkin.

This is same illness which brought death to four persons in one family, whose infection was traced to ripe olives, a year or more ago in a western city. Other outbreaks on record with the government have been traced to preserved spinach, beets, string beans, asparagus, apricots and pears.

Botulinous poisoning (pronounced Bot-u-li-nous) is the most fatal of all food poisoning diseases, according to Dr. M. v. Zeigler, U. S Public Health Service, who investigated the case and reported its occurrence to the U. S government The bacteria producing the disease is found in soil, but little is known as to how the spores get into the soil.

The problem is sufficiently serious in California to warrant a Botulism Commission The National Canner's Association is doing research work and will probably make some valuable contributions to science on this question. Scientists are also developing a serum for relief, but little opportunity has been given to demonstrate the value of the serum because of the fact that the poison takes effect so quickly after eating that the patient is beyond hope before aid reaches him.

The disease is not confined to persons according to figures. In an outbreak near San Francisco, 643 chickens died in four days following the feeding of garbage containing home canned string beans which were thrown out because they did not "smell good" to the housekeeper.

It is known, however, that cooking canned spinach and other soil grown food from 30 to 40 minutes, kills the bacteria botulinous, and some Boards of Health warn the housewives to take this precaution Some authorities condemn the cold pack method of canning, contending that the vegetables are not subjected to sufficient heat to preclude the possibility of botulinous bacteria.

In commenting on the disease, Dr. Zeigler said that probably other cases of botulinous poisoning had occurred and were occurring, but because of the peculiarities of the disease, the diagnosis was not given as Botulism.

Ronceverte, W. Va.—A telegram received this A. M. stating that Geo. Jackson had died at his home Rutland Ohio at 9:15. He was a brave Confederate soldier, Captn Wm. L McNeel's Co. F. 19 Va Cavalry. His home was with Jacob Woodell near Greenbank, before the war after close of war, he went to Ohio and married there. He clerked for Rathburn Bros. in their department store at Rutland for some years later engaged in grocry business for himself.

His wife died two years ago, an only daughter married Dr. Bean of Gatiapolis Ohio has been dead several years, a grandson Leo Bean is a Dr living in St Louis Mo. a granddaughter, married a Presbyterian minister of Galipolis by name of Evans. He is survived by an adopted son also, who is married and lives in Rutland.

For Sale

One Studebaker wagon, two 6 year old horses, will weigh about 2700 pounds, one double disc drill, one Sharpless cream separator.

Call or write or see

A L MCALPIN
Stony Bottom

LOCUST POSTS—Good locust posts for sale, delivered at Marlinton. Apply to FRED HEFNER, Buckeye, W. Va.

The Miessner

THE LITTLE PIANO WITH THE BIG TONE

PUT the charm of your personality into your entertaining—with a Miessner. Requiring but little floor-space, this marvelous smaller piano with the big tone, may be placed so you face your listeners as you sing or play. See and hear it today.

Also Distributors

of

COLEMAN QUICK-LITES

ADLER

COLLEGIAN CLOTHES

Wilson Bros.

Furnishing for young men

Conn

Musical Instruments

NEW CAROLA PHONOGRAPH

Murphy Da-cote

Paint and Auto Enamel

Just Arrived

A new stock of Ginghams, Grepes Devonshires, Etc. in wonderful shades and colors.

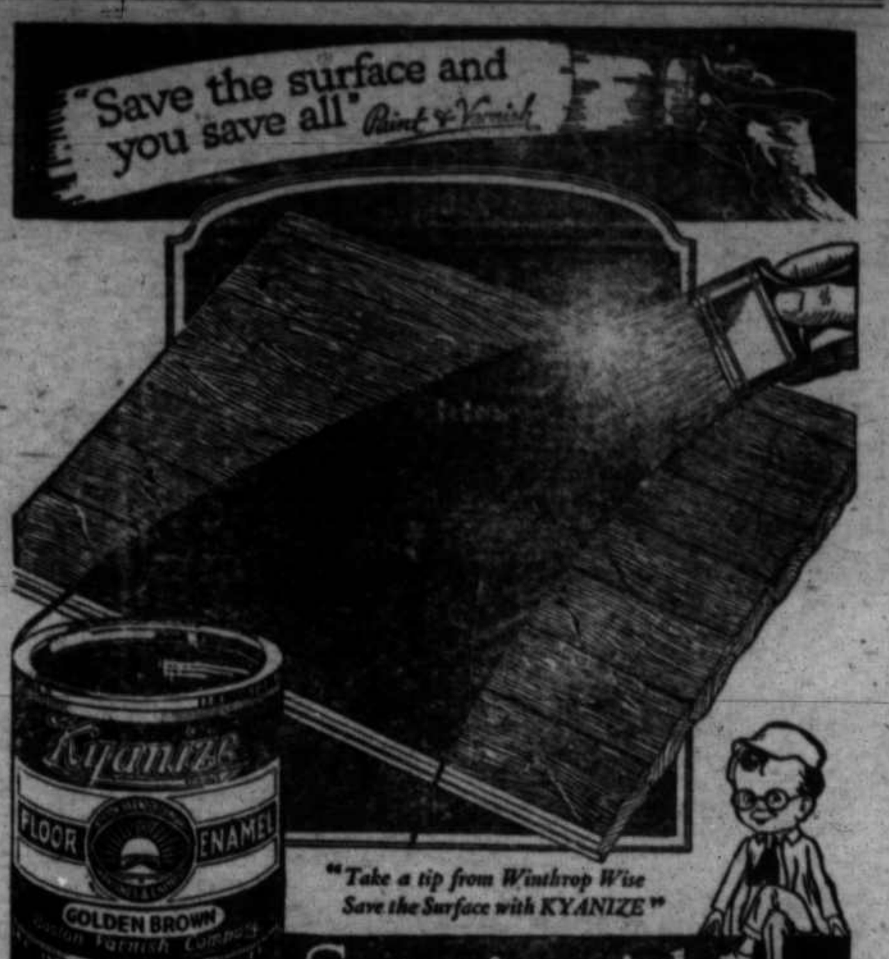
Mail Orders

Receive Careful Attention

We pay the postage.

MOORE & POAGUE

BEARD, W. VA.



Save it with

Kyanize

KY-A-NIZE

FLOOR ENAMEL

Old Scarred Floor Boards—Hide Them

ON today, it's dry tomorrow—a coating that defies heels and the elements to injure.

KYANIZE Sanitary Floor Enamel covers the old soft-wood floor with a glistening coat of waterproof beauty.

Use it on porch floors, too, as well as on concrete or stone, inside or out. It's solid in color, solid in value, guaranteed to satisfy. Nine handsome opaque shades.

HERE'S OUR TRIAL OFFER TO YOU

Cut out this advertisement, bring it to the store below, pay 25 cents for a good brush to apply the Kyanize. You'll receive FREE a half-pint Can of Kyanize Sanitary Floor Enamel, enough for your pantry floor or shelves. Choice of eight colors.

Durbin Mercantile Co.

Durbin, West Virginia

Pocahontas Supply Co.

Cass, West Virginia

Executor's Sale

of Personal Property

On Friday and Saturday, April 13-14, 1923

As excutor of the estate of the late G. S. Weiford, I will sell at auction at his late home at Warwick, W. Va., the following personal property, consisting of live stock farming utensils and equipment and store goods and fixture:

One team of horses, 8 yrs old, one black Kentucky saddle mare, 6 cows to be fresh, one calf, 1 yearling, 3 hogs, 20 ewes and 1 buck, one Ford car, good condition, fullo equipped; 2 McCormick mowing machines, 1 self dump McCormick rake; 1 wagon, sled, spring wagon, 1 buggy, 1 Empire grain drill, harness, saddles, bridles, etc horse shoeing outfit, axes, sledges, grindstones, tables, copper kettles, etc., patent washing machine, 12 guage Marlin repeating shotgun, a lot of white pine and oak lumber, a barrel of apple vinegar, 60 bushels of oats, 25 to 50bushels, of corn, some hay, lot of grain boxes, locked, 2 telephones, patent churner, lawn mower, and numerous other valuable and useful articles.

Store Goods

The stock of merchandise and store fixtures of the late G. S. Weiford, consisting of dry goods, clothing, shoes, hats, caps, underwear, ribbons, rubber goods, buttons, knives, forks, spoons, dishes, corsets, collars, crockery, hardware, tools, amunition, family medicines in fact everything kept in this well stocked store, Remington typewriter, 2 telephones, adding machine, automatic scales, Keith credit register, postoffice furniture, seven show cases, step ladders, big bolt case, thread case, a lot of tables.

TERMS—All sums of $10 and under cash; over that amount a credit of four months, note with approved security.

D. N. Weiford,

Executor of the estate of G. S. Weiford.

Herold Auctioneer.

for Sale

35 H. P. Hart sawmill, boiler and engine complete, two good Hoe saws, three saw Tower edger, two saw trimmers, cutoff saw, three good lumber trucks, log jack for pulling logs from pond, Duplex log turner, lot good shafting, lot extra steam line, water pipe, &c.

S. Reece Pritchard,
Dunmore, W. Va

4wks.

Administ.ator s Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of the late Geo. N. Tacy, to present the same proven according to law to the undersigned at his office near Cass, W. Va. All persons indebted to said estate are notified to prepare to settle at once.

This 2nd of April, 1923,

CHARLES N. SHEETS,
Adm'r estate of Geo. N Tacy, dec'd.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, Editor.

THURSDAY APRIL 19, 1923

The jury went home last Saturday after two weeks strenuous work in the nisi prius court. William Dudley who had received a life sentence from the jury the Saturday before when the sun was shining and spring was in the air, was brought into court just a week after to be asked if he had anything to say why the sentence of the court should not be pronounced. The day was dark, cold, gloomy and rainy, and the prisoner had changed as much as the weather. He had received the blow without flinching but now there was despair in his face. He answered that he had nothing to say except that he was not guilty, and his voice was earnest and broken. Talk about law being a good drama. It is the real thing, the substance and not the shadow. Life itself and not interpretation. Some invisible power had wiped hope from the prisoner's countenance during the week. The judge was considerate and his manner was kind and he forbore to torture the prisoner with unnecessary words. Saying that the jury had determined his fate and left nothing for the court to do except to pronounce the sentence told him that the judgment was that he be confined in the penitentiary of this State for the rest of his natural life and that he would be conveyed there to be dealt with according to the usages and the customs of that institution, and remanded him to jail. I was reminded of a melancholy passage that I once read that goes something like this: The sombre Celt who is likely to be destroyed with the horror that is on him, and the black darkness with the noise in it the like of what the sea would be making and it stirring the bones of a corpse and the rain falling.

Then came again Bedford Curry being led to the bar by the sheriff to be further dealt with according to law. This young prisoner was the only absentee present. Last court he sat and heard himself accused before a jury of running a ford car while intoxicated and killing a cow and tearing down four panels of fence in one fell swoop. And before the jury had completed its verdict he went on his way choosing rather the ridges than the roads. He surrendered this court to save his brother from having to pay a bail bond. The court gave him the task of paying a fine and sixty days in jail and released the bondsman. The prisoner asked: "Can I have credit for the eight days I have been in jail?" And when the court said he could, he went out of the court-room joyful. So much for hope.

Nothing was said as to William Dudley having credit for the time he had been in jail. It was unimportant.

The case of Henry against the C. & O. Railway Company was called. A suit for collision between a passenger train and motor truck at a grade crossing at Bartow. One of the jurymen on the voir dire said he could not sit on the case because he was a stockholder of the defendant company. I understood the attorney for the railroad company to say that this was the first time he had met one of his stockholders so far as he knew. It was a remarkable accident. Two men in the truck were thrown out on the ground, and the truck itself was hurled ninety feet. One of the men was uninjured. He said he thought the truck had broken down. The other was somewhat bruised and sore but was able to go on his way. The truck was demolished. The plaintiff based his right to recover on the allegation that the train had not whistled nor rung a bell for the crossing. The defense was that the driver of the truck had not stopped, looked nor listened as he approached the crossing. The jury seemed to take the view that the train being the larger that if the drivers of the truck had not noticed so large an object as a train, that the trainmen were not any more to blame for not observing so small an object in comparison as a truck, and the verdict was for the railroad company.

Lesson to be inculcated: That in approaching a crossing in a motor car some one, no matter whether it be the driver or a passenger, should cry out in a loud voice, "Railroad!"

This term of court finally disposed of the homicide case of the State of West Virginia against Captain W. T. Poague for shooting and killing Asa Ryder, an escaped convict from the state road camp, for whom a reward had been offered. It was a case in which public sentiment was sharply divided, and it involved questions of human rights that could not be determined in any way as well as by a public trial before a jury. The case was tried at great length last October and resulted in a hung jury. It was again thrashed out in the present court and the verdict was not guilty.

Captain Poague is a prominent citizen of this county, and while not nearly related to the Poages of Pocahontas, they have a common ancestry, some prominent men of that name being the earliest settlers of Augusta county. He is a V. M. I. man, a son of Prof. Poague, of that institution. Capt. Poague first came to this county as a civil engineer on railroad work. He married Miss Moore of Stony Bottom. He served in the world war with the rank of captain. He returned here and opened a store at Beard, where he is postmaster.

Asa Ryder, the deceased, was a native of this county and was widely connected with some of the oldest families of this section. He was a grandson of the late R. E. L. Doyle. At the time of his conviction he was in his twenties, a tall gangling youth with a vacant look about his face. He was convicted of taking a car while the owner was at church and making a poor getaway. He left the prison road camp with Jim Astin and a man by the name of Hatfield. Hatfield was from some other county, and went his way, but Asa and Jim came back to Pocahontas county. It must have been a homing instinct for certainly any other place would have been better for them than here where they could be identified.

Alex Stewart has a store just beyond Droop Mountain in Greenbrier. On Monday he found his store had been broken open and robbed and that goods which he afterwards valued at $112.00 had been taken. He got busy. It occurred to him that his store being on the railway that the burglars might be following the line, and he phoned to the store of Moore & Poague at Beard, ten or twelve miles up the river, on the railroad, and across the line in Pocahontas.

Stewart did not know what all was gone, but he did know that his accumulation of ginseng worth much fine gold had been taken and that the lot contained one large root with a protuberance on it that could be easily identified. The phone bell rang in the store at Beard, and was answered by Poague and then ensued one of those one sided conversations which are so maddening to the curious who are looking on. It is not certain how much if any Ryder who was in the store-room heard or understood as to this conversation. It was arranged that Stewart would come on the next train which was even then whistling, and in a half hour or so Stewart got off the train and came across to the store. Stewart carried a gun. Ryder spoke to him, saying, "Hello buddy, you are going to get a mess of squirrels?" That remark by the boy convict to a man fifty-five years old, of a serious and thoughtful demeanor, will give you some idea of the deficiency in the mental make up of the deceased that impressed the casual observer. He did not know Stewart. Evidently the sight of the gun excited him. After that events happened with great swiftness. Stewart identified the sang shown him by Poague, and this was the sang that Ryder had brought there to sell. It is pretty certain that if Ryder had attempted to leave before Stewart came that Poague would have tried to detain him by force. But Ryder was kept there by the promise to pay for the sang by money that was expected on the mail that came by the train that Stewart was coming on.

When Ryder saw that Stewart came to inspect the sang, he attempted to escape. He ran towards the river. It became a hue and cry case at once. There were people about the store and the depot. He ran out of the store by the depot and into the Greenbrier River, perhaps a hundred yards. The Greenbrier was at that stage of flood that the old rivermen know as a rafting tide, which is a flood too deep for safe fording, and deep enough for a raft of some fifty thousand feet of lumber. The pursuers believed that his capture was inevitable because of the flood in the river, but it was soon apparent that Ryder was going across the river, and if he got across, that he would soon be in the woods that stetched unbroken for more than a hundred miles towards the North Carolina line. This had its effect on the pursuers. The first shot was fired by Stewart in the pursuit, before he got in the water. Could have easily shot him between the store and the fringe of trees on the bank, says Stewart, but that he fired into the air, and taking it for granted that the fugitive would have to come out on the same side of the river that he went in on, Stewart made for an opening in the brush farther down the stream, and he fired no more.

The rest of the pursuers went to the river bank, and halted there and called on the man to surrender. Mike Callison, a man of mature years and of excellent appearance was there. His hail to the boy ought to have been heeded by him: "In the name of mercy, man, stop, no one is trying to hurt you." But Ryder kept going.

He was about half way across, and in water waist deep when Poague began to fire on him, with a small bore rifle. The first shot hit the water about ten feet from the deceased. The second shot hit him in the hand. And the next shot was through the body. The boy fell back on the water floated for a moment and sank. The third shot was fatal. As near as I could gather, the first shot from the rifle was fired at an angle across the river at a distance of about 150 yards, and that the last shot perhaps 175 or 200 yards. It is well established too that the boy had many chances to give himself up, and that if he had not been shot he would have made his escape. So far as I could find out there was no one on the east side of the river to intercept him, while the west bank was lined with persons. In Ryder's pockets were found numerous articles that had been burglarized from Stewart's store, so there can be no doubt that at the time he was shot that he was guilty of a felony and was trying to escape. And at the same time, there were picture cards in the mail offering a reward of fifty dollars for him as an escaped convict, a fact that was known to none of the persons present at the killing. But the identity was established at the inquest.

It is almost always the case where a fleeing criminal is killed by a zealous officer, that public sentiment divides, and that was immediately apparent in this case, and in a proper way a demand arose for the prosecution of the man who fired the fatal shots. The controversy is as old as the law itself. It was generally admitted that Poague had the power of an officer in the respect, but his opponents said that he had no more power, than an officer, and that the fleeing man ought not to have been killed. It was pointed out that the State of West Virginia had offered a reward at the time for the arrest as an escaped convict. The opponent would say, "Yes, but Poague did not know it." And this made a complicated question of right and wrong that has never been settled satisfactory to any one.

I go out to fish for cat-fish in open season for cat-fish and I inadvertently catch a bass, it being closed season for bass, what have I done? I remember a case like that. I set night lines for cat-fish nearly thirty years ago. When I came there in the morning, one hook had one of the biggest bass ever taken out of Greenbrier River. Not guilty.

State it reversely. A hypothetical case, not being able to state an actual case. A person goes fishing for bass in closed season, and catches a catfish, it being open season for cat fish? Not guilty. Both cases are doubtful, and it is the proudest boast of our law that the accused does have the benefit of the doubt, and a good thing for a good many.

I think that question of the rights of the fleeing criminal would prevent me from being a police officer, if there were nothing else in the way. It is a vexed question. Always the officer if he is attacked by the accused has the sympathy. If he shoots to stop or kill a fleeing criminal, he usually has to face a trial.

Power to kill is one thing. Right to kill is another. But the important one is wisdom to kill, and I think most officers would rather that ninety and nine prisoners escaped than to have undergo the painful necessity of killing a man who is trying to escape. Our laws have always been careful of human life and liberty, and the laws have exercised an unusual vigilance over its police officers and those in authority, all the time stating the law to be: That an officer, or private person having legal authority to arrest, attempts to do so, and the other flies and is killed, the homicide is justifiable.

It was early recognized however that in case of a thief in towns that unless the thief was immediately apprehended that he would hide in the great mass of people that go to make up a city, and that it was expedient to recognize the law of hue and cry, by which all good citizens on the alarm being given by word of mouth or by the horn of a constable, join in pursuit of the fleeing person. In these street affrays there have been many deaths, and the courts have universally held that the persons engaged in the hue and cry were justified, even though the hue and cry had been falsely raised and no crime had been committed. This no doubt being on the theory that if an investigation had to be made before the criminal could be halted and held, that escapes would be numerous and that criminals might go clear of charge of murder if they turned and killed their pursuers.

The oldest expression of the law is from the Goths: "It is allowable to kill a thief if he cannot otherwise be taken." It seems to me that is a clear statement of the law. Observe the word "otherwise," that leaves in every case a fact for a jury to pass upon.

In the Poague case, the question was, whether the deceased would have escaped but for the shooting. It brings up the question of the availability of a boat; whether any of the men or boys who joined in the hue and cry could have overtaken him by wading; and whether persons on the other bank of the river could have been notified in time to intercept him.

All these points were decided by the jury in favor of the defendant Poague, and the verdict of the jury is not subject to any criticism whatever, any more than it is subject to appeal.

The shooting occurred on the 4th day of September, 1922, and an indictment followed on the next day, and the first trial at the October court. The net result is that a great many persons have become well informed on the subject of shooting at running things, and to say the least shooting will be conducted with less abandon than heretofore. I feel pretty sure that Capt. Poague will let someone else capture the next man that takes to the river in time of flood, for the whole thing from beginning to the end has been an ordeal such as few men are ever called upon to undergo.

In studying the history of the tenderness of the law for the safety of the persons that it has taken in charge, I found some curious cases. In one case the manager of the poor house was mulcted in damages to the amount of sixty pounds for cutting off the hair of a pauper without consent being given.

But the queerest case was one that happened long, long ago in England. It was a case where a prisoner had been tried and sentenced to death by beheading, and the sheriff of the county was ordered to see to the execution. By some mischance or maybe through malice, the sheriff carried out the order, except that instead of beheading the man, he hung him. Reading between the lines we seem to remember that beheading was a more honorable death than hanging. Anyway the sheriff was convicted of murder, and presumably hung, for making the mistake in carrying out the order of the court.

It is safe to assume that for a long time after that a sheriff and his deputies exercised extraordinary care in separating the sheep from the goats, and seeing that those who belonged to the gallows did not get mixed in with those destined for the block.

Here is a law question: If a fleeing convict is killed, does the fact that he is a convict for whom a reward is offered inure to the benefit of the officer or person who kills the fugutive, the officer not knowing at the time that the fleeing person is an escaped convict?

In the case at bar this was not an all important question because of the fact that a felony had been committed the night before by burglars in the Stewart store, and this was fastened on the deceased in a conclusive manner.

Fiduciary Notice

Notice is hereby given that the final settlement of the accounts of J. A. Patterson, administrator of the estate of the late Rachel Patterson are before the undersigned commissioner of accounts of Pocahontas County, W. Va. for settlement.

This 4th of April, 1923.

T. S. McNEEL, Comr.

WANTED—30 or 35 head of cattle for the season by the month good water and good fence.

JAMES N. WHITE,
Woodrow, W. Va.

After Every Meal

WRIGLEY'S

and give your stomach a lift.

Provides "the bit of sweet" in beneficial form.

Helps to cleanse the teeth and keep them healthy.

A share of your business solicited

T. S. McNEEL
INSURANCE AND BONDS

Marlinton W. Va.

Successor o oodsell Insurance Agency

Life, Fire and Accident, Automobiles and Live Stock, Bonds of all kinds, Money to Loan on Farms.

Office 2nd floor, First National Bank Building.

Notice to Contractors

Sealed proposals will be received by the State Road Commission of West Virginia at its office in Charleston, W. Va., until 10 o'clock a. m. on the First day of May, 1923, and opened and read immediately thereafter, at the Kanawha County Court House, Charleston, W. Va, for the surface treatment of the following section of State road—

Projects 79-A and 1068, Pocahontas County—3.5 miles for cleaning and tar cold surface application including cover coat. Certified check $500.00.

Proposals will be received only on State Standard forms, in accordance with plans, specifications and estimate of quantities therefor, which standard forms, plans, specifications and estimate of quantities may be obtained from the Division Engineer at Fayetteville, W. Va., or from the office of the State Road Commission at Charleston, W. Va.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount above specified.

The right is reserved to reject any and all proposals.

THE STATE ROAD COMMISSION OF WEST VA.

E. B. Carskadon, Secretary.

— $3,000 —
Valuable Farm for Sale

Seventy acres, 5 miles from County Seat, Marlinton, W. Va., hard surface road out to farm. Joins 2 room graded school building, quarter of a mile to church. 30 acres in good state of cultivation, balance in pasture and woodland; good 8-room dwelling and outbuildings, 12x16 cement cellar, good well at house, cement curb. Farm watered by running streams. Orchard of 50 improved apple trees, about 1-2 acres of raspberries, 20 large bunches of currents. Can give good terms of settlement to purchaser. If interested, call or write

Mrs ALLIE LANDIS
Marlinton, W. Va.

Estray Sheep

A buck sheep has been at Weiford place at Warwick since about the last of October. Owner can have property by proving it and paying cost keep and advertising.

Adv. $1.00

O S. Weiford
Warwick, W. Va.

Executor's Sale

The undersigned, executor, will on the 25th day of April, 1923, commencing at Ten O'clock, A. M. at the residence of the late Joseph H Wilson, in Pocahontas County, West Virginia, sell the following personal property:

One horse, two cows, one plow, and one fork.

Terms of sale—All sums under ten dollars cash, and on larger sums, a credit of four months will be given, the purchaser giving notes well endorsed.

L. M. McClintic
Execunor of Joseph H. Wilson, deceased.

FOR SALE—About one acre of land with good 7 room house, cement cellar, barn, chicken house and garage, in the town of Clover Lick, W. Va. near the large saw mill of A. D. Neill & Son Co. Has a large garden and 15 improved fruit trees just coming into bearing. Will sell reasonable if sold quick, a fine home for any one who wants to follow public works.

W. A. HIVELY,
Dunmore, W. Va.

LOST— License plate number 14455 finder get reward at Times office.

LOCUST POSTS—Good locust posts for sale, delivered at Marlinton. Apply to

FRED HEFNER,
Buckeye, W. Va.

PIGS FOR SALE—Booking order for Duroc Jersey, male pigs, farrowed March 18, 1923. Registered in purchasers name. Good type. Orders must be at hand, by April 30. Write quickly.

CLARENCE MAY,
Beard, W. Va.

Money to Loan at 5 1-2 percent

The Pocahontas County Farm Loan Association of Marlinton, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, has money to loan to farmers on farm land, on easy terms.

Call on the undersigned and fill out an application blank.

P. T. WARD, Sec.-Treas.

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager

HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC

Marlinton, West Virginia.

Trustee's Sale of Farm

Pursuant to authority vested in us by four deeds of trust, the first dated June 4, 1918, executed to Andrew Price, Trustee, by Roy Houchin and Carrie Houchin, his wife, of record in the office of the Clerk of the County Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in trust deed book Number 10, page 476, to secure the Bank of Marlinton; the second from the same grantors to the same trustee to secure the same bank, of record in said office in trust deed book No. 12, page 151; and the third from the same grantors to the same trustee to secure P. T. Ward, of record in the said office in trust deed book Number 12, at page 164, and the fourth from the same grantors to L. M. McCclntic, Trustse, of record in said office in trust deed book No. 12, at page 200 to secure F. R Hill; we will proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder, on

Satu.day, May 12, 1923

commencing at 10 a. m. at the front door of the Court House of said county, in the town of Marlinton, a tract of land situate in said county, near Thornwood, known as the Roy Houchin farm, the part now offered for sale containing 73 acres, more or less, being the part remaining in the possession of the said Roy Houdhin and Carrie Houchin, being a tract of 139 acres, less 22 acres conveyed to Nellie Vandevender, see deed book 56, at page 153, and 44 acres to Abel Hedrick, see deed book 56, page 164; said land is partly improved and has on it a dwelling house and other improvements.

Terms of Sale: CASH.

ANDREW PRICE, Trustee.
L. M. McCLINTIC, Trustee.

Valuable Farm for Sale

The home place of G. S Weiford, at Warwick, W. Va., consisting 146 acres of good land; about 50 acres in cultivation, about 30 acres of woodland; balance good pasture land. On this property is 2 good dwellings, a store buildings and numerous out buildings and barns. Well watered, four orchards of improved fruit, near church and schools, and in good neighborhood. Will sell as a whole or will divide it to suit purchasers, on hard road, five miles from Marlinton, and would made a fine home for any one; especially adapted to fruit growing.

This properly will be sold to the first person offering the appraised price. One third cash, balance in equal installments payable in one and two years.

For further particulars write or see O. S. Weiford, Warwick, W. Va., or N. C. McNeil, Attorney, Marlinton, W. Va.

D. N. WEIFORD, Exec.

Bees For Sales

Full blood Italian bees, colonies in patent hives. Free from disease. $8.60 per colony, delivered to express office.

A. E. MOORE,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Bark to Peel

I want to contract the cutting and peeling of 2,000,000 feet spruce and hemlock, reliable parties wanted. Also two teams for sale 5 and 7 yrs old weight 2,800 and 2,900 lbs good farm or log horses, reason for selling too many horses, apply to

CLIFF SHARP,
Huntersville, W. Va.

FOR SALE OR RENT

73 acres of grazing land, mostly all in sod, and all under fence, lying in Levels District on public road adjoining the land of I. B. Shrader and others. Anyone looking for a good grazing place will do well to see me. Will give good terms on same and possession will be given the first of April, 1923.

R. C. SHRADER,
Huntersville, W. Va.

Fiduciary Notice

Notice is hereby given that the final settlementa of the accounts of W. J. Yeager, administrator of the estate of the late Peter D. Yeager, is before the undersigned Commissioner of Accounts of Pocahontas County, W. Va.

T. S. McNEEL, Comr,

NOTICE TO TEACHERS

The District Secretaries report to me that a very few teachers have turned in Enumeration Reports. These reports should be sent to Secretary soon after April 1st. A delay will greatly inconvenience the secretaries and myself.

G. D. McNEILL,
Co. Supt.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va

COAL is Cash

I can now fill orders for coal for strictly cash.

WISE HEROLD

DELCO-LIGHT
"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue
ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES
Marlinton Electric Co.
DEALERS

Farm for Sale

About 212 acres on the Staunton & Parkersburg Turnpike 5 miles east of Bartow. About 40 acres improved, 35 acres in good timber, balance was cut over several years ago, and has nice young timber on it.

Good 7 room dwelling, some out building, orchard of apples, peaches, pears and cherry trees, large enough to bear, some small fruit.

1-2 mile from school 3 miles from church, several good springs. This is good mountain farming land and is fine grass land.

Price and terms reasonable.

CHARLES SPENCER,
Bartow, W. Va.

Baby Chicks

Owing to the early drop in egg prices, we have reduced prices on baby chicks to the following prices: White Leghorns $13 and $15 per 100. Rhode Island Reds and Plymouth Rocks $14 and $16 per 100. Hatching eggs, 1.50 a setting or 2.20 for 2 settings. Place your order n w and be sure of chicks on date desired.

Oak Crest Poultry Farm
Mill Point, W. Va.,

Picoting and Hem-Stitching

All orders promptly filled.

Mrs. J. E. BUCKLEY,
Marlinton, W. Va

Cattle Wanted

FOR GRAZING

I can graze 40 hear of young cattle on my farm on Clover Creek this summer.

LIGON PRICE,
Marlinton, W. Va.

For Sale

One and one fourth acres ground, good four room house with two porches, cement cellar and good well at kitchen door, wood house, chicken house and all out buildings.

Terms reasonable.

C. M. Jordan
Huntersville, W. Va.,

Man Wanted

An allround carriage man to work on band mill of the Marlin Lumber Company. Apply to

H. A. OVERHOLT,
Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR RENT

Boarding house at Raywood, W. Va. For particulars apply to.

Warn Lumber Corp.
Raywood, W. Va.,

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Marlinton, W. Va.
Furniture made to order and old furniture repaired

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specialty of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

Dr. CHAS. S. KRAMEE
DENTIST
First National Bank Building
Phone
Marlinton, W. Va

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

CHARLES SHINABERRY
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
All calls given prompt attention.

A. J. SHARP
AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
Phone Marlinton Central.

DR. F. V. LONERGAN
CHIROPRACTOR
Marlinton, W. Va
Offices at A. C. Bostic's, Camden Ave

W. A. BARLOW
OLD RELIABLE AUCTIONEER
Onoto, W. Va.
All calls answered.

Wm. O. RUCKMAN
LICENSED AUCTIONEER
Millpoint, West Virginia
A young man with the goods

Z. S. Smith
Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

Baxter's Garage
MARLINTON W. VA.
FORD Cars and Supplies
FORDSON Tractors
A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.
I. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Chiropractic

Dr F V Lonergan has located in Marlinton for the practice of Chiropractic. Offices at the home of A. C. Bostic, on Camden Avenue, near the Marlinton Hotel, where he can be found at all times

For Sale

20 H P Frick sawmill boiler and engine complete. Good 60 Diston saw, Cutoff saw, lot light steel rail, lath mill, one lumber truck.

4wks.

Nixon & Pritchard,
Dunmore, W. Va.

We handle Grit, Oyster Shells, Charcoal, Chick Food, Etc.

Marlinton Poultry Yard
Marlinton, W. Va.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, Editor.

THURSDAY APRIL 26, 1923

There is but one road to Buckeye, so when strange engineers come along and put up detour signs on that road it naturally raises the question how permptory instructions can be carried out. One of these signs has been up at the fork of the road at the bridge since the work began of making broad the path that leads to Hillsboro, and the voice of the steam shovel was heard in the land as the harbinger of spring. When they were working on the other side of the bridge. they put up a similar sign to detour and that is when we all got so hep to the word. That was the road to Edray, and it meant to take to the back road to Edray, and they deviated enough travel from the pike to make that road broad and plainly marked for years. Then it was that we all learned to be detourists. We had heard of detours for years. Persons would return from wandering all over with a new set of tales of a traveller, commencing sometimes like this: "I saw the sign to detour but I kept right on and there is where I broke an axle." But when they make a path to your door and put up a detour sign then it is that you begin to take notice.

The first thing that struck me the other as a purist of the English lingo when they suggested that any one that wanted to reach Buckeye had better detour, was that it was not an apt word, for there seemed to be no way around. When a country is made up of real mountains and narrow valleys, sometimes there is but one way between two settlements, and that is a plenty except in times of war or turn pike construction. It amounted really to a sign that might be expressed as follows: "Buckeye is shut off from all succors from the North." It is a live question at our house in these days of devastation and detonation,—for the milkman lives beyond no man's land, but each day the milk comes through so far, and if he keeps up to the end of the improvement he will be entitled to a medal for heroism. As a farmer remarked the other day when he came to town: "If I had only set the milk in the ford when I left home it would have saved me the trouble of churning when I get back."

For a time I could not figure out any way to detour to Buckeye, but I finally remembered that there was a sort of road that led up Stony Creek, and from there to the top of Bucks Mountain and along the top a little ways, and then down Dry Creek to Swago and to Buckeye, but any person that goes that way had better start early in the morning.

There was a time during the Civil War when the question of a detour around Marlins Bottom was about the most important question that presented itself to the mind of a general who had just about despaired of getting his army by the bridge head at this place to the comparatively safe country at Edray, only four miles to the north.

It was Gen. Averell, on his retreat from the Salem raid. He had been ordered to make a sacrifice hit at the Confederate stores at Salem, Virginia and had an army of 2500 men. To destroy the property of the Confederate army was the objective of the raid, and Averell was to take his chances of getting out. Averell was policing West Virginia, and this was a little extra work. To throw a spear head into the body of the Confederate forces and destroy their winter supplies appealed to head quarters. Averell was in Hampshire county, and he had been making swoops to the southern part of the Western Waters, all that year of 1863 and it occurred to some master of strategy that if quick moving mountain force could be sent into the southern part of the Valley of Virginia and destroy the provisions there stored for the Confederate army that it would be a great stroke for the Union cause, and even if the little army was killed or captured, in would be good use to be made of a pawn.

I have come to the conclusion that of all the instances of peril and privation that marked the great conflict Averell's good horsesense in extricating his army from the heart of the Confederate forces, and the courage and endurance of his troops was the most notable and heroic feat of arms that I have ever heard of in this or any other war. Historians have ignored it practically. There was no press agent at the time, and all the publicity it got was from the Richmond papers and that was the ridicule heaped on the management of the Confederate forces, when no less than seven Confederate armies allowed the one little Union army to cut through their lines and reach the rear, destroy a couple hundred thousand bushels of grain, and other stores, tear up a railroad, and play hob generally with the wintering for the Confederate troops. One Richmond paper called it, "The reign of major-generals and military science." The point the newspapers observers made was that disaster came so quickly upon them, that a plan could not be evolved by the commander in chief but that it was left to the genius of each general to so manage his troops that he could protect the stores, or at least capture the troops that had hurled themselves so recklessly into the strongholds of their enemies. The editorial comment of the Richmond papers was to the effect that Averell was so thoroughly surrounded that some ass suggested to the council that the only possible way for the Yankee to escape was to jump down a well. Whereupon Gen Early issued orders that the gate be left open and that the well be guarded. And this same paper mourned over the fact that in the pursuit that Gen. Early had lost his hat.

Averell made his official report immediately on his return to his head quarters in the northern tier of counties. In that report he says that when he was hemmed in he came to the conclusion that if he left the traveled roads he might get through. "If I could cross the Greenbrier and reach Marlins Bottom before the enemy my command would be safe."

He tells how he reached the Greenbrier by an obscure road and crossed it on the 21st and lay at Hillsboro that night.

We local people know something about that. The time was December. There had beeen a big rain and the weather had turned to snow and then to hard freezing. The roads were a glare of ice It was the worst possible combination of weather for a starving army. Alvin Clark, my wife's father, was captured by the army and was with them for three days. He said that the Greenbrier River was even with the top of the banks, and that means a very difficult and dangerous crossing on a bitter cold day. It would have been all but impossible for any other than toughened American soldiers. It is doubtful whether the army had any dry powder left after they reached the west bank, but they brought everything with them. They had some field artillery and the horses had become so tired that the dismounted soldiers dragged these big guns. They say that when the army appeared in thd Levels that they did not come by any road particularly They swarmed up the side of the river ridge and broke over into the cleared level fields with a front several miles wide. The soldiers were all but starving. They had been marching through a country that was thoroughly invested by Confederate troops and after leaving Couington they had followed trails through the wilderness and the Levels was the first coountry they had seen for days affording food and shelter.

It was the one raid into the Levels that took the citizens of that section wholly by surprise. It was almost like a raid of Indians in the winter time, or as it was sometimes called Indian summer. No well regulated army was supposed to be traveling through these mountain ranges at Christmas times, any more than you would expect to see an automobile tourist in the winter time in these days. But there was not much to eat there, for 1863 was the year when the country was full of marching soldiers on both sides, culminating in the great battle of Droop Monntain on the 6th of November. So most of the winter provisions were well hid out. That was the year that the lady of the house hid the old family mule so well neither she nor anybody else could find it. until the mule considered it safe to call out. But what was found was eaten, though there seems to have been wonderful discipiline in regard to taking food by force, as there was one case at least of an officer shooting a private who would not leave some bacon alone that the housewife insisted on keeping. At one farmhouse they took all the food that they could find and eat that and then eat the conthets of a swill barrel that was getting ripe for swine.

Every man and boy that they could find they arrested The old Academy building was set apart for the prisoners and they lay on the floor and the building was jammed and crowded with them. The soldiers were desperate and weary, but there was great vigilance and discipline maintained. Averell had all the citizens that he could capture before him and his one question was: "Is there any road to Edray so as to miss Marlins Bottom?" and no man could tell him of any way. It was a matter of the utmost importance. Hillsboro was in the Confederacy. Edray, fifteen miles north was in the Union. The elections still exemplify this fact What Averell wanted was to detour and there was no way to detour, and needs must when the devil drives, and the next morning he was on his way, and marched that day fifteen miles along the road and camped at Edray, His report says: "On my way to Edray, my rear guard experienced some trifling attacks on the 22nd." This referred to some very, very distant shots from the brush, where some bushwhacker hung on the flanks of the army.

At Edray, the discipline was relaxed. No particular attention was paid to the prisoners. and most of them quietly withdrew in the nighttime, and the next morning, the rest of them were told to go home. Alvin Clark said that he debated with some of his neighbors as to whether they ought to impose further upon the hospitality of the army or not, but that he decided to stick it out. And the next morning he went in to call on the general. who had spent the night in the brick house which formerly stood where W. M. Sharp's house is located. The thing that impressed him most was the boyish appearance of the commander. Averell had by that time become a household word in the mountains of West Virginia. and had the reptation of a most powerful and effective war lord. And he looked like a boy. Mr. Clark said that he inquired of him as to what he was doing and how he was situated and was very pleasant in his manner and conversation, and told the prisoner that as it appeared that his family had more need of him than the Union army that he could go home.

The odyssey of this great expedition is a story of a march of four hundred miles in seventeen days, from New Creek to Beverly by way of Salem, in the winter time.

The first two days were spent in reaching Petersburg, during which time the shoeing of horses went on, as there had not been time to get the army ready for the march. The plan that was so quickly made after the orders came sent a force towards Kanawha to make a demonstration, and another into the Valley towards Staunton. and these detachment succeeded in diverting the Confederate forces from the main object of the campaign, which was the raid on the military depot at Salem.

December 8 and 9, 1863, spent in reaching Petersburg. On the 11th the army arrived near Monterey. On the 12th, a heavy rain, and that day the army marched down Back Creek At Mountain Grove, a skirmish with Gen. Jackson flying from Col. Moor who was moving on the west flank. On the 14th, Jackson River was reached, and. the rain having continued, the river was deep fording. Halted a few hours on the evening of the 14th, then broke camp and during the night went up the road that follows Dunlaps Creek, and about two in the morning reached the junction of the Sweet Springs and White Sulphur roads at the Crow Tavern. Reached Sweet Springs about 10 a. m, and halted a few hours and found plenty of forage there. Left Sweet Springs at 1 p m. on the 15th, and marched until within twelve miles of Newcastle, where a halt for a few hours was made to eat and rest Newcastle was passed in the night, and on the morning of the 16th heard the locomotive whistles at Salem, and that was the day the stores and other property was destroyed, the soldiers being engaged for about six hours On the night of the 16th came the heavy rain that played such a great part in the expedition. The army was already on its return. They completed the work of destruction at 4 p. m. and marched seven miles on the return trip. For five days there had been little sleep for the soldiers. The last eighty miles had been made in thirty hours A whole night was taken for rest. On the 17th it rained all day and all night and the army had trouble with Craigs Creek, which was so high that it uproote great trees and carried them away. Drenched, muddy, and huugry, the command reached Newcastle, about sundown on the 18th. Left Newcastle at 9 p. m. and took the road towards Sweet Springs and marched to the junction of that road and the Fincastle road, and here camp fires were built, and after a time left burning and a march of thirty miles northeast made to the Covington and Fincastle pike, fifteen miles from the bridge. This at noon on the 19th Marched on to the bridge and had a fight with Confederate troops. Reached the first bridge five miles below Covington on Jackson River at 9 p. m on the 19th. And crossed the bridge at Covington soon after, and a running fight was had along here in which the Union force lost 119 men and five officers. The army concentrated at Callahans. This is the point that the fortunes of the retreating army seemed most hopeless. The country in Monroe and Greenbrier Counties was strongly held against them. They knew of an army at Mountain Grove. The road up Antonys Creek to Huntersville, was not open. Then it was that Averell made the most famous detour that was ever heard of. All he knew about it by his official report was that he reached Hillsboro by an "obscure road" by the evening of the 21st. With all the other dates carefully fixed in his memory, all that he knows of the 20th was that he left Callahans on that date and crossed the Greenbrier River on the 21st. It had turned cold. and the streams were still high. He must have followed some trail of some sort for he brought his artillery through and crossed the Greenbrier where there was no bridge at a bad ford, when the river was too high to be crossed.

That country between the mouth of Spice Run and Callahans is still in a state of wildness, and it would be interesting to go there and see just how that army got through in the winter weather, and arrived in the Levels in a condition in which they were fain to fill their bellies with the swill that the swine did eat, and almost perishing from hunger and cold. It can be accounted for only on the theory that these soldiers were in the very best condition physically and that they had the fierce determination to win through and nothing could stop them. The chances of a single man living to swim the Greenbrier at such a stage on such a day are rather slim, but maybe a whole army plunging into it together could overcome the rush of the icy current and bring them out on the other side.

On the 22nd the march was made between Hillsboro and Edray to safety. Fifteen miles that day. The 23rd and 24th were taken for the fifty three miles to Beverly over roads glazed with ice, the men dismounting and pulling the artillery by hand. And so they got back with all equipment, and reached Martinsburg by the 27th. in time to go into action there. The government rewarded them by giving each soldier a new suit and a pair of shoes.

For endurance, courage, strength, and pluck this experience of an army of twenty-five hundred is perhaps without parallel. These captains courageous, whom death could not daunt. Why much was not made of him, is hard to figure out, for as compared to the ride of Sheridan cantering along on the Valley Pike on his stall fed horse, the work of the twenty-five hundred who split the Confederacy wide open and overcame the resistance of the forces of men and nature seems that of supermen.

I have found some evidence lately that throws light on some of the troubles of Averell. He seems to have had a career of universal success in the field and to have suffered from bureau politics. His Fourth Brigade was created in March 28, 1863 and given over to Gen. Roberts, the general who made "war on women and children." His policy was to make every sympathizer with the Confederacy to leave home. And he had trouble. It was about the time that our first families took to refugeeing. Here is an example of his mistaken policy. He might harry the old folks out of their house and home because they had a son in the Confederate army, to find out later that these same parents had four other sons in the Union army. So he lasted until May and Averell was ordered to find him and fire him. And in 1864, Averell was as summarily removed by a peremptory order of Gen Sheridan. And Averell hits back and accuses his superior officers with hunting pretexts to make a place for another general, and shows that he is rankling under a sense of injustice and outrage And the more so as it came at a time when his success at Moorefield had led him to believe that he was to be rewarded and not punished.

The bench-warmers got him.

FOR SALE

43 A-1 mountain ewes. If interested write. C. H. Rivercomb, Covington, Va.

After Every Meal

WRIGLEYS

Top off each meal with a bit of sweet in the form of WRIGLEY'S.

It satisfies the sweet tooth and aids digestion.

Pleasure and benefit combined.

FOR THE CHILDREN

A share of your business solicited

T. S. McNEEL

INSURANCE AND BONDS

Marlinton W. Va.

Successor to Woodsell Insurance Agency

Life, Fire and Accident, Automobiles and Live Stock, Bonds of all kinds, Money to Loan on Farms.

Office 2nd floor, First National Bank Building.

Notice to Contractors

Sealed proposals will be received by the State Road Commission of West Virginia at its office in Charleston, W. Va., until 10 o'clock a. m. on the First day of May, 1923, and opened and read immediately thereafter, at the Kanawha County Court House, Charleston, W. Va, for the surface treatment of the following section of State road—

Projects 79-A and 1068, Pocahontas County—3 5 miles for cleaning and tar cold surface application including cover coat. Certified check $500.00.

Proposals will be received only on State Standard forms, in accordance with plans, specifications and estimate of quantities therefor, which standard forms, plans, specifications and estimate of quantities may be obtained from the Division Engineer at Fayetteville, W. Va., or from the office of the State Road Commission at Charleston, W. Va.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount above specified.

The right is reserved to reject any and all proposals.

THE STATE ROAD COMMISSION OF WEST VA.
E. B. Carskadon, Secretary.

—$3,000—

Valuable Farm for Sale

Seventy acres, 5 miles from County Seat, Marlinton, W. Va, hard surface road out to farm. Joins 2 room graded school building, quarter of a mile to church. 30 acres in good state of cultivation, balance in pasture and woodland; good 8-room dwelling and outbuildings, 12x16 cement cellar, good well at house, cement curb. Farm watered by running streams. Orchard of 50 improved apple trees, about 1-2 acres of raspberries, 20 large bunches of currents. Can give good terms of settlement to purchaser. If interested, call or write Mrs ALLIE LANDIS, Marlinton, W. Va.

Estray Sheep

A buck sheep has been at Weiford place at Warwick since about the last of October. Owner can have property by proving it and paying cost keep and advertising.

O S. Weiford, Warwick, W. Va.
Adv. $1.00

Executor's Sale

The undersigned, executor, will on the 25th day of April, 1923, commencing at Ten O'clock, A. M. at the residence of the late Joseph H Wilson, in Pocahontas County, West Virginia, sell the following personal property:

One horse, two cows, one plow, and one fork.

Terms of sale—All sums under ten dollars cash. and on larger sums, a credit of four months will be given, the purchaser giving notes well endorsed.

L. M. McClintic
Execunor of Joseph H. Wilson, deceased.

FOR SALE—About one acre of land with good 7 room house, cement cellar, barn, chicken house and garage, in the town of Clover Lick, W. Va. near the large saw mill of A. D Neill & Son Co. Has a large garden and 15 improved fruit trees just coming into bearing. Will sell reasonable if sold quick, a fine home for any one who wants to follow public works. W. A. HIVELY, Dunmore, W. Va.

LOST— License plate number 14455 finder get reward at Times office.

LOCUST POSTS—Good locust posts for sale, delivered at Marlinton. Apply to FRED HEFNER, Buckeye, W. Va.

PIGS FOR SALE—Booking order for Duroc Jersey, male pigs, farrowed March 18, 1923 Registered in purchasers name. Good type. Orders must be at hand, by April 30. Write quickly. CLARENCE MAY, Beard, W. Va.

Money to Loan at 5 1-2 percent

The Pocahontas County Farm Loan Association of Marlinton, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, has money to loan to farmers on farm land, on easy terms.

Call on the undersigned and fill out an application blank.

P. T. WARD, Sec.-Treas.

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager

HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC

Marlinton, West Virginia.

Trustee's Sale of Farm

Pursuant to authority vested in us by four deeds of trust, the first dated June 4, 1918, executed to Andrew Price, Trustee, by Roy Houchin and Carrie Houchin, his wife, of record in the office of the Clerk of the County Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in trust deed book Number 10, page 476, to secure the Bank of Marlinton; the second from the same grantors to the same trustee to secure the same bank, of record in said office in trust deed book No. 12, page 151; and the third from the same grantors to the same trustee to secure P. T. Ward, of record in the said office in trust deed book Number 12, at page 164, and the fourth from the same grantors to L M. McCeintic, Trustse, of record in said office in trust deed book No. 12, at page 200 to secure F. R Hill; we will proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder, on commencing at 10 a. m. at the front door of the Court House of said county, in the town of Marlinton, a tract of land situate in said county, near Thornwood, known as the Roy Houchin farm, the part now offered for sale containing 73 acres, more or less, being the part remaining in the possession of the said Roy Houdhin and Carrie Houchin, being a tract of 139 acres, less 22 acres conveyed to Nellie Vandevender, see deed book 56, at page 153, and 44 acres to Abel Hedrick, see deed book 56, page 164; said land is partly improved and has on it a dwelling house and other improvements.

Satuday, May 12, 1923

Terms of Sale: CASH.

ANDREW PRICE, Trustee.
L. M. McCLINTIC, Trustee.

Valuable Farm for Sale

The home place of G. S Weiford, at Warwick, W. Va., consisting 146 acres of good land; about 50 acres in cultivation, about 30 acres of woodland; balance good pasture land. On this property is 2 good dwellings, a store buildings and numerous out buildings and barns Well watered, four orchards of improved fruit, near church and schools, and in good neighborhood. Will sell as a whole or will divide it to suit purchasers, on hard road, five miles from Marlinton, and would made a fine home for any one; especially adapted to fruit growing.

This properly will be sold to the first person offering the appraised price. One third cash, balance in equal installments payable in one and two years.

For further particulars write or see O. S. Weiford, Warwick. W. Va., or N. C. McNeil, Attorney. Marlinton, W. Va.

D. N. WEIFORD, Exec.

Bees For Sales

Full blood Italian bees, colonies in patent hives. Free from disease. $8 60 per colony, delivered to express office.

A. E. MOORE, Marlinton, W. Va.

Bark to Peel

I want to contract the cutting and peeling of 2,000,000 feet spruce and hemlock, reliable parties wanted. Also two teams for sale 5 and 7 yrs old weight 2,800 and 2,900 lbs good farm or log horses, reason for selling too many horses, apply to

CLIFF SHARP, Huntersville, W. Va.

FOR SALE OR RENT

73 acres of grazing land, mostly all in sod, and all under fence, lying in Levels District on public road adjoining the land of I. B. Shrader and others. Anyone looking for a good grazing place will do well to see me. Will give good terms on same and possession will be given the first of April, 1923.

R. C. SHRADER, Huntersville, W. Va.

Fiduciary Notice

Notice is hereby given that the final settlementa of the accounts of W.J. Yeager, administrator of the estate of the late Peter D. Yeager, is before the undersigned Commissioner of Accounts of Pocahontas County, W. Va.

T. S. McNEEL, Comr,

NOTICE TO TEACHERS

The District Secretaries report to me that a very few teachers have turned in Enumeration Reports. These reports should be sent to Secretary soon after April 1st. A delay will greatly inconvenience the secretaries and myself.

G. D. McNEILL, Co. Supt.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN, Marlinton, W. Va

COAL is Cash

I can now fill orders for coal for strictly cash.

WISE HEROLD

DELCO-LIGHT

"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES

Marlinton Electric Co.

DEALERS

Farm for Sale

About 212 acres on the Staunton & Parkersburg Turnpike 5 miles east of Bartow. About 40 acres improved, 35 acres in good timber, balance was cut over several years ago. and has nice young timber on it.

Good 7 room dwelling, some out building, orchard of apples, peaches, pears and cherry trees. large enough to bear. some small fruit.

1-2 mile from school 3 miles from church. several good springs. This is good mountain farming land and is fine grass land.

Price and terms reasonable.

CHARLES SPENCER, Bartow. W. Va.

Baby Chicks

Owing to the early drop in egg prices, we have reduced prices on baby chicks to the following prices: White Leghorns $13 and $15 per 100. Rhode Island Reds and Plymouth Rocks $14 and $16 per 100. Hatching eggs, 1 50 a setting or 2.20 for 2 settings. Place your order now and be sure of chicks on date desired.

Oak Crest Poultry Farm, Mill Point, W. Va.,

Picoting and Hem-Stitching

All orders promptly filled.

Mrs. J. E. BUCKLEY, Marlinton, W. Va

Cattle Wanted

FOR GRAZING

I can graze 40 hear of young cattle on my farm on Clover Creek this summer.

LIGON PRICE, Marlinton, W. Va.

For Sale

One and one fourth acres ground, good four room house with two porches, cement cellar and good well at kitchen door, wood house, chicken house and all out buildings. Terms reasonable.

C. M. Jordan, Huntersville, W. Va.,

Man Wanted

An allround carriage man to work on band mill of the Marlin Lumber Company Apply to

H. A. OVERHOLT, Marlinton. W. Va.

FOR RENT

Boarding house at Raywood, W. Va For particulars apply to Warn Lumber Corp., Raywood, W. Va.,

N. M. LOCKRIDGE
Attorney-at-Law
Huntersville, W. Va
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals

RAYMOND HILL
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business

N. C. McNEIL
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON. W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Marlinton, W. Va.
Furniture made to order and old furniture repaired

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specialty of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMER
DENTIST
First National Bank Building
Phone
Marlinton, W. Va

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

CHARLES SHINABERRY
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
All calls given prompt attention.

A. J. SHARP
AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
Phone Marlinton Central.

DR. F. V. LONERGAN
CHIROPRACTOR
Marlinton, W. Va
Offices at A. C. Bostic's, Camden Ave

W. A. BARLOW
OLD RELIABLE AUCTIONEER
Onoto, W. Va.
All calls answered.

WM. O. BUCKMAN
LICENSED AUCTIONEER
Millpoint, West Virginia
A young man with the goods

Z. S. Smith
Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

Baxter's Garage
MARLINTON W. VA.
FORD Cars and Supplies
FORDSON Tractors
A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.
I. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Chiropractic
Dr F V. Lonergan has located in Marlinton for the practice of Chiropractic. Offices at the home of A. C. Bostic, on Camden Avenue, near the Marlinton Hotel, where he can be found at all times

For Sale

20 H P Frick sawmill boiler and engine complete. Good 60 Diston saw, Cutoff saw, lot light steel rail, lath mill, one lumber truck.

Nixon & Pritchard, Dunmore, W. Va.
4wks.

We handle Grit, Oyster Shells, Charcoal, Chick Food, Etc.
Marlinton Poultry Yard
Marlinton, W. Va.

We have safety deposit boxes for rent at ONE DOLLAR per year. Why keep your valuable papers lying around the house. Keep them in a safety box in our vault.

BANK OF MARLINTON

MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA

The Bank of Safety and Service

TWO YEARS FOR MOONSHINING

Edgar Sharp of this county confessed to operating a moonshine still and was sentenced by Judge McClintic of the Federal Court to two years confinement in the penitentiary at Atlanta, on Monday

Another valuable citizen of Pocahontas county passed out of the world when Mr. Adam C Moore went into the great beyond last Saturday morning April April 21, 1923 at his home on Browns Creek.

He had been in falling health for some time and his death was not unexpected. His age was 71 years 2 months and 13 days

Mr. Moore was a life-long member of the M E Church South, the church has lost a loyal member, the home a kind and loving father and the county a most valuable citizen.

Those left to mourn their loss are one Son Moody, two daughters, Mrs Mollie McLaughlin and Miss Allie, one sister Mrs. Gabbert. His wife having preceded him to the grave 17 years ago.

Funeral services were conducted at Bethel church by his pastor Rev. Palmer Eubank, in the presence of a host of friends.

Bulls For Sale

3 Hereford bulls, registered, 2 of which are yearlings and one three years old. Fine specimens and from best blood lines Also a number of registered heifers and cows. Apply to

J. M. CUTLIP,
Beard, W Va

Fiduciary Notice

The accounts of Dr. L. H Mooman, Executor of the last will of the late M. B Trainer, are before the undersigned commissioner of accounts for Pocahontas County, W Va.

This 24th of April, 1923

T. S. McNeel, comr.

NOTICE

The following fiduciaries are before me for settlement:

Carl Arbogast, Executor of B. M. Arbogast, deceased.

Henry Brown, Administrator of R. J. Brown, deceased.

P. L. Dysard, Guardian of Bruce Brown, infant child of R. L. Brown, deceased

Given under my hand this 23d day of April, 1923

P. T. Ward
Commissioner of Accounts.

MARBLE GRANITE
MEMORIALS OF QUALITY

We have a splendid display of over 300 finished Monuments in stock and if you intend to erect a MEMORIAL of any character this spring or summer it will pay you to write us at once for catalog and samples of our work.

We guarantee the quality of the material, workmanship and the price.

PNUMATIC TOOLS FOR LETTERING AND CARVING.

Clifton Forge Marble & Granite Works

Harry P. Burt, Prop.

LOCAL MENTION

S. N Hench and C. E. Denison went to Iron Gate, Wednesday.

R. B. Slaven went to Charleston Monday as a witness in the Federal Court.

Mrs. Cie Beverage, of Knapps Creek, was a visitor at this office Monday morning.

Mrs Denis Kelliston, of Stillwell, went to University Hospital, Charlottesville, for treatment.

Guy Higgins, fifteen year old son Henry Higgins, of Clover Creek Mountain, has pneumonia.

Miss Mary Margaret Herold spent the week end on Knapps Creek as the guest of Miss Hazel Beverage.

Mrs Charles Kimmell, of Grafton, is visiting her daughter. Miss Isabel Kimmell of the High school faculty.

G. S. Hollingsworth cut his knee severely with an axe, while peeling bark for Marlin Lumber Co. Monday.

Prof J D. Muldoon, of the State Department of schools, was here last week to be at the School Day at Greenbank.

N. O Kellison, of Renick, was a visitor at this office Monday. He has been working in the machine shop at Cass.

C P. Marshall and his son G. C Marshall returned Monday from Richmond where they had gone to get their automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. J J McGraw were called on Friday to Williamsville by the death of Mrs McGraw's brother-in law, Thomas Marshall.

Rev. J. H Billingsly, the new Methodist pastor, arrived last week and preached on Sunday. He comes from a big city charge in Cumberland He has made a good impression on us all.

Mrs L M. McClintic expects to come home the latter part of this week from Charleston, where she went to have an injured eye treated. She was struck in the eye by the wing of a chicken. The hurt while very painful, will leave no permanent injury.

CITIZEN'S MILITARY TRAINING CAMP

Judge S. H. Sharp of Marlinton, has been appointed County Chairman for Pocahontas for the Citizen's Military Training Camps Association and wishes to announce that the Government Camp for young men will be held at Camp Knox, Kentucky, beginning July 27th. and will continue for one month. Many boys have attended these Camps in the last two years and have derived huge benefits in health, knowledge and pleasure therefrom. The age limit is 17 to 24. The quota for this Corps Area, consisting of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia, is four thousand men, and it is expected that this number will be recruited rapidly. It behooves those desiring to go to this Camp to apply to the local chairman at once. The applications will be filed in the order as received and the young men notified of their acceptance or rejection immediately. The Government pays all railroad fares to and from Camp Knox. feeds, clothes and quarters the man without any expense upon their part. Their expense is only what they may want to spend.

The local physicians making the free examination for the Government in this District are Dr. H C. Salter Marlinton W. Va. and Dr. N. R Price The allotment to this county is limited to five. and the applicants will be given preference in the order of applying Judge Sharp can furnish blanks.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

9:45 a. m. Sunday School.
11:00 a m. The Letter that Killeth.
3.00 p m Odd Fellows Service
7 00 p m Christian Endeavor
7 45 p. m. Union Service—Sermon by Rev. J. H Billingsley of the Methodist Church.

There will be services on Browns Mountain April 29, at eleven o'clock; Mt. Carmel 3 p m. and at Huntersville 7 3 09 p m.

Palmer Eubank, Pastor.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

J Herndon Billingsley, Pastor.

Sunday School 9:45 a. m.
A. S. Overholt, Supt
Preaching at 11 a m. Subject "A Model Church."
Epworth League 7 00 p m.
Union Service on account of Fifth Sunday, 7:45 p m. at Presbyterian Church. Sermon by the pastor of the Methodist Church; Subject, a "A Model Christian."

Bark Peeling

Will let to contract the peeling of two million feet of hemlock and rock oak bark, in quantities to suit contractor.

Williams & Pifer Lumber Co.
Marlinton, W. Va.

LOST— Near Liberty church on Greenbank Public School Day, navy blue gabardine skirt rolled in plain wrapping paper. Will the finder please notify, Mrs. G. C. Hamilton Nottingham, W Va.

WANTED—A good girl or middle aged woman perferred, to do house work, good pay. Mrs C. J. Vallandingham, 112 Camden avenue, Marlinton, W. Va.

LOST—Two bear dogs: started bear at head of Black Run on Upper Cheat and ran towards Gauley Mountains; one dog is real white and the other red, very large dog. A reward will be paid for their return to me or for information as to where they can be found.

Joe Nallen,
Elkins, W. V.

Will your car match these Oakland Upkeep Figures?

Accurate records kept by Oakland in Cleveland showed an average upkeep cost on Oakland 6-44's of

$8.06 per year

Oakland "6"

The "Mileage-Basis" Plan

Main Bearings—40,000 miles or more without attention.
Valves—15,000 miles or more without need of grinding.
Connecting Rods—40,000 miles or more without attention.
Cylinders, Pistons, Rings—Guaranteed in writing 15,000 miles.
Gas Mileage—20 to 25 miles per gallon.
Tires—15,000 to 25,000 miles per set.
Transmission, Axles, and Major Parts—Life of the car.

IF YOU would know the quality of a motor car—look to its upkeep costs! In Cleveland last year it cost an average of only $8.06 per year for upkeep on Six-44's! Other cities and towns report similarly low averages!

Another excellent indication of quality is found in a motor car's resale value. Try to buy a used "Six-44"—and you'll be surprised at the high price it commands.

These definite and actual evidences of the superior quality of the Oakland car explain why Oakland is enabled to offer its remarkable "Mileage-Basis" Plan!

Before you buy a car—come in and see the Oakland! You will find it beautiful, comfortable, powerful and genuinely economical—and you'll know the minimum number of trouble-free miles you can expect it to give you!

TOURING CAR $995

Roadster	$975
Sport Roadster	1145
Sport Touring	1165
Coupe for two	1185
Coupe for five	1445
Sedan	1545

All Prices F. O. B. Factory

D. W. WILLIAMS
Marlinton - - West Va.

Lilly Land Company Selling Truck Farms in the Ohio Valley near Huntington on Easy Terms

We still have left a number of ideal truck farms located in the Ohio Valley near Huntington, or just across the Ohio River from Catlettsburg Kentucky. You can live on one of these truck farms and easily work at Huntington, Westmoreland, Ceredo and Kenova, W. Va., Catlettsburg or Ashland, Kentucky, or Ironton, Ohio We believe this is a most desirable location for anyone desiring a suburban home in that section of the country.

These truck farms are sold at a reasonable price and on our special easy payment plan of approximately 5 per cent down and 2 1-2 per cent each month without interest or taxes and in case of your death the property is deeded to your beneficiary without any further payment.

If interested, go to Huntington and call on our representative, Mr. G. S. Gadd, at his residence, 531 Adams Avenue, or phone Mr. Gadd, at No. 1547, and he will take pleasure in showing you these truck farms.

We also have a large and well selected list of both lots and truck farms in the cities of Princeton, Beckley, Oak Hill, Montcalm, Bluefield, Welch and Iaeger, W. Va.

We also have a number of modern bungalow houses, equipped with electric lights, water and bath, located on large lots or truck farms on the hard road and street car line between the cities of Princeton and Bluefield, W. Va.

We also have a large number of lots in the famous EAST GATE ADDITION to the City of Roanoke, Virginia. You, of course, know that Roanoke is one of the best cities in the State of Virginia. The EAST GATE ADDITION is especially well located and the lots are sold on our usual easy-payment plan. If interested, call at our Roanoke Office at 634 MacBain Building.

We have been in the real estate business for fifteen years and have thousands of satisfied customers and we are not trying to sell you property from a blue print but want you to look at any or all of our property and will pay your railroad fare both ways by giving you a receipt on your first monthly instalment; fare not to exceed $7 00 If you can't go now, be sure and write us at Princeton, W. Va. stating the property you are interested in, and we will have one of our agent see you; in other words, if you are interested in real estate, it would pay you to see us for thaa's our business.

LILLY LAND COMPANY
Home Office — Princeton, W. Va.

Administrator's Sale

As adminiftrator of the estate of the late Mrs Lillie O. Dilley, I will sell at the home of J. D Dilley, near Huttersville, W. Va, the following property on

Saturday. April 28, 1923
Commencing at 1 p. m.

1 piano, 1 dresser, small dresser, 1 table. 1 bowl and pitcher, 4 rocking chairs, 4 iron bedsteads and springs, 2 feather ticks, 4 mattresses, pillows and spreads, 1 wood bedstead, 1 center table, 1 Davis sewing machine, 1 3 interest in range stove, cooking utensils, 1 small table, 5 sheep, 1 cow six years old.

Terms: Sums of $5 and under cash: over that amount a credit of eight months, note with interest and approved security.

HEVENER DILLEY,
Administrator of Mrs. Lillie O. Dilley, deceased.

Farm For Sale

About 175 acres 6 miles west of Hightown, Va., in Bluegrass District, Highland County, near Staunton Parkersburg pike, about one mile east of North Fork Lumber Co R R. The bigger part of this land is improved farm fields, good meadows and pasture, blue grass and timothy sod; an excellent good outlet for sheep and cattle on outside. A comfortable dwelling house, barn for six horses and cows, granery, wagon shed, cellar, all necessary outbuildings: 5 neverfailing springs of fine water and a creek; plenty fruit 3 orchards, 2 sugar orchards, 2 real good gardens Practically all enclosed with rail and wire fence This is all good land lays well, is not rough. and what is not improved has valuable timber on it that will go along way in paying for the farm when cut. An excellent place for sheep and cattle. One half mile from school and public road.

I will sell at a very reasonable price so that I can go to new territory more convenient for my trade—making and selling bed springs. Could divide tract in two homes.

J. P. HISE.
Hightown, Va

For Sale

3 slightly used stationary engines—3 H. P., 6 H. P.; 10 H. P, all Fairbanks-Morse make. Reason for selling— want to use electric motor. See them at Baxters Garage

WESLEY CHAPEL M. E. SOUTH

Hillsboro, West Virginia
W. Clark Early, Pastor.

9:45 a m, Sunday School
F. P. Kidd, Superintendent
11 a m Morning Worship, Sermon "The call of the Mountain."
7 45 p. m. Epworth League, topic: "The Mission of Methodism;"—Leader, Mrs. W C. Early.

Mr. and Mrs. Harper Thomas spent Sunday at Hot Springs

NEWEST

Spring and Summer Fabrics now in Display. Call and see them

W. A. THIEDE
MARLINTON - WEST VIRGINIA

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all parties having claims against the estate of the late Mrs. Margaret J. Hill to present the same proven according to law to the undersigned administrator at Jacox, W. Va. All persons owing said estate will please prepare to settle at once.

This 2nd day of April, 1923

J. WILSON HILL,
Administrator of Mrs. Margaret J Hill, dec'd

FOR SALE

43 A-1 mountain ewes If interested write.

C. B h
O. h

The brick work of the new Methodist church is finished, and the permanent roof completed. The carpenters are now working inside.

Sunday school attendance Methodist church Sunday, at the Presbyterian 160; town 62

The Annual County High School Athletic meet will be held at the Fair Ground in Marlinton on Saturday, May 5th

NOTICE ROYAL NEIGHBORS

Pocahontas Camp No. 5992 will meet on the 2nd and 4th Saturday evenings instead of Thursdays as before The change is hoped to benefit the Modern Woodman Camp

Zenia Malcomb

Pocahontas County Cooperative Live Stock Shippers Association was organized last Saturday by electing the following Board of Directors, J. R. Hevener, John Dunlap, Dr. U. H. Hannah, G. C. Beard, and H. W. Beard. J. R. Hevener was elected chairman; Dr. Hannah vice chairman G. C. Beard, secritary and treasurer, and Carl Beard, manager.

Save it with Kyanize
KY-A-NIZE
MOTOR CAR ENAMELS

Thrifty, Fastidious Motorists Know

KYANIZE Motor Car Enamels flow with ease, level out to ridgeless smoothness and dry with a rich lustre that is absolutely waterproof.

Begin with a clean surface, apply as instructions provide. Keep dust away, and your car takes on added youth and beauty.

Satisfaction! We guarantee it, or "money back for the empty can."

FREE TO MOTORISTS

Our booklet "How to Paint Your Automobile," with complete instructions, will be given free of charge to any motorist who will call for it at the store named below. Get your copy today—It's FREE.

Durbin Mercantile Co.
Durbin, W. Va.
Pocahontas Supply Company
Cass W. Va.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Irvine, Marlinton, April 21, a son.

WOODMAN NOTICE

Beginning, Thursday, April 26th the regular weekly meetings of marlinton Camp No. 9766, M. W. A will meet on Thursday night, instead of Saturday night. By order of Camp as heretofore.

A. C. McCoy, clerk.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of the late Geo. N. Tacy, to present the same proven according to law to the undersigned at his office near Cass, W. Va. All persons indebted to said estate are notified to prepare to settle at once.

This 2nd of April, 1923.

CHARLES N. SHEETS.
Adm'r estate of Geo N Tacy, dec'd.

COW WANTED

I want good young cow, fresh, Jersey preferred apply to

Fred Gehauf
Marlinton, W. Va.

AMUSU THEATRE

PROGRAM

THURSDAY—
Harry Carey in a big western feature, "Good Men and True."

FRIDAY—
Hoot Gibson in "The Loaded Door." Plenty of action in everything. Also, BUFFALO BILL.

SATURDAY—
Buck Jones in "Western Speed" Larry Semon in "The Rent Collector."

MONDAY and TUESDAY—
Priscilla Dean in "Wild Honey." A 7-reel feature that has everything.

WEDNESDAY—
Harold Lloyd in "Sailor Made Man." A comedy sensation.

Put your faith in

Rexall Remedies

You can use them with confidence. They are compounded from the highest quality ingredients and will do for you what you want them to do

Royal Drug Stores, Inc.
Marlinton, W. Va. — Renick, W. Va.

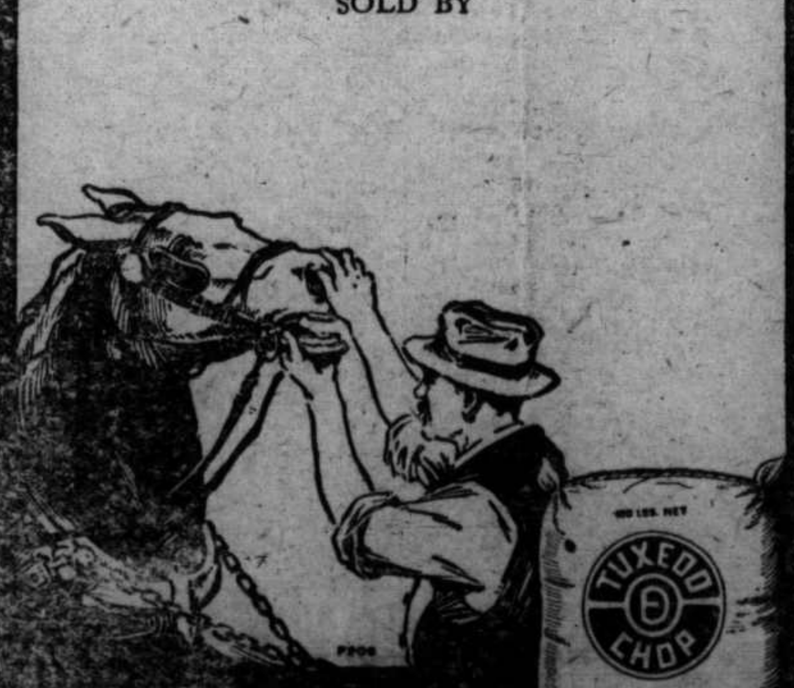
Your Horses' Teeth Can't Be Repaired

When your horse's teeth go bad he can't chew his food properly—so he bolts it. The oats slip through the teeth with the hulls unbroken, and the corn is not sufficiently ground. The digestive juices cannot act on the grains, and they pass through the body undigested and wasted. 15% of the oats fed is often lost in this way.

Feed your horses and mules Tuxedo Chop—the balanced ration. The oats are rolled, the corn crushed. It contains just those food elements which the horse requires, in the most easily digested and assimilated form.

Stop waste and keep your horses healthy by feeding Tuxedo chop. The Tuxedo Primer tells how. Let us send you a copy.

SOLD BY



TUXEDO CHOP

William & Pifer Lumber Co.
MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XL. NO 41 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, MAY 25 1922 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

The Town's Water Supply

Here is the State Engineer's Report on our Water Supply, and its Publication Starts a Move for Better Water for Marlinton.

April 26th, 1921.

Mr. Frank P. King, Mgr.,
Marlinton Municipal Light & Water Co., Marlinton, W. Va.

Dear Sir:

You will recall we talked over the advisability of changing the source of supply but that if you used a surface water it would be necessary to put in a chlorinator which would insure a pure water even though occasional pollution did enter the creek up above Marlinton. While probably the creek might show safe the greater part of the month, it being a surface water one cannot tell when pollution will creep in and if it does, you can not tell by occular inspection. Therefore, as a factor of safety we deem it necessary that a chlorinator be installed and operated continuously. This will entail an initial investment of about $500 00 and the up-keep will be about 10c or 15c a day. I believe the citizens will be more pleased with Knapps Creek water even tho' at certain times of the year it should be a trifle muddy. You must realize that it is these muddy periods that offer the greatest source of danger as the recent showers causing this muddy condition have tended to wash down to the creek all of the accumulated refuse and organic matter strewn on the hillsides.

We are very glad to hear that you are making this change and trust that as usual you will forward complete plans of the change of installation as required by the State Law in order that we may give our approval before such can be built.

Very truly yours,
Division of Sanitary Engineering
R. C. BECKETT,
Assistant Engineer.

Charleston, W. Va
April 18th, 1921

Mr F P King, Water Commissioner
Marlinton, W. Va.

Dear Sir:

Under separate cover a report of the water supply of Marlinton made by one of the engineers of this Department is being forwarded to you.

It is the policy of this Department to cooperate with all water companies in the State. Any steps that you contemplate either to extend or to change your present supply or to alter it in any way should be taken in cooperation with us.

I note from the samples which were received at the State Hygienic Laboratory that three samples taken from a stream showed safe. I am wondering whether this is Knapp's Creek which the engineer discussed on his visit there as a possible source of a future water supply. I understand that the present water contains considerable iron and I thought probably that you were actively looking around for a new source of supply. Kindly let us know if you contemplate any steps in this direction.

Very truly yours,
Division of Sanitary Engineering
E. S. TINDALE,
Chief Engineer.

MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY.

Water Supply

Mr. E S. Tisdale, Director,
Division of Sanitary Enginering,
State Department of Health,

Dear Sir:

I respectfully submit a report on an investigation made by me on the 8th of February, 1921, of the water supply of Marlinton, Pocahontas County, West Virginia. Through the courtesies of Mr. F. P. King, Water Commissioner, and Mr J. H Sheek, Chief Engineer, considerable information was put at my disposal.

REPORT

General: Marlinton, the county seat of Pocahontas county, rests on a flat plain formed by a bow in the Greenbrier River at that point, a small portion of the town running up into a narrow valley formed by the hill west of the river. Passing through the middle of the town and forming the only commercial outlets of the town is the Greenbrier branch of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. Marlinton has not yet reached the stage of development where paved streets are a necessity but despite this draw back the town presents generally an aspect of sanitary conditions with wide dirt streets, clean and sanitary school buildings, a hospital and a fairly complete sanitary sewerage system. Typhoid fever is practically unknown here and general health conditions, as stated by the Health Officer of that town, Mr. Yeager, was good.

The assessed valuation of the property of Marlinton is $1,500,000 with a bonded indebtedness of $41,900 as against a maximum authorization of $70,000. The city owns the present water and electric light plant and is in a position financially to keep them in good working condition.

Industries: The Union Tanning Company is the principal manufacturing plant in the town giving employment to about one hundred men. When running at full capacity 500 hides are treated per day. Naturally considerable wastes from the plant find their way into the Greenbrier and during periods of low water, a considerable nuisance is formed here due to the lack of a sufficient diluting agent. Lagooning has been attempted to spread over a long time interval the waste products discharged intermitttently during the day and thus make a smaller but continuous discharge into the river during the whole twenty-four hour period. At the time of the investigation practically no use was made of the five lagoons which embrace nearly an acre of land. In addition to the above plant there are three planing mills which supply employment for some seventy-five men.

Sewerage System; Five outlets serve to drain the sewage from the town and is discharged untreated into the Greenbrier River. Points of discharge are at Sixth, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth Streets and a fifth sewer emptying into Knapps Creek, a short distance above the confluence of the two streams. The system which serves for sanitary purposes only are of the following sizes and lengths:

3350 ft.	12 in. T. C. pipe
8400 ft.	8 in T. C pipe

Those dwellings situated as to be unable to connect with the sewer lines revert to the old fashioned dirt trench type of privy with very infrequent removals as is typical of such towns.

Water Supply: In 1906 the Marlinton Light and Water Company was organized by certain citizens of Marlinton to supply the town with light and water. After a losing struggle the company went bankrupt and was taken over by the Marlinton Service Company whose members were practically of the same company then defunct. This later company lasted about a year and a half and in 1915 was taken over by the city at an agreed price of $20,000, which price included both light and water plants. Since that time the town council has put back into the two plants about $18,000.

In 1920 an increase in rates was granted to the company which authorized them to raise rates to a maximum of $9.00 per year per household. At present the city is charging consumers $6 30 per year. Households with two bathrooms are charged $7 50 and garages and other large consumers of water are metered and charged at the flat rate of $0 50 per thousand gallons. Altogether six consumers are metered out of a total of 200 consumers are, which latter figure represents about 100 per cent connection with the city water system.

Wells and Pumping System: Two drilled wells located on two different sides of the pumping station form the source of supply for the water system. The two wells—690 and 700 ft. deep respectively and 8 inches in diameter—are drilled through clay and sand to solid sandstone. Both cased and have their outlets terminating about three feet above the surface of the ground where they are gripped by a concrete flooring and whose vertical sides form a concrete box extending about three inches above the ground. Both boxes are covered with a wooden lid.

The suction lines are bolted to the tops of the casings of the two wells and from each line leads to its individual pump. Both pumps are Worthington duplex, the water and steam chambers of the two pumps being respectively as follows: 8" & 12" x 8 1-2" x 10" and 9" & 4" x 8 1-2 x 10", both delivering approximately 250 gallons per minute. Both pumps are run on an average of ten hours per day. An 8" line leading from a wye connecting the two pressure lines of the two pumps supplies both the city lines and any surplus not used during the day finds its way to the reservoir on the hill. Between the tee leading to the city mains and the line leading in the reservoir is a valve serving to cut off the reservoir from the city supply.

Distribution System: The following lengths and sizes make up the distribution system of the city in addition to which are twenty-eight fire hydrants. A normal pressure of about forty pounds exist at the fire hydrants

3200 ft	8 C. I. pipe
3000 ft	6 C. I. pipe
8000 ft	4 C. I. pipe
2000 ft	1 3 4 C. I. pipe

Reservoir: Two iron cylindrical tanks each sixteen feet in diameter and twenty feet in height, serve as storage and equalizing reservoirs. Both are covered and have sufficient opening to permit of inspection.

General Remarks: The water coming as it does from a deep well source has naturally considerable mineral matter dissolved in it and the presence of iron is obnoxiously present. There is no doubt but that a taste must be developed for the water as the potableness of the water would not appeal to anyoue. Besides the the distinct and objectional taste there is the objection also to the water which renders everything with which it comes into contact a reddish brown hue as is evidenced by all the porcelain work noticed at the public schools. What this water would do to the clothes of the citizens can probably best be told by the housewives themselves.

Recommendations: 1. If the present supply is to be continued the installation of a deferrization plant would be most desirable as the water in the present condition is intolerable from the standpoint of the iron content. It is an imposition to the citizens as well as an economic loss to those forced to use the same for washing purposes. Deferrization properly installed and properly attended to would rid the water of the undesirable content.

2. The water supply during the summer experiences periods border-on drought and some discussion has been aroused at times to seek for a new source of water supply. The most suitable site would be to extend the existing mains about 800 feet and have the intake line put in Knapps Creek, a small creek emptying into the Greenbrier River, and sufficient at all time to supply the city now and in the future. This installation would entail the purchase of probably a three stage centrifugal pump with direct connected motor using the city current and a chlorinator. At times a water containing considerable turbidity would be encountered after heavy rainfalls but it is far less objectionable than the present water supply. Six miles above the proposed intake is a village of one hundred inhabitants with scattered houses lying in between.

3. In any installation the present condition of the plant must be taken into consideration. The present pumps have been installed some fifteen years and will in no distant future need complete overhauling if not replacement.

Respectfully Submitted.
R. C. BECKETT,
Assistant Engineer

Money Raising Sale

Still Going Strong

I am doing real well in my sale. A lot of goods have gone out, but there are a lot of bargains left. It takes a world of goods at the prices I am asking to raise the amount of money I must have.

A lady came thirty or more miles on the railroad to buy at our sale. When her wants were supplied, she found she had not only saved her train fare, but had several dollars besides for her time and trouble, over and above what she expected to pay. Her neighbors are coming now.

Music Master Talking Machine Free

To the Lucky Holder of the Proper Key

In order to increase our business, we offer free a beautiful $125 Music Master Talking Machine to the holder of the successful key. With every $2 purchase we give a key. One of the keys unlocks the lock of the beautiful Music Master.

The date for the trial of the keys will be announced later.

I. ROSEN

Marlinton - - - - W. Va,

ARBOVALE

Miss Flora Gillispie of Elkins, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gillispie

Mrs. J. W. Riley went to Marlinton last Friday to take treatment at the hospital.

Miss Martha Reitz, one of our high school students, took the latin test that was given throughout the State. Here's hoping that she wins first prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Beard took their little son, Fenton, to the City Hospital at Elkins to have him treated for rheumatism.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Harper, of Elkins, spent Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Beard.

The Odd Fellows of the Winterburn Lodge, No. 319 of Greenbrnk, held their anniversary service at the Arbovale church Sunday afternoon May 14, 1922. The weather, contrary to all our local weather prognosticators, was fine, and people came from far and near, making a crowd of over eight hundred people. There were one hundred and ten automobiles on the ground. The committee on arrangements and decorations are to be congratulated on the appearance of the church. Rev. W. W. Sutton, of Charleston, a member of the local lodge, was securred to preach the anniversary sermon. Our people were delighted to have him return for this occasion and their appreciation was attested by the large crowd present. He was at his best and gave us a very interesting, instructive and inspiring sermon which was enjoyed by all who were able to hear him.

Mr. Sutton is a former resident of this place having been reared nare here, and being a member of the Arbovale church, but is now a memter of the W. Va. Conference, M E Church, and at present is holding down one of the good appointments in Charleston. The Odd Fellows furnished their own choir, made up entirely of Odd Fellows, and demonstrated that they knew how to sing. So good weather, an excellent sermon and splendid singing naturally gave us a feast of good things. Hope they'll come again,

PIANO RECITAL

By the pupils of Miss Mary Frances Bratton assisted by Miss Mary Eskridge, at the High School Auditorium on Wednesday evening, May 31, 1922, at 8 o'clock. An admission of 20c. will be charged. Beginning July 1st, Miss Bratton will resume her piano classes.

HILLSBORO

On last Sunday evening about 7 o'clock considerable excitement prevailed in our little town over an airplane which circled low several times over the houses and finally landed in the northern suburbs of the town. The men in charge of the machine hailed from Lewisburg, and were engaged in picking up any one desiring to try the novelty of soaring up in the clouds.

Winnie Kinnison, a noted contract- of our community, is erecting a house on the Kinnison addition, and will probably put up two more during the summer. A company is also forming to put up a large garage and machine shop on the addition.

The town council is preparing to submit to the voters and taxpayers of the town a proposition to bond the town to the amount $4,500.00 for the purpose of macadamizing the streets and building walks.

On last Saturday the 20th a pair of Brown & Sharpe hair clippers Figaro pnttern. No 0 was stolen from the writer. We do not wish to accuse anyone of the theft. Neither is it the intrinsic value of the article taken that prompts us to refer to this unpleasant matter. Without malice or ill feeling toward anyone we hope to be instrumental in some way or some how to cause some man, boy or girl who is about to be enticed away from the paths of rectitude and honor by the wickedness and evil tendencies of the times in which we are living to stop and think. In every community in our county and state there is quite a number of young people who are just beginning the morning of life's aspirations. Boys and girls what do you aspire to? This is a mementous question. It is one that will shape your lives for weal or for woe. There are two roads, one or the other of which you must follow. One leading upward to a higher and better life—to God and great happiness—the other leading downward to besmirchment of character and degredation, ruin and hell. Which of these roads are you going to follow? Rememoer your actions and deeds are ever under the all-seeing eye of God. We would impress on the mind of every boy and girl starting out for themselves that allegiance to God, honesty and a good character are the foundation stones upon which they must build for success and happiness, not only in this life but that which is to come. May God help you to build upon that foundation. J. H. C.

BROWNS CREEK

We are having good growing weather now. Most of the farmers are shearing sheep.

C. A. McLaughlin is working for the Warn Lumber Co.

Miss Esta McLaughlin is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. J. J. Laury, at Minnehaha.

There has been some new Fords purchased on the Creek recently.

There has been quite a bit of work done on the roads which was badly needed.

The pie supper last Saturday night was a success. Sixty dollars was realized.

Miss Verian Grimes is at home, having closed a successful term of school at Dunmore.

Mulvy Moore has a job of sawing for Mitchell Sharp.

The Ladies Missionary Society of Huntersville Methodist Church, will hold an ice cream festival on the church lawn on Saturday June 3, beginning at five o'clock.

Food Sale

The Womans' Club will have a sale at T. D. Moore's building on Main St., Saturday afternoon May 27th beginning at 2:30. Cakes, pies, cookies, candy, bread and dressed chickens will be on sale.

Proceeds from this sale will be used to help pay a superviser for the play ground for the summer months.

The Stansberrys

Announce the opening of Minnehaha Springs Hotel with a five o'clock dinner, Sunday May 28th. (Although the Hotel and pool are ready for business now.) The management expects to maintain the same high class standard, established last year, and also keep up our reputation for good meals properly served. Kindly write or phone your reservation early as possible to insure good service. Do not forget the date.

Thanking you for any patronage extended.

We remain
"THE STANSBRRYS"

A. J. LIGHTNER & CO.

Taxi - Service

MARLINTON, W. VA.

Two good new cars, and more can be provided. Telephone us. Prompt and safe service.

CEMENT

A fresh car of LEHIGH PORTLAND CEMENT in stock

Special price on quantity orders.

Now is the time to do your concrete work.

We will also make wholesale prices to merchants thru the Greenbrier Supply Co.

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.

MARLINTON, W. VA.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

The annual sermon to the high school graduates well be delivered in high school auditorium on next Sunday evening, May 28, at eight o'clock. The Rev. Jno. I. Armstrong, of Lewisburg, will preach the sermon. Subject: "Abundant Life."

Senior Class exercises well be held in the high school auditorium on Thursday evening June 1st at eight o'clock.

The Annual High School commencement Exercises will be held in the high school auditorium Friday evening June 2nd, at eight o'clock. Prof Wm. M. Brown, of the Department of Education, of Washington and Lee University, will deliver the address.

Rev. H H. Orr will preach at Hamlin Chapel next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. Owing to the Woodmen Memorial service the first Sunday in June this change of date has been made necessary.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

9:45 a m, Sunday School.

11:00 a. m. Sermon by Rev John I. Armstrong, D. D.

3:00 p. m. Preaching at Hamlin Chapel.

8:00 p. m. Baccalaureate service at the High School.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. F. B. Wyand, Pastor.

Sunday School 9:45, prompt

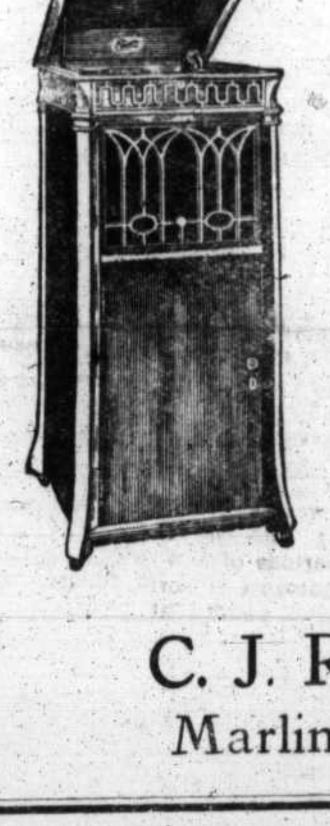
A. S. Overholt, Superintendent.

Morning worship at eleven o'clock. Sermon subject: "What is the Matter with America?" This sermon will be in keeping with the occasion of May 30th.

No service at night because of the High School Sermon.

A. C Barlow has a bunch of tractors and thirty or forty men at work making the race track and putting in ditches at the Fair grounds this week. Three car loads of tile have been delivered to the grounds.

Edison's Re-Creations Reduced



And makes this a good time to buy those records you have been wanting for so long.

Only the owners of an Edison Phonograph know the real pleasure to be had from a perfect talking machine. Could a better one be made, Thomas A. Edison would have made it.

Come in for a demonstration

C. J. Richardson

Marlinton, W. Va.

New McCall Patterns 2712 and 2687

The New "Printed Pattern Saves On Material

YOU can save even on the low cost of your homemade dress by using an accurate. "Printed" Pattern that will require the least amount of material for its making for its making.

Ii's all in the Pattern—this saving! The new McCall Pattern is economical, because it is "printed" in order to make it accurate. This is so that garments will go together and fit perfectly without the wasteful "taking in" of seams or recutting.

For the material is cut right in the first place—in the most saving way.

McCall's "Printed" Patterns are for economical sewing.

Carried In Stock

Schuchats Deptartment Store

Marlinton, W. Va,

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLI NO 39 — MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, MAY 10. 1923 — $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

TRIANGLE GARAGE

Near the Depot

I have rented the Triangle Garage, the Stucco Building recently erected by the Marlinton Electric Co., as a Buick Service Station. It will be equipped to give first class service on Buicks and repairs on any and all cars.

A large stock of Buick parts in stock all the time. Mobiloil, Polarine Oils and Standard Gasoline. First class battery station in charge of competent man.

CLYDE G. BUSSARD, Proprietor

Marlinton, West Va.

Fighting on the fore top of schooner with the vessel rolling and pitching and the mast swaying, is no pleasant job, according to Rudolph Valentino, playing the leading male role and Walter Long, the villainous captain of the hell-ship in "Moran of the Lady Letty," a Paramount picture which will be shown at the Amusu theatre Thursday.

The fight scenes were filmed aboard the ship in San Francisco Bay. The two men were at least sixty feet above the deck. The fight started on deck and continued on up the rigging until they reached the fore top From there they fought on out to the end of a spar. After a final struggle the villian drops into the ocean. For this latter shot, a camera was lashed to another spar, and thus a close-up view of the knock-out punch and the fall was obtained

Dorothy Dalton plays the featured role of "Moran" The picture is an adaptation of the sea story by Frank Norris.

There will be a pie supper at the Cummings Creek school house near Huntersville on Friday, May 26, at 7:30 p. m. Proceeds for church purposes.

A fine refreshing snow storm in Pocahontas Wednesday

Local weather observer S. L. Brown reports as follows upon the weather for the month of April: Coldest 4 degrees above zero on the 1st; hottest 74 degrees on the 27th; mean maximum 48 degrees, mean minimum 31 degrees, mean 44 5; greatest daily range 46 degrees on the 7th. Total rainfall 4.31 inches; greatest in 24 hours, 1 2 inches on the 5th. No snow, rained on 7 days; clear 12, partly cloudy 13, cloudy 5. Killing frosts on April 1, 2, 3, 6, 7, 9, 10, 11, 12, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 24, 25, 26, 27. Sleet on the 14th.

The County High School Field Day at the Fair Ground last Saturday was one of the finest athletic meets ever held anywhere. The young contestants showed a spirit of honesty, fair play and sportsmanship of a high order. The winners carried their honors with becoming modesty and the losers took their disappointment as gentlemen should. The crowd was large and enthusiastic, the cheering hearty and good natured.

A Sunday school was organized at Mary Gibson Chapel last Sunday. James Gibson was made superintendent, Robert Gibson, assistant superintendent, and Charles McGuire, secretary.

SEE

Rudolph Valentine

and

Dorothy Dalton

"Moran OF The Lady Letty"

From the popular novel by Frank Norris

A rip roring see story with a fight that will bring a thrill to the most sophisticated. A romance that brought a cotillion leader and a girl born and reared on a ship together never to be parted again.

Action---Thrills---N'everything

AMUSU THEATRE

Thursday

Two Shows---7:45 and 9:15

Monday and Tuesday

"Human Hearts"

Starring

House Peters

The star of "The Storm"

As Humor as like itself.

A story the whole world loves.

Dedicated to the Mothers of the World

Admission on these two big productions is 15c and 25c

RHODODENDRON SHIPPERS

Frank S LaBar, of LaBar's Rhododendron Nursery, of Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania, is here this spring as usual shipping out car loads of rhododendron He also takes an occasional car of azalia (honey suckle) and sometimes dogwood and other ornamental shrubs and plants. He expects to ship 30 or 40 cars from the Greenbrier Valley this year, and when it is considered that it takes a crew of ten men and two teams a week or more to collect a car load, it can be readily seen the amount of money it brings here, and how big an industry it is

Formerly the LaBar's got their supplies of rhododendron in the forests of New York and Pennsylvania but about fifteen years ago Elmer Burner, of Cass, heard that there was a demand for second growth rhododendron, and having a lot of it. he got in communication with the La Bars. They come and saw and dug, and they have been coming every year since. In that period they have shipped about 600 cars of rhododendron from Pocahontas County. They also now operate in Virginia and North Carolina.

The original growth of rhododendron is no good. They look for thrifty, well formed, young plants that are to be found in fields, burned over woods and cut over land The taking of these plants is an advantage. When the diggers get through the land is pretty well grubbed, and can be put in condition for cultivation, or if let alone the land will soon reproduce a better crop of rhododendron than before.

The LaBar's are pioneers in this work. Formerly the big nurseries would send one of their experts to the forests and there he would procure the plants he needed. It occurred to the LaBar's if they could take over this part of the business and guarantee the delivery of superior stock in any amount called for, a big business could be developed. Their success has been phenominal The profit of the business lies in the volume handled. They count on a profit of only a few pennies to the single plant, but when these plants are handled by tens of thousands each year it runs into money. In addition to direct shipments, the LaBar's have a rhododendron nursery of 86 acres at Stroudsburg, Pennspivania, to which they are continually shipping wild stock to be cultivated and cared for.

In the main, the country estates of the very rich man of the country use this forest product, but of course parks and other public grounds take a lot too. A blanket order for a car is not given, but the land scape gardener places his order for so many plants of a kind and quality to fit his plans and specifications, and it is filled accordingly Of a consequence, it requires the time of an expert to supervise the digging and shipping.

Last week at Marlinton Mr. LaBar loaded a full car of azalia, or as known to us, honey suckle It went to his home nursery. There are three or four different kinds of azalia in these mountains, though there may be as many as a score of variations of color to be found in the big or flaming azalia. Usually just the roots of the honey suckle are sent, to save car space, but in this particular shipment the entire plant went. This stock will be classified according to variety, and cultivated in the nursery.

Formerly the greater part of the rhododendron and azalia used in this country came from Belguim and Holland. It could be bought laid down in New York for less than the cost of digging and freight on native wild stock. It was fine, uniform, cultivated stock too. Then came a law prohibiting the importation of plants with dirt on the roots This was to prevent the bringing in of plant diseases from the old country. Bark diseases could be taken care of by spraying, but there was no way to reach the diseases and insects that the dirt might harbor.

The LaBars will fill any kind of an order for forest plants. Once they sold a whole car load of trailing arbutus, another time they supplied a man with a car of round river rocks

The business is better in hard times than in times of general prosperity. Their main dealing is with men of means, who have money to spend every year. When labor is plentiful and cheap they take advantage of this condition and put a landscape artist to work beautifying and reforesting their country estates.

In the years Mr. LaBar has been operating in the Greenbrier Valley he has made friends and established an enviable reputation for honesty and fair dealing. In the recent lean years his liberal payroll has helped out wonderfully.

As one would surmise from the name, the LaBars are of French ancestry. They are of Hugenot stock, and the family came to America about the year 1730 and settled in Pennsylvania. While serving in the A. E F in France Mr. Frank LaBar came across people of his name in one of the villages he passed through.

Greenbank District High School commencement week will contain the following programs.

Sunday night May 13th 8, p m. Sermon Monday May 14th 8 p m. Stunts and Bird Slides. Tuesday May 15th 8, p m. Play, Cherry Blossoms Thursday May 17th 8, p. m. Commencement. Fifty birds common to West Virginia will be shown.

Special Mother's Day Service Sunday May 13 at following places, Mt. Carmel 11, a m. Minnehaha Springs 8, P. m. Palmer Eubank, pastor.

HOUSE REFUSES TO PASS MEASURE AGAINST POLICE

WEST VIRGINIA DELEGATES BY VOTE OF 55 TO 37 KILL SUTPHIN BILL.

TO CONTINUE THE STATE POLICE

Stand of Good Citizens Impresses Legislators With Need of Force To Protect State.

Charleston, W. Va.—Proponents of the measure brought in the House of Delegates in the West Virginia legislature to abolish the state police force went down to an overwhelming defeat recently, when, by a vote of 55 to 37, the bill was not only killed, but any future effort to have the proposed legislation reconsidered by the delegates was thwarted effectually. Thus, the life of the Public Safety Department, which has proved its effectiveness in the enforcement of the prohibition laws and policing rural districts, has been prolonged.

Heated and prolonged debate between opposing forces on the floor of the House marked the advent and final disposition of the bill. John S. Hall, of Williamson, Mingo county, sponsored the motion that relegated the measure to obscurity. In a few words he urged a vote on a motion to indefinitely postpone Bill 123, as the measure, introduced by Delegate Irving Sutphin of Boone county, was called, in order that the House might get down to imperative financial legislation.

"We Need Police," Says Scanlon.

Delegate T. S. Scanlon, of Cabell county, who had listened to several other speakers decry the troopers as "industrial police," took the floor and dramatically asserted:

"We need the state police to enforce all the laws. They were not created for the mining industry. We need them for road work and for all law enforcement work where fearless police officers are needed.

"One year ago I was opposed to the state police. Since being elected, I have visited Cabin Creek and other places where they are doing noble work. I have talked to the men of the mines and the railroad men who say that the state police are a God send to them. We haven't them in Cabell county but some counties need them and the state needs them. I am not here as a county legislator. Even as my arm is a part of my body, so is Cabell county a part of West Virginia, and West Virginia needs the state police and I'll vote for them."

Miners Wanted Force Abolished.

Three public hearings were given on the bill during which county officers and responsible persons from throughout the state appeared before the committee to urge retention of the troopers. Support of the Sutphin bill came chiefly from the United Mine Workers and other labor organizations who were represented at the hearings by Messrs. Townsend and Houston.

The United Mine Workers of America, had numerous officials and lobbyists in the House when the matter came up for discussion. It was seen at the beginning that the members of the house supporting the union's move and sanction to have the police abolished intended to speak indefinitely in an effort to thwart the passage of Delegate Hall's motion.

The recorded vote showed 48 delegates favoring the state police as against 44. Delegate Kuhn was the only one who changed his vote and did so in order that he might be in position to move for reconsideration at some future date, thus making the vote stand 49 to 43.

Appreciating the strategy here, Delegate William Farris, of Mineral county, moved that the vote on Delegate Hall's motion be reconsidered. Delegate Kuhn objected, stating that he has voted for the motion in order to make the motion for reconsideration himself. Delegate Farris, insisted on his motion and then, voted against it. The motion to reconsider lost by a vote of 37 to 55, thus ending all consideration of the bill.

Citizens Endorse Police.

Persons from every walk in life appeared before the judiciary committee at its hearings in an effort to have the Sutphin bill defeated and spoke earnestly for the retention of the state police. They came from all over the state, Miners mingled with sheriffs, prosecutors and other county officers and with newspaper men and business men who came to make a plea for the state police before the committee.

Interspersed between these meetings, dispatches were published in the press of the state, telling that in the large and small cities of West Virginia, Kiwanis, Rotary and other clubs had endorsed the state police. In many cases recommendations were adopted and forwarded to the representatives of each community, urging that the house defeat the bill.

Probably, apart from the Capitol-removal bill, the state police measure was the most hotly-contested piece of legislation introduced during the 1923 season of the West Virginia law-making body and aroused more interest likely, than any other bill.

AN OLD FAVORITE

"HUMAN HEARTS" COMING TO AMUSU

"Ask Dad—he knows!"

There is the flavor of other generations in "Human Hearts," the Universal Jewel attraction at the Amusu Theatre next Monday and Tuesday, of which so much has been said.

"Human Hearts" is ever timely, yet to parents and grandparents of today it has more meaning than to the younger generation The younger ones don't know what an influence the old play of "Human Hearts" was in America years ago.

It was the success of a decade.

Like all the plays of "those days" it is essentially simple, powerful in theme and direct in exposition. The picture has been filmed just as the play was staged.

The memories it arouses are pungent. It recalls the life of plainer days, when people were just "folks" and the pleasure of the day were unpretentious and wholesome. Old homes old fields, old roads, the crops ripening in late summer suns, the loveliness of girls in white summer dresses, husking bees, etc.

House Peters, one of the most popular and virile stars on either screen or stage, plays the stellar role of Tom Logan. He brings to the part a sympathetic understanding and finish that makes it stand out as one of the best things he ever did. The clever and beautiful Edith Hallor is Peters' leading woman, and the supporting cast includes many cinema notables, among whom are Russell Simpson, Gertrude Claire, George Hackathorne, George W. West, Lucretia Harris, Ramsey Wallace, Mary Philbin, H. S Karr and Snitz Edwards.

Clyde G. Bussard has rented the the Triangle Garage near the depot, and will soon open a general garage, automobile repair, and Buick station. This is the new stucco building just erected by the Marlinton Electric Company. Since his return from the A. E. F. Mr Bussard has been connected with Baxter's Garage. He is a competent mechanic and business man and he will build up a good patronage.

Last week the State Road Commission let to contract the surfacing of the road from the bridge to Campbelltown and from the Kee Lane to Buckeye to Dougher & Boone. The total distance is about three miles and the contract price was over five thousand dollars.

R. K Burns has imported another fine Kentucky saddle horse.

Bring us your Paint & Varnish Troubles on

COMMUNITY PAINT AND VARNISH DAY

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday

MAY 15, 16, 17

A representative of the Sherwin-Williams Company, largest paint and varnish makers in the world, will be in attendance. There will be demonstrations, exhibits and souvenirs. No obligation to buy. Be sure to come!

Don't Forget the Date!

Peoples Store & Supply Company

Marlinton, West Virginia

KNAPPS CREEK

The class A road is being delayed on account of the route by Mt Carmel church not being settled.

The Mt. Carmel Epworth League will have a box supper at Sunset school house on May 19, 1923, Beginning at 8, o'clock.

Ward Harper has purchased a new Overland car.

S. M. Redd made a trip to Ronceverte last week.

The farmers have about finished planting corn.

A very pleasant social event was a dance given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H A. Shinaberry last Friday night, in honor of Miss Vada Detamore their guest.

Misses Thelma Newman and Hazel Beverage spent the week end at their homes on Knapps Creek.

On Saturday May 5, 1923, a very pretty wedding took place at the home of Rev Don N. Nicholas, when Carl Sharp, of the vicinity of Frost, and Miss Amy Moore, of Browns Creek, were united in matrimony. They are a promising young couple and a prosperous life is hoped for. They are spending their honeymoon in Elkin with Mr. Sharp's sister. M.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to thank the many friends for their kind assistance and sympathy during the recent illness and death of our dear father and grand father who died May third and assure them that their kindness shall never be forgotten.

The Hultz family.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Mrs. Hevener Dilley, continues to improve slowly.

Miss Bessie George, who was operated on for appendicitis a few weeks ago, intends returning home this week.

Little Ruby Galford, five year old daughter of Marion Galford of Frost, who was operated on for empyema is doing nicely.

Fred Young, was recovered and leaves the institution this week.

Little Robert Slaven. is doing satisfactory.

Frank Simmons, of Valley Head, who was injured in a mine accident is in the institution, suffering from serious injuries.

Mrs. Lilly Blackhurst, of Cass, is improving slowly.

Rev. H. H. Orr will preach at the lower church at Buckeye next Sunnay night at eight o'clock.

NOTICE

The members of Winterburn Lodge No. 319 I. O. O. F. will meet in their Hall at Greenbank Sunday May, 13th at 2:30 o'clock p. m. and go from there in a body to the Methodist Church, where the 104th Anniversary Sermon will be delivered by the Rev. Harvey H. Orr of Marlinton at 3 p.m. All visiting and sojourning Odd Fellows are earnestly and cordially invited to meet with us in commemoration of this the 104th Anniversary of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

R. W Brown, Secy.

CLOSING OUT SALE

On Friday, May 11, 1923

I begin the closing out of my store goods, consisting of dry goods, clothing, shoes, suits and dresses —all new stock in a wide variety and priced so low that it cannot remain long on our shelves.

These goods are being sold at a price less than merchants can procure the some quality of goods on the market today.

The reason is that I am compelled to move away on account of being unable to secure a room suitable for my business I would call particular attention to prices on Overcoats and other heavy, unseasonable clothing that you can get here at prices that will double your money by fall.

I have a lot of store fixtures, including show cases, one heatrole, suit and dress racks, check protector, adding machine, cash register, typewriter, desk, etc. Also a Mitchell automobile in running condition with extra tires, etc.

This sale will only last a short time for we must close out as soon as possible, and the way we have cut prices will do it.

Geo. Rosen

Opposite Postoffice — Marlinton, W. Va.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, Editor.

THURSDAY, MAY 25, 1922

Safely through another week. The old men continue to dream dreams. "Beneath closed lids and folds of deepest shade we think we see." And while the old men dream, young men see visions. And these visions that they now see, will in the hereafter, splendid and whole arise. As it was in the beginning, so it is now, and ever will be. The old men who have accomplished so much take a gloomy view of life as they brood over the future, while a new set of recruits come on with hope and energy and courage, to keep the world going. Every now and then we are moved to reassure us, the older men, that it is we that suffer from age, and not the world. And even if it is a fact that old persons know that the pleasures of this world are like the apples of Sodom, which are beautiful in appearance but which when picked are found to be but ashes, it is not fitten and proper that we should shout this secret of our prison house. This bitter truth is called out at this time by hearing an old crony allow that it looked like the world was about to bust through. The conference at Genoa broke up without accomplishing anything, and it next meets at The Hague. So they have just about swung round the circle. We remember the lady who said in 1914, that there could be no world war—the great powers of Europe would rise and prevent it. And The Hague was the place they picked in the old days to bring peace and insure it. There was some flaw in that policy of insurance.

The conference meets next at The Hague,
Their purposes are rather vague,
Except to pull Columbia's leg.

That last line rhymes unless you clip your words. It is a slang phrase meaning to obtain favors or money from a person. Uncle Sam refuses to go to The Hague. The powers might try meeting at Parkersburg That is a good place for a convention

In Pennsylvania, they have nominated our old friend Gifford Pinchot for Governor. He is the kind of a man that the politicians cannot understand. He would rather go to church than play a game of poker The politicians claim that he butted into the primary election when he had no invitation, a good deal like that man Beveridge in Indiana. And the Democratic press say that it is another slap at the administration as his opponent Lawyer Alter, was supposed to be the favorite with the leaders at Washington. They try to show that he was more than that, in fact to all intents and purposes, President Harding's alter ego. We do not take so much stock in that, for politics is an uncertain game at the best There is not much consolation for the Democrats for most of the Pennsylvania voters as usual voted the Republican ticket. Pinchot was one of the Roosevelt's most devoted adherent. He followed him blindly in and out of the party.

They are working on the tariff. A friend of ours asked us to sign a petition to Senator Sutherland the other day asking him to oppose the tariff on gloves. We did not sign because we did not know anything about it. It might easily occur that in fooling with as mysterious a thing as the tariff that a person might sign something against his interest. The men in Congress draw salaries to attend to such things. Let them go to it.

And with this brief review of the world, we get back to the book about the wanderings in West Virginia.

Last week we were anchored in a hotel in Clarksburg. We did not stay in that city long and missed no trains however different it may seem to the gentle reader. In the bad old days when they sold liquor in Fayette, we remember at Thurmond, seeing a stranger get to the depot just in time to see the train go round the bend, and we heard him remark that it was the sixth train that he had missed out of that town.

In 1915, we were in Clarksburg at a meeting of the State Bar Association, and at that time we got acquainted with Col. Henry Haymond, the historian of Harrison County, and we found a good deal to talk about for the early history of the mountain country was something that we had studied to some extent. And besides Pocahontas County was once a part of Harrison County, though the line was never fully agreed upon until long after it mattered. Col. Haymond gave us a presentation copy of his history of Harrison County, which we are carefully preserving Col. Haymond has passed away. He was a splendid man.

At that time, we promised him that if we had an opportunity that we would search the records of Greenbrier County to see what was there in regard to the controversy between Greenbrier and Harrison over the line between the two counties, in which Harrison attempted to claim that part of Pocahontas County, known as the Little Levels, concerning which the records of Harrison County are pretty complete. While we did not forget the promise we made we did not have the chance to search the Greenbrier records until this year, and that makes us cast back on the trail to near the point of beginning, which is a good deal like the preacher when near the end of his first hour, thinks about some things he failed to elaborate in his firstly.

Augusta County was formed in 1738. We were part of Augusta. Augusta county extended westward to God knows where, but certainly not farther than San Francisco. This political division held until 1769 when the county of Botetourt was formed taking all south of a line that crossed Greenbrier River two miles below Marlinton, but which Harrison county considered crossed at the mouth of Spice Run so as to include the Little Levels in Augusta. Then in 1776, a district of West Augusta was formed to consist of the three counties, Monongalia, Ohio and Yohogania. This left the Greenbrier basin down to the Botetourt line in Augusta county. And Monongalia lay north of a line beginning at the point that Pocahontas corners on Pendleton county and with the divide along the Back Alleghany mountains to the Botetourt line on the divide at the head of Days Run.

Yohogania is called the lost county as it was surrendered to Pennsylvania, by which Virginia lost the Pittsburgh district.

In 1780, an act was passed adding to Monongalia county all the land of Augusta county, which was northwest of the line dividing Augusta county from Greenbrier county. And in this connection note that Greenbrier county was formed in 1777, and took all of the Botetourt land west of the mountains. Then follows a jumble of words that make no sense about the dividing ridges and the waters of rivers, Greenbrier, Elk, Tygarts Valley, Cheat and Potomac, showing plainly that the tangle of streams had not been solved at that date. It is a fair construction of words when viewed with knowledge of the water courses that the act was intended to put Pocahontas County north of Greenbrier in Monongalia. Then Harrison county took over the territory by its formation in 1784, taking all the southern part of Monongalia.

Then in 1787, Randolph county was formed taking all the southeastern part of Harrison county down to the Greenbrier line.

Then in 1791 Bath county was formed from Augusta, Botetourt and Greenbrier. And until Pocahontas was formed in 1821, there was a conflict between Randolph and Bath at to which took in the part of Pocahontas in the Greenbrier Valley north of the line that crossed at the Duncan Rocks between Marlinton and Buckeye. But the formation of Pocahontas County in 1821 settled that question, except that in the eighties we had a lawsuit with Randolph county about the West Fork of the Greenbrier.

Hearken to this: Within eleven years our ancestors who lived where the county-seat of Pocahontas is located were citizens of the following counties: Augusta, Monongalia, Harrison, Randolph and Bath. A series of rapid changes.

The wilderness was hard to map Cabin Creek in the Great Kanawha Valley gets its name from the fact that certain counties cornered on a settler's cabin, and as he cleared land he moved three times, building a new cabin each time, and taking the county line with him every time he moved.

Here is a book of Chronicles of the counties we have belonged to: 1634, York, 1654, New Kent, 1691, King and Queen, 1701, King William, 1720, Spottsylvania, 1734, Orange, 1738, Augusta, 1780, Monongalia, 1784, Harrison, 1787, Randolph, 1791, Bath 1821, Pocahontas. Note: We were separated from the Little Levels for a few years, so count in that history, the Little Levels to Botetourt in 1769, and in Greenbrier, 1777, until it rejoined the rest of Pocahontas territory in 1791 when Bath was formed.

And if you cannot accept the table above as a fable agreed, make one for yourself.

In the search in the courthouse at Lewisburg we found the old records in splendid condition, the work of the old timers with a quill pen showing the great proficiency in the art of writing. There was no index and the only way to look was to leaf the books through, and it was impossible in the time at our disposal to make a thorough search. The only thing that we found bearing on the Harrison line controversy was an order made January 26, 1791, to William Ward of sixty three pounds, eleven shillings, and four pence, or 10120 pounds of tobacco, for the amount that he had paid on the allowance to William Poage for running the division line between Greenbrier and Harrison county. The records of Harrison county show that three commissioners, William Poage. John Wilson, and Edward Jackson, had been appointed to settle and adjust the expense of running the dividing line. and that the money was to be disbursed at William Poage's house. John Wilson and Edward Jackson were members of the first county court of Harrison county. William Poage settled in 1782 at Hillsboro and was in the disputed territory.

And that is all the reference that we found about the running of the line. It was pretty well established for the Harrison county line is referred to in some of our old land titles

And while we were running through the old record in Greenbrier County, we saw this remarkable sentence: "Ditto to ditto for like services for Caesar 650 pounds of tobacco." We understood the tobacco reference for at that date, 1785, all taxes and debts were reckoned in pounds of tobacco, that being the standard in the Commonwealth of Virginia. But services for Caesar was what struck our crazy bone. It reminded us of the subscription spoken of in the Bible, where it says to render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's. And it was but a part of a minute until we had jumped the cold trail we had been following and were investigating the mysterious entry. It was in the levy laid for county expenses and allowing for the meaning of the ditto part, the whole allowance would read as follows: To the sheriff of this county for two called courts for the trial of Caesar, a negro, the property of William Hamilton, and for executing the said Caesar 650 pounds of tobacco.

The record shows the trial of the unfortunate slave was held on the 15th day of June, 1784.

Present, Archer Mathews, John Anderson, James Johnston, and Samuel Williams, Gentleman.

The court being constituted, John Leval, Gentleman, attorney for the Commonwealth in this behalf prosecutes, comes into court on the day aforesaid, and gives the court to understand and be informed that the aforesaid Caesar, a negro man slave, the property of William Hamilton of this county, Gentleman, on the thirtieth day of May last past, did attempt, with a gun and a knife, to kill him, and also robbed him of his hat and gun; whereupon the said Caesar was led to the bar under the custody of Samuel Brown, Gentleman, Sheriff of this county, to whose custody for the cause aforesaid he was committed, and being arraigned of the premises, he said he was in no wise guilty, and thereof according to the form of the Act of the Assembly in cases of this kind made and provided, he did put himself upon the judgment of the court, and thereupon the said John Leval was sworn and examined, and James Richards, Joseph Irons, and Isaac Ward were sworn and examined as witnesses against him, and he heard in his defense on consideration whereof it seems to the court that the said Caesar is guilty of the felony aforesaid against him is alleged, and it being demanded of him if he had anything to say why the court should not pronounce sentence of death against him according to law upon said conviction, he said that he had nothing but what he had before said, there upon it is considered by the court that he be hanged by the neck until dead, and thereupon he is remanded to gaol, and it is commanded the said sheriff that he cause execution of the said judgment to be done on Friday, the twenty-fifth day of this instant month, between the hours of eleven and twelve o'clock.

Memorandum: The court valued the said Caesar to one hundred and twenty pounds current money.

And that was the services for Caesar. It was a service that he could have well dispense with. It was equal to the time when some officers were bringing a prisoner to jail in this county, and succeeded in getting the prisoner to pay his own railroad fare.

Before that there seems to have been another execution of a slave in that county for another felony, it being the case of Jem, the property of Patrick Davis, who was executed August 4, 1783, the charge against him being breaking and entering a house and attempting to commit rape in the night time, "whose door being made fast with a gimlet and a stool." Jem was valued at eighty pounds. The pound was the Virginia pound worth $3 33 1 3.

And while in the office of the clerk of the county court of Greenbrier County, we made other, further, and plenty of notes about old time matters which will be in due time imposed upon you, for someway or other we get to dabbling into history as we go prowling around. The William Hamilton was a gentleman from Muddy Creek and was not the Hamilton as near as we can figure out who was kin to us and lived in the Little Levels of this county. And so far we are able to figure out there is no stain on our escutcheon of having lost hat and gun in the days when a gentleman could not offord to allow himself to be disarmed.

And we never exude history without apprehension, for the conclusions that we reach are not always those reached by others who have passed on the meager records left by our heroic ancestors.

On this trip we were thrown into the greatest confusion by a historian in the history department at Charleston about what we had said about the official historian of the State calling Indian knives spear heads. And the main objection about that argument was that the historian was a beautiful lady, and that placed an old reliable like us at a most singular and unusual disadvantage. She said that it was a spear head and we said it was a knife. It was not much of a controversy, for we retreated It reminded us of a scene in Ed Wynn's "A Perfect Fool." He is employing an actress. He inquires of a girl what experience she has had on the stage, and she says that she has recited Omar Khayyam. Whereupon he says that she means Omar of Khayyam. But she insists that she means Omar Khayyam, while he maintains it is Omar of Khayyam. And disagreeing on this he refuses to hire her, saying however, there is only one word between them.

And that is about what that controversy in Charleston amounted to—just one word between us.

We have referred to that fuss about spear heads several times, but so far have not been able to create any visible excitement so far as we have been able to figure out.

We do not know when we will get home with this story, but we are on the way.

Fiduciary Notice

The administration accounts of J. H. Clark, Administrator of the Estate of Miss Alice C. Clark, deceased, is before the undersigned Commissioner of Accounts of Pocahontas county for final settlement. All persons who are interested will please take notice.

T. S. McNeel,
Commissioner.

Hillsboro, W. Va.
May 9, 1922.

FALSE TEETH, PLATES REPAIRED

I will have an expert laboratory man with me for a week or more to repair and make false teeth. Let me have yours at once.

Dr. Chas. S. Kramer
Marlinton, W. Va.

AGENTS WANTED

Men or women to solicit orders for nursery stock. Apply to C. J. McCarty, District Supt,
Marlinton, W. Va.

NOTICE

Any one wanting pasture for sheep or cattle call on or write P. T. Ward Marlinton, W. Va., or S. H. Johnson, Thornwood, W. Va.

EGGS FOR HATCHING

From high producing strain of S.C. Barred Rocks E.B. Thompson strain; S. C R. I. Reds; S.C White Leghorns $1.25 per setting of 15; $2 for 2 settings. Baby chicks, last of May or first of June, $12 per 100, delivered by parcel post. Call, phone or write your wants.

OAK CREST POULTRY FARM
Millpoint, W. Va.

Special Commissioner's Sale

Pursuant to authority vested in me by a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered at the April Term, 1922, in the chancery cause of E. M. Arbogast vs D. M. Henry et al, the undersigned Special Commissioner, on the

6th DAY of June, 1922,

at the front door of the courthouse of said county, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder a certain boundary of land situate in the town of Bartow, Pocahontas County. West Virginia, made up of seventeen lots and described on the proper plat of the town of Bartow as lots, numbers 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, and 21 in block 35, described in the proceedings in said cause.

Terms of Sale: Cash in hand on day of sale sufficient to pay the sum of $366 66 with interest from April 11, 1922, and the costs of suit and expenses of sale, and the residue upon a credit due on the 1st day of January, 1923, the purchaser giving a note bearing interest with good personal security, the title to be retained as ultimate security.

ANDREW PRICE.
Special Commissioner.

I, D. C. Adkison, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, do certify that the above named Special Commissioner has executed bond as required by said decree.

D. C. Adkison, Clerk.

Special Commissioner's Sale

Pursuant to authority vested in us by a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered at the April Term, 1922, in the chancery cause of B. B. Beard, S. P. C. Admr. vs Mary J. Malcom and others, the undersigned special commissioners, on the

6th Day of June. 1922,

at the front door of the court-house of said county, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, the property known as the Malcom store and residence property in the town of Greenbank. Said property will be offered as follows:

The residence and land surrounding it consisting of all the land belonging to the lot which lies on the residence side of a line running with the garden fence across the lot and continued in the same line to the road so as to throw the garden to the house property.

Then will be offered the residue of the lot on which the store stands.

Bids will then be asked for as a sale of the whole, and the offer most advantageous to the estate of William Malcom, deceased, will be accepted.

Said property constitutes a good store building and a dwelling and is ready for merchantile business.

Terms of Sale: One third cash in hand on day of sale and the residue on a credit of six and twelve months in equal installments, notes with good personal security, bearing interest, the title to be retained as ultimate security.

A. P. EDGAR,
ANDREW PRICE,
Special Commissioners

I, D. C. Adkison, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, do certify that the above named Special Commissioners have executed bond as required by said decree.

D. C. ADKISON, Clerk.

Notice To Lienholders

To all persons holding liens by judgment or otherwise on the real estate or any part thereof, of R. D. Rimel.

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, made in a cause therein pending, to subject the real estate of the said R. D. Rimel to the satisfaction of the liens thereon, you are hereby required to present all claims held by you, and each of you against the said R. D. Rimel, which are liens on his real estate or any part of it, for adjudication to me, at my office in the County of Pocahontas, at Marlinton, on or before the 26th day of May 1922.

Given under my hand this the 1st day of May 1922.

W. A. Bratton, Commissioner.

Commissioners Notice

State of West Virginia
vs,
Thirty-one acres, E. D. Burner Trustee, and others.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Commissioner in Chancery of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, acting pursuant to the authority of a decree made and entered by said court in the above entitled cause on the —— day of April, 1922, will on the 27th day of May, 1922, at my office in the Town of Marlinton, West Virginia, proceed to execute the order of reference made in said cause, and will take, state and report to court the following matters of account, to-wit:

First. The location of the said thirty-one acre tract in relation to the remaining tract of McCutcheon land and as to the 2112 acre Davis tract alleged to overlap this tract.

Second. Whether there has been a forfeiture of the said thirty-one acre tract for the non-payment of taxes and whether said land has not been included in other tracts and so been saved from forfeiture by the payment of taxes.

Third. If the Commissioner find that said land is forfeited, whether said forfeiture inures to the benefit of any other taxpayer, and if the commissioner finds that said land is liable to be sold, then the following matters of account:

Fourth. The amount of taxes, interest and costs due thereon.

Fifth. Who is entitled to redeem the same.

Sixth. Any other matter to be specially stated deemed pertinent by the Commissioner or required by any party in interest.

At which time and place the parties in interest may appear and do what is necessary to protect their interests in this suit.

Given under my hand this 27th day of April, 1922.

A. P. EDGAR,
Commissioner in Chancery, Circuit Court of Pocahontas County.

FOR SALE—8 acres of land and a nice bungalow house of 3 rooms, pantry and porches. On macadam road near Edray, good water, some fruit trees and all under fence. For particulars apply to

Mrs. MARY DAVIS
RFD 1 Marlinton, W. Va.

Special Commissioners' Sale

ESPY WILFONG
vs.
DENTON WILFONG
and others.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Special Commissioners acting pursuant to authority vested in them by virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, made and entered in the above entitled cause on the 21st day of April, 1922, will on the 5th day of June, 1922, at one o'clock, p. m., at the front door of the Court House of Pocahontas County, in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder the following real estate, to-wit:

All of that certain lot, tract or parcel of land situated on the headwaters of Brush Lick Run, Edray District, said county, being the real estate of which the late N. E. Wilfong died seized and on which he resided at the time of his death, containing about ninety-two (92) acres less five and three-tenths (5.3) acres assigned to the defendant Rosa Waugh in this suit.

This tract of land is made up of farming and grazing land and a small boundary of timber, and has upon it a comfortable dwelling house and will make a desirable home.

Terms of Sale: One-fourth (1-4) of the purchase money cash in hand on the day of sale, and the residue payable in three (3) equal installments in six, twelve and eighteen months from the date of sale, with interest from date, the purchaser to execute his interest bearing notes with personal security to be approved by the Special Commissioners, and the title to said real estate to be retained as ultimate security.

Given under our hands this 2nd day of May, 1922.

A. P. Edgar,
H. S. Rucker.
Special Commissioners.

I, D. C. Adkison, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, do certify that the above named Special Commissioners have executed bond before me in the penalty and conditioned as prescribed in said decree.

Given under my hand the 2nd day of May, 1922.

D. C. Adkison,
Clerk.

Special Commissioner's Rental

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered at the April Term, 1922, in the chancery suit of Thos Rodgers' Executors, vs E. D. Burner and others, the undersigned Special Commissioner, on the

6th day of June, 1922,

at the front door of the court house of said county, will proceed to rent for a period of five years from the day of rental, the following described real estate in the Town of Cass, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, consisting of twenty-five lots, described in said proceedings as standing on the records of said county in the name of A. E. Burner and P. T. Ward, but which were decreed to be owned by E. D. Burner and subject to his debts by reason of an unrecorded deed. Said property has on it seven buildings all of which are offered for a period of five years. Said buildings are locally described as follows:

A property in the nature of a business block known as the White Elephant.

A dwelling known as the R. E. Perkinson house.

A dwelling known as the J. W. Platt house.

A dwelling known as the Phillips house.

A dwelling known as the H. S. McLaughlin house.

A dwelling known as the Uriah Rose house.

A dwelling known as the E. E. Sharp house.

Terms of Rental: One third cash in hand on day of sale, the residue in two equal payments due in four and eight months respectively with interest, note with good personal security, the title to be retained as ultimate security,

ANDREW PRICE,
Special Commissioner,

I, D. C. Adkison, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county do certify that the above named Special Commissioner has executed bond as required by said decree.

D. C. Adkison, Clerk.

Commissioner's Notice

Pursuant to a decree rendered at the April Term 1922 of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County in a cause therein pending in which Norvell Chambers Shoe Company et als, are plaintiffs and R. D. Rimel et als are defendants, the undersigned Commissioner will proceed at his office in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on to take, state and report to Court the following matters of account, to-wit:

FRIDAY, MAY 26th, 1922

First. All of the real estate owned by the judgment debtor, R. D. Rimel where situate, its description and quantity thereof.

Second. All the liens upon the said real estate, by whom held, with their respective amounts and priorities.

Third. An account showing whether said real estate would in five years rent for a sufficient sum to pay off and discharge the said liens, and the costs of this suit.

Fourth. Such other matters as any party in interest may require, the same being pertinent, or such other matters as said Commissioner himself may deem pertinent, whether so required or not.

W. A. Bratton,
Commissioner in Chancery.

WANTED: 20 or 25 head of yearling cattle to graze on my farm one mile from Cass

Allen Galford,
Cass, W. Va.
Box No. 16.

Announcements

HOUSE OF DELEGATES

Editor Pocahontas Times—

At the request of my many friends, I have decided to make the race for House of Delegates, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Standing on my past record as a member of that body and promising if elected again to stand by and for the interest of Pocahontas County and the State, I solicit your support.

Yours Respectfully,
J. A. McLAUGHLIN.

This paper is authorized to announce E. N. MOORE a candidate for re-election to the House of Delegates, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

TO THE VOTERS OF POCAHONTAS COUNTY:

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Delegate to the Legislature from Pocahontas County, subject to the action of the Democratic voters in the general primary election to be held in the month of August, 1922; and I respectfully solicit your support and influence.

J. G. HAMRICK.

At the request of my many friends I have decided to make the race for House of Delegates subject to the action of the Democratic party to be held August 4, 1922 and if elected I promise to stand by and protect the interest of the citizens of Pocahontas County. I solicit your support and influence.

Respectfully,
C. P. KERR.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I will be perfectly frank with myself and friends. I feel that I can help the citizens of Pocahontas county. I have taken my stand with the Republican party. Aside from the devotion of my friends, the reason is, that I want to come before the people unhandicapped. I am a candidate for the House of Delegates. I solicit your influence and support, also your votes at the primary.

H. Underwood.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Schools, subject to the action of the Republican voters expressed in the Primary election, to be held August 8, 1922. Your support and influence will be appreciated.

Respectfully,
C. E. FLYNN.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Notice to Contractors

The Building Committee of the Marlinton Methodist Episcopal Church South will receive sealed bids for the erection of the new church building until 2 o'clock p. m. of Saturday, June 3, 1922, at the Church, Marlinton, W. Va. Plans and specifications may be procured from F. M. Sydnor. Right reserved to reject any and all bids.

F. M. SYDNOR,
Chairman Building Committee.

May 8, 1922.

Commissioner's Sale

E. J. Kisner, Plaintiff,
Vs. In Chancery
F. A. Degler etc., Defendants.

By virtue of the authority vested in me by a decree of the Circuit Court of Randolph County entered on March 9, 1922, in the above entitled cause, I will proceed on May 10, 1922, at one o'clock P. M, in front of the premises, in the Town of Durbin, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, to make sale, at public auction, of the property in said cause directed to be sold, and which property consists of lot No. 8, and one half of lot No 7 in Block No. 6, in said Town of Durbin, and is the same property now occupied by the defendant, F. A. Degler as a hotel, and in making said sale of said hotel property there will be sold the furniture and fixtures therein which were conveyed to said F. A. Degler by the deed of E J. Kisner, and wife, bearing date May 14, 1918, and which deed is duly of record in the County Court Clerk's office of said Pocahontas County, and reference is now here specially made thereto for a further description of said property.

TERMS OF SALE: For sufficient cash in hand on the day of sale to pay the plaintiff's debt, interest and costs of suit and proper expenses of sale, (being about $450.00,) and for the residue upon a credit of 6, 12 and 18 months, taking from the purchaser interest bearing notes, with good security, for the deferred installments of purchase money, or at the option of the purchaser, he may pay a greater amount in cash.

The above property is said to have a good hotel custom and is said to be well furnished and well supplied with fixtures, and any one desiring such a property should examine the above.

W. B. Maxwell,
Special Commissioner.

I, G. N. Wilson, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Randolph County, West Virginia, do certify that the above named special commissioner has executed bond and security as required by law and by the decree entered in said cause,

Teste:
G. N. Wilson, Clerk.

The above sale is continued until June 17, 1922. It is contemplated to make the sale between the hours of one o'clock and three o'clock P. M. of that day The Delco Light Machine and power installed since the date of the conveyance referred to above is expressly reserved from the sale.

W. B Maxwell,
Special Commissioner.

ATTORNEYS

N. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist,
Onoto, W. Va.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Marlinton, W. Va.
Furniture made to order and old furniture repaired.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specialty of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

Dr. CHAS. S. KRAMEE
DENTIST
First National Bank Building
Phone
Marlinton, W. Va

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

M. F. GUM
AUCTIONEER

For Sale

Copper Water Cans, Spouting, Tin Fixtures, copper tubing, bath room outfits, etc.

C. W. Slavin
Tinner and Plumber
Marlinton, W. Va.

Baxter's Garage
MARLINTON W. VA.
FORD Cars and Supplies
FORDSON Tractors
A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.
J. L. BAXTER, Propr.

DELCO-LIGHT
"Electricity for every Farm"
Write or phone for Catalogue
ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES
Marlinton Electric Co.
DEALERS

Z. S. Smith
Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Notice to Creditors

All persons having claims against the estate of Mary J. Poage deceased are hereby notified to present the same to the undersigned her administrator c. t. a. duly proved, for payment, and all persons knowing themselves to be indebted to said estate are notified to pay same to me at once.

W. E. POAGE
Administrator of Mary J. Poage deceased.

COWS FOR SALE

Four young cows with calves by side.

Geo. W. GINGAR
Huntersville, W. Va.

Get a "6"— and "Known Mileage!"

Before you buy a car, consider what Oakland gives in addition to six cylinders—an engine with a 15,000 mile written guarantee; and a definite "Mileage-Basis Plan" which proves the real quality of the Oakland Six.

Main Bearings - - - 40,000 miles
or more without attention

Valves - - - - - 15,000 miles or more without need of grinding

Connecting Rods - - - 40,000 miles
or more without attention

Cylinders, Pistons - - 15,000 miles
Special performance guarantee

Gas Mileage - - - - 20 to 25 miles

Tires - - - - 15,000 to 25,000 miles

Transmission, Axles, etc., Life of the Car

Stop in—see the car—get detailed facts

The Touring Car $995 f. o. b. Pontiac

D. W. WILLIAMS
Marlinton West Va.

Oakland "6"

MARBLE GRANITE

MEMORIALS OF QUALITY

We have a splendid display of over 300 finished Monuments in stock and if you intend to erect a MEMORIAL of any character this spring or summer it will pay you to write us at once for catalog and samples of our work. We guarantee the quality of the material, workmanship and the price.

PNUMATIC TOOLS FOR LETTERING AND CARVING.

Clifton Forge Marble & Granite Works

Harry P. Burt, Prop.

WOOL

See me before you sell and get the CASH for your WOOL.

C. R. BEARD

Durbin - - - - West Va.

Huge Personal Property Sale

At Public Auction

Wednesday, May 23, 1923

One of the largest sales of personal property ever made in Bath County at the Harper McLaughlin home on Jacksons River, situated at the mouth of Bolars Draft, consisting of—

35 head of Shorthorn cattle, headed by fine registered bull
237 fine Hampshire sheep—none better
23 Poland China hogs

All kinds of farm implements, blacksmith tools, and a quantity of other valuable things we do not have room to mention.

This stock, being the strains bred by Harper McLaughlin, needs no better recommendation. If you want something uptodate come to this sale, which begins at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. HARPER McLAUGHLIN, Executrix

E. A. Strong, Auctioneer H. H. Byrd, p. q.

Notice of Trustees Sale

Take notice that pursuant to a deed of Trust Executed to me as trustee on the 5th day of May, 1919, by J. P. Lamb and Rosie Lamb to secure Samuel Moore in the sum of $175.00 which said deed is recorded in the clerks office of the County Court of Pocahontas County West Virginia in Trust Deed Book No .11. at page 154. I will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder for cash, on the premises on Saturday May 26, 1923

at 1 o'clock two lots in the town of Hosterman in Pocahontas County West Virginia said lots adjoining the lots of Mrs. Annie Moore the right-of-way of the C & O Railway Company the Public Road leading from Hosterman to Greenbank and others and the same lots conveyed by Dennis M. and J. W. Galford to the said J. P Lamb by deed dated on the 2ond day of Sept. 1918 and of record in said clerks office in deed book 55 page 261.

CLAWSON McNEIL, Trustee,

For Sale

J. E. Barlow, Edray, Pocahontas Co., W. Aa. General store, new building, 22x60, with wareroom, 16x40, main building metal celled throughout, nicely shelved and countered, five plastered rooms over store, Delco lighting system, gasoline service station, coal house, stable and garage for three or four cars, lot containing near one and one-half acres, between hard surfaced roads, on class A road, four miles from Marlinton the county seat, stock of goods in good shape, will invoice about $5,000 besides fiixtures, will invoice goods, terms on lot and buildings, good neighborhood, close to church and school. a desirable property in every way. must be sold. come and see property.

NOTICE

The following fiduciaries are before me for settlement:

Carl Arbogast, Executor of B. M. Arbogast, deceased.

Henry Brown, Administrator of R. J. Brown, deceased.

P. L. Dysard, Guardian of Bruce Brown, infant child of R L. Brown, deceased

Given under my hand this 23d day of Apr, 1923.

P. T. Ward
Commissioner of Accounts.

FOR SALE—Good two story brick building in Durbin, near depot, good stand, cheap to quick buyer. Terms to responsible party. Apply to

Dr C. B. COLLINS,
White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

WANTED—A good girl or middle aged woman perferred, to do house work, good pay. Mrs. C. J. Vallandingham, 112 Camden avenue, Marlinton, W. Va.

Baby Chicks

For June delsvery S. C. W. Leghorns $12 50 per 100. R. I. Reds and Barred Rocks $13 50 per 100. Eggs $1.25 per setting $2.00 per thirty preaid.

Oak Crest Poultry Farm
Mill Point, W. Va.,

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given tnat the undersigned will apply to the Judge of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, W. Va., on the 5th day of June, 1923, for license to carry a pistol. Occupation, Manager Mt. View Orchard Farm. Postoffice, Marlinton, W. Va. L. W. Harless.

MEYS LOST—A big bunch of keys lost in Marlinton, probably in the postoffice. Please return to postoffice. W. McCLINTIC.

Bark Peeling

Will let to contract the peeling of two million feet of hemlock and rock oak bark, in quantities to suit contractor.

Williams & Pifer Lumber Co.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Small Farm For Sale

19 acres, about 5 miles from Marlinton on Alderlick Run; good 5 room house, well watered and plenty of fruit. At a bargain.

B. W. Irvine.
Marlinton, W. Va.,

LOST—Two bear dogs: started bear at head of Black Run on Upper Cheat and ran towards Gauley Mountains; one dog is real white and the other red, very large dog. A reward will be paid for their return to me or for information as to where they can be found.

Joe Nallen,
Elkins, W. Va

A 15,000 MILE JOURNEY

TOURING THE UNITED STATES FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN BY AUTO

By Davis L. Barlow

(Continued from last week)

I was overwhelmed with wonder and astonishment when I learned that the Columbia River route is the one which the pioneers or "Forty niners" of this section followed. I cannot understand how they ever braved the torrents of the Columbia and the rocky trails of the mountains which rise from the river's bank. But the early settlers had the habit of doing things which we now look upon as impossible.

That these brave pioneers be not forgotten and that their story might be handed down to future generations. Portland has built and dedicated to them as a memorial what is known as the Vista House. This artistic and beautiful structure of steel, concrete, copper, marble and glass is located in center the Columbia River Highway at Crown Point and overlooks the waters of the majestic river. This memorial building is open to the hundreds of thousands of tourists who make use of the Columbia Highway. The probable cost of the Vista House is around—well I will not say because my judgment of costs has not been good since before and after the war..

From the Vista House or Crown Point one can see thirty miles up and down the river, and as we passed at an early morning hour, I promised myself that I would return in time to see a Columbia River sunset. We were in time and will say that I would not have missed it for any thing. Standing in the highway at a point from which I could look almost verlically down 800 feet to the peaceful waters of the river moving silently to the ocean, aud at the same time having a splendid view of the distant horizon in the west where the sun was sinking behind silver clouds whose radiant glow of light so blended with nature's marvelous surroundings that we had a picture of such loveliness that I treasure it in my memory as one of the choicest sceneic gems of the famous Columbia River Highway.

Leaving the sunset scene at Crown Point and driving toward Portland we discovered that the king of day had not yet said "good night" to Mt. Hood—the stupenduous, awe-inspiring, eternal snow-capped peak rising from the crest of the Cascades and towering in stately magnificence many thousands of feet above the sea It is truly a king of mountains and reigns supreme in this section of the country.

The first ascent to its summit was made August 4, 1854 by one of my relatives, William Barlow, son of Captain Barlow, the builder of the famous Barlow trail across the Cascades. The base of this mountain is now quite easily reached. The road leads up the famed Hood River fruit valley. The Peak is located in the Oregon National Forest and I am told that this forest has many hundreds of miles of U. S. Ranger trails which make accessible to horse back riders much of this region which can not be reached over motor roads Fishing is said to be good in the mountain stream and lakes of this section.

While motoring along slowly and drinking in the beauties of the rugged grandeur of Mt. Hood, which were magnified by the last rays of the magnificent and gorgeous sunset Mrs. Barlow exclaimed, "Look! It is changing in appearance." And she was right for is it not written "never does one see the beautiful grandeur of this mountain twice the same?"

After supper I sat in the auto park studying the stars in Oregon's blue skies and meditating upon the day's sightseeing. I began to figure the probable cost of building the Columbia River Highway and whether it was necessary to have carried out the artistic plans that the road, bridges, tunnels, &ct. might harmonize with the various scenes of Nature's beauty along the way, and during the meditation I recalled an auction sale which some years ago was held in Marlinton. It will be remembered that in the pioneer days of the town that an old gentleman with a dog "blew" into town and set up a first class jewelry store. After some time the old gentleman died and his jewelry was sold out at auction. I attended the sale and noticed quite an old man—a stranger to me—who was full to the limit of a kind of mountian dew that made his soul rejoice and loosened the strings of his pocket book. He bid on rings, cuff buttons, odd spoons, forks, knives etc. and paid for each and every article as he bought it, and each time he paid he repeated the words

"What fools we mortals be."

And as I travel over this country—the fairet land kissed by a zephyr and bathed by an ocean—and note the millions of dollars which have and are now being spent for show, I recall the auction scene and the old bidder's quotation,

"What fools we mortals be."

But this extravagance is not alone in the building of memorial highways and beautifying parks, but you will find it in the schools, the churches and in every department of our government. The theory now seems to be: 'Onward with the dance."

"Visit the Auto-tourists' Park and meet your friends from the East" was the wording of many conspicuous signs in Portland and during our stay we noticed scores and scores of city people in the grounds mingling and talking with tourists, hoping to meet with some one from their old eastern neighborhood. This hope often became realities and I witnessed many happy reunions. I enjoyed watching the faces of the western people as they received first hand news from the "dear old folks at home."

The hospitality of this city is of such a cordial nature as to incline one to stay over his allotted time and we very reluctantly pulled away on the evening of August 22, and after driving through the residential and industrial east Portland, we followed the Pacific highway to Oregon City.

This is the oldest city in the State. It is located in rather a canyon valley The city has an abundant water power which I suppose accounts in a measure, for its two immense industrial institutions, namely the paper and woolen mills which together employ nearly one half of the city's population.

Eleven miles out of Oregon City we passed a small town by the name of Barlow, but owing to the lateness of the evening we did not stop to find out which one of my relatives was its founder. It may have been "Billy" of whom the immortal? poet has written,

"Ho! Ho! I am ragged I know,
But as happy as covey is Billy Barlow."

We continued our journey through a rolling farming and wooded country to Salem where we spent the night. Salem is the capitol city of the State of Oregon It was founded in 1842 by the Methodist Mission and incorporated in 1858. Its original name Chemekata was changed by David Leslie to Salem after Salem, Massachusetts.

The city has broad well shaded streets and aside from the commanding State Capitol Buildings many other state institutions are located here—among them being the home for the blind, an Indian school, State hospital, tuberculosis sanitarium, training school for boys, industrial school for girls, a school for the deaf, the Oregon penitentiary, etc.

The surroundtng country is adapted to raising fruit and flax The penitentiary supports the largest flax plant in the United States You no doubt have noticed in bold letters upon fruit boxes "Willamette Valley." Well Salem is the center of this fruit valley which grow prunes and loganberries to perfection.

Salem is an educational center and has a splendid public school system. Some months ago at Gainesville, Florida. I overheard a conversation between two strangers concerning the Salem, Oregon schools. It appeare that a valuable prize had been offered to the student who would write the nearest correct letter giving the best reasons why a tourist should visit Salem and the surrounding country Each contestant agreed to copy and mail prize letter to a few of his friends and acquaintances in other States. This was rather a unique method of advertising and it would be difficult to tell the results. Some person might be influenced by a letter of this kind to visit Salem intending to stop but one night, but after mingling with the hospitable people of that town and supplying the inner man with some of the valley's real fruit and beef, might decide to spend the remainder of his days on the banks of the Willamette river.

Our next day.s drive by the way of Albany and Corvallis to Eugene was through a rolling farming country chiefly devoted to fruit growing and dairying.

Albany, located west of the Cascade Range is said to be no great distance from lakes and creeks which abound with speckled beauties, while in the woods adjacent to lakes and streams, deer and other wild game are found.

We halted only for a short time in the city of Corvallis which fs located in the foothills of the Coast Range mountains near where they reach their greatest elevation This town is the home of one of the leading agricultural colleges of the west and nearby is located the State Game Farm which is possibly the largest wild game breeding farm in America

At Eugene, located at the point where the McKenzie rivir empties into the Willamette, we spent the night. This town is the homeof the State University. The city has beautiful homes and well paved streets. The population is about 10,000 and is the largest city visited on this day's drive.

From Eugene to Roseburg the country is made up of wooded hills which are quite scenic and are said to be well snpplied with game. The chief industry in this section is fruit and lumbering.

THE CHEAT MOUNTAIN CLUB

The Cheat Mountain Club opened May 1, under management of C. B Roman and wife, with the following guests:

Benj B Jarvis of Clarksburg, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Duncan, of Bridgport, F. H. Brake, W. O. Triplett. John Delson of Clarksburg, Mr and Mrs. J. C Spiker, of Elking. Chas B. Johnson, H P. Sturn, E J Wood, C. A. McMune of Clarksburg, H. M. Crawford, of Phillippi, J. H. Robison of Arden, State Auditor, J. C. Bond, Chief Deputy, G. W. Sharp and Freeman Carte, of Charleston, R. S. Hickman of Cass, Judge S H. Sharp and post master J. E. Buckley of Marlinton. Dr. and Mrs. R. F Post Mr. and Mrs C. D Floyd, Dr. H. J. Scott and Frank W. McIateer of Clarksburg.

Between two and three hundred trout were caught the first day, all enjoyed the fine weather and service given, and the management looks forward to a very prosperous season and are prepared to offer the best of hospitality to all members, and their guests.

For Sale

1 4 mile of Dunmore, W. Va. 3 room house, large blacksmith shop, 5 1-4 acres of land, 16 or 17 fine apple trees bearing; close to churches, stores and school. on a rural mail route, in a good neighbor- hood, and water on the place.

Will sell right for cash. If interested call on

J. A. Hively
Dunmore, W. Va.

Pay Up

I must have the money that is owing me. It is always needed, but now especially as I am closing out my business. I have not been able as yet to secure a store room. Come in and settle your accounts.

Geo. Rosen

SOME HISTORY

A friend writes us the following facts about the late James E A Gibbs inventor of the sewing machine, and at one time a resident of Pocahontas County. Some weeks ago a paper, which had been read before the Womans Club, was published in the Times Exceptions were taken to some statements therein concerning Mr Gibbs.

Mr. Gibbs had not a large family, only four daughters. Only one child was born when he left Marlins Bottom in 1854. He was 25 years old, when he lived at Marlin's Bottom, staying there but 18 months. He married in 1852. His wife was a daughter of Col. Samuel Given, at the time Clerk of Nicholas County. Col. Given owned 22,000 acres of land in one body, and he offered his daughter at the time of her marriage a 500 acre farm fully stocked. Mr. Gibbs having no taste for farm life, refused it, and took his young wife to Huntersville, where they lived while he built the Court House. In addition to the property of his wife's family. Mr. Gibbs mother had a compartable estate of her own in Rockbridge County which the family sold after the death of Mr. Gibbs in 1902. So much for the published statement that Mr. Gibbs was in straightened financial circumstances at the time of his residence in Pocahontas County.

As to the place he lived at the time he invented the sewing machine, Mr. Gibbs in a published interview in the Staunton Vindicator, said he lived at what is now Seebert on a farm owned by Col. John H. Ruckman The post office was Millpoint Twelve years ago, on the occasion of a visit to Marlinton by two of the daughters of Mr Gibbs, the late Dr. Wm. T. Price published an article in The Pocahontas Times stating that Mr. Gibbs lived at Marlin's Bottom at the time he made his invention. The Gibbs family knew this to be a mistake at the time, but took no steps to correct.

Mr. Gibbs was building a residence for Col. Ruckman on his farm across the river from Seebert when he made his first and greatest invention. Mr. Ruckman backed him with $5,000 for its development. In the fall of 1856 he took his wife and two small daughters to Col Given's home in Webster County that county having recently been formed from Nicholas territory to spend the winter, while he went to Boston to have his model made and to interest capital in manufacturing his machine.

Mr. Gibbs met Mr. Wilcox in the winter of 1857. His place of business was in Masonic Hall, Philadelphia, and he was on the lookout for a good investment. He was so much pleased with the patent and model that he immediately formed a partnership Mr. Wilcox invested $15,000 for the development of the machine, Mr. Gibbs moved his family to Philadelphia after a year it was decided to move the business to Providence R.I. with the main office in New York. Here it has been ever since, and it still pays the family dividends.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gibbs preferred to live in the country, and they decided to return to the Little Levels of Pocahontas. In the fall of 1859, they bought the farm on which Seebert now stands from Col. Ruckman. Mr. Gibbs went back and forth to attend to his business He was in Providence when Fort Sumptor was fired on. He immediately came home to take part with his native state, Virginia. In December, 1861, he refugeed with his family to his old home at Raphine, Va. There he bought the farm on which he died, just forty years afterwards His friends and his wife's relatives found with him a welcome home as they refugeed during the war from West Virginia.

In the fall of 1860. a daughter was sent to school at Hillsboro. She boarded in the home of the late Rev. M. D. Dunlap She saw the first company of cavalry leave Hillsboro for the war.

Mr. Gibb's health was such that he could not stand army service, so he was made a major in the Ordinance Department with headquarters at Lexington He superintended the making of salt petre for the Confederate States government.

In statue Mr. Gibbs was six feet tall. He never offected silk hats. If the ladies of the Womans Club would visit Lexington Court House and see his life size photograph they would see that the recently published discription of his appearance does not conform.

One who was a life long friend of Mr. Gibbs. while standing by his casket, said "Yes he was a successful man and made money, but it never made a fool of him."

Auction Sale

I will sell at public auction on Tuesday, May 22, 1923, On Ceasar Mountain, 3 1-2 miles from Hillsboro, W. Va. the following property:

2 cows calves by side, 1 helfer calf, 1. 2 year old heifer, farm tools, sow and 9 pigs, 2 big hogs all good stock. I will also offer for sale two heavy young Percheron horses, harness and wagon.

Terms: Sums of $10 and under cash; over that amount, four months note with interest and approved security.

Frank Scott,
Hillsboro, W. Va.

For Sale

Good dray horse, wagon and outfit. Horse will weigh 1350, sound and safe. Apply at once

Henry Simmons.
Marlinton, W. Va.

SHEPHERD PUPS

For sale from national driving stock, sired by J. Launty McNeels big driving shepheard. Males $5.00 females $3.00 spayed females $5.00 F. O. B. express office. 10 weeks old.

W. A. Arbogast
Mill Point, W. Va.

Commissioner's Sale of Land

Pursuant to authority vested in me by a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered in the chancery cause therein pending of the Bank of Marlinton vs C. S. Curry and others, at the April Term, 1923, the under signed special commissioner on

Tuesday, June 5, 1923,

at the front door of the court house of said county, commencing at 1 o'clock p. m., will sell at public auction to the highest bidder the following described real estate.

1. A tract of land containing 140 acres more or less situate at Frost in said county, adjoining the lands of Ida Dreppard, S. Gibson, and others, and another tract of fifty feet square on the left hand side of the road in the village of Frost on which a garage is standing being the lands described in a deed of trust executed by C. S. Curry and wife to John W. Rider, Trustee, to secure S. Gibson, of record in the office of the clerk of the county court of said county in trust deed book number 12 at page 156, To be sold as the property of C. S. Curry.

2 The undivided interest, which appears to be a one eighth, in a tract of 20 1 2 acres in Frost, known as the Doctor Guinn property described in a deed from Effie E. Guinn et al to S. M. Curry, Trustee, et al, of record in said county clerk's office in deed book number 51 page 58. The interest sold is that of Cornelia Curry.

Terms of sale: One third cash in hand on day of sale, and the residue on a credit of four and eight months with interest in equal installments, the purchaser executing notes or bonds with good personal security, the title to be retained as ultimate security

Andrew Price
Special Commissioner

I, D C. Adkison, Clerk of the Circuit Court of said county do certify that the above named special commissioner has executed bond as required by said decree.

D. C. Adkison, Clerk

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons knowing themselves indebted to the estate of Adam C. Moore to make settlement with the undersigned Administrator; and all persons holding claims against the said estate are requested to file the same with me for payment. All claims against the said estate must have attached thereto complete legal proof.

Given unber my hand this 4th day sf May, 1923

MOODY P MOORE,
Administrator of the Estate of Adam C. Moore, deceased.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons knowing themselves indebted to the estate of Wm. L. Moore to make settlement with the undersigned Administrator; and all persons holding claims against the said estate are requested to file the same with me for payment All claims against the said estate must have attached thereto complete legal proof.

Given under my hand this 4th day of May, 1923.

MOODY P. MOORE,
Adminis rator of the Estate of Wm. L Moore, deceased.

Commissioner's Sale of Land

Pursuant to authority vested in me by a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in the chancery cause therein pending in which H. H Waugh, Guardian of Jesse Waugh, is plaintiff, and Cecil Gay, is defendant, entered at the April term, 1923, the under signed special commissioner, on

Tuesday, June 5th, 1923

at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, commencing at 1 o'clock p. m will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, the one half undivided interest in and to a tract of land containing 57 acres more or less situate west of Greenbrier River, adjoining John Poage, being the residue of a 97 acre tract conveyed to Indiana Waugh by M. G. Waugh and wife by deed of record in the office of the clerk of the county court of said county, in deed book 26 at page 285, less a boundary sold off to John T. McGraw of record in same office in deed book 27 page 446. The undivided interest offered is that inherited by Jesse Waugh and sold to Cecil Gay and now being sold for purchase money. The whole comprises a farm.

Terms of sale: One third cash, and the residue upon a credit of two and four months, in equal installments, with interest, the purchaser executing notes or bonds with good personal security, the title to be retained as ultimate security.

Andrew Price
Special Commissioner

I, D. C. Adkison, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, do certify that the above named special Commissioner has executed bond as required by said decree.

D. C. Adkison, Clerk

Commissioner's Sale of Lease on Hotel Building and Land

Pursuant to authority vested in me by a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in the chancery cause therein pending of Thos. Rodgers' Executors vs E. D. Burner and others, entered at the April Term, 1923, the undersigned special commissioner, on

Tuesday, June 5, 1923,

at the front door of the court house of said county, commencing at 1 o'clock p. m., will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, the unexpired portion of the lease heretofore sold in this cause, on a certain parcel of land situate in the town of Cass, in said county, known as the White Elephant, a large hotel building. The unexpired portion of said lease here offered is a period of four years from the 6th day of June, 1923, or, in other words, until the 6th day of June, 1927.

Terms of Sale: Cash.

Andrew Price,
Special Commissioner.

I, D. C. Adkison, clerk of the circuit court of said county, do certify that Andrew Price, Special Commissioner, has executed bond as such in said cause.

D. C. Adkison, Clerk.

STAR BAKERY REQUEST

Have a standing orderon a day ahead for Rye Bread, Twists' Rolls and Buns, or anything else special to insure getting what you want.

SECTION VIII—QUILTS

43.	Calico, made by lady over 70 years old	2.00	1.00
44.	Woolen, made by lady over 70 years old	2.00	1.00
45.	Calico, made by any one	2.00	1.00
46.	Woolen, made by any one	2.00	1.00

MISCELLANEOUS

47.	Work bag	1.00	.75
48.	Bead bag	1.00	.75
49.	Hand-made basket of any kind	1.00	.75
50.	Handanger scarf	1.00	.75
51.	Carnation braid centerpiece	1.00	.75
52.	French knot centerpiece	1.00	.75
53.	Smocking on dress	1.00	.75

DEPARTMENT I

PLANTS AND FLOWERS

Mrs. J. A. Sydenstricker, Marlinton, W. Va.....Superintendent

Miss Ella Pritchard, Dunmore, W. Va., Assistant

Entries in this department close Monday, August 13th. Potted plants may be brought to the grounds on Monday, August 20th but cut flowers should not be brought until Tuesday morning, Augus 21st. All flowers must be on the grounds and delivered at place of exhibition by 9:00 A. M. Tuesday, August 21. Exhibitors will be required to furnish receptacles for the displaying of cut flowers. Remember that a nice receptacle adds to the beauty of the display. Great care will be taken to see that potted plants are not damaged in any way but the Association will not be responsible for any damage that may occur, either to the plants or pots.

CLASS		First	Second
1.	Best bouquet	$2.00	$1.00
2.	Dahlias (four or more colors)	5.00	3.00
3.	Gladioli	2.00	1.00
4.	Zinnias	1.00	.75
5.	Asters	2.00	1.00
6.	Sweet Peas	1.00	.50
7.	Best collection of cut flowers	5.00	3.00
8.	Best collection of pot plants	5.00	3.00
9.	Hanging baskets	2.00	1.00

Flowers will be judged at 1:00 P. M. Tuesday, August 21, and all potted flowers, plants and hanging baskets must remain on exhibit throughout the entire Fair.

FOUR H CLUB EXHIBITS

H. C. C. Willey, Marlinton, W. Va.............Superintendent

GENERAL RULES AND REGULATIONS

Club members desiring to become exhibitors at the Fair will be required to make their own entries on the regular entry blanks provided for that purpose by the Fair Association. Club entries should be made in the same manner as all other entries, and will be subject to the same rules and regulations of the Fair.

All entries should be made in strict compliance with the SECTION and CLASS as stated for your project in the FOUR H PREMIUM LIST, in accordance with which all prizes will be awarded.

No exhibit can be entered in more than one class. Club members will not be required to pay any stall rent or entry fees. Each club member will be held responsible for the care and feeding of his livestock while on exhibition. The Association does not assume any obligation whatever in the care of your stock while on exhibit or the loss or injury of the same.

Promptly upon receipt of your entry blank, properly filled out, the Secretary will mail to your address an exhibitors' ticket which will allow admittance to the grounds at any time during the Fair. Exhibitors' tickets will be given to exhibitors of livestock only, excluding exhibitors of poultry.

Exhibits may be mailed or forwarded by Express, prepaid, to the County Agent, Marlinton, W. Va., who will place same on exhibition and return same to exhibitor after the Fair. All transportation charges must be paid by the exhibitor.

Classifications marked with an asterisk (*) are made possible by the Pocahontas County Farm Bureau and the State Four H Fair. Payment of premiums will be made by these organizations and not the Fair Association.

SECTION I—CLUB EXHIBITS

CLASS I. Any regular organized Four H Club may enter this class. The club exhibits should contain at least one exhibit from each project (potatoes, corn, sewing, etc), carried on by its members. The accomplishment of the club and the individual members should be shown in the club minute book or other record. Any thing that shows club activities of members (such as things made at camp, special devices made as part of the project work, etc), should be included. No part of the exhibits in this class can be entered in any other section or class.

BASIS OF AWARDS

1. Design, general appearance, etc.........50 points
2. Quality of the various parts.........25 points
3. Educational value, showing of club activities, team work, etc..25 points

Premiums $10.00 $8.00 $5.00

SECTION II—LIVESTOCK JUDGING CONTEST*

CLASS 2. Open to any regularly enrolled Four H Club member, both boys and girls may enter. Must judge the following classes: beef cattle, hogs and sheep.

The three highest scoring club members will make up the Pocahontas County Four H Livestock Judging Team to represent the county at the State Four H Fair. Each member of the team will be allowed $25.00 toward the trip. No award will be made to any club member who does not make the trip, and in this case, the club member who makes the next highest score will be selected.

Club members entering this contest will be required to be present during the judging of all livestock at the Fair, unless special permission is given to be absent.

SECTION III—DEMONSTRATION CONTESTS*

CLASS 3. Open to club teams composed of three club members. Must be prepared to demonstrate cold pack canning, making yeast bread or serving hot school lunch. Demonstrations will take place where the Housewife Exhibit is held from 9:00 A. M. to 12:00 Noon each morning of the Fair, unless special permission is given for absence.

Teams will be scored as follows:

1. Subject matter.........25 points
2. Skill.........25 points
3. Team work.........25 points
4. Finished product.........25 points

The highest scoring team will represent Pocahontas County at the State Four H Fair. Each individual of the winning team will be allowed $25.00 toward the expense of the trip. No award will be given any club member who does not make the trip.

SECTION IV—BOOKLETS

CLASS 4. Club booklets are prepared in connection with the various projects. Judged on language, illustrations, originality and neatness. See Four H suggestion No. 6. If the booklet has been the part of any other exhibit in which the contestant has won $10.00 or more in premiums, it cannot be placed in section and class.

Premiums $2.00 $1.00 $1.00

Project Exhibits

All awards made on the basis of the regular project requirements. See project circulars for definite instructions and requirements. Complete records and booklets are required with each project exhibit.

SECTION V—BEEF CATTLE PROJECT

Class 5. 1st year..........$35, $30, $25, $20, $15, $12, $10, $8, $5
Class 6. 2nd year..........$15, $10, $5

SECTION VI—PIG PROJECT

Class 7.	1st year	$ 7.00	$ 5.00	$4.00
Class 8.	2nd year	7.00	5.00	4.00

SECTION VII—SHEEP PROJECT

Class 9.	1st year	7.00	5.00	4.00
Class 10.	2nd year	7.00	5.00	4.00

SECTION VIII—POULTRY PROJECT

Class 11.	1st year	5.00	3.00	2.00
Class 12.	2nd year	5.00	3.00	2.00

SECTION IX—POTATO PROJECT

Class 13.	Premiums	4.00	2.00	1.00

SECTION X—CORN PROJECT

Class 14.	Premiums	4.00	2.00	1.00

SECTION XI—SEWING PROJECT

Class 15.	1st year	4.00	2.00	1.00
Class 16.	2nd year, plain sewing	4.00	2.00	1.00
Class 17.	3rd year, garment making	4.00	2.00	1.00
Class 18.	4th year, club girl's wardrobe	4.00	2.00	1.00

SECTION XII—CANNING PROJECT

Class 19.	Cold pack	4.00	2.00	1.00

SECTION XIII—GARDENING PROJECT

Class 20.	Premiums	4.00	2.00	1.00

SECTION XIV—BREAD PROJECT

Class 21.	Premiums	4.00	2.00	1.00

SECTION XV—COLORED CLUBS

Class 22.	Best all round showing in lamb project	$2.50	$1.00
Class 23.	Best all round showing in pig project	2.50	1.00
Class 24.	Best all round showing in poultry project	2.50	1.00
Class 25.	Best all round showing in potato project	2.50	1.00
Class 26.	Best all round showing in canning project	2.50	1.00

HANLINE BROS.
LEAD AND ZINC
READY MIXED PAINT GUARANTEED

AS PURE AS PAINT CAN BE MADE

FOR SALE BY DEALERS EVERYWHERE

Dealers Supplied By
S. B. WALLACE & CO.
Marlinton, W. Va.

THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE MAILS

Patrons should use envelopes bearing their return carJs for social correspondence as well as for business purposes. Your postmaster will supply them, or your local printer will furnish them for you.

If your carrier delivery is too late for your requirements, you can rent a post office box at a reasonable rate.

If you put a message in a parcel post bundle you make the whole package first class.

You may inclose an invoice with merchandise sent by parcel post.

The postmaster in his discretion may decline to allow you to receive your mail at the general delivery window unless you are a bonafide transient visitor.

If you are a resident of a town or city with a delivery service you may elect to have your mail delivered or may hire a box.

You may not have part of your mail sent by carrier and the remainder placed in a box.

If you choose the carrier service you may not call at the office in the evening for mail which came in after the carrier left on his last trip.

The limit of insurance on a parcel post bundle is $100 and the fee 25 cents.

A carrier's route is arranged on the basis of an average day. It frequently happens that he has to curtail it.

Daily newspapers travel first class. The department is very particular to have daily papers dispatched and delivered promptly.

You may refuse to take a publication from the office or you may return it marked "refuse" after you have taken it.

A letter carrier who has an ordinary route of 13-15 miles walks around the earth every five years.

Complaints are still received of the use of postal cards to request the payment of a bill. This is a criminal offence.

A special delivery stamp on a parcel post bundle expedites its dispatch. It entitles it to travel in a first class pouch if not too bulky.

If you are on the end of a rcute that is habitually curtailed you should make the fact known to the postmaster. It will help him in his effort to get more help.

If you are a regular subscriber to a daily paper your carrier will not leave the office on his trip until he assures himself that your copy has not arrived.

Every time you hold up a carrier on the street before he reaches your house you rob him of that time that he may be called to account for.

A carrier may not leave the side walk to collect letters which you have placed on your box unless he has mail matter to deliver to you.

If you are on a rural route put your pennies for postage in an envelope or wrap in paper. It is wearing on the finger tips to extract the loose coins.

City delivery service depends on the cooperation of patrons in numbering houses and sidewalk facilities.

Miss Alice McClintic graduated at the well known finishing school Penn Hall at Chambersburg, Penna. Her graduating exercises were attended by Mrs. L. M. McClintic and Miss Mary M. McClintic. Miss Elese McClintic, of Marlinton, and Mrs. J. H. McClintic, of Charleston. Miss Alice received the highest honor in the gift of the school, which was the prize for Scholarship, consisting of a two years scholarship in Wilson College and $20 in gold.

ALUMNI REUNION

Thursday night, May 31st 1923 the alumni association of the Little Levels District High School held its 8th annual reunion at the High School building in honor of the class of '23.

The following guests were present: Miss Frankie Nutter, P. B. McLaughlin, Rev. J. C. Johnson, Rev. W. Clark Early, Mrs. Greer, Mrs. Flynn Burton Riddle, Dyce Smith. The Faculty: Walter Vance, Violenta Harbourne, Luther Flynn, Cassie Watkins, Joe M. Greer, Mrs. Dave Tadlock.

Out of the 96 members of the Association the following were present: Earl Carlisle'20, Forest Warren'22, Lilly Sharp'21, Ernest White'18, Grady Kidd'19, Guilbert Morrison'22, Mary Wanless'20, Richard McLaughlin'21, Ethel Stillwell'18, Dakota Kirk Nottingham'14 Opal Rodgers'22 Henry Beard'14, Ivan McKeever'22, Miriam Hill Jones'17, Jean Pritchard'21, John LaRue'20, Earl Beard'20 Eva Beard'17, Lessie Shields'22, Winters Hill'20, Clyde Grimes'17, Motie Kidd'22, Remus May'21, Glenna Auldridge'19, Ruth Moore'22, Eula Hill'20, Dewey Burr'20, Roxie Carlisle'22, Lillian Fowler'22, Lucy Beard'18, Ernest Burr'22, Lawrence Warren'17.

The class of 23: Nancy McNeel, Clarice Kennison, Lucille Beard, Brownee McCoy, Mary and Frances McNuety, Ruth Curry, Nell Siple McNeel, Nell Echols, Flossie McKeever, Andrew McLaughlin, Milburn Curry, Harry Hollandsworth, Issac McNeel.

An attractive means of renewing old acquaintanceship and giving every one a chance to talk to every one else was provided by the booklets which contained the names of the incoming class and space for signatures of all present.

We consider this one of the most enjoyable times of the year, as it is the only time when many of the old timers get together. Many of our members come a long ways just to see their many friends and school mates. We are very proud of the strength of our association and the interest taken in it by all of the members. We the members living near the school always extend a cordial invitation to the graduates who are now scattered in many parts of the country.

After a little social time together the Senior Class was called to the front, where they were examined as to their proficiency in some of the courses offered in our high school, such as Geography, Science. History etc. we found that some of the graduates were unable to answer such simple questions as these; "What killed the Dead Sea?" and, "Where does your lap go when you stand up" So they had to be refered to some members of the Alumni where satisfactory answers were obtained.

After embarrassing the "All Wise" Seniors with these easy questions much to the amusment of the hearers refreshments were served consisting of sandwitches, pickles, olives, cream, cake and coffee, after which our guests departed, leaving us to attend to a part of the evening which has grown to be quite an institutian in our Alumni, namely the inisiation.

At our business meeting which was last week we elected officers for the comming year and discussed many issues interesting to all who have the good of the school at heart, most important of these was the building of a gymnasium, we decided that we would lay an assessament upon all members to start a fund. A committee was also appointed to meet with the Community Council.

We adjourned at 2:30 a. m. to meet May 31st 1923. May the coming year contain many good things for all of us and good old H. H. S.

A 15,000 MILE JOURNEY

TOURING THE UNITED STATES FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN BY AUTO

By Davis L. Barlow

(Continued from last week)

On the morning of August 27, we were on the trail at an early hour. For quite a number of miles we followed the Sacramento river through a kind of canyon country, then a timbered mountain and foothill section to Redding, from which city to Red Bluff we followed a dry creek channel something like (if my recollection serves me correct) the bed of the old dry run on my father's farm. About all I remember of this thirty miles is, between bumps, I read scores of garage signs which advised "Take her in High, Nemo will pull you in," and entering the city I noticed a large sign which read, "If you come to Red Bluff, that is your business."

Redding is located near one of the oldest gold mines in California and no one can view the surroundings here without calling to mind the many stories which he has heard about the renowned days of '49.

Red Bluff is near Mount Lassen—the only active volcano in the United States. This volcano began business in 1914, and since then it has been the center of much interest. The United States Government is making, from a scientific standpoint, a careful study of Mount Lassen, but so far as I know no laws have been passed regulating its action, and that I might be on the safe side, I after enjoying a much needed Sabbath's rest, moved further south.

August 29, we traveled through a moderately level farming and fruit country and visited the following towns: Orland, near which is a tract of 14,000 acres of land under irrigation; Williams, a flourishing railroad center; Arbuckle, located in an almond growing section; Woodland, a beautiful and progressive town, said to have a larger number of millionaires in proportion to population than any other town in state; and Dixon, where we remained over night. This town is located in an agricultural country and is said to have near it a few of the largest certefied daries in the far west. It was named for Gen Dixon who navigated the Pacific in 1785 for the purpose of monopolizing the fur trade between America and China.

On August 30, our route was through a section of the Sacramento Valley where fruit raising seemed to be the leading industry. We crossed the strait of Carquinez by ferry into Martinez, a beautiful little city facing the water where ocean steamers load products for foreign countries. From here we drove over a rolling or hilly country to Oakland where we remained a few days.

Oakland, situated on San Francisco Bay, is a beautiful residential city of more that one quarter million population. The land rises gradually from the water towards the mountains which lie some distance back of the city. The foot hills are crowned with artistic homes of the wealthy men of Oakland and San Francisco. From the verandas of many of these homes can be seen the bay and the ocean.

From Oakland we crossed the bay to San Francisco by street car and ferry boat combination. The car track extends out into the bay some distance. The bed or foundation of track is built of earth. At end of track is a large building containing the waiting rooms for the millions of passengers who are annually transported on magnificent ferry boats to San Francisco. I am told that the citizens of Oakland and San Francisco are planning to connect the two cities by building an enormous bridge across the bay. This so far as I know is the longest bridge scheme ever contemplated by any of the world's cities. It will in time be built and then may be wrecked by an earthquake.

I can neither spell or pronounce the names connected with the old Spanish mission business of California, but there is a little story connected with the founding of San Francisco, which I shall briefly relate, omitting the names of those who participated in it. Two of the leading missionary men were discussing the plans for establishing a mission at Alto, California, when one of the men expressed his dissatisfaction with the plans by asking "And is our father St. Francis to have no mission?" To which the other replied, "If St. Francis wants a mission let him show you a good post and then let it be named after him." Shortly afterwards a party in searching for the Bay of Monterey, passed it unrecognized and continued further north until it came in view of the Golden Gate. They returned much disheartened, but the faith of one of the party was so enthusiastic that another search was made. This time Monterey was visited and later the Golden Bay revisited and surveyed. The leader exclaimed "This is the port to which Saint Francis has led us." The Bay was called San Francisco and after much delay the mission commonly known as Mission Dolores was established in 1776.

The foundation of the present old church was laid in 1782. This is an interesting spot and sufficient of the old building remains to remind one of the old days.

Because of the fog and cold weather I did not see as much of the city of San Francisco as I would like to have seen. We disembarked from ferry boat at the foot of Market street and walked some distance to the post-office where we received and read our mail. After which I proposed that we walk through Golden Gate Park which covers more than 1000 acres and is said to be one of the most attractive parks in the whole country. When at the western extremity of Park we would be on the beach and while resting could watch the waves of the historic and mighty Pacific Ocean. After walking a few blocks two or three members of my party began to lag. Seeing that they were not properly shod for hiking I persuaded a street car conductor to let us ride to what I supposed to be the Golden Gate but if there was any gold there it was too foggy and we were too cold to see it.

Could I have made this walk I might have seen and learned something, whereas, from the street car I only learned that the city is large and built on quite steep and rolling ground. There is but one way to see and learn a city. You must walk through it before you will know its buildings and be able to properly estimate its magnitude. To enjoy walking you must not be a slave to the shoe fashion. I have fell to most every fashion such as having my hair cut once a quarter, shaving once or twice a week and bathing two or three times a year whether I need it or not, but I'll be blamed if I will change my style of shoes which are made on a broad last and very much resemble the shoes the late Tommy Mayse made when working at his trade in the Edray neighborhood a half a century ago. This style is good enough for me and I have never had to patronize a corn doctor. I wish I now had a pair of the old reliable shoes made from the beautiful oak tanned leather that my uncle Joe Barlow manufactured in his day.

On our way back from the Golden Gate I began to realize that our trip across the continent cost quite a few cents and that I was seeing little and learning less. So I said to my wife, "Meet me in 2 hr. 44 min. 37 1-2 sec, at the depot or waiting rooms on bay at foot of Market street. I am going to get off this car should it ever stop, and see a part of this town." I walked, I stopped, I gazed and you will be surprised the amount of information I gathered about the streets and avenues, a few of which I still remember namely: Golden Gate, Vanness, Fulton, 10th, 17th and Market. I noted the prices of the different cuts of beef, pies, cakes, saw files, Mary Garden face powders, hatchets, curling irons, foot-ease or corn cure, ladies corsets, and many other useful articles too numerous to mention. I noticed here more merchandise arranged after my idea than I had ever before seen in so short a time. The goods were in the windows and the prices in large figures told the story without asking questions. The prices in most instances were lower than in other large cities I had visited. The statement that living is higher in San Francisco than elsewhere is not true. I am told rent is higher but there are good reasons for this. Building material, labor, and taxes are high everywhere. These things fix the rent rate. The population of San Francisco is near 600,000 and in addition to this the population of Oakland and Berkeley which lies just east of the bay we have near 1,000,000 people. I fear that the industries here will not, under present conditions, support this great population and I would advise you to think twice before you give away your little rock patch and move to the Golden Gate or any other densely populated city. If you have plenty of money you can live anywhere, but if you have no money keep away from strikes organizations and trouble of all kinds. I made a mistake when I left my brush fence building job back of the rock house. There I could use the precipices and rock ledges as a part of the fence, but since then (under the dictation of would be servers of mankind) I have had to build the whole thing and often the expense was more than the income. Should you leave your native county, you will find that the generality of mankind is disposed to take the advantage of man in general, generally speaking. In the business world you meet two distinct classes—one which owns or controls 51 per cent or more of all worth while business and dishes out a measly percent dividends on investments you might make; the other controls the labor situation and tells you all about it should you start any business of your own. Between the two you are like a one legged man at a log rolling and my advice is, "Stay at home, plant and hoe your own 'taters'"

(To be continued)

Trustee's Sale

OF RESTAURANT BUILDING AND LOT

Pursuant to authority vested in me by a deed of trust dated on the 30th day of January, 1920, executed by Madison Wilson to me as trustee to secure T. D. Moore, of record in the office of the clerk of the county court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in trust deed book no. 11 at page 437, I, the undersigned trustee, on at the front door of the court house of said county, commencing at 1 o'clock p m., will sell at public auction to the highest bidder that certain parcel of land situate in the town of Marlinton in said county, known as lot 11 in block 19 of the proper plat of said town, locally known as the Wilson restaurant building. Said lot has on it a building now used as a restaurant.

Friday, June 22, 1923,

Terms of sale. Cash.

G. W. SHARP, Trustee

Executor's Sale

OF VALUABLE REAL ESTARE

I, will, on Saturday, June the 23rd, 1923, at Ten O'clock, A. M. at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas County. West Virginia, sell to the highest bidder, at public auction under and by the will of Joseph H. Wilson, dated July 29th, 1922, and recorded in the Clerk's Office of the County Court of Pocahontas County, in will book No. 8, at page 113, a tract of one hundred acres of land, situated in Pocahontas County, West Virginia, on Brushy Lick Run, a tributary of Greenbrier River. This is a valuable tract of land, and would make a nice home for some one when cleaned up and improved

Terms of sale: One third cash on day of sale; and for the residue, the purchaser to give bonds with good security payable in six and twelve months from day of sale, bearing interest from date, and to secure the payment of same, a vendor's lien to be retained in deed.

L. M. McCLINTIC
Executor of Joseph H. Wilson, deceased.

FISK TIRES

C. J. Richardson
Marlinton, W. Va.

Trustee's Sale of One Half Undivided Interest of a Farm

Pursuant to authority vested in me by a deed of trust dated September 6, 1922, executed by Cecil Gay and Stella Gay, his wife, to me, Andrew Price, Trustee, to secure H. H. Waugh, guardian of Jesse Waugh, of record in the office of the clerk of the county court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, in trust deed book number 12 at page 304, on the commencing at 10 o'clock a. m. at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas county, I will sell at public auction to the highest bidder the land described in the deed aforesaid being the one half undivided interest in a tract of fifty-seven acres inherited by the said Stella Gay from her mother Indiana Waugh, being a tract of land adjoining John Poege, and being the land on which the said Cecil Gay and Stella Gay now reside. Said farm is near Clover Lick in said county.

7th day of July, 1923

Terms of Sale—Cash.

ANDREW PRICE,
Nrustee.

Notice of Dissolution

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the stockholders of the Goodsell Insurance Agency, held on the 24th day of July, 1920, it was unanimously voted that the company retire from active business as of the 31st day of August, 1920, and that the officers proceed to collect outstanding accounts and wind up the affairs of the Company as promptly thereafter as possible, and that the secretary take the necessary steps to have the Company's charter returned to the State of West Virginia, upon the final closing out of all of its affairs.

Given under my hand this the 24th day of July, 1920.

L. S COCHRAN President.

Attest:
W. J. Yeager, Secretary.

Trustees' Sale of Valuable Real and Personal Property

Pursuant to authority vested in them by two deeds of trust, the one executed by J. W. Yeager and Pearl Yeager, his wife to L. M. McClintic, Trustee, dated November 23, 1917, to secure the First National Bank of Marlinton, West Virginia, in the sum of $3,000.00, of record in the office of the clerk of the county court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in trust deed book number 10 at page 318, and the other deed of trust executed by J. W. Yeager and Pearl Yeager, his wife, to Andrew Price, Trustee, to secure J. J. Echols in the sum of $2500 00, dated January 1, 1923, of record in said office in trust deed book number 12 at page 364, the undersigned trustees on

Saturday, June 23, 1923,

at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas County, commencing at 1 p. m., will sell at public auction to the highest bidder the following property:

1. A certain parcel of land composed of lots number 8, 9, and 10 in block number 37 of the proper plat of the Town of Marlinton, this being the residence property of the said J. W. Yeager. There is on this land a fine large, modern dwelling house. The house is situated near the court-house in a most desirable locality.

2. All the household and kitchen furniture contained in said dwelling as of January 1, 1923.

3. The equity owned by J. W. Yeager in two lots known as lots numbers 11 and 12 in block 37 of the proper plat of said town of Marlinton, the legal title to which lots is in the name of the Merchants and Mechanics Savings Bank of Grafton West Virginia, and these lots are sold subject to the lien of said bank

Terms of Sale: Cash.

L. M. McCLINTIC, Trustee
ANDREW PRICE, Trustee

NOTICE

Under the directions of D. N. Weiford, Executor of G S. Weiford, deceased, will give all parties that have not settled their store accounts which are long past due, until June 30th to settle. Any that fail to settle or arrange for their accounts by that time, will place same in the hands of our attorney for quick actions.

All that have notes coming due, please be prepared to take them up as they fall due.

The above notice will be rigidly enforced.

O S WEIFORD.
Warwick, W. Va.

CROCHET WORK of all kinds done to order very cheap and prompt. For prices write to Mrs. Lena Colson, Locust, W. Va.

Oakland Wins!

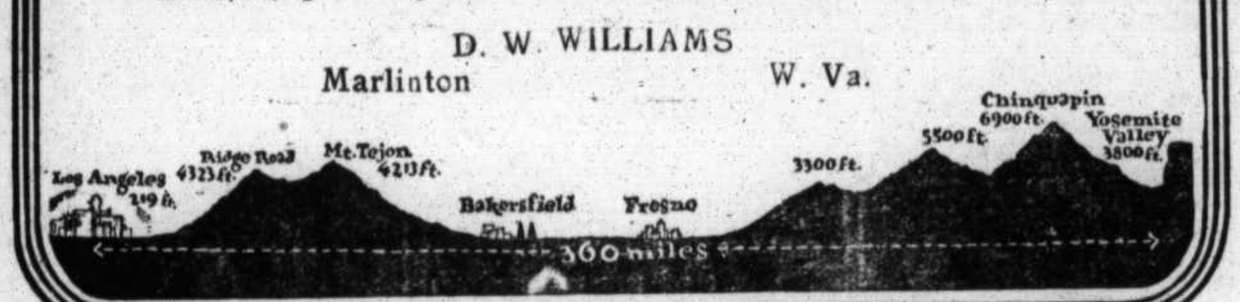
Oakland wins again! Shattering all previous records—a stock Oakland Six won both Sweepstakes and Class Cups—for the second consecutive time—in the annual Los Angeles to Camp Curry Economy Run under the supervision of the American Automobile Assn.

Captures First Place and Class Cup

Thirteen other makes of cars, including lighter four-cylinder cars, yielded to the Oakland Six's phenomenal record of 65.17 ton-miles—36.92 actual miles per gallon! Never before in an official contest has a motor car traveled 360 miles—up steep mountain grades and over all kinds of roads—on only 9.75 gallons of gasoline.

Do you wonder that Oakland can definitely prove the superior quality of its car on the basis of "known mileage." Buy consistent economy—buy proved performance—buy known mileage! You can get all of these things only in the Oakland—the car built by a division of General Motors to be the finest light-six.

D. W. WILLIAMS
Marlinton W. Va.



MARBLE GRANITE

MEMORIALS OF QUALITY

We have a splendid display of over 300 finished Monuments in stock and if you intend to erect a MEMORIAL of any character this spring or summer it will pay you to write us at once for catalog and samples of our work. We guarantee the quality of the material, workmanship and the price.

PNUMATIC TOOLS FOR LETTERING AND CARVING.

Clifton Forge Marble & Granite Works
Harry P. Burt, Prop.

WOOL

See me before you sell and get the CASH for your WOOL.

C. R. BEARD
Durbin - - - - West Va.

SHEEP HAIR

WE have always been able to handle our customers' wool to very best advantage. Get acquainted with our plan. It means money to you.

Sacks for the asking.

Peoples Store & Supply Co.
MARLINTON, W. VA.

M-W-A-NEWS

MARLINTON CAMP NO. 9765
meets every Thursday 8 p. m.
A. C. McCoy, Clerk
F. D. Malcomb, District Deputy

Duroc Jersey Pigs

10 weeks old, either sex, $8 each, or $10 registered in purchaser's name Apply to H. Marvin Hannah, Edray, W. Va.

NOTICE

The following fiduciary is before me for settlement: Pearl Spinks, admr. Henry C. Spinks, deceased.

Given under my hand this 13th day of June, 1923

J. E Buckley,
Commissioner of Accounts.

ICE CREAM SUPPER

At Dunmore on Friday evening June 15, under direction of Ladies Auxiliary of Baxter Church. Dunmore Band will furnish music. Come and help a good cause.

NOTICE

Draft No 290, drawn in my favor for $90 by Board of Education of Greenbank District and payable from the Elementary Teachers Fund, has been lost. I am this day applying to the Board for a duplicate draft and all persons are hereby notified not to cash the original draft.

Lillian Fowler.
June 9, 1923

Notice

Estrayed to my place at Mill Gap, Highland County, Virginia, May, 9th one black mare about 9 year old with small star in forehead with Blemish on right hind leg, supposed to be a Pocahontas horse, owner can have same by paying for ad. and keep.

V. S. Shultz

DELCO-LIGHT
"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue
ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES
Marlinton Electric Co.
DEALERS

SWIMMERS WARNED

State Health Deparment Gives Advice.

Charleston, W. Va., June 18.—With the approach of hot weather, comes the reports of drownings and the State Health Department has issued the following warnings for bathers:

Don't swim on a full stomach.

Don't swim if overheated.

Don't swim until exhausted.

Don't swim if you have heart trouble.

Don't swim near the outlet of a sewer. At least, go in above the outlet.

Never swallow stream water no matter how clear. Practically all streams contain typhoid germs.

Don't dive without accurate knowledge of the depth of the water.

Don't struggle if caught in a swift current or undertow; the force of the current will bring you to the surface.

Don't wade into the water with arms over your head; you will not be ready to stroke if you step into a hole.

Don't lean backward when wading into the water; always be ready to fall forward.

Don't cry for help in fun; you may some time need help and not get it.

Don't fail to learn the Red Cross life-saving and resuscitation methods. Be capable of saving yourself and your companions.

Don't go swimming alone unless you are an expert.

Sayings of Sanitary Sam

"Life is not to live, but to be well."

Clear water does not mean pure water. One spring in New York gave typhoid fever to 60 tourists.

You can't trade your body in on a new model.

Clean up for health. Stay dirty for disease.

High living means low vitality.

Eight out of every ten cases of blindness in babies is due to syphilis.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of the late Mrs. Mary A. Price to present the same proven according to law to the undersigned administrator at his office in Marlinton, W. Va. All persons indebted to said estate will please prepare to settle at once.

This 7th day of May, 1923.

LIGON PRICE,
Administrator of Mrs. Mary A. Price, deceased.

THE ALIBI SHOOTER

BY HARRY A. EARNSHAW

There are two things in this world that give me a pain, fried onions and alibis. But of the two evils give me fried onions. I can eat fried onions on the Fourth of July and practically cease to taste them by Christmas But the after effects of an alibi stay with me for a full year.

I hold this truth to be self evident that the better the alibi the flatter the failure. An alibi is a piece of dough which started out to be a biscuit and ended as a pancake. The alibi is intended by its fond parent to be an explanation, but it is really nothing but an admission.

An alibi is a worthless substitute for an achievement. The world is roughly divided into two classes: those who use alibis, and those who get the thing done. A college education is a wonderful help to the alibi shooter, because with figures, book learning, and some adroitness in the use of language, it is possible to prove almost anything to have been impossible.

It is remarkable how expert an alibi shooter becomes. At first he tries one single little alibi to save him from the consequence of a failure It works. The thing seems so easy that next day he finds himself shooting two alibis to explain two failures. The number increases to three, four, and five. The thing becomes a passion. Eventually all the skill, energy, and ability of the individual is directed toward the making of ingenious excuses.

Most men make good because they know if they don't they are going to be S. O. L. Those persons who were not in the army will find the definition of this terse and expressive idiom by asking a soldier.

The dark shadow of the sheriff has made more successful business men than the lure of the Rolls Royce When the bill collector is after you with a six shooter in each hand, and you are leaping lightly from crag to crag like the shapely chamois, if you are truly wise you keep on leaping nor stop to think up a reason why not. The fellows who get plugged always drop into oblivion in the chasm below, clutching a strong alibi. But it doesn't bring them back.

You all know the alibi shooter. You meet him every day. He is the clerk whom you send across the street for a couple of ten-cent cigars, who comes back with a package of bird seed, and then explains that he did not go out himself personally but sent someone else because it was raining, and the other fellow misunderstood him.

He is the man who has a luncheon engagement with you at 12:30 and blows in at 1:15 all out of breath, but not out of excuses.

He is the salesman who requires twelve full sheets of hotel stationery to write you a weather report and an essay on "conditions."

He is the man in the service station who promises to have your car ready at five o'clock.

He is the chap who is due back from his two weeks vacation on Monday morning and wires you Tuesday noon "Missed the train. Will return tomorrow."

He is the man who is never quite ready to do what you want, or give you what you want, now—the man whose daily life, year after year, is a series of promises. His shibboleth is "The first thing in the morning." He forgets that he may be dead "the first thing in the morning."

The alibi shooter eventually arrives at that mental state where he begins his alibi before he begins his attempt When you give him an assignment he is careful to mention all of the difficulties. With a task set before him his mind instantly commences the manufacture of good excuses which he can offer in case of failure to put the thing over. Unconsciously from that moment he shapes his course toward failure instead of toward success.

When the allied armies were turned over under the single command of General Foch, they were beaten armies. Germany in a technical sense had won the war. General Foch could have availed himself of a thousand good excuses, made to his hand. He could have lost the war, and spent the remainder of his life writing books to prove that he couldn't help it.

But he was that kind of man who shoots bullets and not alibis So civilization won.

The motto of the city of Chicago is "I Will!" That motto made a metropolis out of a mudhole.

Far better to try, and die than to lie, and sigh. Explanations never do any good One's friends don't need them; one's enemies won't believe them The world at large doesn't give a damn.

Procrastination is usually the besetting weakness of the alibi shooter The man who never does anything now is more than lazy; he is afraid.

Failures inspire pity, seldom admiration.

The streets of the City of Failure are paved with alibis—some of which are absolutely perfect

Look into the heart of the world today and what yearning do you find there? Listen to the voice of the world today and what is it crying?

From gilded dome, from silvered minaret, from cloud-capped mountain peak, to him who hath ears to hear, the Voice is calling:

"We want men! Men who do. Men who won't stop to ask why or argue Men who can take a command or the command. Men who will bring back results dead or alive—not alibis!"

The reason there's so much more room at the top is that the crowd is all at the bottom.

Every one of them can give you fifty good alibis.

The truth is, the crowd is there because they like it.

They fear the fierce white light that beats upon the high places.

The man who gets ahead uses his head, not to explain why it can't be done, but to figure out a way to do it.

All things come to him who does not wait.—American Mutual Liability Insurance Co

HON. WILLIAM GORDON MATHEWS

William Gordon Mathews departed this life Friday, June 15, 1923, in the forty-sixth year of his age, at his home in Charleston.

He died suddenly and alone in the library of his residence on the afternoon of that day.

He was a son of the late Governor Henry M. Mathews and his boyhood was spent in Lewisburg. In 1898, he located at Charleston to practice law and at the date of his death he was head of the law firm of Mathews Campbell & McClintic He was one of the leading lawyers of the country. He leaves surviving him his wife, Mrs. Helen Davis Mathews, two daughters, and a son, and his sister, Miss Joe Mathews. There is no common bereavement, and the tender sympathy felt for them is profound in this great tragedy of life.

West Virginia has lost one of its greatest men. A good man, a wise counsellor, an interesting companion, a true friend, a loving husband and father, a man noble by birth and nobler by great deeds.

ARDELL--GRAHAM

A very pretty wedding took place at Cass on Thursday, June 14th at 2:45 o'clock at which time Mr. Herbert Stacy Ardell, son of Mr and Mrs H. L. Ardell of Sunbury, Penna and Miss Kathryn Elizabeth Graham daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George S Graham of Cass, were united in wedlock. The ceremony was preformed by Rev. Fred W. Gray at the Cass Presbyterian Church The Church was tastefully decorated with evergreens, potted plants and cut flowers. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Geo. S. Graham. Miss Eolyne Graham was Maid of Honor and Ray W Fox was Best Man. The Bridesmaids were Misses Edith Potts, Faith Baxter, Bessie Walkup and Leona Shepard. The Groomsmen were Messrs John S. Hannah, John M. Ward, Hubert Mathews and Starrett D. Huff. Little Miss Jane Shaffer and Winifred Hannah were flower girls. and Miss Ruth Hannah was ring bearer. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left by automobile, for Staunton, Va. They will spend their honeymoon in Washington, D C. and points north. Their many friends extend congratulations.

STRUCK BY RATTLESNAKE

Paul Burr aged 16 years was bitten on the thumb by a rattlesnake last Wednesday afternoon. First aid was given him, and he was hurried to Dr. J. W. Price, who dressed the wound He has yet a bad hand and a swollen arm, but no serious consequences are now feared.

The young man is a son of Henry Burr, of Burr Valley. With his father he was fixing a piece of road a mile or so from home. Their dogs were running rabbits, and a dog barked at a hollow log. The boy cleared away the bushes from the end of the log, and felt something strike his thumb He told his father he was snakebit, though he had not seen nor heard a snake. Mr. Burr came with an axe, cut open the log and found a big yellow rattler Paul was hurried the sixteen miles to Marlinton in an automobile. The doctor found one of the fangs imbedded in the flesh of the thumb The other fang had penetrated the skin but had torn out.

OUR TERCHERS

The Board of Education for Edray District met at Marlinton, June 13, 1923 and selected the following named teachers for the Edray District High School. G. D. McNeill, principal, A. G. Killingsworth, Miss Agnes L Price, Miss Mildred L. Yeager, Mrs. Mary Frances Overholt. Remainder of High School Faculty to be selected by the principal.

Grade Teachers, J. W. G. Smith, principal, Mrs. Catherine Vaughan, Misses Eugyl Harris. Beulah Moore, Nell Yeager, Bessie Brown, Elizabeth Hill, Dorothy Irvine, Gertrude Overholt.

The new Board becomes effective July 1, 1923.

FISK TIRES

C. J. Richardson
Marlinton, W. Va.

CUSTOM WHEAT CUTTING

I am now making contracts to cut wheat in the Greenbank community, with my tractor drawn binder

Martin Judy
Cass, W. Va.

Fiduciary Notice

Notice is hereby given that the final settlements of the accounts of W.J. Yeager administrator of the estate of the late Peter D. Yeager, is before the undersigned Commissioner of Accounts of Pocahontas County, W. Va

T. S. McNEEL, Comr,

A 15,000 MILE JOURNEY

TOURING THE UNITED STATES FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN BY AUTO

BY DAVIS L. BARLOW

(Continued from last week)

On the morning of September 2, we left Oakland and journeyed south by the way of San Jose, a city which is located in the beautiful and fertile Santa Clara Valley. This section of country is noted for its fine fruit and the city has many fruit packing plants. Much attention is given here to flower and vegetable gardening and during the rose season the drive along Almeda Avenue to Santa Clara is one of California's beautiful sights During the prune season, I am told acres of sun drying prunes can be seen.

Gilroy, known as the home of the prune is located at the south end of Santa Clara Valley In the pioneer days of this town a cigar box was used for the post office and the stage driver collected the mail using his pockets as postal bags This so far as I am able to figure was the beginning of our rural free delivery system

We spent a quiet restful enjoyable night at Salinas, a city of some 5,000 population, located in Salinas valley which because of mountains on either side is noted for its attractive and and delightful scenery Near this town is located one of the world's largest sugar factories and this would indicate that immense quantities of sugar beets are grown in this valley Alfalfa, barley and many other crops are grown here, but the agricultural product which placed Salinas Valley upon the map is the world wide known Salinas Burbank potato

On the following day while driving along the Salinas river and through an attractive valley, the names of the towns and a few old ruins impressed upon my mind that we were in the midst of some old mission settlements. It appears that at one time a chain of missions extending some hundreds of miles in length had been established These missions—numbering twenty-one in all—had been placed about a day's journey or thirty-five miles apart. Today we passed the ruins of a few of these old land marks. We halted a few moments at Soledad, a town named in honor of old mission of the same name, the foundation of which was laid October 9, 1791. In the years before the mission was founded here this section of country because it is inland and because of its extreme loneliness it was known as "The Solitude." And I have no doubt that before the days of our present state of moral living and upright business integrity that many who wished to escape punishment fled here as a place of refuge.

Near the close of Spanish rule in this country an old governor while on a tour of inspection became ill and died here. His remains still rest, awaiting the judgment, near the ruins of the old mission.

While here at Soledad or "Solitude" I could not resist meditating upon the things of the past and I read, as it were between the lines, some interesting stories. But the story of the faithfulness of the old priests impressed me more than anything else. One of the aged leaders here was so loyal, true, and firm in adherence to his work that he refused to quit his post when it was apparent that the mission ship was sinking and his little flock fast drifting away, but he continued to administer to the few Indians who clung about the old church until one Sunday morning while saying mass he fell upon the altar and immediately expired. It is thought he died from starvation Such faithfulnes is seldom found. In all my window shopping I have noticed none for sale and should you locate any please purchase a ton or two for me. I know some folks who need a little faithfulness in their business and are willing to pay a good square price for it.

We found King City to be one of the chief trading points of the southern section of Salinas valley. When first discovered it was thought the soil of this valley was unproductive and the missionaries brought their supplies with them, but today this section abounds in fruit, grain and cotton. We also noticed many large dairy herds—the famous black and white cows predominated. Also large quantities of gypsum is mined here.

In the vicinity of King City we stopped and made a picture of the ruins of San Miguel Mission which was founded in 1797 The walls were made of some kind of cement and covered with a tile roof. The building in its day, had been an immense structure.

Near Paso Robles is a very famous spring which was visited by the Indians in the days before our history of California begins The Indians from all the surrounding country drank of this water believing it to be blessed by the Great Spirit.

Todays journey led us in places along the ocean shore and we could see the mighty waves playing and chasing each other just as they did in the days of Cortez However a good portion of our trip was along beautiful inland drives, through some very attractive valleys and hilly country which a few years ago was an untrodden wilderness but now it presents a splendid example of what can be accomplished by labor. We also passed a number of beautiful towns and small cities.

We spent the night, September 3 at Santa Maria where after supper I spent some time looking over a few curiosities of the pioneer days.

The next day we visited Santa Barbara where in October, 1919 Albert, King of Belgium, and Queen Elizabeth attended mass at the historic Spanish Mission of Santa Barbara. While here the King planted two trees—a cypress and an orange—to preserve the remembrance of his visit.

Santa Barbara is beautifully located on a channel of the same name. The city has back of it some beautiful hills and mountains, and prettier drives would be hard to find in the State. Here you can take your choice of a drive along the ocean, over the foot hills, or through walnut, lemon and other fruit groves.

About twelve miles out of Santa Barbara we passed a small town called Carpenteria, so named because when the Spanish first visited this valley they found on the site of the town a carpenter shop in which the Indians were building boats.

More than three quarters of a century ago there was planted in this vicinity a grapevine which grew to be the largest of its kind in the world. It covered a space of more than six rods square or about one quarter of an acre. I am told several tons of grapes have been gathered from it in single season. The vine passed in its checks six or seven years ago.

I shall not soon forget the night we spent in Ventura. Here I spent some time window shopping, looking over some old Spanish curiosities and inspecting an old mission built I know not when, but old enough to be gray about the temples and bears the marks of Indian raids and attacks. While this mission fell into disuse near a century ago, it has been restored and is now being used as a church. Next morning after a few hour pleasant slumber and dreams, we were aroused by the ringing of bells which had called the Spanish and Indians of this section of California to worship more than a century and a half ago.

The surrounding country here was once inhabited by a tribe of Indians known as "Diggers." They were so named because they practiced agriculture They made and used spades of hardwood and understood irrigation as ditches were plain to be seen when the pioneers first visited this section.

September 4th, we took our own good time and drove down through a beautiful valley by the way of Santa Paula and San Fernando to Los Angeles. This is a fruit and mellon country. At scores of road side markets we found various kinds of fruits which because of their appearance appealed so forcibly to the taste and appetite that I was persuaded to halt a few times and invest a nickle or two which was distressingly? needed for the purchase or gasoline and oil. I thought the grapes here had the best flavor of any it had been my pleasure to sample and there were hundreds of acres of them. It might be well to note that the largest olive grove in the world is on this road, The groves, orchards and small fruits are grown irrigated land.

In the evening we drove into Elysian Park, Los Angeles, where we remained some days.

Los Angeles was founded in 1781. An old mission was built here that year and is still used as a place of worship. The growth of the town was for years and years quite slow, but in the last few years it has grown by leaps and bounds until it now has a population of near 700,000. It has good streets, many large and beautiful parks and is surrounded by hundreds of miles of improved roads radiating in all directions. I noticed quite a number of oil wells in the city and while noticing the oil being pumped from a well in an abandoned chicken lot I come to the conclusion that perhaps the well will pay as large a dividend as the chickens had. Should I again live in a city I may try the oil well instead of the Rhode Island Reds which I had heretofore kept, but the question arises what would we do with the table waste which amounts to some five or six pounds a year. What would you do? After sober thought (a thing I seldom indulge in) I have come to the conclusion to look after the waste and let the oil wells and "elephants" go by.

In speaking of investments I can not here resist the temptation to add that during my travels I have met hundreds of graduates from College of Investment. I took a summer course in this great institution of learning but failed to complete the dead language part and when I think of some investments which I have made my language is very much alive. The remembrance of these investments often come to me when I awake at an early morning hour—say about 9 o'clock—and I feel duly qualified to speak on the subject. Often around the campfires in the mountains of the far west my soul was made to rejoice to hear some of my old chums of the school of investments tell their experience. Many of them had taken post graduate courses and from these industrial engineers I learned a second and a third time that if an investment is really worth while a stranger who has no interest it your welfare will not try to force you to buy. In speaking of investments it is believed that more money has been invested by West Virginians in what my father called "spurious stuff" such as dry oil wells, gold mines and hot air—than all the coal and gas of this State has brought to its citizens If you have surplus money I would advise you to spend it fixing up the old gates and fences about the farm and arrange some conveniences about the barn and home for yourself and wife. The old lady is going to leave you some of these days and you will regret it when you think of the number of times she prized the old barn gate open when she went to pail the cows and gather the eggs. I hope no wife will read this, but if any should, begin today to lighten the slop bucket for the old man so he will not be burdened as he hobbles toward the pig lot. I have nothing to say to ths young people for it has been my observation that they, as long as their parents live, will be able to take care of themselves. We are going to leave them RICH—in national, state, county and city debts which they can settle by additional bond issues or if they would rather they can borrow from Peter and pay Paul. Furthermore the number who are now in the employ of the government is increasing at an alarming rate and we may before many more children reach their majority, work out a scheme for all the people to live from the public crib and labor will be a relic of ancient history. But I must say no more along this line as some little "corkscrew" may object and a majorsty of those who believe as I do are on the other side of the stream witnout a retarn boat.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THURSDAY JUNE 28, 1923

The Editor of the Fayette Tribune refers to me an article in the Atlantic by Mr. Charles D. Stewart on the subject, "The Arrow Maker," and a review of the same in the Boston Transcript, of June 13. I was glad to get this commission because I have definite fixed ideas on the subject The articles are interesting. Mr. Stewart reveals the method by which the ancient Indians made the stone arrow head. It seems that he called on an antiquarian who made an arrow head for him in eleven minutes and left him gasping with wonder. The arrow maker took a bit of stone and a bone stylus and fashioned the arrow head. I am inclined to think that the antiquarian was not altogether open and fair with the scribe for I consider it no great matter to shape an arrow head and I place it for mechanical ingenuity and skill along with the sharpening of a toothpick or the cutting out of a paper doll.

The writer in the Boston Transcript catches up the ball of ecstacy and throws it on. "It is an article of discovery, of revelation," he says. "It unfolds in a most surprising manner the way in which the pre-Columbian Indians made arrow-heads, spear heads, and other cutting missiles and implements of flint, obsidian, quartzite, jaspar and other hard substances Their methods of work was long a mystery. Nobody seems to have found out in the early explorations."

If he had been informed this statement would have read that nobody found out prior to Captain John Smith, who is the earliest observer to set down in writing in our language the method described by these space writers.

The only process discussed by them is that of pressure by which the rudest weapons were fashioned, and they probably do not know that a sure enough discussion can be waged on the subject of pressure versus percussion.

When the mail brought me this much needed inspiration for a space filler, I went to work methodically to getting ready for this sitting I went down to the garden and commenced to hoe the vegetables, knowing full well that I had to do this as part of the daily task, and that I could count on picking up an arrow head, and in a few minutes I had found a fair specimen, and then I chose a bit of flint from the many pieces lying about and adjourned the garden work for a few minutes. I took a tooth brush that had outlived its usefulness and broke the handle off and with a file sharpened the point, and commenced to chip it into shape and in a short time it became an arrow head. Then I put them on a card to mail to the Fayette editor for his observation.

I have come to the conclusien that the the finding of arrow heads on the surface of the earth is about such a gift as the ability to distinguish a four leafed clover. There is no doubt that it is a trained eye in addition to the gift in both cases. Those who pick up arrow heads learn to look for the fluted edges that indicate man's handiwork, and the finder knows by that whether it has had a history or not. For with us there is always to be found any number of pieces of flint about the same size that have not been fashioned by man.

I can average about fifty arrow heads a year in my garden that are good enough to keep, and I always pick them up, and count that day lost in the garden whose lowly setting sun finds me without a new one. The housekeeper does not value them. They are cultch to her.

I remember one time I showed off. It was early in the spring of the year. Some one was at the house and we were discussing Indian relics, and it occurred to me that it would be a good time to find some arrow-heads that had been exposed on the bare earth by the storms of the winter, and we adjourned to the garden and I picked up eight and the friend none. An average of one a day is about what the work in the garden nets in the summer time when the fight with the weeds is on.

I feel sure that where I live was the home of an arrow maker on account of the unworked fragments that are lying around. A large number of these are too small and thin to make an arrow head and they probably represent the chips incident to the work, but there are any number of larger specimens but without exception they have strong veins of white quartz in them, denoting perhaps that this quartz did not lend itself to the work, not breaking right.

Flint will break off in minute shells leaving little hollows and the work man using pressure works from the edge in. The fine particles fly about in a dangerous manner to the eyes and care should be taken not to be jurned thereby. But the most common objection to the trade is that they cut the thumbs like glass and sharp edges cause the blood to flow, therefore it is an art that can best be exercised by putting on a pair of buckskin gloves. The man in Wisconsin had a grooved oak board that he used according to the magazine article that we are discussing, and he showed that he had gone through the bloody thumb process. It is a pity that artists have to wear buckskin gloves for this work, otherwise they could carry the spelican and a bit of flint about with them and work at it in the moving picture shows and other places like a lady with her knitting. Summer boarders could sit in a rocking chair on the hotel porch and make arrow heads to while away the idle hours.

It is the conchoidal fraction that does it. That is the tendency of breaking off in shell like particles, present in glass and hard stone.

The attention of Mr. Stewart is called to the account of Captain John Smith in regard to the Virginia Indians: "His arrow head he quickly maketh with a little bone which he weareth at his bracept, of a splint of stone or glasse, in the form of a heart and these they glue to the end of their arrows. With the sinews of deer and the tops of a deer's horns boiled to jelly they make a glue which will not dissolve in cold water."

The glass referred to was volcanic glass no doubt as there was no such thing as the glass that we know prior to the time of Captain John Smith in America.

At this point I want to take up the local tradition that arrowheads were made by heat and water. This persists in these mountains and I was raised in the belief that it was the true method and many years ago I tried it and got no results. The old men told us that the Indian heated the stone and then put a drop of water on it from a straw and this cause the shell like depressions. But in the light of my own experience I have come to the conclusion that there is no reason why this cumbersome manner of manufacture should be employed, even if it were possible to work flint that way.

I think that it may be stated that the crude way to shape an arrowhead is by pressure by something equivalent to a husking peg That for common garden variety of points this is the method for what might be called a homemade arrow. None other was needed. But when it comes to those works of art that shine like jewels such as are to be found in every collection, then the antiquarian is forced to the conclusion that they were not formed in this way, and that is what brings up the third branch of this matter, and that is the percussion question.

Probably the most valuable item of property known to the race prior to its degeneration by the association with the conquering race of white men, was some examples of the work of the artists in stone. There were knives that compared in value with the finest diamonds of the white race.

These stone artists were recognized as a privileged and superior class of citizens. They could pass through the enemy without being halted or questioned, and without any danger for they were Arrow Makers. I like to think that the place I live is the site of the home of an Arrow Maker. These adepts were chosen and elected by the tribe for their skill, and it was a sort of academy that they formed.

The workman sought the material far and wide. There is a great flint quarry in Crabbottom, Highland County, Virginia, where the flint was quarried and carried all over the country. The workman first reduced the large blocks of flint to fragments by a stone hammer, and the parts assorted for the implements suggested by their shape. The master-workman seated himself upon the ground and laid a flake on the palm of his left hand holding it firmly with one or more fingers. In his right hand was the chisel or punch. This was often the enamel of the teeth of animals; sometimes of a very hard stone; and there is evidence that the American Indian knew how to temper copper to a hardness not known today. In front of the arrow-maker was seated his helper or striker. The point of the stylus was placed on some slight projection of the flint and the striker gave it a slight blow with a mallet of very hard wood, and the flint was flaked off under the chisel. The secret was in placing the point of the punch and striking with a rebounding blow and the yielding of the palm that held the piece of stone.

It is only by allowing for the two methods that the difference in the marks of the specimens can be accounted for.

If necessary I could go into these technical questions at great length, but I want to take up some more phases of the use of arrows by the Indians.

There is one phase of the use of arrows that has never been accounted for and that is the force by which the missile could be propelled. If a high powered gun is placed in a vice and fired the bullet will travel with the same force exactly as if the rifle were pointed and fired by hand.

But if a bow and arrow were used in the vice, the arrow would be propelled with a feeble and insufficient force and the weapon would be useless. In the hands of an Indian bowman however, this arrow attains the speed of a bullet and is effective to a distance of two hundred yards and could be used with precision at that distance, and that is farther than a rifle can be made effective in the hands of a common marksman. It is a long drive with a golf ball. There is some sort of dynamic force that the Indians of ancient times were able to impart to their arrows as if they threw their very souls into the flight of the arrow, and this could be taught and acquired. The secret is wholly lost and gone now. There is no doubt that there have been many exaggerations in regard to the force that an arrow could be propelled, but it is certainly true that an arrow could be shot entirely through the body of a buffalo.

Col. James Smith who spent a number of years in captivity among the Indians of the Ohio Valley speaks of going hunting one winter when the food in the wigwams ran very low. After travelling for some days they came to a large elm tree that showed scratches on the bark indicating that bears had climbed it, and forty feet up was a hole in the tree large enough to admit a bear. The Indian hunter with Smith climbed up the tree and took with him a pole on which he had tied some dry rotted wood and bark. When he got near to the hole he set the wood and bark on fire and put it in the hole in the tree and presently heard a bear snuff, and he then came down the tree in a great hurry. But it was sometime before the bear came out of the hole and the Indian shot it behind the shoulder with an arrow. He shot but once and directed Smith not to shoot, and presently the bear fell to the ground dead.

The Spaniards reported that the arrows of the Indians would penetrate the armor of the soldiers. Explorers agree that these arrows were effective for the biggest game known to the American continent. And it is no doubt true that while the Indians could shoot at considerable distance that they were very expert in crawling close to game and took no chances on a long shot if they could get close in.

One explorer says that he has seen arrows imbedded in oak trees to the depth of eight inches.

Beverly one of the oldest. writers on the Virginia Indians says that they made their bows of locust wood and that sounds reasonable to those who know what this region affords in the way of bow timber. The bow was about forty eight inches in length and the string was buckskin, deer sinews, or twisted gut The bows were kept unbent except when in actual use.

Every collector of arrow heads has specimens so small and well made that he wonders how they could have been used to tip arrows, and as matter of fact, it is pretty certain that they were never use with the bow and arrow. They were for blow guns, and used mainly by boys in hunting small game. The arrow point has on it a bit of cotton or wool from the thistle, when used, and is blown through a hollow reed or bit of cane eight or nine feet long, and is good for bird or a grey squirrel up to about sixty feet, which just about represents the range of the modern cheap shot gun in the hands of the modern boy.

But the Indians were quick to abandon the use of the bow and arrow and they took to the rifle and the expert bowmen all passed many generations ago. But they say that on the Indian reservations, and about the towns in the west, you may happen on a stray Indian who will break up a beer bottle and make an arrow head for you out of glass while you wait.

When an Indian warrior was shot with an arrow and was brought in still living and required treatment for the wound it was the act of a numbskull to withdraw it. You can almost imagine the wise old Indians discussing a case where a member of the tribe had died because some ill advised and well meaning friend had drawn the arrow out The arrow must be pushed through to the other side of the body, otherwise the arrow point will pull off and be left in the wound and cause the death of the patient.

The Boston Transcript is in transports over the "rescue of one of the Indian arts." It is as though boys had ceased for a time to make pop guns and then some young visiter had restored that art to all its pristine glory and noise.

The history of the world is partly written in these stone relics. They are the only indestructible, evidence of man's progress, and when he had progressed far enough he ceased to make an everlasting record. The arrow heads are pretty much the same the world over. The stone implements have been found as much as thirty feet below the surface of the earth and are sure evidence of intelligent man for as many years as any one cares to fix it.

In Germany they are called thunder stones from the fact that they are so much more readily found after a summer thunder storm on freshly cultivated land, the rain having washed away the mould from around them.

In Scotland and Ireland, they are called elf arrows, and the belief prevails that they are still fired from the air by elves and that they are of supernatural origin. If a cow beast is curiously affected it is believed that they have been shot with an elf arrow and they say that a horse-doctor sometimes will come and run his hand over the hide and find the arrow which he then boils in water with other ingredients and drenches the sick animal and cures it.

There the belief is to the effect that though it is not unusual to find these elf arrows that it is always by chance, and that if a search is made for them, that they are never found. This I have disproved to a certain extent, though I have friends and acquaintances who are more than ready to believe this part of the legends.

And there is the belief in the old country that an arrow head set in precious metal and worn about the person is a talisman against misfortune.

Some years ago I picked out three specimens and had the jeweler to make breastpins out of them and gave them to the family, at the expense of four dollars each, not having done very much for them prior to that time. They were thankful but not noisy about them, and do not wear them with any great degree of regularity, but every now and then some girl will send in a request for one, and as far as I am informed they have proved to be fairly satisfactory as amulets and charms. The little goldened arrow-head that keeps the child from harm.

I see no objection to making arrow-heads, there being no protecting patent, but we may be drawing a smear over the page of history, and some day experts may be required to read the arrow-heads aright.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

J. Herndon Billingsley, Pastor.
Sunday School 9:45 a. m.
A. S. Overholt, Supt.
11:00 a. m. Preaching, Subject—"A Living Sacrifice."
Epworth League 7 p m.
Preaching 7:45 p m. Subject "Gospel no Fable."
Prayer and praise meeting Wednesday evening at 7 45.
Cordial welcome to all

Pocahontas Junk Co.

Marlinton, W. Va.

—Buyers—

Scrap iron, coppers, brass, waste paper, metals, rags, bones, beef hides, calf skins, live poultry and all waste materials.

TED McELWEE, Prop.
Marlinton, W. Va.

WRIGLEY'S

Take it home to the kids.

Have a packet in your pocket for an ever-ready treat.

A delicious confection and an aid to the teeth, appetite, digestion.

After Every Meal

Sealed in its Purity Package

WRIGLEY'S JUICY FRUIT CHEWING GUM
THE FLAVOR LASTS

A share of your business solicited

T. S. McNEEL
INSURANCE AND BONDS

Marlinton W. Va.

Successor o oodsell Insurance Agency

Life, Fire and Accident, Automobiles and Live Stock, Bonds of all kinds, Money to Loan on Farms.

Office 2nd floor, First National Bank Building.

Trustees' Sale of Valuable Real and Personal Property

Pursuant to authority vested in them by two deeds of trust, the one executed by J. W. Yeager and Pearl Yeager, his wife, to L. M. McClintic, Trustee, dated November 23, 1917, to secure the First National Bank of Marlinton, West Virginia, in the sum of $3,000.00, of record in the office of the clerk of the county court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in trust deed book number 10 at page 318, and the other deed of trust executed by J. W. Yeager and Pearl Yeager, his wife, to Andrew Price, Trustee, to secure J. J. Echols in the sum of $2500.00, dated January 1, 1923, of record in said office in trust deed book number 12 at page 364, the undersigned trustees on at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas County, commencing at I p. m., will sell at public auction to the highest bidder the following property:

Saturday, June 23, 1923,

1. A certain parcel of land composed of lots number 8, 9, and 10 in block number 37 of the proper plat of the Town of Marlinton, this being the residence property of the said J. W. Yeager. There is on this land a fine large, modern dwelling house. The house is situated near the court-house in a most desirable locality.

2. All the household and kitchen furniture contained in said dwelling as of January 1, 1923.

3. The equity owned by J. W. Yeager in two lots known as lots numbers 11 and 12 in block 37 of the proper plat of said town of Marlinton, the legal title to which lots is in the name of the Merchants and Mechanics Savings Bank of Grafton, West Virginia, and these lots are sold subject to the lien of said bank.

Terms of Sale: Cash.

L. M. McCLINTIC, Trustee
ANDREW PRICE, Trustee

This sale is continued until Tuesday, July 24, 0933, at 10 o'clock a. m.

L. M. McClintic
Andrew Price,
Trustees.

Notice of Dissolution

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the stockholders of the Goodsell Insurance Agency, held on the 24th day of July, 1920, it was unanimously voted that the company retire from active business as of the 31st day of August, 1920, and that the officers proceed to collect outstanding accounts and wind up the affairs of the Company as promptly thereafter as possible, and that the secretary take the necessary steps to have the Company's charter returned to the State of West Virginia, upon the final closing out of all of its affairs.

Given under my hand this the 24th day of July, 1920.

L. S COCHRAN President.

Attest:
W. J. Yeager, Secretary.

NOTICE

Under the directions of D. N. Weiford, Executor of G S. Weiford, deceased, will give all parties that have not settled their store accounts which are long past due, until June 30th to settle. Any that fail to settle or arrange for their accounts by that time, will place same in the hands of our attorney for quick actions.

All that have notes coming due, please be prepared to take them up as they fall due.

The above notice will be rigidly enforced.

O. S WEIFORD.
Warwick, W. Va.

Notice To Our Patrons

All persons having grain to grind, will please bring it in this month, as we expect to move our mill in the near future.

Arbovale Milling Co.
Arbovale, W. Va

HORSE FOR SALE

Good saddle horse, well broken, safe and good traveler. Set of light work harness, saddle and riding bridle.

Apply to Joe Sheets
Buckeye, W. Va.

Money to Loan at 5 1-2 percent

The Pocahontas County Farm Loan Association of Marlinton, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, has money to loan to farmers on farm land, on easy terms.

Call on the undersigned and fill out an application blank.

P. T. WARD, Sec.-Treas.

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager
HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC
Marlinton, West Virginia.

Notice of Court Meeting

The County Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, will meet in regular session on Tuesday, June 26, 1923. All persons who desire a state license to keep hotel or restaurant, or to operate pool or billiard tables or bowling alleys, should send or bring their applications to be passed upon at that time, as such licenses can only be issued when authorized by the County Court.

S. L. BROWN Clerk.

Farm For Sale

47 1-2 acres of good level land near Hillsboro, 6 room house and plenty of water. Price $3,000; one third cash and balance on good terms.

WALTER COOPER.
Hillsboro, W. Va.

Light Your Home

Barn, chicken house with a modern acetilyne gas generator. Iron and cook by this clean economical system. No odor, no smoke, no soot. Not a basement or cellar machine. Its safety places an insurance on your home, does away with the danger of lamps and matches. Manufactured by a reliable incorporated Company who stand behind its product with a long guarantee, installed by our own experts in a scientific manner. Needs attention probably three or four times each year. The Allegheny Club House is lit by this system and one store and six residences in Huntersville. Thr light that will put Huntersville back on the map. The low cost to install complete and upkeep will surprise you. For full particulars and free demonstration address,

J. J. PARKS, Agent.
Huntersville, W. Va.

Team For Sale

One grey team, 6 yrs. old, weight 3,000 lbs. broke to the woods, and farm. Good hillsiders. Also 1 bay horse, 1450 lbs. 9 yrs. old, all sound and good workers.

Austin Sharp
Frost, W. Va.

Yearlings For Sale

12 head, 6 steers and 6 heifers, beef stock, and good cattle for sale. I am short on grass. Apply to

Willie Shrader
R.F. D. box 24, Huntersville, W. Va.

Trustee's Sale of One Half Undivided Interest of a Farm

Pursuant to authority vested in me by a deed of trust dated September 6, 1922, executed by Cecil Gay and Stella Gay, his wife, to me, Andrew Price, Trustee, to secure H. H. Weugh, guardian of Jesse Waugh, of record in the office of the clerk of the county court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, in trust deed book number 12 at page 304, on the commencing at 10 o'clock a. m. at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas county, I will sell at public auction to the highest bidder the land described in the deed aforesaid being the one half undivided interest in a tract of fifty-seven acres inherited by the said Stella Gay from her mother Indiana Waugh, being a tract of land adjoining John Poege, and being the land on which the said Cecil Gay and Stella Gay now reside. Said farm is near Clover Lick in said county.

7th day of July, 1923

Terms of Sale—Cash.

ANDREW PRICE,
Nrustee.

Executors Notice

All persons having claims against the estate of the late James Hultz, are notified to present the same proven according to law to the undersigned executors. All persons indebted to said estate will please prepare to settle at once.

This 16th of June, 1923.

J. W. HULTZ
SALLIE JONES.
Executors estate of James Hultz, deceased.

Fiduciary Notice

The accounts of L. R. Hively administrator of Alice Nebraska Hively are before me for settlement.

Given udder my hand this 18th day of June, 1923.

T. S. McNEEL.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va

Farm For Sale

175 acres, 100 acres of cleared land on river bottom, 75 acres in wood land, 40 acres in crop, 35 acres in meadow and balance in pasture, it lays nice and dry and suitable for any kind of machinery, it is well fenced and watered, 1 good ten room house bath room, and water in the kitchen. 2 barns, and other good out buildings fruit for family use, one of the best farms in the valley for its size, church in sight, 1 mile to store, mill, blacksmith shop and school, mail every day, house close to road. A real bargain for the price, write for further information or come and see

C. H. Bussard
Deerfield, Va

For Sale

Good dray horse, wagon and outfit. Horse will weigh 1350, sound and safe. Apply at once

Henry Simmons.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Baby Chicks

For June delsvery S. C. W. Leghorns $12 50 per 100 R. I. Reds and Barred Rocks $13.50 per 100 Eggs $1.25 per setting $2.00 per thirty preaid.

Oak Crest Poultry Farm
Mill Point, W. Va.,

Notice

Notice is hereby given that I have sold my meat business in the Town of Marlinton to Z S Smith & Son who will continue the business.

All persons endebted to me will please prepare to settle at once.

R. H. McElwee
June 4, 1923

Notice

Notice is hereby given that on or about July 16, 1923 the undersigned will make application to Hon. E F Morgan, Governor of West Virginia, for pardon, having been convicted of the crime of moonshining in the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County West Virginia, at the April 1923, term thereof, and sentenced to confinement in the penitentiary for a period of two years.

This 31st of May, 1923.

Al Weekly.

For Sale

1 4 mile of Dunmore, W. Va. 3 room house, large blacksmith shop, 5 1-4 acres of land, 16 or 17 fine apple trees bearing; close to churches, stores and school. on a rural mail route, in a good neighbor hood, and water on the place.

Will sell right for cash. If interested call on

J. A. Hively
Dunmore, W. Va.

For Sale

20 head of heavy draft horses 6 ponies, 42 to 50 inches high, 6 mules, 50 inches high.

W. Va. Pulp & Paper Co
Cass, W. Va.

For Sale

I will sell privately at my home in Hillsboro between this date and July 1st the following personal property:

One horse, a good saddler and driving horse, safe and a good family horse, buggy harness, saddle and bridle, 1 folding bed, 1 library table, 1 suit oak furniture, 6 dining chairs, 2 wood heaters, 3 Cole's hot blast heaters, large size, 1 new Rayo lamp, 1 cream separator, 1 churn, 1 1 1-2 gallon ice cream freezer, wash bowls and pitchers, air tight jars.

These articles are all in good condition and will be sold reasonable, and terms and prices will be made known on application.

T. S. McNEEL.

CROCHET WORK of all kinds done to order very cheap and prompt For prices write to Mrs. Lena Colson, Locust, W. Va.

N. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court Appeals

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W Va
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specially of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

CHARLES SHINABERRY
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
All calls given prompt attention.

A. J. SHARP
AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
Phone Marlinton Central.

W. A. BARLOW
OLD RELIABLE AUCTIONEER
Onoto, W. Va.
All calls answered.

WM. O. BUCKMAN
LICENSED AUCTIONEER
Millpoint, West Virginia
A young man with the goods

Z. S. Smith
Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMER
DENTIST
Marlinton, W. Va
First National Bank Building
Office hours 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. or appointment. All work guaranteed

Baxter's Garage
MARLINTON W. VA.
FORD Cars and Supplies
FORDSON Tractors
A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.
I. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Picoting and Hem-Stitching
All orders promptly filled.
MRS. J. E. BUCKLEY,
Marlinton, W. Va.

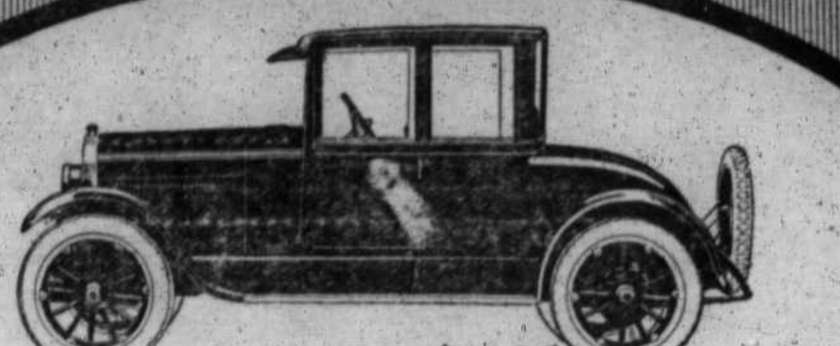
Hogs For Sale

25 grade Poland China and Berkshire pigs, 7 and 8 weeks old $5 each. 15 thoroughbred Poland China pigs, 5 weeks old, will keep 10 weeks old, $8 without register papers and $10 with papers. 8 good fresh milk cows.

W. McClintic
Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR RENT—An eight room house near Green Bank, convenient to church, store, post office and high school. Apply to J. P. Wooddell, Green Bank, W. Va.

FOR SALE—Poland-China pigs eligible for registration of the Great Buster-Clausman breeding —Geo. W. Cleek, Warm Springs, Va.



Coupe for Two $1185

Quality-built throughout. Steel-panelled body, permanently welded, beautifully finished. Wide, full-vision windows. Two large storage compartments. Rear-view mirror. Windshield cleaner. Snubbers. Visor. Non-skid cord tires. Comparisons prove its superior worth.

Order Your Coupe NOW

Our Allotment Is Limited

You can still get reasonably prompt delivery on this Coupe for Two by placing your order now. For only $1185 you can still get a car that is without serious competition in its field. A car of inbuilt quality and of dignified appearance that will worthily represent you upon any occasion. A car with a six-cylinder engine carrying a 15,000 mile-performance guarantee. A car that has won the most important national Economy and Endurance contests. A car wherein quality and dependability are conclusively proved on the basis of "known mileage". You can purchase this, or any other Oakland model, on Oakland's liberal Special Payment Plan.

Roadster, $975 Touring Car, $995 Sport Roadster, $1145 Sport Touring, $1165 Coupe for Five, $1445 Sedan, $1545 All Prices f. o. b. Pontiac, Michigan

D. W. WILLIAMS

Marlinton, - - - - - - West Virginia

Oakland "6"

MARBLE GRANITE

MEMORIALS OF QUALITY

We have a splendid display of over 300 finished Monuments in stock and if you intend to erect a MEMORIAL of any character this spring or summer it will pay you to write us at once for catalog and samples of our work. We guarantee the quality of the material, workmanship and the price.

PNUMATIC TOOLS FOR LETTERING AND CARVING.

Clifton Forge Marble & Granite Works

Harry P. Burt, Prop.

WOOL

See me before you sell and get the CASH for your WOOL.

C. R. BEARD

Durbin - - - - - West Va.

SHEEP HAIR

WE have always been able to handle our customers' wool to very best advantage. Get acquainted with our plan. It means money to you.

Sacks for the asking.

Peoples Store & Supply Co.

MARLINTON, W. VA.

M.W.A. NEWS

MARLINTON CAMP NO. 9765 meets every Thursday 8 p. m.

A. C. McCoy, Clerk

F. D. Malcomb, District Deputy

Duroc Jersey Pigs

10 weeks old, either sex, $8 each, or $10 registered in purchaser's name. Apply to H. Marvin Hannah, Edray, W. Va.

NOTICE

The following fiduciary is before me for settlement: Pearl Spinks, admr. Henry C. Spinks, deceased.

Given under my hand this 13th day of June, 1923.

J. E. Buckley,
Commissioner of Accounts.

CUSTOM WHEAT CUTTING

I am now making contracts to cut wheat in the Greenbank community, with my tractor drawn binder.

Martin Judy

Cass, W. Va.

NOTICE

Draft No. 290, drawn in my favor for $90 by Board of Education of Greenbank District and payable from the Elementary Teachers Fund, has been lost. I am this day applying to the Board for a duplicate draft and all persons are hereby notified not to cash the original draft.

Lillian Fowler.

June 9, 1923.

DELCO-LIGHT

"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue

ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES

Marlinton Electric Co.

DEALERS

FOR RENT—Two good furnished rooms. Apply to Mrs. S. C. Clark, Marlinton, W. Va.

PIE SUPPER

There will be a pie supper at the Douthards Creek School House Saturday evening June 30th for benefit of church. Everybody invited.

RABIES EPIDEMIC NOT CONFINED TO STATE

Epidemics of rabies which have resulted in the quarantining of several West Virginia counties and communities during the past eight months is not confined to the state according to reports and figures. California recently passed emergency laws to effect the control and spread of hydrophobia, and 2,476 persons were given the Pasteur treatment in Georgia during 1922, this being the greatest number in the history of the state.

The State Hygienic Laboratory has analyzed an unusually large number dogs' heads recently, and Dr. C. E. Gabel, director of the laboratory, states that the laboratory findings showed hydrophobia in 98% of cases.

Observation of quarantine, that is, muzzling or keeping dogs confined, is the only method to check the spread of this dangerous disease, according to authorities, because the disease can only develop through the virus from the saliva of a rabid animal getting into the tissue of persons or animals by means of a bite or abrasion of the skin. Contrary to the opinion that rabies are more prevalent in summer, it is in fact, not confined to any particular season.

Forutnately, the disease does not develop within 14 days to a year or more after infection, thus giving opportunity for the patient to obtain the Pasteur treatment, which briefly stated, is the injection hypodermically of a specially prepared serum once a day for 21 days.

The best method is to confine a suspicious animal, giving it good care, and if it does not become paralyzed and die within two weeks, release it, are the instructions of health authorities. Microscopic examination of an animal's brain should also determine whether or not the animal was rabid, but frequently the brain is mutilated in killing the animal, or it is not properly packed for safe shipment to the laboratory.

A vaccine has also been prepared, and a single treatment will protect a valuable animal for at least a year. The Pasteur treatment is also given to animals.

Sayings of Sanitary Sam

"Life is not to live, but to be well."

In the making of energy, one quart of milk is equal to 11.3 ounces of sirloin steak.

There were 1,278 cases of venereal diseases treated in the eight clinics in the state during the first six months of their operation.

One pair of rats will produce a progeny of over 650,000 in three years.

In Boston, Mass., in an outbreak of septic sore throat, 1,043 cases were traced to milk which had not been pasteurized.

LICENSE TAG LOST—W. Va. Auto License Tag No. 58,648, between Marlinton and top of Allegheny Mountain. Finder please return to Times, Marlinton, W. Va.

THE NICHOLAS ROAD

On last Wednesday a meeting was held at Hillsboro for the purpose of arousing an interest in the opening of the old Nicholas County road from Hillsboro to Richwood. The meeting was attended by the members of the Pocahontas County Court, a committee from Richwood consisting of Division Engeneer Anderson, of the State Road Department, and Messrs. Craig Odell and Dotson, and about 50 citizens of Pocahontas County.

The distance from Hillsboro to Richwood is about 28 miles. Twelve to fourteen miles of this is in Pocahontas; eight or more in Greenbrier and about five in Nicholas. The route follows the old Nicholas County trail. There is now a good road to Lobelia, a distance of six miles but the rest of the way is mostly an old time bridle path that has recently been opened by some Richwood citizens.

Much interest in the opening of this road was created by the citizens meeting at Hillsboro last Wednesday, and the following were appointed a committee to cooperate with a like committee from Richwood and Nicholas: T. A. Bruffey, chairman; Dr. H. W. McNeel, Geo. P. Edgar, C. W. Kennison and N. E. Walton.

It is hoped that the State Road Commission may become interested in this route as a connecting highway between the county seats of Nicholas and Pocahontas. It looks like our best way to Webster Springs. On the road map it also looks like a saving of forty or fifty miles on the road to Charleston. To Richwood and Nicholas County it is their one way out to the east—Virginia and points beyond.

POULTRY TOUR

The second annual poultry tour will be held this year for which plans are already under way.

The general outline of the tour this year will be through the central part of Pennsylvania, southeastern part of New York, across Connecticut taking the ferry to Long Island, down through Long Island to New York City, through New Jersey to Atlantic City, and home. This will take from ten to twelve days and should prove to be even more attractive than the tour last year, as it will take in several large breeding farms and many of the mammoth poultry and duck farms on Long Island. In addition to this we will also be able to reach the important sections of New Jersey. A definite itinerary of the tour will be arranged and in your hands by July 1.

The tour will start July 29 or 30 and continue for the following ten to twelve days.

Anyone interested should communicate with the County Agent, Marlinton, W. Va. and make arrangements.

GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATION

The 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Pyles was celebrated at their home on June 17th 1923, eight children one absent Peyton of Idaho, 22 grandchildren and other friends and relatives, a grand total of 48 persons took of their bountiful table on this occasion. Of 50 years ago only two persons living that witnessed the marriage ceremony, Mrs. Nancy Coulter and Mrs. Susan Auldridge, a sister to each of the contracting parties.

Mrs. Nancy Coulter was present and enjoyed the day with us, should she live with her husband until the 5th day of next May 1924, they will enjoy their 50th wedding day.

After the loaded table had a rest and the many tokens examined, Mrs. Margurite Moore made many pictures the most striking and pleasing was the couple of 50 years ago. The weather was ideal and all enjoyed this occasion. Saying I was glad I was there.

E. C. Allen, of Kokomo, Indiana, arrived last Thursday for a few weeks visit in his native country. He was accompanied by his three sons, Arnold Hermon and Edwin. They made the trip in a ford car, and had been on the way since Monday June 11. They camped out, and the entire cost for the 748 miles was $28, or a little less than one cent a mile per person. Their route was from Kokomo to Dayton, thence to Columbus, thence to Parkersburg, thence to New Martinsville and thence to Elkins. Bad roads were encountered in northern Ohio and northern West Virginia. Mr. Allen quit farming over a year ago and is now working in town as a painter and paper hanger. He lives in a flat country, and one wonderfully rich in agricultural possibilities. Every where along the route the Allen family had to make detours to get by road construction. Mr. Allen voices the often heard criticism that our West Virginia plan of road construction is giving us roads that are too broad and too short.

Last week a law suit was in progress in the local courts, the subject matter being a question of title to a lot in Princeton. The amount involved was $1500. The chain of title had passed through the Lilly Land Company. The company had sold the lot to a purchaser and then a third party stepped in and claimed title. The law suit resulted.

Mr. J. H. Lilly was in court and stated that he stood ready to protect the purchaser from his company even to the extent of $1500 and would see that he lost not one cent. This was the company's first law suit in 16 years.—Princeton Press

DIED

Strickler Arbogast, aged 27 years, died at his home near Boyer, on Thursday, June 7, 1923, all his life he had been an invalid. Burial at the Kerr graveyard, the services being conducted by Rev. Don M. Nicholas, of Arbovale.

The deceased was the eldest son of Charles Arbogast. He was a consistent christian, and for the past five years had been a member of the Methodist church. He was a kind and affectionate disposition and he will be greatly missed by the family and the community. Surviving him are his parents, two sisters and a brother. We sorrow not as those who have no hope.

D.

FEATURES IN NEW ROAD LAW EFFECTIVE JULY 27

The new road law passed by the present legislature and which becomes a law on July 27 has much in it of genuine merit although it may meet some criticism in other respects. One feature of its requiring all taxi owners and operators to give bond in such sums as the state road commission shall require for the safe carrying of persons and property in this state, making them not only liable for injuries suffered by passengers and property through the negligent, careless or indifferent operation of motor cars by owners and drivers. This requirement of bond is to make it forth coming in payment of any judgment for damages against a taxi owner and operator for personal injury to or loss of property being transported. Taxis are to pay a license of $75 a year, where they operate upon no fixed schedule or between any fixed termini. However, where a taxi operates on a fixed schedule between regular termini and over regular courses, the tax shall be one twentieth of one cent per passenger seat for each mile which the application shows will be traveled during the year, if the taxi weighs less than 3,000 pounds. If the taxi weighs more than 3,000 and less than 7,900 pounds the tax shall be one fifteenth of one cent for each seat per mile; if the taxi weighs more than 7,000 pounds, the tax shall be one tenth of one cent per seat per mile. The cost of operating motor trucks for hire is just double that of operating taxis and on the same basis. Taxi cabs and motor vehicles operating for the transportation of passengers and freight are required to apply to the state road commission for certificates of convenience and each application shall set forth the financial condition and physical property of the applicant and the capacity of the vehicles to be used as well as such other matters as the state road commission may require, it being the apparent purpose aside from affording revenue for the state roads, to throw about the transportation of property and passengers the same safeguards as is thrown about the carrying of passengers and property by railway and trolley companies.

The new road law is accompanied by the new law imposing a tax of two cents a gallon on the sale of gasoline at wholesale. Of course, the consumer will ultimately pay this but the act is so worded as to afford no excuse by retailers to raise the price of gasoline more than the two cents since it is the wholesaler who pays the tax and the one who resells the product is not charged with any such tax, the law stating nothing in the act shall be construed as imposing a tax upon gasoline after the same shall have been already once taxed under the provisions of this act.—Fayette Tribune.

"THERE"

"There" the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest,
"There" the saints of earth are gathered as white birds unto their nest,
"There" the weary footsore pilgrim ends his eager lifelong quest.

"There" earth's solitary children who have gone life's way alone,
Shall have blessed, sweet reunions near the glorious sunlit throne,
And shall meet, and greet and linger there with those they call their owe.

"There" earth's suffering, worn-out bodies racked with many years of pain
Shall find health and ringing gladness come to greet them once again,
And they never more shall suffer who have long on pain beds lain.

"There" earth's pilgrims who were longing for the coming of their King
Shall be gathered in his presence and their joyous praises sing,
And shall bow, and kneel and worship and their adoration bring.

—Selected.

The state wool pool, which has been organized under the auspices of the West Virginia Farm Bureau Federation, has gone over the top according to C. W. Mason, manager of the pool, who checked up his reports last week and found more than 251,000 pounds of wool already signed up. Late reports to come in will swell this total considerably. This total compares with 70,000 pounds of wool secured last year.

FISK TIRES

C. J. Richardson

Marlinton, W. Va.

Sunday Dinner

Take a pleasant drive to Monterey Va. Sunday and eat a good chicken dinner at Hotel Cunningham, 75 cents per plate.

A 15,000 MILE JOURNEY

TOURING THE UNITED STATES FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN BY AUTO

By Davis L. Barlow

(Continued from last week)

After locating myself in the Tourists Park, at Los Angeles, I phoned my cousin George Y. Barlow that I was in the city. George at once gave me to understand that 4915 Morgan Avenue, Los Angeles is a fine place to stop. He is with the Pacific Electric Railway Company and was billed to go out at 6 the next morning and would not return until 2 p. m. at which time I agreed to be at his place. Our chat over the phone caused each of our minds to turn back to our childhood days when we ate Alex sweet apples and family pies made from the old house graft—an apple which surpassed all others in flavor and baking qualities.

Before I had my breakfast the next morning George was at my place of business in the Park. He, among other things, said that our conversation over the phone the night before set him to thinking along a certain line of thought which he was not able to dismiss from his mind, so he called an extra man to make his morning run that he might be with us all day. He commanded us to repair to his home. This we did without protest and our visit was one about which you may read between the lines. In thinking of the happy hours spent in this beautiful bungalow home I am reminded of an old Confederate soldier by the name of Deering who some years ago worked for me, and while resting one day I asked him to tell me about the longest and the hottest fight he was in during the Civil War. He answered "I 'fit' seven days and nights in the Battle of the Wilderness and in all that time thare was no 'cecession' of both cannon and small arms." In like manner there was no 'secession' in our taiking and eating until near midnight.

In our conversation I soon learned that George was quite familiar with all important events which have occurred in Pocahontas county since he left the east in 1886. Some question arose about a certain date and he refreshed his memory by refering to a clipping from The Times dated some twenty five years ago. He keeps two files of his old home paper, one in his memory; and the other laid away for ready reference.

It will be remembered that some years ago a railroad engineer lost his life in a railroad wreck which occurred just north of Marlinton, on the Greenbrier Division of the C. & O. I cannot now recall this engineer's name. But what I want to say is: This engineer, long before the Greenbrier Division was thought of, pulled the train upon which George Barlow made his first run as a conductor and he has since been a member of the Railroad Conductors Association and is now a trusted employee of the Pacific Electric Railway Company.

George was very fortunate in securing for his life partner an agreeable and pleasant lady who grew upon an Indiana farm, and I have not a doubt that often in her imagination she can see the candle light shining brightly through the sycamores in the old Hoosier state, and even scent the fragrance of the new mown hay in the fields she used to roam.

Roy, the only son in this family, was an officer in the world war. When he returned from war he found his old position occupied, but notwithstanding this his company retained him on pay which proves his real worth. As I remember, he is a mechanical engineer and draftsman. He is married and has one child.

In traveling one looses sight of TIME. Often I did not know the day of the week or the month. Mrs. Maggie Sharp of Edray, had for some years sent me, as a Christmas present, a copy of Hagerstown Town and Country Almanack, but this year she could not locate me and I sure missed the little book. Without it I was like the small boy of knee trousers age. His mother made him a pair of Kentucky jeans trousers which was three years too large and long enough to drag the ground. Tommy wearing his new trousers, went to school, but his playmates made fun of him. In the evening he came home crying. His mother, much exeited said, "Tommy, are you sick?" "No! But these old breeches. I don't know whether I am going to school or coming home. Boo-hoo." So without the Farmers Guide, I scarcely knew whether I was traveling east or west. But one morning I found a copy of the Ladies' Birthday Almanack and spelling along I discovered that the third season of the year was near at hand, or the season between summer and winter and that it was time for us to be on our homeward journey.

On a part of the way east there were three trails from which we could take our choice. We could double back to Dickson and from here to Sacramento where we could choose either the Lincoln highway via Reno and Deeth, Nevada, to Salt Lake City, or the Pioneer branch of the Lincoln highway via Carson City, Ely and through the Great Salt Lake Desert to Salt Lake city, or we could follow the Santa Fe trail out of Los Angeles to Goffs where we could switch off to Arrowhead trail via of Los Vegas to Salt Lake City, from which city we could reach Denver over the Pikes Peake Ocean to Ocean highway. And last we could continue the Santa Fee via of Needles, Kingman, Holbrook, Albuquerque, Santa Fe, and Colorado Springs to Denver. We chose the latter route because of the following reasons: First, It is the most popular transcontinental trail for Los Angeles and southern California tourists bound for the central western and eastern states. Second, in the fall of the year the mountain passes are less liable to be blocked by snow than either of the others. Third, I was not able to qualify myself to operate a car in California and this was the most direct path out of the state and to supposed liberty which I have not yet found to my entire satisfaction.

Before beginning our journey over the Santa Fe taril, I talked with a number of tourists who had just arrived from the east and their report of road conditions would have discouraged a brass monkey. It was near 1500 miles from Los Angeles to Denver and with the exception of a stretch of some 89 miles between Los Angeles and Cajon Pass, the remainder is dirt road much of which is an unimproved sandy desert trail. We would encounter not only some fearfully steep rocky grades, but scores of cross washes which were in places quite dangerous. I was also cautioned about the water supply and bought from one of the tourists who had just crossed the Majova, a desert bag which I later found to be an invaluable piece of kitchen furniture. When an opportunity presented we would fill this bag with water and hang it on the shady side of Old Sal and you would be surprised to learn how cool the water would keep even in the burning desert. I might add however that it was almost necessary to use a magnifying glass to find the shady side of car when the king of day, in all his glory, was crossing the meridian.

Reasonably clothed in our right minds and partly conscious of what lay before us, we on the morning of September 11, after seeing that Old Sal had been properly fed and her collar adjusted, rolled out on the trail headed for the West Virginia hills, singing in our hearts if not by voice:

"Mid pleasures and palaces though we may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home;
A charm from the skies seems to hallow us there,
Which seek thro' the world is ne'er met with elsewhere."

AMERICA FIRST DAY

Sunday the first day of July, 1923, has been set apart by Governor Morgan as America First Day, and it is especially desired that some attention be given to the duty that every citizen owes to the nation by the Sunday Schools. Every year patriots drop by the wayside. Their places must be filled by the survivors, and the hope of the country is in the children. It is here suggested that in the absence of a more formal method of observing the day that the following oration from the pen of James Madison to be read or recited in each Sunday School in Pocahontas county to commemorate the American Constitution:

Hearken not to the unnatural voice which tells you that the people of America, knit together as they are by so many cords of affection, can no longer live together as members of the same family; can no longer continue the mutual guardians of their mutual happiness; can no longer be fellow citizens of one great, respectable, and flourishing empire.

Hearken not to the voice which petulantly tells you that the form of government recommended for your adoption is a novelty in the political world; that it has never yet had a place in the theories of the wildest projectors; that it rashly attempts what it is impossible to accomplish.

No, my countrymen, shut your ears against this unhallowed language; shut your hearts against the poison which it conveys; the kindred blood which flows in the veins of American citizens, the mingled blood which they have shed in defense of their sacred rights, consecrate their Union, and excite horror at the idea of becoming aliens, rivals, enemies.

And if novelties are to be shunned, believe me, the most alarming of all novelties, the most wild of all projects, the most rash of all attempts, is that of rending us in pieces to preserve our liberties and promote our happiness.

But why is the experiment of an extended republic to be rejected, merely because it may comprise what is new? Is it not the glory of the people of America, that, whilst they have paid a decent regard to the opinions of former times and other nations, they have not suffered a blind veneration for antiquity, for customs or for names, to overrule the suggestions of their own good sense, the knowledge of their own situation, and the lesson of their own experience.

To this manly spirit, posterity will be indebted for the possession, and the world for the the example, of the numerous innovations displayed on the American theatre, in favor of private rights and public happiness. Had no important step been taken by the leaders of the Revolution for which a precedent could not be discovered, no government established of which an exact model did not present itself, the people of the United States might, at this moment have been numbered among the melacholy victims of misguided counsels, must at best have been laboring under the weight of some of those forms which have crushed the liberties of the rest of mankind.

Happily for America, happily, we trust, for the whole human race, they pursued a new and more noble course. They accomplished a revolution that has no parallel in the annals of human society. They reared the fabrics of government which have no model on the face of the globe. They formed a design of a great Confederacy, which it is incumbent upon their successors to improve and perpetuate.

A RELIABLE CONCERN

The Lilly Land Company, having its main office in Princeton and branch offices in six other large West Virginia cities and one office in Roanoke, Va. is conducted by the highest type of business men, and the reliability and honesty of the company is beyond question.

A Washington dispatch to the Charleston Gazette says the Forestry Department has authorized the taking over of 1,000 acres in Pocahontas and Pendleton Counties, as a part of the Monongahela Forest Reserve.

Jesse G. Waugh, who under went an operation for appendictis, at the St Leo's Hospital, Greensboro, N. C. June 18, is reported getting along nicely.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLI NO 49 | MARLINTON. POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA; JULY 19. 1923 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Notice To Delinquents Water and Light Town of Marlinton

By order of Council entered July 2, 1923, all persons delinquent on payments for Water and Light of date, JULY 15, 1923, that SUIT will be instituted to COLLECT all such delinquent ACCOUNTS.

Frank King, Sergeant.

FAIR NOTES

John Bessling, land scape gardener, has been busy the past few weeks trimming the trees and shrubbery and putting things in shape generally at the Fair Grounds. It is just surprising the difference in appearance a few dollars will make when expended for a man who knows how to tidy things up.

Three head of race horses and their trainer arrived from Clarksburg last Thursday, and are now at the Fair Grounds getting in shape for the Fair next month. This begins to look like business.

A lot of painting and white washing is being done on the Fair buildings, and much gravel is being spread on the walks. It has also been decided to put a floor in the stands under the grandstand.

Satisfactory progress is being made by contractor E. D. King on the Poultry and Agricultural buildings. Heretofore tents have been used to house these exhibits, and the tents were both expensive and unsatisfactory.

The 1923 Fair catalog is now being distributed. As it was printed in The Times office, it may not be very good taste to write too much about it in these notes. But it is a home product anyway. And lots of folks have been kind enough to say some mighty nice things about it. The Fair is a Pocahontas enterprise, maintained by home people for the purpose of developing our county and whenever and wherever it is possible so to do, home workers and home industries are patronized.

It fell to this writer's lot to have mailed out the catalogs to the six hundred and more stockholders of the Fair. If you dont believe that is a bunch of folks, come in and we'll show you the list. That bunch can move anything by cooperation, and that is the key to the success which has made the Pocahontas County Fair the leading fair of the State.

Six forty-five o'clock a. m. six days in the week sees S. B. Wallace, president of the Fair, on his way to the Fair Grounds to line out his workers for the day. There is a considerable sermon in this, and is not hard to think it out either. Mr. Wallace is on no salary, and he has no more invested in it than the rest of us. It is a public work, and his heart is in it. And then, too he has to go some if he keeps in front of his board and department heads in interest and enthusiasm.

Of course the editor is just naturally supposed to back and boost things that develop and help the community. He is not supposed to know any better or he would be in a business that held out promise of financial gain commeasurate with the energy and agony required to get out a paper each week, or pursue a calling that assures a place of honor in the esteem of his fellow man. What we started out to say that it is certainly refreshing to see the busy men of the county devoting their time and energy toward making the Fair successful. Their hearty cooperation and keen rivalry to see that their departments are in order and their exhibitions are of the highest possible standard.

And now a word to the shareholders—The success of any corporation is in proportion to the cooperation of its stockholders. More especially is this true in an enterprise of a public nature. When you as a shareholders of the Fair Company think of something that should be done, or anything that is being done wrong, you are not doing your duty unless you write the Pocahontas Fair, Inc., Marlinton, and give the management the benefit of your suggestions and observations. Don't tell the other fellow, but pass it along first hand to the management, and thus show your cooperative spirit in making this the greatest County Fair. We have a greater number of stockholders than any other similar institution in the world, and why should we not have the best Fair? Watch us grow as we work together.

Anyone having a nice horse either harness or sattle class suitable for entry in the horse show at the Pocahontas Fair, will find it very beneficial to bring him in to the fair farms where he will be cared for and handled by an expert trainer at a very reasonable rate.

An automobile party from Lexington ate a picnic dinner at the Fair Grounds one day this week and enjoyed the fine bathing facilities. Picnic parties from near points are daily taking advantage of this fine public play ground.

ACCIDENT AT THE TANNERY

A very distressing accident occurred at the Tannery at this place last Saturday resulting in the death of Merl Irvine, a son of Levi Irvine, near Warwick.

The deceased was employed in outside work around the tannery and at the time of his injury he was working with Sandy Mann first feeding bark into the hopper. That work having been completed, they went to the work of moving hundred pound bags of myraholan nuts from the shed where they were stored to the leach house elevator from whence the elevator would take them to the third floor. An elevator load is ten bags. The load was put on with the help of wheelbarrows and was ready to be hoisted, when the deceased with young Mann got on the elevator and relinquished their wheelbarrows to other workmen. Young Irvine started the elevator by pulling a cable which shifted the belt and the elevator started on its slow climb to the third floor.

It would seem that then Irvine crossed over to another side of the elevator and went to a screen guard across that side which is something over six feet high, and pulled himself up to the top of this screen wall so that his chin projected over a few inches, so that the top of his head struck some part of the elevator shaft as the ascent continued and the pressure broke his chin against the top of the guard which had been put on the elevator expressly as a safety device. The elevator did not stop but his companion saw that he was horribly injured The unfortunate lad was unable to speak, his mouth throat and chin having been so badly crushed, but he was able to walk to the office, and from there he was taken to the hospital. He had also suffered a fracture of the skull, and he died on Sunday morning.

Much sympathy has been expressed for the untimely fate of a bright and industrious boy and for the bereaved parents and family.

John Jackson, Sr, a Confederate Veteran, is living at the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. Hattie Mace, on the Old Field Fork of Elk River. He is 88 years old, well preserved in mind and body. Always an active worker, he gets about easily and light on his feet. At the beginning of the war he went out with the Lexington Va. Company and as amember of the Fifth Va. Infantry fought the war through.

James Tilling, veteran of the war in South Africa and the World War, is in Marlinton for a short visit. He has lately been cooking at a camp on Williams River. In 1914 he was in Pocahontas County cooking in the camps. He went home to fight and served four years in the British armies a member of the Yorkshires.

The 87th birthday of Mrs Anna L. Price occurred Sunday July 15, 1923. She attended both Sunday School and church that day. The event was celebrated by a dinner at the home of Dr. N. R Price at which her four sons were present, Dr. J. W. Price, Andrew Price, Dr. N. R. Price and C. W. Price, her daughters are Dr. Susie A. Price and Mrs. Anna V. Hunter.

Waugh Brothers, road builders, have recently been awarded two big contracts for road construction by the Fayette County Court.

Sunday School attendance last Sunday: Methodis, 200; Presbyterian 142; Campbelltown 90.

OUT WEST

W H. Yeager, of Cheyenne, Wyoming, sends us a copy of the Wyoming State Tribune and Leader, in which appear the following news items of Pocahontas people:

Prominent among the society events of the week was a dinner, of beautiful arrangements, given at 6 o'clock Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Walter H Yeager, at their attractive home on Central avenue. The affair was a compliment to relatives visiting here from the East, and was, in reality, a delightful reunion of Wyoming and Eastern branches of the Yeager family.

A basket of garden flowers adorned the table, at which covers were laid for fourteen including Dr. P. D Arbogast, Merle, Hoyt and Gray Arbogast, and Lloyd Smith, of Morgantown, W. Va., Mrs. Andrew Drezel of Laramie, Mr, and Mrs. Roselie Burner and Rosalie Burner, Jr., Dr. Clyde Y. Beard and Mrs. Beard, Miss Eula Yeager, Messrs. Myron and Warren Yeager and the gracious hosts.

Two large automobiles left Friday morning for a day in Estes park. In the party were Dr. P. D. Arbogast, Messrs- Merle, Hoyt and Gray Arbogast, and Lloyd Smith of Morgantown, W. Va.. visiting at the Walter Yeager home. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Burner and their house guest, Mrs. Andrew Drezel of Laramie, Mrs. Louise Gladwell, Dr, Clyde Y. Beard and Mrs. Beard, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Yeager. They plan to take luncheon at the Stanley.

Dr. P. D. Arbogast and three sons, Merle, Hoyt and Gray Arbogast and Lloyd Smith. all of Morgantown, W. Va, are visiting for a few days with relatives in Cheyenne, Dr. Arbogast is a brother-in-law of Rosalie E. Burner and a cousin of Dr. Clyde Y. Beard and Walter H. Yeager of this city. The party is traveling by automobile and at the conclusion of the Cheyenne visit, will leave for Los Angeles, later touring Oregon, Washington and Yellowstone National park.

HUMAN NATURE

Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi said in a Washington address: "I am an optimist, but at the same time I always remember that human nature is human nature. Some optimists don't.

"Judge Dallas Sanderson remarked learnedly to a jury in the midst of a case he was trying one morning:

"Gentlemen of the jury, I would have you bear in mind that a witness may contradict himself without being a liar or having any intention of committing perjury. I, for example, would have sworn when I entered the court this morning that I had my watch in my vest pocket; but now I recall that I left it lying on the chiffonier in my room at home,

"Well, when the Judge arrived home that evening, his wife said to him:

"Dallas dear, what in the world made you so silly about that watch of yours sending eight or nine men for it!''

"Eight or nine men!' gasped Judge Sanderson. Goodness gracious! What did you do?'

"Why. of course,' his wife answered, 'I gave it to the first man who called for it.''

DURBIN

Children's Day at the M. E. Church South was a fine success. All the children did well.

S. H. Hiner has moved into the Dr. P. D. Arbogast house which he recently purchased.

William Stone has moved into the Hiner building.

W. W. Galford of Wesley Chapel neighborhood was visiting J. L. Hudson over Sunday.

F. B. Gragg's son returned from the hospital Saturday. He had been operated for appendicitis.

H. M. Widney has returned from a trip to Boston.

Mrs Sam Williams of Morgantown, is visiting friends here this week.

Mrs. C. K. Livesay and children of Marlinton, visited her sister, Mrs. C. R. Beard, here last week.

Glen Wonders of Morgantown. has been with his brother, C. B. Wonders, the past week.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Austin Nottingham, at eleven o'clock a. m. July, 4, 1923, when Miss Ula Nottingham became the wife of Benny Moore. A large number of relatives and friends were present. After the ceremony a bountiful dinner was served. They received many presents. The young couple will make their home at Nottingham, where Mr. Moore has a job of sawing for the North Fork Lumber Co.

Over in Highland county a little son of S. B. Rexrode was so severely bitten by a ground hog as to require the attention of a physician. The Recorder says that the family dog tossed the groundhog so close to the little boy that it bit him on the leg below the knee.

Married, at the Manse, Marlinton, Monday, July 16, 1923, Hubert Bernard Slaven and Miss Jessie Edith Holesapple, Rev. H. H. Orr, officiating minister. These are popular young people of Marlinton.

There will be singing at West Union the first Sunday afeernoon in August at two o'clock, Everybody is invited to come and help in this good work.

Dr. J. E. Flow is holding a series of meetings at Mary's Chapel on Elk. He has with him as song leader. Miss McAlphin, a daughter of a missionary to Japan.

DIED

Clyde Faulknier died on Saturday. July 14, 1923, at Marlinton, after an illness of several weeks duration, aged 28 years 7 months and 6 days. Burial on Monday afternoon at Mt. View Cemetery, after services at the Methodist church conducted by Rev. J. H Billingsley. The burial was in charge of the order of Modern Woodmen.

The deceased was the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Faulknier, of Marlinton. He is survived by his parents, his wife and their two small children, and a number of brothers and sisters, among them being Guy R. Faulknier and Mrs. C C. Riley.

Mr. Faulknier was a hard working citizens, a consistent christion and a member of the Methodist Church.

BEAR ATTACKS STEER

The Highland Recorder says that John and Arch Rivercomb and other Highland citizens were camping on North River recently, and were aroused by stampeding cattle. Hearing a steer bawl in the woods nearby they went to it and found a two year old steer being eaten alive by an immense black bear. Upon the approach of the men the bear growled, but went of reluctantly. The steer had a hole torn in his shoulder as big as a nail keg.

FROM HIGHLAND RECORDER

Mrs, Susan Crummett is visiting her daughter, Mrs. B. F. White at Minnehaha Springs

Ers. W. E. Gum of Monterey was notified last Friday of the death of her sister, Mrs. Robert Maltby, at her home in Cumberland, Md On their arrival it was learned that Mrs. Maltby had fallen down the stairway sustaining injuries from which a blood clot on the brain had resulted, causing her death on Friday morning

Mr. and Mrs Harry Taylor of Dunmore, were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Gilmore.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sydenstricker and Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Slaven of Marlinton, W. Va, Motored to Highland Saturday, spending the night in McDowell and greeting old friends in Monterey as they returned Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E McKeever announce the marriage of their daughter Mary Lynette to Mr. Everette M. Curtis on Wednesday the twenty-seventh of June nineteen hundred and twenty three, Ashland, Kentucky. At home after July sixteenth, 2544 Third Avenue, Huntington, West Virginia.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.
C. M. Hanna, Assistant
Sunday School 9:45
11 00 a m Preaching by pastor "God's Desires."
11.00 a m Preaching at Lower Church, Buckeye, Rev. C. M. Hanna
3 00 p m. Preaching at Green Hill School house by Rev. H. H. Orr
3 30 p m Junior Christian Endeavor
7 15 p m Senior Christian Endeavor
8.00 p m "The Choice of Moses" by C. M. Hanna

Prayer meeting at Swago Church Thursday night at 8 o'clock by C. M. Hanna.

Prayer meeting at Hannah School house on Bucks Run Friday night at 8 o'clock, by C. M. Hanna.

Services at the Episcopal Church Sunday night a 8 o'clock.
G. J. Cleaveland.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

J. Herndon Billingsley, Pastor.
Sunday School 9:45 a. m.
A. S. Overholt, Supt.
11:00 a. m. Preaching, Subject—"Revival Wanted"
Epworth League 7 p m.
Preaching 7:45 p m. Subject "Revival Realized"
Prayer and praise meeting Wednesday evening at 7 45.
Cordial welcome to all

SEEBERT CHARGE, M. E. SOUTH

R O. Hipes, Pastor.
1100 a m Preaching at Seebert
Epworth League 7 15 p m.
3 30 p m. Preaching at Trinity
8 00 p m. Preaching, as Marvin Chapel
All are welcome,

WESLEY CHAPEL M. E. SOUTH

Hillsboro, West Virginia
W. Clark Early, Pastor.
9:45 a m, Sunday School
F. P. Kidd, Superintendent
11 00 a m. Sermon: "The Call to Preach"
3 30 p m Preaching at Sharon.
8 00 p m Epworth League.

CARD OF THANKS

We are unable to express in words our appreciation for the kindness, help, and sympathy shown us in the sickness, death and burial of our husband, son and brother, Clyde W Faulknier. Especially the pastor, doctors, nurses, those staying with the sick child, for the flowers, for the friends, for everything May the Good Father bless you every one.

Mrs. Faulknier and the Faulknier families.

The Peoples Store

Another car of Genasco Roofing just received.

Sherwin-Williams Paint in stock

Come in

Peoples Store & Supply Company
Marlinton, West Virginia

GOOD intentions long deferred are oft-neglected

The erection of a final tribute to our loved ones should be given prompt attention. The esteem in which they were held should be evidenced by a fitting memorial.

Care should be taken, however, to select a material which is not only beautiful, but which can retain forever its original beauty.

GEORGIA MARBLE possesses this attribute. It is formed of tiny overlapping crystals, making it non-absorbent and giving it the essential qualities of beauty, strength and durability.

Its beauty and evenness of texture and its adaptability to design, makes GEORGIA MARBLE the ideal monumental material.

We will show you designs for beautiful memorials in GEORGIA MARBLE

SOUTHERN MARBLE & GRANITE CO.

GEORGIA MARBLE

See Z. S. SMITH, Our Authorized Agent,
MARLINTON, - - - - - WEST VIRGINIA

For your needs in Monuments and Tombstones. Prices lower than else where work and material guaranteed.

BACK FROM FAYETTE

Mrs. A. L. Wooddell, of Cass, returned from a five weeks' stay with her sons in Fayette Gounty—Grover C., Frank and Crawsold. She was accompanied by her grand daughter, Miss Georgia Wooddell, of Marlinton. She brings the good news that her son Frank, who was so desperately ill last winter, is fast recovering his usual good health.

Mrs. Wooddell took in the Billy Sunday revival at Beckley, at which the churches were recruited by more than fourteen hundred additional members. She thinks Dr. Sunday one grand preacher.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Truman Mace, on Elk, July 9, a daughter.

MARLINTON LIFS, BUT INHABITANTS DO NOT

To the Editor of the Telegram—Sir: Being on my summer vacation I am sending you from this place my next Sunday's church notice for publication.

I wonder how many thousands of dollars the farmers of West Virginia lose yearly by leaving their machinery exposed to the weather the year round or by storing the stuff in leaky sheds?

Marlinton lies mostly on the western side of the Greenbrier river, but Andy Price, the capable editor of the Times, says that the inhabitants lie on neither side, as Democrats go Andy ought to be believed.

The other evening a homely native and I ran up to the Minnehaha Springs ten miles away where nine elk and ourselves saw one another with evidences of mutual interest.

I would like to tell you of Judge Summers Sharp's rise from obscurity to power and influence, of the county that has a frost in it every day in the year, of a town where the people go to church every Sunday—or afishing, and of several fine bass which I failed to induce to bite my lizard-baited hook this morning

Off to Virginia at 5 a.m. tomorrow.

Yours truly,
N. L. G. ANDERSON.
Marlinton,—Clarksburgh Telegram.

Notice

We have a lot of young fat chickens to sell. Reasonable prices. We will buy your young chickens, if they are poor or fat, will be all right.

Marlinton Poultry Yard
Marlinton, W. Va.

CECIL DeMILLE
Production
"Fools Paradise"

With Dorothy Dalton, Mildred Harris, Conrad Nagel Theodore Kosloff, John Davidson, Julia Faye and many other notables.

Poor and Blind, he though himself a famous post. married to a famous dancer. But when his sight returned and he found his book of poems was a cook book and his a common woman he hated-what then?

A soul-stirring story running through thrills in Mexico, France and Siam-through Texas Border strife and dances and rites of the Surpassing All Else The Screen Has Prod uced Of Layished Entertainment.

AMUSU THEATRE

WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY

NINE REELS ADMISSION 20c and 30c

FRIDAY—William Russell in "Strength of the Pines" and Ruth Roland in "The Timber Queen"

SATURDAY—Marion Davies in 'Enchantment". Many claim it the equal of "When Knighthood Was In Flower" with same star and director.

Added Attraction: Beb Turpin in "Step Forward".

(This picture will be run at Cass Theatre Friday)

NEXT WEEK—'The Woman In His House'' Viola Dana in "They Like Them Rough" Thomas Meighan in "Cappy Ricks"

Watch for "Trifling Women"

TRIANGLE GARAGE

Buick Parts, Gasoline, Oils and Accessories
Buick Service, Battery Sales and Service Station

CALL US FOR BUICK PARTS

Clyde G. Bussard, Propr.

The Genuine Bruner Suitings

FOR FALL AND WINTER 1923-24 ON DISPLAY

For fine Tailoring, come in and inspect them.

W. A. THIEDE, Tailor
MARLINTON, W. VA.

HANLINE BROS.
LEAD AND ZINC
READY MIXED PAINT GUARANTEED

AS PURE AS PAINT CAN BE MADE

FOR SALE BY DEALERS EVERYWHERE

Dealers Supplied By
S. B. WALLACE & CO.
Marlinton, W. Va.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THURSDAY JULY 19, 1923

A young person of average or high school intelligence asked me the other day if I fought in the Civil War. A civil question deserves a civil answer. Well, she did not get it. I was not offended because of the imputation of great age, for I have not reached that stage in life where a thing like that annoys me. I think it is all a figment anyway. I think everyone desires to be thought older than he actually is. I know that it is almost a mania with colored people. What troubled me about this come-on was that she could be so cloudy on historical matters concerning her birthplace. That she had not visualized the great events that took place on her playgrounds, and those of so comparative recent dates that the farmers of the Valley are still making use of enrichment of the soil occasioned by the blood of American soldiers. It is enough to make the bread bitter

"For I remember stopping by the way
To watch a Potter thumping his wet
Clay:
And with its all-obliterated Tongue
It murmured—"Gently, Brother, gently, pray!"

The occasion of the remark was her effort to appear interested in a dry as dust exposition of the part that this section of the country played in that the second greatest of all wars How when the United States blew up with a force that almost jarred the gates of Heaven; and the North put armies in the field, and to South did likewise, they all converged on Pocahontas County, and the people of these mountains took the first shock of the war very much as did Belgium in the World War. I should not blame the child so much, for with all of us the past amalgamates and the War of the Roses, the Persian wars, and General Joshua's campaign all run together in the solid past.

The way I figure it out is that I am just about the same age that Withers was when he wrote the Border Warfare about the Indian warriors west of the main Alleghany sixty years after. He had the same opportunity to serve by listening that I had concerning the Civil War. First hand information acquired before listening became a lost art. A writer pointed out the other day that Socrates and Johnson and Ruskin had a faithful coterie of expert listeners, supporting them heroically and playing into their hands all through the time it took to speak the piece. And it is pointed out now any kind of audience is hard to find and harder to keep, and about all that conversationalists can do is to talk to each other and to divide the time, a give and take affair of lengthy soliloquies delivered approximately turn and turn about.

I got wise to that long ago and took to saying it with type writers.

In the instance under discussion I had broken my rule and the little lady was feigning an interest and meant to ask a helpful question. But it broke up the meeting. I pointed out that of all our mutual friends that Mr. E. D. King, who was eleven years old when the war broke out and who before it was ended rode with Mosby, was the youngest who could qualify in that respect. And as it was apparent another question trembled on her lips as to whether Mr. King or myself was the older, I hastily closed the conversation myself.

But the time is at hand when that war will be a sealed book. The old soldiers are getting saarce. They lived beautiful lives. I have seen the animosity flicker and die out and the veterans become cordial with each other.

"For some we loved, the loveliest and the best
That from his Vintage rolling Time has pressed,
Have drunk their Cup a-Round or two before,
And one by one crept silently to rest."

This part of the country is about to be developed by great tourist sight seeing roads. James A. Moffet came here about eleven years ago. The year before he died. He remarked that this country was far ahead of anything else in the country in the way of natural scenery that if the time ever came that good roads could be built through these mountains that all the world would come to see them. At that time it seemed hopeless for roads were purely local affairs but it came to pass that we changed the constitution and mortgaged the future. The steam shovel has changed the face of the country, and in a few years the children of Israel will be skyhooting through here dry shod, and if by that time there is anyone who gives a damn about the winning of the west, the Revolutionary war, or the putting down of the Rebellion, it would be well to have a country as rich historically as this one to have the record so plainly marked that even he who runs may read. There is hardly a mile of this mountain country that has not been the scene some great event in the history of the country.

Anything that can take the mind away from past regret and future fears is not to be despised in the scheme of life.

Recently I have been refreshing my memory as to campaigns in this county in the Civil War.

The residents of this county had two strenuous periods. The first was the campaign of 1861, when the armies marched and counter marched over these roads, and two battles were fought in the upper end of the county, the battle of Greenbrier River and the battle of the Top of Alleghany. That year the Confederates had all the best of it and they invested and maintained control of the county pretty much until the 6th day of November, 1863, when they left and have not been back since as an army of occupation. Court adjourned in 1861 until the next regular term which was to meet in 1865.

In the first year of the war, Gen. R. E. Lee was here in person and he was the outstanding personality, and in 1863, Gen. Averell, of the Union army, was the great personage.

Gen. Lee arrived here in July, 1861. The Union Army had dug in at Elkwater, on Tygarts Valley River after the battles of Rich Mountain, Laurel Hill, and Carricks Ford, which campaign of fighting ended July 13th. At Elkwater were about nine thousand Union soldiers, with Clarksburg and Grafton as their base of supplies.

The reason of this great force, (about as large an army as could be handled in the trough like valleys of the Alleghanies) standing on the defensive was the two Confederate armies in Pocahontas county. A great camp had been established on the White Farm, then Herold's, near Minnehaha Springs and the Huntersville and Warm Springs pike called Camp Northwest. In July Gen. Loring occupied that camp with eighty-five hundred men composed of three Tennessee regiments, Colonels Maney, Hatton, and Savage; Mumford's battalion of Virginia State Regulars; 48th Virginia, Col. Campbell; W. H. F. Lee's cavalry; Gillian's Virginia infantry regiment; Lee's sixth North Carolina; Burk's Virginia infantry; a regiment of Georgia infantry; two batteries of artillery commanded by Marye and Stanley. At the same time Gen. H. R. Jackson was encamped at Marlinton with six thousand Confederates as follows: 12th Georgia, Col. A. Johnston; 1st Georgia, Col. Ramsey, three Virginia regiments, Cols. Scott, Fulkerson, and Baldwin; one Arkansas infantry regiment, Col. Rust; Anderson's and Shoemaker's batteries and Major Jackson's cavalry.

These troops are set out in this detail for as far as I know they have not been listed for local publications heretofore.

Gen. Reynolds commanded the forces at Elkwater, and the two sides were planning a great battle.

This was just on the eve of the first battle of Bull Run, July 21, 1861, when thirty thousand Confederates under Beauregard defeated forty thousand Union soldiers under Mc Dowell.

It was at this time that Gen. R. E. Lee got his first step up. It has been a great question why Lee was put over Loring, when Loring had out ranked him in the service, both in the Union service and in the Confederacy. It is probable that there being two armies in Pocahontas County camped within ten miles of each other that neither Gen. Loring nor Gen. H. R. Jackson could be prefered over the other and therefore a third man was selected with instructions to consolidate the two armies and march on to Clarksburg and Grafton.

Gen. R. E. Lee joined his command at Marlinton in July and spent the first night in a tent in the Civil War at this place. The day that he arrived he was riding horseback on the road above the bridge along the Saw Mill Meadow (Riverside annex) and it was here that he froze a soldier. Woods Price's home was at this place He was a senior at Washington College, and had cut commencement and the examinations in part, though he had gone far enough in the finals to win the Robinson orator's medal. He went back just fifty years after and got his diploma and the medal. He was in the service and he thought it fit and proper at welcome the distinguished general to our fair community, so when the lonely general had passed up the road the young Confederate full of enthusiasm and beans spurred up and overtook the General and told him how glad he was to see him, but that old warrior just glared at him and never said a word

When Lee took command he marched the two armies to the long grassy slope that lies between the Gatewood mansion and the top of Middle Mountain close to the Randolph County line, and prepared to sweep out of his way the federal forces under Reynolds some twelve or fifteen miles north. The strategy seemed to give Lee the next move on the checker-board of war, and it was to send a part of his force under Loring to the Staunton & Parkersburg pike across Cheat bridge and when he should have broken through there to assail Reynolds on the rear left flank, while Lee brought his army north on the Marlins Bottom and Huttonsville turnpike, but this plan was unworkable because the federals said that Loring should not pass and he was not able to pass.

The battle staged was never fought. There was a great scourge of typhoid in the Big Springs camp that summer. The troops were green and not skilled in the art of camping. The old timers say that in the fall there came the biggest night of rain that they ever saw and that in the morning both armies were falling back in great haste and disorder, with drowning Confederates in Elk river, and drowning Union soldiers in Tygarts Valley River. The activities of this year, 1861, culminated in the battle of the Top of Alleghany, December 13th And the Confederates controlled this valley so much so that in nearly all the plans for a new state to be carved out of Virginia, Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties were left out, and only got in at the last moment in the final and successful plan.

Whe year of 1862 was comparatively peaceful in the valley of the Greenbrier, so far as any clashes between the regular forces were concerned, but Washington was paying attention to the Western Waters for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad was moving the powers for the creation of a new state and the fact that the mountains were occupied by Confederate forces greatly contributed to the success of their armies in the Valley and beyond. So they sent Averell, and he having accomplished the task that was given him to do and covered himself with an imperishable glory, subdued all of the mountains between May 16, 1863, and September 23, 1864, when he was summarily removed from command in favor of anothergeneral, and Averell wrote a most indignant letter Gen. Sheridan, whose order relieved him, charging rank favoritism which "trampling upon my record and all military courtesy and justice, consigned me to the ignominy of idleness."

I did not come upon this till lately and I was of the same opinion as Averell that the seat warmers in Washington had got him.

Averell was the son of a farmer who had cleared his own land. Averell taught school at the age of sixteen, went to West Point, graduated in 1855, led his class in horsemanship Served in at least twenty-five battles with the Navajo Indians, was wounded and was mentioned in general orders several times for gallantry in action

He had orders to subdue the mountains He took the infantry that he found and put them on horseback and after that he was here and there and everywhere. His program was interrupted as the first thing he had to do with his flying squadrons was to harrass Gen. Lee who was getting back from his trip after supplies in Pennsylvania. He was detained around Winchester until August 5th, when he worked as far south as the White Sulphur Springs and fought a drawn battle at Dry Creek or Rocky Gap, and he got to Beverly August 31, 1863, in good order. September and October were spent in training and sending out scouting parties, and on November 1. he moved southward again and it was on this trip that he fought the battle of Droop Mountain, in this county, which was the most important battle from the standpoint of troops engaged slaughter, and results that has ever been fought on the Western Waters, with the possible exception of Point Pleasant in 1774, an occurrence that many historians place as one of the decisive battles of the world.

It was on the Droop Mountain trip that Averell put the Confederates out of the Greenbrier Valley and after that most of what we did to him in these parts was to fire and fall back.

On that expedition Averell's army was made up of the following troops, all mounted: Twenty-eighth Ohio Volunteer Infantry, Col. A. Moor: Tenth West Virginia Volunteer infantry, Col. T. M Harris; Second West Virginia Mounted Infantry, Col. A. Scott; Third West Virginia Mounted Infantry, Col. F. W. Thompson; Eighth West Virginia Mounted Infantry, Col. J. H. Ohley; Fourteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry, Col J. N. Schoonmaker; Gibson's Battalion and Batteries B and G; First West Virginia Light Artillery, They marched by Cheat Bridge, Bartow, and Greenbank to Huntersville where they arrived on November 4, 1863.

Here he heard that a regiment of Confederates six hundred strong under Col. Wm. Thompson were camped at Marlins Bottom. This was noon Wednesday. Averell sent two regiments down the Beaver Creek road to the ford at the mouth of Beaver Creek to cut off Thompson at Mill Point, and two regiments and a battery down the pike by Knapps Creek to encircle the Confederates, out by nine o'clock that night a dispatch was received from Col. Schoonmaker to the effect that Col. Thompson had beaten him to it and had joined Jackson in the Levels Averell got the rest of his troops under way about three a. m. from Huntersville and by eight o'clock a. m. he arrived in Mill Point, and found that his enemy was retiring. Averell says he was thirty-four miles from Lewisburg and that he was due there Saturday at two p. m. to join a force marching to meet him, and Averell decided that if he forced the Confederates through to Lewisburg that it might endanger his allies, and that it would be better to go slow, so no pressing forward was done that day, and the Confederates withdrew. from the open fields in the Levels and took a stand on the brow of the Droop Mountain overlooking the Levels the point that the pike crosses. They were drawn up to give battle, and the armies lay that night in plain view of each other's camp fires. Next day was battle day, Friday the 6th.

On the mountain, the Confederate forces consisted of the Fourteenth Virginia Cavalry, Twenty-Second Virginia Infantry, Derrick's Battalion, Edgar's Battalion, Jackson's Brigade, and seven pieces of artillery in all about four thousand men. Schoonmaker and his Pennsylvania troops were ordered to go to the side of the mountain next to the mouth of Locust Creek and make a feint of attacking the Confederates from the east. Col. Moor was given the main business of winning the battle and was sent with 1175 men out along the Lobelia road before daylight. They got to the top of Droop mountain the crest of which is even and unbroken for miles and this crest led them into conflict with the Confederates, in the most severe rifle fire, at 1:45 p. m. Averell sent all the rest of his troops then up the face of the mountain obliquely, but before they had arrived the Confederates had been driven from their temporary breast-works and were in headlong retreat. The battle was over at 3 p. m.

The Confederate forces were commanded by Gen. Echols, and he retired to Dublin, Virginia, where he was joined by Imboden

Averell reached Lewisburg by Saturday at 2 p. m. and there found General Duffie and army from the Kanawha section waiting him with some prisoners they had captured retreating from Droop Mountain.

Averell went back by Mountain Grove and Hightown, through Petersburg, West Virginia, to New Creek, in Hampshire county, from which place in the month of December he made a dive into the heart of the Confederacy and destroyed the stores at Salem, Virginia, and was able to extricate his army without serious loss.

It is such heroic facts as gathered and retailed by me that lead young persons to think that I must have been present and acting.

"And we that now make merry in the Room
They left, and Summer dresses in new bloom,
Ourselves must we beneath the Couch of Earth
Descend—ourselves to make a Couch—for whom?"

ANNOUNCEMENT

G. CARL MARSHALL
COLLECTION AGENC
Reasonable Rates. Your business solicited
Marlinton, W. Va.

WRIGLEY'S

After Every Meal

Have a packet in your pocket for ever-ready refreshment.

Aids digestion.
Allays thirst.
Soothes the throat.

For Quality, Flavor and the Sealed Package, get

THE FLAVOR LASTS

A share of your business solicited

T. S. McNEEL
INSURANCE AND BONDS
Marlinton W. Va.

Successor to Goodsell Insurance Agency

Life, Fire and Accident, Automobiles and Live Stock, Bonds of all kinds, Money to Loan on Farms.

Office 2nd floor, First National Bank Building.

Farm For Sale

75 acres two miles north of Cass: 50 acres cleared, 72 acres under good fence; two good springs and running water through the place; two good young orchards bearing fruit; good five room house and good outbuildings 2 good work horses; 2 good milk cows, 16 head of sheep; 1 mowing machine, 1 buggy rake. Will sell all for less than farm is worth. My reason for selling is I am not able to run the farm. For further information come and see J. L. Gragg, Cass W. Va.

House for Sale

13 room house for sale in Marlinton; Located on Third Avenue, one block from Main Street. A good home for any one, and especially adapted as a boarding house. Apply to Allan Gay, or Miss Susie A. Gay, Marlinton, W. Va.

For Sale

Five Herford bulls, full bred, registered, 1 year old.
2 black polled bulls, 1 year old.
1 Guersey bull, full bred, can be registered.—Apply to J. H. Mackey, Monterey, Va.

Notice

My wife, Mary J. Fitzpatrick, having left my home without cause, this is to notify all parties that I will be responsible for no debts she may contract.

This 25th of June 1923.
William Fitzpatrick

BATHING and BOATING
Afternoons and Evenings
- at -
POCAHONTAS COUNTY FAIR GROUNDS

Picnic Parties Welcomed

Anyone wanting a picnic basket prepared for Sunday or holidays, please notify J. HERBERT VAUGHAN, Marlinton, in advance.

Gates Open at 1 o'clock p. m.

MOTOR SERVICE
- TO -
ALLEGHENY CLUB

Round Trip to Minnehaha Springs $3.50

Phone the Allegheny Club, at Minnehaha Springs.

Notice—Belled Cows

It is against the law for cows to run at large in the town of Marlinton with bells on. The noise in the night time disturbing sick and nervous people.

R. K. BURNS,
Chief of Police.

ESTRAY HORSE

A black mare has been at the Uriah Hevener place, near Arbovale, since about June 1. Looks to be 11 years old. Owner can have same by paying cost of keep and cost of adv. $1. adv

NOTICE

This is to notify all persons concerned that QUEEN is MY dog.
BUSTER ESKRIDGE.

Money to Loan at 5 1-2 percent

The Pocahontas County Farm Loan Association of Marlinton, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, has money to loan to farmers on farm land, on easy terms.

Call on the undersigned and fill out an application blank.

P. T. WARD, Sec.-Treas.

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE
F. M. SYDNOR, Manager
HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC
Marlinton, West Virginia.

Trustees' Sale of Valuable Real and Personal Property

Pursuant to authority vested in them by two deeds of trust, the one executed by J. W. Yeager and Pearl Yeager, his wife, to L. M. McClintic, Trustee, dated November 23, 1917, to secure the First National Bank of Marlinton, West Virginia, in the sum of $3,000.00, of record in the office of the clerk of the county court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in trust deed book number 10 at page 318, and the other deed of trust executed by J. W. Yeager and Pearl Yeager, his wife, to Andrew Price, Trustee, to secure J. J. Echols in the sum of $2500.00, dated January 1, 1923, of record in said office in trust deed book number 12 at page 364, the undersigned trustees on at the front door of the court house of Pocahontas County, commencing at 1 p. m., will sell at public auction to the highest bidder the following property:

Saturday, June 23, 1923,

1. A certain parcel of land composed of lots number 8, 9, and 10 in block number 37 of the proper plat of the Town of Marlinton, this being the residence property of the said J. W. Yeager. There is on this land a fine large, modern dwelling house. The house is situated near the court-house in a most desirable locality.

2. All the household and kitchen furniture contained in said dwelling as of January 1, 1923.

3 The equity owned by J. W. Yeager in two lots known as lots numbers 11 and 12 in block 37 of the proper plat of said town of Marlinton, the legal title to which lots is in the name of the Merchants and Mechanics Savings Bank of Grafton, West Virginia, and these lots are sold subject to the lien of said bank.

Terms of Sale: Cash.

L. M. McCLINTIC, Trustee
ANDREW PRICE, Trustee

This sale is continued until Tuesday, July 24, 1923, at 10 o'clock a. m.

L. M. McClintic
Andrew Price,
Trustees.

Notice

My office will be closed for 10 days, from June 29 to July 10.

Dr. E. G. Herold,
Marlinton, W. Va.

No Trespassing

The public is notified not to trespass on the lands of the undersigned in any way under penalty of the law.

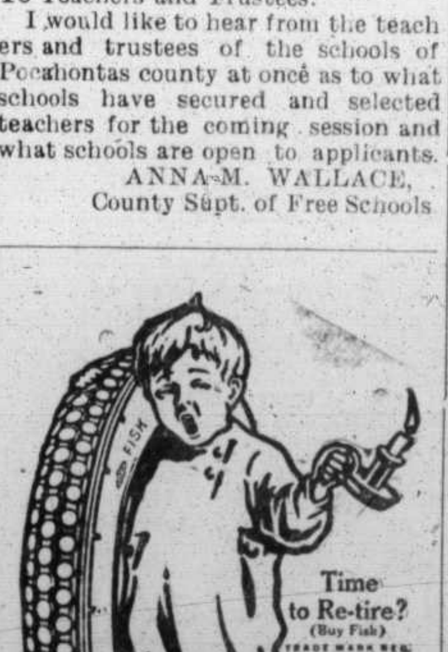
Jacob Gibson
Edray, W. Va.

NOTICE

To Teachers and Trustees:

I would like to hear from the teachers and trustees of the schools of Pocahontas county at once as to what schools have secured and selected teachers for the coming session and what schools are open to applicants.

ANNA M. WALLACE,
County Supt. of Free Schools



FISK TIRES

C. J. Richardson
Marlinton, W. Va.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

For Sale

Good dray horse, wagon and outfit. Horse will weigh 1350, sound and safe. Apply at once

Henry Simmons.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Notice

Notice is hereby given that I have sold my meat business in the Town of Marlinton to Z. S. Smith & Son who will continue the business.

All persons endebted to me will please prepare to settle at once.

R. H. McElwee
June 4, 1923

For Sale

1-4 mile of Dunmore, W. Va. 3 room house, large blacksmith shop, 5 1-4 acres of land, 16 or 17 fine apple trees bearing; close to churches, stores and school, on a rural mail route, in a good neighbor hood, and water on the place.

Will sell right for cash. If interested call on

J. A. Hively
Dunmore, W. Va.

For Sale

20 head of heavy draft horses 6 ponies, 42 to 50 inches high, 6 mules, 50 inches high.

W. Va. Pulp & Paper Co.
Cass, W. Va.

Farm For Sale

47 1-2 acres of good level land near Hillsboro, 6 room house and plenty of water. Price $3,000; one third cash and balance on good terms.

WALTER COOPER.
Hillsboro, W. Va.

Team For Sale

One grey team, 6 yrs. old, weight 3,000 lbs. broke to the woods, and farm. Good hillsiders. Also 1 bay horse, 1450 lbs. 9 yrs. old, all sound and good workers.

Austin Sharp
Frost, W. Va.

Yearlings For Sale

12 head. 6 steers and 6 heifers, beef stock, and good cattle for sale. I am short on grass. Apply to

Willie Shrader
R. F. D. box 24, Huntersville, W. Va.

Pocahontas Junk Co.
Marlinton, W. Va.

—Buyers—

Scrap iron, coppers, brass, waste paper, metals, rags, bones, beef hides, calf skins, live poultry and all waste materials.

TED McELWEE, Prop.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Executors Notice

All persons having claims against the estate of the late James Hultz, are notified to present the same proven according to law to the undersigned executors. All persons indebted to said estate will please prepare to settle at once.

This 16th of June, 1923.

J. W. HULTZ
SALLIE JONES.
Executors estate of James Hultz, deceased.

For Sale

One nine room dwelling house newly painted, and fine lot, good outbuilding, best of water at the kitchen door. In the center of Greenbank on main road. A fine place for keeping boarders for the high school, etc. If interested come and see the property, or write me.

G. W. COWGER
Greenbank, W. Va.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specialty of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

CHARLES SHINABERRY
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
All calls given prompt attention.

A. J. SHARP
AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
Phone Marlinton Central.

W. A. BARLOW
OLD RELIABLE AUCTIONEER
Onoto, W. Va.
All calls answered.

WM. O. RUCKMAN
LICENSED AUCTIONEER
Millpoint, West Virginia
A young man with the goods

Z. S. Smith
Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMER
DENTIST
Marlinton, W. Va
First National Bank Building
Office hours 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. or appointment. All work guaranteed

Baxter's Garage
MARLINTON W. VA.
FORD Cars and Supplies
FORDSON Tractors
A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.
I. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Picoting and Hem-Stitching
All orders promptly filled.
MRS. J. E. BUCKLEY,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Hogs For Sale

25 grade Poland China and Berkshire pigs, 7 and 8 weeks old $5 each. 15 thoroughbred Poland China pigs, 5 weeks old, will keep 10 weeks old, $8 without register papers and $10 with papers. 8 good fresh milk cows.

W. McClintic
Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR RENT—An eight room house near Green Bank, convenient to church, store, post office and high school. Apply to J. P. Wooddell, Green Bank, W. Va.

FOR SALE—Poland-China pigs eligible for registration of the Great Buster-Clausman breeding.—Geo. W Cleek, Warm Springs, Va.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THURSDAY, JULY 26, 1923

A rabid rabbit sends the following in regard to Sinclair Lewis, with whom he seems to be personally acquainted:

The reviewer of "Main street" does not seem to know that the author of that book is a Socialist, but he is never the less. The Marxian writer of these lines well remembers when Sinclair Lewis, a red headed stripling of 22 escaped from Princeton, and joined a camp of young forward thinkers in the west. Around the blazing fires I have heard him thank his stars that he escaped from the herd, and especially Woodrow Wilson, whose sole delight, was in keeping the herd ignorant of better pasture.

When I read "Main Street" I was puzzled as to why he wrote it, but the reason soon sifted through. He needed the money. Now he is ready to turn the full candle power on the commercial anarchy which we unblushing call a Republic.

"Babbit", his latest character, is just a sample of the sort of monster that Capitalism is capable of producing, but "Babbit" is only a starter. Keep your eyes toward the west:

Writing men have started all reforms, and I am not so sure that Sinclair Lewis is not the man who will arouse the exploited masses of America out of their lethargy. They have long been doped with the poison of a money kept press, but the day is near when they will no longer be fooled by slush, gush mush and hush.

Time is ripening for a Mrs. Stowe to again show mankind the light that leads on to better and higher things. All sorts of views are being expressed about Lewis books by people who know nothing of him or the things for which he stands.

Let me repeat: Keep your eye on this young genius from the west. His knowledge is as broad as its praries; his sympathies as deep as its canyons; and his principles as uncompromising as its wildest storms.

H. R. O.

Clarksburg, W. Va.

It is admitted that not by the eastern windows only, when the day dawns comes in the light; to the east the sun climbs slow, how slowly, but westward look the land is bright.

But that is a new one, that Sinclair Lewis, if he be a socialist, should have preached conservatism both in "Main Street," and "Babbitt." They must be clever books to be read with delight by the conservative and at the same time be claimed by the socsalist. It goes to show that everything is forgiven to genius. No age is shut against great genius.

The letter does not commend itself to me. I have still to meet a leading socialist who does not lie abed in the morning, and who finds it irksome to work. I cite him to Averell's notable expression when he complained of the "irksomeness of idleness." That is a language that none of them understand. They argue from a false premise, that labor is discomfort. They are misfits and idlers themselves and they cannot conceive that the greatest joy on earth comes to the working man when he is working, and while he is working the cares that infest the day, fold their tents like the Arabs and as silently steal away. If I could ever meet a socialist leader who could be gotton up in time for breakfast I would be willing to amend my poor opinion of the breed, or at least take up with him for days or weeks if necessary the consideration of his plans of government.

For the present it seems to me that the communists have the desires of the pirate and the courage of the worm. They want luxuries and do not have the courage to work or fight for them. Surely they drip at the mouth.

They can be visualized talking around tables and deciding in the absence of their victims that the people with homes and property will give them up without a struggle upon the determination of a vote to that effect. That we are all going to be consenting parties to our own ruin. They never were more mistaken. The Italian middle class showed them that and when the Fascists made an angry gesture, the communists not only did not fight back, but they themselves put on black shirts and denied their faith.

There can be no true socialist government for the simple reason that people will not behave and when the centurion makes them behave then there is in itself a use of force and a violation of the only principle of goverment that the socialist have in distinction with other theorists. A man under a socialist regime is not to be coerced. And yet the Russian government is the most tyrannical of any ever known, and finds it necessary to destroy lives by thousands to make people respect it. Instead of brotherly love it is force that rules Russia and it is getting no better fast.

Take heed and beware of covetousness; for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth.

The Droop Mountain battle has brought out some recollections of incidents.

Averell said that there was a local guide to show the way around to take the Confederates in the rear, and that Col. Moor found him untrustworthy and that he travelled by the sound of the cannon and the direction that the flying pickets took when they were dislodged by the advancing troops. In the last week I have heard three men mention as to the identity of this guide. It will probably never be settled for it was a matter that would be kept dark for the first years anyway, on account of the division in the sentiment of the people.

Averell camped the night before the battle along the road between Mill Point and Hillsboro, in the fields now owned by M. J. McNeel and the Captain Edgar estate. In plain view of his camp was the large brick house the home of Col. Paul McNeel, the member for Pocahontas county in the convention at Richmond that declared for secession. Col McNeel was a leader in the county at the time

That particular day in the fall of 1863, as the two armies faced each other, all the men folks in the Levels were hiding out to escape being taken prisoner, and there were no others at the mansion except women, children and slaves. Then Averell did a very graceful thing that causes him to be remembered by that family with gratitude. He sent three young gentlemen, officers in his army, and they appeared at the house, and said that they had been sent by Gen. Averell, and that they were to say that he had heard that it was the home of an elder in the Presbyterian church, and that he wanted them to know, that he, Averell was also an elder in the Presbyterian church and that they should be under no apprehension of any harm coming to them. The officer added that they were to stay with them to guard the house, and they were guests until the next morning when they moved into battle.

J. C. Wiley, a Confederate veteran still living in this county, was present at Droop Mountain, and he says that when the break came that he with other soldiers buried a brass cannon in the woods and that he intends some day to go there and see if he cannot locate it and dig it up, and he believes that he will be able to find it.

The late A. M. McLaughlin was in that battle and he was retiring in some haste through the woods alone when he came on a Union soldier who had been wounded and who was trying to shoot him. The soldier was in a sitting position with his back against a log but whenever he would lift his rifle to aim the weight of the gun would cause him to fall forward and the gun come to the ground. Whereupon the soldier would use the rifle to push himself back in a sitting position, attempt to raise the rifle, and fall forward again. The retreating Confederate seized the rifle and disarmed his adversary and took the gun and bent it around a sapling and went on. And after this story had become a household classic for some years, Mr. McLaughlin on his way back from Lewisburg searched the place and found the gun and brought it in, showing a rusted ruined firearm bent in the manner described.

Averell says that when he got to the White Sulphur Springs after the battle of Droop Mountain he recovered the wounded he had left there at the Battle of Rocky Gap, or the Battle of Dry Creek. But he did not get one of his men back without a protest. The soldiers stopped at one house where there was a convalescent soldier boy, and they were confronted by a beautiful red headed girl, and she said, "You can't have that soldier. He is mine. I captured him, and nursed him, and made him well, and he is going to stay with me. He is mine."

But they took him along with him.

Captain John K. Thompson, of Mason county, was a Confederate in that action on Droop Mountain. He says that the fire was the hottest there that he ever experienced and he was a soldier of long and fierce fighting in the war. It was there that he lost an eye. It seems that the bullet came so close to his face without touching him that the eye was drawn from the socket. Captain Thompson was afterwards Republican State chairman of West Virginia, and one of the leading men of West Virginia.

At the time of the battle, Claiborne McNeil, of Buckeye, a Confederate soldier of two years hard fighting, was at home on an indefinite leave of absence. Hearing the battle begin he climed to a height near his home, Bridgers Notch, and saw the battle, on one side of which was engaged his brother, Captain Jim McNeil, a Confederate officer, and on the other side, his half brother, Alfred McKeever.

After the battle, Alfred McKeever knowing that his half-brother, Captain Jim McNeil, had been engaged was filled with apprehension as to his safety, and searched among the Confederate dead and wounded, and then passed by the long line of prisoners, who were strung out along the pike. Presently he saw the Captain and rushed up to him with outstretched hand, saying how glad he was that he was alive and unhurt. But Captain McNeil was filled with the bitterness of defeat. He folded his arms and thus he spoke: "I am glad to know Alfred that you too are alive and well, but Alfred we are not shaking hands today."

One Confederate veteran in speaking of the dynamic effect of fear, says that it is possible in such a condition to leap Greenbrier River, which would mean perhaps a hundred feet at its narrowest place at the foot of Droop Mountain. Anyway, he says, that immediately after the battle he found himself on the east bank of the river with dry feet, and the only way that he can account for it is that he jumped the stream in his retreat.

In the spring of 1864, the Union troops called at my Grandfather Price's at the old ancestral hall at Marlinton. Averell was proceeding to police the country and to do up his work in this part of his moral vineyard. The first intimation that the family had was the sound of the wooden latch of the gate at the road falling. They looked out and the whole country from there to the bridge was blue. There were four Confederate soldiers in uniform in the house James Henry Price, J. C. Price, J. Woods Price and David D Kinnison. They ran in a southerly direction. Kinnison fell down and was captured and sent to prison. J. Woods Price was pursued to the big sycamore that stood at the mouth of Kees Run and dodged behind this, and one Union soldier came that far and as he came around the tree, the Confederate shot at him and cut a furrow across his brow, whereupon the Union soldier went back and Woods Price escaped. J. C. Price and J. H. Price took to the river, the river being in a state of flood. J. H. Price got across and had made good his escape, but J. C. Price was shot in the thigh and it looked like he might drown and J. H. Price swam back to assist him, but before he could reach the wounded man, the Union soldier that had fired the shot, a very pleasant young gentleman from the State of New York, went into the river and brought out his game. Whereupon J. C. Price was left at home to recover of a flesh wound J. H. Price was made a prisoner and spent the rest of the period of the war in an Ohio prison. He was turned out at the cessation of the war and without a cent in his pocket and walked the hundreds of miles home, and that cured him of travelling. He was wont to remark: "always have a little money in your pocket." His stories were the delight of the children. He had seen much service. been under fire where "rifle bullets fell like big drops of rain before a thunder storm," been captured, and spent a year in prison, but it had so happened that during the whole period that he had never been called upon to fire. "In the war four years and never busted a cap." He was a noted rifle shot too, but he had marched, and countermarched, and endured all sorts of hardships, but it so happened that he never was in a firing line, and he did not propose to magnify his service by intimations of great slaughter.

In 1887, Gen. Averell came to West Virginia and went over the scene of his activities in this and Randolph county with H. F. Cromer.

There seems to be some confusion as to the road that Col. Moor's men took in the flank movement. Some say that he went clear around and came to the Jacox road and from there came into the pike at its junction on top of Droop mountain, but I think that they turned at the top of the mountain between Hillsboro and Lobelia and came along on the crest of the ridge.

The strategy of the Confederate generals consisted in investing the eminence and leaving the river road wide open to Averell so that he could have passed on towards the south. but if he had tried to do so he would have had a long thin line winding though and across deep ravines, and he would have been cut to pieces from the heights above. He gave battle and won it.

An important Italian business man came in and stood by the table and put his hand on it in an oratorical style and paused to assemble his english and announced:

"I gotta da lice' from the county court. Mr. Linc' say no good. Cass not give me da lice'."

That being the nature of his complaint he produced a license from the county court to keep a restaurant, and that being a fact accomplished, he was sent back to the municipal authorities to ask them to reconsider their action on the question of license.

Once upon a time I was walking in the woods and I came upon a fairy-diddle carrying a fairy table, and it climbed an oak tree and took a seat on a limb and commenced to eat the table, when it looked around and saw me and it dropped what it was eating and it fell on the ground and broke.

Now children wait till I explain this to the professors. A sciurus hudsonicus was carrying a specimen of the agaricus campestris and it ascended a quercus alba and was in the act of consuming the succulent herb when it was startled by seeing genus homo and dropped its dinner.

In other words, a red squirrel (comicallittlecuss) was carrying a mushroom. I thought at first that it was a toad stool but it appeared upon closer examination to be an edible mushroom.

In the old days we knew no name for these middlesized squirrels except fairy-diddle and that must have been given by the old time Irish, who were fooled into believing for a moment that they had seen one of the good little people.

These red squirrels have hung around our house for over twenty years. They are about as tame as robins, showing themselves fearlessly but never letting anyone approach close enough to put salt on their tails. One was running along the garden fence the other day when a half grown boy passed along the road, and automatically flung a stone at the squirrel, which ran up a walnut tree where it chattered and scolded for a long time, and fussed and fumed, while I shooed the boy away. It carried on something terrible.

I came home the other day and saw one of them sitting in the ventilator of the foundation wall of the house, partly hid by a flowering plant, and I take it for granted that they have taken up their abode within the foundation and that they go in and out through the lattice work of the ventilators. Anyway the rats and mice seem to have all mysteriously disappeared and this probably accounts for it.

M·W·A NEWS

MARLINTON CAMP NO. 9765 meets every Thursday 8 p. m.

A. C. McCoy, Clerk

F. D. Malcomb, District Deputy

Men Wanted

To peel Hemlock Bark by contract or day. Good camp two miles from Marlinton.

MARLIN LUMBER CO.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Notice---Belled Cows

It is against the law for cows to run at large in the town of Marlinton with bells on. The noise in the night time disturbing sick and nervous people.

R. K. BURNS,
Chief of Police.

ANNOUNCEMENT

G. CARL MARSHALL
COLLECTION AGENC
Reasonable Rates. Your business solicited
Marlinton, W. Va.

A share of your business solicited

T. S. McNEEL
INSURANCE AND BONDS

Marlinton W. Va.

Successor to Goodsell Insurance Agency

Life, Fire and Accident, Automobiles and Live Stock, Bonds of all kinds, Money to Loan on Farms.

Office 2nd floor, First National Bank Building.

NO RAGS FOR HOOKED RUGS

Modern Housewife Has Not Facilities for Making Those Once Popular Floor Coverings.

The oldtime American floor covering, the hooked and braided rugs, are greatly in demand as the vogue for colonial furnishings advances. The braided rugs now on the market are made in fast colors. Present-day closets and modern methods of living do not admit of the modern housewife making rugs. She has no rags.

Cast-off garments are sold, given away or remade—never stored away in this day of hurry. The disposition of this surplus keeps the closet shelves bare. Braided rugs must be bought, although the task of braiding and sewing is not a difficult one.

Genuine hooked rugs of authentic colonial origin are getting scarcer and scarcer, and though many dealers systematically ransack the garrets of New England, the supply seems to come exclusively from those people who have been induced only by the high prices offered to part with their family treasures. There is a steady demand for these rugs, and those people who handle them for the trade find that they sell readily, and that the best specimens are snapped up in a hurry.—Kansas City Star.

NOT WORTH NEEDED EFFORT

Indianapolis Girls Refused to Make Physical Exertion Necessary to Pick Up That Dime.

A man was stopped a moment the other evening at the southwest corner of Washington and Pennsylvania streets by the press of traffic. He noticed three girls standing at the edge of the sidewalk, gazing silently at the pavement near where they stood.

This aroused his curiosity and he stepped over near them and saw a dime at the spot on which their eyes were glued. He advanced with the remark:

"I'll pick it up for you," and asked to whom it belonged.

"Me," said one of them.

Handing it to her, he asked:

"Why didn't you pick it up?"

"Didn't want to," she answered.

"And why didn't you pick it up?" he asked the second girl.

"Too tired," was her answer.

"And you?" addressing the third.

"Too lazy," was the response.

"What are your names?" he asked, and was answered, "Jane, Helen and Ruth."

"Well, mine's Bill. Good-night," and he sauntered on.—Indianapolis News.

Masked Goats.

At the Rowett Institute, Aberdeen, Scotland, a number of goats were to be recently seen wearing what appeared to be gas masks. The masks were fitted to the horns by elastic bands, and provided with an inlet valve which admitted air, and a second valve through which the outbreathed air passed into a rubber bag. The expired air was then analyzed, the amount of heat produced by the animals giving an indication of the quantity of food being used up. The masked goats were being used in a series of experiments now being carried on at the institution in order to throw light on the question of animal nutrition, and the most economical method of stock-feeding.

ESTRAY HORSE

A black mare has been at the Uriah Hevener place, near Arbovale, since about June 1. Looks to be 11 years old. Owner can have same by paying cost of keep and cost of adv. $1. adv

No Trespassing

The public is notified not to trespass on the lands of the undersigned in any way under penalty of the law.

Jacob Gibson

Edray, W. Va.

Money to Loan at 5 1-2 percent

The Pocahontas County Farm Loan Association of Marlinton, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, has money to loan to farmers on farm land, on easy terms.

Call on the undersigned and fill out an application blank.

P. T. WARD, Sec.-Treas.

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager

HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC

Marlinton, West Virginia.

BATHING and BOATING

Afternoons and Evenings

- at -

POCAHONTAS COUNTY FAIR GROUNDS

Picnic Parties Welcomed

Anyone wanting a picnic basket prepared for Sunday or holidays, please notify J. HERBERT VAUGHAN, Marlinton, in advance.

Gates Open at 1 o'clock p. m.

House for Sale

13 room house for sale in Marlinton; Located on Third Avenue, one block from Main Street. A good home for any one, and especially adapted as a boarding house. Apply to Allan Gay, or Miss Susie A. Gay, Marlinton, W. Va.

For Sale

Five Herford bulls, full bred, registered, 1 year old.

2 black polled bulls, 1 year old.

1 Guersey bull, full bred, can be registered.—Apply to J. H. Mackey, Monterey, Va.

Farm For Sale

75 acres two miles north of Cass: 50 acres cleared, 72 acres under good fence; two good springs and running water through the place; two good young orchards bearing fruit; good five room house and good outbuildings

2 good work horses; 2 good milk cows, 16 head of sheep; 1 mowing machine, 1 buggy rake.

Will sell all for less than farm is worth. My reaoon for selling is I am not able to run the farm.

For further information come and see J. L. Gragg, Cass W. Va.

NOTICE

To Teachers and Trustees:

I would like to hear from the teachers and trustees of the schools of Pocahontas county at once as to what schools have secured and selected teachers for the coming session and what schools are open to applicants.

ANNA M. WALLACE,
County Supt. of Free Schools.

NOTICE

The following fiduciary is before me for settlement: Pearl Spinks, admr. Henry C. Spinks, deceased.

Given under my hand this 13th day of June, 1923.

J. E. Buckley,
Commissioner of Accounts.

C. J. Richardson

Marlinton, W. Va.

LICENSE TAG LOST—W. Va. Auto License Tag No. 58,648, between Marlintoa and top of Allegheny Mountain. Finder please return to Times, Marlinton, W. Va.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

For Sale

Good dray horse, wagon and outfit. Horse will weigh 1350, sound and safe. Apply at once

Henry Simmons.

Marlinton, W. Va.

Notice

Notice is hereby given that I have sold my meat business in the Town of Marlinton to Z. S. Smith & Son who will continue the business.

All persons endebted to me will please prepare to settle at once.

R. H. McElwee

June 4, 1923

For Sale

1-4 mile of Dunmore, W. Va. 3 room house, large blacksmith shop, 5 1-4 acres of land, 16 or 17 fine apple trees bearing; close to churches, stores and school. on a rural mail route, in a good neighbor hood, and water on the place.

Will sell right for cash. If interested call on

J. A. Hively

Dunmore, W. Va.

For Sale

20 head of heavy draft horses 6 ponies, 42 to 50 inches high, 6 mules, 50 inches high.

W. Va. Pulp & Paper Co.

Cass, W. Va.

Farm For Sale

47 1-2 acres of good level land near Hillsboro, 6 room house and plenty of water. Price $3,000; one third cash and balance on good terms.

WALTER COOPER.
Hillsboro, W. Va.

Team For Sale

One grey team, 6 yrs. old, weight 3,000 lbs. broke to the woods, and farm. Good hillsiders. Also 1 bay horse, 1450 lbs. 9 yrs. old, all sound and good workers.

Austin Sharp

Frost, W. Va.

Yearlings For Sale

12 head. 6 steers and 6 heifers, beef stock, and good cattle for sale. I am short on grass. Apply to

Willie Shrader

R.F. D. box 24, Huntersville, W. Va.

Pocahontas Junk Co.

Marlinton, W. Va.

—Buyers—

Scrap iron, coppers, brass, waste paper, metals, rags, bones, beef hides, calf skins, live poultry and all waste materials.

TED McELWEE, Prop.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Executors Notice

All persons having claims against the estate of the late James Hultz, are notified to present the same proven according to law to the undersigned executors. All persons indebted to said estate will please prepare to settle at once.

This 16th of June, 1923.

J. W. HULTZ
SALLIE JONES,
Executors estate of James Hultz, deceased.

For Sale

One nine room dwelling house newly painted, and fine lot. good outbuilding, best of water at the kitchen door. In the center of Greenbank on main road. A fine place for keeping boarders for the high school, etc. If interested come and see the property, or write me.

G. W. COWGER
Greenbank, W. Va.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals.

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties. and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON. W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specially of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

CHARLES SHINABERRY.
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
All calls given prompt attention.

A. J. SHARP
AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
Phone Marlinton Central.

W. A. BARLOW
OLD RELIABLE AUCTIONEER
Onoto, W. Va.
All calls answered.

WM. O. RUCKMAN
LICENSED AUCTIONEER
Millpoint, West Virginia
A young man with the goods

Z. S. Smith
Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMER
DENTIST
Marlinton, W. Va
First National Bank Building
Office hours 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. or appointment. All work guaranteed

Baxter's Garage
MARLINTON W. VA.
FORD Cars and Supplies
FORDSON Tractors
A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.
I. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Picoting and Hem-Stitching
All orders promptly filled.
MRS. J. E. BUCKLEY,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Hogs For Sale

25 grade Poland China and Berkshire pigs, 7 and 8 weeks old $5 each. 15 thoroughbred Poland China pigs, 5 weeks old, will keep 10 weeks old, $8 without register papers and $10 with papers. 8 good fresh milk cows.

W. McClintic

Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR RENT—An eight room house near Green Bank, convenient to church, store, post office and high school. Apply to J. P. Wooddell, Green Bank, W. Va.

FOR SALE—Poland-China pigs eligible for registration of the Great Buster-Clausman breeding.—Geo. W Cleek, Warm Springs, Va.

Small Accounts

FREQUENTLY prospective customers hesitate to open commercial accounts, because they deem a small account may not be acceptable to the bank.

THE success of this Bank, and the growth of its customers' accounts, we believe to be largely based upon the care and attention we have given to small accounts started here.

BANK OF MARLINTON

MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA

The Bank of Safety and Service

LOCAL MENTION

Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Herold were at White Sulphur over Sunday.

Harlow Waugh spent a few days in Highland county this week.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Sydenstricker are guests at the home of Andrew Price.

G. D. McNeill was at home from Concord Normal for a few days this week.

Allen P. Edgar was over at Charlottesville last week to have his eyes treated.

Mrs. Winston Herold, of Minnehaha Springs, is at the Marlinton Hospital for treatment.

Mr and Mrs. Luther Kramer, of Ronceverte, were guests at the home of J. A. Jydenstricker over Sunday.

Mrs. Anna L. Price is at Minnehaha Springs, for a week or two with her daughter, Mrs. F. R. Hunter.

Odey H. Reynolds started on Monday for his home in California after a short visit to his mother, Mrs. Hubert Echols.

Mrs. Ernest Hansel, of Mebbin, North Carolina, is with her sister, Mrs. Elmer Moore, at Minnehaha Springs.

R. W. Brown, of Arbovale, was in Marlinton last Friday night to assist in the installation of officers of the Oddfellow Lodge.

Miss Evelyn Covington, of Reedsville, Virginia, returned to her home Monday after a visit to her friend, Miss Mary Eskridge.

J. Lanty McNeel was over at the Lunsford Stock Farm in Highland County last week, and bought a flock of pure bred Shropshire Sheep.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Doyle, of East Bank, are spending the week with Mr. Doyles father, Harvey Doyle, at Linnwood. They came through the country in their automobile.

T. S. McNeel has moved back to Marlinton, his family and the last of the plunder arriving saturday evening. To say that we welcome them back is a mild expression of our happiness over their return.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Cooper and family, of Cass, were the guests of H. Kelmenson and Louis Cooper over Sunday. The three families formed a party to Minnehaha Springs in the afternoon.

Col. N. W. de Krafft, of Amelia Court House, Virginia, is here to spend some time with his daughter Mrs. E. M. Richardson. Though a Confederate veteran, he is still young and spry. Old Virginia never tire.

Andrew Wade and son Hugh of, Lexington, Virginia, have returned home after a short visit in the home of Elmer H. Wade. They were accompanied by Mrs. Jennie A. Wade. and Miss Edna Wade. Mr. Wade's cashier of the Rockbridge National Bank.

William Bean, of Hinton, has a position in Kee & McNeill's drug store.

Mrs. F. M. Sydnor and Miss Rebecca Sydnor are visiting in Lewisburg this week.

Miss Mary Miller and Harry Miller, of Oak Hill, are visiting their aunt, Mrs. F. B. Malcomb.

Mrs. Willie Rucker Standifer, of Norfolk, Va., is with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Rucker.

F. K. Moore, of Back Alleghany, was in town Tuesday, and bought a Dodge automobile.

Gray McLaughlin has returned from summer school at Marshall College. Also Neff Morrison.

Mrs. A. B. McCreary, of Ronceverte, is with her mother, Mrs. Runciman, who continues very ill.

Robert, little son of Carl W. Slaven suffered a dislocated arm when he fell fell from his bicycle last Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. T. A. McCarty and children, of Craneville, are visiting Mrs. McCarty's sister, Mrs. A. W. Hill.

Rev. D. M. Monroe is assisting Rev. T. H. Pharr in a series of service at an outpost of the Renick church.

Miss Georgia Osborne, who has been the guest of Miss Rebecca Sydnor the past two weeks, left Monday for her home in Indianapolis, Indiana

Edward Wilson, Robert Auldridge, Carl Thomas, Norval McNeil, Richard Yeager and Earl Bryant leave this week for Citizens' Military Training Camp at Camp Knox, Louisville, Kentucky.

The two-year old child of Lock McNeill, head of Swago, is very ill with cholera infantum.

Singing at Indian Draft next Sunday night at 8 o'clock, led by Prof. W. J. Hebb and others. Everyone is invited, especially leaders and lovers of music.

The Womens' Missionary Society, Lewisburg District, M. E. Church, South, is holding its annual meeting in Alderson this week. Marlinton societies are represented by Mrs. W. J. Yeager and Mrs. D. C. Adkison, Adult; Misses Mary Eskridge and Catherine Clark, Young People, and Miss Naomi Rexrode, Junior.

OAK GROVE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

J. C. Johnson, Pastor

J. B. Riddle, Assistant

10-00 a. m. Sunday School

11 00 a m Preaching by Mr. Riddle

8 p m. Special program at Christian Endeavor.

On Monday night July 30th the Fowle Evangelistic Team will begin a meeting at Beard Chapel.

WOODMAN MEETING

The weekly meeting of Marlinton Camp, M. W. A. will be held on Saturday night of this week instead of Thursday.

Royal Drug Stores, Inc.

MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA

NEW HOTEL

An architect has submitted tentative plans and drawings to the Marlinton Hotel Company for their new building and changes to the present structure. Everything will be of fire proof construction. The outside walls will be stuccoed.

The plans show 48 bed rooms each with a bath and all modern conveniences, large lobby, dining and sample rooms. The addition will be 48x120 feet. The first floor will have two business rooms and a big theatre opening on Main Street. The theatre auditorium will be 46x19, no including a commodious lobby and adequate stage.

The proposed improvements and additional building are estimated to cost about $40,000. It is expected to let the contract in time to have the building under roof and the heating plant installed before cold weather.

This assures the town of Marlinton an adequate, modern hotel.

The Marlinton Hotel Company is a corporation, of which Dr. Fred Allen is president. W. C. Householder, treasurer and C. C. Clendenen, secretary.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS

An aluminum shower was given Thursday evening by Misses Helen Burner and Virginia Hull, of Durbin, at the home of J. W. Goodsell, honoring his daughter Gayle, who became the bride of Mr. Emil F. Latt of Shulls Mills, N. C., on Monday of last week. The invited guests were Mesdames. E. L. Fenton, G. F. Hull, L. C. Frazier, M. E. Folk, Terry Covee, S. H. Hiner, J. H. Wilson, S. A. Wilhide, Norlie Burner, and Misses Anne Parg, Nelle Vanosdale and Mabel Hull.

On Friday evening Mrs. E. L. Fenton and Mrs L. C. Frazier were hostesses at a linen shower for Miss Goodsell at the attractive home of Mrs. Fenton, in Durbin. The charming bride-to-be was presented with a large clothes basket full of beautiful linens, in a unique way by two of the guests present who had previously made up as colored "wash ladies," and who hung the "Neighborhood wash" on a hastily stretched line in the living room, with jestful remarks about each guest. Miss Goodsell was then asked to take down the "wash" and retain it for future use in her new home.

The guests were then entertained by a word contest, and the lucky contestant, Mrs. Grover Heavener, of Staunton, Va., was presented with a bowl of snap dragons, after which a delicious salad course was served followed by ice cream and cake.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with cut flowers, Spencer sweet peas being used profusely in a pink and white color scheme.

Dr. A. C. Jones passed away peacefully at his home, in Bath Street, Covington, Sunday, July 15, 1923, after a linering illness. Dr. Jones was born at Doe Hill, Highland county, Va., February 14, 1871, and was 52 years, 5 month and 1 day old.

After taking an acedenic course of one year at V. P. I., he graduated in medicine with high honors at the University of Virginia in 1895. For some time he was professor of anatomy at that institution, moving to this city in October, 1899, where he practiced medicine successfully and continuously until February of this year when he was stricken with Bright's disease.

He was the coach of the football team of the University for one year before his graduation, and later coached the V. P. I. team for two years.

At the age of 34, Dr. Jones married Miss Annie Shanahan, June 5, 1905. They have two sons, A. C. Jr., and Henry H. Jones, who survive. He also leaves his father, Dr. Henry Harrison Jones; four sisters, Mrs. H. M. Moore and Mrs Sidney Wilfon, of Dunmore, W. Ta.; Mrs. Elmer Moore, of Minnehaha Springs, W. Va., and Mrs. M. E. Hansel, of Medane, N. C., and one brother, Hal G. Jones, who is connected with the State Highway Commission at Greenwood, S. C.

Dr. Jones was a man of many sterling qualities, and all who knew him learned to love him. He was a physician of unusual ability and enjoyed an enviable practice here. He will be missed as a man as well as a doctor, and the whole community mourns his passing.—Covington Virginian.

The game and fish laws of West Virginia require all persons resident or non resident to secure license from clerk of court before going hunting or fishing. The law requires the license to be carried on the person at the time of hunting or fishing and it must be presented or exhibited to all game protectors on demand. The licenses are non transferable and are issued for the purpose of identification. The law requires all game protectors to arrest all persons hunting or fishing without their license and the fact that you have them at home will not save you paying a fine.—Fayette Tribune.

The business of the Marlinton post office for the past year was $12,317.19 a very healthy growth over the preceding twelve months. Postal receipts are always considered a good barometer of the state of business of a community. At present there is a run on revenue stamps. The supply of the local postoffice is exhausted, and Washington appears to be as badly off, as no attention is being paid to Postmaster Buckley's frantic appeals.

Married, at the clerk's office, Monday, July 23 1923, Lee Williams, of Raleigh County, and Miss Ella May Callison. Rev. J. H. Billingsley, officiating minister

Sunday School attendance: Methodist 209; Presbyterian, 121, Campbelltown, 91.

ICE CREAM SUPPER

The Ladies Aid will serve ice cream and cake at Campbelltown next Saturday night, July 28, beginning at 7-30. Proceeds for the benefit of the church. Everybody come and have a good time.

ICE CREAM SUPPER

On Saturday evening July 28, 1923, there will be ice cream and cake served at Mt. Zion church in the hills for the benefit of the pastor. Every one is invited.

FOUR-H CAMP

Forty-four 4-H boys and girls are in camp at the Pocahontas County Fair Grounds, two miles from Marlinton. The grounds are clean, neat, and very beautiful, which make an ideal place for the boys and girls to camp. They will be in camp from July 23 to 28 inclcisive, and from the spirit, enthusiasm, cooperation and "pep" shown so far they will have a good time and know many new things before the week ends.

Five Club agents have been sent here from the Agricultural Extension Division of the University and are helping: H. C. C. Willey, County agent. Miss Maud Hight and Walter Schnopp, Greenbank Club leaders: R. C. Hawkins, Director; Jane Adams, instructor and leader; Susie Stewart, instructor; R. S. Van Metre, doctor; Harry Cook, instructor.

The standard and ideals of the 4 H Club are taken from the 2nd chapter and 52nd verse of of Luke, and it is our duty as good club members to develop our Head, Hand, Heart, and Health, Jesus being our big an only ideal.

During the week we will have a program carried out to the minute. It will be as follows:

6 30 a m	Arise bell
6 35	Settin-up exercise
6 45	Morning Dip
6 50	Wash and dress for breakfast
7 15	Breakfast
7 45	Make beds and sweep rooms
8 00	Classes, Girls—basket weaving, Sweedish weaving, Home club plans and games Boys—Camp craft, Farm craft and Home club plans
10 30	Swim or Games
11 15	Health talks (for all)
11 30	Assembly (4-H talks, speeches and songs
12 30-1	Dinner
1 00 p. m.	Rest
1 30	Charting class
2 30	Athletics and Games
4 00	Swim
5 00	Washing, dressing for supper
6 00	supper
7 00	Vespers
8 00	Ciuncil Circle

The boys and girls enrolled are as follows, according to the work they are taking:

Basket making classs—Mary Burns Challcie Beverage, Mary Bartholomew, Elizabeth Sheets, Mildred Nottingham, Jewel Poage, Lynn McLaughlin, Anita Gladwell, Katherine Bartholomew, Mary Warwick, Hazel Stitzinger, Verna McAvan, G. Kathline Moore.

Sweedish Weaving Class—Lillian Hefner, Artie Wells, Eula May, Bertha Dorman, Esther Clendenin Sophia Patrick, Elizabeth Blackhurst, Audrey Dill, Veda Jackson, Virginia Gay, Frances Stillwell, Ruby Hannah Elizabeth Gay, Marjorie Beverage, Gay Hannah, Chester Burner, Mildred Fowler, Edith McClung, Hazel Hall, Leona Roswell, Ronna Gibson, Lillian Hannah.

Boys: Farm Craft & Camp Craft—Julian Pugh, Ralph Wooddell, Earl Bailey Miri Simmons, Hubert Pyles, Grady Moore, Jamie Bailey, Baine Wooddell, Paul Brown.

VANOSDALE-SUTTON

A pretty wedding took place at the home of Winters Sutton, near Cass last Wednesday morning, when his daughter Maude became the bride of Ray Vanosdale.

The bride was daintily gowned in white and carying white sweet peas, entered the living room with her attendants at 11:30 to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Mrs. Dr. Burner; of Durbin, and met the groom before an improvised altar, banked with ferns and pink roses, where the ceremony was performed by Rev Wilfred Lawson, pastor of the M. E. Church, South, of Durbin. The bridesmaids who were Misses Blanche Sutton and Nelle Vanosdale, also wore white, and carried pink roses.

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding luncheon was served in the dining room, after which the happy couple motored to Cass where they boarded the train for their future home in Detroit, Michigan amid the usual shower of rice and good wishes.

The wedding guests were, Mrs. S. G. Vanosdale, Miss Nelle Vanosdale, Lucian Isaart, Mrs. S. A. Wilhide and son Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wilson and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Fenton, Mrs. Dr. Burner and son, and Mrs. Wilfred Lawson of Durbin; Mr. and Mrs J. B. Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. Garry Vanosdale, of Cass; Mrs. Allen Gilford, Mr. and Mrs. Odey Cassell and Miss Maud Cassell of Wanless; Mr and Mrs. Fillmore Cox and family of Elkins; Mrs. Grover Heavener, Miss Marguerite Heavener, and Miss Sue Barrett Smith, of Staunton, Virginia. F.

DIED

On Sunday July 22, the remains of R. H. Shrader were laid to rest in the cemetery at Bethel church, services were conducted by Rev. Don M. Nicholas, the burial was well attended, and much respect was shown the deceased and relatives and all. He was 43 years old, and a son of Mr and Mrs. Jake Shader. He is survived also by one sister and two brothers.

He was a hard worker and died at his post while on duty for the Rainelle Lumber company when a log broke loose from the loader which crushed his head; he died instantly.

Mr. Shrader and relatives wish to thank all who so nobly assisted them in their sad bereavement. We think the men who labor at such dangerous tasks as some do deserve more credit than they sometimes get.

A friend, D.

Collet Higgins had a bone in his hand broken last Thursday at Williams and Pifers mill at Linwood. His hand was caught between the spreaders and a log, while driving a team.

A large quantity of hay was put up in fine condition the past week. Weather conditions very excellent to harvest hay and people generally took advantage of it.

Ten freight cars went into the ditch near Stillwell, Sunday afternoon.

ALLEGHENY CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. F. Brand and daughter Miss Nellie of Wheeling are spending a two weeks vacation at the club.

Dr. and Mrs. S. T. Mercer and Miss Blanche Colline of Clarksburg arrived at the Club last Saturday and will remain for a couple of weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McMillan of Clarksburg are spending their vacation at the Club. Mr. McMillan is quite a fisherman and has been making some very successful catches of bass.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Higgenbothom and daughters Margaret and Ellen and their son Geo. of Charleston motored over to the Club last Saturday for a short vacation.

Mrs. A. G. Dayton, widow of the late Judge A. G. Dayton deceased, of Philippi arrived at the Club last Saturday for a months stay. Mrs. Dayton has been coming to the Club ever since its organization and her yearly visits are looked upon with great pleasure by the management and other members.

Rev. and Mrs. T. H. Baron of Elkins visited the Club July 18.

Mrs. E. E. Talbott of Philippi is here for a two weeks stay and will be joined here by her husband and family sometime next week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Beswick of Wheeling are enjoying a vacation at the Club.

Glen Herold of Huntington arrived at the Club last week and will remain for several days.

Mr. J. E. Woodson of Princeton, Mr. and Mrs. N. Simmons of Ronceverte, and Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Hayes of Mill Point dined at the Club last Sunday.

July has been a very active month at the Club and reservations for August are coming in rapidly. The management is making every effort to take care of everyone who comes.

VISITORS DAY

Thursday, July 26, is visitors day at the Pocahontas County Four-H Camp now being held at the Fair Ground. Come any time during the day Special Council Fire Program 8 p. m.

FISH DESTRUCTION

On Monday morning something broke loose at the tannery, causing the destruction of fish life by the thousands between Marlinton and Buckeye and perhaps points farther down the river. Even mud turtles, snakes and water dogs were not immune. The children of the town gathered a great harvest. Whatever it was that killed the fish, made them blind and crazy, and they fell easy victims to anyone who cared to pick them up. Literally wagon loads of fish are now lying rotting in the stream. The fish and game commission have the matter under investigation.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Gay Campbell, Marlinton, July 21, a daughter.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Blas Moss, at Buckeye, July 23, a daughter.

For Sale

One 20-Horse Power Fairbanks Morse Engine, Type Y, first class condition.

One Main Drive, 12 inch Belt.

One 12 inch face friction clutch pulley.

One 34 elevator, complete

Arbovale Milling Co.
Arbovale, W. Va.

Farm for Sale

26 acres of good productive land, a fine young orchard of 138 trees, now in bearing, good barn, 3 room plastered house, good crops now on place. 2 good milk cows, about 150 chickens, good well on place. All farming tools goes with place posession at once. Opposite Store, Nottingham, W. Va. Write or come and see

H. F. McAVAN,
Nottingham, W. Va.

Farm For Sale

I have for sale 200 acres on Swago Creek, four miles from Marlinton, two miles from R. R., handy to school 30 acres in meadow, will graze 25 head cattle, good dwelling house, good barn, and other outbuildings Finely watered; about 11,500 feet of merchantable timber

Price $7,000; $1,000 cash balance on good terms. For further particulars see me at Marlinton.

URIAH BIRD.

Application for Pardon

Notice is hereby given that on or about the 17th day of July, 1923, an application will be filed with A. G. Jenkins, Pardon Attorney, Charleston, W. Va., for the pardon of Henley Alberts convicted of the crime of murder, at the April term, 1922, of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County and sentenced to imprisonment in the West Virginia Penitentiary for the period of life.

Application for Pardon

Notice is hereby given that on or about the 20th day of July, 1923, an application will be filed with A. G. Jenkins, Pardon Attorney, Charleston, W. Va., for the Pardon of John Brown convicted of the crime of second degree murder, at the June term 1922, of the Circuit court of Pocahontas county and sentenced to imprisonment in the West Virginia Penitentiary for the period of 5 years.

LOST—Brown leather brief case containing sample copies of the Southern Agriculturist receipt books bearing my name and address and check and pass book of the Citizens Bank Richwood West Va. Case lost Saturday afternoon July 7, between a mile beyond Linwood and Sixty Fork. Have notified postmasters at both postoffices, suitable reward for finder by notifying postmaster or at below address. Rex Q. Rodgers, Franklin West Va. Pendleton Co.

WATCH LOST—On Fair Ground. Finder will please return to Alva A. Johnson, Marlinton, W. Va.

Summer Clearance SALE

Beginning July 25th and Continuing 30 Days

A wonderful reduction on Canton crepe, crepe de chine and taffeta silk dresses, spring coats, capes and suits.

Hats going at $1

One lot of oxfords and pumps, regular prices from $4 to $7, selling at $2.50

A lot of children's clothes of all kinds

Table linen, bed spreads, curtain goods, etc.

Dress goods, regular price $2, reduced to $1

An uptodate line of silk and sport hose, all colors

A REAL RUMMAGE SALE

Everybody come and take advantage of these bargains. Everyone buying $20 worth of goods during the sale, I will give $1 worth of merchandise.

Mrs. Mary E. Folk

Durbin, West Virginia

Save Your Tomato Crop

By Spraying With

"INSECTO"

Better if used with a spray, or may be applied with a sprinkling can.

C. J. RICHARDSON

MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA

The New CAROLA

THE NIGHTENGALE OF PHONOGRAPHS

$25.00

Plays any standard 12 in record

COME IN AND HEAR IT

Moore & Poague

Beard, W. Va.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the good people for their help and kindness in our sad bereavement of our dear husband, father and brother, James Henry McLaughlin. May God's blessings be with each one.

Wife and Children,
Brothers and Sisters.

ESTRAY SHEEP

There have been three sheep at my place near Hillsboro since about July 6. One ewe and lamb and a yearling. Owner can have same by proving them and paying cost of keep and advertising.

J. W. Hultz,
Hillsboro, W. Va.

adv 81.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLI NO 51 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, AUGUST 2, 1923 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

HANLINE BROS.
LEAD AND ZINC
READY MIXED PAINT GUARANTEED
AS PURE AS PAINT CAN BE MADE
FOR SALE BY DEALERS EVERYWHERE

Dealers Supplied By
S. B. WALLACE & CO.
Marlinton, W. Va.

SUICIDE NEAR CASS

Cass, W. Va.—Clarence Wamsley committed suicide in a cave on the farm of Joe McLaughlin on or about July 21st. His body was found on July 25th. He had gone far back into the cave, sat down on the paper in which a pistol was wrapped, and shot himself in the head. His home was at Ridgeway, Pennsylvania. He was 45 years old, and he was afflicted with a cancer on his tongue.

Mr. Wamsley left Ridgeway a few days before his death. On July 20 he mailed a letter at Elkins to his brother Floyd, at Ridgeway. He enclosed his will and a check for what money he had in bank. He stated that he was in Elkins, that two doctors in Ridgeway, one in Philadelphia, and two in Elkins had told him that without an operation the cancer on his tongue would kill him in about three months, but by removing his tongue he would possibly live a year. He said, "I have decided not to have an operation, and will take the matter in my own hands and end it all. I know of a place about 100 miles from here where I can get about 50 feet under ground. This will be a kind of burial for me. Break the news to mother some way. You look after her and see that her bills are paid because she will forget them. Get her pension check for her. I will never be back in Ridgeway, Pa. Tell the folks I have gone to Norfolk, Va., for my health."

On July 21st Mr. Wamsley came to Cass bought a money order for $50 and enclosed it in a note to his brother Floyd. It said:

"Dear Floyd—I have about 6 miles to walk up a mt. Clarence."

Upon the receipt of these letters, Floyd Wamsley and Mr. McGeehin came to Cass, arriving on the morning of July 25th. Upon showing the letters to local people it was decided to search the cave on Joe McLaughlin's farm, as it is the only cave near Cass.

Sergeant L. S. Cochran and U. S. Deputy Marshall U. S. Beasley went with the strangers to search the cave. They found the body about 150 feet from the opening of the cave, just over an offset of about five feet, sitting with the back against the wall of the cave, the right hand still holding a small 42 caliber pistol. About a half inch directly in front of the right ear was a bullet wound. The bullet had penetrated the brain. The skin was powder burned.

The body was brought to Cass where an inquest was held. The jury rendered the verdict that Wamsley came to his death from a self inflicted gunshot wound. The body taken by truck to Elkins, and then by rail to Ridgeway for burial.

The deceased was a man of good habits and good education. For the past 15 years he had been clerk in a hotel at Ridgeway. A short time ago Mr. Wamsley's tongue became infected because of a bad tooth. He then had his teeth pulled, but later his trouble was pronounced cancer of the tongue. He leaves one brother and a mother about 80 years old to mourn his sad fate.

Some sixteen or eighteen years ago the deceased was employed on a sawmill by D. D. Hazeltine, who cut lumber on the McLaughlin farm. Thus he knew of the cave.

FAMILY REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Eagle had a reunion of their family on Thursday of last week at the home of their daughter, Mrs. A. W. Hill. It had been more than twenty-five years since all the family had met together.

The home coming consisted of the father and mother and their five living children—two of their children, Mollie and Enoch, having died many years ago in their early childhood.

The living children are Miss Maggie Eagle, now living in Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. Ruth McCarty, of Cranesville, Preston county, this state, whose husband, Thomas M. McCarty, is a Methodist minister; E. C. Eagle, of Hinton, prosecuting attorney of Summers county; John Eagle, of Julia, Greenbrier county, a farmer; and Meta Hill, of Marlinton, wife of A. W. Hill, teacher and farmer.

Both the parents have passed their 85th year, yet are blessed with all their faculties and good health, and the family reunion was a real joy to them as well as all the children, and the many grand children who were privileged to attend. After a couple of days spent together and many happy reminiscinces of their child hood and early lives, they broke up and departed for their various homes, but each carrying with them the fondest recollections of one of the happiest events in their lives. X.

LIBERTY AND BAXTER

Dr. John I. Armstrong of Lewisburg, will preach at Baxter Church, Sunday August 5, at 11 a m. and at Liberty Church at 3p m. The pastor, Mr. Monroe, is assisting Rev. T. H. Pharr in evangelistic services in the Renick field. At Rapp school house there were nine accessions to the church, and another good meeting is in progress at Brownstown school house.

On Monday night the leach house at the Durbin Tannery was partially destroyed by fire. Heavy rain aided the fire fighters in keeping the fire from spreading to adjoining buildings.

George L. Clark of Hillsboro, tells us he is specializing in the raising of purebred bronze turkeys of the Gold Back strain. He has now a flock of 50 young birds, descended from a gobbler that weighed fiftypounds. He is preparing to have an exhibit at the Pocahontas County Fair, August 20 to 24. Last year he raised a flock of 40 which were sold for $300. He sells most of his turkeys for breeders, but he sold some on the Philadelphia market last Thanksgiving which brought him 32 1-2 cents a pound. These were mostly hens, only two gobblers in the shipment, but the lot averaged 17 pounds each.

SERVICE FOR REVIVAL

Services for revival continue at the Methodist Church each night this week at 7:45. Also morning services for prayer and inspiration from 9:30 to 10:30. The public is cordially invited to these services, and all Christians are urged to attend and hear Mrs. S. Hortense Ropp, the celebrated woman orator. Those who have heard her are apparently unanimous in their surprise and approval of the messages given by this consecrated speaker. Not often is it the privilege of a community to hear such peerless messages for the soul. Congregations are large and splendid attention given. The speaker is asking that Christians of all denominations pray for a sweeping revival.

OBITUARY

George Washington Rogers, son of James L. and Elizabeth Rogers, was born March 30, 1857, and died July 26, 1923, aged 66 years three months and twenty-six days.

He was married to Miss Susan S. Beverage, April 17, 1881. Of this union nine children were born, five of whom preceded their father to the better land. Those living are Mrs. Lanty Cole, of Marlinton; Mrs. Jake Jacksen of Buckeye, Mrs. D. W. Taylor, of Los Angeles, California, and Miss Mintie Rogers, Toledo, Ohio.

In early boyhood Mr. Rogers became a Christian, and for more than fifty years lived an humble, unassuming, yet consistent christian life. As long as his health would permit he was one of the most faithful church goers in his community. At the time of his death he was a member of the M. P. church.

On July 27 funeral services were conducted from the home by Rev. C. A. Powers, of Edray, assisted by Rev. Mr. Hipes of Seebert, and his remains were laid to rest in the Fleming graveyard. P.

The Boys and Girls Agricultural Camp at the Fair Grounds disbanded last Saturday. It was in the opinion of this writer, the most enjoyable and effective County Club Camp ever held. There were more than fifty boys and girls in attendance. A new feature of the course of study was a searies of health talks from a medical student from the University. The club members took a great interest in the state camping grounds at Jacksons Mills, in Lewis County, and have under consideration the erection of a Pocahontas County building there.

RESOLUTIONS

Whereas the good shepherd has gathered another little lamb into his fold, and by his wise providence removed from our Sunday School, Merl A. Irvine, one of its faithful and valued members.

First, to express our deep sympathy for the parents, relatives, and friends of our little co-worker, and assure them that we bear them on our hearts and remember them in our prayers.

Second, to commend them to the tender loving care of the Lord in Heaven whose strong arms, and tender mercies are ever with those who have upon them in their time of sorrow, and need.

Third, that the members of his Sunday School class especially desires to assure the family, and friends of their deep sympathy and love.

Fourth, that this expression of our respect and love, be entered upon the minutes of our Sundry School, a copy sent to The Pocahontas Times for publication, and a copy sent to the parents of the deceased.

A precious one from us is gone,
The voice we loved is still,
The place made vacant in our school,
Can never more be filled.

supt, Hanson Sharp assist, Granville Wilfong
sec, Jake McClure assist, Lillie McClure.

DID YOU SEE

The Jewel Furnace on demonstration at our store. See it.

Peoples Store & Supply Company
Marlinton, West Virginia

FOR SALE

WE OFFER for sale our warehouse and part of our office furniture and equipment, also a five room dwelling house in good residential section.

IN THE future we will buy Roots, Herbs, Etc. only during the months of June, July, August and September.

GREER, GREER & GREER
Marlinton, - - - - - - West Virginia

The Genuine Bruner Suitings

FOR FALL AND WINTER 1923-24 ON DISPLAY
For fine Tailoring, come in and inspect them.

W. A. THIEDE, Tailor
MARLINTON, W. VA.

ARM SHOT OFF

Price Galford, aged 15 years, son of Summers Galford, of Woodrow, lost his left arm by a gun shot wound Monday afternoon.

He went for the cows and took the family shot gun along to kill a ground hog. In getting over a large, slick log, he fell down. The gun struck the log with sufficient force to discharge it. The shot took effect in his left arm at the elbow, literally blowing it off. A few shot were found in the other arm.

The unfortunate boy brought to Marlinton and his arm was amputated at the hospital. He lost a great amount of blood, but he is doing well.

Mr. Locke A. Livesay, of Bartow, Pocahontas county, and Miss Laike P. Hill, of Renick, Greenbier county, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev, J. S. Wickline, at his home at Renick, on Wednesday, July 25, 1923. Mr. Livesay is agent for the C. and O. railway at Bartow, and the bride is the accomplished and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Bryson Hill, of Renick. She is a graduate of the Hillsboro high school, and was one of the teachers at Cass during the last term. They left on a bridal tour to Washington, Baltimore and New York, where he has a brother whom they will visit. Many good wishes go with them for happiness and success.—W. VA. News.

The series of meeting at Marys Chapel on Elk, closed Monday night. There were eighteen public professions of faith in Christ. Dr. Flow went immediately to the Lower church Sunday Swago to continue a meeting begun on Swago. He will preach at Marys Chapel Sunday morning, August 5, at which time the doors of the church will open to receive members.

Two children of Joseph Moses, at the Tannery, have typhoid in a severe form. The family recently visited at Parsons, W. Va., where there is an epidemic typhoid. On their return home the children developed the disease. More than twenty cases have been reported at Parsons in July.

WESLEY CHAPEL M. E. SOUTH

Hillsboro, West Virginia
W. Clark Early, Pastor.
9:45 a m. Sunday School
F. P. Kidd, Superintendent
11 00 a m. Sermon: by Pastor.
3 30 p m. preaching at Sharon
8 00 p m Epworth League. Topic. "God Manifested in Nature."

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

J. Herndon Billingsley, Pastor.
Sunday School 9:45 a. m.
A. S. Overholt, Supt.
Preaching, 11:00 a. m. and 7:45 p m.
Mrs. S. Hortense Ropp will speak both morning and evening.
Epworth League 7 p m.
Services for revival nightly at 7:45. Everybody invited to these services.

Notice to Contractors

The Board of Education of Little Levels District will receive sealed bids until noon Saturday, August 11, 1923 for the erection of the following school buildings: One two-room building near Beard and one one-room building near Kennison. Plans and specifications may be seen at the office of the Secretary at Hillsboro.

The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

Luther Flynn, Secretary.

FAIR NOTES

Withrow McClintic, in charge of the hog department of the Pocahontas County Fair, asks that the owners of fine hogs immediately take steps to exhibit them. Get the entry blanks in his hands not later than August 13—the sooner the better in orner to be assured of good pen room. It is Mr McClintic's desire to have a big exhibition of hogs, and as many breeds as possible represented.

A motor boat has been added to the Fair Ground fleet.

A man of an adjoining county called attention to the difference in the show posters of the Pocahontas Fair and an old time fair which is also being billed in his county. Our posters speak loud of the exhibits of live stock, horse show, poultry, farm products, and the other things that go to make up a real county fair, and incidently call attention the midway features. The other fair has exactly the same shows as are coming here, but they advertise on their bills little else than the carnival. The difference was so striking as to attract attention.

And speaking about midway diversions—the management has exercised care in securing shows free of objectionable features. The following statement has been given out—

"Irving J. Polack, owner of the World at Home Shows, will be in personal charge of his organization.' He has sixteen high class exhibitions, including the Caterpiller, a most sensational riding sevice.

"He has long been an advocate of clean amusements for clean Americans, and promises that his attractions measure up to the standards sought by the showmen's legislative committee, and the carnival clean up agency. No dancing girls are permitted and nimbled fingered gamblers cannot fleece the fair visitors for Mr. Polack will be assisted by officials of the fair association in keeping out objectionable gentry."

Talking about insanity, the old trainer at the Fair grounds says there are many kinds, but the worst form is horse craziness. Many people are so afflicted and they are all incurable. The horse show of the County Fair, August 20 to 24 will help them some.

A very heavy rain in the Thorny Creek region Monday, which washed cornfields and roads pretty badly. The river raised about two feet. Fine rains in all parts of the county the past week.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. William Shearer, at Onoto, July 20, a son.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mann, at Warwick, July 18 1923, a daughter.

House and Lot for Sale

One and three-quarters acres of land, good six room house, good out buildings, good orchard, close to the school, church and stores. A bargain for a quick buyer.

ROBERT D. TAYLOR
Frest, W. Va.

NOTICE — If you want Virginia blackberries, now ripe at McLaughlin, Mill Gap, Va.

FROM HIGHLAND RECORDER

Harlow Waugh, of Marlinton, spent several days this week in town, the guest of his friend, Rev. Fred B. Wyand.

S. B. Wallace, of the well known drug house in Marlinton, and J. H Donnally, also of the Pocahontas capital, were in Monterey Tuesday in interest of the Pocahontas county fair.

Mrs Smith and daughters of Marlinton, W. Va., are visiting the former's sister, Mrs. Homer Stephenion

W. A. Thiede, of Marlinton, spent some time this week with friends in Monterey.

Amusu Theatre

WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY—Rex Ingram's Greatest Production since "The Four Horsemen" "Trifling Women', with an All-star cast including Barbark La Marr Ramon Novarro, Edward Connally, Lewis Stone and many others.

Nine Reels 15c and 30c

FRIDAY—Charles Ray in "Alias Julius Ceasar" also Ruth Rowland in "The Timber Queen."

SATURDAY — Shirley Mason in "Lights of the Desert" and Larry Seamon in "The Hick"

Twy shows 7:45 anP 9:15

COMING NEXT WEEK—"Get Rich Quick Wallingford", "Forgotten Law", "Great Impersonation."

SOON—Harold Lloyd in "Grandma's Boy."

Farm for Sale

117 1-2 acres nice smooth farm land 44 acres in cultivation, 25 acres pastures, well watered, berries, timber, etc. Two frame houses, 5 and 6 rooms, outbuildings. 1 mile southeast of Hillsboro High School, 1 mile to hard road, 2 miles to Seebert Ry. station. Will make price and terms right for quick sale.

W. W. COOPER.
Hillsboro, W. Va.

ESTRAY:—A ewe and lamb have been on my place for about three months. Owner may claim after proving property and paying cost.—

Mrs. Nannie Kinnison,
Seebert, W. Va

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.
C. M. Hanna, Assistant
Sunday School 9:45
3 30 p m Junior Christian Endeavor
7 15p m Senior Christian Endeavor
11 00 a m Preaching by C. M. Hanna
11 00 a m Preaching at Marys Chapel by Rev. J. E. Flow.
8 00 p m Preaching at Buckeye by Rev. J. E. Flow.

There will be no evening service on account of the meeting at the Methodist church.

OAK GROVE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

J. C. Johnson, Pastor
J. B. Riddle, Assistant
10-00 a. m. Sunday School
11 00 a m. Preaching bo the pastor.
11 00 " Preaching by Mr Riddle at Seebert
3 00 p m. Preaching at Marvin by Mr Riddle
3 00 p m Preaching on Ceasars Mt. by the pastor.

ICE CREAM & PIE SUPPERS

There will be a pie supper, cake and ice cream served at the Linwood church, Saturday evening at eight-thirty o'clock.

The Ladies Aid Society of Arbovale, will serve ice cream, cake and other refreshments on the church lawn, August 11, 1923, beginning at four o'clock p. m.

There will be a pie supper at the Pleasant Hill school house on Saturday night August 11 beginning at 7 o'clock. For the benefit of the new

Auction Sale

Two days' auction sale of first class merchandise and furniture, also one 7 Passenger Studebaker Automobile in first class condition. The automobile will be offered on the first day of sale.

The sale of furniture will include 1 bed stead and springs, 1 cot, 1 cook stove, 1 kitchen table, 1 cupboard, 2 heating stoves, some chairs and other things, The furniture will be sold on the first day of sale.

Come early and take advantage of this chance to buy at your own price.

I am, on account of my health, going out of business as soon as I can I still offer my entire stock of goods and fixtures at a price that will interest, you as a buyer.

Sale will begin, August 14th, 1923.

J. E. BARLOW,
Edray, W. Va.

Notice

I have sold my garage outfit to Turk McLaughlin, who will hereafter run the business. Prompt service is his motto—patronage will be appreciated. To all indebted to the undersigned, settlement will be appreciated. Please be prompt.

Very truly yours,
JAMES A. IRVINE,
Minnehaha Springs, W. Va.

Editor of The Times:

Enclose find check to cover above amount. You are the only editor I have any knowledge of who did not increase the cost of subscription to their publication, after the rise in price of print paper, labor and etc required to get out a news paper, never missing an issue, always on time.

Having been born and reared in Pocahontas county, a majority of the 78 years of my life was spent in the county. Many, very many changes have taken place since my boyhood days—After the war between the states, I helped Andrew McLaughlin and bro. Harper make hay and plow corn on the land on which a portion of your city is now located. The Price residence on west side of river, Skyles house on east side near the wooden bridge, Hugh McLaughlin home near the court house and Harper McLaughlin dwelling, since remodeled and now owned by the Hon. B. M. Yeager, are the only houses I remember now. Marlinton was then Marlins Bottom. Little did I or any one else think at that time that such a busy thriving town as Marlinton would be there in so few years.

Your friend
W. H. C.
Ronceverte, W. Va.

Farm for Sale

26 acres of good productive land, a fine young orchard of 138 trees, now in bearing, good barn, 5 room plastered house, good crops now on place. 2 good milk cows, about 150 chickens, good well on place. All farming tools goes with place posession at once. Opposite Store, Nottingham, W.Va. Write or come and see

H. F. McAVAN,
Nottingham, W.Va.

FROST

It is somewhat quiet since the prohibition officers made their raid.

Robert Taylors baby has been ill for the past week.

Mrs. E. G. Sharp and little son Blair who has been visiting her sister Mrs. H. H. Schofield at Raywood returned Sunday.

Mrs. Taylor Townsend was ill for a few days last week but is some better.

Our community was shocked to hear of the sad death of Hanson Shrader. They have the sympathy of our neighborhood.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Sharp a 9 pound boy, that brightened their home.

The picnic given by the Frost Sunday School was nice and well arranged. They have a fine Sunday School and good attendance.

Dr. G. M. Jordan is suffering with a large boil on the crown of his head.

The crops in this neighborhood are looking well, although they are some what dry.

Our farmers are begining to make hay, there will be a fair crop.

We are sory to report our old friend Mr. Taylor sick; hope he may soon recover.

Howard Vandevender of Virginia is visiting his mother who resides in our town, he is a fine man of the Virginia type and we are always glad to see him.

Miss Lillian Sharp is visiting friends at Raywood. She expects to remain a few weeks, her health is slowly improving since her return from the hospital.

SHEPHERD COLLEGE STUDENTS

Following the usual custom of organizing County Clubs, the students from Pocahontas county met July 6, 1923 and organized the Pocahontas County Club as follows:

Officers, Graham Larue, president, Helen Beard, vice-president, Edith Townsend, sect'y and treasurer.

The following are the members of the club as a whole:

Flossie and Stella Conrad, Fannie Kerr, Helen Beard, Rachel Sheets, Lila and Genevieve Orndoff, Vesta Sharp, Edith Townsend, Hunter and Kermit Arbogast, Edgar Shinaberry Warn McLaughlin, Graham Larue, Delbert Gillispie, Paul McCoy, Plummer Cutlip, Sterling Kershne.

Edith Townsend, sec. and treasr,

There will be a meeting of the Stocks Shippers Association at the office of the County Agent in Marlinton at 1.30 p. m., Saturday, August 4th. All parties interested, are invited to attend, especially official members.

Albert White had a finger severely larcerated while working at the Buena Vista Hardwood Co. Mill on Knapps Creek, Saturday.

GOOD intentions long deferred are oft neglected

The erection of a final tribute to our loved ones should be given prompt attention. The esteem in which they were held should be evidenced by a fitting memorial.

Care should be taken, however, to select a material which is not only beautiful, but which can retain forever its original beauty.

GEORGIA MARBLE possesses this attribute. It is formed of tiny overlapping crystals, making it non-absorbent and giving it the essential qualities of beauty, strength and durability.

Its beauty and evenness of texture and its adaptability to design, makes GEORGIA MARBLE the ideal monumental material.

We will show you designs for beautiful memorials in GEORGIA MARBLE

SOUTHERN MARBLE & GRANITE CO. 2

GEORGIA MARBLE

See Z. S. SMITH, Our Authorized Agent,
MARLINTON, - - - - - WEST VIRGINIA

For your needs in Monuments and Tombstones. Prices lower than else where work and material guaranteed.

TRIANGLE GARAGE

Buick Parts, Gasoline, Oils and Accessories
Buick Service, Battery Sales and Service Station

CALL US FOR BUICK PARTS

Clyde G. Bussard, Propr.

TAKING TIME

THE time of every official of this Bank is freely at the welcome command of its customers.

WITH us it is a pleasure to advice a customer at any time upon his financial welfare, business expansion and development, and investment of surplus funds.

BANK OF MARLINTON

MARLINTON, - - - WEST VIRGINIA

The Bank of Safety and Service

M. E. CHURCH REUNION

A plan for the reunion of the Northern and Southern division of Methodist Episcopal church was taken under considration by the joint commission on unification at Cleverland, Ohio, after having been approved by membersrepresenting both branches at separate meeting.

The plan drafted by a joint commission of sixteen, was adopted unnimously by the northern members at a meeting on the afternoon of the 2th inst, The southern members made a few changes in the wording of the plan which was then submitted to the joint commission.

Confidence that the differences in the wording of the plan would be ironed out aud the branch which arose in 1845 over the question of slavery would be healed. was expressed by members of the joint commission as they went into session.

Approval of the plan means the possibility of a united church by 1925, according to Dr. A. W. Harris, general secretary of the board of education of the northern branch and secretary of its unifichtion commission, If reunion occurs, the Methodist Episcopal church will be the first of the three great protestant denominations which divided over the question of slaxery, to become reconciled.

The plan, Dr. Harris said, provides only that each church change its constitution, so that instead of holding separate general conferences every four years, the two general conferences will be merged.

DURBIN

Radcliff Chautauqua is here this week, and we think it is the best Chautauqua we ever had.

Wm. Houchin, of Clarksburg, is visiting his brother, Thomas Houchin, at Hosterman. This is his first visit to our county in 21 years. We always feel good our old friends come to our county.

Mrs. E. L. Fenton and her lady friend from Elkins, are visiting friends at Natural Bridge, Va.

U. W. Burner and J. S. Burner of the Rich Mountain section, have been taking in the Chautauqua and visiting their friends here for a few days. We are glad to have them.

C. J. Bish and family and H. H. Hudson and family motored to Bolar Springs last Sunday.

J. B. Nottingham is spending some time at Bolar Springs for his health.

Charles Lantz of Boyer, is at the Charlottesville Hospital for medical treatment.

Mrs. Berlin Townsend is expected home this week from Shepherdstown College.

The Standard Oil Company is unloading tanks for an oil station here. The C. & O. is putting in a switch and track to the two large tanks.

Some fat cattle have been shipped from this part at a fair price.

J. Ed Hall has returned from the Clifton Forge Hospital, where he underwent a serious operation. He is much better.

J K. Hoover is back home after a serious operation at the City Hospital at Elkins.

J. F. Woodell was a business visitor in town Saturdav.

C. C. Baxter has put in a gasolene service station at Onoto, besides making other improvemedt and conveniences for the accommodation of his customers.

Notice

The following is a list of fiduciaries whose accounts are before me for settlement: G. P. Baxter administrator of W. H. Baxter, deceased, Mrs. Fronna Loam admx, of Andrew Loam, deceased, Monroe Beard administrator of Ruby E. Kerr, deceased, Laura E. Livesay admx. of A. N. Livesay, deceased. F. M. Sydnor administrator of Jas. W. Auldridge, deceased, H. H. Brown administrator of Robert J. Brown, deceased, J. E. Taylor and D. R. Taylor executors of Clarissa Taylor, deceased.

Given under my hand this Ist day of August, 1923.

P. T. WARD,
Commissioner of Accounts for Pocahontas County,

HOOSIER

Exhibit at the Pocahontas County Fair

The Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet will be on exhibition at the Pocahontas County Fair, and its superiorities will be demonstrated to you by an expert.

C. J. RICHARDSON

MARLINTON, - - - - WEST VIRGINIA

LOCAL MENTION.

Lanty Cole is home from the North Carolina lumber woods.

Elliott Smith, of Spruce, was in Marlinton last Thursday.

Mrs. H. H. Orr is at the Marlinton Hospital for surgical treatment.

Mrs. Emma Harper, of Flatwoods, is visiting her sister, Mrs. John S. Moore.

Col. D. G. Ruckman, cattle dealer, of Staunton, was here last week on business.

F. R. Hunter is home from Sweet Chalybeate Springs where he spent a month.

A. S. Overholt and Miss Mabel Lang are in New York buying fall and winter goods.

Mrs. Amos Staton and children of Ward, are spending a few week with Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Staton.

Buster Smith and Carlisle Wade spent tha week end at Mt. Grove with their friend Mike O'Ferrel.

Judge Geo W. McClintic and family are spending the summer at the Hunt place on Williams River.

Miss Garcia McCormick, of the Times office, is spending the week at her old home in Monroe county.

Mrs. Crawford Gum, of Cass, is making a good recovery from a severe operation at the Marlinton Hospital.

Mrs. Winston Herold, who underwent a serious operation at the Marlinton Hospital last week, is doing satisfactorily.

Miss Codie Whitman, of Cumberland, Md., is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Coombs, and her aunt Mrs. Cora Cunningham.

Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Hench returned Monday night from a two weeks' automobile trip in Pennsylvania. On their return they were accompanied by Mrs. Eddie Musser, of Altoona.

Miss Emma Warwick arrived last Friday to spend some time in Pocahontas. She came from the Valley of Virginia where she had spent some time in the home of her niece, Mrs. S. B. Hannah, of Mt. Clinton.

Zed Smith, Sr., of Covington, is here with his son, Zed S. Smith, and will stay over for the County Fair. Mr. Smith is a Confederate veteran. He is in good health and spirits, gets around easily, and enjoys life. When he is here, Marlinton can boast of four generations named Zed Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward Hudson, of Landisburg, are here for a few weeks vacation. They came by automobile by way of Clifftop, Springdale. Blue Sulphur, Lewisburg and Anthonys Creek. The Midland Trail from Clifftop to Lewisburg is blocked by four contractors. Mr. Hudson is superintendent for a big lumber company which has yet eight years cutting, underlaid by coal which will take a century to dig.

Mrs. Mabel Moore Hudson, of Covington, is with home folks in Marlinton.

Miss Fannie Morgan, of Raford, Virginia, is visiting her brother, H. B. Morgan.

Chas. J. McCue, of Elkins. has a force of bricklayers on th new Hillsboro high school and is rushing the work to completion.

C. C. Smith, Miss Geraldine Haupt and Miss Pauline Smith brought in an Overland car overland from Toledo this week.

Rev. R. O. Hipes and family of Seebert, W. Va., were visiting old friends in the community last week. —Bath Enterprise.

Mr. and. Mrs. Z S. Smith, of Marlinton, W. Va., motored to Hot Springs Tuesday to meet the former's father, Z. S. Smith, Sr., of Covington who was visiting his brother Edward Smith. They called in our town to exchange greetings with old friends and relatives.—Bath Enterprise.

Miss Alice Robins and Miss Mabel Meeks left Wednesday morning for a short visit at the home of Miss Robins at Oxley, W. Va. As soon as Miss Robins recuperates in health enough for the trip she will go to Hazard, Kentucky, where she will be in charge of the hospital. Miss Meeks will go into training there.

George McPherson and family have returned from a ten days' visit at Oak Hill and Mount Hope where they visited with G. C., J. C., and F. A. Wooddell, and Mrs. H. M. Doddrill. Mrs. Doddrill and son Aris returned home with them to spend a month with relatives and friends in Pocahontas.

Those calling on Mrs. A. L. Price while at Minnehaha Springs last week were—Mrs. Lock Herold, Mrs. Maggie Lockridge, Mrs. Elmer Moore Mrs Wilson, Mrs. Hansel, Greensboro, N. C.; Mrs. Feber, Cincinnati; Miss Irvin, Alderson; Mrs, D. B. McElwee, Mrs. J. A. Irvine, Mrs. Jake Loury. Mrs. Boyd Campbell, Mr. Millard Herold.

Sunday School attendance last Sunday: Methodist. 214; Presbyterian 141; Campbelltown 87.

LOST

Between the top of Elk Mountain and Slaty Fork: Bundle containing campsheet, laadies skirt, cape and axe. Finder please return to Gay's Studio and receive reward.

Keys lost in or around Marlinton. Finder will please return to A. C. Young

A bar pin lost in Marlonton. Finder please return to Times office.

PIE SUPPER

On Saturday evening, August 4, 1923, there will be a pie supper at Minnehaha Springs school house. Proceeds for the benefit of the Minnehaha Union Sunday School. Everybody come and have a good time.

Auction Sale

I will sell on Saturday, August 11, 1923, the following :

3 bedsteads and springs, 3 matresses nearly new, 2 dressers, 1 chiforser, 1 library table, 1 round stand table, 1 dining table, 1 sideboard, 1 cupboard, 1 kitchen cabinet, 1 kitchen table, 4 rocking chairs, 10 other chairs, 2 good heating stoves, 1 Majestic range, 1 4-burner oil cook stove with oven, 1 ringer and washing machine, 1 garden plow, a lot of dishes, and stone jars, a lot of airtight fruits, 2 rugs, 1 5 foot crosscut saw. 1 porch swing, a lot of things not mentioned.

All sums under five dollars cash, all over five dollars six months negotiable note.

Beginning at 1 o'clock.

Mrs. B. L. Galford,
Campbelltown.

W. A. Barlow Auctioneer.

For Sale

One 20- Horse Power Fairbanks Morse Engine, Type Y, first class condition.

One Main Drive, 12 inch Belt.

One 12 inch face friction clutch pulley.

One 34 elevator, complete.

Arbovale Milling Co.
Arbovale, W. Va.

Application for Pardon.

Notice is hereby given that on or about the 20th day of July, 1923, an application will be filed with A. G. Jenkins, Pardon Attorney, Charleston, W. Va., for the Pardon of John Brown convicted of the crime of second degree murder, at the June term 1922, of the Circuit court of Pocahontas county and sentenced to imprisonment in the West Virginia Penitentiary for the period of 5 years.

LOST—Brown leather brief case containing sample copies of the Southern Agricnlturist receipt books bearing my name and address and check and pass book of the Citizens Bank Richwood West Va. Case lost Saturday afternoon July 7, between a mile beyond Linwood and Slaty Fork. Have notified postmasters at both postoffices, suitable reward for finder by notifying pastmaster or at below address. Rex Q. Rodgers, Franklin West Va. Pendleton Co.

NOTICE

The following fiduciary accounts are before the undersigned commissioner for settlement, Clarence Smith administrator of Nick Zannio. This 26th of July, 1923.

J. E. Buckley, Com.

The BUICK MOTOR COMPANY Announces for 1924

an entirely new and distinctive line of Quality Motor Cars,

In beauty, design, speed and original mechanical features such as four wheel brakes, the 1924 Buick models provide the most revolutionary advance in motor cars thus far contributed by the industry.

BUICK MOTOR COMPANY, Flint, Michigan
Division of General Motors Corporation

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

Marlinton Electric Company
Marlinton, W. Va.

Royal Drug Stores, Inc.

MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA

SPEAKING OF COAL

A large percentage of bituminous coal produced in the United States is mined in West Virginia and Kentucky.

It is a matter of genuine pride that the Cheasapeake and Ohio has plays a commanding part in developing the countr's coal indnstry, transporting millions upon millions of tons every year.

Railroads are now moving the greatest tonnage in their history, With new equiqment being build, and the open weather, they expect to keep pace witn the great flow of traffic.

By October, the "peak" will be reached when the big grain and agricultural movements are under way, and the railroads will be taxed to their limit in the Fall and Winter months, when traffic does not move so freely as during the open weather.

Co-operation on the part of the public, individuals, industries, muncipalities, etc., in storing their coal NOW will make available thousands of cars in the season of their greatest demrnd, and will mean a better satisfied public and more efficient railroads operation.

Your aid at this time in helping the railroads to catch up on the past few years of Legislative interference will quickly bring its reward in the form of further improved transportation service.

W. J. HARAHAN, President,
The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway-

Richmond, Va., August 1, 1923.

The New CAROLA

THE NIGHTENGALE OF PHONOGRAPHS

$25.00

Plays any standard 12 in record

COME IN AND HEAR IT

Moore & Poague
Beard, W. Va.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks for the kindness, and sympathy, shown to us by our neighbors, friends and attending physician during the sickness and death of our father J. D Dilley. May God bless you everyone.

The children

QUARTERLY CONFERENCE

Rev. Dr. L. E. Resseggsr will preach and hold quarterly conference at the Beulah (Campbelltown) M. E. Church on Sunday August 5, at 8:00 p. m. Everybody cordially invited to these services.

C. A. Powers, Pastor,

Influence and Safety

The influence of the bank on the daily life of the community is continually increasing, and it is not too much to say that just as the church stands for the highest ideals in the spiritual life, so the bank seeks to elevate and maintain them in the business and social life of the community.

BANK OF MARLINTON

Marlinton, West Virginia

LOCAL MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Schuchat are in Baltimore.

George W. Doyle, of Norton, was here last week on business

Miss Rebecca Sydnor is at home from her school near Washington.

Miss Margaret R. Price is home from Columbia University, New York.

Mrs. Minnie Ruckman of Millpoint, spent last week with her daughter, Mrs. D. B. Boggs.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gum, of Millpoint, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Boggs.

Miss Wilda Moore went to Elkins Wednesday to spend a few days with her sister, Mrs. Jarvis Taylor.

Miss Maggie F. Kerr and Miss Minnie White, of Woodrow, were visitors at this office on Monday.

Miss Margaret R Price is one of the instructors at the Shepherdstown Normal for the summer term

Miss Irene Thompson and Miss Florence Gibson, of the City Hospital Elkins, spent a few days on Elk this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Yeager were called to Huntington this week by the illness of their daughter, Miss Mildred, who is at school there.

Dr. Susan A. Price, of Williamsburg, Va., spent a few days with her mother, Mrs. Anna L. Price, last week. She returned to Williamsburg Saturday afternoon.

A. C. Barlow is making a great showing at the County Fair grounds, building track and digging ditches. The main ditch is over two thousand feet long.

W. O. Doyle and family, of East Bank, near Charleston, who spent the month of May at Linwood, passed Marlinton on their way home by automobile. They were accompanied by W. H. Doyle.

S. C. Galford was over from Elk on last Wednesday to attend the Grammar School graduating exercises. He was accompanied by his children, Eula Buelah. Clyde, Elbert and Herbert Miss Beulah was one of the graduates

Captain George M. Ford, State Superintendent of Schools, was in Marlinton last Wednesday to address the eighth grade graduates of the Huntersville and Edray Districts—thirty-fou in number. The exercises were held in the high school auditorium and were well attended.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. F. B Wyand, Pastor.
Sunday School 9:45, prompt
A. S. Overholt, Superintendent.

11 a. m. Morning worship, sermon subject: "What is the Matter with the Church of Today?"

7:15 Epworth League.

6 p. m. Preaching services.

The sermon to the high school graduating class was delivered by Dr. John I. Armstrong Sunday night.

MILLPOINT

Tom and Carl Beard are doing a rushing business farming with their Fordson Tractor.

Mr. Kramer has been doing some good work on the road from Millpoint to Rush McNeill's.

Our telephone linesman, Henry Poage, is improving the lines that havebeen in bad condition. Mr. Poage is an experienced telephone man, and we hope that we will be fortunate enough to keep him. He is a firstclass carpenter, blacksmith, farmer, and master of all trades. About a year ago Mr. Poage invented a churn, and has been granted a patent by the U. S. Patent Office at Washington. We wish him much success in the selling of his patent as as it is a very complete machine and a skillful piece of work.

The Oak Crest poultry farm has enough baby chicks to supply all of West Virginia, from the way it looks when you are passing by We are glad to see our farmers getting down to real business.

Our Sunday Sceool at Marvin Chapel is progressing nicely with Mr. Arbogast as superintendent.

Allen Burgess, who has a contract for cutting timber for the Marlin Lumber Company at Stillwell, spent Sunday with his family.

W. NcClintic finished cutting the Ruckman tract of timber at Marvin last week.

We are glad to see our old friend J. A McLaughlin in the race for the house of delegates. Mr. McLaughlin proved to be a faithful worker while there before, so let us all pull together and send the man that will accomplish our many needs and wants

Work is plentiful around here but wages seem to be like the soldiers bonus bill. We don't know where the money is coming from.

TOP ALLEGHANY

Elmer Wilfong and Miss Mabel Simmons were married in Cumberland last week.

Myles Simmons' baby has been vefy sick but is much better.

W. H. Barkley sf Cloverlick, was visiting relatives here recently.

W. Lee Wilmoth was a business caller in Durbin Friday.

K B. Wilmoth is having a good house. Sam Elliott is contractor.

Lester Simmons and Miss Lambert. daughter of Fallen Lambert, were married at Brush Run Church Sunday evening.

Mrs. Mary Barkley is spending some time with relatives here.

James Wilfong is fencing his farme purchased from Glen Lowry and Carl Augustus.

CALF CLUB PROJECT

The first colemn gives the gain for seven months; the second, gain for period April 10 to May 9, and the third, the feed cost.

Dick Nottingham	284	15	$1 44
*Henry Rodgers	137	52	3 98
Harper Beard	370	58	5 64
Edward Wallace	236	64	5 20
Joe Gay	150	30	6 99
Alfred Gay	142	30	5 25
Delbert Cogar	97	20	2 12
Earl Kidd	406	51	5 75
Mary Moore	390	90	6 28
Olive Hevener	329	40	3 42
Mathew Beard	216	40	3 81

Frank Harper, behind on report.

It is interesting to note that the calf belonging to Mary Moore has gained 175 pounds in the last sixty days

*Gain for three feeding periods

KLENZO DENTAL CREME 25¢

For white teeth and a clean mouth. Just the most delightful dental preparation you ever used. With Klenzo, children don't have to be urged at toothcleaning time. Take a tube home to try.

Royal Drug Stores
Marlinton and Renick, W. Va

MACRO - SAL

For Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, and Neuralgia of Rheumatic origin.

Pamphlet giving specific directions and diet-list of utmost importance to rheumatic people mailed on request from our office.

Price $1 per Bottle

Your dealer can supply you

Distributed by
S. B. WALLACE & CO.
Wholesale Druggists
Marlinton, W. Va.

CLAN MAC NEIL

The Neales are of royal lineage, and for 500 years they were the dominant power in Ireland. You may spell the name as you will—Neale, Nealle, Neele, Nial, O'Neill or McNeal—but you still have the same origin, the word meaning "champion" with all its splendid and romantic history.

"O'Neill, or Nial, of the nine hostages," is one of the greatest of the ancient heroes The last but one of the pagan Kings of Irelane, he was by chance the means of introducing Christianity, for he carried off by piratical descent upon a Roman Colony a young boy, who was afterward the apostle of Ireland—St. Patrick. Neill was of clan of Neill, one of the leading septs of the North of Ireland. Romantic and thrilling are the stories told of him.

He had many sons, eight of whom became fouuders of important clans The prosterity of four, who settled in the South of Ireland, were called the Southern Hui, or Hy Neill. The other four went to Ulster and made swordland of a large part of it. Their descendants were the Northern Hui Neill. Posterity were called by different names—the O'Neills, O'Donnells and so on. Daughters of the Druids must be counted in when [illegible]king out an ancestral record, for Ethne "the Terrible" was an O'Neill and the daughter of a Druid. She was slain in battle with her husband.

Iu the literary world the Neal family, spell the name as you will, have been shining lights. Hector McNeill, a Scottish poet of the eighteenth century wrote enduring yerse which charms by its romantic appeal. "I loved ne'er a lassie but one" "O [illegible]ll me how for to woo," and Jeanie's black e'e," these are delightfully simple lines, attractive in their simplicity.

An historian of the family was Daniel Neal, born in Great Britain. He visited Boston 90 years after the settlement and wrote a history of the town, in which he was kind enough to say: "The conversation in this town is as polite as in most of the towns of England, so that a gentleman from London would almost think himself at home in Boston. The houses, furniture, tables, dress and conversation are perhaps as splendid and showy as those of tradesmen in London." This history was reprinted as late as 1848.

Statesmen belong to the family as well as poets and historians. William Neile grandson of Richard Neile, Archbishop of York; was a member of the Privy Council of Charles 11 He died at an early age "of deep melancholly through love for a maid of honor." Parental disapproval prevented the marriage. may be added by way of explanation, lest we fear his love was not returned

Ten years after the arrival of the Mayflower, Captain Walter Neale set foot on these shores. He had a patent which included a large slice of New Hampshire, and he became Governor of the southern part of the state.

He was called Sir Walter in records of the time. He lived the strenuous life for 'he drove away pirates, hung an Indian and made a survey and map of the territory." The rest of the time he was disciplining the colonists with a stern, firm hand.

James, a brother of Captain Walter Neale, was one of the founders of Dover, N. H., and descendants are eligible to "Founders and Patriots." Another New England colonist was John Neal a descendant of the John Neal who married Anne Cromwell, a cousin of Oliver Cromwell. Haleys, Pipers, Richers and Herseys are among the New England family of Neals

The founder of the Maryland Neales was James Neale, Admiral of the Royal Navy, and a favorite at the court of Charles 1. His wife Anne. had been maid of honor to Queen Henrietta Maria, and when the King was executed, among the rings distributed to personal friends one came to Anne Neale, and is still a treasured relic.

The first mention of the Neales in Virginia is in 1530, when John Neale "gent," had a grant from the crown of 50 acres in Accomac County Nine years later he was a member of the House of Burgesses. His wife was Elizabeth Southey. Captain, Charles. Richard and Christopher were also Burgesses Christopher was Justice of Northumberland County from 1685 to 1719 Descendants of any of the Neales of Virginia are eligible to many patriotic societies. To have a Burgess for an ancestor is to be lucky indeed Neales had homes in King William, Pocahontas, Fauquier and Mason Counties, Virginia, as well as in Accomac County. The McNeills of Pocahontas county are connected with the Caldwells, Shaffers, Cochrans and Morrows This branch of the McNeills is of Scotch-Irish descent and the "first settler" come over in colonial times to the Old Dominion. Thomas McNeil of the second generation here married Mary Ireson. He had a plantation of several hundred acres This was before 1770 He was the father of four sons who rejoiced (let us hope they rejoiced) in the Biblical names Absolom, Jonathan, Enoch and Gabriel. The two daughters were Mary and Naomi. Jonathan McNeill, who married Phoebe Moore, also had four sons, three of whom became the heads of families One, William McNeill, married Nancy, daughter of Jonathan Griffey, born in Switzerland, who came over with Lafayette. and was in the continental army, Any who trace [illegible] to William and Nancy (Griff[illegible]) McNeil have records galore.

The Polks af North Carolina, who are of Irish ancestry, are kin to the McNeills. Clarissa Folk married Albert, son of Thomas McNeill. It is the Polk Family which gave us a President and a warrior Bishop

A. S. McN.

The Woodmen will hold their annual memorial service at the Huntersville Presbyterian church next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock Rev H. H. Orr will deliver the sermon.

Circuit Court next Tuesday June sixth.

STATE SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Pocahontas sent a large delegation to the State Convention at Elkins and we publish a list of their names so that all may know who shared the great privilege of attending the sessions and came in close touch with the many prominent Sunday School workers of the state and nation.

Little Levels Delagation—A. C. Stillwell, W. H. Good. M. Kellison, W. H. McMillion, Rev. J. C. Johnson Walter Vance, F. P. Kidd, D. M. Kennison, W. H. Wade, F. M. White J. M. Brosius, J. D. Pope, Chas Steele, G R. Curry, G. O. Auldridge Edray—I. D Bill, Henry Gibson, Ruth Gibson, Ruby Hannah, G. V. Hanlin, S. N. Hench, J. Lanty Moore E. F. McLaughlin, Ivan H. Sharp, Mrs. H. G. Thomas, Miss Zoe Crummett, Rev. F. B. Wyand, Jas. N White.

Greenbank—Rev. Blackhurst, Mrs. A. C. Burnnr, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Hamilton, Miss Merle Moore, C. W. Moore, D. H. Jones, A. N. Smith, Mrs E. J. Shafer.

Huntersvitte—J. H. Bussard, Mrs J. H. Doyle.

These delegates represented Sabbath Schools from every corner of the county, and district presidents will carry the inspiration of the state convention to the district conventions through these delegates. Our delegation was presented on the floor of the convention by a song led by J. M. Brosius, of Spice Rum, who compiled original words to the tune of "Brignten the Corner." The yell composed by G. C. Hamilton was as follows:

Poky poky Pocahontas,
Perhaps we're slow but you've nothing on us:
We're short, we're tall,
We're lean we're fat,
We're here, see that!

For our demonstration of this yell the first prize was awared by the General Secretary.

The program was varied and consisted of addresses and demonstrations covering every phase of the departments of Sunday Suhool work. Sunday School evangelism was the watchword of this convention and every teather and worker was charged with the responsibility of placing the hands of every boy and girl in the hand of the Master to be safe.

Every courtesy was shown the delegates by the good people of Elkins, and while they entertained about five hundred delegates, they were well able to care for many more.

One address stated that Sabbath school workers were engaged in the Biggest Job in America and the result of their work would decide the future welfare of America. Eighty-three out of every hundred accessions to the Church come from the Sunday School and for everyone brought into the church four are lost.

These statistics bring us face to face with more earnest work and efficiency in teaching the Bible in our Sunday Schools.

Sunday School superintendents will please insist on having a report from each delegate at the session of their school. Next Convention will meet in Wheeling. H.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.
9:45 a. m, Sunday School.
1 a. m. A Message of Seedtime.
7:15 p m C. E. Consecration service.
8:00 p. m. The Jailor's Question.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pritchard, May 30, a son.

NOTICE

There will be an ice cream, cake, pie and chicken supper at Stony Bottom church, Saturday June 3, 1922 at 8 o'clock p. m. Every one cordially invited to come and bring your friends. Proceeds go to good cause.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our thanks and appreciations to our neighbors and friends for the many acts of kindness shown us during the illness and death of our dear husband and father, and to those who sent flowers. May God's richest bleesings ever be with them.

Mrs. Phil Edmiston & Family.
Cass, W. Va

For Sale

One 5 room house and all necessary out buildings. 2 lots all ready planted in garden.

1 brown mare 8 years old, a fine worker and driver.

1 one horse wagon and harness,

1 buggy and harness

1 feed cutter, a lot of garden and farming implements, a lot of corn and oats and shredded fodder, 2 shoats, 3 months old, pure bred Poland China.

If you are looking for a bargain see A. Reynolds, at Campbelltown, P. O Marlinton. W Va

National Normal School Of Music

SLATY FORK, POCAHONTAS COUNTY, W. Va.
June 12 to 24, 1922.
Prof. J H. Hall, of Harrisonburg, Va., Principal.

Good board and room in excellent families at very reasonable prices. For circulars and information, write the secretary, IVAN SHARP, Slaty Fork, W. Va.

Notice

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Review and Equalization for Pocahontas County, West Virginia, will meet at the Courthouse thereof, Tuesday, the 20th day of June, 1922 for the purpose of reviewing and equalizing the assessment of the County, on the Land and Personal Property Books, returned by the Assessor of said Pocahontas County for the year 1922, as required by Section 10, of Chapter 29, of Barnes Code of West Virginia (1916 Edition.)

Given under my hand this the 30th day of May, 1922.

S L. BROWN,
Clerk County Cour.

Notice Of Trustee's Sale

Pursuant to authority vested in me by virtue of a certain deed of trust, bearing date the 20th day of August, 1920, executed by R R. Snedegar and Susie Snedegar, his wife, to me as Trustee, to secure the bank of Hillsboro in the payment of a certain note in the sum of $3100.00, which note was renewed as of the 20th day of April, 1921, and due since August 20th, 1921, which deed of trust is of record in the office of the Clerk of the County Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in Trust Deed Book No. 12 at Page 3, and also in the office of the Clerk of the County Court of Greenbrier County, West Virginia, in Trust Deed Book No. 15 at page 656; I will, on the 24th day of June, 1922, commencing at 10 o'clock in the forenoon at the front door of the Bank of Hillsboro, in the Town of Hillsboro, West Virginia, proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder, the following timber, timber rights, and personal property, to-wit:

1. All the merchantable timber on that certain tract of land known as Luther Morrison's home place, adjoining the lands of Neff Morrison and others, bounded as follows: On the northeast by the lands of Neff Morrison, and running from his line across the head of hollow to the top of a ridge on the lands of the said Luther Morrison, and down the top of the ridge so as to include all the timber that will naturally operate down said hollow to the lower end of the timber, thence back to the Neff Morrison line; being the timber and timber rights conveyed to R R Snedegar by Luther Morrison and wife by deed bearing date the 1st day of April, 1920, of record in Pocahontas County in deed book 57 at page 475.

2. All of the merchantable timber both standing and down, (there being about 50 000 feet of logs cut) on that certain tract of land situate on Droop Mountain, adjoining the lands of J. M. Cutlip, Mike McClure, Mike Gillilan and August Reim, known as the home place of Julia Ann Copenhaver, and being the timber and timber rights conveyed to the said R. R. Snedegar by Julia Ann Copenhaver by deed bearing date the 22nd day of March, 1920, of record in Pocahontas County in deed book 57 at page 476.

3. All of the merchantable timber on that certain tract of land situate on Droop Mountain, known as the Maggie Cutlip home place, bounded on the east by J. M. Cutlip, on the south by the J H Walton lands, on the west by the turnpike, and on the north by Fred Dean, and being the timber and timber rights conveyed to said R. R. Snedegar by Maggie Cutlip and husband by deed bearing date the 1st day of April 1920, of record in Pocahontas County in deed book 57 at page 478.

4. About 60,000 feet of manufactured lumber, principally oak and chestnut, now at the saw-mill seat on the P. W. Simmons land on Droop Mountain

5. About one car load of cross ties, at the same place.

6. One lot of switch ties, at the same place.

7. One saw-mill, engine and boiler complete, as follows: One No. 10 40-horse power boiler manufactured by the Ames Iron Works, Oswego, N Y., and one 25-horse power stationary engine manufactured by the same company; one No. 4 American sawmill with track, ways, edger and cut-off, and all equipment now with said saw mill and belonging to the same, said saw-mill, engine and boiler being located on the P W. Simmons land on Droop Mountain, and near the standing timber and logs hereinbefore mentioned.

Also on the same date, commencing at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, at the home farm of said R. R. Snedegar, near Jacox, Pocahontas County, the following live stock:

Seventeen cows, eleven calves, one three-year old heifer, and two two-year-old heifers. These are white face cattle and of a high grade.

TERMS OF SALE: Cash on day of sale.

Given under my hand this 24 day of May, 1922.

A. P. EDGAR,
TRUSTEE.

ANNOUNCING

Concord Normal Summer School

June 7th - August 4th
Six or nine weeks

COUSRES

High School, Short Normal, Standard Normal, College, Teachers' Review Music and Commercial.

DIFFERENT SUBJECTS

Nearly one hundred subjects offered in above courses Students can get practicaly anything they want.

FACULTY

Faculty of twenty-five members educated in the best Normal Schools, Colleges and Universities.

EXPENSES

Board and room in Dormitories $22 per month In private families a little more. Tuition $1 per week.

AMUSEMENTS

Baseball, hockey, tennis, hikes, &c

ADVANTAGES

Teachers can secure "Coupons of Credit" worth about $30, may be excused from institute attendance, can demand better salaries. First class high school graduats can secure temporary certificate; can secure certificate renewal.

LOCATION

In the heart of the mountains nearly 3,000 feet above sea level, wonderful summer climate, cool, invigorating, healthful, ideal for recreation and study.

BULLETIN ON REQUEST

C. C. ROSSY, Pres.
FRED A. FORSTER, Director

ATHENS, W. VA

The Women's Club realized over $40 at their food sale last Saturday. This money goes toward the salary of a playground infructor, who will be here about June 15.

WOOL

Having made a contract for 2 car loads of wool to be shipped at once. I can pay you more than any one in the county. Please write me how much wool you have, or see me before you sell. If price means anything, Kelmenson has the price.

H. KELMENSON
Marlinton, W. Va.

FINE GRAZING LAND At Public Auction

Saturday, June 17, 1922

In front of the Marlinton Courthouse on Saturday, June 17, at two o'clock p. m., we the undersigned owners will offer for sale at auction the Big Ridge Pasture on Knapp's Creek in Huntersville District of Pocahontas County.

This grazing land lies west of the former Herold homestead and is bounded as follows; Beginning at the oak tree at the entrance gate, thence northeastward to top of the Little Pine Knob thence northward to chestnut tree below spring and at end of wire fence at E M. Buzzard corner, thence westward along line fence between E M. Buzzard and Herold Heirs, thence southward along line between Brown Moore pasture land and Herold heirs to southern corner opposite former Peyton Moore house, thence northeastward along or near the present fence to the point of beginning.

This tract is probably the largest and one of the finest bluegrass pastures in Huntersville District: well watered, well fenced, in good condition and with considerable hardwood and locust timber. It contains in the neighborhood of 180 acres and will graze 40 two-year-old cattle. With this property go explicit rights of way to the public road and a one-half interest in the Herold cattle scales

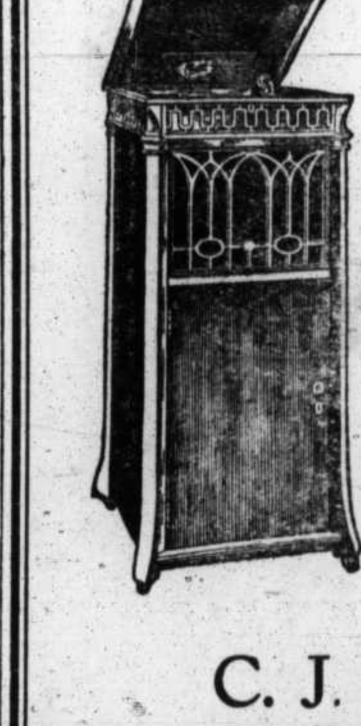
The owners reserve the right to reject any or all bids, and the privilege of cutting sufficient locust timber to fence the Herold graveyard

TERMS—One-fourth cash, and the remainder in three equal installments due and payable, with interest from date of possession, on Dec 1, 1922, 1923, and 1924. The buyer shall have the privilege of anticipating any or all payments.

Amos L., Henry V., E. W. Herold
Elizabeth, Lula and Reta Herold

ANDREW PRICE, L. M. McCLINTIC, Attorneys.

Edison's Re-Creations Reduced



And makes this a good time to buy those records you have been wanting for so long.

Only the owners of an Edison Phonograph know the real pleasure to be had from a perfect talking machine. Could a better one be made, Thomas A. Edison would have made it.

Come in for a demonstration

C. J. Richardson
Marlinton, W. Va.

Strawberries for Sale

85 cents, per gallon at farm or $1 00 delivered as far as Hillsboro and Marlinton. Orders wanted by express, berries will be delivered at express office 100 to 300 gallons Cash with order or when berries are delivered. Call, phone or write your wants. Will be ready to fill orders by June 5th.

W. A. Arbogast,
Millpoint, W Va.

Strawberries for Sale

First class strawberries fresh from the vine at reasonable price. Phone your order.

A. C. Young,
Marlinton, W Va.

Pickers Wanted

On Monday, June 5, I will need ten or fifteen strawberry pickers Pay by the quart. Men or women, boys or girls.

A. C. Young.

Want Coal Miners

30 men wanted to Mine Coal, pay every 2 weeks, steady work, no labor trouble.

AQUILA COAL CO
Prestonia, W Va

You will enjoy the Summer in Athens and Concord Normal. Send for bulletin of Summer School,

NOTICE

All persons having claims against the Boards of Education for janitor supplies, janitor service, fuel, etc. should turn in their accounts to the District Secretaries as early as possible. An accurate accounting of all school funds is demanded in order that the districts may file proper application for State Aid, and no claim for this year can be paid from next year's funds

G. D. McNeill,
County Financial Secretary

PAINTING

Spring is here, and time for cleaning up in general. A little painting brings back the old buildings same as new Work guaranteed or money back Address

Clyde Idleman
Durbin W. Va.

NOTICE

My wife, Flora Galford having left my support I will not be responsible for any debts she contract.

This 29th day of May 1922.

J W Galford.

NOTICE

My wife Permelia E. Jackson having left my support on May 1, 1922, I will not be responsible for any contracts she may make.

John W. Jackson.

FOR SALE—Beckwith upright piano, good as new. Also washing machine run by gasoline engine. If interested write or call and see them.

C. C WARF,
Sitlington, W. Va

Sale Continued

I will on September 7th and 8th, 1923, offer tor sale at my store

At Edray, W. Va.

One Studebaker Automobile in good condition
One lot of household furniture and store goods in abundance.

Come and supply your want

On account of farmers being busy in hay. My sale adv. for August 14th was continued the above date September 7th and 8th.

While waiting for sale days I will sell merchandise over my counter at reduced price.

Remember my entire stock of goods and store fixtures are for sale at a price that should interest a prospective buyer. Come and see me and look over my offer.

Thanking you for patronage and favors.
Yours truly,

J. E. Barlow

Potomac Normal School

An institution of learning maintaimed by the State of West Virginia whose work is organized under the following department

COLLEGE—The full years in the Arts and Sciences
One year of Engineering
Pre-Law Requirements

PREPARATORY—in which courses are offered meeting college entrance requirements.

HOME ECONOMICS—Two years of Vocational Home Economics. One year of College Home Economics.

AGRICULTURE—Two years of Vocational Agriculture
One year of College Agriculture.

COMMERCIAL—Complete courses in Business Training, Bookkeeping and Stenograghy.

MUSIC—Voice and Piano.

1923 SESSION OPENS SEPTEHBER 18

This school is splendid ly located: Financial support ample for all legitimate needs. Farm of 140 acres in connection with the school. Well trained and experienced men and women on Faculty. Graduates from College Department qualified to enter junior class of any college and university. Physical and Athletic training equal to any school in the state. Splendid dormitory accommodations at a cost about equal to staying at home. This is a school that seeks to maintain the home life of its students. A catalogue will tell you all about it. For a copy, address,

JOS. W. STAYMAN, Pres.
Keyser, W. Va.

Shepherd College State Normal School

Shepherdstown, W. Va.

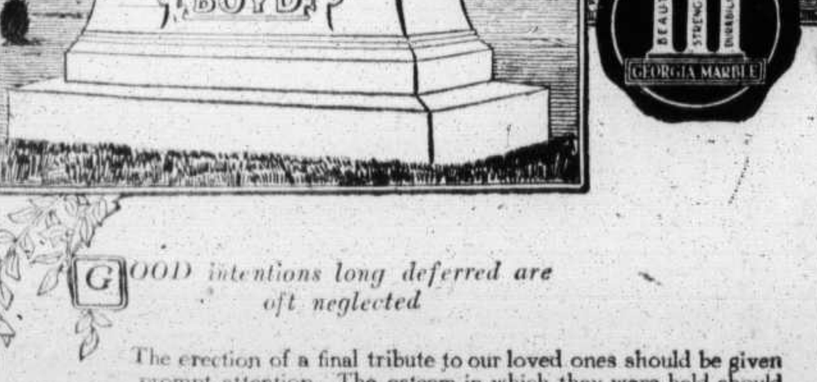
The School has just closed the greatest year, in point of number enrolled, in its history. 539 different students received instruction during the year.

FALL SEMESTERS OPENS SEPTEMBER 18, 1923

Rooms in the Men's ane Women's Dormitories are fast filling up. Rates are very reasonable.

Write for 1923-24 Catalog, to

W. H. S. WHITE, President.



GOOD intentions long deferred are oft neglected

The erection of a final tribute to our loved ones should be given prompt attention. The esteem in which they were held should be evidenced by a fitting memorial.

Care should be taken, however, to select a material which is not only beautiful, but which can retain forever its original beauty.

GEORGIA MARBLE possesses this attribute. It is formed of tiny overlapping crystals, making it non-absorbent and giving it the essential qualities of beauty, strength and durability.

Its beauty and evenness of texture and its adaptability to design, makes GEORGIA MARBLE the ideal monumental material.

We will show you designs for beautiful memorials in GEORGIA MARBLE

SOUTHERN MARBLE & GRANITE CO. 2

GEORGIA MARBLE

See Z. S. SMITH, Our Authorized Agent,
MARLINTON, - - - - - WEST VIRGINIA
For your needs in Monuments and Tombstones. Prices lower than else where work and material guaranteed.

BEES need pure bees-wax, call and see me before you sell, also I handle bee supplies.

L. O. SIMMONS,
Marlinton, West Virginia

A 15,000 MILE JOURNEY

TOURING THE UNITED STATES FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN BY AUTO

BY DAVIS L. BARLOW

(Continued from last week)

We spent a night at Belleville, Kansas, and while here we learned that not many years ago the specifications for public buildings read a little different from that of the present day. The architect who wrote out the instructions for the first town hall erected in Belleville made them short and to the point. They read something as follows. It should be chunked with rock, daubed with mortar, covered with cottonwood shingles and have a door and a window.

The next day's drive, October 10, was through a rather thickly settled agricultural country which at one time had been a great range for buffalo. This animal's staughter by the early white settlers very much displeased the Indians and was the cause of many conflicts with them. It only took the whites a few years to send the buffalo to his land of rest.

Driving into Marysville, Kansas, where we had previously arranged to spend the night, I noticed covering the front of a brick store building an overgrown sign which read, John E. Barlow, Dealer in Everything Good to Eat." This sign indicated that he might belong to the tribe some of which members reside in Pocahontas. So I went in to see if he had the general characteristics which, other than big feet and toting a dollar watch, is a peculiar disposition that might be described as a cross between no account ness and a consuming evil; but he at the time was not in and the lady clerk said for me to come back soon, as she looked for Mr. Barlow in any moment. I later returned, and in our long conversation that evening as well as next morning, I could see the dodge, and the old imaginative comparison method of speaking which belongs to the whole race. He said he often received mail intended for John Barlow, of Marysville, Missouri, and had taken up with him the matter or relationship, but appeared their forefathers had come to America on different boats. Evidently this John of Missouri is a descendant of William who left Pocahontas near a century ago and spent the last years of his life not many days journey from where this Missouri John now lives.

Near Maryville, Kansas, flows the the Big Blue river and but a short distance from the site of the present bridge across river a man by the name of Marshall operated a ferry, setting across those who followed tne overland trail to Pikes Peak and California during the exciting gold days. This county is named in honor of Marshall while Marysville is named for his wife, Mary. This was one of the principal stopping places when the great rush to the gold fields was on, and from what I can gather this place at that time was the scene of much exciting and interesting history. Let some old Pocahontas wagoner polish his memory bump with a few drops of 3 in 1 oil and give ns from his imagination a word picture of a night scene at the Bip Blue river ferry which in the days of old was one of the principal gateways to the great and boundless west.

Marysvillerhas a population of some 3000, and is the division headquarters of the Union Pacific railroad.

On our journey from Marysville to Hiawatha we noted nothing of special interest. Here in this town of some 3000 souls we, for a few hours, retired from active business, and a little afternoon the next day, October 13, we were on the bank of the Missouri river, bidding adieu to Kansas.

The word Kansas is from the Indian language, meaning "smoky water." This section of country was first visited by the Spanish in 1541 and was acquired by the United States as a part of the Louisiana Purchase. When its territorial government was organized in 1854, the slave questicn was at white heat and Kansas was to be a free slave state according to the will of the majority of her voters. So bitter was the feeling between the slave and free adherents that the state was long known as "Bleeding Kansas." It was finally (1857) admitted into the Union as a free state, but the fight did much to imbitter the feeling both in the north and south and not only made certain but hastened the dreadful days of 61 to 65 You will not perhaps find in your school history an account of a single Civil war battle fought on Kansas territory, but nevertheles the state was the scene of much warfare known as "jay hawking."

Kansas, in the days following the bitter campaign over slavery, was the scene of many bold and daring deeds in the way of bank and train robberies. Some of the most daring have been charged to the James and Younger boys. These boys may or may not have had a hand in it. When a boy old enough to have been a graduate of some college, but still in the second or third reader grade, I often turned through and looked at the pictures in a book entitled The Lives ofthe James and Younger Brothers and to this good day I never meet a westerner who I think might have known them but what I make some inquiry. Just recently while camping with a South Dakota physician, who, at my mentioning the James boys, told me the story of his own boyhood days. He among other things said: "I was working for a railroad contractor in the state of Missouri. My boss was the biggest, broadest shouldered, and kindest hearted man I ever knew. I being a boy, the big boss seemed to give me his special care and attention. He took me with him wherever he went, and a number of times in the saloon when the guns were in action, this big man would carry me out an say, "Boy, this is no place for you." "And I," continued the Dr. "loved this big man so fondly that I made up my mind that I would never leave him. But one night the word came that Jesse James han beem shot, and the next morning my big boss was gone, and I, to this moment, have not heard a word as to his whereabouts. Undoubtedly I was working for one of Jesse's partners."

I thought as the doctor was relating his story I could see his big friend in one of the scenes as described in my old book. This scene pictured a fight which had taken place between officers and bandits some distance from the place of robbery. In the fight one bandit was killed and his body laid out in a farmer's home. As I remember it was the day following the fight and at a time when all the men were out searching for the robbers that three bandits come out of a cornfield near the farm home and requested the land-lady to permit them to see their dead comrade. The request being granted the three men with bared heads stood some moments beside the remains of the deceased bandit and it was noticed that tears rolled down the cheeks of the largest man and fell into the face of the dead comrade. Leaving the house the three men again entered the cornfield and were not afterwards seen. It just seems to me this big, broad shouldered, sympathetic man was the doctor's boss.

The man who lived on my farm at Green Bottom, West Virginia, spent many years of his early life on the plains of Kansas and he told me that on one morning as he was galloping over the prairie looking for his horses he noticed in a clump of cotton wood some distance from him three or four men who had a little fire and their horses were nibbling at the grass near by. He was riding toward them when one man stepped out and waved him to turn. This he did without further orders. That day near the spot of this mornings scene occurred one of the great train robberies of the state, and he firmly believes that the men he saw were the famous James and Younger brothers. But the country is now thickly settled and such daring deeds only live in history.

CECIL L. CURTIS

Cecil L. Curtis was born June 15, 1898 and died August 5, 1923, aged 25 years, one month and twenty days. He was the beloved son of C. L. Curtis and Nannie E. Curtis. His mother preceded him nineteen years ago He is survived by his father, C. L Curtis, Mrs. J. I Lockridge, Mrs Herman Shiflett, and Kyle Curtis

Cecil was a cripple for eighteen years with a disease which finally developed into tuberculosis which caused his death. He endured a lot of pain but bore it patiently.

He professed his faith in Christ and United with the Church of the Brethren. He knew for several days that he was going to leave us; but wished to live only that he could work for the Lord.

O Lord unto Thee I cry,
Thou art my rock and trust;
O be not silent lest I die
And slumber in the dust
O hear my earnest cry:
Thy favor I entreat
Hear while I lift imploring hands
Before thy mercy seat,
I rejoice in the Lord
I trusted in his name,
While in my affliction
His great deliverance came.

Father.

Preaching at Sharon Methodist Church next Sunday afternoon at 3:30 by Rev W. O. Talbert, presiding elder of Lewisburg District.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish thank the people of Beard and Clawson for their kindness during the sickness and at the death of our darling baby.

E. N. Carr and Family.

C. J. Richardson
Marlinton, W. Va.

Notice

The following is a list of fiduciarics whose accounts are before me for settlement: G. P. Baxter administrator of W. H. Baxter, deceased, Mrs. Fronna Loam admx, of Andrew Loam, deceased, Monroe Beard administrator of Ruby E. Kerr, deceased, Laura E. Livesay admx. of A. N. Livesay, deceased. F. M. Sydnor administrator of Jas. W. Auldridge, deceased, H. H. Brown administrator of Robert J. Brown, deceased, J. E. Taylor and D. R. Taylor executors of Clarissa Taylor, deceased.

Given under my hand this 1st day of August, 1923

P. T. WARD,
Commissioner of Accounts for Pocahontas County,

For Sale

One nine room dwelling house newly painted, and fine lot, good outbuilding,, best of water at the kitchen door. In the center of Greenbank on main road. A fine place for keeping boarders for the high school, etc. If interested come and see the property, or write me.

G. W. COWGER
Greenbank, W. Va.

MOONSHINE WHISKEY

Charleston, W. Va. Aug. 19—Chemical analysis of seven specimens of West Virginia moonshine has been made by the State Department of Health. Through courtesy of the city chemist of Charleston, the analysis was made in the Charleston laboratory where similar but less elaborate examinations are frequently made for the city police department. Three of the specimens analyzed were obtained from the State Prohibition Department, and four from the State Police. In selecting the liquor, none was taken that had been known to produce illness or death, but was just ordinary "likker" made in copper stills. Two of the specimens were confiscated at White Sulphur Springs, and were the kinds sold at fancy prices as West Virginia's best "corn". All contained things dangerous to life and health.

Much has been said about the dangers of illicit whiskey, but it is pointed out by the health department that figures for fatalities from drinking moonshine are very unsatisfactory for several reasons. First, there is often a tendency by those attendant at the patient's illness to protect his family and announce that death was due to heart failure perhaps, and fail to add "Superinduced by poison whiskey" or "alcoholism." Second, the reporting of deaths with cause in this state is extremely poor. Improvement in death reporting is one of the goals toward which the department of health is striving in order that morality records may be made somewhere near accurate.

CAREFUL TAKE OFF FRESH SALT BETTER PRICES FOR HIDES

The failure to exercise care in removing hides and skins from animals, and curing the same, has been a subject of general discussion among agriculturists, packers, dealers, tanners and others for several decades. It is generally known that better grades of "packer" hides and sking bring substantially higher prices than "country" hides and skins because of the skill that is used in flaying and curing them.

Realizing the loss resulting from the use of improper methods, the U. S. Department of Agriculture issued, in 1919, a valuable booklet (No. 1055) explaining in detail, with photographic illustrations, exactly how the operations of flaying and curing should be performed. About 60,000 copies of this booklet were distributed throughout the United States with good results.

Many thousands of hides and skins of better grades are imported into this country because the domestic supply of such raw stock is not adequate. While it will always be necessary to import a large proportion it does seem possible that more of our "country" stock of better quality could be made available to the tanning industry of the United States.

Therefore, the Tanner's Council makes the following appeal to producers of hides and skins in this country, including farmers, butchers and packers:

1 Exercise the utmost care in removing hides and skins from the animal's back with the idea of avoiding cuts and scores.

2 Use fresh, clean salt on such hides and skins immediately after removal. There is no strength in spent salt, and consequently no curing properties. Tanner's Council.

We are glad to announce that the general public has awaken to the fact that the EAST GATE ADDITION to the City of Roanoke is the largest and the best subdivision for the money that was ever offered in Roanoke City. This is thoroughly demonstrated to us from the fact that people are coming to Roanoke daily from all sections of the country and buying these lots at a rapid rate.

Bear in mind that the EAST GATE ADDITION is only a short distance from the center of the city and ranges in price from $150 to $800 per lot, on terms of approximately 5 per cent down and 2 1-2 per cent each month without interest or taxes, with an insurance clause in case of your death

If interested, go to Roanoke at once and call at our office at 634 MacBain Building, and ask for a free automobile ride to the EAST GATE ADDITION. If we can't show you the largest subdivision that was ever put on the market in the City of Roanoke and the best lot for the least money and on the easiest terms, we would not expect you to do business with us.

We also have a number of lots and truck farms located in the cities of Princeton, Athens, Beckley, Oak Hill, Pemberton, Montcalm, Bluefield and Iaeger, W. Va. and truck farms in the Ohio Valley near Huntington, sold on the same above mentioned easy terms. If you want a homesite or investment in the heart of the great West Virginia coalfield, this is your opportunity.

We will pay your railroad fare both ways to look at any of our property by giving you a receipt on your first monthly instalment; fare not to exceed $7 00, but if you can't go, be sure and write us at Princeton, W. Va. stating the property you are interested in and we will have one of our agents call on you at once.

We also have a number of both houses and truck farms located on the hard road and street car line between the cities of Princeton and Bluefield, W. Va

The Huntersville District Sunday School convention will be held at Trinity M. E. Church, Frost, September 1st, 1923. All Sunday school workers are invited to attend and give their co-operation in this convention. J. A. Reed, Sect'y.

CAR FOR SALE

A Ford Coupe, 1923 model, has been run about 500 miles, set of chains, extra new wheel rims and tires. etc. Price $450.

W. S. Camden,
Marlinton, W. Va.

ESTRAY—Brown horse left Marlinton May 9th, 7 years old, was seen near Joe Bussards, $15 reward. G. W. May, Marlinton, W. Va.

Memorial Stones

We have the most modern and best equipped factory south of Washington.

GET OUR PRICES

Clifton Forge Marble & Granite Works

Harry P. Burt, Prop.

CLIFTON FORGE - - - VIRGINIA

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager

HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC

Marlinton, West Virginia.

The New CAROLA

THE NIGHTENGALE OF PHONOGRAPHS

$25.00

Plays any standard 12 in record

COME IN AND HEAR IT

Moore & Poague
Beard, W. Va.

A share of your business solicited

T. S. McNEEL

INSURANCE AND BONDS

Marlinton W. Va.

Successor to Goodsell Insurance Agency

Life, Fire and Accident, Automobiles and Live Stock, Bonds of all kinds, Money to Loan on Farms.

Office 2nd floor, First National Bank Building.

For Sale

80 acres of land near Dunmore, 20 acres under fence, 12 acres in sod; well watered, good rough house, good cellar; plenty of fruit. Quite a lot of good timber. Good neighborhood. Priced right.

Also good six room house and lot at Cloverlick.

WALTER BIRD,
Cloverlick, W. Va.

FOR SALE—Residence in Hillsboro, including one acre of land, eight room house, good barn and all outbuildings. The best location in town.

Dr. J. W. R. SMITH,
Hillsboro, W. Va

Farm For Sale

Farm of 104 acres more of less of good limestone land; about 30 acres in cultivation, balance in pasture and woodland, wodland second growth black walnut, locust, elm, oak poplar &c. One and one-half miles to school and church. Two miles to postoffice, store, mills, &c., 4 1-2 miles to railroad station, 4 miles to high school. Farm is on State road seven miles from Marlinton. Fair house, good outbuildings, good young orchard of peach and apple trees; a lot of old apple trees.

Price $8,000, and if sold at once will include 6 acres of good corn 2 acres of potatoes, 3 1-2 acres soy beans All machinery and farming implements, including good Conklin wagon Price of farm alone for immediate acceptance $7,500. Terms on part if desired.

Come see this good little farm or write,

H. F. Arbogast,
Millpoint, W. Va.

DELCO-LIGHT
"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue

ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES

Marlinton Electric Co.

DEALERS

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THURSDAY APRIL 20, 1922

In the Saturday Evening Post of April 8th, there is a story headed "Traveler's Repose." It is by a writer whose works are well known to us, so well that we have to be hard up for something to read, to follow him at all, though we usally read the Saturday Evening Post religiously, from kiver to kiver. This writer's name is Joseph Hergesheimer, and he always has some kind of a lesson to inculcate, and that does not suit us, who turn to fiction for surcease from sorrow, and not for instruction. We are thinking about quitting the pursuit of fiction all together for a curious reason. So many of the tale tellers are young and have a cruel way of classing people of our age as old. We hold with the old lady of this county who is ninety-eight and who has no patience with her daughter who is eighty when she complains of age.

So while the name "Traveler's Repose," had a familiar sound as that of the famous old tavern in the Upper Tract, we paid no attention to it for some time until we chanced to see that it referred to that identical place now called by the name of Bartow. Then with a sigh of duty we set down to see what the scandal was all about. Knowing the country pretty well, we soon saw that the story was laid on both sides of the Main Alleghany, in Highland and Pocahontas Counties. Mr. Higskrammer calls the county Greenstream and the nearest city Stenton and so forth.

It seems that Mr. Hillsbarker spent some months along the Staunton and Parkersburg turnpike and that the famous motion picture play, "Tol'ble David," is the result of his visit and that it was flimflammed in these, our mountains. And it is with the feeling of keen regret that we recently passed this play in the big city and did not go in to see it. We felt an urge too, and that was the subconscious knowledge that the play was about our own country, but it is only a matter of time when the play will be given here, for these are the days when Birnam wood comes to Dunsinane.

Mr. Helhepper is pleased to observe that in Greenstream county that girls and women were ornamental only when they were very young, not more than fifteen or sixteen, and then only in the hours between their duties in the house and dairy. They married at once, after a few dances, a short courtship, and retired definitely to an existence of utility.

That shows that the famous author is either a chicken fancier, or that he is going blind, and should see either a preacher or a doctor. But then it is to be remembered that when publishers pay twenty-five cents a word for copy, that they are responsible for a lot of twaddle.

The study that the author has made of our country is dealt out by imagining a young man of moonshine blood going to the great war and coming back so far reformed as to abolish the still in his parlor. He is furthermore so impressed with the sin and misery of the world, and so imbued with the peace and contentment of the woods and hills, that he conceives a plan of going about as a kind of a preacher trying to convince the people that they are greatly favored by their isolation, and that the thing to do is to let the world go by. Keep out all the vain things of the earth. Be sufficient unto ourselves. Form a community that would be known all over the world for righteousness. Get back to the good old days. Make an impregnable fortress of contentment. He was misunderstood. The storekeeper thought that he meant to keep out mail order goods. Some wicked young men thought he ought to set up the still again. His sweetheart turned sour, and so forth. He was not getting along very well with it. His plans seemed to lack details, but the people heard him, and paid about as much attention to him as they would to any other teacher.

And just as he had got to be known as a worker who went about giving unsought advice, a moving picture outfit came in to shoot a film and to scatter the fame of the county far and wide, and in a dispute with this worldly invasion, our hero got into a fight with the director of the picture people, and the director got shot so badly that he died out. Unhappily that killing exemplifies the life here. Few fights, but when a fight does come, it is apt to be fatal. So he has a hard time to get the hero out of the Happy Valley of Amhara, but the sweetheart having got over her pouting spell comes back and shows him the way down a kind of Still House Run, and so far as the record discloses, the young man is still at large, though married. Reminds one of Opie Reed's "Wives of the Prophet."

We do not wish to appear harsh, and we are not willing to accept the plan of wearing homespun and doing without imports, but after reading what Mr. Hopscotch hath written, we have decided to do our own writing, and not trouble him for another helping.

It is a regretful thing that we have to contend with so many killings We cannot get away from the fatal consequences. Men fight to the finish. And the particular brand of moonshine that is handed out nowadays seems to invoke the spirit of murder.

Last week we reviewed the case of Roy Houchin and the killing that followed a pleasant evening marred by the use of liquor and the killing at the end.

And this week, two days of the court was taken up in the trial of Henley Alberts for killing his brother-in-law, Elza Hinkle, at the end of another such family party with visitors, after an evening of feasting, music, dancing and drinking. The defendant was a rather irregular, sandy haired young man of twenty-eight, who wore spectacles, and looked about as harmless as any man in the room. But he had the thick neck, blood in the face, devoid of imagination lock, so often observed in murderers. We have known a good many, and we have yet to see one who showed that he had any grasp on future events, or any power to project his mind forward. Murderers do not realize that they are going to be hung until they feel the halter draw.

Alberts was found guilty of murder in the first degree and sentenced to life imprisonment. It was impossible to tell whether he was glad or sorry. He did not seem to be intrigued.

The verdict was right in our opinion, but we consider that it was the force of circumstances that got the prisoner into his trouble. There is a famous series of cartoons known as Mutt and Jeff, in which Jeff is ill treated with great regularity. He has died a thousand deaths at the hands of Mutt. And it was apparent that this man Alberts had been the underdog for years with a dangerous, overbearing brother-in-law. But when Alberts did the killing, he was so inept about it, that he did about everything that could have been done on the spur of the moment to pull off a killing that would make a hanging matter out of it.

Three woodsmen came to the house of Hinkle and Alberts, where they lived together, after supper one Sunday night in January, and they brought there a half gallon of death and damnation, doubly distilled and dangerous. The occasion of their stopping was that they had walked all the way from Cranberry woods and wanted some supper. The booze was passed around and Alberts took two drinks at least. Now liquor which makes life take on a rosy, hopeful tinge, as a usual thing, may with the innate perversity of inanimates, have just the opposite effect. This time it made Alberts mind dwell on murder. It does look like murder pervades the air sometimes.

Hinkle, whose time had come, addressed a remark in friendliness to Alberts, and Alberts replied, "Yes, but—" It was no time for buts What Alberts then said was apropos of nothing. "But you said you would kill me once." What an answer was that! His mind must have been charged with murder, for Hinkle jumped to his feet and showed a knife. He also seemed to have taken the precaution to put a saw swedge, (hand anvil) in his pocket. But the fuss was over in a fleeting moment. Alberts got a rifle and fired it while struggling with one of the woodsmen. And the woodsman got the rifle, emptied the magazine and hid it, and all thought the trouble was over again. Then Alberts came into the room where Hinkle was. Alberts was walking with his body tense and a knife held high, and in a twinkling of an eye had given one downward slash, and almost cut Hinkle's shoulder off. Hinkle then ran. The surgeons say that when a man is bleeding to death that he will run as far as he can and fall. Hinkle travelled for about two hundred steps. His journey was marked by a blood trail. It led him to the county road and he died in the road.

Alberts exulted. He challenged the world to conflict. The woodsmen ran. Alberts took the trail left by his victim and found him dead and returned to the house and told his mother and Hinkle's wife that Elza lay dead in the road. When the man was found, the head was nearly severed from the body. Alberts denies that he is guilty of this atrocity, though no one else could have done it. Alberts went to the house of George Ramsey and in a wild incoherent manner came in on them at midnight carrying an open knife covered with blood, and told them that he had killed Hinkle.

These are some of the salient facts developed at the trial. Alberts was guilty not only of hard words but the blow, and to add to his offense the wild, insensate attack on the dead body of his victim added to the natural repugnance with which society viewed him. He was no student of murder as a fine art as portrayed by DeQuincy and other writers. He went wild with all the ferocity of a beast, and when he came into court it had passed from him and he sat there blinking through his spectacles listening to the case, and not taking a very intelligent interest in it either. so far as anyone could determine by his indifferent attitude. He went on the stand and testified that he was fighting for his life and that he defended himself with an open knife against a fighter who also had an open knife. But there were so many direct witnesses to disprove his story. He denied going to the neighbor's house, so far as his recollection served, and also denied having mutilated the dead body. It is possible that the liquor that he had drunk had brought on a period of forgetfulness. It is a well known fact that a drunken man may engage in many activities of which he remembers nothing when he is sober. But the witness claimed to remember the minutest details of the killing. It would have been better for him if he could have pleaded temporary insanity through the effect of liquor, for that generally reduces the offense to murder in the second degree, dating from the Bible, which declares that wounds without cause come from the use of wine, and if light wines and beer are responsible, there is hardly any length too great to go under the devils aroused in a man's soul after a dose of moonshine liquor.

And during this session at the typewriter we try to connect up the discussion of mountain character by a city writer, in which he intimates that the mountain women are not attractive, and the men dangerous; a write up of moonshine and murder cases at a big court; and a famons lecture from the lyceum bureau at the high school about the feuds and killings of Breathitt county and other counties in eastern Kentucky, which invites us to give thanks that we, his polite audience, are not as these other men are.

So we have to play all these cards including the speeches made by able laywers about the killer, in which prosecuting attorney paints him a fiend in human form, and the attorneys for the defense as an unfortunate man caught in the fell clutch of circumstances. No wonder the Psalmist hastened to say with conviction, that all men are liars. For out of the same mouth can come blessings and cursings about the same identical thing.

And while we know we have the best people in the world, the poor sinful world, yet we have to admit that we have murder trials, sandwiched between moonshine cases. And when the stage was set the other day and the expectant audience had gathered to hear the dramatic story of a horrible killing, a whisper went through the throng like wind through ripened grain, that a few minutes before there had been a killing by shooting at Cass, and that the killer had been caught, and that in due course there would be another attraction in the way of a murder trial at the court house. O why should the spirit of mortal be proud!

We were interested in the curious persistence of Charles Vandevender, in the so called art of bootlegging. He seems to be devoted to the profession. He is a big broad shouldered six footer who looks like he could do as much work as any man. He lives at Thornwood the next town above Traveler's Repose, and while he did not have a still in his parlor he did have five gallons of white or colorless moonshine whiskey there that carried a boquet that reached beyond the fourth row of seats. Vandevander is well known at the county seat having recently served some time in the county prison, and being a docile member of that institution, he was let go before his time.

Suspicion attached to him again, and a search warrant was issued for his castle, and the officers went there to inquire. Vandevender was not at home to his visitors, and Sheriff Beard, who is about the most efficient and most polite of all Virginia gentlemen, regretted to disturb the family, and told them that he would conduct the search with the least possible annoyance to his neighbor And in the front room almost the first thing that he saw was five half gallon jars of moonshine. It looked like he had been expected and that the fatal stuff was set out where he could not help but see it. The prosecuting attorney referred to it as it set on the table in charge of the stenographer as an exhibit, that it was enough poison to kill every body in the room.

While the sheriff was packing up to leave the premises, two other jars was practically forced on him, in that they were carried from the house to the woodshed in the pockets of a hunting coat.

The defense was that a man named Welsher had passed that way a few minutes before the arrival of the sheriff, and had asked permission to leave the liquor and the coat there, and that they had been taken in as a matter of accommodation without knowing that there was anything in the packages in the nature of a contraband. And a lot of witnesses swore to it.

But that defense proved to have a weakness, in that the man Welsher came hotfoot to purge himself of the imputation of guilt, and brought a host of witnesses to prove that he was nine miles away that morning That he had got the word in a day or two that the guilt was to be laid on him, and he and his witnesses had fixed the fact indelibly in their minds and he proved an alibi, thereby greatly strenghtening the State's case.

The proceeding was under the habitual criminal part of the act by which a second offense is punishable by a penitentiary sentence, and when the jury brought in a verdict of guilty the court gave him the high limit, three years in the State's prison The defendant is not a man to show emotion, but we noticed a whole lot of lines wrinkled his forehead in a peculiar way when he was sentenced He was silent. His color did not change. His features were immovable. But that knotted forehead showed emotion of some sort.

There was another case of the State vs John Reda. The defendant was an Italion merchant at Cass and the State intimated that he sold lemon and vanilla extract not wisely but two well. The prosecuting attorney stated that he did not claim that essential cooking flavors were unlawful, but that when they were sold as a beverage and drunk at the counter and that it was within the statute against selling intoxicants. A witness testified that customer bought a bottle of the flavor and poured it in a glass with some near beer and drank it. That is like the drink that they used to call "hot-box," in the dear old bar room days, whiskey and beer mixed. One witness gave a new example of the use of a well know word. In answer to a question on cross exanination, his answer was. "Not to my acknowledgement." The mature consideration of the jury resulted in a verdict of guilty, and while some may have considered it a close case, they must have considered that the evidence had a guilty flavor.

Cattle Wanted

To Graze

I can graze forty head of young cattle on my farm on Clover Creek. Address me at 2901 Dickson St., St. Louis, Missouri, LIGON PRICE.

NOTICE

Lobelia Lodge No. 386, I. O. O. F. will hold their Aniversary Service at Lobelia in the afternoon, Sunday April 30th. Rev. J. B. Grimes will preach the sermon. All visiting brethren cordially invited to attend.

NOTICE

I have sold my interest in the grocery store, under the firm name of Sheets & Darnell, to J. L. Sheets. Mr. Sheets will collect all accounts and pay all accounts. I will not be responsible for any debts from this date.

This 4th day of April, 1922

W. H. DARNELL.

Announcements

HOUSE OF DELEGATES

Editor Pocahontas Times—

At the request of my many friends, I have decided to make the race for House of Delegates, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Standing on my past record as a member of that body and promising if elected again to stand by and for the interest of Pocahontas County and the State, I solicit your support.

Yours Respectfully,

J. A. McLAUGHLIN.

This paper is authorized to announce E. N. MOORE a candidate for re-election to the House of Delegates, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

TO THE VOTERS OF POCAHONTAS COUNTY:

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Delegate to the Legislature from Pocahontas County, subject to the action of the Democratic voters in the general primary election to be held in the month of August, 1922; and I respectfully solicit your support and influence.

J. G. HAMRICK.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Schools, subject to the action of the Republican voters expressed in the Primary election, to be held August 8, 1922. Your support and influence will be appreciated.

Respectfully,

C. E. FLYNN.

Commissioner's Sale

E. J. Kisner, Plaintiff,
Vs. In Chancery
F. A. Degler etc., Defendants.

By virtue of the authority vested in me by a decree of the Circuit Court of Randolph County entered on March 9, 1922, in the above entitled cause, I will proceed on May 10, 1922, at one o'clock P. M., in front of the premises, in the Town of Durbin, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, to make sale, at public auction, of the property in said cause directed to be sold, and which property consists of lot No. 8, and one half of lot No. 7 in Block No. 6, in said Town of Durbin, and is the same property now occupied by the defendant, F. A. Degler as a hotel, and in making said sale of said hotel property there will be sold the furniture and fixtures therein which were conveyed to said F. A. Degler by the deed of E. J. Kisner, and wife, bearing date May 14, 1918, and which deed is duly of record in the County Court Clerk's office of said Pocahontas County, and reference is now here specially made thereto for a further description of said property.

TERMS OF SALE: For sufficient cash in hand on the day of sale to pay the plaintiff's debt, interest and costs of suit and proper expenses of sale, (being about $450.00,) and for the residue upon a credit of 6, 12 and 18 months, taking from the purchaser interest bearing notes, with good security, for the deferred installments of purchase money, or at the option of the purchaser, he may pay a greater amount in cash.

The above property is said to have a good hotel custom and is said to be well furnished and well supplied with fixtures, and any one desiring such a property should examine the above.

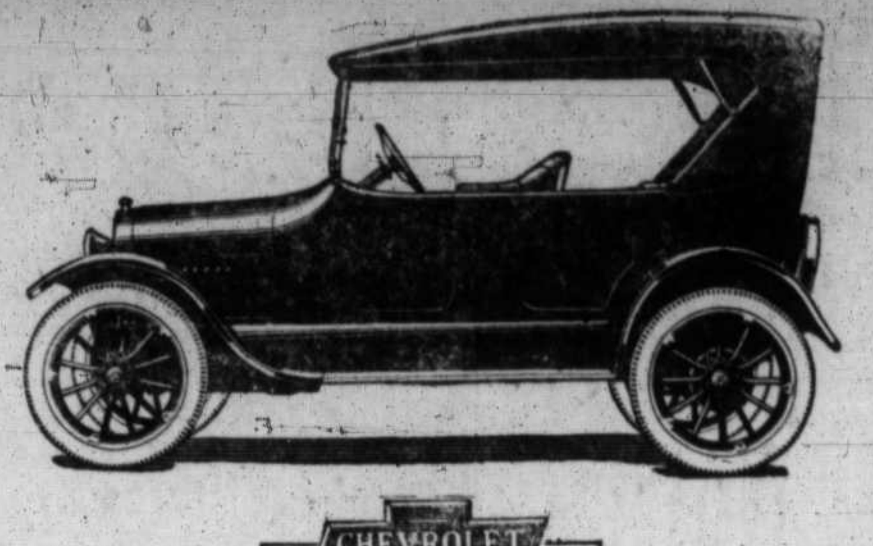
W. B. Maxwell,
Special Commissioner.

I, G. N. Wilson, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Randolph County, West Virginia, do certify that the above named special commissioner has executed bond and security as required by law and by the decree entered in said cause.

Teste:

G. N. Wilson, Clerk.

E. F. Thompson and T. A. Jones of the Upland community, near Hinton, recently found a specimen of mineral ore near Upland church, which they sent to the chemical laboratory of the U. S. Geological survey at Morgantown. A letter to Mr. Thompson from the acting director pronounce it to be galena, the common ore of lead, and values it at from $50.00 to 60.00 a ton. Messrs Thompson and Jones will explore and develop the section in which their find is made providing the ore is found to be in paying quantities.—Hinton Herald.



CHEVROLET

World's Lowest Priced FULLY EQUIPPED Automobile

$525

f. o. b. Flint, Mich.

The People's Car

See it
Compare it
Try it as Our Guest

If you pay less, you get less.

Marlinton Motor Company

Opposite Passenger Depot Marlinton, W. Va.

Public Sale

Of personal property, at my residence one mile above Greenbank, on Tuesday April 25, 1922. Sale begins at 10 o'clock a m.

1 team of mares, 1 saddle horse
6 cows to be fresh, 22 ewes
1 brook sow, 2 pigs
1 wagon, 1 surrey 1 set of harness
1 cowboy saddle, 1 mower, 1 rake.
1 Deering Dropper, grain cutter, Spring tooth harrow, cultivator, 1 Imperial plow and all small tools, household and kitchen furniture, 2 bedroom suites, beds with springs, chairs, tables, 1 sideboard, range stove, 1 heater, stone ware, dishes, airtight jars, all to be sold also some lumber if not sold before.

TERMS: All sums of ten dollars and under cash, over that amount a credit of 8 months will be given with note and two good endorsers.

J. H. Kerr.

Ashford, Auctioneer.

Notice

All persons are notified not to fish in the waters of the Big Spring Branch of Stony Creek on the lands of the undersigned.

Please do not embarass us by asking permission as it will be refused.

A. C. Barlow,
Geo. A. C. Auldridge
J. W. G. Smith.

April 3, 1922.

NOTICE

All persons are notified not to fish nor to drive stock through the lands of the undersigned on Sitlingtons creek, near Dunmore, W. Va.

ARCH GALFORD

April 1, 1922

Notice to Creditors

All persons having claims against the estate of Mary J. Poage deceased are hereby notified to present the same to the undersigned her administrator c. t. a. duly proved, for payment, and all persons knowing themselves to be indebted to said estate are notified to pay same to me at once.

W. E. POAGE
Administrator of Mary J. Poage deceased.

Farm for Sale

At a very reasonable price to quick buyer. Containing about 170 acres on which is a comfortable dwelling house, a good barn and all necessary out buildings, such as wagon shed, granary, dairy, poultry house, smoke house, and cellar. Plenty of good fruit for two or three families, several nice farm fields, good meadows and is practically all inclosed with rail or wire fence. This farm has two good sugar orchards, plenty of good water and a lot of nice timber, an ideal place for stock, or would make two very good homes. Convenient to North Fork Lumber Co. Situated 6 miles west of Hightown Va., in blue grass district, Highland County, 1 1-2 miles south of S. & P. Pike with good road to same. 1-2 mile to school. If you are looking for a bargain come and see this farm or write to owner.

J. P. HISE,
Hightown, Va.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

True Barred Rocks

Thompson Imperial Ringlet strain, Prize winners and egg producers, none better. $1 for setting of 15 eggs at home.

Mrs. W. A. BARLOW
Onoto, W. Va.

BLACK MINORCAS

Try my Rose Comb Black Minorcas and be convinced of their year 'round Egg Production. Eggs for hatching and day-old chicks.

J. G. CLENDENEN,
Renick, W. Va.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of Mrs. Ruby E. Kerr, deceased, to present the same properly proven to the undersigned administrator at his office at Arbovale. W. Va. All persons indebted to said estate will please prepare to settle at once.

This 18th of March, 1922.

MONROE BEARD, Admr.

Notice

I handle Oyster Shells, Grit, Charcoal, Etc. Want to buy one Rouen Duck Drake, will pay good.

EGGS FOR HATCHING

From high producing strain of S.C. Barred Rocks E.B. Thompson strain; S C R I. Reds; S.C White Leghorns $1.25 per setting of 15; $2 for 2 settings. Baby chicks, last of May or first of June, $12 per 100, delivered by parcel post. Call, phone or write your wants.

OAK CREST POULTRY FARM
Millpoint, W. Va.

EGGS

S. C. Rhode Island Reds 15 eggs 75 cents. Parcel Post 25 cents extra. A fine strain of best layers.

Mrs. J. B. Simmons,
Millpoint, W. Va.

POULTRY

Burbin Reds turkey eggs for setting $5.00 per 13; Barred Rock eggs $1.25 for 15; Rhode Island Reds $1.25 for 15 by Parcel Post prepaid. Hens lay year 'round.

Mrs. A. S. Gay,
Onoto, W. Va.

SHORTHORN BULL—A big yearling roan bull, high grade, short horn, well bred and a good individual. Apply to A. A. SHARP,
Frost, W. Va.

FOR SALE:—I have two heavy teams of horses for sale at Rimel, W. Va., with harness, spreads and coupler complete, ready for work. Will sell at the right price.

A. D. Hoke. Rimel, W. Va.

★ 111 one-eleven cigarettes

10¢ for FIFTEEN

In a new package that fits the pocket—
At a price that fits the pocket-book—
The same unmatched blend of
TURKISH, VIRGINIA and BURLEY Tobaccos

Guaranteed by The American Tobacco Co. ★ 111 FIFTH AVE. NEW YORK CITY

ATTORNEYS

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals.

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Marlinton, W. Va.
Furniture made to order and old furniture repaired.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

R. B. SLAVIN
Heating, Plumbing and Sheet Metal Work. Best materials. 17 years experience.
Marlinton, W. Va.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specially of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMER
DENTIST
First National Bank Building
Phone
Marlinton, W. Va

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON. W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

M. F. GUM
AUCTIONEER

R. T. GREER & SON

Marlinton, W. Va.

Largest Buyer Of

FUR SKINS
GINSENG
ROOTS and
HERBS

Get Our Price

DELCO-LIGHT

"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue
ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES

Marlinton Electric Co.

DEALERS

Z. S. Smith

Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

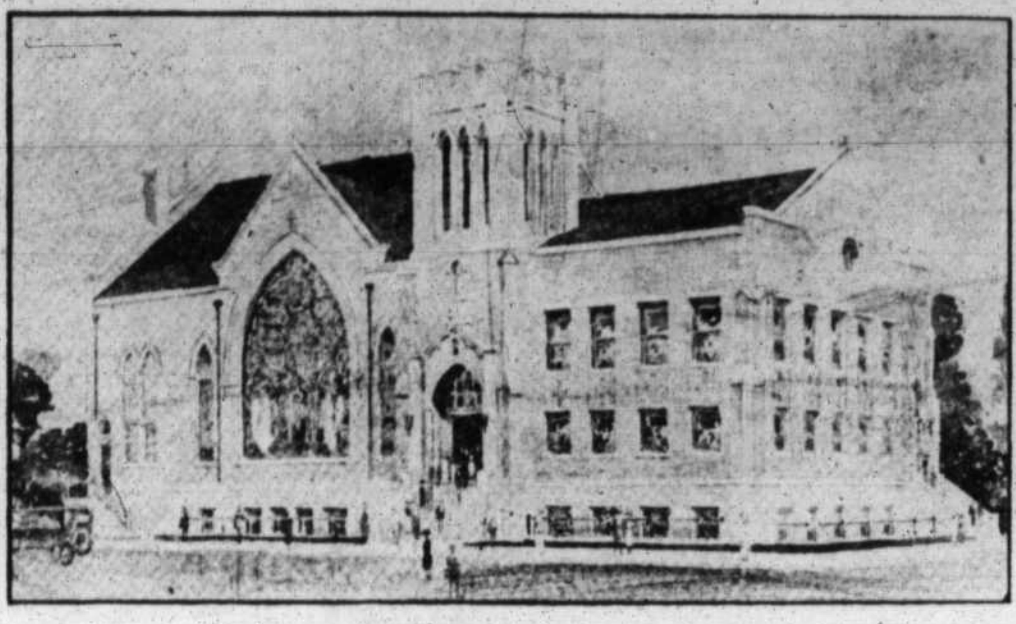
Your Farm

Does it pay you a fair interest, upkeep, taxes and a decent wage? Are you still trying with your hands to put the western farmers' modern machinery out of business and are you satisfied? If so don't read this, hand it to your neighbor. But don't forget we trade farms for city property and city property for farms. In fact, we trade for anything of real value anywhere in West Virginia, but of all our large holdings we like Morgantown the best, because its Real Estate is growing the fastest of any in the state and it has the most dependable labor market. Write us and let's get acquainted.

GLOBE REALTY COMPANY,
Morgantown, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XL NO 44 MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, JUNE 15, 1922 $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE



The New Methodist Episcopal Church, South

MARLINTON, WEST VIRGINIA

The above is the picture of the New Methodist Church of Marlinton, which is now under construction. Ground was broken for the foundation very early Wednesday morning, June 14, 1922. The contractor is W. W. Kennison. The building will cost $53,185, exclusive of art glass windows and furniture. The dimensions are 109 feet by 50 feet. The site is adjoining the present church, and the edifice faces Court street.

The plans of this chuuch embrace a most comprehensive working plant. The main auditorium with galleries and Sunday School room will seat more than a thousand people. There will be rooms for every department of the Sunday School in addition to the class rooms, and rooms for other activitins of church work. In the basement will be a large and well equipped gymnasium.

The contract was let to W. W. Kennison, of Hillsboro, on Saturday June 3, 1922, and the work is to be completed within one year. The construction is to be of concrete brick, surfaced with buff or cream brick.

This will be one of the largest and finest churches in this part of the State.

W. L. REYNOLDS

W. L. Reynolds died at his home in Marlinton on the evening of June 10th, after an illness of more than five months. Age 44 yrs. and 22 days. Mr. Reynolds came to this county in 1909 and was employed by the Campbell Lumber Company as train man until they closed their works in 1914. He then came to Marlinton where he conducted a business of his own up to the time of his sickness. He is the oldest son of A. Reynolds and Virginia Entsminger Reynoles, who were formerly from Collierstown, Va. His mother died a number of years ago after which time his father moved to Pocahontas County.

Mr. Reynolds is survived by his wife, Mrs. Gertrude Roman Reynolds, to whom he was married in 1915, his father, A. Reynolds, his two brothers, Forest and Stokes, who live in or near Marlinton, and his brother, Aaron, who lives at Collierstown, Va.

After coming to Marlinton, Mr. Reynolds united with the Methodist Church and was a faithful attendant and active member up to the time of his illness, and the patience and fortitude with which he spent his long months of suffering are evidences of his Christian disposition.

The large number attending his funeral, which was conducted by his pastor, Rev. F. B. Wyand, at the Methodist Church, on Monday afternoon, speaks more for this worthy citizen than lips can tell or pen can write. His business brought him in touch with all classes and his devotion to duty and his pleasant and obliging disposition won a warm place in the hearts of all who knew him. He was honest, industrious, polite, and faithful to every trust. And it is this type of man that receives the admiration of real men and women and in one voice they say as they render the last act of kindness, "Thou hast been faithful enter thou into the joys of thy Lord."

If you want a family group at your home or a panoram view of your farm, write or phone Gay's Studio, Marlinton, W. Va.

WAR RISK INSURANCE

Major All, of the Compensation Department of the U S. Veterans' Bureau of Charleston, was in Marlinton Monday and Tuesday. He is a veteran of the Spanish War, and a First Division veteran of the World War, after serving several terms in the Regular Army. His special business here at this time was to impress on the service men the importance of not neglecting their interests in the matter of War Risk Insurance. The opportunity to carry this Government Insurance is one of the best things the Departmeut is doing for the service man, especially those who are not entitled by disability to other forms of compensation.

If you are an ex-service mam, it is to your interest to look closely into the matter, if you have allowed your insurance to lapse. If you are still in good health, you may reinstate at practically no expense, and become the posessor of a valuable insurance and disability policy, at a cost certainly lower than you can purchase the same protection elsewhere.

Full information can be obtained from any officer of the American Legion Post in your county, or by writing direct to the Veterans' Bureau, 211 Boyd Building, Charleston, W. Va.

This writer is delighted to chronicle that the Women's Club has secured the services of Miss Eolyn Graham, of Cass, as director of the public playground for the summer. Miss Graham is an experienced teacher, likes and is liked by children, and is fitted in every way to start the public playground work right.

Among the Pocahontas County young people at Lewisburg for the Conference this week are Misses Mary Hevener, Elizabeth Dunlap, Polly Smith, Geraldine Haupt, Betsy Price. Messrs. Hubert Slavin, Ewell Wiley and Roscoe Beverage.

Mrs. Randolph Harter, from Coburn, Pennsylvania, is with her mother, Mrs. Q W. Poage, who has been very sick.

WOOL

Having made a contract for 2 car loads of wool to be shipped at once. I can pay you more than any one in the county. Please write me how much wool you have, or see me before you sell. If price means anything, Kelmenson has the price.

H. KELMENSON

Marlinton, W. Va.

CORNER STONE

The most worshipful Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and accepted Masons of West Virginia will lay the Corner Stone of Beard Chapel at Beard, W. Va., at 12 o'clock noon, June 21, 1922. W. A Hamman of Cass will act as Grand Master Rev F H Barron, D D. of Elkins is expected as the orator

All the Brethren of this and other jurisdictions are invited to be present and assist in this solemn occasion.

Dinner will be served on the ground.

Every body cordially invited to be present.

Committee

Rev. H. H. Munroe, of Japan was here Sunday, to make an address to the children of the Presbyterian Sunday school at the annual mission or Childrens' Day services. He also spoke at Swago and Huntersville on Sunday; again at Marlinton to the Womens' Auxiliary on Monday after noon and at Hillsboro at night. For seventeen years he has labored as a missionary in Japan, and his talks on the work of the missionary and the country are most wonderfully interesting and enlightening. Mr. Munroe expects to return to his field of labors sometime this fall.

Cass.—The entertainment given at Cass Saturday night by Miss Lucile Feamster, Miss Frances Golden, and Miss Nida Cook was a decided success. It was voted the best that has come to Cass—better than any lyceum The people are very thankful to these talented ladies and hope to hear them again.

The attendance at the Methodist Sunday School on last Sunday was 173, twenty less than the Sunday before. Children's Day service at the Presbyterian church and the attendance was 270, which was 75 more than the Sunday before.

The six millioneth Ford automobile was built in the Ford Factory at Detroit on May 18, 1922. Five and a half millions were for use in the United States, and about five million of them are still in service.

At the recent General Conference of the Southern Methodist Church at Little Rock, Dr. J. H. Light, late of of Marlinton, received a complimentary vote for Bishop. Other ministers known here who also received votes are Dr. H. H Sherman and Dr. H. M. Canter.

The Marlinton Methodist Church is issuing a twelve page monthly paper, "The Marlinton Methodist." Rev. Fred B. Wyand is the editor.

Word has just been received from Miss Trump, of Morgantown, that she will be unable to be here this summer as play ground supervisor. Miss Eolyn Graham, of Cass, has been engaged to take her place, and will be here by the twentieth of June.

For service and quality in kodak finishing, bring or mail your films to Gay's Studio, Marlinton, W. Va.

LAND ASSESSMENT

Editor Times—Below you will find the increased value of Realestate of Pocahontas County for 1922.

	1921	1922	Increase
Greenbank	$1 699 980	2 385 215
Cass town	193 850	294 155
Durbin	122 530	146 820
			793 975
Edray	2 008 975	3 099 980
Marlinton	684 135	957 275
			1 364 145
Huntersville	981 170	1 379 995
			398 825
LittleLevels	1 397 100	2 027 150
Hillsboro	107 575	136 985
			659 480
	$7 211 170	10 427 575
			$3 216 405

NEELEY FOR SENATOR

TO THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS AND PROGRESSIVE MEMBERS OF ALL OTHER POLITICAL PARTIES OF WEST VIRGINIA:

After long and careful consideration I have determined to be a candidate for the democratic nomination for United States Senator from West Virginia, in the primary election to be held on the 1st day of next August.

If nominated and elected, I shall aid, to the limit of my capacity, in restoring to the people the progressive democratic government of Woodrow Wilson type and vigor, which a reactionary, selfish and incompetent republican administration has unblushingly banished from the land.

The democratic party's progressive legislation, its brilliant achievements and its exalted public policy under President Wilson's administration, which were unqualifiedly endorsed by the party's National Conventions in 1916 and 1920, shall be my constant guide throughout the campaign.

The Federal Reserve Act, the Clayton Act, the various Eight Hour Laws, the Federal Trade Commission Law, the Shipping Act, the Farm Loan Act and the Federal Aid for Good Roads Act, together with the many other great constructive measures of the Wilson administration, constitute the richest heritage of beneficent legislation the American people have ever received from any administration since party government began.

All of the laws above specified were supported by me as a member of the House of Representatives; all of them I have since defended and shall continue to defend upon the stump. These laws brought to the masses of the people the highest degree of prosperity and the fullest measure of participation in the affairs of their government that they have ever enjoyed.

Not one of these important democratic laws has an overwhelmingly republican Congress dared to repeal.

By defeating the covenant for a League of Nations the Republican Senate not only committed a crime against humanity, but it excluded untold millions of dollars worth of our commerce from foreign markets, thus producing one of the efficient causes of the ruinous decrease in the price of farm products, the closing down of innumerable factories and the throwing out of employment an army of wage earners as numerous as the sands of the sea.

Next, by reactionary and plutocratic administration of the Federal Reserve Law Republican officials brought further disaster upon the country. The policy of "deflation" deliberately promised in the republican platform of 1920, and drastically and mercilessly enforced by the Harding administration in 1921 and 1922, has (as was clearly pointed out in the recent democratic meeting in Huntington) resulted in one year of Republican peace costing the American people more than two years of democratic war.

While the Republican national administration has been rapidly and radically deflating the wages of labor, the salaries of employees, and the incomes of the people, a Republican state administration has been just as busy and effective in increasing property values in order to form a basis upon which to levy more taxes to meet the ever increasing cost of state government. Relief from the staggering burden of taxation can neither be realized nor hoped for until the present Republican reactionaries have been retired from office and real democratic servants of the people returned to power.

If elected, it shall be my unremitting care to aid in bringing about a real economic, efficient democratic administration of the law, in harmony with the Wilson ideals and in the interest of every citizen of the republic. I shall instantly and earnestly advocate the administration of the Federal Reserve System in the interests of all the people, rather than for the special benefit of a small group of Wall Street money changers, manipulators and gamblers.

West Virginia has been discriminated against in railroad rates and in the marketing of the products of her varied industries. Her dignity, her honor and her reputation have been bitterly assailed during this administration, on every hand, and without a single champion having defended her in the Senate; and without a single intelligent or effect protest having been made from the floor of that body in her behalf.

If elected, I shall endeavor to silence the defamers of our state and to bring to account those who are slandering her fair name and discriminating against her.

I have delayed announcing my candidacy for the Senatorial nomination for the reason that I had hoped that some other faithful, determined and enthusiastic supporter and advocate of Wilsonian democracy might enter the race. In that event I should have preferred to serve in the ranks and support some other available candidate. But I have waited long enough, and have waited in vain. There is much difficult and exacting work to be done for the party. Its organization must be strengthened, and its message of hope and promise and fulfillment must be proclaimed from every housetop and borne to every voting precinct in the state. Since no one else has volunteered to do it, I now offer my services and my leadership to all who are willing and ready to leave off whining about republican majorities and go to work to win a real victory for prosperity, progress and humanity.

I have entered this race, not only to obtain the nomination, but to win the election in November. Having entered I shall neither falter nor retreat. I have faith in the people and believe that a straightforward, intelligent and vigorous campaign made in their behalf will enlist their unstinted support and result in a victory for our party and its principles at the poles.

In my efforts to obtain this nomination no money will be spent by me, except to meet the absolutely legitimate demands of the campaign, which are clearly within both the letter and the spirit of the law.

In my opinion the country is tired of the disgraceful spectacle of a seat in the United States Senate being auctioned off to the highest bidder, as was recently done in the state of Michigan.

With the women now enfranchised and their fine sense of political righteousness impelling them to identify themselves with every reform movement, an overwhelming majority of the voters should and I believe will, other things being equal, support those candidates whose nominations are free from the corrupting influences of bargain and sale.

No act of mine shall disentitle the great party of Jefferson, Jackson and Wilson to the favor and devotion of those who are unalterably opposed to political parties and their nominations being made the playthings of those who seek particular favors and special privileges at the expense of all.

Every Democrat and every progressive member of every other political party in the state, who shares the views above expressed is very respectively solicited to cast his lot with us, both in the primary and general election.

Of the reactionary forces that are now controlling the government, and constantly advancing to new victories over the people, it is high time for every patriot to declare "They shall not pass." If this declaration is made, let us hope that it will be translated into action on election day, by every progressive and forward-looking voter's casting a ballot for a change.

Very respectfully submitted,
M. M. NEELY.

H. A. DEEM IN FATAL ACCIDENT

Howard Addison Deem, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Deem, of Parsons, met with a fatal accident near Williamson last Saturday afternoon about five o'clock when an automobile in which he was riding from Williamson to Matewan left the road and went down over an embankment of about ninety feet

A telegram giving the news of the sad accident was received at the home here Sunday morning and the mother and younger brother were grief stricken and the news quickly spread over the community.

Howard was born at Piedmont this state, August 13, 1897, and would have been twenty five years of age next August. During the late war he enlisted in the cause of his country in April 1918, and was discharged with honors in 1919. After leaving the service he enlisted with the forces of the West Virginia State Police in which line of duty he was serving at the time of his death. He leaves to mourn their loss his father, who was employed at Williamson at time of the accident, his mother, one brother and one sister besides a large number of friends and comrades in the police forces. The remains arrived home Monday afternron accompanied by his father and Messrs. C. T. Swift, of Matewan, and W. W Creasey, of Kenova, both officers of the state police forces. The remains were immediately taken to the home on River street where funeral services were conducted Tuesday morning at ten o'clock by Rev. J. S. Thornburg of the M. E. Church, and Rev Jonathan Wood, of the Baptist Church, officiating. The services were attended by a large number of local ex-service men and the local company of home guards, all uniformed, and a large attendance of friends of the Deem family. Interment was made in the city cemetery.

The following report of the accident is given us by Officer C. T. Swift: A number of the police forces who were stationed at Matewan had received order to make a raid near Williamson and the raid had been made and the police were back to Williamson awaiting a train for Matewan. The train was an hour late and a man and a lady appeared in an automobile going to Matewan and invited Howard and a traveling salesman with whom he was talking to go along with them. They consented to go and when the car had gotten less than half a mill out of Williamson where the road was high and narrow something went wrong and the car left the road going down over the hillside a distance of about ninety feet, Howard met death instantly and the other two men were badly cut and bruised while the lady was in the hospital in a dying condition according to last reports before the officers left Williamson.

The accident was very sad indeed and the bereaved parents, brother and sister have the deepest heartfelt sympathy of the entire community. —Parsons Advocate.

Bring your girl to the Circus and have your pictures made at Gay's Studio We make work of quality and at prices to suit all.

Annual Childrens' Day services at the Methodist church next Sunday at 10:30 o'clock.

SPECIALS

We have found in going over our stock of merchandise that we have a big of odd and ends that should be closed out. We have a special deprrtment lined up with these that will save you money. These include articles in practically every line.

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.

MARLINTON, W. VA.

Wool Wool Wool

I pay CASH - Top Price - for Wool

See me, on Main Street, before selling

T. D. MOORE

Marlinton - - West Virginia

PUBLIC SPEAKING

General A. A. Lilley

Candidate for Republican nominatioe for U. S. Senator will address the voters of Pocahontas County at the following times and places:

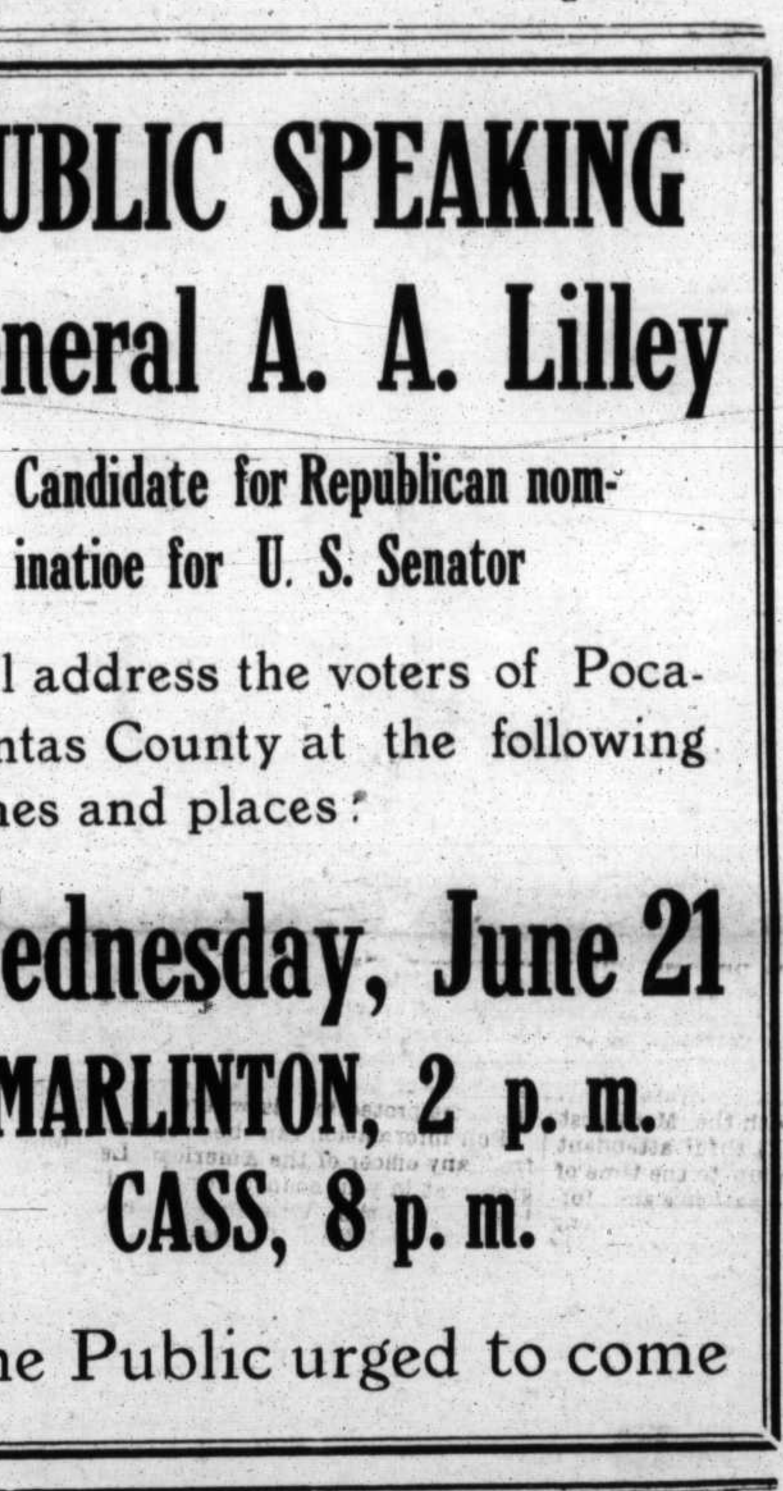
Wednesday, June 21

MARLINTON, 2 p. m.

CASS, 8 p. m.

The Public urged to come



RED-TOP 30 x 3½

Extra Ply of Fabric—Heavy Tread

Price $17.85

FOR poor roads, for heavy loads, for hard use anywhere the Fisk Red-Top cannot be equaled for small cars. An extra ply of fabric and a heavy tread of extra tough red rubber make a strong tire built to meet exacting conditions.

Time after time one Red-Top has outworn three ordinary tires. Its distinctive looks indicate your selection of a high-grade tire while its extra mileage more than justifies your choice.

There's a Fisk Tire of extra value in every size, for car, truck or speed wagon

The welcome news is received from J. J. Echols is that he is making a good recovery at a hospital in Baltimore.

Miss Alice McClintic is home from Penn Hall College, Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, for the summer vacation.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLII NO 5 — MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, SEPTEMBER 13 1923 — $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

INSTITUTE NOTES

Over 150 teachers in the Pocahontas County Institute, the majority of them having already attended summer school this year,—is not this sufficient evidence that the "new teacher is on the job."

The institute of this year furnished new features of especial significance. Physical education is being stressed, Mr. Melville Stewart, of the State Department, having charge. Daily the high school ball field has been dotted with bright colored specks bobbing up and down. This is the institute "setting up." Mr. Stewart's work closed on Thursday morning with a county rally, each of the districts competing for the brightest banner, the loudest yell, and the most patriotic song.

The activity of the institute has not been entirely physical; the mental diet has been heavy. A unique feature was presented on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday by Miss Fishpaugh who gave a series of psychological lectures on the treatment of different types of school children. Miss Fishpaugh has practically completed studies for a doctor's degree in education from Johns Hopkins University and will hold an associate professorship in Wesleyan during the coming year.

Mr. Lively of Fairmont Normal, has been our chief instructor. Besides several lectures on the purpose and meaning of education in relation to both society and the individual, he has contributed to the institute by conducting open discussions each day upon local school topics.

The music, under the able direction of Mr. Shrout, has helped to preserve the spirit and unity of the Institute.

On Wednesday afternoon, Superintendent Ford made an unexpected and welcome visit to the teachers. He spoke twice to the institute, stressing in his talk the great work of the State Educational Association.

108 women—Elsie Adkison, Mary Alderman, Mayo Beard, Mrs. Glenn Barlow, Carrie H. Brown, Hazel Beverage, Mrs H. L. Byers, Bonnie Lynn Beard, Mary K. Beard, Helen Burner, Helen Beard, Mary Bailey, Lucille Beard, Thelma Conrad, Ruth Curry, Anne Correll, Mrs. Atwell Carpenter, Pearl Carter, Evelyn Coyner, Lois Coyner, Flossie Conrad, Viola Carswell, Glenna Eubank, Ila East, Ada Spencer Flynn, Lillian Fowler, Ida Fogus, Grey Grimes, Edmonia Gibson, Dorsey Geiger, Vada Lee Gum, Opal Gum, Elizabeth Hill, Mary Hannah, Enid Harper, Georgia A. Hill (col), Mrs. Nellie Hefner, Blanche Hill, Florence Howard, Mrs. C. E. Holliday, Dorothy Irvine, Fannie Kerr, Clarice Kennison, Dare Kennison, Moty Kidd, Frances McNulty, Mrs. Lucille Moomau, Jessie McFerrin, Mrs. Verdie Mann, Mary McNulty, Birdie McLaughlin, Beulah Moore, Goldie McNeill, Edna McNeill Nora McNeel, Mrs. Nelle McNeel, Elizabeth McLaughlin, Brownie McCoy, Lillie Milligan, Violet Nottingham, Catherine O'Ferrel, Lilla Orndorff, Genevieve Orndorff, Leone Oliver, Mrs. Mary F Overholt, Gertrude Overholt, Agnes Price, Margaret Price, Martha Phares, Flora Perry, Blanche Patterson, Clara Palmer, Ruth Spencer, Ruth Sutton, Clara Sheets, Clara Scofield, Rache Sheets, Margaret Sharp, Vesta Shar., Kate Symes, Lillie Sharp, Mrs. G M. Sharp, Lessie Shields, Bessie Taylor, Mrs. Cathleen Vaughan, Mrs. Gilbert Vanreenan, Mamie E. White Ruth White, Gladys White, Mrs Sidney Wilson, Linnie Woods, Mrs Clyde Wooddell, Cordie Wilfong Edna Wilfong, Eula Warwick, Nancy Woods (col), Frieda Williams, Mrs Ralph Yeager, Mrs. Rella Yeager, Nelle Yeager, Mildred Yeager, Oleta Gay, Opal Rodgers, Mrs. C W Webb, Mrs. R. N. Nottingham, Gussie Scruggs, Margaret Wolf.

51 men: Preston Hunter Arbogast, J. Kermit Arbogast, Dewey F. Burr, Emmett W. Burr, A. Glenn Bruffey, Charles Clayton Burr, Glenn Barlow, Robert Lee Bruffey, Perry Boyce Byrd (col), Lewis H. Christie, Estes F. Crist, Robert R. Eades, C. E. Flynn, Luther Flynn, Newman Fertig, Joe Marion Greer, Jr., Delbert L. Gillispie, Vaughn Geiger, Dock R. Hannah, G. Winters Hill, A. W. Hill, Thomas P. Harwood, Harry H. Hollandsworth, W. A. Hively, A. G. Killingsworth, Graham LaRue, Lyle L. McLaughlin, A. Gray McLaughlin, Warren McLaughlin, Remus C. May, Foley Morrison, G. D. McNeill, John Mann, Ivan McKeever, Kirth Nottingham, Dennis W. Perry, Sam Spencer, Charles Spencer, Letcher S. Shires, J. W. G. Smith, Edgar Shinaberry, J. Mack Sutton, Chas. Jack Sharp, Roy B. Shrout, Walter Vance, Forrest L. Warren, Kenton B. Wilmoth, B. F. E. Wooddell, E. Ernest White, Ulric W. Grimes, William Ernest Hayes.

Attendance at the Methodist Sunday School last Sunday 207; at the Presbyterian 158.

Rally Day will be observed at the Methodist Church, Hillsboro Sunday at 9:45 a. m. You are cordially invited to be present.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Barnhart, Marlinton, September 6, a son

Died, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ervine, on Clover Creek Mt., Septembrr 6, 1923.

Rev. J. B. Grimes was in town Tuesday. He is now located in the Blue Sulphur Circuit, Asbury post office. He is here to prepare for the sale at auction of his livestock and other property on his farm at Lobelia, Saturday, September 15. At the same time he will offer his farms for rent.

BATTLE OF DROOP MT.

Dear Editor—Anent the Battle of Droop Mountain, I probably know more than any other one now living. Averil stayed all night the night before at the home of my uncle, Rev. M. D. Dunlap. He told my uncle he was going to fight the battle next day. My uncle said no more perfect gentleman than Averill ever lived.

The late John Irvine, of Deerfield, was with the brass gun which was buried. He was at my house after the war, and I think from what he said the gun was on the Wm. McCoy place. After it had been fired a while, the wheels were shot off, and the gun was buried and a chestnut tree was rolled over the place.

Now for the Federal side. The two thousand men, who made the flank movement, kept the top of the mountain and formed a line at the old rail fence, and fired into the Confederates when they came up to attack.

Col. Edgar was stationed on the Locust Creek with his battalion. I think, about 600 men.

I was well acquainted with Dr. Hartshorne, a nephew and aid of Col. Ewing.

Col. Ewing located his battery on the ridge on the Lockridge place on the ridge just east of the first cut in the road. While placing the guns and afterward a small Confederate gun, located on the mountain, annoyed them greatly. It killed nearly all their horses: Hartshorne's amongst others.

Col. Ewing and Hartshorne were standing with their backs against the bank of the cut. A lieutenant was standing in the road in front of them talking, when a shot from the little gun took off the lieutenant's head. You will understand the whole thing if you go the place and look,

When the Confederate lines broke, Hartshorne took his saddle and bridle and caught a sorrel mare belonging to F. A. Renick. He pushed on with the advance of the soldiers. As they went up the mountain, they captured a Confederate captain with ten or twelve men. The captain had a gun in his hand fighting as a common soldier. He reproached them for cowardice for sneaking up behind him while he was shooting at those in front.

It would seem that they ought to have captured the whole Confederate force, but Hartshorne was with the advance guard. The Confederate rear guard would fire into them at every turn then gallup out of sight, while they advanced cautiously around the turn. If you cross the mountain you will easily see how it was. At last they came to the open country in Renicks Valley. Here they saw the rear guarnd. A single man had saved the army. The Yankees spread out, fan fashion, and called on him to surrender. He fired on them, killing a horse, and turned and fled The whole advance guard fired on him and killed him. When they came up to him they searched him for papers, but found none. The officer of the advance guard ordered a soldier to dismount and cover the dead with his blanket. He ordered his men to uncover. As the soldier laid the blanket over the dead, the officer said, "here lies a Soldier." Hartshorne notified the people at the brick house, where the body was, that Greenbrier should find out his name and erect a monument to his memory.

Hartshorne said that Averil was sent on his famous raid not to destroy the Confederate grain, but to destroy Averil. But he came back and had to be gotten rid of some other way.

On his return, I think from what Hartshorne said, that Averil must have come up Jacksons River and come down Meadow Creek to Anthonys Creek. Why did not his guide take him up North Fork to Beaver Creek? was his guide guilty of treachery or did he not know the country as well as I do?

When they came to the river it was full of water and the water full of floating ice. Averil ordered the artillery in first. The poor exhausted leaders were beaten down by the current. Averil ordered a trooper to go in and support them. The trooper hesitated. Averil was enraged. He drew his pistol and fired at the trooper who instantly obeyed, as every one else did.

Hartshorne did not think the horses would get through. He got off his mount and crossed on a caisson.

Again Averil stopped with my uncle and talked most interestingly and intelligently on questions of Theology on which they perfectly agreed.

If Averil had had the opportunity he would no doubt have been the Stonewall Jackson of the North.

I could tell many more things, but I have not time at present. Some day may be.

Those of the present generation care nothing for these things. They are all crazy trying to get away from themselves and the Hell burning within them Where will it all end? They have nothing which can satisfy then.

The old custom of evening prayer and Puritan observance of the Sabbath gave to life a calm and satisfaction nothing else has ever been able to replace.

Respectfully, etc
M. A. Dunlap.

Ponca City, Okla.

Hampshire Rams

Thoroughbred registered Hampshire Rams for sale. Fine specimens of this noted breed so well adapted to Greenbrier Valley conditions.

R. P. Welford & Son
Nov 1. Hillsboro, W. Va.

COUNTY RACE DAY

Plans are fast taking shape for a County Race and Chase Day at the Pocahontas Fair Grounds for Saturday September 29.

The entertainment will consist of a riding tournament, a fox chase, a half mile dash, a mule race and perhaps other diversions. No entry fees are charged. The gate admission is 35 cents for all persons over 12 years of age, and 15 cents for children between 6 and 12 years. Everybody pays for admission, no complimentary tickets issued and no pass outs at the gate.

The prizes for the tournament are $20, $10 and $5. For the fox chase $20, $10, $5. The fox will be started at the grand stand, will be led over a course of from three to four miles. The first three dogs in get the money. Only real long eared hounds are to be entered.

Prizes for the half mile dash horse race are $5 $3 and $2, and the same in the mule race.

The gates of the Fair ground open at 10 o'clock a. m. and the races commence at 12.30 o'clock.

Come and bring a picnic dinner with you. There is plenty of cold pure water and the beautiful fair grounds, clean, shady river bank furnish the finest place in the world for a basket dinner.

All who have hounds, horses, mules or riders to enter should get in communication with E. M. Richardson, Marlinton.

Make arrangements to spend the day at the Fair Grounds on Saturday, September 29. Make it a County Picnic Day.

DIED

Mrs. Julia Ann Kinnison, wife of Thos. F. Kinnison, died at her home at Hillsboro, September 5, 1923, aged 86 years. Burial at the Oak Grove graveyard on Thursday, the services conducted by Rev. W. C. Early and Rev. J. C. Johnson.

Mrs. Kinnison was raised in Greenbrier county. Her maiden name was Nanna and she was of English ancestry. She is survived by her husband and their two children. Colbert W. Kinnison and Mrs. J. P. Beard. For fifty or more years she had been a professing christian, a member of the Methodist church.

DR. FLOW AT HILLSBORO

Dr. J. E. Flow, Evangelist for Greenbrier Presbytery, is conducting a series of special services at Oak Grove church, Hillsboro.

Dr Flow is a preacher of remarkable power. For years he was pastor of large churches, but about a year ago he gave up his pastorate to devote his time to the work of an evangelist. Much of that time has been devoted to special services in Pocahontas county, and wonderful results have attended his preaching.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

J. Herndon Billingsley, Pastor.
Sunday School 9:45 a. m.
A. S. Overholt, Supt.
Epworth League 7 p m.
Preaching, 11:00 a. m. and 7:45 p. m.
Subjects: Morning "A Man with a Back bone."
Evening: "From Light to Darkness"
Prayer and praise meeting Wednesday, 7:45 p. m. Everybody welcome.

WESLEY CHAPEL M. E. SOUTH

Hillsboro, West Virginia
W. Clark Early, Pastor.
9:45 a m. Sunday School Rally Day
F. P. Kidd, Superintendent
7 00 p m Epworth League:
11 00 a m. No preaching on account of revival at Presbyterian church.
3 30 p m. Preaching at Sharon.

The Womens' Christian Temperance Union met in regular session, September 5th, at the home of Mrs. Forrest Malcomb, with a good attendance. After devotional, which was conducted by the president, business was in order. Mrs. Fred Gehauf was elected delegate to the State Convention, which is to be held in Morgantown, October 9, 10 11. Mrs. W. A. Eskridge, first alternate and Mrs. Guy Faulknier, second alternates. Officers were also elected for the ensuing year as follows: President, Mrs. S. J. Rexrode, vice-president, Mrs. H. H. Orr, recording secretary, Mrs. T. J. Mason; corresponding secretary, Mrs R C. May; treasurer, Mrs. W. H. Hiner. Meeting was closed with benediction, after which delicious refreshments were served by the hostess

H. Lee White was over at his old home in Crabbottom last week. On his return he was accompanied by Mrs. George Swecker and son Paul, who were guests in the White home for a few days. Mr. White went a fishing over in the South Branch. He brought us an eel skin which is a considereble curiosity to most people who live on the western waters.

Squire J. H. Shrader, of Huntersville, was in Marlinton on Monday on his way to Hillsboro. He gave us a pointer in fitting lambs for market. He runs his sheep in the woods, and a month or so before the lambs are to go away he brings them in to his grass fields and feeds them on pumpkins. The lambs fatten surprisingly fast.

Next Sunday September 16, there will be all day services and dinner on the ground at Brushy Flat school house, three miles above the Fair Grounds. Everybody cordially invited.

A three year old child of E. B. Jordan, colored, fell last week and injured an eye so badly that the eye ball will have to be removed.

SCHOOL TIME IS HERE

The time is again rapidly approaching when the schools will be opening to receive the youths of the state. We are thereby reminded that the school is a clearinghouse for the spread of infectious and contagious diseases. There are nearly 500,000 children of school age in this state. That are early in September to assemble in the various schools. Among this number there are many who are disease carriers. If West Virginia is to come in under the wire a safe winner in the suppression of infectious and contagious diseases, we must look more closely after the protection of the children who must spend five days a week in the school room.

By making education compulsory, we have automatically assumed the responsibility of keeping the school safe. It is therefore, of far-reaching importance that all children be given a careful examination before entering or as they are about to enter school to determine whether or not they are disease carriers or coming from homes where a contagious or infectious disease exists. In the school the spreading of infection is a serious problem because it is more frequently where that infection is transferred between children of widely separated households. Before the opening of school, I would suggest that a sample of the water supply be sent to the State Laboratory for analysis; where water is absolutely known to be safe, this is not necessary. This precaution may prevent an epidemic of typhoid fever, dysentery, and other water borne diseases. This precaution will save lives.

Teachers, parents and children should know that whenever many children gather together, the danger from measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough, diphtheria, etc., is the greatest in this season.

It is very important for mothers and fathers to co-operate with the local health officer and family physician in trying to discover and isolate these childhood diseases. It is particularly important to do this in any family where some child is started off to school, then the school, when it opens, will not become a medium of spreading the epidemic of some contagious disease thru the community.

Diphtheria may be carried by a healthy child to its schoolmates if a younger brother or sister has had this disease or if it is still in the home. If you have any suspicion that you may have had a childhood disease in your family during the summer vacation, be sure to consult your family physician or the local health officer before sending or accepting children in your school.

F. M. Kerns, M. D.

REMINISENCES

Anna L. Price

It was in Mecklenburg county Virginia, and long ago as men count time, that a lovely young christian girl lay dying. She had all that this world valued to bind her to earth, but was calmly, even happily awaiting death. The secret of this was her sincere and ardent faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. Her name—well, that hardly matters, doubtless all her nearest kindred have departed. It was a pleasant name, and very familiar to me; viz Alice Baskerville. Being asked concerning her evident and more than calm composure, she said, "I know not if I ought to express my holy delight; but I see One standing near me who has 'Comfort' written on His breast." The young person died It was Saturday, June 19, 1852. On the next day, June 50, 1853, I was permitted to join the Church of our Lord Jesus Christ, far from that calm death scene, in the fullness of health, aged fifteen years, in the City of Brooklyn, New York then my home. I count that day the happiest of my life. It seems an age to most of my readers—to me as yesterday. The Church of Christ, blessed here, and to be perfected and glorified in Heavan. Dear Church of God! hasten to full triumph, Lord of Hosts. Not even Death can separate the soul from the love of Christ. God hath a book of remembrance, be our names and all holy remembrances in that holy book! God reads that book and if we speak lovingly of Him He puts it down. Oh! remember.

Auction Sale

Of live stock and other property on Tuesday, September 25, 1923.

I will sell at public auction the following property at my place on Knapps Creek, a mile from Minnehaha Springs

14 yearling cattle, 9 heifers and 3 calves, 5 steers, 2 heifers, and 5 steer, 12 good stock ewes 4 years old, 10 lambs and 1 buck, 1 cow, 1 pony cart and harness, 1 fat 2 year old heifer, 1 set of new harness, 6 good hay stocks, 40 bushel of oats, 2 stands of bees, 1 McCormick mowing machine, 2 range cook stoves, Home Comfort, 2 bedsteads, 1 ice cream freezer, Columbia phonograph good as new, 1 fruit evaporator, and other property,

Terms: All sums of $10 and under cash; over that amount negotiable note for four months with interest and approved security.

Mrs. J. A Smith
Charles Shinabery, Auctioneer.

HEREFORD BULLS

A half dozen superior senior bull calves for sale.

J. S. McNeel
Seebert, W. Va

FROM PENNSYLVANIA

Dear Editor:

It has been years since I last wrote your valuable paper, but in all these years we have been constant readers of everything that has appeared in print even every "ad" and there seems to be quite a lot of farms for sale at all times, tending to show that the young generation of the old original inhabitants are locating at other points of the compass.

We have been here three years this past July and so far we have enjoyed farm life in this country of promise to the people of W. Va.; who have been accustomed to farming over those hills, and have no market for their dairy products only in raising stock cattle or beef cattle Here we seldom ever see any beef cattle, all are dairy herds, and what calves are not kept for dairy cows are sold for veal. We have seven Jersey cows, two horses, a bunch of S C. Leghorn chickens, which we manage to keep on a twenty two acre farm, but let me say this we could never do this if it was not for our silo and I would not keep a cow unless I had a silo of some kind, of course we aim to produce enough barn fertilizer or manure to keep yearly covering up our ground and have it produce more and more each year This is a land of hustle and hurry, in fact if one farms at any place you must hustle.

We are twelve or fifteen miles from the Suttons, Kerrs, Nottinghams etc. The Suttons spent a day with us some time ago, all are looking well they had with them, W. A. Arbogast who was looking for a farm and I suppose he and his brother Frank must have located farms in near Hartstown or Jamestown, Pa. as I notice that both of them have their farms for sale. Most all of the West Virginians are locating in near Hartstown, but some way or other we prefer this section of Crawford County, near Dicksonsburg and Harmansburg, only five miles to Conneaut Lake Park on Conneaut Lake a great summer resort, we are only nine miles west from Meadville our county seat, only 2 1-2 miles from trolley line and 2 1-4 miles from Bessemer railroad, near stores, churches and schools, and they are now erecting at Dicksonburg a $25000.00 dairy plant which will boost the dairy business as we are now shipping milk to Pittsburg; a milk express car leaves Dicksonburg each morning for Pittsburg Any one desiring to settle in this country and want to engage in the dairy business should write me as I know of several farms near here, from 50 to 125 acre farms that can be bought reasonable and on good terms, the owners of some of them have lost their wives or others their children have gone to town and some are old and not able to work. No hills here, tho not far from here there are some. This is rolling land and some of it very productive.

I noticed in your paper that the old Pocahontas County Fair is in full swing this week, and trust that you may record crowd and the best exhibit ever. We would liked very much to have been there on Home Coming Day. Our county fair is next week at Conneaut Lake Park, which promises to be a great time. Come up Mr. Editor and take in the Fair and have a swim in the Lake.

We have had a very dry summer so far, but on yesterday and to day we have had copious showers which has revived vegitation and we hope that every few days we may have rain. So many people have had to haul water from a distance; hay was a light crop as well as oats, but wheat was a good crop, from 20 up to 40 bu. per acre.

Mr. Editor I expect this is enough for this time and some future date hope to write again. Kindest regards to all Pocahontas friends and relatives.

Adieu
W. E. Arbogast
Conneautville, Pa. R. F. D 3, Box 39.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

At Rules held in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, on the first Tuesday in the month of September, 1923. (The first Monday being a legal Holiday.)

J. J Echols, et al.
Vs: In Chancery.
O. L. Stearnes, et al.

The object of this suit is to enforce a vendor's lien against 1356 6 acres of coal land including mining rights and priviledges on the waters of Elk River in Webster County, West Virginia conveyed by C. A. Yeager to O. L. Stearnes by deed of record in said County in deed book 59 at page 22, and for general relief.

This day came the plaintiff, by their attorney, and upon his motion, and it appearing by affidavit filed in this cause that the defendant, O. L Stearnes is a non-resident of the State of West Virginia, it is therefore ordered that the said defendant, O. L. Stearnes, do appear here within one month after the date of the first publication hereof and do what is necessary to protect his interest in this suit.

Teste:
Andrew Price, Atty.
D. C. Adkison, Clerk.

MONAGRAMS

I am now prepared to do all kinds of monogram work on cars, trucks, suit cases, guns and etc. Secret Society Emblems in black and gold will not fade or wash off. See or write L. C. Irvin, R. 1, box 75 Marlinton, W. Va.

HORSE ESTRAY.—One bay horse 6 years old, with white spot on forehead, weight about 1000 lbs, had halter on when left. Finder please notify Cecil Gay, Clover Lick, W. Va.

VERY SPECIAL

We have an unusual selection of boys and girls school clothing :

Girls' Sweaters and Coats
Boys' Suits, Overcoats and Sweaters
Red Goose Shoes for all
All kinds of school stationery
We invite your inspection of our line.

Peoples Store & Supply Company
Marlinton, West Virginia

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Don't Purchase Your New Motor Car UNTIL YOU SEE THE 1924 FORD

Quite A Number Of Improvements

Same Old Prices

BAXTER'S GARAGE

J. L. BAXTER, Prop.
Marlinton, W. Va.

DIED

Mrs. Fannie E. McCullough, wife of L. M. McCullough, of Wheeling, died on September 6, 1923, of heart failure. She was a daughter of John F. Moss, of Buckeye, and she is survived by her husband and two children. Burial at Buckeye on Saturday, the services being conducted by Rev. J H. Billingsley, of the Marlinton Methodist church.

P. K. Kramer was down from Bartow last week. Most of his summer was spent in a Balt'mare hospital. He is now greatly improved in health.

FERTILIZERS

and Timothy Seed for Fall Planting Just Received

T. D. MOORE

For Gallon Stone Jars at 10c each

HANLINE BROS.
LEAD AND ZINC
READY MIXED PAINT GUARANTEED

AS PURE AS PAINT CAN BE MADE

FOR SALE BY DEALERS EVERYWHERE

Dealers Supplied By
S. B. WALLACE & CO.
Marlinton, W. Va.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second-class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THUSDAY SEPTEMBER 13, 1923

A name for a horse used to be Selim. There were Selims in all the neighborhoods. I do not at this time number any Selims on my list of friends but the name may still persist in the horse register for all that I know. The horse has had his nose put out of joint of late years. When the speed maniacs congregate in this day and time they talk about the tires, and gas, and cylinders and things like that. But I can remember when they talked horse, and the horse had a long run. We hear of Portia in the Merchant of Venice complain: "He doth nothing but talk of his horse; and he makes it a great appropriation to his own good parts, that he can shoe him himself. I am much afeard my lady his mother played false with a smith." And I am much afeard that the horse which held its own from the time of the earliest recorded history has within the period of some twenty years lost most of his greatness.

Selim is reserved as a name exclusively for horses and I had figured out a theory as to the origin of the name that seemed to be a fair conjecture in accounting for its use. At one time the pride of the country was the Arabian horse called the Morgan after a famous horse breeder by the name of Justin Morgan, of Vermont. This was a medium sized horse of great speed, strength and endurance, and well suited to the mountains. The Morgan strain has been immortalized by Bret Harte in his stories of the Pacific slope and that in itself shows that they had spread from shore to shore. If this was the Arab then it is no violent assumption to presume that many of them received the name of Selim, for that was the name of the only Arabian who was ever intimate with the people of this section.

So far I have not been able to find out whether Selim had any other name or not, but he is remembered by the designation of "Selim, the Algerine." My father in his life time occasionally referred in his writings to this person but I do not find any other reference to him.

When I went over to Highland county the other day I pretended that I had an objective and I engineered a detour that brought us to Col. Lewis McClung's place on Bull Pasture river. He lives in a brick house facing the road. It was a fine Sunday afternoon. The house has a long porch. On it were gathered a group of persons, and just within the broad front door and framed by it was the finest sort of an old colored mammy seated in a low chair, separated from the white folks by a few inches of space and an imaginary line. You could not tell whether she belonged to the family or the family belonged to her. It was a pleasant picture.

I felt some hesitancy in breaking into that exclusive society but when on an automobile tour you are supposed to have your nerve with you and so we got out and broke into the front yard. I had seen the Colonel once before. It was about fifteen years ago and he was away from home. When we entered the front gate he rose from his chair and stood silent with his hand stretched out in welcome and that was a great picture with a great background, and standing so he waited until the visitors reached him.

So we, a party of five, joined the Sunday afternoon assembly and I took up a number of matters of historical interest after which I had been groping, and I found that he had an inexhaustible fund of historical knowledge and that he could read and interpret the signs that had been left by the course of events, a faculty that marks the true historian.

We talked about the fort established there in 1754 when the frontier of Virginia was being guarded against the French and Indians raiding from the West. This is Fort George and it is reasonably certain that the old Indian chief who lodged a complaint at the council at Easton, Pennsylvania, that a friendly party of Iroquois had been taken prisoners at Marlinton, referred to this fort. He said that they were taken two days' journey to another fort, and that means that it was either the Fort Dinwiddie on Jackson River of this Fort George on the Bull Pasture. The old chief said that was in 1755. Gen. Andrew Lewis was in charge of the garrison at Marlins Bottom that year. Before reaching the fort "two days journey" away two of the Indians were killed, and one taken prisoner, and the rest escaped to take the bad news home.

The Colonel said he had the lock of that old fort there and it was brought out. The bolt and springs and key were iron or steel, and the main body of the lock was made of very hard wood, a block some six by ten inches. The lock was in working condition. The historian explained that locks were unusual in that day and time, and that in the case of a fort the only object of a lock was to make the powder magazine safe from children or careless persons. And he added that there was a prize offered for anyone who could tell what kind of wood it was. I was like the poor boy at the frolic who was boasting that he could tell the different kinds of wood by the sense of smell, and said when they held the end of a cat up to him when he was blindfolded that it was yellow lin. But I had a recollection. I had heard of the lock before and that an expert had identified the wood. So looking no doubt like the cat that stole the cream, I offered to make a "guess" at it and said that it was English oak and that was accepted. I did not consider it essential to tell the congregation how come I said that, but I make the explanation now.

The Colonel has material for many books on the silent shores of his memory and I would not want any better recreation if I had a couple of years to spare and the privilege of using it, than to record that material for posterity. As I said before he not only knows the events but the meaning of them.

And before I forget about it I want to submit a question as to the identity of two Pocahontas soldiers killed at or near Martinsburg in the Civil War. The Colonel was near a Pocahontas company in a battle when a cannon ball took off the heads of two soldiers And the rest of the company was so shocked and horrified at the terrible death that they shrank from burying them, and the Colonel and some others from a different company in the regiment gave the bodies burial in an orchard on a farm. He says that he has recently received word that those two graves are decorated each year and kept in good condition and that there is now interested inquiry as to the names of the soldiers That he himself remembers that one was a Poage and the other a Thompson. There can be little or no question that one of the soldiers was William Poage who was killed at Jacks Shop in the manner described, but the identity of both is here referred to the county, that their names may be supplied to those who have watched over the resting place.

The Colonel would like to know also something of the subsequent history of a brave girl, a Confederate spy, named Maggie Hart or Peggy Hart, released by his command from a war time prison in Nicholas county.

Before the visit was ended I said: "Colonel, I came a long way to ask you a question: What about Selim, the Algerian?"

"You mean, Selim the Algerine?"

"Yes, the Algerine?"

"Why they found him out in your county."

And this is the story in substance: About the year 1760, a hunter by the name of Givens, a brother to a famous Col. Givens, was hunting in the wilderness on Elk River and at a place near the Big Spring, he came upon a man hid in a tree top. The man was naked, starving, and all but dead, but he was able to restore him and brought him to the settlements on the Cow Pasture river, some sixty odd miles east of the place where he was found. There he was taken in by Col. Dickenson. It is said that he was first taken to the home of Andrew Sittlington. This was my step great, great, great grandfather from whom I get my given name, and we have it down that he lived on the Greenbrier at that time, having lived at Marlins Bottom Clover Lick, and Dunmore after moving in from the Cow Pasture settlements.

The captive was a dark skinned man of pleasing appearance but no one could understand his language. After a time he was taken to the Old Stone Church settlement near Staunton, and the pastor of that church was the Rev. Mr. Craig, who was a French scholar, and when he addressed the stranger in that language it was understood and they soon had his story. The fact that the man understood the French language indicates that he was an educated, cultivated man. It appeared that he was a native of Algiers, of the Mohamedan religion. His name was Selim no doubt derived from sultans of that name, Algiers being a Turkish possession down to 1830.

The French and Indian war having broken out Selim came to America as a French soldier and landed at New Orleans and came up that river and during the course of the campaign was taken prisoner by the Indians and brought to some Indian town in the interior. There was no Indian town at that time within the bounds of West Virgrnia. The Indians in the middle west were all with the French. There was an outlaw band of Indians at that time on the Ohio River known as Ming es that were independent. Their town was at Mingo Bottom which is a few miles out of Wheeling. Anyway he was in some such Indian town, and might well have been with the Mingoes, for when he escaped he was found within a few miles of Mingo from whence the Mingoes had moved at or about that time and the trail must have been still well marked.

He said that while he had come from the South, that two women prisoners among the Indians had informed him that the nearest white settlements were to the east, and if these women prisoners were French, Fort Duquesne at Pittsburgh might have been indicated. He escaped and made his way as far as the head of Elk River when he was found by the hunter in a perishing condition.

Under the ministration of the Rev. Mr. Craig he accepted the Christian religion, and remained in the settlements on the Cow Pasture a considerable time.

After a time he left the mountains and made his way to Richmond where he was made much of by the people of that city, and a little later he was heard of in Philadelphia, where his picture was painted by some great painter. And then he went back to Algiers.

After being gone some years he came back to Richmond saying that his father had disowned and disinherited him because he had renounced the Mohamedan faith. He remained in the vicinity of Richmond the rest of his life and is buried in that city.

And that is the story of Selim, the Bey. You can take it up with Selim the Bay, and see if there is any kick.

The next time I am in Richmond, I will try to get some more details as to this matter, and as Pollyanna says I have something to look forward to.

This is the second chapter of a trip to the Old State. And I want to complete the record this week. Davis Barlow travels by the thousand miles but I never yet had got even one thousand miles away from home and the circle narrows as I get older. But living as I do about eighty-four miles from the Natural Bridge, and never having seen it, and having a day to spare as I thought, we went on to that point of interest. And when I got there I found that all that I had read or heard had not given me the correct idea of this great span, often listed as one of the seven wonders of the world. This list was made out before the days of Henry Ford and no doubt he is entitled to one of the places in the first seven and he may have jarred the Natural Bridge loose. But be that as it may, every body living in walking distance of the Natural Bridge ought to see it once and I put it off too long. There is so much grandeur in the mountains of Pocahontas County that I do not think that any native son is going to be over awed by any natural structure. He will get a greater thrill by the awful face of the ocean for that is something so different from the mountains.

I will probably fail to give you a picture of the wonder, for I know that no one ever was able to get me to realize just what they were talking about. In the first place it is used for a bridge, but it is not a bridge, it is a portal. It is true that a pike crosses it and to that extent it is a bridge but the very first two persons I mentioned the natural bridge to when I got home said that while they had crossed the bridge they had never seen it. Does this not prove the point. Imagine if you can a person crossing a bridge in the daytime and not seeing it. Bridge is a misnomer.

Another thing that might have been mentioned by the witness to convey some idea was something that they never thought of mentioning o for as I have read, and which might have given me some idea of what I went there for to see, and that is that it is limestone, and of pure lime stone formation, and while it may take some thousands of years, yet it is even now disintegrating, and they tell me that they have to go over the walls carefully from time to time to make them safe.

Now if this great structure is a portal or door way, the question arises to what? And that is something they did not tell me. It is to a great ampitheater which appears to be about a mile in its greatest length and of an oval form. The Landscape Gardener scooped out such a place and at one end walled it in so that the stream falls over a declivity of some hundred feet or more, then meanders through the oval and issues at the great triumphal arch, such as might have been erected to mar the fall of Lucifer from Heaven.

I soon saw that the show was to walk through the doorway and follow the stream up to the falls and return. The ampitheater is still in a state of nature. It contains our fifty-seven varieties of trees. A foot path and some rude bridges permit you to make the trip with no more fatigue than an ordinary forest ramble. There is a saltpeter cave at one place and at another place where you can glimpse an underground stream such as is common in limestone sections, you can hear the musical roar of its waters.

It is pleasant to see the untouched forest and greet your old friends. They are all there from the Blue Beech to the Hemlock. But I wondered if the ampitheatre had been sodded over if it would not be more impressive than a forest that obscured the view. I wondered if all that dense growth of trees had not sprung up since the days when the fairies, elves, gnomes, and sqnidcumquees danced and sang and shouted there.

I most earnestly advise all persons to see that place at least once, and that they do not put it off until they have lost their power to wonder. That is the reason that I am taking such a prosaic view in this cold recital. It seems to me that if I had been younger I could have gone shouting through the pines until the attention of the police would have been attracted to me. As it was I could not forget the dollar I had parted with to get in. That is what it is to belong to the kindred of the dust.

It is a question of whether one can throw a baseball or other such object over the arch. Those I talked with seemed to be doubtful. We know that George Washington had at least two silver dollars in his time for he threw one across the Potomac River ahd the other over the Natural Bridge, and that was another thing that distracted my attention for I spent part of my time looking at the bridge and part of the tome looking for that dollar. But that is not the only bridge money that has been lost there. Anyway it was not an American dollar for there was no American dollar in existence during the period of George Washington's life that his arm was in condition to throw. It might have been a Spanish plaster.

I did not try to throw a dollar over the bridge. They took it away from me at the entrance.

I tried to find the place that George Washington climbed up to carve his name high above all other men, but could not identify it. I saw many other initials and some Ws among them but at no place that was difficult to reach

Some of these two hundred yard golf shooters could send a golf ball over the arch. The kind that shoot a hundred yards up and a hundred yards down.

I do not know what made me ponder on the question of removing the foliage of the trees from the vicinity of the bridge so that it might stand forth in all its majesty, unless it was the numerous signs and solemn warnings about stealing a single leaf rrom a tree. I would have them know that it is the last thing I would be prone to do—to cut brush on another man's land. But the moment you see that kind of a sign you begin to hanker for a leaf

The time has come to ring down the curtain. There is enough left over to make another clock.

Poultry and Berry Farm for sale

29 acres 7 miles from Marlinton, 3 1-2 miles from Hillsboro. On state road Good 8 room plastered house, new cement cellar 18x22 with a building over it 22 feet square. One new W. Va. type modern poultry house 24x47, one 18x24, several smaller houses all A1 condition, 1 2 acre of strawberries, 1-4 acre of blackberries. Have sold over $2,000 worth of eggs and poultry since January 1st. Incubator, 2000 egg capacity, sold with farm if desired. Price right to quick buyer. Come and see or write for further particulars.

W. A. ARBOGAST-
Millpoint, W. Va.

The Lowest INSTALLED Price ever announced for a Farm Electric Light and Power Plant

The DELCO-LIGHT Man is ready NOW—to install your DELCO-LIGHT Plant COMPLETE—only $539.50 for the most popular farm size plant

UNEQUALLED installation facilities, including a nation-wide organization of over 4,000 installation men, make it possible for Delco-Light with their quantity production to set the lowest price ever announced for an electric light plant completely installed.

And—it is highly important, in purchasing any lighting plant that you know the installed price.

The installed price for the most popular size Delco-Light plant includes not only the plant itself—it includes the freight; it includes the actual installation of that plant; it includes the standard Delco-Light Exide Battery composed of sixteen large capacity cells, built for long life, with extra thick plates and heavy glass jars; the wiring of your house for ten lights to be located anywhere you wish; one power outlet wherever you may want it; a standard set of ten drop lights with sockets and the installation of these lights; and ten standard electric light bulbs—the complete installation ready for you to turn on the lights.

This is the way to buy your electric light and power plant.

Terms So Easy You Cannot Afford To Be Without One

To make it easy for you to get your Delco-Light Plant we have set a very low first payment and made the terms very easy. The local Delco-Light man will explain these terms to you. A liberal discount allowed for cash.

Similar Outfit With Smaller Size Plant, $437.50

The World's Largest Farm Light Plant Manufacturer NOW makes it possible for you to get your

DELCO-LIGHT

Over 200,000 Satisfied Users

DELCO-LIGHT COMPANY, DAYTON, OHIO

MARLINTON ELECTRIC CO.

Marlinton, West Virginia

WRIGLEY'S

Take it home to the kids.

Have a packet in your pocket for an ever-ready treat.

A delicious confection and an aid to the teeth, appetite, digestion.

After Every Meal

Sealed in its Purity Package

FISK TIRES

C. J. Richardson
Marlinton, W. Va.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN.
Marlinton, W. Va.

MOTOR ERVICE - TO - ALLEGHENY CLUB

Round Trip to Minnehaha Springs $3.50

Phone the Allegheny Club, at Minnehaha Springs.

Crochet Work

Done at a reasonable price. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Mrs. Lena Colson
Locust, W. Va.

Auction Sale

On Saturday, September 22, 1923, at the residence of the late Newton Friel, one mile from Fairview Church I will offer for sale the following property:

1 good milk cow, 1 calf steer, 50 chickens, 1 Singer sewing machine, 1 dining table, 2 wash stands, 2 tables, 3 bed steads, 2 sets springs, 1 mowing machine, 1 level land plow, 1 single shovel plow, 400 jars fruit, stone jars, 1 iron kettle, 1 copper kettle, 1 heating stove and pipe, some dishes, 1 lot potatoes, 1 lot garden truck, 2 lots in Marlinton, and many other things too numerous to mention.

Terms: All sums under five dollars cash, over that amount one years time with interest, note with good endororsers. Sale begins 1. p. M. promptly

Mrs. Newton Friel.

Auction ale

I will offer for sale at my residence near Huntersville, W. Va on Saturday September 15, 1923, beginning at 1 o'clock the following personal property:

1, Hereford cow 5 years old, 2 shoats 1, garden plow, rakes, hoes and other tools, 1, hand cart, 4, vinegar barrel, 5, bushel potatoes, 1, organ and stool, 1, Kalamazero range stove, 1, sewing machine, 6 chairs 2 rockers, 2 bedsteads 1 porch swing, 1 lot stone jars and stone churn, 1 lot glass fruit jars, 1 laundry stove with oil burner, 1 canthook

A lot of other things too numerous to mention

Terms: All sums under 15 dollars cash, over that 4 months time with note with good endorser.

O P. McNeil

FOR SALE—One Roan mare six years old, good worker, sound, will weigh right at 1200 lbs. Price $65.00 reason for selling have no feed. Grover Thompson, Millpoint, W. Va.

Commissioners Notice

Dr. Geo. F. Hull assignee of T. D. Moyer & Co.
vs
Mattie Gregory W. J. Gregory, Anna L. Simmons, J. C. Ashford and Willie Philips and all other liens creditors of W. J. Gregory and Mattie Gregory.

All interested parties will please take notice that pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County entered on the 3rd day of April, 1923, in the above entitled cause I will proceed on Friday, September 7, 1923, at my office in the town of Marlinton, W. Va. to take, state and report to court the following matters of account referred to me in said decree.

1st, All the real estate owned by the judgment debtors W. J. Gregory and Mattie Gregory, where situated, its description and the quanity thereof.

2nd, The liens upon said real estate by whom, held their amounts and prioriters.

3rd. Whether said real estate will rent in 5 years for a sufficent sum to pay off and discharge said liens and the costs of this suit.

4th, And such other matters, as any party in interest may require, the same being pertinent, or such other matters as said commissioner himself may deem pertinent whether required or not.

N. C. McNeil, Commissioner.

To all persons holding liens by judgement or otherwise on the real estate or any part thereof of W. J. Gregory and Mattie Gregory.

In pursuance for decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, made in a cause therein pending to subject the real estate of the said W. J. Gregory, to the satisfaction of the liens thereon, you are hereby required to present all claims held by you and each of you against the said W. J. Gregory and Mattie Gregory which are liens against their real estate or any part of it for adjudication to me at my office in Marlinton in Pocahontas County, West Virginia, on or before the 7th day of September, 1923.

Given under my hand this 11th day of August 1923.

N. C. McNeel, Commissioner.

Pocahontas Junk Co.

Marlinton, W. Va.

—Buyers—

Scrap iron, coppers, brass, waste paper, metals, rags, bones, beef hides, calf skins, live poultry and all waste materials.

TED McELWEE, Prop.
Marlinton, W. Va.

NOTICE—If you want Virginia blackberries, now ripe at McLaughlin, Mill Gap, Va.

N. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specialty of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

CHARLES SHINABERRY
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
All calls given prompt attention.

A. J. SHARP
AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
Phone Marlinton Central.

W. A. BARLOW
OLD RELIABLE AUCTIONEER
Onoto, W. Va.
All calls answered.

WM. O. RUCKMAN
LICENSED AUCTIONEER
Millpoint, West Virginia
A young man with the goods

Z. S. Smith
Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMER
DENTIST
Marlinton, W. Va
First National Bank Building
Office hours 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. or appointment. All work guaranteed

Baxter's Garage
MARLINTON W. VA.
FORD Cars and Supplies
FORDSON Tractors
A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.
I. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Picoting and Hem-Stitching
All orders promptly filled.
MRS. J. E. BUCKLEY,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Hogs For Sale

25 grade Poland China and Berkshire pigs, 7 and 8 weeks old $5 each. 15 thoroughbred Poland China pigs, 5 weeks old, will keep 10 weeks old, $8 without register papers and $10 with papers. 8 good fresh milk cows.

W. McClintic
Marlinton, W. Va.

House or Sale

14 room house in Marlinton; desirable location, either for a residence or boarding house, or a profitable renting proposition. Apply to

J. J. McNeilan.
Marlinton, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLII NO 6 — MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA; SEPTEMBER 20 1923 — $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

COUNTY RACE DAY

From the wide spread interest that is being manifeseed in the County Race and Chase Day at the Pocahontas Fair Grounds on Saturday, September 29, there will be a large attendance, and the entries of hounds in the fox chase will be especially numerous. The guesses on the number of hound dogs to be entered range from fifty to one hundred.

Arrangements have been made for the Dunmore Band to be present and play throughout the day. This band has for its leader that widely known band master, R. A. Kramer. They furnished the music at the Pocahontas County Fair this year.

The Greenbank District Sunday School Convention at Dunmore, advertised for September 29, has been postponed a week until October 6.

This writer hopes the people of Pocahontas will come to the Fair Ground on Saturday, September 29, and make it a County Picnic Day. Bring your dinner. There surely is no more pleasent place than these grounds for a day out of doors. In addition there will be races and chases and the music by the band in the way of entertainment.

COUNTY S. S. CONVENTION

At a meeting of the executive committee of the County Sunday School Association held at Marlinton last Friday night, the date for the County Sunday School Convention was set for Friday and Saturday, November 2 and 3. The place is Marlinton and the convention church, the new Methodist church.

County President G. C. Hamilton is working out a strong program. Besides the state officers he expects to have Dr. John I Armstrong, editor of the Sunday School literature of the Presbyterian church and the president of the Ohio State S. S. Association. The latter has recently returned from a trip to the Holy Land.

ST. JOHN'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Evening prayer and sermon in this church Sunday night at 7:45.

Bishop McKim of the Diocese of Tokio cables concerning the great need of the Clergy and Missionaries and Church People in Japan, and earnestly asks prompt aid. They have lost, he states, their Churches, their schools, their homes, and personal property; their lives have been spared, concerning the things of the world they have lost all Save Faith in God.

Bishop Gravatt earnestly requests that each Communicant and Friend of the Church will give generously towards the aid of our fellow Christians in Japan.

The offering Sunday night will be given for this purpose.

Sincerely yours,
Geo. J. Cleaveland.

RESOLUTIONS

Whereas, Almighty God, in His Infinite wisdom, has seen fit to take from among us our late friend and brother, John Kincaid, therefore be it resolved.

That Cass Lodge, I. O. O. F. no 368, has lost a consistent and beloved member, and have suffered a loss that seems impossible to regain, and be it further resolved,

That we extend to the family of our deceased brother our heartfelt sympathy in this their time of bereavement. And be it further resolved,

That the usual signs of mourning be displayed in our Lodge for a period of thirty days, and a copy of these resolutions be mailed to the family of our deceased brother.

W. R. Richards
L. F. Cutlip
W. R. Ervin
Committee

On September 10, a number of the Greenbank District High School graduates, met and organized an Alumni Association. All of the graduates are requested to join. The fee for the year is $1.00. The Association entertained the High School faculty at a marshmallow toast last Friday evening. Those present were: Visitors, Katherine Brown, Lillian Moomau, Janice Fulgham, Thomas Harwood, Forrest Hedrick, Henry Winkler, Clarence Sheets, Fred Moomau, Henry McNeel, Mike Wilhide, and Lake Oliver.—Mrs. Clarence Sheets, '19, Virginia Moomau, Helen Beard, Mrs. Fred Moomau, '20; Blanche Patterson, Mary Hunter Moomau, Kirth Nottingham, Kermit Arbogast, Leone Oliver, '21; Fannie Kerr, Delbert Gillispie, Hunter Arbogast, '22; and Edgar Shinaberry, '23. The Association will entertain the Senior class at a corn roast near Arbovale Friday evening, September 21, at eight o'clock. All of the Alumni are requested to be present.

Leone Oliver, Sec.

A party composed of Modern Woodmen of America met at the home of Neighbor John Young and cut his corn. Mr Young has been under the weather for some weeks.

Waugh Brothers have completed their contract of two miles of grading from the Bridge around the Price Hill through the Kee Lane. This was a very heavy piece of road construction and was completed in a workman like manner. This company has made friends here by their friendly, business like dealing, and it is hoped they will secure contracts to build other stretches of Class A road in this county.

J. J. McGraw has brought the Camden property, near the high school.

MY FIRST EGG COLLECTING

By Ligon Price, in The Oologist

I have never caught the egg collecting craze, but have amassed a nice collection of mounted birds, which is now in the State Museum at Charleston, West Virginia.

Most of my collecting was done several years ago, as I have changed my occupation and my present one does not permit me to spend as much time as I would like to at my hobby.

As I have stated above I have never had the "Egg Craze," but will tell of a couple of experiences I have had collecting Hawk eggs, soon after I first began collecting.

One day in May, 1913, my brother and I thought that we would go to the creek, about a mile away from home, to snare "white suckers" as a few days before we had seen several nice schools in this stream. Arriving at the creek we found that the wind was blowing and the water rough for good fishing, so we gave up the idea of fishing and decided that we would hunt for Crow's nests in a strip of wooded land that lay close by the creek.

In this woods crows nested every year and we were desiring a young crow for a pet. While strolling through the woods, we saw several nests, but all were uninhabited. Finally we came to a Pin Oak tree, which had what looked like an old squirrel nest in the forks about thirty feet from the ground, on getting to the tree a hawk flew from the nest.

My brother climbed the tree and found the nest contained two eggs, but having no way to get them down and not knowing what kind of hawk eggs they were, we left them in the nest and returned home. When we got home we took a couple of small hen's eggs and water color paint and colored the hen's eggs as near like the hawk eggs as possible.

Next we prepared to go back to the nest, taking a small bucket filled with cotton to carry the eggs, a small steel trap and a shotgun. On arriving at the nest the old bird on, who promptly flew, we took a couple of shots at her but missed.

After climbing the tree again we took out the hawk's eggs and put in the camouflaged hen's eggs and set the steel trap in the nest and tied the chain to a limb. As it was getting late we did not visit the nest again that day.

The next morning my brother returned to the nest and found the old hawk caught in the trap, which we identified as a female Broad Wing which I mounted and is now in my collection.

A few days after this we were in the same woods and found a large nest in a white pine which proved to be a Sharp Shinned Hawk nest, containing a set of fine eggs, like hen's eggs, in this instance being two large eggs. We took plaster paris and made a set of artificial eggs coloring them with water colors as near as possible like the real ones.

We took out the hawk eggs and put in the artificial ones and set a small steel trap as in the first instance.

The old bird was not so easily caught as the first one, as she managed to push the trap out of the nest several times, but finally got caught by the neck. This hawk is also mounted and is now in my collection.

This was some of my very first collecting and as I had never seen a set of eggs properly prepared, I spoiled both of these sets. I took a pen knife and drilled a ragged hole in each large enough to take out a heavily incubated embryo.

These sets are spoiled so far as commercial value is concerned, but I will keep them as a memento of my first egg collecting.

CONVENTION POSTPONED

On account of sickness and other things to interfere, the Edray District Sunday School Convention at Marys Chapel has been postponed from Saturday, September 22, to Saturday October 13. Tell your neighbors of this change of date.

Ira D. Brill, Pres.

J. W. Milligan is making extensive improvements on his residence on Upper Camden.

Charles Sharp, from Stony Bottom has moved into his new house on Lower Camden, which he recently purchased from J. W. Milligan.

Mrs. A. F. Ballard and little daughter, of Cumberland, are spending some time with Mrs. Ballard's parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Billingsley.

Mr. and Mrs J. H. Vandevort, of Weston, were here last week, guests of E. D. King. They spent sone days in the Linwood neighborhood, where they had lived so many years.

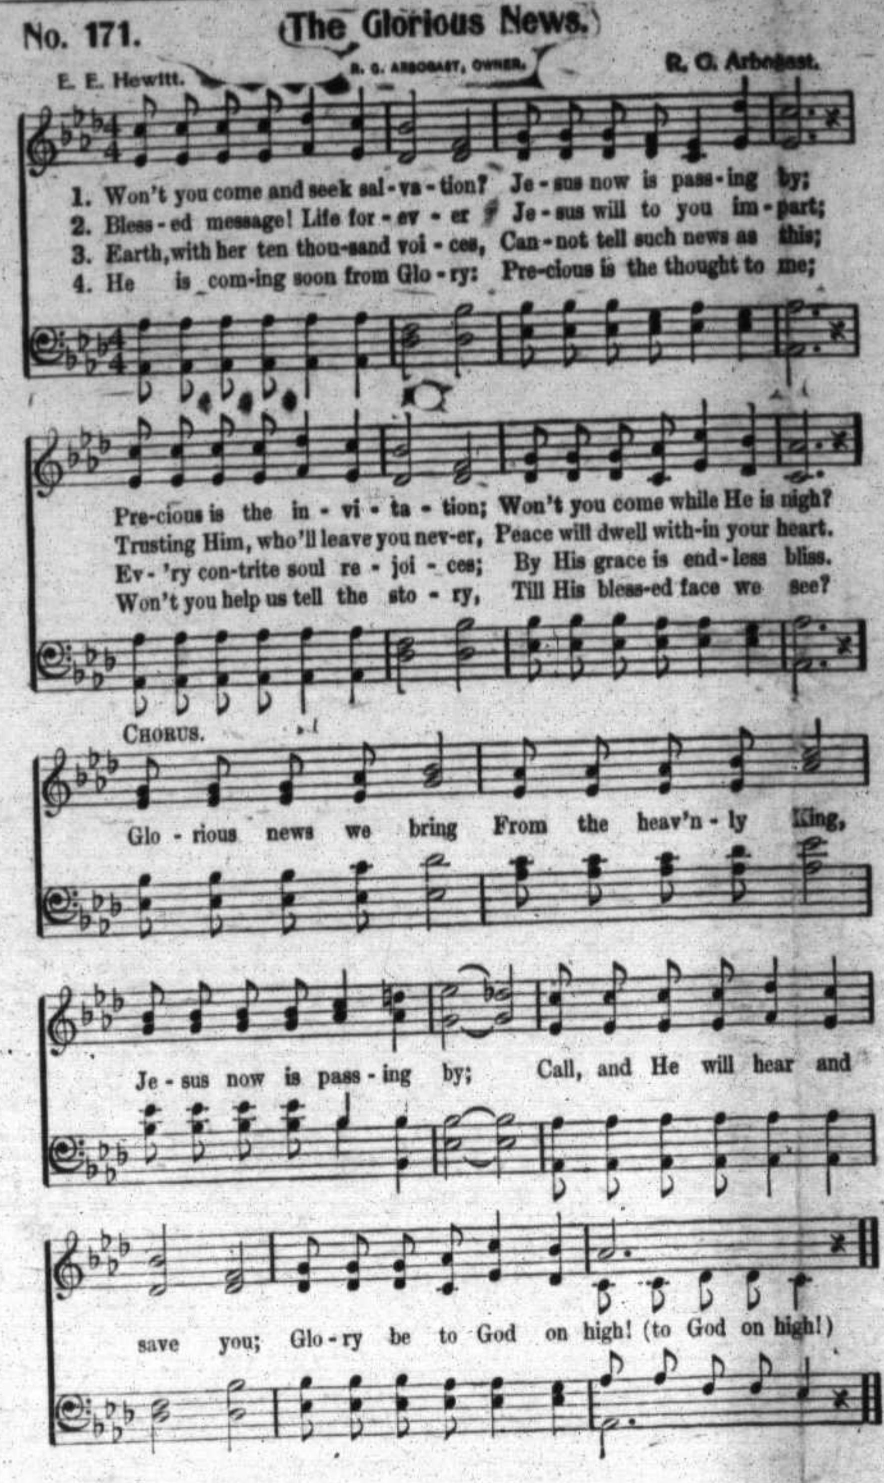
Mrs. A. J. Jank and daughter, Miss Lois Jank, of Cumberland, Maryland, were week end guests of Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Billingsley at the Parsonage.

Mrs. Wilbur Sharp and son Robert are on a two weeks' visit to Mrs. Sharp's sister in Green Castle, Pennsylvania, and her parents in Louden county, Virginia.

Notice

All parties holding claims against the estate of Joseph H. Wilson, will present the same, legally proven, to me, for payment.

L. M. McClintic.
Ex'or of Joseph H Wilson



The above hymn was set to music by R. G. Arbogast, of Arbovale; he also composed the first and fourth verses. The other two verses and the chorus are Mrs. E. E. Hewitt, a celebrated hymn writer of Philadelphia. Mr. Arbogast became acquainted with Mrs. Hewitt, while he was a soldier during the world war. The hymn is from "Songs of Salvation and Service," published by M. Homer Cummings, of Wheeling.

GREENBRIER PRESBYTERY

Greenbrier Presbytery met in regular fall session in the Liberty Church, Greenbank, Pocahontas county, on Sept. 4th, at 3 p. m. There were present eighteen ministers and twenty-two ruling elders. The opening sermon was preached by the retiring Moderator, Elder Calvin Price, of Marlinton, from the text II Chron. 24:5. "Howbeit the Levites hastened it not."

Rev. O. N Miles was elected Moderator, and Rev. Paul Nickell and F. C Nickell were elected temporary clerks.

Rev. W. C. Frierson was dismissed at his own request to the Presbytery of Abingdon to accept the call to the church at Blackey, Kentucky.

Rev. S. E. Paxson was received from the Presbytery of Ebenezer, in Kentucky, and a commission was appointed to install him Pastor of the Richlands church.

Rev. Paul Nickell was called to the Alderson church and a commission was appointed to install him pastor.

Rev. R. B. Hudson tendered his resignation of Mt. Pleasant and Hillsdale churches, which was accepted and permission was given him to labor without the bounds of the Presbytery till next meeting.

Rev. R. L. Kinnaird preached the Presbyterian sermon on the subject of "Unbelief." His text was I John 5:10.

Conferences were held on men's work and on the subject of General Assembly's home missions in which several interesting addresses were made on these important subjects.

By appointment of Presbytery sermons were preached by Rev. T. P. Allen and Rev. J. E Flow.

Revs. H. H. Orr and F. W. Gray were added to the committee on revision of the Book of the Church Order, which consisted of Rev. F. P. Sydenstricker, John I Armstrong and J. E. Flow.

A special committee was appointed to study the matter of the incorporation of religious bodies in West Virginia, consisting of Rev. F. W. Gray, J. E Flow and C. W. Price. This committee is to report at the spring meeting.

Rev. J. C. Johnson, with Dr. Jno. I. Armstrong as alternate, was appointed to preach the Presbyterial sermon next spring, on the theme "How does Christ the Son reveal God the Father."

A resolution of thanks was adopted, by a rising vote to the good people of Greenbank for their generous hospitality in entertaining Presbytery.

The invitation of Spring Creek church, at Renick, was accepted for the spring meeting of Presbytery. The time set is the Monday after the second of Sunday in April.

Presbytery adjourned to meet in Lewisburg at 1:30 p. m. on Sept. 21st 1923.

J. E. F.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hinkle of High Point, N. C., after spending some time with friends and relatives in Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties, left for their home last Friday. Mr. Hinkle is a graduate of Dunsmore Business College and has been holding a good position as book keeper for the Crown Hosier Company for several years. Some years ago Mr. Hinkle was a clerk in Golden's store at this place.

WESLEY CHAPEL M. E. SOUTH

Hillsboro, West Virginia
W. Clark Early, Pastor.
9:45 a m. Sunday School
F. P. Kidd, Superintendent
7 00 p m Epworth League
11 00 a m. Sermon, "The Passion to Serve."
3 30 p m. Preaching at Sharon.

If the revival services at the Presbyterian church continue til Sunday the eleven o'clock service will be dispensed with.

There is a possibility of having Mr. E C Eagle, prosecuting attorney of Summers county, give us a Stewardship address Sunday night at eight o'clock.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

J. Herndon Billingsley, Pastor.
Sunday School 9:45 a. m.
A. S. Overholt, Supt.
Epworth League 7 p. m.
Preaching, 11:00 a. m. and 7:45 p.m.
Subjects: Morning "Honest Debtors"
Evening: "God so Loved"

Prayer and praise meeting Wednesday, 7:45 p. m. Everybody welcome.

The Marlinton Presbyterian Sunday School will hold their annual Rally Day services on Sunday October 21. Rev. O. N. Miles, of Cloverlick, will make the address.

GREENBANK

We are having fine fall weather but a little two dry.

Mr. Henry Wooddell and wife are on an automobile trip to Paxton Ill, to visit their son Luther.

The Methodist have had their church painted nicely which adds very much to the looks of the nice building.

Dr. L L Little, has sold his nice residence in town, to J L Ashford, and moved to Marlinton, our loss is Marlintons gain.

Born, Sept, 16, 1923, to Mrs. Harry Wooddell, a fine daughter, all are doing fine.

Two of the infants of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lough, died last week and the other one may die.

The G. B. D H. S. opened Sept 10th with 102 present, also the graded with 100 present, and more to come, the high school teachers are as follows: L. P. Harwood, principal, Rev. L. S. Shires, Rev. D. Mc Monroe, F. W. Hedrick, Misses Lillian Moomau Kathlene Brown, Jance Fulgham, one short. Grade teachers: J. Kennit Arbogast, Misses Fannie Kerr, Leone Oliver, Blanch Patterson, we are expecting a fine school this year.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Skiggs, and baby of Arbovale passed tdrough town last Monday.

Dr. Solter went over a steep bank near Paul Sharp's residence last Wednesday. The car turned over and lodged against a tree. The Doctor was fast under the car, but fortunately was unhurt except for painful cuts and bruises.

The President of Edray District Sunday School Association reports a splendid Childrens' Day service at Brushy Flat Sunday School on last Sunday. It was an all day affair and every one seemed to have a good time and enjoy the program as well as the splendid dinner that was spread. This community purposes building a church in the near future.

DEATHS OF CHILDREN FROM DIPHTHERIA CAN BE PREVENTED

DECLARES STATE HEALTH COMMISSIONER HENSHAW—VACCINATION SURE PREVENTATIVE

If Every Child In The State Were Given the Toxin-Antitoxin Treatment There Would Be No Diphtheria, Is Statement Made—Legislative Aid Is Urged.

Deaths of children resulting from diphtheria can be prevented, is the statement of State Health Commissioner Henshaw in discussing the usual increasing prevalence of the disease in the fall of the year, and he adds that all diphtheria among children can be prevented by simple and painless vaccination.

Three doses of toxin-antitoxin (it can be administered by any physician), injected through the skin, will provide permanent protection against diphtheria, he says.

Experience of the health department for several years, shows that children who have been inoculated with the toxin-antitoxin do not contract diphtheria, no matter how much they may be exposed. If every child in the state were vaccinated, there would be no diphtheria, is the statement made.

Records show diphtheria is the foremost cause of death of children between 3 and 6 years of age, and the commissioner says that all sore throat troubles should have the attention of a doctor.

After a child has contracted diphtheria, the prospects of a recovery lie in the prompt use of antitoxin. Every hour of delay in giving antitoxin increases the possibility of death, is a statement made in a bulletin published by the health department.

A record on file in the health department of 8,372 cases of diphtheria shows the increase in death rate where the use of antitoxin was delayed. Where 624 persons were given antitoxin on the first day, only 2 deaths occurred. In 2,181 cases antitoxin was administered on the second day and 33 deaths resulted or 1.51 per cent of the total. When antitoxin was given on the third day, 3.38 per cent died; when given on the fourth, 11.15 per cent died, and when given on the fith, 22.01 per cent.

The State Health Department requested the 1923 legislature to appropriate money for the purpose of supplying free toxin-antitoxin and other vaccine lymph for use in times of epidemics, but the bill did not pass.

LYCEUM

The first number of the Edray District High School Lyceum course will be at the High School Auditorium on Wednesday night, September 26, at eight o'clock.

The DuMond Male Quartet. Their entertainment is both vocal and instrumental. The advertising sheets say of them: "Four young men who not only sing and play well, but are master entertainers, constitute the DuMond Male Quartet. Under the direction of Joe DuMond this organization has won a real name among Lyceum and Chautauqua Quartets, and one they are constantly trying to build upon."

The course gives promise of being the strongest and best ever held by our high school. It is furnished by the Redpath Bureau.

DURBIN

Quite a number of our citizens were at Beverly last week attending a Masonic meeting. They report a fine banquet and a good time generally.

The Standard Oil Company has about twenty men working on the plant here now.

Cecil Houchin and John Varner are doing quite a business building his fall.

Holt & Hickman are loading cars with fine lumber this week.

Our school started this week with C. E. Flynn principal. We are looking forward to a fine school

W. W. Marshall has returned from the state of Ohio where he spent his vacation.

Russell Crowley has charge of the carpenter force rebuilding the leech house for the Pocahontas Tanning Company

Squire Hudson was in town Saturday on legal business

Frank Reda and family are leaving this week for the State of Pennsylvania.

Woodford Hutton of Huttonsville, is in town.

Mrs John F. Wooddell is in the City Hospital at Elkins for an operation. Her many friends hope that she will soon recover.

M. C. Kavenaugh, of Whiting, was in town last week

Five car loads of cattle left Bartow last week.

The I. O. O. F. picnic at Old Liberty church near Greenbank, was fine. The speakers were Mr. Lambert, of Smoot Lodge, Greenbrier county; Rev. Shires of Greenbank and Past Grand Master Thomas H Neal, of Ohio county. Everybody enjoyed themselves and a general good time reported.

On Saturday night the K of P. gave a banquet and about two hundred attended. The speakers were Judge Sharp, of Marlinton, and Thomas H. Neal. L. C. Frazier managed the banquet in an up to date style just like he had been it the business all his life.

VERY SPECIAL

We have an unusual selection of boys and girls school clothing:

Girls' Sweaters and Coats
Boys' Suits, Overcoats and Sweaters
Red Goose Shoes for all
All kinds of school stationery
We invite your inspection of our line.

Peoples Store & Supply Company
Marlinton, West Virginia

Ford THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Announcement

The new Ford cars are now ready for your inspection, introducing changes that improve the appearance of the various body types and increase their comfort and utility.

They offer you not only economical and dependable transportation, but also a more attractive style and a greater share of motoring convenience—a combination that makes the outstanding value of Ford cars more impressive than ever.

See the new Ford models now on display in our showroom.

These cars can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

BAXTER'S GARAGE
Marlinton, W. Va.

Ford
CARS · TRUCKS · TRACTORS

EDRAY DISTRICT HIGH SCHOOL

The enrollment of Edray District High School is now over 160 and more coming in each day. Lack of room and equipment is felt more and more. It is somewhat of a proposition to care for this number in a building equipped for a school of one hundred.

Among the students off for college this week are Miss Genevieve Yeager, Miss Alice McClintic, Miss Catherine Clark, Miss Pleas Richardson, and Raymond Gibson, to the University at Morgantown; Miss Delphia Snedegar to Fairmont Normal.

The Synod of West Virginia meets at Richwood next Tuesday, September 25. Marlinton Presbyterian church will be represented by its pastor, Rev. H. H. Orr and Elder F. B. Slaven.

FERTILIZERS
and Timothy Seed
for Fall Planting
Just Received
T. D. MOORE
For Gallon Stone Jars at
10c each

FOR SALE—Ten rose combed Rhode Island Red cockerels, Tompkins strain, Red to the skin. March hatched, $2 50 at farm or $3.00 at express office, if taken by Oct. 15th. C. L. Barlow, Edray, W. Va.

HANLINE BROS.
LEAD AND ZINC
READY MIXED PAINT
GUARANTEED
AS PURE AS PAINT CAN BE MADE
FOR SALE BY DEALERS EVERYWHERE

Dealers Supplied By
S. B. WALLACE & CO.
Marlinton, W. Va.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

THURSDAY SEPTEMBER 20, 1923

ALF AT THE FAIR

Last week was fair week at Lewisburg. The week before was fair week at Marlinton. Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties are noted for their fine grazing and farming lands, being blue grass counties and in each splendid fairs are held, reflecting the progressive spirit of the agriculturists and stock breeders of the county.

The Pocahontas fair is held about two miles above Marlinton on one of the best fair grounds in the state The ground comprises 130 acres a wide field with a splendid half-mile track, flanked on all sides by superb mountain scenery and its outer edge washed by the limpid waters of the Greenbrier river. Nature seems to have formed this plot of ground especially for a fair and on every side of it for miles has spread out fertile fields or reared mountains, all to furnish products for the big annual show.

In fair times Marlinton needs another hotel or two. We found the main hotel "sold out." It was fortunate that we did, for it gave us, an opportunity to visit and paying visits has always been more pleasant than paying hotel bills. June McElwee, one of the pleasant assistant cashiers in the Bank of Marlinton took us in town and hunting Cal Price lodged us with him for the night. Cal is a fellow newspaper man, publisher of the Pocahontas Times and a royal entertainer: His paper is one of the best and spiciest in southern West Virginia. The memory of a night under his roof will always remain with us

Attorney Andrew Price, whom every one calls "Andy" is a Pocahontas institutisn of whom none is whomer, if I make my meaning plain No citizen in the county or in southern West Virginia is better known. He is a lawyer, a printer, a poet, a naturalist, a scientist and a farmer and mixed with it all an innate goodness and charm of manner rounds out his pleasing personality. He talks entertainingly on all subjects and if you were to ask him if under our common law it is permissible for a man to marry his widow's sister or if a duck has eyebrows he will give you an answer quicker than lightning could travel the length of a pick handle. We were royally entertained for a night and day in his splendid home. His erudition, his philosophy and his charm of manner are inborn, yet aided by congenial home surroundings, for we are all, more or less, creatures of our environment. Just at the present time Andy is a busy man In addition to keeping up his law practice he has been looking after the affairs of the prosecuting attorney's office for Mr. Allen Edgar, who has been on an extended illness, but is now happily recovering. He has also been doing considerable farming and some two miles from his home he has a farm. Some one once said "O for a lodge in some vast wilderness" and this thought has also struck Mr. Price for he has erected a house on his farm and is now engaged in cutting the wilderness away. He raised some fine corn there this year and was awarded the second prize at the fair. When we told Editor Goddard of the exploit of this fellow newspaper man he wanted to know if there were but two entrants in the corn contest. He dosen't know Andy Price like we do, for there were ten or more corn exhibitors. Another thing that particularly impressed us was the readiness with which he acknowledged that the corn which took the first prize was superior to his. This is what is generally referred to as, 'acknowledging the corn" and it isn't always easy to do. Mr. Price is the author of a book of poems, "Dreams." He wields a fertile pen and is a regular contributor of prose and poem to the Pocahontas Times, his articles being replete with fact, wit and humor.

Frank R. Hunter, vice-president of the Bank of Marlinton, married into the Price family and the mother of the Price children makes this her home. She is the widow of the late Rev. Wm. T. Price, who was a pioneer Presbyterian minister in that section whose impress for good will live through all time. Mrs. Price is a remarkable lady of 4score and eight with a mind alert and active. She does much writing and "The Old Church and Other Poem's" is one of her books. Hospitality abounds in this home and a pleasant night was spent under that roof.

Marlinton is beautifully situated and since our first visit there one bleak winter day years ago, much progress has been made. The Greenbrier branch of the C. & O penetrated the town 20 years ago and tapped the rich timber tracts on all sides. A tannery at Marlinton employs many men. Two banks, two newspapers, a wholesale drug house, a wholesale grocery, good schools, several churches all contribute to make it an ideal place The Methodists are building a $70,000 edifice of gray brick. Good roads are being built in the county.

The Pocahontas fair has the backing of all of the substantial business men of the county, most of whom are stockholders. There is a spirit of co operation among the farmers and the stock raisers and anything for the good of the community is welcomed. A county agricultural agent is employed. There is said to be more blue grass in Pocahontas county alone than there is in the entire state of Kentucky. With a wealth of natural resource and with a splendid community spirit it is no wonder that a great fair is put on each year, that splendid fat cattle and sheep are exhibited and that blooded horses make fast tracks on the race course.

If you have never attended a Pocahontas county fair, do so next year. You may never get to go back, but you will always want to. There will always be pleasant recollections of a hospitable and friendly people, of towering mountains lifting their summits to the skies, of rolling meadow lands and blue grass pasture fields, of limpid streams, cool nights, pure air and all the blessings that make this great county one of the garden spots of the universe—Congressman Alf Taylor in Pick and Shovel.

FROST CONVENTION

Huntersville District Sunday School Convention was held at Trinity M. E. Church, Frost, Saturday September 1, 1923.

Devotional service by Rev. Don Nichlos, followed by words of welcome by A. A. Sharp. He thought out widened visions, the value of Sunday school conventions where workers gain knowledge by coming together, the ideas gained are carried to different schools, and there applied to different situations, which creates a spirit of fellowship. He also showed the Sunday schools of to day one purpose advancement of God's Kingdom.

Response, J. H. Bussard which was appropriate on the time of the young taking the place of us older ones of today.

Address, Wheeling Convention, county president, G. C. Hamilton, Mr Hamilton spoke in a forcible manner, out lined the manifold possibilities and the working of our State Convention, 80 to 90 per cent of our church members are secured through the Sunday schools, also talked on the topics of some of the most brilliant men and woman who attend the Wheeling Convention, Mr. H. is a wide awake man and a live wire in connection with the Sunday school work

Address Youths Vision, G. D McNeill, who made it plain to parents his thoughts expressed should be carried home to every father and mother, he spoke of the little girl of kind hearted parents who watched over them hoping to cultivate a vision that will grow into womanhood. The boy should be carefully looked after, that his visions may not carry him estray, but allow him privileges and they will make your home beautiful and also useful men.

Our choir favored the convention with sacred selections throughout the day.

A sumptuous dinner was served at noon hour in the church yard, for which a rising vote of thanks was tendered the ladies and friends of Frost and vicinity.

After the noon hour devotional service rendered by Rev. Palmer Eubank, after which followed an address by Mrs. G. C. Hamilton, Our Young People, which was interesting, she outlined forcefully the duties of the teacher, she must have spiritual inclination and morally clean and the teacher should visit as much as the pastor and above all learn the child Her motto was: "Know the truth, teach the truth, and live the truth

Address by S. N. Hench was well received, he holds a place among the old and young of our convention, we must say, would be hard to fill; he held to the point on ground hog Sunday schools, left the impression that we are to a great extent responsible for if the superintendant has two legs two arms and is not deaf or dumb he can certainly be at his post, and by his promptness and influence build a good evergreen school.

Rev. W. Hogsett was with us and gave a good talk, he is a welcome visitor in the homes of the people of Frost.

Rev. H Underwood made an interesting talk.

RESOLUTIONS

1st. That the Sunday School Conventions are worth the time and trouble that is required to hold them, and especially for the spirit of christian unity.

2nd. That we extend our thanks to the good people of Frost and vicinity for their generous hospitality and to all whose interest and labor make possible these annual meetings.

3rd. That we extend our thanks to all the speakers for their presence and excellent addresses and to all visiting brothers and speakers.

4th. That we ask our workers for a more determined effort for success in all Sunday school work.

5th. Thanks are extended to our worthy District Superentendent Mitchell Sharp for the well arranged convention, he realises that it is a soul winner.

The next convention will be held at Mt. Zion.

Dr. G. M. Jordan
J. C. Harper
H. Lee White
Committee.

HARRISBURG MAN LIVES TWO YEARS ON MILK AND HONEY

Davis becomes very weak and nervous but Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup soon made a new man of him.

"Before I began taking Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup I actually felt like I was more dead than alive," said Logan B. Davis, an employee of the Central Iron & Steel Works, and living at 228 Cranberry Ave., Harrisburg, Pa.

"For two years I suffered terribly from indigestion which finally got so bad I could take nothing in my stomach but a little milk and honey. I was very weak and nervous and could hardly remember anything. My head would ache for days at a time, I was constipated and had awful griping pains, and it took all my energy to keep up with my work.

"Reading in the papers how Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup had helped others suffering with trouble like mine, I got me a bottle and began to improve right off. Three bottles soon put me where I can eat most anything I want, have no headaches nor stomach pains and I am now feeling better than I have in a long time".

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold by leading druggists with the positive guarantee that if the first bottle does not benefit you the purchase price will be refunded.

Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold in Marlinton by the Royal Drug Store.

After Every Meal

A universal custom that benefits everybody.
Aids digestion, cleanses the teeth, soothes the throat.

WRIGLEY'S

a good thing to remember

Sealed in its Purity Package

THE FLAVOR LASTS

ANNUAL DIPHTHERIA MARCH ON CHILDREN

MORE CASES REPORTED IN CITIES THAN IN THE COUNTRY

Many West Virginia Schools Are Making Use of the Shick Test—Vaccination, Given in Three Injections, Will Protect Those Taking it for Life

Diphtheria has begun its annual march upon children, according to reports received by the state health department. In July, 55 cases were reported and this number doubled in August.

Last year there were 175 cases on record for August and the number gradually increased to 1162 for October after the opening of schools. In cities where the children are crowded, there are more cases in proportion than there are in the country districts.

The Shick test, a simple test made upon the skin, is being widely used to determine whether or not school children will take diphtheria if exposed to it. The test consists of injecting a small amount of diphtheria toxin into the skin. If the skin becomes red in a few days, it is proof that the person may get diphtheria if exposed. If the skin shows no sign of irritation, it is evidence that the person will not contract diphtheria.

Some of the West Virginia schools are making use of the Shick test. When children are found to be in the class who will take diphtheria, they are advised to be vaccinated by a doctor. This vaccination consists of giving three injections, given one week apart, of a combination of toxin and antitoxin and this simple inoculation will protect those taking it for life.

In New York City, over 100,000 children were given the Shick test, and those found susceptible to the disease were vaccinated. The death rate from diphtheria in New York has dropped from 113.2 persons per 100,000 population, to about 15 per 100,000, since modern methods for control of diphtheria have been introduced. Vaccination and the prompt use of antitoxin after the disease has been contracted are the two great life saving agents in use.

The state department of health advises the use of the Shick test in schools where a public health nurse and supervising health officer are employed: for unless it is properly done, the test may not show an accurate result.

Sayings of Sanitary Sam

"Life is not to live, but to be well."

Persons who are unclean in handling the milk, are murderers of babies.

A share of your business solicited

T. S. McNEEL
INSURANCE AND BONDS
Marlinton W. Va.

Successor to Goodsell Insurance Agency

Life, Fire and Accident, Automobiles and Live Stock, Bonds of all kinds, Money to Loan on Farms.

Office 2nd floor, First National Bank Building.

For Sale

House and two lots at Riverside Addition to Marlinton, five room cottage building fitted with electric lights, good out buildings. Price reasonable, if interested call on.

L. V. Sizemore,
Marlinton, W. Va.

NOTICE

To all merchants and every one else, my wife Zenie White has left my bed and board and I will not stand responsible for any debt or debts she makes.

This the 8 day of September 1923.
Hoy White

NOTICE

My wife Gladis Grimes has left my home without a cause, and I will not be responsible for any debts she makes.

September 10, 1923.
Forest Grimes.

Seed rye for sale by J. A. Young, Marlinton.

See what DELCO-LIGHT offers for $539.50

the most Popular Farm size Delco-Light Plant completely installed ready to turn on the lights

Here is what you get—and the Order Blank to get it with

DELCO-LIGHT ORDER BLANK

Standard Outfit for $539.50, consisting of 1- One Delco-Light Plant, the most popular size—Model 866, 850 watts capacity, 32 volts (freight paid).

One standard Delco-Light Exide Battery, with 16 large capacity cells, extra thick plates and heavy glass jars (freight paid).

3- The installation of plant and battory—except purchaser is to furnish a concrete base and the battery rack.

4- Wiring house for ten (10) lights—to be located wherever specified by purchaser.

5- One general power outlet to be located in house wherever specified by purchaser.

6- Standard set of ten (10) drop lights with sockets installed in house.

7- Ten (10) standard electric light bulbs.

Similar Outfit With Smaller Size Plant—Model 608—$437.50

Delco-Light Co.,
Dayton, Ohio.

You may consider this as my order for a completely installed Delco-Light outfit in accordance with the price and terms I have checked.

Outfit Desired	Check Here	Cash Basis	Check Here	Time Basis	Check Here
Standard Outfit $539.50		5% Discount for Cash		$131.50 Cash on Installation—Balance $34 a Month for 12 Months.
Smaller Plant Outfit $437.50		5% Discount for Cash		$113.50 Cash on Installation—Balance $27 a Month for 12 Months.

OPTIONAL TERMS—4 quarterly, 2 semi-annual, or 1 yearly payment if desired.

Name ____________

Street No. or R. F. D. ____________

Town ____________ State ____________

NOW you can get your DELCO-LIGHT

Over 200,000 Satisfied Users

MARLINTON ELECTRIC CO.

Marlinton, West Virginia

Auction Sale

On Saturday, September 22, 1923, at the residence of the late Newton Friel, one mile from Fairview Church I will offer for sale the following property:

1 good milk cow, 1 calf steer, 50 chickens, 1 Singer sewing machine, 1 dining table, 2 wash stands, 2 tables, 3 bed steads, 2 sets springs, 1 mowing machine, 1 level land plow, 1 single shovel plow, 400 jars fruit, stone jars, 1 iron kettle, 1 copper kettle, 1 heating stove and pipe, some dishes, 1 lot potatoes, 1 lot garden truck, 2 lots in Marlinton, and many other things too numerous to mention.

Terms: All sums under five dollars cash, over that amount one years time with interest, note with good endororsers. Sale begins 1. p. M. promptly.

Mrs. Newton Friel.

Crochet Work

Done at a reasonable price. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Mrs. Lena Colson
Locust, W. Va.

Pocahontas Junk Co.
Marlinton, W. Va.

—Buyers—

Scrap iron, coppers, brass, waste paper, metals, rags, bones, beef hides, calf skins, live poultry and all waste materials.

TED McELWEE, Prop.
Marlinton, W. Va.

EDGERMAN WANTED

by the North Fork Lumber Co. at Nottingham. A good job at good pay.

FARMS FOR SALE

42 acres Monroe County, 1 mile from Alderson, good 6 room dwelling, good orchard, berries and small fruits. Good Home close to town and good schools. Price $4,500.00. Easy terms.

50 acres Greenbrier Coun 1 mile from Alderson on hard road, 6 room cottage house, barn and other farm buildings. Good location near town Price $5,000.00

140 acres Monroe County, 5 miles from Alderson. Good limestone land, 9 room house, large barn and other farm buildings, orchard close to school and church. Good general farm. Price $13,000.00 Reasonable terms.

Good water power mill, 25 barrel roller flour mill, burr corn mill, building 35x48 three stories, concrete dam. Well located on hard road. Price $9,000.00. Easy terms.

Have other farms both large and small, also residence property in Alderson where you have the best of school advantages.

E. H. WARREN
Alderson - - West Virginia

Notice

To home seekers in Pennsylvania I have farms of all discription and acreage, also groups of farms where friends can buy and be close neighbors, farms with or without equipment, don't fail to see me when you come to Crawford county the garden of Pa.

Dr. Wm. M. Wilson
Hartstown, Pa.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

MOTOR IRVICE TO ALLEGHENY CLUB

Round Trip to Minnehaha Springs $3.50

Phone the Allegheny Club, at Minnehaha Springs.

Fiduciary Notice

The accounts of H. B. Hanger, Executor of the last will and testament of Mrs M. M. Hanger are before the undersigned commissioner of accounts for settlement.

Given under my hand this 29th day of August, 1923.

T. S. McNeel, Commissioner

Notice of Judicial Sale

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, made and entered on the 26th day of June, 1922, in the chancery cause of the State of West Virginia vs Lot 3 in Block 1, in the Village of Deer Creek, in Greenbank District, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, Frank Ingle and others, I will on

TUESDAY, OCT. 2nd. 1923,

at 1 o'clock p. m., of that day, offer for sale to the highest bidder, the highest bidder, the following real estate:—

Lot 3 in Block 1 in the village of Deer Creek, near Cass, in Greenbank District, in Pocahontas County, West Virginia.

Terms of sa'e, Cash.

URIAH BIRD,
Commissioner of School Lands for Pocahontas County, West Virginia.

Commissioner's Sale

Pursuant to the authority vested in me, as special commissioner of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia by decree entered on the day of June, 1923, in the chancery cause of the Bank of Durbin against James Coates and others, I will offer for sale at public auction at the front door of the Court House of Pocahontas county on Tuesday the 2nd day of October, 1923, to the highest bidder, a certain house and lot 30 by 50 feet, situate in the town of Durbin, Pocahontas county, West Virginia, being the same property conveyed to James Coates by N. B. Arbogast by deed recorded in the Clerk's Office of the County Court of Pocahontas county in Deed Book No. 59 at page 231; the said lot has upon it a comfortable dwelling house and outbuildings.

At the same and place, I will, also, sell a tract of 4 acres, more or less, situate on the waters of Indian Draft, in Edray District Pocahontas county, West Virginia, and which was conveyed to May Coates, as May Wilson by Mary F. Ruckman and husband by deed of record in the Clerk's Office aforesaid in Deed Book No. 31, at page 144; said land would make a valuable residence lot and is located a short distance from the village of Edray and not far from Marlinton.

Terms of Sale—One third cash on day of sale on each tract, and for the residue of the purchase money a credit of six and twelve months will be given; the purchaser to give bonds with good security bearing interest from date, for the deferred payments, the title to said lands to be retained as ultimate security.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Special Commissioner.

State of West Virginia
County of Pocahontas, to-wit

I, D. C. Adkison, clerk of the Circuit Court of said county do hereby certify that the special commissioner aforesaid, has given bond as required by law and the decree in said case.

D. C. Adkison, Clerk.

STATE OF WEST VIRGINIA

At rules held in the clerk's office of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas county on Monday the 3rd, day of September, 1923, the following order was entered:

B. B. Beard, Sheriff of Pocahontas county and as such Administrator of the estate of Frank Franc.

vs

Joe Franc, the unknown heirs-at law of Frank Franc, and all creditors of said Frank Franc, deceased.

The object of the above entitled cause is to settle the accounts of the administrator, the plaintiff herein; to as certain the indebtedness of the said Frank Franc, fixing the respective amounts and priorities; to locate and ascertain the heirs-at-law of Frank Franc, deceased: to have made an order directing the disbursement of all funds belonging to the estate of Frank Franc; that if it be found that the said Frank Franc died leaving no heirs-at-law, that an order be made in this cause escheating the estate of said Frank Franc to the State of West Virginia, and for general relief, And it appearing by affidavit filed in this cause that it is not known in what county the said Joe Franc may be found and that the heirs-at law of Frank Franc are unknown, it is ordered that the said Joe Franc, and the unknown heirs-at-law of Frank Franc do appear here within one month after the date of the first publication hereof, and do what is necessary to protect their interest in this suit.

A copy teste: D. C. Adkison, Clerk.

A. P. Edgar, Attorney.

Farm for Sale

15 acres of land on hard State road, two miles from Marlinton Good 4 room house, and fruit of all kinds.

Apply at once to G. T. Geiger,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Notice

All ladies wanting exclusive up to date hats made and trimmed by an experienced milliner come to

Mrs. Mary E. Folk,
Department Store, Durbin. W. Va.

Men Wanted

Two experienced lumber pilers are wanted, at good wages.

Williams & Pifer Lumber Co.
Marlinton, W. Va.

WHEN IN DURBIN
VISIT
CENTRAL CAFE
H. F. HYER, Mgr.

Winter Apples

I will have for sale a nice lot of winter apples, of various varieties will be sold at orchard or will deliver. Place your orders early.

H. Lee white
Minnehaha Springs, W. Va.

WATCH LOST: Rev. Palmer Eubank lost his watch somewhere between Minnehaha Springs and Marlinton, on Monday. It is a small, open face, Waltham, gold watch. Finder will please return to Mr. Eubank at Minnehaha Springs.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLII NO 7 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, SEPTEMBER 27 1923 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

County Race and Chase Day

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 29

Pocahontas County Fair Grounds

Bring a Picnic Dinner

and spend the day. No more pleasant place anywhere for a day out-of-doors than the County Fair Grounds.

TO USE WASHINGTON'S TROWEL

The trowel used by General Washington when he laid the cornerstone of the capitol of the United States at Washington, D. C., on Sept. 18, 1795, is to be used when the cornerstone of the imposing George Washington Masonic National Memorial is laid at Alexandria, Va., on Nov. 1, next. This trowel is now the property of Alexandria-Washington Lodge No. 22, A. F. and A. M. of Alexandria, Va., just outside the capital city.

HIGHLAND RECORDER

Rev. Fred B. Wyand closed a successful protracted service at his Seybert appointment Monday night, There were about 10 conversions and about the same number received into membership of the church.

Miss Alice Dever, formerly of this county and graduate of M. H. S. who now holds a clerical position in a Marlinton bank, is visiting friends in town and county.

Miss Bessie Gum of Bartow is spending "convention week" in Monterey.

Mrs. H A. Wade of Valley Center accompanied her little daughter, Hollis, to Hillsboro, Wednesday where she will attend school.

Dr. Forest Hull and family of Durbin, passed through town last Sunday on their way to Staunton.

WOODMEN ATTENTION

On Thursday evening Oct. 11, we will have with us our State Deputy Head Consul V. J. Barnes and our National Lecturer C. E Renner.

It is requested that every member of Camp 9766 and also our sister Camp of Royal Neighbors be present to hear these neighbors.

A. C. McCoy, Clerk.

J. C. KINNISON

J. Clayborne Kinnison died very suddenly at his home near Lobelia last Saturday morning, September 22, 1923. He was out in his field and suffered an attack of heart disease, and died in a few minutes. He was past 80 years of age. Among his children are W. W. and Edward Kinnison The deceased was one of the county's best citizens. Burial at the Hill graveyard Sunday afternoon.

Dogs made a raid on the flocks e, John W. Moore and Andrew Moorn on the mountain opposite Marlintof last Friday morning. About a haldozen sheep were killed or badly in jured and others are missing. A big old hound was killed in the act of chasing a sheep, and two other dogs got away. This is the second time in six months and the third time in a year that these flocks have suffered from town dogs. Many farmers have quit trying to keep sheep because of the dog nuisance.

Our friend Harvey Cromer had a narrow escape from serious injury one day last week. He was looking some timber land on Red Lick Mountain, and came to a deep ravine bridged by a big fallen sugar tree. The tree looked safe, but when he was in the middle of it, it broke in two and Mr. Cromer fell a distance of fifteen feet or more into a rocky stream bed. He suffered a badly sprained back, but was able to make his way back to town.

Up to September 22, County Clerk S. L. Brown had issued 1603 hunting and fishing licenses. This is nearly as many as were issued in the whole year of 1922.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTIONS

The Little Levels District Sunday School Convention will meet at Hills Chapel, near Jacox, Saturday, September 29, at 10:30 a. m. The services will be adjourned about 3:30 p. m. We hope all those who are interested in Sunday school work will attend.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

Sunday School 9:45

3 30 p m Junior Christian Endeavor

7 15p m Senior Christian Endeavor

11 00 a m. preaching by pastor

11 a m. Preaching at Marys Chapel by Rev. J. E. Flow, D. D.

3 30 p m. Preaching at Green Hill by Dr. J. E Flow.

7 45 p m. Union Service—Sermon by Rev. J. H. Billingsley.

7 45 p. m. Preaching at Buckeye by Dr. J. E. Flow.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

J. Herndon Billingsley, Pastor.

Sunday School 9:45 a. m.

A. S. Overholt, Supt.

Epworth League 7 p m.

Preaching, 11:00 a. m. and 7:45 p m.

Subjects: Morning "Where to Fight Life's Battles?"

Evening: "Sin's Nemesis."

Fifth Sunday night Union Service at the Presbyterian Church.

Prayer and praise meeting Wednesday, 7:45 p. m. Everybody welcome.

Mrs. P. M. Harper and Miss Genevieve Moore celebrated their birthdays on September 25th at the home of Mrs. Price Moore on Knapps Creek.

Mrs. M. C. Rider has bought the McGraw property at Campbelltown.

Always comfortable and cheery in coldest winter weather with

COLE'S ORIGINAL HOT BLAST HEATER

114

THE stove that consumes the valuable [illegible] gases by means of its famous Hot Blast Combustion is guaranteed to save [illegible] third your fuel. (See cut).

We unhesitatingly recommend this remark[illegible]le heater to those who want the best and most economical stove made. Don't accept a substitute. Let us show you yours today.

C. J. Richardson

Marlinton, West Virginia

COUNTY PICNIC DAY

Preparations are now complete for a fine county day at the Fair Ground next Saturday, September 29, and if and if the present fine weather continues there will be a big crowd.

The fox, an old "hickory" has been securred from William McClure, and the local hound dog sports have had him out several times, and enjoyed some great chases.

There will be enough horses and riders to make things interesting too.

As this paper has printed time and again, we hope the people of the county will take the day off, bring a picnic dinner, and enjoy an all round sociable good time.

Since the above was written, it has developed that State Secretary J. B. McLaughlin, of the Farm Bureau, and W. D Zinn, writer for the National Stockman, will be present, and are expected to make popular speeches.

KNAPPS CREEK

The weather has been most favorable tha last few days and the farmers are busy getting things ready for winter.

Marshall Talbot is gathering a car load of lambs to ship.

Mr. and Mrs. Wise Herold and family were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs D. W. Dever, Sunday.

Rev. Palmer Eubank preached a very interesting at Mt, Carmel Sunday evening.

Guy Dilley and sisters were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G M Sharp, Sunday.

V. E. Cornet, the Class A Road contractor, is getting along nicely with the road.

Miss Dolly and Emry Hinkle, of Greenbrier county, have been visiting their sister Mrs. Letcher Herold.

Mrs G. M. Sharp is teaching the Moore school.

BORN

To Mr. and Mrs. Oley W. Jackson, Marlinton, September 20, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs Gilbert Butterbaugh, Huntersville, Sept. 18, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Barlow, Woodrow, September 26, a daughter.

To Mr. and Mrs. Ashby Higgins, Elk, September 22, a son.

To Mr. and Mrs Everett Alderman Huntersville, September 25, a son.

WESLEY CHAPEL M. E. SOUTH

Hillsboro, West Virginia

W. Clark Early, Pastor.

9:45 a m, Sunday School

F. P. Kidd, Superintendent

7 30 p m Epworth League:

11 00 a m. Sermon, "The Passion to Serve."

3 30 p m. Preaching at Sharon.

Elkins, W. Va.—Baseball fans of this section will have a treat on Monday, October 8, when the Brooklyn Nationals will be seen in an afternoon game at Elkins. The Nationals will bring a complete lineup to Elkins, including pitchers of national fame and the game should be a great one, as the Elkins team will be strengthened by the addition of some of the best ballplayers in this section of West Virginia. Details of the game are being arranged by Joseph A. Nallen, well known sportsman, and Del Gainer, former star first baseman on the Detroit and Boston teams. The roads between Marlinton and Elkins are in fine condition and a large delegation from there should attend the game.

The report is persistent that the State Road Commission will immediately hard surface the two miles of State Road recently graded by Waugh Brothers from the bridge to the K[illegible] Lane. If they will do this we will be much obliged. Few pieces of road in the county are more traveled than this road, and much of it is clay, which would become practically impassable this winter.

Our young friend Buster Eskridge of the Court House, sends us wor[d] that he has three items for publication this week. That he is starting to school—matriculating in the first grade; that sister Mary had gone off to college, and that he had forgotten the other local.

An inspirational and social congretional meeting was held by the Marlinton Methodists in their new church Tuesday night. Addresses were made by Hon. E. C. Eagle of Hinton, and Presiding Elder W. O. Talbott. During the social hour refreshments were served to the large number persons present, and a most profitable and enjoyable evening was spent.

Among the students leaving for college this week are Miss Julia Price Boston Medical College, Miss Sue Bratton, Stuart Hall; Miss Mary Margaret Price, Blackstone Seminary; Miss Mary Eskridge, Trinity College, Durham, N. C.; Ligon Price, St. Louis, Medical Course; Bruce Brown, dentistry, University of Maryland; Hubert Slavin and Claude Collins, dentistry, University of Pittsburgh.

Married, at the Methodist Parsonage, September 25, 1923, by Rev. J. H. Billingsley, John W. Hoover and Minnie Savannah McLaughlin, both of Pocahontas county.

Mrs. Nannie Everly, who spent the summer with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E Overholt, and other relatives and friends here, left Wednesday for her home in Los Angeles, California.

Fred McLaughlin, of Stuart Draft, is spending a few days with his sister and brothrs.

SALE OF CLOVERLICK PLANT

By a deed dated September 15, 1923, A. D. Neill conveyed to the Raine Lumber Company, the sawmill and railroad and timber at Clover Lick, in consideration of the sum of $230,000.00. The deal transfers about five thousand acres of timber in the Greenbank and Huntersville districts. A band mill at Clover Lick, the railroad, engines, bridge, houses, office and so forth. The railroad is built up Laurel Run and Thomas Creek and passes over the divide to the waters of Thorny Creek.

Mr. Joe Raine of the Raine Lumber Company will be active man in charge of the work. He is a son of the well known Thomas Raine, and represents the second generation of a very important lumber family of Pennsylvania.

The revenue stamps on the deed amounted to $230.00. A good deal of the timber conveyed lies on the road between Huntersville and Dunmore and is a well known forest.

There will be a box supper at the Boyer school on Saturday evening October 6, 1923. The proceeds will go for books. Every one is cordially invited and a good time to all ensured.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lightner, and Fred Lightner, of Philadelphia, are visiting friends in Pocahontas. They came through by automobile.

Report of the Condition of

THE BANK OF MARLINTON

Located at Marlinton, in the state of West Virginia at the close of business September 14th 1923.

RESOURCES		DOLLARS
Loans and discounts		746 500 67
Overdrafts, secured and unsecured		1 400 07
Stocks and Securities (other than Government issues)		25,000 00
United States Bonds		29 736 75
Banking House		28 740 23
Furniture and fixtures		5 083 31
Other Real Estate Owned		5 609 43
Due from Banks		111 565 39
Checks and other cash items		1 320 51
Lawful money reserve in bank		27 408 38
Total		982 364 74
LIABILITIES		DOLLARS
Capital Stock paid in		100 000 00
Surplus fund		40 000 00
Undivided profit	20 124 55
Less expense, Interest and taxes paid	8 771 98
		11 352 57
Reserve for Interest, Taxes and depreciation		2 155 18
DEPOSITS VIZ:
Subject to check		441 659 81
Time certificates		97 164 17
Savings Deposits		210 697 60
Total deposits	749 521 58
Dividends unpaid		148 00
Certified checks		2 054 48
Cashiers checks		1 366 75
Due to banks		42 71
Bills payable		75 000 00
Liabilities other than above stated		723 47
Total		982 364 74

State of West Virginia, County of Pocahontas

I, Hubert Echols, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Hubert Echols, Cashier

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 21st day of September, 1923.

A. H. McFerrin, Notary Public
My commission expires Dec. 18, 1929.

F. R. Hunter
J. H. Buzzard
Andrew Price
Directors

Auction Sale

On October 13 1923, beginning at 10 o'clock at the farm of J. C Johnson one and one-half miles from Hillsboro, W. Va., I will offer at public auction to the highest bidder the following personal property:

One pair of four year old horses, weight 3000 pounds, well broke, 1 bay horse 10 years old, splendid family horse, 1 set heavy work harness, 1, 3 1-4 Birdsell wagon with box, 1 McCormick wheat binder, used two years, 1 McCormick mowing machine 6' cut, 1 International hay rake, self dump, 1 McCormick hay tedder, used one year, 1 International two horse cultivator, 1 disc harrow, 1, 36 tooth harrow, 1 drag harrow, 1, 40 Oliver Chilled plow, 1 set bob sleds. 1 set doubletrees, 1 pair spreaders, 1 buggy and harness, 1 saddle and bridle, 1 side saddle, 1 set of stacking forks, 3 tine forks, 1 lot of other forks, 1 pair hay ladders, 1 International cream separator, good as new.

Other things too numerous to mention.

Terms: All amounts $10.00 or under cash, over that amount a four months negotiable note well endorsed will be accepted. Auctioneer announced later.

R. W. RODGERS.

At the same place immediately following the above mentioned sale on the same terms as mentioned above we will offer the following personal property:

11 cows, bred to Hereford bull, good stock cows, 14 pure bred Hampshire ewes most of them are registered, 3 registered bucks, 23 ewes, 4 yearling steers, 1 registered Hereford heifer, Nellie, Callison Bros. breeding this heifer was one of the boys' club heifer and won second place in the 1922 show, 8 calves 4 heifers and 4 steers, 20 stacks of hay more than half in barn, lot of straw, 12x32 ft. silo full of ensilage, one lot of hogs

The privilege is given the purchaser to feed this feed in the barn.

Four month's note with good security will be taken.

R. W. Rodgers
J. C. Johnson.

VERY SPECIAL

We have an unusual selection of boys and girls school clothing:

Girls' Sweaters and Coats
Boys' Suits, Overcoats and Sweaters
Red Goose Shoes for all
All kinds of school stationery
We invite your inspection of our line.

Peoples Store & Supply Company
Marlinton, West Virginia

Watch—Your Pocket Book!!

PAINT FACTS

They are simply adding Linseed Oil to L&M Semi-Paste Paint Quickly done. Saves you Money

Illustration describes how to make

BEST—PURE—PAINT

For $2.82 a Gallon

L&M SEMI-PASTE PAINT

is White Lead and Costly White Zinc to assure longest years of wear, as proven by 50 years of utmost satisfactory use.

LEAST COST—because in Semi-Paste form, and therefore you mix 3 quarts of Linseed Oil into each gallon, and so make 1¾ gallons Pure Paint for $2.82 per gallon.

For Sale by

W. J. KILLINGSWORTH

MARLINTON, W. VA.

COULD DR. THACHER MAKE FAIRER OFFER THAN THIS?

If Dr. Thacher had come to Marlinton, and offered to write a prescription that had been thoroughly tested in cases of indigestion, constipation, lack of nerve energy, impoverished and impure blood, rheumatism and a general rundown condition of the system, could anything be fairer than a standing guarantee to return your money unless you got complete satisfaction and relief?

This, in effect, is what the Dr. Thacher Laboratories have done in offering Dr. Thacher's celebrated prescription to those who are literally suffering for the need of a nourishing strength-building tonic. Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is an ideal summer tonic, because it is purely vegetable, pleasant to take and well suited to the delicate stomach. It has helped thousands of men, women and children to improve appetite, strengthen digestion, overcome constipation, tone the torpid liver and bowels and send purer and healthier blood coursing through the veins bringing back that delightful feeling of health, strength and "pep."

Take a delicious tablespoonful after the next meal. Notice in less than two days how much better you eat, sleep and feel Keep it up for a week or ten days; the cost is only a trifle and you wouldn't trade your restored health and energy for any price. Sold under this standing guarantee by the Royal Drug Store, Marlinton.

One of the quiet Fair Week weddings was that of Mack Mitchell Thompson and Miss Fannie Mae Wilmoth of Durbin. They came to the Presbyterian manse in Marlinton and received their life sentence.

Sunday school attandance at the Methodist church 211; at Campbeltown 106; at the Presbyterian 161.

A share of your business solicited

T. S. McNEEL

INSURANCE AND BONDS

Marlinton W. Va.

Successor to Goodsell Insurance Agency

Life, Fire and Accident, Automobiles and Live Stock, Bonds of all kinds, Money to Loan on Farms.

Office 2nd floor, First National Bank Building.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Fiduciary Notice

The accounts of H. B. Hanger, Executor of the last will and testament of Mrs M. M, Hanger are before the undersigned commissioner of accounts for settlement.

Given under my hand this 29th day of August, 1923.

T. S. McNeel, Commissioner

Rodney Buzzard, who has a logging contract for the Marlin Lumber Co. fell on an axe last Wednesday afternooh, and severed a big blood vessel in his wrist. He came near bleeding to death, but medical attention was had in time.

HANLINE BROS.
LEAD AND ZINC
READY MIXED PAINT GUARANTEED

AS PURE AS PAINT CAN BE MADE

FOR SALE BY DEALERS EVERYWHERE

Dealers Supplied By
S. B. WALLACE & CO.
Marlinton, W. Va.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THURSDAY OCTOBER 11, 1923

The October term of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County. Then came his honor, the judge, and the plaintiffs and the defendants, in person and by their attorneys, and the grand jurors in and for the body of the county, and the petit juries duly drawn and qualified, and sworn to try the issue joined and a true verdict render, and the clerk of the court and the shire reeve or head man of the county, and a cloud of witnesses, and being assembled, the sheriff says; "Stand up, everybody!" and they all stood up and the sheriff opened court: "Oyez! Oyez! Silence is now commanded in the penalty of fine and imprisonment while Hon. S. H. Sharp Judge of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas is sitting! All persons who have motions to make, please to file, or suits to prosecute will now come forward and they shall be heard! God save the State and this honorable court!" And so court began to grind. I learned the ritual that the sheriff uses when I was sheriff of the moot court at the University in my law student days and I have never forgotten it.

It soon became apparent that the conditions in the county in regard to observance of law and good behavior were exceptionally good. On the occasion of the county fair, Judge McClintic gave us his blessing and said that this county was first in the keeping of the law and his words made a very profound impression and have been repeated around a thousand hearths and there is evidence of a more or less universal intention to live up to the reputation that has been earned. This is a period of halcyon days.

There was but one civil case tried, that between the local bottling works and an Italian merchant at Cass. Usually soft drinks turn away wrath while grievous whiskey stirs up anger It was a battle of bookkeepers and the jury settled it about midway between the contending parties. That brought the docket down to the crimes and misdemeanors. A man by the name of Sam Davis lies in jail one of the indicted men in the McFall murder case. Another of the defendants in that case was tried at the last court, Dudley, and having been convicted and sentenced to serve a lifetime imprisonment, his case is before the Supreme Court of appeals, and the Davis case was continued to another court.

A case was tried against Charles Wooddell of Buffalo Mountain. The charge was interfering with officers who went to his home to make an arrest. The defendant was a man of venerable appearance He wears a heavy Victorian beard, and is a member of the Dunkard church. He belongs to a family that has been in this county from the earliest pioneer times, and he has cleared and established a farm up near the top of the Allegheny where the great battle was fought. One of his sons is a valued member of the State Police. One day last spring Sheriff Beard and Constable Ashford went to his farm to arrest a couple of his sons who had been indicted for violation of the prohibition act. When the officers got to the farm one of the boys took to the brush and got away. Another of the boys was captured and the officers were trying to argue a proposition with the family that as the defendant had got into the woods and was free that if he would return and debate the question of giving bond with the officers, if he should decide at the end of the conference not to surrender that he would have safe conduct into the woods again.

The air seems to have been charged with electricity largely on account of the old gentleman getting into a tremendous fit of rage. One of the points that he raised was that the officers could not come to his house and make an arrest on Sunday. This was largely nullified as a prevailing point of argument by the fact that the officers had done so. The kind of rage that the protestant exhibited was exemplified by frothing at the mouth, and yet with all his anger, the officers say that no unseemly word issued from him. It is apparent that he does not engage in profane language under any circumstences. But weight was added to his words from the appearance of an old he-revolver in a scabbard upon his chest, and there is no doubt that he was treated with great respect. There was some conflict in the evidence about this gun. The defendant says he wears it habitually upon his premises and has for many years owing to some word he got about the intentions of a hostile neighbor. The officers say that he armed himself during the controversy.

About the time the conversation had reached its climax, the son who was in charge ran away, the bullets cutting close around his legs and has not been heard from so far as the law is concerned since. The sheriff running after him sprained his ankle and had a hard time getting back to the car. The boy who had got to the woods was at the trial and testified that he had watched the dispute from cover and could hear the sound of the voices but could not distinguish any of the words. There seemed to have been one cuss word used in this late battle of the Alleghany. It seems that Constable Ashford who is no longer the slim handsome lad that he used to be, concluded that he had one more race in him, and he took after the first boy that had fled and that for some jumps had made a pretty good race. But it was apparent from the appearance of the two men the other day that it was a most unequal contest. And the constable becoming winded and seeing the man he held a capias for enter the cover of the wood was only able to gasp out: "Damn a Woodell anyway!" and so gave up the chase. The use of this naughty word was securely fastened on the constable.

The jury brought in a verdict of guilty and the judgment of the court was that the defendant render unto the state of West Virginia the sum of fifty dollars and the costs of the suit. The result seems to have given general satisfaction. The occurence could not have been condoned very well, and at the same time no one wanted to see the chieftain go to jail. To me the case had great dramatic interest. And I, do not think that there will be any surviving hatred or malice grow out of the affair. The sheriff in his private capacity bought the calves off of the Wooddell farm this fall and that indicates that there is no feud between the houses.

A peculiar case was presented from Cass. Last summer a boy by the name of Taylor was brought to the hospital at this place with a bullet in his heart. It had been shot in there the evening before and after mashing a rib become embedded in the heart muscles. The doctors took an X-ray picture of the injured boy and then cut the bullet out and the patient in about five weeks was restored to his friends and his relations as good as new. A considerable triumph for the doctors.

At the time of the operation the boy told the doctors that he had been shot through an accident.

The man behind the gun was Romeo Rose, seventeen years old.

One evening at Cass the four boys were in the business part of the town and they decided to seek some relaxation outside the busy marts of trade. Young Taylor and a boy by the name of Buzzard, who was all of thirteen years of age, walked up the road on the east side of the river and up under a hemlock tree by the side of the road they found a pack of playing cards and sat down to play the old army game of set back.

Young Rose and a boy by the name of Kellison knew of a place up the river where they sometimes played poker and honing for a game they passed on up by the setback players. Arriving at the place where they expected to find a game of poker going on, they found no one there, and not having a quorum, the meeting adjourned and they loafed back to town Arriving in the road opposite the the two boys who were absorbed in the game of cards, Rose shot Taylor through the heart.

The evidence then conflicts to some extent. Taylor says that Rose drew a thirty-eight revolver and without raising it to his shoulder shot from the hip saying: "Damn you dance!" None of the other boys could remember hearing any such command But anyway Taylor fell over screaming that he was shot Rose threw his pistol far away from him and showed the utmost astonishment and concern, crying and protesting that he had not meant to shoot. The theory of the defense as stated by counsel was that the pistol was discharged more or less casually and that not in the direct line of the wounded boy but to one side and that the bullet glanced from a bit of rock or some other surface and wounded the lad. One peculiar feature was the fact that the bullet had gone entirely through the left arm and into the heart and had made a hole in the sleeve of the coat where it entered and had made no hole in the sleeve where it passed out

Rose gathered up his victim and conveyed him to his home and set up with him all night and the authorities at Cass were evidently somewhat puzzled over the affair for the justice tried him for carrying a pistol and sentenced him to jail for six months and it was while he was serving that sentence that the trial on a charge of malicious wounding was had. The boy showed the signs of confinement in the pallor of his face and was much disturbed in his mind. He had no means to hire an attorney and Senator McNeil was appointed by the court to defend him. The defendant could not explain how the gun came to go off. He rather thought that the gun had become cocked in his pocket and that he was shifting the gun from one pocket to the other when it went off and hit an innocent bystander. There was full and complete evidence that the shot was not fired in anger, and the most plausible theory developed was that of the practical joker trying to make another ridiculous by compelling him to dance to the music of a six-shooter something that can be seen in the moving pictures but not elsewhere.

The court refused an instruction in regard to accidental shooting as presented by the defense because it did not take into consideration the fact that in carrying the gun the prisoner was engaged in an unlawful act and that negligence under such circumstances was not to be excused by order of the court.

The jury was out a long time but brought in at length a verdict of acquittal. There was much to mitigate in favor of the prisoner, for there was so much evidence of the foolishness of youth, and of a quick and spontaneous spasm of remorse, as evidenced by throwing the deadly revolver away, and care for the wounded, and the night of anguish. And then too was the long jail sentence It is safe to say that he has lost all his love for revolvers.

It was clearly a case that could not have happened but for the carrying of concealed weapons. A boy has just about as much use for a pistol as he has for a carbuncle.

A very peculiar case was called for trial and disposed of that presented more interest for the psychologist than for the courts. Last fall in the Green Bank District a man driving a wagon along the public road dropped a bag of flour from his load, and Howard Wooddell, a son of Prof. Ezra Wooddell, was arrested charged with stealing it. As reported to me, it involved a question of whether the flour had been picked up with the intention of appropriating it or preserving it for the true owner. There is a lot of law about finding lost articles. There was the case of the young woman who found a lot of money in the sub-way in New York and the guard running the train took it away from her under one of the rules of the company as to lost articles. Upon a discussion of that case it was decided that the finder of a lost article has title to it against everyone except the true owner, and that if the owner does not appear to claim it that the finder keeps it. And that is that.

Young Wooddell was arrested and tried before Squire Sutton and found guilty of a charge of petit larceny and was held for the payment of a fine of twenty dollars and costs Not being advised and wanting his freedom he purchased his peace by paying the fine and costs and was released from custody. Upon his return home, probably after conferring with his father, the teacher, the stigma of the charge of larceny being so great, a scandalous crime in fact, an appeal bond was filed and the case was on the docket for trial.

The prosecuting attorney learning that the defendant had been tried and the fine paid into the treasury of the State, moved for the dismissal of the appeal, on the ground that he could not be tried again and that the whole matter now before the court was a moot question. And the court holding the issue to be one that had been settled in a previous trial, or to make it plain, res adjudicata, the case could not be tried again, for if it resulted in a conviction, the prevous finding of a court and the satisfaction of the judgment would be an effectual bar against the imposition any additional penalty, and so the appeal was dismissed and the defendant went without day.

During this term of court there was a matter discussed in the court house that presented some interesting features for those of us who have been accused of being obscurants A young fellow who was in the eighth grade last year was trying to break into the high school and continue his education. The officer had the elementary certificate that would entitle him to instruction in the higher walks of public school education if genuine, and if not genuine might possible constitute a crime against the peace and dignity of the State In other words, it was a question of whether he would break into high school or into jail. These elementary examinations are held annually and the certificates are signed by the State Superintendent, by the County Superintendent, by the President of the Board of Education, and by the Principal of the school. It is a very important looking document, suitable for framing and is a first fruit in the life of learning. They should be preserved carefully and disposed of by will to some member of the family who will preserve them after the winner is no more. Item 8. My elementary certificate I will to my daughter Emily.

The certificate appeared to have been one originally issued to some successful student and to have been changed. One weakness that it exhibited was that it had the name of the present County Superintendent who came into office July 1, and had nothing to do with the last crop of elementary certificates. That was for the outgoing officer. Probably feeling the weakness of the evidence, a typewritten letter was filed with the certificate, purporting to come from the County Superintendent whose name is signed in typewriting, and this letter indicates that the County Superintendent found that that the style of diction was a trifle too involved for the intelligence of the average superintendent, saying that as there were no new blanks "i haft" to send an old one.

No action has been taken in the case if it is one. I am inclined to volunteer as counsel for this youth who turns his back on the primrose path of dalliance, and takes the steep and thorny way to higher education.

The heights by great men reached and kept,
Were not attained by sudden flight,
But they while their companions
slept,
Were forging upward in the night.

The same day that my attention was called to the papers in this case, I was reading a New York paper containing an account of an effort made to steal a cobra from the Bronx zoo The burglar had bored a hole through the side of the snake house and through the cage and had been trying to get the snake on a snake-stick, when he had evidently been frightened away for he left the snake-stick on the floor of the cage. I connect these two futile efforts in my mind as being impulses of weird imaginations unusual, to say the least.

The average man would not accept a cobra as a gift. And the average child would not go to any great lengths to break into school. The case of the student may appeal to me more than to others, for I remember one time when in the middle of the term I was promoted from the fourth reader to the fifth reader, and I could not take advantage of the honor because the family exchequer would not stand for the drain of buying a new book, and I remember how crushed and humiliated and disappointed I was. In those days that was the way the grades were designated. It was according to the reader that you were in. And when I finally made the grade it was lacking the thrill of the unexpected promotion that I was not able to accept.

There is something so virtuous and noble in a desire for an education, that it seems to sanctify the crime.

A share of your business solicited

T. S. McNEEL

INSURANCE AND BONDS

Marlinton W. Va.

Successor to Goodsell Insurance Agency

Life, Fire and Accident, Automobiles and Live Stock, Bonds of all kinds, Money to Loan on Farms.

Office 2nd floor, First National Bank Building.

CAR FOR SALE

A Ford Coupe, 1923 model, has been run about 500 miles, set of chains extra new wheel rims and tires. etc. Price $450.

W. S. Camden,
Marlinton, W. Va.

FISK TIRES

C. J. Richardson

Marlinton, W. Va.

Farm For Sale

I have a farm consisting of about 65 acres, which I will sell, 1-2 mile from Frost, on the State Road, 1-2 mile from stores, church, and 2 room school building, five room house, with good barn, and other out buildings, good orchard & etc. Price right on easy terms. If interested, call or write me at Frost, W. Va.

Earnest G. Sharp

ATTENDANCE AT PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Bulletin No. 12

The person who has actual or legal charge of a child not less than seven nor more than fourteen years of age, is required by law to see that such child attends free school for the full term, unless the child comes under the excepted clauses. Failure to see to such attendance constitutes a misdemeanor with severe penalties The following are some of the exceptions:

The child is to be excused if in attendance at a private school.

In some cases where a child is privately tutored by a competent person on subjects taught in elementary schools.

Physical or mental incapacity.

Death or serious illness in the immediate family.

Extremely poor persons.

Where it is dangerous to reach school as in case of flood or where the building has been condemned as unsafe.

More than two miles to travel.

When absence is occasioned by attendance at church services.

Other causes accepted as valid by the county superintendent.

Under this clause I do not wish to ay down any rules at this time, as the teachers themselves will appreciate the circumstances as they arise and excuse the pupils or not as they in their discretion deem proper. For we all know what an event a trip to strange parts constitutes in a child's life. Teachers should acquaint themselves with the lives and habits of thought of their pupils and confer often and constantly with the parents and if this is done, it is not likely that mistakes will be made.

If children live over two miles from school effort should be made to induce them to come to school.

In case the teacher after seeing the parents and pupils feels the necessity to invoke the law as to compulsory attendance write to the Attendance Officer of the district. Do not report to this office as it is a matter under the Board of Education, the Attendance Officer and the Justice of the Peace. If advice is wanted, write this office. But do not ask the County Superintendent to start prosecutions, as cases involving this law may come before this office judicially, and in such a case it would not be consistent to be judge and prosecutor both.

Anna M. Wallace,
County Supt.

IS IT AN ACCIDENT

The United States maintains the most comprehensive system of public education in the world.

The per capita income in the United States is higher than for any other nation. Farmers of the United States per worker 2.3 times what the farmer of the United Kingdom produces, 2.5 times what the German farmer produces; 3.2 times what the French farmer produces, 6 5 times what the Italian farmer produces. Is it an accident?

Farmers of the United States sent their children to school less regularly and fewer days per year and fewer years than commercial, clerical banking and professional classes.

Agricultural workers constitute 28 per cent of the total of occupational workers and get 17.4 per cent of the national income. Commercial, clerical banking, professional and miscellaneous classes constitute 32 per cent of the total of occupational workers and get 40 per cent of the national income. Is it an accident?

California enrolls a higher percentage of the population in high school than any other State. The State university at Berkeley enrolls twice as many farm bred students as any other State university.

Out of the 50 agricultural counties in the United States realizing the highest net income California has 13 and out of the 10 highest counties California has 4. Is it an accident?

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the good people of Clover Creek, Stony Bottom and elsewhere for the kindness and sympathy shown us during the sickness and death of our dear son and brother William Leonard. Also wish to thank Dr. Moomau for his faithfulness during his sickness. May God's richest blessings rest upon them all is our prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barkley and Family.

FOR SALE CHEAP— One 3 1-2 Milburn wagon can be seen at my place just below Campbelltown.

W. WOODDELL

Notice to Tax Payers

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Sheriff of Pocahontas County will attend in person or by deputy at the following time and place for the purpose of collecting taxes due:

GREENBANK DISTRICT

Thornwood....Nov. 1, in morning
Bartow.....Nov 1. in afternoon
Durbin..........Nov 2
Hosterman.....Nov 3, in morning
Cottingham....Nov 3, in afternoon
Cass.............Nov 5 and 6
Spruce...........Nov 6 at night
Raywood..........Nov 7, after 4 p m.
Boyer............Nov 10
Arbovale.........Nov 12
Greenbank........Nov 13
Dunmore..........Nov 14

I will visit the taxpayers of Wildell and May in person before the end of the discount period.

EDRAY DISTRICT

Stony Bottom......Nov 8, till noon
Cloverlick....Nov 8, afternoon, night
Onoto.........Nov 23, until 3 p. m.
Mace..........Nov 12, in morning
Brady.........Nov 12, in afternoon
Linwood.......Nov 13, until 2 p. m.
Slatyfork Commissary, Nov 13, after 4 p. m., and Nov 14 until 10 am
Elk, Robt Gibson's, Nov 14, afternoon
Edray.........Nov 10
Buckeye.......Nov 24
Marlinton......Nov 26, 27, 28

HUNTERSVILLE DISTRICT

Frost.............Nov 5
Minnehaha Sprgs..Nov 6
Huntersville ......Nov 7
Clawson...........Nov 8

LITTLE LEVELS DISTRICT

Droop Mt., Wallace Kershner, Nov. 5
Locust...........Nov 6, in morning
Beard............Nov 6, in afternoon
Seebert..........Nov 7
Millpoint........Nov 8
Hillsboro........Nov 9
Lobelia..........Nov 10
Jacox............Nov 12

With the exceptions of dates listed above, books will be found at the following places:

Greenbank District, B. B. Beard's, Bartow
Edray District, in office, Marlinton
Huntersville District, at Elmer Moore's, Minnehrha Springs
Little Levels District, at T. A. Bruffey's, Hillsboro.

A discount of 2 1-2 percent will be made to all persons who pay their taxes on or before the 30th day of November, 1923. Interest the rate of 10 percent per annum on the amount of each tax bill will be added thereto from the first day of January, 1924, until payment.

B. B. BEARD, S. P. C.

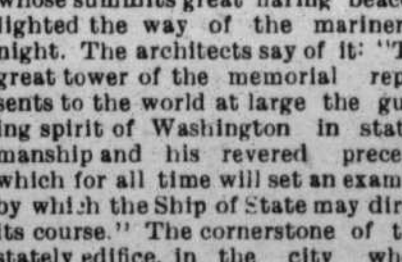
After Every Meal

A universal custom that benefits everybody. Aids digestion, cleanses the teeth, soothes the throat.

WRIGLEY'S

a good thing to remember

Sealed in its Purity Package



THE FLAVOR LASTS

FIDUCIARY NOTICE

The accounts of Calvin W. Price, Executor of Lettie Rogers are before the undersigned commtssioner of accounts for settlement.

Given under my hand this 5th day of October, 1023.

P. T. WARD,
Commissioner of Accouuts.

DESIGN OF WASHINGTON MEMORIAL

The design for the George Washington Masonic National Memorial at Alexandria, Va. is taken from those of the ancient towers built by the Greeks and the Romans to mark the entrances to their harbors and on whose summits great flaring beacons lighted the way of the mariner at night. The architects say of it: "The great tower of the memorial represents to the world at large the guiding spirit of Washington in statesmanship and his revered precepts which for all time will set an example by which the Ship of State may direct its course." The cornerstone of this stately edifice, in the city where General Washington was the Worshipful Master of a Blue Lodge of Masons will be laid on Thursday, Nov. 1. 1923. This occasion will witness the greatest assembly of members of the Masonic order in the history of the country.

Reduced rates on all railroads have been made for those who will journey to Washington, D. C. for the ceremonies in connection with the laying of the cornerstone of the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Nov. 1. The largest number of Masons ever assembled at any one place at any one time is promised for these ceremonies, which will take place at Alexandria, Va. just outside the city of Washington.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks and appreciation to all friends for the many acts of kindness and sympathy shown during the illness and since the death of our dear father. May God's richest blessings abide with you

Mrs. Rebecca Adkison Ashley,
Mrs. Mattie Adkison Hayes.

Ford

Announcement

The new Ford cars are now ready for your inspection, introducing changes that improve the appearance of the various body types and increase their comfort and utility.

They offer you not only economical and dependable transportation, but also a more attractive style and a greater share of motoring convenience —a combination that makes the outstanding value of Ford cars more impressive than ever.

See the new Ford models now on display in our showroom.

These cars can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

BAXTER'S GARAGE

Marlinton, W. Va.

Ford

CARS · TRUCKS · TRACTORS

Hampshire Rams

Thoroughbred registered Hampshire Rams for sale. Fine specimens of this noted breed so well adapted to Greenbrier Valley conditions.

R. P. Welford & Son
Nov 1. Hillsboro, W. Va.

Crochet Work

Done at a reasonable price. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Mrs. Lena Colson
Locust, W. Va.

Notice

100 head of high bred range ewes ranging in age from 4 to 6 years old, 1 dry cow, 1, 3 year old Herford Bull, 5 shotes will weigh about 100 lbs. each, price $10.00 each at the farm. 3, 60 lbs. cans extract honey 20c lb.

L. D. Sharp
Edray, W. Va.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

NOTICE

To all merchants and every one else, my wife Xenie White has left my bed and board and I will not stand responsible for any debt or debts she makes.

This the 8 day of September 1923.

Hoy White

ESTRAY HOG—Good sized sow, unmarked, looks to be about 1 1-2 years old, has been at my place on Greenbrier river near Clawson, since about the first of last April. Owner can have same by paying cost of keep and advertising. E. L. Friel, Marlinton, W. Va.

LOST:—A pair of tortoise shell eye glasses with gold bow, double lens, in Marlinton on Monday, October 1. Please return to Star Bakery.

POSITION WANTED by a middle aged woman to do house work. Apply to Mrs. Lou Jones, Cloverlick W. Va.

DELCO-LIGHT

"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue

ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES

Marlinton Electric Co.

DEALERS

Notice

All persons having claims against the estate of Andrew Adkison will please present the same to me properly proven, at once, and any one owing his estate please come forward and settle.

N. C. McNEIL, Adm'r.
of Andrew Adkison, Deceased.
Oct. 2, 1923: 4wks.

Pocahontas Junk Co.

Marlinton, W. Va.

—Buyers—

Scrap iron, coppers, brass, waste paper, metals, rags, bones, beef hides, calf skins, live poultry and all waste materials.

TED McELWEE, Prop.
Marlinton, W. Va.

For Sale

House and two lots at Riverside Addition to Marlinton, five room cottage building fitted with electric lights, good out buildings. Price reasonable, if interested call on.

L. V. Sizemore,
Marlinton, W. Va.

NOTICE

I hereby notify all parties that my wife, Leona P. Alderman of the 17th day of September 1923 left my bed and board without cause therefore I will not be responsible for any debts board bills or any other transactions in any way she may make from this date on, Samuel N. Alderman.

Huntersville, W. Va.

HANLINE BROS.

LEAD AND ZINC

READY MIXED PAINT GUARANTEED

AS PURE AS PAINT CAN BE MADE

FOR SALE BY DEALERS EVERYWHERE

Dealers Supplied By

S. B. WALLACE & CO.

Marlinton, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLII NO. 10 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA; OCTOBER 18 1923 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

OPENING NEW METHODIST CHURCH

Sunday, October 21st, 1923

COME AND HEAR

BISHOP U. V. W. DARLINGTON

Services beginning 11 a. m.

Other services to be announced later.

METHODIST CHURCH OPENING

The formal opening of the new Methodist church at Marlinton is set for Sunday morning, October 21, at 11 o'clock. Bishop U. V. W. Darlington will be present and preach at the 11 o'clock hour and at 7:30 p. m. He may possibly preach in the afternoon also.

Bishop Darlington is one of the great men of the Southern Methodist Church. His home is in Huntington, and he presides over the Western Virginia and Kentucky Conferences. He is one of the younger, if not the youngest member of the College of Bishops of that church. He is a great preacher, deeply spiritual and a very human man. So far as this writer knows, this is the first visit of a Methodist Bishop to this community since the days of Bishop Asbury.

The new church ranks among the finest in the whole state. It is of white brick construction, and modern in plan and equipment. The main auditoruim with gallery and lecture room have a seating capacity of one thousand. The building embraces a full Sunday School plant, with a large chapel in the basement and seperate rooms for each department and class. When complete the building will cost over $60 000. It is easily the finest building of any kind in Pocahontas county.

Many of the nearby churches are foregoing their services for Sunday so that their congregations may be free to take part in the services at the new church and hear Bishop Darlington. An invitation to be present has been extended to all the ministers who have served as pastor of the Marlinton church. An immense congregation is expected.

CONVENTION MUSIC

The approaching County S. S. Convention, which meets in the Marlinton M. E Church on November 23 will afford a great opportunity for Sunday School workers in every department.

The Music Committee has secured the services of Mr. C. Austin Miles of Phila. as Musical Director. Mr. Miles is well known as a composer of Sacred Music, being the author of "In The Garden," Dwelling in Beulah Land, and many other selection found in many song books found in our Sunday Schools. Miss Mildred Yeager of Marlinton will be his accompanist.

Volunteer workmen are busy this week putting things in shape in and around the new Methodist church, getting ready for the opening on Sunday, when Bishop U. V. W. Darlington will be present and possibly preach three times.

Dr. J. E Flow, Evangelist for Greenbrier Presbytery, is conducting a series of wonderful meetings at Cloverlick. Large congregations are attending and great interest is manifested. On Tuesday night twenty-nine came forward to make public profession of their faith in Christ. So far nearly fifty persons, most of them heads of families, have taken this step.

Married, Monday afternoon, October 15, 1923, at the M. E. parsonage, Ronceverte, by Rev. W. A. Grogg, Beecher Meadows and Miss Garcie McCormick, of Marlinton.

THIS DEER HUNTING

Uncle Paul Sharp was down Tuesday to buy himself a hunters license to be in readiness for the opening of the deer season October 30 Though along toward four score years he is hale and hearty, with steady hand, firm step and eye undimmed His farm is the old Bridger place on Greenbrier River above Marlinton at the tunnel. It is near forests that still shelter many deer. Years ago thirty and forty deer was no uncommon number to be killed in a single season in those woods and at the river stands.

Mr. Sharp told us about the time he first swore off manhandling deer. Just after the war he and his brother Ike were hauling in winter wood. They were getting it down by the river near a noted deer stand, and as he knew that the late Ewing Johnson and the late Marcus Waugh had put hounds in the mountain that morning he took his gun along. About dinner time, the call came to them to hurry along and eat. The gun was left on the far side of the river from the house. Just as they got home, a shot was heard away up stream, and soon a big five snag buck was seen in the river. Mr. Sharp ran down and found the big deer fighting a bull dog. Before he could wade the river for his gun the dog got his hold on the deer's nose. and Mr. Sharp waded in to give the dog some needed assistance. Just as he got a firm hold on one antler and with the other hand on the deer's shoulder to give the finishing stroke, the dog let loose and become an interested spectator from the bank. Then began a fight to the finish. The buck set about to kill the man and it was a battle royal. The water was not deep enough to drown the deer, and it was too big to hold and it meant death to let loose. His cries for help were heard by brother Ike who unhooked old Johnson, an old time cavalry horse, and mounted him and started breakneck for the river. However he failed to unloose the breast yoke and when old Johnson made his charge he brought wagon and all down the bill, and of course was soon so tangled and tied he could not go farther. Just then the late Ewing Johnson came in sight on the opposite side of the river. He saw at glance that times were only tolerable with Mr. Sharp and with out hesitating he up with his rifle and shot the deer dead as it struggled to pierce the man with his antlers. Mr. Sharp then made his first vow that never no more would he again attempt to man handle a deer. But—a few weeks later a grand hunt was organized The neighbors were notified and standers lined the river from Marlins Bottom to Cloverlick, some sixteen miles. Uncle Paul Sharp and Bill Johnson, now of Marlinton, were sent to the woods with nine dogs, and the directions were to loose them one at a time so as to not waste more than one dog on a deer. Mr. Sharp had a noted deer dog that would pass over every deer track until he came to a track of a really big buck, even if it took him until afternoon to find a track worthy of his attention. Two dogs had been loosed and directly the dogs gave voice and Mr. Sharp knew of a crossing where he could cut off the deer and kill it before it went to water. He directed young Johnson to hold the other dogs while he ran to the crossing. Soon he saw a big buck deer and dogs running side by side. He shot and broke a leg at the shoulder, one hound caught the deer behind and the other got a hold about the head. So interested was Mr. Sharp in the fight that he failed to reload his mountain rifle. Soon the deer got the advantage and horned one of the hounds in the breast and laid him open from end to end. This was too much for Mr. Sharp and forgetting his narrow escape of a few weeks before he went in to the assistance of the other dog and grabbed an antler. The deer tried to kill him, and there was a desperate struggle. He called young Johnson, who turned all the coupled dogs loose and he too got a hold of a horn. In spite of having only three legs the men and dogs could not hold the deer and he was dragging them down the mountain over the frozen ground. Seeing a log below them, Mr. Sharp directed young Johnson when they would come to it to put all his weight on the antler he was holding and they would force the deers head under the log and finish it. He did and they did.

Mr. Sharp again swore off ever again attempting to kill a deer, wounded or otherwise, with his hands, but, he says, he has taken hold of not less than a dozen deer since these two harrowing experiences. His directions are to catch them by their hind legs, whether they be bucks, does or fawns. They kick right smart, but not dangerously hard, while there is danger even with small deer of being cut or even paunched by their sharp feet if you have hold of them any where else.

A few years ago a fine forked horn buck came into Mr. Sharps fields and a shepherd and some bird dogs caught it at a wire fence Mr. Sharp came up and took it by a hind leg and held it down until the neighbors came up. It being a closed season on deer, Mr. Sharp directed a young man to hold the deer while he penned the dogs in the barn, and then the deer would be allowed to go. The young man took a wrong hold, and was warned that he was not handleing a sheep, calf or hog, and that unless he held a hind leg it would possibly kill or cripple him. The deer was let loose and stayed around feeding with the cattle for weeks.

Here's guessing that Uncle Paul Sharp kills a big buck this season, and this writer would rather hear of his getting a deer than to kill it himself.

And talking about my deer hunting, I will just say that friend John Buckley has my deer rifle borrowed for the deer season and is under bond not to return it until the season closes. There will be so many raw hunters in my favorite deer woods it is going to be dangerous to be safe. I have not lost my nerve or anything, but there is a houseful of youngsters depending on me for food, clothes and education.

Walter Tibbs, colored, was struck by the passenger train on the Marlinton yards at noon Saturday. He suffered broken ribs and other injuries, but seems now on the road to a quick recovery. He was going home to dinner, and walking on a sidetrack He says he thought he was on the main track, and stepped off, as he thought, to avoid the fast approaching train He stepped in front of the train and was knocked about ten feet high. The injured man is a son of the late Howard Tibbs. He is a highly respected colored man, about forty-four years of age and the father of a large family.

Harvey Bowman, country gentleman and agricultural expert, is a guest at the home of Z S. Smith. Upon his graduation in agriculture at the University he and his friend John Harrison bought themselves a farm near Morgantown and havebuilt up a fine business as truck farmars. They have done well and are prospering. These two young gentlemen were members of a party of four who spent a season at work at Mt. View Orchard a few years ago. Mr. Bowman stopped here on his return from Charleston where he assisted in putting on the State 4-H Fair last week.

FARM BUREAU

The County is being canvassed by representatives of the State Farm Bureau Federation for members for the Farm Bureau. They are B. A. Rapp, of Greenbrier; John Summers and J. P. McMillan, of Monroe: J. H. Sommerville, of Pleasants. They have the assistance of local men. A large number of our progressive farmers are becoming members.

Memberships are sold on a three year basis at $10 a year. This the practical and most extensive of all the farmer's organizations. Its base is self-help through cooperation. Its activities are all along the line from cooperative marketing of farm products and cooperative buying of farm supplies to maintaining agents at Washington to keep an eye on legislation.

W. D Zinn, of the National Stockman, spoke in many communities of the county. He is a practical farmer and an interesting writer and speaker.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

The Edray District Sunday School Convention was held at Marys Chapel, on Elk, last Saturday. The day was fine, the crowd large and the proverbial hospitality of the people of Elk unstinted.

District President Ira D. Brill had no formal program, but he built as he went along. The results were so satisfactory that the convention was one of the most interesting and profitable ever held in the District.

The speeches were of exceptionally high order. Among the speakers were Prof. G. D. McNeill, F. M. Sydnor, S. N Hench, G. C. Hamilton Rev. J. H. Billingsley. Rev H. H. Orr.

The schools were well represented. As a whole the reports were encouraging, but there are still groundhog Sunday Schools.

The following officers were elected for the next year—President, F. M Sydnor; vice president, Ivan Sharp; secretary, Porter Kellison; treasurer, S. J. Rexrode.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

Sunday School 9:45

3 30 p m Junior Christian Endeavor
7 15 p m Senior Christian Endeavor
11 00 a m. No Service
3 30 p m. Preaching at Buckeye.
7 45 p m No Service.

There will be no preaching service at the church next Sunday owing to the special services at the Methodist Church. All our people are urged to hear Bishop Darlington.

WESLEY CHAPEL M. E. SOUTH

Hillsboro, West Virginia
W. Clark Early, Pastor.

9:45 a m, Sunday School
F. P. Kidd, Superintendent
7 30 p m Epworth League: Topic, "The Christian State and its Citizens."—Leader, Waller Vance.
2 30 p m. Sunday school at Sharon.

On account of the opening of the new Marlinton Methodist Church at Marlinton, by Bishop U. V. W Darlington, there will be no preaching service at Hillsboro or Sharon.

Attendance at the Methodist Sunday school, 181: at Presbyterian, 129, and at Campbelltown, 59.

Public Auction Sale

I will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder on

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1923

at Frost, W. Va., the following—

1 Eagle steel range cook stove, 2 good heating stoves, 6 beds and steads complete, 1 dresser good as new, 1 cot 1 couch good as new, 1 parlor suit, 2 rocking chairs, lot of other chairs, 30 yards linoleum, 25 yards straw matting, 25 yards rag carpet, sewing machine good as new, 3 large rugs, 3 stand tables, 200 cans fruit, lot of stone jars, lot of aluminum ware, lot of dishes, some potatoes, lot of window shades, and other things too tedious to mention.

Terms made known on day of sale.

Herold, auctioneer

IVIE GAY

Frost, W. Va.

Rental of a Valuable Grazing Farm

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, entered at the October Term, 1923, the undersigned guardian on

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1923

at 10 a. m., at the front door of the Courthouse of said county, will offer for rent for a period ending on the 4th day of December, 1926, [Three years] a tract of land valuable for grazing and farming, being a tract of 138 acres on Browns Mountain by the Knapps Valley, being the mountain place of the late W. F. Kelley, with the right to reject any and all bids. Said land to be returned at the end of the period in as good condition as it is received; the leasee shall have the landlord's share of one third in the crop of wheat now on the land: the leasee may use any unused rails now on the place for fencing.

TERMS—One-third cash, the residue in two equal payments, notes with good security, bearing interest after maturity, one note due Dec. 4, 1924, and the other note due Dec. 4, 1925.

F. R. HUNTER, Guardian of Icie Kelly, Allie May Kelly and Joe Kelly.

WOODMAN MEETING

On last Thursday night Marlinton Camp of Modern Woodmen of America held open house, the honor guests being National Lecturer C. E. Renner, of Lincoln, Nebraska, and State Deputy Head Consul V. J. Barnes, of Wheeling.

These gentlemen are on a visitation to various camps in the State. At Marlinton they spoke to an assemblage of more than a hundred Woodman and Royal Neighbors and invited guests of the two divisions of the Order.

Recently two large rooms in the Woodman Oddfellow building have been converted into a commodious dining hall, and a kitchen has been outfitted in a third room. Here, after the speaking, the members and their guests repaired for delightful refreshments.

Mr Barnes mode a short speech on things pertaining to the organization. He was followed by Mr Renner, who is considerable of an orator. Coming from the State of William J. Bryan, a country of broad plains and magnificent distances, he set a record for long distance oratory. His text was "Service to humanity," and he handled his subject at length and with a master hand.

This is the first time the local camp has had the honor of entertaining either their State or National officers and the presence of two such distinguished guests was greatly appreciated.

The entainment committee was at pains to show the visitors some of our good county of Pocahontas. They were taken to a high point of land to view the country over—clothed in the gala attire for the falling of the year

After sight seeing the visisors were headed to the Allegheny Club for supper. A tire went out, and the trip would have proved a dud, but for the good offices of Mr Adkins of the road company. He repaired the damage in a hurry, and set the party on the way rejoicing to such a supper as the Club is noted for serving.

The gentlemen seemed well pleased with our good county, but in their polite expressions of praise of certain of our high points of excellence, we felt we could detect a little note or undercurrent of surprise that things were so well with us in these mountains

GREENBRIER PRESBYTERY YOUNG PEOPLS'S CONFERENCE

On Friday and Saturday October 26-27 the fourth annual Presbytery's Young People's Conference will be held in the Old Stone Church at Lewisburg. The program will open at 11 a. m. the 26 and closes at 10:30 a. m. the 27. U. I. Jenkins, the new State Secretary of Christian Endeavor will be present to give some practical help along C. E. lines. Every church in the Presbytery is expected to send some of their young people. It is hoped that Pocahontas County will be well represented.

Men's Suits

$14.95

"THE PEOPLES STORE"
Marlinton, West Virginia

"Walk across the bridge and save the difference."

Increased Driving Comfort Provided in Buick "Fours"

In adjusting the position of the driving seat, in lowering the steering column and in bringing the shift lever and emergency brake within the easiest possible reach of the driver's hand, Buick has provided additional comfort and satisfaction in the new four-cylinder models. Ease of handling is also an outstanding feature of the new Buick "four". In heavy traffic the abundant power of the famous valve-in-head engine and the quickness with which the car responds to every control enable it to glide in and out of traffic with the utmost facility, while Buick four-wheel brakes assure perfect braking and safety under all conditions.

Marlinton Electric Company
Marlinton, W. Va.

CHEVROLET

for Economical Transportation

HUNDRED AUTOMOBILES

Eighteen Months

Marlinton Motor Company has sold in the past eighteen months more fully equipped automobiles than any other automobile in the company in the County, passing the hundred mark. They attribute their sales to the fact that they offer the cheapest fully equipped automobile on the market for economical transportation. For the man that figures the cost, there is no comparison, and over a hundred satisfied owners vouch for the statement. For service, style, cost and transportation, CHEVROLET is in a class by itself. See the latest in closed cars, Coupe and Sedan.

New Models - Reduced Prices

To see them and drive them is satisfaction. Now is the time to place your order at the new price. Give us a chance and we will be there in a "jiffy." CHEVROLET FOR SERVICE.

Marlinton Motor Company

"Buy a Chevrolet and Save the Difference"

SCHUCHAT'S DEPARTMENT STORE

We are receiving daily

New Hats, Coats, Suits and Dresses

Come in and look them over

Schuchat's Department Store

MARLINTON, W. VA.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, Editor.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1923

A case of very considerable interest in a live stock country was the trial of Divers Sharp of the Williams River country on the charge of stealing sheep. This is one of the grievous crimes known to common law. Sheep are highly important in the scheme of mountain life. They are highly prolific and hardy and valuable. Or they are barren and worthless, and die like sheep as the saying is. The dogs worry them and destroy them and discourage the industry, and to the uneducated eye one sheep looks much like another and they are easily lost or mislaid. They pay dividends twice a year, in the spring when the wool crop comes in and in the fall when the lambs go upon the market. And they are subject to loss through theft on the two occasions. In the spring the removing of the fleece changes the tout ensemble so effectively that the owner might pass the sheep in the big road and not know it, and in the fall the roads are thronged with close packed droves and a stray sheep is as a needle in a haystack. Sheep in the range along the road will even insist on joining a drove and going to the shambles with them, and the honest drover is put to much trouble and pains to keep stray sheep out of the drifting mass.

Then to every man and drover comes the moment to decide,
In the strife of Right and Wrongful,
for the good or evil side,
When some fat and fickle wether
jumps stiff legged in the road,
And insists on being numbered with the sheep of his car load;
Then he puts the devil from him, and with many a curse and shout,
He works, and frets, and fiddles till
he cuts the stranger out.

The wool crop of the county has brought in as much as a quarter of million of dollars in a single year and the income from lambs is generally much larger than the clip. If obstacles like dogs and sheep stealers and a few other draw backs could be eliminated the financial troubles of this county would be solved for it is quite possible for the sheep industry to be four times what it is now. There is an art in raising sheep that has been well acquired and this is a healthy county for sheep, but there is every reason why sheep should not be the sole source of income when the perils of the business are so great.

The way to identify sheep is to get to know them by their faces just as people are distinguished. And the ability to know sheep is what marks the successful shepherd.

Last spring the question of sheep stealing had become so acute that a number of farmers made up a reward for conviction of sheep thieves and that part of the county seems to have got through the season better. The unknown were communicated with through the newspaper and that is about the only way that you can get the word through to the underworld sometimes.

It was a sad case that was tried at the late term of the court. The defendant was a man owning a small farm; he was heavily in debt; he was a hard worker; he had a wife and eight children. There was never a day too cold and rough but what he might be seen with wagon and team bringing loads of lumber into town, and starting for home ten miles up a mountain about dark.

The sheep that got him into trouble belonged to M. L. Beard and were thirteen of a flock of two hundred and twenty on Mr. Beard's Days Run property in the immediate neighborhood of the defendant's farm. Days Run is a beautiful little trout stream that enters Williams River just above the Meadows.

Some sheep having turned up missing, a systematic search was made on other lands in that vicinity. The Beard sheep were well marked with a horse shoe tar mark back of the shoulder, and one ear had been changed by cutting off the lower or "belly" of ear long ways. About the first of June, the main herd had not been sheared, but they came on one of the missing sheep on the lands of the defendant, and this sheep was sheared and the ear mark changed. It showed two notches above and two below on each ear, and that was the ear mark of the defendant. The search was then continued and directed towards the flock of the defendant and thirteen sheep were found and identified. The marking by notches was very recent, the wounds not having wholly healed. Learning where the wool of the defendant had been marketed at a Marlinton store the fleeces were found and in some cases it was apparent that a tar mark had been clipped off. The arrest trial and conviction followed. A second prosecution for another bunch of sheep, The Shearer sheep, followed and there were two felony indictments on the docket to be tried, and a verdict of guilty having been brought in, and it appearing that there was a chance for the the sentences to run concurrently, the defendant and his counsel made a virtue of a necessity, and plead guilty to the second indictment and the court sentenced the prisoner to two years in the pen in each case, but very mercifully allowed the sentences to run concurrently so it is possible that freedom may be restored to him in twenty months. It is going to be a hard time with this defendant. He is a lean man about forty years old and is no more inured to confinement than a wild deer. And the winds will howl over the Williams River mountain this winter and not find Divers in thin clothing driving his team along the fozen road.

A number of years ago a man was sent from this county to the pen for stealing sheep and it was related that in the course of his travels that mutton was set before him and he was moved to remark that he never liked mutton anyway.

It is hard on the defendant and his family but the way of the transgressor is hard, and there is no doubt that sheep owners generally rest easier on their pillows.

As to the rest of the men who think they have a right to be careless with other men's sheep, the only way open is to communicate with them is through the county press, but that in itself may not be sufficient to those who cannot read, so in addition to the power of the press we suggest that the pulpit and the school teachers try to spread the word, that the shepherds are up and no longer are they consenting parties to the lifting of sheep.

Every thing to him that waits. It has been a long time since a deer could be killed in these mountains legally and there is reason to believe that they have increased to a considerable extent. A open season has been proclaimed largely on account of the fact that a good many important men felt that if the time did not come soon that they would never have a chance to kill one more deer Men who remember when they could count on getting some deer every fall just as they counted on husking corn.

And it came to pass in those days, that as the time for butchering hogs drew nigh, the wife would say unto her husband: Day after tomorrow we kill hogs, and yet verily we have no venison to put in the sausage. Take ye then your gun and go across the creek and over the ridge to the salt log, and bring me the fat buck that uses there.

So early in the morning the goodman taketh down his gun and putteth a deer load therein and hastens forth while it is yet night and goes to the lick log and slays the deer and brings him in.

There is a constant stream of hunters filing by the desk of the county clerk these days to get a hunter's license for one dollar cash good during the calendar year. The clerk seems to be greatly burdened with this new department wished on him by an all wise legislature without any additional compensation. I do not know how it is in other counties, but in this county it is accepted with the greatest cheerfulness, for it gives Squire Brown an opportunity of meeting in person some thousands good men and true whom he would not otherwise see and get acquainted with. They write a short description of their personal appearance, giving age, complexion, height, weight, and color of their scalps, and pay over the dollar and go on their way rejoicing, for as the philosopher, Stevenson, I think, puts it: It is better to travel hopefully than to arrive.

So it may be better to hunt hopefully then to kill. And I believe I can testify to that.

I sued my license out but have not used it yet, and I do not think that I shall. Or should I say "I do not think I will." "Shall" or "will," I never learned how to use them and never will. I believe I can make it plainer by saying that I will not go hunting of my own volition, unless I shall be obliged to defend myself from a deer running over me, and it has been many a weary year since that happened, and that only when I deliberately placed myself at some place where deer are accustomed to cross a stream, or go through a notch in a mountain.

They tried a man down south the other day for killing another man, and his defense was that the deceased had sent him word that the next time they met that he would shoot him. The trial judge instructed the jury that it was the duty of the prisoner when he got such word to have avoided meeting the threatener, which may not be law but which is good common sense. But the appelate court said that instruction did not properly propound the law for under that rule a man might not be able to go home, and the prisoner was given a new trial. So a man need not give ground to an infuriated deer, but it will be much wiser to do so, for it is hard to get such an excuse accepted.

There is one phase about this open season for deer that was not fully discounted, and that is that many and many a man has had a big buck marked down all summer, and that same buck is apt to be ambushed and shot as he goes to his bed in the grim gray dawn of the first day of the hunting season. Deer have certain places above the fly line in walking distance of some salting place and many of these deer are going to be destroyed this year. It is a vexed question. I think the local hunters are entitled to an open season. It is clearly a concession, but the law has been well observed, and about all the deer hunters worthy of the name are elderly men and entitled to some relief. They are going to find the mountains steeper and higher than they were before, and some of them may have to do like a famous old rifleman that I remember years ago, and put on four pairs of specs to draw a bead on the game, but the old boys have got another chance. Let them go to it.

I can remember the days of home spun clothes. And in those days it was the custom at many farm houses to throw the deer antlers on the roof of a shed fronting to the road, where the sight of them would drive a visiing huntsman crazy to kill. But never no more. Deer horns are not so carelessly displayed of late years They are very important. It might occur that a doe was killed inadvertently and then a pair of horns would come in handy.

Or you might have a friend who shall come to you at midnight, and say unto you, Friend, lend me a pair of deer horns, for my oldest son has had the misfortune to kill a fat doe, and the game warden is in the neighborhood, and has got wind of the occurrence, and if he comes around tomorrow morning, I have no horns to set before him.

The game law is doing a lot of good and is being administerd wisely and considerately, but some of us do not need any game law to keep us good. The older I get the more I realize that such things as deers are more than a match for me, and that they are in no danger from my wobbling rifle or my heavy feet. A deer knows how to look out for his own skin.

I learned another bird. I have no doubt forgotten a bird in the meantime. I cannot say what bird it iifs have forgotten, for it is obvious II could tell you what bird it is I would not have forgotten it. Yes, I do know what the bird is that I forgot It is the grackle. A lady turned the conversation on me the other day and I missed out on grackle, but I bet I would know the corn-pulling son of a gun if I saw him again even I never knew him by that name.

The bird I learned is the nut hatch I referred to it in a former article as a flicker. That is when the lamp of knowledge flickered and went out. It was no flicker, and I was inclined to let the record stand and if accused of ignorance I intended to plead not guilty and call for proof, but with the passing of the days, and a friendly nut-hatch almost eating out of my hand, I find it impossible to keep from talking about it, and if you do not want to hear about nut-hatches you had better stay away from our house.

I did not like him on his first appearance. There is more than one of them, but I the one I am intimate with is the head of the family, that is he is the old bird. Every heart knoweth its own bitterness, and the bird only knows as to whether he is treated with proper respect by Mrs Nut-hatch who is hanging around with him still.

I was putting out peanuts for the squirrels. I find that peanuts is a cheap and convenient food universally appreciated by wild animals One time a bunch of us tried to break into Biltmore by telling the lodge-keeper that we had come all the way from the north to feed peanuts to the swans. He was entertained by the conversation but did not let us in.

I soon found that this bird was watching for the peanuts and would beat the squirrels to them, and I would shoo him away and give the squirrels a chance. Then I found out that this bird with a brain that would weigh perhaps two grains had lots of sense and was even friendly with humans. I would put out the peanuts in the rough bark of a big walnut tree. The bird would take one out and carry it to a vice and clamp it in, and hack away at the shell until it got to the kernel and then it would eat it and then go and get another one. The crevices I selected did not hold the nut right for him, for he has a peculiar fashion of working, resting and reposing with his head down and his tail pointed straight to the zenith. He can run up a tree head foremost but the moment he is at ease he turns upside down and rests that way. Therefore he desired a crevice in the bark that held the nut so that he could work conveniently with his head pointed down. He has a long, sharp bill and has a black spot on his head, a blue coat marked with black, a white breast, and a patch of red down under a square tail, and is about six inches long.

The Bible says let your conversation be yea, yea. This bird literally adopts that injunction. Just at the break of dawn, I can hear him shouting out yay-yay! The books give it that he says yank yank! followed by ya-ya! This one does not. He says yay-yay! That is his word. I first tried to make Cheer-up! out of it and it is not hard to make that out of it, but I finally come to the conclusion that yay-yay, is what it is in the original sanscrit.

The bird has finally become more popular than the squirrels and he is welcome to the peanuts as long as they hold out. What I am wondering now is whether he will spend the winter with us but I look for him to make the southern tour.

About that name, nut hatch. It does not have anything to do with hatching eggs. It is hatch as used in the combination hatchet. It means that he uses his bill as a hatchet, to hack, or as the artists say to hatch with. They used to work flax with a toothed instrument called a hatchel The bird's name is clearly derived from its treatment of nuts, and if it was called the nut hack, it would be plainer now, though when it was named, hatch was the common form of hack.

You are queer, Mister Nuthatch, the young man said,
But your nerves are wonderful, steady;
You seem to contsnually stand on your head,
Does it make you not giddy and heady?
Yay, yay, the Nuthatch replied to
his friend,
It's my back claw, and pointed front toes,
It seems to be natural for me to up
end,
When ever in need of repose.

WRIGLEY'S

After Every Meal

Have a packet in your pocket for ever-ready refreshment.

Aids digestion.
Allays thirst.
Soothes the throat.

For Quality, Flavor and the Sealed Package, get

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT THE PERFECT GUM MINT LEAF FLAVOR

THE FLAVOR LASTS

No Trespassing

All persons are warned not to hunt, trap, fish or trespass in any other manner on the lands of the undersigned on Clover Creek and at Stony Bottom, and the Hevener land on Back Mountain.

U. H. & J. M. Hannah.

Save Money—Be Comfortable

Think of actually saving money without having to make some sacrifice of pleasure or comfort. Have you ever been able to do it before? It not only can be done, but at the same time new and added comforts can be enjoyed.

COLE'S ORIGINAL HOT BLAST HEATER

saves 1/3 to 1/2 your fuel bill and at the same time gives you double heating capacity. Come in and let us explain the features and guarantee of this heater.

C. J. RICHARDSON

Marlinton, - - - - - - West Virginia

PLACED HIS BET AND LOST

Waiter Took a Chance, but Evidently It Did Not Happen to Be His Lucky Day.

An old darkey waiter had served a modest but quite perfect lunch to two elderly and thrifty-looking guests. He had inquired how each dish suited their taste, whether it had been seasoned properly, if it was hot enough or sufficiently chilled. The check was presented at the close of the meal. It was $3.40. One of the guests glanced over it and placed a $5 bill on the tray. The waiter disappeared, all smiles, and returned with the change—a $1 bill and 50-cent piece and a dime. He put the tray at the guest's elbow and waited doubtfully. He watched the dollar bill slowly withdrawn and then, after a painful pause, the 50-cent piece. The tray, with its lonely dime, was shoved toward him. He picked it up, looked at it sadly and gave a long sigh. "Boss," he said, "I gambled and I lost."—Judge.

Monaco Gambling Metropolis.

Monaco, on the French Mediterranean coast, is the smallest independent state in Europe, having an area of only eight square miles, but containing a population of 23,000. The principality, once considerably larger than at present, belonged to the Grimaldi family, but in 1861 Prince Charles III ceded the greater part of it to France. Monaco's hereditary sovereign is a prince, who is assisted in governing by a council of state. The principal city is Monte Carlo, famous for its casino, the two others being Monaco and Condamine.

Two Good Stories.

Frederic Almy of Buffalo, N. Y.:

"One of my favorite stories is that of the Frenchwoman who complained that she had been grossly insulted by an American with whom she was traveling. On inquiry it appeared that they had traveled alone in the same compartment for an hour and that he had not once looked at her."

"If I may give two, I like also the story of the suffragist who cried out. 'The Lord is with us, and with Her on our side we cannot fail.'"—New York Herald.

A share of your business solicited

T. S. McNEEL

INSURANCE AND BONDS

Marlinton W. Va.

Successor to Goodsell Insurance Agency

Life, Fire and Accident, Automobiles and Live Stock, Bonds of all kinds, Money to Loan on Farms.

Office 2nd floor, First National Bank Building.

DELCO-LIGHT

"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue

ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES

Marlinton Electric Co.

DEALERS

NOTICE

I hereby notify all parties that my wife, Leona P. Alderman of the 17th day of September 1923 left my bed and board without cause therefore I will not be responsible for any debts board bills or any other transactions in any way she may make from this date on. Samuel N. Alderman. Huntersville, W. Va

CAR FOR SALE

A Ford Coupe, 1923 model, has been run about 500 miles, set of chains extra new wheel rims and tires, etc. Price $450.

W. S. Camden,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Auction Sale

I will sell at public auction at my home at Violet Station, on the railroad, below Buckeye on

THURS., OCTOBER 25, 1923

beginning at 1 o'clock, the following property—

1000 feet dressed ceiling and flooring
4yr old saddle mare
2 yr old heifer, milk stock
New Wilburn saddle
New kitchen cabinet
Sets buggy and single harness
Household and kitchen furniture, including beds and bedding, new cook stove and numerous other articles. All this furniture is practically new, having been in use about a year.
A dozen or so chickens

TERMS—$5 and under cash; over $5 four months time, note with interest and approved security.

A. H. GEORGE.

Barlow, auctioneer

NOTICE

To all merchants and every one else, my wife Zenie White has left my bed and board and I will not stand responsible for any debt or debts she makes.

This the 8 day of September 1923.
Hoy White

LOST—1 black traveling bag contains some clothing, shaving outfit, Eastman kodak, bunch P. R. R. switch keys, box stationary with several letters addressed to J. E. Austin, Narrows, Va. If found please ship to J. E. Austin, 12 Dean Ave. Carnegie, Pa.

HANDBAG LOST—A handbag was lost off my car on September 3, between Hillsboro and Millpoint. The person in a Ford roadster who picked it up, will please return to the undersigned and receive reward. W. W. Kennison, Hillsboro, W. Va.

Notice

No hunting, no trespassing in any way on the lands of the undersigned Samul Kee & Hunter Kee.

Dec. 1.

Winter Apples

I will have for sale a nice lot of winter apples, of various varieties will be sold at orchard or will deliver. Place your orders early.

H. Lee white
Minnehaha Springs, W. Va.

Cockerels For Sale

S.-C. White Leghorns, R. I. Reds, Barred Rocks, White Wyandotte, and Shepherd Anconas. All from pure bred high egg producing pedigreed stock. Prices ranging from $1.50 to $2.50 according to color, type and size.

Oak Crest Poultry Farm
Mill Point, W. Va.

FISK TIRES

C. J. Richardson
Marlinton, W. Va.

Notice to Tax Payers

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Sheriff of Pocahontas County will attend in person or by deputy at the following time and place for the purpose of collecting taxes due:

GREENBANK DISTRICT

Thornwood.....Nov. 1, in morning
Bartow.........Nov 1, in afternoon
Durbin..........Nov 2
Hosterman......Nov 3, in morning
Nottingham....Nov 3, in afternoon
Cass.............Nov 5 and 6
Spruce...........Nov 6 at night
Raywood.........Nov 7, after 4 p. m.
Boyer.............Nov 10
Arbovale.........Nov 12
Greenbank.......Nov 13
Dunmore.........Nov 14

I will visit the taxpayers of Wildell and May in person before the end of the discount period.

EDRAY DISTRICT

Stony Bottom......Nov 8, till noon
Cloverlick....Nov 8, afternoon, night
Onoto.........Nov 23, until 3 p. m.
Mace..........Nov 12, in morning
Brady.........Nov 12, in afternoon
Linwood......Nov 13, until 2 p. m.
Slatyfork Commissary, Nov 13, after 4 p. m., and Nov 14 until 10 am
Elk, Robt Gibson's, Nov 14, afternoon
Edray..........Nov 10
Buckeye........Nov 24
Marlinton......Nov 26, 27, 28

HUNTERSVILLE DISTRICT

Frost.............Nov 5
Minnehaha Sprgs..Nov 6
Huntersville......Nov 7
Clawson...........Nov 8

LITTLE LEVELS DISTRICT

Droop Mt., Wallace Kershner, Nov. 5
Locust..........Nov 6, in morning
Beard..........Nov 6, in afternoon
Seebert.........Nov 7
Millpoint.......Nov 8
Hillsboro.......Nov 9
Lobelia.........Nov 10
Jacox...........Nov 12

With the exceptions of dates listed above, books will be found at the following places:

Greenbank District, B. B. Beard's, Bartow
Edray District, in office, Marlinton
Huntersville District, at Elmer Moore's, Minnehaha Springs
Little Levels District, at T. A. Bruffey's, Hillsboro.

A discount of 2 1-2 percent will be made to all persons who pay their taxes on or before the 30th day of November, 1923. Interest the rate of 10 percent per annum on the amount of each tax bill will be added thereto from the first day of January, 1924, until payment.

B. B. BEARD, S. P. C.

Hampshire Rams

Thoroughbred registered Hampshire Rams for sale. Fine specimens of this noted breed so well adapted to Greenbrier Valley conditions

R. P. Welford & Son
Nov 1 Hillsboro, W. Va.

Crochet Work

Done at a reasonable price. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Mrs. Lena Colson
Locust, W. Va.

Notice

100 head of high bred range ewes ranging in age from 4 to 6 years old, 1 dry cow, 1, 3 year old Herford Bull, 5 shotes will weigh about 100 lbs. each, price $10.00 each at the farm, 3, 60 lbs. cans extract honey 20c lb.

L. D. Sharp
Edray, W. Va.

Notice

All persons having claims against the estate of Andrew Adkison will please present the same to me properly proven, at once, and any one owing his estate please come forward and settle.

N. C. McNEIL, Adm'r.
of Andrew Adkison, Deceased.
Oct. 2, 1923: 4wks.

For Sale

House and two lots at Riverside Addition to Marlinton, five room cottage building fitted with electric lights, good out buildings. Price reasonable, if interested call on.

L. V. Sizemore,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

FIDUCIARY NOTICE

The accounts of Calvin W. Price, Executor of Lettie Rogers are before the undersigned commissioner of accounts for settlement.

Given under my hand this 5th day of October, 1023.

P. T. WARD,
Commissioner of Accouuts.

ESTRAY HOG—Good sized sow, unmarked, looks to be about 1 1-2 years old, has been at my place on Greenbrier river near Clawson, since about the first of last April. Owner can have same by paying cost of keep and advertising. E. L. Friel, Marlinton, W. Va.

LOST:—A pair of tortoise shell eye glasses with gold bow, double lens, in Marlinton on Monday, October 1. Please return to Star Bakery.

POSITION WANTED by a middle aged woman to do house work. Apply to Mrs. Lou Jones, Cloverlick W. Va.

FOR SALE CHEAP— One 3 1-2 Milburn wagon can be seen at my place just below Campbelltown.
W. WOODDELL

N. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specialty of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

CHARLES SHINABERRY
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
All calls given prompt attention.

A. SHARP
AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
Phone Marlinton Central.

W. A. BARLOW
OLD RELIABLE AUCTIONEER
Onoto, W. Va.
All calls answered.

Wm. O. RUCKMAN
LICENSED AUCTIONEER
Millpoint, West Virginia
A young man with the goods

Z. S. Smith
Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

Dr. CHAS. S. KRAMER
DENTIST
Marlinton, W. Va
First National Bank Building
Office hours 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.
or appointment. All work guaranteed

Baxter's Garage
MARLINTON W. VA.
FORD Cars and Supplies
FORDSON Tractors
A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.
I. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Picoting and Hem-Stitching
All orders promptly filled.
Mrs. J. E. BUCKLEY,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Farm for Sale

15 acres of land on hard State road, two miles from Marlinton. Good 4 room house, and fruit of all kinds.

Apply at once to G. T. Geiger,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Men Wanted

Two experienced lumber pilers are wanted, at good wages.

Williams & Pifer Lumber Co.
Marlinton, W. Va.

WHEN IN DURBIN
VISIT
CENTRAL CAFE
H. F. HYER, Mgr.

Have You Driven A Car With Four-Wheel Brakes?

If not, you have a new motoring sensation yet to experience. Your first ride will thoroughly prove the desirability of this equipment! The smooth and positive operation of Oakland's four-wheel brakes gives added confidence and security under all driving conditions.

The brand new Oakland Six is the lowest-price car with four-wheel brakes and other similar up-to-the-minute features. Come in—drive it yourself—give it a thorough test. Why choose a car of lesser performance and lesser safety?

Brand New — Oakland — True Blue

Five Passenger Sedan $1395

Roadster - - - $945 | Sport Roadster - $1095
Touring Car - - 945 | Business Coupe - 1195
Sport Touring - 1095 | Coupe for Four - 1345

All Prices f. o. b. Pontiac

D. W. WILLIAMS

MARLINTON, - - - - - WEST VIRGINIA

West Virginia News Cullings

An epitome of the most important events transpiring throughout the state

Fairmont—Walter Pendleton, 35, died in a local hospital following a cutting affray. A card game is blamed for the trouble. George Washington, alleged to have killed Pendleton, is held in the county jail.

Fairmont—Dr. E. P. Brunson, of Bluefield, formerly assistant general of the Methodist general and city hospitals at Durham, N. C., has been appointed first assistant surgeon of the Fairmont state hospital. Miss Mamie Clifton, of Welch, has been appointed superintendent of nurses.

Princeton—The Mercer County Bar Association has appointed a committee to draft a bill for introduction into congress authorizing the Supreme Court to prescribe a uniform system of rules and regulations governing law cases in Federal courts. The committee is headed by Judge J. M. Sanders.

Williamson—N. J. Keadle, Williamson postmaster, is the defendant in a suit brought here to force the government to move the postoffice from its present quarters. The plaintiffs declare that a lease given on the building in 1918 has become void because of the death of the lessor, who in his will deeded the property to his children.

Logan—A resolution calling for the installation of electric lights along Stratton and Main streets and around court house square was passed by the Logan chamber of commerce. The proposition of giving Logan a "white way" has been much discussed in the city for some time, but it was left to the local chamber of commerce to get the movement under way.

Martins Ferry—Mlehe Filipovich, 33, wanted for the murder of Nick Munjas of Glencoe, August 6, died in the Martins Ferry hospital from gunshot wounds inflicted a week ago by deputy sheriffs who trapped him in a restaurant in Belmont, Ohio. Prosecuting Attorney Herbert Mitchell was on his way to the hospital to talk with Filipovich when death occurred.

Parkersburg — The West Virginia Pythian children's home and institute, which will be erected here, will be started in the immediate future, according to a statement made here by Grand Chancellor J. G. Vaughan of Charleston. Mr. Vaughan stated that the committee in charge of the home will meet in Parkersburg to complete final plans for the institution.

Fairmont—Stepping on a rolling stone while hunting in the mountains near Flatwoods, Prosecuting Attorney Frank R. Amos, of this city, was thrown over a steep bank to the rocks below, and sustained injuries which may confine him to his home in Haymond street for some time. He was brought to his home and is now a patient there. His most severe injury is to one of his ankles, and it is feared the ankle bone is broken.

Wheeling—R. E. L. Strider, bishop coadjutor elect of Protestant-Episcopal diocese of West Virginia, will make his permanent residence in Wheeling, it has been announced. Since his election to the coadjutorship there has been considerable speculation whether Dr. Strider would remain here. This has been definitely settled by an arrangement between Dr. Strider and Bishop William L. Gravatt under the latter, in Charleston.

Charleston—Delinquent real estate taxes in Charleston will total more than $5,000, according to a report turned in to the city council. The property is apportioned to various sections of the city as follows: East End, $3,565.54; West Side, $3,381.23; South Side, $442.74, totaling $7,389.51. Of this amount about $2,000 will be deducted as erroneous assessments, it was said by Collector Cochran. The statement will be turned over to the city auditor.

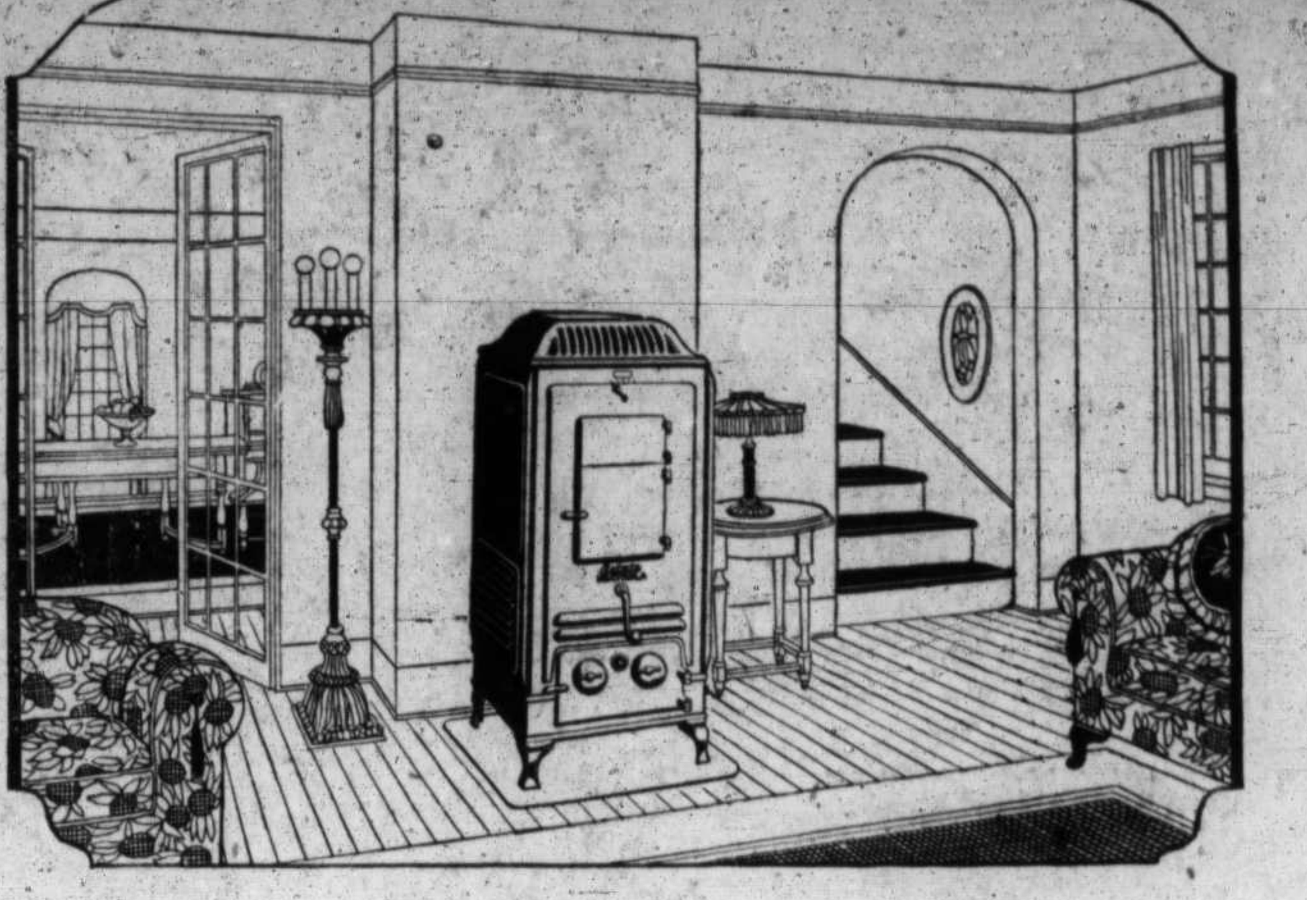
Mullens—The building of the first unit of the First Baptist Church of Mullens will be started immediately. This was decided at a recent meeting of the church officials. The contract was let to the local firm of Early Bros., which presented the lowest bid, $15,575. Work will be started at once and it is hoped to get into the new church building in three months. The building will not be erected in its entirety at this time. The plans of the architect, following the direction of the church officials, call for a building in two units. The first unit will be 55 by 35 feet and will be used for Sunday school and church services. When the time seems propitious the second unit will be built.

Sistersville — Two applicants have been announced as eligible for the appointment as postmaster at Sistersville. Sam Hissam, present postmaster, stood highest in the examination Lester F. Buck is the other eligible.

Morgantown—The desire to "camp out" by Darrell DeWitt, aged 9, caused a number of sleepless nights for his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will DeWitt. Darrell was finally located at the home of a boy friend who lived in another section of the city.

Application for Pardon

Notice is hereby given that on or about the 25th day of October 1923, an application will be filed with A. G. Jenkins, pardon Attorney, Charleston, W. V., for the pardon of Roy Houchin convicted of the crime of second degree murder at the April term, 1922. of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County and sentenced to imprisonment in the West Virginia Penitentiary for the period of sixyears.



Picture It In Your Home

—this Wonderful Warm-Air Furnace that Looks Like a Phonograph

This picture shows the installation of an Estate Heatrola in a modern six-room home.

Picture one in your home.

See what a wonderful improvement it is over a heating stove. Note how beautifully it blends with other home furnishings. It combines the efficiency of a furnace with the appearance of a phonograph.

Estate Heatrola is a furnace—not a stove. Placed in one of the living rooms, it heats 3 to 6 connecting rooms, in even the coldest weather.

Burns any kind of coal, and uses less coal than a stove.

Beautifully finished in grained mahogany—a vitreous enamel, practically everlasting. You can rub and dust it with a cloth, just as you do your furniture.

Estate HEATROLA

Heats 3 to 6 Connecting Rooms

R. B. SLAVEN

Marlinton, West Virginia

DURBIN

Arthur Ash is building a blacksmith shop which is badly needed in our town.

Holt and Hickman have shipped six cars of cross ties in the last week.

There was a big day at Nottingham Sunday and a good dinner and all enjoyed the Editor of the Pocahontas Times and his good talk. Come up the road again, Mr. Editor, you are always welcome.

T. R. Beverage sold and delivered some fine cattle to J. A. Jones of Doe Hill, Va., last week.

L. E. Flowes has gone to Belaire, Ohio, and other points down the river.

Rev. J. W. Hevener, of Bosterman, was in our town last Saturday on business last Saturday.

S. T. Ruckman was over to Crabbottom, Va., to visit his brother, Tom Ruckman, who is there from Augusta county.

Sandy Patterson is gathering lambs up here for John Hannah.

Mayor J. P. Townsend is building road for the town of Durbin. F. B. Grogg is Foreman.

Ira Nottingham has a number of teams putting rock on the road between Bartow and this town.

Leroy Fenton visited White Sulphur Springs and other points. He returned Sunday, well pleased with his visit.

STATEMENT

of the ownership, management, etc., revuired by the act of Congress of August 24, 1912, of the Pocahontas Times, published weekly at Marlinton, W. Va., for October 1, 1923.
State of West Virginia,
County of Pocahontas, ss:

Calvin W. Price, owner of the Pocahontas Times, upon oath states that the names and addresses of the publishers, editor, manageing editor, business manager are:

Publisher, Calvin W. Price, Marlinton, W. Va.
Editor Calvin W. Price, Marlinton W. Va.
Managing Editor. none.
Business Manager, none.
Owner, Calvin W. Price, Marlinton, W. Va.
Bondholders, mortgages, and other security holders, none.

CALVIN W. PRICE, Owner.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 3rd day of October, 1923.

A. H. McFerrin,
Notary Public.
My commission expires Dec. 18, a923

Honor Roll of Riverside School, Goldie McNeill, teocher. Hubert Pyles, Sanford Simmons, Mirl Simmons, Ruth Dunn, Virginia Hayes, Wayne Simmons, Arleen Dunn, Mike Dunn.

Notice of Trustee's Sale

Pursuant to authority vested in us by the deeds of trust hereinafter mentioned, to wit: A deed of trust dated August 25, 1915, executed by A. Klinebell and Nannie J. Klinebell, his wife, to W. R. Moore, Trustee, to secure C. P. Adams, of record in the office of the clerk of the county court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, in trust deed book number 9 at page 193; a deed of trust dated March 24, 1920, executed by A. Klinebell, widower, to G. W. Sharp, Trustee, to secure C. P. Adams. of record in said office in trust deed book number 11 at page 403: and a deed of trust dated June 3, 1922, executed by A. Klinebell and Mary S. Klinebell, his wife, to G. W. Sharp, Trustee, to secure C. P. Adams, of record in said office in trust deed book number 12 at page 264, the undersigned trustees,

on Monday, November 19, 1923

between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., at the front door of the court house of said Pocahontas county, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder the following described real estate situate at Clover Lick in said county, consisting of dwelling house and out buildings and six or seven acres of land described in the first named deed of trust as follows.to-wit:

A lot from W. H. Barnes and wife, a lot from Isaac Daughterty and wife, another lot from W. H. Barnes and wife, another lot from Isaac Daughterty and wife, another lot from Isaac Daughterty and wife, reference is made to said deeds of trust for a fuller and more complete description of said lands.

This is the property now occupied by the family of said A. Klinebell.

Terms of Sale—One third cash on day of sale, and the residue upon a credit of one and two years from day of sale, the purchaser executing notes with good personal security, bearing interest, the title to be retained as ultimate security.

G. W. SHARP, Trustee
W. R. MOORE, Trustee

Farm For Sale

N!ce stock farm of 212 acres, 4 miles from good railroad town, in sight of school and churchs, on R. F. D. Nearly half this farm is nice bottom, can work entire farm with tractor, about 70 acres timber. If you want a good home this is it. Price $10.000 1 3 cash, balance long terms.

J. L. McDonald,
Goshen, Va.

WANTED—A small sawmill with owner or operator to do a job of sawing, for particulars apply to H. H. Grimes, Dunmore, W. Va.

AUTOMOBILE FOR SALE: Big 6, 7 pasenger Studebaker automobile for sale, a bargain to a quick buyer. Luther Flynn, Hillsboro, W. Va

FOR SALE—Residence in Hillsboro, including one acre of land, eight room house, good barn and all outbuildings. The best location in town.

Dr. J, W. R. SMITH,
Hillsboro, W. Va

Notice of Trustees Sale

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Trustee, acting pursuant to the authority of a certain deed of trust executed by Allie J. Yeager and C. A. Yeager, her husband, and Robert J. Parish and Carrie E. Parish, his wife, to myself as Trustee to secure Isaac McNeel in the payment of a note of $1100.00, dated February 12, 1907, and the interest thereon, which deed of trust bears date the 12th day of February, 1907, and is of record in the office of the Clerk of the County Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in Trust Deed Book No. 4 at page 307, will on the 12th day of November, 1923, at one o'clock p. m. of that day, at the front door of the Court House of Pocahontas County, in the Town of Marlinton, West Virginia, proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder the following real estate, to-wit:

Those certain lots, tracts or parcels of land situate in the Town of Marlinton, West Virginia. known and designated on the proper plat of said Town as Lot No. 3 in Block No. 22, and the Southern half of Lot No. 2 in Block No. 22, and known as the residence property of Marie Duncan.

Terms of Sale: Sufficient cash on day of sale to pay the costs of executing this trust, the debt secured by the same and the interest thereon, and any taxes and insurance paid on the said property; and for the residue of the purchase money a credit of one and two years will be given, the purchaser to execute his interest bearing notes with good personal security for such deferred payments, and the legal title to the said property will be retained as further security, the grantors in said trust deed not having designated the terms upon which the said real estate shall be sold.

Given under my hand this 5th day of October 1923.

T. S. NcNeel, Trustee.

Auction Sale

At our home on Elk, known as the John D. Gibson place, we will offer for sale on

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1923

the following property:

5 cows, 4 calves, 75 ewes, 3 bucks
2 horses, weight 2800 pounds
Plows and harrows, 4 iron kettles
1 brass and 1 copper kettle, some heating stoves, 1 cook stove, 5 stands of bees, 1 surrey and harness, 1 set of new buggy harness, 2 dining tables. 3 kitchen tables, a lot of stone jars. some chairs, a lot of new home made carpet, 1 big wagon, 1 set of home harnass, a lot of household goods not mentioned, also farming implements.

Terms made known on day of sale.

We also offer to rent our grazing farm consisting of 455 acres.

Sale will begin at 10 o'clock.

SUSIE GIBSON
FRENCH GIBSON
W. A. Barlow, auctioneer.

GOOD intentions long deferred are oft neglected

The erection of a final tribute to our loved ones should be given prompt attention. The esteem in which they were held should be evidenced by a fitting memorial.

Care should be taken, however, to select a material which is not only beautiful, but which can retain forever its original beauty.

GEORGIA MARBLE possesses this attribute. It is formed of tiny overlapping crystals, making it non-absorbent and giving it the essential qualities of beauty, strength and durability.

Its beauty and evenness of texture and its adaptability to design, makes GEORGIA MARBLE the ideal monumental material.

We will show you designs for beautiful memorials in GEORGIA MARBLE

SOUTHERN MARBLE & GRANITE CO.

GEORGIA MARBLE

See Z. S. SMITH, Our Authorized Agent,
MARLINTON, - - - - WEST VIRGINIA
For your needs in Monuments and Tombstones. Prices lower than else where work and material guarantee d

Second
Lycum Number
— AT —
HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

Saturday Night, October 20
THE MARCO COMPANY

All of us enjoy a good magician, no matter whether we are seven or seventy. It is doubtful if any form of entertainment is more universally popular. All of us flock to see the magician display his "bag of tricks." It is always interesting to watch and see if one cannot discover "how it is done" and catch the man of mysteries in a fumble.

Marco and his capable assistant will show their dexterity many times over and prove again that "the hand is quicker than the eye" in the cleverest lot of sleight-of-hand offerings and illusions seen in many years.

THE MARCO COMPANY

Not only is Marco a clever illusionist, but he is a delightful talker, and his original comments keep his audience holding its sides, as it sits open-mouthed watching his tricks. His is a program of clean fun and mystery—one to be enjoyed by old and young alike.

For Sale

80 acres of land near Dunmore, 20 acres under fence, 12 acres in sod; well watered, good rough house, good cellar; plenty of fruit. Quite a lot of good timber. Good neighborhood. Priced right.

Also good six room house and lot at Cloverlick.

WALTER BIRD,
Cloverlick, W. Va

NO TRESPASSING

All persons are notified not to trespass on the londs of the undersigned, especially by hunting, trapping and passing through.

W. D. Burgess.
Woodrow, W. Va.

WATCH LOST: Rev. Palmer Eubank lost his watch somewhere between Minnehaha Springs and Marlinton, on Monday. It is a small, open face, Waltham, gold watch. Finder will please return to Mr. Eubank at Minnehaha Springs.

HANLINE BROS.
LEAD AND ZINC
READY MIXED PAINT GUARANTEED

AS PURE AS PAINT CAN BE MADE

FOR SALE BY DEALERS EVERYWHERE

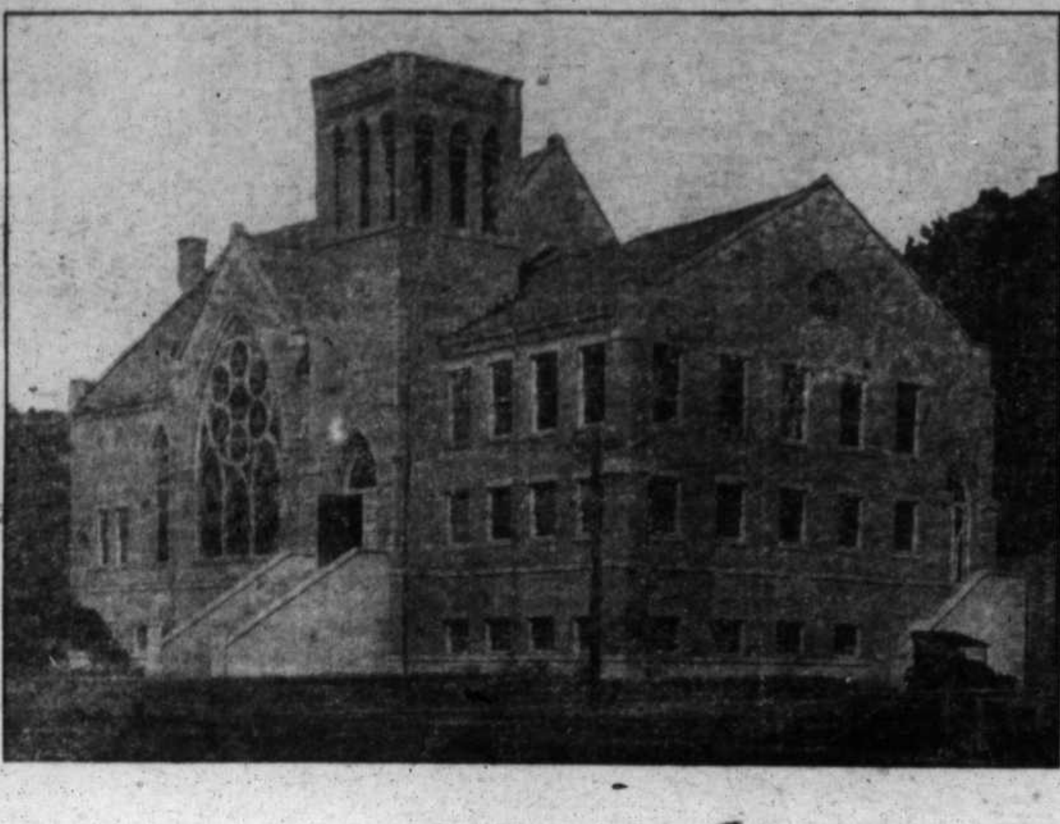
Dealers Supplied By
S. B. WALLACE & CO.
Marlinton, W. Va.

I have about 5 hundred of cabbage heads for sale. 3c. a lb. at my place. Good winter and hard solid.

L. O. SIMMONS

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLII NO 12 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, NOVEMBER 1 1923 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE



The above is the picture of the new Methodist Episcopal Church South, of Marlinton. It was opened for service two weeks ago by Bishop U. V. W. Darlington. It is a great monument to the earnest zeal of the Methodist people in the cause of Christianity, representing an outlay of more than sixty thousand dollars.

Friday and Saturday, November 2 and 3, the County Sunday School Convention will meet in this fine new Church. The speakers will be Dr. John I. Armstrong, Editor of the Sunday School publications of the Presbyterian Church; Rev. E. W. Halpenny, General Superintendent of the West Virginia Council of Religious Education; Miss Violet W. Johnson, State Superintendent of Children's Division; C. Austin Miles, Musical Director, author of "In the Garden" and other hymns. The County President is G. C. Hamilton; Pastor of Convention Church, Rev. J. H. Billingsley; Reception Committee, Ira D. Brill W. A. Eskridge, W. L. Davis, S. N. Hench.

COUNTY S. S. CONVENTION

All plans aro now complete fcr the annual County Sunday School Convention which meets in the new Methodist Church in Marlinton November 2 and 3, Friday and Saturday of this week. The Committee on Registration and Entertainment is—Ira D. Brill, chairman, L. M. Davis, W. A. Eskridge, S. N. Hench.

All entertainment will be assigned delegates upon their registration at the Convention Church, where they will report as soon as they arrive. Delegates will greatly assist the Registration Committee by registering promptly.

Those who attend the Convention are asked to inspect the plan of the Convention Church as to its arrangement for the Sunday School, class rooms, etc. Nothing is too good for the Sunday School and no sacrifice too great for the religious instruction of the boys and girls. This is evidenced by the vision of those who entertain this convention, and it is hoped that this vision may be carried all over the county. Pastors, Superintendents, Officers, Teachers, Workers and Members—it is in your hands to make this convention a success by attending and cooperating. You have all the time there is, so don't delude yourself with that wornout excuse. Come and profit by the good program the Committee has prepared for you and by so doing accept the challenge on the printed program, "It can be done."

The report is persistent that the Virginia State Road Commission has decided to build the road from Monterey to the West Virginia line by the way of Back Creek and Frost.

Albert Curry got a big deer on Alleghany mountain Tuesday. Another was killed on Spice Run, and one on Beaver Creek. Some one killed a doe and a fawn on Middle Mountain of Elk. The game wardens got the deer, but the man is still at large The deer were sold at the com missary at Laurel Bank.

OF SUCH IS THE KINGDOM

ANNA L. PRICE

Ye pilgrims traveling Zionward,
Upon the King's highway
Oh let us talk together,
In the quiet of the day.

Come with me to a southern land,
Where nature's flowers are fine,
And a Lilly of the Valley,
A flower of grace divine.

She was a witness for the Truth,
Meek, loving, lowly, mild,
More simply to desbribe her,
Only a Christian child.

The months flew by, dire sickness came,
And it grew worse each day,
Till the doctor gravely shook his head
And our sad heart answered 'nay'

"Can you not stay longer dear
In this place of our abode?"
She faintly smiled and softly said,
"I am going home to God!"

'Just pray a little prayer for me,
And tell the girls good bye
Myrtilla, Emma and you, Miss R.—
For I am going to die!"

"Jesus, my Savior! Look behold!"
Earth's cloud was dark and drear:
Our eyes were holden. we could not see,
But we felt that He was near.

Her father stood, his eyes were wet,
With raised hand uttered then—
"God gave and now, God takes away, Blessed be God." Amen.

Years and years have rolled since then,
But it seems like yesterday,
That Jesus came down in love and took
Our little friend away!

Her name was Rose Hunnicutt and and her age at death was thirteen years. The scene and place, a large boarding school in Southern Virginia where she was a scholar and myself a teacher. In her triumph and departure to Heaven, surely God wrought. A. L. P.
1859--1923

STILL CAPTURED

Captain R F. Beasley, deputy United States Marshall, and officers Lincoln Cochran, E W. Cochran and Clyde Cochran captured a moonshine still and outfit at the William Coulter place on Spice Run, last Friday. They arrested Miss Edna Bond, her brother Frank Bond and Luther Trimble. The prisoners were before United States Commsssioner A. E Smith, and were held for the Federal grand jury. They were committed to the Summers county jail at Hinton. The outfit consisted of a metal oil barrel of about twenty gallons capacity. The "worm" a straight piece of three quarter iron pipe with a copper lining. About seventy gallons of mash was destroyed. Four or five stone furnaces were found where runs had been made. Corn meal sacks found on the premises showed that the meal had been purchased in Marlinton and Huntersville. The Bonds are from Greenbrier County. Trimble comes from Monterey.

To date there has been two hundred and twenty-five farmers aigned up as members of the Pocahontas Farm Bureau on a three year basis at $10 a year. The campaign is still on and new members are being signed up each day. A meeting for the election of officers and to transact other business has been called to to meet at the High School in Marlinton, on Saturday, November 3, at two o'clock. It is expected that H S. Vandevoort, of the Extension Department of the University, will be present and speak on the farmers' cooperative warehouse movement.

One of the most pleasant social events of the season was a reception given Tuesday night, October 30, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H Donnally, on Court street, to about seventy-five of their friends. An offering to the amount of the number of inches of the length of the guest at one cent per inch was required, to be applied on the Methodist Church building fund. Delightful refreshments were served.

DURBIN

The county road roller is in town now and is making some nice road toward the west prong of Greenbrier river. It is a great improvement for our town.

W. A. Gladwell of Greenbank, was a recent business visitor in town.

Cecil Houchin has returned from a trip to Clarksburg and other points in the western part of the state.

A. T. Carpenter is very sick at his home here.

W. D. Slavin is here now selling out his store good so he can devote all of his time to farming.

Glen Galford loaded a big lot of Potatoes last week. He raised about 700 bushels of potatoes this year.

J. R Simmons has completed a fine building in our town.

Mrs William Sleek, of Marlinton spent Sunday with friends here.

C. E. Eades has a fine radio in his house now.

Honor Roll for Slaty Fork School, first month, Dock R. Hannah, teacher.—Archie Gibson, Arlie Hannah. Luther Sharp, Lulie Galford, Eva Hannah, Louise Judy, Leola Simmons

---

A number of Modern Woodmen gathered at the home of J. A. Young Monday and shucked out his corn. Mr. Young has been sick all summer.

Married, Tuesday October, 23, 1923 James M. Bear and Mrs. Minnie B. Cochran.

LEWISBURG DISTRICT NEW CHURCH AT MARLINTON

The new Methodist Church at Marlinton, which has been under construction for the past two years, is nearing completion. Arrangements are being made for the opening services to be held Sunday. October 21, which will be conducted by Bishop Darlington. This church when completed will rank among the best churches in the Conference. costing about $85,000 Rev. J. H. Billingsley, the pastor, and his entire congregation are to be congratulated upon the splendid work which they have done to carry to completion the work started by Rev. F. B. Wyand and to make this building possible. It was a stupendous task for so small a congregation, and it took real heroes to inaugurate the work and keep it going to completion

Rev. Mr. Billingsley believes in keeping up the tithers movement begun by the Centenary, and on Tuesday night, September 25, assisted by the presiding elder, Rev. W. O. Talbert, and E. C Eagle, of Hinton organized a Tithers' League At the close of the two inspiring addresses made by the visiting brothers, 57 members of the church came forward and joined the League. The pastor means to push this matter until at least one hundred members have joined in the good work. If every church in the Conference would follow this example and secure a third of their membrship for tithing, it would go far toward solving all the difficult financial problems of the Church.

This response to our appall to tithers was the most generous we have witnessed and we are looking forward to the next Conference to hear the finest report from this church in its history.—E C. Eagle, Baltimore Southern Methodist.

Mr. Editor:—Perhaps some of the readers of your paper would be interested in the training camp for boys. Anyway I'll try to write some about them.

Early last spring I filled out an application for entrance to the Civilians Military Training Camp at Camp Knox, Kentucky. In a short time I received a letter of acceptance and I immediately began making preparations for the trip. The most inportant part of the the preparations, or the part that concerned me most was getting vaccinated for smallpox and inocculated for typhoid fever. This caused me to have to stay out of the river and off the tennis courts for over a month.

Three other boys and myself left Martinsburg, West Virginia, Wednesday evening, July 25, for Camp Knox. We arrived at our destination the next evening on a special train with a large crowd of other fellows, all seeking military training. That training began at once. We had to march a mile from the depot to the camp, carrying our suit cases. We then formed a line to receive our first first army supper, which consisted of sandwiches, ice cream blocks and cold tea. We ate all of the sandwiches we wanted and threw the rest away The papers from around the ice cream blocks were scattered profusely over the ground. While waiting for orders a trim khaka clad fellow came along and asked for a dozen good men. I and about twenty-five other deluded fellows responded eagerly for it seemed an honor to be classed as good men. The officer grinned when he saw so many of us volunteer. He then then put us to work polising up the area, or in other words, made us pick up all the paper, every cigarette stub, all burnt matches, and all the parts of the sandwiches that we had so carelessly thrown away.

When we had finished our work and got back in line the crowd was moving forward into a large building. In that building we got a card assigning us to some particular company or regiment. Three of our crowd were lucky enough to be assigned to the same company but the other fellow had been there before and had signed up for the field artillery.

We moved on to another larger building where we had to undergo a pretty thorough physical examination and several fellows who had weak hearts, hollow chests or were under sized or showed symptons of infectious disease were turned back and sent home.

Next we folded up our civilian clothing and put it in paper bags which we checked at the next building. At that building we passed through a long aisle and as we passed along we were handed our goverment clothing and necessities. When we emerged from the other end of the building we furnished a ludicrous looking spectacle, for some of the fellows had not put any of the clothing on, but had stuffed everything into a large barrack bag. Some had put on their hats and shoes. Some were wearing raincoats and some were dressed in full uniforms.

By the time we had received the necessary suppies and had marched quite a distance for straw for our mattresses, then made up our bunks, in was quite late and we were all very tired.

Our regular drilling began in the morning, but we did not have to work so very hard for a few days. The rifles had to be cleaned and we had to listen to frequent lectures on military courtesy and other important subjects.

I will not take space to tell you all about the guard duty, rifle practice, kitchen police duty, and all the other details of camp life. But one thing that impressed me particularly was the speedy way in which everything was done. We had to move twice and the whole company of about one hundred and eighty-five men were moved and located in another place in much less time than a regular civilian would require to pack a trunk

There were three thousand two hundred fellows at Camp Knox, nearly one thousand of whom were from West Virginia which was about twice the quota from this State. Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky were the other states that were represented there. The camp consisted of thirty-two thousand acres of land.

Besides the C. M. T. C. boys there were several regular soldiers and some National Guards.

This camp is run by the Government for the purpose of teaching a little military training. Candidates are given five cents for each mile traveled in going to and coming from the camp, and clothes and food are furnished as long as the training continues. The food was fairly good and all of us profited by the regular hours and exercise. Besides the trip being healthy, it is a good thing for one to mingle with boys from all paths of life. Some of the fellows did not like camp life but I did, and plan to go again if possible. The training lasts about a month and any one desiring information about the camp can obtain it by watching for notices in the local papers next spring.

Delbert L. Gillispie.
Arbovale, W. Va.

THE HUNTERS

Hark, hark, the dogs do bark: the hunters are leaving the town: some in rags, all with tags, and most in khaki brown.

George W. Sharp, chief deputy game protector of the state, estimates that between 1500 and 2,000 out of the county hunters were in Pocahontas the opening day of the deer season. Fully 150 hunters on Spice Run alone.

Pocahontas has not experienced a similar armed invasion since Averills raid in the days of the civil war. There are men and guns enough to start a Mexican war.

A hardware dealer estimates his sale of high powered rifle amunition at 25,000 rounds. Every known make of rifle from the days of Abraham Lincoln to the present has to be provided for. The local dealer could supply all comers until a man brought in a German military gun, some sort of a Minnewherfeur, or letters to that effect, which nothing was found to fit.

There are lots of State Police and Game Protectors around. They are stationed at every cross roads, and they are ranging the woods too. This writer raised the point with a high up game protector that all the deer of these mountains had lived all their lives with Pocahontas people and come safely through this far without any bad luck befalling them without the protection afforded by an army, and how come they needed so much more protection in the open season than in the closed period of five years. The reply was that the whole State and his dog was contemplating a visit to the Pocahontas county deer woods, and they were the people who needed watching. If we thought we had game protectors, we ought just to see the cordon which was being thrown the edge of the black forest from Richwood to Hendricks.

The open season for deer commenced on Tuesday, October 30, and ends Saturday, November 10, both days included.

On Monday County Clerk S. L. Brown issued $108 worth of hunting licenses. He could not get his dinner until 3 p. m. so great was the rush. Three non-resident licenses were written.

A stranger giving his name as E Cecil Montgomery was killed in a mine accident at Uniontown, Ky. He claimed his parents, wife and four year old son lived in Summers county. There is $4,000 compensation money due his heirs when located.

The above is taken from the Fayette Tribune. Last week County Clerk S L. Brown received notice that the unfortunate man, E. Cecil Montgomery, was Ray Shrader yf Pocahontas county. He changed his name when he escaped from the penitentiary about a year ago.

On Monday afternoon, October 15, 1923, at the parsonage of the M. E. Church in Ronceverte, Miss Garcie M McCormick, of Union, Monroe county, and Mr. Thomas B. Meadows of Summers county, were united in marriage, Rev. W. A. Grogg officiating. The bride is a daughter of the late Mr. Lloyd McCormick of Union and recently has been living with relatives in Marlinton. Their friends wish the young couple happiness and good fortune. Mr. and Mrs. Meadowr will make their home at Marlinton.—Monroe Watchman.

At Wesley Chapel Methodist Church, Hillsboro, on next Sunday at 7:30 p. m. Mr. E. C. Eagle, prosecuting attorney of Summers County, will give an address on Christian Stewardship. Mr. Eagle is a native of Pocahontas county and for many years lived near Hillsboro. It is hoped that a large congregation will be present to hear this active layman on so important a theme.

Our friend David Dean from Seebert, was here Tuesday. He is an old time deer hunter, but the fever is not very high on him yet. Like lots of the rest of us, he is not very particular about going into the deer woods with so many raw hunters armed with high power rifles.

Special On Flour

For ten days you can book a barrel or two of FLOUR with us at a SPECIAL PRICE. FLOUR is not off generally, but we want to give you a chance to get your winter's flour at a right price, Every pound guaranteed.

"THE PEOPLES STORE"
Marlinton, West Virginia

Buick Open Cars are Stormtight

Perfect protection is provided from rain and wind. The lower frame of the windshield fits into a permanent rubber grommet. Moulded rubber seals every joint between the frames and posts. At the top a new weatherstrip, steel reinforced, excludes all air that might enter between the windshield and top, and side curtains button to the windshield, instead of the posts, covering the slight crack between them.

In addition to these and numerous other refinements, Buick four-wheel brakes afford a greater degree of safety on all models.

B-14-15-NP

Marlinton Electric Company

THE motoring public has been emphatic in its approval of the new Ford Four-Door Sedan. In all parts of the country its stylish appearance and inviting interior have brought the car instantly into great demand.

Now, at its reduced price, it presents a more compelling value than ever. Although better looking, roomier, easier riding, it is listed at forty dollars less.

$685.00 f. o. b. Detroit

This good-looking, comfortable, and dependable Ford selling at this low price offers an agreeable solution to your closed car problems.

These cars can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan.

Goodsell Utility Company
Durbin, West Virginia

Ford
CARS · TRUCKS · TRACTORS

Workmen are taking down the old Methodist church. It has been sold to the Brush Flat people for a union ohurch of the Methodist Protestant and United Brethren congregations.

BOX SUPPER

There will be a box supper at the Bucks Run School House on November 3rd, at 8 p. m. Everybody invited to come and have a good time.

The Womans, Christian Temperance Union will meet at the home of Mrs. V. M. Loudermilk Wednesday afternoon, November 7, at 2:30 o clock

---

The sixteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Perry, died at his home near Dunmore last Saturday, October 23, 1923, ofter a short illness of pneumonia. Burial at Dunmore Sunday afternoon, the services being conducted by Rev. Fred Gray of Cass.

HANLINE BROS.
LEAD AND ZINC
READY MIXED PAINT
GUARANTEED

AS PURE AS PAINT CAN BE MADE

FOR SALE BY DEALERS EVERYWHERE

Dealers Supplied By
S. B. WALLACE & CO.
Marlinton, W. Va.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, Editor.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1923

Old Cervus, the buck deer, goes bounding along like a golf ball, during these days of peril, and the bullets cut around him like the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune. He has to run the gauntlet.

But most of the deer are going to survive the ordeal, for the reports of tragedies in the woods come in very slowly. This means that few are being destroyed, or else the killing of a deer is a neighborhood secret, the penalty of divulging it being another neighborhood secret.

Shakespeare speaks of a deer and the big round tears that coursed one another down his innocent nose in piteous chase. That must have been another kind of a deer from the ones in these woods for here they go elsewhere without delay.

In the deep valley of the Elk River two law abiding hunters jumped a doe and a fawn out of a thicket and allowed them to go unharmed. They crossed over a small spur and three shots rang out. The two hunters followed and found both deer dead, and they began to read the signs, being in mood to arrest the hunter who was responsible if he could be found. It was a clear case of cervicide, and they pursued the same tactics in searching for clews that would have been used if it was a case of homicide. They found three empty shot gun shells showing that the hunter had stood on a little mound and got one deer at about thirty feet and the other at fifteen feet. Though it was a very few minutes after the crime that they reached the spot, the man had time to cover the fawn with leaves, but he had been frightened away before the body of the doe could be hid Nearby they came upon a man taking a drink at a spring, but he was cleared by the fact that he carried a rifle. This man reported having passed a stranger just about the the place of the shooting, but he could not give a very definite description of him further than that he flaunted a Charlie Chaplin mustache, so they went on the hunt for a tufted man. In a very short time after that the state police and a game warden were there. The game warden gave it as his opinion that any man who would wear that kind of a mustache would be capable of crime. As I understand it, these tufts of hair on the upper lip look like malignant growths immediately under the nose, and appear to have been left through oversight or on account of the razor having been taken away before the shaving operations were finished. So the word was passed up and down the the river to look for a man with an abortive mustache, or one who had two white spots on his upper lip about the size of a dime, where such disfiguring marks had been recently removed. But so far as I have heard, he made good his escape. The man drinking at a spring thought that if he ever saw the man again that he could identify him.

The officers brought in the carcasses and sold them for the benefit of the State at the Laurel Bank commissary. They netted the public exchequer something like eighteen dollars after paying the cost and expense of the middlemen employed to transport them to market.

No one will ever know how many men took guns and went to the woods on the bare chance of killing a deer during the period of twelve days, or ten working days, when the law was lifted. Everyone however says thousands for Pocahontas County alone. They one and all passed silently into the shelter of the woods, and the woods closed upon them and so far as the dwellers in the towns could tell there was no change in the silent, solid forrests. Around this town even the noise of the guns of hunters of small game was silenced owing no doubt to the sportsmen being deeper in the wilderness after bigger game.

October was one of the dryest months ever experienced in this part of the country. Only an inch and a half of rain all told. The woods were powder dry. It speaks well for the the great concourse of hunters that no great forest fire has been reported. It seems that they must have protected the country from fire for one was due any moment. It looks like the wet season has set in now, and it is possible that there will be no bad burnings in the mountains this year.

Eight men of the Knapps Creek Valley made up a hunt one morning last week. They went up into the main Allegheny, which rises from the valley. The mountain reaches down to the creek bottoms in long spurs, and and it is a good country for deer. The State line is on the crest of the mountain. They startled a deer and they must have scared him considerably, for he appeared to several of the hunters and they took hasty and ineffectual shots at him, and he was all but out of danger when he passed in sight of Col. W. G. Ruckman, the oldest man of the hunting party. And that was a fatal move. The singing bullet caught the the buck in mid air and he fell like a bird shot on the wing. This was the biggest deer killed in the county. It weighed dressed 182 pounds and had a head of horns of five points on each beam. The eight hunters divided up the meat and each one got a liberal supply.

But most of the reports that come into the county seat are to the effect that somebody saw a buck deer with a basket on his head and that the word was passed around through the community and they gathered and took stands and that nothing more was seen of the deer.

There is one feature about deer hunting that might provoke a saint to break the law, and that is to crave to kill a deer and then finding one, discover that it is a doe or a fawn that could not be killed lawfully. It is almost more than a man can bear. This craving to kill a deer is an inherited taint. Through many generations of deer hunters, there develops the congenital attribute that forces a man to kill a deer, just as some men are doomed from their birth to some time or other to shed human blood. And so if a man being possessed of a devil that tormented him to kill a deer, is suddenly confronted with overwhelming temptation and shoots and kills a deer without horns, could he not plead the law of the brain storm and temporary insanity, and irresistible impulse and unwritten law? And should not the justice of the peace recognize the human frailty and be merciful?

There is one feature of the present game law that might arise at any time that will cause much scratching of the judicial head and the exercise of the logical mind, and that is that while the law is that a buck must have horns to be slain legally, there are many incidents accumulated throughout the ages of large bucks being killed that had no horns. My guess would be that upon a liberal construction of the law that such a deer, if an old deer, would not be protected by the loss of the horns, for the reason that the very fact that he had no horns indicated that he was useless for all purposes and that he cumbered the ground.

The distinguishing mark of deer as a species is the deciduous horn, that is the horns that are shed each year, and grow back larger that ever. The existence of these horns in deer is closely related to its powers of reproduction, and if a buck deer be castrated this process as to shedding or growing horns immediately ceases It may occur that the horns may never again be shed, or being shed that they never will grow again. In like manner a doe, if suffering from diseased ovaries, may grow a set of horns. Every old time hunter of forty years ago could tell of big fat bucks without horns being killed.

Some years ago a writer came out and said that our Virginia deer was not a deer but an antelope, and being prone to believe everything that I see in print, I believed him and went about spreading the news that a deer was not a deer but an antelope, but I got straightened out on the subject again and I can assure you that it is not an antelope.

There are two things that mark the deer and classify them: First that the bucks have horns that are shed each year, and the second common trait is that the fawns are all spotted The Virginia deer qualifies under both points and that is something beyond question. Darwin made a great point about the fawns of the numerous deer all being spotted. I forget just what he proved by it in evolution but it was something very wonderful that no matter how far apart the different kind of deer might get in the course of their growth that the young were all more or less uniformly spotted. Something about the habits and habitat of the grown up deer influencing the succeeding generations. Thus in the old time drinking days all babies were born with nice noses that did not get red until after forty years.

I believe this is the fourth editorial that I have written on the subject of the deer this fall, and I feel that the excitement over the subject is justification for a series of sermons. I think it was a touch of the old time deer fever. It broke out in a virulent form in some of my contemporaries, so that they armed themselves and left friends and fireside to wander in the howling wilderness ready to shoot at a drop of the hat. With me, it only caused a flow of words on the typewriter. Like the old hunter that "talks as familiarly of roaring lions as maids of thirteen do of puppy dogs!"

But the times are changed from the days when a settler without losing any material time from the gathering of his crops could get a couple of dozen deer in the fall with an old mountain rifle, whereas the modern hunter with a repeating long distance gun finds it hard work to get any.

The old rule of the farmer-hunter was to get up about three o'clock in the morning and get himself a warm breakfast by the fire place, and take his gun and ammunition and walk some miles into the forest. At the break of day he would be on some distant ridge walking silently along and generally finding a deer just under the crest of the mountain. The deer was shot and toted in and a fair day's work done on the farm. And then the next morning the day's program would be the same. An old timer told me that he got eighteen deer in this way one fall and was not away from home over night, and did not miss much time from his farm work.

I think I have referred to the incident of the Kentucky wilderness hunters before. They were wintering in that country getting together a lot of hides. The weather turned warm and the hides did not keep. One of the hunters carved on a tree a legend that was read for many years thereafter: "2300 deer skins lost ruination by God!"

And I feel like saying: "2300 deer hunters in the woods, and news is scarce."

The Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia has recently decided a case of great importance to teachers, and that is that they may be employed for another year and contracted with, prior to the beginning of the school year. The school year begins on the 1st day of July and ends on the 30th day of June following. The terms of office of the members of the boards of education and the county superintendent begin on July 1 after the election. During the present year of 1922, the boards as constituted changed as of July 1, two new members coming in and one holding over. In a good many districts in the State, a dispute arose between the out going board and the incoming board as to the right to designate the teachers for the current year. In some districts the new boards might have been elected on the issue of certain teachers holding over, and in such cases the old board forestalled action on the part of the new officials by meeting and electing teachers for important schools, leaving the new board to sit and look pretty and pay the very teachers that they were so anxious to throw out of office. A couple of test cases found their way to the Supreme Court, and many other districts throughout the state waited for the interpretation of the law. The opinion was handed down August 30, but was not printed until much later.

It was not such a live question in Pocahontas county for we are a very polite people here and as the years go by seem to progress and live more and more unto righteousness and falter forwards to sanctification. So the outgoing boards conferred with the incoming boards and agreed upon the teachers.

It is a weak place in the law that no matter how important a teacher may be, he can be employed for but one year at a time, and this prevents most teachers from making permanent improvements and setting up homesteads in the school districts in which they happen to be employed. Under the law in force a few short years ago they could not be employed until the third Monday in July. But the new school code changed that and provided that they should be employed before July 1. So that if a teacher had given satisfaction it was possible to settle the question of his re-employment for another year before his school closed, and that was a wise law. For a teacher if left to run loose was apt to file a large number of applications in order to be sure of a job. And he was just as apt to be elected to a number of them and as he could accept but one, a great confusion arose, and the schools found teachers in a haphazard sort of a way that was very annoying to all concerned.

This decision clears up the law. Most of the schools will wind up the year in April or May, and at that time or before, the teacher may be employed to teach another year and not be kept in a state of uncertainty for months and not know whether to plant a garden or not.

The decision also refers to the question of trustees for the sub-districts. It refers to the fact that under the old law, the board appointed trustees for each sub-district who were required to employ teachers. Under the new law the board may but is not required to appoint trustees and the opinion states that boards now seldom do appoint such trustees.

I do not know how the local people regard it, but it seems to me that the question of teachers should be left with the board of education for it so often happens that the trustees fail to secure a teacher on the first round and the board and county superintendent are called upon to find a teacher for a school, and they do not know it as soon as they ought to, in order that the schools be properly manned for the year. There are calls for teachers still coming in. It would be much better if the boards of education knew that they would have to find teachers and were given a chance to get to work on it before the school year opened.

Another thing, it takes an expert accountant to fix salaries under the new law, and if the secretary of the board was able to get his list of teachers made up before the school year opened, he would have a better chance to get his list of teachers in shape, and he could report at the levy term almost the exact amount that would be required to pay them. As it is now, only a rough estimate can be made for the board.

The expenditures for schools are so enormous that if they continue at even the present rate, it will not be long until the law will recognize the lowest salaried officers are charged with the most responsibility, and that it will be necessary to create a more comprehensive system to get better results for the vast sums of money collected and disbursed. It may result in better schools and fewer schools. In fine school houses with a house for the teacher as a part of the plant, and for contracts with teachers to continue for an indefinite period, or at least longer than one year, so that teaching may in fact become a profession.

WRIGLEY'S

After Every Meal

Have a packet in your pocket for ever-ready refreshment.

Aids digestion.
Allays thirst.
Soothes the throat.

For Quality, Flavor and the Sealed Package, get

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT THE PERFECT GUM MINT LEAF FLAVOR

THE FLAVOR LASTS

For Sale

A limited number of Rose Combed Rhode Island Red cockerels, deep rich color, Tompkins strain, March hatch. $2.50 at farm and $3 at express office if taken by November 15.

C. L. BARLOW.

Edray, W. Va.

Notice

Stanley Hayes, Chiropractor, will be at Cass and Dunmore for one month, beginning October 22. Hours at Cass: (At residence of J. W. Bible) 9 to 12 a. m. and 5 to 8 p. m. and by appointment. Hours at Dunmore: 1 to 3 p. m.

BOX SUPPER

Ladies of the M. E. Church South, will hold a box and pie supper at Huntersville school building on Saturday, November 10. Proceeds to install lights in Huntersville Methodist Church.

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager

HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC

Marlinton, West Virginia.

Money to Loan at 5 1-2 percent

The Pocahontas County Farm Loan Association of Marlinton, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, has money to loan to farmers on farm land, on easy terms.

Call on the undersigned and fill out an application blank.

P. T. WARD, Sec.-Treas.

The Genuine Bruner Suitings

FOR FALL AND WINTER 1923-24 ON DISPLAY

For fine Tailoring, come in and inspect them.

W. A. THIEDE, Tailor

MARLINTON, W. VA.

A share of your business solicited

T. S. McNEEL INSURANCE AND BONDS

Marlinton W. Va.

Successor to Goodsell Insurance Agency

Life, Fire and Accident, Automobiles and Live Stock, Bonds of all kinds, Money to Loan on Farms.

Office 2nd floor, First National Bank Building.

Notice of Trustees Sale

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Trustee, acting pursuant to the authority of a certain deed of trust executed by Allie J. Yeager and C. A. Yeager, her husband, and Robert J Parish and Carrie E. Parish, his wife, to myself as Trustee to secure Isaac McNeel in the payment of a note of $1100.00, dated February 12, 1907, and the interest thereon, which deed of trust bears date the 12th day of February, 1907, and is of record in the office of the Clerk of the County Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in Trust Deed Book No. 4 at page 307, will on the 12th day of November, 1923, at one o'clock p. m. of that day, at the front door of the Court House of Pocahontas County, in the Town of Marlinton, West Virginia, proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder the following real estate, to-wit:

Those certain lots, tracts or parcels of land situate in the Town of Marlinton, West Virginia, known and designated on the proper plat of said Town as Lot No. 3 in Block No. 22, and the Southern half of Lot No. 2 in Block No. 22, and known as the residence property of Marie Duncan.

Terms of Sale: Sufficient cash on day of sale to pay the costs of executing this trust, the debt secured by the same and the interest thereon, and any taxes and insurance paid on the said property; and for the residue of the purchase money a credit of one and two years will be given, the purchaser to execute his interest bearing notes with good personal security for such deferred payments, and the legal title to the said property will be retained as further security, the grantors in said trust deed not having designated the terms upon which the said real estate shall be sold.

Given under my hand this 5th day of October 1923.

T. S. McNeel, Trustee.

Cockerels For Sale

S. C. White Leghorns, R. I. Reds, Barred Rocks, White Wyandotte, and Shepherd Anconas. All from pure bred high egg producing pedigreed stock. Prices ranging from $1.50 to $2.50 according to color, type and size.

Oak Crest Poultry Farm

Mill Point, W. Va.

DELCO-LIGHT

"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue

ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES

Marlinton Electric Co.

DEALERS

FISK TIRES

C. J. Richardson

Marlinton, W. Va.

Notice of Trustee's Sale

Pursuant to authority vested in us by the deeds of trust hereinafter mentioned, to wit: A deed of trust dated August 25, 1915, executed by A. Klinebell and Nannie J. Klinebell, his wife, to W. R. Moore, Trustee, to secure C. P. Adams, of record in the office of the clerk of the county court of Pocahontas county, West Virginia, in trust deed book number 9 at page 193; a deed of trust dated March 24, 1920, executed by A. Klinebell, widower, to G. W. Sharp, Trustee, to secure C. P. Adams, of record in said office in trust deed book number 11 at page 403: and a deed of trust dated June 3, 1922, executed by A. Klinebell and Mary S. Klinebell, his wife, to G. W. Sharp, Trustee to secure C. P. Adams, of record in said office in trust deed book number 12 at page 264, the undersigned trustees,

on Monday, November 19, 1923

between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., at the front door of the court house of said Pocahontas county, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder the following described real estate situate at Clover Lick in said county, consisting of dwelling house and out buildings and six or seven acres of land described in the first named deed of trust as follows, to-wit:

A lot from W. H. Barnes and wife, a lot from Isaac Daughterty and wife, another lot from W. H. Barnes and wife, another lot from Isaac Daughterty and wife, another lot from Isaac Daughterty and wife, reference is made to said deeds of trust for a fuller and more complete description of said lands.

This is the property now occupied by the family of said A. Klinebell.

Terms of Sale—One third cash on day of sale, and the residue upon a credit of one and two years from day of sale, the purchaser executing notes with good personal security, bearing interest, the title to be retained as ultimate security.

G. W. SHARP, Trustee
W. R. MOORE, Trustee

NOTE: By a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County entered on the 24th day of October, 1923, Andrew Price was appointed trustee in the room and stead of W. R. Moore, resigned.

Farm For Sale

Nice stock farm of 212 acres, 4 miles from good railroad town, in sight of school and churchs, on R F. D. Nearly half this farm is nice bottom, can work entire farm with tractor, about 70 acres timber. If you want a good home this is it. Price $10.000 1-3 cash, balance long terms.

J. L. McDonald,

Goshen, Va.

Notice to Tax Payers

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Sheriff of Pocahontas County will attend in person or by deputy at the following time and place for the purpose of collecting taxes due:

GREENBANK DISTRICT

Thornwood....Nov. 1, in morning
Bartow.........Nov 1, in afternoon
Durbin...........Nov 2
Hosterman......Nov 3, in morning
Nottingham....Nov 3, in afternoon
Cass...............Nov 5 and 6
Spruce............Nov 6 at night
Raywood.........Nov 7, after 4 p. m.
Boyer.............Nov 10
Arbovale.........Nov 12
Greenbank.......Nov 13
Dunmore.........Nov 14

I will visit the taxpayers of Wildell and May in person before the end of the discount period.

EDRAY DISTRICT

Stony Bottom......Nov 8, till noon
Cloverlick....Nov 8, afternoon, night
Onoto.........Nov 23, until 3 p. m.
Mace..........Nov 12, in morning
Brady..........Nov 12, in afternoon
Linwood......Nov 13, until 2 p. m.
Slatyfork Commissary, Nov 13, after 4 p. m., and Nov 14 until 10 am
Elk, Robt Gibson's, Nov 14, afternoon
Edray..........Nov 10
Buckeye........Nov 24
Marlinton......Nov 26, 27, 28

HUNTERSVILLE DISTRICT

Frost..............Nov 5
Minnehaha Sprgs..Nov 6
Huntersville......Nov 7
Clawson...........Nov 8

LITTLE LEVELS DISTRICT

Droop Mt., Wallace Kershner, Nov. 5
Locust............Nov 6, in morning
Beard.............Nov 6, in afternoon
Seebert...........Nov 7
Millpoint..........Nov 8
Hillsboro..........Nov 9
Lobelia............Nov 10
Jacox..............Nov 12

With the exceptions of dates listed above, books will be found at the following places:

Greenbank District, B. B. Beard's, Bartow
Edray District, in office, Marlinton
Huntersville District, at Elmer Moore's, Minnehrha Springs
Little Levels District, at T. A. Bruffey's, Hillsboro.

A discount of 2 1-2 percent will be made to all persons who pay their taxes on or before the 30th day of November, 1923. Interest the rate of 10 percent per annum on the amount of each tax bill will be added thereto from the first day of January, 1924, until payment.

B. B. BEARD, S. P. C.

Notice

All persons having claims against the estate of Andrew Adkison will please present the same to me properly proven, at once, and any one owing his estate please come forward and settle.

N. C. McNEIL, Adm'r.
of Andrew Adkison, Deceased.

Oct. 2, 1923; 4wks.

Farm for Sale

26 acres of good productive land, a fine young orchard of 138 trees, now in bearing, good barn, 5 room plastered house, good crops now on place. 2 good milk cows, about 150 chickens. good well on place. All farming tools goes with place posession at once. Opposite Store, Nottingham, W. Va. Write or come and see

H. F. McAVAN,
Nottingham, W. Va

For Sale

Good Home At Bargain Price.

50 acres $3,600. Excellent buildings wates in house and barn, large orchard, some machinery. This house is in first class condition. Also 90 acre; stock, tools, poultry, bees, machinery and part of crops, only $7000. Part cash; easy terms. Catalog free.

P. L. WILLIAMS,
Hartstown, Pa.

Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons who have accounts against the estate of the late J. E. McLaughlin to present them properly proven to the undersigned administrator at his office at Dunmore W. Va.

This 9th of October 1923.

O. L. McLaughlin
Administrator of J. E. McLaughlin deceased.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

No Trespassing

All persons are warned not to hunt, trap, fish or trespass in any other manner on the lands of the undersigned on Clover Creek and at Stony Bottom, and the Hevener land on Back Mountain.

U. H. & J. M. Hannah.

Notice

No hunting, no trespassing in any way on the lands of the undersigned.

Samul Kee & Hunter Kee.

Dec. 1

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of the late Mrs. Annie Echard to present them proven according to law to the undersigned administrator at his residence at Hosterman, W. Va. All persons owing said estate will please prepare to settle at once.

This 17th of October 1923.

Zack Cassell
Estate of Mrs. Annie Echard deceased.

N. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specially of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

CHARLES SHINABERRY
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
All calls given prompt attention.

A. SHARP
AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
Phone Marlinton Central.

W. A. BARLOW
OLD RELIABLE AUCTIONEER
Onoto, W. Va.
All calls answered.

Wm. O. RUCKMAN
LICENSED AUCTIONEER
Millpoint, West Virginia
A young man with the goods

Z. S. Smith

Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

Dr. CHAS. S. KRAMER
DENTIST
Marlinton, W. Va
First National Bank Building
Office hours 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. or appointment. All work guaranteed

Baxter's Garage

MARLINTON W. VA.
FORD Cars and Supplies
FORDSON Tractors
A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.
I. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Picoting and Hem-Stitching

All orders promptly filled.
Mrs. J. E. BUCKLEY,
Marlinton, W. Va.

WHEN IN DURBIN
VISIT
CENTRAL CAFE
H. F. HYER, Mgr.

Application for Pardon

Notice is hereby given that on or about the 25th day of October 1923, an application will be filed with A. G. Jenkins, pardon Attorney, Charleston, W. V., for the pardon of Roy Houchin convicted of the crime of second degree murder at the April term, 1922, of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County and sentenced to imprisonment in the West Virginia Penitentiary for the period of sixyears.

Oakland Six Touring Car

$945

Glass Enclosed Comfort for only $60 more

For only $60—we will equip any True Blue Oakland Touring Car with a new Glass Enclosure designed by the factory and built to fit perfectly with Oakland's new type permanent top and its weather-tight windshield.

This Glass Enclosure is quickly installed and absolutely rattle-proof. Only your eyes can tell you how perfectly it fits, how fine it looks, and what a high degree of closed car comfort it offers for the cold and stormy days ahead.

See this Enclosure installed on a True Blue Oakland Touring Car or Roadster—the car with the highly developed six-cylinder engine, the sound and simple four-wheel brakes and the centralized controls. See it today—its utility and value will truly amaze you!

Touring . . $945
Roadster . . 945
Sport Touring 1095
Sport Roadster 1095

Glass Enclosures
Touring Models $60
Roadsters . . 40

Oakland

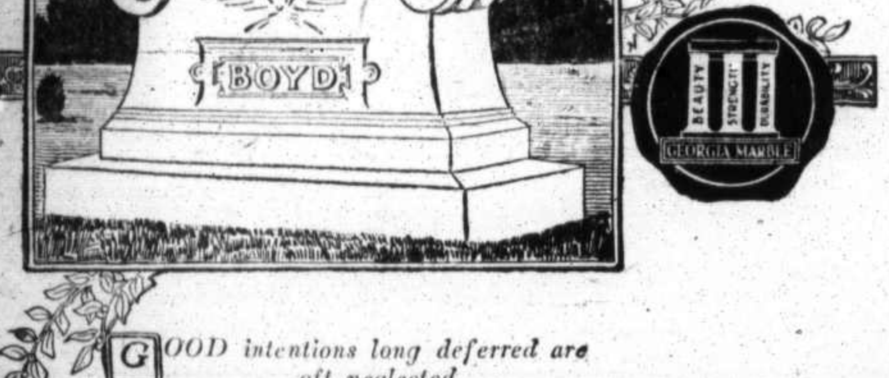
Business Coupe $1195
Coupe for Four 1345
Sedan . . . 1395

Prices f. o. b. Pontiac
Government Tax Additional

A Product of General Motors

D. W. WILLIAMS

MARLINTON, - - - - - - WEST VIRGINIA



GOOD intentions long deferred are oft neglected

The erection of a final tribute to our loved ones should be given prompt attention. The esteem in which they were held should be evidenced by a fitting memorial.

Care should be taken, however, to select a material which is not only beautiful, but which can retain forever its original beauty.

GEORGIA MARBLE possesses this attribute. It is formed of tiny overlapping crystals, making it non-absorbent and giving it the essential qualities of beauty, strength and durability.

Its beauty and evenness of texture and its adaptability to design, makes GEORGIA MARBLE the ideal monumental material.

We will show you designs for beautiful memorials in GEORGIA MARBLE

SOUTHERN MARBLE & GRANITE CO.

2

GEORGIA MARBLE

See Z. S. SMITH, Our Authorized Agent,
MARLINTON, - - - - - WEST VIRGINIA
For your needs in Monuments and Tombstones. Prices lower than else where work and material guaranteed.

For Sale

Property in the town of Hillsboro consisting of about one acre of ground on which is a 9 room house, good barn, garage and other outbuildings. For particulars apply to

LUTHER FLYNN,
Hillsboro, W. Va.

Rental of a Valuable Grazing Farm

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, entered at the October Term, 1923, the undersigned guardian on

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1923

at 10 a. m., at the front door of the Courthouse of said county, will offer for rent for a period ending on the 4th day of December, 1926, [Three years] a tract of land valuable for grazing and farming, being a tract of 138 acres on Browns Mountain by the Knapps Valley, being the mountain place of the late W. F. Kelley, with the right to reject any and all bids. Said land to be returned at the end of the period in as good condition as it is received; the leasee shall have the landlord's share of one third in the crop of wheat now on the land; the leasee may use any unused rails now on the place for fencing.

TERMS—One-third cash, the residue in two equal payments, notes with good security, bearing interest after maturity, one note due Dec. 4, 1924, and the other note due Dec. 4, 1925.

F. R. HUNTER, Guardian of Ide Kelly, Allie May Kelly and Joe Kelly.

FOR SALE—In Cass one five room house and three good lots, 1 lot has 20 nice fruit trees 4 years old, write or call on W. W. Collins, Cass, W. Va. box 41.

Public Auction Sale

I will offer for sale at public auc tionto the highest bidder on

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1923

at Frost, W. Va., the following—

1 Eagle steel range cook stove. 2 good heating stoves. 6 beds and steads com plete, 1 dresser good as new, 1 cot 1 couch good as new, 1 parlor suit, 2 rocking chairs, lot of other chairs, 30 yards linoleum, 25 yards straw matting, 25 yards rag carpet, sewing machine good as new, 3 large rugs, 3 stand tables, 200 cans fruit, lot of stone jars, lot of aluminum ware, lot of dishes, some potatoes, lot of window shades, and other things too tedious to mention.

Terms made known on day of sale.
Herold, auctioneer

IVIE GAY

Frost, W. Va.

Notice of Dissolution of Corporation

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the stockholders of the Maryland Lumber Company, a corporation created and organized under the laws of the State of West Virginia, held at its office at Hagerstown, in the State of Maryland, on the 25th day of September, 1923, the following resolutions were adopted:

"RESOLVED, By the stockholders of the Maryland Lumber Company that the Board of Directors be, and it is hereby authorized, empowered, ordered and directed to take such legal steps as may be necessary to annul and surrender its charter, and in pursuance of this resolution it is further ordered that this notice be published as required by law."

Given under my hand this 9th day of October. 1923.

J. A. DENISON,
President of said Corporation.

Farm For Sale

A grazing farm of 191 acres, near Woodrow postoffie, all enclosed with wire fence; about 100 acres cleared; good 9-room honse, cement cellar, good barns and other buildings. This is fine grass land, much of it is level. Plenty of water; fruit and timber for farm use. Three young orchards. Convenient to church and school.

T. S. DULANEY.
Woodrow, W. Va.

Farm For Sale

I have a farm consisting of about 65 acres, which I will sell, 1-2 mile from Frost, on the State Road, 1-2 mile from stores, church, and 2 room school building, five room house, with good barn, and other out buildings, good orchard & etc. Price right on easy terms. If interested, call or write me at Frost, W. Va.

Earnest G. Sharp

Turkeys

I have a few Mammoth Goldback Bronze Turkeys unsold yet. These are pedigree turkeys. The flock is headed by a 45 pound tom whose sire cost $50. No better stock turkeys. Toms $10, hens $8. All orders must be in by November 20.

GEO. L. CLARK,
Hillsboro, W. Va.

Turkey Notice

For Sale, Mammoth Bronze Goldenback, Bird Bros. strain, turkeys. Toms and hens not related. Ready for delivery November 15 to Dec. 15

HARRY BIRD,
Millgap, Va.

FOR SALE: Portable sawmill complete with three saw edger, cut off saw, new belting, 30 H. P. engine and 40 H. P. boiler, good 60 inch diston saw and log turner, fine runing condition. Also 5 stacks hay, hay may be seen at W. C. Bussards place near Frost. Price right and good terms on mill and hay. Mitchell Sharp, Dunmore, W. Va.

WANTED—Local representative to assist organization and manage operation of a series of shooting ranges for State organization of Sportsmen. State qualifications first letter. Sportsmans Service Association Central Service Plant, Nitro, W. Va.

FOR SALE—Surplus logging horses at attractive prices. For further information apply; The Meadow River Lumber Co., Rainelle, W. Va.

WANTED—A good girl to do housework for two weeks. Will pay $6 a week.

J. C. VALLANDINGHAM
Lower Camden Ave., Marlinton, WV

TAXIDERMIST. Send me your trophies for correct mounting at reasonable prices. Satisfaction guranteed. W. E Blackhurst, Cass, W. Va.

FOR SALE: A fine Duroc Jersey sow, eligble for registry, or will exchange for a male Duroc Jersey. A lot of fine Barred Rock pullets and cockerels. W. A. Barlow, Onoto, W. Va.

FOR SALE: A Delco Plant in first class condition. Can be seen at Cass Theatre Cass. W. Va., If in need of a up to date light plant this one can be bought right. C. C. Clendenen.

COL. BAXTERS BOOKS

By Clyde H. East, in Charleston Gazette.

In the early years of the eighteenth century, Colonel John Baxter represented the southeastern section of what is new West Virginia in the Virginian legislature. He resided in the little Levels district of Pocahontas county and he owned practically the entire county. In fact, he owned so much land that he went land poor—he was not able to pay the taxes—and he traveled for many years.

Today the direct descendants of Colonel John Baxter are living on the lands he once owned, almost 150 years ago. The descendants own property principally in Edray district of Pocahontas—a county in which there is probably more blue grass than in the entire state of Kentucky.

Colonel Baxter was a fiery character but he was a lover of literature. He had a large library and during the prime of his life he made every effort to secure all the literary classics of the day. His library was large and he took great pride in his collection of books. Living as he did in the wilderness of an unknown section of the country, where the cry of the "painter" mingled with the call of the nightbirds, he spent hours over his books, studying histories, fiction and law books.

W. H. Gilmore, a farmer of Edray district, living near the little village of Onoto, has fallen heir to a part of Colonel Baxter's priceless collection of books. There are books of history fiction and even the first copy of the Virginia code of which there is any record.

Mr. Gilmore keeps the books neatly stacked in a crude ancient trunk, which is covered with panther skin and which has been handed down from father to son for several score of years.

The present owner of the books removed them from their place of keeping a few days ago to show some visitors. The first volume he removed from the trunk was a tattered Bible, with the covers torn off, but in an excellent state of preservation. The fly leaf of the Book revealed that it was printed in Edinburg, Scotland, in the year 1751.

The leaves of the Bible are tightly fastened together and apparently are good for another hundred years or so. There are blank pages in the center of the Book on which have been recorded the births, deaths and marriages in the family. The first birth recorded was that of Colonel John Baxter in 1704, His first son was William Baxter, born 40 years later. There was a daughter born in 1769.

The first code of Virginia was removed from the trunk. Its appearance was much the same as the present day law volumes excepting it was much smaller than even the West Virginia condensed codes.

The first meeting of the Virginia legislature was recorded and laws enacted as early as 1795 were printed in full.

Chapter 1 of the code, the first law enacted by the Virginia assembly, provided that "no crime except first degree murder shall be punishable by death." The penalty for horse stealing and burglary was quite severe, showing the pioneer settlers of the United States did not tolerate stealing. Upon conviction one was imprisoned for a term of from ten to twenty years.

The act creating the Virginia penitentiary was passed on the fifteenth day of December, 1796, according to the code, but was not completed and occupied until 1803. The code printed a copy of an act of 1804 showing the financial standing of the penitentiary The entire cost of operating the prison for the year 1804 was $18,392.28. This included purchase of raw materials, tools, diet clothing, stationery and keepers commissions. During the same year the manufactured articles produced and sold by the inmates of the penitentiary aggregated $16,578,67. There seemed to have been quite a "howl" because the receipts were smaller than the expenses because an investigating committee was appointed. The following year the warden of the penitentiary was more economical, for the manufactured articles were sold for $24,000 and the cost of maintenance was only $22.500. in round figures.

There was a heavy imprisonment for prison breaking. The violation was considered a felony and punishable by penitentiary sentence of five years. Runaway negroes were sold by the sheriff unless their owner claimed them within 30 days after they were found, and a man found labouring on the Sabbath was fined $1.67 for each and every offense.

Negroes were not permitted to carry firearms of any kind and one found with firearms was thrown into prison for indeterminate sentence. Upon release from jail he was given not exceeding 39 lashes.

The code printed excerpts from an old English code which prescribed the punishment for a person charged with felony who stood mute when brought to trial. One who did not defend himself on such occasions, according to the code, shall suffer death without benefit of clergy.

The condemned man, however, was given his choice of death. He could either starve to death or beat his brains out on a stone floor. He was placed on the floor, flat on his back and his legs and arms were stretch to the four corners of the room, tied tightly. The law suggested that rats be turned loose in the room and that a heavy stone be propped on the mans chest.

There was another law book called "The New Virginia Justice," showing the proper legal procedure in 1810. The oath of office was similar to that of the present day, but the person taking the oath was required to kiss the Bible. The same was required of court witnesses.

There were two volumes of "A Tale of the Times," an interesting book of fiction printed in 1790. There was a copy of the New Testament printed in Philadelphia in 1811, and a history of New England published in 1807 in the same city.

W. Sherlock, D. D. a clergyman of Scotland, contributed to the literary world an unique volume, "A Practical Discourse Concerning Death," and it was indicated the book had a wide circulation since the fly leaf showed it had been revised and reissued several times.

A small closely printed book gave The Life of Napoleon Bounaparte as printed in 1810. and there were three volumes of Sermons, by John Willison A. M., late minister of the gospel at Dundee. The latter books were printed in Dnndee in 1766.

Perhaps the most interesting books were the histories and geographies. Tyler's history told about everything from the time the world was created up to the invasion of Spain by France in 1823. There were three volumes of Mosheim's Ecclesiastical History, of 1821, probably purchased by Colonel Baxter's descendants, since the patriarch had passed away before the books were printed.

Morse's Geography gave several interesting facts. For instance, the entire population of the state of New York in 1790 was 33,131. Twenty years later the state had grown by leaps and bounds and the population was 123,706. This growth was described as remarkable rapid. The state of Michigan had 8,896 people in it, while the population of the city of Richmond was 12,007 in 1820. Virginia, as a whole, had a population of 1,065,366. The state was bounded on the north by Pennsylvania, northeast by Maryland, east by Chesapeake bay, south by North Carolina, west by Kentucky and northwest by Ohio. West Virginia had hardly come into existence at that time.

The State of Ohio was the largest west of Virginia, with 581.434 inhabitants. There were 66,586 people in Missouri.

There were many other volumes, all of which are prized highly by Mr. Gilmore.

Between the leaves of the various books were statements of accounts kept at the general store by the members of the family. Tobacco was one of the principal items carried by the store-keepers since practically everything to eat was raised on the farm.

The Gilmore homestead is in a pretty little valley, with towering mountains surrounding it on all sides. Mr. Gilmore told about his grandmother killing a big buck deer with a fence rail when the animal had become crazed by the lack of water. The deer had approached the house in search of a drink. In those days there were many wildcats and panthers, to say nothing of bears and and other wild animals. The women were as handy with the shotgun as the men and they thought nothing of bringing down a savage cat that came too close to the little home.

Mr. Gilmore lives only a short distance from the old Moore homestead, a house which has been standing for more than 150 years. A few miles south of the settlement at Onoto is the hustling town of Marlinton, settled by the pioneers, Marlin and Sewell, when the Virginians pushed westward across the Mountains.

Restaurant For Sale

I offer for sale my profitable restaurant business on Main Street in Marlinton. Fine location and good business, but I must sell on account of my wifes health. Apply to

E. Yokum.

Marlinton, W. Va.

SHEEP ESTRAY

Four sheep strayed from B. B. Beard place at Bartow, about the first of September. Ear marked, two ewes slit in each ear, under bit in right; one ewe, tag in right only with Monroe name on same; one ewe lamb with underbit in right ear only. These sheep were hauled from Monroe Beard's place at Arbovale in crated wagon last spring to Bartow. A reasonable reward is offered.

B. B. BEARD

Bartow, W. Va.

Cafeteria Luncheon at Presbyterian church, Thursday evening, Nov. 8.

Always comfortable and cheery in coldest winter weather with

COLE'S ORIGINAL HOT BLAST HEATER

THE stove that consumes the valuable coal gases by means of its famous Hot Blast Combustion is guaranteed to save one-third your fuel. (See cut).

We unhesitatingly recommend this remarkable heater to those who want the best and most economical stove made. Don't accept a substitute. Let us show you yours today.

C. J. Richardson

Marlinton, West Virginia

SOLDIERS' MEMORIAL TO BE UNVEILED AT PHILIPPI

The Soldiers' Memorial to the memory of the men from Barbour County, who lost their lives in the World War will be unveiled on Armistice Day, Sunday Nov. 11 1923.

Barbour County Post No. 44 of the American Legion, located at Philippi is making preparation for the entertainment of the largest crowd ever in Philippi. The principal address of the day will be delivered by the Hon. John J. Cornwell. State officers of the American Legion will also be present and participate in the ceremonies, which will be of a military nature.

Charleston, W. V,—November 1 Typhoid fever is said to be on the run in the United States at large which has a death rate of about 5 per 100,000 persons, but the battle is still on in West Virginia where the death rate is at least 19. State health officials declare this figure probably below the true rate, because they estimate that only about three-forths of all deaths actually occurring are reported.

Thirty-four fully developed cases of typhoid with more persons showing symptoms of the disease, were reported from Brooke County last week State Health Commissioner Henshaw said yesterday. Four epidemics are known to have occurred in different rural sections of the state within the last two months. Three of the counties had no local health organization to combat the situation.

One outbreak was quickly checked because the county had a fulltime health department, and the health officer and public health nurse lost no time in preventing further spread of the disease. The health officer immediately traced the source of the outbreak to a soda fountain where the person who sold soft drinks had not been "feeling well". His illness was diagnosed as typhoid fever, but not until eight persons had become infected.

There have been isolaced cases here and there in the cities all summer, but the health officials say that much typhoid is fed into the cities from the county. Progressive cities now have water systems which both filter and chlorinate the water, thus making it both clear and safe.

Commissioner Henshaw declares that West Virginia will have to continue to battle typhoid until the communities have safe methods of sewage disposal, because typhoid fever germs are found only in the discharges of human beings. When these germs find their way to the mouths of other persons through the unclean hands of food and drink handlers, sewage seepage into drinking water, and flies, they get into the intestines, multiply there, and finally invade the whole body, causing illness and often death, is the statement of the commissioner.

White Holland Turkeys

Thoroughbred White Holland Turkeys. Fine specimens of this noted breed. Toms $10. hens $8. f. o. b. Express office.
Single Comb Black Minorca cockerels $1.50 each, while they last. Also a few pullets. Both turkeys and Minorcas took first prize at County Fair.

LEVI V. GAY.

Edray, W. Va.

White Wyandottes

Regal Dorcas strains, won grand prize at Pocahontas County Fair; a few cockerels and pullets for sale. Cockerels $2.50; pullets $1.50,

C. W. Auldridge,
4 wks. Millpoint, W. Va.

NOTICE

The following fiduciary account is before me for settlement—

H. C. Skaggs, Administrator of of Uriah Hevener, deceased.

P. T. WARD,
Commissioner of Accounts.

Auction Sale

Of feed and other personal property Friday November 9, 1923, I will sell to the highest bidder at my farm in the Hills four miles from Frost, 18 stacks of hay; fodder fram three acres of land, if not sold before day of sale, prefer feed fed on land, four good milk cows, three yearlings, five good calves, 24 good ewer, 1 8-year old mare good saddler and driver: 1 mowing machine, 1 McCormick rake, 1 tedder, 1 driver chill plow, 1 cultivator, 1 weeder, 1 spike tooth harrow, 1 automatic loom, two grind stones, spreaders, grabs, forks, sled, heating stove, ond bedstead, log chain, saws, airtight jars, airtight fruit, oats stack, 2 sets harness, saddle, apples, potatoes, some household goods and other things.

Sale commences at 10 o'clock a. m.

Terms: $10 and under cash; over ehat amount four months time with interest and approved securiay.

A. L. DILLEY.

Barlow, Auctioneer.

Public Auction

We will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder on

Saturday November 17, 1923

two miles from Hillsboro, W. Va., the following:

1 gray team horses wt. 2800, gray mare wt. 1000, 1 bay saddle mare, 1 white face cow with calf by side, 1 thoroughbred Jersey, milking, one half Jersey, one spotted cow; 4 sets heavy harness and collars; 1 No. 3 Conklin wagon, I rock bed, 1 pair heavy ladders, 1 40 foot extension ladder, 1 Wilburn saddle and bridles, halters and straps, log chains, tie chains, butt chains, spreaders, and singletrees, grabs, couplers, grab mauls. 1 E 1. Oliver chill plow, 1 double shovel plow, 1 single shovel plow, 1 50 tooth iron harrow, 1 set block and rope and short ropes. One corn sheller, 2 grain cradles, 1 big tent, 1 set stacking forks and others. 1 heavy bob-sled, 2 straight sleds, 1 set shop tools consisting of anvil, hammers, forge, chisels, squares, saws, etc. 1 set pipe dies & wrenches, 1 5 1-2 foot cross cut saw, 1 six foot cross cut saw. One lot thoroughbred Wyandott chickens, 3 hogs. One Home Comfort range, 2 kitchen tables, 1 dining table, 2 cupboards, 1 Cole's wood stove, 6 bed steads and springs. 1 Davenport and folding bed, 1 center table, 1 wash stand, 1 dresser with mirror, chairs, and a lot of other stuff too numerous to mention Sale will begin at 10 a. m.

Terms and auctioneer announced on day of sale.

R. P. WEIFORD & SON.

Constable's Sale

of Personal Property

Pursuant to executions placed in my hands in the cases of John Rich & Sons v John E. Barlow, New River Grocery Co. v John E. Barlow, Gulland Clarke & Co, v John E. Barlow, J. W. Ould Co. v John E. Barlow, C. J. Richardson v John E. Barlow, Woodson Price & Co. v John E. Barlow, pending in the court of A. E. Smith, a Justice of the Peace of Edray District, Pocahontas County. West Virginia, I will sell at public auction at J. E. Barlow's store at Edray, W. Va, on

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 25,

1923, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., the following described property, levied on as the property of John E. Barlow—

1 Studebaker 4 cylinder automobile 1 iron safe, 1 L. C. Smith typewriter. 1 roll top desk, 1 computing counter scales, 1 McCasky register, 1 cash register, 5 counter show cases, 1 cigar case, 1 ribbon case, 1 Bowser gasoline system, 1 Bowser oil tank.

Terms—CASH.

C K. BUTLER, C. P. C.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLII NO 15 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, NOVEMBER 22 1923 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

McLAUGHLIN--SYDENSTRICKER

The marriage of Mr. Claude E. McLaughlin and Miss Polly Sydenstricker took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs Thos. A. Sydenstricker, in Lewisburg, Wednesday evening, November 14th, 1923.

The reception hall of the home was artistically decorated by Mrs Nat Underwood and Miss Virgie Sydenstricker with smilax ferns and chrysanthemums. Preceding the ceremony Caedman's "At Dawning" was sung by Miss Cera Grothe, of Greenbrier College Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Miss Margaret Price, of Marlinton a cousin of the bride.

The bride, dressed in a beautiful taupe velvet and brown hat, carrying a boquet of bride's roses and lillies of the valley was accompanied to the altar by her sister, Mrs George Fuller who wore a costume of blue torquoise velvet and carried a bouquet of pink rose buds. Mr. Frank McLaughlin, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The ribbon bearers were little Misses Anna Estis and Mary Cook Campbell, who were dressed in white organdy and carried a basket of yellow and white chrysanthemums. An impressive ring ceremony was performed by Rev. F P. Sydenstricker great uncle of the bride, assisted by Rev. Lloyd McF. Courtney, her pastor. Master Billy Sydenstricker, a cousin of the bride, bore the ring to the altar on a large white lilly.

The bride was born in Pocahontas county but has for the past few years resided in Lewisburg with her parents when they moved to this county. She is a graduate of the Junior College of the Lewisburg Seminary and is an accomplished young lady of pleasing manner and disposition.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. McLaughlin, of Marlinton, and holds a position of importance with the American Tobacco Co. and is a young man of ability and enterprise.

The bride and groom left on the east bound train shortly after the ceremony for New York and other points of interest. After November 30th they will be at home to their friends in Lewisburg.

About one hundred and twenty-five guests were present at the wedding. The many friends of this happy young couple wish for them an abundance of bliss and happiness and a long and prosperous life together.—Greenbrier Independent.

HOUSE BURNED

The residence of Wellington Ruckman, on Knapps Creek, near Minnehaha Springs, burned to the ground, with all its contents, Thursday morning, November 15. The loss is between three and four thousand dollars with $1300 insurance. It is not known how the fire started, but when discovered the fire had such headway nothing could be done to save the house.

Benjamine F Beery died at his home in Mt. Clinton, Rockingham County, Virginia, on Sunday, November 18, 1923, after a short illness of pneumonia. His age was 69 years. His wife who preceded him to the grave seven years ago, was Sallie Poage, a daughter of Moffett Poage, of Pocahontas county, who was killed in the Civil War. She was raised by Rev. and Mrs. Wm. T. Price. Calvin W. Price went to Rockingham Monday afternoon to be present at the funeral.

Messers Geyer and McLaughlin loaded a car load of turkeys and chickens at Marlinton last Friday—about 1,000 of each. Turkeys are mighty fine this season. There are still many to be shipped.

THANKSGIVING BANQUET

The Allegheny Club will hold its annual banquet at the Club House Minnehaha Springs November 29th 1923. Dinner will be served 7:30 p. m. Dance follows the dinner, beginning at 9:00 p.m. Please make reservations. The public are cordially invited.

This is a picture of Henry H. Waugh and the big deer he killed in the Thorny Creek range this year Mr. Waugh is an old time deer slayer, and whenever there is an open season, he can be counted on to get his allotment. He is likewise a protector and conservator of game, and it is due to his efforts and influence that Thorny Creek and Marlin Mountains are full of deer. Mr. Waugh and other old hunters tell us that while it is hard to guess at the number of deer which range these two mountains, from the dozen or so bucks killed there, and the number of does and fawns seen and the deer tracks and other sign, that one hundred is a conservative estimate of the deer which range the woods between Marlinton and Clover Lick.

About fifteen years ago Mr. Waugh moved from Elk to his farm on Greenbrier River at Clawson. There was a scattering of deer in the Marlin and Thorny Creek ranges. He saw that if somebody did not do something drastic and do it quick, that another year or two and there would be no deer in these woods.

At that time the job of game warden was about as popular as a case of small pox, but Mr. Waugh had himself appointed deputy game warden. He took the matter up with his neighbors and they talked it over, and there was a general understanding of things. These woods became unhealthy for deer hounds, and hunting deer in the snow in the closed season ceased to be a popular pastime or a smart thing to do. And from that time on deer gradually increased in number until now these woods are full of them. Putting the number of deer killed in Pocahontas county at thirty and in the whole State at sixty, the ten or twelve bucks killed in Thorny Creek and Marlin Mountains is a pretty big percentage of the whole number of deer slain in the State.

All this goes to prove what one determined man can do in the way bringing back the game to these woods if he sets out to develop a community sentiment for game protection and conservation, where there is a remnant left.

In many communities we now have this public sentiment, or leaders to develop it, for game protection, but the heritage of deer has been so wantonly wasted, that there remains no remnant to replenish the woods.

This writer has in mind the Buckley mountain country adjoining the town of Marlinton. In the memory of man this was a noted mountain for deer, but it has been a number of years since sign has been seen in it other than the tracks of old bucks in the running season. At the time Mr. Waugh began his good work in Marlin and Thorny Creek, there were as many deer in Buckley as there were in the woods which Mr. Waugh took oversight. In Buckley they were none to increase in the past five closed seasons in the other mountains deer became very plentiful.

Now that West Virginia has a game commission that is really functioning, and now that Pocahontas county has such a healthy public sentiment in favor of game protection this writer would like the State Commission to take under consideration the matter planting a few deer in Buckley mountain, the wooded country between Greenbank and Greenbrier River, and other places I could name.

The State of West Virginia has entered definitely into the matter of game protection and conservation. A good system is being developed and neither pains nor expense are being spared to make it effective. The commissions efforts are being backed by a fine public sentiment, which becoming stronger daily.

But, the point I want to get across is the self evident fact that with all our system, expense and organization it naturally impossible for deer to increase and multiply where the original stock has all been killed off.

The word comes from my old deer hunting friend Amos J. Dilly that he and his party hunted faithfully during the open season, but failed to get a deer. I know this hunting was done right, too, for Mr. Dilley knows the woods and has killed hundreds of deer. At the end of the season he went home and stirred up a nest of eight or ten deer which had been bedding down the whole of the season in sight of his house.

Here is another similar hard luck story. An old time hunter had been watching a bunch of deer all summer long. While he got his, a big stray buck, on the first day of the law, he had several boys in his family who were anxious to get a deer a piece. The family hunted for the deer but all they found was old last summer sign. Not far from his home there had been a big boundary burned over last spring. Sheep had ranged these burned woods all summer and there had been no deer there. After the season had closed, it was found that the deer, dozens of them, had moved into the burned boundary, and had found there a sanctuary in which they were not molested.

Our friend P. Mc. Yeager, of Bartow, come into the Alleghanies along Knapps Creek to get himself a deer. He took a stand, put his drivers out, and soon he heard one coming. He got all ready, but it was only a big doe.

Postmaster Buckley wishes to announce that the 1919 series of War Saving Stamps will be due January 1, 1924, and that they may be presented after December 1, for exchange or payment. The government has now a very attractive issue of savings certificate, in $20, $80 and $800, drawing 4 1-2 per cent.

There will be a box supper at Spruce Flat School House on Saturday December 1st, at 7:30 p. m. Proceeds for the benefit of the school. Come and help us and have a good time yourself.

AN INSTITUTION

The Rev. F. H. Barron, D. D., pastor of the Davis Memorial Church has been here so long that he has come to be regarded by most of the people of this city as an institution without which or without whom it would be almost impossible to get along and yet many overlook the possibility that he may be drafted or called to other fields. Such a consumation would be a calamity. To lose him would be an irreparable loss But because Dr. Barron has been here so long let no one think that there is no danger of losing him. That is just the danger which does confront the community and local people should stir themselves to see that neither Morgantown nor any other community takes him away from us.

Few men have so endeared themselves to the people of this community as Dr. Frederick H. Barron and now is the appropriate time to say that such is the case. Dr. Barron always has the knack of saying the right thing at the right time and with it all he has the courage of his convictions. That is one of the traits which has bound him with the bonds of affection to the people of this section—his courage, courage both mental and physical and so recognized. In other words those who know him look upon him as a real man and with it all one who is carrying a real message.

Whatever may be the circumstances, the pastor of the Davis Memorial Presbyterian church always fits in. He fills a niche in the community so satisfactorily that it would be a source of sadness and of sorrow to even think of ever having him leave here.

And yet they have in Morgantowu, we are told, a Barron club consisting of former residents of this city and others who know Dr. Barron, the principal object of which is to induce Dr. Barron to accept a call to Morgantown. So unless we offset the efforts of our Morgantown friends, we may lose a preacher and a teacher whose services are to be measured in no other terms except those of affection and gratitude.—Randolph Review.

On Friday November 2nd, 1923, the death angel again entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Ryder, of Marlinton and claimed for its victim their little grandson, John Raymond Ryder, age 3 years, 9 months, 18 days. He was sick only a few weeks with typhoid fever later developin brain fever. Little John was a bright child and will be sadly missed. He was laid to rest in the Mt. Grove cemetery, Sunday morning Nov. 4, funeral services was conducted by Rev. Palmer Eubanks.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL

Clover Lick, Miss Anna Correll solictor.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Y. Ligan, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Coyner, Rev. and Mrs. O. N. Miles, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Kanouse, Miss Pearl Carter, Miss Evylin Coyner, Miss Anna Correll, Mrs. W. H. Young, Mrs Luther Coyner, Mrs. A. V. Fleshman, Mrs J. W. Raine, W. W Byrd, C. A. Hardbarger, J. W. Cunningham, J. D. Harriger, W. C. Gardner.

One dollar each making a total of $20.00.

C. C. Clendennen and Dick Smith each got a turkey on Elk last week.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

Sunday School 9:45

3 30 p m Junior Christian Endeavor

7 00 p m. Senior Christian Endeavor

11 00 a m: Sermon: Love One Another.

7 30 p m. Sermon: The Knocker at the Door.

There will be no prayer meeting on Wednesday evening. There will be a special Thanksgiving service Thursday, Thanksgiving Day.

WESLEY CHAPEL M. E. SOUTH

Hillsboro, West Virginia

W. Clark Early, Pastor.

9:45 a m. Sunday School

F. P. Kidd, Superintendent

11 00 a m. Sermon "Assurance."

3 30 p m. Preaching at Sharon.

7 30 p m. Epworth League, Topic, "A Ground for Thankfulness."

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

J. Herndon Billingsley, Pastor.

Sunday School 9:45 a. m.

A. S. Overholt, Supt.

Epworth League 6:45p m.

Preaching, 11:00 a. m. and 7:45 p m.

Subjects: Morning "The Life Beautiful."

Evening: "Joys of Heaven."

Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Everybody cordially welcome to all services.

On next Sunday the Rev. W. G. Wood will be installed pastor of Westminster and Huntersville Presbyterian Churches. The service will be held at the Westminster church in the morning as follows. Rev. D. M. Monroe will preside and propound the Constitutional Questions and charge the pastor; Rev. J. C Johnson will preach the sermon; Elder C. W. Price will charge the people. The service will be held at Huntersville at three o'clock in the afternoon as follows: Rev D. M. Monroe will preside and propound the constitutional questions; Rev. H. H. Orr will preach Rev. J. C. Johnson will charge the pastor: Elder C. W. Price will charge the people

The Men's Bible Class of the Presbyterian Sunday School was reorganized Sunday afternoon by the election of the following officers: President, T. S. McNeel; vice president, June McElwee; secretary, H. L. Byers; treasurer, F. B. Mowrey.

Amusu Theatre

PROGRAM

THURSDAY—
Gloria Swonson in "Under the Lush."

FRIDAY—
William Russell in "Goodby Girls" Special Childrens' Matinee at 3:30 p. m showing a feature acted entirely by children—"Babes in the Woods" from the story of "Hansel and Gretel." Entirely different from night program.

SATURDAY—
Thomas Neighbors in "Our Leading Citizen," also a Sennett Comedy "She Sighed by the Seaside." Two shows 7 and 9 p. m.

Coming next week: "Westbound Limited" and "Blood and Sands" Featuring Rudolph Valentino.

SEE US

For Shoes
For Suits
For Coats
For Groceries
For Stoves
For Everything

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.
Marlinton, West Virginia

Overland Champion makes Automobile History

Both seats adjust forward and back for tall and short people.

Big loading space by removing rear seat and upholstery.

WE have never seen the public flock to a car the way they are flocking to the new Overland Champion! It's a revelation—how much they wanted such a car! Study these pictures—you'll understand. Then realize that the low price also secures regular sliding gear transmission, all standard accessories, bigger new engine, Triplex springs, cord tires, and all Overland superiorities. Come in.

NEW Overland $695 f.o.b. Toledo CHAMPION

Overland Motor Co.
Marlinton, W. Va.

There will be a social at the Fairview school house November 24th, proceeds for benefit of school.

There will be a pie supper and also cake and candy sale at the West Union school house Saturday night November 24.

Sunday School attendance at the Methodist Church was 198; at the Presbyterian 162.

YOUR HANDS

Need special attention at this time of the year when you are husking corn and doing other outside work to keep them from getting sore and chapped. Get a box of Wallaces's Carbolic Salve at your dealer's for 15c; rub in well at night just before going to bed and you will be giving them that special attention.

HANLINE BROS.
LEAD AND ZINC
READY MIXED PAINT GUARANTEED
AS PURE AS PAINT CAN BE MADE
FOR SALE BY DEALERS EVERYWHERE

Dealers Supplied By
S. B. WALLACE & CO.
Marlinton, W. Va.

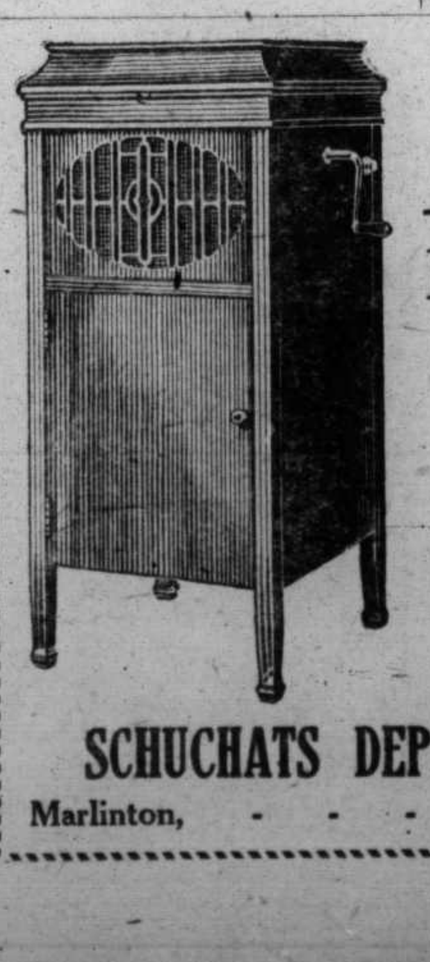
THANKSGIVING SPECIALS
Now On Sale At
SCHUCHATS DEPARTMENT STORE

All Women's, Misses and Children's Coats, Suits and Dresses Reduced to the very Lowest Prices

All Millinery in the House to go—At Half Price

Underwear for men, women, children and babies

All wool Ladies' Scarfs and Sweaters	Stamped Linen and Muslin and other goods Ready to Embroider
The Latest Fitted Ladies' Hand Bags	All kinds of Jewelry Savtoins, Necklaces, bar pins, negligie clasps and varity cases
Overnight Bags and Hat Boxes



Outing Flannels at Lowest Prices

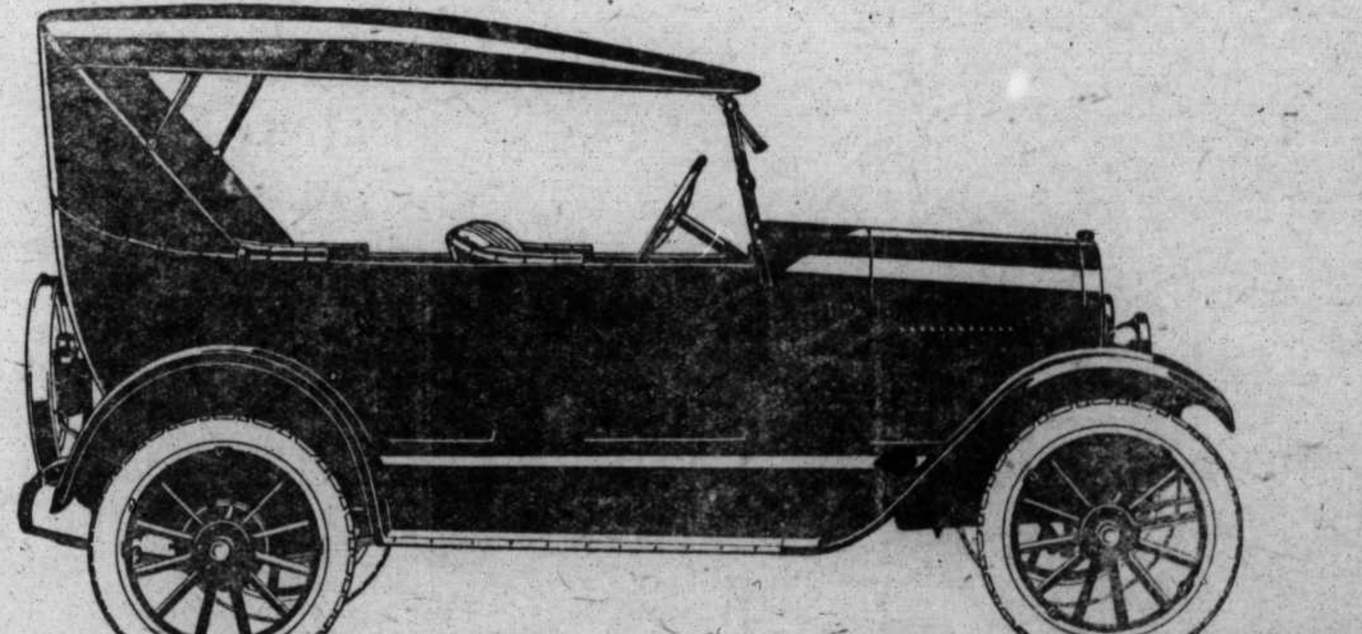
Brunswick Phonographs

The Best Phonograph To Buy, Easy Terms

Latest Brunswick Phonograph Record always on hand

75c each

SCHUCHATS DEPARTMENT STORE
Marlinton, - - - - - - West Virginia



THE STAR SPECIFICATIONS

MOTOR: Four-clinder, L-head, detachable head. bore, 3 1-8 "parole, 4 1-4" 130.4 cubic inches.
CLINDERS Cast en bloc with upper half of crank-case.
VALVES 1 1-2—5-16 lift.
PISTON AND CONSECTING ROD ASSEMBLY Pison and connecting rod assembly can be removed from either top or bottom of case.
CRANKSHAFT BEARINGS Front 1-1-2 diameter x 1 25-32 center, 1 1-2 x 1 9-16. rear, 1 1-2x1 3-4.
CAMSHAFT BEARINGS Front 1 3-4x1 3-8, center, 1 5-8x15-18, rear, 1 1-2x16-22.
COOLING Raditor, honeycomb type, 16-inch fan four blades, water pump, radiator capacity, 9 quarts.
FRONT AXLE Standard drop forge "I" beam section, with Elliott type steering mechanism.
REAR AXLE Semi floating, simple design. Tapered roller bearings.
BRAKES External contracting; internal expanding; 10-inch brake drums. Easy and accessible adjustment provided
SPRINGS: Front 33 5-8" long, rear 49 1-2" long
TIRES: 30 x 3 1-2, all around
OILING SYSTEM: The oiling system is the force feed type. The oil gear pump is driven directly from the rear of the camshaft and feeds through the camshaft to all camshaft bearings to holes drilled in the case to the main crankshaft bearings to the camshaft arms, to connecting rod and bearings
CARBURETOR: 1-inch. Exhaust and intake manifold mounted to left side of engine to which carbureter is attached.
STARTING, LIGHTING, IGNITION, Generator, starting motor igniter and coil. Unaffected by weather conditions.
CLUTCH, Single plate, dry type; enclosed in flywheel easily removable without disturbing engine or transmission.
TRANSMISSION, Standard, selective, sliding gear type, three speeds forward and reverse. The design conforms in all respects to standard practice.
DRIVE, Left hand drive, center control; accelerator pedal mounted on toe board. Spark and throttle mounted within easy reach of driver and easily operated. Design is simple. Ignition and lighting switch mounted in instrument board.
STEERING GEAR, Semi-irreversible, worm and gear type. Ball thrust bearings are used with suitable adjustments for wear. Sixteen inch steering wheel Horn button on wheel.
GASOLINE SUPPLY, Capacity of tank 11 1-2 gallons; placed at rear Vacuum feed is provided. Fire hazard reduced to minimum.
WHEELBASE, 102 inches.
PRICES, 5-p. Touring, $443; 2-p. Runabout $414; 2-p. Coupe $580; 5-p. Sedan $645 (Starter and Demountable Rims)

HINER & GUM'S GARAGE
Durant and Star Dealers
Call or phone for Demonstration
Marlinton, West Virginia

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THURSDAY NOVEMBER 29, 1923

I suppose that a newspaper ought to pay some attention to political questions. But hold That sentence is constructed wrong—wrongly—wrong. It is egotistical to begin a leading article with the first person singular. It is a false start. So it will be stated: A newspaper ought to pay some attention to political questions, I suppose.

The printing press has become the most universal dispenser of news and opinions, and voters want to be informed in order that they may make up their minds whom to vote against This was my excuse last week for breaking the news as gently as I could that Hiram Johnson, inspired by Ate, ranging for revenge, come hot from California, had in these confines with an anarch's voice, cried havoc and announced that he was a candidate for the Presidency. It was a rather long tiresome announcement and I did not read it as carefully as I should and I threw the paper away. I went to look for it and could not find it again. So I do not remember whether he said what political party he belonged to At first I took it for granted that he sought the Republican nomination but I would like to make sure of that, for maybe he is after the Democratic nomination, on the ground that he twice elected Wilson, singlehanded and alone, and such good turns deserves some return All I have got to say about that is that I sometimes feel that my belovee party may try me too high some day.

One good old Republican comes forth and says that Hiram Johnson was the cause of Roosevelt running in 1912, the one political mistake of that eminent man. It seems that Roosevelt had been hunting in Africa and lost touch with national affairs, and this critic accuses Hiram of poisoning Roosevelt's mind against Taft, and so caused the split in the party. And he further called attention to the fact that Hiram would not let California vote for Hughes in 1916 and so Wilson was given a second term. So he voices the inquiry of what party Hiram belongs to? It was then that I hunted for the announcement to see if Hiram had fastened his hooks on the Republican nomination, or was just running wild like Henry Ford.

It is not going to pour oil on the troubled waters to say much about that 1912 trouble, for there were several millions of Republicans who were out in 1912, and without exception, they are all proud of the independence that they showed at that time. Onward Christian soldiers!

The opening words of the book of Caesar are to the effect that all Gaul was divided into three parte. It will be the work of some future historian to say of the United States that that country was divided into three parts at the opening of the campaign of 1924, and it is possible that there will be three candidates of strength in the next election.

Henry Watterson always referred to the Civil War as the war of the sections, and there is a sermon in those four words, showing the danger of the country dividing on geographical lines, for thus do great nations fall apart. Men of power and influence ought to bear that in mind

There is one way that a split may be avoided. Noninate a conservative man from the west, like Hoover, or a radical from the east like Pinchot from Pennsylvania. If they nominate a hell-raiser from the west, or a puritan from the hide-bound coast of New England, there is going to be trouble.

I am still guessing that President Coolidge is to be the nominee and I do not include him in the type of New Englander referred to above for he is by reason of his office not a sectional candidate. But I listened in the other dSy on the grapevine and I found out that all is not gas and gaiters in that direction. I thought at first they were talking about the winter weather but I found out later that they were saying that they considered Coolidge too cold. No public appeal. No enthusiasm. No cordiality. But I said unto them, that if the country ever needed a cool head it was now.

On our side of the fence, my first choice is John W. Davis. In times of trouble, one naturally turns to some strong man in whose judgment he has absolute trust. And if West Virginia is to have a President anyways soon, Davis is the hope as well as the pride of the State. Next to him, I would vote for McAdoo, and next Underwood, though I do not like the ruthlessness of southern politicians. When they get into office they throw away the scabbard, and after every party contest there are any numbers of good citizens doomed for life to rest under the ban of party displeasure without hope of a kind word in this life, and to whom death is a happy political release. All cut up and no where to go. Never mind how I know this. It is true all right.

Once in a while, a southern tyrant overshoots the mark, as in the notable case of Walton, late governor of Oklahoma, who has been impeached and turned out to grass like one Nebuchadnezzar. But Oklahoma was a little too far north and so they rebuked Walton for his latitude. Every now and then a Democrat in the more temperate zones tries the iron heel of a southerner and finds that there is still a God in Israel.

A little reflection is all that is needed to convince you that the anouncement through Mellon and thd President, that federal taxes shoult be lowered was not a sudden though but a slow and well worked out policy, and it has a direct bearing on the running sore of the soldier's bonus. It means that there will be no bonus for the soldier. Some like to call it adjusted compensation. I prefer the word bonus. It is a gift. There can be no such thing as compensation to to a man who has taken a forward movement towards the battle front, in a war wirh such things as poison gas used. Better call it what it is, a gift from a grateful nation to its young men who offered to lay down their lives for their country.

They are afraid that such a measure would depress liberty bonds. It might. But more often these things go by contraries and that is the life of trade. I am in favor of issuing legal tender paper money for a sum certain for soldiers to be divided among them as Congress may determine, either a uniform amount to each enlisted man, or according to the service that he saw and the time consumed. Personally I favor a flat payment of certain sum of each soldier, just as sixty dollars each was paid, when they were discharged. Or as the Bible states it, to each a penny. And that caused some murmuring by those who had borne the burden and heat of the day, but the lord of the vineyard rebuked them, saying in effect that if they had got what they had contracted for, it was no concern of theirs that some other man had got more per hour.

The legal tender notes would not bear interest and there would be a a great rush to get interest bearing securities for them and this ought to put up liberty bonds and not depress them, and it ought to make money easier for those who are in the bondage of the interest payer Germany's paper money is an awful example to the world, but it may be that we have erred in the opposite direction and that a little loosening up is what is needed in this country. It would help the farmer and every other borrowing class.

The shrewd business man who kept the home fires burning and turned his honest penny during the war, far from the sound of the guns, need have no alarm. With a large portion of the soldier class, the taking of his money away from him would be as easy as taking candy from a kid, and the munificence of the government would result in a blessing to him who gives and him who takes. The soldier of that type will have the pleasure of blowing in the bonus, making haste to spend it during his own lifetime, and the thrifty man, the gentleman who pays the taxes, will have a renewed interest in life as the money comes rolling in.

The history of the bonus movement has been shameful. The question was a live one from the very day this country entered the war, and while most of us older men would like to have forgotton it, but not being allowed to do so, we would now like to see it settled. Like a father who tells his eight year old boy that if he will not use tobacco, that on his twenty-first birthday he will be presented with a gold watch. The boy does not forget but the old man does, and it is a considerable jolt to be reminded of it. The old man wonders how in the sam hill he is going to buy a gold watch when he cannot pay his grocery bill. And he keeps his promise or not according to the kind of man that he is. It is true that the government did not promise anything of the kind. But every man in the roaring forties, and up, told the boys that if we only won, that there was no limit to what this country could and would do for its heroes.

This deliberate movement for lower federal taxes is the first step towards defeating the bonus legislation that has been postponed to this the impending session of Congress following the last general election. It was smothered because of the last election, and now it comes up to plague and vex a lot of ambitious statesmen just prior to a greater general election. Uneasy lies.

The greatest bit of war writing was the very short poem entitled "In Flanders Fields." It was printed without a name in an obscure corner of an English magazine at the foot of a column, being used to fill in and adjust the form.

In Flanders Fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the Dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The Torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

The other day I happened to come across the periodical that first printed the above. It bore date, December 8, 1915. I had read it no doubt at the time it was printed but now was the first time that I had thought about it. The paper has been knocking about the house ever since. But in 1915, we were not in the war. It looked like we might not have to come in. In fact we would have stayed out like Spain and other countries but for the fact that the Kaiser and his demon advisers would not let us stay out, and so we caught up the torch in the days of our exaltation and carried it to a successful end. The fire is out and the ashes are dead.

"What for the living?,'

"Nothing," mutters an old man.

And this a good old man who has accumulated a vast fortune and managed it wisely, for the good of the community, but who will soon leave it to those who have no genius for wealth and it will then rot and ferment and become a menace to the country.

And such a man says that we have nothing to give the living soldier.

The proudest thing that we are of is our high school. Marlinton has a high school that is equal to an old freshwater college of thirty years ago, and it would give the citizens of Pocahontas County great delight to be able to see the flower of the land in this institution. There are two other high schools in the county, and anything that is said about the local school is not to be construed as claiming it to be the best school, but this school is mentioned because it is the only one that I have inspected personally.

Here there is a pleasing custom on the part of the management to invite some of the weatherbeaten old chaps who can speak or who think they can to come in and address the school. And if a speaker cannot find an interested and intelligent audience in that student body, I would not know where to look for one.

At the chapel the other morning there were about a hundred and sixty persons composed of the faculty and the students, and the exercises lasted about an hour. I was at the University some thirty odd years ago, and in my day and time, the University could not have gotton in chapel as great a student body as was there that day, and it certainly could not have furnished one that listened better.

The Edray District High School sometimes called the Marlinton high school has a normal department for the training of teachers, and in view of the fact that I managed four schools while still in my teens, I was invited to take up a period of an hour, to give the students in training for the "profession glorious" the benefit of my experience, and the hour passed so quickly to me that I felt that I had been highly entertained It is rather pitiful anyway how elderly persons hang around younger ones. And the young ones show great kindness and forbearance. About the time the hour was up, I had not touched on a great number of important matters in the government of schools, and I had had such a good visit that I cast around for an excuse to come back again like a poor boy courting a rich girl, and so I managed to get an invitation to come back in a couple weeks, and I left as the proposition to be considered by the class and to be debated at the adjourned session: Whether a student has a better chance of education in a one roomed school where all grades are taught, or in a graded school where he suffers from intensive methods?

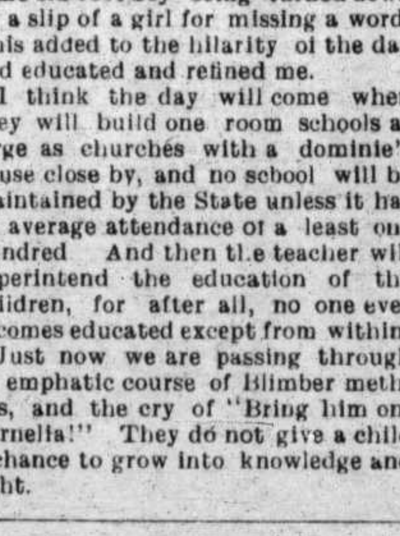
I feel very strongly in favor of the one roomed school where nearly all of greatest men and women have been started on the road to learning.

All the tendency nowadays is to consolidate and grade the children so that Johnny will be thoroughly versed in the First Reader and will not be able to pick any crumbs of wisdom that might fall from other tables. But I am sure that this keeps Johnny back, and that if he could get a first hand view of the work of advanced scholars—be in the conference so to speak—that he might get an idea what he was working for, far, far better, than if he was pestered to death all day in an effort to force him to grow in wisdon and knowledge. Charles Dickens paid his respects to the forcing process in his review of the Blimber school, in which little Paul Dombey was forced along so fast that he was forced out of existence, and instead of coming back to school, he drifted out upon that dark and unknown sea that rolls round all the world.

Little pitchers have big ears, and being the product of a one room school myself, I have a vivid recollection of the fact that as a child I knew in a general way what the other students were doing. Long before I got into the dictionary class, I have watched as a innocent bystander some six foot boy being turned down by a slip of a girl for missing a word. This added to the hilarity of the day and educated and refined me.

I think the day will come when they will build one room schools as large as churches with a dominie's house close by, and no school will be maintained by the State unless it has an average attendance of a least one hundred And then the teacher will superintend the education of the children, for after all, no one ever becomes educated except from within

Just now we are passing through an emphatic course of Blimber methods, and the cry of "Bring him on, Cornelia!" They do not give a child a chance to grow into knowledge and light.



CHRISTMAS IS APPROACHING

and we anticipate a large Holiday Trade. We are making a special effort to please our customers by showing a complete line:—Diamond Goods, Ladies Wrist Watches at popular prices, Pearl Necklaces, Toilet Articles, Gents' Watches and Novelties of all kinds. Our repair department is complete and we can guarantee to give the very best service.

Your valued patronage will be greatly appreciated.

The Watch Shop
JEWELERS
East Side Cass

NOTICE

The following fiduciary account is before me for settlement—

H. C. Skaggs, Administrator of of Uriah Hevener, deceased.

P. T. WARD,
Commissioner of Accounts.

After Every Meal

A universal custom that benefits everybody. Aids digestion, cleanses the teeth, soothes the throat.

WRIGLEY'S

a good thing to remember

Sealed in its Purity Package

THE FLAVOR LASTS

A share of your business solicited

T. S. McNEEL
INSURANCE AND BONDS
Marlinton W. Va.

Successor to Goodsell Insurance Agency

Life, Fire and Accident, Automobiles and Live Stock, Bonds of all kinds, Money to Loan on Farms.

Office 2nd floor, First National Bank Building.

Constable,s Sale
OF PERSONAL PROPERTY

Pursuant to executions placed in my hands in the cases of John Rich & Sons v John E Barlow, New River Grocery Co. v John E Barlow, Gulland Clarke & Co. v John E. Barlow, J. W. Ould Co v John E Barlow, C. J. Richardson v John E. Barlow, Woodson Price & Co. v John E Barlow, pending in the court of A. E. Smith, a Justice of the Peace of Edray District, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, I will sell at public auction at J. E. Barlow's Store at Edray, W. Va. on

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 8

1923, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. the following descilbed property, levied on as the property of John E. Barlow.

1 Studebaker 4 cylinder automobile 1 iron safe, 1 L. C. Smith typewriter, 1 roll top desk, 1 computing counter scales, 1 McCasky register, 1 cash register, 5 counter show cases, 1 cigar case, 1 ribbon case, 1 Bowser gasoline system, 1 Bowser oil tank.

Terms—CASH.

C. K BUTLER, C. P. C.

Bricks Bricks

Yes we have some bricks to day.
W. J. KILLINGSWORTH
Marlinton, W. Va.

For Sale

Have left 10 thoroughbred Poland-China pigs, big type, for delivery in December, with pedigrees. $8 00; with registration paper $10. Let us know your wants.

E. H. Williams,
Marlinton, W. Va.

WARNING

All persons are hereby warned not to trespass in any way on the lands of the undersigned or premises under his control, especially by hunting and trapping.

W. McClintic,
Marlinton, W. Va.

NO HUNTING OR TRAPPING

All persons are warned not to trespass on the lands of the undersigned, especially by hunting and trapping.

J. E. KEE,
Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR SALE—Turkey coops. Geo. Rosen, Marlinton, W Va.

STRAYED—From my place last June a red roan cow, dehorned, end off of left ear, bell on when last seen. Any one knowing where she is please notify me and recieve reward. M. F. Underwood, Huntersville, W. Va.

FOR SALE—In Cass one five room house and three good lots, 1 lot has 20 nice fruit trees 4 years old, write or call on W. W. Collins, Cass, W. Va box 41.

FEED FOR SALE: 5 stacks hay, one large straw rick and a lot of fodder, or will feed yearling or 2 yr. old cattle by the month. Martin Judy, Cass, W. Va.

TURKEYS FOR SALE: Bronze turkeys for sale as breeders. Toms $9.00 hens $7 00 delivered at Clover Lick. Mary P. Hevener.

PIGS FOR SALE—Purebred Poland China, Big Type, different ages up to 10 months, with or without papers Mt View Orchard, L. W. Harless Mgr. Marlinton, W. Va.

ESTRAY NOTICE—There is a estray yearling steer on my farm on Buffalo Mountain, owner can have property by paying cost of adv. and keeping, has been here since the 15th of October. C. S. W. Wooddell.

A dozen photograph solve a dozen gift problems and are appreciated by your friends more than anything else you can give them. Gays Studio.

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT, SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager
HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC
Marlinton, West Virginia.

The Genuine Bruner Suitings

FOR FALL AND WINTER 1923-24 ON DISPLAY

For fine Tailoring, come in and inspect them.

W. A. THIEDE, Tailor
MARLINTON, W. VA.

FISK TIRES

C. J. Richardson
Marlinton, W. Va.

Notice to Contractors

Sealed proposals will be received by the State Road Commission of West Virginia at its offices in Charleston, W. Va, until ten o'clock, a. m. on the 13th day of December, 1923, and opened and read immediately thereafter, at the Kanawha County Court House, Charleston, W. Va, for the construction of the following section of state road.

Project 131—Pocahontas County—2.1 Miles of the Marlinton-Buckeye Road, for paving with Bituminous Macadam. Certified check $2500.00.

Project 132—Pocahontas County—4.2 miles of the Buckeye-Mill Point Road, for paving with Bituminous Macadam. Certified check $4500.00.

Proposals will be received only upon State Standard Forms in accordance with plans, specifications and estimate to quantities may be obtained from the Division Engineer at Charleston, W. Va or from the office of the State Road Commission at Charleston, W, Va.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount above specified.

The right is reserved to reject any and all proposals.

THE STATE ROAD COMMISSIOM OF WEST VIRGINIA.
E. B. Carskadon, Secretary.

DELCO-LIGHT
"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue

ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES

Marlinton Electric Co.
DEALERS

For Sale

A limited number of Rose Combed Rhode Island Red cockerels, deep rich color, Tompkins strain, March hatch. $2.50 at farm and $3 at express office if taken by November 15.

C L BARLOW.
Edray, W. Va.

Notice

Stanley Hayes, Chiropractor, will be at Cass and Dunmore for one month, beginning October 22 Hours at Cass: (At residence of J. W. Bible) 9 to 12 a. m. and 5 to 8 p. m. and by appointment. Hours at Dunmore: 1 to 3 p. m.

Cockerels For Sale

S. C. White Leghorns, R. I. Reds, Barred Rocks, White Wyandotte, and Shepherd Anconas. All from pure bred high egg producing pedigreed stock. Prices ranging from $1.50 to $2 50 according to color, type and size.

Oak Crest Poultry Farm
Mill Point, W. Va.

FOR SALE—Mammoth Bronze turkeys, toms $10, hens $8. Mrs. Earl Kee, Marlinton, W. Va.

Restaurant For Sale

I offer for sale my profitable restaurant business on Main Street in Marlinton. Fine location and good business, but I must sell on account of my wifes health. Apply to

E Yokum.
Marlinton, W. Va.

For Sale

Good Home At Bargain Price.

50 acres $3,600. Excellent buildings wates in house and barn, large orchard, some machinery. This house is in first class condition. Also 90 acre; stock, tools, poultry, bees. machinery and part of crops, only $7000. Part cash; easy terms. Catalog free

P. L WILLIAMS,
Hartstown, Pa

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Notice

No hunting, no trespassing in any way on the lands of the undersigned.

Samul Kee & Hunter Kee.
Dec. 1

Turkeys

I have a few Mammoth Goldback Bronze Turkeys unsold yet. These are pedigree turkeys. The flock is headed by a 45 pound tom whose sire cost $50. No better stock turkeys. Toms $10, hens $8. All orders must be in by November 20.

GEO. L. CLARK,
Hillsboro, W. Va.

Turkey Notice

For Sale, Mammoth Bronze Goldenback, Bird Bros. strain, turkeys. Toms and hens not related. Ready for delivery November 15 to Dec. 15

HARRY BIRD,
Millgap, Va.

White Wyandottes

Regal Dorcas strains, won grand prize at Pocahontas County Fair; a few cockerels and pullets for sale. Cockerels $2.50; pullets $1 50.

C. W. Auldridge,
4 wks. Millpoint, W. Va.

Farm For Sale

A grazing farm of 191 acres, near Woodrow postoffie, all enclosed with wire fence; about 100 acres cleared; good 9-room honse, cement cellar, good barns and other buildings. This is fine grass land, much of it is level. Plenty of water; fruit and timber for farm use. Three young orchards. Convenient to church and school.

T. S. DULANEY.
Woodrow, W. Va.

White Holland Turkeys

Thoroughbred White Holland Turkeys. Fine specimens of this noted breed. Toms $10. hens $8. f. o. b. Express office

Single Comb Black Minorca cockerels $1.50 each, while they last. Also a few pullets. Both turkeys and Minorcas took first prize at County Fair.

LEVI V. GAY.
Edray, W. Va.

FOR SALE—Surplus logging horses at attractive prices. For further information apply; The Meadow River Lumber Co., Rainelle, W. Va.

FOR SALE: A Delco Plant in first class condition. Can be seen at Cass Theatre Cass. W. Va., If in need of a up to date light plant this one can be bought right. C. C. Clendenen.

FOR SALE: A fine Duroc Jersey sow, eligble for registry, or will exchange for a male Duroc Jersey. A lot of fine Barred Rock pullets and cockerels. W. A. Barlow, Onoto, W. Va.

TAXIDERMIST: Send me your trophies for correct mounting at reasonable prices. Satisfaction guranteed. W. E. Blackhurst, Cass, W. Va.

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specially of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

CHARLES SHINABERRY
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
All cal v enpmpt attention.

A. SHARP
AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
Phone Marlinton Central.

W. A. BARLOW
OLD RELIABLE AUCTIONEER
Onoto, W. Va.
All calls answered.

WM. O. RUCKMAN
LICENSED AUCTIONEER
Millpoint, West Virginia
A young man with the goods

Z. S. Smith
Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMER
DENTIST
Marlinton, W. Va
First National Bank Building
Office hours 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. or appointment. All work guaranteed

Baxter's Garage
MARLINTON W. VA.
FORD Cars and Supplies
FORDSON Tractors
A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.
I. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Picoting and Hem-Stitching
All orders promptly filled.
MRS. J. E. BUCKLEY,
Marlinton, W. Va.

WHEN IN DURBIN
VISIT
CENTRAL CAFE
H. F. HYER, Mgr.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of the late Mrs. Annie Echard to present them proven according to law to the undersigned administrator at his residence at Hosterman, W. Va. All persons owing said estate will please prepare to settle at once.

This 17th of October 1923.

Zack Cassell
Estate of Mrs. Annie Echard deceased.

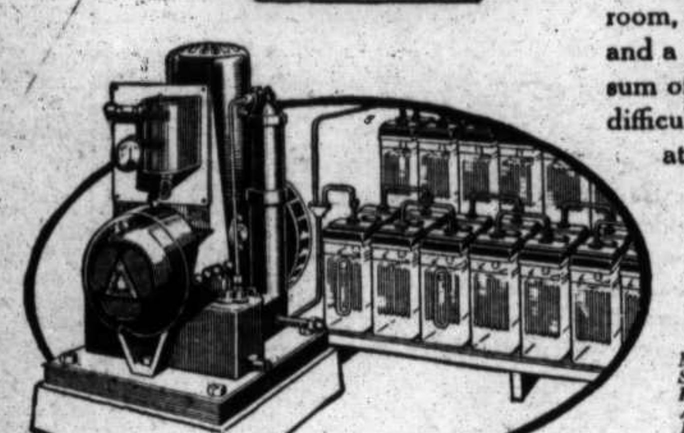
Ask about the
EASY PAYMENT PLAN

You doubtless realize the many benefits that Delco-Light could bring to your home and to your farm, but perhaps you don't understand just how easy it is for you to have these benefits. For that reason we would like to have the opportunity of explaining to you our easy payment plan which makes it possible for you to install a Delco-Light Plant on your place right now.

DELCO-LIGHT

Delco-Light Plants have been reduced in price back to the 1917 price level. They can now be bought for a very nominal down payment and on terms so easy as to make it possible for almost any farm home to have Delco-Light.

Furthermore, as a special inducement, we offer a set of high grade fixtures for a living room, dining room, kitchen, two bedrooms and a porch light for the remarkably low sum of $12.00 f. o. b. Dayton. It would be difficult for you to buy a set of equal quality at double this price. See us right away.



Made and guaranteed by Delco-Light Co., Dayton, Ohio, Subsidiary of General Motors Corporation. Canadian Factory: Delco-Light Co. of Canada, Ltd., Toronto, Ont. Also manufacturers of Delco-Light Pumps, Washing Machines and Frigidaire, the electrical refrigerator. All products made for 32 and 110 volt, direct or alternating current, for use in country or city homes.

MARLINTON ELECTRIC CO.

Marlinton, West Virginia

BATTLE OF DROOP

(From Fayette Tribune)

The following interesting personal narative of a Confederate soldier's experience at the Battle of Droop Mountain is contributed by Capt. Wm. F. Bahlmann, 3622 Broadway Kansas City, Mo. This engagement was fought Nov. 6, 1863, just sixty years ago yesterday, and Capt. Bahlmann's recollection of the day are remarkably vivid. Only two other members of his old company are now living. They are Mr. Baker, of Gallatin, Mo., and Lieut. John M. Hendrickson, of Atchison, Kan.

Capt. Bahlmann is well known here where he has often visited his brother-in-law and old comrade, Capt. J. H. Abbott. Although 87 years old Capt. Bahlmann writes a beautiful clear steady hand and it is a great pleasure of the Tribune to give its readers this valuable contribution to the history of the war between the states.

In the Fayette Tribune of October 10, 1923, there appears an article by Mr. M. A. Dunlap in which he states that he probably knows more about the battle than any other man now living. I don't know how much Mr. Dunlap knows, but I believe I know something myself.

Wm. L. Jackson had a brigade in Pocahontas county but refused to fall back and Gen. Echols went from Greenbrier to his aid. Echol's brigade consisted of the 22nd Regt. the 23rd Battalion Inf. (Lt. Col. Derrick) and the 26th Battalion Inf. (Lt. Col. Edgar). I was told the 26th Battalion was sent to cover a road and did not get fully into the fight. I was First Lieut. in Command of the Co. and the Second Lieut Smiley was the only other officer of the Co. present. The first man I saw shot was one of Jackson's men shot by one of his own men. I was the next and caught a bullet in my left knee. N. A. Baker and Eristus Starks of my Co. K and Gus Tyre of Co. C started to carry me to the rear. Both of these companies belonged to the 22nd. The firing became so heavy that I told them to lay me down and save themselves. Tyree and Starks then left. I told Baker to go too and he commenced to cry. I then ordered him to go and he went Col. Harris of the 10th W. Va, came up with his Adjutant, each carrying a revolver. The Col. asked me how many men we had and I doubled the number. I was under no obligations to tell the truth. I was sitting by a stump where a neighbor of mine, Capt. Cassidy, of the 8th W. Va., came up and instead of cursing me shook hands with me and expressed some sympathy. Capt. Brown of General Averil's staff came up and asked me whether I wanted to be carried to a fire. He called some men to carry me and as they laid me down I saw several in gray uniforms with blood on them. Capt. Brown asked me whether I had any of their money. I had none of that and very little of any other. He pulled out a $20 Greenback and put it into my pocketbook. I take great pleasure in telling this incident as it was an extremely generous thing to do. I repaid the $20 to a prisoner afterwards but not in the same kind of money. Our Regt. lost 15 officers, two of them unwounded and thirteen wounded, two of them, Major Bally and Lieut, McClannahan. mortally. Co A had all four officers wounded and Co. K had all present, two in number wounded. 15 is 62.5 per cent of 24 and such a loss makes a big gap.

Ensign Dodson was wounded and Major Bailey took the flag and tried to rally the men and that I believe is where he and most of the officers were shot.

He died November 11, and Capt McDanald being the senior became Major, I, Captain; Smiley, First Lieut and Hendrickson, 2nd Lieut.

When I was placed in an ambulance I found Mason Helms of Co. K already in it. He had been shot through the head and through the body and a finger shot off. He died the next day, leaving a widow and one child.

The fight was about 3 p. m. and we got to the temporary hospital about 8 o'clock. There were 15 Federal and two Confeds and we were a badly shot up body of men and peaceful enough. The Confeds were taken to the house of Josiah Beard at the Little Levels or Hillsboro.

There were four of us in a large room on the second floor each in a double bed. They were Lieut. Gus Liggett of the 18th or 19th Va. Gus was shot through the head between the fourth and fifth pairs of nerves. Pete Stribling, of Co. H 22nd Inf. who died seven months afterwards, Mike McGoldrick and myself. Mike had been wounded twice in Nicaragua He had belonged originally to the 1st Louisiana Inf. from New Orleans, had been wounded three times at Droop Mt. He claimed that a Dutch man had shot him, and he was more afraid of a dose of castor oil than of a battle.

I was there eight weeks and every day Miss Nannie Beard, a very pretty young lady, carried up a heavy tray with our meals on it. I was the only married man of the four and she would put her arm around the neck of any of the men and feed him and if any man says she was not a first class lady, he may climb my back today.

One more incident, Samuel Hudson was a member of the 3rd W. Va Mounted Inf., I think. In the fight his scalp was grazed by a bullet. He volunteered to nurse some of the wounded Confeds. He took the night watch from midnight until midnight and was very good to us. Another generous man. But he took erysipelas in his wound and had to be sent to a larger hospital.

My wife was with me for the last six weeks at Mr. Beard's and helped to nurse.

Men cannot nurse like women because men are not women. She and I rode six days in an ambulance to Montgomery County, Va, where her her father's home was at the time It was in January 1864, the coldest weather of the war.

I am 87 years old and have written entirely from memory. I thought some people in Fayette might be interested as there were two companies from Fayette in the 22nd Va. Inf. Co., C and K.

I join Mr. Dunlap in his admiration of Gen. Averill whom I regard as one of the most capable and efficient officers in either army

Wm. F. Bahlmann,
Last Captain of Co. K (Fayetteville Rifles) 22nd Va., Inf.

ISRAEL

ANNA L. PRICE

God's ancient people Israel,
Now wanders on earth's soil,
Children of faithful Abraham,
Ye men of grit and toil.

Israel, you have forsaken God;
You contradict me here,
But I hold you to your Scripture,
Your prophet and your seer.

The types of old signs, shadows,
As types, they shadowed well,
The Paschal Lamb in sacrifice,—
Think what I did foretell?

The Lamb of God on Calvary,
For my sin and your sin,
Salvation to every believer,
Now, Israel enters in.

Jerusalem, Jerusalem,
I weep with Christ my Lord,
When wilt thou once return to Him,
According to the Word?

God doth not cast off His people,
His chosen ones of old,
Redemption and Salvation,
One Shepherd and one fold.

Marlinton, W. Va. 1923.

Mr. Editor—

If you will give space in your valuable paper I will give you a few items that may be of interest.

After 18 years of constant road building, I find myself at Madison, with the Echols Construction Co. where they have three miles of road nearing completion, this work is a rock job showing the master hand of J. F. Jackson the best shovel man in the state, Mr. Jackson is one of the company and supt. of this job, a good road man and a hustler.

Mr. Sherman Moore of Hillsboro the all round man and expert tractor driver came to Madison on the same train our mission was to grade up and finish behind the shovel.

On entering camp I found six Pocahontas boys, Harry Taylor, of Dunmore, Clarence Kellison, of Buckeye, Moro Beard, of Arbovale, these three men came here with the company and will stay till the job finish.

Madison is a prosperous and wealthly place with her coal oil and gas, the coal mine is at present closed down and a number of the men is working for the Echols Construction Co.

Yours truly
H. L. Kesler.

Madison, W. Va.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of the late J. H. Barlow to present the same properly proven to the undersigned administrator at his office at Onoto, W. Va., for payment. All persons owing said estate will please settle at once.

This 1st day of November, 1923.

B. D. Barlow, Administrator of the estate of J. H, Barlow, decea'd.

To Tax Payers

A discount of two and a half percent will be allowed on all taxes paid in the month of November.

F. P. King, Sergeant
Town of Marlinton.

Sale of Real Estate for Taxes

Notice is hereby given that the following described tracts or lots of land in the County of Pocahontas, which are delinquent for the non-payment of taxes for the year 1921, will be offered for sale by the undersigned Sheriff at public auction at the front door of the court house of said county between the hours of ten in the morning and four in the afternoon on

MONDAY, the 10th day of DECEMBER, 1923,

Each tract or lot or so much thereof as shall be necessary will be sold for so much cash as shall be sufficient to satisfy the amount due thereon, as set forth in the following table—

NAME OF PERSON CHARGED WITH TAXES / Quantity of Land / LOCAL DESCRIPTION	Total amount of taxes and interest	Total amount of taxes, interest, cost of publication, commission and fee for receipt.
GREENBANK DISTRICT
Burner, E D, 117 near Cass	102 04	109 39
same Block 2 and 3, 8 lots	22 02	25 37
same Block 2, 7 to 14, bal due	15 83	18 88
Cobb, John H, Lots 10 and 11, Thornwood	5 22	7 73
Dandrea, Mary " 1, Lot 48 Deer Creek	1 39	3 71
Dooley, Hugh & Kate, Block 7, 200x325	13 76	16 70
Forrest Lumber Co. 2929 Ally. Mtn. Lot 13, 14	403 36	425 78
same 1450 James Patterson	198 86	211 05
same 406 "	55 90	60 94
same 1085 "	149 42	159 14
same 450 "	62 65	68 03
same 960 "	135 74	144 78
Galford, Thos. Est. 126 A West Sitlington Creek	22 86	26 26
Gragg, Wm. M. 58 A and 50 p	15 98	19 03
Gray, Zebulin's Est. 106 a Back Ally	31 10	34 91
same 5 a and 72 p Back Ally	82	3 11
Harouff, Elizabeth, Block 3, lot 2, Blackhurst & lot 1	5 51	8 03
Johnson, J. S. Lot 3, North Public Road	2 75	5 14
McLaughlin, C.M. 25 a Thomas Creek	1 39	3 70
Nobel R. Block 1 Lot 6 Thornwood,	4 13	6 59
same Lot six	2 75	5 14
Nottingham, Addison & Wash Z. J. W. L. & Adam, 875 a and 75 p Ally Mtn	72 30	78 17
Parsons Paper and Pulp Co. 2985 a West Slope Ally Mtn	246 65	262 23
same 425 a "	35 10	39 11
Patton. Nettie E. Block 6, Lot 3, Blackhurst	2 75	5 14
Phillips, Alva's Est. 18 1-2 A Arbovale	68	2 96
Robinson, Emma W. & Wallace, Block, 3, Lot 14	5 51	8 04
Tallman, W. B. 82 a Back Ally	14 58	17 56
same 60 a "	5 00	7 50
same 15 a "	1 25	3 56
Turk, R. S. 336 a Trout Run	92 54	99 42
same 1 a and 91 p Deer Creek	28	2 55
Vandevender, Charlie Lot 5 Thornwood	4 14	6 60
" May " 2 North Public Road	3 44	5 86
DURBIN CORPORATION
Chapman & Diggin W. E. Blk 20 Lot 9	2 57	4 95
CASS CORPORATION
Burner, E. D. Trustee, White Elephant	55 29	60 30
same 1-2 Dave Finger lot	26 33	29 90
same 1 lot	7 90	10 55
Reda, Mary & Tony Lot in Cass	21 06	24 36
EDRAY DISTRICT
Auldridge, J E., 128 a 80, both sides Gbr R	11 80	14 64
Burner, E D, lots 39 and 40, Riverside	4 11	6 57
Beverage, J H and Clawson, 250a Dry Br. of Swagobaldue	22 34	25 71
Boggs, Wm, 13 53p Add Auldridge	1 12	3 43
Cathway, John, 250a Gauley and Elk River	130 59	139 37
same 575a "	294 76	311 75
same 2216a "	1135 99	1195 04
Cline, James F, 3a80, Big Spring Run	4 42	6 89
Courtney, Pearl, Block 1, Lot 18, W. Marlinton	5 14	7 65
Galford, Bessie C, 95a Head of Laurel Creek	23 63	27 06
Galford, Charles, 1-4 a Stony Creek Hill	31	2 58
same 2a 14 p "	4 62	7 10
Irvine. F. H, 72a Head Laurel Creek	15 89	18 93
same 109 "	13 42	16 34
Kelley, Senna, lot 10, Cloverlick	3 08	5 48
Kiner, E D, 4 a 48 p Laurel Creek	2 98	5 38
Lacy, Ben's Est., 4a Brushy Mtn	82	3 11
Levi, Plus R, 2044a Clover Cr. (B. T. 1917 to 1920)	736 91	776 01
Marshall, C E, 397a Valley Mtn	69 21	74 92
McCarty, Bessie's Estate, 2a Clover Creek	2 45	4 82
McDowell, Fenton, 5a Indian Draft	3 58	6 01
McLaughlin, A. M. Est, 1-8a	10	2 36
McNeel. Laura F's Est, 100a Laurel Creek	18 45	21 62
Newell, John A, 200 a Gauley Mts	61 52	66 85
Sharp, Leonard, 54.6 Stony Creek	8 92	11 62
Sharp, Clifford et al, 124a 80p Stony Creek	41 01	45 31
Sharp, Emmett, 4a 80p Dry Branch	2 77	5 16
same 9a "	1 85	4 19
Sharp, D W, 100a Greenbrier River	12 31	15 18
Sharp, E G and John's estate, 104a Dry Branch	17 02	20 12
Sharp, Wm. Elliott, 9 3-16a, Laurel Creek	4 11	6 57
same 11a "	1 75	4 09
same 56 a "	9 23	11 94
Shrader, Luther and Margie, Lot 7, Riverside	10 25	13 01
Sharp, George G, 38a, Williams River	7 79	10 48
Sharp, Divers, 60a Laurel Creek	13 94	16 89
Shinaberry, Ira, 1a 93 p, Clover Creek	20	2 46
Tallman, Rosa 23 a W Gbr	2 35	4 71
Tibbs, Highland R. 2 a 80 p Partition of 16 a	31	2 57
Watts, J. M. Trustee Lots 9,42,56, Riverside	6 15	8 71
Walker, H. H. Harry 2 a 80 p Partition 16 a	31	2 57
Welford, D. M. 3 a 80 p Buckeye	70	2 99
Woods, W. E. 18 a Head Stony Creek	3 89	6 33
same 52 a 32 p "	7 27	9 88
Yeager, C. A. Trustee, Strip Land Campbelltown	20	2 46
Marlinton corporation
Yeager. C. A. Block 22 Lot 5, 6, & 1-2 of 4	42 98	47 38
same Block 46 Lot 6, 7, 8, 9, 11, 12	105 95	113 50
HUNTERSVILLE DISTRICT
Alderman, G. W. & W. C. 60 a head of Cummings Cr. (bal due) " Timothy's est.	$2.63	$5.01
Houpt, J. M.; Turk R. S. and Lockridge, Maggie 767 a Deer Cr.	65.61	71.14
Bird, Uriah 105 a part 135a tract	5.39	7.91
same 130 a East Greenbrier river	6.68	9.26
same 121 a " " " "	9.59	12.32
Bradshaw heirs 100 a Marlins mountain	3.48	5.95
Burner, E. D. 31 a 40 p Thorny Creek	1.02	3.32
Cundiff, Frances 121 a East Buckeye	7.88	10.52
Curry, C S. 1 q Frost	3.45	5.88
Dixon, Alcinda J. Block 3 Lot 9 M. Springs	42	2.69
Durbin, Chas. R. 34 a Joe Dilley Land	4.10	6.56
Fertig, Geo. R. 112 a Thorny Creek (Bal Due)	8.75	11.44
Glascock, W. E. Block 2 Lot 13 M Springs	42
Harlon, J. B., T. J., H. C. Block 8 lots 1, 2 M Springs Holt, H. A.	.85	3.14
Mathews, A. F. Est 130 a Alley Mts.	8.88	11.57
Meadows Mtn. Lbr. Co. 11,000 a North Fork Douthard's Cr.	564.56	595.04
O'Connell. D. O. 410 a J. L. Dixon land	21.03	24.38
Paul Richards lease 27 a Irvine land	1.80	4.14
Peery, Maggie S. 300 a Thomas creek	25.65	26.93
Ryder, J. H. and Ervine Don 31 a 40 p Thorny creek	10.69	11.22
Ryder, S B. Block 1 lot 6 M Springs	.42	2.69
Slayton, Lydia and H. E. 48 a Beaver creek	5.13	7.64
Sharp, M. Lindsay's est 81 a Thorny creek	5.28	7.79
Sullivan, Miss Nora Block 6 lot 6 M Springs	.42	2.69
Vinquesney, J. A. 64 a 120 p Knapps creek	5.51	8.03
same 400 a Knapps creek	34.21	38.17
Yeager, C. A. and Vinquesney, J. A. 2297 a Beaver creek	117.88	126.02
same 44.7 q School lands	1.55	3.88
same 18 a Beaver creek	.85	3.14
same 110 q Beaver creek	3 77	6.21
Yeager, Charles est 180 a 80 p East Buckeye	7.00	9.60
same 60 a adj. John F. Shrader	2.05	4.40
same 1652 a Cochran's creek	84.79	91.28
same 47 a James Lockridge land	2.48	4.85
same 11q a and 7 p Cochran's creek	57.07	62 17
same Black 4 lots 5, 6 M Springs	.85	3.14
Yeager, J. W. Block 4 lots 4 M Springs	.42	2.69
HILLSBORO CORPORATION, LITTLE LEVELS DISTRICT
Adkins, A. D. Hillsboro	23.78	27.21
Dillingham, D. J. Block 1 lot 5	2.88	4.75
LITTLE LEVELS DISTRICT
Auldridge, L. C. 25 a adjoining K. O. Wade	16.65	19.73
Bolden, Ver 2 a near Seebert	2.56	4.94
Dwyer. J. G. and J. W. 131 a 131 p Hills creek	31.12	34.98
Moore, Lena M. 62 a near Hillsboro	74.25	80 21
McClure, Fannie E. Heirs 8 a Stephen Hole Run	15.37	18.39
Sparks, S. A. 81 2-5 a Hills creek	16.77	19.86
Sydenstricker, T. A. 9 a 80 p near Seebert	10.24	13.01
Savory, James 1 a M Stamping creek	1.28	3.59
Stewart, Geo. R. est. 2 a Seebert	3.78	6 26
Walton, J. H. 40 a Droop Mountain	6.41	8.98
Williams, A. D. Trustees 58 a 80 p Laurel run	2.70	5.08
same 2629 a Laurel run	67,83	73.05
same 445 a Poplar Flats	11.38	14.20
Yeager, C. A. 234 a Hill creek	29.95	33.70
same 135 a Hill creek	16.78	19.8
same 204 q Rush Run	26.12	29.68
same A. W. Hill land	12.80	15.69

Any of the aforesaid tracts or lots may be redeemed by the payment to the undersigned Sheriff before sale of the amount due thereon.

Given under my hand this 9th day of November, 1923.

B. B. BEARD, Sheriff of Pocahontas County
By C. C. CLENDENEN, Deputy.

CONCORD NORMAL

The following about the Concord Normal football team is taken from the Bluefield, Telegraph. Steri Wooddell is captain of this team, and Arnett, Guy and Hull Yeager, Francis Harris, Craig Richardson and other Marlinton boys play on it

What would you say to a bird if he would tell you Concord College, in our own Mercer county was nine points better than the great Pennsylvania University eleven? Well, if we would dope out a game between the two, as some of the great sport writers are in the habit of doing, figuring comparative scores Concord would be exactly nine points better than Pennsylvania and thirty-three points better than the sensational Center college.

It is a long way home, but here is the way it is done. Concord beat Marshall college by three points. West Virginia beat Marshall eighty-one points. West Virginia would then be 78 points better than Concord. West Virginia beat Washington and Lee 63 points. Therefore W. & L. is fifteen points better on paper than the Athens school. W. & L. defeated V. P. I. by twelve points, making the Tech boys only three points better than Concord Then V. P. I. turned in a nine point victory over Maryland. Rating the Concord team as six points better than Maryland, Maryland in turn trimmed the great Pennsylvania by three points, making Concord nine points better than Pennsylvania. Center fell before Penn 24 to 0 making Concord thirty three points above the Kentucky institution. Yesterday, Yale only defeated Maryland by a two point margin, so our Concord is still seven points better than old stately Eli.

It would take a long time to convince Gratland Rice or Walter Camp that Concord could give any of the Eastern teams a battle. But there is all the dope even if it don't mean anything.

THE FIRST THANKSGIVING

BY BARBARA WENTE

The Pilgrims came, long, long ago,
And built their houses in the snow,
Some of the Indians friendly were,
And traded for trinkets, costly fur.

But some of the Red Men were, I fear,
Rather unfriendly to the Pilgrims near
They fought over fish and meat and fowls,
And on occasion set up warlike howls.

Massasoit, a friendly Indian was,
And did not let his arrow buzz,
But gave food to the suffering band,
And taught them to grow corn upon the land.

The crops were good, the war had ceased,
The Pilgrims decided to have a feast;
They invited Samoset and many of his race,
Who sat around the board while Bradford said grace.

The stuffed wild goose, and the turkey fine,
Were put on the table in a steaming line,
The cranberry jell and the pumpkin pies,
Were dainties good to the Indians eye.

With dignity they ate the meal,
Then the peace agreement did they seal;
They smoked and talked in a friendly line,
And drank their pleasure in New England wine.

Then giving thanks to the Pilgrim band,
The Indians went to their forest land,
And since the Pilgrims pointed the way,
We have celebrated Thanksgiving Day.

In memory of John Lewis Carpenter who departed this life October 19th, 1923, after an illness of about two weeks of a complication of diseases. his age was 66 years 10 months 17 days. He is survived by his wife and three children, Mrs. G. A. Fertig, Mrs. Oda Gay and Tolbert Carpenter. Funeral services were conducted in the home by Rev. Eubank after which the body was conveyed to a beautiful spot on his home place and layed to rest. The many floral tributes showed that he had a host of friends. He was a good honest citizen and will be greatly missed by his many friends as well as in the home.

Honor roll of Raywood school, Mrs. H. H. Schofield prin.—Dan and Helen Friel, Charles Pritchard, Louis Wetherholt, Jim and Larry Yearego, Chas. Gladys and Pearl Malcom, Fay Conley, Virginia Dickson, Evely and McNeer Kerr, Mary Eddy, Marilla Schofield, Cathrine Wolverton. Primary room, Mrs. Clyde Wooddell teacher—Richard and Carl Conley, Earl and Violette Gragg, Hunter, Holland and Lee Roy Sprouse, Grant Eddy, Friel, Marie Dickson, Pearl and Francis Weatherholt. Second month, upper room, Dan and Helen Friel, Chas. Pritchard, Olliver Sprouse, Louis Weatherholt, Jim and Larry Yearego, Fay and Marth Conley, Virginia Dickson, Evelyn and McNeer Kerr, Pearl and Gladys Malcom, Marilla Schofield, Catherine Wolverton. Primary room—Richard and Carl Covley, Frank Ray, Hunter and Lee Roy Sprouse, Frank and Nick Yearego, John Clair Friel, Jeanive and Virgie Ray, Frances Weatherholt, Mary Frances Malcom.

Honor Roll Cherry Grove school, Clara Sheets teacher—Abbie, Montie, Leila and Margie McClowd, Jane Hevner, Letha and Emma Curry, Willa Colan, Leila Grogg, Velma Galford, Raymond Byron, Garland Hevner, Eugene McClowd, Clay Houchin, Paul Slavens, Gail Galford, Virginia and Burr Houchin, Helen Tallman.

Now is the time to have that family group made you have talked about for so long. Use them for Xmas and solve the gift problem. Gays Studio.

INVESTING IN BABIES

A retail furniture concern that claims two hundred thousand customers has grown from nothing to its present vast proportions because its owners early saw the value of the baby as a business asset. A member of the firm says: "The most important customer for us to get is the baby, for babies are customers for life if you get them started right. So our plans for making friends include babies, as well as grown-ups." When this firm hears of a new baby, its name is placed on the firm's Cradle Roll. A note of congratulation is sent to the father and mother on the baby's first birthday. The member of the firm goes on to say: "We tell them that we have a silver cup with the baby's name on it if they will bring the baby to call. Most of the parents come, and we have a man waiting at the door to greet them, a man who loves babies." The firm keeps track of a baby until that baby is ready to be married; then it offers its services to furnish the new home; and when a baby of the second generation arrives, the firm is on hand again. That business concern has its home city divided into districts, with a capable man in charge of each district, whose business it is to look out for new homes and new babies and get birth dates and report them to headquarters.

Two points in the methods of this business concern are worthy of careful study on the part of all parents and Church workers.

1. The firm has a system and that system includes babies. It finds it profitable to employ a man to do nothing else but notice babies and keep up with them. If the Cradle Roll is "good business" for a furniture store. why not for the Church?

2. The firm knows that the shortest way to the hearts of parents lie through their children. To let parents know that the firm knows they have babies, and that even the birthdays of those babies are on the firm's books, is good "business psychology." The Cradle Roll is equally good "religious psychology." In the hands of a sensible and sympathetic woman it is, year in and year out, one of the most dependable and valuable of all the recruiting agencies of the Church. Even parents who are indifferent to religion are pleased when the Church takes notice of their babies, and when there is trouble in the home the Cradle Roll Superintendent and the "baby's pastor" are called in.

On the great Western ranches, where the cattle are wild, the ranchmen have a saying, "Bring the young calf home, and the cow will follow." As builders of God's kingdom we need at least the wisdom of the furniture merchants who have discovered that "babies are customers for life if you get them started right" and the rancher who knows the best way to get a wild cow home. Is there a Cradle Roll in your Church? Is it doing all that it could do for the babies and homes of your community?—Sunday School Magazine.

The death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs J. J. McNeilan of Campbelltown, November 12, 1923, and called away their darling little son, Joe, aged five years, ten days. he leaves to mourn his loss, father, mother, mother, two sisters and three brothers. Funeral service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Hill. He will be sadly missed in his home, but God knows best and all is well, "Suffer the little children to come unto me and forbid them not for of such is the kingdom of God."

M.

Mr. Charles Frederick See, Sr., announces the marriage of his daughter Celesta May to Mr. Clyde Thomas Roberts on Wednesday November twenty first Nineteen hundred and twenty-three, Lexington, Kentucky. At home twenty-eight street, Catletsburg, Kentucky.

Miss See has many friends in Marlinton where she taught in the Edray District High school for a number of years.

November 19, 1923.

Editor Pocahontas Times:—

We have entirely too many officials telling people what they must do and what they can't do; spying into homes, private accounts, methods of life—laying down the law as to what they eat, drink. wear, buy or spend. where they shall go and when. All the family diseases are recounted, the visiting nurse is told where we sleep and why married or single.

Your bank account is shown up, your debts, the number of days your child has attended school. You must explain why you can't, give more to the Armenian relief, starving India. missionaries to the heathen. Red Cross, Y. W. C. A. and bazaars to make the blind see in darkest Africa. You are exploited, restrained, assessed and reassessed, bonded, District bonded, and State bonded, directed advised, prohibited muleted, admonished, threatened, examined, criticised, preyed upon (and prayed low) until you are ready to crawl into a cave and write on the outside—mentally, morrally, physically and financially embarrassed.

M. H. M.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Nottingham, Harlie Nottingham and Elmer Hill, parents, brother and husband of Mrs. Elmer Hill wish to thank all of their friends at Nottingham, Durbin and of the entire community for their many kindnesses, helpfulness and sympathy shown during the recent short illness and death of Mrs. Elmer Hill.

We can furnish you the latest and up to date style in Portraits for Xmas. Make your engagements early and avoid the rush. Gays Studio.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLII NO 17 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, DECEMBER 6 1923 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

ONE HOUR

Men of Marlinton—

Can't you give ONE HOUR every Sunday morning to the study of God's Word?

The Men's Bible Class of the Marlinton Presbyterian Church cordially and prayerfully invite you Come and join us in this important work.

ONLY ONE HOUR

GAME NOTES

As near as we can figure out there were more than thirty deer killed in Pocahontas county in the ten day open season, closing November 10. In addition to the twenty-five listed below, five or six were killed on the far side of the Black Forest by hunters who come in from the Nicholas and Webster side. The hunters known to have killed deer are—J. B. Nottingham, George Williams, Wellington Ruckman, H. L. Kincaid, on Alleghany: Dewey Burr, Winnie Smith, Moses Underwood, on Beaver Lick; Henry Waugh, Dexter Sharp, Marion Sharp, E. M Johnson, on Thorny Creek; Orvid McMillion, on Spice Run; Hevener Dilley, Cleve Withrow, Lonnie Waugh, N. A. McElwain, Granville Wilfong, on Marlin Mountain; Fred Galford, on Yew Mountain: J. W. Bible, Guy Doddrill, on Middle Elk.

A doe and a fawn were killed by parties unknown on Middle Elk. The train killed a fawn near Seebert, and dogs got one on Knapps Creek.

The law requires that a report be made to the State Game Commission at Charleston of all deer killed. Give the length of horn, the date, the place, and the name of the luck hunter.

There is a report current that the wild turkey season does not close until December fifteenth. This is a mistake. The law states that the season closes November 30. Like deer, the fortunate few who got turkeys are required to report the number killed to the State Game Commission at Charleston.

It is lawful to trap and kill skunks between December 1 and February 1. Be careful not to trap skunks on the enclosed lands of any person without written permission.

Wild geese, ducks, brants and rabbits can be hunted until December 31. Hunting rabbits with ferrets is unlawful, except by land owners on their own premises.

About rabbits eating young orchard stock—just rub the trees with hog lights or anything that has blood or grease in it and your trees are safe. This writer found this out after he had spent 30 cents a tree for several hundred wire protectors for his trees.

CLUTTER--BEARD

Married, Eric Saxon Clutter and Miss Eva Marguerite Beard, at the Manse, Saturday afternoon, December 1, 1923, by Rev. H H. Orr, officiating minister. The bride is a daughter of M. L. Beard, of Hillsboro. The groom is a member of 1924 graduating class of Washington and Lee University.

Mrs. Flora Brown Bestor, died at her home in Baltimore, on Monday, November 25, 1923, after an extended illness. The deceased was the widow of the late Roland Bestor, of Baltimore. Her father was the late William L. Brown, of Greenbank. She is survived by her two sons, Odin and William Bestor. S. L. Brown, of Marlinton, is a surviving brother. Mrs. Bestor will be remembered by many friends in Pocahontas County, where her girlhood days were spent.

Attendance at the Methodist Sunday School was 217. At the Presbyterian 163. At the latter an offering of $74 50 was made to the Orphanage at Lewisburg.

Get your orders in early for kodak enlargements is you want them for Xmas —Gay's Studio.

LARGE ACREAGE

When in Pocahontas county, W. Va., this fall I was the quest of Sherman Gibson, a hustling farmer who knows how he got every dollar he has made. He owns 750 acres of land, many of which are level. His rotation is corn, oat wheat and clover, which I tried to show him was not the best, but we found it hard to figure out for his conditons a better one. I suggest that he substitute soy beans for the oats growing sweet clover for the hay between the corn and the oats. This would prove to be a much better soil-building rotation than he has. He is beginning to breed Angus cattle. His home is equipped with an electric lighting system and running water. He keeps about 90 cattle and 175 sheep. His son Richard seems to be as much interested in the farm and livestock as the father. The two make a splendid team on the farm and in business.—W. D. Zinn. Nationrl Stockman and Farmer.

READING CIRCLE

The Edray District Reading Circle will meet at the High school building, Marlinton, Saturday afternoon, December 8, 1923

Teachers will please study the "Early Period of Stories and Verse of West Virginia."

The following writers and works are assigned for discussion:

Margaret Agnew Blennerhasset and Joseph Doddridge by Carrie Brown.

John Brown Dillon and Anne Payal, by Ann Correll.

Thomas J. Lees and Alexander Scott Withers, by G. D. McNeill:

John Keansley Mitchell and Philip Pendleton Cooke, by Agnes Price.

Thomas Dunn English, by A. W. Hill.

David Hunter Strother, by Pearl Carter.

Henry Bedinger, by Dorothy Irvine

Teachers come and let us try to make arrangements to have a small group Reading Circle that you can easily attend.

Clara L. Palmer, Chairman.

READING CIRCLE

All teachers of Huntersville District will meet at Minnehaha Springs Saturday December 8, at two o'clock p. m to outline and organize the Reading Circle work for the year.

At the District Institute the teachers present decided it was best to have two places to hold the Reading Circle, one at Minnehaha and one at Frost, with a chairman for each place Therefore, all teachers feel it your duty to attend meeting December 8, so the work can be organized.

E. E. W.

The teachers present at Huntersville District Institute decided to hold their first Reading Circle Dec. 8, at 1:30 p. m., at Minnehaha. The book used is "Stories and Verse of West Virginia." This book is very interesting, and one that every teacher should own and use. We hope to have every teacher in the District present Don't be a slacker.

S. W.

There will be a Christmas tree and program at the Frost Church December 24th. beginning at 7 o'clock p. m.

We have a nice collection of panoram town views and large groups. Send your absent friend one for Xmas. Make your selection early while they last.—Gay's Studio.

Now is the time to select your Victrola for Christmas

Victrola Instruments and Victor Records are so much in demand for gifts that there is a shortage every Christmas. Place your order now, while all the twenty-one instrument styles at from $25 up and complete record stocks are available.

AMOS WOODDELL

First National Bldg. MARLINTON

MRS. LILLIE B. LOCKRIDGE

Mrs. Lillie B Lockridge died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Milligan, on Camden Avenue, on Tuesday morning, December 4, 1923. after a lingering illness. Her age was 88 years.

Funeral services will be held from the home on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. George J. Cleaveland of the Episcopal Church, assisted by Rev. H. H. Orr. Burial at the Lockridge family graveyard on Knapps Creek Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

Thus is chronicled the passing of a gentlewoman who through a long life exerted a wonderful influence for all things good, and the circle is ever widening.

Mrs. Lockridge was born Moser, and come from family lines occupying prominent places in South Carolina, from the earliest history of that colony. Her father was Dr. Philip Moser, who lived near Charleston, South Carolina.

In 1856 she became the wife of Colonel James T. Lockridge of Pocahontas county. His heart safely trusted in her and she did him good all the days of his life. His death occurred in 1886.

Colonel and Mrs. Lockridge were the parents of four children. Mrs. J W. Milligan and H. M. Lockridge survive them. Mrs. Laura Lockridge Herold, wife of Lanty W. Herold, died fifteen years ago, and Dr. J. B. Lockridge died three years ago.

Mrs. Lockridge was a woman of charming personality with unusual mental endowments and strength of character. She retained her mental powers through her last illness, and her thoughtfulness and consideration of those who ministered to her was in keeping with a long life that had been spent wholly in loving service for others. All her days she had been a consecrated christian, and a member of the Episcopal church.

The praise and properties of a good wife and mother as given in Lemuel's lesson in the thirty first of Proverbs is the fitting tribute to the life of Mrs. Lockridge.

"Her children rise up and call her blessed... A woman that feareth the Lord, she shall be praised."

A LETTER FROM DAVIS STUART SCHOOL LEWISBURG. W. VA.

November 29, 1923.

Mr. L. O. Simmons,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Dear Mr. Simmons:

We desire to express our special thanks to you today—Thanksgiving—for the two barrels of vegetables you very kindly sent to the Orphanage. We have many things for which to be thankful, for we remember that you thought of our children last year, and then this year again you have not failed to remember them The things you sent are perishable, but the motive which has prompted your gift is written upon the pages of life. It is for this motive for which we are indeed thankful, as well as for the gift itself. In the name of our girls and boys. I thank you, and express the hope that your kind act toward them has brought added cheer to you at this season.

Most sincerely,
Robert K. Robinson,
Supt.-Treas.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

Sunday School 9:45

3 30 p m Junior Christian Endeavor

7 00 p m. Senior Christian Endeavor

11 00 a m. Sermon: "The Hero Book."

7 30 p m. Sermon: "At the Door."

Episcopal Church: Evening Prayer and sermon Sunday night at 7:30. All welcome.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

J. Herndon Billingsley, Pastor.

Sunday School 9:45 a. m.

A. S. Overholt, Supt.

Epworth League 6:45p m.

Preaching, 11:00 a. m. and 7:45 p m.

Subjects: Morning "What is a Christian."

Evening: "Without God in the World"

Prayer meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Everybody cordially welcome to all services.

YOUR HANDS

Need special attention at this time of the year when you are husking corn and doing other outside work to keep them from getting sore and chapped. Get a box of Wallaces's Carbolic Salve at your dealer's for 15c; rub in well at night just before going to bed and you will be giving them that special attention.

State of West Virginia.

At Rules held in the Clerk's office of the circuit court of Pocahontas County, on Monday, the 31 day of December, 1923, the following order was entered.

Dr. Charles S. Kramer,
vs. In Chancery
N P. Weiford, Nixon Weiford and Dewey N. Weiford, Executor of Gratton S. Weiford, deceased.

The object of the above entitled suit is to subject to sale the real estate owned by the defendant, N P. Weiford, to pay the liend existing against said real estate. And it appearing by affidavit filed in this cause that the said defendants, Nixon Weiford and Dewey N. Weiford, Executor of the estate of Gratton S. Weifore, deceased. are nonresidents of this state, is ordered that they do appear here within one month after the date of the first publication hereof and do what is necessary to protest their interests.

A Copy Teste.
D. C. Adkison, Clerk
P. T. Ward, Solicitor.

STATE ROADS

West Virginia is to have four main state thoroughfares—two running east and west and two running north and south—called "framwork" roads by a writer in the Charleston Mail of December 2.

No. 1 crosses the state from Wood to Hampshire Counties. No. 2 from Hancock County to the Kentucky line by way of Kanawha and Boone Counties No. 3 is the Midland trail from Huntington to White Sulphur. No. 4 from the Pennsylvania line in Monongalia County to Mercer County by way of Braxton and Nicholas counties.

Pocahontas is not touched by any of these, but Route No. 56 has been designated by the government as a primary Federal road, and starts from Grafton on Route No. 1 and goes through Randolph and Pocahontas to the Virginia line to connect with the Jefferson Highway. Route No. 24 begins on the Midland Trail. Route No. 3 at Lewisburg and connects Greenbrier, Pocahontas and Randolph Counties and with Route No. 56 the Midland Trail to link Route No. 1 at Grafton.

Of the 3600 miles included in the State Road system, 850 miles have been completed and 1100 more are under contract. It is expected that 130 more miles will be let to contract in December.

Of the fifty million dollars of bonds the State voted, the Legislature has made two issues of fifteen millions each. Of this thirty millions dollars, twelve and a half millions will not be available until next year.

DURBIN

The sick people of our community are better.

There is a revival meeting going on in the M. E. Church here. There is good attendance and Rev. Rorke is preaching old fashioned sermons.

The C. & O. railroad have a carpenter force at work here now doing some repair work.

Wm Greathouse has bought a new gasolene engine and is preparing to operate a mill for the farmers of this neighborhood.

Lloyd Kisner is our champion hunter—six coons, one wild cat, one possum, lots of rabbits and pheasants.

Dr. C. B. Collins of White Sulphur Springs, has been here on business for a few days.

Miss Mona Kincaid is in Elkins visiting her uncle Luther Burner.

W. W. Warshall, who has been sick for a long time, is able to be around again.

C. F. Hull was at Elkins last week on business.

A. V. Miller was in town Thanksgiving Day. Mr. Miller was a successful lumberman at Nida a few years ago.

The Durbin Mercantile Co. has bought a new Ford truck from the Goodsell Utility Co.

Ralph Yeager, the oil man, is very busy distributing oil from the oil station here.

A large force of men are at work fixing up the W. M. railroad track.

S. L. Brown makes the following report on the November weather: hottest 58 degrees on the 14th and 15th; coldest 12 degrees on the 10th and 20th: mean temperature for the month 36 degrees Total rainfall 4.01 inches greatest in 24 hours, 1 30 inches on the 4th. A trace of snow on the 15th. Rain fell on 10 days; clear days 11, partly cloudy 8 cloudy 11, sleet on the 7th.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs Ellis Dumire, near Edray, Nov. 27, a son.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs Jesse Beverage, Onoto, Dec. 3, a son.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. J. E Kee, Dec. 4, 1923, a daughter.

Notice

We are again in the field to buy fur. We were a little slow in advertising. The reason was this, there is thousands of dollars worth of fur wasted every year by being caught too soon and by being poorly stretched and handled.

Dont be misled by those high quoted price lists. We would be glad to get the fur for what they will pay you. If we cant get your fur by honest grading and a fair square deal we dont want it. We bought fur from so many shippers and trappers last season and so many of you made the statement that our grading was perfectly satisfactory We want to say we will give you the same honest grading, and in selecting our buyers we aim to get men that are strictly honest and will give you all they can for your furs, so now if honest dealing and honest grading means anything we want your furs.

Skunk is starting off slow and Mfgs. are not wanting muskrat only at a low price, so I will say to those who are buying fur to ship to us to be very careful about those two articles.

Yours very Resp.,
L. D SHARP.

Notice

All persons indebted to us, please come in and settle, we want to get our business shaped up before January 1st. All accounts outstanding after January 1st, will be placed in the hands of a collector.

Farmers Supply Co.
Arbovale, W. Va.

WANTED—a photo of Father and Mother for Xmas. This is what you buy a girl will appreciate most.—Gay's Studio.

CLEEK--MALCOMB

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cleek was the scene of a pretty home wedding when their daughter Miss Jewel became the bride of Mr. Claude Malcomb.

The bride wore a dress of navy blue satin and carried a boquet of pink and white carnations. The groom wore a dark gray suit. Mrs. Herbert Crizer, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a navy blue canton crepe dress. Mr. Herbert Crizer was best man, wearing a dark gray suit. The Wedding Bell march was played by Mrs. J. A. Cleek, mother of the bride. Rev Palmer Eubank, pastor of the bride, performed the ceremony

The house was beautifully decorated with green pines and potted plants After the ceremony a four course dinner was served.

Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Crizer. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Malcomb, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Harper, Evaleigh and Ward Harper, Leland Crizer, Mrs. Eudora Pritchard, Miss Mary Lou Pritchard, Miss Margaret Wolfe, Miss Virginia Barnett Mrs. Effie Cleek, Miss Lillian Cleek, Miss Mary Cleek, Ward Cleek, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cleek and family, D. A. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hiner, Miss Blanche Hiner, Miss Reta Hiner, Norman Hiner, Mrs. Kelley and grandson, Lloyd Shinaberry. X

GAME SEASON CLOSED

As this paper goes to press a telegram comes from George W. Sharp, chief game protector, asking that notice be given that the game season closed November 30, and that all reports to the contrary are false.

The meeting of Little Levels District Reading Circle is postponed from December 8th to December 15, at 2 o'clock p. m. The Topic is 1st, Early Period; 2nd Civil War and Construction Period. Also Fanny Kemble Johnson in Period of late Development. Text: Stories and Prose of West Virginia.

Violenta Harbourne, Leader.

FIREWORKS REGULATIONS

The use of fireworks on the streets and alleys in the town of Marlinton is forbidden, under penalty of ten dollars fine, and in default of payment the offeneer may be confined in jail for disturbing the peace. Fireworks may be used on the commons of the town, but not within five hundred feet of any building; or may be used in any yard or enclosed lot with the consent of the owner.

Approved by Town Council, December 3, 1923.

N. R. PRICE, Mayor.

LARRO

What is it? What is it for? What will it do? What does it cost? Where can you get it? How does it come? Who makes it? What do you know about it? Whore can these and many other questions about

The Greatest Dairy Ration on the Market

Be answered? See the authorized agent:

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.

Marlinton, West Virginia

"It makes more milk cheaper."

LOOK and READ

We just want to remind you that our Closing Out Sale is still going on, and we have a substantial stock of merchandise of desirability and quality. It will pay you to call and get our prices when in need of anything

Better anticipate your need and buy while we have a good assortment.

FARMER'S SUPPLY CO.

Arbovale, W. Va.

The Presbyterian Sunday School will hold its Christmas service on Sunday evening December 23rd at 6 o'clock.

Miss Dora Fortune has a position in the Times office.

Among the Thanksgiving guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Mann last week were Misses Mary and Gladys Warwick, Robert Patterson, Calvin Warwick and Raymond Williams, of Hot Springs, Va.

USEFUL

CHRISTMAS

GIFTS

The Value Store

Men's Suits

Styleplus guaranteed all wool suits

$25, $30, $35

Herringhones, Gassimeres and worsteds

Crisp December days and the approach of Christmas make one think of warm winter clothes. A glance at the prices here will show you that we can supply your demands at remarkably favorable prices.

Men's Overcoats

Styleplus all wool. Guaranteed to give satisfaction. Good style

$25 and $30

cheaper coats at $15 and $20

Women's Coats

In the new high pile materials, with and without fur collars

$20 to $40

A few cheap coats $10.00 to $15.00

Women's Suits and Dresses

Some special prices during the holidays on Suits and Dresses. Still have a few dresses at sale prices from

$5 to $15

Gloves

Kid and Fabric gloves $1 25 to $2 50

LADIES' SILK HOSIERQ

Ladies can always use one more pair of good silk hose. Chiffons in the newer shades as atmosphere and gray and the heavier silks in almond. $1.00 up

Ladies' Silk Und'w

Mests, Stepins, Teldies bloomers, etc. $2.25 to $5 00

MADEIRA

Beautiful patterns in center prices, napkins, tray clothes and handkerchiefs are very appropriate gifts for her.

Also a silk umbrellas, a Bradley Sweater will please her.

Men's Shirts

Ties and Reefers

"Kingly" Shirts $2 to $6.50

Knit and Silk Ties from 50c to $1.50

Reefers from $1.00 to $2 50

and intermoved silk hose will make easy and appropriate gifts for him

A. S. Overholt & Son

Marlinton, - - - - - West Virginia

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES
Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.
CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.
THURSDAY DECEMBER 6, 1923

They sprung a new word on me the other day. I knew no more what it meant than a rabbit would. It was the word quodlibet, used by schoolmen of the Middle Ages to designate the subtle questions in casuistry on which they delighted to exercise their reasoning powers. The literal definition or translation of the word is "as you please," and was practised by reasoners then as now who took a subject that was not capable of proof and did as they pleased with it. One of the most fruitful subjects was angels. Thomas Aquinas wrote three hundred and fifty eight articles on angels. One of the articles was devoted to prove that the body of an angel was made of thick air. Another was whether more than one angel could occupy the same space. And another was how much an angel weighed.

Then the scoffers had a fling at the quodlibet. Giordano Bruno wrote a satire on: Whether a chimera ruminating in a vaccuum devourgth second intentions.

I was figuring on writing one and I was going to take for my subject the identity of the two soldiers who got up early on Monday morning, October 10, 1774, in their camp at the mouth of the Great Kanawha River, and went out to hunt deer And having proceeded up the Ohio River about two miles ran into a body of Indians so great that they could not stand closely packed on four acres. One of the hunters was killed on the spot but the other ran back to the camp and gave the alarm and in a few minutes the battle of Point Pleasant was on. Gen. Cornstalk had collected a force sufficient to surprise and overwhelm the army of white settlers under General Andrew Lewis and but for the chance discovery in time there would have been nothing left of our army and the United States would not have been formed, and so forth.

So it struck me that too little attention had been paid to the two hunters and I commenced to browse through the books at hand and found that a good deal of attention after all has been paid to the subject. Most of the historians say that two men of Captain Russell's company ran on the Indians before sunrise, and others that two men of Captain Shelby's company brought in the word. But I have rejected all the evidence except what is contained in the letter that Isaac Shelby, a young soldier in the battle, wrote to his uncle John Shelby, for he disposes of the matter in a positive way. The only two companies that had joined Lewis from Fincastle County, now Kentucky and points beyond, were the men under Captain Russell and Captain Shelby, the father of the young man who wrote the letter, Captain Evan Shelby. The young man afterwards was the first governor of Kentucky.

The Fincastle troops were to meet Lewis who had brought the army down from Lewisburg. Lewis's army was the largest that had been assembled on American soil up to that time and he was determined to wipe out the Indian Shawnee towns in the Chillicothe part of Ohio.

They had no idea that they were in any danger because the army seemed to be too strong for an Indian attack but Cornstalk almost got them. If it had not been for the hunters in the dim grey dawn of the morning, few if any of soldiers would have got back home. As it was they fought face to face all day long and the Indians retired that night because Col. Christian and the rest of the Kentucky troops got there by a night march.

This war had been in the making since April of 1774. The settlers were swarming across the Alleghany. Daniel Boone and others were finding out about the rich lands of Kentucky. and enough population had gone there to make a county called Fincastle. Way down in the Tennessee part of North Carolina the people claimed to be Virginians still, taking the state line with them as they moved. It was apparent that as soon as winter broke in 1774 that there was serious trouble on the border. Col. Wm. Preston was in charge of the defense of the settlers there. He was also the surveyor of that county of Fincastle. He sent a messenger to Kentucky early that year to warn the white people that Indian raids were about to begin He asked for the best man that they could get for the purpose and so they sent him Daniel Boone.

And when Lewis marched his Botetourt soldiers and the Augusta men, and the two Kentucky companies down the New River and the Great Kanawha, he was expecting to meet the Kentucky men, and halted at Point Pleasant to make a junction with them from the south, while Dunmore brought his part of the army down in boats.

Young Isaac Shelby says that the two men that got up before daylight and discovered that they were about to be overwhelmed with Indians were two men of his father's company, Val Sevier and James Robertson. And he also mentions the other two men that came in contact with the Indians but does not give their names. They were Mooney and Hickman, the latter being the one that was killed, and the first to fall in that battle.

This James Robertson had moved down on the Holston and when they finally took up the slack in the State line and made it straight he fell to Tennessee and played a great part in the history of that State, having later become a general.

He was a man of great force of character. At the time he married in Virginia he could not read or write and his wife taught him.

While the question of two men was being investigated in a way, Mr. W. A. Bratton mailed me from Madison, West Virginia, photograph copies of two letters that James Robertson had written in the year 1774 to Col. Wm. Preston, without knowing that I was tracing this very man.

Mr. Bratton got the copies from the Wisconsin Historical Association at Madison, Wisconsin, which pays a good deal more attention to what happened on the creek that you live on here in the Virginian mountains a hundred and seventy years ago than you do. His reason for getting these copies along with others was that he saw by the calendar that Coal River was mentioned in them and as he is now practising law in Boone County formed by Coal River, he ordered the copies.

Monday 23d of June, 1774,
Blue Stone

Sir:

This instant recd your letter by Henry Atkins and Andw Woods. We are just returned from Cole River. There we tarried some time endeavoring to make discoveries of Indians or their signs, though could see none. Here we are killing some meat and dressing it for our next journey to Cole River, which if not raining we will set off tomorrow, though the distance from Culberson's to Cole River is much more than we expected. It is at least sixty or seventy miles and really a bad way. We imagine the most proper place to watch the War Road in the matter of the enemy should they come in is about forty miles below Culberson's as they ever have made that a place of rendezvous, killing meat and equipping themselves before they made the attacks on the inhabitants. Sir, I am certain that you may depend on our discharging our duty, and the trust imposed in us.

Your humble servants,
James Robertson
Henry Hayes
Wm. Hallem

P. S. If you possibly could, send us some powder that is good. It would oblige us as what we have is so bad that we can scarcely kill provision. Send us a few sheets of paper. Any letters that you send order them to be left at William Crawford's on Blue Stone two miles below Culberson's. where we have left our horses. We will be there in three weeks.

They got back in less time than that:

Culberson's
July 5th, 1774

Sir:

I must beg a few days furlough about harvest to see my little crop secured, We have watched the War Road about the Glades and Paint Creek since I wrote you carefully though seen no fighting. This day met Capt. Floyd's company and set off with them tomorrow to the Glades, Paint Creek, and to Cole River, which will give some of the young boys a sweat. Three of my sons of bitches deserted from the company yesterday. A great drawback on the Meadow Creek company. I hear some of the new officers are not fond of being acquainted with our back parts here. I wish I had such an officer. I am dear sir with regards your servant,

James Robertson

N. B. I suppose that you have trouble enough with one thing or another these times. My compliments to Mrs. Preston and I wish you both much joy of your young son.

I do not know that country well enough to identify the movements of this troop of soldiers but it is likely that they were on Blue Stone river in Mercer county and crossed over to the headwaters of Paint Creek into Fayette County and proceeded down to the Kanawha River and crossed to Glade Creek and then swung in a circle to the mouth of Cole River where it enters the Kanawha and up that stream to their headquarters on Blue Stone. The route would cover the east and west war road of the Shawnees from the Chillicothe towns to the Watauga River where Robertson was living at that time, and it seems that some of his soldiers at least were from the Meadow Creek in the western part of Greenbrier county.

It is well known that the Indians were abroad all through West Virginia that summer of 1774 and that the white settlers were in a panic, building forts in every neighborhood and moving into them.

Dunmore was raising his army the object of which was to destroy the Ohio Indian towns. The northern Indians, the Iroquois were friendly. The Mingos, an independent tribe made up of runaway Senecas under Logan were on the warpath.

Robertson was a leading man in the Watauga settlements, and that was about the most unprotected out post of all the Virginia towns. They were in a Virginia county but they had no close connection with the government of Virginia. Two years before they had formed a local government by choosing five men to enforce the general laws of Virginia. The court organized and elected one of their number clerk and another sheriff and for many years exercised undisputed power over the property and lives of the settlement. Robertson was one of the five. The records of the court have been lost but it was known that they had agreed to a constitution under the title of the Articles of the Watauga Association. The country finally fell to Tennesee and the Watauga Association constitutes the first governing body of that State. It was an effective thing. One case against a horse thief was as follows: Defendant arrested on a Monday; tried and convicted on Wednesday; hanged on Friday. The government lasted six years, until North Carolina having established her claim against Virginia to a continuation of her north and south sides to the Mississippi, appointed the members of the court to a new system. The original idea is attributed to James Robertson, and it was no doubt with a feeling that he could deal with young ensigns from England that he wished that he had a chance to discipline some of them that did not like the backwoods. It was the year of 1772, that the British government entered into a treaty with the Cherokees to clear the Watauga country of white settlers, but with Robertson as their spokesman they defied the governor of Virginia, but at the same time they gave the Cherokees, eight thousand dollars worth of trade goods for the privilege of staying, which amount they proceeded to get back by collecting a certain sum of money per acre from each new settler that came to live among them. Robertson was born in Brunswick county in Virginia, but had settled in North Carolina east of the mountains, and had moved from there to Watauga, but finding Virginians Robertson had with others claimed the country for Virginia, and thus we see him two years afterwards serving under Col. Wm. Preston.

Robertson held a commission as captain from Virginia under date of 1765, and it was in that capacity that he was acting under Col. Preston in 1774.

The general movement towards Point Pleasant had already begun. Another letter from Culberson's in August indicates that he was still on the look out. And the fact that he was a member of Shelby's company which marched from Lewisburg in September, 1774, and was in the battle in October, leads me to believe that Mrs. Robertson and the neighbors secured the little crop that year.

It would have been no unusual thing for a captain of the pioneer troops to go in as a private for there was a great equality in those armies. When Col Charles Lewis, second in command at the battle, was shot and killed, he had a rifle in his hand and was using it as a common soldier.

Roosevelt says in his "Winning of the West," that Robertson's letters were almost as remarkable for their phenomenally bad spelling as for their shrewd common sense and homely, straightforward honesty

I do not agree as to the spelling. I corrected a few words as I copied the two letters given above but had no occasion to exercise my art any further than any decent copyist or typesetter would willingly do. His handwriting is good and he has a good command of language.

His pet name for his soldiers might be disapproved by the polite society of these piping days of peace, but that letter was written under the stress of great danger and excitement. All over the territory known as the Western Waters, pioneers had made their homes in the woods and started their clearings. The Indians were engaged in wiping these homes out and killing the women and children in the most horrible and revolting manner, and many a man was driven wild by the sight of the mutilated bodies of his wife and children when he returned to the place that his home had been.

Then too many of these desertions were to the Indians. The greatest reproach in those days was that a man had "painted his face."

That Capt. Floyd was the assistant surveyor of Fincastle County under Col. Preston. He left Preston's house April 9, 1774, to spend the summer surveying. That was before the Indian hostilities had commenced. They took to canoes at the mouth of Elk River, April 16 Before that they found the burning spring by the Kanawha. On April 20, they reached the mouth of the Kanawha where they found a body of twenty or thirty men in camp.

So this is what comes of my first effort at quodlibet. My first intention was to write of the Levite who passed by in the parable of the good Samaritan. I would have had a freer hand.

Notice To Stockholders

The regular annual Stockholders' meeting of the Pocahontas County Fair, incorporated, will be held at Marlinton, W. Va. Saturday December 8th, 1923, at 1.00 o'clock p. m.

If you cannot attend in person, please execute Proxy, affixing a 10 cent Revenue stamp and mail to the undersigned in time to reach the office before date of meeting.

This 27th of November, 1923.
C. K. Livesay, Secretary.

BAZAAR AND SUPPER

The Christian Endeavor of the Oak Grove Presbyterian Church at Hillsboro will hold a bazaar in the Hillsboro High School on Thursday, December 5. All kinds of fancy hand made articles for sale, beginning at 4:30 o'clock. Also a chicken and oyster supper, with ice cream and cake, The public is cordially invited.

A share of your business solicited

T. S. McNEEL
INSURANCE AND BONDS
Marlinton W. Va.
Successor to Goodsell Insurance Agency
Life, Fire and Accident, Automobiles and Live Stock, Bonds of all kinds, Money to Loan on Farms.
Office 2nd floor, First National Bank Building.

IF IT'S INSURANCE
YOU WANT. SEE
F. M. SYDNOR, Manager
HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC
Marlinton, West Virginia.

CHRISTMAS IS APPROACHING
and we anticipate a large Holiday Trade. We are making a special effort to please our customers by showing a complete line:—Diamond Goods, Ladies Wrist Watches at popular prices, Pearl Necklaces, Toilet Articles, Gents' Watches and Novelties of all kinds. Our repair department is complete and we can guarantee to give the very best service.
Your valued patronage will be greatly appreciated.
The Watch Shop
JEWELERS
East Side Cass

The Genuine Bruner Suitings
FOR FALL AND WINTER 1923-24 ON DISPLAY
For fine Tailoring, come in and inspect them.
W. A. THIEDE, Tailor
MARLINTON, W. VA.

C. J. Richardson
Marlinton, W. Va.

NOTICE

The following fiduciary account is before me for settlement—
H. C. Skaggs, Administrator of of Uriah Hevener, deceased.
P. T. WARD,
Commissioner of Accounts.

NO HUNTING OR TRAPPING

All persons are warned not to trespass on the lands of the undersigned, especially by hunting and trapping.
J. E. KEE,
Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR SALE—Turkey coops. Geo Rosen, Marlinton, W Va

STRAYED—From my place last June a red roan cow, dehorned, end off of left ear. bell on when last seen. Any one knowing where she is please notify me and recieve reward. M. F. Underwood. Huntersville, W. Va.

FOR SALE—In Cass one five room house and three good lots, 1 lot has 20 nice fruit trees 4 years old, write or call on W. W. Collins, Cass, W. Va box 41.

FEED FOR SALE: 5 stacks hay, one large straw rick and a lot of fodder, or will feed yearling or 2 yr. old cattle by the month. Martin Judy, Cass, W. Va.

Bricks Bricks
Yes we have some bricks to day.
W. J. KILLINGSWORTH
Marlinton, W. Va.

For Sale

Have left 10 thoroughbred Poland-China pigs, big type, for delivery in December, with pedigrees. $8 00; with registration paper $10. Let us know your wants.
E. H. Williams,
Marlinton. W. Va.

WARNING

All persons are hereby warned not to trespass in any way on the lands of the undersigned or premises under his control, especially by hunting and trapping.
W. McClintic,
Marlinton, W. Va.

TAXIDERMIST. Send m your trophies for correct mour ting at reasonable prices. Satisfaction guranteed. W. E. Blackhurt, Cass, W. Va.

Restaurant For Sale

I offer for sale my profitable restaurant business on Main Street in Marlinton. Fine location and good business, but I must sell on account of my wifes health. Apply to
E. Yokum.
Marlinton, W. Va.

For Sale

Good Home At Bargain Price.
50 acres $3,600. Excellent buildings wates in house and barn, large orchard. some machinery. This house is in first class condition. Also 90 acre; stock, tools, poultry, bees, machinery and part of crops, only $7000. Part cash; easy terms. Catalog free
P. L. WILLIAMS,
Hartstown, Pa

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.
R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton. W. Va.

Notice

No hunting, no trespassing in any way on the lands of the undersigned.
Samul Kee & Hunter Kee.
Dec. 1

Turkeys

I have a few Mammoth Goldback Bronze Turkeys unsold yet. These are pedigree turkeys. The flock is headed by a 45 pound tom whose sire cost $50. No better stock turkeys. Toms $10, hens $8. All orders must be in by November 20.
GEO. L. CLARK,
Hillsboro, W. Va.

Turkey Notice

For Sale, Mammoth Bronze Goldenback, Bird Bros. strain, turkeys. Toms and hens not related. Ready for delivery November 15 to Dec. 15
HARRY BIRD,
Millgap, Va.

Farm For Sale

A grazing farm of 191 acres, near Woodrow postoffie, all enclosed with wire fence; about 100 acres cleared; good 9-room honse, cement cellar, good barns and other buildings. This is fine grass land, much of it is level. Plenty of water; fruit and timber for farm use. Three young orchards. Convenient to church and school.
T. S. DULANEY.
Woodrow, W. Va.

White Holland Turkeys

Thoroughbred White Holland Turkeys. Fine specimens of this noted breed. Toms $10: hens $8. f. o. b. Express office.
Single Comb Black Minorca cockerels $1.50 each, while they last. Also a few pullets. Both turkeys and Minorcas took first prize at County Fair.
LEVI V. GAY.
Edray, W. Va.

The Home Guards
Livergard and Lungardia Livergard is the New Laxative we can not improve; excels all others. When a Laxative is needed, makes laughing babies of puny ones, keeps old folks young.
Lungardia has no equal for Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat; unsurpassed in removing deep Coughs of long standing. One trial convinces.
Lungardia Co.
Dallas, Texas.
For sale by your favorite Druggist.

FOR SALE—Surplus logging horses at attractive prices. For further information apply; The Meadow River Lumber Co., Rainelle, W. Va.

FOR SALE: A Delco Plant in first class condition. Can be seen at Cass Theatre Cass. W. Va., If in need of a up to date light plant this one can be bought right. C. C. Clendenen.

FOR SALE: A fine Duroc Jersey sow, eligble for registry, or will exchange for a male Duroc Jersey. A lot of fine Barred Rock pullets and cockerels. W. A. Barlow, Onoto, W. Va.

Railroad taxes and dividends

Last year the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Lines paid out more in taxes than in dividends. Out of every dollar received 3.80 cents was paid in taxes, while only 3.16 cents was paid in dividends.

In the year 1913 the total dividends paid to all railroad stockholders were about two and a half times the total railroad taxes. In the year 1922 the taxes paid were eleven per cent greater than the aggregate dividends

The cash dividends paid in 1913 totaled $322,300,406 and the taxes $127,725,809.. Dividends in 1922 totaled $271,-576,000 and taxes $301,003,227. In the ten-year period, 1913 to 1922, therefore, taxes increased about 135 per cent while dividends decreased about sixteen per cent.

The increase in taxes is due in part to an increase of approximately five billion dollars in the property investment of the railroads between 1913 and 1922. But, while the total investment and value of railroad property devoted to public service during this period has increased about thirty-three per cent, and taxes upon the property 135 per cent, the total compensation to railway stockholders has decreased sixteen per cent.

C&O SYSTEM

W. J. HARAHAN, President,
The Chesapeake and Ohio Railway.

N. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals.

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specialty of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

CHARLES SHINABERRY
GENERAL AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
All cal npmpt attention.

A. SHARP
AUCTIONEER
Cloverlick, W. Va.
Phone Marlinton Central.

W. A. BARLOW
OLD RELIABLE AUCTIONEER
Onoto, W. Va.
All calls answered.

WM. O. RUCKMAN
LICENSED AUCTIONEER
Millpoint, West Virginia
A young man with the goods

Z. S. Smith
Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMER
DENTIST
Marlinton, W. Va
First National Bank Building
Office hours 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. or appointment. All work guaranteed

Baxter's Garage
MARLINTON W. VA.
FORD Cars and Supplies
FORDSON Tractors
A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.
I. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Picoting and Hem-Stitching
All orders promptly filled.
MRS. J. E. BUCKLEY,
Marlinton, W. Va.

WHEN IN DURBIN
VISIT
CENTRAL CAFE
H. F. HYER, Mgr.

Notice

Stanley Hayes, Chiropractor, will be at Cass and Dunmore for one month, beginning October 22. Hours at Cass: (At residence of J. W. Bible) 9 to 12 a. m. and 5 to 8 p. m. and by appointment. Hours at Dunmore: 1 to 3 p. m.

FOR SALE—Mammoth Bronze turkeys, toms $10, hens $8. Mrs. Earl Kee, Marlinton, W. Va.

Sale of Real Estate for Taxes

Notice is hereby given that the following described tracts or lots of land in the County of Pocahontas, which are delinquent for the non-payment of taxes for the year 1921, will be offered for sale by the undersigned Sheriff at public auction at the front door of the court house of said county between the hours of ten in the morning and four in the afternoon on

MONDAY, the 10th day of DECEMBER, 1923.

Each tract or lot or so much thereof as shall be necessary will be sold for so much cash as shall be sufficient to satisfy the amount due thereon, as set forth in the following table—

Name of person charged with taxes / Quantity of Land / Local Description	Total amount of taxes and interest	Total amount of taxes, interest, cost of publication, commission and fee for receipt.
GREENBANK DISTRICT
Burner, E D, 117 near Cass	102 04	109 39
same Block 2 and 3, 8 lots	22 02	25 37
same Block 2, 7 to 14, bal due	15 83	18 88
Cobb, John H, Lots 10 and 11, Thornwood	5 22	7 73
Dandrea, Mary " 1, Lot 48 Deer Creek	1 39	3 71
Dooley, Hugh & Kate, Block 7, 200x325	13 76	16 70
Forrest Lumber Co. 2929 Ally. Mtn. Lot 13, 14	403 36	425 78
same 1450 James Patterson	198 86	211 05
same 406 "	55 90	60 94
same 1085 "	149 42	159 14
same 450 "	62 65	68 03
same 960 "	135 74	144 78
Galford, Thos. Est. 126 A West Sitlington Creek	22 86	26 26
Gragg, Wm. M. 58 A and 50 p	15 98	19 03
Gray, Zebulin's Est. 106 a Back Ally	31 10	34 91
same 5 a and 72 p Back Ally	82	3 11
Harouff, Elizabeth, Block 3, lot 2, Blackhurst & lot 1	5 51	8 03
Johnson, J. S. Lot 3, North Public Road	2 75	5 14
McLaughlin, C.M. 25 a Thomas Creek	1 39	3 70
Nobel R. Block 1 Lot 6 Thornwood,	4 13	6 59
same Lot six	2 75	5 14
Nottingham, Addison & Wash
Z. J. W. L. & Adam, 875 a and 75 p Ally Mtn	72 30	78 17
Parsons Paper and Pulp Co. 2985 a West Slope Ally Mtn	246 65	262 23
same 425 a "	35 10	39 11
Patton. Nettie E. Block 6, Lot 3, Blackhurst	2 75	5 14
Phillips, Alva's Est. 18 1-2 A Arbovale	68	2 96
Robinson, Emma W. & Wallace, Block, 3, Lot 14	5 51	8 04
Tallman, W. B. 82 a Back Ally	14 58	17 56
same 60 a "	5 00	7 50
same 15 a "	1 25	3 56
Turk, R. S. 336 a Trout Run	92 54	99 42
same 1 a and 91 p Deer Creek	28	2 55
Vandevender, Charlie Lot 5 Thornwood	4 14	6 60
" May " 2 North Public Road	3 44	5 86
DURBIN CORPORATION
Chapman & Diggin W. E. Blk 20 Lot 9	2 57	4 95
CASS CORPORATION
Burner, E. D. Trustee, White Elephant	55 29	60 30
same 1-2 Dave Finger lot	26 33	29 90
same 1 lot	7 90	10 55
Reda, Mary & Tony Lot in Cass	21 06	24 36
EDRAY DISTRICT
Auldridge, J E., 128 a 80, both sides Gbr R.	11 80	14 64
Burner, E. D, lots 39 and 40, Riverside	4 11	6 57
Beverage, J H and Clawson, 250a Dry Br. of Swago baldue	22 34	25 71
Boggs, Wm, 13-53p Add Auldridge	1 12	3 43
Cathway, John, 250a Gauley and Elk River	130 59	139 37
same 575a "	294 76	311 75
same 2216a "	1135 99	1195 04
Cline, James F, 3a80, Big Spring Run	4 42	6 89
Courtney, Pearl, Block 1, Lot 18, W. Marlinton	5 14	7 65
Galford, Bessie C, 95a Head of Laurel Creek	23 63	27 06
Galford, Charles, 1-4 a Stony Creek Hill	31	2 58
same 2a 14 p "	4 62	7 10
Irvine. F. H, 72a Head Laurel Creek	15 89	18 93
same 109 "	13 42	16 34
Kelley, Senna, lot 10, Cloverlick	3 08	5 48
Kiner, E D, 4 a 48 p Laurel Creek	2 98	5 38
Lacy, Ben's Est., 4a Brushy Mtn	82	3 11
Levi, Plus R, 2044a Clover Cr. (B. T. 1917 to 1920)	736 91	776 01
Marshall, C E, 397a Valley Mtn	69 21	74 92
McCarty, Bessie's Estate, 2a Clover Creek	2 45	4 82
McDowell, Fenton, 5a Indian Draft	3 58	6 01
McLaughlin, A. M. Est, 1-8a	10	2 36
McNeel, Laura F's Est, 100a Laurel Creek	18 45	21 62
Newell, John A, 200 a Gauley Mts	61 52	66 85
Sharp, Leonard, 54.6 Stony Creek	8 92	11 62
Sharp, Clifford et al, 124a 80p Stony Creek	41 01	45 31
Sharp, Emmett, 4a 80p Dry Branch	2 77	5 16
same 9a "	1 85	4 19
Sharp, D W, 100a Greenbrier River	12 31	15 18
Sharp, E G and John's estate, 104a Dry Branch	17 02	20 12
Sharp, Wm. Elliott, 9 3-16a, Laurel Creek	4 11	6 57
same 11a "	1 75	4 09
same 56 a "	9 23	11 94
Shrader, Luther and Margie, Lot 7, Riverside	10 25	13 01
Sharp, George G, 38a, Williams River	7 79	10 43
Sharp, Divers, 60a Laurel Creek	13 94	16 89
Shinaberry, Ira, 1a 93 p, Clover Creek	20	2 46
Tallman, Rosa 23 a W Gbr	2 35	4 71
Tibbs, Highland R. 2 a 80 p Partition of 16 a	31	2 57
Watts, J. M. Trustee Lots 9,42,56, Riverside	6 15	8 71
Walker, H. H. Harry 2 a 80 p Partition 16 a	31	2 57
Welford, D. M. 3 a 80 p Buckeye	70	2 99
Woods, W. E. 18 a Head Stony Creek	3 89	6 33
same 52 a 32 p "	7 27	9 88
Yeager, C. A. Trustee, Strip Land Campbelltown	20	2 46
Marlinton corporation
Yeager. C. A. Block 22 Lot 5, 6, & 1-2 of 4	42 98	47 38
same Block 46 Lot 6, 7, 8, 9, 11, 12	105 95	113 50
HUNTERSVILLE DISTRICT
Alderman, G. W. & W. C. 60 a head of Cummings Cr. (bal due)	$2.63	$5.01
" Timothy's est.
Houpt, J. M.; Turk R. S. and Lockridge, Maggie 767 a Deer Cr.	65.61	71.14
Bird, Uriah 105 a part 135a tract	5.39	7.91
same 130 a East Greenbrier river	6.68	9.26
same 121 a " " " "	9.59	12.32
Bradshaw heirs 100 a Marlins mountain	3.48	5.95
Burner, E. D. 31 a 40 p Thorny Creek	1.02	3.32
Cundiff, Frances 121 a East Buckeye	7.88	10.52
Curry, C. S. 1 q Frost	3.45	5.88
Dixon, Alcinda J. Block 3 Lot 9 M. Springs	42	2.69
Durbin, Chas. R. 34 a Joe Dilley Land	4.10	6.56
Fertig, Geo. R. 112 a Thorny Creek (Bal Due)	8.75	11.44
Glascock, W. E. Block 2 Lot 13 M Springs	42
Harlon, J. B., T. J., H. C. Block 8 lots 1, 2 M Springs	.85	3.14
Holt, H. A.
Mathews, A. F. Est 130 a Alley Mts.	8.88	11.57
Meadows Mtn. Lbr. Co. 11,000 a North Fork Douthard's Cr.	564.56	595.04
O'Connell, D. O. 410 a J. L. Dixon land	21.03	24.33
Paul Richards lease 27 a Irvine land	1.80	4.14
Peery, Maggie S. 300 a Thomas creek	25.65	26.93
Ryder, J. H. and Ervine Don 31 a 40 p Thorny creek	10.69	11.22
Ryder, S. B. Block 1 lot 6 M Springs	.42	2.69
Slayton, Lydia and H. E. 48 a Beaver creek	5.13	7.64
Sharp, M. Lindsay's est 31 a Thorny creek	5.28	7.79
Sullivan, Miss Nora Block 6 lot 6 M Springs	.42	2.69
Vinquesney, J. A. 64 a 120 p Knapps creek	5.51	8.03
same 400 a Knapps creek	34.21	38.17
Yeager, C. A. and Vinquesney, J. A. 2297 a Beaver creek	117.88	126.02
same 44.7 q School lands	1.55	3.88
same 18 a Beaver creek	.85	3.14
same 110 q Beaver creek	3.77	6.21
Yeager, Charles est 180 a 80 p East Buckeye	7.00	9.60
same 60 a adj. John F. Shrader	2.05	4.40
same 1652 a Cochran's creek	84.79	91.28
same 47 a James Lockridge land	2.48	4.85
same 11q a and 7 p Cochran's creek	57.07	62.17
same Black 4 lots 5, 6 M Springs	.85	3.14
Yeager, J. W. Block 4 lots 4 M Springs	.42	2.69
HILLSBORO CORPORATION, LITTLE LEVELS DISTRICT
Adkins, A. D. Hillsboro	23.78	27.21
Dillingham, D. J. Block 1 lot 5	2.38	4.75
LITTLE LEVELS DISTRICT
Auldridge, L. C. 25 a adjoining K. O. Wade	16.65	19.73
Bolden, Ver 2 a near Seebert	2.56	4.94
Dwyer, J. G. and J. W. 131 a 131 p Hills creek	31.12	34.98
Moore, Lena M. 62 a near Hillsboro	74.25	80.21
McClure, Fannie E. Heirs 8 a Stephen Hole Run	15.37	18.39
Sparks, S. A. 81 2-5 a Hills creek	16.77	19.86
Sydenstricker, T. A. 9 a 80 p near Seebert	10.24	13.01
Savory, James 1 a M Stamping creek	1.28	3.59
Stewart, Geo. R. est. 2 a Seebert	3.78	6.26
Walton, J. H. 40 a Droop Mountain	6.41	8.98
Williams, A. D. Trustees 53 a 80 p Laurel run	2.70	5.08
same 2629 a Laurel run	67,83	73.05
same 445 a Poplar Flats	11.38	14.20
Yeager, C. A. 234 a Hill creek	29.95	33.70
same 135 a Hill creek	16.78	19.87
same 204 q Rush Run	26.12	29.68
same A. W. Hill land	12.80	15.69

Any of the aforesaid tracts or lots may be redeemed by the payment to the undersigned Sheriff before sale of the amount due thereon.

Given under my hand this 9th day of November, 1923.

B. B. BEARD, Sheriff of Pocahontas County
By C. C. CLENDENEN, Deputy.

WHERE IS SWAN JOHNSON

Where is Swan Johnson? Almost everybody here would like to know whether he is alive or dead.

Three weeks ago he left Cass on his way here, taking the route across the mountain and in a big hurry because he had just learned a dream he had cherished for some time was about to become a reality, but he has dropped out of sight completely and now people are wondering what has happened to him.

For years Swan Johnson worked in the woods, had been working on a scheme to fasten rails to ties more securely and had evolved what he believed was a practical method. His efforts to find financial support locally went for nothing until Mrs. Julia Earlson, proprietress of the Central hotel here, opened up her heart and her pocketbook and staked Swan to the necessary funds to put his design through the patent office.

Now fate has smiled—the doubters put to route, and Mrs. Earlson holds letters from a firm that offers, so rumor has it, $120,000, for the patent rights to Johnson's invention. She notified the fortunate inventor at Cass and he replied that he would come immediately. He started out and has disappeared.

Not only Mrs. Earlson, who holds a half interest in the patent, but scores of Johnson's acquaintances are trying to find out what happened between Cass and Richwood to prevent his appearing to claim his fortune.

Marlinton, Cass and other points have been inquired in but no one seems to know what has become of Swan Johnson.—Richwood Republican.

IN MEMORY

Mrs. Alice Wooddell died at her home near Nottingham, a few moments before one o'clock Monday night, November 19, 1923.

She was a daughter of Samuel Cassell who preceded her to the grave forty years ago.

Mrs. Wooddell was 67 years, six months and 22 days old. Forty-five years ago she was married to John F, Wooddell. For years she had been in failing health, but would never complain nor give up. About three months ago her suffering was so great she gave up to go to a hospital. While there she was given an operation, but she had gone too far for any good to be done, and she was brought home She was at home eight weeks until her death. Her sufferings were borne with great patience. She said she cared for nothing on earth; all that she cared for was for her Savior to take her home.

Mrs Wooddell is survived by her aged husband, five sisters, Mrs. Wanless, of Wanless; Mrs. Swink, of Cass. Mrs. Tallman, of Stony Bottom; Mrs. Baxter and Mrs. Auldridge of Onoto; and one brother, Mr. Cassell, of Cass.

The funeral service was conducted at her home by her pastor from the words. "God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes." After which the remains were taken to the Wanless graveyard, where her father, mother and one sister are laid to rest. X.

CORN EXHIBIT

Again the farmers of Pocahontas county are urged to pick out ten good ears of corn for an exhibit at the County Fair next August. Our Fair is held too early for corn to mature, but now that the cribs are bursting with the best and biggest corn crop ever raised, no better time than the present can be had to pick out a fine exhibit.

This writer cannot imagine a more striking or pleasing display of farm wealth than hundreds exhibits of yellow, white and red corn ears. Such a corn exhibit would decorate the fine agricultural building off about right.

To the Teachers of Edray Distrrct:

You are urged to join every teacher of Edray District in making the school grounds more attractive and also more conducive to school health by observing Friday afternoon, December 7th as Play-Ground Day in in which every teacher in the district is urged to do her part.

First, clean up and beautify school premises. Second, install the following play ground equipment, as agreed upon by the teachers of the district in District Institute assembled; two volley balls or two basket balls, one gian stride; which can be made of a strong post well cemented in the ground and an automobile rim fastened on top with ropes hang for swings, one horizontal barr, two to four swings. These were some of the things urged by State Supervisor Mr. Muldoon, at the District Institute

Don't forget the date, December 7th, Friday p. m. Invite patrons and all friends to join you and let's all do our part and thus put this project over the top.

After you have done your bit please report the same to Miss Anne Correll, District Playground Chairman, Cloverlick, W. Va.

DELCO-LIGHT

"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue

ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES

Marlinton Electric Co.

DEALERS

NOTICE

There has been on my place at Williams River since June 15th four ewes and three lambs. Owner can have same by proving proprrty and paying cost of keep and advertising.

Carl G Beard,
Hillsboro, W. Va.

H. W. BURGESS

H. W. Burgess, son of Conrad and Isabel Burgess was born November 16, 1832, and died November 17, 1923, in Charleston, W. Va. The body was brought to Hillsboro on Monday for burial.

On September 20, 1854, he was married to Elizabeth Welch. To this union there were ten children as follows: W. H., Mary E., John W., R. E., Mrs. Nannie Clark, Mrs. Lucy Brackman, Mrs. Carrie Bolton, all deceased; T. C. of Charleston F. A. of Ronceverte, and Mrs. A. C. Bransford, of Richwood, survive. There are seventeen grand-children and eight great grand-children.

Mr. Burgess was an enthusiastic veteran of the Confederacy. He served with credit the four years of the war and was a member of the 14th Virginia Cavalry under the command of General McCausiin.

For forty years Mr, Burgess was an earnest and consistent follower of Jesus Christ, having united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, October 11, 1879, under the pastorate of Rev. V. W. Wheeler. In the Sunday School he served as a teacher of a young mens' class until failing health caused him to resign. He was also a steward in the church and will long be remembered for his faithfulness in this high office. He was one of God's noblemen.

The funeral service was held in the Methodist Church, Hillsboro, on Monday afternoon and was conducted by the pastor, Rev. Clark Early. The interment was in the McNeel Cemetery.

Whereas brother H. W. Burgess, who at the age of ninety-one years, died in the faith and who was for so long an official member of the Hillsboro Methodist Church, be it resolved

That we thank God for such an exemplary Christian life.

That the Church as a whole shall be provoked to larger service by the memory of his devotion to duty.

That we assure the family of our sympathy and prayers, and that a copy as these resolutions be sent to the Baltimore Southern Methodist and the Pocahontas Times for publication.

G. R Curry,
Samuel Sheets,
W. Clark Early.

ROUND TABLE ORGANIZED

About two hundred teachers from the counties of Pocahontas, Monroe and Greenbrier met in Ronceverte, November 23 and 24 and organized the Greenbrier Valley Round Table. The attendance would have been much larger had the rain held off until after the meeting. A great many who expected to make the trip in cars were prevented from attending on account of muddy roads. The teachers who attended were enthusiastic and the meeting was considered quite a success.

A program had been prepared for the meeting by Alexander R. Thompson, county superintendent of Greenbrier and we all take pride in the fact that he produced a good program without going outside of the three counties to get speakers. The following persons appeared on the progrom: Miss Helen Smith, Ronceverte Miss Valenta Harbourne, Hillsboro Miss Helen B Kies, Alderson, Miss Margaret LaRue, Hillsboro, G. D. McNeill, Marlinton, W. E. Scott, Lewisburg, F. E Arnett, White Sulphur Springs, Miss Luceille Stancil, Marlinton, Miss Elizabeth Echart. Charleston (formerly of Monroe county;) Miss Julia Mellichamps, of Lewisburg, Walter Vance, Hillsboro. The Greenbrier High School Orchestra.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Herbert M. Harr, Ronceverte; first vice-prdsident. Miss Anna Wallace, Marlinton; second vice-president W. W. Baker, Union: third vice-president, A. R. Thompson, Lewisburg: secretary, W. E. Scott, Lewisburg; treasurer Lucile B. Doughty, Ronceverte.

The next meeting will be held in Ronceverte during the latter part of October. We have set five hundred as an attendance goal for that meeting. Let all teachers bear that in mind.

NOW AT WASHINGTON

To the Citizens of the Sixth Congressional District:

I am now in Washington to represent you in the 68th Congress which convenes on December 3rd.

I want the people of the District, irrespective of party, to feel free to call upon me for any service which is within my power to render. My office is in Room 171, House Office Building, near the Capitol and citizens of West Virginia, especially citizens of the Sixth District, are invited to call on me when in the city. An engraved visiting card is not necessary.

Yours for service,
J. Alfred Taylor, M. C.
Sixth District, West Va.

Store For Sale

I will offer my entire lot of general merchandise for sale, also store building and dwelling combined.

The above is on Class A road in in small town. We have two churches roller mill, garage, a graded school, and just five miles from the Greenbank High school with school truck running from here.

My reason for selling, I have gone into the logging business and cannot manage both. If interested call and see me or write, B. B. Campbell, Dunmore, W. Va.

ESTRAY NOTICE—There is a estray yearling steer on my farm on Buffalo Mountain, owner can have property by paying cost of adv. and keeping, has been here since the 15th of October. C. S. W. Wooddell.

FIRELESS CHRISTMAS

Charleston, Dec. 3—West Virginia had a "fireless,. Christmas last year and the State Fire Marshall department is hoping for a repetition of that immunity during the approaching Yuletide. The Christmas season, which should be an occasion of joy, frequently becomes a time of tragedy because so many households are unaware of the dangers which threaten the celebration, Fire Marshal C. L. Topping points out.

"The Christmas festivities to which the children look forward should be planned with great caution," said Marshal Topping. "The old habit of placing a candle in the window has turned many a home of joy into gloom. The draft of air from an open window or door blows the curtain against the candle, from which it takes fire, endangerieg the home. In endeavoring to extinguish the blaze, personal clothing ignites, which often causes the victim his life. In some instances the candle is left burning all evening while members of the family are attending outside celebrations. The wooden or paralyn base easily takes fire when the candle burns to the end, and from this the home is consumed. Moral: Don't allow the use of the "candle in the window," and advise your freinds against the custom.

"If there is a Christmas tree, it should be mounted on firm base as no one knows the strain it may be subjected to during its use. Place it in a section of the room away from heating and lighting fixtures. Use flake asbestos and powdered mica for snow effects, as these will not burn. Cotton and paper decorations are very dangerous. The tree should be illuminated with small elecrric light bulbs Candles on a Chrisnmas tree are usually hazardous. Call an electrician to connect your electric lights. Ornaments for the tree should be metal. Paper, pyralin or celluoid decorations are very inflammable and will ignite at a comparatively low temperature., Continuing his cautionary statement, Marshal Topping said "toys involving the use of alcohol, gasolene or kerosene should be avoided and low priced electrical playthings shold be viewed with suspicion, since they are often insecurely wired or flimsily constructed. In recent years a number of small motion picture projections have been placed on the market as Christmas toys. Very disastrous results have followed, as all kinds of films discarded by exchanges are used in their operation without the knowledge of their high inflammability. It would be difficult to place a more dangerous combination in the hands of children.

Christmas trees should be removed from the house immediately after the day's celebration, as they become highly combustible when they dry out from the heat of the room. Decorations should be of fireproofed material. Artificial leaves, streamers, paper shades or ornaments should never be allowed unless they are fireproofed.,

Marshal Topping request that the public heed these injunctions and assist his department in its efforts toward off Christmas fires.

THE TENNESEE MISSIONARY

When I first parted away from you,
In sorrow, grief, and trouble too,
You gave to me the parting hand
And you wished me safe in the, Cumberland.

Then we did on our journey steer
Over the high hill, and the rivers clear,
Through a desert land, and a lonesome place,
We steer'd our course to the Cumberland.

When we were on the ice and snow,
It rain'd it hail'd and the wind did blow;
And some of us did mourn and cry,
'Tis here with cold we all must die.

But bless the Lord relief was found,
We landed here all safe and sound,
In a lonesome place but a fertile soil,
With milk and wine, both corn and oil.

My friend at home, I would like to see;
If from this task I could get free:
But I'm bound to preach, and, O may it be,
To the Indian tribes of the Tennesee,

I've one more line to write to you,
Religon's dull and preachers few
We are here in Peace and like to be
With the Indian tribe of the Tennesee.

If you on earth I meet no more,
O may we meet on Canaan's shore;
And there we'll shout and happy be,
With the Indian tribe of the Tennesee.

M. M. G.

Sunset, Pocahontas County Virginia.

The above was handed us by the State Road Engineer Sexton.

It was a paper yellowed with age that in some way had gotten among his papers probably from some book loaned by a neighbor. There was no date, but it was written before the Civil War, when this was still Virginia The author M. Mattie Gumm was probably a relative of Mrs. Preston M. Ha er.

Honor roll for Bethel school, second month, Mrs. Nell's McNeill, teacher—Ruth, Wilma, Halene, Roscoe, Maynard, Kermit and Helen Dilley, Glenna, Addie and Helen Hebb.

Report of Woodrow school, third montk, Glenn Barlow, teacher,—Dale VanReenan, Katherine Kellison, Hallie Kiner, Goldie, Edith and Bertha VanReenan.

Report for Laurel Creek School third month,—Mrs. Glenn Barlow, teacher—May Arbogast, Grace, Lottie and Laura Dulaney, Edith Galford, Mamie Sharp, Hobart Friel, Jessie Jordan.

HANLINE BROS.
LEAD AND ZINC
READY MIXED PAINT GUARANTEED
AS PURE AS PAINT CAN BE MADE
FOR SALE BY DEALERS EVERYWHERE

Dealers Supplied By
S. B. WALLACE & CO.
Marlinton, W. Va.

MEN WANTED

To work in woods, sawmill and lumber yard
Good wages and good living conditions
We pay $3 per thousand for cutting and bumping logs. Teamsters $3 per day and board—Sundays and all. Other wages in proportion

Also have cutting and skidding contracts to let.

APPLY TO HORTON MILL
HORTON, W. VA.

A. B. Dyer, Supt. Frank Juno, Woods Supt.

SEEBERT

M. B. Jones has returned from Winchester Ky., where he took his wife to the Clark county hospital, Mrs. Jones under went an operation and is getting along nicely.

Mrs. Ulric Grimes and little daughter Thelma are spending Thanksgiving with her parents Mr and Mrs J. D. Payne.

The young people of this place have organized a Young Peoples Prayer Meeting which meets Friday evenings at 7:30 p.m. they are to be commented in the excellent church work they are doing.

There will be a box supper at the Seebert school house on Saturday night December 1st, proceeds for the Methodist church.

Claude Elmore is able to be out after a severe attack of acute indigestion.

A nice flag has been put up at the school house.

Notice to Contractors

Sealed proposals will be received by the State Road Commission of West Virginia at its offices in Charleston. W. Va., until ten o'clock, a. m. on the 13th day of December, 1923, and opened and read immediately thereafter, at the Kanawha County Court House, Charleston, W. Va., for the construction of the following section of state road.

Project 131—Pocahontas County—2.1 Miles of the Marlinton-Buckeye Road, for paving with Bituminous Macadam. Certified check $2500.00.

Project 132—Pocahontas County—4.2 miles of the Buckeye-Mill Point Road, for paving with Bituminous Macadam. Certified check $4500.00.

Proposals will be received only upon State Standard Forms in accordance with plans, specifications and estimate to quanitities may be obtained from the Division Engineer at Charleston, W. Va or from the office of the State Road Commission at Charleston, W. Va.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check in the amount above specified.

The right is reserved to reject any and all proposals.

THE STATE ROAD COMMISSIOM OF WEST VIRGINIA.
E. B. Carskadon, Secretary.

NOTICE

The annual meeting of the Marlinton & Elk Mutual Telphone Co. will be held Jan. 1, 1924, at 2 p. m,

S. Mc. Dilley, Sec-Troas.

NOTICE

Due to the fact that the books have not yet arrived, the meeting of the Edray District Reading Circle which was to be held at Marlinton, Saturday Dec. 1, 1923, will be called off until the next Saturday, December 8, 1923.

Clora L. Palmer, Chairman.

GLASSES LOST—A pair of shell rimmed spectacles lost in Marlinton about November 12. Finder please return to M. S. Wilson, Marlinton.

HAT LOST: A young ladys velvet hat was lost near Huntersville on Sunday, November 25. Finder please return to Times office.

A dozen photograph solve a dozen gift problems and are appreciated by your friends more than anything else you can give them. Gays Studio.

TURKEYS FOR SALE: Bronze turkeys for sale as breeders. Toms $9.00 hens $7.00 delivered at Clover Lick. Mary P. Hevener.

PIGS FOR SALE—Purebred Poland China, Big Type, different ages up to 10 months, with or without papers. Mt View Orchard, L. W. Harless Mgr. Marlinton, W. Va.

Constable,s Sale

OF PERSONAL PROPERTY

Pursuant to executions placed in my hands in the cases of John Rich & Sons v John E. Barlow, New River Grocery Co. v John E Barlow, Gulland Clarke & Co. v John E. Barlow, J. W. Ould Co. v John E. Barlow, C. J. Richardson v John E. Barlow, Woodson Price & Co. v John E. Barlow, pending in the court of A. E. Smith, a Justice of the Peace of Edray District, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, I will sell at public auction at J. E. Barlow's Store at Edray, W. Va. on

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 8

1923, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. the following descilbed property, levied on as the property of John E. Barlow—

1 Studebaker 4 cylinder automobile 1 iron safe, 1 L. C. Smith typewriter, 1 roll top desk, 1 computing counter scales, 1 McCasky register, 1 cash register, 5 counter show cases, 1 cigar case, 1 ribbon case, 1 Bowser gasoline system, 1 Bowser oil tank.

Terms—CASH,
C. K. BUTLER, C. P. C.

For Sale

A limited number of Rose Combed Rhode Island Red cockerels, deep rich color, Tompkins strain, March hatch. $2.50 at farm and $3 at express office if taken by November 15.

C. L. BARLOW.
Edray, W. Va.

Farm For Sale

About fifty acres one mile from Dunmore on the Huntersville road. One mile from church, school and post office. Good six room frame house, good orchard and garden, well watered for house and pasture. Prices right, on easy terms, For further particulars write of see Mrs. Clyde Carpenter, R. F. D. 2, Dunmore, W. Virginia.

Fiduciary Notices

The following fiduciary accounts are before the undersigned for settlement:

M. P. Moore, administrator of A. C. Moore, deceased.

M. P. Moore, administrator of W, L. Moore, deceased.

Given under my hand this 27th day of November, 1923.

J. E. Buckley, Commissioner of Accounts of Pocahontas County.

The accounts of F. R. Hunter, Guardian of Icie Kelly, Allie May Kelly, and Joe Taylor Kelly are before the undersigned commissioner for settlement.

Given under my hand this 23rd day of November, 1923.

P. T. Ward
Commissioner of Accounts.

The accounts of Chas. N. Sheets, Administrator of George N. Tacy are before me for settlement.

Given under my hand this 26th day of November, 1923.

P. T. Ward
Commissioner of Accounts.

The following acounts are before the undersigned Commissioner of Accounts for Pocahontas County, W. Va. for settlement.

Final settlement of the accounts of Luther Coyner, administrator of the estate of S. S. Varner, deceased.

Partial settlement of the accounts of J. Wilson Hill, administrator of the estate of Margaret J. Hill, deceased.

This 28th of November, 1923.

T. S. McNeel, Comr.

DOG WANTED—A first class cold trailer coon dog. Will pay good cash price. Nothing but a good coon dog wanted. Let me hear from you. H.C. Montgomery, Montgomery, West, Va

The Cash Register

THE functions of a Cash Register are not those of a Bank. They are not designed to safe-guard their contents. The banking laws throw none of the protections around the contents of a cash register they do around money deposited in bank.

THE aggregate loss by thoughtless people, who assume a cash register is a proper cash depository, is so appalling, our suggestion that currency, except for minor and immediate needs, should be kept in a commercial account here, may not be amiss.

The Bank of Marlinton

MARLINTON, - - - WEST VIRGINIA

The Bank of Safety and Service

INFORMATION FOR THE ASKING

Anything that anybody wants to know about Pocahontas County will be promptly answered from the office of the Pocahontas County Fair, Marlinton, W. Va.

LOCAL MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Miller went to Hagerstown, Md. Monday.

Edray Judy who has been sick with typhoid fever is able to be out.

Mrs. J. A. Hoover is visiting her sister Mrs. Byers, in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie W. Sydnor spent Thanksgiving with F. M. Sydnor.

N. F. Hymes went to Terra Alta, on Monday to be treated at the State Sanitarium.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Baxter, of Renick, were in Marlinton Wednesday morning.

H. C. Carter and Gordon Fortune of Clifton Forge, spent the week end in Marlinton.

H. H. Kumm was called to Pennsylvania on Monday afternoon by the serious illness of his mother.

Dr. E. G. Herold went to Ronceverte Saturday to attend a meeting of the Greenbrier Valley Dental association.

J. W. Carpenter was over from Beaver Dam Monday. He reports a big bear paying a visit to that neighborhood last week.

Miss Lillie Milligan returned to her school at Morgantown, last Saturday. She had been called home by the death of her grandmother, Mrs. Lilile B Lockridge.

J. W. Kennison, of Hillsboro, was a visitor at the Times Office on Tuesday. Though past 74 years of age, he is hale and hearty and enjoys the best of health, though somewhat troubled with failing eyesight.

Mrs. S. C. Clark and son G. W. Clark were called to Anthonys Creek last Sunday by the serious illness of Mrs. Clark's niece, Miss Dolly Lynch. The young lady had died a few hours before the arrival of Mrs Clark.

HOSTERMAN

The people are doing some fine work on the Back Mountain road.

J. W. R. Collins and sons are getting out dye wood.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McLaughlin were at Greenbank over Sunday visiting their daughter, Mrs. Luther Cassell.

Mis Viola Moore is very ill at this time.

Mrs. Julia Cassell has returned from taking her sister to the hospital

Harper Cassell is attending the Greenbank High school, and is getting along nicely.

Miss Mae Collins and Miss Neva McLaughlin were the guests of their aunt Mrs. Barnett, last week end.

Mrs. Nannie Dill df Pennsylvania, is visiting friends here.

Miss Kate Collins is the guest of Mrs. H. P. Harding.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE

The annual sale of Christmas Seals going on now. The proceeds from these pennies are used for an anti-tuberculois program and especially directed toward preventive measures against disease. The larger the sale of Christmas Seals, the greater and more comprehensive will be the line of health work that can be put into effect.

1. Among the 150,000 persons who are killed by tubercolosis in the United State every year more than 12 000 are children under 5 years of age.

2. It is not true that these children inherited the disease. Science has demonstrated that tubercolosis is a communicable disease, cause by a germ transmitted after birth.

3. Children are particulary susceptible to infection. More than fifty per cent of all children are infected before they are ten years of age, and the pefcentage increases until at 18 years it reaches its maximun of from 60 to 90 per cent, depending to a certain extent upon the character and hebits of the population.

One of the aims of the National Tuberculosis Association and its 12.000 affiliated state and local organizations, is to seek out and record all cases of tuberculosis. In this way much incipient disease among parents will be revealed, exposed children can be examined and safely guarded, treatment will be taken in time, and the lsves of many children saved.

Will you help by cooperating in this work which is financed chiefly by the sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals?

Morgantown—That Morgantown is unable to find sufficient laborers to handle the work available is the statement made by Thomas F. Burley, Jr., secretary of the Morgantown chamber of commerce, which organization conducts a free employment bureau. "We could place 100 or more laborers if we had them," said Mr. Burley. He assigns one of the causes for the shortage to the activity of the street department of the municipal government, which is employing over 200 additional men in street construction work.

NOTICE TO STOCKHOLDERS

The regular stockholders meeting of the Marlinton and Stony Creek Mutual Telephone Company will be held at Pine Grove school house Saturday January 5, 1924, at 1 o'clock p. m. The object of the meeting is to elect president and vice-president and directors for the ensuing year and transact any business that may properly come before the meeting.

Geo. A. C Auldridge, Sect'y.

XMAS TREE—I will have a lot of Williams River Christmas trees for sale. Leave your order early. Theodore Moore, Marlinton, W. Va.

U. C. V. APPOINTMENTS

Gen. W. B. Haldeman, of Louisville, Ky., has appointed Commander in-Chief U. C. V. Thos. H. Dennis, of Lewisburg, late Commander of the First Brigade, West Virginia Division, to succeed General Charles S. Peyton, deceased, as commander of the division and directs him to proceed with diligence to secure a reorganization and establishment in good standing of the Confederate camps, wherever praticable in the various counties in which they heretofore existed.

In the execution of this purpose and the re-establishment of the West Virginia Division Gen. Dennis has appointed Capt. Henry C. Byrnside, of Monroe county, Adjutant General and Chief-of-Staff of the division (other staff appointments to be announced later) and has appointed Hon. Mathew John McNeel brigadier general commanding the First Pocahontas Brigade W. Va. Division, who will shortly annouce his personal staff.

Owing to the inevitable depletion of the membership of the camps caused by death and the infirmities of age Gen. Dennis feels that the task assigned him will not be easy of accomplishment, but hopes that the zeal of his old comrades and their loyalty to the great principles for which all fought will bring a hearty response to his appeal from every Veteran yet loyal to his principles and to the organization formed, nearly forty years ago, to secure a true history of the great Civil War and to do justice ty the memory of him and his comrades who volunteered to fight and die if need be in defense of home and fireside.

RICHARD CALLISON

Richard Callison who for the past five years has been an invalid from nervous trouble died at his home in Lewisburg Sunday December 2, 1923. He was a son of Josiah and Nancy Hill Callison of Beard, and was born and reared in Pocahontas county and was the youngest of a family of eight children, one sister Mrs. James K. Bright, of Hillsboro survives, she being the oldest child of the family. October 26, 1887 he was married to Miss Fannie Cameron Beard, of Hillsboro, and to this union seven children were born two of them preceding him to the grave.

In 1911 he moved to Lewisburg for the purpose of educating his sons. He with the oldest members of his family united with the M. E. Church South, he was elected on the Board of Stewards and served in this capacity until his death. The funeral services were conducted at his home Monday afternoon at four o'clock by his pastor Rev. D. A. Berry and Tuesday morning the remains were taken to Beard, for burial in the Old Droop church burying ground where at two o'clock with appropate services by Rev. D. A. Berry and Rev. J. C. Johnson of Hillsboro, he was laid to rest by his two children Jemima Franklin who died in infancy and H. Gerell who died at the age of 19 years.

Mr. Callison was Loyal and consistent member of his church a devoted husband and father and a constant and true friend. His wife Mrs. Fannie Callison, his sons, D. M. and wife and E. B. of Beard, J. W. and wife of Milburn, Dr. G. S. of Marlinton, O. G. of Firelow, Miss Nannie Beard, of Lewisburg and Mrs. Carl G. Beard of Hillsboro and a number of friends and relatives accompanied his remains to their last resting place. The pall bearers were—J. M. Watts, J. E Bass, H. F. Zimmeram, C. L. Carr, H. R. Lipps and R. B. Farrier.

The grave was covered with beautiful flowers a tribute of love and respect from friends and loved ones.

WALLACE'S

Carbolic Salve

A Great Healing Agent

FOR

Wounds, Cuts, Sores, and all kinds of Skin Diseases.

PRICE 15c

AT YOUR DEALER

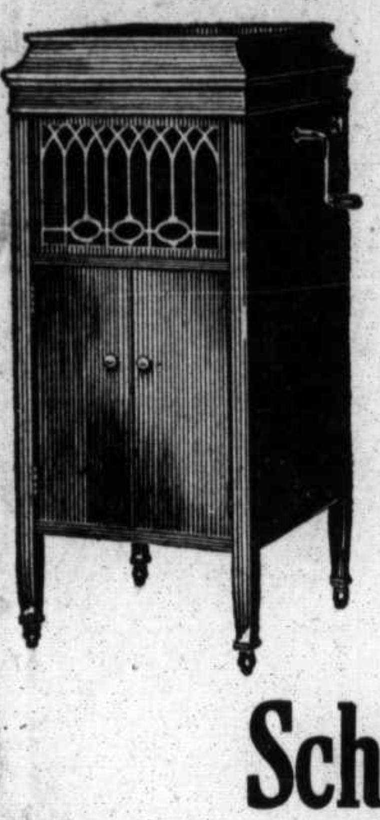
Do Your Christmas Shopping Early

SCHUCHAT'S DEPARTMENT STORE

Special Reduced Prices

-- ON ALL --

Ladies' Coats, Dresses and Suits, Toys for the Kiddies—Gifts for the Entire Family, Fancy China Ware, Sweaters, Scarfs, Bath Robes, Etc., Bed Room Slippers for Mother, Sister and Dad.



Brunswick Phonograph

Brunswick Records

Latest Hymns

75c to $1.25 Each

Schuchat's Department Store

MARLINTON, - - - - WEST VIRGINIA

Ship Us Philadelphia the highest market in the EAST—and the largest quantity we have ever handled! That's the good report we're able to make on our Thanksgiving business in Dressed Turkeys and Mixed Poultry—thanks to the good judgment of the poultry raisers of this community!

Turkeys Now we are broadcasting for every dressed turkey this part of the country can supply. We've GOT to have 'em by the THOUSANDS if we're to take care of the big Christmas demand already coming in. Poultry raisers and shippers of three states know that this house stands for the utmost in service—

For Christmas!! the highest price the market affords, fair dealing and quick settlement. Our wholesale market at Philadelphia, extending through one entire block thereby giving us two outlets, is one of the country's very largest and—no other house has a better financial rating or a better reputation among shippers. 43 years in business—and growing all the time. Get your turkey flock in shape to dress and ship to reach us between

Mixed Poultry Dec. 19th and 22nd—a single barrel or a car load. We want mixed poultry, also, but not until after Christmas. Ship

For New Year! your dressed mixed poultry to reach us from the 26th to 30th for the New Year trade. Write or wire us first, if you wish current prices and detailed instructions as to dressing, packing and shipping—but plan to ship to us and be sure of the last dollar your stock is worth.

Frank Hellerick & Co

349 New Market St. 120 Callowhill St.

PHILADELPHIA Penn.

LOOK and READ

We just want to remind youthat our Closing Out Sale is still going on, and we have a substantial stock of merchandise of desirability and quality. It will pay you to call and get our prices when in need of anything

Better anticipate your need and buy while we have a good assortment.

FARMER'S SUPPLY CO.

Arbovale, W. Va.

LAST CHANCE

To buy all kinds of new army clothing goods at the low prices I am offering, as I expect to leave by Christmas. My stock consists of sweaters, underwear, socks, coats, shoes, pants, raincoats, overcoats, blankets, cet.

These are new army goods which have been secured at government sales. Never again will the public have the opportunity to get goods like these at so low a price.

FIND ME AT THE OLD NEWSTAND OPPOSITE THE BANK OF MARLINTON.

ROSEN

Marlinton, West Virginia

Christmas Suggestions

— AT —

Royal Drug Stores

- Eastman Kodak
- Norris Candies
- Smoking Sets
- Waterman Pens
- Silver & Gold Pencils
- Fancy Stationery
- Safety Razors
- Flash Lights
- Ivory Combs & Brushes
- A complete line of Bibles
- Photo Albums
- Liggett's Chocolates
- Xmas Cigars
- Pipes
- Bridge Sets
- Dainty Perfumes
- Vanities
- Thermos Bottles
- Writing Sets

Notice of Trustee's Sale

OF VALUABLE REALESTATE

Pursuant to authority vested in me by two deeds of trust executed by J. W. Nelson and Angie Nelson, his wife, to me as trustee. one dated March 17, 1914, and one dated August 13, 1914. the first recorded in the office of the county court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in trust deed book number 8 at page 356, and the second recorded in the same office in trust deed book number 8 at page 462, to secure the Bank of Marlinton, which deeds of trust were afterwards assigned to J. F. Ashford, the underisgned trustee, on Friday, January 4, 1924, commencing at 10 o'clock a. m., at the front door of the court house of said Pocahontas County, in the town of Marlinton, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, a certain tract of land situate in said county in the Green Bank District, on the waters of Buffalo Creek, on the side of Allegahany Mountain, containing 41 acres, more or less, being the same land conveyed to said J. W. Nelson by Joseph Slaton and wife by deed of record in said office in deed book number 41 page 179.

Term of Sale: Cash.

Andrew Price, Trustee

Farm For Sale

A farm of 75 acres two miles north of Cass; 50 acres cleared land and 72 acres under good fence. Plenty of good water the year round; good five room house and outbuildings; two good orchards. I have slashed the price to one half to a quick buyer. My health is bad and I cannot run the farm: that is why I slashed it to one half what it is worth. For further information come and see,

J. L. GRAGG.

For Sale

Near Meadville, Penn. forty acres thirty seven under plow, good house, near church, store and school. Ideal gardening farm Two excellent markets. Write Z. M. Hanks, Cass, W Va.

TRUCK FOR SALE—A new Chevrolet truck, one ton capacity, called the Heavy Duty truck. Been run less than 1,000 miles. Will sell at low prices. Rosen, Marlinton, W. Va.

Notice To Stockholders

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of the Bank of Marlinton will be held at the banking rooms of said institution in the town of Marlinton, West Virginia, on the 7th day of January, 1924, at 1 o'clock p. m. to transact such business as may properly come before the meeting.

Given under my hand this 7th day of December. 1923.

HUBERT ECHOLS,
Cashier.

H. M. Lockridge has moved to Marlinton from Minnehaha for the winter.

Turkeys! Turkeys!

We shall pay the highest prices in Philadelphia. Christmas and New Year for your "Famous Turkeys", which have become a by-word with our best customers. There are no better turkeys than your section produces. Dress them dry picked and packed properly and you will be assured of the very top prices on the market. Ship to Frank Hellerick and Co. Philadelphia.

Early Dilley is building a residence on Court street opposite the Methodist church.

J. A. Young is able to be about town after a long illness.

Farm for Sale

95 acres 6 miles from Morgantown, very good home, barn, chicken houses and other out buildings. Three hundred fruit trees, 80 grape vines, 1 4 acres everbearing strawberries, 1-4acre June bearing. A good lot of black walnut, chestnut and red oak timber, One mile from school 1-2 mile from two churches. Good produce market. Write H. C. Vanosdale, Udiagton, W. Va.

Farm for Sale

The John F. Waniess farm on Thorny Creek is for sale. This is a large farm particularly good for grass. For particulars and price apply to George N. Linger Weston, W. Va.

FOR SALE—One Victrola good as new and sixty records. W. A. Theide, Marlinton, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XL NO 45 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, JUNE 22, 1922 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

CHAS. FREDERICK EDWARDS

CHAS. FREDERICK EDWARDS is the central and commanding personality in a story of business development which bears strongly the aspects of romance and gives the lie to the suggestion that in America the day of opportunity has passed. Here is the story of his career:

He was born in 1878. He attended the common schools and received a high school diploma at the age of eighteen. Thereafter he taught school for four years. Then, at the age of 22, just 22 years ago, he came to Huntington and worked a year for the American Car and Foundry Company. During the second year he gained the knowledge which started him on his real career as a manufacturer, working for the Prindle Furniture Company. The third year marked the establishment of the plant of the Specialty Mattress Company, a small concern which grew rapidly. Now he owns fourteen mattress factories, in cities in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and West Virginia.

In 1905 he married Miss Mae McCormick of Huntington. They have two children. Miss Helen Hope and Master James Frederick.

In a recent address Mr. Edwards said that he had been in business for the last twenty years and that he would like to spend the next twenty years in politics.

To the Republican voters of West Virginia:

Many men, high in the councils of the Republican party in West Virginia, business men of all kinds and many labor leaders, men who have been leaders in formulating the policies, in fighting the battles and in bringing successes to our party, give strong assurances that having tested the sentiments prevailing in different sections of the state, they have reached the following conclusions—that the situation as it exists with reference to the selection of a candidate for the United States senatorship, demands, first, that a man should be selected who will unite the different factions of the party, restore harmony and enable the party to bring to a successful issue the campaign about to open for the election of our candidates, and for sustaining the policies of President Harding.

Second, that on account of the many practical business problems to be solved by the congress, problems which are vital to the welfare of every citizen in our state, questions affecting capital and labor in our industrial centers, the matter of the tariff, and taxation, which for years to come will require the most earnest consideration of our lawmakers. All these make it advisable that a business man should be decided upon as the candidate for the United States Senate.

Third, that the time has come when, in a spirit of fairness and a just recognition of the claims to consideration presented by the southern part of West Virginia, the interests of our party would be best served by deciding upon a candidate from that section.

Furthermore, it is the unanimous opinion of the gentlemen above referred to that I meet the above requirements as a candidate, and that it is their desire that I enter the campaign for the nomination to be made at the primary election which will be held in August. They earnestly assert that they will give their united support in making my campaign a success.

No man could fail to appreciate fully the high honor which is thus conferred; and no man qualified to accept the commission thus presented could fail to realize the great responsibilities which its acceptance imposes.

Whether these gentlemen are correct in their final conclusion, in so far as it relates to myself, is for them and the voters to decide; but with all their other suggestions, I am in hearty accord, and, after careful consideration of all that is involved, I have decided to become a candidate for the nomination of the next United States Senator from the state of West Virginia, subject to the will of the Republican voters to be expressed in the August primary.

We are all interested in the tremendous possibilities which the industrial opportunities of our great state offer. We appreciate fully that the questions involved in and arising the development of our natural resources call for a practical business knowledge, more than political experience. The question of peace and contentment in our factory districts and our great coal areas is a practical and not a political question. Matters of taxation, not only those due to the aftermath of war conditions, but those naturally incident to the rapid development of our domestic interests are of exceedingly great importance to all our citizens and will be for a generation to come. In the proper settlement of these and similar questions, to the end that our people may be benefitted in the fullest degree, we are all greatly concerned I believe that in the settlement of these questions the best results will be realized under the policies of the Republican party and I feel confident of my ability to be of service to our party, our state and our nation in the solution of such problems. If I am nominated and elected, it will be my aim and purpose to stand strictly on the fundamental policies of the Republican party, which has contributed so much to the material progress of our country.

The labor interests have only to investigate the records of my own enterprises to learn that my policy is one of fairness and justice in dealing with matters pertaining to them, and those who are more interested in my attitude on questions concerning capital, will find that my views have always called for the exercise of equal fairness and justice to all concerned. I ask the support of the Republican voters of this state for this nomination and pledge to them the best that is in me in helping make more certain, the establishment of Republican principles in the state and Union.

—Advertisement.

Mrs. Lummie Rennix died at Thornwood on Thursday, June 8. Mrs. Rennix was 65 years old. She survived her husband Jack Rennix, who died about fourteen years ago She leaves to mourn her loss three sons and two daughters Her sons are Talbott Renix, of Elkins; Roy and Thurman Rennix of Thornwood. The surviving daughters are Mrs. Tacy Mouse, of Elkins, and Mrs. Lou Harper of Durbin Funeral services were conducted at the Israel Church near Kerns, the Rev. A. D. Craig, pastor of the Methoeist Church of this city officiating. Interment was in the Israel Church Cemetery —Elkins Review.

There will be Childrens' Day service at Browns Creek Sunday morning June 25th at 10.30 o'clock. The public is invited to attend these interesting services.

Glowing reports come from the Young Peoples' Bible Conference of the Synod of West Virginia, at Lewisburg, which closed on Wednesday after an eight day' session Nearly twenty Pocahontas young people attended, and the total enrollment was over two hundred. They are being housed in the big dormitories of the Greenbrier Presbyterial school. The time is divided, between eating and sleeping, study and recreation One youngster wrote back that they had to study harder than in high school. The Pocahontas and Greenbrier boys played the others at baseball and won the two games by scores of 3 to 2 and 6 to 3. Hubert Slaven of Marlinton, pitched both games. Betsy Price of Marlinton, won the swimming race at White Sulphur Springs. Rev. H. H. Orr, of Marlinton, is one of the managers and prime movers of the Conference.

COUNTY S. S CONVENTION

County Sunday School Convention on Knapps Creek August 4 5th

As the time for the County Convention draws near the various Committees are working vigorously so that every branch of the work may be carried through successfully G. M Sharp of Huntersville, RFD, is chairman of the Committee on Entertainment and to help this committee to perform its duties, this comdesires each delegate to send their names to him to facilitate their work of assignments. This courtesy is due our host, the good people on Knapps Creek, and we urge each Sunday School to select their delegates and forward their names to the Chairman of this committee by July 10th. All County Officers and District Presidents are members of the Convention and should advise the Chairman also of their attendance, so that they may be assigned entertainment.

G. M. Sharp, Chairman Ent.
S N. Hench, President,

WILLIAM H. BAXTER

William H. Baxter, an aged and respected citizen of Edray, suffered a compound fracture of the leg last Friday evening June 16, 1922, which resulted in his death the next day at the Marlinton Hospital. The leg was amputated in an effort to save his life

Mr. Baxter had been plowing corn at the old Baxter homestead on Elk Mountain. About six o'clock he was unhitching his horse from the plow. The horse is supposed to have kicked at a turkey nearby, striking Mr Baxter on the leg with force as to break the thigh bone to bits for half its length, one end of the bone protruding from the flesh Dr. N. R. Price was called, and, as the injury was recognized as a serious one, he was brought to the Hospital at Marlinton. An amputation of the leg was done and he seemed to rally pretty well from the operation. The next day he sank rapidly and expired. He had suffered from a heart and kidney affection which contributed to his decease. His age was 72 years and ten months.

His son, Preston Baxter, and two daughters, Mrs. Lucy King and Mrs E. J. Shannahan, all of Edray, survive him. His wife, who was a daughter of the late Robert Gay, died about five years ago

Furneral services were conducted from the Edray church Sunday afternoon, by his pastor, Rev. C. A. Powers A very large crowd of relatives and friends attended the service. His body was buried in the Edray graveyard.

CONNELL-DARNELL

James Thomas Connell, of Camden, N. J., and Miss Gladys, Dorne Darnell, of Boyer, were married at the home of William H. Darnell, in Marlinton, on Thursday, June 15, 1922, Rev. G. W. Woolard, officiating minister.

Work on the Fair ground is progressing rapidly. Good fences have been put up, nearly a mile of drain tile in, the track nearing completion, and a big force of men at work on the buildings. A large boundary of land, which has on it abundant shade will be fitted up for camp sites, and while there will probably be room for all persons desiring tent sites, reservations are already being asked for. The stock sales total twelve thousand dollars and over. The financiers in charge are playing safety first in the expenditure of all money, and especially are they safeguarding the funds raised by the sale of stock. This money will be used exclusively for the purchase of the farm, and for things which add to the value of the realestate in a general way like fences roads, drainage, etc. It is the intention to pay for things which belong directly to it as a fair proposition out of the profits of the fair This includes the track, fair buildings, etc It is the intention to take no risks whatsoever with the capital money, but to so invest it that its value is represented in a farm that will be worth the money, outside of its special value as a County Fair proposition. Up to this time no individual has been allowed to buy more than one hundred dollars worth of stock, and the share holders now number over five hundred. There is still a limited amount of stock to be placed

The Sunday School of the M E Church, South, at Durbin, will render their annual Childrens' Day program on Sunday the 25th at 8 o'clock p. m. The Junior Choir is a special attraction, and the young people, as well as the committee in charge, are working hard to make the entire program an entertaining one A cordial invitation is extended to all.

A Ford car, driven by a lady from Cass, left the road at the Tyler place near Edray, one day last week—broke a telephone pole in several places, tore down two panels of plank fence and turned on its side, all without seriously injuring anyone. The engine was still running after the racket quieted.

Word has been received of the death of Aaron Kellison, which occurred at his home in Harrison county on May 15. He was working in the field and was stricken with heart failure His age was about 70 years He was a native of Pocahontas County, being a brother of the late Clark Kellison, of Swago.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Perkins, near Huntersville, June 17, a daughter.

CIRCUIT COURT

Continued

Law Orders

Ordered that the Sheriff publicly destroy certain stocks of liquors.

County Court vs P. D. Moore, verdict for defendant.

J E Bartlett Co. v T. L Beard, verdict for defendant.

N. C. Rodgers v County Court, verdict for defendant

Range Lumber Co. v E. D. Burner, settled.

State v E D Burner, bail pending appeal in the Supreme Court.

Order requiring attorneys to return to the clerk's office all files of papers now missing from there and in their possession, and that a record and receipt be kept hereafter for all papers taken from the Clerk's office.

Chancery

Norvell Chambers Shoe Co. v R D. Rimel decree of sale

E M Arbogast v Lawrence Ward, demurrer overruled, thirty days given defendant to answer, and order of survey to A. O Baxter.

Marlinton Electric Co. v F. A Degler, Geo. F. Hull appointed receiver.

State v Ten tracts, redeemed by W Va, Pulp & Paper Co., upon payment of $6142 30

Forrest Malcomb permitted to adopt Raymond Mullenax hereafter to be known as Paul Dew Malcomb.

John Petts v Ethel Petts decree of divorce, question of custody of child continued.

Goodsell Exor. v W. B. Freeman's Heirs, decree of sale

Court adjourned June 17, 1922.

WM. GIBSON, JR. KILLED

Word was received here Tuesday afternoon of the death of William Gibson, Jr., from an accident while working on the log train of the W. Va. Pulp & Paper Company on Elk. He was the son of William Gibson, of Slaty Fork, and his age was about 27 years. The particulars of the accident are meagre, but the report is that he was caught between the trucks while making a coupling.

TOWN WATER SUPPLY

This water works is a question that rises its hydrant head every day. The town water is impregnated with minerals to such an extent as to render it unfit for many purposes. The railroad company for instance will not use it in their boilers but offer to buy $500 per year if Knapps Creek water is used.

The other day a lady from the Levels started to eastern cities and when she was leaving her little daughter sympathized with her for the reason that she would not get a drink of good water until she got home. The reason of that was the child had never been in but one city and that was Marlinton, and she thought that all cities had the same kind of drinking water and she did not like the Marlinton water.

For the next council meeting there will be two ways of changing the water supply to be considered. One a water wheel at Knapps Creek with power to fill the tanks and save the cost of pumping which with the filtration plant is estimated to cost $12,000.00.

The other to bring Knapps Creek water by gravity to a filter at the present pumping station there to be pumped with the present equipment at an estimated cost of $6000.00.

THE MIGHTY HAAG SHOW.

One hundred and fifty people, 16 head of horses and ponies traveling overland in 40 conveyance wagons and trucks, one camel, 3 elephants and 10 cages of living wild animals and everything that goes to make up a first class show worth going miles to witness

The feature acts to be seen with the Mighty Haag show are The Knight Family, Miss Marion Drew and her herd of performing elephants, marvelous astonishing, bewildering, The three Georges world's greatest acrobats; see them Educated horses, mules, ponies, dogs, and monkeys, which do everything but talk, acrobats jugglers, gymnasts, equilobrists, Trappe performers, wire walkers, funny clowns, living wild animals and features too numerous to mention. A refined, moral old time one ring show. It pleases the old and young —At Huntersville on Saturday, June 24.

The Campbell-Baily-Hutchison circus Sundayed in Marlinton, and showed to a tent full of people on Monday. A delightful rain cut short the concert performance. Owing to two other dates in the county, at Cass and Durbin, the crowd of out of town folks was not as big as usual, but Marlinton lived up to her reputation as a good show town, nevertheless. This is a good respectable circus and the children feel that they got their money's worth in full. The crowd was well dressed, well behaved and mostly young people There was no liquor in evidence. A new clown stunt was a man in convict clothes tagged "ex-bootlegger.

County Court will be in session on next Tuesday, June 27.

The Board of Equalization is sitting this week. It is composed of M. L. Beard, R. S. Hickman and J. A. Reed.

West Virginia News Briefs

Most impotrant events of entire state covered by our correspondents

Moundsville—Charles Cordell, 60, of Powhatan, Ohio, committed suicide in a hotel at Hundred, near here.

St. Marys—Ira Williams won the individual championship of the state trapshooting tournament, breaking 186 out of 200 targets.

Fairmont—A gasoline bus to operate over the B. and O. railroad tracks between Century and Century Junction is being constructed here.

Huntington—West Virginia will grow a crop of from 15,000,000 to 18,000,000 pounds of tobacco, according to a local warehouse man.

Wheeling—Nine members of the nurses' training school of the Ohio valley general hospital were awarded diplomas at the annual commencement exercises.

Beckley — Nine members of the state police force were on hand to prevent disorder when the Price hill coal company mine near here resumed operations on an open shop basis.

Charleston—Frank Fleming and Fred Baker pleaded guilty in the intermediate court to the charge of violating the prohibbition laws and each was fined $100 and sentenced to 30 days in jail.

Huntington—The oldest member of Huntington's fire department in point of service, Chief Ed Knight, will either go back to the ranks or retire when the municipal government changes hands.

Clarksburg—A verdict of $675 was awarded Marshall Martin in Harrison county circuit court in his suit against the Pittsburgh and West Virginia gas company for damage resulting from leakage of the pipe lines running through his land.

Morgantown—At least 6,000 teachers in the elementary public schools of West Virginia will attend summer training schools this year. Captain George M. Ford, state superintendent of schools, said while visiting West Virginia university recently. More than 1,000 of them are expected to attend the university summer school.

Clarksburg—Resolutions adopted at the closing session here of the West Virginia Manufacturers' annual convention pledged the best efforts of the organization toward correcting misinformation about West Virginia in other states, urged legislation to protect American shipping and thanked local organizations for the hospitality accorded the delegates.

Charleston—The increased valuation of Raleigh county realty is estimated at $9,803,427, in a communication received today by Walter S. Hallanan, state tax commissioner, from the office of the assessor, Ward Clark. The actual increase on completed territory is $5,803,427 and a "conservative" estimate for the other four districts is $4,000,000.

Wheeling—Mrs. Perry Conkle, convicted in the Ohio county criminal court of voluntary manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Pearl Williams, here last fall, refused to go to trial again and accepted a three-year sentence in the state prison at Moundsville. She had previously been sentenced to three years by Judge Robinson, but was granted a new trial when her attorney, S. O. Boyce, appealed to the circuit court.

Wheeling—Pittsburgh was tentatively selected as the place of holding the next conference of the Pittsburgh conference of the eastern district of Lutheran churches in the closing session of the 1922 conference at St. Mark's Lutheran church at Elm Grove. Rev. L. O. Burry of Pittsburgh, new president of the conference said that a joint gathering of the three conferences in the eastern districts probably will be held at Pittsburgh in September.

Wheeling—Miss Sue Staunton, of Charleston, was elected president of the state board of children's guardians at a meeting of the board held here in the office of Dr. John L. Dickey, a member of the board. She succeeds Dr. J. S. Brooke, of Romney, who resigned as president and member of the board several weeks ago. Harry L. Synder of Shepherdstown, was appointed by Governor Morgan to fill the vacancy in the board membership, created by Brooke's resignation.

Fairmont—As Collie J. Webb, a lineman in the employ of a local traction company was entangled in a mass of wires he was repairing at Lumberport, a high tension line, carrying 22,000 volts, broke some distance away and fell across the lines that surrounded him. His body was literally cooked before it fell to the ground.

Wheeling—R. Phillip Witzberger, 24, of East Wheeling, was instantly killed by the Pittsburgh express on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at Tunnel Green in East Wheeling.

MOORE GASOLINE

Means

Less Gasoline

Filling station at The Peoples Store & Supply Co. at west end of county bridge is the only station in Marlinton selling: The Moore Gasoline and Engine Oils. Try it and be convinced.

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.

MARLINTON, W. VA.

ENGINEER SAMPSON, DEAD

(Charleston Gazette)

An active railroad man for 58 years, 40 of which were spent on the Chesapeake and Ohio in southern West Virginia, without having suffered a serious injury.

This was the unique record of Rev J. M. Sampson, widely known in Charleston and elsewhere, whose death occurred last week at his old home at Lancaster, Pa.

Rev. Sampson, always a careful pilot for the train entrusted into his care, was in numerous wrecks during his career as an engineer. In at least two instances, the locomotive turned completely over, killing the fireman and other members of the crew, but the sturdy engineer always climbed from the wreckage of the cab unscathed.

Rev. Sampson died Tuesday as a result of a complication of diseases. He was born and raised on a farm near the city of Grafton, W. Va, and at the age of fourteen years, he joined the quartermasters department of the Union army. He served thoughout the Civil war, in spite of his age, and received high commendation from his superior officers and from the authorities of the war department.

When 17 years old, Rev. Sampson, a sturdy mountaineer boy, entered the employ of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. He came to the Chesapeake and Ohio in 1880 and had "runs" on different divisions including the main line from Lexington to Ronceverte.

In 1899 he went to Ronceverte to run the engine of the construction train in building the Greenbrier division between Whitcomb and Winterburn, W. Va.

Upon the completion of this division, he was given the first passenger train to run on the division. He held this run until his retirement on December 28, 1918.

Rev. Sampson's first wife and son Harry Sampson, preceded him to the grave some years ago. He is survived by his widow, three daughters, Mrs. Weber, of Hinton; Mrs Holstein of Baltimore; Mrs. H. O. Curry, of Ronceverte; two sons, G. E. Sampson, of Hinton, and E. C. Sampson, of Charleston; two sisters of Connelsville, Pa., and one broteer, G. E. Sampson, retired engineer of Huntington.

The deceased was a life long member of the Methodist Episcopal church and for many years was a preacher in that church. He was a member of the Masonic lodge and of the brothhood of locomotive engineers.

Funeral services were held in the Methodist Episcopal church at Huntington on Friday afternoon. The Masons and engineers had charge of the services at the graveside and Rev. Goodwin preached the funeral at the church.

Rev Sampson miraculously escaped serious injury and possibly death on many occasions. The many short curves, twists and turns in the mountains of Pocahontas county, where the Greenbrier division is located, made it a hazardous task to drive a locomotive and keep it on the rails in the early years.

While on his run to Winterburn early one morning a few years ago Rev. Sampson's train collided with an earth and rock slide four miles north of Marlinton. The locomotive went into the river with the baggage and mail cars. Rev. Sampson crawled out from under the wreckage, suffering only a skinned leg. The water was not deep but the fireman was killed almost instantly, his body badly crushed and severely burned by steam escaping from broken pipes.

On another occasion, Mr Sampson's engine hit a cow near Droop Mountain. The locomotive left the rails and went into the side of a hill. Had it gone in the other direction it would have dropped over a 50-foot bank. As it was, the engine crew was hurled through the small doors leading to the front of the engine, and while the fireman was cut and bruised, Rev. Sampson did not have a scratch.

It is a notable fact that but very few persons riding on Rev. Sampson's train, and there were hundreds of thousands of them in his career, to be killed.

J. H. Meadows, of Fern Apartments of 4th and Thorn Streets, San Diego, Califarnia, writes us that F. T. Sharp, a native of Pocahontas, died in San Diego, on May 26. He was a son of the late Harman Sharp, of Slaty Fork, and was 44 years of age. He is survived by his wife who was Miss Emma Doyle of Cloverlick, and their five children, who range in age from 21 to 10 years

M. J. McNeel, Miss Anna Wallace and Miss Guy Bratton are attending the annual reunion of Confederate Veterans at Richmond this week. Miss Wallace and Miss Bratton are on the staff of Col. Thomas H. Dennis, Commander of the first West Virginia Division.

There will be Children's Day Services at Swago, Sunday, 25th, at 10:30 a. m.

A big crowd and a fine program at the Children's Day Services at the Methodist Church Sunday morning.

The corner stone of the Presbyterian church at Beard was laid on Wednesday, by the Masons.

Correction

The Board of Equalization will take up the following district next week.

Greenbank District—Monday and Tuesday 26th and 27th.

Huntersville District—Wednesday and Thursday 28th and 29th.

Little Levels District—Friday and Saturday 29th 1st day of July.

The first person that shows up in Sitlington with $400.00 gets the Maxwell Five passenger Touring car. Don't crowd now as there is no Hotel here, bring your lunch with you we can't afford to give you your dinner and the car at that price.

C. C. Ware,
Sitlington, W. Va

WOOL

Having made a contract for 2 car loads of wool to be shipped at once. I can pay you more than any one in the county. Please write me how much wool you have, or see me before you sell. If price means anything, Kelmenson has the price.

H. KELMENSON

Marlinton, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLII NO 20 — MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA; DECEMBER 27 1923 — $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Jewett Prices

STANDARD MODELS

Touring (5-Passenger)	$1,065
Brougham (5-Passenger)	$1,325
Sedan (5-Passenger)	$1,495
Chassis	$ 960

SPECIAL MODELS

Roadster (3-Passenger)	$1,195
Touring (5-Passenger)	$1,220
Sedan (5-Passenger)	$1,695

The prices for "Specials" include the following as regular equipment—One extra cord tire, tube and cover; trunk rack and trunk except on Roadster, combination tail and stop light; spring bar bumper, front and rear; motormeter; drum sidelights on cowl; all nickel lamplights; automatic windshield wiper; rear view mirror except on Roadster: sun visor—Mar shall type.

Tuarc disk steel wheels $25 exrra on all models.
All prices F. O. B. factory—tax extra.

GENERAL GARAGE
MARLINTON, W. VA.

For Demonstration—See V. M. LOUDERMILK, T. J. MASON, or B. O. DUNBRACK.

KILLING OF A DEER

The big event of a sportsman's life came to George W. Williams last Wednesday, when he brought down a fine buck deer while hunting with a party of friends near Minnehaha Springs in Pocahontas county To prove it he brought the head and hide to be mounted, and a quarter of the meat to be eaten.

In the party hunting with Mr. Williams were his son, George W., Jr., Deputy Game Warden Andrews, of Fayette county, W. Frank Stout, of Clarksburg, W. L. Herold, Lock Herold, Letcher Herold and J. I. Lee. all of Minnehaha Springs.

The animal was killed on the second day out. Mr. Williams using a [illegible] rifle at 200 to 250 yards. The [illegible]s two years old, with antlers [illegible] inches long, and weighed [illegible] When first sighted the [illegible]0 or 60 yards away in [illegible]sh. Father and son were together. and both sighted him about the same time. Before he presented a target, the buck had run some distance into an open space, and was brought down with a bullet through the shoulders.

Mr. Williams has been a member of the Allegheny Sportmen's Asfociation, with a club house at Minnehaha Springs, for some years, and has frequently hunted over its game preserve, but never before had the luck to get a deer.—Raleigh Register.

To the Editor of the Raleigh Register:

Having noticed in your Sunday edition a statement that I had killed a deer in Pocahontas county, I write not only to plead guilty but to correct certain statements with reference to what was said in the article as well as to express my good feeling toward those in the party at the time of the killing.

I note that you say I have been a member of the Allegheny Sportsman Association for some years and that I have frequently hunted ovor its game preserve. I have been a member of the Allegheny Sportsman Association and the Gheat Mountain Club for a number of years but had never before hunted upon any of the property for any kind of game.

I went to the Club house at Minnehaha Springs in company with my son, Wentworth, on the afternoon of the 30th of October, and killed the deer which was a two year old buck weighing one hundred and thirty-four pounds and having horns 10 1-4 inches in length, at about 8:30 o'clock on the morning of the 31st The only one present at the time I shot the deer which was as stated at a distance of from 200 to 250 yards and with a 303 Savage rifle, was my son, but hunting in the party with us were Deputy Game Warden Andrews, of Fayette county. W. Frank Stout, of Clarksburg, W. L. Herold, Letcher Herold, J. I. Lee and Lock Herold who was in charge of the hunt. All the latter nomed parties being from the vicinity of Minnehaha Springs.

I was informed that it was a rule long since established in the club that the party killing the deer was entitled to only the horns and hide for the purpose of mounting. By this method I would have been entitled only to that portion of the meat that would have been alloted to my son, that being 1-7 but owing to the generosity of the gentlemen hunting with us and upon request by me, I was allowed to have in addition to the horns and hide, a hind quarter of the kill.

First not only I, but a number of my friends are indebted to the gentlemen, and I want to thank them for the kindness and generosity in this matter and take this means of conveying my appreciation, but I want to also express the gratitude of myself and son to our host, Mr. H. M. Lockriege, who is at this time caring for the club house at Minnehaha springs. He not only knows how to care for his guest but if you leave his table hungry at any time it will unquestionably be your fault rather than his. I can certainly say to any member of the club that a hearty welcome awaitf them and a good time is assured should they visit the club at any time while Mr. Lockridge is in charge.

Yours very truly,
George W. Williams.

The Supreme Court has denied a rehearing in the case of State against George Pritt. At the last April term of the Pocahontas Circuit court Pritt was found guilty of running over a little girl in Marlinton with an automobile. He was drinking at the time. He was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

Gen. Thos. H. Dennis, Commander of the West Virginia Division U. C. V., announces the death of his Adjutant General and chief of staff, Col. Henry Byrnside, of Greenville, Monroe county. Col. Byrnside was aged about eighty years and in the words of Gen. Dennis, "he played his part as a soldier of the south in the war between the States" and was a prominent and respected citizen of his county and State.

ONE HOUR
"BIBLE STUDY"

A New Year's Resolution:
Resolved, that I will devote one hour to Bible Study in some Church every Sunday during the year 1924.

The Men's Bible Class of the Marlinton Presbyterian Church cordially and prayerfully invite you Come and join us in this important work.

ONLY ONE HOUR

TOWN ELECTION

The annual town election will be held next Thursday, January 3. The Democratic ticket has been withdrawn entirely. H. L. Byers has withdrawn for councilman and Neal Baxter has been substituted in his stead. Otherwise the ballot is the same as printed elsewhere in this paper.

McLAUGHLIN--YEAGER

Fred F. McLaughlin and Miss Nellie Howard Yeager were married quietly at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Moody Kincaid, at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon, December 19, 1923, by Rev. H H. Orr, officiating minister Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin left by automobile for Stuarts Draft, Virginia, and other eastern points.

The bride is a daughter of C. A. Yeager, and is a popular and efficient teacher in the Marlinton schools.

The groom is a son of the late George H. McLaughlin. He was a volunteer in the world war and saw many months of service in Europe. For a number of years he has been engaged in the pure bred cattle business in Virginia, but he has recently purchased a coal business in Marlinton.

We notice in the Pocahontas Times a Marlinton W. Va. paper, that L. O. Simmons received a letter of appreciation from the Davis Stuart School, an orphanage of Lewisburg, for a Thanksgiving Day gift of two barrels of vegetables. It is presumed that he raised vegetables himself although we vexed to guess just where he got the time. Possibly he had put a latern on his plow. Mr. Simmons is a tall man, measuring over six feet, and lanky. One gets the impression from him of unbounded energy and this impression is substantiated when the fact of what he does comes out. Mr. Simmons is foreman of the composition room of the Times. On the side he runs a bicycle repair shop, and raises poultry. But there is something else for which he is known throughout the state—it is an expert in apiculture.—The Guide, published by the Virginia's School for the Deaf and Blind.

Students who are spending the holidays at their homes at Hillsboro. Eric Clutter, Washington & Lee; Isaac McNeel, Hampden Sidney; Milburn Curry, Asbury and Andrew McLaughlin, Claude Warren, Shenandoah Collegiate Institute; Miss Leeta Beard, Marshall; Harper Beard, West Virginia University.

A number of choice spirits with fine voices revived the good old Christmas custom of singing carrols in the streets the night before Christmas. They visited the homes of the aged, the invalid and the prisoner.

The following persons have contributed to the Silver Service fund for the U. S. S. West Virginia since the last published report. Dr. U. H. Hannah, $5.00; Garland McFerrin, by a friend, $2.50.

The usual fifth Sunday Union services will be held on Sunday night at the Methedist church. Rev. H. H Orr of the Presbyterian church will preach.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Ora Buckhannon, Huntersville, December 24, a daughter.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Zimmerman, Marlinton, December 24, a son.

Elva Woddell, at Riverside, has diptheria.

SEEING JESUS

ANNA L. PRICE

"Sir, we would see Jesus"
How courteous, how complete,
For the Greeks were a polished people
In all things, save Christ, replete.

And they were of an inquiring mind,
In the fine arts they exceeded,
For sculpture, painting, poesy,
To this day renowned and held.

The couquering Romans bowed to them,
Roman youths were sent to learn
In the schools of Greciam masters
A name in the future to earn.

Paul the apostle went to Greece,
He stood on Mars hill far away,
And in view of idolatrous altars,
Preached the one true God that day

Did the people hear and understand?
A few of the thousands there
And they were Greeks who later asked
"We would see Jesus, Sir."

I doubt not they did see Jesus,
Who was waiting to see them too;
It is never hard to find Him,
If the heart be sincere and true.

If the young desired more to see Jesus,
Than keep step with Vanity Fair,
Its fashions, its pleasures, its follies
The Kingdom would come in the air.

Fellow Christians, the time is very short
For desert wandering here,
And if only we see Jesus,
The Promised Land is near.

Dec. 1923.

Charleston —Pocahontas county's fire loss in November was $3,200, an increase of 611 percent over the corresponding month of last year, according to the report of the State Fire Marshal. There was one fire reported and the loss was partial, with $1,700 on property. The building attacked was of the wood type of construction. For five months of the fiscal year ending November 30, Pocahontas county suffered a loss from four fires of $9,100, an increase of 112 percent over those months last year. The West Virginia November fire loss was $340,970, a decrease of $47,537, or 12 per cent, from that month last year. For the five months the loss from 336 fires was $1,700,123, an increase of five per cent over the same period in 1922.

Editor Times:—Am enclosing check for subscription to your valuable paper. The Pocahontas Times is a welcome visitor at our home every Saturday at noon. We are having our first snow storm today. Would liked to have visited my old home and friends in Pocahontas this fall, but as help is very hard to get on farm, it was impossible to do so. Our oldest boy and girl are in college this year.

Wishing for you and yours a merry Christmas and a happy and prosperots New Year.

W. G. Cochran.
Sunbury, Ohio. Dec. 13, 1923.

Norman Sharp, aged 17 years, was before the circuit court Monday morning on a charge of check raising. He confessed and was sent to the reform school at Pruntytown until he is 21 years old. This is his second offense, having been parolled. He is a son of Divers Sharp. who is now serving time in the penitentiary for stealing sheep.

Easter Gibson, a boy of 19 years, was before Squire Smith last Saturday on a charge of having whiskey in his possession. He was fined $100, and six months in jail.

1924

New Year's Greeting to All

WE WISH:

"That in the year to come you may clip from the bond of life countless coupons of Health and Happiness."

Schuchats Dept. Store

MARLINTON - WEST VIRGINIA

STATE ROADS

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 27—This is the "rush" period in that department of the State Roads Commission which handles matters pertaining to motor vehicles transporting passengers or property for hire. There are some 10,000 such vehicles to apply for 1924 licenses, and it is necessary to examine the bond or liability insurance of each one, in addition to the application.

The situation is considerably complicated by the fact that many of the applicants do not have a clear understanding of the new law. The statute passed by the last legislature, under whice rules were formulated and placed in effect on July 26 of this year, requires either a personal or surety bond, or a liability insurance policy covering injury or damage to persons or property transported with in the vehicle, as well as to persons or property not being transported, who may be injured or damaged.

When insurance policies only covered injury or damage to persons or property not being transported, a bond was necessary even though the operator had such a policy. Now that the insurance can be obtained covering both classes of injury or damage, either a policy for the proper amount, or a bond, is sufficient. One or the other is absolutely necessary. It is found, that many applications misinterpret the law to mean that they must file both insurance and bond, while others have the impression that neither is required. Many applications are being received without the proper papers, which means a considerable delay in the issuance of the license.

Licenses will not be issued to those operating vehicles for hire, who have failed to pay the additional fee required by the rule which went into effect on July 20. There are approximately 1,000 of these, in all parts of the state. All of the others have either sent in the added amount, or have paid agents of the Commission.

The new fee is a flat rate of $75 a year for vehicles transporting passengers, which do not operate between fixed termini. Trucks transporting property for hire, and not operating between fixed termini, are required to pay double the amount paid by the same type and size not used commercially. Vehicles for which additional fee have not been paid are all in these two classes, since no difficulty is experience in collecting from those operating over regular routes between fixed termini.

Bonds or insurance are required in the following amounts;

Passenger service—For each vehicle of a capasity of ten passengers or less, two thousand five hundred dollars: capacity of twenty passengers, ten thousand dollars.

Freight service—For each vehicle of a capacity of three ton or less, one thousand dollars; capacity of over three tons two thousand dollars.

Other vehicles—For each vehicle, of whatever capacity or for whatever service, one thousand dollars.

WESLEY CHAPEL M. E. SOUTH

Hillsboro, West Virginia
W. Clark Early, Pastor.
9:45 a m. Sunday School
F. P. Kidd, Superintendent
11 00 a m. Sermon for the New Year.
3 30 p m. Preaching at Sharon.
7 30 p m. Epworth League, Topic, "New Year Purposes."

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

J. Herndon Billingsley, Pastor.
Sunday School 9:45 a. m.
A. S. Overholt, Supt.
Epworth League 6 :45p m.
Preaching, 11:00 a. m. and 7:45 p m.
Subject: Morning "The Ministry of Memory."
Evening, Union Service: Preaching by Rev. H. H. Orr of the Presbyterian church.
Frayer and praise meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.
Everybody cordially welcomed.

BEARD

Miss Mayo Beard is home from Cass for the holidays.

Major H. G. Poague is spending the holiday season with his brother, Capt. Wm. T. Poague.

Remus C. May is home for the holidays from Clendennin where he is teaching this winter.

Harper Beard is at home during the holiday vacation. He is a sophomore at West Virginia University.

Kyle Beard made a trip to Marlinton Saturday.

Clarence Dorman is visiting relatives in Ohio.

The Christmas tree at Beard Chapel Saturday night was well attended in spite of it being a rainy night. The program was very interesting and well rendered. Santa Claus was present as usual.

In remitting the cost of a turkey advertisement G. L. Clark writes this office: I wish to add that I sold my entire drove of gold back bronze toms, 17 in all, through this add in two weeks' time, with twelve orders on hand I could not fill. The hens of this famous breed of turkeys was shipped on the Thanksgiving market to Philadelphia, Pa., and were classed as extra fancy birds, bringing the price offered—55 cents per pound. The 17 toms sold for $170.00 and the 30 hens for $175.00 clear,—total $345.

Sunday School attendance at the Methodist church 224; at the Presbyterian church 185

LARRO

What is it? What is it for? What will it do? What does it cost? Where can you get it? How does it come? Who makes it? What do you know about it? Whore can these and many other questions about

The Greatest Dairy Ration on the Market

Be answered? See the authorized agent:

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.
Marlinton, West Virginia
"Ii makes more milk cheaper."

GOING SOUTH

Dear Editor: Perhaps a few lines from Florida in regard to our trip may be interesting to somebody I know in Pocahontas so I will give you a little news. If it escapes your waste basket I may write you again. I can only give you our trip this time as I just arrived Friday evening and as this is Monday morning I have no chance to say much abont the climate and products.

I saw the Editor as I came by Marlinton on "Thankgiving Day" which was very damp and gloomy. It begain to rain on me at Frost, rained all evening I only expected to come to Crabbottom where I arrived about dark with one of my cousins. I soon had him under the influence of a Florida fever; said he could be ready by Monday if he could get a man to help his son feed for the winter. I went with him the next day in my car and soon found a man anxious for the place. Then I called a man by phone I had written to some days before. He said he was just reading my letter and could start by Monday he and his wife. Monday was a beautiful morning with a heavy frost and we were soon headed on our way, four of us; each a heavy suit case. Up to this time I had to use my chains, but I soon was on the old Staunton and Parkersburg pike in sight of Monterey my boyhood town. Here I discarded my chains and have not used them since We were soon in Stauton where we remained for the night. I had run only 55 miles.

Tuesday was another bright morning and heavy frost; about 7:30 we were headed for Richmond 126 miles, with the old Blue Ridge in front of us. I reached the summit on high gear, all the way, only changed once during the day and that was in Charlottsville. The street was crowded with wagons and I had to stop for low gear. I reached Richmond in four hours and forty minutes. Being early in the day we headed for Petersburg; the sun being high when we arrived we continued our way south until we came to Dinwiddie in Dinwiddie county where we remained for the night. About dark it began to rain and rained most all night. Next morning it was still raining knowing but we had a hard road. We again took up our journey having run 179 miles. Leaving Dinwiddie we made 140 miles to Raleigh N. C. Here we spent the night in the capital city. From here we made 180 miles to a small place in S C. by the name of McBee 60 miles north of the capital of South Carolina. Friday was bright and frosty as it had been in Virginia However we intended on a good day, we went through Columbia the capital of South Carolina. Reaching Georgia we passed the capital, Agusta making our best day, 196 miles, to Midville, Georgia, having passed two state copitals and several autos in the days run. My folks accursed me of giving Henry the rand oil Saturday we only made 180 miles, to Waycross Georgia 80 miles out of Jacksonville. Here I expected to remain over Sunday. When morning came we had a good frost and my folk out voted me and wanted to make Jacksonville.

I had the "Dixie Highway" the best road I had found. Crossing the state line into Florida I struck a new asphalt road about 20 foot wide, smooth as a floor. My folks were passing jokes so I patted Henry on the neck, stroked his mane told him to do his best. I got him down to 40 miles, till the water boiled out around the radiator cap before I checked on the reins. This is the only time I ever did any racing. I wanted to know what a Ford would do in Jacksonville. I will write again if this finds room in your columns.

James N, White
Punta Gorda, Florida

The neighbors of the Wanless and Oliver communities gave a box supper last Saturday night. The proceeds amounted to $71.70, and were donated to Henry McCray, a blind man who is now at the Marlinton Hospital. Those who promoted the supper wish to express their thanks and appreciation of the hearty support given them.

Isaac Barlow butchered the prize hog of the season. It was a two year old pure bred Duroc Jersey that weighed 900 pound on foot and dressed out 750 pounds. This hog took the prize at the county Fair of 1922.

Mrs. Susan Malinda Pryor, (col) a faithful member of the Pleasant Green M. E. Church, near Seebert, departed this life December 7, 1923, aged 88 years. She had spent most her life in the service of the Lord. She was loved and respected by all who knew her, and often spoke of her many friends among the white people who were so nice to her. The funeral service was conducted by the pastor in charge, Rev J. C. McPherson, assisted by others. She leaves two children, 16 grand children and 27 great grand children. Her body was laid to rest in the McNeel cemetery.

A Friend.

The New Touring Car $295 F.O.B. DETROIT

A Striking Value—at $295

Considering the improved appearance of the new Ford Touring Car, one would naturally expect a proportionate advance in price.

Larger scale production, however, has made it possible to incorporate in this new type touring car a number of decided improvements without increasing its cost to the purchaser.

A comparison extending over a long period of years will reveal the fact that the present price is actually the lowest at which the five-passenger open car has ever been sold.

The Ford Touring Car stands today, as it always has, a most remarkable value in the motor car field.

This Car can be obtained through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan

BAXTER'S GARAGF
Marlinton, West Virginia

Ford
CARS TRUCKS TRACTORS

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THURSDAY JUNE 22, 1922

For about eight years it has been my intention to write a chapter on Minnehaha Springs and my delay in getting around to it has never been equalled except by the plumber. Last week an invitation was received to go there and lay off a golf course. Laying off golf courses is a side line and it is an attractive occupation. It grips you as the movie manager says. A golf engineer never sees a patch of blue grass but what he notes the possibilities for a golf course. It is as exciting as designing dresses or picking out building sites. You get to using the streams and trees and hollows to fit into the game and it is landscape gardening on a big scale. Big scale is right. What would the golfing world say to a golf course thirty miles around in the Big Levels of Greenbrier, driving off at Lewisburg at nine a. m., some morning with a guide and a caddie and getting back the following afternoon, having camped at the ninth hole and making the eighteen in something under a thousand strokes? And when the score was tied, to play a nineteenth hole located near Maxwelton, to decide the match?

Just now there are three new golf courses in this county that have been under discussion. One at Stony Bottom, one at the fair grounds at Marlinton, and the one at Minnehaha Springs that is a fact accomplished. That would make enough for a tournament within the county and all that is needed are enough players with the bug. The way golf is becoming a national pastime is the talk of the times. As usual there is a theory that suggests itself to explain the phenomena. This generation has adopted the motor car as the means of locomotion. A locomotive waits outside the door to carry the man of the house to his work place. In steen years it will be noticed that the average leg will have been shortened by 2.3 inches. Thus the number of miles that a person walks has been greatly reduced. After some years of such existence and about the time that the pilgrim has got into the fifties, he finds that he is soft, flabby, tender, sequacious, and remollient. The devil takes up his abode with him. He becomes melancholy. He thinks of his latter end. Then the doctor prescribes golf and charges him a few hundred for the advice. And as he would rather golf than die, he is inducted to golf, and becomes as much of an enthusiast as it is possible for a man of his age.

I have heretofore remareked in this presence that our family are great walkers. It is under the old Irish rule that the rich shall ride in chaises, but the poor shall walk. This assertion has had a recent confirmation in the new novel the "Covered Wagon," by Emerson Hough. Upwards of thirty years ago they used to print Emerson Hough's pieces and mine in the same numbers of the Forest and Stream, and we have both been writing ever since, only Emerson is writing for the Satevepost, and I am writing for the Times. I often wonder whether I could have kept up with him if I had let go all holds and butted into literature. What killed off the desire personally was the realization that scrivener got more for writing a deed than the author for writing a book.

In that "Covered Wagon," when Jed Wingate married Caleb Price's daughter, who had walked twelve hundred miles to Oregon, an old timer remarked of the bride: "She is a great walker." All the Prices was."

And on the subject of literature as a profession, it is a fact, that the average country editor's earnings are more that were O. Henry's. and he was the greatest romancer of them all. From Milton to Morgan Robertson, writers have been poor as a class and suffer from hunger and privation.

The order for a golf course was from the Allegheny Club, post-office, Minnehaha Springs. Let the typesetter beware and put in two es in Allegheny, as for the club we have adopted the spelling of the old explorer Lotter, while we spell the mountain Alleghany, phonetically speaking. It is a question whether we revived the old classical spelling by intention or by accident, but we claim the credit. The spelling of this word is hopelessly mixed as Allegheny, the city is spelled one way, and the mountain the other way. And if anybody wants to they can spell it as the old voyageur Hoffman did in 1756, Alligany.

And here is what a bunch of us did last Friday: Laid off a nine hole golf course, marked the tees with stakes, set the cups, and flags and played on it, all in one day, including the losing of the ball, an important feature of the game.

That quick action is impossible anywhere but in a blue grass country where nature furnishes a smooth carpet of grass, and so far as the holding of the ball up for a stroke, the pastures of this county are better from the start than most courses can ever hope to be.

At the Allegheny Club the front yard is some fifteen or twenty acres in extent and it has been an elk pasture for about ten years and in that time the elk have made a perfect lawn out of it. A winding road serves for a hazard and takes the place of bunkers and traps, and a few trees and a tennis court furnish additional difficulties. The drive from the front door of the club is down a hill and will be much appreciated by those who have trouble making great distances for it is a dowu hill shoot and the ball will get some roll to it. Like the time we drove a ball over five hundred steps, on smooth ice, on the Greenbrier River.

It was decided that as the Allegheny Club had so many activities that a name should be given to the course and on motion it was named in honor of Forrest McNeill, a native of Pocahontas county, who has been twice golf champion of West Virginia playing for Clarksburg, his present home. It was therefore called The Forrest Golf Club, and that is the reason that there are two rs in the name. It is now up to the champion to call at the club and shoot one of his wicked left hand balls, and to be careful not to over shoot the flags.

Here is the card that was gotton up. Note that an attempt is made to forestall critical remarks by showing that it is better to play golf at a friendly place where you are not put off your form by thinking how much rent you are paying for the privilege of playing a simple round of golf. The column headed Bogy is for the well known ficticious player Colonel Bogy, denoting how many strokes the hole ought to be played in. The par column will be supplied in a few years.

The yards indicate the distance the ball travels from the place that it is put in motion until it comes to rest in the cup, measured in a straight line. To play around the course allowing for a player's wanderings means a journey of about two miles. Twice around in one afternoon is recommended as a good preparation for supper and a night of dreamless peace.

Here is the card:

THE FORREST GOLF CLUB
At the Allegheny Club
Minnehaha Springs, W. Va.

No.	Name	Self	Oppt.	Bogy	Yds
1	Elmer	....	....	4	272
2	Price	....	....	5	259
3	Wilfong	....	....	4	236
4	Lone Pine	....	....	3	203
5	Moore	....	....	5	346
6	High Hole	....	....	4	237
7	Colonel	....	....	4	191
8	Elk	....	....	3	141
9	Home	....	....	3	152
	Total			35	2037

Local rule: Any ball falling in the tennis court to be played as a ball out of bounds.

The second hole is named after the editor's cabin which is close by it. Come in and have a drink of water when passing.

If in playing a ball it should come in contact with an elk, the occurrence shall be considered a rub of the green, i. e., a natural happening, and the elk shall be removed and the ball played from where it lies. In other words just shoo the elk away and go on.

The course is free to guests and members and the annual dues are nothing and for that reason the claim is made that it is best golf for the money in the world.

The club managers claim that there are no extras demanded of guests. When they come there they know exactly what it will cost per diem and there will be no shocks in the bill, and if they live up to this plan it will be the most popular place in the country. The club is a large white building with a background of pines, and facing a splendid prospect of valley and mountain. It is set on a hill and is not hid. Across Douthards Creek is the Minnehaha Hotel which is under lease by a well known Florida hotel man and which is well and favorably known.

Between the two is the bath house, a modern and handsome building which is supplied by the big spring which pours a great volume of water from unknown depths. This water is sufficiently heated in the great deep from which it comes to make bathing pleasant. To the left is the village of Minnehaha Springs, at the place that Knapps Creek and Douthards Creek join immediately at the head of the most picturesque gorge in West Virginia.

This is an Arcadia of murmuring pines and hemlocks. Only that word murmuring used by Longfellow is not quite so descriptive as the one that is in local use—whispering pines. The white pine is the whispering pine and the visitor here will find the finest example of whispering pines that he ever saw or heard, if he will walk back into the grove of second growth white pine behind the club house on a summer afternoon when a geutie wind is stirring. He will be treated to a thrill by the silken, soft, uncertain rustling over head. We speak of the rustling of the angels' wings. Here it is exemplified in an extraordinary way. It is impossible to describe. It can never be forgotten when once heard. The whispering pines. Do not depart thence until you have heard the trees.

"And I shall have some peace there,
for peace comes dropping slow,
Dropping from the wings of the morning, to when the cricket sings;
And midnight's all a-glimmer, and noon a purple glow,
And the evening full of the linnets'
wings"

I hope to have the leisure this year to dwell in the pines. For some years I have been chained to the rock like Prometheus, who stole fire from heaven, and was punished by Jupiter. And the eagles would come by day and eat out his liver and it took all his nights to grow it back again. It was a uncomfortable existence. And my work was not much more pleasant when a person could not go to a picture show because he had to conserve his energy for the next day's work.

There is another thing that ought to be mentioned perhaps, for when I advise golf for the idle rich, I should confess that I no longer play golf on the town pasture but clear land instead. But be that as it may, golf is all right for those who have no land land to clear. And here is a piece out of a book:

"Do not as some ungracious pastors do,
Show me the steep and thorny way
to heaven,
Whilst, like a puffed and reckless libertine,
Himself the primrose path of dalliance treads,
And recks not his own rede"

The day that the message came to go to the club, the court was still in session, and I went by the court house to get excused, for members of the bar must be in attendance whether they have anything coming up that day or not, for it aggravates the judge to have his force all scattered. And I mention this, for when I got out of the car to go into the court house, the cement walk which had been as solid as the rock was heaved up and the top layer was acting in the most curious way. It was not cracked or broken but it gave to the tread like it rested on a cushion. Now this walk has been down for something like twenty years and why it should begin to skip like a lamb was something that called for investigation. And this is the reason. The moonshine liquor which had accumulated at April court and June court had been brought here and the jars broken, and the oil of gladness spilled as required by the order of the court. And it had destroyed the cement walk. Fellow citizens, look to the lining of your stomachs. And about that time one of those three distinguished Americans, grouped the other day by Senator LaFollette as "petty tyrants anh arrogant despots," came by and was much interestep in action of moonshine liquor on the pavement, for he hates the sinful stuff, and is engeged in the constant endeavor of bringing the truth home to the people.

The famous three reviled by the worm-eaten LaFollete are judges Taft, Anderson, and McClintic, and the words are the idle mouthings of a demagogue who would not know a good man if he met him in the road, and he must meet many such for he is going the wrong way. Besides we object to his english for the terms petty tyrant and arrogant despot are contrdictory.

The road from here to Huntersville is good, and from there to the springs is very bad but that is about to be changed as the mules and the negroes are there working to beat the band. In another season the broad road that leadeth to the pine country will be finished and shortly after hard surfaced and then it will be complete with the face of nature as a pleasant drive. It lies by a clear stream, and by green meadows and great mountains.

At the place that the Barclay mill once stood, the stakes indicate that the road is to be straightened and broadened and the creek turned aside. In the old days, just forty years ago, the road was on top of the precipice over a hundred feet above the stream and overhung a blue pool, and on each side the black mountains hemmed it in. I remember being powerfully impressed with the awfulness of that place after I had driven by it as a small person with my illustrious father, and for years waking or sleeping, the terrors of that dreadful gorge stayed with me. The deep water, the dark woods, and the tall cliffs that lift their awful forms. And in after years a valued friend drove his car over that very place and one of the party killed and the others injured.

At that time there was a grist mill there but it went out on the 17th day of February, 1893, when a big drive of ten thousand white pine logs came down on a driving flood. It was never rebuilt. It was a notable law suit, and is a fine example of special pleading and the uncertainties of a law suit. Here was an ancient dam destroyed by a great company, a newcomer, and therefore vulnerable. It looked like a case of how much, gentlemen of the jury, how much? An offer to build back the dam better than ever without cost and to fix it so that the logs would float over was indignantly rejected. Cash was preferred. And the record shows that after some dilatory matters were disposed of the great case came on for trial before a jury at the October term, 1895, with an array of lawyers on both sides and a host of witnesses. Judge A. N. Campbell was presiding. He was a great lawyer. He instructed the jury that if logs could be floated in certain seasons in Knapps Creek without the aid of artificial means, that it was a floatable stream. and that no person had the right to obstruct it with a dam, and that even if the logs had torn out the dam, they should find for the defendants, if they had not been negligent. And the verdict was for the defendants. The mill has never been restored, and they say that our townsman whose mind runs on litigation all the time got his first taste of the law in that case, and has been looking for his money where he lost it ever since. The case of the doctrine of navigable waters

In the Civil War, Camp Northwest was just east of the head of this gorge from where the southern troops watched this great black door way from invasion into Virginia from the north.

Both the club and the hotel are recommended to the wayfarer for comfort and hospitality.

A statistical report like this one is not complete without giving the population of the place. This we do not know. Anyway it is a good deal like the tale of the old days when the capital of the State was at Wheeling. The question of the size of Webster county coming up the Speaker of the House asked the delegate from that county: "What is the population of Webster?" "Mostly beech and sugar, sir," was the prompt reply. And we might say that the population of Minnehaha Syrings is mostly whispering pines and hemlocks.

Automobile Service If It Is a Taxi

You want, see or call G W. Clark at Marlinton Hotel, night or day. New Baby Grand Chevrolet Car. Commercial or Pleasure Trips my specialty. Prompt Service. I meet every train.

G. W. CLARK.

Notice

All persons having claims against the estate of George M. Sutton, deceased, will present the same properly proven to the undersigned administrator at his office in Cass. W. Va. All persons indebted to said estate will settle the same at once.

This 5th of June, 1922.

J. B. Sutton, Admr.
Estate of Geo. M. Sutton, deceased.

Notice Of Trustee's Sale

Pursuant to authority vested in me by virtue of a certain deed of trust, bearing date the 20th day of August, 1920, executed by R. R. Snedegar and Susie Snedegar, his wife, to me as Trustee, to secure the bank of Hillsboro in the payment of a certain note in the sum of $3100.00, which note was renewed as of the 20th day of April, 1921, and due since August 20th, 1921, which deed of trust is of record in the office of the Clerk of the County Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, in Trust Deed Book No. 12 at Page 3, and also in the office of the Clerk of the County Court of Greenbrier County, West Virginia, in Trust Deed Book No. 15 at page 656; I will, on the 24th day of June, 1922, commencing at 10 o'clock in the forenoon at the front door of the Bank of Hillsboro, in the Town of Hillsboro, West Virginia, proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder, the following timber, timber rights, and personal property, to-wit:

1. All the merchantable timber on that certain tract of land known as Luther Morrison's home place, adjoining the lands of Neff Morrison and others, bounded as follows: On the northeast by the lands of Neff Morrison, and running from his line across the head of hollow to the top of a ridge on the lands of the said Luther Morrison, and down the top of the ridge so as to include all the timber that will naturally operate down said hollow to the lower end of the timber, thence back to the Neff Morrison line; being the timber and timber rights conveyed to R. R. Snedegar by Luther Morrison and wife by deed bearing date the 1st day of April, 1920, of record in Pocahontas County in deed book 57 at page 475.

2. All of the merchantable timber both standing and down, (there being about 50,000 feet of logs cut) on that certain tract of land situate on Droop Mountain, adjoining the lands of J. M. Cutlip, Mike McClure, Mike Gillilan and August Reim, known as the home place of Julia Ann Copenhaver, and being the timber and timber rights conveyed to the said R. R. Snedegar by Julia Ann Copenhaver by deed bearing date the 22nd day of March, 1920, of record in Pocahontas County in deed book 57 at page 476.

3. All of the merchantable timber on that certain tract of land situate on Droop Mountain, known as the Maggie Cutlip home place, bounded on the east by J. M. Cutlip, on the south by the J. H. Walton lands, on the west by the turnpike, and on the north by Fred Dean, and being the timber and timber rights conveyed to said R. R. Snedegar by Maggie Cutlip and husband by deed bearing date the 1st day of April 1920, of record in Pocahontas County in deed book 57 at page 478.

4. About 60,000 feet of manufactured lumber, principally oak and chestnut, now at the saw-mill seat on the P. W. Simmons land on Droop Mountain.

5. About one car load of cross ties, at the same place.

6. One lot of switch ties, at the same place.

7. One saw-mill, engine and boiler complete, as follows: One No. 10 40-horse power boiler manufactured by the Ames Iron Works, Oswego, N. Y., and one 25-horse power stationary engine manufactured by the same company; one No. 4 American saw-mill with track, ways, edger and cut-off, and all equipment now with said saw mill and belonging to the same, said saw-mill, engine and boiler being located on the P. W. Simmons land on Droop Mountain, and near the standing timber and logs hereinbefore mentioned.

Also on the same date, commencing at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, at the home farm of said R. R. Snedegar, near Jacox, Pocahontas County, the following live stock:

Seventeen cows, eleven calves, one three-year old heifer, and two two-year-old heifers. These are white face cattle and of a high grade.

TERMS OF SALE: Cash on day of sale.

Given under my hand this 24 day of May, 1922.

A. P. EDGAR,
TRUSTEE.

For Sale

One 5 room house and all necessary out buildings. 2 lots all ready planted in garden.

1 brown mare 8 years old, a fine worker and driver.

1 one horse wagon and harness,

1 buggy and harness

1 feed cutter, a lot of garden and farming implements, a lot of corn and oats and shredded fodder, 2 shoats, 3 months old, pure bred Poland China.

If you are looking for a bargain see A. Reynolds, at Campbelltown, P. O. Marlinton, W. Va.

National Normal School Of Music

SLATY FORK, POCAHONTAS COUNTY, W. Va.
June 12 to 24, 1922.

Prof. J. H. Hall, of Harrisonburg, Va., Principal.

Good board and room in excellent families at very reasonable prices. For circulars and information, write the secretary, IVAN SHARP, Slaty Fork, W. Va.

Notice to Creditors

All persons having claims against the estate of Mary J. Poage deceased are hereby notified to present the same to the undersigned her administrator c. t. a. duly proved, for payment, and all persons knowing themselves to be indebted to said estate are notified to pay same to me at once.

W. E. POAGE
Administrator of Mary J. Poage deceased.

AGENTS WANTED

Men or women to solicit orders for nursery stock. Apply to C. J. McCarty, District Supt., Marlinton, W. Va.

COWS FOR SALE

Four young cows with calves by side.

Geo. W. GINGAR
Huntersville, W. Va.

Commissioner's Sale

OF A TRACT OF ABOUT 730 ACRES OF LAND IN HIGHLAND COUNTY, ABOUT 300 ACRES OF WHICH IS FINE GRAZING AND FARMING LAND, AND OVER 400 ACRES OF WHICH HAS ON IT SPLENDID HARDWOOD TIMBER.

By virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court of Highland County, pronounced, in vacation, on the 3rd day of June, 1922 in the partition suit therein pending of "Lollie R. Campbell, et als vs. Campbell's Infants," the undersigned Special Commissioner will offer for sale, at public auction to the highest bidder, in front of the Courthouse for Highland County, Virginia, in the town of Monterey, on at 12 o'clock M. on that day, that certain tract or parcel of land at Mill Gap on "Back Creek" in the said county of Highland, containing 730 acres, more or less, being the same land devised by David V. Ruckman to his daughter, Lollie R. Campbell and her children. This land lies on the public road leading from Monterey to Marlinton, West Virginia, is accessible to the public schools and churches, and is in a good neighborhood. The 300 acres of farming and grazing land is in a high state of cultivation, is well set in blue grass, has on it a new modern dwelling house, with bath, hot and cold water, hard wood finished floors, with all necessary outbuildings in splendid condition, and with water piped to the house from a never failing spring on the place. The balance of over 400 acres has on it valuable hard wood timber, and is within eleven miles from a Broad Gauge Lumber Rail Road.

TUESDAY, JULY 11th, 1922

This tract of 730 acres of land is being divided into three separate tracts or parcels, and will be offered for sale separately, and then as a whole, and will be sold in the way in which it brings the most money. Anyone desiring to purchase the timber land without either tract of the cleared land will be afforded an opportunity for doing so. A complete survey and plat of the land, showing the number of acres in the whole, with the number of acres in each separate parcel, will be completed and ready for examination by prospective purchasers before the day of sale.

It is seldom such a splendid opportunity is afforded for the purchase of such a fine body of land in Highland County.

TERMS OF SALE—One-third of the purchase money cash, and the balance upon a credit of one, two and three years, the purchaser or purchasers to execute bonds for the deferred installments of purchase money, bearing even date with the day of sale, bearing interest from date at the rate of six percent per annum, waiving the Homestead Exemption, with approved personal security, and the title to the property to be retained as ultimate security.

WILLIAM H. LANDES,
Commissioner.

For further information enquire of William H. Landes, Staunton, Virginia, or Mr. W. P. Campbell, Mill Gap, Highland County, Virginia. Mr Campbell will show the property to interested parties at any time.

W. H. LANDES, Commissioner

I, W. H. Matheny, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Highland County, Virginia, hereby certify that William H. Landes, Special Commissioner in the cause of Lollie R. Campbell et als. vs Campbell's Infants" pending in said Court, has executed bond required of him by decree of June 3rd, 1922, in said Cause, with security deemed sufficient.

Given under my hand this 7th day of June, 1922.

W. H. MATHENY, Clerk.

Want Coal Miners

30 men wanted to Mine Coal, pay every 2 weeks, steady work, no labor trouble.

AQUILA COAL CO.
Prestonia, W. Va.

Strawberries for Sale

First class strawberries fresh from the vine at reasonable price. Phone your order.

A. C. Young,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Strawberries for Sale

80 cents per gallon or 75 cents per gallon by the crate delivered at Marlinton or F. O. B. Express Office.

W. A. Arbogast,
Millpoint, W. Va.

For Sale

One good horse, 5 years old, weight about 1000 pounds, and a one horse wagon and harness, and a Jersey cow six years old. Apply to Mrs. Levi Pennington. Cass, W. Va.

NOTICE

My wife, Flora Galford having left my support I will not be responsible for any debts she contract.

This 29th day of May 1922.

J. W Galford.

NOTICE

My wife Permelia E. Jackson having left my support on May 1, 1922, I will not be responsible for any contracts she may make.

John W. Jackson.

FOR SALE—Beckwith upright piano good as new. Also washing machine run by gasoline engine. If interested write or call and see them.

C. C. WARE,
Sitlington, W. Va

FOR SALE: 1919 Model Maxwell 5 passenger Automobile. Mechanically perfect looks like new and as good as it looks. $450 00.

C. C. Ware,
Sitlington, W. Va.

HOUSE FOR SALE: A five room cottage house in Greenbank, with half acre lot. This is a good home for some one. House was built new two years ago. Will sell reasonable. If interested address,

Mrs. Fannie Sheets,
Hillsboro, W. Va.

Announcements

To the Democratic Voters of the Tenth Senatorial District of West Virginia:

I am a candidate for the nomination for the long term for the office of State Senator, at the primary election to be held in said district August 1st, 1922.

CARY C. HINES,
June 5, 1922. Sutton, W. Va.

To the Voters of the 10th Senatorial District:

I am a candidate for State Senator, 10th Senatorial District. Long term, subject to the Democratic voters, at the general primary, August 1, 1922. Your support will be appreciated.

A. D. Shock.
Replete, W. Va
Webster County.

HOUSE OF DELEGATES

Editor Pocahontas Times—

At the request of my many friends, I have decided to make the race for House of Delegates, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Standing on my past record as a member of that body and promising if elected again to stand by and for the interest of Pocahontas County and the State, I solicit your support.

Yours Respectfully,
J. A. McLAUGHLIN.

This paper is authorized to announce E. N. MOORE a candidate for re election to the House of Delegates, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

TO THE VOTERS OF POCAHONTAS COUNTY:

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Delegate to the Legislature from Pocahontas County, subject to the action of the Democratic voters in the general primary election to be held in the month of August, 1922; and I respectfully solicit your support and influence.

J. G. HAMRICK.

At the request of my many friends I have decided to make the race for House of Delegates subject to the action of the Democratic party to be held August 1, 1922 and if elected I promise to stand by and protect the interest of the citizens of Pocahontas County. I solicit your support and influence.

Respectfully,
C. P. KERR.

ANNOUNCEMENT

I will be perfectly frank with myself and friends. I feel that I can help the citizens of Pocahontas county. I have taken my stand with the Republican party. Aside from the devotion of my friends, the reason is, that I want to come before the people unhandicapped. I am a candidate for the House of Delegates. I solicit your influence and support, also your votes at the primary.

H. UNDERWOOD.

ANNOUNCEMENT

In justice to the County, State and Nation and the Anglo Saxon race, I hereby announce myself a candidate for the Republican nomination for the House of Delegates, subject to the general primary election to be held August 1, 1922.

A. E. KINNISON.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Schools, subject to the action of the Republican voters expressed in the Primary election, to be held August 1, 1922. Your support and influence will be appreciated.

Respectfully,
C. E. FLYNN.

A. J. LIGHTNER & CO. Taxi - Service

MARLINTON, W. VA.

Two good new cars, and more can be provided. Telephone us. Prompt and safe service.

The Stansberrys

Announce the opening of Minnehaha Springs Hotel with a five o'clock dinner, Sunday May 28th. (Although the Hotel and pool are ready for business now.) The management expects to maintain the same high class standard, established last year, and also keep up our reputation for good meals properly served. Kindly write or phone your reservation early as possible to insure good service. Do not forget the date.

Thanking you for any patronage extended.

We remain
"THE STANSBRRYS"

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

NOTICE

All persons having claims against the Boards of Education for janitor supplies, janitor service, fuel, etc. should turn in their accounts to the District Secretaries as early as possible. An accurate accounting of all school funds is demanded in order that the districts may file proper application for State Aid, and no claim for this year can be paid from next year's funds.

G. D. McNeill,
County Financial Secretary.

PAINTING

Spring is here, and time for cleaning up in general. A little painting brings back the old buildings same as new. Work guaranteed or money back. Address

Clyde Idleman,
Durbin, W. Va.

WANTED: 20 or 25 head of yearling cattle to graze on my farm one mile from Cass.

Allen Galford,
Cass, W. Va.

ATTORNEYS

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals.

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the state West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Marlinton, W. Va.
Furniture made to order and old furniture repaired.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specially of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMER
DENTIST
First National Bank Building
Phone
Marlinton, W. Va

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

M. F. GUM
AUCTIONEER

For Sale
Copper Water Cans, Spouting, Tin Fixtures, copper tubing, bath room outfits, etc.
C. W. Slavin
Tinner and Plumber
Marlinton, W. Va.

Baxter's Garage
MARLINTON W. VA.
FORD Cars and Supplies
FORDSON Tractors
A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.
J. L. BAXTER, Propr.

DELCO-LIGHT
"Electricity for every Farm"
Write or phone for Catalogue
ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES
Marlinton Electric Co.
DEALERS

Z. S. Smith
Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Attention
Garage opened at Minnehaha Springs
We are prepared to do first class repair work. All work guaranteed.
MINNEHAHA SPRINGS GARAGE
By JAMES A. IRVINE, Prop.

FARM FOR SALE:—44 acres of land in the Fairview neighborhood—a nice little place, 4 room house, barn and outbuildings. More than half under cultivation and pasture. Close to church and schools and in good neighborhood. Dexter Sharp, Warwick W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XL NO 46 — MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, JUNE 29, 1922 — $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

CARY C. HINES' CANDIDACY.

The following comment on the candidacy of our fellow townsman, Cary C. Hines, for member of the state senate, is clipped form Democratic newspapers in this senatorial district:

Webster Echo: Mr. Hines is a lawyer by profession, and is well and favorably known to a good many people in this county. He is honest, conscientious and fair in all his dealing, and by experience, education and environment is fully qualified to fill this important office to which he aspires with dignity and honor and to the satisfaction of the people of Webster county as well as the district as a whole.

Calhoun Chronicle: Cary C. Hines, prominent Sutton lawyer and business man, is the first to get his hat in the ring for the long term senatorial seat for the elongated Tenth disrict. Mr Hines is not extra well known in this county but his abilily is recognized in his home county. He enters the contest for the senate highly recommended and we have no doubt will prove a strong contender for the nomination. He is interested in lumber operations, coal mining and farming and his practical knowledge of conditions in this district will serve him in good stead if elected to the senate.

Pocahontas Times: This week this paper publishes the announcements of two seekers for the Democratic nomination for the long term in the state senate from the 10th district—Hon. Cary Hines, of Braxton, and Hon. A. D. Shock, of Webster. We have nothing against either one of them, except that they are out for the nomination that we are claiming for Pocahontas county this time. Mr. Hines is a successful lawyer of Sutton. He is a native of Greeubrier valley, and a very pleasant gentleman. Mr. Shock is originally from Gilmer county, but is now a resident of Webster county. He is a farmer and his postoffice is Replete.

The Democrat endorses fully all the complimentary things that have been said about Mr. Hines and his candidacy. He is a leading citizen of Sutton and Braxton county. He ir a lawyer whose ability is recognized. He is a successful business man of varied experience. He is energetic and progressive. He is big-hearted, good natured and always courteous and genial He is thoroughly democratic in his manner and politics. He is broad-minded and as free from selfishnefs as any mortal you'll meet The people of Braxton respect and like him, as do those of othey counties who know him. He has every qualification ty represent the people of this senatorial district wisely and beneficially. If there is anothing in the way of legislation that the people of this district want, Mr. Hines would get it if it were hnmanly possibly to do so. He's a worker—never a quitter. We know of no one who would make a better representative of the people of this district as a whole. They can absolutely trust him to do the thing which is best for his constituency. No man could do more; no true representative wculd do less.—Braxton Democrat.

GREENBANK S. S. CONVENTION

Greenbank District Sunday School Convention will be held at Durbin in M. E. Church South on July 14th, three sessions, morning, afternoon and evening, the evening session being an inspirational meeting, with an address by an out of town Sunday School worker. Special music will be rendered by local people and the program will be made up of district and county workers. Each Sunday School in Greenbank District is requested to send delegates to this convention and all Superintendents and pastors, Teachers and officers are expected to be present. The program will be published in next week's edition of the Times.

G. C. Hamilton,
Vice Pres. Greenbank Dist. S. S. Association.

The Marlinton Sunday schools are feeling the vacation slump. At the Methodist Sunday school there were present on Sunday morning 160, and at the Presbyterian 156. The latter has set as a goal an attendance of 200, and has been able to approximate this number for a good many months. Now is the time for every good man and woman to rally to the to the Sunday School and fill the vacancies caused by the summer absence of the regulars.

County court was in session Tuesday with all the members present. The time of the Court was taken up in matters of routine. As the fiscal year is nearing the end, few or no orders were issued. This was license term of court. The court will be in session next Monday July 3rd.

The Board of Equalization is still sitting and hearing from the land owners whose assessments were raised. It is expected that the board will keep its docket open for several weeks yet.

Hillsboro, W. Va—The Sunday School attendance at the two churches of this town on Sunday June 25 was 252, Oak Grove Presbyterian had 106 and Wesley Chapel Methodist 146. M.

Married, at Methodist parsonage, June 14, 1922, Charles L. Swink and Miss Ruth Eva Tallman, both of this county. Rev. Fred B. Wyand, officiating minister.

Rev. H, H. Orr has received word that his brother, James G. Orr, of Denver, Colorado, has been elected president of the Christian Endeavor Assaciation of the state of Colorado.

DISTRICT CONVENTION

The annual Sunday School convention of Huntersville district was held at Huntersville on June 22, 1922, with J. C. Harper, the district president in the chair.

The address of welcome was given by J. H. Buzzard, who spoke of the old historic town of Huntersville and emphasized the fact that all denominations were represented here, united in a common cause and success would follow.

The convention was opened by Scripture reading and prayer by Rev. W. C. Neel. Response to the welcome address was made by Mitchell Sharp.

The address by Rev. O. P. McNeil will be carried home by many, Sunday schools are to spread knowledge of God's word which is helpful unto salvation.

Address by Rev. F. B. Wyand was an able and forceful one. He stated that teachers should be good, and a desire to help others to do their best in the Sunday school work. The convention was thoroughly convinced that Mr. Wyand had the Sunday schools and their work at heart, but he said he felt like the old darkey "Rastus,"—would like to baptize some of them "pocket book and all."

Rev. Palmer Eubank conducted devotional exercises at the afternoon session.

J. A. Sydenstricker's address on "Young Peoples' Work" was good. We wish the young to remember the lesson that he outlined for them.

The following resolutions were submitted.

First, That we as a convention pledge ourselves for higher endeavors and greater work in our Sunday schools.

That we should carry back to our schools as much information and inspiration as possible and thereby show an effort to keep our district association one of the best.

That we express our sincere thanks and appreciation to the speakers of this convention for advice and encouragement.

That we give a rising vote of thanks to the good people of Huntersville in the interest manifested in making this convention a success.

And we extend thanks to the good ladies of the town an community for a bounteous dinner spread on tables in church lot which waf enjoyed by all. Committee.

Rev. C. W. Peyton, of Temple, Texas, is spending a few days at Marlinton. He was here fourteen years ago when he served the Marlinton and Huntersville Presbyterian chrches one summer. He is a native of Greenbrier County, went to college in Kansas. and took his theological course at Princeton. Forty-five years ago he went to Bell county, Texas, and has seen the county develop from a cattle range to a thickly settled agricultural section. Cotton is the big crop. Churches, schools and roads are the civilizing influences there as elsewhere. On account of asthma, Mr. Peyton had to give up his pastorate three years ago, but he still preaches when his voice allows him to do so. He represented his Presbytery at the recent meeting of the General Assembly at Charleston as a delegate.

A letter from Mrs. Will A. Young, of Davenport, Iowa, brings the news of the death of Charles F. Young, which occurred June 1st, after a long illness. The deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs Will A. Young. He was 45 years old, and was assistant postmaster of the city of Davenport. Mrs Youug also states that her husband, Will A. Young suffered a stroke of paralysis in the month of April. He is now able to walk some and talk a little. Mr. Young is a native of Pocahontas county, having been born on Stony Creek. He is remembered by the older citizens.

No bass fishing yet in Greenbrier river. The bass season opened June first, just in the middle of the spawning season, but the rains descended and the floods came, and kept the river too high. With ordinary good fishing water. the breeding stock of bass in this part of the Greenbrier would have gone to pan this year.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Donnally drove to Charlottesville, Va, last Thursday to see Mr. Donnaly's nephew who was run over by a truck loaded with coal, and dragged 72 yards before the truck could be stopped. The lad was picked up by friends and rushed to the University Hospital. The accident occured about eight o'clock a. m. as the boy was on his way to school.

A number of citizens from Durbin and Nottingham were before the court Tuesday in the interest of a road from Durbin to Boyer Siding, a distance of nearly three miles. The court has the matter under advisement. The road would give a prosperous farming community and a large mill village a way to get to the town of Durbin.

Next Sunday morning there will be a patriotic service at Wesley Chapel, Hillsboro. At eleven o'clock the sermon subject will be "A Study in Patriotism." Seeking certain fundamental principles of patriotism in the life of Jesus, there will be special reference to our own obligation to native land. A cordial welcome is extended to all.

Married, Cecil William Green of Randolph county, and Miss Delphia Elizabeth Rhodes, of Edray, June 21, 1922, by Rev. Fred B. Wyand.

Married, at Edray by. Rev. C. A. Powers, on June 21, 1922, Marvin L. English and Miss Mary Eva McCloud.

AMERICA FIRST DAY

Next Sunday, July 2nd, has been proclaimed as America First Day and every Sunday School in Pocahontas County has been requested to sound the note of patriotism in their service that day. Suggestions have been made through a program sent out by Mr. Andrew Price, Chairman, and we urge all Sunday Schools to make the service a memorable one.

The County Chairman had already been advised of the action of some schools having rehearsals during this week in preparation for the program and we desire a report of these meetings sent to the County Paper for publication.

We reproduce the suggestions of the County Chairman, Mr. Price and urge all Sunday Schools to make their service ring with patriotism.

We also urge you to have the oration prepared and given at the service.

S. N. Hench,
Pres. County S. S. Association.

THE PLAY GROUND

The playground opened Saturday, June 24 Much interest and enthusiasm was manifested; the attendance was good and is increasing. The entertainment consists of stories, swings, slides, sand piles, see-saws, teeter ladders and games. For the latter a volley ball (which may be procured for $2 50) is much needed. Should any public spirited citizen desire to contribute so much to the welfare of the children of the town his gift would be greatly appreciated.

The children will please note the following changes in the schedule:

8;30 to 11 30 a. m. ages	6 to 10 yrs
Story hour from	10.30 to 11:30
3 00 to 6 00 p m "	10 to 15
Story hour from	3:00 to 4:00

Children under six are welcome at any time if they are accompanied by an older child.

Editor Times:

There seems to be very properly a great interest in Sunday Schools at this time, and a bare possibility that men may adopt the Sunday school work instead of real heart religion Our commentators on the lessons shows us about the preaching of Jeremiah and its effects, but fail to apply the lesson to our own time They do not seem to know that there is no difference in the effect of real God sent truth in the days of Jeremiah and all other days including the present. The present decay in spirituality and effective church work is due to preachers and people attempting what is humanly impossible. When God sends men to Marlinton to preach it is to preach to the people of Marlinton and not about the sins of Brazil. "How can they hear without a preacher and how can they preach except they be sent?" A God sent minister is not afraid of the face of clay. His words are as burning coals on the hearts of the people.

Not only preachers but teachers of the Sunday Schools need to be filled with the Holy Ghost. How men and women can undertake such great responsibility without the needed preparation is an unthinkable mystery. Oh for a church of one accord, with one purpose, one spirit, standing before the world as a united and well disciplined army, instead of straggling disorganized recruits With such a church in such an attitude nothing under heaven would be impossible, if preachers and laymen cry mightily to God for the needed baptism of the Holy Ghost and with fire.

Observer.

Renick, W Va.

Editor Pocahontas Times:

I wish to express through the columns of your paper, in behalf of the Ladies of Beard, every body else at Beard, and also myself personally, our most sincere thanks to the Ladies of Hillsboro and vicinity for so willingly and generously contributing to the success of the dinner at the corner stone laying of our Church. You may be sure your kindness will not soon be forgotten and your words of cheer and encouragement will help us so much and the joy which their recollection will bring in days to come will brighten our pathway and cheer us in our labors. To every one who in any way contributed to the success of our undertaking we wish to express our deepest appreciation and most sincere thanks.

Most sincerely yours,
J. G. Hamrick.

Beard, W. Va

ARBOVALE

We have had plenty of showers and crops and meadows are looking fine.

Rev. J. M. Sutton and two children of Gormania, W. Va, are visiting relatives here.

A large crowd attended the flag show and report a first class show.

E. R. Crist and family who have spent two weeks visiting friends in Fayette county returned home last Tuesday.

O. G. Arbogast has closed his singing school at Stony Bottom and is at home.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Arbovale church will serve ice cream, cake, sandwiches and other refreshments on the church lawn July 4th, beginning at 5 o'clock. Everybody come and have a good time. Proceeds for the benefit of the church.

The Childrens Day services last Sunday were well rendered. The children did their parts excellent.

EECTION INFORMATION

Information Compiled by League of Women Voters for the Women of Sixth Congressional District

The following information has been compiled by the league of Women voters of Parkersburg and Wood county:

1. What is the Direct Primary?

The Direct Primary is a party election in which candidates for county, state and national officers are chosen directly by the voters instead of by a party convention or a body of delegates. At the primary on August 1st, you will choose the candidates that you want your party to put up at the polls at the regular election on November 7.

2. How do the ballots differ from those at a general election?

Instead of having the tickets of all the parties printed on one sheet, there is a separate ballot for each party.

3. Can you vote for some of the Republican candidates and some of the Democratic candidates?

No. You must state your politics and you will be given the ballot of that party.

4. If you have voted for Republican candidates at the Primary, do you have to vote only for Republican candidates at the regular election?

No. You may vote an entire Democratic tidket or an entire Republican ticket, or a mixed ticket just as you please at the regular election. It is to be presumed, of course, that if your choice of candidates won in the primary, you will again vote for him in the November election. If he did not win you may make your choice from those who did win.

5. For what offices will you nominate candidates at the Primary on August 1st?

One United States Senator:

A Congressman

Two State Senator from 10th Senatorial District.

One member of the House of Delegate from Pocahontas County.

Superintendent of Schools of each County.

A County Court Commissioner.

President and two Commissioners of School Board in each District in each county.

Watch the papers for announcements of candidates.

6. How does a man or woman who wishes to run for office get his name on a ballot in the Primary?

If he is running for a district or county office, he files his name with the circuit clerk. For higher offices he files his name with the Secretary of State.

7. On what date will you be registered for the primary?

On June 5th, the registrars will go from house to house to list the voters. About July 3-5 registrars will sit in their respective precincts and registrar all those who were missed on the previous date.

8, Will the registrar have a legal right to ask you what political party you affiliate with?

Yes. He now has that right. Everybody listen, as this is very important. The law as amended last year, states explicitly that no person shall be allowed to cast a ballot of any political party in a primary election unless the voter is registered as a member of the party whose ballot he wishes to to cast. Therefore, if you wish to vote either the Democratic or Republican ballot in the primary, make up your mind before time to register.

9. If you have registered as an Independent or as a member of a minority party, or if you have refused to tell the registrar what your politics are can you vote at the primary?

No. If your name does not appear on the polls you cannot vote the ballot of either party. There will be no ballots of any other party.

10. If you have not decided definitely what party you wish to affiliate with, but wish to register one thing or the other temporally in order that you may vote, on what basis should you make your choice?

Find out before June 5th who the candidates are to be on each ballot Learn what sort of men they are and what they stand for. Choose the ballot which contains the most important candidate for whom you care to vote. These ballots will be printed in the paper in July, but NOT before the registrars visit your house in June.

11. Will the voting places in the precincts be situated the same as in 1920?

There should be some changes on account of over-crowding.

12. If absent from the city can you send your vote by mail?

Yes. If you have been registered, if your absence is unavoidable and if you send to the Circuit Clerk of the County Court at least ten days beforehand for an application blank

13. Is it of great importance for you and me to vote in the primary?

A primary is just of this importance. It determines the kind of a man your party is going to put up If you do not care what sort of a man will represent you in office you will stay away from the primary. If you do care you will let nothing prevent you from registering and voting in the primary.

Now once more, if anyone tells you that the registrar has no right to ask your politics, tell them that the law has been changed, and that unless you do tell him your politics, you cannot vote in the primary. This law, however, does not affect your vote in the regular election in November, In that case you do not have to state your politics. (Moreover, if you voted as a Democrat or Republican in the Primary, you are not bound either legally or morally to vote a straight ticket in the regular election in November.)

GATEWOOD LEE KNAPP

Gatewood Lee Knapp was born in Roane county, near Spencer, January 18, 1871. He was the oldest son of T. F. Knapp and Matilda Hickman Knapp He died at Parkersburg May 30, 1922, aged fifty one years, four months and twelve days.

Death was due to a septic infection caused by a broken pelvis, larcerated muscles and bladder, by reason of an accident while working on an oil drilling machine. This unhappy accident occurred on May 11, 1922, near Sandyville.

He was united in marriage to Emma Fisher, October 26, 1902. To this union were born five daughters. He is survived by his wife and four daughters at home—Myrtle, Opal, Phyllis and Fae, Farrel having died in infancy: his father T. F. Knapp, who lives near Reedy, and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Cornelia Blosser and Mrs. Bestie Brown, near Reedy; Mrs. Auretta Bowles, near Rock Castle, Kennie, and Graham Knapp, of Sandyville, and Mrs. Mae Kelley, of Belpre, Ohio.

Brother Knapp was converted and baptized when seventeen years of age and joined the Gilboa Baptist church He continued steadfast in the faith until the end and peacefully passed from this life with the blessed assurance of peace and contentment in the Great Beyond. X.

ALDERMAN--MADISON

Samuel N. Alderman and Miss Leon Pearl Madison, were married at the home of Wm. Alderman on North Fork of Anthony's Creek, on Wednes- June 14, 1922. Rev. O. P. McNeil, officiating minister.

The funeral service of the late George M. Sutton will be held at Greenbank, M. E. Church, South, on Sunday, July 2nd at 11 o'clock a m.

MOORE GASOLINE

Means

Less Gasoline

Filling station at The Peoples Store & Supply Co. at west end of county bridge is the only station in Marlinton selling; The Moore Gasoline and Engine Oils. Try it and be convinced.

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.

MARLINTON, W. VA.

CORNER STONE LAYED

The corner stone of the Beard Chapel was laid with the Masonic ceremonies. The grand master was Hon. S. T. Shears, of Elkins. Among the speakers were Rev. W. H. Dubose, and Hon. J. W Arbuckle, of Lewisburg. The day was pleasant and a good crowd attended. A big dinner was served by the ladies of the community, and $150. was realized.

The Womens' Christian Temperance Union meets at the home of Mrs. G. W. Camper, Wednesday, July 5th, on Upper Camden Avenue.

To the Democratic Voters of the Tenth Senatorial District:

I announce myself a candidate for the nomination for the office of State Senator, Short Term, at the primary election to be held August 1, 1922.

N. R. PRICE.

Marlinton, Pocahontas County.

WEST UNION

Mrs. Clawson Beverage is spending a few days with Mrs. Arnot McNeill at Onoto.

Miss Alice Beverage has returned from Cloverlick, where she had been visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs Milburn Sharp were visiting at Clawson Beverage's last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Uriah Beverage were at Marlinton last week to see their daughter, Mrs. Beard, who has been vefy ill with typhoid fever.

Alex Hefner, of Buckeye, spent Sunday with his daughter Mrs. W. H. Gilmore.

Several of our people attended the big circus at Marlinton and reported a fine time.

The Galford brothers have started the big sawmill and are doing a flourishing business

Miss Mary Hill is spending some time with her aunt, Mrs. Icy Miller.

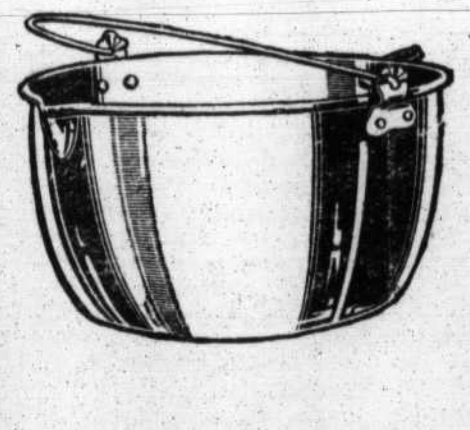
Rev. C. A. Powers was visiting in our community last week.

Shuchats Department Store

Marlinton, W. Va.

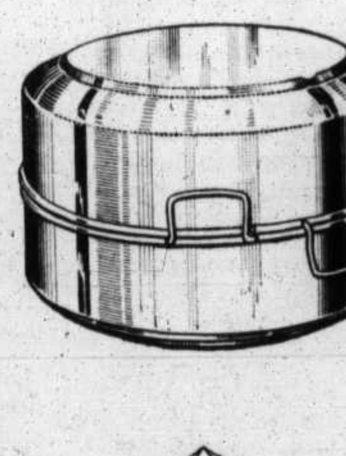
ALUMINUM WARE SALE

Saturday, July 1st.



"American Maid" heavy weight Pure Aluminum

$1.00 each

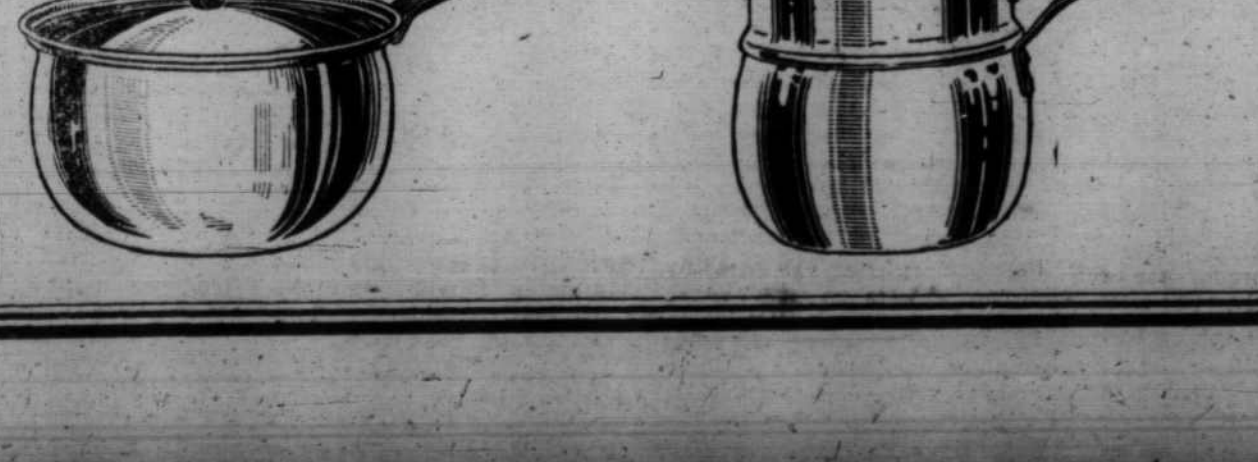


5 qt, Tea Kettle
8 qt. Preserving Kettle
10 in. Round Roasters
2 qt. Coffee Percolator
4 qt. Cov. Kettle
4 qt. Sauce Pan
2 qt. Double Boiler
10 qt. Water Pails
12 qt. Dish Pans

--ALL--

$1,00 each

Water Pails and Dish Pans not shown in cuts.



Business Opportunities

Many opportunities for Success have been lost because of the lack of ready money at the critical time.

Some people--too many--have the idea that money should be saved only for the interest it earns, That is not true. Money is only valuable to you as it makes things come true for you. Set a goal for yourself and then save for it.

Have a Reason for Saving.

BANK OF MARLINTON

Marlinton, West Virginia

LOCAL MENTION

E. C. Bush is at home this week.

W. B. Hill, of Renick, was in town Tuesday on a wool buying trip

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Hiner of Durbin, were in town Tuesday.

Van Poage, of Edray, has gone to Indiana to work on the railroad.

Mrs. Myra Goodsell, of Durbin, has a position with H. Kelmenson.

Miss Mary Boyd, of Baltimore, is the guest of her friend, Mrs. Paul Overholt.

Mrs. P. C. Curry is visiting her sister. Mrs. Walter Curry, in Huntington.

Dr. O. H, Kee and others are trout fishing at the mouth of Tea Creek this week.

Okie Walton, of Buckeye, is attending the State Boys' Club at Jackson Mills this week.

Miss Martha Ola Wasner, of Elkins, is visiting her sister Mrs. R. C. Dilley, near Marlinton.

Work is progressing rapidly on the new Methodist church. The excavation for the basement is about completed.

Mrs. Albert Curry and children left on Monday for Mrs. Curry's old home near Toledo, Ohio for a few weeks' visit.

Andrew Price and Hubert Echols went to White Sulphur Springs Monday to attend the State Bankers Association.

Mrs. F. R Hunter and daughter, Miss Heler, and Miss Julia Price have returned from Williamsburg and other points in Virginia.

S. N. Hench, chairman of the County Sunday School Association, visited some Sunday Schools in the Greenbank District last Sunday.

Wilson Courtney and family left Monday for Seth, W. Va, where Mr. Courtney has a position of woods superintendent for a big lumber company.

Messrs. Kennedy, Hefner and Bitzer are in Marlinto this week, taking subscriptions for the one million endowment fund for the schools and colleges of the Synod of West Virginia.

Rev. Fred B. Wyand started on Wednesday to spend a few weeks at his old home in Maryland. He traveled overland and was accompanied by his father in-law, Col J. B. Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis L. Barlow and Miss Goldie Jordan came to town Saturday from Huntington in their automobile They expect to spend several weeks here Not long since they made an auto trip to California.

Miss Anna Wallace, of Millpoint, was in Marlinton Monday. Last week she attended the Confederate Reunion at Richmond as a sponsor on the staff Col. Thomas H Dennis, commanner of the First Division of West Virginia.

DR. N. R. PRICE FOR STATE SENATOR

Dr Norman R. Price is a candidate for the short term in the State Senate from this the 10th district. For two terms he served as County Commissioner, and at this time he is the Mayor of Marlinton During the war he was in the army for two years, coming out with a commission of Captain. As a member of the Court he made an enviable reputation as a safe and sane handler of public funds—something sadly needed in Charleston at this time.

J. A. McLaughlin has returned from a ten days trip in Virginia.

Mrs. L. H. Stephehson of Monterey, is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. O. Smith, and other relatives.

Mrs. J. G. Hamrick and son, Harper, of Beard, were visitors in Marlinton on Tuesday.

Norman Price, Jr., and Arthur Camden are camping at Minnehaha Springs this week.

Supt. Haynes of the Greenbrier Division, is taking treatment at the Hinton Hospital His health has not been very good for some time.

A large party of Clarksburg people have asked reservations at the Allegheny Club for the week end.

The banking room of the Bank of Marlinton is being repapered and generally refurnished.

MACRO - SAL

For Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, and Neuralgia of Rheumatic origin.

Pamphlet giving specific directions and diet list of utmost importance to rheumatic people mailed on request from our office.

Price $1 per Bottle

Your dealer can supply you

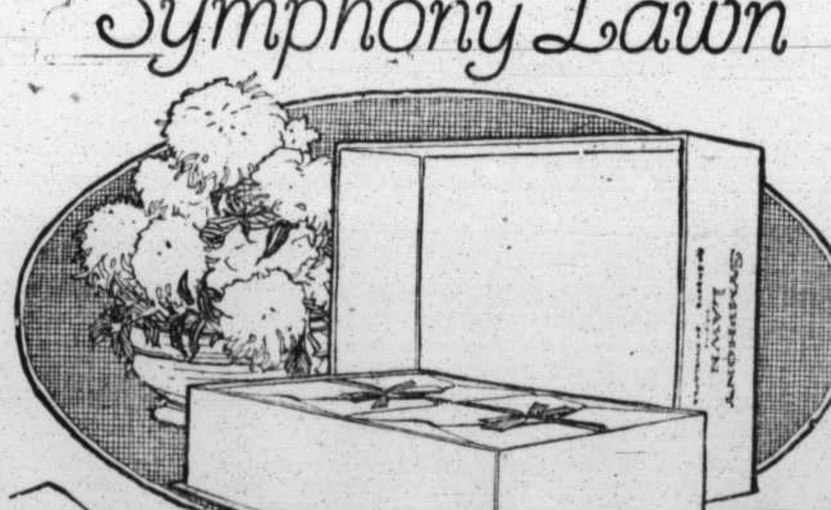
Distributed by

S. B. WALLACE & CO.

Wholesale Druggists

Marlinton, W. Va.

Symphony Lawn



Look for the Water Mark

EVER pick up a sheet of writing paper so invitingly beautiful to the eye and the touch, that it seemed to say to your fingers, "You must write on me!"? Symphony Lawn is just such a paper. It comes in three exquisite finishes and several smart tints. Sheets and envelopes in the newest shapes. Also correspondence cards to match. May we show you Symphony Lawn?

Royal Drug Stores

Marlinton and Renick, W. Va.

CORNER STONE LAYING

OF BEARD CHAPEL, PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Impressive Ceremonies by State Masonic Grand Lodge Grand Master Samuel T. Spears Present.

With impressive ceremonies the cornerstone of Beard Chapel, the new Presbyterian church being built at Beard, Pocahontas county, was laid last Wednesday at noon by the Most Worshipful Grand Lodge of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons of West Virginia. The weather was most favorable for an occasion of this kind and the day is one long to be remembered in the history of this Church. The occasion was honored by the presence of the Most Worshipful Grand Master, Samuel T. Spears, of Elkins, West Virginia, in person.

The Grand Lodge congregated in the Beard school house with the following officers:

Samuel T. Spears, Grand Master; John W. Arbuckle, P. G. M., Deputy Grand Master; Will A. Hammen, Senior Grand Warden; Starrett D. Huff, Junior Grand Warden; Uriah Kramer, Grand Treasurer; T. Summers McNeel, Grand Secretary; Ligon Price, Grand Lecturer; Jacob C. Johnson, Grand Chaplain; W. Montgomery, Principal Architect; Harper M. Smith, Senior Grand Deacon; H. Winters McNeel, Junior Grand Deacon; Albert C. Stillwell, Grand Marshal; John M. Brosius, Grand Pursuivant; Henry W. Beard, Grand Steward; Thomas A. Bruffey, Grand Steward; George W. Clendenen, Grand Tiler; Warner H. DuBose, Grand Orator.

There were also present the following Masons: Dennis S. Ruckman, Lanty McNeel, J. W. R. Smith, J. L. Walton, S. D. Kirk, S. B. Auldridge, M. C. Smith, Lee P. McLaughlin, H. W. Rodgers, George W. Curry, O. L. Kinnison, C W. Kinnison, J. H. Phelan, J. W. Byrd, R D Moore, J. G. Hamrick and M. B Jones of Pocahontas Lodge No. 121, Hillsboro; Clyde Buzzard and W. L. Shoemaker, of Marlinton Lodge No 127: Maynard L. Hannah and French Nickell, of Shryock Lodge No 47, Ronceverte; —— Early of Independence Lodge No. 142, Hackettstown, New Jersey

The Grand Lodge was formed in procession by the Grand Marshal, with the ladies of the Hillsboro Chapter No. 93, Order of the Eastern Star as an escort, marched from the Lodge room to the site of the new church, where, after Rev. J. C. Johnson, pastor of the church, extended an invitation upon the behalf of the session and the building committee of the church, the Grand Master with the assistance of the Grand Lodge laid the corner stone according to the ancient and established usages and customs of the craft.

The following is a list of the articles deposited in the corner stone:

A Holy Bible, a list of the officers and members of the Oak Grove Presbyterian Church; a list of the officers and members of Pocahontas Lodge; the names of the offcers of the Grand Lodge; a picture of Oak Grove church a picture of Wesley Chapel church; a picture of the Hillsboro high school building; a shorter catechism, a child's catechism, a copy of Onward; a copy of the Christian Observer, a foreign coin by W. M. Irvine; a list of the contributors to Beard Chapel, a list of the committee in charge of Beard Chapel; two coins belonging to Jacob W. Beard, deceased, contributed by his son Henry Harper Beard; a short narrative of the beginning of Beard Chapel by Rev. J. C. Johnson; two pictorial Bible lessons; two coins by Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Beard; list of members of chapter No. 93 O E. S.: a coin found by the side of the road on the march from lodge room to the church; a list of members of Marlinton Lodge No. 127.

After the ceremonies were over at the request of the Grand Master, the Rev. Warren H. DuBose, of Lewisburg, delivered a very appropriate and instructive address. The Hon John W. Arbuckle, who acted as (e)uty Grand Master, was called upon for a talk. He responded and gave a most interesting and reminiscent address upon the church and the older people of the community who were leaders of church work in this county several years ago.

The ladies of the church provided a bountiful and well served luncheon in the little grove near the church and realized about $160 00 net which fund is to be used in purchasing furniture for the new Chapel, which the ladies have undertaken to do.

The church is located near the home of Mrs Blanche Beard Hamrick, upon land owned by Henry Harper Beard, a direct descendant of Jasiah Berad, the first Elder of the Oak Grove church, founded and organszed in the early part of the last century.

This church began a few years ago with a weekly prayer meeting, In the fall of 1921 the pastor assisted by Rev. W B Grove held an evangelistic meeting and a number were added to the church The membership is now about twenty, but the members of other denominations are joining with these christians and working hand in hand for the Master's cause without regard to creed or denomination.

The finance committee is composed of R. M. Beard, W. T. Poague and J. G. Hamrick. The building committee is R. M Beard, J. V. May, J. H. Kincaid, W. T. Poague, J. G. Hamrick, and M. D[illegible]n

Austin M[illegible] the architect and foreman and the work is progressing rapidly under his supervision.

The day was bright and warm and the ceremonies were beautiful and impressive.

Died, June 25, 1922, at Marlinton, Mrs. W. H. Rosewell, of Cass, after a long illness. Burial at Cass on Tuesday of this week. The deceased was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cross. She is survived by her husband and a number of children.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Arnott McNeill, at Onoto, June 27th, a son.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.
9:45 a. m, Sunday School.
Sunday, July 2, 1922.
11:00 A. M. Communion Service.
7:15 P. M. C. E.—Consecrational Service.
8:00 P. M. "America First."

At 3:00 P. M. the pastor will preach at Hamlin Chapel.

There will be a meeting of the Deacons at the church on Monday evening at 8 o'clock.

There will be a meeting of the session on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the church.

DRY BRANCH

We are having plenty of rain in this section now. Wheat is almost ready to cut and the farmers are all busy getting ready for harvesting.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sharp were visiting Mr. Sharp's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Sharp Sunday.

We were sorry to hear of the death of Jim Coff

We are glad to hear of Otha Beal returning from Clarksburg Hospital improved in health.

Our Sunday School is progressing nicely.

Mrs. Clark Sharp who has been very ill is improving nicely.

Mr. Swope is very ill at this time.

We are looking forward to a protracted meeting on the Branch soon by Rev. Vance.

Morgantown—Sixty-five students of the University of West Virginia will graduate in June, it was announced here. This is one of the largest classes ever graduated from the university.

Moundsville—Howard Wall, colored, who escaped from the insane asylum at Weston nearly a month ago, was apprehended in Pittsburgh and has been returned to the West Virginia penitentiary.

Moundsville—Local man institutes proceedings against the Wheeling traction company alleging a conductor threw him bodily from one of the company's cars during a dispute over paying his fare.

Bluefield—Moonshiners in Virginia apparently set a trap for raiding prohibition officers, for at one place the officers found a big steel bear trap set to catch intruders. It failed to nab anyone however.

Martinsburg—Leo M. Sullivan, nineteen years old, self-confessed moonshiner, was in court here sentenced to two years' imprisonment at Moundsville prison and fined $300, the minimum penalty for his offense.

Wheeling—In conference with President Frank Ledvinka and other officials of sub-district 5 of district 6, United Mine Workers, Mayor John R Wyatt of Bellaire, O., and Mayor Howard Duff of Martin's Ferry, O., arranged for coal operation of the municipal light and water plants of those cities.

Huntington—The secretary of the interior has given the Land and Export corporation of Huntington, W. Va., until July 15 to complete an investigation of two Alaska coal mines and their possible markets, with a view to leasing them. These mines were formerly operated by the navy department but have been turned over to the interior department for operation, and a lease is planned.

Bluefield—The Bluefield Daily Telegraph began the printing of the New Testament in serial form and will, according to Colonel H. I. Shott, editor and owner, continue the practice until the final chapter of Revelations has appeared in its columns. Every morning, under a double column heading "Read the Bible with us," will appear parts of the New Testament, exactly as it appears in the bound volume of the Bible.

Wheeling—A jury in the U. S. district court returned a verdict finding Astor L. Diamond, a rural school teacher of Barbour county, not guilty of raising a $1 bill to a $10 note. Diamond was charged with raising the note and passing it in Clarksburg in January, 1921. The defendant testified that he only passed on the raised bill, which he had accepted in good faith from a store, not knowing that it was raised from a one dollar bill.

Clarksburg — Word was received here that four prominent Clarksburg business men experienced an automobile accident near Staunton, Va., while on a tour of the Shenandoah Valley and that one of them, W. M. B. Sine, ice cream manufacturer, was hurt so badly that he had to be taken to a hospital at Staunton. He suffered a broken jaw and numerous scratches and bruises. Others in the party were Galvin Williams, H. D. Talbott, and Wade Garrett and they escaped injury.

Charleston—State Labor Commissioner Daugherty has been appointed federal director of employment in West Virginia, according to a letter he received from Francis I. Jones, the national director, at Washington.

Morgantown—Robert Kelley, of Sutton, a junior in the college of Law, was elected president of the student council of West Virginia University at the annual election. Kelley was given a vote of 882 while his opponent, Marion Hersman of Grantsville, drew 800 votes.

Notice to Debtors

It has been necessary for me to take over the Locust Creek mill property, and this compels me to collect every dollar due me on my books.

T. H. Hiner,
Marlinton, W. Va.

DURBIN

Our Children's Day service was fine.

The big show here was well attended and all went off quiet.

C. E. Carpenter of Cass, was here to see his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Carpenter.

John Hickman, of Clarksburg, is visiting his sister, Mrs. M. E. Folk, at the Durbin Hotel.

Harry Degler, of Clarksburg, is visiting his brother, F. A. Degler and other friends around Durbin.

J. K Kramer, of Akron, Ohio, is spending this week with friends in Durbin.

Mrs. C. P. Kerr spent the week end at Durbin with Miss Helen Whitlock, of the I. O. O. H. home at Elkins.

W. W. Marshall is at home from a trip to Preston county.

H. H, Hudson is at Cass working in the depot while Dan Coffman takes his vacation.

C J Bish and Sam Williams were at Mill Creek over Sunday

E. J. Kisner of Elkins, was here last week to sell a team of horses to the Pocahontas Tanning Company.

Howard Burner and family and W. W. Burner of Burner Mountain, were in town Saturday.

Wash Arbogast motored over from Elkins and spent Sunday with P. M. Yeager at Bartow.

Editor Pocahontas Times:

I am in hearty accord with the Democratic voter from Cass when he says: "Boost Hamrick for the Legislature and you will never regret it." I have known Mr. John G. Hamrick since he was a little boy I remember his first public speech which was made in school when he was five years old. He was too small to be seen over the teacher's desk and he stood him on a chair. I can see his dark blue eyes sparkling yet and hear the hurrah of the audience. He will make a greater impression now when he stands before the Legislature in Charleston. He is always earnest and sincere in whatever he undertakes He knows no faction among men but believes that all men should be equal before the law to pursue the pursuits of happiness.

Please give space for this in your paper as we want the voters of Pocahontas to know that we of this part of the county are for Hamrick for the Legislature.

A Democratic Voter.
Linwood, W. Va.

J. E. Cook, of Buckeye, was thrown by a young mule he was breaking, into a rock pile, and sustained wounds, bruises, and a badly dislocated left arm one day last week. He is getting along as well as could be expected.

Wool slumped in price from the high of forty cents to about thirty-five cents this week. It is firmly believed by buyers that it will recover, and even go to fifty cents later.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. F. B Wyand, Pastor.
Sunday School 9:45, prompt-
A. S. Overholt, Superintendent.
Morning service eleven o'clock.
Epworth League, 7:15 p. m.
Preaching service 8 p. m.
The services will be conducted by Rev. J. D. Pope, a former pastor, who will supply the pulpit during the pastor's absence.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION

The last Teachers' Examination for the year will be held at Marlinton July 13-14.

Examination may be taken for Elementary, Primary Supervisors' and High School Certificates.

G. D. McNeill,
County Supt.

Commissioner's Notice

John F. Wanless' Administrator
vs
John F. Wanless' Heirs

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned commissioner in chancery of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virgina, will on the 5th day of August, 1922,

at my office in the town of Marlinton, W. Va., proceed to execute the order of reference made and entered by said Court in the above entitled cause on the day of June, 1922, and will take, state and report to court the following matters of account to wit:

1. A statement showing the property, real, personal and mixed, of which the said John F. Wanless died seized, its location and value.

2. A statement showing the heirs at law of the said John F. Wanless. with their names and addresses, and amongst whom and in what proportions the said property should be divided.

3. A statement showing all unpaid debts of the said John F. Wanless and to whom due.

4. A settlement of the accounts of the Administrator, George N. Linger.

5. A statement showing what would be a reasonable attorney's fee for the plaintiff's attorney in this suit.

At which time and place all parties in interest may appear and do what is necessary to protect their interests in this suit.

Given under my hand this 23rd day of June, 1922.

A. P. EDGAR,
Commissioner in Chancery.

NOTICE

To the creditors of John F. Wanless, deceased:

In pursuance of a decree of the Circuit Court of the County of Pocahontas, made in a cause therein pending, to subject the real estate of the said John F. Wanless, to the payment of his debts, you are required to present your claims against the estate of the said John F. Wanless, to adjudication to A. P. Edgar, Commissioner, at his office in said County, on or before the 5th day of August, 1922.

Witness, D. C. Adkison, Clerk of the said Court, this the 23rd day of June, 1922.

D. C. ADKISON, Clerk.

Opening Banquet and Ball at Allegheny Club

Minnehaha Springs

Friday, July 7th, 1922

Dinner 7 to 8.30 p. m.
Dancing 10 to 3 a. m.

The music by That Novelty 7 piece Orchestra of Richwood

The public is cordially invited. A charge of $2.50 per person will be made. This includes dinner and music.

Wool Wool Wool

I pay CASH - Top Price - for Wool

See me, on Main Street, before selling

T. D. MOORE

Marlinton - - West Virginia

TO THE VOTERS OF TENTH SENATORIAL DISTRICT—

I am in favor of reducing taxes by removing a lot of office holders and reducing the salaries of those retained; repealing the fish and game law; completing a lot of the State roads as soon as possible, for the double purpose of getting the roads quickly and giving work to the unemployed laborers.

Not allowing taught in our State schools Darwinism, that man originated from the monkey, thereby destroying a belief in the Bible and the belief that "In His image created He them" Compelling the people to pay a tax to support something they do not believe in, paying a tax to teach a theory that strikes at the very foundation of our government and which will ultimately destroy all Democratic government. If people want to teach it, let them teach it at their own expense and not at the expense of the State.

Respectfully,
A. D. SHOCK.
Replete, W. Va.

From Webster Echo

Mr Shock is engaged in the lumber business and farming. He is a good mixer, a man of pleasing personality and has the ability to make an able Senator should he be nominated and elected. This being his home county he will no doubt receive the full support of the voters of Webster as well as polling a large vote in the other counties of the district.—Echo.

NOTICE

Mrs. Belle Eakle has arranged for The Eakle House at Bolar Springs, Highland County, Virginia, to open July 1st, for the summer season. Renewal of its patronage of former years will be appreciated. For reservations and information concerning rates etc., address Mrs. Eakle, Bolar, Virginia.

ESTRAY

One two year white faced brindle heifer came to my place the last of March or first of April. Owner can prove the property, pay the advertising bill and take stock.

Edgar W. Dean,
Adv. $1. paid. Lobelia, W. Va.

To the Voters of Pocahontas County:

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of commisioner of the County Corrt of Pocahontas County subject to the action of the Republican party at the general primary of August 1, 1922.

Your support is solicited.

W. W. KENNISON,

MULES FOR SALE—10 head of good work mules.
10 sets of good work harness.
4 good wagons, newly repaired, with or without beds
30 head of good hogs and shoats
10 good cows and calves.

W. McClintic,
Marlinton, W. Va.

NOTICE

Valley Head, W. Va.

My wife, Viva E. Arbogast, having left my bed and board without cause, I will not be responsible for any debts she may incur.

(Signed) C. B. Arbogast.
June 26, 1922.

NOTICE

All persons having claims against the estate of W. H. Baxter, deceased, will present the same properly proven to the undersigned administrator at his office at Edray, W. Va. All persons indebted to said estate will settle the same at once.

This 28th of June 1922.

G. P. Baxter. Admr. of estate of W. H. Baxter deceased.

Administrator's Sale

As administrator of the estate of the late William H. Baxter, I will offer for sale at public auction on Saturday July 8, 1922, at the home of the late Wm. H. Baxter at Edray:

Six cows and four calves
One draft horse
One lot of carpenter tools
One lot of wheat
Household goods, furniture, stoves, beds, bedding and other things too numerous to mention.
Sale begins at 10 o'clock a. m.
Terms: All sums of $10 and under cash. Over that amount a credit of four months, note with interest and approved security.

G. P. BAXTER,
Adm'r W. H. Baxter, deceased.
Barlow, Auctioneer.

Notice to Contractors

Sealed bids will be received by the Board of Education of Little Levels District of Pocahontas County, West Virginia. at the office of the secretary of said Board in Hillsboro, W. Va. until noon on Saturday, July 8, 1922, for the erection of a brick veneer school building in the town of Hillsboro, W. Va. Plans and specifications can be seen by applying to the undersigned secretary. The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the Board of Education of Little Levels District.

LUTHER FLYNN, Secretary.

Notice

W. A. Bratton
Vs
Ronceverte and Elkins Telephone Co.

To whom it may concern:

Take notice that pursuant to a decretal order of the circuit court of Pocahontas county. West Virginia, entered on the 11th day of June 1922 in the above entitled cause the undersigned commisssoner will on Monday August 7, 1922, at his office in the town of Marlinton, proceed to take state and report the following matters of account referred to him by said decree.

First, a report showing the liens against the fund in this cause with their priorities.

Second, a settlement of the accounts of W. A. Bratton, special receiver in this cause

Third, whether or not all the property of the Ronceverte and Elkins Telephone Company has been sold and if not what property remains unsold, its location and probable value.

At which time and place you may attend.

N. C. McNEIL, Commissoner.

Notice

To The Creditors Of The Ronceverte And Elkins Telephone Company, a corporation:

In pursuance to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, made in a cause therein pending, you are required to present your claims against the said Ronceverte and Elkins Telephone Company, a corporation, to N. C McNeil, Commissioner, at his Office, in the town of Marlinton, on or before the 7th day of August, 1922.

Witness, D. C. Adkison, Clerk of said Court, at the Court House of said Pocahontas County, on the 27th day of June, 1922.

D. C. Adkison,
Clerk.

FOR SALE—Two very desirable residence lots in east Marlinton. See G. F. Crummett.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XL NO 47 MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA; JULY 6, 1922 $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

THE FOUR HORSEMEN OF THE APOCALYPSE

All works of the imagination are gifts of God. This is pre-eminently true of these which compel us, by means of their art, to face the great spiritual realities, which are the only ultimate realities of life.

The novels of Vincento Blasco Ibanez are written for a purpose. under the fair raiment of the story-teller, he hides the sackcloth and ashes of the moralist. Ibanez would force his generation to face the facts of certain universal follies and injustices. In "The Four Horsemen" he plays the same part by war.

It has been my privilege to read, I suppose, most of the outstanding war books, but not one of them leaves the impression on my mind of the horror, futility and senselessness of war as this book does. How unforgettably does Blasco-Ibanez bring the glamour of the marching troops, the rampant patriotism, the singing of the "Marseillaise," right up against the unmentionable horrors of that night in Desnoyer's Castle—but there are depths of human depravity that even art can only hint at. When Sherman said "war is hell," he was uttering more than an epigram. War is hell triple distilled—not merely murder, but murder with all the conceivable and inconceivable tortures of the damned; not only lust, but lust quintessential and abysmic; not only destruction, but destruction senseless, inane, not only frenzy, but the frenzy of an arch-angel gone insane; not only fear, but fear that makes gibbering idiots out of strong men. Louvain, Rheims, poison gas, flame throwers, mutilation, torture, crucifixion, famine, pestilence—filth of the trenches, filth of the body, filth of the mind. All that aud more Blasco-Ibanez make us see—to what purpose? That a group of diplomats should meet in Washington and jockey for position in an international chess game? Surely not that. I do not under-rate the day of small things. But surely the common people of the world suffered enough in the four years of the war; surely they are suffering enough from its aftermath now, for them to rise in their might and say with one voice to their rulers and representatives: "Henceforth we mean to abolish that particular kind of hell."

But Blasco-Ibenez is not chiefly concerned with pitcturing the horrors of war. Others have done that. His unique contribution is that he uncovers its seed-bed The "Four Horsemen" are under orders of the Beast. They issue out of his mouth. Long ago the Apostle John saw it and foretold the horrors of a Godless civilization. To him it was the civilization of Rome; to us it is the civilization of Europe and America. The Beast is not in some far-off realm of space. He is here in our own hearts, in our own institutions, in the very progress and culture we were boasting of before the war and crying today because we can't get back to speedily enough—the beast of animality and selfishness. How finely does Blasco Ibanez picture the rottenness, the futility, the misguided effort of the society—not French merely, but international—which was brewing the hell-broth of war. Dancing and singing on the lip of the volcano. The elder Desnoyer playing at Medevial Castle and art collecting; his son, Julio, playing at art and the one thing that will not be played at with impunity—love; Madame Laurier playing with the fire that reduces hearts to ashes; the German cousins playing at the goose-step and the Kingspiel—while the forgotten God of righteousness brooded over all with the drawn sword of justice in His hand.

You remember that scene in the play where Desnoyer's castle, with all its priceless treasures goes up in flames under the pounding of the guns—not German guns, observe. but French. It is a parable of the fate of every civilization that is not built on truth and righteousness. The castle falls under the impact of its own destructive forces Its walls are lathe and plaster to the high explosive of the broken laws of God. Its treasures are melted in the flame of the divine wrath. The thing that has taken years and centuries to build becomes a heap of smouldering ashes. Over and over again it has happened. The hanging gardens of Babylon are no more; the great empire of the Hittites is represented by a single seal in the Ashmolian Museum at Oxford; the grandeur of Rome and the glory of Greece—where are they? The colossus of Spain that once dominated the councils of the Old World and owned more than half of the New, is a trophy for the guns of Dewey; Germany and Russia are in ruins; the whole civilization of Europe is bankrupt. And the warning is to our own nation in which the hegemony of the world now rests, lest it, too, forget and share the fate of all those other empires that builded without God.

And this is the tremendous lesson of the book—that the moral universe is under law in exactly the same sense as the physical; that just as burning is the inevitable result of thrusting one's hand into the fire, as a mangled corpse is the result of abusing the law of gravitation by throwing oneeslf over a prescipice, as disease is the result of breaking the laws of health—so war, pestilence famine and all social scourges and disasters are the direct result of the violation of the eternal laws of Justice, Truth and Purity. "Be not deceived, God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man, a nation or a world, soweth, that shall it also reap."

And this is the warning for us and for our children: it is idle to try to prevent war by tinkering with its symptoms. War is the culmination of social disease, and no good doctor thinks he is curing a disease by allaying a headache or regulating a pulse beat. He goes deeper to a cause. The cause of war is human selfishness and sin. In a society where the worship of Mammon overshadows all others; where ethical standards that have arisen out of the blood-bought experience of the human race are openly flouted; where the art. the music, the literature, stirs subtly the animality of man; where justics is ignored in the warfare of class with class; where pleasure is made an end in itself and ease and comfort take the place of the "stern ascent of virtue;" where religion is tolerated merely, or at most patronized, and faith in another life fades into the background of thought and loses its power as a motive—in such a socity the seeds of are inevitably germinating. in spite of all leagues and conferences, and will one day bring forth their harvest of blood and tears. I am no Cassandra, no prophet of doom; but the immediate business of the world today is to get back to God. Its only hope is the religion of the Lord Jesus Christ, who alone is able to uproot the seeds of selfishness from human hearts and set our feet upon the way of peace. Only when men learn to love one another will war become impossible. And only Christ can teach us how to love.

In that remarkable poem in which Alfred Noyes excoriates the criminal forgetfulness of English society within a year of the great war. he writes:

"The cymbals crash,
The dancers walk
With long silk stockings
And arms of chalk,
Butterfly skirts,
And white breasts bare,
And shadows of dead men
Watching 'em there

"Under the dancing
Feet are the graves,
Dazzle and motley,
In long bright waves
Brushed by the palm fronds,
Grapple and whirl
Ox-eyed matron
And slim white girl.

"Fat wet bodies
Go waddling by,
Girded with satin,
Though God knows why;
Gript by satyrs
In white and black,
With a fat wet hand
On a fat wet back.

"'Pish,' said a statesman,
Standing near,
'I'm glad they can busy
Their thoughts elsewhere!
We mustn't reproach 'em,
They' young, you see.'
'Ah,' said the dead men,
'So were we!'

"Victory! Victory!
On with the dance!
Back to the jungle
The new beasts prance!
God, how the dead men
Grin by the wall,
Watching the fun
Of the Victory Ball!"

—Rev. H D. C. Maclachlan, in Southern Churchman.

A. C. HEROLD FOR STATE SENATE

As we go to press a long distance telephone message authorizes to make the announcement that Hon. A. C. Herold, of Sutton, is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the State Senate, long term, in this district.

This race is now a three cornered one between Messrs. Herold and Hines, of Braxton county, and Mr. Shock, of Webster.

Mr. Herold will make an acceptable candidate to us Pocahontas people. In fact he is kin to about half of the county people. He is the grandson of Anderson Herold. who moved from Pocahontas to Nicholas many years ago. He is a young man of means and prominence in his county. He is a banker by occupation. Two years ago he was on the ticket as a candidate for treasurer of the State of West Virginia. Mr. Herold expects to pay a visit to the county in a the near future.

The defeat of Gifford Pinchot at the election of a Republican State Chairman in Pennsylvania when the contractor ring ran a steam-roller over his candidate and elected Harry Baker, a Penrose henchman, to conduct the campaign, is a concrete illustration of the futility of any attempt Pinchot may make to put into operation any progressive ideas or plans in that reactionary boss-ridden state.

But the worst feature of the affair was the evident insincerity of Pinchot himself in rushing up and congratulating Chairman Baker. Pinchot would have no more chance for success in the State House at Harrisburg surrounded by the bosses of the Old Guard faction than President Harding has success in the White House surrounded by the Daughertys, the Falls, the Denbys, and Newberrys.

Bishop Gravatt, of Charlestown, will preach at the Episcopal Church next Sunday night, July 9, at 8 o'clock.

The Levels District Sunday School convention will be held at Sharon church on Locust Creek on Tuesday, July 18.

LANTY McNEEL FOR COUNTY COURT

It is with pleasure that this paper can announce that J. Lanty McNeel has consented to stand for the Democratic nomination for County Commissioner. His district is the Little Levels, which has not been represented on the Court for a few years. He is a man of large affairs and one who is safe, conservative and courageous in his judgment On account of the close friendship existing between Mr. NcNeel and Mr. Barlow, the retiring member of the court, the latter did not offer for re election. And just here it is fit and proper and due to Mr. Barlow to say that of all of the men who have served the county in the capacity of County Commissioner, we have never had a more faithful or efficient member and president of the court than Mr. Barlow. We will add, too. that we believe Mr. McNeel will make a worthy successor to him.

MISS WALLACE A CANDIDATE

Miss Anna M. Wallace is asking the Democratic nomination for County Superintendent of Schools. As for this writer, he knows of no one who will be more acceptable as a candidate or fill the office with greater credit than Miss Wallace. By endowment and training she has the highest qualifications for the office. In this and adjoining counties her services as an instructor have always been in demand. For a few years past she has been principal of a large school doing high school work near Lewisburg.

Big States and great cities have for years placed women at the head of their departments of public instruction. It is an office that property qualified women should fill. One half the pupils of the lower grades are girl children, and the proportion of girls increases as the grades advance, until the last year of high school is reached, and then the girls outnumber the boys almost two to one. Then, too, our teachers are almost all women.

This writer has been for Miss Wallace for this nomination and office ever since her name was mentioned. Her candidacy is favorably received wherever mentioned, especially in this town where she has taught.

He took one drink but there was wood alcohol in the whiskey Eugene Finkle drank. Now he is groping in blindness. "I felt all right until night when I awakened with intense pain," said Finkle. The next day Finkle was very ill but went to work. That evening the doctor came. He said Finkle had been poisoned. The next morning Finkle was blind Just one drink! Wood alcohol acts on the blood vessels, especially the small ones The capillaries burst. That is what causes blindness. The tiny arteries of the retina are ruptured, destroying sight. A straight drink of wood alcohol brings on internal hemorrhages, blindness, convulsions—and death. Pretty big price to pay for just one drink.—Editorial, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

Next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock J. S. Kellison of Hillsboro, will address the Epworth League of the Wesley Chapel Methodist church, Hillsboro. Mr. Kellison is of the class of '16 West Virginia Wesleyau. He has won distinction in the field of athletics at Marietta College and also at Washington and Jefferson at which place he is engaged as coach for the coming year. The Washington and Jefferson foot ball team won the championship of the east last season and tied for the national championship All are cordially invited to attend the League exercises.

Ira W. Sheets of Dunmore, is advertising his farm for sale, He is contemplating moving to Hartstown, Pennsylvania. His neighbor, Lawrence Nottingham, has recently returned from Hartstown where he bought farm property. Quite a number of our Greenbank folks have moved to that place.

Pocahontas Home Coming

At the County Fair
August 22nd, 1922

Meet and greet your friends and kin on the One Hundredth Anniversary of the founding of the County on the first day of the Fair.

Pocahontas County was formed by Act of the Assembly of Virginia in 1822. To commemorate the event, the first day of the County Fair has been set aside as Home Coming Day. It is hoped that then the lost children of Pocahontas will then gather home to pay that long deferred visit to their mother County.

Write to your moved-away friends and relatives to come visiting back home.

T. S. McNEEL, Manager.

MRS. E. L. KRAMER

Mrs. E. L. Kramer, of Ronceverte. died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. A. Sydenstricker, in Marlinton on Sunday morning, July 2. 1922. For a number of years she has been an invalid and her death was not unexpected. She was more than 80 years old. A short service was held at the Sydenstricker home on Sunday afternoon by Rev. H. H. Orr, and on Monday morn'n; her body was taken to Ronceverte, where it was laid beside the grave of her late husband. She is survived by her two daughters, Mrs. J. A. Sydenstricker and Miss Alice Kramer, and her sons, Luther. William and Robert A. Kramer.

Mrs Kramer was a native of Pennsylvania, but for more than forty years she has been a resident of Ronceverte. Of a deeply religious nature she found great joy in the work of her Master, and she and her family have done great things in the work of her church, the Presbyterian. "Her children a rise up and call her blessed."

G. O. P. GEMS

[From the Ohio State Journal Rep.]

We favor reform from within and our advice to our great party of progress and moral ideas is not to do quite so many things to make Cordell Hull happy.

The Republican party as we have always said, is the party of conservation and here we find ourselves on the eve of another campaign with almost enough unused campaign promises left over from last time to see us through.

What Congress needs, and so we wired our great President in care of Senator Frelinghuysen yesterday, as he didn't seem to have thought of it before, is intimidation

Princeton University just characterized our great President as a man of immense patience and self effacing modesty, among other things, as it handed him an honorary degree the other day but we have our moments of depression, as we watch Congress wigg'ing and wobbling around from day to day, when we wish it might conscientiously have added a little something about how terribly hard-boiled he is when occasion demands.

The Levels District Sunday School Association is preparing to put on a district wide church census through the medium of the Sunday Schools on July 16. Last Sunday the preparatory work was commenced by a general visitation of schools by Sunday workers of that and other districts. With some few exceptions, the visitors found the officers and teachers willing and anxious to do what their hands could find to do to make the work more effective in reaching more people.

Hon. A. D. Shock, of Replete, Webster County, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the long term in the State Senate from this district, was in Pocahontas county all last week, seeing the voters in the interest of his candidacy. Mr. Shock is a farmer and he feels that his experience with the trials and tribulations incident to the farming business will enable him to legislate properly for the best interest of the greatest industry of his district—agriculture.

The attendance at the Methodist Sunday school last Suuday climbed back to 180, just 20 more than were present the Sunday before. The Presbyterian school gained seven over the Sunday before, their attendance being 163.

J. L Baxter, Ford dealer, unloaded a car load of Fordson tractors on Monday

---

The Fourth was cloudy, wet and cold in Pocahontas this year.

FOR STATE SENATE

This paper is authorized to announce A. C. Herold, of Sutton, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Senator, long term, from the 10th District.

DIED

Henry H. Landis died on Fridoy morning, June 30, 1922, after a long illness of some tubercular affection. His age was about 45 years. Burial on Sunday afternoon at Indian Draft in the presence of a large congregation. The services were conduct by Rev. C. A. Powers, of the Methodist Church, and the Oddfellow Lodge were in charge. Mr. Landis was the son of the late John Landis. He is survived by his wife, who is a daughter of Rev. G S. Welford, and three children Of his father's family there remain one sister, Mrs. J. A. Irvine and four brothers, E. H., of Millpoint, S. P., John and James, of Edray District. The deceased was an honest, upright citizen, and though handicapped for years by ill health he worked continuously for the support of his family.

PRESBYTERIAN CONFERENCE

On Tuesday and Wednesday, August 8th and 9th, there will be held an Elders and Deacons' Conference, at the Clifton church, Maxwelton, W. Va., four miles North of Lewisburg, in the interest of the men of Greenbrier Presbytery especially and of the general public as well.

On Tuesday evening at 8 P. M. Dr. Henry Louis Smith, President of Washington and Lee University, will speak on the subject, "The New Alliance—Religion and Business."

On Wednesday at the same hour, 8 P. M., Mr. A. M. Pritchard, a Laymen of Staunton, Va., will speak on the "Stewardship of Money."

Besides these two prominent speakers, we will have for the morning and afternoon sessions, such men as Dr. Howard Arbuckle of Davidson College, Mr. R. F. Dunlap of Hinton, Mr. E L. Bell of Lewisburg and a number of other men in the Presbytery who will discuss various phases of church life and work. The progress is not completed at this time but we can assure all who come a feast of good things. These addresses will be educational and inspirational.

For the two days, Tuesday and Wednesday, picnic dinner will be served on the grounds. The general public is invited and families are requested to bring their baskets. All the churches in the Presbytery are requested to send at least one Elder and one Deacon or Laymen as Delegates and as many more as can be induced to come. Maxwelton is easily accessible by car. Please remember that if there is an Elder or Deacon who is not interested in such a Conference, and does not want to come,—he is the one above all others who needs to come to get an enlarged vision of the work of the church so that he can go back home to his church with renewed faith and greater courage to lead the church in the great work entrusted to it.

Come and let us make this a great social and spiritual success and make it such a success that we will make it an annual affair and a blessing to the churches with whom we meet.

J E Flow,
Chairman of Com.

Mrs. H. G. Greer
PUBLIC
Stenographer
Greer & Co.'s Office
MARLINTON, W. VA.

MOORE GASOLINE
Means
Less Gasoline

Filling station at The Peoples Store & Supply Co. at west end of county bridge is the only station in Marlinton selling The Moore Gasoline and Engine Oils. Try it and be convinced.

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Notice to Jitney Owers:

The Executive Committee of the Pocahontas County Fair Association will charge a fee of TEN ($10.00) DOLLARS for the privilege of entering the Fair Grounds with a car licensed to carry passengers.

Each car so employed will be assessed a TEN ($10.00) DOLLAR fee.

Apply to the undersigned for your permit.

O. Hunter Kee,
Transportation Manager.

To those who Owe us:

Unusual expenditures make it absolutely necessary for me to collect what is due me on my books. If it comes voluntarily, I will greatly appreciate it—but I must have my money and will be compelled to take necessary steps to collect it.

T. H. HINER
Marlinton, W. Va.

THE CANDIDATES

Saturday night was the last hour for filing of announcement. of candidates for nominations for public office with the circut clerk. The following have signified their willingness.

For House of Delegates—J. G. Hamrick, C. P. Kerr, J. A. McLaughlin and E. N. Moore, Democrats; A E. Kennison and Howard Underwood, Republicans.

County Superintendent—Miss AnnaWallace, Mrs. Rella F. Yeager, Democrats; Clarence Flynn, Republican.

County Commissioner—Lanty McNeel, Democrat; W. W. Kennison and C. P. McElwee, Republicans.

District Officers

Little Levels Board of Education—M. L. Beard for president and F. P. Kidd for member.

Greenbank District—C. L. Moomau, for president, Willis Cassell, Kenny Rexrode, E. A. Hudson, for members, all Democrats. For constable, J. A. Belcher, Democrat.

Huntersville—no offers.

Edray—For Constable, Charley Butler.

Richard Elkins, a son of the late Senator S. B. Elkins, and a brother of the present Senator, was killed in an automobile accident. His age was 42 years.

SPECIAL PRICES
—ON—
FISK TIRES, Ford Sizes

If "its Time to retire" be sure to see us about FISK tires. Special prices on all sizes now being offered.

C. J. RICHARDSON
Marlinton, W. Va.

Plan a Year's Savings

If you find it hard to save money, perhaps it's because you're following a hit-or-miss plan—or no plan at all.

Decide what you should save in a year's time. Then plan tu deposit one fifty-second part of that amount, EACH WEEK, in an interest bearing account at this bank.

It's a fact you'll get better results from this plan than from occasional deposits of larger amounts, You'll not greatly miss the small weekly deposits either.

BANK OF MARLINTON

Marlinton, West Virginia

LOCAL MENTION.

W. L. Davis and family are on a visit to their old home in Franklin. Pendleton county.

Lee W. Clark, from Cleremont, Florida, is at home, very much improved in health.

Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Hench spent the Fourth at Iron Gate, Va., at the home of Ralph Fickes.

Miss Betsy Price is attending the 4-H State girls camp at Jackson Mills, Lewis county, this week.

Isaac White, of Lewis county, is the guest of his cousin, H. Lee White, of Minnehaha Springs.

Mrs. E. C. Bush and daughter, Miss Clara are visiting relatives in Huntington and Richmond.

Glen Vaughan is home from the Covington paper mills where he has been working the past five months.

Mr. and Mrs. Hammer, of Franklin, are visiting their daughtor, Mrs. H Lee White, of Minnehaha Springs.

Mrs. J. W. G. Smith returned on Tuesday from Spruce where she spent a week with her son. E C Smith.

Mrs. Clyde Waugh and little daughter Mary Frances, have returned home from a visit to relatives near Huntersville.

Mrs. J. A. Wade and her grand children Miss Edna and Carlisle are spending the month with relatives in Rockbridge county.

Sterrett Beard is with his brother Clarence Beard, at the home of their grandmother: Mrs. P. S. Clark, in the Levels, for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Richardson Misses Polly Smith and Geraldine Haupt are at the Richardson Camp on Jacksons River for a few weeks.

Ira D. Brill and C. J. Richardson returned last week from a trip up north. While gone they attended the annnal meeting of the Hardware Dealers' Association.

Mrs. S. S. Grantham, of Lakeland, Florida, who has been in ill health since last fall is convalescing at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Stark Wilhide, in Durbin.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Staton, motored to Covington, Va., Sunday and spent the day with Mrs. Staton's sister, Mrs. Roberts. They report a very pleasant trip.

Rev. H. M. Roane, member of the Baltimore Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, whose home is in Staunton, Virginia, has been secured as the preacher in the revival services to be held at Sharon Methodist church from July 23 to August 6th.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Clendenen have returned from their wedding trip and have gone to housekeeping in their own house on Court Street. Many friends in Cass will recall Mrs. Clendenen as Miss Carder, who was once a popular teacher in the Cass schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Wilson and family are visiting relatives in Western Maryland this Week.

Miss Agnes Price goes to New York this week to attend the summer school at Columbia University.

Mrs. Ira D. Brill went to Covington Monday to spend a while with her sister, Mrs. Mabel Moore Hudson.

J. W. Hill was over to Lynchburg and other Virginia points to visit relatives and friends. He is again at his desk in the First National Bank, having made a fine recovery from a serious surgical operation.

Mr. and Mrs. George Overholt, of Jenkins, Kentucky, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Overholt and son of Pennsylvania, are guests at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Overholt and Mr and Mrs. A. S. Overholt this week.

F. M Sydnor has returned from Kansas City, where he attended the International Sunday School Convention. Over seven thousand delegates from America, Europe, Asia and the Islands of the Sea were gathered together in a wonderful meeting.

Miss Veta Lee Williams of Morgantown, arrived Saturday to spend a few weeks with home folks in Marlinton and at Edray. She has completed her second year at the University, and she made excellent grades in her studies.

Rev. C. W. Peyton returned to Ronceverte on Monday morning, after a two weeks' stay with friends in Marlinton. Fourteen years ago he served the Marlinton and Huntersville churches one summer and fall. His home is in Temple, Texas. For forty-five years he has been a minister.

MACRO-SAL

For Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, and Neuralgia of Rheumatic origin.

Pamphlet giving specific directions and diet list of utmost importance to rheumatic people mailed on request from our office.

Price $1 per Bottle

Your dealer can supply you

Distributed by

S. B. WALLACE & CO.

Wholesale Druggists

Marlinton, W. Va.

KANTLEEK

It Can't Leak Because it's Made in One Piece

Your money back if it leaks—a guarantee good at any Rexall Store. America's best known Hot-Water Bag—the safest and most economical to buy. Your home needs one.

Royal Drug Stores

Marlinton, W. Va.

SITLINGTON

We are glad to see Dr. Norman Price out for the State Senate. If Pocahontas County does her duty She will at last have a representative in the State Senate. And we believe the Doctor will get that "Army Set" to his Jaw and take care of us—"Politics be Blowed" support him folks.

Ernest Campbell had a narrow escape from injury Tuesday while enroute to Sitlington with the mail. The bridge near Hays Grimes had some boards loose which slipped out under his car letting the rear wheels fall in; if it had been the front wheels the old Henry would have stood on its radiator. Something better be did to this bridge or someone will wreck. Strangers on this road take warning.

Charley Ware sold his Maxwell last Monday and has a Henry. It looks like both a truck and a roadster. Also the last rose of summer, but like all Henrys it's a hauler.

The Grand Street Parade, Dance and Barbecue at Sitlington, the Fourth was a success despite the rain. The noon train was somewhat late and President Harding failed to reach here in time for the Dance but that's all right we didn't miss him much anyway.

Dr. U. H. Hannah was expected down, but said the roads were so bad between Dunmore and Sitlington he had to turn back.

JACOX

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Curry, have returned home from the Marlinton Hospital greatly improved from their serious accident caused by a run away team. While in the hospital they were visited by Mr Curry's daughter. Mrs. C. M. M. Fultz, of Wausaukee, Wis., Grover Curry of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Ernest Curry of Huntington, and many other friends of both parties.

Dr. Simon Hill and family of Regent, N. D., are visiting Dr. Hill's parents, Mr. and Mrs Peter Hill, and relatives and friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilton McMillion have returned from their honeymoon to Washington, D. C., Parkersburg and Wallace, W. Va., returning by way of Elkins, and are being entertained by their many friends before beginning their new home life.

Miss Eva Snedegar is visiting her many friends at and near Jacox.

U. S. COURT

United States District Court is in session at Lewisburg this week. The following Pocahontas people are in attendance as jurors: Grand jury—A. P. Edgar, L. S. Cochran, John Buckley, I. B. Moore.

Petit jury—G. E. Moore, O. G. Arbogast, Sherman Gibson, Leo Price, R. M. Beard, C. W. Dilley, L. D. Sharp, W. H. Gilmore, Henry Beard, Robert Hivie, J. W. Grimes.

TOWN COUNCIL

The Town Council held a regular monthly meeting Monday night.

The routine accounts of the town for the month of June were audited.

The matter of rearrangement of certain streets and alleys near the bridge and county infirmary was deferred, pending the certain specified improvements, including fill and wall to prevent overflow of the river.

The usual licenses were granted hotel, restaurant, and lunch stands and pool rooms, all subject to the rules and regulations made and provided for the conduct of public places.

No definite action was taken by the council in the matter of a change in the water supply. The council is reluctant to submit any proposal to raise money for this purpose until public sentiment is thoroughly in accord as to the obvious thing to do.

S. L. Brown, local weather observer, reports as follows for June: Hottest 82 on the 17th and 30th; coldest 38 degrees on 23rd and 24th; average temperature 63.4 degrees. Rainfall, 4.66 inches; greatest in 24 hours, 1.10 inches on the 1st and 2nd; no snow; rain fell on ten days; clear days 4, partly cloudy 7; 19 cloudy; thunder storms on 12, 19, 20 and 28. The greatest daily range in temperature was 40 degrees, from 28 to 78 on 28th.

T. S. McNeel, manager of the Pocahontas County Home Coming Day, is making up an exhibit of old time things to be shown at the County Fair August 22-26. If you have any thing of the olden time like flax hackels, rifle guns, looms, spinning wheels, coverlets, etc., please communicate with Mr. McNeel. A room has been put at his disposal, and it is hoped that a fine exhibit will be made.

County court was in session Tuesday with commissioners Barlow and Williams present. A world of orders were passed upon allowed. The poll books were not ready to be passed upon, and the court adjourned to meet on Tuesday July 11.

Rev. H. H. Orr will preach at Swago next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

9:45 Sunday School
11:00 a. m. Leviticus or Law.
3:00 p. m. Preaching at Swago.
8:00 p. m. Echoes from the Y. P. Conference.

Next Sunday morning we will have the third of the Book Sermons. This discussion will be of the book of Leviticus.

Sunday evening the service will be in charge of the young people.

The regular meeting of the session will be Monday evening.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. F. B. Wyand, Pastor
Sunday School 9:45; prompt.
A. S. Overholt, Superintendent.
Morning service eleven o'clock.
Epworth League, 7:15 p. m.
Preaching service 8 p. m.

The services will be conducted by Rev. J. D. Pope, a former pastor, who will supply the pulpit during the pastor's absence.

West Virginia News Briefs

Most important events of entire state covered by our correspondents

Parkersburg—Robert C. Tucker, 75, and for 31 years a prominent business man, is dead.

Wellsburg—John Ramsey, for many years superintendent of mines here, died in his 66th year.

Fairmont—Births in Marion county for six months total 813. Deaths in the same period were 312.

Huntington—Annual convention of the West Virginia association of insurance men closed here.

Huntington—Attempting to leave a moving passenger train, R. H. Hannan was caught under the train and killed.

Morgantown—Fifty candidates for pharmacists' licenses were examined here by the State Board of Pharmacy.

Gilmer—The widow and son of Walter Frys were awarded $10 monthly by the state compensation commission.

West Liberty—Eighty-two young women and men were given diplomas from the West Liberty state normal school here.

Benwood—Benwood and McMechen are soon to advertise for bids for the construction of a new bridge over McMechen's run.

Parsons—Debts aggregating $250,000 have resulted in the appointment of a receiver for the Parsons pulp and lumber company.

Huntington—Lawrence Hodges, Milton, secured a $1,000 judgment from Odell Oxley in circuit court as the result of an automobile accident.

Parkersburg—Sentiment is said to be crystalizing in favor of a $650,000 bond issue to build new schools. No date for election has been designated.

Middlebourne—The city water plant was completely destroyed by fire. An overheated rubber hose attached to one of the engines was believed to have been the cause.

Clarksburg—Clarksburg's old curfew law has been resurrected by L. M. Wolfe, new chief of police. Children under 16 years must be off the streets by 10 p. m.

Benwood—After continuous service of 50 years in the steel industry, T. H. Edwards has resigned as superintendent of the Wheeling Steel and Iron company's steel department.

Clarksburg—Thieves robbed the cellar of the home of Elmer Heldreth, taking away meat, butter and lard, then sprinkled red pepper on their trail so that dogs would be unable to follow.

Fairmont—The annual meeting of the department of West Virginia veterans of foreign wars held in Fairmont laid plans for the extension of the organization into many state towns and selected Morgantown for the next place of meeting.

Morgantown—W. C. Tennant, employed by the Nellie coal company, was taken from his automobile by a crowd of three hundred men while driving up Scott's Run and was severely beaten and assaulted. A revolver and rifle in Tennant's possession were taken from him by the crowd.

Parkersburg—Judge Baker, in federal court issued rules for contempt against Wick M. Gibson and G. M. Poling, who are charged with violation of an injunction issued recently by Judge Baker against striking employees of the Western Maryland railroad.

Gafton—The printing of state automobile licenses will soon be started at the industrial school for boys at Prunytown, Taylor county. Although the printing plant there, along with the tailoring, shoemaking and other shops, was wiped out by the fire which destroyed $50,000 in buildings a few weeks ago, the plant is speedily being replaced.

Bluefield—R. L. Taylor, federal prohibition agent and Eli Watkins, state prohibition agent gave bond in the McDowell county criminal court in the sum of $15,000 apiece to appear in court during the next term of court and defend themselves against the charge of murder of George Stewart, colored, who was shot and killed at North Fork while attempting to escape after having been arrested for having moonshine in his possession.

Bluefield—The Bluefield retail merchants' bureau and the Bluefield credit clearing house have been reorganized and consolidated under the name of the Bluefield retail merchants' association.

Charleston—Application of the true and actual value rule to Pocahontas county increased property assessments in Pocahontas county 44.6 per cent or $3,216,405, it is reported to Walter S. Hallanan, state tax commissioner, by Assessor George A. C. Auldridge of Marlinton.

Miss Amelia Hecket, who lives near Buckeye, had her arm very severely cut by a scythe last Thursday. Her young brother was mowing the yard and she stepped too near. Tendons, arteries and nerves were severed near the wrist. The loss of blood was considerable.

Mrs. Harper Thomas returned on Tuesday from Alabama, where she had been called by the serious illness of her father, Mr Armentrout.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

The Board of Education met on Monday with all the members present. Coe Adkison was elected secretary in the stead of S. J. Rexrode, resigned.

The teachers for the Marlinton graded school are J. W. G. Smith, principal and eighth grade; Misses Mary Eskridge, Elizabeth Hill, Dorothy Irvine, Bertha Overholt, Edna McNeill, Beulah Moore and Delpha Snedegar.

Edray District High School, C. J. Ramsey, Principal: Arden Killingsworth, Miss Celesta See, Miss Tyree and Miss Kimmel, with three others to be decided upon.

Trustees appointed and this list will be published next week.

R. K. Burns reappointed truant officer. Board will meet again to lay the levy on the second Tuesday in August.

WOMAN FOR CONGRESS

Miss Hattie Stein, of Charleston, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress against the present encumbent, L. S. Echols. The following is received from her campaign headquarters in Charleston:

"Miss Hattie Stein, who signed affidavit of announcement as a candidate to represent the sixth district of Congress expects to win solely on her merits and equipment as a woman and as an American to worthily represent this important district in the Congress of the United States. She hopes her constituents will take her record of achievement with a very limited opportunity as an index of what she may be able to accomplish if the people of the sixth district will vote their confidence to give her this bigger opportunity to work for their best interests—governmentally, politically, industriously, socially. Her candidacy is motivated by a love of service and a normal ambition to have a voice in the constructive legislation of her country. She is a free lance—has no friends to reward and no enemies to punish—so can fight with all the strength of which she is capable for the welfare of her constituency.

"Miss Stein feels that if there are six representatives in Congress that there is certainly a place for one woman. While she will not dodge ano issues that concern either men or women—biologically and tempermentally is equipped to focus on legislation that concerns women and children—physical and mental education, child labor, and equal work for men and women.

"Miss Stein is rooting for the service man—soldier, sailor and marine. She is not only for the bonus bill but for the liberal interpretation of every case of compensation. If there is any doubt, let the boy who fought for us have the benefit rather the U. S. Treasury.

"Miss Stein wants her district to have good roads not only as a matter of civic pride and utilitarian advantage but good roads mean better attendance at school and at church.

"This woman candidate also thinks about a man's questions. For example—the office of sheriff should be divided into two offices. A man may be a good police officer and a poor fiscal agent or vice versa. The taxpayers have a right to have the money paid as taxes expended judiciously.

"Miss Stein believes that a representative should be most vitally interested in the most vital problem in his or her district, and it is unanswerable that labor is the most important question in this district. Labor from all angles and in every phase. Unemployment is the most human factor in the field of economics. If the breadwinner is out of work the whole family suffers."

A reason why the voters of Pocahontas County should vote for the nomination of E. N. Moore, of Dunmore, for our representative:

During the last session of the Legislature, there was a bill introduced to change amount each county should receive for road from the $50,000,000 bond issue from the mileage basis to that of a valuation basis. On the mileage basis, Pocahontas County receives the second largest share, as we have the second road mileage in the state. This will give to us about $400,000 fromthe first $15,006,000, or about $1,450,000 from the $50,000,000 bond issue. Had the rich counties been able to have had the law changed as they wanted it, our county would have received only about fifteen cents on the dollar, or about $60,000 on the first $15,000,000 or about $250,000 of the $50,000,000 which would hardly make a start on our mileage. This bill was fought by our legislator, Mr. E. N. Moore, of Dunmore, and through him and others it was defeated, giving us and other counties of the state the proportion in regard to the mileage of Class A roads, and not allowing a few counties rich in oil, gas and coal and a few cities in these counties to receive nearly all of the bond issue to improve all of their roads, while the others stayed in the mud. In the coming session of our legislature this same bill will be re-introduced and it will take a hard fight to keep the law as it is. We have in E. N. Moore a man in whom we can place our confidence and know how he will work and fight to keep the law as it is, and who will always look after the interest of Pocahontos county. If there ever was a time when we needed a good man it is now. In E. N. Moore we have such a man.

Voters of Cass.

The sale of the Pocahontas County lands of the John T. McGraw estate last Thursday resulted in the following: The 1007 acres at Williams River to Capt. M. G. Sperry, of Clarksburg. 69 acres, Greenbrier Hill, to a Mr. Rider; Mt. Grove; 73 acres, Laden Bottom, Withrow McClintic; 146 acres Marlins Mountain to W. A. Eskridge. The Stamping Creek tract to Platt Marshall. No bid was received for mineral rights under 8000 acres at Denmar. Lot at Durbin to Miss Emma Burner.

Mrs. Wilbur Sharp and son Robert returned Tuesday from a visit to her old home in Eastern Virginia.

Opening Banquet and Ball at Allegheny Club

Minnehaha Springs

Friday, July 7th, 1922

Dinner 7 to 8.30 p. m.
Dancing 10 to 3 a. m.

The music by That Novelty 7 piece Orchestra of Richwood

The public is cordially invited. A charge of $2.50 per person will be made. This includes dinner and music.

Wool Wool Wool

I pay CASH - Top Price - for Wool

See me, on Main Street, before selling

T. D. MOORE

Marlinton - - West Virginia

"111" cigarettes

A year ago—almost unknown
Today—a leader
10¢

A sweeping verdict for QUALITY

Clifton Forge Marble & Granite Works

MONUMENTS

Only the best grades of Marble and and Granite used. Get our price before buying.

Harry P. Burt, Pres.

Land for Sale

163 acres, the G. W. Shinabery land, and 230 acres, the J. A. Shinabery land, on Back Allegheny Mountain. This is all good grass land, about three hundred acres in sod. Two good dwelling houses, three large orchards all bearing fruit. Good barns and out buildings.

Will sell at once. For information apply to J. A. Shinabery.

Cass, W. Va.

Auction Sale

SATURDAY, JULY 15

Beginning at 1 o'clock, I will sell the following at public auction at the McNellan place, on Price Hill, 1 1-2 miles below Marlinton:

Black mare, 5 years old
A lot of household articles
A Studebaker car, 5 passenger
1 cow, giving milk
Set of one horse wagon harness
Buggy and harness
And numer other things.

I will also offer the McNellan place for rent. It has on it a good 6 room house. The crop consists of three acres of garden stuff.

Terms made known on day of sale.

W. R. SHINABERY

Gum, Auctioneer.

Farm for Sale

225 acres of land, lying on Sitlingtons Creek, four miles east of Dunmore, near Wesley Chapel. 65 acres under cultivation: 30 in pasture and balance cutover land. Fine outlet for ranging stock. Good barn, well watered. Will sell with or without the present crop. Well equipped with machinery. A good community with churches and schools convenient. For further particulars apply at once to owner.

IRA W. SHEETS,
Dunmore, W. Va.

HEMSTITCHING AND PICOTING

Hemstitching and picoting 10 cts per yard. Mail orders will receive prompt and careful attention.

MRS. J. E. BUCKLEY,
Marlinton, W. Va.

PICTURE FRAMING—Prompt service and reasonable price. A variety of styles. Special attention paid to mail orders. G. W. Palmer, Marlinton, W. Va. Oct1.

FARM FOR SALE—38 acres and 8 room house with barn and outbuilding, on Class A road, 2 miles from Frost on Dunmore road. Good neighborhood and will make any one a desirable home.

MITCHELL SHARP,
Dunmore, W. V.

FOR SALE—One Henry Ford, looks like all the rest. Can be used a roadster or a half ton truck. Cheap in price. Quality is there. C. C. Ware, Sitlington, W. Va.

FOR SALE—Thoroughbred Shepherd dogs $5.00 each if taken at once. Color black, white marked.

W. E. Poage, Edray, W. Va

Judge C. F. Moore, of New York, has accepted an invitation to deliver an address at the Pocahontas Home Coming on August 22. Dr. H. W. McLaughlin, of Virginia. Judge Geo. W. McClintic also hopes to be present.

Mrs. Amanda Sharp returned last week from a year and a half trip to Texas and other western states, visiting her children. She is in fine health and enjoyed her trip greatly.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XL NO 48 MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA; JULY 13, 1922 $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Edray District Sunday School Convention

EDRAY METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH

SATURDAY, JULY 22, 1922

PROGRAMME

9-30	Song Service	W. J. Hebb
9-45	Devotional	Rev. C. A. Powers
10-00	Special Days in the Sunday School	Rev. Fred B. Wyand
10-25	The Other Third	G. C. Hamilton
10-50	Stimulation thru Visitation	A. C. Stillwell
11-15	Our Finances	S. J. Rexrode, Treas.
11-30	Report of Officers, appointment of Committees
12-00	Adjournment.
1-30	Devotional	Rev. G. S. Weiford
1-45	With the 249 at Kansas City	F. M. Sydnor
2-00	The Opportunity of the Teacher	Rev. H. H. Orr
2-25	Sunday School Evangelism	Rev. O. N. Miles
2-50	Social Service in the Sunday School	Rev. W. C. Early
3-10	Young People's Part in Sunday School Work	J. A. Sydenstricker
3-30	Standards	S. N. Hench, County President
3-45	Sunday School Advertising	Calvin W. Price

CONVENTION THEME: "All the Year Round Sunday Schools."

FOR THE STATE SENATE

To the Democratic Voters of the Tenth Senatorial District of West Virginia:

I hereby announce my candidacy for the nomination for State Senator in said district to fill the unexpired term of Senator J. N. Shackelford, subject to the will of the Democratic voters to be expressed at the general primary to be held August 1, 1922.

R. F. KIDD,
Glenville, W. Va.

TO THE CITIZENS OF POCAHONTAS COUNTY:

In order that you all may understand my position with reference to issues at stake in the campaign this year, I am making the following statement:

First. I believe that all men are or should be equal before the law. that partiality is unjust, and that favoritism is dangerous to the principles of true American Citizenship.

Second. I believe in efficient State Government through the channels of our State officials. but there should be a great deal of care exercised so that an office shall not be created in order that somebody will get a job, do nothing of any benefit to the people and draw a fat salary for his pleasure and uselessness. I am in favor of abolishing the worthless offices in this state that do the people no good and get rid of paying these high salaries This will help a great deal in cutting off a big slice of the burden now resting on the shoulders of the Taxpayer.

Third. I am emphaticly in favor of a strict enforcement of the 18th Amendment to the constitution.

Fourth. I believe in government of the people, for the people, and by the people. And NOT a government of the office-holder, for the office-holder, and by the office holder.

Fifth. There is a great deal more necessity at the present time to pay attention how we spend our money, and see what returns we are getting tnan there is to contrive more ways to raise money. My idea is to spend less than we have been spending and get more returns from our money than we have been getting.

Sixth. I believe in Efficiency and Economy. I also believe in Efficient Economy. I also believe in Economy in Efficiency.

VOTERS of Pocahontas, I am not in this race for notoriety, money, or political fame; but I am in the race for the purpose of serving to the best of my ability the people of Pocahontas County and West Virginia, according to the highest principles of Justice, Liberty, Truth, and the General Welfare of American Citizenship. If nominated and elected. I will think, speak, and act, not for myself, or any individual or corporation, but, for you, People of Pocahontas, and your interests and that of our fellow West Virginians.

Respectfully Yours,
J. G. HAMRICK.
Beard, W. Va.

ONOTO

Truly, Time add Tide wait for no man. We have had a very rainy season, but it seems to be broken now. Instead of a steady downpour of rain, in the last few days we have heard the sound of the Reaper, and now as we take our place to write a few lines we hear the sound of the thresher.

Among those threshing are E F McLaughlin, and Baxter.

To our right we hear the mower clipping the tiny blades of grass, which, has sprung up so abundantly this good season. Prospects are for the finest hay crop that we have had in years, and it should sell at a reasonable price this fall and winter.

The wheat crop is reported very light in this section. Reasons given are the freeze last spring, and the fly.

Hon. D. L. Barlow of Huntington, is very cozily tented at the McLaughlin Springs for about six weeks. We are very glad to have such a man as Mr. Barlow in our midst. He is not only an old resident of this community, but has contributed largely to education and enlightment in this territory Mr. Barlow has traveled extensively, having been to Florida two winters, and across the continent as far as California. It is a pleasure to sit down and converse with this gentleman, as he always has something of interest to talk about, in fact he has so much of interest that he cannot tell it all in a common conversation, so he has consented to make some public lectures, having given one Sunday afternoon at Hamlin Chapel that was worth going many miles to hear. He has kindly consented to give us a lecture on his travels at Edray church sometime in the near future. And all will do well to hear him in his witty discourse.

We understand the District Sunday School Convention will be held at the Edray church Saturday, July 22. That same night Rev. L. E Ressenger, will hold Quarterly Conference at West Union church.

A. O. Baxter and Family were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Barlow last Sunday.

Geo. W. Cook purchased a horse from Ed. Wooddell Tuesday.

Greenbank District Sunday School Convention

FRIDAY, JULY 14th, 1922

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH, DURBIN, W. VA.

MORNING SESSION, 10-30 o'clock

Music, — Devotional by Rev. J. W. Idleman
Address, "Teacher Training" — Rev. D. M. Monroe
Address, "Bible Study" — Rev. Harry Blackhurst
Music
Report of State Convention held at Elkins — G. C. Hamilton
Appointment of Committees
Next Convention Committee
Nominating Committee
Music — Adjournment

AFTERNOON SESSION, 1-30 o'clock

Music — Devotional by Rev. Vandevender
Roll Call of Sunday Schools
Address, "Young People's Work" — J. A. Sydenstricker
Music
Report of International Convention at Kansas City — F. M. Sydnor
Address, "Relation of Sunday School to Churoh" — Rev. Cleveland
Election of Officers, Music and Adjournment.

NIGHT SESSION, 8-00 o'clock

Music — Devotional by Rev. Blackhurst
Address — Rev. J. [redacted] Rosenberger
Closing Talk by our County President — S. N. Hench
Music and Akjournment.

MRS RELLA F. YEAGER FOR COUNTY SUPT.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of schools, subject to the action of the Democratic voters in the general primary to be held August 1, 1922.

RELLA F. YEAGER.
Hillsboro, W. Va.

HILLSBORO

We are having fine growing weather and fine showers. Wheat harvesting is the order of the day. Wheat promises a poor yield.

Mrs John Hill and Mrs. I B Shrader were guests of Mrs. Andy Hefner one day last week. They also visited the Arbogast Poultry Farm.

R. C Shrader is visiting his son at this writing.

Lanty McCoy passed through here on his way to Marlinton last Thursday.

George L Clark was a business visitor in Marlinton one day last week.

G. E. Moore is busy registering the voters this week.

A number of town folks went to Renick's Valley last week for cherries.

Mrs. Noah and Mrs. Andy McCoy and Mrs. I. B Shrader went to Ronceverte Thursday to have their eyes fitted with glasses.

Miss Eva McCoy after spending two weeks at home is back clerking in R. D. Moore's store.

I. B. Shrader and Lon Blake passed through our town on their way to Marlinton recently.

The new Presbyterian church at Beard is now under construction. Austin V. May contractor.

W. W. Kinnison is rushing the building of his new home to completion, on the Kinnison addition.

Little Misses Cathryn and Jane Smith, are visiting their aunt and grand-mother in Virginia.

A. C. Stillwell was a business caller in Ronceverte last Thursday.

F M. Sydnor from Marlinton attended the Worker's Counsel Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and gave a good and helpful talk to the Sunday School workers. This is a great work and we would like to see more people come out and take an interest in the Sunday School.

County Superintendent G D. McNeill is home from Huntington where he is attending the summer school at Marshall College. Among the other Pocahontas people there are Misses Elsie Adkison, Dorothy Irvine, Lucille Oliver, Delpha Snedegar, Lilly Sharp, Mamie White, Margaret Jackson, Bessie Shinabery, Glenna Eubank; Ward McNeill and Neff Morrison.

Edray District Sunday School convention meets at Edray Church on Saturday July 22. The place of the convention has been changed from Campbelltown to Edray.

Report of the Condition of

THE BANK OF HILLSBORO

Located at Hillsboro, in the State of West Virginia, at the close of business, June 30th, 1922.

RESOURCES		DOLLARS
Loans and discounts		170 219 81
Overdrafts, secured and unsecured		964 72
Stocks and Securities (other than Government issues]		400 00
United States bonds	807 02	807 02
Banking house	2 300 00
Furniture and fixtures	1 700 00
		4 000 00
Due from Banks and U. S. Treasury	14 414 74
Checks and other cash items	173 82
Lawful money reserve in bank	3 323 62
		17 912 18
Total		194 303 73
LIABILITIES		DOLLARS
Capital Stock paid in		25 000 00
Surplus fund		12 500 00
Undivided profit	6 563 94
Less expense interest and taxes paid	4 438 42
		2 125 52
DEPOSITS VIZ:
Subject to check	92 460 15
Time certificates	27 066 42
		119 526 57
Certified Checks		31 89
Cashiers checks		119 75
Bills payable		35 000 00
Total		194 303 73

State of West Virginia, County of Pocahontas:

I, J. K. Marshall, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

J. K. Marshall, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 7th day of July 1922.

W. M. Irvine, Notary Public.
My Commission expires June 10, 1930.

R. H. Auldridge
F. P. Kidd
J. W. R. Smith
Directors.

GREETING

ANNA L. PRICE

I bid you a happy good morning
I wish you fine health and cheer;
Otherwise seek the physician,
Who is able and always near.

You speak of the changeful weather,
The coolness, the wet and the blight
Yes, the rain must have its season,
But, not far is the glad sunlight.

To the shepherd of Salsbury Plain,*
"Prithee, what may the weather be?
Such, sir, as it pleaseth my Father,
And that always pleaseth me."

"Your father and you make mistake;
And trouble us folks here below,"
"Oh, sir, beware! irreverance
Smacks not of mirth, but woe."

Reproved, his lordship bowed assent,
Then silently rode away;
But never again did he complain
Of the weather any day.

God's will is best in everything,
For wisdom dwells in Him;
We do not know, we cannot see,
Our soul's eye-sight is dim.

God made and rules the universe,
And gives this earth due measure;
Our part is merely to obey,
And execute his pleasure.

Let us possess a quiet mind,
Whatever may betide,—
Pity! if matters were left to us,
And the world so very wide.

Let us be humble, thankful too,
Like the shepherd of Salsbury Plain
And when we reach our Father's home,
We'll praise Him again and again.

*The first writer of religious tracts was that excellent English lady, Mrs. Hannah More, and never a better tract than her "Shepherd of Salsbury Plains."

July 4, 1922.

To the Pocahontas Times:

A mule often kicks without any reason for doing so, but if you viciously prod that same mule with a pitchfork, can you blame him for kicking?

The public is the poor old mule. It is being touched in no gentle manner by the pitchfork—taxation. It's a good time for kicking. Others have discussed in these columns the matter of a high levy and the assessment at the "true and actual value.",

But that is not all! For instance take the case of two farms in this district. One is located on the road, the other adjoining but back of it, and one-fourth mile from the road and valued $10.00 higher per acre As the colored folk say, "How come?"

Why is it that a farm less than one mile from the town of Hillsboro, with excellent educational and social facilities, and located on a good macadam road, valued at $60.00 per acre, while one at the lower end of the district, with a mud road, poor school facilities, and which does not produce as good crops is valued at $65 per acre.

Is this equalization? If so I am "behind time in the essentials of mathematics Some of the tax money is used to pay competent men to look after the above mentioned matters If nothing is done, Mr. Taxpayer, your chance will come on election day.

Another "Kick" From Little Levels District.

DISTRICT MEETING

The annual meeting of the Womans' Miisionary Societios of Lewisburg District will be held at Hillsboro, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 25 and 26. The first session will be held Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock. The meeting will adjourn Wednesday afternoon in time for delegatas to take outgoing trains.

Each society, Adult, Young People and Junior, will please elect a delegate at once, and send name to Mrs. A. C. Stillwell, Hillsboro, W. Va Delegates will be met at Seebert. Please state time of arrival.

Mrs. W. H. Ballengee, vice-president of the Conferenc Society, will be present as speaker.

Mrs. W. J. Yeager,
District Secretary.

Mrs. Margaret Barlow is visiting at the home of Mrs. Wallace McLaughlin on Browns Creek. Mrs Barlow has been in poor health for some time past. Mrs McLaughlin is one of the few persons of this generation who still is skilled in spinning and weaving. She is now filling an order for homespun bed spreads, and is busily engaged in spinning the yarn and weaving into cloth, using the same machinery that was used for this purpose more than a hundred years ago. These ladies are daughters of Samuel Moore, who formerly lived at Mt. View Orchard, on Marlin Mountain.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. F. B. Wyand, Pastor.
Sunday School 9:45, prompt
A. S. Overholt, Superintendent.
Morning worship 11 a. m.
Epworth League 7:15 p. m.
Preaching 8 p. m.

The Rev S. S. Wyand, Ph. D., brother of the pastor, will preach at both services. Dr. Wyand was formerly president of Memorial University, Mason City, Iowa, and is now pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Sank Center, Minnesota. It will be worth your while to hear him preach. He is a man of great experience, travel and educational attainments. All people are welcome to these services.

Hull Yeager fell from a scaffold on one of the Fair buildings Monday suffered painful bruises.

SHOCK WITHDRAWS

To the Democratic voters of th 10th Senatorial District of West Virginia:

I hereby withdraw from the race as candidate for the nomination for the long term of State Senator in said district I am very greatful to my friends for the support they have given me, and the consideration shown me. I am taking this action in the interest of harmony in the party and as I see it after having gone over the district, the prospects of success in each of the couties of the district were very bright, should the voters select good men for the various offices to be elected at the fall election.

A. D SHOCK.
Replete, W. Va

This the 10th day of July, 1922.

HORATIO BOTTOMLEY

For a great many years my pet aversion has been that leather-lunged Horatio Bottomley, Member of Parliament, Editor of John Bull, demagogue, whose object in life was to blackguard the United States, in and out of season, pandering to the prejudices and passions of the English public. It was this man more than any other that sowed the seeds of dissension and distrust between Great Britian and America, in the critical times after the war, which resulted in a patchwork treaty of peace.

Bottomley having become popular with a large class of citizens opened a public subscription to his Victory Bond club and converted to his own use about $700,000.00 For this he was indicted and convicted and sentenced to seven years in prison.

His friend and successor as editor of John Bull wrote a strong editorial in which he said that Bottomley ought serve his time but that he ought not to be criticised or kicked when he was down. This moved me to write a letter to that editor as follows:

July 2, 1922.

Mr. Charles Pilley,
Editor of John Bull,
London

Dear Mr. Pilley:

I read your editorial on the late Horatio Bottomley with sympathetic interest, but the sympathy was entirely devoted to you and not to the stirrer up of strife among nations. I want to say too that you know how to construct sentences and that in that line you are a great artist. And I think you show signs of the God given grace of gratitude.

But I do not agree with you that criticism should be withheld in this instance for I think that every supporter that this man had, ought to do that much penance at the least.

During the years of this man's sinister influence in international politics, many of us on this side of the water, have regarded him with impotent rage, and I think that most of us consider him an opportunist, for we are all well acquainted with that kind of crawling animal. But what we did not know was that he was a moral idiot.

Reading your "The Romance of a Remarkable Career," caused me to hunt up the closing words of chapter 25 of the book, "Little Dorrit." And I wondered if they had been quoted in connection with his career.

"For by that time it was known that the late Mr. Merdle's complaint had been, simply, forgery and robbery. He, the uncouth object of such wide-spread adulation, the sitter at great men's feasts, the roo's egg of great ladies' assemblies, the subduer of exclusiveness, the leveler of pride, the patron of patrons, the bargain-driver with a minister for lordships of the circumlocution office, the recipient of more acknowledgment within some ten or fifteen years at most, than had been bestowed in England upon all the peaceful public benefactors, and upon all the leaders of the arts and sciences, with all their work to testify for them, during two centuries at least—he, the shining wonder, the new constellation to be followed by wise men bringing gifts, until it stopped over certain carrion at the bottom of a bath and disappeared—was simply the greatest forger and the greatest thief that ever cheated the gallows."

I know this letter will be unwelcome. I hope it will not greatly add to your misery. You ought to know by this time that a friend however close is a separate entity, and a succession of shocks is to be expected.

And you may comfort yourself with the thought that in cases where men are convicted of crime, nearly always the mental anguish suffered is by their friends and their relations.

Very truly,

On reading over the letter I decided not to send it as it is not my habit to send such letters to strangers. So to avoid total loss, it is printed here to fill up.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the people of Beard and vicinity for their kindness and sympathy to us during the illness and at the death of our husband and father.

Mrs. S. M. Hefner and Children

Mrs. H. G. Greer
PUBLIC
Stenographer
Greer & Co.'s Office
MARLINTON, W. VA.

MOORE GASOLINE
Means
Less Gasoline

Filling station at The Peoples Store & Supply Co. at west end of county bridge is the only station in Marlinton selling: The Moore Gasoline and Engine Oils. Try it and be convinced.

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.
MARLINTON, W. VA.

To those who Owe us:

Unusual expenditures make it absolutely necessary for me to collect what is due me on my books. If it comes voluntarily, I will greatly appreciate it—but I must have my money and will be compelled to take necessary steps to collect it.

T. H. HINER
Marlinton, W. Va.

Pocahontas Home Coming

At the County Fair August 22nd, 1922

Meet and greet your friends and kin on the One Hundredth Anniversary of the founding of the County on the first day of the Fair.

Pocahontas County was formed by Act of the Assembly of Virginia in 1822. To commemorate the event, the first day of the County Fair has been set aside as Home Coming Day. It is hoped that then the lost children of Pocahontas will then gather home to pay that long deferred visit to their mother County.

Write to your moved-away friends and relatives to come visiting back home.

T. S. McNEEL, Manager.

RESERVE DISTRICT No. 5

Charter NO. 6538 Report of the Condition of

The First National Bank

at Marlinton, in the State of W. Va., at the close of business June 30th, 1922.

RESOURCES		DOLLARS
Loans and discounts, including rediscounts, acceptances of other banks, and foreign bills of exchange or drafts sold with indorsement of this bank (except those shown in b and c)	$ 303 553 50	303 553 50
Overdrafts, secured; unsecured $ 458 33		458 33
U. S. Government securities owned
Deposited to secure circulation (U. S. Bonds parvalue)	$25 000 00
All other United States Government Securities (including premiums, if any)	42 000 00
Total		67 000 00
Other bonds, stocks, securities etc.		6 234 27
Banking house 19 500 00 Furniture and fixtures	4 585 21	24 085 21
Lawful reserve with Federal Reserve Bank		19 000 00
Cash in vault and amount due from national banks		33 635 06
Amount due from State banks, bankers, and trust companies in the United States (other than included in Items 8, 9, or 10)		479 14
Checks on other banks in the same city or town as reporting bank (other than Item 12)		158 39
Total of Items 9, 10, 11, 12, and 13	34 272 59
Miscellaneous cash items	402 54	402 54
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer and due from U. S. Treasurer		1 250 00
Total		456 256 44
LIABILITIES		DOLLARS
Capital stock paid in		25 000 00
Surplus fund		36 000 00
Undivided profits	$2 047 90	2 047 90
Circulating notes outstanding		25 000 00
Amount due to Federal Reserve Bank (deferred credits)		2 546 78
Amount due to State banks, bankers, and trust companies in the United States and foreign countries (other than included in Items 21 or 22)		970 33
Certified checks outstanding		257 83
Total of Items 21, 22, 23, 24, and 25	3 774 94
Demand deposits (other than bank deposits) subject to Reserve (deposits payable within 30 days)
Individual deposits subject to check		197 704 54
Total of demand deposits (other than bank deposits) subject to Reserve Items 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, and 31	197 704 45
Time deposits subject to Reserve (payable after 30 days or subject to 30 days ormore notice and postal savings):
Certificates of deposit (other than money borrowed)		75 454 45
Other time deposits		91 274 70
Total of time deposits subject to Reserve Items 32, 33, 34, and 35	166 729 15
Total		456 256 44

State of West Virginia, County of Pocahontas, ss:

I, J. A. Sydenstricker, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

J. A. Sydenstricker, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 5th day of July, 1922.

H. L. Byers, Notary Public.
My commission expires Sept 30, 1929

Correct—Attest: M. S. Wilson
F. T. McClintic
W. H. Barlow
Directors

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XL. NO 51 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, AUGUST 3. 1922 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

PRIMARY ELECTION RETURNS—August 1, 1922

This table is from official returns, and is complete with the exceptions of Boyer and Thornwood

	(Durbin)	(Greenbank)	(Dunmore)	(Cass)	(Hosterman)	(East Cass)	(Artow)	(Marlinton)	(Edray)	(Linwood)	(Cloverlick)	(W. Marlinton)	(Buckeye)	(Woodrow)	(Frost)	(Huntersville)	(Thorney Cr.)	(E. Buckeye)	(Mill Point)	(Hillsboro)	(Lobelia)	Seebert	(Beard)	(Droop Mtn.)	Total	Majority
For United States Senator
MRS. WM. GAY BROWN	37	56	28	23	15	12	14	53	12	15	18	36	12	3	8	44	2	2	27	33	11	5	10	14	490
MATTHEW M. NEELY	62	92	58	54	21	29	13	50	29	23	36	40	20	12	28	37	2	1	43	82	18	18	20	16	804	314
C. F. EDWARDS	4	0	0	2	0	8	0	4	1	0	1	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	1	1	0	0	24
DEACON M. F. JONES	2	0	0	2	0	4	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	0	4	1	1	0	0	15
A. A. LILLY	13	17	3	2	1	7	13	18	9	3	1	18	10	8	26	43	0	4	18	12	21	14	0	17	278
H. C. OGDEN	7	4	0	7	0	5	1	12	11	2	2	6	0	2	1	7	1	0	1	2	5	6	5	17	104
HOWARD SUTHERLAND	23	27	2	20	2	11	7	24	24	10	9	23	34	4	19	7	2	9	7	6	0	7	2	3	279	1
For Congress, Sixth Congressional
MILTON CURTIS	13	5	2	7	3	1	0	2	0	9	4	8	2	2	4	4	0	1	4	6	9	0	1	1	88
CLIFTON F. McCLINTIC	43	13	14	8	10	14	10	61	29	14	25	36	18	8	9	45	2	1	37	61	14	13	30	30	545
J. ALFRED TAYLOR	44	144	69	67	26	32	15	48	9	15	27	34	11	4	20	32	2	0	34	51	8	12	4	1	709	164
LEONARD S. ECHOLS	17	39	3	31	2	24	6	37	41	13	9	27	37	13	36	32	1	12	17	18	20	15	6	29	485	352
M. F. MATHENY	25	9	2	1	1	6	9	13	4	2	2	7	4	3	6	11	1	0	8	4	5	5	1	4	133
HATTIE STEIN	2	0	0	0	0	3	2	5	0	0	2	5	0	0	2	13	0	0	1	4	1	3	1	2	46
For State Senator, Tenth Senatorial
A. C. HEROLD	68	66	46	41	32	34	18	90	34	31	32	68	28	9	31	57	2	1	65	95	23	13	14	31	929	471
CARY C. HINES	51	98	43	43	7	17	9	22	6	8	23	10	2	6	6	34	2	0	9	22	6	10	21	3	458
For State Senator, Tenth Senatorial
R. F. KIDD	11	43	19	41	4	17	0	12	0	5	8	1	2	1	4	17	1	0	17	14	8	4	9	4	241
N. R. PRICE	90	110	67	39	33	30	27	99	41	31	50	75	30	15	32	67	3	3	58	96	23	17	23	26	1085	844
For County Superintendent of
ANNA M. WALLACE	63	140	78	52	36	32	15	85	34	26	46	65	28	4	26	77	3	3	61	67	18	13	18	8	998	628
RELLA F. YEAGER	44	16	11	30	4	14	8	20	8	12	8	12	3	9	10	14	1	0	18	54	14	15	18	27	370
For House of Delegates
J. G. HAMRICK	6	12	0	4	2	3	0	4	3	7	6	4	1	1	2	2	1	0	8	21	6	1	20	1	115
C. P. KERR	70	5	5	4	9	7	4	5	3	2	1	3	0	1	0	19	0	0	7	1	3	2	0	4	155
J. A. McLAUGHLIN	38	83	27	40	24	33	22	61	36	16	36	57	27	11	22	51	3	4	53	71	24	20	16	29	804	433
E. N. MOORE	10	71	61	37	1	10	2	43	6	13	17	15	3	0	13	20	1	0	10	31	0	5	0	2	371
A. E. KINNISON	25	19	1	17	1	10	9	35	24	0	9	20	14	6	33	20	0	3	18	21	20	18	1	19	343	52
H. UNDERWOOD	13	18	3	11	2	23	5	19	19	15	2	22	31	9	7	36	3	10	3	3	8	8	4	17	291

Hon. JOHN A. McLAUGHLIN
Democratic Nominee for House of Delegates

CAPTAIN GILMORE DEAD

Dr. E. G. Herold was called to Highland County on Sunday by the death of his grandfather, Captain Samuel Gilmore, which occurred on July 29, 1922. For some time he had bee in failing health, and a few days previous to his death he had a a fall and a stroke of paralysis. He was nearly 87 years of age. He was one of the prominent citizens of Highland County, and was widely known in Pocaoontas county. During the Civil war he served as a Confederate soldier, being Captain of Co. E, 32nd Virginia Infantry. Funeral services on Monday in charge of the Masons, of which order he had been a member for 58 years.

I. Rosen, dealer in general merchandise, made an assignment last Thursday for the benefit of his creditors. Andrew Price qualified as special receiver. His debts amount to about $18,000.

POCAHONTAS MARBLE

At a meeting of the Board of Trade Monday night the matter of bringing the great deposits of marble in Pocahontas County to the attention of the State Capitol Commission was brought up. Hubert Echols has already had some correspondence in regard to the using of this stone for the new building, and J. S. McNeel offers to allow them to get the marble on his land free of charge. Mr. Mr. Echols has sent off samples of the stone and had it dressed, and the polished stone looks the finest of all The Board of Trade asked Mr. Echcls to go to Charleston at their expense and take the matter up personally with the Capitol Commission. He went Tuesday afternoon.

Many years ago, the late captain Wm. McNeel and others employed a geologist to make a report on the marble deposits of the Little Levels. He found an immense amount of what he pronounced a very superior grade of marble.

Pocahontas County Home Coming
At the County Fair
August 22, 1922

Meet and greet your friends and kin on the ONE HUNDREDTH Anniversary of the formation of the County on the first day of the Fair.

Judge Forrest Morre, New York City, writes :

"No ordinary occurrence will prevent my attendance as nothing could please me more than to renew the acquaintance of my old Pocrhontas griends."

Every person in Pocahontas county has a friend or relative who has moved away from Pocahontas some time in the past. Write to them and tell them of the Home Coming Celebration, add give them an opportunity to meet and greei old frienks.

T. S. McNEEL, Manager

CALL

FOR DEMOCRATIC DISTRICT CONVENTIONS

At a meeting of the Democratic Executiue Committee of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, held at the Court House of said County, in the town of Marlinton, on Monday the 31st day of July 1922.

There were present W. H. Barlow, H. H. Hudson, Samuel Sheets, A. C. Stillwell and Dr. E. G. Herold, by proxy, being a majority of all the members of this Committee

Upon motion duly made and seconded, the following order and resolution was adopted:

Whereas Section 29 of Chapter 79 of the acts of the Legislature of West Virginia, Session of 1919, makes it the duty of the County Executive Committee to arrange for mass conventions to be held in each of the magisterial districts of the County for the purpose of selecting delegates to the Democratic State Convention to be held in the City of Charleston on the 15th day of August 1922 for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court of Appeals and adopting a party platform, as provided for in the call issued by the Democratic State Committee:

Therefore, be it resolved: That pursuant to said Section 29 of Chapter 79 of the Acts of 1919 and the call of the Democratic State Committee, of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, hereby calls mass conventions to be held by the Democratic voters of said County at the places in the several districts thereof as herein after designated on Tuesday, the 8th day of August 1922, at the hour of 2 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of selecting delegates and alternates to the Democratic State Convention to be held in the City of Charleston, West Virginia on the 15th day of August 1922 for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court of Appeals and adopting a party platform, and which mass conventions for the several magisterial districts of this County shall be held at the following places in the respective districts:

For Greenbank District: At the High School building in the village of Greenbank.

For Edray District: At the Court House in the Town of Marlinton.

For Huntersville District: At the school house in the village of Huntersville.

For Little Levels District: At the High School building in the Town of Hillsboro.

It shall be the duty of the members of this Committee, in each respective district, to attend said mass conventions and to call the conventions to order and designate the temporary Chairman and Secretary thereof. And in case no member of this Committee be present, then some known Democrat shall call the convention to order and in like manner designate the temporary organization.

Each of the said mass conventions shall appoint one delegate for each one hundred votes or fraction thereof of more than fifty cast in each respective district at the November 1920 election for Honorable James M. Cox for President, that is to say, the said district mass convention shall appoint the following number of delegates:

Greenbank District: Eleven Delegates.

Edray District: Six Delegates.

Huntersville District: Two Delegates.

Little Levels District: Six Delegates.

And said mass conventions shall also appoint a like number of alternates who shall, in the absence of the delegates, be empowered to cast the vote of the said respective districts in the said State convention.

And the Chairman and Secretary of each district convention shall certify the action of said convention to this Committee, to a meeting of the same, required by law to be held, and which is hereby called to meet at the Court House in the Town of Marlinton at 2 o'clock P. M. on Thursday, the 10th day of August 1922.

Be it further resolved: That the Chairman and Secretary of this Committee are directed to certify a copy of this resolution to the Democratic State Convention to be held in the City of Charleston on the 15th day of August 1922, and to publish the same in The Pocahontas Times.

L. H. Moomau,
Chairman.

E. G. Herold
Secretary.

State of West Virginia
County of Pocahontas, to-wit:

We, L. H. Moomau and E. G. Herold, Chairman and Secretary, respectively, of the Democratic Executive Committee of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of a resolution adopted by the said Democratic Committee on the 31st day of July 1922.

Given under our hands this the 1st day of August 1922.

L. H. Moomau,
Chairman.

E. G. Herold
Secretary.

CALL

DISTRICT CONVENTION

Pursuant to a call made by the State Republican Executive Committee, District Mass Convention of the Republican Party are hereby called to convene in the several Magisterial Districts of Pocahontas County on Tuesday the 8th day of August, 1922, at one o'clock P. M. for the following purposes: To select Delegates to represent said district in Republican state convention called to convene in the City of Huntington, at 10 o'clock A. M. on the 15th day of August, 1922.

Each District is entitled to select one delegate for each one hundred votes or fraction thereof greater than fifty (50) cast for Warren G. Harding at the general election held in November, 1920; that is to say, each district will be entitled to the following number of delegates:

Greenbank District	9	Delegates
Edray District	10	Delegates
Huntersville Dist.	4	Delegates
Little Levels Dist.	5	Delegates

The Chairman and Secretary of said District Convention will certify to G. W. Sharp, Chairman, Republican County Executive Committee, Marlinton, W. Va., the names and Post Office addresses of the delegates so selected immediately after the convention adjourns. Said District Conventions shall convene at the following places:

Greenbank District, at the School House at Cass.

Edray District, at the Court House in Marlinton.

Huntersville District at the School house at Frost.

Little Levels District, School house at Seebert.

Given under our hands this the 1st day of August, 1922.

G. W. Sharp,
Chairman Pocahontas Co., Republican Executive Committee.

A. G. Killingsworth,
Secretary.

Miss Kelly, aged about thirty years died at her home near Greenbank last Sunday morning. She had been in failing health for many months.

STATE CONVENTION

Charleston, W. Va., July 31.—The Democratic Judicial convention for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the state supreme court has been called by State Chairman R. F. Dunlap, of Hinton, to be held in Charleston August 15.

State Chairman Dunlap is notifying the various county chairmen of the convention date and instructing them to call mass conventions of Democratic voters in each district for the purpose of naming delegates to the state convention. Each county is entitled to one delegates for each one 100 voters.

A meeting of the Democratic State executive committee will be held in Charleston the evening of August 14, Chairman Dunlap also announces. This meeting, the chairman says is for the purpose of "outlining the work for the coming campaign and to consider such other matters as may be deemed of importance."

"Considerable interest has already been awakened," says Chairman Dunlap, "in both the meeting of the executive committee and the judicial convention. The prospects of Democratic success in the general election in November are unusually bright. The people as a whole appear to be sick and tired of Republican 'Normalcy' and the Republican legislative officers in both state and nation will be repudiated by West Virginians as they have been in a large majority of instances in other states where an expression of sentiment concerning Republican administration of public affairs has been given at the polls recently."

Indications are that "there will be a record attendance at the convention this year," the Democratic chairman says, estimating that there will be from 750 to 1,000 party workers "from every corner of the state" here, including delegates and other interested Democrats. The convention will be held in the Kanawha county court house, according to tentative arrangements.

Announcement of the convention date is expected to "Bring to light some good available timber" for the post. Judge James A. Meredith, of Fairmont, who was appointed to fill an unexpired term on the state supreme bench, is a candidate to succeed himself on the Republican ticket and indications are that he will get the nomination unopposed. Judge John Mitchell Woods, of the Jefferson-Morgan-Berkeley circuit court, who is presiding over the trials at Charles Town of union miners charged with participating in the armed march on Logan and Mingo counties last last summer, has been frequently mentioned in Democratic newspapers as the possible nominee of the Democratic convention.

First Presbyterian Church in Broad and Virginia streets, was the yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock of one of the early summer's most interesting nuptial events, when Miss Mary Martha Gingar, daughter of Mr. an Mrs. G. W. Gingar, of Huntersville, W. Va., became the bride of Mr. Joe Emerick, Jr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe J. Emerick, of Gates Place in Broad street, Dr. Ernest Thompson, pastor of the Presbyterian chursh, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate family and a few intimate friends. Mrs. Emerick is a most attractive young girl She is the niece of Mrs R. E. Timbers, of Maple Terrace, and has been her house guest for several weeks. She is a former student of Blackstone College in Virginia and at the University at Morgantown. Mr. Emerick, who is well known in Charleston, both in social and business circles, has been a resident of Charleston for many years. He travels for Charleston Hardware Co. Mr. and Mrs Emerick left Charleston immediately after the ceremony by motor to Kentucky. After a motor trip to the lakes and through Canada on their honeymoon, they will be at home in Charleston.—Gazette.

Inasmuch as it has been the will of our common Father to remove from our midst our beloved friend and brother in the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, W. E Galusha.

Be it resolved that we bow to His will and question not His judgments.

That we drape our charter for him who was our friend and brother at all times, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to his family and published in the county paper.

That as Odd Fellows we that are privileged to remain here a little longer forget not our obligations, our duty and our privilege to his wife and children and other members of his family.

A. J. Blackhurst.
J. Cooper,
Cass, W. Va. Committee.

Beginning Tuesday August 8th there will be revival services at Wesley Chapel, Hillsbory. Rev. Absolam Knox, who is pastor of Central M. E. Church, South, in Baltimore, will be the preacher. J. M. Brosius will be the song leader.

Joseph Pennell brought in about as interesting thing for the old settlers' exhibit at the Fair as will be on hand. It is a home made sausage mill which has been in use for almost one hundred years. It belonged to his father, Reuben Pennell, and was made by one Charles Hartzell. It is made from a solid block of black walnut and shows fine workmanship. It sold for $7 when new.

Rev. George J. Cleaveland will hold service at Cloverlick Sunday August 6, at 11 a m. and at 7:30 p.m.

MOORE GASOLINE
Means
Less Gasoline

Filling station at The Peoples Store & Supply Co. at west end of county bridge is the only station in Marlinton selling: The Moore Gasoline and Engine Oils. Try it and be convinced.

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.
MARLINTON, W. VA.

DISTRICT S. S. OFFICERS

At the Edray District Sunday School Convention the following were elected as officers for the next year.

Ira D. Brill, president; Ivan Sharp vice-president; H. L Byers, Secretary; S J. Rexrode, treasurer; B. B. Williams, Adult Division; Fred Hefner, Young People; S. N. Hench, Teacher Training; Russel Hannah, Missionary; C. V. Hanlin, Temperance; Mrs. Harper Thomas, Elementary; Owen Kellison, Home.

Executive Committee: S. N. Hench one year; John Hevener, two years; F. M. Sydnor, three years.

STUDENT MUSICALE

On Friday afternoon August 4, at two o'clock the students of Miss Berna H. Carden will give a musical entertainment in the High School auditorium. The public is cordially invited.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

:45 SundaySchool

11:00 "In the Market Place or in the Vineyard?"

3:00 p. m. Preachsng at Hamlin Chapel.

8:00 Young People's service.

The evening service will be in charge of the young people. A report of the Young People's conference at Lewisburg will be given. Every one interested in the development of the young people of the church should be present.

The Elders and Deacons' conference, a gathering of the laymen of the churches of Greenbrier Presbytery will be held at Maxwelton next Tuesday and Wednesday. It is expected that a number will go from this church.

On Tuesday, August 15th there will be a regional Auxiliary conference in this church. Women from all the churches in this county are expected. Miss Nancy Whith, Synod's Sunday School Field Worker is on the program. Also Mrs. Wm. Echols of Alderson, Presbyterial President will be here.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. F. B Wyand, Pastor.
Sunday School 9:45, prompt
A. S. Overholt, Superintendent.

Morning worship 11 o'clock. Sermon Subject: Feeding the Multitude.

Epworth League 7.45 p. m.

Evening service 8 o'clock. Sermon Subject: The Bulldog and the Devil.

The Overcomers Class, taught by Mrs. Wyand, will hold a lawn party on the Methodist Parsonage lawn Tuesday evening, August 8, beginning at 7 p. m, Homemade candy and ice cream for sale. Everybody welcome.

TO THE CONVENTION

All plans are complete for the County Sunday School Convention to be held on Knapps Creek, Friday and Saturday August 4 and 5. Delegates who have to pass through Marlinton on their way to the convention are advised to detour at Hunterville by way of Browns Creek and Dilleys Mill and the John Wanless farm to Frost and thence down Knaaps Creek to the convention churches. This is perhaps nine miles farther than the usual route, but the road is so much better and safer. The road from Huntersville to Minnehaha Springs was looked over by County Sunday School officers, and their report is that while the road is in a manner passable, they advise the longer way round for automobiles.

Delegates will greatly assist the entertainment committee by registering immediately upon arrival. This is the last word before the convention, you will hear the rest when we meet.

C. J. McCarty has started the County Centenary exhibit of things of the olden time for the County Fair by leaving at this office a flail supple and an old brush hook. Both were found around the old McLaughlin house in Marlinton. The bursh hook is a battle axe looking arrangement, and is similar to one picked up a number of years ago by George Simmons on Williams River and now on exhibit at the Times Offise. The flail suple is an innocent looking stick about an inch in diameter and about thirty inches long, with a hole in one end. It was tied to a handle and used to beat out grain. We loaned some farmer our office pair of sickles and we hope he will bring them to the Fair. We do not want them back, as we seldom have any use for them.

John E. Barlow is making a specialty of breeding Duroc Jersey hogs, and he has recently brought in a very fine sire at considerabl expense. These red hogs are known as the grazing hogs, and are getting a good hold in Pocahontas county. Among the farmers having registered stock are W. A. Barlow, Ellis Sharp, Adam Moore, W. H. Barlow, S. P. Curry Mt. View Orchard Company. Many of these got their foundation from J. E. Barlow. In addition about a dozen pigs were placed by the Farm Bureau with members of a boys' and girls' pig club in the Beard community. These were all registered animals and were procured from local breeders.

Marlinton Motor Co. reports the sales of Chevolet cars to J. M. Brosius and R. E. Turpin, both of Spice Run.

FOURTH ANNUAL MEET
Pocahontas County Fair, Inc.
Marlinton, West Virginia

Exhibits to embrace Horses, Cattle, Sheep, Hogs, Poultry, Household, Agricultural Exhibits and Boys' and Girls' Club Work.

Elaborate Fireworks each night, sensational novelty acts and high class attractions that will entertain you every minute of the Fair.

Murphy's 25 car shows, strictly high class midway attractions that has been recommended by the State Agricultural Commissioner's Office.

New Fair Grsunds, containing 127 acres, is the largest and best in the State, with plenty of buildings and a big Grand Stand.

The site is on the beautiful Greenbrier River above Marlinton.

Free camping sites reserved on application to the Secretary.

Bathing Beach and Row Boats

The Best STANDARD HALF MILE TRACK in the State.

FULL SPEED PROGRAM

10 to 12 Classes and Races Each Day. Come and bring your friends. Grand Homecoming Day the first day of the Fair.

Pocahontas County Fair, Inc.

S. B. Wallace, President,
Z. S. Smith, Manager,
C. K. Livesay, Secretary.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL. XL NO 37 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA; APRIL 27, 1922 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Important Notice
To Tax-Payers

We are mailing out the last statement you will receive for your 1921 taxes.

If your taxes are unpaid on May 1st, you can expect to have your property levied on without further notice.

Pay between now and May 1, and save trouble.

B. B. BEARD, Sheriff.

ANOTHER CANDIDATE

The race for the Democratic Nomination for House of Delegates is now a four cornered one. The latest man to put his hat in the ring is our friend, Squire C. Points Kerr, of the town of Durbin, at present the popular and efficient Justice of the Peace for Greenbank District. He is a man of the people and showed himself a votegetter in the last election. Our Republican friends made such a sorry and expensive mess of things with the last legislature, that there are many who are willing to try their hands at bettering conditions. Most anything that is done is liable to help when conditions get to a certain shape. Squire Kerr's idea of lowering taxation is to cut expenses.

PROPOSED COUNTY NORMAL ABANDONED

County Superintendent G. D. McNeill has returned from Athens where he was holding conference with the Concord Normal School authorities regarding the Summer School at Marlinton. The project has been abandoned. In the first place it was the understanding that these County Normals were to be permanent. It now appears that they were designed as temporary means for giving teachers an opportunity to take high school work in order to meet the requirements of the new law.

Of the thirty applicants for admission to the school, ninety percent were high school graduates whose needs could be more adequately met by the extensive courses given by regular State Normals or the University. Very few students of the class for which the Summer Normal was intended, gave notice of attending.

Ewing Sharp died at his home in the Fairview neighborhood on Saturday afternoon, April 22, 1922. His age was 73 years. The cause of his death was dropsy, and his illness had extended over a period of many months. On Monday afternoon his body was laid to rest at the Fairview Methodist Church of which he had long been a member. The deceased was a son of the late John Sharp and Sallie Johnson, his wife. Of his father's family there remain his brothers, Henry, James and David. His wife was Ann Malcomb, daughter of the late McCoy and Margaret Knapp Malcomb. Their children are Warwick, Marvin and Zeb Sharp, Mrs C. H. Dilley, of Covington, and Mrs. Zoan Webster, of Akron, Ohio.

LITTLE LEVELS SUNDAY SCHOOL NOTES

The Sunday School work in the Little Levels District is progressing very nicely. The District Officers have just completed a visiting campaign, in which they secured the statistics requested by the County Association.

The reports show a very marked improvement in the schools over a year ago.

We have at present three schools that are "Standard Schools" according to the Denominational standards of these schools, and have two more that are getting very close to "Standard."

We have only fourteen schools in the District, and eleven of them run through the winter, they are New Lebanon, Hill Chapel, Emmanuel, Seebert, Marvin Chapel, Oak Grove, Spice Run, Wesley Chapel, Beard, Denmar and Pleasant Green.

These schools report that they had good attendance all through the winter. The three closing down were Mt. Zion, Mt. Olivet and Sharon, but these have opened up. Sharon had on roll last Sunday when visited by one of the District Officers fifty, with an attendance of forty-eight, only two being absent, who can beat that?

Wesley Chapel had a record attendance last Sunday, with such a crowd that there was not seating room in the main Sunday School room for closing exercises, a good many of the scholars having to stand up.

Oak Grove reports for the past year an average attendance of eighty-two out of a total enrollment of ninety-seven. Emmanuel and Hill Chapel have recently organized both Young Peoples' and Adult classes. Sharon is to organize an Adult class on next Sunday.

Spice Run is getting along finely, with one of the best organizations in the District. Beard has one of the most interesting schools we have visited, with a corps of workers that have the work at heart.

The "Standard" Schools are Seebert, Oak Grove and Wesley Chapel. We hope to be able to report to the County Convention in August that Little Levels is a "Front Line" District. Let us put our shoulders to the wheel in all the districts of the County and make Pocahontas a "Front Line" County.

Annual "stunt" night program will be given at the Edray District High School Thursday night, beginning promptly at 8 o'clock.

GAME NOTES

The Game and Fish Commission has finished the distribution of one hundred thousand Brook Trout and one hundred thousand Rainbow Trout which they planted in the different trout streams in Randolph, Webster, Pocahontas, Nicholas and Greenbrier counties. In addition to this the Government is supplying all the applications made to it by citizens of the state, with large quanities of fish.

There was formed the state organization of the Wild Life League of West Virginia at Clarksburg, on Thursday, April 20th This organization will have much to do with the suggesting adequate laws and creating sentiment favorable to game protection. It is hoped to have a branch of this organization in every county of the state.

A vigorous campaign is being waged by the officers of the Commission in enforcing the law against violators of the fish law Fifty arrests and convictions have been had since the first day of April, for various violations, principally however, for fishing without a license. It is necessary to have a license to fish which must be carried on the person of the party while fishing.

Men have been employed and placed on the trout streams of the state which have been closed against fishing, for the purpose of seeing that the order closing said streams is enforced, as well as controlling the fishing in the open streams of the state.

The Game and Fish Commission are determined to break up the practice of dynamiting the streams of this state. This form of violation has been permitted to go unnoticed for a number of years, but a determined effort will be made to bring every man to justice who dynamites the streams of this state.

All persons who have constructed dams in the rivers of this state will be expected to immediately put in fish ladders, if no ladders have been provided for. This has been a source of great annoyance to the Commission in different sections of the state by complaints coming in urging that action be taken at once, to remedy this condition.

HUNTERSVILLE

The people of this neighborhood are generally well.

The farmers are busy sowing oats and plowing for corn,

They are doing a rushing business grading the Class A road through town. C. C. Sheets has a gang of wheelbarrow men grading between Huntersville and Marlinton, and we are promised a good road soon.

W. H. Barlow is building a new barn.

Robbin Rider of near Huntersville, gave the young people of the neighborhood and Knapps Creek, an old time square drnce Saturday night. Music was furnished by two colored men from the road camp. All report a fine time.

Harding's times have not improved any in these parts yet.

The freeze Sunday night killed all the fruit and injured the wheat considerable.

Attendance at the Methodist Sunday School last Sunday was 224, which was 22 more than the Sunday before. At the Presbyterian Church there were 187 present, an increase 15 over the Sunday before.

GEO. P. MOORE'S WILL

The will of the late Goerge P. Moore was probated Tuesday. It is the work of the testator on the typewriter which he has used for so many years. It is witnessed by A. C. Barlow and Geo. A. C. Auldridge.

The Sinking Spring tract of land to Mr and Mrs G. W. Mann for life and after to their four children.

To A. R. Gay 72 acres. home tract. Also interest in goods and fixtures of the store.

To Wilda F. Moore five shares First National Bank stock, five shares Clifton Forge Grocery stock, and $1000 00 in money.

To Lizzie Waugh of The Times Office, $200 00.

To Myrtle Cogar, $200 00.

To Wilda F. Moore the Mann property in Marlinton, and six acres adjoining Edray Church.

J. A. Sydenstricker appointed executor.

Household goods in certain portions to Wilda F. Moore, Clara R Hill, A. R Gay's children and Josephine Mann's children.

Farming outfit to A. R. Gay.

Any overplus of money after paying all obligations to the Missionary Society of the Methodist Church.

The big sheep killing bear is still raiding the flocks on Williams River and Cranberry. Week before last he got six or seven head of W McClintic's on Mt. Lick, and last week he had moved across the mountain to Geo. P. Edgar's flock on Cranberry. This bear is identified by a missing toe as the some one that has killed so many sheep on Elk. Last winter Jim Gibson and party chased him for the better part of a week. This bear is one of the biggest of his kind. His foot print measure about eight inches across, and he sinks as deep as a horse in soft ground.

Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Monday mornings brought big frosts and freezes—temperature around twenty above Fruit is greatly damaged, but late blooming apple trees may still be all right, and in the frostless belt around the mountain the fruit is reported all right Grave fears are entertained that wheat is badly damaged. Wheat in many fields was beginning to joint, and if cold weather could hurt, it must be about ruined.

Deputy Sheriff Bruffey fetched in John Boyce and Lone Roberts, both charged with bootlegging in the Briery Knob community. The officer also brought in several gallons of the evidence. Roberts got his in the way of a 60 day sentence and $200 fine. There was some question as to whether Boyce was operating in Greenbrier or Pocahontas, but as he voted and was taxed in Greenbrier, he was sent on to Lewisburg. His portion was $200 fine and 60 days.

Cecil Taber, aged twenty years, working on the pulp wood mill at Spruce was badly injured last Friday morning, when his clothes got caught in the set screw in a line shaft. His jaw was broken, a number of ribs fractured, and badly bruised about the body. He was brought to the Marlinton Hospital Friday afternoon, and is making a good recovery.

State Sunday School Convention at Elkins, May 23, 24 and 25. Delegates Credential Certificates for the State Sunday School Convention are now in the hands of the County President and Secretary, and Sunday School workers who are planning to attend will apply to them for these certificates. Pocahontas county is alloted twenty-five delegates and these certificates are being sent out in the order that they are requested.

S. N. Hench, County Chr'm

The tannery has increased its force and is now running about seventy-five percent of capacity.

FALSE TEETH, PLATES REPAIRED

I will have an expert laboratory man with me for a week or more to repair and make false teeth. Let me have yours at once.

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMER
Marlinton, W. Va.

REV. GEORGE P. MOORE

Rev. George P. Moore died at his home at Edray about seven o'clock Saturday morning, April 22, 1922. His age was eighty three years and three months, having been born January 9, 1839. His death was due to the infirmities of extreme age following an attack of influenza. The funeral was conducted from the Edray Church on Monday afternoon, and the burial was in the Edray cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. C. A. Powers, assisted by Rev. F. B. Wyand and Rev. H. H. Orr. One of the largest congregations ever seen on a like occasion in the Edray community assembled to pay honor to his memory.

George P. Moore was the son of Robert Moore and his wife Eliza Bruffey. He had two brothers, Davis and Clark Moore. His parents and brothers moved to Iowa about war times. His nearest surviving relatives are some nephews and nieces in the West.

Mr. Moore was twice married. His first wife was Miss Elizabeth M. Poage, who died in 1865. His second wife was Mrs. Ruth J. Moore, nee Gay, She died about four years since.

Thus we note the passing of probably the best known citizen of Pocahontas county His life was well rounded out. Preacher, farmer, merchant, banker and public officer—he did with his might what his hand found to do. With length of days, riches and honor was he blessed.

Mr. Moore was the oldest postmaster in point of service in the United States Appointed postmaster at Edray by President Pierce at the age of seventeen years, he served continuously, with the exception of a year or two during President Cleveland's first administration to the day of his death. He was elected to the County Court and Board of Education at various times; and served as jury commissioner and county coroner for years and years

At the organization of the Pocahontas Bank, Mr. Moore was chosen president, which position he held under the reorganization of the institution as the First National Bank, until the beginning of the present year. The officers of this bank were the pall bearers at his funeral.

The firm of Barlow & Moore, general merchants, began business in the year 1867. Mr. Moore's partner was the late Henry Barlow. For fifty-five years this firm has continued in business under his active supervision.

But all other activities aside this many sided man was most widely known as a minister of the gospel. Early in life he professed his faith in Christ, joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, and later was ordained a preacher. Few ministers have married and buried more Pocahontas people than he. Mr. Moore was an enthusiastic christian, ever letting his light shine; liberal in the support of every good cause, he left his impression upon those with whom he came in contact.

Sacred to the memory of Rev. George Preston Moore:

How calm he lies, how peaceful,
The storms of life o'er past,
His days of service ended,
And now with Christ at last!

Thou wilt be missed, our brother,
In this, thy native land:
God dealt the blow, and it is well,
Tho' we may not understand.

The time is short for many,
To rise and follow thee
Into the palace of the King
Who reigns eternally.

A. L. P.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. F. B. Wyand, Pastor.
Sunday School 9:45, prompt.
A. S. Overholt, Superintendent.

Morning worship 11 a. m. Sermon subject: "Christianity and the Christian."

2:30 p. m. Memorial Service for the Odd Fellows. Sermon by the pastor.

7:00 p. m. Epworth League.

7:45 p. m. Union Services: Sermon by the Rev. H. H. Orr.

This is the second sermon of the series on Christsanity and the Christian. Make Special effort to hear these series of sermons.

A community song service will be held at West Union next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. H. H. Orr will be present and preach.

Spring Is Here

The time for cleaning up the premises has come. The house, the barn, the fence, the roof, in fact, all the buildings about the place would look brighter if a little fresh paint were used. When thinking of

Paint and Varnish

remember that SWP or SWV on the can is your assurance that you are getting not only PAINT but THE BEST PAINT.

We carry a very large line of Sherwin-Williams Products and also have Wall Paper, Kalsomine, Window Shades, Screens and Roofing.

"The recollection of quality remains long after price is forgotton."

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.
MARLINTON, W. VA.
"WE DELIVER THE GOODS"

DIED

A few minutes past noon on March 29, 1922, Enos F. Curry, of Back Alleghany, quietly passed from this life. His age was 71 years and 3 months

Mr. Curry is survived by his wife and two sons, W. B. and F. J. Curry of Nottingham.

During late years, he had been in failing health, and during the recent epidemic of influeza Mr Curry contracted the disease and pneumonia developed which quickly caused his death.

Born and raised in this county, Mr. Curry purchased a farm on Back Alleghany Mt., where he lived for a number of years the peaceful and industrious life of a farmer. He will be greatly missed in all the different forms of worship at his church, being a true follower of the Savior for a long time, each Sunday found him at the little church on the hill.

Funeral services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. I. H. Vandevander of Durbin. His text was, "I have finished my course." In the presence of a large crowd the body was laid to rest in the Bethel cemetery.

"Time speedeth on! The years are gliding by like shadows fleet.
My days with promise come, then fade and die—Days incomplete.
Dear Lord, all things around me fail to stay,
Be thou my portion and my rock alway."

D. N. M.

MRS. AARON KEE

Mrs. Mildred McNeill Kee, widow of the late Aaron Kee, died at her home near Marlinton on Wednesday afternoon, April 19, 1922, aged 76 years, having been born March 1, 1846. The cause of her death was paralysis. On the morning of her death she had been busy with her accustomed duties, and as the morning meal was being prepared, she became unconscious and never rallied. Burial on Thursday afternoon in the Buckley burying ground, beside the grave of her husband the late Aaron Kee, conducted by Rev. C. A. Powers, of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Mrs Kee was a daughter of the late Jonathan McMeill and Angelina Adkison, his wife. Of her father's family there remain her sister Mrs. John Buckley, and her brothers. Asa, William, Daniel, Enoch and Ulysses McNeill.

Mrs. Kee's husband was the late Aaron Kee, who preceded his wife to the grave thirteen years ago. Their children are Dr. O. H. Kee, of Marlinton; Mrs. James I. Beverage, of Sequiem, Washington; Mrs. D. P. Barnes, Mrs. W. A. McLaughlin, Miss Viola Kee and Cresup Kee, all of Marlinton.

The annals of Mrs. Kee are those of the kind christian mother and busy homekeeper. She was a member of the Methodist Church.

"Her children rise up and call her blessed."

At the request of my many friends I have decided to make the race for House of Delegates subject to the action of the Democratic party to be held August 4, 1922 and if elected I promise to stand by and protect the interest of the citizens of Pocahontas County. I solicit your support and influence.

Respectfully,
C. P. KERR.

ARBOVALE

Owing to the wet weather farmers are not done sowing oats, and as cold as it has been for the last week they would not do much good if sowed.

It looks like all the fruit is killed, for the bloom has all turned brown.

L O Beard has moved to the Mrs. Ruby Kerr farm and Ed Stone moved to the L. O. Beard farm.

Fred and Lawrence Conrad and Wise Gillispie are working on the Class A road at Durbin.

Lanis Orndorff is preparing to build a garage at Arbovale.

Mrs. W. A. Eskridge of Marlinton, spent the week end with her parents at Arbovale.

Rev. J. W. Rosenberger will preach at Pine Grove next Sunday morning, April 30 at eleven o'clock.

ONOTO

Porter Sharp, son of Giles Sharp has moved to the Cochran farm, now owned by Giles Sharp. We are always glad to have good citizens move into our neighborhood, and we believe that we have in Mr. Sharp a good substantial citizen and neighbor.

Mrs. Faith Baxter of Cass, spent Easter Sunday with Mrs. M. J. Baxter. Also her daughter, Miss Edith Baxter, of Marlinton.

Dr. Hill and wife of Cass, spent Eastertide with Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Barlow.

Mr. and Mrs. Neal Baxter and family, of Marlinton were the guests of friends and relatives here Sunday.

C. W. Dulaney, Lee Barlow and Albert White, who have been working at Cordova, W. Va., spent Easter with their parents.

Those attending Quarterly Conference at Campbelltown Sunday night held by Dr. L. E. Resseger, from this community were Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Smith, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. C. Auldridge, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Hanlin.

We have an opening in our sales force for one or two young ladies, ex-school teachers preferred, to sell THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE. Experience not necessary. Leads furnished. For particulars write The Thomas J. Caie Company, 520 Fulton Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

The Standard Oil Compsny has unloaded a big tank, and is preparing to put in an oil statcon here. Heretofore their trade has been taken care of by barrel shipments.

Brunswick
PHONOGRAPHS AND RECORDS

Exclusive Brunswick Features

Brunswick plays all makes of records without attachments. This means that with a Brunswick in your home you can enjoy all the great artists, regardless of the make of records for which they record.

This is accomplished by the Ultona—a part of The Brunswick—not an "attachment."

Another exclusive Brunswick feature is the Oval Tone Amplifier or horn, made entirely of wood and moulded like a fine old violin. It is responsible for much of the wondrously beautiful Brunswick tone.

Schuchats Dept. Store
Marlinton, W.Va,

NOTICE TO FISHERMEN

Before going fishing see that you observe the following requirements of the law:

1. Every person over 15 years of age must have a fishing license which is obtained from the County Clerk and costs one dollar.
2. No licenses are issued to unnaturalized citizens.
3. It is a violation of the law to fish in any other manner except with hook and line.
4. The open season for catching bass of all kinds and pike is from the first day of June until the 31st day of March.
   The open season for catching trout is from the first day of May until the 31st day of July inclusive.
5. It is necessary to have the written permission to fish upon the enclosed lands of another.
6. In case of a violation of the Game and Fish Law, notify your nearest Game Protector.

GAME AND COMMISSION OF WEST VIRGINIA.

'The Inside of the Cup'

A PARAMOUNT PRODUCTION

Gilded gentry of the "better sort." Prattling of "social standing." Defiling the church with their heartless hypocrisy. Building their empty pride with the blood and toil of others.

A story of dark souls filled with light by the power of a boundless love

FROM THE NOTED NOVEL BY WINSTON CHURCHILL.

UPLIFTING THRILLING BEAUTIFUL

AMUSU THEATRE.

Monday & Tuesday, MAY 1st, 2nd.

HUMORESQUE—Coming soon.

Woe unto you, Scribes and Pharisees, Hypocrites! for ye cleanse the outside of the cup, but within they are full from extorition and excess.

SEE INSIDE THE CUP

Will have in a few days car U. S. Gypsum syanized ivory wood fibre plaster and adamant plaster board. Use this and have a better wall than lathe and plaster at same cost. Don't forget Sheet Rock Wall Board.

J. W. Milligan.

When interested in buying a car see Dilley's Garage. Dealers in Maxwell and Chalmers Cars, Marlinton, W Va. We have moved into the upper garage.

Stunt Night

AT HIGH SCHOOL

Thursday, Apr. 27

8 o'clock p. m.

Don't miss this, the real, original entertatnment of the season.

"A little fun, now and then Is relished by the best of men."

Admission 25c and 35c

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLI NO 1 — MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, AUGUST 17, 1922 — $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Pocahontas County Fair

MARLINTON, W. VA. August 22, 23, 24, 25, 26

The Fourth Annual Meet of Pocahontas County Fair all next week, beginning Tuesday morning

Entries have been made for 65 head of show and race horses beside draft and other animals. Draft teams will be shown and judged in harness, but not hitched to wagons.

114 head of registered cattle have been entered. Included in these entries are car-load lots from Virginia and Greenbrier County and the County Hereford Association. The famous Buckland Hall Farm herd will be exhibition throughout the Fair.

There will be a remarkable exhibition of sheep. Two carloads of the various breeds have been entered from Ohio, and a carload of 80 head is expected from New York State. All these are in addition to a lot of fine sheep entered by local breeders.

Then the pigs, poultry, household, farm, garden, old settler, calf club, pig club, boys and girls club work, agricultural, etc., exhibits—a fair in themselves.

The State of West Virginia will put on a big agricultural exhibit, housed in a huge tent 60x150 feet.

For entertainment there will be MURPHY'S 25 CAR SHOWS, which have the recommendation of the State Department of Agriculture. Three Bands, a Hawaiian Orchestra of unusual ability Fire Works each night, Free Acts, etc. Something to entertain you each and every minute of the Fair. High class racing each day by the best racing stock in the country.

All on the 127 acres of Fair property located on the beautiful Greenbrier River, a mile and a half above Marlinton.

Pocahontas County Fair, Inc.

S. B. Wallace, President — Z. S. Smith, Manager — C. K. Livesay, Secretary

THE FAIR

Everything is in readiness for the County Fair next week. Wonders have been accomplished in the past few months in the way of preparation, buildings, track, grandstand, roads and generally beautifying what is destined to be the finest fair ground in this or any other state.

It looks now it will be preeminently a stock show. Entries are coming in not alone from our own local people, but from Greenbrier county, from Virginia, Ohio, and even as far as New York State.

The State Agricultural Department, will have a State Exhibit that will be a fair in itself.

S. B Wallace, the president for the past four months has given most of his time to the project, ably assisted and enthusiastically backed by the other members of the Executive Committee. On Monday the secretary, C. K. Livesay, moved into his office on the Fair grounds and is giving his entire time to the business of the Fair.

Come to the Fair. It will be well worth your while. It is a county enterprise with hundreds of share holders, no one person owning more than $100 worth of stock. Come and bring something.

The officers and their assistants, the policemen, concession men and the Boy Scouts have been schooled in the matter of giving information to any and all persons. If they don't know what is asked them, they will tell you to go to the office under the grand stand and show you how to get there. Everything possible is being done for the comfort and cenvenience of the visitors. For instance, articles of merchandise sold on the grounds will be sold at the regular prices charged elsewhere.

VAN REENAN--GILMORE

Married, at the parsonage at Edray, Monday, August 14, 1922, John Gilbert VanReenan and Mrs. Elsie Sue Gilmore, by Rev. C. A. Powers, officiating minister.

Frederick Collins died at his home in Charleston, August 14, 1922, aged about 60 years. He was a native of Maine, and had worked for many years in the woods of this county No particulars have been received concerning his last sickness He is survived by his wife, whose maiden name was Miss Annie Moran. Burial on Wednesday afternoon at the Buckeye graveyard, the service being conducted by Rev. H. H Orr.

The revival at Sharon Methodist church closed on last Sunday evening. The pastor, Rev W. Clark Early was assisted by Rev. H M. Roane of Staunton, Va., who out of a rich experience, preached heart search in messages and was used of God in lifting the spiritual life of the church There were eighteen conversions Prof. J. M. Brosius, of Locust, in a very commendable manner led the singing and rendered excellent assistance in solo work.

WOMEN'S MEETING

Delegates from the various Women's Auxiliaries of the Presbyterian churches of Pocahontas met at Marlinton on Tuesday, and had an all day meeting, Speakers from a distance were Mrs William Echols and Mrs. W. G. Smith, both of Alderson. Mrs. Echols is President of the Greenbrier Presbyterial. She is taking a course in theology at Union Seminary in Richmond. The following delegates from out of town enrolled:

Greenbank—Mrs. W A Gladwell, Mrs. D. M. Monroe

Dunmore—Mrs L R Campbell, Miss Cornelia Pritchard Miss Ella Pritchard, Mrs C E Pritchard.

Huntersville—Mrs. Ida B. McComb Mrs W H Barlow, Miss Helen Barlow, Mrs Fred B Moore.

Hillsboro—Mrs T S McNeel, Mrs. H W McNeel, Miss Nancy McNeel, Mrs L P McLaughlin, Miss Anna Wallace, Mrs W M Irvine, Miss Mayo Beard, Mrs. C M Baskerville.

SPECIAL SERVICES

Arrangements have been made with Evangelist Rev. J. L. Fowle and his musician and co-worker Martel Tremain to have them come to Huntersville for a series of Evangelistic Services in the Presbyterian Church, September 4 17. Marked success has attended the evangelistic work of these men in the Synod of W. Va. this summer. Huntersville and the surrounding country is indeed fortunate to secure these men for two weeks in September and everyone who can possibly arrange to attend these services has a real religious treat in store. Keep the date, September 4,-17, in mind.

COWHERD--BEVERAGE

A quiet, but beautiful wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. L Beverage of Stony Bottom, on July 15, 1922, when their eldest daughter, Miss Mabel, became the bride of Capt. F. L. Cowherd, of Huntington. Rev. Underwood of Deepwater, W. Va. was officiating minister. The bride is a beautiful and popular young lady of Stony Bottom, and will be missed by her many friends. The groom is a conductor on the Huntington trains; where Mr. and Mrs. Cowherd will make their future home. Their many friends wish them a long and happy life. B.

POCAHONTAS CO., TEACHERS' INSTITUTE

Will be held at Marlinton the week beginning August 28th.

Permanent Instructor—Miss Bertie Backus.

Music—L. V. Daggett

Physical Director—Fae McClellan

Special Lecturers—Dr. Barbe, Dr Ziegler, Margaret Ford, and E. E Knight.

Teachers expecting full five days credit for attendance must register before noon.

G. D. McNeill,
Co. Supt.

CHAUTAUQUA

Tickets for the Pocahontas Chautauqua at Marlinton, September 4 to 8th, are now on sale. The price is $3. and by single admission the cost is $8. Good business prompts the buying of season tickets. There is another reason. Chautauqua comes to this town by a lot of public spirited men guaranteeing the sale of a certain number of season tickets. These tickets must all be sold before Chautauqua opens, or the deficit made up in cash from the pockets of the guarantors. The sale of single admissions goes direct to the Chautauqua people, and does not help the local guarantors.

Don't be a traitor. Show your loyalty to your town people by buying your Chautauqua tickets from home folks.

ONOTO

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Young, of Davenport, Iowa, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A C. Auldridge. They were also guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Young last week.

Mrs. E L Duncan and children of Spruce, are spending a few days with Mrs. J. M. Baxter. They will remain here for the Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Barlow, Miss Goldie Jordan, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Barlow of Huntersville, were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baxter Sunday.

Mrs. W. G Cochran, formerly of of this section, but now of Sunbury, Ohio, and three of her children are visiting her many friends and relatives here.

Wheat threshing is the order of the day, and everybody making preparations for the Fair. Those who are interested want the docket clear so that they can have the time of their lives.

We understand that Miss Gladys White of Minnehaha, will teach the Pine Grove school. Miss White taught a very successful school at Green Hill last year. We also understand that W. Glenn Barlow will teach near Frost.

Gilbert VanReenen and Mrs. Elsie Gilmore were quietly united in marriage at the Edray Parsonage Monday. Rev. C. A Powers officiating. From there they motored to Elkins, and possibly to Oakland, Maryland.

The "Bashful Mr. Bobbs" at the Edray District High School auditorium Friday night at 8:15 promises to be a play worth while. Come—you'll have a pleasant evening.

Don't miss the "Bashful Mr. Bobbs" at the Edray District High School auditorium Friday night.

WANTED—Man with car to sell best low priced Cord Tires made. $100.00 per week and expenses. GRAHAM TIRE CO., 4841 Canal, Benton Harbor, Mich.

DISTRICT CONFERENCE

The annual District Conference for the Lewisburg District Baltimore Conference Methodist Episcopal Church South which was held at Lewisburg closed last Wednesday night. Never in the history of the district was the attendance of delegates so large and besides the Lay delegates. Every pastor in the district was prasent except one and he was in the Hinton hospital sick. The attendance of visitors was also unusually large. Every one present seemed to highly appreciate the splendid entertainment given by the Lewisburg people.

Strong and helpful sermons were preached by Revs. H. L. Hout of Covington, Va., and George Hazel of Ronceverte. One of the outstanding features of the conference was a masterful address by Dr. R. L. Fultz on "The Function of Religion in Education." The written roport on finance made by Rev. H. L. Hout was pronounced the best ever heard by the conference. This report together with the address of Dr. Fultz was ordered to be published in the church papers. The conference elected as delegates to the annual conference which will be held in Roanoke next April, J. C. Boggs, Ashby Huffman, Dr. H. H. Jones, Price Coffman, Mason Knapp, S. A. Carter, Frank, Watts, and K. F. Shumate. Mrs. W. J. Yeager, A. E. Huddleston. Bruce Ford and T. P. Doughty were elected alternates. Ronceverte was selected as the place for holding the next conference O. B. Coffman was reelected district Lay leader with L. W. Farrier of Clifton Forge, Va., and F. M. Sydnor, Marlinton as associates.

Among the Pocahontas people present were the following:

Huntersville—Palmer Eubank, J. C. Laury, W E Harper, W. H. Grose, Mrs. Amos McLaughlin. Mrs. W. H Grose.

Hillsboro—W. C. Early, G. L Carlisle, Samuel Sheets, J D Pope, G. R Curry, Denny Callison, Dr. J W R Smith.

Levelton—S A F Wagner, D M. Kennison, T. A. Bruffey, B C Hayes, G. O. Auldridge, Mrs. S. A. F. Wagner.

Durbin—I. H. VanDevender, C F. Hull, S A Wilhide, S H Hiner, Mr. and Mrs. P. F Eades.

Greenbank—J W. Rosenberger, E A Hudson, Warren Moore, Dr. Jones, J. W Gillespie, Miss Flossie Conrad.

Marlinton—F. B. Wyand, W J Yeager, F M Sydnor, Mrs W J Yeager, Mrs S J Rexrede, Dr. A C McCoy, W A Eskridge.

There will be a home talent play Friday night, August 18th at the Edray District High School building. Come and bring your friends.

NOTICE

I will be out of my offiee at Cass until September 15.

Dr. W. A. Hammen.

PROGRAM

HOME-COMING CENTENNIAL
TUESDAY, August 22, 1922.

10:00 a. m. Invocation Rev. J C Johnson
Music
Address Rev. H W McLaughlin D. D. Raphine, Va.
Boy Scout Drill
Rev. F. B. Wyand Scout Master
Music
Address Judge C. F. Moore of New York City
Parade of Union and Confederate Veterans, and World's War Veterans
Benediction

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

:45 SundaySchool
11 a m The Book of Numbers.
3 p m Preaching at Indian Draft
7:15 p m Christian Endeavor
8 p m A real Invitation.

Rev. H. W. McLaughlin, D. D., a native son of Pocahontas, will be present and make an address on the first day of the County Fair, next Tuesday. In addition to being one of the leading members of the whole Presbyterian church, he has a national reputation as a breeder of polled Shorthorn cattle. He will have a herd on exhibition at the Fair.

When you come to the Fair next Tuesday, bring along with you some of the old time things for the pioneer display. You will find T. S. McNeel or his assistants in the big agricultural tent, ready to list and display things of the olden time.

Shorthorns for Sale At Public Auction

30 Shorthorns and 6 Polled Shorthorns, SEPT. 8th, 10 A. M.

STAUNTON, VA.

This is a very select lot of cattle, tuberculin tested. Buckland Hall Farm, Nokesville, Va., McLaughlin Farm, Maxwelton, West Va., and the best herds of Augusta County have consignments of selected cattle. Write for catalog.

H. H. MOFFETT, Secretary,
Staunton, Va.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that on or about the 28th day of August 1922, an application will be filed with A G JENKINS, Pardon Atty., Charleston, W. Va, for the Pardon of Ben Syms, convicted of the crime of Grand Larceny at the October Term 1921, of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County and sentenced to imprisonment in the West Virginia Penitentiary for the period of Two Years.

THE PEOPLES STORE

will pay the highest prices for your

COUNTRY PRODUCE

We will take what you have to sell and sell what you have to buy. Remember RED GOOSE Shoes for the children.

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.

MARLINTON, W. VA.

DAVIS & ELKINS COLLEGE

Elkins, W. Va.

Local drive in Elkins for $150,000 successfully completed. Insure additional $350,000 from statewide Campaign.

Collegiate, Advanced Preparatory, and Commercial Courses. Also Standard Normal, Music and Public Speaking Departments.

Charges very moderate. Excellent climate.

A Christian College for Christian Students.

Address JAMES E. ALLEN, President.
Elkins, W. Va.

When at the Fair Next Week

Take tfme to visit our store in the First National Bank Building.

I would like to show you the various kinds of Victrolas; I have in stock, and play them for you. Home with Victrolas are more home like. It brings to you the world's best music, and never ceases to be a source of entertainment. Look for the Victor trademark.

Amos Wooddell
Watchmaker and Jeweler
Marlinton - - - - - - W. Va.

Come to the High School building Friday night to see Bashful Mr. Bobbs a home talent play given by the Womans Club and boost the Epworth League by buying some home made candy, on sale in the High School building.

The manager of the horse show of the Pocahontas County Fair wishes to announce that all draft teams will be shown and judged in harness, but not hitched to wagons.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THURSDAY AUGUST 17, 1922

In the year 1868, a specter on horseback rode up to the house of a colored person in the South, and asked for a drink of water. Water in a cup was refused. A big bucket full was demanded, and when it was brought the ghost drank it all and observed that it was the first drink that he had had since he was killed at Shiloh. It was just another bit of evidence that the ghosts of the Confederate dead were roaming through the country. The mysterious visitor was a member of the Ku Klu Klan and was engaged in an unlawful enterprise of demonstrating the dominion of mind over matter, for it was in the days when the colored folks had votes and most of the Southern white men had none. The thirsty soul had disposed of the bucket of water by pouring it into a waterproof bag concealed under his robe. It was about this time that the colored populatiom ceased to wander from their own firesides after night fall.

Another favorite trick was for a white robed horseman to call out a freedman and offer to shake hands with him and when the gauntlet was removed and the hand extended it was the hand of a skeleton. Or the rider would say: "Here, hold my horse and my head," and he would remove his head and the colored man would go away from that place. The head was a gourd with a regulation cap on it. The society was known as the invisible empire, and it was a peculiar institution in the days of the reconstruction after the Civil War and it lasted for just four years and it became so potent for evil that it was outlawed and it disbanded.

It is a debatable matter whether it accomplished more good than bad. Many think that it was necessary in the scheme of things for the rehabilitation of the South. Unusual times require unusual remedies. The South had been the scene of a revolution and was being disciplined and being purged of the sin of disobedience, and the control of affairs in the states was in the hands of a class that developed little genius for government and the lawgivers at Washington were in confusion, owing to a bitter dispute between the President and Congress, which finally resulted in a trial for impeachment in which more than a majority voted to remove the President from office.

If there was nothing else to the credit of the Ku Klux Klan, the prompt disbanding over night at the order of the head of the organization, that in itself redounds to its honor and glory, for that one order was obeyed as widely and implicitly as the edict of surrender at Appomattox.

When I can first remember the tales and discussions of the institution, they were not referred to as Ku Klux, but as White Caps, and every body was glad that they did not ride any more. Much of the odium that attached to the name was due to the fact that when any devilment was on foot it was customary to adopt the regalia of the society and the society got the blame. The terror of the name was exemplified to me on one occasion. In 1892, I was on my way to a term of court in Webster County, and just at dusk I was riding up a hollow in the Point Mountain country, I was the proud possessor of a white hat that I thought was very fetching and the horse I rode had a white blaze on its head. As I rode around a turn in a road I met a party of women and children. One of the women cried out in a loud voice "White Caps!" and they all took to the brush and I saw them no more.

Since the last great war, an order by the same name, the Ku Klux Klan has come into existence, and it has created a great deal of discussion, especially, in the New York papers, but it thrives on the publicity given to it. At the movies, the other night there was a news picture, showing twenty thousand people watching the initiation of five thousand new members, in Texas, and it was a very spectacular sight. The members all wore the high white head dress covering the face, and had white robes. It was a picture of great dramatic force. There is no doubt a fascination in the name.

One day I was fishing for trout in Williams River in pasture land at the mouth of Days Run, and I came on a small boy engaged in the same pursuit. He told me that his name was Jesse James. I remarked that there was something familiar about the sound of that name to me, and he then answered that he reckoned it was because he used to live at Marlinton. This was the same boy who was afterwards inducted in the army and his name caused the fact to be heralded all over the world.

The other day, Mr. J. M. Bare, of this place showed us an old book printed in 1884, entitled the Ku Klux Klan. It was written and published by Mr. Bare's uncle, the late Rev. D. L. Wilson, a Presbyterian minister, who was stationed at Pulaski, Tennessee, where the Ku Klux Klan was originated in 1865. It was written while the memory of the invisible empire was fresh, and it is the only authority that I have ever had the opportunity to consult as to the history of the society.

The name Ku Klux is a corruption of the Greek work kuklos which means a band and the addition of the word clan, is but a translation of the first two words of the title. It seems that at Pulaski, when the soldiers returned from the war, the life in that town was dull and depressed. The war had pretty well ruined the South, and there was not much to do except wear old clothes and eat corn bread and work and grumble. Some of the bright young men of the county seat town to have some amusement, formed a secret society and adopted the name of Ku Klux. There was not much to it except mystery, and they had as a meeting place a family mansion, whose owner and family were absent for a trip, but the meetings got to be so loud and noisy occasioned by the initiation of new members that they decided to hunt a more secluded place, and on a ridge outside of town was a tumbled down deserted house and in this the subsequent meetings were carried on.

The drawing power of the association was mystery and this was due largely to the name, for it was modelled on such societies as are popular in colleges wherever located. There was no intention of forming any serious body for any serious pursose, but the members were all schooled in the war, and their practical jokes were rough at times. It is related that a favorite method of rejecting a candidate was to blind fold him and put him in a barrel at the top of a hill and then let the barrel roll down the hill and thus dismiss him from their minds. A more gentle rejection was to conduct a refused candidate blindfolded to some distant place in the woods and tell him to wait there until called for, and then never go back for him. But if a candidate was accepted, he was made the subject of much horse play and received into the order.

Here is what originated the idea of regulators. At every meeting at the old house on the ridge, two sentinels in the robes of the order made up after the manner of grave clothes, were placed on the road and if any passer asked who it was, the invariable answer was: "A spirit from the other world. I was killed at Chickamauga." It was presently noted that travel ceased on these roads during the hours of darkness, especially as to colored persons, who ceased to roam after night time. The troubles with the reconstruction period coming on about this time, it occurred to some of the men of the South to use the order for influencing the course of government by what might be called direct action. The historian places the life of the league at four years, from 1865 to 1869, and the period from 1865 to 1867, as the time when it was a harmless and mirth provoking movement, and the period frym 1867 to 1869, when its activities took on a sterner character and assumed such proportions that the Federal Government and the State Government had to interfere. In 1867, the order held a council in Nashville, and adopted a constitution, looking to the general organization of the South, and the principal points of its declaration were that it was to protect the weak, to protect and defend the Constitution of the United States and to assist in the execution of the laws.

After this meeting the order received a large membership all over the south consisting of chapters loosely joined together, and having little or no connection. It is doubtful whether there ever was a list of the chapters or a roll of the membership, though there was one Grand Wizard of all the Dens, and there is but one act of his recorded, and that is to disband and burn all regalia, which effectively terminated the Klan in March, 1869. This followed immediately the proclamation of Governor Brownlow declaring martial law in several of the counties.

It is stated that there was not a single case proved against a member of the Klan of unlawful conduct, and that while many were arrested in the disguise that the Klan invented and used, that they invariably proved to be either negroes or outlaws who had never been supporters of the Confederate government.

In 1868, in September, Governor Brownlow, of Tennessee, called the legislature together and passed the famous Anti-Ku-Klux law. The penalty for belonging to the order was imprisonment for not less than five years. Courts were not to allow jurors to qualifiy as such until they had sworn that they did not belong to the order. If any witness summoned to testify against the order refused to tsetify he should sufier the penalty imposed by the first section. All officers of the court at every term were to be examined on oath as to whether they had any knowledge of violations of the act, and failure to perform any of the duties imposed upon officers rendered them liable to the penalty of the first section. Persons interfering with elections were liable to the same penalty. Officers in addition to the usual oath of office were required to swear that they had never been a member of any such organization of disguised men. It was unlawful to have in possession any of the regalia of the order. Damages for entering the house of a citizen in the night time in a hostile manner was fixed at ten thousand dollars, and for killing a citizen twenty thousand dollars. And a number of other provisions of severity. The history is silent as to whether there ever was a conviction under this law. Any way the Klan disbanded soon after it went into effeet.

July 4, 1867 was the high tide of the movement. In every county seat on that day were scattered slips giving notice to the public that the Klan would parade the streets that night. Rev. Mr. Wilson gives an account of the parade in Pulaski, Tennessee, and says that while everybody stayed up to watch the parade that none of the Klan were identified. That the young men of the town who were believed to belong did not take part in the demonstration. That in the town there were four main roads leading to the center of the town forming a cross roads, and that disguised men marched in single file through this town on covered horses for more than two hours giving the impression that there were thousands but this was caused by forming four companies which marched and counter marched continually through the town.

One man who claimed to know most of the horses in the county was there that night for the purpose of identifying some of the horses but he failed to recognize any for they were covered from head to tail. Determined not to be baffled, he approached one rider during a halt and asked the privilege to examine his horse and this he was permitted to do, and when he turned back the covering, he found that is was his own horse which he himself had ridden to town that night.

After fifty years another order of the same name appears but the news features of the moving picture theater contain views of the solemn initiation ceremonies.

What day of the week did August 17, 1786, fall upon? Answer: On Thursday the same day of the week that it comes on this year. This valuable information is obtained from the records of Greenbrier county, which shows that August 17th, 1786, was set apart for a day of fasting and prayer, and that court would not sit on that day. The way it came up was to accommodate Thomas Hughart, High Sheriff of Augusta County. He was present at court having brought an action against James Byrnesides which case was set for a day later in the week. On Wednesday he represented to the court that if he was not allowed to take judgment on his claim that day, that the court could not sit on the next day, owing to the Thursday having been set apart as a day of fasting and prayer, and that if he waited over until Friday, it would throw him too late to reach Staunton for the opening of the court there. So the court being of the opinion after inquiring into the matter that no injustice would be done, entered a judgment for him for twenty pounds and seventeen shillings.

It is probable that this corresponds closely to the present custom of a day for thanksgiving and rejoicing. It dates from the days of the Bible, and comes down through all the ages since then, the main differencs being the question of thanksgiving and prayer, or thanksgiving and rejoicing.

The nodern thanksgiving dates from 1789. That is the year of the adoption of the constitution of the United States. A motion was made in Congress a few days before its adjournment to the effect that the President be requested to recommend a day of thanksgiving and prayer in acknowledgement of the many signal favors of Almighty God, and especially his affording them an opportunity of establishing a constitution of government for their safety and happiness. This was offered by Elias Boudinot, member from New Jersey. Roger Sherman of Connecticut, supported the motion. Aedanus Burke, of South Carolina, did not like this mimicking of European customs, and Thomas T. Tucker of Virginia, intimated that it might be as well to wait some experience of the efficiency of the Constitution before returning thanks for it. President Washington issued a proclamation appointing Thanksgiving Day November 26, 1789.

It is curious to note that now that the great holiday of the North at the end of the year is Thanksgiving, and in the South it is Christman. And it looks like that follows the line up in Congress on the first motion to establish the day.

Prof. Amos L. Herold, head of the English Department of Bucknell University, is at Columbia University this summer completing his course for the Ph. D. degree. When the Professor gets this degree, so far as any of us can figger out, that will mark the high scholastic attainment for citizens of this county. There have been many lettered people here but I cannot recall any of the native born who have taken the Ph. D., though there are some young people on the way. The usual course to this mile post on the road to knowledge takes twenty years from the cradle to the grave and reverend senior, as follows, to wit: Eight years in the grades. Four years in the high school. Having made the grades they throw into high. Then four years in college for an A. B. or a B. S., or words to that effect. Then one year for the A. M. And as they are still in the morning of life, they work three more years for the Ph. D. After that time he is prepared to impart information, and a few more letters may be added to his name and fame, and all this eventually leads to the P. M. or post mortem.

Prof. Herold was born and raised at Frost, a place that has been well represented lately by public men. Frost is not a city or a town, just a neighberhood up towards the head of Knapps Creek Valley, all farmers. For years the people of that community have been serious, industrious, religious and musical. A little sin in the Frost community stirs up more excitement than a big one in other places. When the time comes to take stock of the accomplishments of its people, a good many of us are going to vote the first place to Mrs. Amanda Sharp. This lady was left a widow with a large family of children who have turned out well. A few years ago she had the satisfaction of having lived to see her family raised. One of her sons was Judge of the district. Another Clerk of the circuit court. And a son-in-law was Superintendent of Free Schools. "Men are what their mothers made them."

And that community has had many other prominent and useful citizens and the subject may be extended at another time.

A ONE DAY SALE

QUALITY BRAND ALUMINUM WARE

EVERY PIECE GUARANTEED FOR 20 YEARS

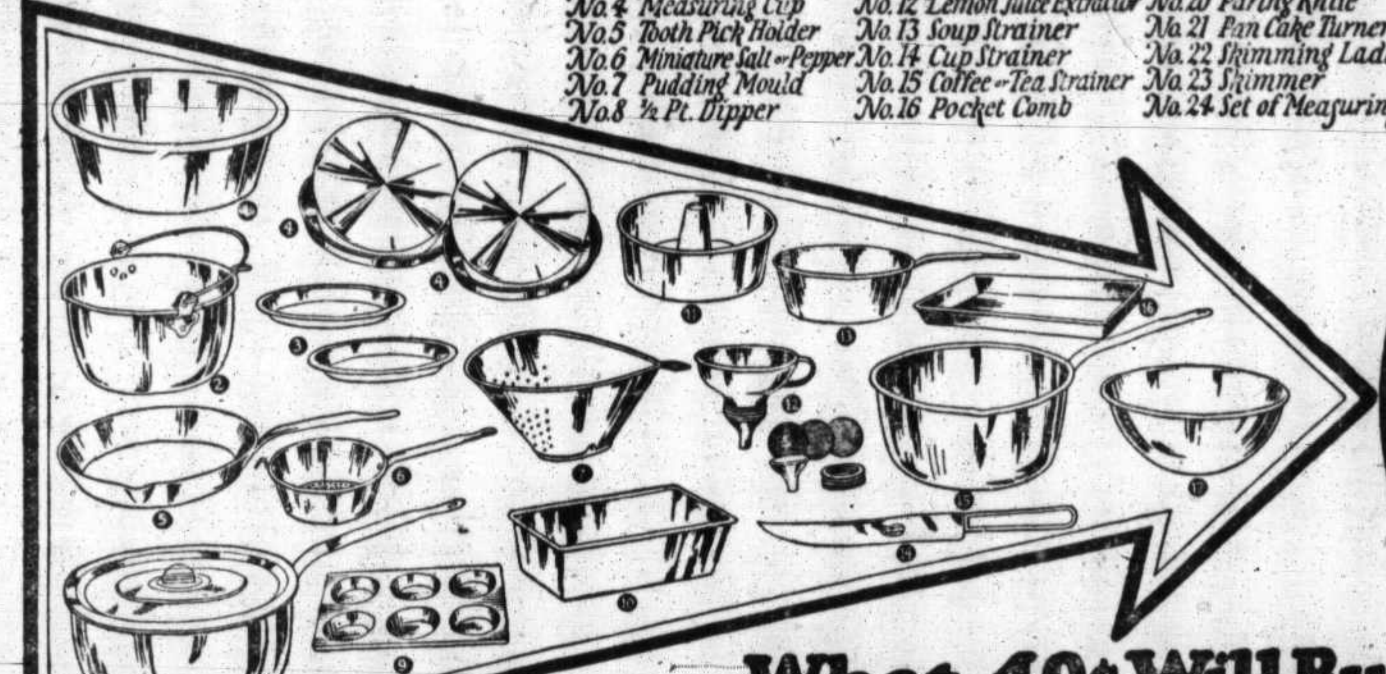
Sale Starts 9 a. m. Friday August 25th, 1922

1 CENT

What 1¢ Will Buy

No. 1 1 Ounce Funnel
No. 2 Sugar Shaker
No. 3 Egg Separator
No. 4 Measuring Cup
No. 5 Tooth Pick Holder
No. 6 Miniature Salt or Pepper
No. 7 Pudding Mould
No. 8 ½ Pt. Dipper
No. 9 Child's Cup
No. 10 Octagon Salt or Pepper
No. 11 Doughnut Cutter
No. 12 Lemon Juice Extractor
No. 13 Soup Strainer
No. 14 Cup Strainer
No. 15 Coffee or Tea Strainer
No. 16 Pocket Comb
No. 17 Tea Srainer
No. 18 Grater
No. 19 Clothes Sprinkler
No. 20 Paring Knife
No. 21 Pan Cake Turner
No. 22 Skimming Ladle
No. 23 Skimmer
No. 24 Set of Measuring Spoons

Regular 10¢ to 25¢ Values



49 CENTS

What 49¢ Will Buy

No. 1 2qt. Pudding Pan
No. 2 3qt. Preserving Kettle
No. 3 Set of 2 Pie Plates
No. 4 Set of 2 Jelly Cake Pans
No. 5 8¾ inch Fry Pan
No. 6 1qt. Pan Rim Strainer
No. 7 Sink Strainer
No. 8 1½qt. Covered Lipped Sauce Pan
No. 9 6 Cup Muffin Pan
No. 10 Bread Pan
No. 11 Tubed Cake Pan
No. 12 Combination Funnel
No. 13 1½qt. Stew Pan
No. 14 Carving Knife
No. 15 2qt. Lipped Sauce Pan
No. 16 Biscuit Pan
No. 17 2qt. Mixing Bowl

Regular 75¢ to $1.00 Values

99 CENTS

What 99¢ Will Buy

No. 1 1½qt. Coffee Percolator
No. 2 5qt. Mixing Bowl
No. 3 Drip Pan (13¾×12½)
No. 4 Set of 1, 1½, 2qt. Lipped Sauce Pans
No. 5 10qt. Dish Pan
No. 6 6qt. Colonial Kettle
No. 7 5qt. Lipped Sauce Pan
No. 8 1½qt. Octagon Double Boiler
No. 9 8½qt. Water Pail
No. 10 5qt. Tea Kettle
No. 11 1½qt. Octagon Coffee Percolator
No. 12 8qt. Preserving Kettle
No. 13 9 inch Colander
No. 14 4qt. Colonial Kettle
No. 15 4qt. Colonial Sauce Pan
No. 16 6qt. Octagon Preserving Kettle
No. 17 6qt. Colonial Strainer Kettle
No. 18 4qt. Covered Octagon Preserving Kettle
No. 19 Cutlery Set (Paring Knife) (Carving Knife) (Bread Knife)
No. 20 3½qt. Tea Kettle
No. 21 4qt. Covered Octagon Lipped Sauce Pan
No. 22 Self Basting Roaster
No. 23 6qt. Preserving Kettle

Regular $1.50 to $2.50 Values

Schuchats Department Store

Marlinton, West Virginia

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THURSDAY, APRIL 27, 1922

Sunday before last being an adept in the art of walking, we laid off a round and went up the Price Run to the headwaters and crossed over the dividing ridge to the Sharp Run, and followed it down to its mouth at Stony Creek, and down that stream to the pike, and with the pike home, about four miles in all, being a Sabbath stroll but about four times as long as the Sabbath day's journey of the holy writ.

Then the next week we took a longer circle, too long to walk. We went down the Greenbrier River to where it enters into the New, and followed down the bank of that stream to where it changes its name to the Kanawha, thence down that stream to the mouth of Elk, thence up Elk River to a bend in the stream, thence across the divide to the waters of the Little Kanawha, and up that stream and across the divide to the waters of the West Fork, thence down to the forks of the Monongahela, thence up the east fork, Tygarts Valley River to the point where the moonshiner enters an enclosure, thence across the divide to the waters of Cheat River, and up the same to the head of the Far Fork of Greenbrier, and down the same to the forks of the Greenbrier and continuing down said stream to the mouth of Knapps Creek, six hundred miles, more or less. All the way the challenge was: "Tickets please!" And the countersign, "Here it is," and the presentation of a pass that you had bought at a little window in a wall. The time occupied was one week to the minute, that is from 4:35 p. m. Saturday, the 15th, to 4:35 p. m. Saturday, the 22nd. The country traversed showed a great diversity of climate and seasonal changes, ranging from the bleak, barren woods of our native land where the highest peaks glistened with frost in the sunlight, to the hills of the country around the mouth of Elk, which have put on their summer garments. And almost the first hail that we got when we landed on Main Street was that he reckoned that there would be another editorial in the Pocahontas Times. To which we replied that we had become the kind of the traveler that could make a clean breast of his experiences and tell the world about them. And that seemed to plunge him into a fit of introspection, and he troubled us no more. So hearken to the travail of the traveler, always remembering that there is nothing to prevent you throwing the paper across the room any time that you weary of the humdrum narrative of a tiresome and tedious journey. It has come to us after all these years, that the most unimportant fact is more welcome than the profoundest theory. But to get that thought to you, we had to propound a theory, but what can you expect of an inconsistent language, which spells phonetic without an f?

We tarried at Lewisburg over Sunday. Tarry is a good word. We get it out of the Bible. And we arrived there after dark, and found that the Democrats had been showing signs of life. There had been a Democratic gathering there and there had been speaking,

The Democratic candidates, they
burgeon in the spring,
And when the west wind melts the snow, them birds begin to sing.

It is hard to understand how we Democrats show so much strength in caucus and so much weakness at the polls. And at Lewisburg, what continued to be the sole topic of conversation whereever any Democrats were congregated, and that was who was to be the head of the ticket this year, that is, the nominee of the party for the United States Senatorship. There are two well advertised possibles, our old war governor, John J. Cornwell, and our brilliant and experienced statesman, W. E. Chilton. The entente cordiale heretofore existing between these distinguished gentleman has become somewhat frayed and shows signs of being thrown into the discards. So alarmed have some patriotic partisans become over the condition of the fabric, that they are thinking of bringing out the Hon. Tertium Quid, who has been kept unspotted from the world in some sort of a cloister. With some such third party whose weaknesses have not been tested, it is thought that some incipient bitterness may be avoided. And we dallied with the thought ourselves for a while, but it has come to us out of the air that the best thing to do with these friendly rivals, is to try the issue out and get it behind us. As long as the case is continued it will be an awkward thing to handle. Let the succession be determined. Contests are to be avoided in all but exceptional cases, but the time comes every now and then when you can show a man better than you can tell him, and this moment we are of the opinion that the proper course to pursue is to have a vote on the question of which one of these two men is to be chosen, and then get ready to support the winner enthusiastically, and hold the other gentleman in reserve for another election, for the time may soon come when we will need them both.

Then too the Republican party is so strong in this State, that it may hereafter appear that if we do not have a fight in the primary that we may not have the excitement of winning at all. Anyway it seems that we are apt to take the rivalry of politicians too seriously. Just as the surgeons realize that it is necessary at times to use the knife, it is fitting and essential for the voter to use a club, in getting rid of annoyances.

Our friends, the Republicans, do not seem to be a bit more confident that do the Democrats, though the Democrats are notorious self-deceivers, for a democrat never knows when he is licked. Just now it is Sutherland against the field. There are a number of Republicans who would like to see Sutherland retired to private life, but they do not know exactly how to do it, for the great unwashed debouch from the mouth of the hollow, and vote him into office. Abe Lilly, the vote getter, is already out in the open, and he will get a lot of votes. He is so strong in the State, that his opponents think that the only thing that can beat him is the old cunning maxim, of divide and conquer.

And another observation before we leave the disagreeable subject of politics. There is a disposition to try to run the mill with the water that has passed, and to require all candidates to purge themselves of disloyalty to Wilson. It is like the old bugaboo that once dwelt in the party of whether so and so had been loyal to Bryan. To our way of thinking, this is a small matter. It is like rejecting a good man because he does not believe in close communion. It is not too much to say that charges like these are never made from good motives. No one reveres Wilson more than we do. But we have more friends who voted against Wilson than who voted for him, and we do not propose to wander forlorn and forsaken through the world because of a difference of opinion. We will never cease to think that those who assailed Wilson viciously in the last election, were even as the ass that kicked the sick lion. Let every tub stand upon its own bottom.

But let us pause to consider that no small part of the evil of politics is the endless and fruitless discussions that go on for months and months until the drift of public opinion settles it in one short day, and we did not mean to say anything about politics when we sat down to the typewriter. The common fate of good intentions.

We worshipped, as in duty bound at the Old Stone Church, and we verily believe that there is such a thing as sacred atmosphere in a church like that which brings peace and healing to the tortured soul. It is hard to express, but some churches do have this kind of a circumambience in a greater degree than others, and it may be caused by the spirits of innumberable dead made perfect, for that old Stone Church is one of the original fortresses of religion in the United States. We have been there often, and we have felt the influence of the surroundings, and it has always been the same, and it is nothing more than right to tell about it, for it is a blessed truth. Those people of Lewisburg may stand nearer the unseen world than they have ever dreamed of.

But we did not mean to boast that we went to church on a Sunday. It was just to record the fact, to make way for a record of Sunday recreation, a question that every man figures out for himself. In shaping a scheme of life, one of the things that we permitted in the Sunday list was walking. Free and unlimited walking. Not the Sabbath day's journey of the Mosaic law of less than one mile, nor yet the rule of the Scotch church, that made any walking in a field, or by a stream on Sunday a crime and misdemeanor. But a long walk that will drive the purifying blood to the finger tips and make an old man new again.

"Walk and be happy, walk and be healthy," said Mr. Dickens. "Walk steadily and with a purpose. The wandering man knows of certain ancients, far gone in years, who have staved off the infirmities and dissolution by earnest walking,—hale fellows close upon eighty and ninety, but brisk as boys."

Lewisburg is like all other towns addicted to automobiles, and they have driven the pedestrian off of the highways, for if the walker falls into a pleasant train of thought he is apt to fall under a Juggernaut, model of 1922. Jumping sideways is no fit employment for a dignified man any way. And we had had enough of roads around Lewisburg on former occasions, and putting two and two together we remembered that the editor of the Greenbrier Independent had the reputation of being an oddity in that he would walk when he could have ridden. So we hunted him up and mentioned the subject of automobile infested roads and whether farmers shot tramps who tried to climb their wire fences, and soon got up a walking match, something that we had not bargained for. It soon became apparent that it was a contest as to which one could foot it farthest. From one o'clock to seven it was a steady walk, and during that whole time the foot was hardly off of thick blue grass sod, as grateful to the tread as the thickest earpet ever woven.

We made a kind of a game of it, in that we kept to pasture lands and avoided fields that had known the plow. We took to a ridge and went north towards Maxwelton, and there swung around west and circled back to Lewisburg, and before we got back we were devoutly thankful that we had trained for such a contest. The editor of the ultra conservative paper estimated that we had strolled a matter of twelve miles, but we hold to fifteen, based on the time that we took. The sun was shining. The grass was green. The blue dome was cloudless. Rabbits got under our feet. And once a fox squirrel ambled ahead of us along a rail fence. We had not seen one of these big brown squirrels since Hector was a pup.

We knew that there were great areas of blue grass land in the Big Levels, but we never before realized the immensity of their bounds. For our fifteen mile walk over such grass as a golf professional would hazard his immortal soul to possess, was but a small part of the pastures that stretched for mile after mile in every direction. It seems to us that a man could walk himself to death in the Big Levels and never have to use the same ground but once. And we have reason to believe that few citizens of that town know or appreciate the possibilities of the grass that grows to their very door steps, as a playground. They do not need to worry about a golf course. Their horizon is covered with a natural one.

In prehistoric days the wilderness wanderer topped the mountain and looked down on the great treeless plain, covered then as now with grass and reported it as the great savannah. In 1774 an army rendezvous was ordered at the great savannah, at the big spring, where the town of Lewisburg now is. They have let the word savannah languish of late years, but the savannah itself is there.

Monday morning we decided to ride on the train to Charleston, not having time to foot it, and we passed through the coal field and saw the mines were nearly all idle, owing to the state of the market and the labor disputes. Coal is a great source of wealth but there is so much of it, and if every wheel was turning there are so many mines and so many laborers, and so much time saving machinery, that there could be employment for but a part of those who are willing to work in hazards of a mine far underneath the ground.

There is a fuss on now about the wages, and it is anything but pleasant to be there now, and you can jolly well believe that we did not inquire into the merits of the case. Oh no, we never mentioned her.

The fedeal term of the court was on, and Judge McClintic was engaged in following the path of justice that leads through the greatest judicial maze on earth, to-wit, the respective rights of the persons directly interested in the law appertaining to injunctions in disputes between the employer and the employee. The learned clerks that run the daily newspapers added to the bewilderment by announcing that Judge McClintic had been reversed when an appeal was taken from his court to an appellate court, as if there was anything unusual for a dissatisfied litigant taking an appeal in a pending cause.

And on Tuesday, a multitude came to the Federal Court building and it was a great aggregation. Lawyers, jurors, witnesses, special agents, inspectors, defendants, bondsmen, prisoners, and all classes and conditions of mankind. We had heard a good deal about the charge that Judge McClintic makes to a grand jury in this period of unrest when the people are inclined to kick against the pricks, but we had not realized how impressive it could be. The great courtroom was packed and jammed, and they were silent that they might hear. The Judge's style of deliverance is after the school of the late Senator Vest—every word carefully chosen, deftly launched, and of full weight and fineness. He told the grandjury that they represented one of the oldest institutions known to the law, which for a thousand years had stood between the tyranny of the governing officials on one side and the outlaws on the other. And we were particularly struck with his interpretation of the prohibition law, and he made it plain that it was not only no joke, but that it was very bad taste to make a joking matter of it. That a man might become a criminal and conspirator against the law by aiding in a sale of liquor, by telling a thirsty man where he could find a bootlegger. Thus a conspiracy to violate the law would have been formed by the buyer, and the seller, and the witless gobetween, who did not have presence of mind enough to see what his acquiescence and goodnature was leading him into. We cannot quote the Judge's words but can tell the impression that was made by them. Another thing that we had not thought about was mentioned, and that is that a man might lose his farm by allowing it to become a place for the violation of the prohibition law.

This court is what a court is supposed to be, that is open to the high and the low alike. Here the very drags of humanity face the Judge, and here the highest type of man tells his troubles. But the first days of a regular term are crowded with suffering humanity, and it is a very depressing spectacle. The defendants for most part pleaded guilty, and the court gave them their respective portions. Most of the cases were for violation of the prohibition law. A few minutes to a case. One case the defendant asked for a jury, and in a short time the jury looked upon the prisoner, and the prisoner looked upon the jury, and without a witness being heard, the defendant withdrew his plea of not guilty, entered a plea of guilty, and was sentenced.

We heard of a case that would have interested us, but we did not see it tried. The way it was related to us was that the defendants in a liquor case were surprised at night and were seen to throw something from buckets in a running stream. The defendants said that they had been sanging and that they had thrown the sang in the water. It is said that they claimed that they sanged at night and carried their findings in buckets. They were weak on botany and the jury so found. They must of been thinking of the statement that the morning stars sang together.

While in Charleston, we saw the Governor. He is the same strong, rugged man that he always was, of tried ability and courage. It was the first time that we had seen him since he took charge of the ship of state. He sits in a shack bossing a million men. We called to submit a matter of political economy, to the effect of changing the law so that there would be four Sundays in every week, in order that there might be work enough to keep every laboring man busy every week day. He said he would consider the proposition.

Maybe next week we will get all the way round the circle described above, but no more at present.

Cattle Wanted
To Graze

I can graze forty head of young cattle on my farm on Clover Creek. Address me at 2901 Dickson St., St. Louis, Missouri. LIGON PRICE.

Guina and Duck Eggs

12 duck eggs $1.00. 16 Guina eggs $1 00, by parcel post.
W. McClintic,
Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR SALE: Two Registered Shorthorn yearling bulls.
S. B. Nethken & Co.
Cass, W. Va.

Announcements

HOUSE OF DELEGATES

Editor Pocahontas Times—

At the request of my many friends, I have decided to make the race for House of Delegates, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Standing on my past record as a member of that body and promising if elected again to stand by, and for the interest of Pocahontas County and the State, I solicit your support.
Yours Respectfully,
J. A. McLAUGHLIN.

This paper is authorized to announce E. N. MOORE a candidate for re-election to the House of Delegates, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

TO THE VOTERS OF POCAHONTAS COUNTY:

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the office of Delegate to the Legislature from Pocahontas County, subject to the action of the Democratic voters in the general primary election to be held in the month of August, 1922; and I respectfully solicit your support and influence.
J. G. HAMRICK.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Schools, subject to the action of the Republican voters expressed in the Primary election, to be held August 8, 1922. Your support and influence will be appreciated.
Respectfully,
C. E. FLYNN.

Commissioner's Notice

State of West Virginia
vs.
640 A, 640 A, 640 A, 640 A, 640 A, 640 A, 640 A, 640 A, West Virginia Pulp & Paper Company, a corporation of West Virginia and West Virginia Pulp & Paper Comny, a corporation of the State of Deleware.

The parties to the above entitled cause will take notice that the undersigned Commissioner in Chancery of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, will on the 13th day of May, 1922, at my office in the Town of Marlinton, West Virginia, proceed to execute the order of reference made in said cause by the said Circuit Court on the — day of March, 1922, and will take, state and report to court the following matters of account, to-wit:

First: Whether or not the said tracts of land above mentioned and described were dropped from the land books in the year 1908 and not been entered thereon for taxation since that date, or for any part thereof, and if so, the amount of the taxes, interest and costs properly chargeable thereon to each of the said tracts.

Second: Whether or not there is any person or persons entitled to redeem the said land or lots or any part thereof, and whether or not any person is in position to take the benefit of the forfeiture, or any matter deemed pertinent by the commissioner, or required by any party or person in interest, to be specially stated.

At which time and place the parties to this suit may attend and do what is necessary to protect their interests in this suit.

Given under my hand this 15th day of April, 1922.
A. P. EDGAR,
Commissioner in Chancery.

Strawberry and Raspberry Plants

Everbearing Strawberry Plants by parcel post 25 plants for 50 cents; 50 plants 75 cents and 100 for $1.00.

St. Regis Red Everbearing Raspberries—25 plants for 75 cents; 50 plants $1.25 and 100 for $2.25 by parcel post.
W. McClintic,
Marlinton, W. Va.

NOTICE

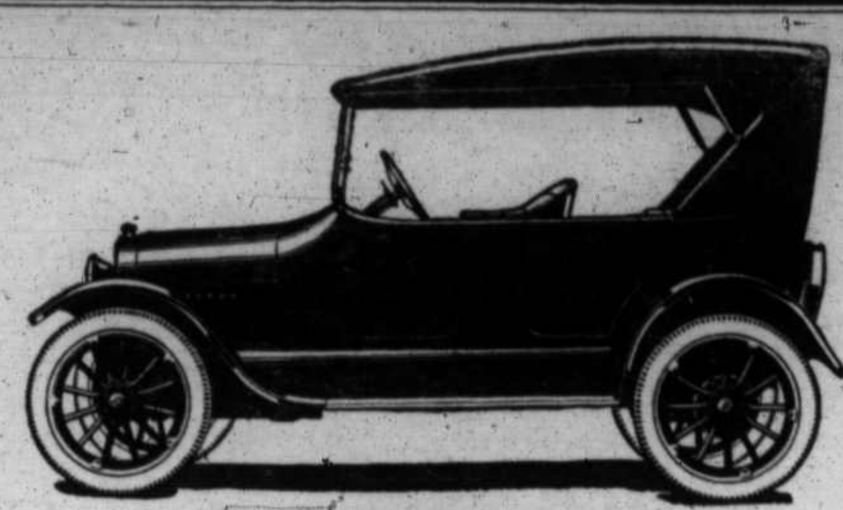
My wife, Lillian McCalpin, having left my support, I will not be responsible for any debts she may contract.
This 13th day of April, 1922.
Ballard McCalpin.

NOTICE

Our mill at Hillsboro will not be in operation from May 1 to May 10. Mr. Spencer will be away from home and for 10 days the mill will do no custom grinding, but will be running as usual after May 10.
Community Milling Co.
Hillsboro, W. Va.

FOR SALE

One 16 in stone burr mill
One feed grinder, 8 inch
One line shaft and pulleys
One 7 hp Ottawa gasoline engine
One wood saw, with 26 in. saw
One 1920 Ford touring car, or will trade for new model Ford roadster. Apply to
A. H. McCOMB
Huntersville, W.Va.



CHEVROLET

World's Lowest Priced FULLY EQUIPPED Automobile

$525

f. o. b. Flint, Mich.

The People's Car
See it
Compare it
Try it as Our Guest

If you pay less, you get less.

Marlinton Motor Company
Opposite Passenger Depot Marlinton, W. Va.

Auction Sale

One mile east of Greenbank,

I have sold my farm and am leaving the state, therefore I will the 2nd day of May 1922, sell at public auction to the highest bidder the following property, all of my household and kitchen furniture, all of my farm tools and implements, consisting of plows & harrows.

1 mowing machine, good as new
1 hay rake
1 Deering binder, good as new
1 good Farmers Favorite grain drill
1 two horse wagon
2 set of heavy work harness
1 set of driving harness
1 good surrey
1 good young match team, weight 1250 or 1300 lbs.
1 pair of draft colts, Percheron
9 head of good young milk cows, well bred, calf by side or will be fresh soon
25 head of good two year old steers
5 head of two year old heifers
40 head of well bred ewes, 2 rams
2 hogs one yr. old, 1 fine brood sow 6 pigs by side
4 turkeys
1 lot of oats, buckwheat and corn
3 to 5 thousand feet of sawed lumber, 1 lot of posts, 1 Wilburn saddle, 1 side saddle, 1 sewing machine 1 spinning wheel, 1 lot of glass jars, 1 iron kettle and other articles too numerous to mention.

TERMS: All sums under ten dollars cash, over that amount not less than 6 months time will be given, with interest bearing notes and approved security. More time will be given on day of sale if considered best hereafter.
L. H. ERVIN.
Ashford, Auctioneer.

V-C Plant Food

The Best Thing for

Flowers, Lawn, Garden

Ordorless. Packed in convenient sized cans and packages. For sale by

C. J. Richardson
Marlinton, W. Va.

NOTICE

I have sold my interest in the grocery store, under the firm name of Sheets & Darnell, to J. L. Sheets. Mr. Sheets will collect all accounts and pay all accounts. I will not be responsible for any debts from this date.
This 4th day of April, 1922
W. H. DARNELL.

Farm for Sale

At a very reasonable price to quick buyer. Containing about 170 acres on which is a comfortable dwelling house, a good barn and all necessary out buildings, such as wagon shed, granary, dairy, poultry house, smoke house, and cellar. Plenty of good fruit for two or three families, severnice farm fields, good meadows and is practically all inclosed with rail or wire fence. This farm has two good sugar orchards, plenty of good water and a lot of nice timber, an ideal place for stock, or would make two very good homes. Convenient to North Fork Lumber Co. Situated 6 miles west of Hightown, Va., in blue grass district, Highland County, 1 1-2 miles south of S. & P. Pike with good road to same. 1-2 mile to school. If you are looking for a bargain come and see this farm or write to owner.
J. P. HISE,
Hightown, Va.

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.
R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

True Barred Rocks

Thompson Imperial Ringlet strain, Prize winners and egg producers, none better. $1 for setting of 15 eggs at home.
Mrs. W. A. BARLOW
Onoto, W. Va.

Notice

All persons are notified not to fish in the waters of the Big Spring Branch of Stony Creek on the lands of the undersigned.

Please do not embarass us by asking permission as it will be refused.
A. C. Barlow,
Geo. A. C. Auldridge
J. W. G. Smith.
April 3, 1922.

NOTICE

All persons are notified not to fish nor to drive stock through the lands of the undersigned on Sitlingtons creek, near Dunmore, W. Va.
ARCH GALFORD
April 1, 1922

Notice to Creditors

All persons having claims against the estate of Mary J. Poage deceased are hereby notified to present the same to the undersigned her administrator c. t. a. duly proved, for payment, and all persons knowing themselves to be indebted to said estate are notified to pay same to me at once.
W. E. POAGE
Administrator of Mary J. Poage deceased.

EGGS FOR HATCHING

From high producing strain of S.C. Barred Rocks E.B. Thompson strain; S. C R. I. Reds; S.C White Leghorns $1.25 per setting of 15; $2 for 2 settings. Baby chicks, last of May or first of June, $12 per 100, delivered by parcel post. Call, phone or write your wants.
OAK CREST POULTRY FARM
Millpoint, W. Va.

SHORTHORN BULL—A big yearling roan bull, high grade, short horn, well bred and a good individual. Apply to A. A. SHARP,
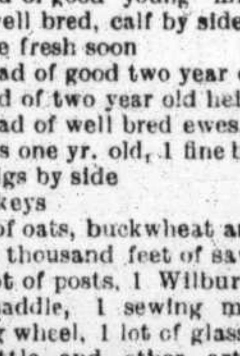
Frost, W. Va.

FOR SALE:—I have two heavy teams of horses for sale at Rimel, W. Va., with harness, spreads and coupler complete, ready for work. Will sell at the right price.
A. D. Hoke. Rimel, W. Va.

COWS FOR SALE

Four young cows with calves by side.
GEO. W. GINGAR
Huntersville, W. Va.

111 one-eleven cigarettes



Three Friendly Gentlemen

TURKISH
VIRGINIA
BURLEY

10¢ for FIFTEEN

In a new package that fits the pocket—
At a price that fits the pocket-book—
The same unmatched blend of
TURKISH, VIRGINIA and BURLEY Tobaccos

Guaranteed by

111 FIFTH AVE.

ATTORNEYS

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals.

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Court of Appeals of the state of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Marlinton, W. Va.
Furniture made to order and old furniture repaired.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

R. B. SLAVIN
Heating, Plumbing and Sheet Metal Work. Best materials. 17 years experience.
Marlinton, W. Va.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specially of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

DR. CHAS. S. KRAMEE
DENTIST
First National Bank Building
Phone
Marlinton, W. Va

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck. Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

M. F. GUM
AUCTIONEER

R. T. GREER & SON

Marlinton, W. Va.

Largest Buyer Of

FUR SKINS
GINSENG
ROOTS and
HERBS

Get Our Price

DELCO-LIGHT

"Electricity for every Farm"

Write or phone for Catalogue
ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES

Marlinton Electric Co.
DEALERS

Z. S. Smith

Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Notice

I handle Oyster Shells, Grit, Charcoal, Etc. Want to buy one Rouen Duck Drake, will pay good.

EGGS

S. C. Rhode Island Reds 15 eggs 75 cents. Parcel Post 25 cents extra. A fine strain of best layers.
Mrs. J. B. Simmons,
Millpoint, W. Va.

POULTRY

Burbin Reds turkey eggs for setting $5.00 per 13; Barred Rock eggs $1.25 for 15; Rhode Island Reds $1.25 for 15 by Parcel Post prepaid. Hens lay year 'round.
Mrs. A. S. Gay,
Onoto, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLI NO 2 — MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, AUGUST 24, 1922 — $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

THE COUNTY FAIR

The County Fair is in full swing and it is a success from every standpoint. It started off strong with an attendance of 3800 on the first day, and the automobiles were past conn ting. It was a fulfillment of the ancient prophesy: "With the fifth wheel of the chariot, shall they come." The fifth wheel is the one that is slung on the side.

In writing about the Fair at this stage of the proceedings, a condition is found such as bothered the special correspondent on the occasion of a sudden happening in a distant town. The Associated Press did not have a representative there and they wired for an account from some local scribe and all they got from him was: "All is confusion, cannot write anything"

The old Levi Gay farm has been transformed into a beautiful park. with a green mountain on one side of a plain as level as a floor, and a clear beautiful river on the other. Good driveways and tracks have been made A grandstand with comfortable seats and faced just right as regards the sun has been erected.

A huge cattle barn and another barn for sheep and hogs stand on the river bank, and both are full of the finest finished stock you ever saw.

Next week we hope to do better with a write up.

The first day was given over to the home coming on the occasion of the Centennial of the County. It was planned to have three distinguished sons of the county speak to the people. Of the three, Judge McClintic was not able to be present owing to his absence in Canada. Judge Moore of New York, came. He has recent suffered a stroke of some kind and he was not able to stand while speaking, and delivered his address from an arm chair. But he spoke with winged words. His speech was a patriotic one and dealt with liberty under the law. His greeting to the county on his appearance was very affecting, and the burden of this theme was that the more he thought of Pocahontas county.

Rev. Dr. H. W. McLaughlin spoke of the men who had left their impress upon the county, and it was a rare and beautiful tribute to the mighty dead. He is a gifted orator and a deep and sincere man.

The art of the speakers, the charm of the natural surroundings, the occasion of the meeting, the point to which God has brought us on our way, all combined to plumb the heart to deep and unknown depths, and it was good to be there.

The weather for the big event is fine. Monday morning the people on the mountain tops could write their names in the frost, but it was not a killer, and it was sign of good weather for fairs.

Next week we hope to give much space and a more detailed description of the Fair.

At this time we have in our midst fine people, fine cattle, fine horses, fine hogs, fine sheep, and a fine entertainment.

And the hospitality of the people of the county seat has been put to the test and not found wanting.

DIPLOMA EXAMINATION

A special examination for Free School Diplomas will be held Saturday, August 26th at the following places:

Bruffeys Creek — Examiner, Glen Bruffey
Hillsboro — Exam. Margaret LaRue.
Marlinton — Examiner G. D. McNeill
Huntersville — Exam. E. E. White.
Greenbank — Examiner, Kermit Arbogast
Durbin — Examiner, C. E. Flynn
Nottingham — Ex. Mrs. G. C. Hamilton.
Dunmore, — Examiner, ———

Applicants must have made a general average of 70 per cent in a prior examination.

No examination should be taken on any subjects in which a grade of 75 per cent or better has been made.

Examination begins at 9:00 A. M.

A letter from W. N. Allen, of Denver, Col., states that his wife is much improved in health. He says the strikes are all settled, and they hope for more prosperous times in the west. He and Mrs. Allen expect to return next spring, at least for a visit.

McDowell county levy estimate provides for an expenditure of $269,382, of which $40.000 goes for jail expense and $18,000 for deputy sheriffs. Smallpox expense is figured at $12,000 and assessor's force $16,000.

The drive to raise $150,000 for Davis and Elkins college was successful The amount sought was exceeded by several thousand dollars. This campaign was part of a plan to raise a million dollars for the Presbyterian schools of the Synods of West Virginia.

HOMELESS CHILDREN

The State Board of Children's Guardians with District Headquarters at Elkins have several bright youngsters whom they are anxious to place in good foster homes. These children are mentally and physically normal and just like other children but for one thing THEY ARE HOMELESS.

Every child is entitled to, and needs the love, care and environment that only a good christian home can give. They are our future citizens and you can render a real service to your community by giving the care and help needed for the development of good christian men and women.

Many a child comes after long years of waiting, only to slip back almost at once into eternity They do not seem to need you but leave behind a big need that only a baby can fill. Why not give some of the love that is spilling out of your heart to some child who does not know the meaning of love? Many have never known a mother's caress or a daddy with whom to romp and play. They need you and will broaden your existence and help you back to the road to happiness.

There is the slogan these days, "The homeless child for the childless home." And when it works which is often and often, comes a joy like none other in the home the joy of a child's laughter and the litter of a child's toys.

I'm sure some little children souls,
A-wander in the sky,
Get lost in hunting for their homes
And pass their mothers by.

Sometimes they come to careless arms
That grudge to let them stay,
And leave quite empty mothers' hearts
Who want them night and day.

Will you help one of these children to find his place in life? If so communicate with Mrs. Helen Chandler, District Agent, Elkins, W. Va.

WM. GIBSON DEAD

William Gibson died at the home of W. A. Eskridge on Wednesday evening, August 23, 1922. For some time he had been a sufferer from Brights disease. His age was 56 years. He was a son of the late Samuel Gibson, of Frost. Mr. Gibson was a prominent citizen of Pocahontas and had served his county as assessor and sheriff Burial in Mt. View Cemetery Friday afternoon, the services being in charge of the Masons from the residence of W. A. Eskridge at 1.30 o'clock.

HIGH SCHOOL SEPT. 11

A card from Prof. Ramsey announces the opening of Edray District High School on Monday, September 11. The Marlinton grades will open one week later.

MRS. WM. M. SHARP

Mrs. Julia Moore Sharp, died at her home at Edray, Wednesday night August 16, 1922. She had been sick a week or two with some acute stomach trouble. She was seventy-six years old, having been born September, 1845. She is survived by her husband, William Sharp, and their daughter, Mrs. J. W. Price. Burial in the Edray graveyard on Friday afternoon, the services being conducted from the home by her pastor, Rev. C. A. Powers, of the Methodist Church, of which she had been a member for nearly sixty years.

Mrs. Sharp was a daughter of the late Squire Isaac Moore and his wife Casherine Gillian Moore. Of her father's family but two remain, Mrs. Paul Sharp and Samuel B. Moore.

A telegram was received Wednesday morning bringing the news of the death of Rev. Daniel Allen Penick, D. D., aged 84 years, at his home in Lexington, Virginia. His wife was Eliza McNeel, eldest daughter of the late Col. Paul McNeel. Dr. Penick was well known to the older citizens of Pocahontas. He was a minister of the Presbyterian church for about sixty-four years, having been a classmate in the seminary with the late Wm. T. Price, D. D.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mays, Marlinton, August 20, a son.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Rhedes, Edray, August 22, a son.

A nice white frost in many parts of Pocahontas Monday morning, but no damage reported.

Married, August 21, 1922, William C. Wyatt and Miss Henrietta Rucker Rev. G W. Woolard. officiating minister.

Teachers' Institute in Marlinton next week, beginning on Monday.

The attendance at the Methodist Sunday school was at high water mark Sunday with 220 present, an increase of 12. The Presbyterian school was 164, one less than the Sunday before.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express through your paper our appreciation and heartfelt thanks for the many acts of kindness, help and sympathy shown us by the I. O. O. F. and many other good neighbors who helped us so much during the severe illness of our son Fenton at the John Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore. It has been a great help and comfort to us and words fail to express our gratification.

Mrnroe Beard and Wife.

FROM M. A. DUNLAP

I see a man is to be in Pocahontas to examine the marble for building purposes. A better stone outcrops above the marble. It is the best stone I ever saw. It some what resembles the red marble, and crops out in the Adam hacking. I will some day write you a lot about the history of Pocahontas County when I have time—some things no one else knows.

One thing ought to be preserved, and that is the feat of arms by Ike Hill when he captured a captain and twenty five men with their arms and horses. When we consider that they were Americans he will compare favorably with Sergeant York.

I see you have a controversy over the whippoorwill and bullbat. In my life time I have seen the nests of many whippoorwills, and, I think, six bullbats. I have never seen but one bullbat nest with more than one egg or one bird in it. Though they are said to lay two eggs. They are many bullbats here, but no whippoorwills. I have found their nests and seen the little helpless birds or eggs upon the ground. The whippoorwill inhabits an acid soil having scrubby timber upon it, usually huckleberry bushes.

The bullbat nests rather late in the season, but the whippoorwill nests immediately upon its arrival from the south. The bullbat is solitary. I have seen whippoorwills nesting in large colonies upon an eastern slope near the foot of the ridge. The whippoorwill will flutter around and pretend to be crippled when you come upon its nest.

Perchance it may interest the young to know that the whippoorwill was not always a bird of the night. Once a chief who lived in the West resolved to put an end to the wars and animosities of the different tribes He said it were far better for them to fight poverty, ignorance and diseases than to fight one another. So he came upon a long pilgrimage to see the great chief of the mountains The chief of the mountains had a beautiful daughter so lovely, clean and beautiful that praise of her spread throughout the length and breadth of the land. When the warriors returned from the chase or battle with their bloody trophies, she turned from them in disgust.

There were in those days in the mountains a flower of such beauty and perfection of form, coloring and perfume, that no such flower has since been seen. The flower was a lilly called Ronda, and because of the great loveliness and beauty of the chief's daughter and because she tried to cherish the few remaining specimens of the flower she was called Ronda lilly.

The name of the chief who came from the West was Wontonawisk. Wontonawisk was not able to convince the Chief of the Mountains of the wisdom of his opinions, while Crazy Bull, Mad Bear and Bloody Panther despised him for his peaceful propositions. They called him a coward and ridiculed him. but Rondalilly was delighted with his proposition, and begged her father to consider it.

After many days, when the great chief refused, Wontonawisk prepared to return to the West. Howbeit he asked the great chief that he would give his daughter to him for his wife As they agreed upon all things so well the great Chief consented. Wontonawisk and Rondalilly departed together to the West.

One day near night they came to a beautiful spring between two mountains, the water clear and cold, the bottom and the land around clean white sand. Here they sat down for the night.

After they had left the home of the great chief, Crazy Bull and Mad Bear and Bloody Panther returned. Finding that Wontonawisk had taken Rondalilly away, the set up a howl of rage and immediately started in pursuit. Thus as evening darkened into night, Wontonawisk heard the sound of the approaching pursuers as he and Rondalilly sat on the bank of the spring. They immediately fled, trying to gain a narrow pass where he might alone stand off those who pursued. As they hastened toward the pass they heard a noise in the bushes. Looking around they saw the father of the owls, who had seized the whippoorwill and was about to devour him. Then said Wontonawisk here is one in dire distress even as we; I will release him from his cruel enemy. Whereupon he took a stick and in a moment killed the owl. But the momentary delay had given one of the pursuers time to pass him and gain the pass ahead of him.

Having heard one pass by Wontonawisk and Rondalilly secreted themselves in a clump of small bushes. The now liberated whippoorwill seeing the plight of his benefactor, flew a littlt way off and cried, "Wontonawisk, Wontonawisk, Wontonawisk." The three pursuers each when they heard it said it is Rondalilly crying to Wontonawisk for help. They therefore rushed to the place, and having been separated, when they came to the place and saw no one, they each thought the other had taken Rondalilly and secreted her somewhere. All became angry and began to fight. Soon two were killed and one mortally wounded.

In a short time the moon came up. When they could see Wontonawisk and Rondalilly helped the wounded man to the edge of the water, and there they left him with some food. In two more days they came to the Western Waters, where Wontonawisk had left his canoe. They got in it and paddled away down the creek and down the rivers. Hand in hand they floated down together.

The whippoorwill was afraid ever after that to sleep in the night. As the gloaming merges into darkness the whippoorwill wakes up and remembering his friend he calls and calls his long absent friend, "Wontonawisk, Wontonawisk, Wontonawisk." The wind moves the branches, the shadows flit upon the ground, the whippoorwill thinks he sees his friend. He says, "Look, look," but no one emerges from the shadows. Again he calls, "Wontonawisk, Wontonawisk, Wontonawisk," He calls in vain for his friend never returns.

The bushes in which Wontonawisk and Rondalilly were hidden had a little brown flower which had no perfume. Because they had hidden the fugitives the great Spirit permitted the essence of the Ronda to enter into the flowers of the bushes. Hence we have the delightful perfume of the Ronda in the calycanthus.

The owls came upon the dead body of their father. One said someone has killed our father, and the others cried out, "Who, who, who." So you will still hear the whippoorwill calling Wontonawisk and the owls still yelling who who who and the calycanthus still gives off the perfume of the ronda and men still fight and cheat and steal from one another and the prophet still has to float away into the great unknown, unheeded and unheard.

Ponca City, Oklahoma.

SHEETS--CURRY

Monday afternoon at 2:30, Clarence Asbury Sheets and Miss Grace Marie Curry, of Dunmore, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Nina Shiflett, at Cass. Their Pastor, Rev. J. W. Rosenberger, officiating.

They took the afternoon train for Charleston and other points West to spend their honeymoon.

This popular and estimable young couple have the best wishes of a host of friends for a long and happy life

GRAND JURORS

Summoned for a special term of the Circuit Court to be held on Tuesday, September 5th.

Greenbank District—C. M. Greathouse. Chas. J. Spencer, C. C. Wanless, S. H. Johnson, Osborne Tracy, Amos Doyle.

Edray District—Luther McNeill, P. L. Carter, J. C. Haupt, Jake Coffar, C. C. Beale.

Huntersville—J. B. Buckley, J. C. Harper.

Little Levels District— Edgar Smith, Lee Moore, Ewel Kramer.

Died, little Jessie Franklin Cutlip, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. S. Cutlip, on August 19, 1922, aged 11 months and 14 days. The funeral services were conducted by Rev G. W. Woolard, and burial at Seebert.

Jessie was a bright child and will be greatly missed. But while dark shadows have fallen on this home, it is God's will and not ours be done.

W.

Rev. L. V. Ruckman, pastor of Grace Methodist Church, Roanoke, Va., and family are spending their vacation with his mother, Mrs. E J. Ruckman at Millpoint.

A number of bootleggers were put in jail this week.

Eighth Annual Meet of the Great Alleghany County Fair

at Covington, Virginia

Tuesday, Wednesday. Thursday, Friday, Saturday

September 12th 13th 14th 15th 16th

5 Big Days - 5 Big Nights

3 Big Acts from the New York Hippodrome, Day and Night

Daredevil Sparks, the World's Champion Flyer, performs the most wonderful daredevil stunts from wings and running gear of flying machine while going through the air at a terrific speed and finally coming to earth in parachute, hurtling through the air a distance of five thousand feet. Each afternoon.

Georgeous and Spectacular Fireworks every night and Thursday afternoon.

THE WORLD AT HOME SHOWS, the biggest and best carnival company on the road today, will furnish all midway attractions.

Great Big Horse Show Every Afternoon

LOTS OF FUN, LAUGHTER, AMUSEMENTS AND GOOD TIMES
JOIN THE THRONGS and MEET YOUR FRIENDS

Lots of Agricultural and Horticultural Products, Horses, Cattle, Sheep, Swine, Poultry, Fancy Work, etc., etc., on display.

Reduced Rates on C. & O. Railway

Big Premium List now ready. Write for copy.

Thos. B. McCaleb, Sec-Treas-Mgr.

The Fuller Brush Man Is In Town

WATCH FOR HIM HE WEARS THE FULLER TRADE MARK BUTTON

He will call at your home in a few days and present you with a "Fuller Handy Brush" free, a gift from the largest manufacturer of brushes in the world. He will also demonstrate in your home the famous Fuller Sanitary Brushes and Household Tools, showing you how to more efficiently perform the duties of housekeeping.

Always demand GENUINE FULLER BRUSHES, which bear the Fuller Trademark and also the red top tag. If you buy genuine FULLER BRUSHES they are guaranteed—

1. The bristles will never come out
2. The wire will not rust
3. The handle will not pull off

A brush with any of the above defects will be cheerfully replaced by any Fuller man or by the Fuller Brush Co,, of Hartford, Conn.

FULLER BRUSHES

69 Uses - Head to Foot - Cellar to Attic

Look for the Fuller ads in the "Saturday Evening Post," "Ladies Home Journal," "Good Housekeeping Magaxine," "McLeans," "The American Magazine," and others.

DURBIN

The Knights of Pythias had a fine banquet the evening of August 12th which was enjoyed by all women and children and grown ups. G. C. Hamilton was toast master and gave a good talk.

The Moose Lodge will banquet near labor day with a free for all banquet for men, women and children.

The Chautauqua was in our town last week and was fine. Some good lectures were given that were helpful to old and young and will be a great benefit to our people.

Our Class A road is fine now and lots of motor cars are traveling over them now.

Haymaking is about done and gathering berries is the order of the day.

On Friday the 18th we had a community picnic by four of the Sunday Schools in a grove near Mrs. M. C. Greathouse's place. A bountiful dinner was spread and all enjoyed themselves fine.

Olen Acord and wife of Boston, Mass., are here to spend a month with Pocahontas friends. We are glad to see them back once more.

Granville Gillispie of Detroit, Michigan, was a visitor in our town last week while he and his family were in this part.

T. L. Burner is opening up coal on his Cheat Mountain farm

D. M. Henry is bringing in some fine lumber for Williams & Pifer.

Rev. Albert VanDevander has been with his brother the past week.

A. B. Kincaid will go to Mooseheart Illinois, this week as a delegate to the Moose convention which meets there.

John L. Williams was visiting his friends in town this week.

Jake Lacy, of Randolph county, bought a fine bunch of Pocahontas cattle.

J. B. Nottingham, of Nottingham, sold a fine bunch of cattle to T. L. Burner of Barbour county.

STONY BOTTOM

Hay making is the order of the day when the weathor is favorable.

Miss Mary Bailey has returned from Huntington where she spent a week with Mrs. F. L. Cowherd.

Mrs. Owen Curry of Cass, is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Geiger.

Mr. and Mrs. Lem Shrader and family of Rainelle, spent a few days here last week.

Quite a few of the people of this neigeborhood attended the S. S. convention on Knapps Creek.

Mrs. F. S. Cowherd returned to her home in Huntington after spending a few days with her parents She was accompanied home by her sister Miss Valley M Beverage.

Mrs. Hoxie Meeks, of Evenwood, is spending a few weeks with her mother, Mrs. John McCalpin.

Mr. and Mrs. A L. McCalpin were in Marlinton Sunday to see their son who is seriously ill.

CHAUTAUQUA
Quality Programs for Everybody

18 EVENTS 18
and Junior Chautauqua

First Week-day

Afternoon:
Greetings and Announcements—Chautauqua Superintendent
Concert—Chapel Singers
Junior Chautauqua

Night:
Concert—Chapel Singers
Lecture—Elliott A. Boyl

Second Week-day

Morning:
Junior Chautauqua

Afternoon:
Series Lecture—Chautauqua Superintendent
Concert—Colafemina Concert Company

Night:
Concert—Colafemina Concert Company
Lecture—Dr. Gregory Zilboorg

Third Week-day

Morning:
Junior Chautauqua

Afternoon:
Series Lecture—Chautauqua Superintendent
Concert—Fara Groves Musical Sextet

Night:
Concert—Fara Groves Musical Sextet
Lecture—Mrs. Helen B. Paulsen

Fourth Week-day

Morning:
Junior Chautauqua

Afternoon:
Tableaux Vivants
Lecture—Madam A. C. Zehner

Night:
Comedy-Drama—"Turn to the Right'

Fifth Week-day

Morning:
Junior Chautauqua

Afternoon:
Junior Pageant—"Conquests of Peace"
Punch and Judy—Will H. Smith

Night:
Grand Closing Concert — The Colonial Operatic Company

Sunday

When Sunday intervenes, a program suitable to the day will be arranged.

BUY A SEASON TICKET

Marlinton, Sept. 4 to 8

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLI NO 4 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, SEPTEMBER 7, 1922 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

CHAUTAUQUA

Chautauqua is in Marlinton this week for its annual visit. Large crowds are attending and the programs are very fine. Each afternoon there is a lecture and music and at night there is music and a speech. Thursday night will be the play, "Turn to the Right," and on Friday afternoon Junior Chautauqua will give a pageant. More children than ever before are in junior chautauqua.

Considerable difficulty was experienced in placing sufficient tickets, about $1300 worth, for the guarantors to come clear. The increased cost of the tickets and the many other diversions and general conditions made the ticket sales to drag.

The big tent is spread on the high school grounds, a fine grassy place on Knapps Creek; each night the full moon over all, the sweet music of the players and the singers, the eloquence of the speakers—a most charming place to spend the evening.

REVIVAL MEETING

The revival services begin in the Huntersville Presbyterian church Thursday, Sept. 7th. A telegram to this effect has been received from Evangelist Fowle; but it came too late to correct the dates as they appeared in the announcement of the meeting which was made in the Pocahontas Times last week.

Beginning Thursday night of this week there will be preaching every night at 8:00 o'clock thru Sunday Sept. 17th. Everbody within automobile reach of Huntersville is cordially invited to attend these services Gospel messages in song and sermon will greet you.

W. C. N.

Mrs. A. C. Echard and Mrs. A. E. Thomas received word on Friday that their father, Dr. Walter Garth, of Greenfield, Nelson county, Virginia, had died suddenly on Thursday August 31st. No particulars were given. Dr. Garth was 87 years old. He served as a Consederate soldier during the war. He was well known in Marlinton, where he often came to visit his daughters.

Albert Lee Simmons and Miss Laura Roxella McCloud, both of this county, were married at the Methodist parsonage at noon Wednesday, September 6, 1922, Rev. F. B. Wyand officiating minister. After a short honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Simmons will make their home at Raywood.

There will be an ice cream supper at Mt. Zion church in the hills on Saturday night, September 9th for the benefit of the church.

Rev. S. R. Neel, of Alderson, will be present at the laying of the corner stone of the new Methodits church on Thursday afternoon and will deliver an address.

Mr. J. H. Sydenstricker having sold his farm ner Wolf Creek to Mr. W. W. Baker, will have a sale of his personal property on Sept. 15 and will move to Alderson.—Monroe Watchman.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cochran, at Campbelltown, September 1, 1922, a son.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. J. S Miller, Buckeye, September 4, a daughter.

Born, to Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Baxter, a daughter, Thursday, August 31, 1922.

ASA RYDER KILLED

Asa Ryder, aged about 20 years, met his death at Beard, on Monday, September 4, 1922.

On Sunday night, the store of Alex Stuart, at Horrock, was broken open and among other things taken was a lot of ginseng. On Monday morning, Mr. Stuart telephoned to the store of Moore & Poague, at Beard, to be on the look out for any one offering seng for sale. Captain W. T. Poague answered that he had just bought some seng from a young man. Mr. Stuart asked that the seng seller be detained, caught the up train and was at Beard in a few minutes. As he came into the store, the young man made a break for the door, across the railroad track, and into Greenbrier river.

He was called upon to stop, but went on. Mr. Stuart had a shot gun and Captain Poague had a 22 rifle. Both shot in the direction of the fugitive. He was seen to fall in water that was over his knees in depth. When brought to shore he was dead.

Prosecuting Attorney Allan P. Edgar was notified, and held an inquest. The body was identified as that of Asa Ryder, an escaped convict. Justice LaRue presided, the jurors were G. C. Beard, R. M. Beard, Austin May, D. M. Callison, Frank Kidd and G. W. Clark, The verdict was that Asa Ryder had come to his death by a gunshot wound at the hand of W. T. Poague or Alex Stuart.

Asa Ryder was the son of Elmer Ryder. His mother was a Doyle. Both parents are living, but have been divorced. Last week he escaped from a road camp, having been sentenced to the penitentiary from the Pocahontas circuit court at the 1922 April session, for stealing J. N. White's automobile at the Marlinton 1921 Chautauqua.

Jim Astin, another convict, escaped at the same time. Astin's home is Marlinton, and he was serving a term for burglary.

Young Ryder's body was buried at Mt. View Cemetery on Wednesday afternoon.

The law makes it the duty of every person to apprehend and return any fugitive from the pen, and to this end seems to clothe a private person with all the powers of an officer.

A reward of $50.00 was offered for his apprehension.

CORNER STONES

The corner stone of the new Methodist church will be laid by the State Grand Lodge of Masons on Thursday, at 2-30 oclock. The address will be by Samuel T. Spears, Grand Master.

On Friday morning at 11 o'clock the cornerstone of the new school house at Hillsboro will be laid by the State Lodge. Dinner on the ground.

Married, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Margaret Baxter, Miss Edith Baxter and Charles Knox, of Charleston. Weddesday, September 6, 1922. Rev. H. H. Orr officiating minister.

Clyde Gabbert, who makes his home at Dave Loudermilk's on Spruce Flat, severely injured his leg by striking against a sharp snag while driving cattle in the hacking. A gash was cut about six inches in length, requiring several stitches.

Rev. L. P. Groves, who was born and reared at Union and has for several years been engaged in evangelistic work at Alderson, White Sulphur, Beckley and other places, has accepted the pastorate of the First Presbyterian Church in South Charleston.—Monroe Waechman.

Buy a Cider Mill

and convert those apples that are going to waste into cider vinegar for home use and for sale. There is always a demand at such a price that a few barrels of vinegar will pay for a cider mill.

Apple Butter

made from cider jelly in the kind of copper kettles that I sell is the incomparable kind.

C. J. Richardson

Marlinton, W. Va.

WILLIAM GIBSON

William Gibson died at the home of W. A. Eskridge, Marlinton, West Virginia, August 23rd, 1922. He was born in Harrison county, January 7th, 1865 and was the son of the late Samuel L. Gibson, of Frost, this county where the greater part of his life was spent on the farm. After leaving the farm he became identified in public life and served his county first in the office as constable, then four years as Assessor, and by his capable and faithful service rose to the highest office in the county, that of Sheriff for four years. He was a capable and safe official and during the time of his public life he scrupulously endeavcred to execute the oath of his office with partiality toward none and with justice toward all. He was a man of more than ordinary character and was loved and held in highest esteem by his many friends in Pocahontas and adjoining counties.

He had been in failing health for a number of years and notwithstanding the fact that he had received treatment from the University Hospital of Charlottesville, Va. and Fort Wayne, Indiana, and other specialists, he came home and continued his treatment with his home physician, Dr. J. W. Price. While his suffering was intense at times, his final breakdown came about eighteen days prior to his death. He was thoroughly conscious of his condition, and was perfectly resigned to the Master's will, having made his peace with God and before his death stated to his friends and loved ones that he was prepared for the journey on which he must go and urged them to be in readiness when their time came.

His remains were laid to rest in Mountain View Cemetery. The Masons had charge of the funeral services which were conducted from the Methodist Church by Rev. Palmer Eubank assisted by Rev. Harvey H. Orr and Rev. F. B. Wyand

He leaves to mourn his loss two brothers and three sisters, Samuel G., and Miss Lillie Gibson of Kendalville, Ind., and Sherman and Miss Bertie Gibson, of Frost and Mrs. J. W. Siple, of Hillsboro. A Friend

EDRAY DISTRICT HIGH SCHOOL

Will open Monday morning, September 11th, at nine o'clock. All students will assemble in the auditorium at that time.

Some of the high school texts will be changed this year. High school pupils, therefore, are advised not to purchase their books before the 11th. Each pupil will receive a list of the books he is to use at that time.

All who are planning to attend high school this year are urged to enroll as soon after the opening of school as possible. The first days of school are among the most important of the whole year, and those who enter two or three weeks late are at a great disadvantage.

The following high school teachers have ben appointed for the present school year:

A. G. Killingsworth, Manual Training & Science.

A. F. Talbot, English

Mary Gail Tyree, History & Languages.

Isabel Kimmel, Home Economics

Dorothy Guy Echols, Teacher Training

Lucille Holt, Commercial

Helen Bower, Music & Art

A teachers' meeting will be held in the high school building on Saturday afternoon of this week, at two o'clock. All the above named teachers are urged to be present.

C. J. Ramsey, Principal.

The I. Rosen store was sold at a receiver's auction sale laft Saturday to George Rosen for the sum of $2,805 cash.

The fourth quarterly conference of the Huntersville charge of the M. P. church will be held at Douthards Creek Saturday September 16th, at 2:30 p. m. O. P. McNeil, Pastor.

The Marlinton Sunday schools did a little better in the way of attendance Sunday morning. The Methodists had 189, an increase of 49 over the Sunday before. The Presbyterians listed 170 an increase of 53.

NOTICE

The Arbovale Mill will start grinding Friday September 8th. There will be an expert miller in charge, and satisfaction guaranteed. Wheat will be stored free of charge.

Jackson McFarland, expert miller.

ARBOVALE MILLING CO.

Arbovale, W. Va.

Notice

This is to give notice that my wife Susan Virginia Gabbert, has left my home without cause and I will no longer be responsible for any debt she may contract.

This 5th day of September, 1922.

James W. Gabbert,

Spring Creek, W. Va.

NOTICE

If the party who took my umbrella from a back seat in the Auditorium institute week will leave it at Mr. P. C. Curry's store no questions will be asked. The umbrella is black with white top, white tips and white handle with black ring. The end of handle has black and white stripes.

Rella F. Yeager

SINGING

There will be singing at Warwick Chapel next Sunday, September 9, beginning at 1 o'clock p. m.. Leaders and lovers of music are invited.

LEWIS SIMMONS

The venerable Lewis Simmons died at the home of his son, Floyd Simmons, near Hightown, Virginia, on Sunday morning, September 3, 1922. He was in his 77th year having been born September 10, 1845. For some months he has been suffering with some kind of stomach trouble.

On Monday his body was brought to Marlinton; laid beside the grave of his wife who died eight years since.

Mr. Simmons was a native of Pendleton county. During the Civil War he served as a Confederate Soldier in the 64th Virginia Infantry. He was an honest, industrious man, a farmer by occupation. He raised a large family, eight of whom survive their parents. The daughters are Mrs. Odie Campbell, of Staunton, Miss Fannie Simmons and Mrs. S. B. Yeager, of Marlinton, Mrs Forrest B. Bennett, of White Sulphur. The sons are Floyd, Pierce and Kenton Simmons, of Highland county, and L. O. Simmons, of The Pocahontas Times office. Two sons, Robert Lee, Lewis, and a daughter, Mrs. J. W. Jackson, proceeded their father to the grave

Mr. Simmons was a professing Christian and for many years a member of the Methodist Church.

"Soldier of Christ, well done, enter thy Masters Joy."

TNE ELEVENTH HOUR

ANNA L. PRICE

The eleventh hour will surely come,
It may be now doth sound,
And the owner of the vineyard here.
To oversee his ground.

The eleventh hour! and not at work!
Oh, why are ye idle all day?
Go ye also forth to my vineyard.
And you shall receive your pay.

Some have toiled there since early morn,
The heat and burden through;
My vintage must be gathered in,
And there is work for you.

Many alas! of the faithful have ceased
From their labors and their cares:
The harvest for them is ended,
The joy of the Lord is theirs.

It is well when the Master calleth
His weary ones to rest,
And the willing hands are folded
Upon the quiet breast.

But ye who are young at the 'leventh hour,
Oh, dearly beloved, come in,
Join the Captain of your salvation,
Against the monster, sin.

Remember in your days of youth
The word that God hath sealed,—
Go work this hour in my vineyard,
And the whole world is the field.

The eleventh hour! high time for work,
While yet it is called today;
Souls won for the Kingdom of Glory,
And that shall be your pay.

August, 1922.

PICNIC

The Social Service Committee of the Marlinton Methodist Church has arranged for a picnic for the Church and Sunday School to be held at the Pocahontas County Fair Grounds from 1.30 to 9 o'clock Thursday afternoon September 14, 1922.

A suitable program for the occasion has been arranged, and each family, as is the usual custom is expected to take a basket of provision sufficient for itself and a some visitors It is hoped that all interested will do all that they can to make the picnic a success.

Those wishing to attend will have free automobile transportation to the grounds by being at the Methodist church about 1:30 o'clock on day of picnic.

All persons who can furnish conveyances will please report to Ira D Brill or Albert Moore, who have charge of that part of the program. —Social Service Committee, Marlinton Methodist Church.

Hinton, W. Va., Sept. 4, 1922.—The Democratic State Executive Committee, both men and women members, is hereby called to meet at Parkersburg, on Saturday, September 9th, 1922, at 1 o'clock p. m. in tke Chancellor Hotel for the purpose of perfecting plans for a united campaign and doing such other things as will make more certain a complete victory in the fall election. All candidates and others interested in the party welfare are urged to attend.

R. F. Dunlap, Chairman,

Mrs. J. R. Mooreland,

Associate Chairman.

As a token of their appreciation of the efforts of Hon. G. D. McNeill, retiring county superintendent of schools, the teachers in institue assembled last week gave Mr. McNeil a present of $60 in cash with which to purchase books.

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

9:45 a. m. Sunday School
11 a m Religion a Power
7 p m Christian Endeavor
7:45 p m "Be Strong"

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. F. B. Wyand, Pastor.

Sunday School 9:45, prompt

A. S. Overholt, Superintendent.

11 a. m. Sermon subject, "What I have Written I have Written."

7:15 p m Epworth League

8 p m Sermon subject "The Old Gray Mare and the Self Starter."

This is Missionary Day in the Sunday School.

THE WHIPPOORWILL

Having the local reputation of being an authority on any given subject is not what it is cracked up to be.

One is asked to decide all kinds of questions such as law, politics, religion, psychology, even to being a referee in a discussion on the coal and rail road strike.

Some of my friends have wished the job of local ornithologist upon my shoulders, and now Brother Andy Price has put it up to me to decide when a whippoorwill is not a whippoorwill.

When I was a small boy, probably ten or eleven years old I had an immense appetite for work, have long since lost it, and my father bought me a small pole ax. I was about as proud of that ax as a sweet sixteen year old girl is of her first beau.

I immediately began a clearing directly in front of the old home in the edge of the woods, and by persistent effort for four or five years, partly cleared probably a quarter of an acre, which has long since returned to its former woodland condition.

One summer day in rambling around near my clearing I flushed a reddish brown striped bird which flew a few yards and perched upon a low branch of a tree. As I came so near stepping upon the bird, I naturally looked down to see where it came from. I noticed there was an egg lying on the dry leaves where the bird had been—there was no trace of a nest. So when I returned to the house I told of my discovery and my Grand father said it was a whippoorwill and that they did not build a nest, but laid their eggs on the leaves and would roll them some little distance every day.

Even then I loved the little birds as I called them to distinguish them from the larger, crows, hawks, etc.

I made it an almost daily task to find that birds nest as I called it, and the mother bird seemed to have no fear of me, as I well remember of catching her one day, and keeping her in my hands for some time, when I released her she flew a few yards and took up her usual flat position on a limb of a small tree.

On my second visit I found two eggs, and they were moved a little every day, always in the general direction away from the cleared land and by the time the eggs hatched they had been rolled quite a hundred yards.

The young—pretty little things? A hop toad has it on them for beauty—they were downy little things, seemingly all mouth and always hungry. In a short while however they were full feathered and I saw them no more.

I have never seen a whippoorwill in daylight except when I accidentally ran over one where it was sitting on the leaves, apparently asleep until disturbed when it would fly a short distance and sit flat on a low limb, where I have been able to catch two, I believe.

The following classification relates to the order as a whole.

There are three Families, viz—Goat suckers, Swifts and Humming birds belonging to this order—27 species and 6 subspecies.

Whippoorwill

Class	Aves
Order	Macrochires
Family	Caprimulgidae
Genus	Caprimulgus
Species	Antrostomus Vociferus

The whippoorwill is about 9 3 4 inches in length—many month bristles.

Male—Three outer tail feathers broadly tipped with white, smal white throat stripe, chin chiefly black —no white in wings.

Female—Without white in tail. Tail rounded.

Notes—A rapid, vigorous, whistled whippoorwill repeated many times. Whippoorwills are birds of the night, and never fly by day except when disturbed.

Nest—None. Two grayish or creamy white eggs laid in June on the leaves in the woods usually in dense thickets not far from cleared land.

Range—U. S. East of the plains: breeding from the Gulf of Mexico to Manitoba and New Brunswick. Winters south of U. S.

Whippoorwills and their allied species are known as goat suckers as it was formally believed they lived on goats milk extracted in the usual way.

There are many more whippoorwills than we would believe, as they are birds of the night and are seldom seen.

Night Hawks

Class	Aves
Order	Macrochires
Family	Caprimulgidue
Genus	Caprimulgus
Species	Chordeiles Virginianus

The night hawk is a first cousin to the whippoorwill and is about 10 inches in length with a wing spread of about 15 inches which would proclaim him something of an air specialist.

Primaries blackish with a white bar that is very conspicuous when on the wing. Throat white, white band across tail near the end. Above black with white and buff markings—much darker than his cousin, the whippoorwill, tail slightly forked No mouth bristles.

Notes—A nasal "peent" uttered on the wing. A booming sound produced by the wings, sometimes when diving from a height earthward.

Night Hawk

Nest—None, the two mottled gray and white eggs being laid on bare rocks, usually in pasture fields, on the bare ground, or on gravel roofs in cities or towns sometimes.

Range—United States east of the plains, breeding from Florida to Labrador; winters south of the U. S.

Belonging to this same order are the swifts and hummingbirds.

Swifts—Family, Micropodidae are birds of world-wide distribution; about half the seventy-five know species being found in America.

These are birds of the air and seldom light, and when they do, they usually cling to a vertical surface and use their tail to aid their feet in supporting themselves.

Notes—A characteristic twitter.

Humming Bird

Family—Mochilidae. Humming birds are found only in America, where they range from Patagonia to Alaska, but the larger part of the some five hundred known species are found in the Andean Region of Columbia and Ecuador in South America Only one species, the Ruby Throated, is found east of the Mississippi River.

The birds of this Order as a whole are probably more beneficial to the farmer and orchardist than those of any other order, as they are all insect catchers, and insects make up most all of their food.

O. Hunter Kee.

Mr. Thomas Lee Beard, of Hillsboro, Pocahontas county and Miss Mary Hamilton Kincaid, of Frankford, this county, were united in marriage at the residence of the officiating minister, Rev. F. P. Sydenstricker, in Ronceverte, on Monday, August 21, 1922. Miss Kincaid is the eldest daughter of the late Dr. Jas. R Kincaid, and is one Greenbrier's most intelligent and charming young ladies, and was for a number of years engaged in teaching in Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties, in which profession she stood in the front rank. The groom is one of the substantial citizens of his county. This couple has the hearty congratulations of a large circle of kindred and friends, who wish for them a long, happy and prosperous married life.—W. Va. News.

Miss Bettie Clay Sharp has accepted a position as stenographer with a coal company at Carbon, W. Va.

THE PEOPLES STORE

will pay the highest prices for your

COUNTRY PRODUCE

We will take what you have to sell and sell what you have to buy. Remember RED GOOSE Shoes for the children.

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.

MARLINTON, W. VA.

After Every Meal

WRIGLEY'S

Sealed Tight Kept Right

Still 5c

WRIGLEY'S has steadily kept to the pre-war price. And to the same high standard of quality.

No other goody lasts so long—costs so little or does so much for you.

Handy to carry—beneficial in effect—full of flavor—a solace and comfort for young and old.

THE FLAVOR LASTS

UNITED COUPONS

B10

"111"

cigarettes

They are GOOD!

10¢

CIRCUIT COURT

Court convened in a special grand-jury session on Tuesday. Lee Moore, of Millpoint, is foreman of the grand-jnry. It is expected that the jury will finish its labors tonight, Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. R. Curry and son Milburn, of Hillsboro, W. Va., accompanied by Mrs. Curry's sister, Mrs T. L. Chestnut, of Mt. Grove, were in Monterey Thursday.—Highland Recorder.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barlow and little daughter, of Huntersville, W. Va., spent Wednesday in Monterey, returning home in the evening.—Highland Recorder.

Our friend John N. Adkison showed us a seng root that weighed three ounces, and had three seperate and distinct stalks—two four prongs and a three prong. The root also was peculiar in that it consisted of two roots, joined together by a "burl" or neck. Old seng diggers say that while once and occasionally they find seng plants with two stalks, a three stalk root is a thing unknown to them.

The Marlinton Graded Schools will open on Monday morning, September 18th, at nine o'clock.

IT IS WISDOM

to live within one's income always, rather than some day to have to live without it. Saving something regularly, no matter how little, is the surest way.

Savings deposited here are an investment, too.

Begin the upbuilding of your income protection fund by opening an account with us.

THE BANK THAT LENDS
A HELPING HAND

BANK OF MARLINTON

MARLINTON, - - - WEST VIRGINIA

LOCAL MENTION.

G. P. Baxter has bought himself a Ford automobile.

E. M. Arbogast is here from Winchester, Kentucky.

Dr. Walton has moved to Pullman, West Virginia.

C. L. C. Burner came in last week from his home at Hilliard, Florida.

Miss Lucile Mathews, of Wren, Georgia, is the guest of Mrs. J. W. Yeager.

Miss Elenor Wilson went to Elkins last Saturday to spend a few days with relatives.

Miss Agnes Price has gone to Charleston where she will teach English in the high school.

W. L. Hill, of Massey Mills, Nelson county, Virginia, has been vissting his brother, J. W. Hill.

Sherman Gibson has qualified as administrator of the estate of his brother, the late William Gibson.

Frank R Hunter and John W Goodsell went to Charleston Monday as jurors in the United States District Court.

Miss Nellie C Pott. of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. James Stoker, of Erwin, Pa., are guests at the home of J. A. Sydenstricker.

Henry C. Astin and Norval McNeil returned last Friday from the Citizens Training Camp at Camp Taylor, Kentucky.

W. C. Hidy and D. R. Colaw, of Crabbottom, who have been visiting Cecil Shinabery at Cloverlick, were in Marlinton Tuesday.

Guy Slaven, of the United States Army, who has been stationed in Texas, is home on a visit to his mother, Mrs. Nannie Slaven.

Wilbur Moore, of Millpoint, caught a big horned owl last Friday. It had a stretch of wing of nearly four feet. It had been killing young turkeys.

Amos Wooddell returned last Saturday from Cincinnati where he attended the annual meeting of the National Retail Jewelers Association.

Mr. and Mrs Moser Herold and Glen Herold of Huntington, came to Pocahontas in their automobile last week to spend a while with home folks. They will return home by way of Richmond, Va.

Mrs Uriah Hevener and children of Arbovale, Pocahontas county, are here visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C Skaggs, west of town and also to take in the Fair —Greenbrier Independent.

William Miller returned last Saturday from Raymondsville, Missouri, where he had been called by the very serious illness of his father G. W. Miller. He reports his father still in very poor health. Mr. Miller says that Missouri is burned up with a drouth.

Mrs. M. Lacy Johnston and her daughter Miss M. L. Johnston of Baltimore, were in Marlinton Tuesday to see their many friends. They have been in Greenbrier a number of weeks. Five years ago they moved from Marlinton

R. A. Kramer was down from Dunmore over Sunday

R. S Staton motored to Ward Monday, to visit his son, Amos Staton.

Miss Glenna McLaughlin is spending a few days at the home of Rev. H. H. Orr.

Miss Margaret Price has gone to Ronceverte where she will teach in the High school.

Mrs. H. C. Carroll, of Cumberland, who is visiting her father, B. M. Yeager, is very sick.

Miss Gladys Curry of Huntington, is visiting her uncle and annt, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Curry.

Rev. P. L. Snapp and family of Middlebrook, Va, were week end guests at H. A. Overholts.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Price went to Virginia Beach, Wednesday. They will return about September 15.

Miss Mary Priscilla Collins leaves Friday for her second year at Hope College, at Holland, Michigan.

Miss Lillie Milligan went to Morgantown Saturday, where she will again teach it the city schools.

Mr. and Mrs. G C. Hamilton, of Nottingham, were guests at the home of S. N. Hench Tuesday night

Mr. and Mrs. Farry Carpenter, of Bolar, Va., was in Marlinton Monday and attending the funeral of Lewis Simmons.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. McClintic have returned to their home in Charleston. They were accompanied by Miss Alice McClintic.

John Brocius of Spice Run, was brought to the Marlinton Hospital Sunday. He has been very sick for a week, but is now much better.

Mrs C. K. Savouy and family who have been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. E Grubbs, returned to their home in Richmond last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Mc Dilley and little daughter left on Tuesday for Craig Healisg Springs, Virginia, where they will spend a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Widmeyer and son Leo, of Berkeley Speings, spent a few days recently at the home of Mrs Widmeyer's sister, Mrs. T. J. Mason.

Mrs. Floyd Whitman and daughter Miss Cody left Wednesday morning for their home in Cumberland They were accompanied as far as Cass by Mrs. Cora Cunningham.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A Ovorholt have returned from a two weeks' trip to Philadelpnia, Washington, the historic battlefields of Getteysburg and and the famous Luray Caverns.

Miss Gardner, who has recently returned from a three years' stay in China, will give a talk on Chinese customs, and show articles of Cainese craft at Grace Church, Cloverlick, Sunday September 10 at 3 p. m.

Miss Evelyn Rousey, who has been with her aunt, Mrs. J. E. Grubbs since last February, will Thursday for Richmond where she will spend a few days before going to Norfolk where she will make her home.

KANTLEEK

It Can't Leak Because it's Made in One Piece

And one piece of solidly moulded rubber throughout. That's why it's solidly guaranteed not to leak—your money back if it does.

Royal Drug Stores, Inc.
Marlinton--Renick, W. Va.

Cow for Sale

A good young fresh cow for sale.
Apply to L. O. SIMMONS.
Marlinton, W. Va.

MACRO - SAL

For Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, and Neuralgia of Rheumatic origin.

Pamphlet giving specific directions and diet list of utmost importance to rheumatic people mailed on request from our office.

Price $1 per Bottle
Your dealer can supply you

Distributed by
S. B. WALLACE & CO.
Wholesale Druggists
Marlinton, W. Va.

Morgantown—Fred B. Deem has been appointed a member of the University Athletic Board of Control. He succeeds Col. Jackson Arnold, head of the West Virginia state police.

St. Marys—A narrow escape from death through loss of blood was experienced by Warren Oldfield. He cut an artery in his hand with an axe while cutting wood at Calcutta.

Moundsville—A prisoner in the West Virginia penitentiary was released for three hours in order to file a claim for compensation with the United States Veterans' Bureau. The man's name was withheld.

Wheeling—Charles H. Cook, of Bridgeport, Ohio, was almost immediately killed when struck by an automobile said to have been driven by Mrs. William Cornath. He was rushed to a hospital but died enroute.

Wheeling—An unidentified man was found dead along the Ohio river shore by newsboys. The man is believed to have been dead for several days. Empty bottles that had contained denatured alcohol were found near him.

Huntington—Charles Bierne, a contractor, was killed at the mine of the Hartland Collieries Company at Barren Creek while he was running some machinery. His death was due to a fall of slate. The body was taken to Summersville, Nicholas county.

Princeton—Robert Jackson received a patent on a locomotive striker. Other West Virginians to receive patents recently are: Fred Thornton, Huntington, who invented a trolley harp, and William Stoop, of Wheeling, who devised an arch for the fire boxes of boilers.

Clarksburg—Directors of the West Virginia Fox Hunters' Association have selected Jane Lew as the place and October 30, 31, November 1, 2, and 3 as dates for its annual fox hunt. Last year's hunt was held in the same place and Jane Lew people are insistent that it be held there again.

Morgantown—The Monongalia county court has commissioned a Pittsburgh architect to prepare plans for a new jail building to supplant the present structure and construction work will be started as soon as the plans are prepared and the contracts let. It will have quarters for 90 prisoners and a detention room for juvenile offenders.

Logan—Two persons are dead as a result of a gun battle which occurred at Taplin, a small town 10 miles southeast of here, between Elias Thompson, a deputy sheriff, shooting from the street, and Albert Hendrix and wife, shooting from within the Hendrix home. Mrs. Hendrix was instantly killed during the battle and Thompson was fatally wounded, and died the same day.

Moundsville—It was out-again, in-again for Philip C. Davis who, released from the West Virginia penitentiary here, was arrested on a federal warrant. Davis had spent five long years behind the bars of the penitentiary. He walked out a free man—so he thought. U. S. Deputy John M. Short informed him otherwise. The deputy served the ex-prisoner with a warrant sworn out for his arrest by the United States Commissioner for the Northern District of North Carolina. The warant was for forgery. Davis is alleged to have raised $2 bills to $20 and passed them.

Clarksburg—The most important development of the annual Harrison county teachers' institute which closed here was the adoption of a resolution by 500 teachers of the county asking for 12 months' pay for twelve months work instead of nine for which they are now employed. The resolution also favors a depletion tax "on the various natural resources of West Virginia which will provide abundant revenue to carry on the progressive movement now being initiated by the state department of schools."

Auction Sale

On Satuday September 23, 1922, I will sell at public auction at my place near Lobelia:

I sorrel mare I wagon
3 milk cows 1 two yr old heifer
1 set harness, 1 side saddle
1 Buena Vista saddle
3 iron kett'es, 1 12 gal brass kettle

Grabs, chains, cant hooks, spreaders. Household and kitchen furniture and many other things not mentioned. Also about 7 acres of corn if not sold before day of sale.

Terms made known on day of sale.

ARCH SPINKS.
Lobelia, W. Va.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of the late Julia F. Sharp, to present the same properly proven to the undersigned administrator, and all persons owing said estate will please settle at once.

W. L. PRICE
Adm'r of Julia F. Sharp, deceased.

FOR SALE—4 90 Chevrolet Touring Car, 1920 Model, good tires and in good running condition

Dewey Hiner,
Cass, W Va.

FOR FALL SEEDING:—I have on hands first class timothy and Orchard grass seed at reasonable prices — T. D. Moore, Marlinton, W Va

FOR SALE OR TRADE—One mare and extra good yearling mule. Will sell or trade for calves or young cattle. One 5 months old male hog of the real big bone Poland China type, registered. This is a real shoat. One buggy with pole and double harness, as good as new. Will sell or trade for calves, hogs or pigs.

Mountain View Orchard Farm.
L. W. Harless, Mgr.

WANTED—Woman or girl to do housework and help can fruit. Good wages and steady position for a good woman —Mountain View Orchard Farm, L. W. Harless, Mgr.

ONOTO

We are having the very finest of weather in this sections. Plenty of rain, and fine fall pasture. One of the best crops of hay has been harvested that we have had for years. There certainly will be no scarcity of food for stock this winter, and prices should be reasonable.

A. C. Barlow has his crew on Elk finishing up his big job of harvesting.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Smith and family of Spruce are spending a few days with their respective parents and friends.

Mrs. F. E. Baxter of Cass, is spending her vacation with Mrs. M. J. Baxter, and is taking in the Chautauqua.

E. F. McLaughlin, and H. C. C. Willey, County Agent, are canvassing this community in the interest of the County Farm Bureau.

The writer would like to say a few words right here if the Editor will be kind enough to permit him space.

We realize and know that it is best for small fish to keep near the shore, we also realize that what we say will go in one ear and out of the other, with a certain class of people, but if we do not blow our own horns, it is certain that no one is going to blow them for us.

Our desire is and always has been, to try to promote the things that would be of the best interest, to our people, to our community, and to our State, and nation, Therefore with this thought in view I wish to say a few words in regard to the Agricultural Exhibits.

We understand that we were far excelled along this line at the Lewisburg Fair. That ought not be, but open confession is good for the soul. We find that we have been spoiled at our previous Fairs, from the fact that every exhibitor no matter how small his exhibit was, was given a free ticket or pass. When it became known at this Fair that no free tickets would be given, only to stock exhibitors, a great number of our people laid down on the proposition, and said let them have their Fair, we will not exhibit anything. This was the wrong spirit, for they did not realize that the premiums were almost doubled, and if they did have to purchase season tickets, the premiums that they were supposed to win would more than pay all expenses.

For example the writer of this sketch paid $6 75 for season tickets and won $12.00 in premiums. Satisfied? Yes, who would not be? And got to see all of it too. My aim in writing this sketch is to encourage every one I can to not lay down on the job next year, but if you have anything to exhibit begin your plans right now, and go into the work with vim and energy determined to win, and make next years fair, one of the best in the State. I realize that I am going to be criticised for my views along this line, by certain people, but I think I am right and right always wins. Anything that promotes thrift, energy and a desire to raise better stock, better poultry, grow better crops, etc, etc., certainly cannot be wrong, and then the premiums that are paid come right into the hands of our farmers, and people of our communities where it will be circulated, and where it will do the most good.

There are things that come to our towns, and communities that are not of any benefit whatever, and the money that is paid out to them goes away with them, and we are left with only derth. Not so with the Agricultural Exhibit but results can be seen.

Get your note book and put me down as a booster please.

Yours very truly,
C. V. Hanlin.

Notice Of Sale Of Real Estate

Pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, made and entered on the 16th day of June, 1922, in the Chancery Cause of The State of West Virginia against Lot One in Block Three in Deer Creek and Frank Ingle, I will on Tuesday, October 3, 1922, at one o'clock P. M., of that day, offer for sale to the highest bidder the following described real estate, situate in the village of Deer Creek, in Pocahontas County, Lot One in Block Three.

Terms of sale: Cash.

Uriah Bird,
Commissioner of School Lands for Pocahontas County.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

West Virginia.

At Rules held in the Office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, on the first Monday in the month of September, 1922.

Bank of Marlinton, a corporation,
Vs: (In Chancery)
L. D. Slaven, Gracie Slaven, Charles Nelson and R. D. Fitzgerald.

The object of the above entitled cause is to enforce a vendors lien on land sold by R. D. Fitzgerald and wife to L Slaven, which land aggregates 54 3 4 acres, described in deed of record in the Office of the Clerk of the County Court of Pocahontas County, in Deed Book 54, at page 476, and for general relief.

This day came the plaintiff, by its attorney and upon his motion, and it appearing by affidavit filed in this cause that diligence has been used on behalf of the plaintiff to ascertain in what County the defendants, L. D. Slaven and R. D Fitzgerald are, without effect, it is therefore ordered that the said defendants, L. D. Slaven and R D. Fitzgerald do appear here within one month from the date of the first publication hereof and do what is necessary to protect their interest in this suit.

Teste:
D. C. Adkison,
Clerk.

Andrew Price, Sol.

LOST

Gold medal and chain with the following inscription, "Sympathy proven by actions." Finder please return to Mrs Jessie Kinnison, Hillsboro, W. Va., and receive reward.

Store Opens Saturday
September 9th

I bought the I. Rosen stock of merchandise at the Receiver's Sale last week I will have my store open and ready for business in the old I. Rosen stand opposite the postoffice, on

Saturday, September 9

I am now permanently in business in Marlinton, and I expect to put in a big, new stock of goods, To move the present stock I am offering great bargains. A little later I will put on a big sale. Make preparations to take advantage of it.

COME TO MF FOR BARGAINS IN MERCHANDISE

GEORGE ROSEN

Opposite Post Office MARLINTON, W. VA.

Order Of Publication

State of West Virginia

At Rules held in the clerk's office of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, on Monday the 4th day of September, 1922, the following order was entered.

Henry Henderson Bostic and Geo. Wm. Bostic, who sue by their next friend A. L. Mason,
Vs In Chancery.
Harry Bostic, as administrator of Wm. B. Bostic, deceased, The National Surety Company, a corporation and Harry Bostic.

The object of the above entitled cause is to require and compel the said Harry Bostic and The National Surety Company, the surety on his bond, to comply with the order of the County Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, made and entered on the 1st day of May, 1922, confirming the settlement of the accounts of the said Harry Bostic, as administrator of the estate of Wm. B. Bostic, as made and reported to said county court by P. T. Ward, a commissioner of accounts of said county, directing the said Harry Bostic to pay over to the legal guardian of said Henry Henderson Bostic and Geo. W. Bostic, infant children and distributees of said Wm. B. Bostic, the sum of $1,138 38, the balance due them as shown by said settlement, and to take a decree against said Harry Bostic and The National Surety Company, a corporation, the surety on his bond, for said amount, and for general relief. And it appearing by affidavit filed in this cause that the due diligence has been used on behalf of said plaintiffs to ascertain in what county the said Harry Bostic resides or may be found, and without effect, it is ordered that he do appear here within one month after the date of the first publication hereof and do what is necessary to protect his interests in this suit.

A Copy, Teste:
D. C. Adkison,
Clerk.

A. P. Edgar, Counsel.

State of West Virginia,
Pocahontas County, to wit:
H. D. Ramsey
vs Action in assumpsit.
M. W. Cutshall

The object of this suit is to recover of the said M. W. Cutshall, defendant thereto, the sum $3, 288 71, with interest from the 24th day of August, 1922, and costs and to attach his property and subject the same to the payment of the said claim, which property is as follows: One saw mill, engine and about fifty thousand feet of lumber on run near Landis Home, One saw mill and engine and about five thousand feet of lumber near Edgar Waugh's residence, about ten thousand feet of lumber near W. Jackson's home, about forty or fifty thousand feet at Seebert, all of the foregoing property is in said Pocahontas County.

It appearing by affidavit that the said M. W. Cutshall is non-resident of this state, it is therefore ordered that the said M. W Cutshall do appear within thirty days after due publication of this notice in the clerk's office of our said court, and do what is necessary to protect his interest.

D. C. Adkison, Clerk.

P. T. Ward, Sol.

W. L Price has qualified as administrator of the estate of Mrs. Julia F. Sharp.

REVIVAL SERVICES
AT
Huntersville Presbyterian Church

Sept. 7 to 17

GOSPEL PREACHING

Every Night at 8 O'Clock

Rev. J. L. FOWLE
Synodical Evangelist and Singer

Mr. MARTEL TREMAIN
Theological Student and Musician

Have been secured to hold the services. They have had wonderful results in evangelistic work where ever they have held meetings.

Your prayers in behalf of the success of this meeting in winning souls to Christ are asked.

NOTICE

A regular meeting of The Order of Eastern Star will be held in the Masonic Hall at 7:45 p. m. on Tuesday, Sept. 12th Some very important business to transact and work to give. The Star Officials and Officers and all members are expected to be present on time and help out. Visiting Sisters and Brothers cordially welcomed.

Mary Price Waugh, W. M.

There will be a "sing" at Marvin Chapel next Sunday afternoon beginning at two o'clock.

LOST: In Marlinson or between Hillsboro and Marlinton, during the Teachers' Institute, small Eastern Star Pin—star enclosed in 3-4 inch circle of green gold. Reward if returned to Box 46, Hillsboro, W. Va.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our appreciation and heartfelt thanks to the people of Durbin, Bartow and vicinity for the kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of dear wife and mother. May God's richest blessings be with them all.

U. W. Burner & Children.

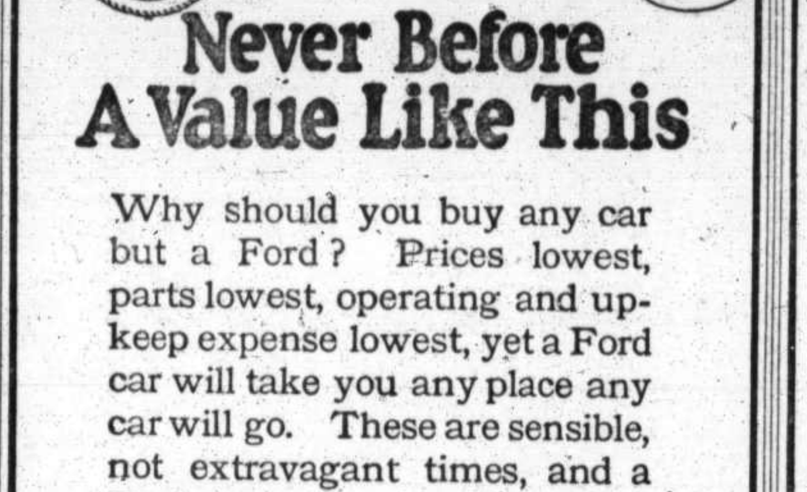
Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

TOURING CAR

$348

F. O. B. Detroit



Never Before A Value Like This

Why should you buy any car but a Ford? Prices lowest, parts lowest, operating and upkeep expense lowest, yet a Ford car will take you any place any car will go. These are sensible, not extravagant times, and a Ford is the most sensible car for anyone to own. Terms if desired.

Baxter's Garage

J L. Baxter, Prop.

Marlinton - - - W. Va.

Picture Framing

AND FURNITURE REPAIRING

Picture framing neatly and promptly done at a reasonable price. Also old furniture made as good as new. Shop at my house near Court-house. Phone your orders and I will come for your work.

C. J. McCarty,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Sept. 1.

For Sale

Copper Water Cans, Spouting, Tin Fixtures, copper tubing, bath room outfits, etc.

C. W. Slavin
Tinner and Plumber
Marlinton, W. Va.

Baxter's Garage

MARLINTON W. VA.

FORD Cars and Supplies

FORDSON Tractors

A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.

J. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Engine and Thresher For Sale

One 26x32 threshbox, Faurquhar, in good conditiod, with belts, etc. An International portable 10 hp gasoline engine. This makes a fine threshing outfit. Will sell together or separately to suit purchaser.

D. M. KENNISON
Lobelia, W. Va.

Hereford Bulls

I have a lot of young Hereford bulls, registered and fine specimen of the breed. Will be sold for spring delivery.

J. S. McNeel,
Seebert, W. Va

For Sale at a Bargain

1500 acres of land in Virginia.
A good farming proposition.
A good timber proposition.
A good water-power proposition
A good milling proposition.
All combined in the above.
Bad health is why this proposal is made.
If interested, write to the owner

C. H. REVERCOMB,
Covington, Va

HOUSE FOR SALE: A five room cottage house in Greenbank, with half acre lot. This is a good home for some one. House was built new two years ago. Will sell reasonable. If interested address,

Mrs. Fannie Sheets,
Hillsboro, W. Va.

FOR SALE—A utility body for a Ford car. This is a mighty handy thing for hauling produce to town. Floyd Dilley, Marlinton, W. Va.

Victrola

The universal recognition of Victrola superiority confirms the judgment of the world's greatest artists. The Victrola is their deliberate choice. That these artists make their Victor Records specially to play on the Victrola is the strongest recommendation any instrument could have.

Victrolas from $25 up.

Our Record supply is kept up-to-date. We receive regularly the monthly release of new Records.

Amos Wooddell
Watchmaker - Jeweler
Marlinton, W. Va.

TELEPHONE NOTICE

The Marlinton & Elk Mutual Telephone Company is trying to give its patrons efficient service as far as lies within its power, but it does not guarantee uninterrupted service, and those connected on the Company's lines must pay for the time whether receiving satisfactory service or not. No official of the company has the authority to make any change in this rule.

The assessment and rental for 1922 is $10 per year, and the same is now due. Make all checks payable to the company.

S. Mc. Dilley, Sec. & Treas.
Edray, W. Va.

March 27, 1922.

S. C. BROWN LEGHORN EGGS

Per setting of 15 at house, 75 cents. Per setting of 15 by porcel post $1.00. Per 100 at house, $5.00; by parcel post 50c extra.

These eggs are from a laying strain some of the best blood lines in the country are represented in this flock. There is no better layer than the S. C. Brown Leghorn, and few as good,

FRED GEHAUF,
39 Upper Camden, Marlinton, W. Va.

Sawing Contract Wanted

I would like to contract for the sawing of a lot of lumber, including piling. 25 horse power No. 2 mill, Frick outfit complete.

C. H. Swearengin,
Neola, W. Va.

EGGS FOR HATCHING, from fine S. C. R. I. Reds. Heavy egg producers. Gertrude Blagg, Monterey, Virginia.

A CIVIL WAR LETTER

Camp Summervill Fird,
March 27, 1864.

My Dear Ellen:

I rec'd your letter by Hull, was very glad to hear from you. Yesterday was my birthday, was twenty five years old. Today is Easter. Suppose you have eaten your Easter breakfast and dinner. Should like to have been with you. I breakfasted on good-sweetened corn pone, coffee, bread and molasses, sour instead of sweet. We draw per man per day, a common tin cup full and a half of meal, one fourth lb. meat. Sugar, molasses, salt, coffee and rice by the smalls, and once in a while some few potatoes.

I got the sugar cake you sent me, did not expect you to rob yourself for me, although considering the circumstances made it the sweeter. You spoke of sending me a box. It would be a great treat, but I have had plenty to eat so far, as Will Yeager had gotten a little meal somewhere.

The Imboden and Jackson men are coming back. Six have come to this company from Imboden. They will all have to come back. I have not heard from Howard yet. We have had some cold blistery weather; the 23rd the snow was ten inches deep, deeper than in Poca, I exhect, tho' it is now nearly all gone. The Blue Ridge is white yet.

Orders now to furlough one man out of every hundred. It is nothing to see artillery and Yanks here. I saw some today. I will go on picket tomorrow and come off Wednesday. This reg't will have to go on picket about two days out of ten. I was sorry to hear that mother was unwell hope she is well now. I am glad your mother is going to stay with you this summer. Don't forget to keep Willie straight. You must plant plenty of onions this summer, double portion, I want some onions to my pone. You want to get some paper and envelopes if you can for I want to hear from you frequently.

Give my love to all. kiss my little baby for me, and take good care of yourself. Have the horses taken away as soon as they can do well.

Your affectionate husband,
Wash.

P. S. This paper costs eight dollars a quire. Direct your letters as you did except Early's Division instead of Johnson's.

Co. G. 31st, Va Reg., Tregram's
Brigage, Earley's Division,
Ewels Corps.
G. W. A.

Editor Pocahontas Times:

The George W. Arbogast letters have awakened in my mind a flood of recollections of events long past and gone. The writer of the letters was one of my good friends, and the tragic events of the battle of Spottsylvania that terminated his earthly existence, are indelibly impressed on my mind. He had received a severe wound in his leg at the battle of Port Republic on the 9th of June, 1862, which rendered him incapable of service for several months At the battle of Port Republic our Company lost ten men, killed and wounded. Those killed or mortally wounded were Bible John A., Campbell J. Milton, Cassell George, Houchin Charles, Hudson Dallas, Hicks John G., Wooddell William, Warwick Emanuel. The wounded who recovered were, George W. Arbogast, Peter H. Warwick and John Wilfong of David. We were under a terrific fire of both musketry and artillery and were driven back some distance until the Louisiana brigade accomplished its flank movement on the right of our line. I assisted in carrying Geo. W. Arbogast back to a position of safety. The battle of Spottsylvania was fought on the 12th of May 1864. The enemy made a charge on General Edward Johnson's division, holding the semicircle which was afterwards known as the "bloody angle." before daylight on the morning of the 12th taking Johnson by surprise, the enemy captured a large portion of his men, including the General himself. Our division under command of General John B. Gordon was rushed to the scene for the purpose of making an attempt to retake the breast works which were now in posession of the enemy. We were hurriedly formed for the charge to retake the woods. I saw General Lee ride in front of our line and stand ready to lead the charge. I saw General Gordon rush to General Lee's side, and as he did so, heard him exclaim, "General Lee, go to the rear, these men never fail," and taking General Lee's horse by the bridle led him to the rear, and then he gave the command "Forward, double quick, charge!" We retook our breastworks all except the apex of the angle which our line was not long enough to reach. The men of our company killed or mortally wounded were Arbogast, Geo. W. Long, John W., Long, Lafayette, Nottingham John W., and Moore Jas. C. Wounded—Yeager, Henry A., Wilfong Wm. G., Swink Z. J., Slaven. A. J., and Hull, W. H. I found Geo. W. Arbogast outside the breastwerks (we having gone a short distance beyond the works in our charge and then falling back to the works) and with the help of two members of the company we carried him back of the works, and from there he was carried to the field hospital by the ambulance men. He said he was not taken by surprise and to tell his wife and friends he was prepared to go. He insisted that we should not go to the trouble or take the risk of trying to get him behind the breast works, that his wound was fatal and that he could live only a very short time. I opened his clothes and saw that the ball had entered his body in the region of his heart.

W. H. H.

Executor's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of the late B. M. Trainer to present the same properly p[illegible] to the undesigned executor at his office at Greenbank, W. Va. All persons indebted to said estate will prepare to settle at once.

This 10th of April, 1922.

L. H. Moomau,
Executor of B. M. Trainer, deceased

A CASUAL OBSERVER

I infrequently visit the county-seat and then can't help but note with interest the different types of men with which I chance to meet and see other people meet.

An incident of recent date will help me decide at least one type which you meet only every other year and for convenience we will call him Mr. Office Seeker which if the action could be reversed and be the office seeking the man it would never see him.

Mr. Office Seeker was standing on a corner in a business section of the city looking down street, an honest, intelligent looking man, presumably a farmer was coming up the street. Mr. Office Seeker stepped up beside an acquaintance and was heard whisper, "Who is that guy?" An indistinct answer was made and thereupon Mr. Office Seeker started down the street apparently not seeing anyone and bumped squarely up against this unknown man who was meeting him. After excusing himself he took the stranger by the hand and called him by name, asking him how all his people were, with some other common conversational remarks. When he saw that his conversation was not very interesting to the stranger he asked the question which is peculiar to his type, "Where did I meet you before?" And then for the first time the stranger spoke up with the usual good-natured lie, "I don't remember," and they both passed on their way.

Then of course, I saw several acquaintances on the street and in their places of business who greeted me with the usual, "How-do-you-do" But the thing that impressed me most on this trip was my visit to the Marlinton General Hospital, an institution for which not only Marlinton and Pocahontas county, but the Greenbrier Valley should and will be grateful. Personally I can never repay, not so much the institution, but the skilled physician and surgeon, who so faithfully and patiently worked to save my life which was almost extinct before he had a chance to observe This institution under the management of the physician just referred to and his assistant justly merits the the attention of the people of this Valley. It is being greatly enlarged and is being equiped with modern conveniences and equipment and the service which these men are able to render should be sought by all our sufferers.

Visit the place, see for yourself, and help boost this most worthy institution.

D.

Editor Pocahontas Times:

When the thermometer registers 92 degrees in the shade, and it is scorching hot in the sunshine, the best thing we find to do is to don our bathing suits and go in swimming. This we usually do about 5 p. m, and find it very exhilerating. Personally, I prefer to take my plunge the first thing in the morning just at snnrise, and then look out for a full grown appetite for breakfast.

We have had unusually dry weather the past two months, and it has been quite hot for a week or two.

Notwithstanding the dry, hot weather there was an unusually heavy orange bloom and the young fruit seems to be "setting" fine, bidding fair for a large crop next winter. Oranges brought from $1.50 to $4.00 a box on the trees here the past winter, and grape fruit $1.00 to $1.50 a box net. The outlook is very encourageing in the citrus business here how. There are many inquiries for well developed groves.

Some large sales have been made recently. Many winter tourists, as well as regular residents, are now heading north for the summer, some going by boat, many by rail, and a surprisingly large number motor home after the pleasures of the winter season with their machines over the good roads of Florida. We have secured our reservations for the 25th inst, and we expect to leave on that date. As The Times follows me wherever I go, I will ask you to change my address from Cleremont, Florida, to Church Hill, Maryland, and I shall be glad to meet you there. In concluston, I beg to say that our town—Cleremont—is building rapidly, and that it has a bright future. I would submit the following lines as Nature's gift to our young and rising city.

A gem of gems in jewels set,
And each jewel a nugget of gold,
The gold, twenty-four carets net,
Never to tarnish by heat or cold.

E. H. Moore.

April 13, 1922.

Little Levels District unday School Notes:

The Sunday School work in the Little Levels is progressing nicely. The District officers have been busy for the last few weeks visiting the schools and getting the reports asked for by the County Association. These reports are now all in and are very gratifying indeed, as they show the schools to be in a flourishing condition. It is the hope of the district officers to make Little Levels a "Front Line District" by the time the County Convention meets in August. Emmanuel and Hills Chapel have recently organized both Young Peoples' and Adult Classes, and are doing good work It is expected that Marvin Chapel will organize on next Sunday. The school is doing fine, and as soon these classes are organized we loook for great work from them. Out of a total enrollment of fifty at Sharon there were forty-eight present last Sunday. Who can beat that? Sharon also has the honor of having the largest Bible Class in the District

On last Sunday the attendance at Wesley Chapel was the largest we can remeuber. There was not seating room in the main Sunday School room for opening and closing exercises, a good many of the pupils having to stand around the wall for these exercises. Reports from other schools in the district will be published later.

A. C. S.

HOUSE FOR RENT—If you want to rent a house and will pay your rent one month in advance and are a good peaceable citizen, apply to John Maupin, Marlinton, W. Va.

FROST

Farmers are through plowing and sowing oats.

Miss Ivie Gay was operated on at the Marlinton Hospital for appendicitis last Friday, and was doing nicely at last report.

Wm. Gibson is visiting his brother Sherman Gibson, this week.

E. M. Buzzard has moved to the Herold property which he recently purchased from the Herold Bros.

Rev Mr. Eubank preached an interesting sermon at Mt. Vernon last Sunday. We welcome Mr. Eubank with us another year.

Clay Dreppard has been suffering from an affected eye caused by flu.

Austin Sharp and B B. Campbell will soon open up their camps, which will give work to quite a number of the unemployed.

Miss Veva Gibson spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Gibson.

A successful term of school will close Thursday; Miss Bessie Murdock, teacher.

Henry McNeel passed here Wednesday with a fine bunch of cattle.

DURBIN

J. D. Wilmoth has taken charge of the Cheat Mountain Club for the summer.

The game commission placed twenty thousand little trout in Shafer's Fork of Cheat on April 5, and on the 13 they placed thirty five thousand in the same stream.

Capt. Echols, the road man, keeps getting closer to our town with the Class A. road. The big steam shovel can be heard in town now.

A bear has been killing sheep for F. B. Gragg close to Fill Run school house.

C. B. Kyle is moving on the Captain Phillips farm this week.

Misses Virginia Hull and Helen Burner spent Easter with their parents.

Editor of The Pocahontas Times:—

I think that they are forcing the season a little in bringing out Democratic candidates for Congress in the Sixth District as the primary is a good ways off yet. But it is natural for the the candidate to blossom in the spring even if the frosts do some time nip them in the bud.

The reports of the late elections indicate that our Republican friends are sulking in their tents, and that they are sore and dissatisfied. and the responsibility may once more be placed upon the Democrats to correct some of the mistakes of the Moses who was to lead us out of the teeming land of Egypt through the deserts of normalcy.

Without any disparagement to the distinguished gentlemen who have been mentioned for Congress, I have had in mind for months, a candidate, whose fitness, ability, honesty and urbanity will be recognized by the mere mention of his name, Judge Vernon Champe, of Montgomery. The Burks, Kellys, the Sheas, and all other good citizens would rejoice in his strength and support him gladly

I belong to the old guard. I have seen many an election. I have celebrated many a victory of our party, and I have been a mourner at many a defeat But it has been all the same to me whether I was in a triumph or binding up the wounds of those who fell upon the stricken field. Many of my old comrades are under the sod, but the Democratic party lives—the party so often doomed to death is fated not to die.

I recommend to the party Judge Champe. The sunset of life gives me mystical lore and I see clearly the Democratic hosts coming back. Let us hope that it is this year. And in that hope let us pick the right man to send to Washington. The best is good as any.

The foe is scattered: There is not a satchel stick left growing on New River.

J. G. SHEA.
Charleston, W. Va.

BUCKEYE SCHOOL

School closed April 6th with big dinner and both literary and physical program. All seemed to enjoy the day in spite of the threat of rain. Those who made a term hanor were Addison and Stowe McNeill. Club had a final meeting on 8th. Members are rather enthusiastic as to work on projects.

The Correlis.

Alderson, W. Va.

POLLED HEREFORD BULL—I have a Polled Hereford Bull calf for sale, ten months old, large size. in good condition.

Mrs. Fannie Kinnison,
Seebert, W. Va.

FOR SALE—8 acres of land and a nice bungalow house of 3 rooms, pantry and porches. On macadam road near Edray, good water, some fruit trees and all under fence. For particulars apply to

Mrs. MARY DAVIS
RFD 1 Marlinton, W. Va.

HOUSE FOR SALE in Marlinton, property known as the McLaughlin House. Suitable for 3 families, desirable location low price and good terms.

J. W. YEAGER,
Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR SALE:—7 passenger, 6 cylinder Studebaker automobile, in good condition. A bargain to the quick buyer.

Luther Flynn,
H. C. Spencer,
Hillsboro, W. Va

FARM FOR SALE—90 acres of land near State Road between Huntersville and Minnehaha Springs, 40 acres cleared, young orchard. For particulars. Apply to

H. F. Bussard,
Huntersville, W. Va.

For Floor Coverings including Druggets, Congoleum and Linoleum Rugs and Wall Papers See

OVERHOLT & SON,
The Value Store
Marlinton, W. Va.

HEMSTITCHING AND PICOTING

I will be ready to fill orders for hemstitching and picoting on April 25th.

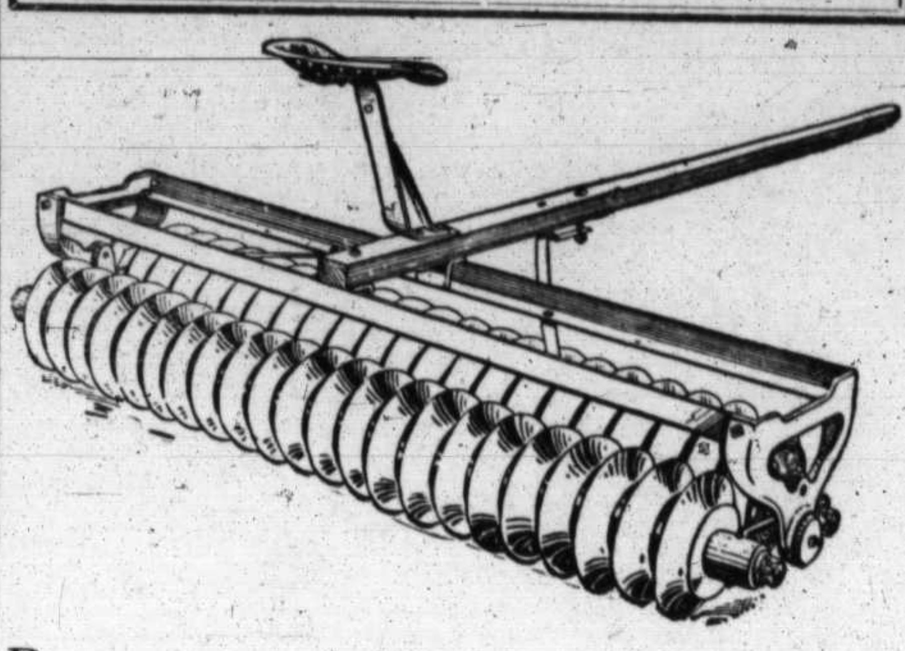
MRS. J. E. BUCKLEY,
Marlinton, W. Va.

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager

HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC

Marlinton, West Virginia.



By reason of the fact that we must vacate the wareroom in which we have stored our line of Oliver farm machinery, we offer special low prices on Blackhawk manure spreaders, cultipackers, two way plows, riding cultivators, checkrow corn planters; and other implements.

Get our prices now. There is no better than the Oliver.

C. J. Richardson

Marlinton, W. Va.

Most Drastic Price Cut In The History Of Truck Manufacturing!

New Stewart prices represent the greatest truck value on the market today; a remarkable manufacturing and merchandising achievement

Chassis	1920 Prices	1921 Prices	Present Prices	Reduction
Speed Truck	$1450	$1395	$1195	$255
1 ton	1850	1875	1395	455
1 1-2 ton	2450	2200	1790	660
2 ton	3075	2800	2090	985
2 1-2 ton	3200	2950	2290	1010.

F. O. B. Buffalo

For Demonstration, come to or call Hiner & Gum

Pocahontas Stewart Truck Co.

Stewart

Motor Trucks

Now that the severe winter weather is over, is it not time to think of erecting Memorials to those who have gone before? This is a duty we owe to our beloved dead.

We have the largest assortment of Marble and Granite Monuments carried by any dealer in the two Virginias and at VERY REASONABLE prices. We handle nothing but the very best material.

Write us for designs and prices before you buy. We guarantee you perfect satisfaction in every respect.

CLIFTON FORGE MARBLE & GRANITE WORKS, Inc.
Harry F. Burt, Pres.

Conklin Wagons

We have a number of new Conklin Wagons at Seebert, which we will sell at an attractive price to the buyer. Sizes 3 and 3 1-4

MASHALL & SIPLE
Hillsboro, W. Va.

FOR SALE

1 Ford touring, 1921 touring
1 Overland roadster
1 Maxwell touring
I Racer
I used Stewart truck, 3-4 ton

All these cars are in good running running condition and will be sold at a bargain.

HINER & GUM
Marlinton, W. Va.

WANTED—A live wire to fill a good, responsible position in Pocahontas county. Don't apply unless you mean business, submit references. Box 592, Charleston, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLI NO 5 MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, SEPTEMBER 14, 1922 $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

CORNER STONE LAID

The corner stone of the new Methodist Church was laid by the Masons last Thursday afternoon with proper ceremonies.

The speech was delivered by Hon. H. T Spears, of Elkins, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of West Virginir, Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons. It was a masterly address. Rev. Register Neel, of Alderson, also spoke. He was in charge of the campaign to raise the money to build this church last spring, which resulted in subscriprions totaling $60,000.

The new church will be the finest building in Marlinton and one of the best churches in this part of the State. The building will be 60X109 feet, of brick and concrete construction, faced with cream colored brick. With galleries and all, the auditorium will seat a thousand people. W. W. Kennison is the contractor.

The building replaced by the new church was erected in 1896. The relics in the old corner stone were taken out and placed in the new corner stone. The relics consisted of a Bible, Hymn Book, Book of Discipline, Christian Advocate, Pocahontas Times, and a list of the church officers. All had been badly damaged by water, and the paper on which the church officers were listed was in pulp. However, from The Times, we learn that Rev. George H. Echols was pastor; Trustees, G. F. Crummett, Uriah Bird and Thomas Courtney, Lloyd Moore, James A McCollam, E. A. Smith and H. A. Yeager. Building Committee: H. A. Yeager, Uriah Bird and E A. Smith. Of them, all remain unto this day except Mr. McCollam and Mr. Yeager.

The old Pocahontas Times in the corner stone was dated August 7, 1896. It appears therein that Hon. William J. Bryan was running on the Democratic ticket for President of the United States; M. J. McNeel for house of delegates; L. M. McClintic for prosecuting attorney; J. H. Buzzard for assessor; S L Brown for county clerk Pocahontas county was claiming the democratic nomination for State Senate as usual and E I. Holt was the aspirant

J. C Arbogast was sheriff with R. K. Burns as his deputy sheriff; L. M McClintic was prosecuting attorney; S. L. Brown, county clerk. The Board of Health was composed of Dr. J. W. Price, L. M. McClintic, M. J. McNeel and J. C. Arbogast.

At the head of the editorial column was the following: "The free silver craze is sweeping the state Well and good. The State needs a sweeping."

Up to the time of the building of the church in 1896 "the congregation worshiped in the Presbyterian church and the relations between the different denominations are most cordial." And so they remain to this day.

Among other things chronicled in that issue of The Times is the meeting of the levy term of the County Court. The items in the levy were, depositum $1000; juries, $800; roads, $2,000; overdrafts, $2,570.62. house on poor farm. $1,000. A levy of 55 cents was laid. W. H. Grose and Geo P. Moore made the settlement with the sheriff that year.

Among the advertisers were Paul Golden. W. J. Killingsworth, L. D Sharp and the Marlinton Drug Store, W. B. Rickets, proprietor. This is now the Royal Drug Stores, with a number of branches over the State

A big oat crop was reported, and it was expected that oats would sell at 20 cents a bushel.

There were a number of articles from the pen of the late Dr. Wm. T. Price. In one of them he commented on the unsurpassed mountain scenery and healing waters in and about what is now called the Minnehaha Springs region He referred to it as the Driscol neighborhood.

The church paper in the stone was the Baltimore Christian Advocate of the date of July 29, 1896. Its editor was Rev J. S Hutchison. We believe he was afterwards presiding elder of this district, Lewisburg From it we learn that Rev. J. D. Martin was the presiding elder of Lewisburg District at that time. The paper was so badly damaged that little of it was readable. Here is one of the editorials: "The church makes a great mistake when it assumes that her only mission is the souls of men, and turns over to Masons and Odd Fellows the work of dispensing benefactions to their bodies." If that editor is yet alive, he can see in the plan of the church now building large provisions for community service.

This writer refrains from reviving the jokes in either the Times or the Advocate by reprinting them. Suffice it to say they were too old to bury twenty-six years ago.

The relics deposited in the new stone by the Masons were sixteen in number as follows: A New Testament with historical sketch of the Methodist Church in Marlinton and how this big enterprise was made possible: Copies of the current issues of the Baltimore Southern Methodist, Marlinton Methodist, and Pocahontas Times. Lists of the officers of the Pocahontas County Sunday School Association; stewards and trustees of the Methodist Church: officers of the Womens Missionary Society: members of the Building Committee. names of contributors to the building of the church and the amount subscribed: names of members of Ladies Aid; a Peace dollar; compliments of the Bank of Marlinton; Emblem of State Bankers Association; third Liberty Loan button, Shriners emblem; list of officers and members of Marlinton Lodge No. 127, A. F. and A. M.

Pastor—Rev. Fred B. Wyand.

Board of Stewards—C A. Yeager, G. F. Crummett, W. A. Eskridge, C. J. Richardson, F. M. Sydnor, W. J. Yeager, E. M. Richardson, S. J. Rexrode, Fred Gehauf, B. B, Williams, Guy Faulknier, Ira D. Brill, A. H. McFerrin, A. C. McCoy.

Church Building Committee—F. M. Sydnor, S. J. Rexrode, A. S. Overholt, Mrs. Walker Yeager, C. J Richardson, N. C. McNeil, C. A. Yeager, Mrs. B B. Williams, Mrs. T. D. Moore, A. H. McFerrin, A. C. McCoy, Ira D. Brill, B. B. Williams, Mrs. W. A. Eskridge, W. H. Arbogast, Claude Wiley, Fred Gehauf, W. J. Yeager, W. A. Eskridge, F. R. Hill, R. C. May, A. G. Killingsworth C. K. Livesay.

Trustees Church Property—G. F. Crummett, Uriah Bird, A E Smith, W. A. Eskridge, W. J. Yeager, C J. Richardson, F. M. Sydnor.

ODD FELLOW PICNIC

The I. O. O. F Union picnic held at Liberty Church at Greenbank last Saturday September 9th was largely attended. Over one thousand people were present. Addresses were made by Rev. J. H. Rosenberger of Greenbank, Rev H. Blackhurst of Cass, Rev. Idleman and Rev. Vandevender of Durbin, and Geo. S. Fullerton of Morgantown. Music was rendered by the I. O. O. F. Home Band of Elkins, composed of twenty-one orphan children, of the W. Va. I. O. O. F. Home. All Odd Fellows and their families that were present at this picnic desire to express their appreciation and sincere thanks to the official members of the Presbyterian Church for their permission to hold this picnic in their grove and church lot. B.

J. W. Goodsell, prominent banker and president of the board of education of Greenbank District, Pocahontas county, visited the state department of education Wednesday. In addition to being president of a Durbin bank he is also interested in a large tannery, but despite his business associations has been able to find time to serve 12 years on the board of education there. Educators say that he has been instrumental in having a number of school buildings built in his district, and give him the chief credit for obtaining the district high school for Greenbank.—Charleston Gazette.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cackley and little daughter, of Millpoint, enroute to Lexington, Va., to visit Mrs. Cackley's relations, spent last Friday night in the home of W. H. Cackley, Esq., in this city.—W. Va. News.

Judge S. H. Sharp, of Marlinton, passed thru the city Wednesday night enroute to Fayette county on business.—W. Va. News.

Miss Alice Kramer spent the last week end with her sister, Mrs. J. A. Sydenstricker.—W. Va. News.

REVIVAL SERVICES

Revival Services have been postponed to begin in the M. E. Church, South at Greenbank, Monday evening, Sept. 18th

J. W. Rosenberger, Pastor.

Huntington—Raymond Davies, 26 years old, a jockey, of Lexington, Ky., died at Ashland, Ky., near here, of injuries sustained when he was hurled from a horse during a race on the Ashland track.

Buckhannon—At the instance of creditors, the circuit court has appointed C. K. McCally as receiver for the Cutright-Sharps Roller Shade Company. It is expected creditors will be paid in full and operations resumed.

Charleston—"The fire loss in West Virginia for the last fiscal year was $87,353 less than for the year before," it was stated by C. L. Topping, state fire marshal. "When taking into account the industrial depression and unrest which have prevailed so abnormally last year, this reduction is very satisfactory to me."

Charleston—Fred Belcher, 12 years old, who had run away from his home in Huntington, was killed when struck by a Chesapeake and Ohio train at St. Albans. Fred was accompanied by another boy, said to be about the same age. Belcher, it was said, was taking a nap on the railroad tracks when the train hit him, killing him almost instantly.

Morgantown—The special election held here resulted in defeat for the $750,000 bond issue. The vote was 2,168 in favor of the project, with 1,519 against. A three-fifths majority was required, leaving the bill forty-four votes short. The bond issue was to cover sewer improvement and the cost of a new municipal hall. The voting was the most spirited in Morgantown's history.

E M Arbogast was in Highland county last week.

Fred McLaughlin was here Tuesday from Stuarts Draft. He had delivered a number of purebred Short horn cattle which he had sold to some farmers in Crabbottom and was on his way home.

Little Miss VirggInia Dearing fell and broke a bone in her arm last Saturday afternoon This is the third time she has broken her arm in the past three months.

Mr and Ms B L Campbell and Miss Georgia Lockridge were in Highland last week to attend the marriage of Rev B L Wood and Miss Lena Mary Campbell which occurrec at the home of the bride's parents, Mr and Mrs W P Cambell, at Valley Center on September 5, 1922

CALF CLUB PROJECT

The Pocahontas County Hereford Breeders' Association will distribute Hereford heifer calves among boys and girls in this county at the farm of F. P. Kidd at Hillsboro, on the evening of October 2, 1922.

Club members entering this project will be protected according to understanding listed as follows:

1. Calves will be of such breeding, quality, uniformity and condition to pass the requirements of the extension animal husbandry specialist.

2. All calves will be insured against death until the sale at the Pocahontas County Fair next fall.

3 All calves will be vaccinated against black leg with the life treatment aggression at the time they are put out to club members.

4 Each club member will be furnished a tabulated pedigree to the fifth generation.

5. Each club member will be mailed a complimentary copy of the American Hereford Journal for a period of one year.

6. Prizes will be awarded as follows: 1st, $35; 2nd, $30; 3rd, $25; 4th, $20; 5th, $15; 6th, $12; 7th $10; 8th, $8; and $5 for each thereafter.

7. To guarantee that no club member shall lose money on his calf project work, that is to say, if any calf should fail to bring in the sale an amount equal to the united cost of the calf, plus cost of feed, and six per cent interest on the cost of the calf that the deficit will be made up to the club member owning said calf providing said member has met the requirements as outlined in the first year calf project circular, and fulfilled his contract.

8. A calf sale will be held at the next year's fair. All calves will be sold at public auction and the club member will be given the privilege of bidding in his own calf if he so desires and pay only the original cost price.

9. The club member agrees to give either his personal note for the cost of the calf, payable on the day of the calf sale, or pay cash in hand.

To care for his calf well and carry out his project in accordance with the requirements outlined in this project circular and suggestions given by the county agent and extension animal husbandry specialist or his authorized representative.

To exhibit his heifer at the annual calf show in competition with the other club heifers.

Boys and girls between ten and eighteen years of age who desire to enter this project should make formal application in writing to the county agent, Marlinton, W. Va, before September 25th. State your training and experience that cause you to believe that you can succeed with the calf club project as follows:

In school: (state the grade that you will enter this fall and the number of years that you have spent in school work)

In club work: (whether you are just starting club work or if you have previously carried out a project, the prizes or profit made)

On the farm: (Have you ever fed or cared for cattle. Housing conditions, (kind of house) Available pasture; blue grass, clover, etc: available feeds.

WANLESS--KESLER

George Algar Wanless and Miss Minnie Anna Kesler of Cass were married at the Methodist parsonage, Wednesday Sept. 13, 1922 by Rev F. B Wyand

The venerable Samuel McCarty started for his home in Vermont Monday afternoon. He was accompanied by his son. C J. McCarty, who will spend a few weeks in Vermont.

The six year old son of J. J McNellen, blacksmith, was kicked in the head by a horse at the shop Saturday. Fortunately he escaped with a large bruise on the forehead.

J L Baxter went to Columbus on Wednesday on business with the Ford Motor Co.

Rev. H. H. Orr will preach at three o'clock next Sunday afternoon at Indian Draft.

French Hoover and Reed Moore each bought a purebred registered Shorthorn bull at Lewisburg last week.

Mr and Mrs Ward Hudson passed Marlinton on Monday on their return to their home at Landesburg, after a visit to relatives in the Greenbank District.

J E Sheets underwent a verp serious operation at the Marlinton Hospital last Thursday. He stood it well and is now making a good recovery.

The meeting being conducted at the Huntersville Presbyterian church will come to a close this next Sunday night. The meeting is being well attended.

Rev. W. C. Neel who has been supplying the Presbyterian churches on Knapp's Creek, will leave next Monday for his home preparatory to returning to Seminary.

Mr and Mrs M C Carter, Mrs Susan Carter and Mrs O D Warwick were called to Huntington last Saturday by the extreme illnes of Edward Carter who dseeen Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Hench left Saturday morning for across country trip They will go to Iron Gate and from there to other Virginia points spending some time at one of the coast resorts. Ewell Wiley accompanied them as far as Clifton Forge enroute to Farmville, Va., where he will enter Hampden Sydney College next week.

PETIT JURORS

The following citizens are summoned to appear before the Judge of the Circuit Court for Pocahontas County on the 3rd day of October, 1922, to serve as petit jurors for the October term of said court.

Harry Frozie, Frank Hughes Mack Thompson, Wm. N. Buzzard, J. C. Boggs, Simpson F. Gragg, E L Curtis, Frank Jordan, Joel Beard, Arlie Wimer, A. G Nell, Clyde Tracy, A C. Pue, Ward E. Harper, Raymond Gibson, Dock R. Vaughn, Eugene Kelley, Clyde Hevener, Mulvy P. Moore, Theodore Moore, C. V. Blackhurst, S. D Kirk, Winfred McElwee, Ballard McLaughlin, Oscar Latt, Kenna Rexrode, Bennett McNeill, J. Ed. Taylor, Clifford C. Ervine, J. H. Tallman, C. A. Little, R A. Starks, J. W. Townsend, Chas. A McLaughlin, Charlie Hoover, Brown Zimmerman, Charles E. Callison, R. A Kramer, S. P. Landis, Forrest H Dean, Dallas Jordan, Ivan L Sharp, J. A. Shinaberry, J. H. Lightner, Jacob Caraway, Everett Snedegar, Porter Sharp, W. H Alderman, Clarence Kellison.

CIRCUIT COURT

A special term of grand jury court was in session last Tuesday and Wednesday. The following citizens composed the grand jury, Charles J. Spencer, C C Wanless, S H Johnson, Osborne Tracy, Amos Doyle, J B Buckley, J C Harper, Jake Cogar, Luther McNeil, P L Carter, J C Haupt, C C Beal, Edgar Smith, Lee Moore, Ewell Kramer, and Ashby Sharp. Four felony indictments and 21 indictments for misdemeanors were returned. The jury finished its labors and adjourned Wednesday evening.

Chancery Orders

McNeil v Darnell, sale confirmed Mr and Mrs J. Luther McNeil

State v Mose Shiflett, dismissed

Andrew Price Trustee v Rosen, sale of goods and junk confirmed to George Rosen, and store rented to George Rosen

J W Goodsell, Exec. v Freeman, sale of land confirmed to Edward Freeman and wife

KNOX--BAXTER

The home of Mrs. Margaret Baxter at Onoto, the bride's mother, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday of last week. At two o'clock the bridal party entered the parlor to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Mrs. Frank Baxter. The music continued softly throughout the ceremony. They were received at the bridal arch by the Rev. H. H. Orr of Marlinton, the bride's pastor, and with the simple ring ceremony, Mr. Charles Knox of Cannelton, W. Va., and Miss Edith Baxter were pronounced husband and wife The room was beautifully decorated with both cut flowers and plants.

The following guests were present: Mr. and. Mrs. E. C Smith of Spruce; Mrs. Faith Baxter of Cass; Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Pritchard, of Dunmore; Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Baxter of Marlinton, Mr. and Mrs. G A C Auldridge Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baxter, Glenn, Dameron and Goldie Barlow, John Simmons, Clay Tallman, Glenna, Margaret and Gray McLaughlin, Lillie and Beatrice Sharp and Goldie Jordan

After a brief trip to the home of the groom at Fairmont, the young couple will be found in their newly furnished home in Cannelton where the groom is employed as a mining engineer.

Chautauqua closed last Friday night, Taken all in all, it was a very superior one probably the best ever held here. Large crowds attended both afternoon and night The superintendent J C Evans, was an exceptionably able one The Junior Chataugua was bigger and better than ever before Chatauqua brings to the town a high class entertainment, and during the week every one old and young, finds something suited to their tastes But take it all in all, the real benefit is derived by the rising generation, for it brings to them the best speakers of the country and cultivates in them a taste for the best there is in music.

The eight year old son of Page Friel had the terrifying experience of being bitten on the hand by a large copperhead snake last Friday. The boy was gathering vegetables in the garden when the snake struck him. One fang penetrated deeply and tore out a gash which bled freely, which was a benefit, but the hand swelled enormously and there is a sluffing sore. Home remedies of salt and turpentine were applied. The proper treatment for snake bite is to cut the wound. instantly and cause it to bleed freely, suck out poison by mouth. A solution of permanganate of potash should be applied if available, otherwise a salt solution and bathe freely with running water. Also apply turpentine.

Theodore McKenney, of Warwick, this county, together with four other cadet at the Citizens Military Training Camp, Fort Knox, Kentucky, was wounded in the foot by an exploding shell, and is in hospital at Fort Knox The boys got some unexploded shells in the artillery range to bring home as souveniers, and in an attempt to remove the fuse the accident occurred. One young man lost both arms; and another a leg. It is reported that McKinney suffered the loss of a part of his foot. The other cadets from this county this year were Earl Carlisle, Henry Astin and Norval McNeill, who returned safely.

DIED

Edward Carter died at his home in Huntington on Sunday, September 10, 1922, after a short illness of heart trouble. His age was about 40 years. Burial on Tuesday at Chapmansville. W. Va. The deceased was the second son of Mrs. Susan Carter, of Marlinton. His father the late Burton Carter, died about thirty-six years ago. Of his father's family he is survived by his sister Mrs. O. D Warwick, and his two brothers, M. C. Carter, of Marlinton, and Dennis Carter, of Andersonville, South Carolina. His wife was a Miss O'Ferrel, of Chapmanville, and they have two children, a son and a daughter, both about grown.

Ballard McCalpin died suddenly while at his work on the Raywood mill September 5, 1922. He was working on the slasher and fell on the chain that runs to the saw. Mr. Beverage, who was near got to him in time to save him from being cut. Willing hearts and helping hands did all that could be done, but in vain. His age is 28 years He is the son of Mr and Mrs J. L McCalpin of Stony Bottom The remains were taken to his home for burial; funeral services were conducted by Rev Mr. Monroe. The reading was from the 91st Psalm. He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, father, mother, two brothers and five sisters, all of Stony Bottom After the service he was laid to rest beside his two little daughters who passed away in July. While we mourn his loss we are glad to know that he was ready for he said he was ready for the great exchange to that land beyond. He was a kind hearted boy and loved by all who knew him. A Friend.

A good man and useful citizen was lost to the community in the passing, very suddenly, at his home near Vago, this county, on August 10, 1922, of A. P. Hughes, who was born in Louisa county, Virginia, in 1854, and was married January 6, 1881, to Miss Nancy Catheran Lawrence, to this union there were six children born—J. N. Hughes, Lewisburg; F. L and C. H. Hughes, of Vago; Mrs. L. S Kersiner, of Vago, and Mrs A. L. Bowes, of White Sulphur, now living, and H. W Hughes who departed this life August 16, 1919.

Mr. Hughes moved with his family from Virginia to Pocahontas county where he resided for a period, and then moved to Greenbrier where he has resided for the last thirty years He was a man of good deeds, of a cheerful disposition, a loving husband, and kind and indulgent father. He was a member of the Clifton Presbyterian Church, where he found much pleasure in the association of Godly men and women. He stood for high principles of government and for strict adherence to a high moral code within the community and his home and had a host of friends in both Greenbrier and Pocahontas counties who myurn their loss.—Greenbrier Independent.

ST. JOHN'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH

Marlinton, W. Va.

Services each month as follows:

Second Sunday, Evening Prayer and Sermon at 8 P. M.

Third Sunday, Morning Prayer and Sermon at 11 A M.

Every one welcome.

Geo. J. Cleaveland, Minister.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. F. B Wyand, Pastor

Sunday School 9:45, prompt

A. S. Overholt, Superintendent.

Morning Worship 11 o'clock

Subject: Personality

Epworth League, 7:15 P M

Preaching 8 o'clock, Subject "The Great Hero"

In the near future we plan to preach a sermon on the subject, "What is the Matter with America To Day"

Watch for the announcement and come to hear this sermon

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

9:45 a. m. Sunday School

Sunday, September 17, 1922.

11:00 A. M. Rev. Yosip Benyamin

3:00 P. M. Preaching at Indian Draft

7:00 P. M C. E. Dora Fortune, Leader

7:45 P M Rev. Yosip Benyamin

This church is to have the pleasure of hearing a native of Persia tell something of conditions as they are over there today. Mr. Benyamin and his family were among the refugees who escaped the terrible persecution of the Turks in the recent war. Mr Benyamin was educated at our Seminary at Columbia, S C., and comes with the highest testimonials from Dr. Reed, the present moderator of the General Assembly and others prominent in our church. He has a remarkably interesting story and it will be worth while hearing.

Next week will be held the annual meeting of the Synod at Hinton The Synodical will meet at the same time and place This will be an important meeting of these bodies as some important matters are to come up

There will be an ice cream supper at Trinity Church, Frost, on Saturday evening Sept. 23rd, beginning at 7 o'clock. Everybody cordially invited to come and have an evening of enjoyment.

ROOFING and CEMENT

We are buying in carload lots the best Asphalf Roofing that we can buy, and can make it at reasonable prices. We have a lot of odds and ends in roofing that have accumulated in our warehouse that we will close out at less than wholesale price.

LEHIGH Cement in stock at right price.

Roof Paint and Cement for all kinds of roofs.

See us when in need of anything in the General Merchandise Line

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.

MARLINTON, W. VA.

THE HIGH SCHOOL

Edray District High School opened Monday morning with the largest enrollment ever on the opening day.

First Year—Girls 25, boys 12—37
Second Year—Girls 16, boys 13—29
Third Year—Girls 18, boys 11—29
Fourth Year—Girls 16, boys 6—22.
Total—Girls 75, boys 42—total 117.

OFF TO COLLEGE

Ewell Wiley went to Hampden Sidney, last Saturday. Hull and Arnaut Yeager, Frances Harris, Guy Bambrick, Ward Collins and Sterl Wooddell are at Concord Normal. Miss Delphia Snedegar, to Fairmont Normal; Miss Marie Smith, to Davis & Elkins; Miss Alice McClintic at Penn Hall, Chambersburg, Pa., and Miss Priscilla Collins at Hope College, Holland, Michigan; Dallas McKeever at Marshall, John Bessling at W & J Hubert Slaven and Claude Collins will go to Pittsburgh University; Craig Richardson to Roanoke College; Meade McNeill and Teddy Cooper to the University.

HUNTERSVILLE

The Revival Services began in the Huntersville Presbyterian Church on Thursday night of last week with a comparatively small crowd present; but by Sunday night the church was comfortably filled.

Rev. J. L Fowle preaches fearlessly and forcefully the truth as it is taught in the Bible. He takes his stand firmly and unequivocally on the fundamentals of the Christian's belief and practice. No small part of the increasing interest in the services is due to his ability as a song-leader and soloist assisted by his able pianist, Mr. Martel Tremain. Mr. Tremain also has charge of the afternoon prayer meetings at 3:00 o'clock in the church.

There will be preaching every night thru Sunday Sept 17th by Rev Mr. Fowle. If you have not attended any of these services you have missed a great spiritual blessing.

It was a pleasure to see our friend Col. D. A. Fisher, of Huntersville, on the streets of Marlinton bright and early Wednesday morning. He is well and hearty and is as straight as an Indian in spite of the load of nearly ninety years on his shoulders.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our heartfelt appreciation to the people of Boyer community for their untiring kindness and sympathy during the long weeks of suffering and after the death of our darling baby, Sarah Ethel, aged nearly three years. May God's richest blessing be with them all.

J. G. Boggs & Family.

Executor's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all parties knowing themselves indebted to the estate of William Gibson, deceased, to make settlement of the same with me at once. All parties holding claims against the said estate are requested to present the same to me for payment, with full legal proof attached:

Given under my hand this 1st day of September, 1922.

Sherman Gibson,
Executor of the Last Will & Testament of William Gibson, deceased.

Public Auction

OF THE PROPERTY OF THE LATE A. E. LIVESAY

The following personal property of the late A. E. Livesay will be sold at Public Auction at the Home Place near Ronceverte, W. Va., on Friday October 6th, 1922 beginning at 10 o'clock A. M.

1 3 year old bull (Pure Bred)
1 old bull (pure bred)
2 bull calves (pure bred)
2 calves, steers
1 Case Automobile 7 passenger
1 Bell City Thrash Box
3 Registered two year old heifers polled
1 Registered three year old heifer
1 Grade 1 year old heifer
2 Registered Herford cows
3 cows and one suckling calf
1 Registered cow
1 Registered yearling heifer
3 Spayed cows & 3 other cows
4 yearling heifers
1 Grade bull calf
29 2 year old cattle
10 Yearling cattle
1 4 year old colt
1 colt, 1 cow
1 Yearling bull

TERMS: All sums up to $100.00 cash on day of sale, all sums over that amount to be evidenced by negotiable notes made payable to the First National Bank of Ronceverte, W. Va., with good security bearing six per cent interest, six months time.

J. E. LIVESAY, Executor.
Col. Clarence Nickell Auctioneer.

House for Sale

One seven room two story house in first class shape, finished in black walnut, has double hall, the best of water in house. Three large lots, some fruit trees, and grapes. Good out buildings, close to good churches, school and high school. Front and back porches to house. Will sell cheap to any one applying quick. Terms. Apply L. H Snyder, River Side Addition, Marlinton, W. Va.

Estray Steer

A black yearling steer has been at my place at Woodrow since about August 1, split in left ear and crop off of right. Owner can have him by paying cost of keep and advortising.

S. D. McClure,
adv $1 paid Woodrow, W. Va.

NOTICE

All persons are notified not to trespass on the lands of the undersigned, especially by hunting and passing through C. C. Wanless, Cass, W. Va.

NOTICE

My daughter, Mamie Hamrick, aged 16 years, having left home without cause and without my consent, I will no longer be responsible for any debt she may contract.

This 12th of September, 1922.

A. R. Hamrick,
Cloverlick, W. Va.

HOUSE FOR SALE—I offer for sale my residence on lower Camden Ave., Marlinton, W. Va., 9 rooms and a bath, lights, water, etc. A good house, desirably located.

Anna J. Gum,
Marlinton, W. Va.

SEE

"Micky"

A photo play of gladness

AMUSU THEATRE

Wednesday and Thursday

Admission 15c and 25c

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, EDITOR.

THURSDAY SEPT. 14, 1922

The problem presented by the English statesman is: How can a mule be made strong enough to work, and too weak to kick. When this is solved it will be applied to Germany and the greatest of the world's problems will be answered. The importance of the question was such that time off was demanded. Must Germany be left to welter it her paper money? God save the mark! So we decided to take a week off and go down to the ocean at the nearest point and work on it within the sound of the wild waves. Go to the ocean and wade into as far as practicable and return invigorated and refreshed, and if the result of our labors throws any light on the subject, it will be reported to you first and then offered to Germany. Until another report is made, you can imagine a mountain man wandering on the shore of the salt estranging sea, asking the pilgrims there about mules.

About the time we got ready to start, (and by we is meant me and my consort) word came to go to the inland town of Parkersburg to meet with the Democratic State Committee, to make arrangements for the Democrats to carry the state of West Virginia this coming November, a noble purpose, and a work too long neglected. But we were headed in another direction, and all we could do to help in that good work was to send them word to hold an election without letting the Republicans know anything about it, and at the same time warning them that Republicans were not so scarce in West Virginia—that we had seen one the other day.

Maybe they will let the Democrats hold another election some time or other. Let us hope so.

But there was another good reason for going to the sea shore and that was the hay fever which had ceased to be a laughing matter. The time had come when the thought of the raging sea was a small matter compared to a raging field of ragweed. I had thought that I had the secret of health by the tail by wandering in the fields for health, and lo and behold, the flowers blew into the face of the botanist, and that is what made him so wild. It was a case of flee botanist.

And another thing. Man's inhumanity to man. I stood it for nearly two weeks. A person would ask me, "How are you?" And I would start in to give him a careful, conscientous and painstaking answer, and at the end of thirty minutes or so, and before I had fully stated the case, he would lose interest and move on, though he had introduced the subject.

So it came to pass that I craved sympathetic companions and decided to go to the watering places of the earth where men do sit on porches and go in for symptoms. What I was looking for was a congenital crowd, and one that would divide time with a fellow sufferer.

A third class post office in Virginia, known as Virginia Beach, general delivery, was selected. The map showed that it was on the main shore. No placid bays for me. Where the map shows about three thousand miles of unobstructed vision is the kind of place where the waves hang heavy over the shore and burst.

On Tuesday, the orders in family council were to go up to the new ground for tomatoes. I went in a round about way and reached the patch safely and got a basket of the fruit of the vine. Across a hollow and a field I saw a man I wanted to speak to and I went over to him unthinkingly and stepped in a patch of ragweed more than waist high, and that night I wheezed, and by the next day, I was in moving frame of mind. I had said in my haste that I had discovered the secret of youth, that is, nature and yet more nature. But did it ever occur to you that if you repair an old machine in one place that it is pretty sure to break down in another?

I am a Virginian. It is no use to deny it. I was born on Muddy Creek at an early period of my existence. I am the kind of a man that Mark Twain speaks about—I come from Virginia and I am kin to an Injun. So I set about for a visit to my native state with mingled feelings—I wanted to go, and I did not want to spend the money necessary to take me. I suffered from conflicting emotions.

I want to develop this Virginia descent of mine. It is about time that some of us came to the foot and began ascending. In the first place we were not devoid of sagacity in the beginning for at a very early period my family having been mixed with Indian blood, made a virtue of a necessity, and commenced to brag about it, and they got away with it Grandpa Powhatan was a noble savage. He was of the old school and did not wear no pants. He lived in the swamp country around the mouth of the James River and he had a hunch that it would be well to exterminate the Smiths and he would have done so had it not been for his wilful daughter Pocahontas, who was my grandmother.

One of the great schemes of Patrick Henry was to subsidize every white man who would marry an Indian woman and in this way assimilate the Indian race with the whites and put an end to the incessant warfare. This was about the time they were trying to educate the young buck Indians at William and Mary College, and not succeeding They were about as docile as that many wild cats.

Recently there has been published a work in four volumes on the life of John Marshall, chief justice of the Supreme Conrt of the United States This is the work of Albert Beveridge, of Indiana, and it is one of the most valuable of all the historical works of America. From it I have been able to connect up with Thomas Jefferson and John Marshall and a number of other old boys of the old days. But it seems from that book that Randolphs under whose banner I have been rallying are of comparatively recent origin, not being able to trace back beyond the year 1550, whereas the Indians go back to 1424, so it is more important to establish the Indian connection than the Randolph line.

Col. William Randolph married Mary Isham. They had three sons Thomas Randolph, the great grandfather of John Marshall, Isham Randolph, the grandfather of Thomas Jefferson, and Richard Randolph, who married Jane Bolling, the great granddaughter of Pocahontas. I am eleven generations from the Indian and that is not so much for I can go back eight generations to the Dunlaps here in the mountains.

So there is a fragment of our family tree. It never did no good to me, but I cannot help referring to it from time to time, but it goes better in Virginia than it does in these mountains where there is bred in the bone a distrust for the people of the lowlands who outvoted and outniggered them so long.

From my earliest recollection in the free masonry of the family circle I was taught to lay claim to this good inheritance as a birth right, and when I attempted to assert it abroad I found that it would not do, and that anyone who claimed to belong to an F. F. V. was sat down upon so hard that he would be driven to conceal his dreadful secret. And this in time created a complex that amounted to terror of the subject.

But with the fullness of time has come the realization that all of our pioneer families are proud of their own heroic race and they do not yield one inch to any body on earth in the point of good blood and good breeding, so it suddenly occurred to me that all my life I have been bluffed off the boards by a lot of mountain aristocrats who are blue blooded and who live up to their birth and breeding.

It was a Virginian who claimed that men were the best products of his State, and there is no question that next to being an American, the proudest boast that any man can make is that he belongs to one of the two Virginias.

This is page nine of a penciled tablet written mostly on a moving train, and I wonder whether when I read it over, I will let what I have said heretofore stand. I know how to keep from mutilating this manuscript—I will not read it over. I have turned myself wrong side out too often to feel any sense of shame in divulging my inmost thoughts. That is the way I get rid of some complexes.

We took the down train Wednesday evening and at Caldwell got off to go round about Lewisburg to get the the kind of supper that is set out at T. A. Sydenstricker's, and then we found that that retired farmer and his wife, known the world over as Tom and Blanche, would go with us for a week to relieve the monotomy of life in one spot. And so to number two and the Richmond sleepers. For a lodging for the night the host said that we could have the drawing room for $13.75 or berths for some similar sum. The drawing room air is apt to be a bit thick the morning after with four persons using up the oxygen, so we took the berths.

On the train we made acquaintances, for it seems to be that people travel in Pulmans for the benefits of society.

One man was on a very interesting mission. He was a lumber expert in the employ of the C. & O. Ry. His home was in Hinton. On Saturday he had finished the supervision of loading the steamship Honolulu with over a million feet of railroad ties, and refusing an invitation to go with the ship to Newport News, he hopped on a train and came by his home to meet the ship when it tied upon the dock. The northern railrords are experimenting with ties made out of the heart of southern pine, and on this shipment depending is a decision that will affect the tie supply of a great railroad. Soft pines are not regarded highly but much is expected of the hard hearted pines hewed on four sides. The shipload amounto about seventy-five car loads of lumber.

The first night on the train I rested as well as could be expected and woke up the next morning with no hay fever. Tuckahoe cannot even support a case of hay fever. I was ready then to turn around and go home, but I was properly booked and got to Richmond in time for an eleven o'clock breakfast at a fine hotel. As usual with home bodies who think when they next wander abroad that they will order novel dishes, we all took bacon and eggs and coffee.

At twelve thirty on a hot day we got on a fast flying train and rolled swiftly by Fort Lee, where the hope of the land was camped so recently, and by Williamsburg and are now rolling through a flat, poor, brushy country, rapidly approaching the sea at Newport News.

And we bewail our fate that such a poor country can support large cities like Richmond, Norfolk and Newport News, while West Virginia without a waste acre within her borders has so few cities and towns.

Leave is asked to extend these remarks when we shall have made a comprehensive study of the Atlantic Ocean.

I know about mountains, but not about the sea.

NOTICE

If the party who took my umbrella from a back seat in the Auditorium institute week will leave it at Mr. P. C. Curry's store no questions will be asked. The umbrella is black with white top, white tips and white handle with black ring. The end of handle has black and white stripes.

Rella F. Yeager

FOR SALE:—Cockerels from sam matings that I won first prizes on at Fair. S. C. Rhode Island Reds; S. C. While Leghorn; S. C. Barred Rock (champion strain) from heavy egg produeing strain. Write, phone, or call at the Farm and make your own selection.—Oak Crest Poultry Farm, Millpoint, W. Va.

GAME SEASON DATES

The hunting season opened September 1st, when hunters took to the woods in quest of squirrels.

The next is the rabbit season, which opens October 1st and then comes the bird season, some on October 15th and others on November 1.

The following excerpt is taken from the forest game and fish law for the guidance of hunters in this state.

It is unlawful for any person over 15 years of age to hunt or fish without a license, to be procured from the county clerk. Cost of license to residents, one dollar; to non residents, $15.

It is unlawful to hunt on enclosed or improved lands of another without the written consent of the owner or agent.

It is unlawful for any person not a citizen of the United States to hunt catch or kill any wild game animals, wild game birds or wild game fowls or have in his possession fire arms for such purposes or fish for fish, frogs or turtles.

It is unlawful for any unnaturalized foreign born resident of the state to own or keep a dog of any kind in this state.

It is unlawful to hunt the various birds and animals or catch any fish except during the periods which are set out below:

Deer—No person except the owner shall hunt or kill any deer in this state until October 15, 1923. No person shall hunt or kill deer with dogs in this state at any time.

Wild Turkeys—Lawful to kill same between October 15 and December 1 Unlawful to kill same at night or to kill more than one turkey in one day or four in one season. Persons required to report number killed to game and fish warden.

Ruffed Grouse—Lawful to hunt same between October 15 and December 1, but unlawful to kill more than four in one day or 20 in one year.

Quail or Partridge—Lawful to hunt same between November 1 and December 1, but unlawful to kill more than 10 in one day or 60 in one year.

Wild Duck, Goose or Brant—Lawful to hunt same between October 15 and January 1.

Woodcock—Lawful to hunt same between October 15 and November 30.

Plover, Sandpiper—Lawful to hunt same between September 16 and December 31.

Snipe—Lawful to hunt same between October 15 and December 15.

Gray, Black, Fox and Red Squirrels—Lawful to hunt same between September 1 and December 1. No person shall kill more than eight squirrels in one day or sixty in one year.

Frogs—Lawful to hunt frogs between June 1 and April 1.

Rabbits—Lawful to hunt same between October 1 and January 1.

Polecat or Skunk—Lawful to kill same between December 1 and February 1.

Jack Salmon, Jack Fish or White Salmon—Lawful to fish for same between June 1 and April 1.

Trout or Landlock Salmon—Lawful to fish for same between May 1 and August 1.

Bass, Pickerel or Pike—Lawful to fish for same between May 30 and August 1.

Notice of Sale

North Fork Lumber Company,

Vs · In Chancery.

Harry E. Clark, Mountain Lick Lumber Co., Garnishee, and Samuel L. Clark.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Special Commissioner pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered on the 7th day of June 1919, in the above cause, will offer for sale on the 10th day of October 1922, at 9 o'clock a. m., to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Courthouse of said County a two-fifths (2-5) undivided interest in 2099 acres of land situate near Durbin in Greenbank District, said County and State, and which said 2099 acres were conveyed by deed dated January 24th, 1907, from J. Harvey Whiteman to the defendadant Samuel L. Clark, and which tract of land is further more fully described in said chancery cause, and which sale will be subject to the conditions of said decree.

TERMS OF SALE

One-half cash in hand on day of sale and the residue payable in six months with interest, the purchaser to give note with security approved by said Special Commissioner, and the title to said land retained as further security.

Samuel T. Spears,
Special Commissioner.

I, D. C. Adkison, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, do hereby certify that Samuel T. Spears, Special Commissioner in the above-styled chancery cause, has given both bonds for three thousand dollars each as required in the decree entered on the 7th day of June 1919, in said cause.

D. C. Adkison,
Clerk.

Notice of Sale

Persons interested will take notice that the sale of the Malcomb Store house at Greenbank was continued by public outcry to the 3rd day of October 1922, the first day of the October Term of the Circuit Court. This sale is for the storehouse end of the lot only, the dwelling having been sold.

A P EDGAR,
ANDREW PRICE,
Special Commissioneas.

NOTICE

I wish to set free my daughter Ella Loudermilk, past 19 years old. I will not be responsible for her in any way or any debts she may make or any board bills, caused by disobedience and rebellious nature.

G. W. Loudermilk.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Lilly Land Company's

SALESMEN WORKING OVER TIME

In the last few months we have heard a number of people whining around and talking about business being dull. Now if business is dull we don't know anything about it and we have a large number of traveling salesmen and practically every one of them are working over time, trying to take care of our large number of prospective purchasers for lots and truck farms.

Now if you are interested in a small truck farm in the Ohio Valley between Huntington and Ironton, Ohio, on the easy payment plan, call at our Huntington Office located in the Mercantile Land Building, No. 605 1 2 Ninth Street, Huntington, W. Va., just in front of the Huntington Hotel, and the manager, Mr. G S. Gadd, will show you these truck farms.

If you want a choice lot on the easy payment plan, in the city of Huntington on the Country Club Addition, adjoining Camden Park, call at our Huntington Office.

If you want a lot or truck farm on the easy payment plan, in and around Princeton, Mercer County, West Virginia, call at our Princeton Office. Princeton has the general shops of the Virginian Railroad, numerous other enterprises, good schools and churches. It will pay you to see Princeton.

If you want a lot or truck farm on the easy payment plan, in and around the City of Beckley, Raleigh County, West Virginia, call at our Beckley Office. Beckley is absolutely surrounded by coal mines and various other enterprises, has good schools and churches. It will pay you to make a trip to Beckley.

If you want a choice lot on the easy payment plan, at Oak Hill, Fayette County, West Virginia, call at our Oak Hill Office. Oak Hill is practically in the heart of the great soft coalfield and has a wonderful opportunity for future growth.

If you want a choice lot on the easy payment plan, at Lewisburg, W. Va., call at our Lewisburg Office Lewisburg is one of the best school towns in the state and is practically in the heart of the Blue Grass Region

If you want a lot or truck farm on the easy payment plan, at Montcalm Mercer County, West Virginia, call at our Montcalm Office. Montcalm is located practically in the heart of the great soft coal field

If you want a choice lot on the easy payment plan at Iaeger, W. Va call at our Iaeger Office Iaeger is located on the main line of the N. & W. Railroad and is a junction of the Dry Fork Branch and is surrounded by coal mines and building ground at Iaeger is very scarce. It would pay you to investigate.

We would like for you to look at our property at once, but if you can't go now, be sure and write us at Princeton, W. Va., stating the city you are interested in, and we will have one of our agents see you at once: in other words, if you are interested in real estate, call on us for that is our business.

LILLY LAND COMPANY
HOME OFFICE
Princeton, W. Va.

Auction Sale

On Satuday September 23, 1922, I will sell at public auction at my place near Lobelia:

I sorrel mare 1 wagon
3 milk cows 1 two yr old heifer
1 set barness, 1 side saddle
1 Buena Vista saddle
3 iron kett'es, 1 12 gal brass kettle

Grabs, chains, cant hooks, spreaders. Household and kitchen furniture and many other things not mentioned. Also about 7 acres of corn if not sold before day of sale.

Terms made known on day of sale.

ARCH SPINKS.
Lobelia, W. Va.

NOTICE

The Arbovale Mill will start grinding Friday September 8th. There will be an expert miller in charge, and satisfaction guaranteed. Wheat will be stored free of charge.

Jackson McFarland, expert miller.
ARBOVALE MILLING CO.
Arbovale, W. Va.

Notice

This is to give notice that my wife Susan Virginia Gabbert, has left my home without cause and I will no longer be responsible for any debt she may contract.

This 5th day of September, 1922.

James W. Gabbert,
Spring Creek, W. Va.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of the late Samuel J. Sutton, to present the same properly proven to the undersigned administrator at his office at Greenbank, W. Va. All persons owing said estate will prepare to ettle at once.

This 25th of July, 1922.

French C. Sutton.
Administrator of Samuel J. Sutton, deceased.

NOTICE

A regular meeting of The Order of Eastern Star will be held in the Masonic Hall at 7:45 p. m. on Tuesday, Sept. 12th. Some very important business to transact and work to give. The Star Officials and Officers and all members are expected to be present on time and help out. Visiting Sisters and Brothers cordially welcomed.

Mary Price Waugh, W. M.

LOST: In Marlinton or between Hillsboro and Marlinton, during the Teachers' Institute, small Eastern Star Pin—star enclosed in 3-4 inch circle of green gold. Reward if returned to Box 46, Hillsboro, W. Va.

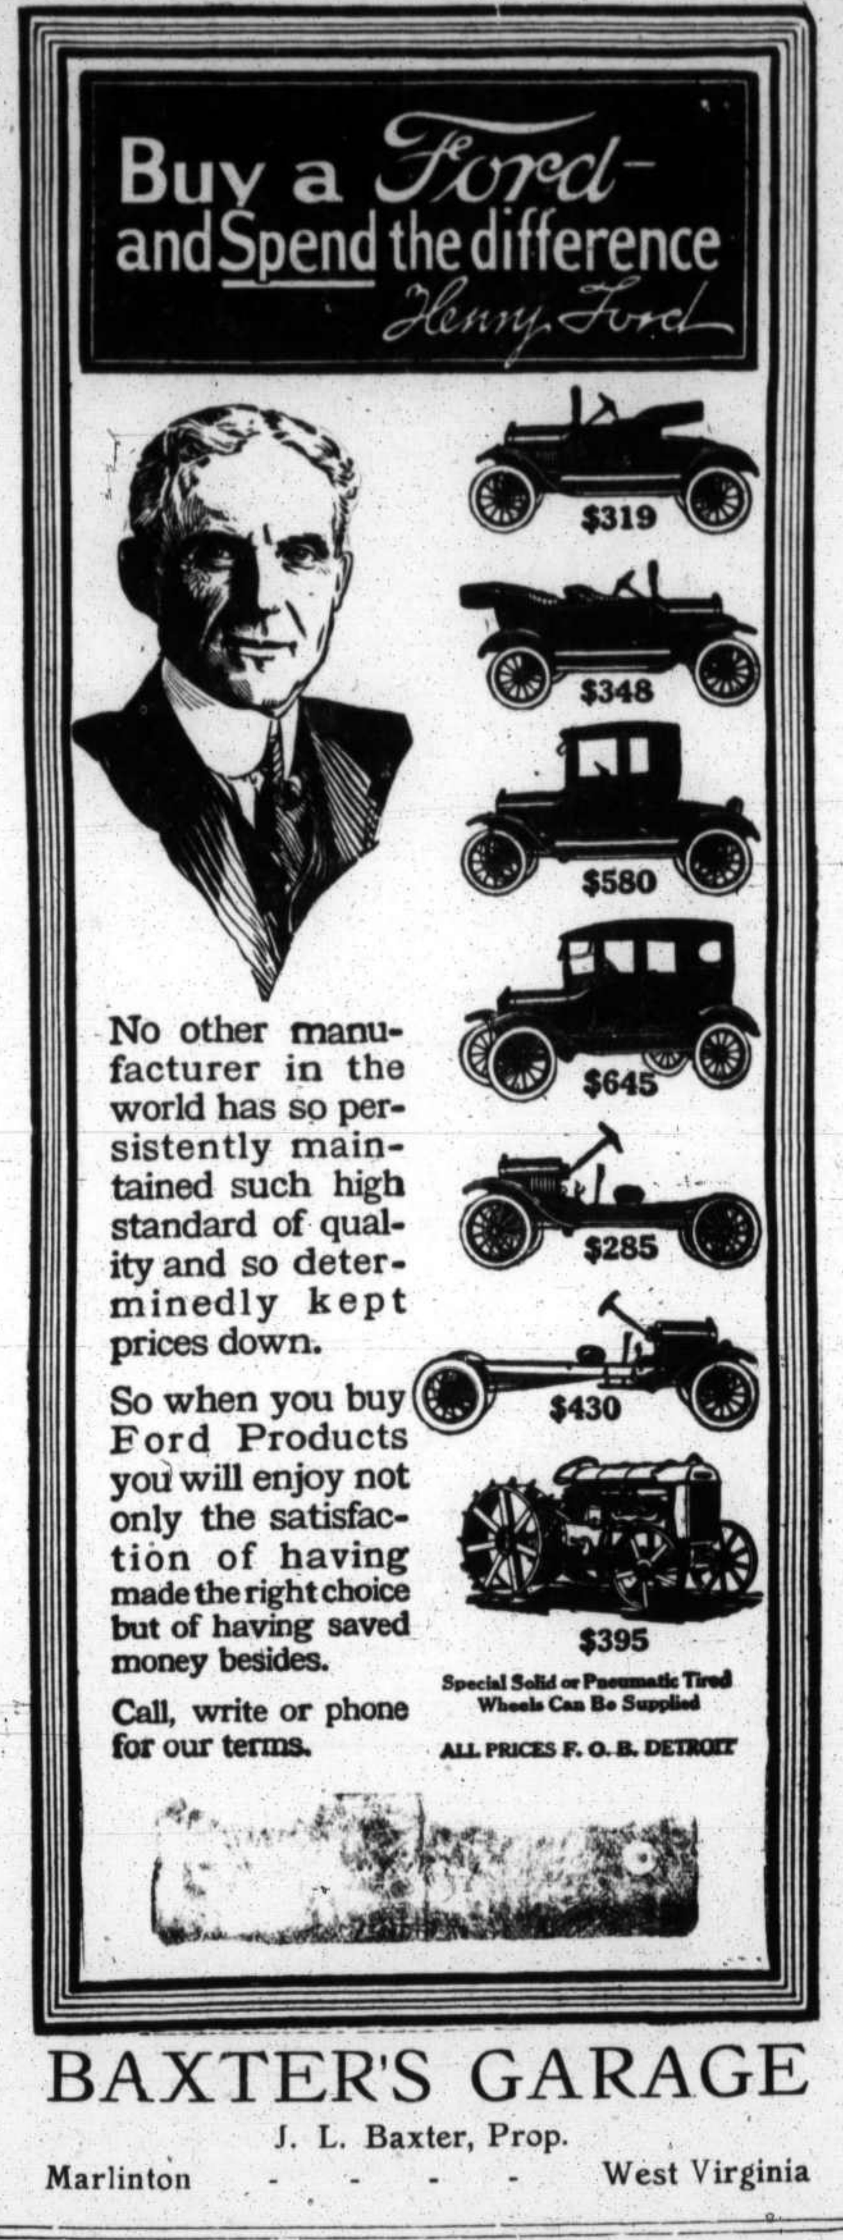
POTOMAC STATE SCHOOL

A co-educational State School offering the following:

Two years of Standard College Training
Preparatory Courses
Two-year and Four-year Commercial Courses
Domestic Science
Agriculture
Splendid Dormitory Accommodations.

Expenses less than half what it would cost to attend another school of similar standing. Fall term opens September 19, 1922. For catalogue and full information, address,

JOS. W. STAYMAN, President,
Keyser, W. Va.



BAXTER'S GARAGE

J. L. Baxter, Prop.

Marlinton - - - - West Virginia

For Sale

One house and lot in West Marlinton or better known as Campbelltown, W. Va. This includes a 7 room house and bath house, outbuildings including a garage. Property for the most part in good repair. A good proposition for anyone desiring a good home at low price, near church and school and on hard road.

S. N MORRISON,
51 West 6 Avenue,
Huntington, W. Va.

Imortant Notice

To the Stockholders of the Cloverlick and Durbin Mutual Telephone Company:

Please settle your assessments and other indebtedness to the company at once, as the company must pay what it owes, or suit will be brought on all outstanding accounts.

By order of the board,
Vaughan W. Geiger, Sec.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that on or about the 28th day of August 1922, an application will be filed with A G JENKINS, Pardon Atty., Charleston, W. Va, for the Pardon of Ben Syms, convicted of the crime of Grand Larceny at the October Term 1921, of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County and sentenced to imprisonment in the West Virginia Penitentiary for the period of Two Years.

NOTICE

There will be a special communication of Marlinton Lodge 127 A. F. & A. M. at 12:30 p. m. August 25 for the purpose of conducting the burial of Bro. Wm. Gibson.

J. E. Buckley, W. M.

USED CARS FOR SALE — One Buick touring car, one Chevrolet 5 passenger. In good running condition.

Marlinton Electric Co.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Morgantown Property For Sale

I have for sale a home near Woodburn school; Morgantown, 6 rooms, bath, cellar and attic. Hot and cold water Price $4700. School starts Sept. 4th.

Mrs. R. E. Rowan,
Morgantown, W. Va.

Seed Wheat for Sale

By the Dunmore Milling Co.
Dnnmore, W. Va.

Flouring Mill for Sale

A good custom roller flour mill business in the Town of Hillsboro, in good condition and doing a big business. It is necessary for owner to seek other business on account of health. Apply early to

H. C. Spencer.,
Hillsboro, W. Va.

Mrs. H. G. Greer
PUBLIC
Stenographer
Greer & Co.'s Office
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Z. S. Smith
Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

LOST: Between Stony Bottom and Marlinton, a bill folder, bank book and check book to Bank of Ronceverte, First National. Finder ple return to Marlinton Hotel and receive reward.

Geo. L. Smith.

ATTORNEYS

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties, and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business

N. C. McNEIL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia

[illegible]
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Marlinton, W. Va.
Furniture made to order and old furniture repaired.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specialty of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

DR. CHAS. S KRAMEE
DENTIST
First National Bank Building
Phone
Marlinton, W. Va

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va.

M. F. GUM
AUCTIONEER

For Sale
Copper Water Cans, Spouting, Tin Fixtures, copper tubing, bath room outfits, etc.
C. W. Slavin
Tinner and Plumber
Marlinton, W. Va.

DELCO-LIGHT
"Electricity for every Farm"
Write or phone for Catalogue
ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES
Marlinton Electric Co.
DEALERS

Building Material
Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.
R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Shepherd College
State Normal School
SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. VA.
Its Standard Normal Course is equivalent to Two Years of College or University Work. Life Certificate. Correspondence and Extention Work offered for credit.
Dormitories for Men and Women. Board and Room $20 and $22 a month.
Ninety-three Young People received Diplomas and Certificates from this School last year. Pocahontas sent a fine delegation. More should attend.
Fall Semester opens Tuesday, September 19, 1922.
For information or catalog, address
W. H. S. WHITE,
President.

FOR SALE: Wild Gensing Seed $3 00 per thousand, Via Parcel Post.
Mrs. Ellis Moore,
Stony Bottom, W. Va.

The Pocahontas Times.

VOL XLI NO 7 | MARLINTON, POCAHONTAS COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA, SEPTEMBER 28 1922 | $1.00 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

Report on the Marble Deposit of Pocahontas County.

By Geo. C. Underhill, of Vermont

To Hon. W. L. McNeel, Capt. A. M. Edgar, George S. McNeel, A. R. Smith, Marshall & McGraw, P. S. Clark, and others in interest at Marble Mountain, Academy, Pocahontas County, West Virginia:

Gentlemen: This is to say that having been employed by you to visit your property for the purpose of ascertaining the facts pertaining to its value for marble purposes would report as follows:

A careful study of your out cropping indicates, first, that there are several miles of fossiliferous marble strata, perhaps five or six, exposed to view most of the distance, and nowhere covered by more than a few feet of debris; the vein is at least forty feet thick and lies nearly horizontal at all points, coursing through and through the low range of hills wherein it is located.

There is no possible way to determine the full depth of the stratum except by core drill, or uncovering the exposure to a greater depth than has been attempted, or by actual excavation, nor does it much matter whether it be proven of a greater depth than shown by out croppings, for there is already more marble in sight than has ever been used during the ages. This is in no sense extravagant or overdrawn. An excavation 2,000 feet square and 40 feet deep would produce 80,000,000 cubic feet of merchantable marble, assuming that one half the excavation be debris, and I seriously doubt if that enormous gross total has been produced since the beginning of time for while the world's production now aggregates perhaps 4,000,000 cubic feet annually, it is only of late that even 1,000,000 was used, and it is probable that 100,000 feet would cover the production fifty years ago, and proportionately less as we go back. Thus it will seem that with an area of several miles square available, it is not very important to know accurately whether the depth be 40 or 140; more especially as a 40-foot strata can be economically worked.

In quality this marble may be divided into two general grades; the one ranging from the richest red to the deepest maroon color; while the other may be called dove colored, richly marked with white mottling and dark veins.

Perhaps the most important question is as to the condition of this vast mass, for many deposits which are otherwise desirable are so unsound and broken by eruption and upheaving forces as to be rendered worthless.

A word as to the methods of its presentation above the present adjacent country side will make plain that no great strain could have obtained. The contour of the immediate country surrounding Marble Mountain, taken in connection with all the exposed rock, makes it morally sure that the hills in question were forced up from the original level—the level where the deposing took place—without tilting or contortion, just as though some force should operate directly under a piece of level meadow land so as to lift it hundreds or thousands of feet above its natural surroundings, thus making it an elevated table land or mesa, the top being undisturbed and level as before.

I have never seen like conditions except at Dorset, Vermont, where a large bed of low grade marble and non-crystalized lime was forced up in a like manner. And where more than a half-century's work on an extensive scale shows a practically sound and unbroken marble except in a few spots where it is locally injured, as in the case of the "Blue Ridge" and its immediate vicinity.

All exposures of the lower stones, except in the case of volcanic action, have been brought about by the shrinkage of the earth's crust and consequent shriveling, and the valleys and mountains thus formed may be compared to the furrows and ridges in a milk pan. It will be seen that in such a contention of mighty forces but few large areas of mother rock would escape annihilation or at least serious breakage. Except in cases like those at Dorset, Vt., and Academy, W. Va., where sections of rock escaped destruction through removal from active participation in the crush going on all about them. I would not be understood that these are the only exceptions in the primary stones, for in many cases the shrinkage was so even and slow that equally sound stone may be found lifted on edge, but I cite these facts to show that such deposits are more apt to be commercially valuable than if brought to the surface one corner at a time.

The red and maroon marble referred to are counterparts almost of the marble found in Hawkins County, Tenn., and at Swanton, Vt., both valuable and much sought after.

Many years ago the bannisters and columns inside the Capitol Building at Washington were produced at great expense near Rogersville, in the former State, and are standing "ads" for this beautiful material.

The dove grey varieties have no known counterparts in this country at least, except in Colorado, where there is a somewhat similar vein. This marble is at once chaste and rich and would find a ready market wherever beauty is appreciated.

Commercially the future of Marble Mountain is largely dependent on a railway outlet, but as a valuable marble field is a great freight producer, and in view of the recent discoveries of coal near by, it is not possible for the building of a railroad to be long delayed. Moreover, it is almost a wonder that a rich farming district like that bordering the Greenbrier River should have been overlooked so long by railroad men.

I may add that while with you I was shown one of the finest pieces of black marble I had ever seen, and a fine sample of agate onyx, both of which would aid in making a railroad pay through the valley. Finally, let me say that under favorable conditions, large returns are made from the production of marble, and I feel confident that when it is fully understood that you have large quantities of freight some railroad to the north or south of you will reach out for it, and the rest will naturally follow.

Respectfully yours,

GEO. C. UNDERHILL.

Since this report was made, 22 years or more ago, a railroad has been built the length of the Greenbrier Valley, from Ronceverte to Durbin.

POTATO EXHIBIT

C. A. Dunn, of the State Department of Agriculture, was in Marlinton last Saturday to procure potatoes for exhibits at the county fairs at Hinton, Charleston, Huntington and perhaps others. Mr Dunn soon got in communication with W. C. Householder, L. O. Simmons, L. W. Harless, Walter Mann, Reed Moore, and other potato specialists. He got a big exhibit of the finest Carmons, Green Mountain and other potatoes, and was able to get away on the afternoon train. The Department had promised the Pocahontas County Fair a big exhibit, but was unable to bring it here on account of the railroad tie up.

Like others familiar with the Pocahontas potato Commissioner Stewart is enthusiastic over the possibilities of potato culture in our high land.

FIRE ALARM

The town was aroused at twelve o'clock Tuesday night by the fire alarm. The blaze was in the boiler room of the ice plant, and was put out before the prompt response of the hose companies. David Spitzer was going to his work at the light plant and saw the fire before it had gained much headway.

MRS. U. W. BURNER

Mrs. Sarah Jane Burner, wife of U. W. Burner, died at her home near Durbin, August 27, 1922, aged sixty-three years and seventeen days

Her maiden name was Malcolm, she being a daughter of Walter and Sarah Malcolm of Highland county, Virginia.

She leaves her husband and seven children, her son Steward having preceded her to the Great Beyond. Her daughters are Lucy, Edith, Lena and Nannie (Mrs Morrison) Her sons, living, are Howard, William and Dewey, the latter being in the United States Navy.

She was an estimable lady, a kind and devoted wife, loving mother, and true christian. Being converted while young, she joined the Methodist church of which she was a consistent member until her death.

The funeral sermon was preached in the Bartow church, by Rev. I. H. VanDevender to the largest congregation that ever assembled there; and the floral offering was most beautiful indeed.

The burial took place at the new graveyard on the hillside near Bartow. A Friend.

Mr. Wm. H Hanner, a representative of the Charleston Sub District office of the United States Veterans' Bureau, will be at the Marlinton Hotel in Marlinton on October 5 and 6 for the purpose of meeting with former service men and women, who desire to file a claim against the Government, or who wish assistance in prosecuting a claim which has already been filed, and to explain any point about insurance, compensation, vocational training, or hospital and medical treatment, etc

It is the earnest desire of the Veterans' Bureau that all former service persons get everything they are entitled to from the Government, and Mr Hanner will be pleased to assist one in any way he may. Those persons who feel that they are entitled to vocational rehabilitation should lose no time in filing application as December 16th is the last day on which such claims will be honored. The matter of insurance is most important. Liberal terms for reinstatement have been authorized, and as there is no insurance that can hardly equal that offered by the Government it surely behooves all ex-service men and women to carry at least a portion of the original amount they had while in service.

If for any reason one desires to communicate direct with the Charleston Office, same should be addressed to Mr. Chas. B. Holt, Manager, U. S Veterans' Bureau, Charleston, W. Va.

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING

On Sunday afternoon John Wooddell, aged 19 years, was brought to the Marlinton Hospital, desperately wounded from a pistol shot.

On Sunday forenoon about 11 o'clock young Wooddell and Clyde Nichols, a young man of about the same age were fooling with a 32 special revolver which belonged to the latter. Nichols was putting cartridges in the gun, and it went off, the bullet striking Wooddell in the side, penetrating the liver and one lung and doing other damage. The bullet lodged beneath the skin on the back. Wooddell is desperately wounded and suffered a great loss of blood, but there is some hopes of his recovery.

The wounded man is the son of Mrs. Cinda Wooddell and the late Adam Wooddell.

DINNER ON FAIR GROUND

The Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church will serve dinner on the Fair Grounds on next Saturday, September 30, at the Auto Races.

Fairmont—At the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Woman's Christian temperance union of Marion county held at Mannington, Mrs. J. Walter Barnes, of Charleston, the state president, was a speaker. Officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. E. Amos, Fairmont; vice president, Mrs. J. A. Sturms, Mannington; secretary, Mrs. Arthur Menear, Fairmont; treasurer, Mrs. O. C. Phillips, Fairmont.

Wheeling—After delivering a ringing address on "safety first" in connection with a campaign which has been on all week, Dr. Jacob Brittingham, pastor of St. Luke's P. E. church and Wheeling's oldest minister, fell as he was leaving the rostrum of Madison school when he failed to observe there were two steps, and was slightly injured. Rising up from the floor, Dr. Brittingham declared "that's a demonstration of what I have been preaching to you—watch your step."

Charleston—J. R. Collins was fined $15 and sentenced to 20 days in jail on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses by Judge Wertz in police court. It was said that Collins represented himself as a house to house representative of a magazine company, and collected money, but never delivered the magazine. It is said that it later developed that he had no connection with the company at all.

Morgantown—The West Virginia horticultural society has offered a handsome silver cup as a prize for an apple judging contest to be held here during farmers' week in January between three-man teams from the vocational agriculture classes in the state high schools. Individual prizes will also be given to the high scoring members of the team. This is the first time that apple judging work has been done among the state high schools, although West Virginia university students have been doing fine work in connection with other college teams.

ROOFING and CEMENT

We are buying in carload lots the best Asphalt Roofing that we can buy, and can make it at reasonable prices. We have a lot of odds and ends in roofing that have accumulated in our warehouse that we will close out at less than wholesale price.

LEHIGH Cement in stock at right price.

Roof Paint and Cement for all kinds of roofs.

See us when in need of anything in the General Merchandise Line

The Peoples Store & Supply Co.

MARLINTON, W. VA.

GREAT FISHES

C. J. Richardson is still making good as the king fisherman of the Greenbrier. Last Thursday at Spice Run he got four big bass. The biggest was as big as they grow in these waters—five and a quarter pounds. The next in size was a four pounder and the other two each weighed over three. Since then at Kennison he caught five bass, the total weight of which was fifeen pounds and two of them were small too.

Attendance at the Methodist Sunday School was up to 213 Sunday. The Presbyterians remain at 160.

LILLY LAND COMPANY HIREING NEW SALESMEN

The Lilly Land Company have recently hired a number of new traveling salesmen in order to take care of the numerous inquiries for city lots and truck farms, from people all over the country.

The Lilly Land Company has just placed on the market a number of choice lots located near the big Nickel Plate Plant at Huntington, W. Va. They also have a number of choice lots located near Camden Park at Huntington, and a number of choice truck farms in the Ohio Valley between Huntington and Ironton, Ohio. This property is sold on the easy payment plan. If interested, call at our Huntington Office, located at 605 1 2 Ninth Street, just in front of the Huntington Hotel.

The Lilly Land Company also has a number of choice lots and truck farms that they are selling on the easy payment plan, located in the cities of Princeton, Beckley, Oak Hill, Lewisburg, Montcalm and Iaeger, W. Va,

We have an office in each of the above mentioned cities, and if you are interested, go look at this property at once, but if you cannot go, be sure and write us at Princeton, W. Va. stating the property you are interested in and we will have one of our agents call on you and explain our proposition fully.

LILLY LAND COMPANY,
Home Office Princeton, W. Va.

DURBIN

J. D. Wilmoth and wife in company with Dr. Vane and wife motored from Cheat Club to Minnehaha Springs last week and enjoyed a fine trip.

A. J. Simmons has returned from Tucker county aftera week's absence.

Dr. S. A. Wilhide is having a lot of wood sawed by motor power with a wood saw.

W. H. Arbogast and wife of Marlinton, were with us between trains one day last week.

Mrs. M. E. Folk, who has been in a hospital in Pittsburgh, is reported much better. She sustained bruises from an automobile.

Miss Bessie Gum, of Hightown, Va., is in charge of Mrs. Folk's millinery store here now.

Our school is progressing nicely now.

Mack Hudson and wife, of Akron, Ohio, are visiting Mr. Hudson's parents Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hudson.

G. W. Wilmoth is in town for a few days' vacation.

N. B. Arbogast is having some building done on his property.

Barney Henry is bringing in some fine lumber from Williams & Piter's this week.

Some cattle buyers and plenty of sheep buyers are around now

The town of Durbin is opening up some new streets which will be a great advantage to our town.

Wallace Phillips and Dewey Rose, who escaped from the Monterey jail, were captured near Elkins. They are being held on a charge of robbing a store at Mill Gap. The third man to break jail, young Ryder, is still at large.

Mrs Lydia J. Beverage presented this office with a lot of fine peaches. We asked for the name, but she said they were just peaches. And they were peaches too,—a little larger than a baseball. Mrs. Beverage's boys are lumbermen, but she stays by the farm, but that does not keep her busy and she puts in her spare time on the loom and knitting machine.

There will be preaching at Hamlin Chapel next Sunday asternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. H. H. Orr.

WEST VIRGINIA'S CAPITOL

TO BE ONE OF THE WORLD'S FINEST BUILDINGS

(Manufacturers Record)

Charleston, W. Va—West Virginia's new capitol, the general exterior design of which has been approved by the State Capitol Commission, when completed will be classed among the finest buildings in the world. The commission, which has charge of the entire project, will have at its disposal $9,500,000, authorized by the last session of the legislature for a new state house to take the place of the historic old building destroyed by fire. It is estimated that $2,000,000 will be necessary to purchase the site and the remainder will be for the building. Cass Gilbert, of New York, is the architect.

The new structure will be of the Renaissance style—in reality three seperate buildings—a main structure with an impressive dome and two wing buildings, one on either end, and these three divisions represent the three departments of state government, the legislative, the executive and the judicial. The site gives the West Virginia Hills as a back ground, the Great Kanawha River flows in front of the building and other beautiful hills across the river.

Provisions will be made in the building for every office in the state, and each will be arranged for future needs. Accommodations will be provisions will be provided for any new branches of administrative government that may be created. The entire site includes about 17 acres with a frontage of 1000 feet on Kanawha street. The grounds will be terraced, trees and shrubbery planted, and driveways will lead from the four streets by which the site is bounded. The main building will contain a spacious rotunda directly beneath the dome. There will be an entrance from two street sides. Two wings similar in construction will be placed on either end of the main building. There will be a "main floor" and two other floors, and the entire structure will be seven feet above the high water-mark.

Discussing the erection of the new Capitol, Mr. Gilbert recently said. "It is my desire that the building be of a very dignified and pure type of architecture, something that will last and be permanently approved by the best public taste. I believe that a simple dignified structure of fine proportions is far more satisfactory than any amount of elaborate embellishment, or so-called novelty of detail.

"There will be really two main fronts and the entrances will be through columned porticos on a great scale and the approach will be a splendid flight of stairs on each front. The whole structure will be crowned by a dome of majestic proportions, rising to a considerable height, and to be a conspicuous and notable feature of the landscape from every point of view.

"Personally, I am intensely interested in this whole matter. I want to make this Capitol building the crowning work of my life. It is the type of building to which I have devoted the past 25 years and I feel that the opportunity is now presented to me for a splendid architectural monument."

MARLINTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Harvey H. Orr, Pastor.

9:45 a. m. Sunday School
11:00 a. m. Quarterly Communion Service.
3:00 p. m.—Preaching at Hamlin Chapel.
7:00 p. m. C. E. Consecration Service.
7:45 p. m. Sermon subject: "Hope"

On Monday evening at 7:30 the regular monthly meeting of the session will be held at the church.

MARLINTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rev. Fred B. Wyand, Pastor
A. S. Overholt, S. S. Superintendent.

9:45 a. m. Sunday School.
11:00 a. m. Sermon Subject "What the Church can Learn from the World"
7:00 p. m. Epworth League.
7:45 p. m. Evening service.

You are welcome to these services.

REVIVAL SERVICES

Revival services will begin at the Methodist Church in Greenbank on Monday night, October 2. The preaching will be hand by Rev. S. R. Neel, of Alderson. You are cordially invited.

J. W. Rosenberger, Pastor.

CALF CLUB

On Monday afternoon, October 2nd at F. P. Kidd's farm at Hillsboro nine registered Herford heifer calves from Callison Brothers herd will be distributed to boys and girls for first year club work.

These calves will be placed with boys and girls of Pocahontas county on the same plans and conditions as last year. In addition the contract is more favorable, the prizes will be bigger and the calves better.

These calves are largely sired by Bullion 15th. This bull is considered by cattle men of West Virginia to be the leading polled Hereford sire in the State.

TO ELKINS

The Randolph Chapter of the order of the Eastern Star at Elkins, invited Pocahontas Chapter to attend their meeting Tuesday night and witness some of the degree work. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. C. K Livesay, Mrs. R. S. McNeill, Mrs. W. L. Dearing, Miss Blanche Pritchard, Mrs. J. E. Buckley, Mrs. P. R. Overholt, Miss Geraldine Haupt, Rev. H. H. Orr, and C. C. Waugh. The Randolph Chapter sent a team to institute the local chapter some months ago. The trip to Elkins was made by automobile, the party leaving at noon Tuesday and returning before daylight Wednesday.

OAK GROVE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Hillsboro, W. Va.

Rev. J. C Johnson, Pastor.

The preparatory service for the communion of the Lord's Supper, which will be observed Sunday morning; will be held Friday evening, September 29, at 7:30 o'clock instead of Saturday morning as heretofore.

The Session will meet in church Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Friday 7.30 p. m. Sermon by pastor.
Sunday, 10 a. m. Sunday Scoool
11:00 a m Sermon and Communion
3 p. m. Preaching at Marvin Chapel
7.30 p. m. preaching at Seebert.

PIE SUPPER

A Pie Supper, ice cream and cake will be served at Caesar's Mountain school house Saturday evening September 23, 1922 Proceeds for the benefit of Sunday school. Everybody cordially invited. Committee.

GREENBANK READING CIRCLE

The Reading Circle for the Greenbank District will meet once a month at the various places as follows: Dunmore, Saturday, October 7; Greenbank, October 14; Cass, October 21; Durbin, October 28, and again at Dunmore, November 4 and so on during the year. This arrangement means that there will be a Reading Circle every Saturday somewhere in the District. Teachers are expected to attend one meeting a month and are urged to attend other meetings when practicable.

Mrs. Wilson, Dunmore; Mrs. Taylor, Greenbank; Miss Edith Pitts, Cass have been appointed to make out the programs and have charge of the meetings at the different place. Teachers are requested to get their books as early as possible so as to be prepared to take part in the meetings. The adopted book, "Our Living Language," should be ordered from James and Law Company instead of the University Publishing Co. as announced by the department of education. The price of the book is $1.15 a copy or 90c if ordered in Quanities Should the teachers desire to have their chairmans order the books see them at once.

C. E. Flynn,
District Chairman.

FOR SALE—Two coal heating stoves—1 Jewel, 1 Coles Hot Blast.—Wilbur Sharp, Marlinton, W. Va.

LOST—Friday night, September 15, while at church at Huntersville, or on my way home a Cameo Pin with pearls all around it. Finder please return to Huntersville postoffice or Mrs. B. F. Rock, and receive reward.

Auction Sale

I will offer for sale at public auction on the 26th of October, at my farm on Back Creek, near Mountain Grove, Va., the following property:

4 horses, 2 mules, 10 cows, 1 bull, 9 yearling cattle, 11 calves, 16 two year old cattle (if not sold prior to date of sale) 1 drill, 1 binder, 2 mowing machines, 1 tedder, 1 rake, 2 turning plows, 1 disc harrow, 2 spring tooth harrows 2 double shovel plows, 1 five tooth cultivator, 2 wagons, 1 buggy; 1 surry, 1 roller, 3 sets of harness, 1 lot of bridles, collars, etc., 1 cider mill; 1 wind mill, and a lot of other property

This sale includes all of my personal property.

Sale begins at 10:00 o'clock a. m.

GEO. W. ROSE.

A. C. Herold, Auctioneer.

Public Sale

On Saturday, October 7, 1922, I will offer for sale the following property:

1 horse 10 years old; one mare with foal to the John F. Shrader horse; 2 cows; will be fresh in April—giving milk now. Five calves; 2 fat hogs, and lot of chickens. Six stock ewes, young; seven lambs; one yearling heifer, one two year old bull, is good stock Herford and very quiet; one 2-year old Jersey heifer, will be fresh in April.

All this property will be sold on twelve months time with good note and good security, except the bull which terms will be made known on day of sale. Sale begins at 10 o'clock.

DAVID SMITH,
Dunmore, W. Va

Ashford, Auctioneer.

NOTICE

The Thornwood Cash Store is being purchased by Mr. Tiffin R. Mullenax who will take charge of the store about October 5-10th, 1922. Mr. V. M. Calhoun will remain as manager for Mr. Mullenax for awhile as he now lives in the same building.

FOR SALE—Six year old Percheron mare, well broken, will weigh 1200 lbs. or better, safe and gentle. Price $100 Apply to L. H. Harouff, Lobilia, W. Va.

RESERVE DISTRICT No. 5

Charter NO. 6538 Report of the Condition of

The First National Bank

at Marlinton, in the State of W. Va., at the close of business Sept. 15th, 1922

RESOURCES		DOLLARS
Loans and discounts, including rediscounts, acceptances of other banks, and foreign bills of exchange or drafts sold with indorsement of this bank (except those shown in b and c)	$ 324 740 53	324 740 53
Overdrafts, secured $ 56 40; unsecured $ 241 44		297 84
U. S. Government securities owned
Deposited to secure circulation (U. S. Bonds parvalue)	$25 000 00
All other United States Government Securities (including premiums, if any)	42 000 00
Total		67 000 00
Other bonds, stocks, securities etc.		5 717 52
Banking house 19 500 00 Furniture and fixtures 4 585 21		24 085 21
Lawful reserve with Federal Reserve Bank		14 389 85
Cash in vault and amount due from national banks		35 360 51
Checks on other banks in the same city or town as reporting bank (other than Item 12)		468 72
Total of Items 9, 10, 11, 12, and 13	35 829 23
Miscellaneous cash items	192 30	192 30
Redemption fund with U. S. Treasurer and due from U. S. Treasurer		1 250 00
Total		473 502 48
LIABILITIES		DOLLARS
Capital stock paid in		25 000 00
Surplus fund		36 000 00
Undivided profits	$6 917 01
Less current expenses interest and taxes paid	3 754 64	3 162 37
Circulating notes outstanding		25 000 00
Amount due to State banks, bankers, and trust companies in the United States and foreign countries (other than included in Items 21 or 22)		42 69
Certified checks outstanding		2 732 93
Total of Items 21, 22, 23, 24, and 25	2 775 62
Demand deposits (other than bank deposits) subject to Reserve (deposits payable within 30 days)
Individual deposits subject to check		205 129 08
Total of demand deposits (other than bank deposits) subject to Reserve Items 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, and 31	205 129 08
Time deposits subject to Reserve (payable after 30 days or subject to 30 days or more notice and postal savings):
Certificates of deposit (other than money borrowed)		72 431 36
Other time deposits		94 004 05
Total of time deposits subject to Reserve Items 32, 33, 34, and 35	166 435 41
Bills payable (including all obligations representing money borrowed other than rediscount)		10 000 00
Total		473 502 48

State of West Virginia, County of Pocahontas, ss:

I, J. A. Sydenstricker, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

J. A. Sydenstricker, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 21 day of Sept, 1922.

H. L. Byers, Notary Public.
My commission expires Sept 30, 1929

Correct—Attest:
F. T McClintic
M. S. Wilson
L. M. McClintic
Directors

A Foundation That Endures

This institution has been built on the firm foundation of financial strength and safe policies.

Our depositors' interests are permanently safeguarded by our resourses, by the integrity of our organization, and by an unswerving policy that permits of no deviation from the principles of sound banking practice.

YOUR ACCOUNT SOLICITED

BANK OF MARLINTON

Marlinton, West Virginia

LOCAL MENTION.

A. W. Hill is spending the week at his old home at Lobelia.

Mrs. S. C. Clark has returned from a visit to her daughter at Neola.

Mrs. Ed. Richardson has returned from a visit to home folks in East Virginia.

Rev. F. B Wyand went to Birmingham, Alabama, on a business trip Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Hunter have gone to the Sweet Chalybeate Springs for a few weeks.

Hoxie Gay, of Cabin Creek, was called here by the death of his uncle, Rev. Geo. P. Moore.

Mrs Lucy Gay is preparing to move her house to another lot and will build a cottage home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Vaughan have gone to housekeeping in rooms in the Arbogast building on Main Street.

Mrs. Ralph Ficks and little daughter Mary Margaret, of Iron Gate, Va., are guest at the home of S N. Hench.

Ellis Williams, of Highland county, was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Mary A. Price, a few days last week.

Miss Nannie Hill, who has been teaching at Wildell spent the week end with her brother, A. W. Hill, Her school closed last week, and she was on her way to her home at Lobelia.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Swagger are spending their honeymoon at the home of Burton Wilson. They were married at Davis last Sunday, the bride being Miss Edith Howard. Mr. Swagger was a former sawyer at the Marlin Lumber Co. mill. They will go to housekeeping at Erwin, W. Va.

J. CLIFF MATHENY, DEAD

Word was received on Wednesday that J. Cliff Matheny had died at his home at Monterey, Va., early Wednesday morning, April 26. Two weeks ago he accidentally shot himself with a high powered rifle.

The annual sermon to the Oddfellows will be preached by Rev. F. B. Wyand, at the Methodist Church next Sunday afternoon.

HEMSTITCHING AND PICOTING

Hemstitching and picoting 10 cts per yard. Mail orders will receive prompt and careful attention.

MRS. J. E BUCKLEY,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Unloaded last week car Long Bell Yellow Pine finish, every board branded. Their name guarantees best in grade and costs you no more.

J. W. Milligan.

NOTICE

The partnership heretofore existing in the name of R. T. Greer & Son has been dissolved. The business will be conducted hereafter in the name of Greer & Co.

Get our price lists on Roots, Herbs, Barks, Ginseng, Beeswax, Goldenseal and Hides. GREER & CO.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

E. L. Shaw, Extension Sheep Specialist, will be in Pocahontas County the first week in May for the purpose of conducting sheep shearing and wool handling demonstrations. He will demonstrate the different grades of wool at this time Mr. Shaw has a national reputation as a judge of sheep and is considered by many as the best sheep authority in the United States. Field meetings of this kind have attracted many people in the various counties over the state where they have been held, and it is hoped that the farmers of this county will avail themselves of this opportunity to learn the grading of wool and to come in contact with Mr. Shaw.

Demonstrations follow:

Slaty Fork, May 2nd at 10 o'clock a m.—L. D Sharp.

Edray, May 2nd at 2:30 p. m.—W. E Poage.

Hillsboro, May 3rd at 10 o'clock a. m —Lee McLaughlin.

Beard, May 3, 2:30 p. m.—R. M. Beard.

Dunmore, May 4th at 10 o'clock a. m.—H. M Moore.

Greenbank, May 4th at 2:30 p. M —P. H. Bennet.

Hosterman, May 5th at 9 o'clock a. m.—W. W. Sutton.

All meetings will be held promptly at the hours mentioned.

Calf Club Project.

Gains for two months and feed costs totaled:

	Gain	Cost
Edward Walllace	30	$12.01
Frank Harper	87	8.39
Joe Gay	40	15.61
Delbert Cogar (loss)	15	8 69
Alfred Gay	10	14.16
Mathew Beard	70	10.24
Earle Kidd	105	9.91
Henry Rogers	85	7.72
Mary Moore	140	13.86
Olive Hevener	90	7.70
Dick Nottingham	98	11.21
Harper Beard	92	11.10

The West Virginia Farmers' Cooperative Warehouse Association was organized in Clarksburg on March 17th. This organization was formed primarily for the pooling of wool but may be used for the handling of other farm products and the purchase of farm supplies. It is incorporated and has a board of directors; namely, John W. Smith of Weston, President; A. R. Leatherman of Keyser, Vice President; J. D. McReynold of Clarksburg Secretary-Treasurer. Commodious warehouse space with the best of facilities for the grading and handling of wool at a very nominal figure has been secured.

Mr. Leatherman is now in charge of the wool pool.

Dee Crane, extension potato specialist, was in Pocahontas county the past week and visited many of the important potato men in the Greenbank district. Mr. Crane does not look for an over-production of this crop in West Virginia, because a train load of potatoes 23 miles long would represent the amount of potatoes shipped into this state annually. Too many local men consider only the county market, and do not take into account the large mining sections which annually depend upon the Northern States for their suppiy. He also lays stress on the necessity for spraying.

Fred Pritchard of Dunmore has recently completed a West Virginia Type of Poultry House according to specifications given out by the Extension Department. The actual cash out lay for this house amounted to less than $25, because the owner had sufficient material on his own farm. Th's is the second house of this kind in this county.

John Betler of Pickens, W. Va., spent a day in the county recently to explain the construction of dipping vats large enough to accommodate all classes of livestock Mr. Betler states that there are three of these vats in Randolph county and that there are no lice in the communities where these vats are located. This is the only practical method for ridding cattle of lice.

Many farmers have been purchasing 18 per cent acid Phosphate from the Farm Bureau at the same price that 16 per cent fertilizer is being sold for.

MACRO-SAL

For Rheumatism, Gout, Lumbago, and Neuralgia of Rheumatic origin.

Pamphlet giving specific directions and diet list of utmost importance to rheumatic people mailed on request from our office.

Price $1 per Bottle

Your dealer can supply you

Distributed by

S. B. WALLACE & CO.
Wholesale Druggists
Marlinton, W. Va.

HE COMETH

ANNA L. PRICE

I am thinking of the advent.
  Second coming of our Lord,
So, my heart, be watchful, waiting,
  According to the word.

Jesus, we are tired of waiting,
  But I think Thou wilt come soon,
And so good servants let us watch
  At midnight, morn and noon.

I did not always love to dwell
  Upon this solemn theme;
'Twas mingled with the judgment day
  And did so awful seem.

But Christ is now my all in all,
  He died for you and me,
He is our advocate with God,
  He is our surety.

In all this world, in other worlds,
  There no other one,
Who can save our souls from death's hell,
  Of Righteousness, the Sun.

Shall Jesus find faith on earth at last?
  Would that he might find more;
But small was the Jewish faith He found,
  When He came to earth before.

The world is not growing better,
  Ah! rather worse, I ween,—
God's precious wheat is ripening,
  With manifold tares between,

True, death may claim my body first,
  That will not delay the Lord,
Who will return and receive His own
  According to the Word.

Our pass-word should be "watchfull"
  While upward, steadfast look,
For He cometh, yes, He cometh,
  As 'tis written in the Book.

April, 1922.

The Street Committee of the Town of Marlinton would like to have it understood that the fifteen miles an hour speed limit for automobiles will be enforced. As a matter of safety to limb and life it is necessary. In addition the Town Council is putting every dollar it can rake and scrape into street improvements and a speeding automobile just naturally tears a road all to pieces. The Town Council has wisely reached the conclusion that cinder is poor street material, and is now hauling gravel. It is being laid with a steam roller after careful preparation. Last week, the road scraper was busy on Upper Camden and other streets, and this week the teams are hauling gravel. A lot of work is being done, and all of it of a permanent character.

Symphony Lawn

Look for the Water Mark

Ever pick up a sheet of writing paper so invitingly beautiful to the eye and the touch, that it seemed to say to your fingers, "You must write on me!"? Symphony Lawn is just such a paper. It comes in three exquisite finishes and several smart tints. Sheets and envelopes in the newest shapes. Also correspondence cards to match. May we show you Symphony Lawn?

ROYAL DRUG STORES

Marlinton, W. Va. Renick, W. Va.

Wanted

about 8 teams to haul lumber from my mill on Clover Creek to Cloverlick station. for further information call or write

PAUL GOLDEN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

NO TRESPASSING

All persons are hereby notified not to trespass on the undersigned land at Campbelltown by climbing wire fence and running through under penalty of the law.

E. B. VanReenan.

GRAZING FARM FOR SALE—Between 600 and 700 acres of fine blue grass sod, under wire fence; tenant house and good barns, well watered, an orchard. Will graze about 125 head of two year old cattle. One of the best grazing propositions in the Greenbrier Valley. Apply to P. O. Box 15, Stony Bottom, W. Va.

Special Commissioner's Sale

of the Lands of John T. McGraw in Pocahontas County, West Virginia

By virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court of Harrison County, West Virginia, entered on the 23rd day of February, 1922, in the chancery cause of the First National Bank of Webster Springs, et al, vs. Rose McGraw de Berriz, Executrix of John T. McGraw, deceased, et al, and the other causes heard therewith, the undersigned will on the

4TH DAY OF MAY, 1922

at one o'clock p. m. at the front door of the Court House of said Pocahontas County, in the town of Marlinton West Virginia, offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder the following described real estate, situate in said County of Pocahontas:

1. 1007 acres of land in Edray District, on the headwaters of Williams River, being a part of what is known as "The Meadows." formerly owned by The Gauley Company, subject to the exceptions, reservations, conditions, restrictions, ways and easements in favor of the Gauley Company, the West Virginia & Pittsburgh Railroad Company and the Cherry River Boom & Lumber Company, their successors and assigns.

2. 103 acres of land in Edray District, known as the "Red Lick Mountain Tract."

3. 597 1-2 acres of land and 8 acres of land situate in Edray District, conveyed to the said McGraw by L D. Letcher by deed dated August 22, 1890, recorded in the County Court Clerk's office of said county in Deed Book No. 21, page 9. This land is located along the Greenbrier, Cheat & Elk Railroad, on the waters of the Big Spring Branch of Elk River, and is well timbered.

4. 69 acres of land in Huntersville District, conveyed to the said McGraw by Levi Gay and others, by deed dated February 14, 1891, recorded in said Clerk's office in Deed Book No. 21, page 328.

5. 146.5 acres and 73 acres of land in Edray District, conveyed to the said McGraw by Andrew McLaughlin by deed dated February 13, 1891, of record in said Clerk's office in Deed Book No. 21, page 301.

6. The mineral rights, including oil and gas, under a certain tract of 8032 acres of land situate in Little Levels District, conveyed to the said McGraw by James A. Whiting, Trustee, by deed dated July 20, 1900, of record in said Clerk's office in Deed Book No. 32, page 453; by another deed from Jacob W. Marshall dated February 21, 1885, of record in said Clerk's office in Deed Book No. 17, page 19, and also another deed from F. P. Marshall, etc. Executors to said McGraw dated July 2, 1901, of record in said Clerk's office in Deed Book No. 31, page 476.

7. An undivided one half interest in a tract of 345 3-4 acres of land situate in Little Levels District, conveyed to the said McGraw by George F. McNeil by deed dated June 6, 1891, of record in said Clerk's office in Deed Book No. 26, page 108.

And on the

5TH DAY OF MAY, 1922

at one o'clock p. m. in front of The Bank of Durbin, in the town of Durbin, Pocohontas County, West Virginia, the undersigned will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder the following described real estate situate in said county:

8. Three tracts of land containing 10 acres, 123 acres and 30 acres, respectively, situate in Greenbank District, conveyed to the said McGraw by Jacob L. Arbogast by deed dated September 10, 1891, of record in said Clerk's office in Deed Book No. 22, page 200.

9. 53 acres of land situate in Greenbank District, conveyed to the said McGraw by Brown M. Yeager and wife by deed dated January 1, 1896, of record in said Clerk's office in Deed Book No. 26, page 458.

10. 137 acres of land situate in Greenbank District, conveyed by the said Brown M. Yeager to John T. McGraw by deed dated January 1, 1896, of record in said Clerk's office.

11. Three tracts of land containing 26 acres, 64 acres and 22 1-2 acres, respectively, situate in Greenbank District, conveyed to the said McGraw by Peter D. Yeager by deed dated July 23, 1902, of record in said Clerk's office in Deed Book No. 33, page 268 subject to the sale of 1 acre of land within the bounds of said 64 acres, condemned for school purposes by the Board of Education of said district.

12. 262 lots situate in the town of Durbin, as follows: Nos. 1, 2, and 3 in block 1; Nos. 1 to 5, both inclusive 8 and 10 to 15, both inclusive in block 2; Nos. 2, 5, 6, 8 and 9 to 20, both inclusive in block 3; Nos 1, 2, 3, 4, 11, 12, 13, 14 and 16 to 20, both inclusive, in block 4; Nos. 10, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18 and 19 in block 5; Nos 2, 11, 12, 13 14, 15, 16, 17 and 18 in block 6; Nos. 15 16, 17, 18, 19, 23, 24, 25, 26 and 27 in block 7; Nos. 6 to 12 both inclusive in block 8; Nos 1 to 20, both inclusive, in block 9; Nos. 9 to 12, both inclusive, in block 10; Nos. 2 to 20, both inclusive in block 11; Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 19 and 20 in block 12; Nos. 5 to 12, both inclusive, in block 13; Nos. 1 to 13, both inclusive, and 15 to 19, both inclusive, in block 14; Nos. 1 to 6 both inclusive and 8 to 12 both inclusive, and 5 to 20 both inclusive in block 15; Nos. 5, 6 7, 9 and 10 to 20 both inclusive in block 16; Nos. 1 to 8 both inclusive and 10 to 20 both inclusive in block 17; Nos 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 14, 16 and 17 in block 18; Nos 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 17, 18, 19 and 20 in block 19 Nos. 1 2, 3, 4, 7, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20 in block 20, subject to the right of way of the Western Maryland Railroad Company in so far as said right of way may cover or embrace any part or portion of said lots.

The Special Commissioners have been informed that the 10 acres, 123 acres and 30 acres, hereinbefore described, are parts of the Jacob H. Arbogast home place, out of which the town of Durbin was laid off and include the lots hereinbefore described, which will be ascertained by survey and the true location of the lots, and the remnants of said parcels will be announced on the day of sale.

13. Lots 3, 4, 5, 8, 9, 12, 13, 14, 16 and 17 on the north side of the Staunton and Parkersburg Turnpike, situate near the tannery of the Pocahontas Tanning Company above the town of Durbin.

And on the

2ND DAY OF MAY, 1922

at 10 o'clock a. m., at the front door of the Court House of Randolph County, in the City of Elkins, West Virginia, the undersigned will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder the following described real estate situate partly in Randolph County and partly in Pocahontas County:

14. An undivided one-half interest in fee of a 2-3 undivided interest in a tract of land containing 1737 acres situate on Elk River, known as the Wallace land, subject to the sale of the timber heretofore made.

TERMS OF SALE

One-fourth cash in hand on day of sale and the residue on a credit of one, two and three years, taking from the purchaser or purchasers interest bearing notes with good personal security for the deferred payments, and the title to said lands will be retained until all the purchase money is paid.

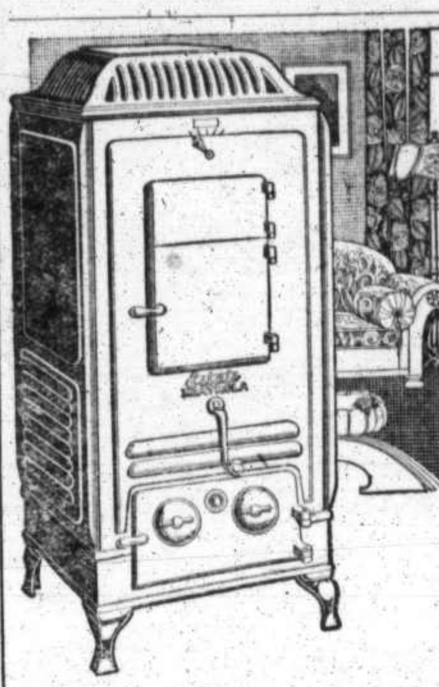
The undersigned will receive private bids for said lands before the day of sale, and reserve the right to reject any and all bids, whether public or private. All sales, whether public or private, must be confirmed by the Circuit Court of Harrison County, West Virginia.

E. D. TALBOTT,
E. H. MORTON,
Special Commissioners.

I, A. B. Boggess, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Harrison County, West Virginia, do certify that the above named Special Commissioners, E. D. Talbott and E. H. Morton, have executed bond as provided in the decree of sale mentioned in the foregoing notice.

Given under my hand this 30th day of March, 1922.

A. B. BOGGESS, Clerk
Circuit Court Harrison County, W Va



See Our Ad

OF THE Estate

HEATROLA

on in The Saturday Evening Post dated April 29th.

Then come in and let us show you this wonderful appliance which has revolutionized the business of house heating.

Building or Remodeling this Spring?

We are propared to furnish a suggestion for a brick wall facing and hearth for the Heatrola, prepared by a leading architect, together with blue print and complete specifications.

R. B. Slaven

Narlinton, W. Va.

NOTICE

Three Shorthorn bulls, two of which are three years old and the other is a two year old. Price $68. eace for the two 3 year old and $55. for the other one. If you want some good stock come and see them on my farm at Willie Gibsons on Elk, three miles from Edray.

M. E. F. Gibson,
Edray, W. Va.

Public Sale

John F. Wanless Personal Property

As Administrator of the estate of the late John F. Wanless the undersigned administrator will on Wednesday, May 17th, 1922

proceed to sell at public auction to the highest bidder on the premises at the Wanless home place near Dunmore, at 10 o'clock a. m., the personal property now on the place, consisting of 300 fence posts, 30 rods of wire fencing, one hay stack, one cow and calf, one 2yr old steer, and all household and kitchen furniture, and many other articles accumulated around the place. Everything is to be sold, in the way of personal property mentioned in the appraisement bill.

Terms.—Sums under five dollars cash, over five dollars a credit of four months, the purchaser giving bond with good security with interest.

GEORGE N. LINGER,
Admr. of John F. Wanless.

Auction Sale

On Saturday, April 29, 1922, at my home 1 2 mile east of Buckeye station I will sell the following property:

- 1 Jersey heifer; 1 Jersey cow
- 6 head of sheep, 14 chickens
- All my household and kitchen furniture
- 1 2-horse wagon
- 1 gasoline engine, 8 horse power Fairbanks-Morse, nearly new
- 1 International feed mill
- 1 woodsaw, practically new, and many other articles.

Terms: All sums of $5. and under cash, over that amount a credit of 12 months, with note with interest and approved security.

Sale begins at 1 o'clock.

N. H. Cundiff.

RONCEVERTE TIRE & BATTERY SERVICE

C. V. MONTAGUE, Prop.
RONCEVERTE, WEST VIRGINIA

We Repir: Tires Tubes Batteries

We Sell: Firestone Tires Accessories Titan Batteries

We want: Some one to represent us in Pocahontas County

C. V. MONTAGUE, Prop., Ronceverte Tire and Battery Station, says—

Ninety-seven percent of our work held up in 1921

One hundred percent the first four months in 1922

A record every auto owner shoule consider before he casts his tires away.

We have one of the most complete tire and battery repair shops in the State.

We only do tire and battery repairing—and do it well.

Ship your tires and batteries to us. If they are worth fixing, we will fix them. If nnt, we will adivfe you

Our reference, any of our customers.

V-C FERTILIZERS

Little Giant Crop Grower, Blood and Bone and other well known Virginia-Carolina brands.

— FOR SALE BY —

GAY & CARTER, MARLINTON

Portland Cement

I have received a carload of Portland Cement, and am prepared to fill all orders. I expect to keep cement in stock hereafter.

Fertilizers

A big supply of fertilizers of the right kinds.

T. H. HINER

Marlinton, W. Va.

REMOVAL

On and after May 1, our customers will find us in the Arbogast Building, opposite the Marlinton Postoffice. We will there have a more commedius store room to care for the needs of our growing business in groceries and the buying and selling of country produce.

W. M. WIMER & CO.
Marlinton, W. Va.
YOUR ORDERS DELIVERED

Auction Sale of Horses

ELKINS, W.VA.

Tuesday, May 2, 1 p. m.

At C. P. Crawford's Livery Stable

We will sell at public auction on the above date one carload of Draft Horses. These are extra good big draft horses weighing 1200 to 1700 lbs. They are well broken, in good flesh, ready for work, and range in age from 5 to 7 years.

Come to this sale and see some of the best horses ever shipped to this country, and buy at your own price. We have no by-bidders and will sell positively to the highest bidder. Every horse guaranteed to be as represented.

Sale Rain or Shine—Come

B. A. Fisher & W. A. Knight

FOR SALE: One Ford Roadster, good as new in every particular, has been run about 500 miles. Apply to

W. S. CAMDEN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

HORSE FOR SALE

One riding horse, 7 years old and sound. Also saddle, bridle, halter and blankets. J. H. PHELAN
Locust, W. Va.

WANTED: 20 or 25 head of yearling cattle or 12 or 15 head of dry cows to pasture on my farm 1 mile from Hosterman. Write me at Hosterman, W. Va.

E. B. Moore.

HORSES FOR SALE

Three saddle horses, 4 and 5 years old, broke to ride. Two Kentucky horses and one Denmark. Apply to J. H. Doyle, Cloverlick, W. Va.

THE POCAHONTAS TIMES

Entered at the Postoffice at Marlinton, W. Va., as second class matter.

CALVIN W. PRICE, Editor.

THURSDAY OCTOBER 5, 1922

After the manner of the sorrows of Satan is the predicament of the bootlegger at this time. It seems that the bootlegger is about to fall a victim to the inexorable law of supply and demand, and that his trouble is that the demand for the article of commerce in which he deals has decreased to such an extent that there is no business so uncertain and precarious. A chance word dropped gave me a key to the situation, and after working along that line of investigation and reasoning it seems to be plain that the bootlegger is being forced out of business because the people generally will not deal with him.

When you consider that practically all persons would not accept a bottle of mooonshine as a gift, it follows that there are not many who will part with ten dollars for a bottle Once in a while a dipsomaniac or a clouded brained boy will buy a bottle at an exorbitant price, but one swal lower does not make a sufficient num ber for a bootlegger to make a living for himself and his family. At the present time there have been so many deaths from moonshine liquor reported, that it is only a rare instance when any man will take a drink of the stuff. They are all afraid of it. Consequently there not being a steady demand, there are no permanent boot legers in this country as there once were, and if a thirst would overtake a man it would vanish before a boot legger could be located. At late years, the only bootlegger known is spcradic and fly by night. It looks like the reason that the bootleg specials as the automobiles that used to run at night were called, do not come through with any regularity this season because they do not sell enough to pay expenses of the trip.

Liquor is not like tobaaco and opium which fasten themselves upon the users with a firm and relentless hold. With the great common run of people it is a case of drinking liquor or leaving it alone according to questions of opportunity and circumstances Once in a while there arises a case that looks like it was fatal, but there is no use to call any man a dipsomaniac until he is dead, for even in the days when whiskey was a common article of commerce, the soberest of men were those who had been through the fire and had at a remote time been considered hopeless drunkards. By far the greatest number of teetotallers were salted men, who could a tale unfold whose lightest word would freeze the blood, Put liquor at ten dollars a bottle and the trade is killed by that alone How much candy do you think a merchant would sell if he asked a dollar a stick? Not very much. So it is with liquor.

If there should be such a movement as cutting out the use of tobacco, then it would be another thing Men would mortgage their lands to get it. With liquor as free as water, the number of reformed drunkards would be beyond compute, but the reformed tobacco users are a negligible number. It is a good thing that the use of tobacco does not make an addict break up meetings devoted to religious worship, and promote murder and despair. It is a slave condition but it is benevolent slavery and does not bring ruin and destruction in its wake like liquor.

I submit the proposition to you as a whole, and leave it to you whether or not the falling off in customers is not the real reason for the vanishing bootlegger. The law is after them so strong, that they must get an exorbitant price for the stuff, and no man with any sense is going to part with ten dollars and all that the possession of so much money implies for a bottle of concentrated moonshine, which is so deleterious to the health that the average individual would not accept it as a present.

There has been a great misapprehension about the use of liquor anyway. Nearly all the liquor in the old days was drunk by sober people that is, persons who would take a small quantity each day and keep it up until they quietly sunk to rest into eternity from fifteen to twenty years before their time.

The men who suffered in reputation were spree drinkers who could not carry their liquor and who became publicly and riotously drunk who carried on for a day or two and became thoroughly sick and poisoned and who were then due to a long course of total abstinence. A spree drinker might destroy as much as a gallon of whiskey in a year, whereas his sober and God fearing neighbor would get away with a barrel in the same time and build up a reputation for sobriety

One of the most eminent of public drunkards was Edgar Allen Poe, the writer He could not touch the stuff without getting drunk, and in a day or two was entirely knocked out and had to lay up for repairs. Then would follow long months of abstinence to be broken by a public debauch, until the time came that on a trip from Richmond to New York, he was enabled to get drunk on the train, got off at Baltimore, ran with a group of hoodlums who were engaged in illegal voting on the day of an election, was found dead drunk near the dock that night, taken to the hospital suffering from delirium tremans and died during the week.

In one of his private letters to a friend. Poe gives an account of his drinking habits. This letter was written just before his death: "My habits are rigorously abstemious, and I omit nothing of the natural regimen necessary for health, i. e. I rise early, eat moderately, drink nothing but water, and take abundant and regular exercise in the air. But this is my private life—my studious and literary life—and, of course escapes the eye of the world. The desire for society comes upon me only when I have been excited by drink. Then only I go—that is, at these times only I have been in the practice of going among my friends, who seldom, or, in fact, never having seen me unless excited, take it forgranted that I am always so. But enough of this; the causes which maddened me to the drinking point are no more, and I am done drinking forever."

Poe's occupation was that of an editor, and that meant that he was chained to his work and that he had to execute his duties with all the fidelity of a dishwasher, for the periodicals were published at stated times, and there could be no lapses on his part without throwing out the orderly work of the plant that was responsible for the publication. He was one of the highest paid editors of his time, having commanded at least at one time the salary of $800.00 a year At the time that he was editing the Southern Literary Messenger, probably the most importont publication of its day in America, and which was published at Richmond, T. W. White, the owner of the magazine, said in a letter: "Poe has flew the track already."

It was shortly after this time that he wrote the letter in which he said that he made as high as eight hundred dollars a year, and continued: "Contrast all this with those circumstances of absolute despair in which you found me."

This Poe person was the wrong sort of temperment to be turned loose in a town with open saloons. He belonged to a class of drinkers that were familiar figures in all the communities of this country some years ago; and they generally showed signs of superior mentality, especially brooding melancholy superinduced by an active imagination that regarded with terror the certainty of death and disolution. Such men sought surcease from the haunting fear of the future, and were greatly to be pitied and commiserated. Such men are now saved by the removal of the temptation to purchase a few hours of oblivion.

There was one peculiar letter from a minister in regard to Poe's predilection for drink: "I, the most innocent of divinity students, at the time (1847) while walking with Poe, and feeling thirsty, pressed him to take a glass of wine with me. He declined but finally compromised by taking a glass of ale with me. Almost instantly a great change came over him. Previously engaged in an indescribably eloquent conversation he became as if paralyzed, and with compressed lips and fixed and glassy eyes, returned, without uttering a word to the house which we were visiting For hours the spell hung over him, he seemed a changed being, as if stricken by some peculiar phase of insanity."

I do not know who the divine was who gave this remarkable testimony of getting Poe to fly the track, but presume that Rev. Mr. Beelzebub would be as good a name as any for him. He was either a knave or a fool. He does not seem to know what was the matter with Poe after he took that drink. It was a case of mental anguish, Poe knew his weakness and his failing. The moment he got the drink of ale down he suffered from remorse at the thought that all his good resolutions to abstain were gone. That his period of hours of sobriety that he had built up with so much care and attention was at an end and that he would have to begin again and accumulate another series of weary hours of sobriety It was the effect of thoughts like this that made him a dull companion to the divinity student, and the thick witted tempter never did comprehend what made such a change in Poe after taking that drink.

In the ancient mythology there were the Lemures, those spirits who could not find rest having died in sin or met a violent death. Some of these old time drinkers, the frantic drinkers of a few years since, seemed to be affected in very much the samo way. Such men suffered a change in drunkeness that was very much like epilepsy, especially in the fact that they never realized after they had regained their senses, what horrible spectacles they had made of them selves.

Certainly the enforced system of prohibition has saved nearly all the drunkards, and they do not appreciate being saved. They would return to the drinking like a dog to his vomit. Recently I took a long railway journey and was in large cities on the water front, and I saw no drunken man, and I did not smell any spirits on the breath of any person, and I am so constituted that I can smell whiskey on the breath of a drinker across the room, and brandy across the street. There was no drunken man on the train, and none in sight in the hotels, or staggering on the street. I talked to several men in the train in the smoker's club, and they expressed it as their opinion that no man not a fool would take a drink of liquor such as was to be had these days, for the chances were that he would wake up dead. So the conclusion of the whole matter is that no matter how much the thought of the terrors of the future effect you, the only thing to do is to face them boldly and not let the comfort of the hour be clouded with the pale cast of thought.

Tolstoy had trouble when ever he thought of the future and he gave way to anxiety until he was able to overcome the burden of his imagination by his philosophy. He gives one rather horrible example of what he considers life. He relates that in a dream he was chased through the woods by a wild beast that drove him into a well, and glared down at him from the top. Half way down the well he came to a place where he saw a dragon waiting for him at the bottom, and to keep from falling he took hold of a bush in the wall that supported his weight, and as he hung there supported by the bush two mice came from the wall and commenced to gnaw the bush off near where it was rooted in the wall, and as he waited the time that the bush would be severed he saw some honey on the leaves of the bush and could just manage to put out his tongue and taste the honey. And that was Tolstoy's idea of life.

But it is nevertheless a fact that there is no relief by any drug from the thoughts of the future. If the tortured soul tries to find repose of this kind, an awful charge is made upon him, when he comes back to his senses and the accumualtions of his indiscretions fall upon them. Then he can literally yearn for the mountains to fall upon him

This is a s b and a steadfast generation and while they do not know the exaltation of drink, they are saved from the depths of despair that drunkards descend into, when nature rebels, and leaves them broken and disconsolate.

The women have been playing a national golf tournament at the White Sulphur Springs the past week and they surely have been putting up a fine show of golf ability. The best score on the qualifying round was made by Glenna Collett, a nineteen year old girl of Providence, Rhode Island, and it was an eighty-one. Her companion made eighty-three. Such scores as these are impossible to the most of men. Golf is an athletic game in which heretofore women were considered to be inferior to men, but these good golfing women seem to be in the class with men, and the time may soon come when the men and women will play in the same tournaments One year the medal was won at the white Sulphur Springs at the State tournament for men at a score of eighty one These expert golfing women come from all over the United States and about one hundred and sixty eight showed up, and of this number thirty-two qualified, and to qualify it appeared that it was necessary to have a score of ninety four or less for the eighteen holes, West Virginia had one contestant and she squeezed in on a ninety four but did not last long after that. These expert golfing women are able to play the game the year around, for they have money enough to follow the sun, and they migrate with the birds and play golf in the south in the winter and in the north in the summer.

It is not the most useful life, but it is a thousand times better than a life of idleness and dissipation for the game makes the women strong and healthy and it improves the breed.

It is not so much of a throw back as it would seem at first thought, for it has not been many generations ago when the force of circumstances developed this kind of a woman. The contest in those days was with the forest and every year the land for the corn crop had to be cleared, and this was the work of the men. But it often occurred in the wilderness that death took the man of the house, and left the wife and mother with a bunch of small children to carry on And it was not unusual for such a woman to develop the quick and sure stroke of the axe by constant work, and women have been known to equal men in such work. In this day and time, golf is the substitute for such wilderness work as our ancestors were accustomed to do. It is not like other games. It is more like a daily avocation, in that it brings out the same general persisting qualities that clearing land and the like superinduce. The golfer does not know that he is performing outdoor labor unless he has had experience with outdoor work of the kind.

In these mountains once lived a famous woman by the name of Anne Bailey. She had been twice married, and lost both husbands by violent deaths Her first husband, William Trotter was drowned in Jackson River, and her second husband, Bailey, was killed by the Indians This woman raised a family of small children, and she became as strong and as capable as any man though a woman of slight figure. She could do as much work as a man and she was expert with a rifle and played an important part in the Indian warfare that existed almost continuously for thirty odd years, from the fifties to the eighties. It is also related that she chewed tobacco, drank strong liquors, aud swore, and that she scouted, and raised corn, and took a man's part in the winning of the west, in the territory that lay between Jacksons River on the east and the Ohio River on the west. She earned as a name, "Mad Anne," all due to her habits of usefulness.

What a fine golfer she would have been forced to be to expend her pent up energies in these piping days of peace?

The Collett girl won the championship.

Attention is called to the fact that it is now time to renew the batteries for the year and to go to the woods and pick out two large and symmetrical buckeyes to carry for another year. One is tempted to neglect this important matter, for buckeyes of yesteryear appear to be as good and as smooth as ever, but it stands to reason that they must have lost much of their power by the constant and daily use of keeping away illness for a full year. It is bound to sap and drain the strength. With buckeyes falling at this time it is no trouble to select a couple and lay the old half-used batteries by, and start on a new year. Buckeyes are recommended to all who would rather die of oldness than illness. Get your buckeyes, wear one on the right side and the other on the left side. Testimonial: I have used buckeye batteries for many years and so far have never failed to get through the winter.

Cass Motor Company

CASS, WEST VIRGINIA

Automobile Supplies and Repairing. Tires Vulcanized, Batteries repaired. Prest-O-Light Service Station.

GEO. W. BAKER, Propr.

V. C. FERTILIZER

Little Giant Crop Grower is one of our leading brands for wheat. It has 300 lbs. of finely ground tobacco stems to the ton. Use V. C.

Farm for Sale

250 acres, 30 acres of river bottom at a bargain. For information and description write or call on G. W. Cochran, Box 103, Durbin, W. Va.

Public Auction

OF THE PROPERTY OF THE LATE A. E. LIVESAY

The following personal property of the late A. E. Livesay will be sold at Public Auction at the Home Place near Ronceverte, W. Va., on Friday October 6th, 1922 beginning, at 10 o'clock A. M.

1 3 year old bull (Pure Bred)
1 old bull (pure bred)
2 bull calves (pure bred)
2 calves, steers
1 Case Automobile 7 passenger
1 Bell City Thrash Box
3 Registered two year old heifers polled
1 Registered three year old heifer
1 Grade 1 year old heifer
2 Registered Herford cows
3 cows and one suckling calf
1 Registered cow
1 Registered yearling heifer
3 Spayed cows & 3 other cows
4 yearling heifers
1 Grade bull calf
29 2 year old cattle
10 Yearling cattle
1 4 year old colt
1 colt, 1 cow
1 Yearling bull

TERMS. All sums up to $100.00 cash on day of sale, all sums over that amount to be evidenced by negotiable notes made payable to the First National Bank of Ronceverte W. Va., with good security bearing six per cent interest, six months time.

J. E. LIVESAY, Executor,
Col. Clarence Nickell Auctioneer.

Public Auction

On Thursday October 12, 1922

At my residence near Glade Hill, three miles east of Dunmore, W. V. I will offer and sell to the highest bidder my entire lot of stock farm implements and household and kitchen furniture as follows:

2 bed room suits with mattresses and springs 3 stand tables.

1 dresser, 2 sets of chairs. 3 rockers 1 sewing machine. one glass door cupboard, 14 window blinds, 3 good rugs 9X12, and some straw matting

One gasoline lamp, 1 Kalamazoo heating stove, 1 Kalamazoo range 1 porch swing, 1 Edison phonograph. 1 gas tank. 1 Wilburn saddle, 1 Gearheart knitting machine, one Bluebell cream separater, 1 brass kettle, 20 gallon; one iron kettle; one sugar camp outfit including pan, buckets and barrels.

18 young turkeys and 3 old hens One lot of corn, wheat and oats Three acres of potatoes will be sold on day of sale if not sold before

A general line of forks, scythes sneds, corn hoes, garden rakes, grain cradles, one lot of grabs, spreaders, butt chains, One lot of horse halters and cow ties.

1 Ford touring car, 1921 model.

Two road wagons. 1 Deering mower 1 Deering rake, 1 new hay tedder, 1 Hoosier drill, new; 1 Farmer's Favorite drill; two horse corn planter 1 spring tooth harrow. 1 drag tooth harrow, 1 level land plow; 2 cultivators, 2 set of work harness complete; one set of single buggy harness; five sets of Cant Sag gate steels; two grain scoop shovels; 1 all steel spud. one Deering grain dropper: 7 good milk cows, all bred to be fresh in the spring; 3 fat cows; 5 good calves; 11 head of yearling cattle, 9 steers and 2 heifers; 26 head of good stock ewes and two bucks: 1 hog and four pigs One extra good team 7 and 8 years old; three good draft colts 3 and 4 years old. 1 fine brood mare.

Terms of the above sale is eight months time with interest bearing notes negotiable paper with two good endorsers on all sums over $5.

Reason for selling: I have sold my farm and am leaving the State.

Sale commences 10 a. m.

Everybody come.

LAWRENCE NOTTINGHAM.
Ashford, Auctioneer.

Auction Sale

I will offer for sale at public auction on the 26th of October, at my farm on Back Creek, near Mountain Grove, Va., the following property:

4 horses, 2 mules, 10 cows, 1 bull, 9 yearling cattle, 11 calves, 16 two year old cattle (if not sold prior to date of sale) 1 drill, 1 binder, 2 mowing machines, 1 tedder, 1 rake, 2 turning plows, 1 disc harrow, 2 spring tooth harrows 2 double shovel plows, 1 five tooth cultivator, 2 wagons, 1 buggy; 1 surry, 1 roller, 3 sets of harness, 1 lot of bridles, collars, etc., 1 cider mill: 1 wind mill, and a lot of other property.

This sale includes all of my personal property.

Sale begins at 10:00 o'clock a. m.

GEO. W. ROSE.
A. C. Herold, Auctioneer.

Public Sale

On Saturday, October 7, 1922, I will offer for sale the following property:

1 horse 10 years old; one mare with foal to the John F. Shrader horse; 2 cows; will be fresh in April—giving milk now. Five. calves; 2 fat hogs, and lot of chickens. Six stock ewes, young; seven lambs; one yearling heifer, one two year old bull, is good stock Herford and very quiet; one 3-year old Jersey heifer, will be fresh in April.

All this property will be sold on twelve months time with good note and good security, except the bull which terms will be made known on day of sale. Sale begins at 10 o'clock.

DAVID SMITH,
Dunmore, W. Va
Ashford, Auctioneer.

FOR SALE—Two coal heating stoves—1 Jewel, 1 Coles Hot Blast.—Wilbur Sharp, Marlinton, W. Va.

LOST—Friday night, September 15, while at church at Huntersville, or on my way home a Cameo Pin with pearls all around it. Finder please return to Huntersville postoffice or Mrs. B. F. Rock, and receive reward.

IF IT'S INSURANCE YOU WANT. SEE

F. M. SYDNOR, Manager

HUNTER & ECHOLS INSURANCE AGENCY INC

Marlinton, West Virginia.

Buy a Ford—and Spend the difference

Henry Ford

$319 F.O.B. DETROIT

The Ford Runabout—the Salesman's greatest economizer of time and money. His most dependable means of transportation. His greatest asset in his drive for business.

Let us show you how a Ford Runabout will actually increase your earnings, Terms if desired.

BAXTER'S GARAGE

J. L. Baxter, Prop.

Marlinton - - - - West Virginia

Notice of Sale

North Fork Lumber Company,
Vs In Chancery.
Harry E. Clark, Mountain Lick Lumber Co., Garnishee, and Samuel L. Clark.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned Special Commissioner pursuant to a decree of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, West Virginia, entered on the 7th day of June 1919, in the above cause, will offer for sale on the 10th day of October 1922, at 9 o'clock a. m., to the highest bidder, at the front door of the Courthouse of said County a two-fifths (2-5) undivided interest in 2099 acres of land situate near Durbin in Greenbank District, said County and State, and which said 2099 acres were conveyed by deed dated January 24th, 1907, from J. Harvey Whiteman to the defendadant Samuel L. Clark, and which tract of land is further more fully described in said chancery cause, and which sale will be subject to the conditions of said decree.

TERMS OF SALE

One-half cash in hand on day of sale and the residue payable in six months with interest, the purchaser to give note with security approved by said Special Commissioner, and the title to said land retained as further security.

Samuel T. Spears,
Special Commissioner.

I, D. C. Adkison, Clerk of the Circuit Court of Pocahontas County, do hereby certify that Samuel T. Spears, Special Commissioner in the above-styled chancery cause, has given both bonds for three thousand dollars each as required in the decree entered on the 7th day of June 1919, in said cause.

D. C. Adkison,
Clerk.

USED CARS FOR SALE — One Buick touring car, one Chevrolet 5 passenger. In good running condition.

Marlinton Electric Co.
Marlinton, W. Va.

Morgantown Property For Sale

I have for sale a home near Woodburn school, Morgantown, 6 rooms, bath, cellar and attic. Hot and cold water. Price $4700. School starts Sept. 4th.

Mrs. R. E. Rowan,
Morgantown, W. Va.

Seed Wheat for Sale

By the Dunmore Milling Co.
Dunmore, W. Va.

Flouring Mill for Sale

A good custom roller flour mill business in the Town of Hillsboro, in good condition and doing a big business. It is necessary for owner to seek other business on account of health. Apply early to

H. C. Spencer,
Hillsboro, W. Va.

Mrs. H. G. Greer
PUBLIC
Stenographer
Greer & Co.'s Office
MARLINTON, W. VA.

Z. S. Smith
Undertaker and Funeral Director
LICENSED EMBALMER
MARLINTON, W. VA.

LOST: Between Stony Bottom and Marlinton, a bill folder, bank book and check book to Bank of Ronceverte, First National. Finder please return to Marlinton Hotel and receive reward.

Geo. L. Smith

ATTORNEYS

H. M. LOCKRIDGE,
Attorney-at-Law,
Huntersville, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal work.

A. P. EDGAR
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Courts: Pocahontas and adjoining counties and the Supreme Court of Appeals

---

F. RAYMOND HILL,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and Greenbrier counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals of West Virginia.

ANDREW PRICE
Attorney-at-Law
Marlinton, W. Va

W. A. BRATTON,
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

N. C. McNEIL
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties, and in the Court of Appeals of the State of West Virginia.

L. M. McCLINTIC
Attorney-at-Law,
Marlinton, W. Va.
Will practice in the courts of Pocahontas and adjoining counties and in the Supreme Court of Appeals.

P. T. WARD
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.

J. E. BUCKLEY
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
Marlinton, W. Va.
Prompt and careful attention given to all legal business.

A. C. BARLOW
Veterinarian and Dentist
Onoto, W. Va.

R. S. JORDAN,
CABINET MAKER
Marlinton, W. Va.
Furniture made to order and old furniture repaired.

M. C. SMITH,
Veterinarian
Hillsboro, W. Va.
All calls by mail or phone given prompt attention.

STUART & WATTS
REALESTATE BROKERS
Lewisburg, W. Va.
We make a specialty of Greenbrier Valley Farming Land. See our representative L. P. McLaughlin, Hillsboro, W. Va.

Dr. CHAS. S. KRAMEE
DENTIST
First National Bank Building
Phone
Marlinton, W. Va

A. CLYDE HEROLD
AUCTIONEER
Mill Gap, Virginia
The best in the south, satisfaction guaranteed. I can't be still, write or phone me.

J. B. SUTTON
Undertaker & Undertaking Supplies
Shops at Cass and Greenbank
Prompt deliveries by rail or motor truck Agent for tombstones and monuments.
P. O. Box 172, Cass, W. Va.

Dr. E. G. HEROLD
DENTIST
MARLINTON, W. VA.
Offices in Marlinton Electric Co. Bld.

L. O. SIMMONS
BICYCLE REPAIR SHOP
Marlinton, W. Va

M. F. GUM
AUCTIONEER

For Sale
Copper Water Cans, Spouting, Tin Fixtures, copper tubing, bath room outfits, etc.
C. W. Slavin
Tinner and Plumber
Marlinton, W. Va.

DELCO-LIGHT
"Electricity for every Farm"
Write or phone for Catalogue
ACCESSORIES and SUPPLIES
Marlinton Electric Co.
DEALERS

Building Material

Yellow pine, floor and ceiling, poplar siding, casings and trimmings for inside and out. Door and window frames made to order, also dimension work.

R. S. JORDAN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Shepherd College State Normal School

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. VA.

Its Standard Normal Course is equivalent to Two Years of College or University Work. Life Certificate. Correspondence and Extention Work offered for credit.

Dormitories for Men and Women. Board and Room $20 and $22 a month.

Ninety-three Young People received Diplomas and Certificates from this School last year. Pocahontas sent a fine delegation. More should attend.

Fall Semester opens Tuesday, September 19, 1922.

For information or catalog, address
W. H. S. WHITE,
President.

FOR SALE: Wild Gensing Seed $8.00 per thousand, Via Parcel Post.

Mrs. Wills Moore,
Stony Bottom, W. Va.

Clifton Forge Marble & Granite Works
MONUMENTS

Only the best grades of Marble and and Granite used. Get our price before buying.

Harry P. Burt, Pres.

Posted

Notice is hereby served on all parties not to trespass on the lands of the undersigned in any manner.

H. F. Kromer,
Francis A. Kromer,
Minnie E. Kromer.
Trustee.

Baxter's Garage

MARLINTON W. VA.

FORD Cars and Supplies

FORDSON Tractors

A full line of Ford products and supplies always in stock.

I. L. BAXTER, Propr.

Picture Framing

AND FURNITURE REPAIRING

Picture framing neatly and promptly done at a reasonable price. Also old furniture made as good as new. Shop at my house near Court-house. Phone your orders and I will come for your work.

C. J. McCarty,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Sept. 1.

COAL is Cash

I can now fill orders for coal for strictly cash.

WISE HEROLD

No Hunting

All persons are warned not to trespass by hunting or otherwise on the lands of the undersigned. Permits will not be granted. This 28th of August, 1922.

Sam'l K. Kee.
O Hunter Kee.

Dec 1, 1922

Estray Steer

A black yearling steer has been at my place at Woodrow since about August 1, split in left ear and crop off of right. Owner can have him by paying cost of keep and advertising.

S. D. McClure,
Woodrow, W Va.

adv $1 paid

Cow for Sale

A good young fresh cow for sale. Apply to L O SIMMONS
Marlinton, W. Va.

Picoting and Hem-Stitching

All orders promptly filled.

Mrs. J. E. BUCKLEY,
Marlinton, W. Va

NO TRESPASSING

All persons are warned not to trespass by hunting or otherwise on the lands of the undersigned without written permits.

D. W. Dever

City Restaurant

CASS, W. VA.

A good place to eat.

J. A. KIRKPATRICK
Proprietor

Executor's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all parties knowing themselves indebted to the estate of William Gibson, deceased, to make settlement of the same with me at once. All parties holding claims against the said estate are requested to present the same to me for payment, with full legal proof attached:

Given under my hand this 1st day of September, 1922.

Sherman Gibson,
Executor of the Last Will & Testament of William Gibson, deceased.

LOST

Gold medal and chain with the following inscription, "Sympathy proven by actions." Finder please return to Mrs Jessie Kinnison, Hillsboro, W. Va., and receive reward.

HOUSE FOR SALE—I offer for sale my residence on lower Camden Ave. Marlinton, W. Va, 9 rooms and a bath, lights, water, etc. A good house, desirably located.

Anna J. Gum,
Marlinton, W. Va.

FOR SALE OR TRADE—One mare and extra good yearling mule. Will sell or trade for calves or young cattle. One 5 months old male hog of the real big bone Poland China type, registered. This is a real shoat. One buggy with pole and double harness, as good as new. Will sell or trade for calves, hogs or pigs.

Mountain View Orchard Farm.
L. W. Marless, Mgr

LIST OF TEACHERS
Pocahontas County, West Virginia
1922 - 1923

Adkison, Elsie	Marlinton
Auldridge, Lillie	Marlinton
Anderson, Mrs Virginia	Lobelia
Anderson, Jesse	Lobelia
Auldridge, Glenna	Locust
Arbogast, Kermit	Greenbank
Arbogast, Hunter	Bartow
Bailey, Mary	Clover Lick
Burr, Ernest W.	Burr
Breckenridge, Walter	Cass
Butcher, Lotus	Cass
Brown, Bessie	Cass
Beard, Helen	Durbin
Byrd, Perry	Durbin
Burner, Emma	Bartow
Burner, Mrs. H. C.	Bartow
Burr, Dewey F.	Burr
Burr, Mattie	Lobelia
Bruffey, Glenn	Hillsboro
Beard, Mrs. Mary	Hillsboro
Bolen, W. A.	Hillsboro
Brown, Carrie	Buckeye
Barlow, Glenn	Onoto
Beverage, Hallie	Cloverlick
Beale, Geo. A.	Mace
Bower, Helen	Marlinton
Brady, Ethel	Marlinton
Bruffey, Robert	Raywood
Brady, Nelson	Mingo
Carpenter, Mrs. Atwell	Clover Lick
Coyner, Lois	Cloverlick
Carlisle, Roxie	Raywood
Cooper, Pearl	Cass
Crist, Estes	Arbovale
Conrad, Flossie	Arbovale
Correll, Ethel	Minnehaha Springs
Carter, Pearl	Cass
Eskridge, Mary	Marlinton
Eubank, Glenna	Edray
Echard, Noah W.	Durbin
Echols, Mrs Dorothy	Marlinton
Egleson, Mrs. Amanda	Greenbank
Fogus, Ida G.	Rimel
Fertig, Newman	Marlinton
Fehrman, Madeline	Cass
Fowler, Lillian	Cass
Flynn, Clarence	Durbin
Fenton, Mrs. E. L.	Durbin
Flynn, Luther	Hillsboro
Ford, Cora	Marlinton
Gay, Oleta	Edray
Grimes, Clyde V.	Lobelia
Grimes, Bradford	Jacox
Greer, Joe M.	Hillsboro
Grubb, Daisy	Hillsboro
Geiger, Vaughan	Stony Bottom
Graham, Eolyne	Cass
Greathouse, Bertie	Nottingham
Gragg, Mrs. Price	Durbin
Gum, Margie	Arbovale
Gum, Ligon	Hillsboro
Gillispie, Delbert	Arbovale
Geiger, Dorsie Jane	Greenbank
Holt, Lucille	Marlinton
Harper, Enid E.	Huntersville
Hiveley, Walter A.	Huntersville
Hill, Blanche	Cass
Hamilton, Mrs. G. C.	Nottingham
Hill, Eula V.	Hillsboro
Hill, Winters	Millpoint
Hayes, W. E.	Locust
Harbourne, Violenta	Hillsboro
Hefner, Mrs. Nellie	Buckeye
Hill, Elizabeth	Marlinton
Hill, Alva W.	Marlinton
Hill, Georgiana	Marlinton
Hannah, Dock	Edray
Hill, Mary	Edray
Hite, Maude C.	Greenbank
Harper, Wardell	Hillsboro
Irvine, Dorothy	Marlinton
Jackson, Margaret	Durbin
Jones, Earl	Frost
Johnson, Viola	Warwick
Kimmell, Isabel	Marlinton
Kidd, Motie	Warwick
Kennison, Dare	Stony Bottom
Kellison, Sadie	Lobelia
Kerr, Fannie M.	Arbovale
Killingsworth, Arden	Marlinton
LaRue, Margaret	Hillsboro
Lewis, Sue	Thornwood
McLaughlin, Gray	Huntersville
McNeill, Edna	Marlinton
McLaughlin, Warren	Stony Bottom
McNeill, Ward	Buckeye
McMillion, Lacy	Mill Point
McMillion, W. C.	Jacox
McNeel, Mrs. T. P.	Beard
McLaughlin, Lyle	Dunmore
McKeever, Callie	Cass
McLaughlia, Elizabeth P.	Cass
Moore, Madge	Huntersville
Moore, Amy	Huntersville
Mann, Mrs. Verdie B.	Hillsboro
May, Remus	Beard
Miller, Olive P.	Hillsboro
Mayhew, Ruth D.	Denmar
Moore, Beulah	Marlinton
Moore, Lanty J.	Edray
Morrison, Foley	Marlinton
Moore, Ruth	Slaty Fork
Nottingham, Kerth	Boyer
Nottingham, Mrs. R. N.	Boyer
Oliver, Leone	Greenbank
Orndorff, Lelia	Arbovale
Overholt, Bertha	Marlinton
O'Ferrel, Catherine	Linwood
Palmer, Clara I.	Buckeye
Perry, Dennis	Marlinton
Perry, Flora	Marlinton
Pritchard, Mrs. W. T.	Huntersville
Patterson, Blanche	Greenbank
Pitts, Edyth	Cass
Pope, J. D.	Hillsboro
Ramsey, C. J.	Marlinton
Rexrode, Kenny A.	Dunmore
Rodgers, Opal	Millpoint
Richardson, Pleas	Marlinton
Symes, Mrs. Kate	Neola
Smith, Grant	Marlinton
Shields, Lessie	Edray
Shields, Hazel	Thornwood
Spencer, Mrs. Ruth	Hillsboro
Shinaberry, Bessie	Huntersville
Sharp, Margaret	Minnehaha Sp'gs
Sharp, Vesta	Huntersville
Sutton, Ruth	Greenbank
Sheets, Delford	Dunmore
Sheets, Clara	Dunmore
Spencer, Charles	Bartow
Spencer, Samuel	Bartow
Sharp, Charles J.	Marlinton
Schnapp, Walter C.	Greenbank
Snedegar, Mary	Buckeye
Tyree, Mary Gail	Marlinton
Talbott, A. F.	Marlinton
Taylor, N. Phay	Greenbank
Taylor, Mrs. N. Phay	Greenbank
Vance, Walter	Hillsboro
VanReenan, Mrs. Elsie	Onoto
Wells, Ben H.	Linwood
Williams, Mattie	Hillsboro
Wilson, Mrs. Sydney	Dunmore
Workman, Bessie	Hosterman
Wooddell, Mrs. Clyde	Nottingham
Wooddell, B. F. E.	Thornwood
Wilmoth, Kenton B.	Bartow
White, Ernest	Minnehaha Springs
White, Mamie	Minnehaha Springs
Watkins, Cassie	Hillsboro
White, Gladys	Cloverlick
Wise, Brownie	Woodrow
Weiford, Madge	Nottingham
Yeager, Nelle	Wildell
Yeager, Mrs. Rella F.	Beard
Yeager, Genevieve	Marlinton

WRIT OF ELECTION

To the Commissioners of Election in each of the several Counties of the State of West Virginia, Greeting:

I, Ephraim F. Morgan, Governor of the State of West Virginia, by virtue of Section 7, Article VIII of the Constitution, and of Section 4 of Chapter 4 of the Code of West Virginia, relating to vacancies in office, do hereby order that an election be held throughout the state and in each of the several counties thereof, at the next general election to be holden therein on the seventh day of November, in the year of our Lord, 1922, to fill the vacancy in the office of Judge of the Supreme Court of Appeals for the unexpired term, caused by the resignation of the Honorable Charles W. Lynch, of Harrison County, occurring December 31, 1921, and to which office, I appointed the Honorable James A. Meredith, of Marion County to fill such vacancy until the successor of said Charles W. Lynch should at said general election be duly elected and qualified as provided by law

Done at the City of Charleston in the County of Kanawha, State of West Virginia, on this first day of September, 1922 and in the sixtieth year of the State.

E. F. Morgan,
Governor.

By the Governor,
Attest:
Houston G. Young,
Secretary of State.

For Sale

72 acres land mostly in sod, well watered by springs, lots or fruits, fruit goes with place if sold at once.

Also on another tract between 3 and 4 hundred thousand feet of timber, mostly oak on public road, 3 1-2 miles from railroad, easy to log 60 or 70 thousand feet cut in logs partly skidded and one sawmill. 20 h.p. boiler and mill complete set up ready to saw and sheded.

Will sell the timber and mill together, and will give terms on the above to suit purchaser. If looking for a bargain call on owner.

Geo. H Shrader,
Huntersville, W. Va.

House for Sale

One seven room two story house in first class shape, finished in black walnut, has double hall, the best of water in house. Three large lots, some fruit trees, and grapes. Good out buildings, close to good churches, school and high school. Front and back porches to house. Will sell cheap to any one applying quick. Terms. Apply L. H Snyder, River Side Addition, Marlinton W. Va

Land for Sale

I will sell 40 acres off my farm a mile from Hillsboro. On this land is a comfortable 6 room house, orchard and well watered. About half this land is under cultivation. Practically level, timber for farm purposes. Will consider an offer on my whole farm of 120 acres.

W. W. COOPER.
Hillsboro, W. Va.

For Sale

We will sell our store property at Cloverlick, W. Va., including stock, fixtures, store house and lot. A good stand for a general store. The reason for selling is that both owners have farms and they cannot run the business and farm too. Will exchange for good land. A bargain to quick buyer. For terms etc., apply to,

CHAS. SHINABERY
EDGAR DILLEY
Cloverlick, W. Va.

Farm for Sale

250 acres of blue grass land on the head of Stony Creek. Good farm and good grazing land. Apply to

A. P. Beverage,
Onoto, W. Va.

Executor's Notice

All parties endebted to the estate of George P. Moore, Dec'd will please settle the same at as early date as possible and all parties holding claims against said estate will present same properly proven to the undersigned.

J. A. SYDENSTRICKER,
Executor of George P. Moore.

RAMASWAMI'S PILLAR

BY MARY R FLEMING

Well, we had a great time yesterday. We went to see Ramaswami's pillar.

Ramaswami is a mythological hero who is represented in the earlier stories as a man, but in the later ones as a god. There is a poem that tells us how this Rama, the eldest son of the king of Ayohihya, came to be banished to the forest by his father, how his young wife, Sita, voluntarily went with him, how she was carried away by the giant Ravana, and finally recovered by Rama, the monkeys helping him. This particular pillar is not a man built shrine or memorial of any kind, but a great mass o rock standing alone in an unexpected place and ascribed to the national hero because he only was thought worthy of such a pillar. At least that is my supposition. I could not hear of any particular local legion connected with it.

The six women of the party were to leave at seven in the morning in rickshaws, the two men going on bicycles. But Indian promises for a particular time are apt to be poor things upon which to depend, especially when the particular time is early in the morning. So we were agrieved but not greatly surprised when at seven no rickshaws appeared. The two men who were going from our house set out on foot, with a servant to carry the wraps and lunch basket, and then I waited a weary time by the side of the road while the other one went to the rickshaw place and got the vehicles started. Perhaps you do not all know what a rickshaw is like. It is a sort of grown up baby carriage on two wheels and with a top that can be put up or down. Some are large enough for two people and some for only one. The motor power is furnished by two men in front who pull and one or two behind who push. It is a comfortable enough way to ride if the men are skillful about taking the rough places in the road. The principal trouble is that the men always try to make one get out and walk up all the hill, just the places where one does not wish to walk. I suppose those who have been here long enough can withstand their plea and not feel badly, but I have not yet gotten used to being pulled by human beings as though they were animals, and when I stay in I feel like a brute, though certainly I am not so "hefty" but that four men ought to be able to pull me without hurting themselves. However, for those of us who do not happen to possess motor cars this is the only way of getting about here, so one rides in them.

We finally got started, only an hour late, which is not at all bad for India. We rode for about five miles, up hill and down, but mostly ascending, getting wider and wider views of the surrounding mountains. It was very hot in the sun, which may not be a surprising statement for a day in the middle of June. But you must remember that here June is an autumn month, that summer is drawing to a close, and the "cold weather" is approaching. The woods through which we were passing, however, seemed in the full flush of summer still. Sometimes we rode through long vista of the graceful gum trees that give much the same effect that the pines do at home, so tall and straight and far upreaching. It is not, however, so exactly penpendicular a tree as the pine, and each tree appears to be slightly twisted, so that all the lines of the tree and its bark markings are graceful curves. Then there was the flamboyer tree, or 'flame of the forest," which would almost tempt one to exclaim, on coming upon it unexpectenly, "Look! that tree is on fire!" Geraniums grow wild here, becoming great bushes, sometimes large as small trees, but the blossom is apt to be smaller and less abundant than in the cultivated variety. Both white and purple passion flower vines were seen bearing their distinctive flowers high in air. We saw both wild and cultivated tea. The cultivated plants are kept down to comparatively small bushes, but the wild ones grow into sizable shrubs, and bear velvetry cream colored blossoms with a faint sweet odor. All along the way we saw the small pink blossoms of the "hill guvas," which are in great abundance here, and whenever we stopped every one gathered a handful of the pale yellow fruit, which is about the size of a small cherry, has a rather thick skin, and inside is much like a gooseberry, but sweeter and with a delicate raspberry flavor. There are many other trees and plants that are strange to me, but on the whole these woods do not compare in beauty with those of our Alleghany mountains at almost any season of the year.

After two hours riding, the paths becoming gradually more narrow, and turning into the fastnesses of the mountains, we reached a village where the road for even the narrow rickshaw evidently came to an end, and we dismounted and prepared to walk the rest of the way. With some difficulty we succeeded in getting guides to show us the way, and we turned into tha forest where we followed a blazed trail for about three miles. But it was three miles set on end. We climbed and climbed up a great hill where the roots of the trees made steps that were sometimes a help and sometimes a hinderance. We clambered over fallen logs and throu' piles of fallen leaves. We longed for the descent on the other side and when we came we were not much better off, for it was full of loose stones and treacherous short turns. As fast as we mounted one hill another valley and another hill lay before us. Our guides did not seem any too certain of their way, and hesitated to take the lead. Sometimes the trail trail was worn deeply into the rock, as though from numberless years of travel, and reminded me of the same sort of trail in Persia. Sometimes it led across great bare stretches of smooth rock and sometimes through grass and bushes that met above our heads, and always we were going deeper and deeper into the mountains and we caught occasional glimpses of of an ever widening view out over the peaks beyond. At last we were all beginning to wonder seriously if we were really getting anywhere or just wandering in the forest, we topped a hill and found what we had come to find. From our feet the ground dropped sharply, almost precipitously into a deep valley that rolled away below us for two or three miles, thickly covered with low forest growth that looked as if it had never been touched, and certainly had never been disturbed by the hand or foot of man. From the floor of this valley, perhaps an eighth of a mile away from us, apart from all other rocks, standing alone in solitary grandeur, was Ramaswami's pillar. It is a great mass of rock, its flat top about on a level with the high point on which we stood, its base lost in the thick and tangled tropical growth of the steep mountain side. We had been told by Hindus that there was or had been a temple on the top, but its sides though not perpendicular, are so steep as to be unclimable, and no heathen temple has ever profaned at least that spot of God's earth.

Beyond the valley rose a range of hills, and beyond that another and and another, until counting them was like trying to number the stars. They fell away and rose again in such a panarama of sunbright peaks and shadowed valleys as it has never been my lot to see before, while in the distance lay the great Mysore plateau, shimmersng in the afternoon sun, its horizon lost in golden haze and fleecy clouds. It is a most wonderful view, and we all voted it well worth the trouble and the toil necessary in order to see it.

Those of us who had brought kodaks took some pictures, but the sweep and extent of the country was too big for our small machines, and it was not the best time of the day for picture taking so I doubt whether they will amount to much. Then we sought a shady spot and ate our picnic lunch, rested awhile and reluctantly began the homeward journey. The way back to the village did not seem quite so long as it had coming but we were more tired than we had been in the morning. We were glad enough to settle into our rickshaws and give the word to go home. Our rickshaw men began clammering at the foot of the first hill for us to walk up, but we hardheartedly informed them that we dad been walking, climbing, laboring for hours while they had been resting and we now expected to ride and rest for a while at least. So they grinned at us and went on cheerfully. We rode home through the cool of the afternoon, meeting sometimes the carts of the countryside returning to their villages, but scarcely anyone else. These carts are very picturesque in a somewhat rude way. They are big two wheeled things, with a frame that supports a covering of heavy matting. Each one is drawn by a pair of great white or mouse colored bullocks, that have long curving horns. These are often tipped with brass, and sometimes painted, one horn red and the other blue, or some other combination. On festive occasions a garland of flowers is put around the bullock's neck, or about the base of his horns. The rickshaw men began a sort of a chant, the front men giving a few words, or only a single one, and the men behind repeating or answering, all in a rythmic singsong that was not unpleasant on the quiet afternoon air. We reached home very tired and hungry, but well satisfied that we had seen a sight worth seeing and one that will long remain a memory of delight.

Guntur, India.

LILLY LAND COMPANY HIREING NEW SALESMEN

The Lilly Land Company have recently hired a number of new traveling salesmen in order to take care of the numerous inquiries for city lots and truck farms, from people all over the country.

The Lilly Land Company has just placed on the market a number of choice lots located near the big Nickel Plate Plant at Huntington, W. Va. They also have a number of choice lots located near Camden Park at Huntington, and a number of choice truck farms in the Ohio Valley between Huntington and Ironton, Ohio. This property is sold on the easy payment plan. If interested, call at our Huntington Office, located at 605 1-2 Ninth Street, just in front of the Huntington Hotel.

The Lilly Land Company also has a number of choice lots and truck farms that they are selling on the easy payment plan, located in the cities of Princeton, Beckley, Oak Hill, Lewisburg, Montcalm and Iaeger, W. Va.

We have an office in each of the above mentioned cities, and if you are interested, go look at this property at once, but if you cannot go, be sure and write us at Princeton, W. Va. stating the property you are interested in and we will have one of our agents call on you and explain our proposition fully.

LILLY LAND COMPANY.
Home Office Princeton, W. Va.

NOTICE

All persons are notified not to trespass on the lands of the undersigned, especially by hunting and passing through.

C. C. Wanless,
Cass, W. Va.

WANTED: Information concerning Mrs. Polly Moore, nee, Wanless, who in 1825 married Alexander Campbell. She died about 1840, in what is now Highland County, Virginia.

Also information about the family of Naomi Slaven, born Jan. 30, 1758, a daughter of John and Elizabeth Stuart Slaven, who married John Galford; they lived near Green Bank.

Anything relating to the above will be very much appreciated.

—W. P. Campbell,
1518 Patterson Ave.,
Roanoke, Va.

Sept. 1, 1922.

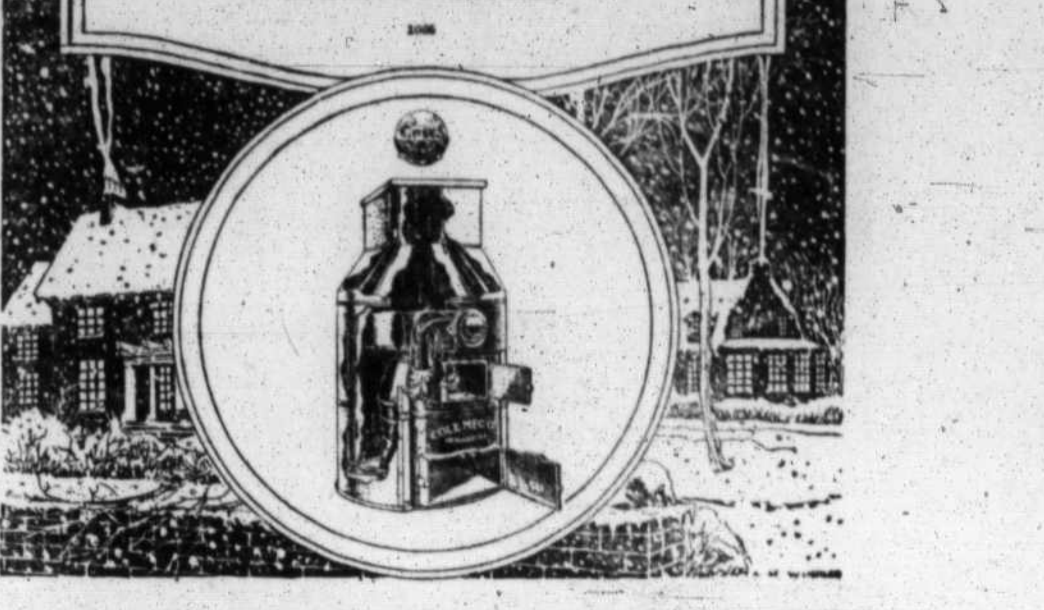
FOR SALE—Six year old Percheron mare, well broken, will weigh 1200 lbs. or better, safe and gentle. Price $100. Apply to L. H. Harouff, Lobilia, W. Va.

C. J. RICHARDSON

Marlinton, West Virginia

HEALTH, COMFORT and ECONOMY
INSTALL A
COLE'S HOT BLAST
FUEL SAVING SYSTEM

Insures an even heat—day and night—throut the home—upstairs and down. Perfect heating control. Use ½ to ⅓ less fuel than ever before. When in our store again be sure to ask about this wonder Furnace.



Old Paper Wanted

I will buy old newspapers, books and magazines. Scrap paper not wanted. Put the newspapers in bundles. Price 25c per 100 lbs. delivered at Marlinton.

GEO. ROSEN,
Marlinton, W. Va.

Money to Loan at 5 1-2 percent

The Pocahontas County Farm Loan Association of Marlinton, Pocahontas County, West Virginia, has money to loan to farmers on farm land, on easy terms.

Call on the undersigned and fill out an application blank.

P. T. WARD, Sec.-Treas.

GEORGIA MARBLE

Nature itself has supplied GEORGIA MARBLE with the ability to resist the ravages of time.

The beauty of its surface is enhanced by the composite strength of its texture. Georgia Marble is different and not to be confused with other materials.

A memorial in this beautiful stone will stand throughout ages as a fitting expression of love and respect. Monuments in GEORGIA MARBLE for sale by Z. S. Smith, Marlinton, W. Va.

REPRESENTING
SOUTHERN MARBLE & GRANITE COMPANY

Baker Guns

For fifty years known to the trade as the best for service

BATAVIA LEADER, Price $40.00

If your dealer cannot supply you we will send, transportation charges paid, upon receipt of price.

Send for BAKER BOOKLET describing the entire line.

Baker Gun Company

253 CHURCH ST., NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.

Administrator's Notice

Notice is hereby given to all persons having claims against the estate of the late Julia F. Sharp, to present the same properly proven to the undersigned administrator, and all persons owing said estate will please settle at once.

W. L. PRICE
Adm'r of Julia F. Sharp, deceased.

FOR FALL SEEDING:—I have on hands first class timothy and Orchard grass seed at reasonable prices.—
T. D. Moore, Marlinton, W. Va.

NOTICE

I wish to set free my daughter Ella Loudermilk, past 19 years old. I will not be responsible for her in any way or any debts she may make or any board bills, caused by disobedience and rebelious nature.

G. W. Loudermilk.
Marlinton, W. Va

FOR SALE—4-90 Chevrolet Touring Car, 1920 Model, good tires and in good running condition.

Dewey Hiner,
Cass, W. Va.